Each volume of this series is a reminder of the key role played by the late William Bell Clark, original editor. Drawing on his deep knowledge of the navies in the American Revolution, his initial selections and arrangements of materials compiled over a devoted lifetime provided a framework on which subsequent efforts have continued to build.

FOREWORD

"I learn with great satisfaction that you are about committing to the press the valuable historical and state-papers you have been so long collecting," Thomas Jefferson wrote in 1791 to Ebenezer Hazard, a scholar who was about to publish a collection of documents on America's early history. "Time and accident are committing daily havoc on the originals deposited in our public offices," Jefferson continued. "Let us save what remains: not by vaults and locks which fence them from the public eye and use . . . but by such a multiplication of copies, as shall place them beyond the reach of accident."

Jefferson realized that our nation's history cannot be understood fully without study of the documentary record. For many years, the United States Navy has published documents that record its place in the nation's history, making these documents available to researchers. This volume is part of a series that contains copies of original documents recording the deeds of America's first sailors, whose valor and perseverance helped win our independence.

The events of the last three months of 1777, the period covered by this volume, illustrate clearly the crucial role of sea power in our nation's formative struggle for liberty. Ships, laden with munitions urgently required by the Americans, tried to elude the British blockade. Continental Navy ships and American privateers, operating in European waters and the West Indies, diverted Britain's naval resources and aggravated tensions between Great Britain and nominally neutral countries. News that the Continental Army had defeated General Burgoyne at Saratoga, New York, moved France closer to the decision to become an open ally.

This volume documents in detail the momentous and bloody British effort to control the Delaware River in order to maintain Britain's hold on the city of Philadelphia. From both the American and the British perspectives, the story of the desperate fight for the Delaware River makes evident the importance of littoral warfare, and it also shows that the cooperation between sea and land forces that continues today is an essential element of our nation's defense.

I congratulate the Department of the Navy for continuing this monumental publishing project. The documents contained in this volume will inspire and instruct the professional sailor, the historical scholar, and the American citizen interested in the history of our nation.

Introduction

“The day is I hope near at hand when we can say with safety that America is free and Independent,” wrote Thomas Wharton, Jr., president of the Pennsylvania Supreme Executive Council, to John Hazelwood, commodore of the Pennsylvania State Navy, on October 24, 1777. Wharton’s optimism was inspired by the news that two Royal Navy warships, H.M.S. Augusta (64 guns), and H.M. sloop Merlin, had been destroyed in combat with American forces. They had been attempting to support an attack by land on Fort Mercer, part of the American defenses along the Delaware River by which the Americans sought to isolate the British forces that recently captured Philadelphia. Word of the ships’ destruction came just a few days after confirmation of the surrender of a British army to American arms at Saratoga, New York.

In the last months of 1777 events such as these, and indications that France might enter the war as a formal ally, made the Revolutionaries hopeful that their struggles would achieve American independence. Nevertheless, these patriots had just cause for concern. Despite the Americans’ brave and desperate defense of the Delaware passes, the British won control of the river before winter set in, ensuring their hold on Philadelphia. A British thrust up the Hudson River in October, although too late to save Burgoyne’s army, demonstrated the effectiveness of a joint army-navy British force, and how unprepared and ineffective American defenders could be. This maneuver resulted in the destruction of three American forts and two Continental Navy frigates, and the burning of the New York state capital at Kingston. In October 1777 an American operation to recapture Newport, Rhode Island, failed miserably. The British continued to blockade Chesapeake Bay and Charleston, South Carolina.

These operations and a number of more minor campaigns are documented in this volume. Highlights include selections from the extant logbooks of all the British vessels in the Delaware River campaign, including some not used by earlier historians of that campaign. The volume also introduces new sources previously unexamined by scholars. Two, from the records of the High Court of Admiralty in the Public Record Office, an undervalued resource, are the journal of the Rhode Island Navy galley Spitfire and a letter book of Continental Navy Captain Gustavus Conyngham, unknown to Robert Wilden Neeser when he published the definitive edition of Conyngham’s papers in 1915.

Some documents in these pages are especially rich in description, such as the intelligence reports of the physical appearance of Continental Navy warships Alfred and Raleigh (enclosed in Admiral Sir Thomas Pye to Philip Stephens, Oct. 25, 1777). Other, more prosaic records contain hidden gems of information, such as the “Red Baise to line ports” listed in the Account of the Continental Navy brigantine Resistance (Nov. 9, 1777). In these documents we hear the voices of ordinary seamen, as when the crew of the Maryland Navy ship Defence petitions the governor to investigate their harsh conditions of service (Dec. 9, 1777). We also hear the protests of the victims of injustice, such as the plea of Cuba, an African American woman taken into Boston on board a prize, appealing to the authorities of the State of Massachusetts to prevent the captors from selling her as a slave.

Dr. Michael J. Crawford, editor of this volume and head of the Early History Branch of the Naval Historical Center, and his assistant editors E. Gordon Bowen-Hassell, Charles E. Brodine, Jr., and Mark L. Hayes labored together many years in surveying collections, selecting documents, transcribing, translating, and annotating the materials, and, finally, preparing the comprehensive index. They wish to acknowledge with thanks the superb assistance rendered them by the two other historians in the branch, Christine F. Hughes and Carolyn M. Stallings, who temporarily set aside their work on the third volume of the Center's Naval War of 1812 documentary series to participate in the various stages of proofreading. Charlotte Marie Knowles, the branch secretary, provided splendid word-processing and general office support. The staffs of other Center branches, especially the Navy Department Library and the Curator Branch's Photographic Section, provided essential services. Wendy E. Karppi, of the office of the Center's Senior Historian, lent her expertise in correcting Spanish transcriptions and translations.

This volume builds on the accomplishments of previous editors and staff. The project's first editor, William Bell Clark, laid the foundations for our Naval Documents of the American Revolution series as early as the first decades of the twentieth century, when he began collecting the texts of documents relating to the naval aspects of the war. In addition, the current editors acknowledge a debt of incalculable proportions to Dr. William James Morgan, editor of volumes 5 through 9, who continues to advise the Center as Senior Historian Emeritus.

During a 10-month fellowship in documentary editing, Dr. Gregory D. Massey assisted the project by selecting, transcribing, annotating, and indexing documents concerning the lower South and the West Indies. The Center is grateful to him for his fine contribution and to the National Historical Publications and Records Commission, which sponsored his fellowship.

The following summer interns assisted with various editorial tasks: Midshipman Christopher Adams, Ensign Aaron Cooper, and Andrew Laas. Two members of the United States Navy Reserve Volunteer Training Unit 0615 also made valuable contributions: Commander Dennis Grabulis, and J01 Loraine Ramsdall.

Among the translations of foreign-language materials appearing in this volume are those by Commander Canio Di Cairano, USNR (Ret.), Elizabeth G. Crabbs, Russell B. Holmes, and Dr. Oscar M. Villarejo. Mary Hannah, of the Department of the Navy's Naval Maritime Intelligence Center, Foreign Language Services, cheerfully handled contractual arrangements for a number of document translations. Antonia Macarthur performed wonders of research for the volume at the Public Record Office in London.

The present volume publishes the texts of documents drawn from fifty-seven repositories and private collections, located across North America from Portland, Maine, to San Marino, California, and from Halifax, Nova Scotia, to Hamilton, Bermuda, as well as in several centers of learning in Europe. Three repositories are newly represented in the series: City of Liverpool Library, Liverpool, England; Archivo General Central, Alcala de Henares, Madrid, Spain; and Archivo General de Simancas, Valladolid, Spain. We greatly appreciate the cooperation of all of these institutions and individuals.

The mission of the Naval Historical Center is to disseminate information on naval history in order to promote an understanding of America's naval and maritime heritage. We are deeply grateful to Dr. Crawford and his associates for so ably producing a volume that will be of continuing value to scholars, students, naval personnel, and other individuals interested in the crucial role played by the sea and by those who go down to the sea in the development of the American nation.

Editorial Method

Principles of Selection

In selecting documents for this series, the editors' goal is to include no more and no less than those records that are necessary for a comprehensive understanding of the war at sea of the American Revolution. This documentary collection is intended to be comprehensive, not in the sense that it might include every document touching on the war at sea, but rather, in the sense that it should provide comprehensive coverage to naval aspects of the armed struggle, as well as present the reader a meaningful overview of the entire sea effort. As an earlier volume explained, "documentation bearing on the regular naval forces on both sides, state navies, privateers, merchant shipping, logistics of the conflict, and operations on sea, lake, bay and river fall within the context of 'naval document' as used in this series" (vol. 6, p. xi). The series accounts for the activities of each of the Continental Navy's warships and of most of those of the state navies. It seeks to document every aspect of the ordinary business of operating and maintaining the Continental and state navies. It chronicles privateering activities, both American and British. The series accounts for the activities of British squadrons in American waters and of selected individual British warships. While not attempting to document the ordinary business of operating and maintaining the Royal Navy, it deals with the British side of naval operations, logistics, convoys, transports, and manning of vessels. Documentation is selected that reveals the aims and strategy of the British, accounts for prizes taken, and balances American Patriot accounts of actions and operations. Diplomatic correspondence is included that deals directly with naval matters, including the outfitting of privateers and American naval vessels, and the sale of their prizes, in European and Caribbean ports, and the supplying of America with munitions by European powers.

Placement of Documents

Documents in this volume are placed either in the American Theater section or the European Theater section according to whether they originated in America or in Europe, even though some documents created in Europe may be about events in America, and some created in America may be about events in Europe. Within each theater documents are in chronological order, by date of origin. Under each date they appear more or less in geographic order, by place of origin, from north to south, usually following coastlines.

Notes

Notes on the texts follow each document. Unnumbered notes precede numbered notes and describe the source documents, using the abbreviations, repository and collection symbols, and short titles listed below. Contemporary addresses, endorsements, and docketings are cited in the source notes.

In notes identifying officers of the Royal Navy, a bracketed numeral after the name refers to the enumeration system employed by the British Admiralty to differentiate officers of the same name and incorporated into The Commissioned Sea Officers of the Royal Navy 1660–1815, 3 vols. ([London]: [National Maritime Museum], [1954]).

Transcription

Transcriptions adhere as closely as possible to the originals in spelling, capitalization, punctuation, and abbreviation, retaining dashes and underlining in the original texts. Exceptions to this general rule are as follows. The names of ships are italicized. Complimentary closes, unless unusual or otherwise significant, are shortened and ended with [&c.], and, in the interest of saving space, are printed at the end of the last paragraph of text. Words and passages that were crossed out by the author are transcribed either as overstrikes or in notes only if they are deemed of significance by the editors. The tilde, a flourish employed by writers in the eighteenth century as a form of abbreviation and to indicate the omission of one or more characters, is omitted. Where the source is a newspaper or other printed work, there is generally no attempt to retain typeface: for example, blocks of text in all italics have been put in roman, and some words in all capitals have been normalized. Exceptions are printed broadsides or advertisements where different typefaces emphasize the meaning of the text.

To the end of presenting accurate texts of the original documents, this volume introduces the practice of rendering non-English documents in their original language, accompanied by English translations. The spelling and accent marks of the originals, however irregular, are preserved in the transcriptions.

Ships' Logs

Two categories of modifications to the original text appear in the transcriptions of most of the logbooks and officers' journals that appear in this volume. First, a number of columns with such information as the direction of the wind, ship's course, distance traveled, latitude, and longitude are eliminated. The noon bearing is brought into the text of the "Remarks" column, set off as a separate paragraph. Second, the dating of the daily entries has been made to conform with civil time, rather than sea time. Most eighteenth-century logbooks and journals of ships at sea began the new day with the previous day's noon reading—the locating of a ship using navigational instruments when the sun was at its meridian. Thus, according to the log of a ship in the midst of the ocean, noon on 24 December civil time would be the beginning of 25 December. In this volume, however, each day's entry begins with midnight. In making this modification, the editors start each entry with either the noon bearings or the last bearings of the previous day.

Textual Devices

The editors silently supply letters and words that are missing from a damaged manuscript but are obvious from the context. They use brackets and roman type to supply those letters and words that are probable, with a question mark where they are questionable. The editors use brackets with italic type when supplying the proper spellings of personal and geographic names or the correct spellings of words that are otherwise confusing. They use the bracketed, italicized phrases, [torn] and [illeg.] (“illegible”), whenever there are indecipherable or non-conjecturable words missing from manuscripts. The virgule, /, in source notes indicates a line break in addresses, endorsements, and docketings. Extracts, translations, and enclosures are indicated thus: [Extract]; [Translation]; [Enclosure]. All other editorial insertions in the body of the texts are indicated by italic type within brackets.

AMERICAN THEATER

SUMMARY

Small Massachusetts privateers continued to infest the remote harbors of Nova Scotia and the Bay of Fundy, causing alarms and the diversion of Royal Navy ships for the protection of the coast. Larger Massachusetts privateers cruised off the New England coast and even extended their operations to the Bay of Biscay, Spain, and Portugal. The brigantine Civil Usage (12 guns) had an unusually successful cruise, taking 14 prizes off Spain and Portugal. Another Massachusetts privateer, the Phoenix, created a major diplomatic crisis by capturing a Portuguese snow, the vessel of a neutral.

The Massachusetts Navy brigantines Massachusetts and Tyrannicide remained active, returning from successful cruises in early October. In November the brigantines Tyrannicide and Hazard sailed for cruising grounds in Southern waters. Several of the state trading vessels were sent to France with masts and lumber. The brigantine Penet was dispatched to France with the first news of Burgoyne's surrender at Saratoga.

In October Rhode Island, Connecticut, and Massachusetts mounted a joint expedition under Major General Joseph Spencer to retake Newport. The expedition failed because of bad weather and poor planning. The Continental Navy frigates Warren and Providence continued to be blockaded in Providence River by British frigates in Narragansett Bay.

Connecticut sent an expedition to Setauket, Long Island, in December, to capture several Royal Navy sloops and disrupt their wooding and watering parties. However, the Continental Navy sloop Schuyler ran aground and was captured by H.M. sloop Falcon on December 10, effectively ending the expedition.

Despite Royal Navy control of Lake Champlain in early October, Burgoyne's communications and supply lines with the lake were severed by the Americans. After his surrender, the British evacuated Fort Ticonderoga and withdrew up Lake Champlain to St. Johns and Montreal.

When Burgoyne's precarious situation became evident in late September, Sir Henry Clinton hastily planned a combined army and navy expedition up the Hudson as a diversion. On October 6 the British troops stormed Forts Clinton and Montgomery from the rear, compelling the Americans to burn the Continental Navy frigates Congress and Montgomery at the chain below the forts. British forces then took Fort Independence and the Continental Village above Peekskill, where important magazines and storehouses were located. On October 16 they burned Kingston, the capital of New York, and some farms and houses on both sides of the Hudson. After word of Burgoyne's capitulation was confirmed, the expedition was halted and recalled to New York City.

Despite the success of British arms in occupying Philadelphia on September 26, Sir William Howe's hold on the city was tenuous. The Delaware River provided the only viable avenue of supply for Howe's large army, yet the southern river approaches to the city were commanded by the Americans. If the British commander-in-chief was unable to wrest control of the river from the Patriots to ensure his army's supply by sea, he would be forced to abandon his hard-won conquest. The fate of the American capital thus rested on the struggle for control of the river.

British land and naval forces had to contend with formidable American defenses, including fortifications on the Pennsylvania and New Jersey shores, large numbers of underwater obstructions, known as chevaux-de-frise, sunk in the main shipping channel, and armed state and Continental vessels in the river. In early October engineers from Howe's army began construction of a number of artillery batteries on the Pennsylvania shore opposite Fort Mifflin, while ships from Vice Admiral Viscount Howe's fleet worked to clear a passage through the lower range of chevaux-de-frise off Billingsport, N.J. This work set the stage for the British attack on Fort Mercer on October 22 led by Col. Carl von Donop and supported by Royal Navy warships. The attack was a disaster for British land and sea forces with von Donop's Hessian troops taking heavy casualties and the fleet's losing two ships, H.M.S. Augusta and H.M. sloop Mertin. It was not until November 15 that the British launched their next combined assault on the American forts—a massive sea and land bombardment of Fort Mifflin that led to that garrison's abandonment by day's end. Six days later the Americans evacuated Fort Mercer and put most of their fleet to the torch. The British had secured control of the river and of Philadelphia.

A small squadron under the command of Captain Hyde Parker, Jr., patrolled the entrance to Chesapeake Bay to interdict American overseas trade. Virginia and Maryland Navy vessels made Parker's task difficult by attacking his boats and interfering with British attempts to forage for food and fresh water.

Vice Admiral Viscount Howe ordered Captain Robert Fanshawe of H.M.S. Carysfort to assume command of the ships cruising off the Carolinas and Georgia and intercept American trade. Fanshawe concentrated his squadron, composed of H.M.S. Perseus, H.M.S. Lizard, and H.M. brig Hinchinbrook, on Charleston, S.C., the principal port of the southernmost states. The Royal Navy blockade so disrupted trade that the revolutionary government of South Carolina outfitted a squadron of state navy vessels to rid the coast of the British menace. Captain Nicholas Biddle of the Continental Navy frigate Randolph agreed to assume command of the expedition.

Preparations began for Captain James Willing's expedition down the Ohio and Mississippi Rivers. Men, mostly from the 13th Virginia Regiment of the Continental Line, and supplies were assembled at Fort Pitt. Oliver Pollock, the Continental commercial agent in New Orleans, was instructed to work with Willing in preparing goods from Spain to be shipped back up the Mississippi.

In the West Indies heightened tensions between Great Britain and France can be traced through angry letters exchanged by colonial governors representing both countries. British governors accused their French counterparts of aiding American privateers; the French replied with protests against Royal Navy ships that violated French territorial waters. British naval and civil authorities were particularly incensed when the French Navy began convoying American merchant vessels. Continental Commercial Agent William Bingham continued his operations at Martinique, where American privateers sold their prizes and refitted for new cruises. In late December Vice Admiral James Young of the Leeward Islands Station dispatched H.M.S. Yarmouth to patrol for American privateers off Barbados. With the arrival of French naval and land reinforcements at the end of the year, war between the two great powers appeared imminent.

The administrative organizations of the Continental Navy addressed a number of difficult challenges. A dispute over carpenters' wages slowed work on the Continental Navy frigate Confederacy building at Norwich, Connecticut. The Continental Navy Board of the Eastern Department eventually removed Captain Hector McNeill from command of the frigate Boston because conflicts between himself and his officers prevented the warship from getting to sea. Tensions grew between George Washington, the Continental Navy Board of the Middle Department, and Captain John Barry over what to do with the frigates Washington and Effingham, endangered by British success on the Delaware River. A shortage of officers and men threatened to keep Captain James Nicholson and the frigate Virginia in port at Baltimore.

ELIJAH FREEMAN PAYNE TO THE MASSACHUSETTS GENERAL COURT

State of Massachusetts Bay. To the Hon^l: The Council, & Hon^l: House of Representatives of said State, in Gen^l: Court Assembled at Boston Oct^r: 1777—

The Petition of Elijah Freeman Payne Humbly Shews—that Your Petitioner was Commander of A Privateer Schooner called the Eagle, and on a late Cruise Captured Several Vessels, on board of which were a Number of hands, Some of which were brought into Port—the rest, (I being Obliged, for the safte of the Privateer to put them on board one of the Prizes then captured) Rose against the hands on board Said Ship—& carried her to Scotland—¹ all of whose names were on the Portledg Bills—as Your Hon^{rs}. will see by the coppies produc'd—And that after the Condemnations of the Prises brought in—their Portledg Bills being produc'd to the Hon^l: Superior Court for an Allowance of the Mens Wages, Agreeable to the Law of the State—It was Objected, on the Part of the Owners & Captors (for whom Your Petitioner now Appears) That as some of the hands, being Mariners on board said Prises—did not Arrive into Port for the Reasons above; But were now with the Enemy of the United States of America—No Wages ought to be Allow'd them—& that no one was empower'd to Receive it for them—But the Court by Adverting to the Law Were of Opinion that they were bound by the letter of the Statutes to Allow Wages to all the Seamen taken on board the Prizes—And therefore Order'd the Wages due, According to the Portledg Bills—to the Mariners that were not arrived; but with the Enemy— Amounting to the Sum of £330 6^s 8^d LM—as well as to Such as were Arrived—To Remain in the hands of the Sheriff, or Agent—And as there was not the least Probability of the Absent Mariners ever applying for their wages, Their Hon^{rs}. Recommended to Your Petitioner to Apply to this Hon^l Court for Relief in the Premises—

Your Petitioner Humbly Apprehends that the Legislature in Framing the aforesaid Law, meant only to Allow wages to such Seamen as Shou'd be brought into Port—He Therefore Prays Your Hon^{rs}. to take this Matter into Your Consideration, & either by a Gen^l. Explanatory Act, give the foregoing Construction to the s^d. Clause of the affores^d. Law touching the Mariners Wages, taken on board Prizes, or Make a perticular Order, that the affore said Sum be Paid to your Petitioner—for the Use of the Owners, & Captors affores^d. which must otherwise remain Useless in the hands of the Agent, or work to his Use—And in Duty Bound Your Petitioner Prays &c

JOHN ROWE TO ROBERT MORRIS

Robert Morris Esq^r
D^r Sir

Boston September 29 1777

Your favour of the 4th Came to hand Yesterday I am glad you approve of my Not prosecuting M^r Braxtons schooner I Could wish to Gett some shipping from hence but theres No schooners in this port fitt for your purpose I will Try Salem and Marblehead and if I find any will do I shall Acquaint you in Course—

Many prizes have been sent in here of Late Valuable and Cap^t Cunningham has sent in a snow which he presumes he Thinks Condemnable. she proves to be a portagues Snow bound from the Brazills to Fyall [Fayal]¹ I Cannot find out his pretence for sending her in from the prize master M^r Wardell² his papers are all portagues. I Never was so much at a Loss how to Act I think it will be a perplexing affair. some of my friends think I will be best to apply and Lay the matter before The Court for their Consideration and Even to beg their Care of her untill the Determination of the Judge of Admaralty reaches the Congress. Opinion may be of service on this affair. you will Judge how far the portagues are Liabile by being Allies to Great Britain. we dont hear of she seazing of any American property Eather in their ports or at sea—

Cap^t Cunningham Took a Newfoundland Brigⁿ after the Taking this snow and the prize master says he Gave her to the portagues Captain and some of the Crew to Carry them To Fyall. The prize master says it was a Bargain Between them. I Construe it in a Different Light upon the whole I wish he had not sent her in I am afraid of the Consequence I have Given you as much of the Circumstances as I at present am able thar is six portagues sailors and one Woman passenger onboard her. she if Condemned will be Valuable having onboard her, sugar, Tand Leather &c No Invoice of her Cargo appears

Added Octo 1st: The Prize Master has deliverd Me his orders Reced from Cap^t Cunningham cobby of which I Inclose you In the beginning he Says he has Special Orders to capture Portuguese Vessells as well as British property how this is I Cantt Say he had his orders from M^r Braxton. The papers are all in the Portuguese Language at Present I Cantt find any Person that can translate them into English—

If I Get any further Light about this Vessell, You shall certainly be acquainted either by Express or otherways In the Mean time I Shall Lay A Petition before the Government of this State and Beg the Vessell & Cargo may Remain under Proper Care untill I Get An Answer to this I beg You Advise by the Bearer as I Send on Purpose Express—

I have not time to get All the Papers Copped as they now are and if no Person is to be found in Boston very Soon I Shall either go my self or Send to M^r Lopez who Lives Sixty miles from hence to get them translated—

I Inclose A Letter for M^r Braxton which please to forward to him I am Sir [&c.]

COMMODORE WILLIAM HOTHAM TO VICE ADMIRAL VISCOUNT HOWE

My Lord

[New York] 1st. Oct^{br}. 1777

I had the Honour to acquaint You in a Letter by the Thames, who sailed from Staten Isl^d the 29th with the Victuallers for the Delaware, that Sir H. Clinton had the day before received a Letter from Gen^l Burgoyne the Cypher part of which He transmitted to Sir W^m: Howe by the Thames also. It contained no more than to say, that if any Move, or Appearance of One could be made from hence which might draw off part of the Force opposed to him, It would be of use. This is all his Letter says, and mine informed you that Sir H. Clinton in consequence meant to attempt Fort Montgomery if possible—

He has since thought it adviseable to forward the Messenger on to your Lord^{sh} and Sir Will^m., as Gen^l Burgoyne appears to have held some confidential Discourse with him relative to his Situation, which He did not perhaps care to commit to Paper.

The Substance of that Conversation (as the Messenger has imparted it to Sir H. and myself seperately) you will see by the L^t. Gen^{ls}. Lett^r to Sir W. Howe herewith sent open for your Lord^{sh}s perusal. We both thought it right You should know the Story he has told us, that in case he should vary in his Relation of it to Your Lordship You may judge the better how far to trust him.

If what he says be true Gen^l B. certainly confides much in his Integrity, yet none of the Letters mention his growing short of Provisions—I have the Hon^r to be &c

Dear Sir

The above is a Copy of what I have written to Lord Howe on the Receipt of Y^r Lett^r which I hope will meet Your Approbation. The Transports went down to Staten Island the last Ebb, and the Zebra will do so the next—Most faithfully and ever Yours

BRIGADIER GENERAL HENRY WATSON POWELL TO GOVERNOR SIR GUY CARLETON

Copy of a letter from Brigadier Gen^l Powel dated Mount Independence October the 2^d. 1777.

Sir

I have this Instant received an Express from Lieutenant General Burgoyne, desiring me to keep all the Force I have & I make no doubt of being strong enough to maintain every thing till winter, without troubling Your Excellency for a Reinforcement. The Lieut^l Gen^l desires I will apply to Canada for anything the Garrison may have Occasion, as I have already made the requisition agreeable to the Engineers return, I have not the least doubt of seeing those things here soon, but he is very particular in regard to Provisions, & desires I will forward some to Diamond Island. Major General Phillips¹ has desired I will collect all the Batteaux together I can here, to be ready, if they should be wanted on Lake George, which will prevent me from sending any more to S^t Johns.

The Situation of the Army is the same, as when the other express left it, of which Brig^{de} M^oLean² would inform You. I have the honour to be [&c.]

LIEUTENANT GENERAL SIR HENRY CLINTON TO COMMODORE WILLIAM HOTHAM

Dear Sir

We are all ready for the first move, but owing to the Blunders of the Hon^{ble}. board nothing is fitted properly, & I cannot have that Necessary Arm, the Portable 3 pounders, till Sunday I am told; I will at all events begin our first Move on friday Night, May I therefore request that all the Boats may be at Spiten Devil Creek in time to proceed as far as Tarry town with friday Night's flood; perhaps You may approve of their being at Spiten Devil this Evening with the last of the flood. faithfully Yours.—

H. C.

P.S. I request that the 7th. 26th. & 52^d. may Embark tomorrow Morning. that they may have publick Orders to fall down to Staten Island, but stopt by a Countermand, without You think it will not detain us much. If You approve the small Gun boat may come to Spiten Devil with Two portable Guns as soon as Convenient, she will then be ready to proceed with the first Embarkation, which will be friday Night. the Second will take place on the Night following, if the Wind is fair & you approve, but if You will Meet me at dinner tomorrow at Shireff's¹ we will settle our plan of Operations, I mean of the Second Move for the first is merely preparatory for the Second—

LIEUTENANT COLONEL SAMUEL SMITH TO GEORGE WASHINGTON

Sir

Fort Mifflin 2nd. October 1777—

Col^o. Nichola with the advice of the Officers in Garrison withdrew his Invalids before the Arrival of your Excellency's Letter¹ so that the Command remains with me. The Enemy yesterday landed a number of men (below Billingsport and encamp't last night within nine miles) some say 400 others 600. my Opinion is the first as we had intelligence of that Number having march'd from Willmington for that purpose. There is now about 250 Militia in that Garrison, It was the Opinion of the Officers

Yesterday not to give up that post 'till the last extremity, to remove the heavy Ammunition and if oblig'd to leave the fort (which from the disposition I believe will be the case) to spike up the Cannon and retreat by Water which is safe & easy. Our Reason for not dismantling Billingsport was the great discontent in the State fleet who already are much scar'd & from whom the greatest desertions of Captains, Lieu^s & men has been. So general a discontent and panic runs through that part of the fleet that neither Officer nor men can be confided in. they conceive the River is lost if the enemy gets possession of Billingsport nothing can convince them of the contrary, & I am persuaded as soon as that fort is taken that almost all the fleet will desert, indeed from their disposition I am induc'd to believe they will openly avow themselves and desert Officers with their Crew (which has been the case with two) perhaps with their Gallies. The Officers and Mens Wives have been permitted to remain in the City² who have sent down to the fleet, to whom they have given prodigious Accounts of the enemies force & sweet pretty promises aded to them, have I am of Opinion caus'd this very general desertion disaffection and panic, We permit none to land on this Island, from this description your Excellency will find there is little dependence to be put in the fleet, and with 400 Men the enemy will take the River without endangering One of their Ships, for after they have weighed the Obstructions at Billingsport which will be soon done, they will then fortify Red Bank and drive all Shipping from between us and it. their Guns will rake & of course brake our pickets & lay us Open to being attack'd on every side, unless the fleet (which I scarce expect) will assist us. We have now in Garrison 3 Weeks Provision and this day expect to get more, I believe the fleet is not so well supplied. I have secur'd the Battery from the Rake of their Shot from Red Bank, and am in hopes to save this Garrison (if our Ammunition arrives and I only can get so much assistance from the fleet as will hinder the frigate³ from comeing down on our backs) for two weeks. Your Excellency may depend on every thing being done that is in my power or the power of this Garrison. Perhaps it will be in your Excellencys power to spare 3 or 400 Continental Troops who with the Assistance of the Militia might hinder the enemy from takeing Red Bank. from which they will be able to damage the fleet & Annoy us much. This Garrison is in high Spirits I have the Honor to be [&c.]

SUPPLEMENT TO THE SOUTH-CAROLINA AND AMERICAN GENERAL GAZETTE,
THURSDAY, OCTOBER 2, 1777

Capt. Allen will be much obliged to Mr. Robert Johnson, if he will take the Trouble of coming to Charlestown to certify a Receipt of his for 41£ 7s. 6d. Currency for taking up James Maclean a Deserter from the Comet. As Capt. Allen will probably be absent from the State when Mr. Johnson comes to Town, he will be pleased to apply to Mr. Daniel Boardeaux, with whom the Receipt is lodged and who will thankfully reimburse Mr. Johnson for his Expenses on the Road, besides an Acknowledgment for his Trouble. The said Maclean denies his ever having deserted from the Comet, which occasions Capt. Allen giving Mr. Johnson this Trouble.

INSTRUCTIONS TO CAPTAIN SAMUEL GRAVES, R.N.

(Copy)

Instructions to Captain Samuel Graves appointed to command All His Majesty's Vessels upon lakes Champlain and George.

Having thought it necessary for His Majestys service to appoint you to command and superintend the armed Vessels upon Lake Champlain and Lake George, you will, without loss of time, proceed to Tyconderoga, in order, to assist Brigadier Powel,¹ or the officer commanding at that post, in reestablishing such a naval force upon Lake George, as shall be judged sufficient for securing that communication from all insults; And you will see that all the large Vessels, at present employed in transporting provisions and stores &c, be forthwith armed, and put in such a state, as to be able to resist sudden attempts of the enemy, in Canoes or boats, which they may possibly have prepared in Onion river, Otter Creek, or some other of the rivers on the east side of the Lake. And I do earnestly recommend that you cause strict vigilance and discipline to be observed throught all the Vessels under your command, and that they be particularly carefull not, at any time, to approach so near the shore as to be liable to surprises from the land unless where there shall be post[s] sufficient for their protection. You are to use every means to make yourself as well acquainted as possible with the navigation of the lake and the bogs and Rivers around it, and to report to me how and in what manner All the armed Vessels should be disposed of during the winter. And you are to obey such orders as you shall, from time to time receive from Lieutenant General Burgoyne or any other your superior Officer Given under my hand at S^t Johns this 3^d day of October 1777

CONTINENTAL NAVY BOARD OF THE MIDDLE DEPARTMENT TO CAPTAIN ISAIAH ROBINSON

Sir

Continental Navy Board
Borden Town 3^d. Oct^r 1777

We are glad to hear that the Report of our Fleet's being in want of Provisions is groundless, & that Cap^t Blewer has undertaken to supply you with fresh Meat; His Drafts upon us shall be duly honoured to the best of our Abilities; but we would request him to be as moderate as possible in his Demands, as the unsettled State of the office will put us to many Difficulties in procuring Cash for all Purposes.

We are sorry for the Loss of the Delaware & Capt. Alexander's Misfortune,¹ but as you assure us, you are not apprehensive of any bad Consequences, other than the Loss of the Ship, we are the less concerned. We are far from undertaking to give Directions in the Commodore's Department, but confess it would give us great Pleasure to hear that the Delaware was retaken, or destroyed—in this we trust to the Commodore's Discretion—

What you say respecting the Fort at Billingsport, carries Conviction with it, & we doubt not but that a proper Representation of the Matter from Comm^r Hazlewood to Gen^l Washington would be effectual in procuring Troops for the Defence of that important Post—Captain Falconer will be with you before this gets to hand, & as he means to go from you to Head Quarters, you cannot have a more sure Opportunity of forwarding your Dispatches to the General; and he will be able to enforce your Requisition with Reasons arising from his own observation—

It gives us much Satisfaction to hear that great Harmony subsists amongst the Officers in your Department—we sincerely wish it may be firm & lasting—as we are sensible much—very much—depends upon it.

We have exerted ourselves to the utmost to supply you with the Necessaries you require It is not possible for us to procure the whole amount of your Indents, situated as we are, & it is not without great Toil & Attention we have been able to furnish you with the Supplies herewith sent—We hope they will be sufficient for present Purposes—Circumstanced as we are, we cannot avoid recommending to you the greatest Economy particularly of the Slops.—Economy at such a Time is as necessary as Valour—Enclosed you have Invoices of the Goods sent—they are all consigned to your Care, & you must distribute the Articles amongst our Fleet, according to your Discretion & their Necessities—We expect to hear from you by the Return of this messenger, & request you will give an Account of the Number of Hogs heads, Cases &c the Waggoners deliver you—We are as desirous as you can be, of a Correspondence, & therefore direct that whenever you have Occasion to write to us, you will employ an Express, & let us know the Agreement you have made with him for the Service, & we will pay him accordingly

We are at a Loss to know how there can be such a Deficiency of Blankets, without great waste—Be this as it may, we have sent you all the Blankets, Stockings, Shoes mitts & Watch Coats we can find amongst our Stores—as M^r Todd is not here, we cannot tell whether we have any more in Stock or no; or, if we have, where they are deposed.

We request our Compl^t to the Commodore, heartily wishing you all manner of Prosperity & Success we are

She fell into the Enemy's hands in a day or two after they were in possession of the City,³ and in a manner not yet well understood. Some have supposed the Crew mutinied, while another report is, that she was disabled in her Rudder by a shot and drove on shore.⁴ This misfortune takes off the success of Captain Biddles cruize.⁵ I will not dwell longer on the subject Congress may rest assured all the means in my power shall be employed to put our affairs in a more agreeable train and to accomplish the end they so earnestly wish. LIEUTENANT COLONEL SAMUEL SMITH TO GEORGE WASHINGTON

Fort Mifflin Oct^r 3rd 1777.—

I sent yesterday an express to your Excellency with an account of the enemies having landed near Billingsport, which place they have now possession of, Our Militia evacuated it after bringing off all the Stores and Spiking up the Cannon. This event as I foresaw struck the fleet with much Panic, last night five Officers and 18 Men Deserted and a great part of the rest only wait for Oppertunity. The Enemy have not as yet taken possession of Red Bank.

This morning the Officers of the Navy met and came to this resolution, to assist in keeping this Fort as long as possible, and when we are oblig'd to leave it either through want of provision or otherwise then to force our way by the City¹ with the fleet and land the Garrison at the first convenient place. Should your Excellency have sent any Continental Troops to hinder them from geting Red Bank, then we may still keep the River, but if they do not arrive in time the enemy will have this pass. All we can do will be to prolong the time which will I suppose be about One Week, for I fear unless (after they get Red Bank) we do not attempt soon to make our Retreat, we shall not have men to work the Ships. I have the Honor to be [&c.]

WILLIAM BRADFORD TO THOMAS WHARTON, JR.

[Extract]

Sir,

... the Enemy were advancing to the Fort, on which I ordered the People into Boats and sent most of them to Fort Island,¹ spiked up all the Cannon we could not carry off, and set the Barracks & Bake House on Fire, but the Dwelling House some how escaped—We took off all the Amunition—I stayed myself with Cap^t Robeson of the Continental Brig² on shore for some more certain advice; about 12 o'clock the Enemy come on so close thro' a corn field that they were not more than 30 yards from us, and began to fire on us before our Boat put off the shore, we returned the fire with 6 muskets we had on board, and a Guard Boat we had with us also fired on them, and all got off, one man only being wounded. I am now at Fort Mifflin and in Council of all the Cap^s of the Fleet, this Day they requested that Cap^t Blewer, Cap^t Massey & myself would remain here to act as Navy Board which I shall do. Two of our Galleys are reduced & laid by, the men having deserted. Last night Cap^t Montgomerys 1st & 2^d Lieut^s & 6 Privates deserted,³ and I believe if they could get off, the People on board the whole Fleet would desert, for their spirits are quite sunk. The Enemy ships are now coming up to Billingsport. Your most H[']ble Serv[']t,

DIXON AND HUNTER'S VIRGINIA GAZETTE, FRIDAY, OCTOBER 3, 1777

Williamsburg, October 3.

Captain Baron¹ has lately taken in the bay one of the enemy's tenders,² with eight sailors on board, and five stolen Negroes. The noted Mr. DUNBAR of Gloucester county is among them, who has been a long time in the company with them helping to plunder our coasts.³

Last week the Emerald man of war took two Gentlemen as they were crossing the bay from the Eastern Shore to Princess Anne. They have since been indulged with a parole for fourteen days, to try to get exchanged for two officers of the Solebay frigate, that were lately taken by a party of the Princess Anne militia.⁴ These Gentlemen inform, that the Captain of the *Emerald*⁵ declared he would detain every person he took, unless they are exchanged upon the above terms.

Last Tuesday, a brigantine, loaded with flour, accidentally got aground in Elizabeth river, and, upon seeing a man of war approaching towards her, our people set her on fire, after getting out the best part of her cargo.

Williamsburg, October 3

Last Tuesday, about 4 o'clock in the afternoon, the two Captains Barrons¹ fell in with a tender,² off the old fort below Hampton, carrying some fresh provisions from Captain Squire to Commodore Parker. After about ten minutes engaging, the tender's people called out for quarters, and the same evening were conducted safe into Hampton. She was commanded by a certain Dunbar of Gloucester county, who bears a very indifferent character, and acted as a pilot for the enemy. He, with five sailors, and five negroes, are now lodged in the publick jail.—Captains Barrons sent the fresh provisions, a mutton and half, with their compliments to Commodore Parker.

Palmer, and afterwards re-taken by a large Ship from Jamaica, mounting 20 Guns; by Letters from Mr. Stanly's Agent in Charles-Town, the Account is confirmed; the Ship is called the Severn, mounting 10 Guns, from Jamaica to Bristol, and is valued at 40,000l. Sterl. Capt. Palmer engaged and took her at the head of the Jamaica Fleet on the 4th of August last. The other Vessel taken by Capt. Palmer is a Snow called the Invermay, from Jamaica to Pensacola, with Rum and Slaves, said to be worth 35,000l. Proc. Capt. Palmer conducted her into Savannah, in Georgia, himself, and is preparing for another Cruize.

AFFIDAVIT OF PAUL FLYN AND JOHN JENKING CONCERNING THE CAPTURE OF THE BRITISH PACKET SHIP WEYMOUTH

Boston Octo^r 4th 1777

We the Subscribers, Paul Flyn & John Jenking, both of the Kingdom of Great Britain, now resident in Boston, in the County of Suffolk, and State of the Massachusetts Bay, in New England, late mariners on board the Ship Weymouth employed as a Packet in the Service of the King of Great Britain from Jamaica to London and captured by the Oliver Cromwell Ship of War from the State of Connecticut, Cap^t Seth Harding Commander, testify and declare that being on board said Weymouth on the twenty eighth Day of July last, we were hailed by the said Oliver Cromwell, who demanded of us, from whence we came, to which we gave Answer, in the usual Form of Ships of War, in the Kings Service, by saying we came from White Hall and when asked again by the said O. Cromwell, are you a Kings Ship we answered Yes; and fired at the Cromwell, under Kings Colours; and immediately we shortened Sail to prepare for an Attack from the said O Cromwell, before she came up with us, And we further testify that after engaging a Brigantine, on the twenty seventh Day of July last and having beaten her of[f] we gave Chace to her, but did not come up with her; And the said Ship Weymouth did at all Times weare her Pennant before any Ships of War, belonging to the King of Great Britain aforesaid even in Presence of an Admiral; and never dowsed her Colours or Sails to any Ship or Fort whatever belonging to the said King and during her late Voyage being near the Island of Martineco, the said Weymouth, fired a Shot at an English Merchantman and made her dowse her Pennant; And we further testify that the Wages on board the said Weymouth were the same that were allowed on board the said Kings Ships.

DEPOSITION OF JOHN JENKING CONCERNING THE CAPTURE OF THE BRITISH PACKET SHIP WEYMOUTH

Boston Octo^r 4th. 1777

I John Jenking of Great Britain, now resident in Boston, in the County of Suffolk and State of the Massachusetts Bay, in New England, Mariner, testify and declare, that the Ship Weymouth, lately employed in the Service of the King of Great Britain, as a Packet from Jamaica to London, on which I was employed as Master, had Orders if attacked to defend herself, but was not permitted to commence Hostilities against any Vessel whatever but if in defending her self against an Enemy, she should have so much the advantage against her as to be able to make a Capture, of her she could not hold her, that any commissioned Man of War from Great Britain might make a Prize of any Vessel so taken, and I further Testifie that the said Ship Weymouth, was taken by the Ship of War Oliver Cromwell from the State of Connecticut Cap^t Seth Harding Commander

Jn^o Jenking

I John Jenking the Subscriber of the above written Deposition do testify and declare, that on the twenty seventh Day of July last, the above named Weymouth, was brought to & attacked by a Brigantine which She the Weymouth beat of and pursued her about four Hours, with Design to get rid of her by the Night coming on, that she might not give us any further Trouble, and if we had Daylight enough to have taken her, we should have thrown her Guns overboard & dismissed her, for the Reason above given viz^t our having no Right to make her a Prize

MAJOR GENERAL ISRAEL PUTNAM TO GOVERNOR GEORGE CLINTON

Dear Sir,

This morning we had Information from our Guard Boats, that there were two Ships of War,¹ three Tenders,² and a Large number of Flatt Bottom'd Boats coming up the River, they proceeded up as far as Tarry Town, where they Landed their Men—this Evening they were follow^d. by one Large Man of War,³ five Topsail Vessels,⁴ and a Large Number of Small Craft—I have sent off Parties to Examine their Rout, and Harrass their March if Prudent—General Parsons has gone down to Reconnoiter he has not yet Return'd, but by Information from several different Quarters, we have Reason to believe they intend for this Post—They are now making up, (as we hear) for Croton Bridge—You will please to give such orders to the Malitia, in Consequence thereof as you shall think proper—

I have sent the Barge to you with this, and most sincerely wish, you would come Down as soon as Convenient—I should have wrote you before, but I thought this movement only to drive off some Cattle &c I am [&c.]

Dear Brother.

Fort Montgomery 4th October 1777.

By Capt. Lieut. Gano¹ of the Artillery who has just come from Peeks Kill[,] he informs me that the Enemy are Landed at Terry Town, that they have several Transports, & some men of Warr, with a [Number] of flat Bottom'd Boats, & that the inhabitants at Peeks Kill are all moving away, and are in the Utmost Confusion[—]I have had no Account from Genl. Putnam. I am informed he is gone Down towards Kings Ferry to reconiter &c. Our Gallies² & Privateer Sloop³ has not yet come up—neither has there been any Alarm Guns Fired, tho' there has been about 8 or 10 Cannon heard below—there is very few of the Militia yet come Down. I Can't tell you the number as I have had no Returns from them as Yet—there has no Field Officers come down with any of the Regim'ts Except Major DuBois⁴ of [Col^o. Hasbroucks Reg^t.]⁵ which are at Fort Constitution. I have waited some time thinking I might have an Express from Genl. Putnam with a more Certain Account—but as I have Receiv'd none; I think it my duty to give you the Earliest notice Possible. Upon the Enemies Approach, You may Expect to hear the Alarm Guns fired here. I am [&c.]

AND THE SPEAKER OF THE ASSEMBLY OF NEW YORK

Sir. Fort Montgomerie 3 OClock P:M: Oct^r: 5th: 1777—

I wrote you this Morning from my own House inclosing Copies of Letters which I had received from General Putnam and James Clinton containing the only Accounts I had then received of the Enemy's Movements in this Quarter—Their Fleet consists of 56 Sail great & Small—They have a Number of Flat Bottomed Boats with them and now lay under Sail off Kings Ferry, where, or rather between that and Peeks Kill, they have landed a Body of Troops how many I can't learn—There was a considerable Cannonade from their Shipping while landing. I have ordered the Militia of the two Regiments of Ulster and those of Orange on the North Side of the Mountains to strengthen this Post and the Passes on this side of the River.

Yesterday a Body of the Enemy who either landed at Tarry Town or marched up from Kings Bridge, approached Col^o: Luddington¹ near White Plains where he lay with about 500 Men and sent a Flagg demanding him to surrender with his Party in very menacing Terms & in the mean time were endeavouring to surround him. The Col^o: observing this ordered his Men to retreat and received the Flagg himself and so disappointed them. I have not been able to collect any further Particulars but have Reason to believe the Enemy pretty formidable. I am [&c.]

Geo. Clinton

Cap^t: Piercy this Moment arrived, he says the Enemy Landed a party of light Horse at Kings Ferry on the West side of the River and obliged him to quit his Post with the Loss of one Man—The Enemy have 12 Ships 2 Briggs a number of smaller Vessels & 44 flat Bottom Boats loaded with Men—he says the Enemy landed on the East Side 18 Boats full of Troops & a number more were coming up. The first Ship just now comes in Sight at Point of Donderbergh firing away at a row Boat I sent to Peeks Kill; they cant catch her. Cap^t: Pierce had but 12 Men with him—excuse haste

S'r, Ramapough Clove¹ 5th Oct'r 1777.

As the Enemy are in Motion & their destination as yet unknown to me, I thout prudent having an Opportunity P^r Col. Livingston² to advise you of my Strength at this post which with the reinforcement I have received from Col. Hathorn's³ Regiment amounts to scarce Two Hundred Men Officers included. Major Wisner⁴ who is with the last detachment says they are not all in that he Expects but if they were I am affraid they would be insufficient in case of an Attack as many of their Arms are poor and We are scarce of flints having none but what are in Use and many of them bad; should have sent to you for some to day but was disappointed in geting a Horse timeously if you have any Horse men to Spare should be glad you would send me some by one of them.

The last Account I had of the Enemy was that they were in Haverstraw Bay Standing up the River, their Van near Stony Point and that their fleet consisted of 9 Topsail Vessels a Number of Sloops, Gallies &c.⁵ with about 50 flat Bottomed Boats and appeared to have a considerable Number of Troops on Board. . . .

COLONEL A. HAWKES HAY TO GEORGE WASHINGTON

Sunday 4 O'Clock P.M. Haverstraw October 5th. 1777—

Sir.

I think it my Duty to inform you, that Yesterday the Enemy's Fleet consisting of four large Ships of War¹ a Considerable Number of Armed Vessels² and Eight Transports with forty flatt Bottom Boats came up as far as Tarry Town, this Morning they came up into the Bay opposite this Place and are now landing their Troops at Verplank's Point, no Opposition has yet been made on our Part, the Shipping are at Anchor below the Point.—

I have called out the Militia but as we are but a handfull of Men, I thought proper to imploy them in driving off the Stock & watching the Motions of the Enemy which is all I can do till Supports arrive but I know not to what Quarter to send for Assistance unless the Jersey Militia could be sent forward from the Eastern part of that State.—I am [&c.]

Sir Lewes Oct^r 5th 1777

This morning 36 Sail of the Enemies Ships went past this Town up the Bay,¹ and this Evening 41 more were seen from the light House Standing in for the Cape,² and while Writing being Nine oClock, find by the lights in the Bay and firing Signal Guns, they have Anchor'd in our Road, I hope they also will pass by without Visiting us

On the appearance of the Fleet last evening all the Boats along Lewes Creek were brought up to the Fort and a Centinel placed over them to prevent any person going off to the Ships, but notwithstanding this precaution, Abraham Wiltbank, his Son Jacob, and Luke Shields Jun^r, went on Board the Fleet, they had taken a small Boat a Cross the Creek some time Yesterday and left her where she Could not be discover'd, and in the Evening went over in a Cannoe, and then haul'd their Boat a Cross the Cape to the Surf, and we suppose went to Ships who were then Anchor'd in the Road

I have been advis'd to place Guards at their Houses and have their Goods Inventory'd, but have declin'd the measure untill I shall receive orders from you respecting the matter, should therefore take it as a favour if you would be so kind as to send me your opinion on this Head—I am [&c.]

GENERAL ORDERS OF GOVERNOR GEORGE CLINTON

Genl. Orders.

The Privateer¹ and Gallies² are to take their Orders from Capt. Hodge³ of the Ship Montgomery, who is to make such Disposition of them and of the Officers and men on board as will in his Opinion be most conducive to the public Service: they are to be considered as Tenders to his Ship, and he will be responsible for their Conduct which the Genl. doubts not will do them Honor. The Ship Congress is immediately to proceed up to Fort Constitution, and come too there, in the Station safest for the Ship and most proper to annoy the Enemy. The Officer commanding the Ship Congress on his arrival at Fort Constitution is to consult with the commanding Officer there and with the Officer commanding the Artillery, as to the best measure to oppose the Enemy, if that Post should be attacked, so as that the Garrison and Ship may be able to act in concert; and if any Artillerymen or other Hands can be spared from the Garrison for the Ship they are to be sent on board. In this the Officers will be governed by the utility of putting men where they can be of most advantage in opposing the Enemy.

JOURNAL OF THE CONTINENTAL CONGRESS

[York] Monday, October 6, 1777

Resolved, That so much of the resolution of the 23d day of March, 1776,¹ as directs that the wages of seamen and mariners taken on board British merchant vessels, be paid and deducted out of the prize money, be repealed and made null and void.

Resolved, That all masters, officers and mariners, and all subjects of the king of Great Britain, taken on board any prize made by any continental vessel of war, be hereafter considered as prisoners of war, and treated as such; and that the seamen and mariners of such prize be confined in the gaols or some other secure place in the State to which the prize shall be carried; and it is recommended to the several states to consider and treat all captains, officers and mariners, and all subjects of the king of Great Britain, taken on board any prize made by any vessel fitted out by, or carried into, any State by any privateer or letter of marque, as prisoners of war.

Ordered, That the commissary general of prisoners be informed of this resolve; and that he be directed to appoint a deputy in each State.

Resolved, That it be recommended to the legislatures of the several states to pass laws, declaring, that any person, his aider or abettor, who shall wilfully and maliciously burn or destroy, or attempt or conspire to burn or destroy, any magazine of provisions, or of military or naval stores, belonging to the United States; or if any master, officer, seaman, mariner or other person entrusted with the navigation or care of any continental vessel, shall wilfully and maliciously burn or destroy, or attempt or conspire to burn or destroy, any such vessel, or shall wilfully betray or voluntarily yield or deliver, or attempt or conspire to betray, yield or deliver, any such vessel to the enemies of the United States, such person, his aider or abettor, on legal conviction thereof, shall suffer death without benefit of clergy.

THE COMMITTEE FOR FOREIGN AFFAIRS TO THE AMERICAN COMMISSIONERS IN FRANCE

To the honble B. Franklin S. Deane & A Lee Esq^{res}

Honble Gentlemen

York Town in Pensyl^a: 6 Oct 1777

... The marine force of the enemy is so considerable in these seas, and so overproportionate to our infant navy, that it seems quite necessary and wise to send our Ships to distress the Commerce of our enemies in other parts of the world. For this purpose, the marine Committee have already ordered some vessels to France under your direction as to their future operations; and more we expect will be sent. But our frigates are not capable of carrying much bulky commodity for commercial purposes without unfitting them for war, besides there is the consideration of our being obliged to get them away how and when we can, or endanger their being taken, which prevents our sending them to those staple Colonies where the Commodities wanted are to be obtained. The reciprocal benefits of commerce cannot flow from or to N. America until some maritime power of Europe will aid our cause with marine strength. And this circumstance gives us pain least it should be construed as unwillingness on our part to pay our debts when the truth is that we have the greatest desire of doing so, have materials in abundance, but not the means of conveying them. This leads us to reflect on the great advantages which must unavoidably accrue to all parties if France and Spain was to afford effectual aid on the sea by the loan or sale of ships of war according to the former propositions of Congress; or if the Farmers General could be prevailed upon to receive in America, the Tobacco or other products of this Northern Continent which France may want. We are &c

HENRY HOLLYDAY TO JAMES HOLLYDAY

[Extract]

My dear Brother,

Talbot 6th of Oct^o. 1777.

... While the Fleet lay off the mouth of the Eastern Bay on Thursday evening was a fortnight, there went off seven negroe slaves belonging to Leeds, Daffin, Wrigtham, the Kersey & 3 of the Kemps. Leeds next morning went on board the admiral, with whose treatment of him 'tis said he is extremely disgusted. Daffin went afterward on board the same Ship, and we are told was treated very politely by the Capt of her whose name is said to be Duncan.¹ He told Daffin the Fleet could not possibly be delayed to make the necessary search, but that they are going round to Delaware, and if he would come on board them there, they should have his use to make the necessary Enquiry. and if his Negroe would be found he should be restored to him. What I believe may be relied on as fact, is that Daffin is gone across to Delaware on this Errand; and Leeds and Davy Kerr (as the latter informed Jimmy on Saturday) were to set out from Will Thomas's yesterday, for the Fleet, in quest of Leed's fellow.

We are all tolerably well & join in love and duty to you. Y^r [&c.]

CAPTAIN HECTOR MCNEILL TO SAILING MASTER LAWRENCE FURLONG

M^r. Furlong

Your Letter of yesterday was handed me by M^r. Gregg¹—In answer to which I tell you that (my orders of the 17th. Sep^r. last which are placarded on the bulk head in common view) those orders have met with the approbation of the Navy Board, and I expect that you and every other Officer whose duty it is to keep Journals will comply with them.—

The misfortune has been that yourself, and many others of the late Officers of the Boston fancied yourselves totally independent of me.—consequently not accountable—The course of your whole conduct the last Cruise and since our arrival, proves this, but I am not that block head of yesterday you vainly imagine,—I will have you and all Men know that as Officers under my Command you are accountable to me for your Conduct and without my approbation no Man has a right to Wages or Prize Money—as to paying the Wages to Officers and Men—I have done it too Long for mine own advantage—Whenever The Hon^{ble} Congress appoints a pay Office it will take a great deal of trouble off my hands—

As to your reference to the 9th Article of the Masters Instructions, it touches me not, the order I gave the 17th. I had a right to give, and none but fools would have refused to comply with them—Yours

GOVERNOR GEORGE CLINTON TO THE NEW YORK COUNCIL OF SAFETY

New Windsor, 7th October, 1777.

Gentlemen—The extreme fatigue I have undergone the three days past, and the want of rest for an equal number of nights, renders me unfit to write you on matters of so serious consequences to this State, as I have to communicate.

I am able only briefly to inform you, that yesterday about 10 o'clock A.M. our advanced party was attacked by the enemy at Doodle Town, about 2½ miles from Fort Montgomery; they consisted of but 30 men; the enemy by appearance and accounts, so far received, of 5,000.

They received the enemy's fire and returned it, and retreated to Fort Clinton; soon after, we received intelligence that the enemy were advancing on the west side of the mountain, with design to attack us in rear.

Upon this I ordered out Lieut. Colos. Bruyn¹ and McClaghry,² with upwards of 100 men, towards Doodle Town, and a brass field piece, with a detachment of 60 men, on every advantageous post on the road to the furnace.

They were not long out, before they were both attacked by the enemy with their whole force; our people behaved with spirit, and must have made great slaughter of the enemy.

I strengthened the party on the furnace road to upwards of 100, but they were obliged to give way to so superior a force as the enemy brought against them.

They kept their field piece in full play at them, till the men who worked it were drove off with fixed bayonets, then spiked it, and retreated with great good order to a 12 pounder, which I had ordered to cover them, and from thence in the fort.

I immediately posted my men in the most advantageous manner for the defence of the post, and it was not many minutes before, as well our post as Fort Clinton was invested on all sides, and a most incessant fire kept up till night; and soon after dusk, when the enemy forced our lines and redoubts at both posts, and the garrisons were obliged to fight their way out, as many as could, as we were determined not to surrender, and many have escaped.

I was summoned, sun an hour high, to surrender in five minutes, and thereby prevent the effusion of blood.

I sent Lieut. Colo. Livingston³ to receive the flag, who informed them that he had no orders to treat with them, except to receive their proposals, if they meant to surrender themselves prisoners of war, in which case he was empowered to assure them good usage.

About 10 minutes after, they made a general and desperate attack on both posts, which was resisted with great spirit, but we were at length overpowered by numbers, and they gained the possession of both posts.

Officers and men behaved with great spirit, as well Continental troops as militia.

Our loss in slain can not be great, considering the length of the action.

My brother, Genl. Clinton,⁴ is wounded, and I believe made prisoner.

This is the case with Major Logan.⁵

The number of missing I can not ascertain.

The ships⁶ are both burnt and Fort Constitution demolished, by our people, without my orders; but I can not, as yet, condemn the measure.

The officers all say it was right.

I am clear it was as to the fort, after removing artillery and stores, which has not been done.

The ships I hoped might have been saved.

Genl. Putnam will retreat to near Capt. Haight's,⁷ about three miles from Mrs. Van Wyck's, and I mean to rally my broken but brave forces, and advance to-morrow on Butter hill.

Genl. Putnam is to send Colo. Webb's⁸ regiment to join me.

I beg you will give the substance of this account to Genl. Gates, in answer to his letter to me.

I have only to add that I greatly regret the loss of those posts; but I am consoled with the full persuasion that they have bought them dear, and that I have done the most in my power to save them.

I beg you to excuse incorrectness, And am [&c.]

Geo: Clinton.

P.S. Major Lush⁹ is, I believe, their prisoner.

CONTINENTAL NAVY BOARD OF THE MIDDLE DEPARTMENT TO THE CONTINENTAL MARINE COMMITTEE

Continental Navy Board

Borden Town 7th Oct^r 1777

Gentlemen

On the near Approach of the Enemy to our Capital, we ordered all our naval Stores Slops &c together with the Books & Papers of the Navy Board, Pay office & Comm^{rs} of Naval Stores to be embarked in the Frigates & the Packet Mercury. After much Toil & no small Expen^{ce} our Ships arrived safe at this Place. Our next Care was to send off the Books & Papers of the several Offices to Easton & to dispose of the Stores, Provisions &c in Places of Secrecy at some Distance from the water. Some we have dispersed in Farm Houses a few Miles back; others we have put into Shallops to run up Crosswick's Creek out of the Reach of present Danger. We have likewise taken Charge of the Ship Lion Capt: Wilson, of whose valuable Cargoe a great part is Continental:

We sincerely congratulate the Marine Committee on the late glorious Success of the American Arms in the Battle of Saturday last; ¹ attended with such little Loss on our Parts, & such fatal Effects to the Enemy We also rejoice with you on the very promising aspect of affairs in the Northern Department. We flatter ourselves that our tempestuous Voyage is almost over—that we are already in Soundings, and one favourable Blast more will waft us to the Shores of Peace & Security. We have the Honour to be [&c.]

GEORGE WASHINGTON TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS

[Extract]

Sir

Camp ¹ near Pennibackers Mill Octo^r 7th: 1777.

... The state of our Water defence on the Delaware is far from being as flattering, as could be wished.—After some slight opposition from the Jersey Militia under

Gen^l Newcomb, a detachment of the Enemy took possession of Billingsport. This perhaps is an event of no material consequence. But it is to be lamented, that many of the Officers and Seamen on board the Gallies have manifested a disposition that does them little honor.—Looking upon their situation as desperate, or probably from worse motives, they have been guilty of the most alarming desertions. Two whole crews, including the Officers, have deserted to the Enemy. I learn however by Captⁿ Bruer [Blewer], who is this moment arrived here from the Fleet, that the Accounts they have received from the City² of our late Attack were such as to have produced a favourable change and to have inspired them with more confidence. I would here observe, that the charge of bad conduct was by no means applicable to the whole—far from it. He further adds, that four of the Enemy's Ships made an Attempt Yesterday morning to weigh the Chevaux de frizes opposite Billingsport; but were repulsed by our Gallies, which has also contributed to raise the spirits of the seamen. Our Garrison on Fort Island, consisting of little more than Two hundred Continental Troops under L^t Col^o Smith appear determined to maintain their post to the last extremity. . . . I have the Honor to be [&c.]

GEORGE WASHINGTON TO COMMODORE JOHN HAZELWOOD

Sir

Camp Pawlins Mill 7th: October 1777

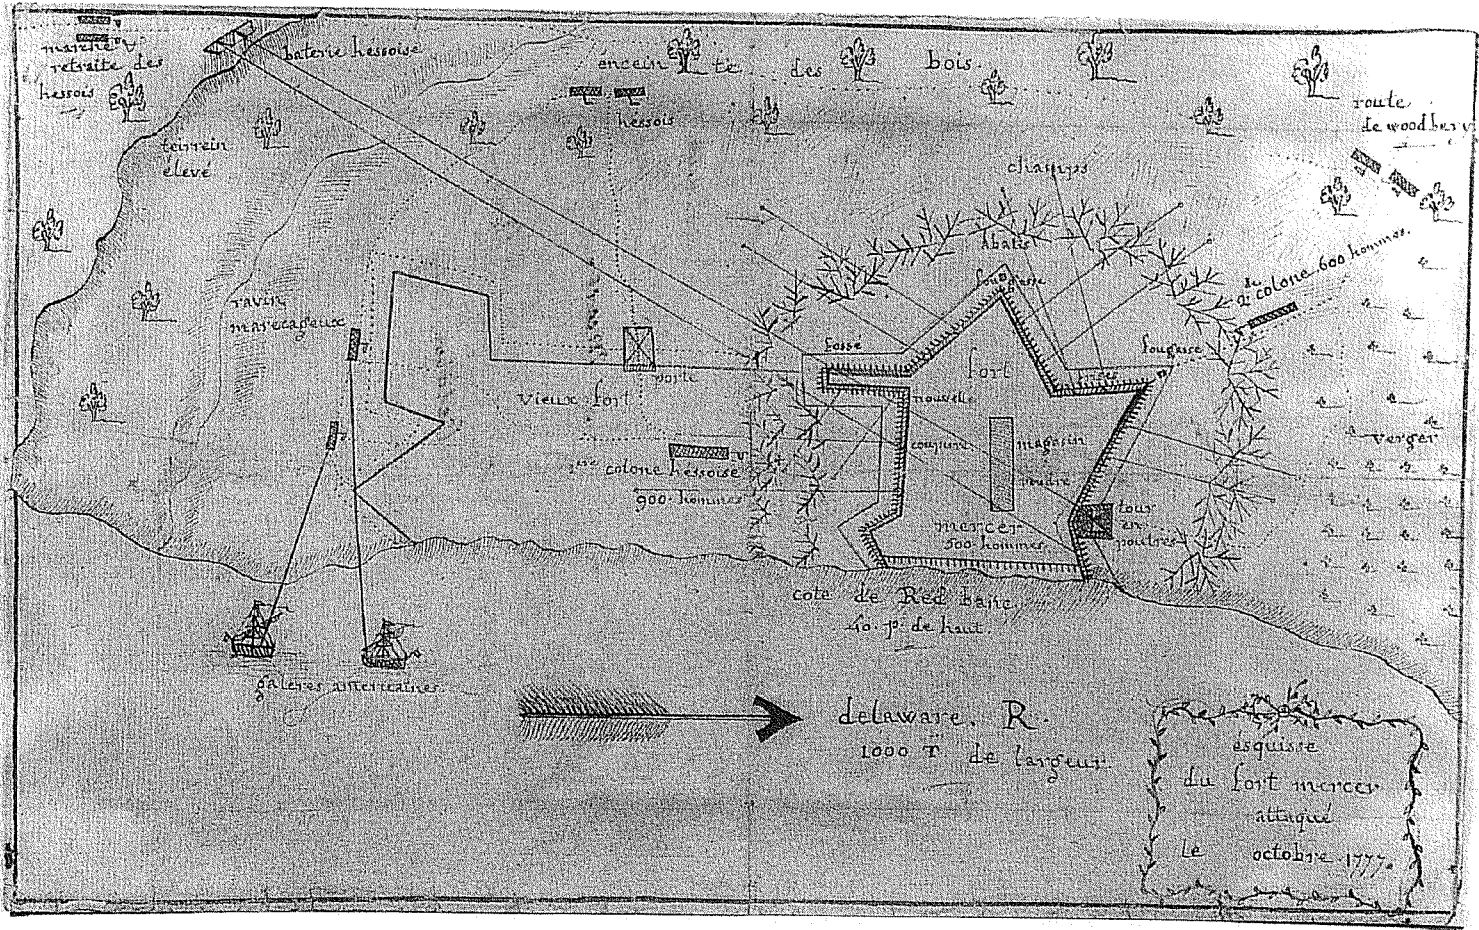

Upon Cap^t Blewers representation of the importance of Red Bank¹ I have determined to garrison it immediately strongly with continental troops, who are now upon their march. Till they arrive I beg you will do all in your power to keep possession of the Ground, should the Enemy attempt to take it. With the Assistance of this force upon the land I hope you will be enabled to keep your Station with your fleet, and if you can do that, I have not the least doubt but we shall by our operations by land and Water oblige the Enemy to abandon Philad^a. I have wrote to Gen^l Newcomb to assist the Garrison with as many Militia as he can spare—I am &c

P.S. I intend to send down Cap^t Mauduit² to command the Artillery. I beg you will afford him every Assistance of Cannon and Stores, and if he should want a few Men to work the Guns, I beg he may have such as have been used to it. I think you should not lose one Moment in possessing the Ground at Red Bank—

DIARY OF ROBERT MORTON

[Philadelphia, Pa.]

Oct. 7th.—A certainty of the Fleets being below, 14 men have deserted from the Row Gallies, who give an acco. of their disabling a British Brig¹ last ev'g and that the men belonging to the American Fleet would desert were it in their power. News arrived this morning of 3000 men being arrived at New York, and 5000 at Quebec. No further intelligence of Burgoyne's movements. No certain acco. of the Chevaux de Frise being as yet raised. The wounded Americans in this city are removed to the State House.

JOURNAL OF CAPTAIN JOHN MONTRESOR

[Webb's Ferry, Pa.]

[October] 7th. Wind W.S.W. The weather extremely hot for the season. Early this morning an account of Lord Howe, and the fleet being certainly in the Delaware. The 23d Regt. marched from Philadelphia to Germantown. An Engineer and 100 Grenadiers proceeded this morning to reconnoitre Province Island for fixing of Mortars and 8 inch Howitzers. Some deserters from the Enemy. In the evening the rebels pushed 2 Galleys in the mouth of the Schuylkill which obliged the detachment with the Engineers to return to Philadelphia by Gray's Ferry. Gallies fired and the Fort¹ together one hundred shot at us. Dispatches arrived at Head Quarters from New York by Chester.

WILLIAM BRADFORD TO THOMAS WHARTON, JR.

Fort Mifflin October 7 1777.

I wrote you a few Days ago informing of the Loss of Billingsport.¹ The Troops that took Possession of that Place consisted of Highlanders, and Marines from the Men of War, about Thirteen or Fourteen Hundred in Number, by the most Intelligent People that I have spoke with. The 4th. October they embarked all their Men but 300, after making some Efforts to remove or weigh the Chevaux de Frize, which I believe they could not Effect. Yesterday Afternoon the Enemy set Fire to all the Works & Houses that were left at Blingsport and embarked the Men. In the Evening Commodore Hazelwood went down and attacked the Ships very smartly; they got under way and fell down to Chester, were nine of them now lays. I was in Billingsport this Morning, and every Thing that would take Fire is burnt, and most of the Ambrusers [Embrasures] destroyed. The Commodore is now sending down a Scow to bring off the Iron Work that is there. M^r Sam^l. Massey having a sum of Money by him near this Place we have browed [borrowed] it, and have ordered the Fleet to be paid their Months Wages—Our Fire Ships are very badly off for Men, the Vesuvius Brig & Strumblo Ship have not one Hand;² they are now stripped of their Rigging &c. and ready for sinking in such Places as may be thought necessary if the Enemy's Ships should attempt to come up; tho' I am of Opinion they think they cannot possibly get thro' the Chevaux de Frizes at Billingsport—A prodigious Desertion has prevailed among the Galleys. A few Nights ago Cap^t Montgomery³ lost Eleven Men, last Night, after the Action, Cap^t Mitchel⁴ lost Twelves; Three other Galleys are so reduced that all their Men will not Man One Galley—We are pretty well off for Cattle and shall get some more on the Island this Day, and the Boats are just now going of to fetch Six Waggon loads of Flour that is at Timber Creek Bridge.—Cap^t Blewer is gone up to General Washington for a few Days. I shall do all I can for the good of the Cause, and am [&c.]

W^m: Bradford

P.S. I am confident the Fleet cannot get up this River as we are now [situated—Tho' should] they get Red Bank [were we have not] one Man, I do not know the Consequence Three Days ago the Men of War sent up a Flag to the Commodore, desiring him to give up the Fleet and he should with his Men have his Majestys Pardon and be treated kindly—The Commodore sent him Word he should defend the Fleet to the last and not give them up, and was not afraid of all the ships they could bring, and desired they would send no more such Flags.

DAVID REED TO CUSHING & WHITE

Gentlemen

Yours of 18th. Ult. came duly to hand, & in compliance therewith I send the Schooner Betsey by Cap^t. Mayhew—at present I take opportunity to transmit you inclosed the papers that were committed to me, that concern the said Schooner; there yet remains in the hands of Cap^t. Paul Reeds family a memorandum book found on board, the property of Philip Goldthwait a prisoner taken in her, in which there is an account of transactions from the time said Goldthwait was put on board her by the Rainbow to the time she fell into Cap^t. Reeds hands—but it is not in my possession—& chiefly concerns said Goldthwait only:

By the best information I can obtain she was taken by the Reprisal about three weeks after she was in the service of his Brittanick Majesty¹—she was on a cruize as a Spy to enquire after your Brig^t.—& a mast ship then at Wiscasset²—& the situation of Townsend harbour &c, Cap^t. Reed fell in with her & took her near St^t. Georges³ on Saturday the 22^d. of Aug^t.—the men soon owned their characters & business—& were sent hither by a certain Capt. Bradford in their way to the board of war to which I was about forwarding them when unluckily they fell again into the hands of the Rainbow that just at that time came into this harbour; however in lieu of the eight prisoners taken in her, we received others in exchange—

I believe she was not into any British port whilst in the enemy's hands; of the circumstances of her being taken by the enemy I cannot inform you—but after Cap^t. Reed took her she was carried into St^t. Georges, Medumcook,⁴ Broadbay, & Townsend where she now lies,

Inclosed youll find an inventory of the articles found on board, distinguishing such as the Reprisal has on board, from the remainder which I send you in the Schooner.

Also an account of my cost & trouble with the vessel—I have put some cord wood on board, for which I have taken Cap^t. Mayhew's order on you,

I have no doubts but you will transact with regard to the prosecution in the maritime court so as shall leave Cap^t. Reed & his men (for whom I am attorney) no reason to complain; I am [&c.]

GOVERNOR GEORGE CLINTON TO THE NEW YORK COUNCIL OF SAFETY

[New Windsor Oct. 8, 1777.]

Gentlemen,

I wrote to the Legislature yesterday giving them as particular an Account of the loss of Forts Montgomery & Clinton as I was then Able Since which I have the Pleasure to inform you that Genl. Clinton¹ is got in & his Wound does not appear to be any ways Dangerous many other of our Officers have also arived who we had Reason to believe were made Prisoners, not more that 11 Officers of Colo. Du Bois's Regim't² are Missing two hundred of his Men including Non Commissioned have already Joined me at this Place & many more of them may be expected as we have heard of their Escape, many also of the two Companies of Artillery who were at those Posts have escaped & joined us & more of them Hourly expected.

The Night I left Fort Montgomery as my Escape was effected by crossing the River I waited upon Genl. Putnam at Continental Village in Order to concert the proper Measures to be pursued after this unfortunate Event. The Genl. Officers there agreed in Opinion with me that the Intention of the Enemy under Sir Henry Clinton was to Relief Burgoine's Army by effecting a Junction with him; That as they had carried the Forts his next Business was to pass the Cheveaux Defrize & so proceed by Water up the River.

Our Posts at Peeks Kill & Sydnam's by the Loss of those which commanded the Navigation have losst their Importance. It was therefore agreed that Genl. Putnam should Retreat with his Army to very defensible pass in the Mountains about 3 Miles from Fishkill where he is in the most Speedy Manner to get in the Eastern Militia—I, to rally my Forces near this Place, to call on all Militia of Orange & this end of Ulster, to be furnished with a Continental Regt. from Genl. Putnam's Army to defend the Cheveaux Defrize in the best Manner I can & as long. That as soon as we find the Enemy can raise or pass it both Armies to move Northward so to keep pace with them covering the Posts of the Country which woud be the greatest Object till they shall think proper to Land. As soon as ever I find the Shipping likely to pass the Cheveaux Defrize I will by forced March endeavour to gain Kingston & cover that Town. I shall have 1 Brass twenty four Pounder & Six Smaller Brass Pieces which will make a formidable Train. I am perswaded if the Militia will join me which I have Reason to hope I can save the Country a few Scattering Houses excepted along the River from Destruction & defeat the Enemy's Design in assisting their Northern Army.

A Deserter who had been taken & forced to enlist in Fanning's Regt. came into us yesterday from the Enemy at Fort Montgomery immediatly after it was taken, informs me that the Enemy's Loss was very great, That Genl. Sir Henry Clinton commanded in Person had three other Genl. Officers with him their Force was 5000 three thousand British Troops & Hessian Yaagers the Remainder New Levies, Commanded by Brig'r Genl. Beverly Robinson & Colo. Fanning.³ he says their Loss was great. I have only to add that tho the Country Esteem the Posts Lost of the greatest moment yet the manner in which they were defended has given such Gen. Sattisfaction as to elate & not depress their Spirits.

[G. C.]

[To Council of Safety.]

N.B. I am this moment informed by Genl. Putnam, that the eastern militia come in very fast; that he is confident that he will soon have ten thousand men with him; in which case he will keep posts up as far as Poughkeepsie and Rynbeck to head the enemy, should they push up the river. We shall save considerable of the stores at Fort Constitution, and perhaps some of the artillery, as the enemy had not got up that high yesterday.

MAJOR GENERAL ISRAEL PUTNAM TO GOVERNOR GEORGE CLINTON

Dear Sir,

Yours with a Copy of General Gates's I have Rec'd and agreeable to your request have Orderd Colonel S. B. Webb's Regiment to march & Immediately join you; ¹ I will Immediately make inquiry about the Arms you mentioned & if Possible they shall be Conveyd over to you with the Utmost Dispatch; Last night I arrived here, the Baggage Ordinance Stores &c. are moving up with all Possible expedition;

Since I had the pleasure of seing you, many Circumstances of Importance strikes my attention which I now shall with pleasure Communicate to you, In the first, Its my Opinion that the Enemy's Vessel of Four ² which are now Down the River, are only kept there with a view of Drawing Our Attention towards them & prevent us from making that Preparation (which in my Opinion we aught by every Possible means to do) to Oppose there Progress to Albany, they may Probably bring up there Shipping near the Cheveaux De Frize, but its my real and Sincere Opinion that Destroying the Chain &c. are by no means (at this juncture) there Chieff Object, Its my firm Opinion that they will by every Possible Means Indeavour to Make Forced Marches towards Albany, & Convey up the Baggage Stores &c. in the small Crafts;— I shall use my Utmost Efforts & Collect the Militia with all Possible Speed, the same Steps I make no Doubt will be forwarded by you.

Joining Burgoyne is Certainly there first & Chieff Object. I would therefore Mention that the Moment our Baggage Stores &c. are mov'd into some secure Place, we aught to Proceed towards Albany & act in Conjunction with Gen^l Gates. I have wrote Him & shall hope to have his Opinion very soon, yours upon the Subject I hope to be favourd with Immediately which will greatly Oblige, Sir Your verry Hble. Serv't

Fish Kill 6 O'Clock Wednesday Mon^g

Dear General

Its with the Utmost Reluctance I now sit Down to inform you that the Enemy after Making a Variety of Movements up & down North river, landed on the Morning of the 4th. Ins^t about 3000 Men at Tarry Town, & after Making an excursion about five Miles up the Country, they returnd & embarked, the Morning following, the advanced up near Kings Ferry & landed on the East side of the river, but in the Evening part of em reem-barked, & the Morning after Landed a Little above Kings Ferry on the West side, but the Morning being so exceeding foggy, concealed their Schem & Prevented us from giving any Idea what Number of Troops they Landed, in about Three Hours we discovered a large Fire at the Ferry, which we Imagined to be the Store Houses, upon which it was Thought they only Landed with a View of Destroying the said Houses, The Picquet & scouts which we had out, could not learn the Exact Number of the Enemy which were Remaining on the East side the River, but from the Best Accounts they were about 1500, At this same time a Number of Ships, Gallies &c with about 40 Flat Bottomed Boats made every appearance of their Intentions to land Troops, both at Fort Independance, & Pecks Kill Landing, Under all these Circumstances & my strength being not more than 1200 Continental Troops & three Hundred Militia, Prevented me from Detaching off a Party to Attack the Enemy that Lay On the East side the River, After we had thought it Impracticable to quit the Hightes (which we had then Possession off) & attack the Enemy, Brigadier General Parsons & myself went to Reconnoitre the ground near to the Enemy, and on our return from thence we was alarmed with a very heavy & hot firing, both of small Arms & Cannon at Fort Montgomery which Immediately Convinced me that they Enemy had landed a large Body of Men in the Morning at the Time and Place before Mentioned, upon which I immediately Detached of 500 Men to Reinforce the Garrison, but before they could Possible cross the River to their Assistance, they Enemy (which was far Superior in Numbers) had possesed themselves of the Fort; Never did Men behave with more Spirit & Activity, than Our Troops upon this Occasion, They Repulsed the Enemy three times, which were in Number (at Least) five to One, Governor George & General James Clintons were both Present, but the Engagment Continuing untill Dusk of the Evening, gave them both an Opportunity together with Several Officers & a Number of Privates to Make their Escape. . . . Sir,

Fishkill Oct^r: 8th: 1777

. . . Some of the Enemies's Ships have moved up with some of the flat bottomed boats from Fort Montgomery and last night two Gallies & one or two small Vessels¹ came up near the Cheviaux du frize about 7 Miles below here, and passed the same, but being fired upon fell down the river again.—The Enemy now have it in their power to pass up the river in spite of every Effort we have in our Power to make, and the whole of our Force if collected on one side would little if any exceed theirs so that We can do no more than defend one side of the River; if their design be to relieve M^r: Burgoyne's Army, most probably they will proceed the first fair wind up the river; with their ships as far as the water will permit their ships to pass; which may be faster than the troops can march; and then with their flat bottomed boats and row Gallies to Albany before we can arrive there. . . . [October] 8th. . . . This night at Sundown we made a Battery of No. 2 Medium 12s at the N. side of the mouth of the Schuylkill; ¹ before it was finished 3 rebel Galleys came to their usual station at the mouth and hearing our workmen fired grape 3 inch shot, which we did not return, until our Battery was completed. WILLIAM BRADFORD TO THOMAS WHARTON, JR.

Sr,

I wrote you two Days ago. ¹ Yesterday we sent down to examine the Chevaux de Frize at Billingsport, and find that the two last that were sunk to stop up the Gap are remove higher up and put on one side, so that a Ship may warp thro'. A Ship & Brig are now preparing to be sunk in the Gap, which, if we can Effect, will stop the Channel. ² A large Fleet of Vessels are now as high as New Castle. Last Night a large Body of the Enemy came from Philad^a, and have erected a Battery near the mouth of Schuylkill. [Billingsport, N.J.]

[October] 8th.—This day went with the admiral up to Billings Port reconnoitring the shipping, &c., and Mud, or Fort Island. This evening a smart cannonade from the galleys, and, as we supposed, a battery of ours newly erected at the hospital opposite to Mud Island on the Pennsylvania Shore.¹

1. This hospital, also known as the Pest House, was located on Province Island. Until the British occupation of Philadelphia the Pest House had been a place of reception for the sick and wounded of the Pennsylvania Navy. A battery composed of two iron 18-pounders was erected there but was not completed until 14 Oct. VICE ADMIRAL VISCOUNT HOWE TO PHILIP STEPHENS

Number 38.

Eagle In the Delaware

October the 8th: 1777.

Sir,
On my Entrance into this River the 4th. Instant, I received your several Letters with the Orders from the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty sent in the Bristol and Experiment which arrived at New York with the Zebra, Buffalo and the Ships under their Convoy the 25th: of last Month: The Dates and purport of them being as noted in the Schedule annexed.

The Warrants to the Vice Admiralty Court in Nova Scotia, New York, Bermuda and East Florida, will be forwarded according to their Lordship's Intentions by the earliest Opportunit[ies].

The Purchase professed to have been made by Noel Virant de Castelane, appearing to have been transacted with Persons then resident, and in actual Rebellion, in the Province of New York, the whole of the proceeding was held to be fraudulent and illegal. The Petitioner was not kept in Suspense for a longer Time than he required to collect the Proofs in Support of his Claim; being immediately informed of the Exceptions to the pretended Validity thereof; And the Vessel was stopped in consequence, and employed as a Seizure for the King's Service. It is true that he frequently renewed his Application for the Vessel to be restored; But no just Cause having appeared for making any Change in the former Decision, the Vessel was not surrendered to him.

The original Commission appointing the Rear Admiral Sir Peter Parker to that Rank, having been transmitted to him and received; I have herewith returned the Duplicate which arrived in the Bristol.¹ The special Commission for taking the Command of His Majesty's Fleet stationed at Jamaica, and Instructions with the other Documents enclosed therewith, will be forwarded to him, And he will immediately proceed for that Island, as soon as he can be consistently relieved from the Charge of the Detachment under his Orders, employed at and adjacent to Rhode Island.

The Viper not being yet returned from the S^t Laurence, and Lieutenant John Graves² (appointed to succeed the present Commander in that Sloop³) having had Leave to return to England, upon his Application to that Effect, (of which he was directed to acquaint their Lordships upon his Arrival) I am unable to obey their Lordships Commands in those respects. I nevertheless retain the Commission until their Lordships are pleased to signify their further Intentions therein; Or that I hear of the Return of the Viper to Europe, if the Captain should be so directed.

Their Lordships having in their Approval of the Appointments made by Vice Admiral Young in the Ships of the American Squadron signified their Sense, of their Customary and special Assignment of the particular Ships which are to constitute the Squadrons destined to be employed under the Direction of the respective Commanding Officers on the different Stations abroad; And, in the same manner, their Sense of their Instructions [to] those several Commanders for nominating to the Vacancies, limited, as I always conceived to the Ships of their respective Squadrons so defined: I have only to report on the Matter of your Letter of the 25th of June; that I shall communicate to the Officers present, their Lordships pleasure to confirm them in the Employments to which I had appointed them that they may not suffer any Disappointment on that Occasion.

The Captain of the *Zebra*⁴ dying the Night of his Arrival at New York, Lieutenant Orde⁵ of the Eagle has been nominated to that Vacancy. I am [&c.]

In the River Delaware October the 8th. 1777.

Sir

Being at that Time absent from New York, I did not receive the Honor of your Excellency's Letter dated the 12th. of August¹ and brought by the Chevalier de Fagan,² until several Days after he left the King's American Dominions.

As I should be happy in having an Opportunity to assure your Excellency of my Respect, I cannot but approve of the early Attention the Commodore Hotham testified to your Wishes,³ by the immediate Dismission of the French Seamen navigating the Vessels engaged in an illicit Commerce with the King's rebellious Subjects in these Provinces.

It is with Concern I collect from the Tenor of your Excellency's Letter, that some of them have been endeavouring to impose upon your Humanity by Falsehoods or studied misrepresentations such as they had before not scrupled to allege for colouring their purpose of assisting a people in Arms against their Prince: In a manner that must be deemed highly criminal by a Nation attached to it's Sovereigns, and therefore leaves no Doubt of the Sense that will be entertained of their Conduct at the Court of France. THOMAS MCKEAN TO GEORGE WASHINGTON

[Extract]

Sir,

... John Pierpoint (who seemed willing enough to tell all he knew) informed me, that the Delaware frigate was given up by the pressed men on board, that there were but two brass cannon, 12 pounders, fired from the fort upon the frigate, and but one man killed in the fort, and one in the frigate; that she was manned with English & lay above the Town on Sunday morning when he came away. . . . A Mr^r Husbands told me, he saw upwards of two thousand troops at Chester on Monday last escorting waggons, that were loaded from 13 ships, which lay there—that 4 men of war were then at the Chevaux de frize, and that 250 Hessians, who had crossed Schuylkill on the same day, proceeding down the neck towards Delaware, it was supposed to forage & plunder &c. . . . with the utmost regard [&c.]

MARYLAND COUNCIL TO JESSE HOLLINGSWORTH

Sir.

In Council Annapolis 8th. Oct^r 1777.

We expected the Carpenters Work & Iron Work were done to Cap^t Coursey's Galley¹ and thought that something was done towards the Rigging as M^r Smith furnished the Sails of a Brigg which, we understood were to be applied that Way, but we would have her thrown down & cleaned immediately and fitted with such Things as are absolutely necessary, the Times will not allow any Thing that can be done without. We have drawn an Order in your Favour for one Thousand Pounds. As to Advances for Rum, we have several Times spoke on that Article, and, if any has been supplied, since the last Account, we request you'll settle it with the Officers who had it, for we shall not consent to charge the Public with it. We are desirous of paying the Officers & Men monthly, or, as often as is convenient but when Money is drawn for Pay, our Method is to do it on a proved Pay Roll; nor will we agree to do it in any other Manner. We are willing to leave a reasonable Sum of Money in advance, in the Officers Hands & have drawn & will draw Orders at any Time, on Application & approving the Use it is to be put to, and, by this Method, we can have the Accounts settled from Time to Time, but we repeat our former Request that you will not advance large Sums to any of our Officers and hope you will attend to it. We are &^{ca}.

RICHARD HOARE AND OTHER INHABITANTS OF ST. GEORGE'S CAY, BAY OF HONDURAS, TO VICE ADMIRAL CLARK GAYTON

Sir,

We have often heretofore addressed the Commanders in chief on the Jamaica Station respecting our complaints against our Neighbours the Spaniards, in particular we crave your reference to ours of 16th: Aug^r: 1777 by the diligence Captⁿ. Cotes—We are now to lay before You a circumstance which threatens no less than the entire ruin and distruction of this settlement as a trading Community, and we hope that what we are at present will from its great importance merit your attention and claim your earliest assistance, the particulars are as follows

On the 12th: day of last Month an American privateer Sloop called the General Washington mounting Eight Carriage Guns and twelve Swivels¹ came to an Anchor towards evening in the Harbor of St Georges Kay disguised under the appearance of a Merchant Vessel—Some of the Principal Inhabitants of this Kay considering her in that light went on board and were immediatly made prisoners, but soon after were permitted to go on Shore except one of the Number who was retained as an hostage for the safe return of the Commander Hezekiah Anthony, who also came on shore. Soon after his landing being met by a Number of the Inhabitants he was questioned respecting his intentions here; and made answer that he had no hostile Intentions against the Settlers whom he wou'd not Molest in their persons or properties provided he was furnished with such supplies as he wanted, and they to remain quiet and pacific; but, that in case of refusal or opposition he would consider them as open Enemies and lay their Habitation in ashes. Circumstanced as we then were, we had no other alternative than compliance with his demands which being limited chiefly to some Rum he was that evening Supplied and then went on board and returned the Hostage to this Kay—Early on the next morning (having the night before carried off a pilot) he got under way and proceeded for the River Sherboon² and that afternoon made prizes of three British Vessels the Ship Spiers of Glasgow, John Lawmont Master, a loaded Vessel which he took not far from Sherboon under way on the Voyage homeward, The Brig Ann Isaac Lawes Master, and the Brig Nancy Edward Dawson Master both of London and then laying moored off the Mouth of said River³—Next morning he got under way carrying the three Vessels with him and proceeded to Sea by the Main through the southern Channel—We have further to observe that said Hezekiah Anthony informed us he meant to make our harbor a place of Rendezvouze hereafter, that we might expect to be visited by other American privateers but for whose conduct to the inhabitants he could not be answerable—This Sir is what we have to lay before You, and we trust when our critical situation is duly considered, open as we are to the depredations of every Rover prohibited by treaty from erecting Fortifications for our defence, and destitute of all other resources but such as we may derive from the Commanders of His Majesty's Squadron at Jamaica, that You will clearly perceive the absolute Necessity of ordering down a Ship of War for the protection of our Trade, and safety of this Settlement, which otherwise must inevitably fall a prey to any Armed Force that may think proper to come against us In short Sir, we are now in the most distressful situation imaginable; by this Capture made in our very harbors we foresee our trade entirely ruined, our properties daily exposed to the most imminent risque & ourselves unprovided with the means of self defence from almost a Total want of Arms and Ammunition, under such melancholy circumstances where can we apply for relief and protection but to You—We would humbly observe that shou'd it prove incompatible with such part of His Majesty's Service as You have now more immediately in charge to order a Man of War for our Relief, an Armed Vessel of twelve Guns well supplied with a sufficient Quantity of Arms and ammunition to put into the hands of the Inhabitants in case of an attack, would with their assistance be sufficient to repel any force we are at present apprehensive of and should such an armed Vessel remain here until relieved by another, it wou'd give stability to our Trade, and such security to the settlers, as would induce them to pursue their business with Vigour and Industry. We hope there need be no occasion to enlarge further on the fatal consequences to be apprehended from this Settlement's remaining any longer in it's present defenceless State. If speedy protection is not afforded for the support of trade and safety of the Properties of His Majesty's Subjects settled here what else can they think, but that being Neglected they are deemed unworthy of protection and devoted to Ruin—But we firmly trust when the importance of the Trade of this Settlement is attentively considered and the Number and properties of His Majesty's Subjects here attached to and connected only with the Mother Country, it will plead in their favor and merit the protection required, shou'd it prove otherwise, then there is an end to this settlement—We have thus far, Sir, done our duty by hiring a Vessel at a very considerable expence to give You the earliest intelligence possible of this affair and sincerely hope You will comply with the petition of the Inhabitants by sending such immediate aid as they stand in need of—We request Your Answer as soon as possible—The Master of this Vessel has our Instructions to remain at Jamaica 10 days or longer if You require it, and immediately on receipt of your dispatches to make the best of his way for Honduras that the inhabitants may be timely certified how far they may trust to protection from You. We have the honor to be [&c.]

LORD MACARTNEY TO DON MANUEL FALQUEZ

(Copy)

Grenada S^t Georges
Sir

October 8th 1777

I have the honor of addressing myself to your Excellence on occasion of an affair which has lately happen’d at Tobago one of the Islands under my Government; A pirate named Paschal Bonavitta, by birth a Corsican, a few days since carried off by force of Arms, thirty seven Negros and two Caribs belonging to M^r Meyers and M^r Kelly, of the said Island and landed them in Trinidad.

It is unnecessary for me to mention to your Excellence that the affording an Asylum or protection in your Government to such a Villain, after a Crime of this nature, would be equally contrary to the law of Nations and to the peace and good understanding which now Subsist between our Respective Sovereigns.

Being persuaded that this affair cant as yet have come to your Excellence’s knowledge, I have the honor to Communicate it to you, not in the least doubting that your Excellency will order the thirty seven Negros and two Caribs, to be immediately restored. I am besides to expect from the Justice of your Excellence, that you will order the abovementioned pirate Paschall Bonavitta to be delivered up to me to answer for his Crimes, or at least that you will have him punished in a manner adequate to his deserts. I must acquaint your Excellency that this Villain has committed so many Robberies in these Seas, that there is not one of the West India Islands, whether English or French, in which he would not immediately be hanged if he were caught.

In order to Claim and demand the Restoration of these 37 Negros and two Caribs, and the Delivery up to me, or at least the Exemplary punishment of the said pirate Paschal Bonavitta, I have the honor to dispatch this Letter by Don Gulielmo Fooks, Captain Commanding a Ship of War, belonging to the King my Master. I at the same time send M^r Meyers, one of the proprietors of the Slaves which were carried off, to wait upon your Excellency and to explain the affair in the fullest manner

As a Robbery and Piracy of this kind might be attended with the most serious consequences, if not immediately put a Stop to, I submit to your Excellency's Consideration, how much all Nations are interested in uniting against every attempt of this nature In addressing myself to your Excellence I flatter myself I shall meet with every facility and assistance on your part and you may be assured of an Equal return on mine in every similar occasion.

I take the Liberty of Recommending Captain Fooks to your Excellency's particular attention & Civilities and have the honor to be [&c.]

October 9

CAPTAIN SIR GEORGE COLLIER, R.N., TO PHILIP STEPHENS

Rainbow in Halifax Harbor 9th. October 1777.

Sir

In my Letter to You of the 16th. August¹ from Machias in New England, I gave their Lordships an Account of my having destroyed three Magazines & a great quantity of warlike Stores at that Place, which the Rebels had collected for the purpose of supplying the Army intended to invade Nova Scotia, which by this Stroke I hope is now effectually secured for the Winter.

I sail'd from thence the Day following with the Hope, leaving His Majesty's Ship Blonde at Machias to intercept some Vessels with Stores & Provisions that were expected there from Boston; I cruized along the Coasts of New England & New Hampshire, going sometimes into the Enemy's Harbors, & keeping the Militia & Troops in continual Alarm; which I hope had the good Effect of preventing many of them from joining the Rebel Army collecting against Gen^l Burgoyne,—at Townsend,² & near it I took & destroyed at different Times three Brigs, eleven Sloops & Fifteen Schooners;—two of the Brigs & three of the small Vessels were Captures the Rebels had made, the rest were principally loaden with Wood &c for their Western Ports, which will distress them very much & the more as they always return back with Flour & Provisions for the Eastern Settlements.

Having authentic Intelligence that a Ship loaden with large Masts for France³ was ready to Sail from Sheeps-cut River, I thought it highly necessary to attempt at any Hazard to take or destroy her; unluckily the Hope had seperated from me in Chace, & not appearing in three Days at the Rendezvous I had given Cap^t Dawson,⁴ I took the Resolution (as our Sick who amounted to 72 were every Day encreasing,) to go up the River with the Rainbow alone: the Pilot consenting to carry the Ship in, in the Night, I entered the Mouth of it about Eleven o'Clock of the 9th. of Septem^r, but a heavy Gale of Wind coming on about Midnight at SE with Rain, occasioned the Pilot from the thickness of the Weather to mistake the Channel, & run us into another Branch call'd the Oven's Mouth, where however we anchor'd about two in the Morning, without any ill consequence, tho' there was hardly room for the Ship to swing.

The Ovens Mouth is about Ten Miles from the entrance of the River, & the Mast Ship was 18 or 20 Miles higher than where we lay: the Success of the Enterprize depended upon boarding Her before she knew of our being in the River, I therefore instantly sent away a Flat bottom Boat which I had previously barricaded, & the Cutter both mann'd & arm'd, under the Command of Lieu^t. Haynes,⁵ assisted by Lieu^t. Dalton,⁶ & the Marines commanded by Lieu^t. Welsh:⁷—having three Hours Flood still, & a very fresh Wind up the River, I had no doubt of their getting Possession of the Ship before Daylight.

So soon as the Tide slackened we warp'd the Ship out of her dangerous Birth, & then proceeded up the River to a Town called Witchcastle [Wiscasset] about 24 Miles from the entrance, & as high as the Rainbow could safely be carried.

I sent a Flag of Truce ashore to demand the Delivery of two Pieces of Cannon which I understood were in the Town, together with the Rigging & Sails of the Mast Ship, signifying to the Inhabitants that upon their ready Compliance, & their not committing any Act of Hostility, I would spare the Town & their private Property.

I receiv'd a Letter from a Judge of one of their Courts in Answer acquainting me, that the Mast Ship was near four Miles higher up the River, & in possession of my Men, together with one of the Pieces of Cannon I required, that the other was carried off, where, He could not learn; that the Rigging & Sails were not in the Town, being taken away some Time before.

As soon as 'twas Dark I sent another Boat with an Anchor & Hawser to assist in bringing the Ship down, but She return'd some Time after not being able to get higher than the Narrows (two Miles) without Danger of losing many of the Boats Crew by the Musketry of the Rebels, who had taken Post there: about 11 PM we heard a brisk Firing which continued half an Hour & then ceased, & about Midnight the Flat Boat & Cutter return'd on board.—Lieu^t. Haynes gave me an Account that He had proceeded up the River & got Possession of the Ship without the least Opposition soon after Day light in the midst of a heavy Rain, that observing a Cannon mounted on the Shore near Her, He had landed & brought it off; that He found the Ship in a very intricate Channel, & so near the Shore that She had two fasts to it;—the Rebels assembled & gall'd our People considerably from the adjacent Heights, they built up a Barricado Ten Feet high in the Ship, which sheltered them 'till about Noon, when the Rebels brought down a Piece of Cannon, which obliged 'em to retire into the Hold; that finding from the amazing intricacy of the Channel there was not any likelihood of getting the Ship down, He had in pursuance of my Orders destroy'd Her about Ten at Night, & came away with the Boats as soon as 'twas Dark amidst a brisk Firing of Musketry on both sides the River & the Piece of Cannon;—that when they came to the Narrows the Cutter (who was ahead of the Flat Boat) found herself stopp'd by a Rope (which they directly cut) with which the Rebels were then hawling a Boom across;—That the Boats soon after got aground on a Shoal where they were for some Minutes expos'd to a heavy Fire of Musketry, but the Flat Boat was so well barricaded all round with Hammocks that the Shot had no Effect, & they had the good Fortune to return without the Loss of a Man, & only one wounded: the Lieutenant brought down the Master of the Mast Ship & his Crew Prisoners.

In the Morning we observed the Rebels appeared on the surrounding Shores in pretty large Numbers;—seeing a Raft of Masts floating down I sent a Boat to tow them on board, they consisted of three large Masts & a Mizen Mast for the Mast Ship, which we took in between Decks & brought to Halifax, knowing the great want of them in the Dock Yard there.

All this Day the Weather would not allow of our moving down, as the Channel is extremely narrow & requires a leading Wind;—I was the more concern'd at the Delay from the encreasing Number of the arm'd Rebels, who might be very troublesome in our Passage down, particularly in the Narrows where the Channel is close to the Shore, & the Heights [&] Woods considerably above the Mast heads.

M^r. Rice⁸ coming off with a Flag of Truce, I mentioned to Him my Inclination to spare the Town, provided no Interruption was given us in going down the River;—in Consequence of this one of their Colonels sent off a Message to me by a Lieutenant, that if I would give up the Masts I had taken, release the Prisoners, & restore a small Schooner made a Prize there, He would order in, all his out Partys, & promise no Hostility should be committed against the Ship;—I sent his Messenger ashore with a peremptory Refusal, acquainting Him that I should proceed to Cannonade & destroy the Town in an Hour if they did not agree to the Terms I offered, & advising an immediate Removal of the Women & Children.

A little before the Time expired, I sent Lieu^t. Haynes ashore with a Flag of Truce offering them once more a Neutrality; & a Colonel M^r. Cobb⁹ with whom I had before treated at Townsend being arrived, & becoming commanding Officer, I found Him more reasonable, & on my consenting to spare the Town He promis'd that no Interruption whatever should be given to us.

The next Morning (12th. September) we weigh'd at Daylight, & proceeded down the River without the least Molestation, making the best of our Way to Halifax where we arriv'd on the 2^d. of October with 116 Sick Men on board.

I sent the enclosed Declaration to the Inhabitants of Machias, & the Neighboring Towns,¹⁰ & I have just now had the Satisfaction to be inform'd [in] a Letter from Cap^t. Milligen of the Blonde, that the arm'd Rebels who were at & near Machias are withdrawn, & that they have entirely laid aside the intended Invasion of the Province of Nova Scotia.

The Letter N^o. 2 I had the Honor to receive on my Arrival here a Week ago; I take the Liberty to send [it] for their Lordships Perusal; which with the Resolution of the House of Assembly, signifyed to me by a Committee on the 18th. of June last, (which I likewise enclos'd to You)¹¹ may enable their Lordships to form some Judgment of the Opinion the People of the Province have of my Conduct, since I have had the Honor to direct the Operations of the Kings Ships on this Station. I am [&c.]

The Bienfaisant arrivd here on the 2^d. Instant; She bro^t me a Letter from Vice Admiral Montagu desiring I woud let the Fox (lately retaken) proceed to Newfoundland under the care of Cap^t. Macbride;¹² I have acquainted the Admiral, (Sir,) that I woud comply immediately with his Request, had it been possible; but Commiss^r. Arbuthnot informd me (by Letter) there was no Rope in Store, to fit her out; & her former Rigging is entirely unserviceable.

CAPTAIN HECTOR MCNEILL TO THE CONTINENTAL MARINE COMMITTEE

To the Hon^{bl}. The Marine Committee } of the Continental Congress } Ship Boston at Boston 9th Oct^r 1777
Gentlemen

your Orders of the Sixth ultimo I have rec^d and Shall do my outmost to Execute them with all possible dispatch,¹ we have Shifted our Standing rigging on the Main & Fore Masts Since our arrival and are well on with every other kind of repair of which the Ship Stood in Need, and I propose cleaning her Bottom the Next full Moon as the tides will then fully answer to Lay the Ship ashore, Our main dificualty will be to procure hands—as we are daily robb'd of our, men by both privatiers, & merchant men & the Extravagant wages given by the Latter, & the great Encouragements given by the former—together with Some mismagement amongst our Selves has left us a thin Ship—Nevertheless I hope to get to Sea before the cold weather Sets in in my letter of the 25th of August² I did inform you that Capt Palmes of our Marines was under Arrest, and that I could not See how he could be brought to a Court martial as we were only a Single Ship in this port

Soon as the Navy Board mett here I did apply to them by Letter of the 9th of Sept^r last³ requesting that they would call a Sufficient Number of Officers from providence to Sit on that court martial—also to hold a Court of Enquirey in our proceedings the Last cruize, that all possible Evidence might be collected from our Ships company (before they Scattered.) concerning the Loss of The Hancock and The Fox.

I am now told that the Expedition in Contemplation Against Rhode Island, is the Cause why those officers have not been Ordered here as I requested.

This happens a Little unluckey at present inasmuch as an Example of justice is wanting at this time on persons who Committ such crimes as Capt. Palmes Stands charged with—That other men may See and refraine in time from Such Misdeeds. his crime is—Neglect of duty,—Misapplication of the Ships Stores—disobedience of Orders, and frequent attempts to raise discontent & Mutiny Among the Ships Company.—if either of these crimes be proved against him—I flatter my Self That the Hon^{bl}e Congress will never give him another Commission to Cast into the fire as he did That with which they Once honoured him.

in Consequence of Some altercation between m^r Browne the first L^t and Some of the people on board I have been led to Examine narrowly into his Conduct—which I find So reprehensible That I have this day Suspended him untill the pleasure of Congress be known

I have charged him with Neglect of duty and a Designe of detaining the Ship in port all winter by persuading Some & threatning Others to quit the Ship, So that he may Goe ashore here in ease & idleness some of his predominate vices

Our 2^d L^t. M^r Simon Gross is now a prisoner at Halifax—our third L^t. M^r Hazekiah Welch [is] here, & is determind to abide by the Ship—M^r. William Faris a young man who has Serve'd as a Mate and Midshipman on board is both a Seaman & a Gentleman—him I have appointed to act as a Leiutenant untill it Shall Please the Honb^l Congress to Confirm, or Disapprove, of my choice—The former I Shall look on as a favour; the Latter will not make me uneasey.

a Very Singular instance has turn'd up here which I cannot forbear takeing notice of—when the Agents advertized in the publick prints that the Bostons Prize Money was to be paid I published the following order on board the Ship which I cause'd to be placarded in the most publick place of the Ship—

The Officers, Mates, & Midshipmen of the Ship Boston, are to produce fair Copys of their Journals Signed by their own hand, in order to entitle them to their wages and prize money for the Said Ship

Ship Boston 17th Sep^r: 1777

H. M^cN

The above order gave offence to Severall of our officers, and they refuse'd to give in their Jounals—on which I Stop'd the payment of their prize Money. as for m^r Palmes 'tho I Expected no Journal of him, yet as he was under Arrest I thought proper to detain his untill his fate was decided by Court martial

In this case those Gentlemen found themselves a Little Embarras'd and tho they would not acknowledge my authority over them So much as to render Copys of their Journals, yet they found that I had Stop'd payment of their prize mony untill they Should Comply with that Order—

Mess^{rs} Vernon & Deshon of the Navy Board being at this time up at Providence M^r. Palmes went thither and Sollicited an order to Obtain the prize money for himself, M^r Browne & M^r Furlong, the Master—by his false representations of Facts he amuse'd Those Gentlemen So much That they wrote to the Honb^lc Gen^l Warren requesting that he would take Some Steps with the Agents to Oblige them to pay those men their Shares whither I would or not—This was not all but the most Extrordinary Step was that They also preposed to appoint M^r Palmes to go on board the Warren at Providence as Capt. of Marines,⁴ & to Shift the Capt. of Marines of that Ship into the Boston—and all this to be done without takeing Notice of the Arrest under which Capt. Palmes had been ever Since the 10th of Aug^t last.

This I must Complain of as a most unprecedented Step—never was a man taken from under Arrest & proffer'd to any other Employment without first undergoing a Court Martial. Nor is it possible that ever good order Should Exist in armies, or fleets, without takeing care to punish, cashier, or repremand; Such as Shall on due trial be found guilty of Such offences—if precedents of this kind be permitted once to [take] place—farewell Discipline & good Order, farewell Honour & honesty, The Service will then become a recepticall for unclean kinds who will hereby be Encouraged to take Shelter there—and all men of good principals will totally forsake—

Who the man is whom these Gentlemen propose to put on board the Boston in Palmes his room, comeing from the Warren—I cannot tell, but I hear he cannot Live on board the Warren—'tis an Old Proverb, that two cheats make the bargain even—but my determination is, never to receive a turn'd over Officer from another Ship without he having an ample certificate in his hand from his former Commander—This I know to be consistant with good dicipline & common honesty & nothing but a resolve of Congress to the contrary will prevail with me to alter my opinion,

God, & nature has Said—That one head is indispenibly Necessary on board of a Ship—on that head or principal person, every other, must have Such a Measure of dependance as will urge them to Obey his commands with chearfulness—his Authourity over his officers & men Should be Such as to render all his Lawfull commands not only their duty but their Entrest to Obey them without hesitation,—in this channell a Ship full of men may be Governed by a prudent man with ease & certainty—but if ever his authourity be disputed by a Second person—a third and a fourth will arise—Consequently the whole will run into Anarchy & Confusion to return to the duty of officers with respect to producing Journals—I must Say that I know of no Sea Service in the world where officers are Exempted from this so interesting a piece of duty

Copys of their Journals must be produced at the pay office, with their Captains certificates of their Services Otherwise they can Expect neither pay nor prize money—but as we in our Service are frequently in advance for our officers over and above their wages—their prize money is the only cheque we have upon them—This I think will Justify my proceedings in Stopping their Shares, ~~until the~~ for the reasons already given—not only this but I will aver that there Never was a Ship on the Continent Either publick or private, whose prize money was paid so soon, & so faithfully as ours has been

I must now beg leave to give my Opinion respecting marine officers for Such Ships as ours So much hamperd for want of room—I think in concience a Subeltern is Enough, three Marine officers, takes up so much room to accomodate them that we are pinch'd beyound [Reason] to afford it—then they have Little or no duty to do—are always in the way & apt to disagree with the Sea officers So that it takes much trouble to mannage them—then they run away with So much of the prize money from Officers who are realy usefull—That 'tis painfull to hear the murmerings it Occasions might it not be proper to Lessen their number down to one on board the frigates and give what the other two did Enjoy between the Chaplin & Surgⁿ.

Sure I am that you must alter the System for the Surgeons in the fleet—otherwise you will not have one man of abillity, in the Service.

I have a young man with me whose Name is William Lamb—in case you think proper to appoint only one Marine officer for our Ship he well deserves the preference and I should take it as a favour—

A young French Gentleman (his Name is Peter Cavey) who was with us as a Vol-untier last cruize Appears fond of a Brevet for a Leiutenancy of Marines—if it be Consistant to let him to let him have what he desires, 'twill make him Very happy—I mention this at his request & partly as a recompence for his warm wishes for the welfare of this country—

This will be handed you by Doctor Linn the Surgeon of our Ship whom I must beg leave to recommend to your particular Notice I am Gentlemen &c

I cannot Close this Letter without acquainting you That I am Now upwards of three thousand dollars in advance for the Ship, not haveing rec^d one farthing Since my arival either to pay off the Old hands or Engage new ones—this has everlastingly been my case Since I have been with the Ship—the Service I have Ever been Obligated to cary on unsuported—so that I am weary of Such work; as both the publick credit, and mine owne have Suffered for want of due Supplis—

CAPTAIN HECTOR MCNEILL TO JOHN ADAMS

Sir

This will be handed you by Doctor John L Linn the Surgeon of our Ship,¹ he goes to Congress with design to represent the hardships himself and others in that Capacity suffer at present from the inadequate appointments of Surgeons on board the Navy.

I think that instead of crowding our Ships with Marine Officers,² who are only a burthen, and of no Service in life on board a Ship—'twoud be well to give the Surgeons more encouragement, and reduce their number to one Subaltern on board the frigates; then let the Surgeon Share with the Lieutenants & Master, in place of the Capt: of Marines who is as useless a peice of furniture on board a Ship as a broken pair of Bellows at a Fire Side.

How long shall we Languish here for want of Support—Here am Struggling with difficultys inumerable, and want of Cash has ever been our Lot since I have been in the Service.

I was at one time last Spring four thousand pounds in advance for the Ship—I am now more than three thousand Dollars in advance and all this without fee or reward.

I must confess that I am weary of such work—May I ask the favour of you—to think of me a Little now and then, if matters of greater importance will permit your thoughts to range so far from your daily Toils.—

May God Strengthen your hearts in this day of Trial, and save our Country by his almighty power.—Your most Obedient Servant,

MAJOR GENERAL ISRAEL PUTNAM TO MAJOR GENERAL HORATIO GATES

[Extract]

Dear Gen^l:

Fish Kill Oct^r 9th. 1777

In my letter of yesterday I acquainted you of the Enemy's having possession of Fort Montgomery—yesterday they proceeded up the River with their Ships Gally's¹ Flatt Bottom^d. Boats &^c: and landed a Body at Fort Constitution, took possession of that Post—and play'd round the Chevaux, De Frieze a Little, I expect any moment to have Information that they are advancing up—

Govenor Clinton is on the West side the River with about 400 Continental Troops which I sent him Yesterday, and is exerting himself in Collecting the Malitia—If they attempt by land on that side, he will oppose and annoy them as much as possible—If this side should be their object, I shall with the remainder of the Continental Troops, and the Connecticut Malitia (which I am happy to Inform you came in yesterday and the day before in great Numbers but sorry to say they already begin to Run away) oppose them every way in my power—Certain it is that they mean at all events to Join Gen^l Burgoyne, without Delay, they are on a Desperate point, and I dare say their orders are positive to Join the Northern Army at all Risques—General Clinton Commands them in person, he has two General Officers with him, and I believe between five and Six thousand men; if they should proceed by Water I shall do every thing in my power to arrive at Albany before them—Weighing the Chevaux, De Frieze, I dont think is a matter of any moment to them, they can take a fair Wind and with their Flatt Bottomd Boats (which have all Sailed) go to Albany on half Moon with great expedition, and I believe without any opposition—

Would it not be a matter of great Importance, to send, (if you can possibly spare them) a Detachment from your Army towards Albany, on some advantageous Ground to prevent them getting between you and me—for if they should come on your Rear, the situation of your Army would be Disagreeable—. . . . I am [&c.]

GOVERNOR GEORGE CLINTON TO GEORGE WASHINGTON

New Windsor 3 Miles from the River

9th. Octo^r. 1777—

Dear General

I have to inform you that in Consequence of Intelligence received by General Putnam from Gen^l. Parsons (who lay with his Brigade at the White Plains) of the Enemy's having received a Reinforcement from Europe, at New York, and that by their Movements there was Reason to believe they intended an Attack on Peekskill, and possess themselves of the Passes in the Highlands.—The General immediately wrote me these Circumstances: and to prevent, if possible, the disagreeable Consequences that might arise if the Army at the different Posts, was not timely reinforced, I ordered that Part of the Militia of this State that had not already marched to the Northward, to move, and Part of them to join General Putnam, and the Remainder to reinforce the Posts of Fort Montgomery and Fort Clinton; but it being a critical Time with the Yeomanry, as they have not yet sown their Grain and there being at that Time no Appearance of the Enemy, they were extremely restless and uneasy, solicited General Putnam for Leave to return, and many of them went home without his Permission; urged by these Considerations he thought proper to dismiss a Part of them.—As I thought it essentially necessary that they should remain in the Field for some Time in Order to check the Progress of the Enemy should they attempt to put their Designs in Execution, I issued another Order, for one half of them immediately to march, Part of them to join General Putnam and a sufficient Number to reinforce the Forts and the Pass at Sydman's Bridge at the Mouth of the Clove; and in Order to induce them to turn out with the greater Alacrity, I thought it necessary to fix their Time of Service to one Month, at the Expiration of which Time they were to be relieved by the other half—While this was in agitation, and before a proper Arrangement could possibly be made by the respective Officers, what Part of them could serve for the first Month, in which they were not so expeditious as was absolutely necessary, as the Event has fully evinced. For a Number of the Enemy's Ships having made their Appearance on the 3^d. Inst^t. in Tarry Town Bay from whence they weighed Anchor the next Day, being joined by several Ships of War and Transports from New York. They proceeded up the River as high as King's Ferry, and at Day-break on Sunday the 5th. landed a considerable Body of Men on Verplank's Point. As I was apprehensive from many Circumstances that an Attack on the Forts was intended, I dispatched Major Logan,¹ an alert Officer, who was well acquainted with the Ground on Sunday Evening thro' the Mountain to reconnoitre and if possible gain Intelligence of the Enemy's Motions—The Major returned about nine O'Clock on Monday, informing me that from the best Intelligence he could procure, and the rowing of the Boats, he had Reason to believe they had landed a considerable Force on the West Side of the River at King's Ferry, and between that and Dunderbergh: But as the Morning was foggy it was impossible to discern them so as to form any Judgement of their Numbers.—As soon as I had obtained this Intelligence I immediately dispatched Lieu^t. Jackson² with a small Party to discover the Enemy's Movements; But they had not proceeded more than two Miles on the Haverstraw Road when they were attacked by a Party of the Enemy who had formed an Ambuscade at a Place called Doodle Town—they immediately retreated after returning the Fire—as soon as the firing was heard I detached Lieu^t. Colo. Bruyn³ with 50 Continental Troops and as many of the Militia under Lieu^t. Colonel M^cLaughry⁴ to sustain Lieu^t. Jackson, the Garrison being at that Time so weak we could not afford them greater Aid on that Road, and I imagined it would be necessary to send out a Party likewise on the Road which leads to the Forest of Dean. The Detachments under Colonels Bruyn and M^cLaughry were soon engaged, but being too weak to withstand the Enemy's great Force retreated to Fort Clinton, disputing the Ground Inch by Inch. Their gallant Opposition and the Roughness of the Ground checked the Progress of the Enemy for some Time. While Matters were in this Situation in the Neighbourhood of Fort Clinton, a large Body of the Enemy were advancing on the Road which leads from the Forest of Dean to Fort Montgomery—As I had only one Field Piece at the above Fort, I ordered Col^o. Lamb⁵ of the Artillery to send it off to an advantageous Post on that Road, with a Covering Party of 60 Men, and another of the same Number to sustain them in Order to give the Enemy a check and retard their Movements 'till I could receive a Reinforcement from Gen^l. Putnam to whom I had sent an Express for that Purpose. This Order being immediately complied with the Piece had hardly reached the Place of it's Destination and the Covering Party posted on strong Ground, when the Enemy were seen advancing with hasty Strides, but being unexpectedly annoyed by Discharges of Grape Shot from the Field Piece, and a well-directed Fire from the Musquetry, which made great Havock among them, (as we have since been informed) they were repeatedly driven back 'till filing off thro' the Woods upon the right and left with a View of surrounding our Men, and the Handful of brave Fellows being alarmed at their critical Situation were constrained to abandon the Field Piece after rendering it useless to the Enemy by spiking it. In Order to cover the Men who were retreating and to check the farther Progress of the Enemy I ordered out a twelve Pounder, which being well served with Grape Shot annoyed them greatly and gave the Men an Opportunity of retreating into the Garrison with very little Loss on our Side; except that of Capt: Lieu^t. Fenno,⁶ who commanded the Field Piece, and was made a Prisoner. This was about two O'Clock P:M. and the Enemy approached the Works and began the Attack, which continued with few Intervals till about five OClock when an Officer appeared with a Flag. I ordered L^t. Colo. Livingston⁷ to meet him without the Works and know his Business. Colo^l. Livingston, having demanded his Rank and Business, he was told by the Bearer of the Flag that he was a Lieu^t. Colo^l. Campble,⁸ and that he came to demand a surrender of the Fort to prevent the Effusion of Blood. Colo^l. Livingston replied he had no authority to treat with him, but if they would surrender themselves Prisoners of War, they might depend on being well treated, and if they did not chuse to accept of those Terms they might renew the Attack as soon as he should return within the Fort, we being determined to defend it to the last Extremity. As soon as L^t. Co^l. Livingston returned the Attack was renewed with great Violence, and after as obstinate a Resistance as our Situation, and the Weakness of the Garrison would admit of, having defended the Works from two OClock 'till the Dusk of the Evening, when the Enemy, by the Superiority of Numbers, forced the Works on all Sides—The Want of Men prevented us from sustaining and supporting every Part, having received no Reinforcement from General Putnam. Our Loss killed, wounded and Prisoners is not so great as might have been expected, when the Strength of the Enemy and our Weakness is properly considered. My Brother Wounded with a Bayonet many Officers and Men, and myself, having the Advantage of the Enemy, by being well acquainted with the Ground, were so fortunate as to effect an Escape under cover of the Night, after the Enemy were possessed of all the Works. I was so happy as to get into a Boat, crossed the River, and immediately waited on General Putnam, with a View of concerting measures for our future Operations, to prevent the Designs of Gen^l Clinton and impede his Progress in facilitating the Movements of Burgoyne from the Northward. I can assure your Excellency that I am well convinced if Night had not approached rather too fast to correspond with our Wishes the Enemy would have been disappointed in their Expectations, as a Reinforcement of 500 Men from General Putnam's Army were at the East Side of the River ready to pass for our Relief when the Works were forced, and many of the Militia in the Mountains on their March to join us, had not the Communication between us and them been cut off.—

I have to add that by some Fatality the two Continental Frigates were lost, they having been ordered down by Gen^l: Putnam for the Defence of the Chain; but being badly manned they could not be got off in Time, though I ordered the Ship Congress to proceed to Fort Constitution the Day before the Attack, lest she should meet with a Disaster; and the Ship Montgomery, which lay near the Chain, having neither Anchors nor Cables to secure her, it being the Tide of ebb, and the Wind failing, she fell down so near the Chain, that Captⁿ. Hodge⁹ was constrained to set her on Fire to prevent her falling into the Hands of the Enemy, and the Congress unfortunately getting aground on a Flat near Fort Constitution shared the same Fate,¹⁰ And Fort Constitution being destitute of Troops to defend it was evacuated, after bringing off Part of the Stores—I am now about 3 miles from New Windsor, with Col^o. Samuel B. Webb's Regt. of Continental Troops, the Remains of Co^l. DuBois's,¹¹ and about 100 of Col^l. Lamb's Regiment which escaped from the Fort (with some Militia) and intend to collect what Force I possibly can to oppose the Enemy should they land on this Side the River.—

General S^r Henry Clinton commanded in Person. Governor Tryon,¹² Gen^l. Vaughan¹³ and two other General Officers were with him. The Army who attacked us by the lowest Accounts consisted of 4000, chiefly British and Hessian troops. The Garrison of both our Posts did not exceed 600 Men, and many of these unarmed Militia. The ordinary Garrison was thus reduced by detaching Major Moffat with 200 Men to the Post at Sidman's Bridge an[d] Col^o. Malcom's Regim^l being ordered from thence, and 60 Men on Anthony's Nose by Gen^l. Putnam's Orders received the Day before the Action. I have only to add that where great Losses are sustained, howev unavoidable, public Censure is generally the Consequence to those who are immediately concerned. If in the present Instance this should be the Case I wish so far as relates to the Loss of Fort Montgomery and it's Dependencies it may fall on me alone; for I would be guilty of the greatest Injustice were I not to declare that the Officers and Men under me of the different Corps behaved with the greatest Spirit and Bravery.—I am [&c.]

Geo Clinton

I have not yet been able to ascertain the Number of Missing on our side—Part of the Garrison were Militia from whom it is difficult to get Returns—Lieu^t Col^{os} Livingston [and] Bruyn, Majors Logan & Hammill are Prisoners, Col^o. Allison¹⁴ Lieu^t Col^l McClaghry of the Militia & my Brigade Major Lush¹⁵ are missing—I hope my peculiar Situation will be a sufficient Appology for not writing your Excellency sooner especially as I had Gen^l Putnam's Promise to give you an early Acc^t of this Important Event—I inclose your Excellency a Letter from Gen^l Sir Henry Clinton to Gen^l Bur-

COMMODORE WILLIAM HOTHAM TO VICE ADMIRAL VISCOUNT HOWE

(Copy.)

Preston off Peek's Kill Creek
9th: October 1777.

My Lord

Sir Henry Clinton having thought it advisable to make a Diversion at this Juncture up the North River, and the necessary Arrangements being made in consequence; The Flat Boats and Batteaux on the 3^d: Instant proceeded to Spikendevil Creek in three Divisions under the Captains Pownoll,¹ Jordan² and Stanhope;³ Captain Pownoll having the Direction of the whole.

A Body of about 1100 Troops were embarked in them that Evening, and the same Night proceeded to Tarry Town, where they landed at Day-Break, and occupied the Heights adjoining; a second Division, nearly of that Number, marched out at the same Time from King's Bridge, and formed a Junction by Land, with those who passed by Water.

The Squadron under Captain Ommanney had moved up the day before to receive them: The smaller part of it, namely the Gallies and Armed Vessels⁴ (as they might be to act separately) I thought it advisable upon this Occasion to make a distinct Command; and could not place them better than under the Direction of Sir James Wallace, whose Knowledge of the River, as well as Captain Ommanney's we fully experienced the Advantage of.

The third Division of Troops were embarked in Transports, and on the 4th: in the Morning left New York under Convoy of the Preston, and in the course of the same Tide arrived off Tarry Town.

The General Embarkation was that Night made and the Wind being still favorable, the whole, preceded by the Squadron under Sir James Wallace as an advanced Guard, reached Verplanks Point at Noon the Day following, and those in the Flat Boats landed, with the Appearance only of an Opposition; Sir James Wallace was immediately dispatched higher up the River to cut off the Enemy's Communication by Peek's Kill Ferry.

The 6th: at Day-Break the general Debarkation took place, and all the Troops except about 400, who were left to secure Verplank's Neck, were soon landed at Stoney Point upon the opposite Shore from whence they had about twelve Miles to march through a mountainous and rugged Road, to Fort Clinton and Montgomery.

The Ships and Transports then moved higher up, and anchored opposite Peek's Kill Landing.

In the Afternoon the advanced Squadron and the two Frigates⁵ got under Sail and opened Fort Montgomery, with a View only to make an Appearance and thereby to cause a Diversion in favour of the Attack which we observed had now begun. Sir James [by] the help of his Oars got near enough in with the Gallies to throw some Shot into the Fort. The Cannonading and Fire of Musketry continued until Night, when by a most spirited Exertion, a general and vigorous Assault was made, and the two important Forts of Clinton and Montgomery fell by Storm to His Majesty's Arms: on which I have the Honor to congratulate your Lordship most sincerely. The Rebel Frigates are both burnt,⁶ with a Galley;⁷ and a Sloop of Ten Guns⁸ is taken.

The Loss on the Enemy's Side is not yet exactly known, but they are supposed to have had about one hundred killed, and two hundred and fifty taken Prisoners.

The greatest Loss on the Side of the King's Troops, are about forty killed, among whom are some valuable Officers, namely Lieutenant Colonel Campbell,⁹ Major Sill, Major Grant and Captain Stewart, and about one hundred and fifty wounded.

A Summons signed by Sir Henry Clinton and myself, was the next day sent up to Fort Constitution by a Flag of Truce; which, being fired at, returned, and determined the General immediately to correct the Insult by an Attack. An Embarkation was accordingly made on the Morning of the 8th, and proceeded up the River for that purpose, under Cover of the Gallies.

We found upon our Arrival, the Fort had been abandoned in great Confusion; their Barracks burnt, but all their Artillery left. The whole number of Cannon taken in the three Forts amount to Sixty seven, with a large Quantity of Provisions, Ammunition and Stores of all kinds to a very considerable Amount. I have directed such part of the Chain and Boom as cannot be saved, to be destroyed. The Construction of both give strong proofs of Labour, Industry and Skill.

Sir James Wallace with his flying Squadron is gone still higher up the River, and if he passes the Chevaux de Frize at Pollipous Island,¹⁰ he may do essential Service, as there can be nothing to give him any Interruption.

When it is considered that this Attack was made after a most fatiguing March over Precipices, and through Roads almost impenetrable, which made it impossible for the Troops to avail themselves of the Use of Cannon, so necessary for such a purpose And the little Assistance they could therein promise themselves from the Ships, the Access through the Highlands to the Forts rendering the Approach to them so precarious; it redounds the more to the Credit of an Enterprize, which was formed and executed with equal Judgment, Valour and Success.

The Captains, Officers and Men under my Command, have been so strenuously zealous in their Exertions upon this Occasion, that every Testimony is due from me in Approbation of their Conduct during this Service of Fatigue, of which Captain Pownoll has had his Share, and is well able to inform your Lordship of every particular.

Since I had the Honour of writing to your Lordship by the Zebra, the Unicorn, Galatea, Brune and Cerberus arrived, but are all of them in great want of Repairs and Stores. The fifty-gun Ship's people having been employed in the Flat-Boats, will account to your Lordship for their not joining you so soon as you might have expected; but if the General remains any Time here, I shall relieve the Bristol's Flat-Boat men by some of the Frigates, that she may be at Liberty to proceed with the next Express.

I have directed Captain Onslow¹¹ to carry on the current Duty at York until my Return, and am to acquaint You that I have appointed M^r George Stewart, Surgeon's second Mate of the Preston, to act as Surgeon of the Eephant [Elephant], 'till your Lordship's pleasure be known. I have the Honor to be [&c.]

W: Hotham.

P.S. I have the farther pleasure to acquaint your Lordship, that General Tryon is just returned from Continental Village,¹² where he has destroyed Barracks for 1500 Men, with Stores to a considerable Amount.

LIEUTENANT GENERAL SIR HENRY CLINTON TO GENERAL SIR WILLIAM HOWE

Fort Montgomery October 9th. 1777.

Sir,

In the last Letter which I had the Honor to write to your Excellency, I mentioned my Intention with the small Force that could be spared from the important Post you had left under my Command, to make an Attack upon Forts Clinton, Montgomery &c. Your Excellency recollects the Situation of these Forts, that they are seperated by a Creek which comes from the Mountains, and communicate with each other by a Bridge.¹

In my Opinion the only Way of effecting it was by a Coup de Main in the unguarded State they then were. The Commodore and I having made our Arrangements, and every proper Jealousy having been given for every Object but the real one, the little Army, consisting of about 3,000 Men, arrived off Verplancks Point, preceded by the Gallies under the Command of Sir James Wallace.² On our Appearance the Enemy retired without firing a Shot, leaving a Twelve Pounder behind them, and Sir James moved up to Peaks Kill Neck to mask the only Communication they had across the River on this Side of the Highlands.

At Daybreak on the 6th. the Troops disembarked at Stoney Point.³ The Avant Garde of 500 Regulars & 400 Provincials commanded by Lieu^t. Colonel Campbell,⁴ with Colonel Robinson⁵ of the Provincials under him, began its March to occupy the Pass of Thunder Hill;⁶ this Avant Garde after it had passed that Mountain, was to proceed by a detour of seven Miles round the Hill, and Debouchée in the Rear of Fort Montgomery, while General Vaughan, with 1200 Men,⁷ was to continue his March towards Fort Clinton, covering the Corps under Lieut^c Colonel Campbell, and appointed to cooperate by attacking Fort Clinton, or in case of Misfortune to favor the Retreat. Major General Tryon with the Remainder, being the Rear Guard,⁸ to leave a Battalion at the Pass of Thunder Hill to open our Communication with the Fleet.

Your Excellency recollecting the many, and I may say extraordinary Difficulties of this March over the Mountains, every natural Obstruction, and all that Art could invent to add to them, will not be surprized that the Corps intended to attack Fort Montgomery in the Rear, could not get to its Ground before five o'Clock, about which Time I ordered General Vaughans Corps, (appointed to begin the Attack on Fort Clinton) to push if possible and dislodge the Enemy from their advanced Station behind a Stone Breast Work, having in Front for half a Mile a most impenetrable Abbatis, this the General by his good Disposition obliged the Enemy to quit, though supported by Cannon, got Possession of the Wall, and there waited the Motion of the cooperating Troops, when I joined him, and soon afterwards heard Lieut^c Colonel Campbell begin his Attack. I chose to wait a favorable Moment before I ordered the Attack on the Side of Fort Clinton; which was a circular Height, defended by a Line for Musquetry with a Barbet Battery in the Centre of three Guns, and flanked by two Redoubts: The Approaches to it, through a continued Abbatis of 400 Yards, defensive every Inch, and exposed to the Fire of Ten Pieces of Cannon. As the Night was approaching, I determined to seize the first favorable Instant. A brisk Attack on the Montgomery Side; the Gallies with their Oars approaching, firing, and even striking the Fort; the Men of War that Moment appearing,⁹ crowding all Sail to support us; the extreme Ardor of the Troops; in short all determined me to order the Attack; General Vaughans spirited Behaviour and good Conduct did the rest. Having no Time to lose, I particularly ordered that not a Shot should be fired, in this I was strictly obeyed, and both Redoubts &c were Stormed. General Tryon advanced with one Battalion to support General Vaughan in case it might be necessary and he arrived in Time to join in the Cry of Victory Trumbach's Regiment was posted at the Stone Wall to cover our Retreat in case of Misfortune. The Night being dark it was near eight o'Clock before we could be certain of the Success of the Attack against Fort Montgomery, which we found afterwards had succeeded at the same Instant that of Fort Clinton did, and that by the excellent Disposition of Lieut^c Colo^l Campbell, who was unfortunately killed on the first Attack, but seconded by Colonel Robinson of the Loyal American Regiment, by whose Knowledge of the Country I was much aided in forming my Plan, and to whose spirited Conduct in the Execution of it I impute in a great Measure the Success of the Enterprize.

Our Loss was not very considerable excepting in some respectable Officers who were killed in the Attack.

About 10 o'Clock at Night the Rebels set fire to their two Ships, Montgomery and Congress, some Gallies and other armed Vessels with their Cannon Stores &c in them.¹⁰

I have the Honor to send to your Excellency a Return of the Cannon, Stores &c taken. That of Stores is very considerable, this being I believe their principal Magazine.

The Commodore has assisted me with his Advice, and every Effort. We sent a joint Summons to Fort Constitution, but our Flag meeting with an insolent Reception unknown in any War, we determined to chastize, & therefore an Embarkation under Major General Tryon, and Sir James Wallace with the Gallies was ordered. They found the Fort evacuated in the greatest Confusion, the Store Houses burnt, but their Cannon were left unspiked. The Commodore immediately ordered Sir James Wallace up the River, and if it should be possible to find a Passage through the Chevaux de Frize, between Polypus Island ¹¹ and the Main, he may probably do most essential Service

In Justice to Captain Pownal, ¹² who commanded the Flat Boats, and the Officers under him, I must mention to your Excellency that that Service could not have been more zealously or punctually attended to. I have the Honor to be [&c.]

P.S. October 9th. Ten o'Clock at Night

Major General Tryon whom I detached this Morning with Emericks Chasseurs, 50 Yagers, the Royal Fuzileers & Regiment of Trumbach, with two three Pounders, to destroy the Rebel Settlement called the Continental Village, has just returned and reported to me that he has burned Barracks for 1500 Men, several Storehouses, and loaded Waggons. The extreme Badness of the Weather making it necessary to be as expeditious as possible no Account could be taken of the Stores, but I believe them to have been considerable. I need not point out to your Excellency the Consequence of destroying this Post, as it was the only Establishment of the Rebels in that Part of the Highlands and the Place from whence any neighbouring Body of Troops drew their Supplies. Fannings and Byards Corps marched from Verplancks Point to cooperate with General Tryon, but finding he met with no Opposition, they were ordered back to their Post.¹³

Sir:

Fort Mifflin 9th. October 1777—

I Receiv'd your Excellencys Letter of the 7th. and have read it to the Officers of the Navy which assists not a little to keep up their Spirits.¹ Yesterday a large Scow was brought down the Schuylkil which we secur'd, after wounding One of their Men. Our Intelligence informs that Six Boats were ready to come down from the lower ferry² and in the evening we heard that a large Body with 20 p^s. of Artillery and Boats on Carriages from the City³ were marching down to Webbs ferry, in consequence of these Accounts the Commodore⁴ sent some arm'd Boats & Gundolas in the mouth of the Schuylkil, who discovered the enemy at work along the bank. The Boats kept up a fire on them all night, in the morning they opened a small Battery and fir'd briskly for Some time. The Commodore intends attacking them at high Water and try if possible to silence them. They will answer two purposes by erecting Batteries so as to keep the Gallies out of Schuylkil, One, that in case your Excellency defeats them they may have a safer retreat by Webbs ferry on a bridge of boats than any other, or they may bring over their Artillery and annoy us much in the fort, indeed it will be impossible for us to live in it, I shall in that case be oblig'd to cover my men, & shou'd they keep up their fire at night it will oblige us to sleep in the open Air, which will soon destroy my small party. . . . I have the honor to be [&c.]

DEPOSITION OF DANIEL CHRISTIAN

I Daniel Christian of Lawful age testify & say that I was first mate, on board the ship Johnston; & on y^e. 18 July, 1777—about 6, o'clock in y^e. morning we discov^d. two privateer schooners—to the windward of us. but seeing another sail, to the north w^d. upon our bow, we did not alter our Course, supposing we sh^d. come up with this sail, first. w^{ch}. we stood after—we found the sail to be a frenchman; & we then hauled up as close to the wind as we could.—about Noon the two Schooners came up & engaged us (w^{ch}. continued for about three quarters of an hour) at long shot we determined to defend the Ship;—some of their shot w^d. come over us but very seldom. the schooners then sheared off to the south ward & Eastward—out of Gun shot—& stood a considerable way to the Southw^d. & then to the northw^d.—they then hung out their pots upon their Jibb boom end, and we supposed they were preparing to board us, but did not come near enough to do it; in about two hours & an half after they first left us, they came up again one upon one Quarter & y^e o^r. on y^e other Quarter, & engaged us about half an hour, & then left us; before they left us we discov^d. another sail. to the windward of us coming down before the wind—we discov^d. her to be a square rigged Vessell but what we c^d. not tell. we determined not to strike till we knew what the sail was—& if she was a privateer we intended to strike when she came up; but we did not intend to strike to the schooners till our ammunition was spent. as soon as the schooners sheared off, we made all the sail we could & stood for the sail, w^{ch}. proved to be the Massachusetts, Capt. Fiske.—the schooners then made sail after us firing their bow Chaser at us as we passed y^m. we were not damaged by the schooners, only one of their shot cut one of the Lanyard's of one of the Gun ports & one man slightly wounded. which was all the damage we sustained. the Brigg Massachusetts, run along side of us & fired a broad side, at us w^{ch}. did us no Damage & we struck immediately to y^e. Brigg. the schooners being about a Gun shot astern of us. & came up ab^t. 10. or 12 minutes after we struck. I do not recollect that the schooners fired at us ab^t. the time we struck. they did not come nearer than long shot, from first to last; It was determined on board, if the Brigg had not come up to fight the Schooners, & if they boarded us to retreat to close quarters, for which we were very well provided, & to fight them till our ammunition was expended & then to strike to them but we were under no fear of their being able to board us; we had when we were first attacked about seven Barrels of powder, & an half, in y^e whole, with a sufficient quantity of shot; when we struck we had something more than a Barrel & a half of powder, & shot in propotion; besides near a barrel of small Cartridges; when we struck, it was about two hours before Sunset; Our force, was 6 double fortified 6. pounders: 4 double fortified four pounders. 4 Cohorns. and 2 swivels. a chest of small arms containing ab^t. 12 Muskets. 6 blunderbusses. 12 pistols & a number of Cutlasses. & had 35 men & boys & about 330 tons salt & other goods During the whole Engagement from the first to the last, the Schooners kept at a distance & fought us only at long shot. & we were obliged for that reason to keep up our Cartridges to the full size & we never lessened any of them.

THOMAS SHAW TO GOVERNOR JONATHAN TRUMBULL

Honored Sir,

New London Octo 10th 1777.

I Rec^d. yours of y^e 1st. Ins.¹ wherein you are pleased to say that you hourly expected a number of Cap^t Hardings² prisoners into Lebanon on there way to N Haven & would have me provide a Vessell there for the purpose of carrying them to N York, & that the prisoners at N London might be sent in the Same Vessell to N Haven & so on to N York, after hearing from your Excellency, which you thought would be by the time Col Ely³ would have marching Orders; And as it is now five Days Since Col Ely has marched⁴ & have not the pleasure of hearing from your Excellency, conclude there must be some difficulty in the way that those prisoners have not arrived, or that the great attention you give to the affairs of Government has occasioned the delay. Therefore have taken the liberty, as I had taken up the Sloop Delight, to send her on to New Haven with those prisoners that was here; perswading myself that you would be there to day, and that if it was not likely that all Cap^t Hardings prisoners would be there soon, that Cap^t Stillman⁵ might wait at N Haven for them, or go on to New York with these he has already, as you'l please to order. And happy should I be, should it meet your approbation, which I am in hopes of, considering that the Sloop is under pay & the prisoners maintained as cheap on board as on Shore. Have ordered Cap^t Stillman to shew you his orders from me and the Letter to Joshua Loring Com^d at N Y &^c. And if agreeable may go on I suppose, notwithstanding Cap^t Stillman may take in these other prisoners, (which your Excellency will give directions for their Exchange) or take up those directions of mine to Loring & put these prisoners into the List of Cap^t Hardings Prisoners. Should have gone myself to N Haven but M^r Shaw⁶ being Sick with the Longfeaver at Bedford. I ask pardon, but would only beg leave to hint, perhaps you may not think of it, as there may possible arise some doubt in N York about y^e Cap^t of y^e 50 Gun Ship⁷ (being only a Gentleman passenger) in exchange for Manly a Commodore, would it not do to take his parol to go down to N York in this Flag for the purpose of being exchanged for Cap^t Manly & that in case such an exchange cannot be effected that he pledge his Faith & word of honor to your Excellency that he will emmediately return into this State & Submit himself prisoner of warr

Below is a List of Cap^t Palmers men taken in a private Sloop of Warr⁸ & carried into Newport, which I wish might be exchanged for some of Hardings Prisoners who are prisoners taken in Arms, & will not be admitted to an exchange by any other & have been there a long time, it is by the Solicitation of there friends that I take the liberty to trouble you with their names. DIARY OF CAPTAIN FRANCIS DOWNMAN

[Webb's Ferry, Pa.]

October 10th.—I continued in the battery at the entrance of the Schuylkill, the galleys now and then giving us a shot without effect. We are situated in full view of their whole fleet of 30 differently armed vessels at the distance of about a mile. A party of our men with engineers passed the ferry this afternoon, and during the night threw up a battery.

COMMODORE JOHN HAZELWOOD TO GEORGE WASHINGTON

Fort Island October 10th. 1777

I Received Your Excellencys Letter of the 7th of October¹ & note the Contents, & shall give Your Officer² every assistance in my power & furnish him with every kind of Ammunition & other Stores he may want—We are now carrying over the Cannon & Stores for him, & you may depend nothing shall be wanting that's in my power to do for him, & I make no doubt but we shall be able to hold this pass against any force they can bring against it—We have been deserted by two Captains, their Officers & whole Crews & number of Privates in many of the Vessels in the Fleet yet with what we have got I hope to support the Pass notwithstanding—

After the loss of Billinsport, the Commander in Chief of the Fleet³ sent me a Flag to surrender up the Fleet & not to destroy any part of it, & that it was in vain to pretend to hold out against such a force as was against us & that we soon should have no retreat & now we should have the Kings pardon & not only that but our liberty also—I sent him for answer, That I well knew the valour & bravery of their Navy & Army, & that I should endeavour to gain their esteem by a glorious defence tho' we had their enmity & desired them to desist in sending any more on any such errands, for that I would defend this River & Pass to the last extremity & that I expected a much larger force to encounter with than he has brought—They have moved one of the Chevaux de Frieze a little out of its place, but not so as to make a pass, & I have an old Ship⁴ Ballasted to sink this day near it that will stop that little vacancy again. We annoy'd them so much with the Galleys, that they could do but little with them without too much risk. I have drove five of their Ships from Chester, with four Galleys & one fire Raft, & had they not run off would destroy'd them all, & since that have drove four of them, with the Galleys from their Stations off Billinsport, but they have since return'd with four more, & as we are not well stocked with Ammunition, we suffer them to lay within sight of us for the present, as they can do us no harm where they now lay, & we fear nothing here but want of Ammunition, Provisions & desertion of our Men, otherwise should be quite easy—Having not to add, am [&c.]

JOURNAL OF THE CONTINENTAL CONGRESS

[York] Friday, October 10, 1777

Ordered, That 12,000 dollars be advanced to the Marine Committee, for the public service in Baltimore, in the State of Maryland, the said committee to be accountable.

Ordered, That 2,000 dollars be paid to the said Marine Committee, for the purpose of paying bills drawn upon them, the said committee to be accountable. . . . On motion, Resolved, That one hundred blank commissions for privateers, be signed and delivered by the president to the Committee of Commerce, to be by them transmitted to such of their agents and correspondents abroad as they may think proper to entrust therewith. . . .

The Board of War brought in a report, which was taken into consideration; Whereupon,

Resolved, That Captain Silas Talbot, of the State of Rhode Island, be promoted to the rank, and have the pay of major in the army of the United States, in consideration of his merit and services in a spirited attempt to set fire to one of the enemy's ships of war in the North River last year;¹ and that he be recommended to General Washington for employment, agreeable to his rank.

Resolved, That Captain Silas Talbot make an estimate of the expence and loss incurred by him in the attempt to destroy the said ship of war, to be laid before the Treasury Board for their consideration.

I take the liberty of informing you of the proceedings relative to the Weymouth Packet, the Tryall came on about 10 °Clk this Morning, as soon as my Libell was read Captain Hardings¹ Councill demanded my Power, and upon my saying it was not with me, said he would willingly take my word for the contents; I then inform'd the Court I was willing to mention anything which would not be detrimental to my cause, intending to inform the Court my instructions from your Excellency from time to time were to conform to the Resolves of the Continental Congress, but was overrul'd as unprecedented, the door when open'd would be enlarg'd &c^c Captain Perkins² then produc'd several depositions to prove the State of Connecticut had adopted the Continental resolves, but the contents of one was so uncertain and the Captions of the whole so improperly taken, the Court were of the mind they could not be admitted, Captain Hardings Councill mov'd for an adjournment of the Cause, which was done accordingly to the 28th Inst.—It was necessary to determine (the court adjudg'd) wether the State of Connecticut had made Laws of their own, or had adopted the mode the Congress had laid down, or were willing to have her divided agreeable to the Laws of this State—I must request your Excellency would be as particular as you should think necessary.—With respect to my Power of acting it is not so full as I could wish—Your Excellency I hope will pardon me, in recommending that a proper Warrant under the State Seal, seperate from any letter, enjoining and requiring me to conduct agreeable to the instructions I may from time to time receive, be sign'd by your Excellency and handed to me by the first good opportunity, M^r Dana³ thinks it will be absolutely necessary.—I forgot to mention in its place, that not a word has been said in Court respecting her being Kings property, that comes after the previous Question, upon what Law she must be try'd.—I have now in my hands the Commander in chiefs division of Prize money arising from Smedleys Captures,⁴ I shall wait your Excellency's order about it and should be glad to know

Col^o Smith informs me that the Enemy have been raising Batteries near the Landing place at Webbs Ferry with an intent to cover their passage over to Provinc Island. If the Battery is erected upon the Meadow or upon the Wharf it may be much injur'd or the approach to it from the City¹ renderd very difficult by cutting the Meadow Banks in five or six places from the mouth of Schuylkill up to the Mouth of Hollanders Creek and laying the whole Country under Water. If the Dyke that dams out Hollanders Creek was likewise cut it wou'd contribute much to raise the water. this should be done in the night, and when it is once effected the Gallies might keep any persons from repairing the breeches. I beg this may be done as speedily as possible and with secrecy. As the security of the Fleet and the obstructions depends upon keeping possession of Fort Mifflin & Red Bank, I hope you will cooperate with the Gentlemen in the Land service & endeavour to make use of evr'y mean to effect so salutary a measure I am [&c.]

DIARY OF CAPTAIN FRANCIS DOWNMAN

[Carpenters Island, Pa.]

October 11th.—About 1 o'clock this morning Captain Montresor informed me that the battery on Province Island¹ was ready to receive the howitzers and mortars, and desired me to march and cross the ferry directly. I got there about half past 2, and had got an 8 inch howitzer in the flat, but for want of some care the flat went to the bottom in an instant, with several men and horses, and one of each was drowned. This accident prevented our doing anything further for the night. In the fore part of the evening two 12 pounders had been taken over, and one of them dragged up to the battery through a mile of mud and water, for the whole island is a flat, and from rain, and the rebels cutting the embankment, the whole was nearly under the water. The battery is raised within 400 or 500 yards of the fort on Mud Island² and open to all the rebel shipping, and their galleys can go within 150 yards of it. About 6 o'clock this morning the rebels discovered our work, and began and continued a constant fire from all their vessels and batteries upon it till about 4 in the afternoon. About 10 in the morning they landed some troops who marched up to the battery, attacked our people and for a little time were in possession of it. Our force on the island at this time was very small, not above 200 men; they were in great danger of being cut off and losing the two 12 pounders. A Major V. . . .³ commanded; he was hurrying off the island in boats as fast as he could, and had he not been prevented, the island would undoubtedly have been in the possession of the enemy. He was ordered back to support those that remained, and by the activity of Captain Moncrieffe the battery was re-taken, and some soldiers. As it was, the rebels carried off 50 prisoners of the grenadiers and 10th regiment, who, I am sorry to say did not behave as they ought to have done. Four artillerymen were taken, and an ammunition waggon was blown up by a shot. . . .

Downman, "Services of Lieut.-Colonel Francis Downman," p. 164. Three sentences of this entry are not printed here. They relate to the artillery's being ferried across the Schuylkill River for emplacement on Carpenters Island.

1. Downman means Carpenters Island. This artillery emplacement would later be designated as the middle battery.

2. Capt. Blackmore, Royal Artillery. Blackmore was later court-martialled for attempting to surrender his battery to the American forces. Downman, "Services of Lieut.-Colonel Francis Downman," p. 169.

Fort Mifflin October 11th. 1777

My last¹ inform'd you that the enemy had erected a battery at the mouth of Schuylkill—²

Last night a party of above One hundred Men got over at Webbs ferry and threw up a redoubt³ within two muskets shot of us, opposite the block house—as soon as discoverd the Commodore order'd three Gallies to attack the redoubt, also one of the floating batteries to play on it, which they did so warmly that the Enemy dar'd not to fire one shot.

After about two hours the Enemy held out a flag and the Soldiers appear'd on the bank with their muskets clubed—The Commodore and myself with several boats went of to take the prisoners on board when we had got about fifty of them in the boat

Colonel Smith who was in the block house seeing some others coming from the house of Adam Guyer, imprudently fir'd two Shot at them which caus'd the rest of those who had surrender'd to run off, and took possession of their battery again and fir'd on us, so that by one imprudent step we lost one half of our prisoners and the Cannon which they had in the redoubt, and must now fight for it again⁴—The Enemy lays so near the Chevaux de frize at Billingsport that we have not been able to sink the Ship⁵ I mentiond in my last, and indeed we have hardly had time, for the whole defence of this Fort against the Enemy who are landed depends on the Fleet and not much on the troops in it. The Prisoners taken are one Lieutenant One Ensign & 56 Privates, which were immediately sent over to Red Bank and are forwarded to Haddenfield⁶—Those that remain on board the Fleet seem now to be staunch and no Desertions since my last—These different attacks reduce our Ammunition very much, I have sent up to Trenton for some which I hope will soon arrive—The Commodore & Cap^t Robeson of the Continental Fleet join most heartily in all their Measures. 3. The middle battery, Carpenters Island.
4. A nearly identical letter of the same date from Bradford and Hazelwood to Gen. George Washington uses less critical language in describing Smith's actions: "... while the Commodore and myself were taking off the prisoners, Colonel Smith from the Blockhouse saw a party coming down from the House of Adam Guyer, which he imagin'd were design'd to reinforce the party that had surrender'd (but the Prisoners said they were coming to submit) Colonel Smith from the Block house fired on them, which so alarm'd those that had surrender'd that many ran off and by that means we lost one half of those that had submitted, and we are now oblig'd to continue the attack on the Redoubt." See Bradford and Hazelwood to Washington, 11 Oct. 1777, DLC, George Washington Papers, Series 4.
5. The ship referred to is probably the Pennsylvania Navy fire ship Strumbello.
6. In their letter to Washington of 11 Oct., Bradford and Hazelwood state: "The Prisoners sent off are Lieut: Finch of 27th Regiment Ensign Hankey of 10 Regiment [and] 54 Rank & File." Ibid.

CAPTAIN SILAS TALBOT TO THE CONTINENTAL CONGRESS

To the Hon^{ble}. the Delegates of the United States of America, convened in general Congress in York, in the State of Pennsylvania

Silas Talbut,¹ a Captain in the first Battalion raised by the State of Rhode Island & Providence Plantations, humbly sheweth, That on the first Day of August One Thousand seven Hundred & seventy six, by the Requisition of his Excellency General Washington, he entered on Board, & took Command of a Fire Ship in the Harbour of New York: That on the Night of the seventeenth of September following, being in Hudson's River, he embraced a favourable Opportunity, & bore down for the Asia Man of War, then at Anchor in said River: That he laid her on Board upon the Bow, carried away his Bowsprit, grappled her, with his main Boom in the fore Shrouds, fired his Ship fore & baft, & then, with difficulty, escaped to the Shore:² That for fifteen Days following he was deprived of his Sight, and otherwise much enfeebled, The Flames reaching him before he could quit the Vessell: That his Surgeons Bill and other Expences which he was necessarily obliged to pay, & hath not been refunded, amounted, besides other Losses, to upwards of one Hundred Dollars: That there were eight Men on Board Who behaved well, & were considerable Sufferers in the Enterprise. Your Petitioner is therefore Emboldened to make this Approach to your Honors, not doubting but you will order him such Relief as to Right and Justice shall appertain, And he, as in Duty bound, will ever serve you in the Cause of his Country.

JAMES WARREN TO JOHN ADAMS

My dear Sir

Boston Oct^r 12. 1777—

... Our Troops have not yet Landed on Rhode Island. there Appears in that quarter A want of vigour. & I think of Judgment. Things were not provided for the descent as soon as the Militia arrived & their spirit & Genius you know does not Admit of delays. when the Expedition was formed General Spencer¹ Informed us every thing was prepared. he had Occasion for Nothing but two Howit^s which he desired us to supply.² A very moderate demand. you cant suppose we did not Comply. from the very Circumstance of this delay my sanguine Expectations are much Abated. my next will tell you more of this matter which is Important to us. & I dare say Occasions Anxiety to you. we have men enough there I beleive not less than 10,000.

we have no News This will be handed you by Cap^t Palmes³ who Was Cap^t of Marines on Board the Boston. I am not Acquainted with his perticular Business. I suppose he Intends some Application to Congress relative to that Ship. her Affairs are indeed in A curious situation. The quarrels between the Captain & his Officers have Already occasioned great delays. & when we shall get her to sea or if ever under her present Circumstances I am Unable to say. you will be Able to learn something of the matter from him.⁴ I dont wish to be vested with more powers. if the good of the service dont require it. but I plainly foresee that we never can Answer your Expectations unless we have at least A power of suspending. if we are not to be Intrusted with a power of Appointing—As the matter now stands we are little more than A Board of Agency or factorage and tho' we are Ordered to do many Expensive things are not supplied with A Shilling to do it with. this is as bad as makeing Bricks without straw. we have wrote repeatedly to the marine Committee, I have tryed to borrow of the Loan office.⁵ he dont like to supply. Without Orders. We lose many Advantages & Indeed the Business in all its parts Lags in such A manner as mortifies me, & will Affect Our Reputation—The Marine Committee have given Cap^t McNeill their own Orders for his next Cruise.⁶ Dont you Intend there shall be An Enquiry into the Conduct of the last. there is indeed A Contrast between bringing in the Fox & Flora if not the Rainbow. and the looseing the Hancock & the Fox.⁷ I don't pretend to say who was to Blame but I think Congress should know, if they intend Officers should do their Duty in future—I Love to see officers regard discipline & keep a proper Command but Overbearing haughtiness & unlimited Conceit. especially if Joined with Unbounded Expence. will never promote the Good of your service at Sea or Ashore. It is our Business to Correct the last in the Navy of this department as much as possible. & I think we should be Impowered to Controul the first. I wish You every happiness & Am Yours &c. . . .

GOVERNOR GEORGE CLINTON TO THE NEW YORK COUNCIL OF SAFETY

Little Britain 3 Miles from N. Windsor 12th Octo' 1777.

Gentlemen,

An armed Schooner, two Row Gallies & a small Brigg^l passed the Cheveaux Defrize & are ought of Sight up the River this Morning. They can have very few if any Men on Board; but they may be able notwithstanding to distroy Effects which may be found in Stores on the Banks of the River. I therefore give you this early Notice of this Movement that you may Order out small Parties to such Places on the River at which there are any Public Stores or other valuable Effects—this I am sure will secure them. I woud advise that proper Care be taken to defend Kingston Landing. The few Pieces of Artillery you have ought to be taken to the most suitable Place for that Purpose. Our Galley² moved up the River some Miles before the Enemy.

If we had Round Shott for our 24 lb'r we might make this small Fleet very uneasy in the River but this we have not, nor do I know any nearer than Albany to which Place I begg you woud send for 100 of that Size & 200 for 4 lb'rs. Three Waggons will bring the whole. I wish [to know]³ how soon I may have them; they are essentially necessary; indeed I believe I may venture [to] say

Sir James Wallace who commands this Musquito Fleet woud not have ventured to pass the Cheveaux Defrize had we been able to use our 24 lbr. whose Axle Tree was [broke] at the Time but is now repaired.

I have no late Accounts from the Enemy below. Genl. Putnam just now writes me that he hears they have Landed & are about moving up, but dont mention on which Side the River; his Letter implies on this. I sent a Party out yesterday to look in Forts Montgomery & Constitution; they are not yet Returned. Capt. Wooster⁴ who went in with a Flag returned yesterday Evening; he was received on Board a Ship about a Mile this Side Fort Montgomery; he thinks they were destroying the Works there & at Fort Clinton as from the Smoak he judged them to be on Fire. Genl. Vaughan⁵ Commands there; Genl. Clinton was Absent. Vaughan's Aid De Camp answered my Letter by informing the Prisoners were sent to N. York, that any Thing I wanted to send them might be sent on Board the Advanced Ship & from thence would be forwarded to them Directed to Mr. Geo. Clinton Fishkill. No List sent me but all Colo. Du Bois's Officers missing are Prisoners with Major Lush, Colo. Allison & McClaghry.⁶ The later has seven wounds but none dangerous.

I am distressed for want of Horse Men. The Duty is too hard for Capt. Woodhull's small Company. Capt. Salisbury's Company of Light Horse (a few to attend you as Expresses) must immediatly Join me for which please to given him an order as I have not at present Time to do it. The Communication being now cut off between Genl. Putnam & me & before I had a proper Supply of Ammunition, I must begg you will forward me to the Artillery Park Shawangonk 10,000 Catridges for Small arms of different Sizes.

I am this Moment favoured with your Letter of Yesterday. The Militia of Shawangonk are now with me. I have sent a proper Guard there from another Quarter for the Artillery, which in my Opinion is much better than to leave Men of the Neighbourhood for that Purpose.

Colo. Snyder's Regiment⁷ may continue at Kingston to throw up the necessary Works to defend the Landing & Town. The rest of the Reinforcement from the Northward must immediatly join me. Were the whole to continue with you they would not be able to meet the Enemy should they pass by and land near Kingston; & should they take their Route by Land which is most likely with my Present Force which consists only of the Militia of this Quarter of the Country: two small Continental Regim'ts & Colo. Southerland's Regt.⁸ consisting of 130 Men—Out of these I have strong Guards along the River Shore who have Orders to keep Pace with the Vessels now in the River & throw themselves between them & Kingston Landing should they go that high up. I am perswaded it is not only for the Safety of Kingston, which I have much at Heart but for that of the Country in Genl. that I should have my whole Force collected to one Point, as in that Case I shall be able to meet & oppose the Progress of the Enemy or at least throw myself in between the Enemy & such Places as may be an Object with them to gain which shall be my constant Care to do. I am [&c.]

G. C.

From many Circumstances I am perswaded the Enemy are about moving. Genl. Clinton's being out when my Flagg was down yesterday—This small Fleet coming up the River confirms me in this Oppinion And I believe it will be by Land agt some of our Stores & ravage the Country.

Our Fleet is so reduc'd by desertion that four of the Galleys have not Men enough to Man One, and if I should land a number of those on board the other Galleys I can have no de-

DECLARATION OF JUAN ANTONIO DE LA BODEGA

[Extract]

So^r: Adm^{tor}: pral. del Correo.

D. Juan Antonio de la Bodega, Capitan interino del Paquebot Correo de S. M. nombrado el Pizarro, que acava de llegar a este Puerto con los Pliegos del Real Servicio, digo: Que el dia 2 de Septiembre pro^m. pasado, sali del Puerto de la Coruña, siguiendo mi destino, en los terminos que explica el Libro tabla diaria de navegacion que exhivo, del qual consta, como uno de los acaecimientos fue: Que el 9. del corriente mes de octubre, à hora del medio dia, llegando a las inmediaciones de la Ysla de la Tortola, descubri una embarcacion que acercandose mas, reconoci ser una Balandra, con vanderá Ynglesa al tope, y otra en el Asta, manifestandose como Guardá-Costas; y pasada hora y media a corta diferencia, nos disparò un Cañon con bala, a que le correspondi con la Vandera de S.M; y llegandose al habla me preguntò, de donde venia, y à donde iba; pero no satisfecho de mi respuesta, ni del caracter de Correo de S.M. que le di à entender, mandò, que inmediatamente echase la Lancha al Agua, ò delo contrario, nos pondria à pique, siendo tan egecutiva la orden, que sin hacerse cargo del tiempo que pedia tan embarazosa maniobra, no cesò de amenazarnos con el fuego, hasta que, a costa de una violenta faena, se echò dha Lancha; a cuyo bordo, embiè a D. Juan Antonio de Fuso, Piloto interino, con nueve Marineros, a los quales pusieron presos bajo escotilla, luego que llegaron a la citada Valandra; y en nuestra Lancha volvieron quatro, al parecer, oficiales, acompañados de Ocho hombres de su tripulacion, que habiendo saltado a nuestro bordo con Sable, y Pistola en mano, ocupando la boca de escotilla de Camara, me pidieron los Papeles que Justificasen la identidad de mis palabras, y las con que el Piloto les havia ya informado de nuestra salida, rumbo y carga; y estandolos reconociendo, y haciendo al mismo tiempo el mas riguroso examen de nuestra carga, Libros de Sobordo, y Diario, se llegó al habla el oficial comandante de dha Balandra (que manifestaron ser Capitan de Fragata del Rey Britanico) y explicandose con los suyos que estavan a nuestro bordo, entendimos por un Ynterprete, que dho Capitan ordenava, siguiese nuestra embarcacion (que estava a la capa) para no perder camino; y en efecto, siendo ellos mismos quien mandaron la maniobra, apenas se puso en movimiento, q^e fue inmediatamente a la Orden, disparò un Cañon con metralla, que entrando por nuestra Proa, dieron testimonio de ello los pedazos de hierro que cayeron entre nuestros Marineros, aunque la Providencia los preserbo del daño: y al mismo tiempo pusieron una Pistola a los pechos del Piloto amenazando su vida, llegando a tanto la osadia, que no satisfechos con esta violencia, mandaron arriar la vandera de Nuestro Soberano, a que haviendome resistido con moderacion, haciendo las protextas mas saludables, y oportunas a la plena indemnizacion de semejantes ultrages, sin embargo me fue preciso ceder a la fuerza, y entregarme en sus manos para que me pasasen abordo de su Balandra, como lo hicieron quedando parte de la tripulacion Ynglesa en el Paquebot, apoderados del Timon, y siguiendo el rumbo de su Puerto al arvitrio de ellos, qual si fuese presa ganada en buena guerra con legitimo titulo. Pero aunq^e su intencion bien declarada fue conducirnos a su mismo Puerto, mudaron de idea, efecto sin duda de nuestras protextas, que explicadas a dho Capitan por los que me llebaron a su bordo, segun lo indicavan las demostraciones, soltò a los presos de mi Tripulacion, y nos hizo volver a todos con el mismo desprecio, y descortesia, pues ni aun quiso decirme su nombre el Capitan; por mas que selo preguntè: en cuya demora, nos hizo perder toda la tarde, y aun la noche. El dia siguiente, llegando a la caveza de San Juan cerca de la Culebra, como a las Once de la mañana, descubrimos otra Balandra de Yngleses, que hicieron las mismas diligencias, si bien, mas conmedido el Capitan, y subalternos; pero haciendonos sufrir algunas horas de detencion, bastantes a completar un dia de Nuestro viage; y estos ultimos nos manifestaron, que tenian acordonadas aquellas Costas con distintas embarcaciones para reconocer quantas sigan su rumbo, y quitarles los generos que encuentren de la nueva Ynglaterra. . . . [Translation]

Dear Postmaster:

Don Juan Antonio de la Bodega, temporary captain of His Majesty's postal packet boat the Pizarro, having just arrived in this port with sealed government documents, would like to inform you that: this last September 2, I left the port of Corunna en route to my destination, as per the navigational logbook I present as evidence, which shows how one of the occurrences took place: on the 9th of this month of October, at noon, near the island of Tortola, I saw a ship that upon closer examination looked to be a sloop flying an English flag at its masthead and another on its staff, revealing that it was a coast guard ship; after about another hour and a half, it fired at us a cannon charged with ball, which I answered with His Majesty's flag. We began to converse, and they asked me where I was coming from and where I was going, but—not satisfied with my reply, and not believing that we were a royal postal packet boat as I had told them—asked us to throw the ship's boat in the water, or else they would sink us. They were so impatient that they did not even consider the time it takes to carry out such a bothersome exercise, and kept threatening us with fire, until finally—after a huge effort—we managed to throw the ship's boat in. On board the ship's boat I sent Don Juan Antonio de Fuso, temporary first mate, with 9 sailors, all of whom were imprisoned below the hatchway as soon as they reached the sloop. The ship's boat came back, and in it were four men who seemed to be officers, accompanied by eight crew members. They were brought on board carrying swords and pistols in their hands, and standing in the mouth of the cabin hatch, asked me for papers which proved the ship's claimed identity, as well as its departure, course and cargo as explained by the first mate. After closely questioning us and thoroughly examining our cargo, manifest books and logbook, the commanding officer of this sloop (who turned out to be a commander in the service of the British King) began to speak, explaining to his crewmen on board our ship. We understood through an interpreter requested by this commander that they would follow our ship (which was lying to) to make sure it stayed its course. Then, even though it was they themselves who ordered the maneuver, when we began to move as the order dictated, a cannon fired grapeshot into our prow, as you can see by the pieces of iron which fell among our sailors, though Providence kept them from harm. At the same time, they stuck a pistol into the chest of the first mate, threatening his life. They were not satisfied with this offense, and were so bold as to demand that we lower our royal flag. I intervened at that point with a well-timed, reasonable and polite protest, to prevent any further outrages, but I was taken into custody and forced to board their sloop, leaving part of the English crew on our packet boat, at the helm, heading to their port at their discretion, as if they had captured it as a legitimate prize of war. But although their clearly stated intention was to take us to their port, they changed their minds, undoubtedly because of our protests, explained to this commander by those who took me on board, as their gestures indicated, and released my crew members and myself, expelling us from the ship with the same abusive and rude manner they had been showing all along, without even telling me the name of the captain, for all that I requested it. By this time they had made us lose the entire afternoon and evening. The following day, at the head of San Juan, near Culebra, at eleven in the morning, we came upon another English sloop which took the same kind of action, although their captain and subordinates were more polite. These people detained us a number of hours, enough to have completed another day of our voyage. These latter told us that certain ships were posted to watch those coastal areas, to see how many were heading that way and to eliminate any from New England. . . . Puerto Rico, October 12, 1777—

CAPTAIN JOSEPH CUNNINGHAM TO THOMAS WILLING AND ROBERT MORRIS

Gentⁿ.

Boston 13th. Octo^r. 1777.—

I would acquaint You that I arriv'd safe in this Port the 9th. Inst^c. from my late Cruize, which was much shorter than I intended, by Reason of being obliged to go out half mann'd—I have sent in nothing but a Portugueze Snow,¹ bound from Brazil to Fayal, which you are doubtless Inform'd of before this. This Capture has caused some Altercation being the first Vessell of the kind ever sent into this Port by an American Cruizer;—a Doubt therefore seems to arise in y^e Breasts of our Courts with respect to the Justice of Condemning her—Perhaps Your Informant, not being acquainted with the Reasons of my Conduct in this Particular case, may have given you an Erroneous Idea of the matter—Permit me therefore to relate several Circumstances, which will at least Exculpate me from Blame, be the ultimate Consequences what they may—

When I was last in Virginia, M^r Braxton² gave me written Orders, in which was this Clause, viz^t: "Should you hear that the Portugueze are actually taking our Vessells, in that Case, you may sieze any of thiers".—When we first took the Commander of this Snow on Board,³ he acknowledged to us that the King of Portugal had siezed Four American Vessells in the Port whh he said he belonged, whh was Fayal.—Previous to this, we had been frequently inform'd that they had siezed all American Property, throughout their Dominions.—and also that American Cruizers had taken several of thier Vessells, and disposed of them in France, and Elsewhere.—Since our arrival we are inform'd that they have actually sent out arm'd Vessells from Brazil to Cruize against the Americans—a Kinsman of mine, a Person of undoubted Veracity, who lately arriv'd from London, affirms that the Portugueze had declared Warr against America in Form, before he left that Place. But let the Case turn as it Will, I shall be ready to sail again in a Fortnight from this Date, Provided M^r Rowe⁴ Exerts himself to Assist me as he ought:—but I am sorry to say he is rather dilatory, and appears to me to be as much, if not more, "A Friend to Government", than to the Freedom and Welfare of the Americans—

I beg you would write me as soon as possible to direct my fa[r]ther Proceedings—I am [&c.]

CONTINENTAL NAVY BOARD OF THE EASTERN DEPARTMENT TO CAPTAIN ABRAHAM WHIPPLE

Navy-Board Eastⁿ. Department }
Providence Oct^r [13]th. 1777— }

Sir

General Spencer having made requisition to us for one or more of the Continental Ships, now in this River, in order to secure & cover the Landing of his Men on Rhode-Island in the Expedition now carr[ying] on against the Enemies of the United States of America. The Ship Providence under your Command being the only one that is Ready for Service, and we judging it Absolutely Necessary for the good of the Service that some arm'd Vessells should be employed, to Prevent as much as Possible any of the Enemies Arm'd Vessells from obstructing & anoying our Troops in Landing. Therefore you are to Re[n]der all the Assistance in your power to Gen^l Spencer & the Army under his command. We are sensible that Several of the Enemies Ships of War are now in the River; one Frigate Lays off Hogg-Island directly in your way,¹ therefore we judge it necessary and expedient that one of the Fire Ships under your direction may be sent without delay to grapple with & set her on Fire;² It's expected that tryal be made for that purpose, and doubt not of Success if properly conducted by resolute & intrepid Men: This we think will make way for your safe Passage to the North-End of Rhode-Island.—You will therefore take such prudent Measures for the good of the Service & preservation of your Ship as shall be consistent with Honor Bravery & Reputation to your Self and Country.—

You will be careful to procure such Pilots as may be necessary, either to carry your Ship up Taunton River, into Bedford, to Boston, or New-London; if you should have Opp^s to Run out on either Side Rhode-Island, you must be sensible if by any Accident or misconduct you Should get your Ship Aground, it will be fatal, as the Enemy will Collect their whole force to act upon a Ship in that Situation: And must repeat the injunction once more of getting the most expert Pilots for every part of Ground you may be Obliged to Sail Over.—

You will be careful to keep up strict Discipline on board your Ship, and at the same time preserve Harmony & good agreement among your Officers and Men.—

We wish you Success [&c.]

COLONEL TIMOTHY PICKERING, JR. TO REBECCA PICKERING

[Extract]

Camp at Towamensing 26 miles above Philadelphia
Oct^r 13. 1777. Monday Evening 10 o'clock.

My dear Becky,

... And with regard to Howe, I am under no concern, provided we can keep the pass of the river, and prevent the ships coming up to the city,¹ of doing which I think we have a reasonable prospect. As my friends may have but a faint idea of the pass & the obstructions of the river, I will give a rude sketch of them.²

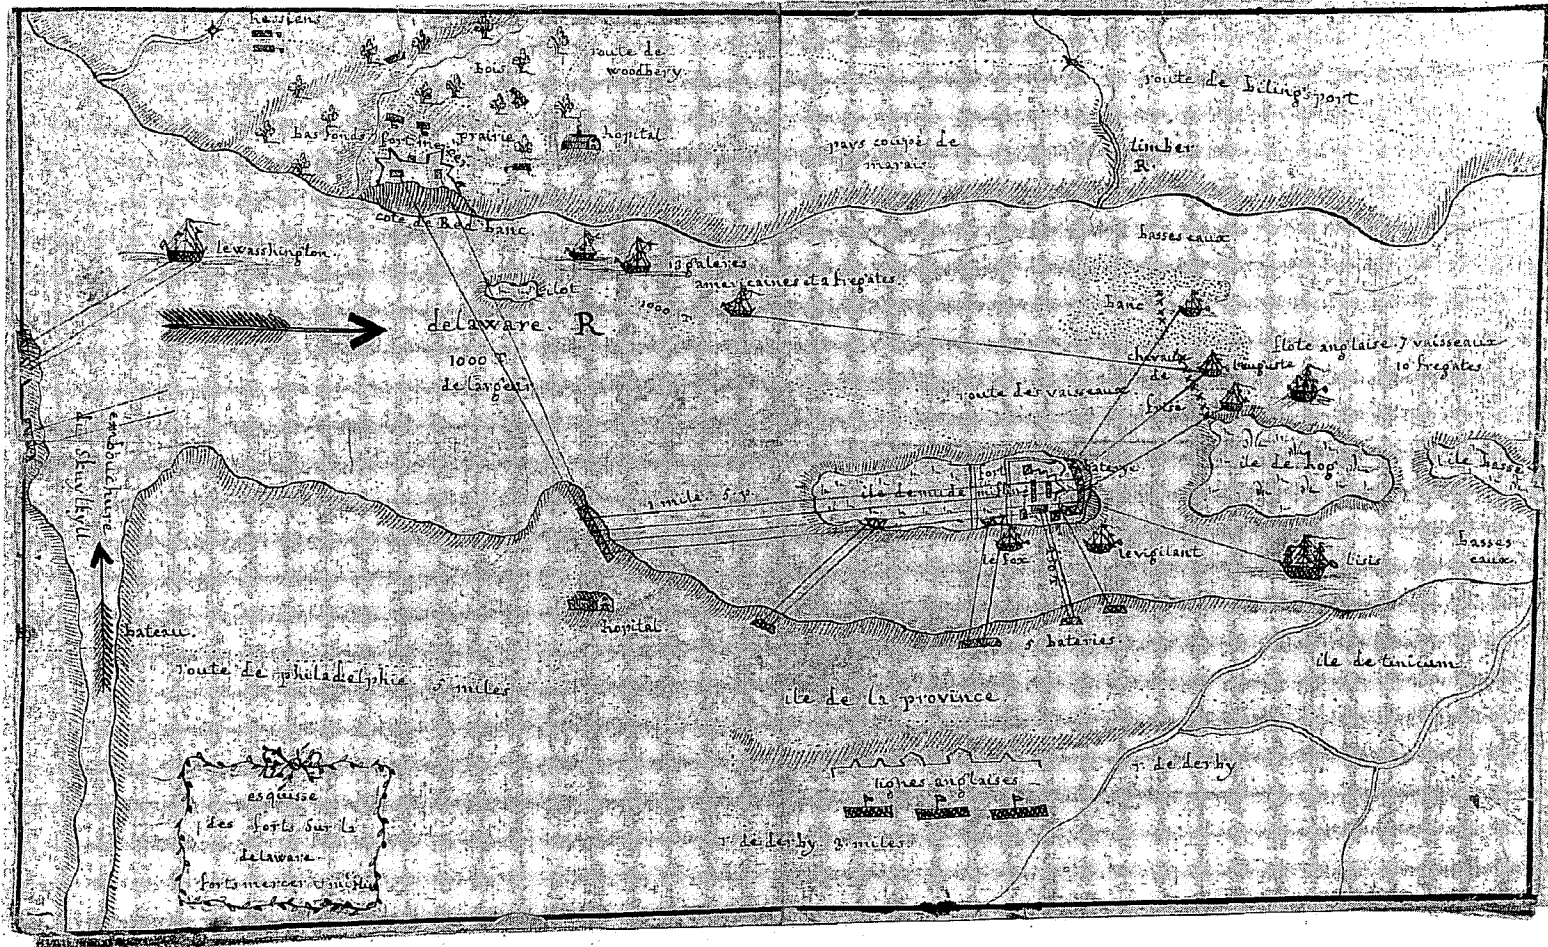

There are five ranges of Chevaux de Frizes, which the enemy must pass to get with their ships to the city. They have moved one single chevaux de frize a little way, (but not sufficiently to let them thro') at Billingsport; and Commodore Hazelwood has an old ship³ ballasted ready to sink in its place if they quite remove that Chevaux de frize. This commodore commands our armed vessels in the river, & I fancy is a capable brave man.—Fort Mifflin is on a low island (called mud-island) where we have a garrison of 200 men Continental troops. The enemy a few days since threw up in the night the redoubt N^o. 2.⁴ within a small distance of the fort; but next morning the commodore sent in some of his gallies to the shallow water, which silenced the battery & made 56 of the enemy who were at it prisoners, one of them a lieut. & one an Ensign; and would have taken twice the number, but a party of the enemy advancing from the house⁵ (N^o. 3) back of them, & the fort beginning a fire at the enemy, half of the battery men ran off to their Friends who were advancing. Province Island is diked all round, and by cutting the dike I am informed it may be overflowed at every tide. Why the dike had not been cut I can't devise. I presume it is done now.—Red bank is a good eminence on the Jersey Shore, at which we have about 400 men lately sent down. A good piece of work had (Gen^l. Knox tells me) been raised there before to defend it against any attack by land; and the garrison are going on to complete the fortification⁶ While we possess Red Bank & Fort Mifflin, our gondolas, gallies & other armed vessels can lay between them, & effectually prevent (I am assured by judicious men, & well acquainted with their situation) the enemy's getting up a single chevaux de frize there, and without getting them up they cannot pass. And the Commodore says (in his letter rec^d. yesterday)⁷ that only keep him supplied with amunition, provisions & men, & he fears not what the enemy can do in the river. And these supplies I trust it will not be impracticable to furnish him with. He speaks of men because many have deserted him. Two captains & their whole crews left him, & I suppose have joined the enemy. But out of the Rhode Island regiments which are now arrived (two of them I think are gone to red bank for garrisoning the fort there)⁸ I should suppose a supply of Sea men might be given him. & in case of absolute need the General would surely give orders for it. . . . y^{rs}. most affectionately

WILLIAM BRADFORD TO THOMAS WHARTON, JR.

Sr,

Fort Mifflin October 13th 1777

My last¹ informed you of our Success in taking 56 of of the Enemy Prisoners, and that by Col. Smiths Firing on a Body which we apprehended were coming down to surrender we lost many Prisoners, but we are since informed it was a large Party coming down to rescue those that had surrendered, who were just arrived—That Afternoon the Gallys and Floating Battery kept up a considerable Fire on the Redoubt² but to little Effect—Yesterday Morning a Party of about 150 Men were landed from this Fort on Province Island³ with an Intent to take the Redoubt under the Fire of three Gallies and the Floating Battery; but the Number of the Enemy were much more than was expected all under Cover, and a Party full as many as we had on Shore coming down from Adam Guyers, we were obliged to retire with the Loss of two Men killed and five wounded—

The Enemy's Ships having taken up one of the Chevaux de Frize, the Commodore⁴ went down last Night with two Chain of Fire Rafts to drive them from that Place, and a very heavy Cannonade ensued with the Roebuck, the Ship⁵ that was cut down and carries 24 Pounders and two other Ships,⁶ but the Commodore obliged them to quit their Station and fall down the River, and our Gally's being afraid to pass the Chevaux de Frize in the Night were obliged to return—This Morning with the Tide of Flood the Enemy's Ships returned to their Station, and we are informed they have taken up another Chevaux de Frize, tho' I can give but little Credit to it—These different Attacks has reduced our Ammunition very much, and unless we soon get some I fear the Consequences—M^r. Manuel Eyres went off some time ago for some, have not yet heard of him—Yesterday M^r. James Wharton & Jonathan Penrose was hear, they went off and have promised they will go to where the Ammunition is and send it down—If your Excellency will send off an Express and know if it is forwarded it will be of real Service—The Enemy are throwing up Works in many Places in the Meadows—I am &c.

VICE ADMIRAL VISCOUNT HOWE TO CAPTAIN ROBERT FANSHAWE, R.N.

By the Viscount Howe, Vice Admiral of the White and Commander in chief of His Majesty's Ships and Vessels employed and to be employed &c. in North America.

Whereas it is intended that His Majesty's ship under your command with those named in the margin ¹ should be employed under your orders on the coasts of the Carolinas, southward to the port of Augustine; more especially to intercept all supplies of military stores attempted to be conveyed into the harbour of Charlestown, the channel of Ocracoke or any of the creeks and inlets adjacent thereto; and otherwise to prevent all trade and communication with the rebellious inhabitants of those Colonies, as well as to take or destroy any armed vessels they have provided, by every means in your power. You are therefore in the ship you command, together with such of those before named as are ready to proceed with you, to repair to the coast of the southern provinces as soon as the weather will permit, for the several purposes aforesaid. Being further to regulate your disposition of them to cruise jointly or separately on such parts of the said coasts, and to range the same eventually, as from circumstances or the intelligence you are able to procure, you have reason to think most advisable for the general object of your present appointment.

By Captain Ferguson, who preceded you in the command on the same station, I am advised that the south west and southerly winds are said to prevail from the northward of Cape Hatteras, along the coast of the Carolinas, to Cape Florida, more than eight months in the year; also, that off Capes Hatteras and Lookout, and the shoals of Cape Fear, the Gulf Stream borders so close as to render the navigation confined and difficult, whereby it has not unfrequently happened that the passage from Cape Hatteras to Charlestown could not be made under many weeks. You will therefore direct the conduct of the ships proceeding for, or stationed on such parts of the coast, as to be guided against those reputed inconveniences.

It will be expedient by one or other of the Frigates under your orders to communicate at seasonable times with the port of Augustine—that by personal intercourse, or other signification of Governor Tonym's sentiments you may be prepared to render such assistance as will be in your opinion most proper to defeat any attempts by the Rebels for invading the province of East Florida. The Hinchinbrooke armed brig being stationed, and more particularly intended to protect the coasting trade of that Province, you will give the conditional instructions to Lieutenant Ellis that you see requisite with the same intent. A copy of his Instructions is added herewith for your further information therein.

And whereas it is intended that an assortment of victualling stores of each species should be deposited at the port of Augustine for the ships on the southern stations, and a victualling transport is ordered for that purpose, you will be [careful] to provide in the arrangement of the services incident to your present appointment, for the timely supply of the stationed ships therein accordingly. And when the quantity of the said victualling stores shall be so much reduced, or it otherwise happens that the same can be conveniently lodged on shore under due inspection, with any saving to the Crown upon the hire of the transport (chartered at the rate of nine shillings the month per ton until her arrival at Deptford) you are at liberty to land the provisions and discharge the transport for her immediate return to Europe. Receipts are to be given to the Master of the transport for the provisions issued to the different ships; and equally to the person charged with the care of the remains that may be landed.

In case, by the capture of any trading ships or ships armed for war, you should be incumbered with a number of prisoners not inclined to enter for the King's Service, you are permitted to exchange the same against any British prisoners, officer for officer claiming equal rank in the said armed vessels, and sailor for sailor, as on a proffered communication for that purpose with the inhabitants of the Provinces having British captives in possession you find them disposed on those conditions to release. But if being unable to make such advantageous exchange, you are likely to be compelled to quit your station, or to detach any of the ships under your orders on the same account, you are then equally permitted to land such prisoners, not being His Majesty's European subjects or taken in arms, in the Provinces most convenient with reference to the general purpose of these Instructions. But British prisoners taken whilst in the employment of the Rebels may be retained involuntarily to serve in the ships of the fleet, if you think fit.

You are to continue upon this service with the several ships before-mentioned, and such others as you may find, or which shall be hereafter sent to be employed under your direction, upon the coasts aforesaid, whilst their condition and the state of their men and stores will admit; or until further order—and when their return into port for either of those exigencies is likely to become necessary, it is to take effect in such succession, that two ships may remain at the same time at sea, if practicable, consistent with the nature of the relief they respectively require. But if the cause for leaving their stations shall in such time happen, that the particular ships cannot arrive in the port of New York, before the end of the first week in December (and afterwards until the beginning of the month of March, the further attempt is to be postponed) the Captain is to repair for the purpose to Rhode Island; where suitable provision will have been made for affording the necessary assistance in the meantime, whilst the access to the port of New York is likely to be obstructed by the ice which usually forms there at that season of the year.

You are to transmit to me by every suitable conveyance a particular account of your proceedings in compliance with these Instructions; the incidents that occur, the stations on which the ships have been placed from time to time, in the form annexed, and the condition of them as any change of circumstances therein may require, and further to communicate by such opportunities all advices you obtain of the practices and designs of the Rebels for strengthening themselves in their illegal resistance, with the measures deemed most effectual for preventing the success of their hostile intentions; or which in other respects appear to be for the benefit of His Majesty's Service.

Given on board His Majesty's Ship the Eagle off
Chester the 13th day of October 1777.

Howe.

By command of the Vice Admiral.

COMTE D'ARBAUD TO THE COMMANDANTS IN GUADELOUPE

Sir,

[13 October 1777]¹

I Repeat to you the orders which I gave you in my letter of the 6th of June last, relative to the American privateers, and must strongly recommend to you their exact execution:

If any American privateer comes into any Port, Road, or Bay in your district, with one or more prizes taken from their enemies, you are not to suffer them to stay longer than will be necessary to supply their wants, and you are not to suffer any goods whatsoever to be taken out of them. This Sir, is the order of the King, which I transmit to you, that you may conform thereto.

Signed

WILLIAM BINGHAM TO CONTINENTAL FOREIGN AFFAIRS COMMITTEE

Gentⁿ

S^t Pierre M/que October 13 1777

I sincerely congratulate you as well as the hon^{ble} Congress on the favorable & important News which the General¹ received a few Days ago, by a Packet Boat which sailed from Rochelle the 4th Sept;—The Substance of which is—that a Courier had been dispatched from Versailles with Instructions for the Ambassador at the Court of London, to claim all French Vessels that have been captured (without the Limits) by the English & which have been regularly cleared out for any French Port—which Regulation, if not complied with, is to be the Signal for retiring from the Coast.—The General has received orders to put every thing in Readiness for War, & to lay an Embargo on all the Ships destined for Europe, to prevent their falling into the Hands of the Enemy;

The Minister announces 5000 additional Troops for this Island & Guadeloupe—The Transports are already engaged for them, at Havre, Nantz, & Bourdeaux,—At Brest, Rocheford, & Toulon, they work Night & Day, & the greatest Preparations are making for the immediate Commencement of Hostilities;—The French Seem wisely intent upon putting their Navy on a respectable Footing, having learnt from the disastrous Events of last War, how much depends upon a proper Arrangement in that Department—

Altho the General hourly expects the Declaration of War, I cannot imagine the Minister will think it prudent to declare it, untill he has dispatched the Troops destined for this Place—The West Indies will be a busy Scene of Action—The General's Plan is immediately to attack the English Islands, & as his Success depends on conducting his Operations with Such Rapidity, as to hinder any Relief from being thrown in, I am almost confident that nothing will be done before the Arrival of the expected Reinforcement of Troops—

The Restitution of the Ship *Seine*² & her Cargo, is loudly demanded by the Court of Versailles;—The Circumstances that attend the Capture of this Vessel, are happily disposed to occasion a Subject of reciprocal Complaint & Altercation;—England cannot restore her without Showing in an excessive Degree her Weakness; & France cannot relinquish her Claim, & preserve her Dignity;—as, whatever might have been the real Destination of this Vessel, the General of this Island dispatched her, as by order & on Acc^t of his Majesty, as a Store Ship to Serve the Garrisons at Miquelon & St Domingo—The Difficulties that will present, in reconciling their various & contending Claims on each Side, & the vague & wild Pretensions formed on the Part of France, to Serve as Pretexts for a War, will render the Negotiation of this Dispute very unsatisfactory, & will force them to refer it to the last appeal the ultima Ratio Requum— . . .

I herewith have the honor of inclosing you Copy of a Letter which M^r Carmichael intimates a Desire of having communicated to you;—I have by no means neglected what he so strongly recommends, in regard to the Advantages which my Situation affords me of precipitating a War betwixt France & England;—I have always been fully convinced of the Policy of irritating the two Nations, of affording them Matter for present Resentments, & of renewing in their Minds the Objects of their antient Animosity;—The Attempt has not been altogether unavailing;—for the General informs me, that in a Memorial which was lately presented to the Court of Versailles by Lord Stormont, the Scenes that have been transacted in these Seas, form the most lively Subjects of Complaint—

Should France declare War against G Britain We shall have a free & full Indulgence in her Ports; A Number of new Arrangements will be necessary, in order that our Affairs may be conducted with some Degree of Propriety & Regularity—As many Prizes will naturally be brought in here, I wish to be acquainted with the Manner by which they are to be adjudged the lawfull Property of the Captors, & what Formalities are to be observed, & what Process carried on, in their Condemnation;

By referring to a Letter which I had the honor of writing to you under Date of Sept^r 24 1776 you will please to observe, that I had given Encouragement to an established House here to make an Importation of Muskets;—It was accordingly affected, & the Muskets have been laying here for a considerable time past—The Want of Sufficient Funds prevented me from treating for them;—At present, I would wish to decline the Purchase; but I am afraid, I Shall be under the Necessity of taking them—they are offered at a moderate Advance on the first Cost—I should be happy to have your opinion upon the Subject—& I have the honor to be [&c.]

INHABITANTS OF NORWALK TO THE CONNECTICUT GENERAL ASSEMBLY

To the Hon^{ble} the General Assembly of the State of Connecticut now Sitting at Hartford—
The Memorial of us the Subscribers Inhabitants of the Town of Norwalk in said State humbly sheweth—

That the principal place of Rendevouzè for the Enemies Shipping that cruise in the Sound is in Huntington Bay on Long Island Shore where they have ever since the Enemy took possession of New York and Long Island been almost constantly Stationed for the purpose of Cruising in the Sound and annoying Distressing and plundering the Inhabitants that live near the Shores in the Western Towns in this State—

That the Shores Easterly and Westerly in s^d. Norwalk are so extensive and so many points and Necks of Land that put out into the Sound that it is impossible for this Town to furnish a Sufficient Number of Men to guard every part thereof from the ravages of the Enemy—

That Huntington Bay is not more than Eight or Nine Miles Southerly from the Islands Points and Shores in s^d. Norwalk and that the Enemy frequently Just at Night cross the Sound and come upon us and take away our Stock and plunder us notwithstanding the utmost Care to prevent it and that the Enemy have in some Instances taken off part of our Guards and they very often of late come hovering about our Shores and Anchor about our Islands and with small armed Sloops and Boats come within our Harbours and in two Instances have lately come in the Night up our Harbours and fired upon the Houses which causes frequent alarms and creates great uneasiness among the Women and Children who Expecting to be taken prisoners or robbed plundred and Deprived of their whole Subsistence and Comforts of Life and that as we have no Armed force on the Water we have it not in our power to prevent the Enemies Small Sloops and Boats coming into our Harbours and Distressing us but if your Hon^{rs} Memorialists humbly conceives it would be otherwise in case there could be Stationed here an Armed Sloop of about Six or Eight Guns to Cruise in the Sound along the Western Shores in this State from the Experience that the Inhabitants had of Capt^t Hawleys¹ crusing in the Sound last Summer—As a Vessel of such force would be Sufficient to Encounter and repel the Enemies small Craft and prevent them from coming within our Harbours and Landing on our Points Necks of Land and Shores and thereby relieve us in a great measure from alarms Distresses and Danger—

Whereupon your Hon^{rs}. Memorialists humbly prays your Hon^{rs} to take these matters into your Wise Consideration and order that a Well fixed Vessel of about Six or Eight Guns be purchased to Cruse in the Sound at the public Expence for the Protection of the Western Shores in this State and the relief of the Inhabitants thereof from the Distress and Dangers they are in from the Enemy or in such other way grant relief in the Premises as your Hon^{rs}. in your great wisdom shall Judge best and your Hon^{rs} Memorialists as in Duty Bound shall Ever pray

Copy

Sir,

Ticonderoga, October 14th. 1777.

Inclosed I send you the best Account of the State and Condition of the Vessels upon the Lakes that I have yet been able to make out,¹ a Copy of which I also transmit to His Excellency General Sir Guy Carleton, and represent to him the real necessity of having a farther Number of Officers and Men sent upon this Service to replace the Sick.

The armed Vessels are really in their present Situation defenceless, and must so remain unless more Officers and Men are sent upon the Service. I am [&c.]

GEORGE WASHINGTON TO COLONEL CHRISTOPHER GREENE

Sir,

Head Quarters [Towamencin, Pa.] October 14th. 1777

Commodore Hazelwood informs me that the desertions from the fleet have left him exceedingly deficient in men, which must greatly enfeeble his operations.—As I imagine there is likely to be a number of men accustomed to the water in your garrison, I must desire you will immediately draft all such and deliver them for the Commodore, for the use of the fleet.—It is essential he should have a sufficiency of hands and the men cannot possibly be more usefully employed than with him.—

It is my wish that you should, and I dare say you will be ready to, assist Colonel Smith in any entreprize he may form for the security of his post, and to prevent the success of the enemys attempts for its reduction. I have directed him to apply to you for whatever assistance he may want, and you can afford.—I am [&c.]

Sir

[Towamencin, Pa.] Octo^r. 14th 1777

I yesterday rec'd your favor of the 12th.¹—In consequence of your request, I have order'd a return to be made of all the Seamen in the Army, & if they can be found, shall furnish you with the number you desire, or if the whole number cannot be had, I will collect & send you as many as I can.—I have also directed, Col^o Green who it is probable will have some men in his party accustomed to the water, to select them for the use of your fleet:—you will apply to him accordingly—

Your spirited exertions in defence of the river have my warmest acknowledgements,—and I have the fullest confidence that they will be continued to the utmost of your ability; and that you will persevere in a conduct, suitable to the importance of your trust. Be assur'd I will cooperate with you by ev'ry effort in my Power I am [&c.]

... Their [the enemy's] Shiping are every day at work on the Chevaux de frize and I fear will effect their purpose unless we had Men sufficient to Annoy them from Billingsport, for as soon as the Commodore¹ drives them down they return and begin their work. It takes much Ammunition to make them drop down, & we have not too much. As Soon as they raise the Chevaux de frize, then I expect they will open all their Batteries² & try if possible to drive us out of our Works; perhaps after they have knock'd down our Pallisades and Destroy'd our Block houses, they will attempt a Storm as we shall then have no fleet to protect our Rear, if they do I fear they will carry it as we have no men to act against a Storm, nor any thing near sufficient to work the Guns in Garrison; Had the Reg^t of Col^o Angel³ come forward we might have been able to have made a good defence, for out of the two Regiments⁴ they cou'd have Spared a 100 Seamen to the Commodore & to me near as many Men, & without more Men in this Garrison I shall be able to do but little. . . . [York] Tuesday, October 14, 1777

Resolved, That Mr. Folsom, Mr. Penn, and Mr. Laurens be added to the Marine Committee, in the room of the members from their respective states, heretofore appointed on the said committee.

Whereas, the British nation have received into their ports, and condemned in their courts of admiralty, as lawful prize, several vessels and their cargoes belonging to these states, which the masters and mariners, in breach of the trust and confidence reposed in them, have betrayed and delivered to the officers of the British crown:

Resolved, therefore, That any vessel or cargo, the property of any British subject, not an inhabitant of Bermuda or any of the Bahama islands, brought into any of the ports or harbours of any of these United States by the master or mariners, shall be adjudged lawful prize, and divided among the captors in the same proportion as if taken by any continental vessel of war.

Such of the inhabitants of this state as have property on any part of the sea coast, or unguarded rivers, will do well to take good care of it; for it has been hinted to us, that the noted plunderer Osborne,¹ of St. Augustine, has been let out of jail there, purposely to command the small Bermuda sloop, lately taken from Capt. Minor, which was to be armed for a plundering voyage, and cruize, in company with the Hinchinbrook (late our state Brig. Defence)² Capt. Mowbray's sloop (a large Northward built vessel)³ and the ship George, (lately from England) none of the four drawing more than 9 feet water. The hull of the George is described to us, appearing like a Frigate, with a figure standing off, having badges instead of galleries, with a remarkably taught mizen top mast, and narrow sails.

PROTEST OF CAPTAIN JOHN COLLINS, R.N.

Bermuda alſ
Somer Iſlands

By His Excellency George James Bruere Eſq^r
Governor, Commander in Chief and Vice Admiral of theſe Iſlands—

To all to whom this Preſent Writing or Inſtrument of Proteſt ſhall come or may Concern Greeting—

Know ye that this fourteenth day of October in the Year of Our Lord one Thouſand ſeven hundred and ſeventy Seven before me perſonally appeared John Collins Eſq^r Commander of His Maſteſty's Sloop of War the Nautilus, who Solemnly made Oath on the Holy Evangelists of Almighty God, that on the fourth Inſtant October, at Night two Priſoners, whoſe Names are Henry Hutchings, of this Iſland, late Lieu^t of the Experiment Brig^t a Pirate from South Carolina, and William Diſhrom Gunner of the Buckſkin Schooner a Pirate from Virginia, eſcaped from on board His Maſteſty's aforeſaid Sloop the Nautilus, He this Deponant in Conformity to his Duty made immediate Application to his Excellency the Governor aforeſaid, who Sent his requeſt by an Offi- cer of the Nautilus, whoſe name is William Coſway to the Honble Jon^a. Burch Eſq^r

Chief Justice of these Islands, for a Warrant which might Authorize a General Search for thesaid Prisoners in any, & all such places as might afford them Protection or Entertainment, causing the Chief Justice afores^d: to be Acquainted at the same time, that the aforesaid Prisoners were taken in Arms against His Majesty, and had consequently incurred the Penalty of High Treason, And this Deponant further saith that he was prompted to make the abovenamed Application, from the Recollection of the Blame which had been cast on Lieu^t: Merrick of His Majesty's Ship the Galatea, who altho', he was in pursuit on the twenty Second day of February last past, of a Vessel on Illicit Trade from North Carolina and was fired at in His Majesty's Boat by the People on board the said Vessel, & afterwards on his landing, set upon and beaten & insulted by a Mob, was Nevertheless universally blamed by the Inhabitants of these Islands for forcing Open the Door of a Store house, the Next Morning, which was supposed to contain a part of the Cargo of the aforesaid Vessel, because he thesaid Merrick had presumed to do so without the Sanction of the Civil Majistrate Authority.¹ And this Deponant further saith that in order to avoid the most distant imputation of Shewing any Slight or disrespect either to the Laws or the Civil Power, he this deponant caused above Application to be made as before recited to His Excellency the Governor as well as to the Chief Justice aforementioned, but to this Deponants inexpressible Astonishment, he was informed by the Officer who made the Personal Application to the said Chief Justice, that altho' he thesaid Officer had declared to thes^d: Chief Justice, that he, as well as several Others, were ready to ascertain on Oath, the Fact of taking the aforesaid Prisoners in Arms against their Sovereign, And notwithstanding the Censure which had been Cast on Lieu^t: Merrick for omitting to make a Similar Application (which omission was not only exclaimed against by the Inhabitants of these Islands amongst themselves, but was absolutely made a Charge and Complaint Against thesaid Merrick to the Lord Viscount Howe) And notwithstanding the above request & Interposition of the Governor, he thesaid Chief Justice then absolutely refused, and still does refuse to Grant this Deponant the Warrant required of him as before recited, by which refusal this Deponant is prevented from recovering two Prisoners who have engaged in Actual Rebellion & his Majesty's Service of Course very materially impeded and detrimented, Therefore thesaid John Collins in order to exempt himself, his Officers & Crew from all and every species of Accusation by any Person whatever at any time hereafter, doth hereby Publicly and Solemnly Protest against the Conduct of the said Jonathan Burch, which this Deponant conceives to be no less injurious to Our Sovereign than incompatible with the Duty of an upright Majistrate and a good Subject, And Persevering in thesaid Protest, thesaid Appearer hath hereunto at his Hand the day and year first within written—

Jn^o: Collins

This Done and Protested before me the Governor and Vice Admiral aforesaid, In Testimony whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and Caused the Great Seal of these Islands to be affixed the day and year aforesaid— George James Bruere

HENRY TUCKER TO ST. GEORGE TUCKER

My Dear S^t Geo.

This is intended if it shou'd get to your hands to tell you that we are all alive, but how long we shall be so God knows, for we are at the verge of famine, our ports have been stop'd up for more than 6 Months & not the least supplies arrived till a day past a small vessel with ab^t 1000 bus^{ls}. corn got into a little inlet on the Southside and landed it the tender being come to Town the day before this is a temporary relief only for unless much greater quantities soon arrives the people will be in the utmost want as there never was so little expected from the Ground owing to a great drough the last Summer.—had there not been great Supplies bro^t in last Winter we must have perished. The Gov^r has been apply'd to by the people, Council & Assembly to agree to some method to procure provisions but to no purpose¹ I us'd to think his obstinacy was owing to his Ignorance, but I now begin to think the badness of his heart has a share in the weakness of his head.—The Country sent an Address to the King by M^r Taylor but that Gent. after several applications was not permitted to a sight of Lord G. Germain nor cou'd obtain an Ans^r to the Address, he was told that an Official Letter that went in his Vessel was read by the Secry Robinson who exclaim'd "What are those Wretches in Rebellion too.["] from which we conjecture that some false representations occasion'd M^r Taylors not having an Audience of the Minister. he wrote L^d G. a very spirited Letter on the Occasion which was never answer'd.—It is said Collins is to leave the Island in a few days for want of Bread, as his Men grow uneasey; I believe the true Motive is he finds his harvest over however I wish we were well rid of him, for I'm sure a worse cant come. . . . I remain My D^r S^t Geo. Your ever Aff^r Father

DIARY OF CAPTAIN FREDERICK MACKENZIE

[Rhode Island] 15th Oct^r—Fine weather. Wind S.W.

... Great numbers of people seen all day about Howland's ferry, and many Sloops and small craft are continually coming there from the adjacent rivers. A Schooner which lay for some days a little above the ferry, is now in Quaket gut,¹ and they appear to be loading her with something in Casks. Many Carts covered with Red painted Cloth, like the Hessian Ammunition Carts, have been seen about Howland's ferry lately.²

The Rebels have four or five pieces of Cannon mounted in their Fort above the ferry.

It appears by the answers to the letters sent to Bristol, that the flag of truce Sloop³ which was lately sent up to Providence is detained there and the officer and men made prisoners, in consequence of the Officer's having been detected in taking a sketch of the River, with the Soundings, &c. &c.⁴ The Rebels are in possession of the Sketch. It is probable this affair will make some noise, and occasion a good deal of trouble. The imprudent conduct of a young Officer is frequently productive of great difficulties to those who Command.

The uncommon movements among the Rebels, and the numbers of people who have been seen of late about Howland's ferry, strongly indicate some enterprize, and make it prudent for us to be on our guard.

COMMODORE WILLIAM HOTHAM TO VICE ADMIRAL VISCOUNT HOWE

(Copy)

Preston off Peek's Kiln Creek.

15th October 1777.

My Lord,

Since I had the Honour to write to you by the Apollo not any thing material has happened here; but Sir Henry Clinton having occasion to write to the Commander in Chief, I take the same Opportunity to acquaint Your Lordship, that the Number of Men which would be necessary for the Defence of the more extensive Garrison of Fort Montgomery has induced Sir Henry to destroy it, and to add some Works to that of Fort Clinton which commanding the first, effectually removes all Apprehension from thence, and reduces the Force necessary to maintain it to about 800 Men: This has enabled Him to send a Detachment of about 1600 Men up the North River under General Vaughan; Sir James Wallace who has already explored the River as high as Pakepsy, directs the Naval Part consisting of the Gallies and small Vessels¹ as before; and Captain Stanhope² under Him, commands the Detachment of flat Boats appointed for the occasion. They sailed Yesterday and are now above the Chevaux de frize off Pollepus Island,³ where I have placed the Mercury to secure that Passage against their Return, and the Cerberus being reported to me as only fit for River Service, takes Her Station off Stoney Point, to scour that Neck, and to give her Assistance at the same time the Camp at Verplanks; The Tartar flanks the Approaches to Fort Clinton, and the Preston lies between the two, within Signals of either.

The principal Object of the Move up the River is to facilitate the Motions (whatever they may be) of the Northern Army, and by the Alarm which it will occasion to cause a Diversion in their Favour.

The Unicorn was to sail to-day with a Convoy of Victuallers for Rhode Island—The Galatea's Rudder was dropping off and has been obliged to be unhinged and the Brune's Standing as well as Running-Rigging mostly condemned by Survey. I have the Honour to be [&c.]

LIEUTENANT COLONEL ALEXANDER HAMILTON TO COLONEL CHRISTOPHER GREENE

Sir
Head Quarters [Towamencin, Pa.] Oct^r 15th 1777.
11 OClock PM.

His Excellency¹ is persuaded by intelligence from different Quarters that the Enemy are determin'd to endeavour, by a speedy & vigorous effort to carry Fort Mifflin, and for this purpose are preparing a considerable force.—their attempt will probably be sudden & violent as they are hardly in a situation to delay a matter so essential to them as that of removing the river obstructions.—It is of infinite importance to disappoint their intentions in this instance, as their keeping or evacuating Philadelphia materially depends upon their having the communication with their shipping immediately opened, & it is not unlikely they may despair of effecting it, if they should fail in the push which is imagin'd they are now about to make.—Col^o Smiths present force is not as great as could be wish'd, & requires to be augmented to put him in a condition to make an effectual opposition.—The Gen^l would therefore have you to detach immediately as large a part of your force as you possibly can in aid of his garrison, He cannot well determine what proportion, this must be regulated by circumstances & appearances, but his present idea is that the principal part should go to his assistance: To inable you the better to spare a respectable reinforcement, He has directed Gen^l Newcomb to send his Brigade of Militia to Red Bank or as many of them as he can prevail upon to go. Col^o Angell will also March to morrow morning to join you with his reg^t²—The Garrisons & Fleet may be inform'd of these succours by way of keeping up their spirits. It will not be adviseable to trust to the houses in the Neighbourhood of your Post, as these in case of an investiture will fail you, which makes it prudent to have a sufficient Number of huts before hand prepar'd within the Fort. He hopes & doubts not you will keep fully in mind the prodigious importance of not suffering the Enemy to get entire possession of the Delaware & will spare no pains nor activity to frustrate their efforts for that purpose. He begs you to be watchfull on ev'ry Quarter & industrious in stopping ev'ry avenue by which you are assailable. cautious not to pay too much attention to any one part of your works, & neglect the others, but take ev'ry precaution to strengthen the whole, for otherwise the greatest danger may be where you least expect it—I am &c^e

Last night I received the inclosed Letter.¹—The Commodore² plac'd the Gallies in proper places to prevent a Storm, and the night being very Foggy no attempt was made. The night before last they throw'd up a Battery before the Hospital³ on Province Island. This morning at nine OClock the Fog clear'd away, and they began firing from the Battery at the mouth of Schuylkill,⁴ the one before the Hospital and from the one opposite Fort Mifflin.⁵ They have as yet fir'd but few shot, but we suppose they will continue and increase their fire. Sir,

Of Fort Island October 15. 1777

I received your Excellencys just now.¹—The Enimy have now opened three Batteries on us One from the Mouth of Schuylkill, One just before the Hospital² and another opposite Fort Mifflin.³ That opposite the Fort has thrown several shells but has done no damage as yet. I have apply'd to Colonel Green who is willing to grant me some Men, but must return them as soon as any attack is done. The different attacks that has been made on the Enimies Shipping and their Batteries has reduc'd the Amunition very much. The Navy Board sent off M^r Manuel Eyres sometime ago for some but have not yet received it. The Day before Yesterday M^r James Wharton went off from Fort Mifflin to hurry down some more, and Yesterday M^r Albertson was despatch'd after them to quicken their motions. The Enimies Ships still lay near Billingsport and I believe will not be able to get thro the Chevaux de Frize. DIARY OF CAPTAIN FRANCIS DOWNMAN

[Carpenters Island, Pa.]

October 15th.—The fog did not clear up so that we could distinguish anything plainly till about 8 or 9 o'clock in the morning, when I fired the first howitzer into the fort. The other battery began directly after me, and we kept up the ball for some time without their returning a shot. At length they began and fired very briskly at us, but did no damage. This morning another battery of ours, of two iron 18 pounders, opened upon the rebel shipping and fort; unfortunately one of these guns burst and badly wounded two or three men. This battery was begun and finished in the night; its situation is on the point of Province Island near the Schuylkill, and it is called the Pest-house battery. Immediately after our fire commenced, the whole rebel fleet moved out of reach in great hurry and confusion, receiving some damage from our shells. Their Commodore¹ and large ships went near Gloucester Point, and their floating batteries, galleys, fire ships, and rafts went under the Jersey shore at Red Bank, where they are collecting forces and raising works.² I was relieved this evening by Captain Standish from one of the most horrid commands that ever man was upon, the whole place under water, and the battery itself knee deep, almost torn to pieces by the rebel shot, and made so badly at first that several shot have gone through, and we have no safety in it but by lying down on the platform.

BRIGADIER GENERAL HENRY WATSON POWELL TO BRIGADIER GENERAL ALLAN MACLEAN

Copy of a letter from Brigadier General Powel dated Mount Independence October 16th 1777

Dear Sir

I have not heard from General Burgoyne since I wrote to you on the 10th. Instant but from the different accounts we have received, which seem to be well authenticated I am afraid there is too much reason to fear and believe he has been obliged to capitulate at Saratoga last monday Major Grey¹ has given you the particulars, therefore I shall not repeat such disagreeable tidings.

This place, tho every step has been taken to make it as strong as circumstances would permit, must I fear submit to cannon and numbers, if I do not receive the Generals orders very soon do [to] destroy and abandon it, but this I need not mention to you, who know the situation of it so well.

I think all the Batteaux you can spare out to be sent up as soon as possible, that we may be prepared for the worst event, and those upon Lake George should likewise be destroyed, If this place is to be defended very strong reinforcements will be necessary as well as provisions. Yours in haste

THOMAS SHAW TO JOSHUA LORING

Sir

New London Octo 16 1777

By the directions I have received from His Excellency Governor Trumbull for the Exchange of Prisoners, I now Inclose you a List of Forty Five British Prisoners lately Captured & brought into this State. In return for them you'l please to send to this Port an equal number of American Seamen Prisoners with you of the Same Rank, near as may be in Exchange. Should take it as a favour and shall expect that you give me in return Connecticut men. The bearer hereof Nicholas Fosdick who is impower'd and Instructed to negotiate an Exchange of these Prisoners, will present you with a List of Names which he is desirous to get in return. As there is but Fourteen of the above Prisoners that was taken in the Merchant Service and as I have requested that I might have Men that belonged to the State of Connecticut, (taking it for granted that we have not so many men taken in arms) that you will make up the difference in Merchant Men, and acknowledge it, that we may hereafter exchange British Merchant-Men for Americans that are taken in Commission Vessells.

For fear this Flag should be stopped by some of His Brittanac Majestys Cruisers on the Sound from proceeding to New York (as has been the case)¹ I have inclosed a Copy of the List of Men which we would have in return & the remainder in any Connecticut Men as mentioned above. I shall rely upon your endeavours to get these Men, as some of them have been Prisoners a long Time.

One Alex^d Clark Serg^t in Cap^t Miles C^o third Battalion was last July sent to N York, to be exchanged for Tho^s Updike Fosdick Ensign in Cap^t Hales C^o now prisoner at New Lotts on Long Island, which if not effected, should be glad might be accomplished & he sent up in this Flag.

By the permission of His Excellency Jonathan Trumbull Esq^r Governor of the State of Connecticut, I would propose an Exchange of Cap^t Judd² of y^c Antelope & Cap^t Flynn³ of the Weymouth-Packet, lately Captured and brought into this State, for Cap^t Manly⁴ of y^c Hancock & Cap^t Thomas Pickering of the brig *Defiance*⁵ Prisoners, with you, which if you agree to on your part, will be comply'd with on ours. Dear Gen^l

I have been hon^d: with the receipt of your two favours of y^e 8th and imagine before this you have rec^d: mine of the Same date containing the disagreeable intelligence of the loss of fort mountgomery after a most Spirited defence & of our evacuating Peek's Kill in Consequence thereof—I congratulate you on the bravery of your Troops in attacking & putting to flight the british army, & regret the unfavourable Circumstance that prevented its terminating in a Compleat Victory last monday Gen^l Parsons¹ with about Two thousand Troops marched down & took possession of Peek's Kill & the passes in the high lands he has taken a number of Cattle horses & Sheep which were Collected by the Enemy—The Enemy have burnt the buildings & barracks at the Village² & Several dwelling houses & other buildings at Peek's Kill—they have demolished Fort mountgomery & Constitution—& are repairing Fort Clinton—yesterday about forty Sail passed up the river Crouded with Troops—and are now at anchor above Poughkipsie the wind not favouring³—we were on our march after them when I met the agreeable intelligence of the Surrendry of Gen^l Burgoine & his army as prisoners of war, a Copy of which is enclosed; & thereupon I do most Sincerely Congratulate your excellency—I have halted my Troops & am now Considering what ought to be my next movement—have Sent to Gov^r Clinton for his Opinion on the Subject—& ordered Gen^l Parsons to Spare no pains to find the Situation & Strength of y^e garrison at Kings bridge in order to direct my future Operations most advantagiously I have about Six thousand Troops who are Chiefly militia I understand that Gen^l Campbell⁴ was Killed at Fort mountgomery & Several Field officers & others of inferior rank The Enemy's loss by the last accounts I have been able to get is very Considerable not less than a thousand killed & wounded—The Two Continental Frigates & the row Galley⁵ which lay above Fort mountgomery were burnt to prevent there falling into the hands of the Enemy for which I am very Sorrey as one I belv. might have been saved—

I have the unhappiness to Inform you that M^{rs} Putnam after a long & tedious illness departed this life last Tuesday night—with the highest esteem & respect I am [&c.]

Honor'd Sir

Boston 17th Oct 1777—

This will be handed you by Capt Harding,¹ and hope before this reaches Lebanon his health will in some measure be reestablish'd, soon after his arrival he took a bad cold, and at times has been so poorly as to occasion some fears of his being able to go to Sea this fall—he is now much better, and I hope this journey will compleat his recovery—Capt Harding has been indefatigable in getting affairs in the greatest forwardness—he has discharg'd the greater part of his people, has taken the Cromwell's ² Masts out, which upon survey will want repairing, and she is now ready to go on the ways.—The Brig Defence is near ready to Launch—Capt Harding has survey'd her and is of the mind that she must be turn'd into a Ship—it will be attended with a great addition of Expence—Cap^t H: will inform your Excellency of the additional estimate and of every perticular relating to the two Vessells—it is necessary to have the Officers of the Defence in Town, and that measures should be taken for enlisting Men, which shall be done as soon as I have your directions respecting the establishment of your Navy—There are many articles which cannot be procurd in these parts—such Tallow, Cheese &c &c^e which I shall write to your Son for—and by the return of the Teams shall send Salt.—The Doct of the Cromwell claims the Doctors Medecines and Stores found in the Weymouth Packet, as his perquisite, which I refus'd him, I suppose he waits upon your Excellency respecting them—I consulted the board of Warr before I gave a final answer to Captain H: about the Doctors having any perquisite whatever.—Hope Capt H: will not make a long tarry, as the Vessells will be fitted much sooner if he is in this Town, indeed Officers and Seamen are so prejudic'd in his favor, that I am fully convinc'd the Cromwell will be got to Sea, full two months Sooner with his presence than without—I remain [&c.]

DIARY OF CAPTAIN FREDERICK MACKENZIE

[Extract]

[Rhode Island] 17th Oct^r—Fair morning, but windy, & likely to rain. Wind N.E.

Everything perfectly quiet last night. This Morning a considerable number of men were observed about Howland's ferry. In the course of the day a great many small arms were fired on the opposite shore. The almost continual irregular firing of small arms for the last two days, where such numbers of people are assembled, are strong indications of their making some attack soon.

A Jew named Isaac Goodman came over last night from the Bristol side, and was brought to Gen^l Pigot's¹ quarters about one oClock this morning, where he gave the following account—That he left Providence yesterday morning in the Packet for Warren, and came from thence in a Canoe with a man who was going to Bristol;—that after they got round Papasquash [Papasquash] point and got near Hog Island, he told the man he would give him his watch if he would put him ashore on Rhode Island; which he accordingly did near Arnold's point, and went off without being discovered by our Sentries, as it was dark. He says the Rebels have collected a very formidable force, and intend to attack us very soon. Nine or 10,000 men are now assembled in the vicinity of Howland's ferry for that purpose. That during the Summer a great number of flat boats have been built at & near Providence, and that within a short time, near 300 boats of different descriptions, but most of them flat boats and Scows, have been brought from Providence to Warren, from whence they have been carried over Warren Neck into Kikemuit river, beyond Mount Hope. That most of them are now in Quaket pond (or Wanton's Cove)² near Howland's ferry. That they intend making three attacks—One at Howland's ferry, another at Fogland's ferry, and the third at Easton's beach. That two fire ships came down from Providence yesterday Morning, and are now anchored near their Frigate, which is The Providence, Cap^t Whipple; and that they are to come down the first fair wind, supported by the Frigate, and endeavor to burn our Frigates, while theirs gets out, and the attack is made on the Island.³ That they have near 40 pieces of Cannon at Howland's, which are to be brought over in Scows. That this Expedition has been concerted for some months, during which time they have been making preparations for it. That 3000 of the troops are Militia of Connecticut, who crossed lately from Warwick to Warren, and from thence by Kikemuit River to Howlands. That they keep a strong guard every night in the Redoubt at the point of Howland's neck. That our last deserters told them we had not above 2000 men on the Island, and that they might easily force us. That they have exact intelligence of everything doing on the Island, and that some Rebels were lately at the house of a person who conveys information to them. He added that the troops they have assembled are all Militia, except about 70 Continental troops and some Artillery, and that they are engaged until the end of October. That many of them were induced to come upon this expedition by the hopes of the plunder of Newport, which was promised them. General Spencer has the Chief Command. He mentions several other particulars with great accuracy and confidence; and declares they give out that we are to be attacked very soon.

In consequence of the abovementioned information, General Pigot thought proper to postpone the attempt against Bedford [in Dartmouth], and ordered the troops destined for that service to disembark, which they did at one o'Clock this day, and marched to their respective Encampments. The Wood cutting party was also disembarked and joined their Corps.

Bedford was the object of the Detachment under the Command of Lieu^t Colonel Marsh.⁴ The Rebels having several Privateers there, and also some West India ships which had been taken by them, our troops were to have taken or destroyed them, and spiked up the Cannon upon a Battery at the entrance of the Port. The force for this service was 400 of the 43rd, 100 of the Flank Companies of the 54th, 120 of the Wood party; 2 Frigates, and the Kingsfisher.

It certainly was a very fortunate circumstance that the Jew came in at the time he did, and that the wind was not quite favorable for the fleet to sail at the time appointed; otherwise it would have gone out with 600 troops; and the Rebels perceiving it, would probably have chosen that time for making the attack. And as the Kingsfisher was to have gone from her Station,⁵ the part of the Island where one of the attacks was to be made, would have been left exposed. . . .

On board the Friendship off Esopus,

Friday the 17th. [October 1777]—

Sir

10 oClock Morning.

I have the Honor to inform you that on the Evening of the 15th. Instant, I arrived off Esopus,¹ finding that the Rebels had thrown up Works,² and had made every Disposition to annoy us, and cut off our Communication, I judged it necessary to attack them, the Wind being at that Time so much against us that we could make no way,—I accordingly landed the Troops, attacked their Batteries, drove them from their Works, spiked & destroyed their Guns.—Esopus being a Nursery for almost every Villain in the Country, I judged it necessary to proceed to that Town. on our approach they were drawn up, with Cannon, which we took & drove them out of the Place. On our entering the Town they fired from their Houses, which induced me to reduce the Place to Ashes, which I accordingly did, not leaving a House. We found a considerable Quantity of Stores of all kinds, which shared the same Fate.

Sir James Wallace has destroyed all the Shipping except an Armed Galley,³ which run up the Creek,⁴ with every Thing belonging to the Vessels in Store.

I enclose you a News paper I found in the Town, but am to inform you that a Messenger arrived at Esopus the 14th Instant at Night, giving an Account that General Burgoyne, had surrendered himself with his whole Army, and that they were marched Prisoners into Connecticut. How far we may depend on this Account, Time will shew.

Sir James & myself will push forward the next Tide. I have the Honor to be [&c.]

Gallies & Armed Vessels off Ezopus

Sir,
We proceeded up the River destroying a Number of Vessels as we sailed along, without stopping till we arrived at Ezopus Creek,¹ where we found two Batteries.² One of two Guns the other of three Guns erected, and an Armed Galley³ at the Mouth of the Creek, who endeavored to prevent our passing by their Cannonade. General Vaughan was of Opinion such a force should not be left behind—It was determined to land and destroy them, and immediately executed—without retarding our proceeding up the River—The General marched for the Town and fired it⁴—the Boats from the Armed Vessels went up the Creek—Burnt two Brigs, several large Sloops and other Craft with all their Apparatus that was in Stores upon the Shore—Lieu^t. Clark of the Dependence with two or three others⁵ in firing the Stores was blown up, but we flatter ourselves not Dangerously.

The Officers and Men upon this Occasion behaved with the greatest Spirit.

By all our Information I am afraid General Burgoyne is retreated—if not worse. I have the Honour to be [&c.]

MAJOR FRANÇOIS LOUIS TEISSÈDRE DE FLEURY TO
LIEUTENANT COLONEL ALEXANDER HAMILTON

[Fort Mifflin, October 17, 1777]

... Our greatest Uneasiness is occasioned by the dread of Surprize—the Channel¹ between Pennsylvania and the Fort is altogether clear; the Galleys have removed to the Jersey Side out of all distance for annoying the Enemy and seconding us, the nights are darken'd by Fogs and all our Garrison must be on the watch to avoid being carried by Storm—I am ignorant of the Plans of His Excellency,² I scarcely allow myself to form conjectures—but if the thing required be, to hinder the Enemy from reaching Philadelphia, to cut off their Communication altogether, even in flat bottom'd Boats, which might pass the Chevaux de frize and in a Channel at 1400 yds dist. from Red-bank (which Place is a mile & a quarter and five perches from Fort Island) our Battery alone can answer the end—what can you expect from Shot thrown at the distance of 1400 yards against a moveable object? Red Bank tis said is to serve as a Retreat for our Garrison—but it wants no Retreat—its Refuge is in its pallsades and it's Courage—let it be reinforced—let it be put out of the reach of Storm—and the Enemy will not be so soon Masters of the River—but we must have men—works—and be enabled to make vigorous Sallies. . . .

"COPY OF A LETTER FROM CAPT. JAMES COLLINSON OF THE SHIP WILL,
TO HIS OWNERS AT LIVERPOOL, DATED DOMINICA, OCT. 17, 1777"

"I congratulate you on our Arrival here on the 8th of October. On the 7th we fell in with a Rebel Privateer Sloop with 10 Guns and 16 Swivels, which we defended ourselves from for full five Hours. She boarded us on the Larboard Quarter with 12 Men, which we killed, and made them cry out for Quarter several Times, but still kept a brisk Fire upon them, and paid no Regard to their crying for Quarter, as they still had their Colours up. They were Half an Hour under our Quarter, where we made them fast to us. By their cutting their Ropes they cleared from our Quarter; then we stood to the northward, and cleared Ship ready for them again; when clear gave Chace, and came up with them, gave them three Broadides and three Cheers, and left them, as we should run a Risk of losing the Ship if we had taken them all, though I imagine we killed 40 or 50 of their Men; and by Information I find she had on board 120.

"At Noon the same Day we fell in with a Schooner of 14 Carriage Guns, which we fought for six Hours, and gave them the same as above, but are not certain what Number of Men we killed, as she did not board us, but was prepared with Stinkpots on her Bowsprit End. We should have sailed for Jamaica in three Days after our Arrival, but for the Damage we got by the Sloop; she carried all the Iron Stantions away on the Larboard Quarter. We have not one Man killed or wounded, and all behaved like true Britons. We fired the small Arms three Times for their twice, and every Man obeyed his Orders. We boarded five Sail coming out, but could not condemn them."

"Immediately on the Will's Arrival at Dominica, the following Paper was subscribed by a Number of Gentlemen, and 72 l. 6 s. collected:

"For the Encouragement of the twenty-five brave Fellows belonging to the Ship Will, Capt. Collinson, who, on the 7th inst. gallantly defended the said Ship for five Hours against a Rebel Privateer of fourteen Carriage Guns and about 120 men, and obliged the Privateer to sheer off; likewise a Schooner Privateer of the same Force; we Subscribers hereto have given the Sum opposite to our respective Names.

DEPOSITION OF JOHN HUTCHASON, PRIZE MASTER OF THE BRIG VENUS(Copy)
Grenada

The Deposition of John Hutchason Mariner taken before the Worshipful Alexander Sympson Sole Judge of the Court of Vice Admiralty to certain standing Interrogatorys on behalf of our Sovereign Lord the King concerning the recapture of a certain Brig called the Venus.—the fifteenth day of October One thousand seven hundred & seventy seven—

Interrog^y 1st To the first Interrogatory this deponent saith that he was born in the Province of Pensilvania in America, & has resided in that province for these seven years last past & upwards that he is and has ever been a subject of His Majesty the King of Great Britain, that he never was admitted a burgher or free man of any City or Town.—

Interrog 2 To the second Interrogatory this Deponent saith that he was present at the time of taking and seizing the Vessel concerning which he is now examined, that she had no Commission

Interrog^y 3 To the third Interrogatory this Deponent saith that it was in Latitude fourteen on the ninth day of this Instant that the said Vessel was retaken & seized, for being American property as was supposed, that the said Vessel was brought into the port of Saint George in this Island and sailed under Continental Colours, that there was resistance made at the time the Vessel was taken & seized, that there were two Muskets & []¹ Cohorns fired, that this deponent fired the Cohorns & the Muskets were fired by some of the French men that were on board, that the said Vessel was taken by an Armed brig called the Revenge commanded by one Daniel Campbell, but does not know whether she had a Commission or not.—

Interrog^y 4 To the fourth Interrogatory this Deponent saith that he was Master of the Vessel taken, that he was appointed to the Command by one Gustavus Cunningham Commander of an American Privateer Sloop² called the Revenge, that this deponent took possession of the said Vessel at Sea in Latitude 57.³ & that the possession was Delivered to this Dep^t by the said Gustavus Cunningham who lives in Philadelphia, which is his fixed place of abode, that this Dep^t doth not know where the said Gustavus Cunningham was Born nor of whom he is a Subject,⁴ that he is married & his Wife and family reside at Philadelphia

Interrog^y 5 To the fifth Interrogatory this Deponent saith that the Vessel taken is about One hundred and fifty Tons burthen, that there were five Seamen on board the said Vessel, that two were English one Scotchman, one American, that there were also Nine Frenchmen on board who acted as Marines on board the American Privateer Sloop, that they all went on board in Latitude 57. & were sent on board by the said Charles Cunningham

Interrog^y 6 To the Sixth Interrogatory this Deponent saith that he had not nor had any of the Mariners or people on board the said Vessel any part share or Interest in her, that this Deponent did belong to the said Vessel at the time she was taken in Capacity of Master, that this Deponent hath known her since the third of August last at which time she was taken by the said American Privateer Sloop

Interrog^y 7 To the seventh Interrogatory this Deponent saith that she is a Brig called the Venus that she hath been so called ever since this Deponent knew her, but doth not know of her being called by any other name or names, that she had no passport or Sea brief on board, that the said Brig sailed from the Coast of Greenland bound for Liverpoole as this deponent hath been informed & believes.—

Interrog^y 8 To the eighth Interrogatory this Deponent saith that at the time she was taken she had fourteen butts & some barrels of Oil on board but does not know when the same was put on board.—

Interrog^y 9 To the Ninth Interrogatory this Deponent saith that he doth not know who were the Owners of the said Brig.—⁵

Interrog^y 10 To the tenth Interrogatory this Deponent saith that he doth not know

Interrog^y 11 To the Eleventh Interrogatory this Deponent knoweth not

Interrog^y 12. 13. 14. & 15 To these Interrogatorys this Deponent knoweth not

Interrog^y 16 To the sixteenth Interrogatory this Deponent saith that at the time the said Vessel was retaken she had no other paper or papers than a Register.—

Interrog^y 17 To the Seventeenth Interrogatory this Deponent saith that on the third day of August last the said Vessel was taken & seized as a prize by the aforesaid Charles Cunningham, but was never condemn'd as such.—

Interrog^y 18 To the Eighteenth Interrogatory this Deponent saith that he hath not Interrog^y 19 & 20th. To these Interrogatorys this Deponent knowth not.—

Interrog^y 21 To the twenty first Interrogatory this Deponent saith that the aforesaid American Privateer was fitted out at Dunkirk by the said Gustavus Cunningham that this Deponent entered on board the said Privateer on the seventeenth of July last in the capacity of Chief Mate, that she sailed from Dunkirk the 17 of July & cruized in the North Seas, that while this Deponent continued on board the said Privateer she took five prizes the first a Sloop from Rotterdam bound to Scotland loaded with Gin⁶ the second a Brig from England bound up the Baltic in ballast⁷ the third also a Brig from England bound up the Baltic also in ballast⁸ the fourth likewise a Brig from the Baltic bound for the North of England loaded with lumber,⁹ that the first prize was sunk by the said Cunningham scuttling her, the second, was manned & sent to some port but where this Deponent doth not know, the third was ransomed by the Master for Six hundred guineas by Bills on Holland payable to some person in France & for the securing the payment of those Bills a Hostage was put on board the privateer but this Deponent doth not know either the name of the Drawer of the bills or whom they were drawn or to whom payable nor the name of the hostage,¹⁰ that the fourth prize was burnt, & that the fifth prize was the Vessel concerning which this Deponent is now examined, that he did intend to have carried her to Martinico & was to have delivered her to the American Agent¹¹ residing at Martinico.—

PETITION OF MUNGO MACKAY AND OTHERS TO THE MASSACHUSETTS GENERAL COURT

State of To the Hon’ble Council & Hon’ble House of Representatives
Massachusetts-Bay in General Court assembled at Boston, Septem^r 1777.

We the Subscribers, agents for the respective Privateers set against our Names, beg leave to represent to your Honors,

That the said Privateers by Contract with the Committee of this Honorable Court, joined the Continental Fleet, which lately saild from this Port, under the Command of Capt John Manly, under certain Conditions in said Contract mentioned One of which was, that in Case of an accidental seperation of any Vessell belonging to the Fleet from the rest, the Prize or Prizes, such Vessell should take, during the Continuance of the Contract, being Twenty five Days, should be equally divided among the whole Fleet, as tho they had all been in Company, that by reason of a violent Gale of wind soon after the Fleet saild, there was a total seperation of them, and within the term limited by Contract, several Prizes were taken by some of the Privateers, and the Owners of them now absolutely refuse, to comply with the Terms of their Contract with the aforementioned Committee,

Your Memorialists humbly apprehend that as most of the Owners of the aforesaid Privateers were induced to risque their Property and the Seamen & mariners onboard them their Lives, under the advantageous Promises of this Contract, The Honor, as well as Interest of the Government is concernd in enforcing a faithfull compliance with it.

Your Memorialists therefore prays your Honors, to give your aforesaid Committee Instructions to demand a fulfillment of the said agreement from all the Owners of the Privateers, or those who Contract in their behalf, and in Case of a refusal to persue the necessary Steps, to Compel them to it, And as in Duty bound shall ever pray &c &c &c.—

I have just dispatched the Teams you sent down with 326 bushells Salt Nine Coils Cordage Wt. 10^{ct} 0^{qr} 16^{li} and the Model for the Cannon which is an Extreemly fine one and Compleatly executed I hope the workmen at the Furnace will form their Cannon upon this pattern and I think they must Answer every purpose.

I can't conceive it possible to get good Cannon for the Ship Mr. Cushing is building at Salisbury¹ neigher than the same works I must therefore beg you to Engage Twenty eight twelve pounders for that Ship in the same manner you do for your own² and to be ready as soon as possible I am Sorry it is not in our power to furnish you with a sum of money knowing you must want it We have not yet received any from the Marine Committee We presume the Situation of Public affairs at the Southward and the removal of Congress from Philadelphia has prevented. We flatter ourselves we shall soon have some sent us and when received shan't fail to Supply you. We can furnish you with a quantity of Barr Lead whenever you send Teams for it. I am [&c.]

Jas: Warren.

The Leads round the Pattern are fastned with pins to fall in pieces after the Mould is Completed I hope your workmen will understand the design the Beauty of the Cannon depends on it.

The Brig Fox, Capt. Brock, from Bedford [in Dartmouth] for South-Carolina, in Ballast, was taken the 21st ult. by the Galatea, a British Cruizer, and ordered for Newport, in the Care of a Midshipman and four British Sailors. On the 9th Instant, at Night, they were in Sight of Martha's Vineyard, when the Mate and one of her former Hands being the only Persons on Deck, they ran the Brig ashore at the Vineyard, where the Midshipman and four Sailors were made Prisoners, and committed to Gaol.

DIARY OF CAPTAIN FREDERICK MACKENZIE

[Rhode Island] 18th Oct^r—Thick weather, and strong wind at N.E. with rain.

A Flat boat or Batteaux, marked No. 73, with Six muffled Oars in her, and capable of carrying about 20 Troops, was blown over last night to Fogland ferry, and taken up by some men of the Flank Companies.

Great numbers of Rebels appeared to day about Howland's ferry and towards Fogland. They are particularly busy at Quaket Gut,¹ and several Carts and vessels laden with barrels, appear to be unloading there. No great number of boats can be seen in any part; but they certainly have a considerable number in the Neighbourhood, and have some enterprize of consequence in agitation. There was a good deal of firing yesterday and this day at Howland's. The firing appears to be at a Mark.

GOVERNOR GEORGE CLINTON TO MAJOR GENERAL ISRAEL PUTNAM

Hurley 18th October 1777 12 o'Clock A.M.

Dear Sir,

I am this Moment favoured with yours of this Morning. There is nothing New happened in this Quarter since I wrote you yesterday. The Enemy is 8 or 10 Miles above this burning away but as there are no Capital Settlements there on this Side the River & the Situation of the Country such as with my present Force I cant advance opposite to them with safety to my Artillery, I mean at present to continue where I now am in Front of the most valuable Settlements & where the Stores & Effects from Kingston are removed.

I imagine the Enemy will not proceed much higher up the River & that on their Return they will attempt to lay Waste the Places they have passed going up after our Troops are drawn from them. This induces me to think some more Troops ought to be left at Poughkeepsie & Fishkill but of this you can best Judge. Adieu you shall hear of me frequently. Your most Obed't Serv't

[Philadelphia, Pa.]

Oct. 18th.—Went to the mouth of Hollanders Creek this morning, where I had a view of the American and 4 of the British Fleets. The upper and lower British Batteries¹ fired several times at the Mud Island Fort, but I believe without execution. The American Fort returned the fire. The lower English Battery fired 3 Bombs. The American Fleet lay nearly under Red Bank to be out of the way of the bombs. The American Flag was this day hoisted at Red Bank.² The British troops that left Wilmington and were supposed to have gone to take Red Bank y's ev'g came up as far as Geo. Gray's Ferry and bro. a number of their sick and wounded into Town. A smart platoon firing this ev'g above Germantown.

LIEUTENANT COLONEL SAMUEL SMITH TO GEORGE WASHINGTON

Sir

Fort. Mifflin 18th Oct^r 1777

I wrote your Excell^y the Second day the Enemy open'd their Batteries.¹ they have Since continued a fire from their two Bomb Batteries & Red Hot Balls from their work at the Pest Houses., as yet without much Damage. yesterday an unlucky Shell fell in a Barrack where the Soldiers had gone Contrary to Orders which kill'd One & wounded 3 others, two of them very Slightly, they have last Night thrown up another Bomb Battery between their two first.² it is not yet open'd. they have been kind in permitting Us to Sleep at Night. We are making every preparation against a Storm for which purpose we are entrenching within the fort. to annoy them even Should they get Possession of the out works.—

I wrote your Excell^y that the Commodore³ had remov'd his fleet under Red Bank, Since which he has Sent us no Guard but four pound Boats, which we think insufficient to guard the Defenceless part of the Island.⁴ your Excell^y knows that the Side of the fort⁵ next Red Bank has nothing but a Wall & Narrow Ditch for its Defence & that it would be easily defended in Case of Storm by a few Gallies who would rake with Grape Shot all that Bank & Sink any Boats that might attempt to land on that Side. which if left defenceless will be the most probable place of their Landing, the Landing in front & Rear of our Mud or Grand Battery is also very good & the very probable place for Boats which may come up from their fleet & whose Landing will most likely be coverd by their Gondolas and Tenders, against which the four pound Boats cannot lay, this was the Opinion of all the Gentlemen in Garrison, which I wrote to the Commodore, his answer is—"I rec^d. yours this morning & have provided Such a Guard as is thought consistent with the Opinion of a full Council of War held Oct^r the 16th & carried by the whole of them that all the Gallies could do for you Should be done & that they Should not be Sent to be Sacrific'd when they would have no Chance of annoying the Enemy, but lay & look at your Garrison & be of no Use to you nor the Country, but fall a Sacrifice to your pleasure"—

Lieutenant Colonel Samuel Smith

The Commodore has promis'd that as soon as we are attack'd he will come over with all his fleet to our Assistance. my Opinion that his Assistance will be too late & I can't help thinking that the fleet will run as great a Risk coming over to us as if a Guard from it was to lay in the Night out of the Rake of their Shot & Bombs & where they might be of the utmost Service to us. I have Stated our Situation to your Excell^y who will I presume determine whether the Commodores Support is as much as he can give Consistent with the good of the fleet. I am Still of Opinion the Enemy have not more than 500 if So many on Province Island. I Have the Honor to be [&c.]. P.S. Two Gallies could lay quite Safe from both Bombs & Shot under the piers. I mean entirely Cover'd. Certain it is that the enemy have a Communication with their fleet from Phil^a. along the banks of Province Island as large numbers of Wagons are heard to Pass and Repass every night.

LB, MdHi, Samuel Smith Letter Book, 10–11.

1. On 16 Oct. Smith wrote: "The Enemy have open'd three Batteries on us. one in front of the pest House which with Recache [Ricochet] rakes the whole Garrison, from whence they throw Red Hot Balls, as yet without Success. Another in Rear of our N.W. Block House in which they have some Royalls an 8 In Howitz & 1 p^c. artillery 12 p^c. I believe the other in Rear of the Mud Battery in which as yet they have but one 8 In. Howitz but it is lengthen'd So as to mount a p^c. of Cannon. the Large Battery on the Heights to the Left of Guyers House is not yet open'd." Smith to Washington, 16 Oct. 1777, DLC, George Washington Papers, Series 4. The Pest House battery was on Province Island and mounted two iron 18-pounders. The two other batteries Smith describes were the middle and right batteries on Carpenters Island. Each mounted an 8-inch howitzer and an 8-inch mortar.

2. Although no such works are mentioned by John Montresor or Francis Downman, Smith may be referring to a battery that was constructed for a 13-inch mortar. This mortar did not arrive on Carpenters Island until 20 Oct.

Honble Gentlemen.

York. Town 18 October 1777

... It is with concern we find that British property has lately been covered by conveyance in french bottoms; which practise pursued, and American Search disliked by France, it is obvious that the most vulnerable part of Great Britain her commerce, will be secured against us, and that, by the intervention of our professed friends. We desire therefore, gentlemen, that you will confer with the ministers of France on this subject, & satisfy them of the propriety and even necessity which there is that either this commerce should be prohibited or that the United States be at liberty to seach into and make distinctions between the bottom and the enemies property conveyed in that bottom. . . .

Spanish Town 18th October 1777

My Lord,

The Masters of the Vessels, in the enclosed List, had obtained their Letters of Marque, incurred the whole expence of their outfit, and were on the eve of Sailing before your Lordship's circular Letter of the 20th. of April 1777.¹ Address'd to Sir Basil Keith, had, from the hurry incidental to a change of Office, been laid before me.² I considered therefore the Act Authorizing the grant of Letters of Marque and Licences as my sole guide in these Instances. On reading your Lordship's Letter I would instantly have recalled them, but have been prevailed on to forbear, by the several Masters representing to me, the great losses they would thereby sustain, and, in full confidence, from the Measures I have taken, of the King's Service not suffering by my withdrawing the present Letters of Marque and Licences. Your Lordship may be assured, that being now apprized of your desire with regard to Licences for any articles Cleared out for the Colonies, I will pay the most implicit respect to it, until your directions shall be received to the contrary. I will trouble your Lordship to direct proper Certificates to be brought me by the several Masters, mentioned in the enclosed List, of their compliance or not with their engagements, that I may take such steps against the delinquents (if any) as shall become necessary. I have the Honor to be [&c.]

DON MANUEL FALQUEZ TO LORD MACARTNEY

Sir

I received your Excellency's letter dated the 8th Inst. and have upon the same Subject wrote to the Governor of Martinique upon a similar affair in favor of M^r Cotó of that Island—In answer to your Excellency I admitted per Chance or through inadvertence into this Port Captain White of an American Privateer, that he might succour himself in the urgent Necessity he represented to me he was in, which I would willingly to do to all Europeans upon the like occasion—Upon which effect and with regard to the request of the said General of Martinique, I obliged Pascal Bonavita to appear before me, & having laid a Charge of the like nature of that of Your Excellency against him, he answer'd that his English Captain one White an American had the Privateers Commission, & that he was the Boatswain, said Captain White having presented himself he was examined by experienced Interpreters in the English Language, who knew and said it was sufficient Authority for Their proceedings in the present dispute which his Britannick Majesty had with them, upon which I advised the said Captain to repair to Martinique in order that the Agent of the Congress might determine upon the matter, not being fully empowered myself, the said White and Bonavita departed this P[ort] for Martinique for the above purpose, but in the Course of a little time returned saying they were Chased by a Privateer, however the [they] again sailed and on the seventeenth at two in the morning came to an Anchor, and informed they were Chased by a Frigate a Brig and three Sloops who were making towards this Port but the same day at Eleven O'Clock perceiving that the Frigate was coming into the Port, White and Bonavita got under way, the [they] fired a Gun at them of which they took no notice, for which reason I had not the satisfaction of re-examining said Commission by new Interpreters, otherwise I would give your Excellency a Compleat account of said White and Bonavita, which as soon as I can apprehend them, and find they are such as your Excellency represents them to me, they shall meet with the severest punishment that is regulated by the Established Laws of the King my Master for such Crimes, and to deter all others from attempts of this Kind, Your Excellency may rest assured that this will be accomplished whenever they return to this port—

I have been given to understand that said White and Bonavita have neither landed or Sent Negroes in this Island in respect of the Orders I gave them upon their arrival to the contrary however as there is other places besides this port, it might probably be that he has acted to the contrary of them—With regard to what your Excellency has mentioned in the first Paragraph of your letter that thirty seven Negroes and two Indians being landed in this Island by a Pirate named Bonavita, I gave the very same day the Strictest Orders for the searching for, and apprehending of them, issuing for that purpose a Commission to the Judges and Justices of this Island, that in finding of them, the [they] may be seized in the name of the King my Master and in prison Kept until such time as his Royal determination is Known, and punish those who acted contrary to his Royal Laws—

I could not be but surprized that for the transmitting of a Single dispatch from your Excellency, there should come a Squadron compr[ised] of Six Vessells, the demonstrations of which seem to me to be irregular, which I have noted and now represent to your Excellency, that you may Know they are Actions contrary to the peace and harmony of our Sovereigns—

I am at your Excellencys Service and pray God guard you many years

I am informed there is coming into the Port under my Command a Brigantine belonging to the Expedition of your Honor, and respecting your dispatches it is not necessary said Brig should Anchor as also the three Sloops which with the frigate makes five, you are immediately to give orders that said Brig and the rest of the Vessells to retire not only from this Port but from the extremities of the Coasts of this Island belonging to the King my Master—as for your Honors dispatches I am answering your Governor of Grenada

COMMANDER WILLIAM FOOKS, R.N., TO DON MANUEL FALQUEZ

Sir Ship the Favorite, the 18th. October 1777

I have been honored with your Letter this Morning, concerning some Vessels which have been seen off this Island. In answer to which I am to acquaint You that I know nothing of them, but should they be English Cruizers I can answer for their not coming into this Port, without they should follow American Privateers or Piratical Vessels. But I must beg leave to observe that while His Britannic Majesty’s Rebellious Subjects, or other Pirates, have the Sanction of your Port, You may rest assured that His Britannic Majesty’s Frigates will Cruize about this Island.

I am informed that one of the Schooners in your Port belongs to the Pirate Paschal Bonavitta, I therefore desire that she may be delivered up to Me, as also the Negroes which he has left upon one of the Estates on your Island, they being the Property of His Britannic Majesty’s Subjects.

Your Excellency will be pleased to return an Answer, in Writing, to the latter part of my Letter before I leave this Port I have the honor to be [&c.]

BRIGADIER GENERAL HENRY WATSON POWELL TO GOVERNOR SIR GUY CARLETON

Copy of a Letter from Brigadier General Powell to General Sir Guy Carleton dated Mount Independence—Oct^r 19th. 1777—

Sir

I have the Honor to inform Your Excellency that Hugh Daveny a Deserter from the Rebels, (who has been some time with L^t Gen^l Burgoyne's Army) arrived here this Morning, and reports he left Sarahtoga on Thursday the 16th instant before Day, where he was informed by General Burgoyne, that his Army was to surrender, and lay down their Arms between the Hours of eight and ten that Morning, and that he understood from Governor Skene, the British Troops were to go to Boston, and embark from thence for England, the Germans were to go Home to their own Country, and the Voluntiers and Canadians to Canada—

How far this Account is to be credited, I know not, but Captain M^cKay¹ informs me, He knows the Man and saw him behave very well in Action, I have therefore sent him to accompany the Express—

Captain M^cKay arrived here two Days ago with upwards of one hundred Voluntiers and Canadians, and there are some other small Parties of Voluntiers arrived since—

I sent two Expresses to S^t John's, one on the 10th. and the other on the 16th. instant, which I hope arrived safe—

I have the Honor to be, Sir, &c

DIARY OF CAPTAIN FREDERICK MACKENZIE

[Rhode Island] 19th Oct^r—Fine weather. Wind S.W.

About 12 oClock last night, about 200 Rebels came forward on Howland's neck, and fired at two Hessian Sentries posted at the bridge. The Sentries, and a patrol of Six men who happened to come up at that time, fired a good many shot at them, and then retired, at which time an 18 p^r being fired from Windmill hill at the Rebels, they retired without firing another shot. Not less than 500 Musquet shot were fired at our people without effect. Our Sentries resumed their post at the bridge soon after, and all was quiet during the remainder of the night.

The firing was so brisk for the time it lasted, which was about 12 minutes, that it was concluded the Rebels meant a serious attack upon that post, and the troops were ordered to get under arms, which they did with great expedition. But on finding there was no reason to apprehend an attack, they returned to their tents.

This morning two bayonets and some hats were found near the place from whence the Rebels fired.

Everything was quiet during the day.

Our Galley¹ having undergone some alterations lately at Newport in order to make her sail better, was ordered round this day to the Seconnet passage,² but in turning out of the harbour she was found to be so totally out of trim, that it was judged unsafe for her to proceed, and she returned into the harbour.

Head Quarters [Methacton Hill, Pa.] 19th. October 1777

The fogginess of the Mornings is so very great, that I think it probable, that the Enemy will attempt a surprise upon Fort Mifflin at such time, or at Night if they mean it at all. To prevent this, I would recommend it to you to keep Boats rowing guard as near the shore of province Island as they possibly can with safety—

I am so fully sensible of the importance of your Station that I have sent you rather more men than were demanded for its defence, and as many, of the two Rhode Island Regiments,¹ are sea Men, they will afford you very considerable assistance. The Enemy last night evacuated Germantown and fell down to Philad^a. Our Army will advance towards them in the morning, and as we shall be near them, I hope we shall prevent them from detaching any considerable force to reduce Fort Mifflin. I recommended it to Col^o. Smith, to endeavour by all means to keep the Breaches in the Banks of province Island open, as I am certain it will incommode them vastly in carrying on their Works. I am [&c.]

MARQUIS DE BOUILLÉ TO GOVERNOR THOMAS SHIRLEY

(Translation)

Sir

Martinico Octo^r 19th. 1777

I received the two Letters, which your Excellency did me the Honour to write me, the one dated the 10th. Instant, the other the 17th. . . .

As to the Subject of the Letter of the 17th., concerning two Vessels taken by the Americans, and brought into Martinico. It is true enough that one of them, laden with Negroes, came to Anchor at Saint Pierres. I put a Guard on Board to prevent the Sale of them, and, at the Expiration of Twenty four Hours, she weighed Anchor. I know not whether the Cargo of Negroes was sold in the Island; those who may have sold, & those who may have purchased them, having every Reason to keep me ignorant of it; and having no Means of stopping the Sale in the distant Parts of the Island, or even of being informed of it.

As to what respects the Vessel, which your Excellency mentions to be at Trinity, a place far from that of my Residence, and the Officers of Administration. I this Moment write to have an Account of it given to me, and to give Orders for her Departure, if she be there or in the Environs.

I should be sorry that your Excellency thought, that I was not as active and careful as possible, in preventing the Sale of Prizes, taken from the English Nation by the Americans as well as the arming of Privateers by the French. It is but a few Days since I had a Privateer of that sort disarmed, caused the Captain to be put in Prison, and all the Crew; and confiscated the Vessel. I have already made eight or ten Examples of this Kind. But I must advertise your Excellency, that false Commissions from the Congress, to arm as Privateers, are printed at Dominica, and sold at Martinico; and I have now some of them in my Hands which I caused to be seized. It is for your Excellency's Wisdom to prevent such Abuses which are injurious to the Trade of the English Nation; and which I cannot entirely hinder, if you are not equally careful to put a Stop to them; provided it be not contrary to the Freedom of the Press.

I send your Excellency one of these Commissions, which was found in a privateer, which I caused to be disarmed. You may perhaps, by Means of it, discover the Fabricator of such Papers, and the Place where they are manufactured.

I have not yet had the Honour to see M^r Jones, whom your Excellency recommended to me. I will show him when I see him, all the Civilities, he is intitled to, and which are due to your Excellency's Recommendation to me in his Favour. I have the Honour to be with great Esteem & perfect Consideration [&c.]

Sir

Race horse Lucea 19th. Oct^r 1777

We sailed from Saint Anné, the day after I did myself, the Honor of writing to you, cruized ’till Sunday the 12th: on which day I put into Martha Brae, in Order to impress, but, without success; The next Morning I went out of the Harbor; Our Pilot not being acquainted there one from the Shore carried us in & out, to whom I gave a Certificate.

In the Evening & off Montego-bay, I discovered the Heel of the Mast split, went in next day, examined & found it not material. About One O’Clock I received intelligence of a Privateer’s being off the Harbor, & in Chace of a Square rigged Vessel; We weighed directly, & gave Chace, had them in Sight ’till Sun set. We steer’d N:W: all Night, and at day light being about 15 Leagues from the Land, We discover’d the Sloop laying too a Head of us, & a Shallop on our Beam, the latter We made come along side, found her, belonging to Kingston, & taken by the Sloop, took the People out, let her go adrift not being able to spare Men, & had cut her Mainsail to pieces in Order to clear us from her, she informed us of the Chace’s being a privateer. At 7 O’Clock an Engagement began, & at 10 Minutes, past Nine, We boarded & carried her;¹ She mounted 12 Carriage Guns, & 16 Swivels, & had between 90 & 100 Men. I have not Yet been able to get a Compleat list, She is called the Guest, the Person who commanded her, was (he says) born at New York, his Name is Edw: M^c Kaller, has a Commission signed by Hancock; the Company are French, she fitted out from Cape Francois, but was last from the Mole. They had 16 Killed & near 40 Wounded, two have since died of their Wounds, & many others are likely to meet the same Fate. We lost 1 Man & had 8 Wounded but none I hope mortally.² Captain Haynes has taken, M^c Kaller & 30 Others, on board the Porpoise, the wounded Prisoners are on board the Prize, & will sail to Morrow in Company with her, the Square rigg’d Vessel is a Polacca from Kingston, which the Privateer parted with in the Night, & order’d to proceed to the Mole; In the Hull we are not much damaged, our Sails are a good deal torn, & our Mast is so much Wounded that We are are obliged to fish it, some of our Gun Carriages broke down; I hope in a few days to be in a Condition to execute your Orders. I am [&c.]

DIARY OF CAPTAIN FREDERICK MACKENZIE

[Rhode Island] 20th Oct^r—Fine Weather. Wind S.W.

About 9 o'Clock last night the Sentries of the 22^d Regiment, discovered several of the Enemy's boats going down the Seconnet towards Fogland ferry, and immediately fired to give the alarm. Many boats were perceived soon after from the battery at Fogland, and were fired at from thence. The alarm being quickly communicated, the troops got under arms immediately at the several encampments. The Enemy's boats continued passing Fogland to the Southward 'till 2 o'Clock this morning, and whenever they could be perceived were fired at. As it was imagined they intended to land somewhere below the Kingsfisher, and to make an attempt upon the town, The 22^d Regiment marched from Quaker hill to Fogland, and proceeded thence, by an order from Gen^l Pigot to the Windmill near the General hospital. The 54th replaced the 22^d at Quaker hill. At 11 o'Clock at night the Rebel Galley came out from Howland's,¹ and endeavored to work down towards Fogland, but the wind being unfavorable she was obliged to give it up, and in returning she fired three Shot at our shore without effect, and then anchored between Quaket Gut² and the point of Howland's neck.

The troops remained under arms all night at the different posts in expectation of an attack from the Enemy, as the movement of their boats indicated such an attempt, but there was no further appearance of them, nor did The Kingsfisher observe any boat to pass her during the night. Above 70 boats, as well as could be judged passed Fogland. A great many shot were fired at them; and the people on duty at that battery say that two of them were certainly destroyed. Altho the Moon shone clear it was not easy to discover them, as they passed one by one, and kept close under their shore. At daylight very few could be seen; so that they must have taken them into the Creek behind the South point of Fogland.³

A Serjeant and a Private of the 17th Dragoons who were patrolling last night towards Sachawest [Sachuest] beach, were surrounded and carried off by a party of about 20 Rebels who had landed thereabouts. One Taggart, and his Son, who lived near the place, went off with the Rebels; and it is supposed were concerned with them in surprizing the Dragoons.

H.M. sloop Kingsfisher

The Rebel Galley changed her position this morning, and went a little above Howland's ferry. In going off, she fired an 18 p^r at the Bridge Redoubt, which struck within 30 yards of it.

The 54th Reg^t returned after Sunrise to their camp at Windmill hill. The 22nd having been ordered to encamp near the General hospital, they sent for their tents & baggage this Morning; and in the afternoon the 54th marched, with two 6 p^{rs} and take up their position on Quaker hill.

In order to strengthen the post at Howland's bridge, an Abbattis of large apple trees from the Neighbouring Orchards was thrown across the Neck about 200 yards on this side of the bridge, which will prevent the Enemy from advancing in that part with Cannon, or any considerable number of Troops without first removing them, which will take up some time, and must be done under our fire.

The troops are ordered to lie dressed till further orders, and ready to take their arms on the shortest notice.

GOVERNOR GEORGE CLINTON TO MAJOR GENERAL ISRAEL PUTNAM

Sir,

Hurly, Oct'r 20th 1777.

I have this moment received your letter of this date with the letters you mention concerning them I have only to Congratulate you on the fortunate event by which the present purposes of the enemy are defeated.

With respect to the galley¹—She is Sunk about Two miles from the landing place;² there will be some difficulty in raising the Cannon, especially the 32 pd'r for which we have no carriage on this side. However if you can send me a travelling Carriage & Ammunition I will endeavor to bring her on shore.

I very much approve of your intention to annoy the enemy's fleet, & shall cheerfully co-operate with you and as General Gates is arrived in Albany. The Cannon may soon be procured—what think you of [attempting Fort montgomery?²—] by Genl. Parsons & the troops from Jersey.

DIARY OF CAPTAIN FRANCIS DOWNMAN

[Philadelphia, Pa.]

October 20th.—This morning about 4 o'clock a firing of cannon and musketry was heard near Gloucester Point. We roused all hands up and went to our batteries in town along the shore. We heard a number of boats rowing. We thought the galleys were coming to fire on the town, and just before daylight they came within hail of our sentry. They answered they came from our fleet. Twelve flat-bottomed boats, under the command of Captain Clayton, had pushed up in the night, and boldly run under the enemy's forts and batteries, and passed their whole fleet with the loss of one man. These boats come up with provisions etc., we imagine to facilitate a landing on the Jersey shore. This afternoon a great deal of cannon firing below, from our row galley and some of our advanced ships, and the rebel galleys and the forts and our batteries. . . .

[October] 20th. Wind S.W. and the weather remarkably warm. At 4 this morning 12 Flat bottomed Boats and a whale boat arrived at Philadelphia from our Fleet after receiving abundance of Grape from the Fort¹ and 2 Gallies below without any injury until they arrived near our Battery two medium 12 pounders, on the North point of Schuylkill² where they were fired on (that Garrison not being apprized) and lost one seaman. At ½ past 10 this morning, the Engineers finished the Floating Bridge across Schuylkill upwards of 400 feet. Rebels fired a feu de joie from the Fort and Ships, &c. Commander-in-Chief³ visited the works. An officer and 6 mounted Jagers patrolling near the Falls of Schuylkill were met by a troop of Rebel Horse and obliged to fly having one killed, but Plunket⁴ their Captain pursuing too far fell in with one of our Pickets and was wounded and taken with another. Arrived in the night as far as Blakely's House a 13 inch mortar and this night made greatest put [part] of its battery about 350 yards from the Rebel Fort. Communication open with the Fleet from the Batteries to Bow Creek, the road to Blakely's House. The effect of these Batteries were answered by driving off the Rebel Floating Batteries and Gallies and open-

GEORGE MUTER TO LIEUTENANT GOVERNER JOHN PAGE

Sir.

Hampton Oct^r 20th. 1777.

It gives me much pleasure to find that you approved of my proposal of having four heavy cannon mounted, to annoy the enemy as they pass the old fort on their way to & from Hampton road. I hope the necessary orders will be soon given to have the two cannon I mentioned to you mounted on proper carriages for that purpose.
I know of no others at present that are so fitt as they are, & I wou'd fain hope that if expedition is used, they may be got ready, & brought to Hampton time enough to perform good service this winter, though they shou'd not be soon enough to annoy the enemy the next time they come into the Road.

The enemy's Ships are all in the bay at present. The Phœnix & one of the small ships¹ lye just below Willoughby's, & as I understand the others² near the York River channel, but within reach of the Phœnix's signals.

There is hardly another place to be found on shore, from whence the enemy's ships can be annoyed but Old Point Comfort. When they are in the Road, they are carefull to lye out of cannon shott from the shore, & over so far from the barr as to be out of much danger of receiving any damage from the shott of the Gallies³ as they lye within the barr. The galleys here are so wretchedly manned, that I think 'twou'd be imprudent to venture them without the barr where the enemy are, with their usual force in the road, & still more so for them to goe into the bay to make an attack let the weather be ever so favourable. The enemy, have always in my opinion been able (while in Hampton Road) to send a number of men in their boats, sufficient to take one or both of the Galleys, or at least to render their situation extremely dangerous if they venture far out. Indeed, were the Galleys manned as they ought to be, I think the case wou'd be far otherwise. Great service might be expected from them—They wou'd be capable of performing it.—But as it is—'tis but little they can do. I am &c.

GODFREY HUTCHINSON TO SAMUEL ALLYNE OTIS

Sir! Fort Royal 11th: October 1777.—

I received your esteemed favour by Capⁿ. Bartlett¹ who arrived here the 19th Ult^o—Soon after his arrival he was unfortunately taken with a Billious fever, and died the day before yesterday; Being informed of his illness, I immediately came here and found he had not disposed of his Cargo; I perceived that his fish was old, of the small Kind, and had been sweated—I therefore judged it most for your Advantage to dispose of it as soon as possible, which I have done at 115 Livres, The Boards at 200 Livres, The Salmon at 100; The Staves are very bad, thin and short, But shall get them off with the remaining small articles to the best advantage, and use the utmost Dispatch in Loading the Sloop agreeable to your orders to Capⁿ. Bartlett: She wants a thorough cleaning, which shall be done as soon as the cargo is out.—

I have already agreed for six thousand Gall^s. Molasses at 28 Sols, and hope to obtain the remainder at the same price, altho' the Season is now so far advanced, that article is very Difficult to be procured.

I was informed by Capⁿ. Bartlett that it was your Desire that the most of his home-ward Cargo should consist of that Article, which shall be complied with, as far as the season will admit of and can be Done with Dispatch.—You may rely on my Exerting myself on this and every other occasion, when you please to favour me with your Commands, either in assisting any Captains in the service of the State, or transacting any other Business. I am [&c.]

October 20th: 1777.—

The above is a Copy of what I wrote you $\text{\textcircled{P}}$ Capⁿ. Arnold via Portsmouth.—I have since Discharged and cleaned the Sloop and shall begin to Load her tomorrow.—Hope I shall be able to dispatch her in a fortnight at furthest.—The last fish we Delivered was so exceeding bad and sweated, that was obliged upon Survey to make an abatement of five Livres $\text{\textcircled{P}}$ Quintal on one half of it.—

The condition the fish was in, was in a great measure occasioned by the Hhds being too large, a circumstance which always would be attended to as likewise the Hhds being in Good Order, which is best affected by always putting three Hoops on the Bulge.—I am [&c.]

BRIGADIER GENERAL JOSEPH PALMER TO JEREMIAH POWELL, PRESIDENT OF THE MASSACHUSETTS COUNCIL

Tiverton [Rhode Island], Octo^r: 21st. 1777.

Dear Sir

The Night before last we got all our troops ready for embarcation, but the Wind prevented the execution; in bringing down the Boats from Quatuck [Nannaquaket] Pond, to the South'ard of Fogland Ferry, where we were to embark, the Enemy fired upon us as we passed the Ferry-Point, by which we had one Man killed, & another wounded. Yesterday in the Afternoon, & this Morning, the enemy appear as 'tho' they intended to evacuate the North end of the Isl^d,¹ but the rain prevents our making such discoveries as we could wish. If they are moving off, as I believe they are, as soon as the weather permits, I think we shall go on to Howland's Ferry, & one other place, & beat up their Quarters. I forgot to mention, that the Night before last, we sent a Small Party on to the Isl^d, who bro^t off a few Friends to us, & intercepted two Light-Horsemen, which they bro^t off, with their Saddles &c, all excepting their Horses.

Last Night an Express arrived from Gov^r Cooke to Gen^l Spencer, with the great news of Gen^l Burgoyne & his whole Army, about 4500, having Surrendered to Gen^l Gates. The British & Hessian Officers to be allow'd to wear side-arms; but no terms for the Tories.

I hope that our Court will never more join in such an important enterprize, unless they have better assurances of every thing being really prepared against the given day. We ought to have been in the plan & preparation. 'Tho' I don't expect to be Saved by our wisdom in the present, or any future expedition, yet I think that we ought to have Something to do with Planing & preparing, as well as executing. If the Weather permits, 'tis likely that Providence will give us Success; I am Sure that we Shall have very little reason to boast of our Wisdom—but I must not indulge further. I am [&c.]

COMMODORE WILLIAM HOTHAM TO VICE ADMIRAL. VISCOUNT HOWE

(Copy)

S: Albans New York 21st. October 1777

My Lord,

My letters of the 15th. Instant which You will herewith receive were intended to have been sent by the Bristol, who is stopped to proceed with the Convoy directed by Your Lordship's Letter of the 10th.—In consequence of it I have left the Command up the North River with Captain Symons¹ until the Return of General Vaughan, when it is intended to evacuate every thing there, as Sir Henry Clinton for the Defence of this Place will now stand in need of every Man left under his Command.

The Proceedings of the second Expedition up the River Your Lordship will see by the inclosed Copy of a Letter from Sir James Wallace,² And one also to Sir Henry Clinton from General Vaughan.³ The Wind having hung to the Southward ever since, has prevented our hearing anything farther from them; But as it last Night shifted, and now blows strong from the North West, It is reasonable to think we shall have them down, the Object of their going up the River seeming to be now over, without giving Credit to the whole of what we hear respecting General Burgoyne's Army.

The two Battalions of Anspach were embarked before Sir Henry Clinton and I left Verplanks Point, and with this Wind may be hourly expected down. The 17th: Dragoons, with the Convalescent[s,] Recruits, Chasseurs and Artillery will be embarking without loss of Time, and shall proceed (as they are ready) in seperate Convoys, which from Experience I have had of large ones, I consider the surest and most expeditious way for them to join You. The 7th: 26th: and 63^d: Regiments are embarked with General Vaughan.

Some of the Horse Ships are got up to York and the rest of the Thames's Convoy are within the Hook, so that we shall not be in any want of Transports for the Embarkation, [nor] shall Expedition be less wanting to forward them. This gives me an Opportunity of doing the Justice I owe to Lieutenant Tonkin⁴ the Agent, whose Assiduity and Resources are felt upon every Occasion where his Services are called for.

I have the Honour to transmit You this Dispatch by Captⁿ: Kennedy, who is charged with [Sir] Hen^y: Clinton's to Sir Will^m: Howe by an Armed Vessel of Colonel Shirreff's,⁵ the Haerlem having been necessarily employed up the River—I have the Honour to be [&c.]

GEORGE WASHINGTON TO COMMODORE JOHN HAZELWOOD

Sir, Head Quarters [Whitpain, Pa.] October 21: 77

By this time, I imagine, Colonel Arendt will have arrived at Fort Mifflin, the command of which post was originally designed for him; he was prevented through indisposition from entering immediately upon it, but being now recovered, it of course devolves upon him.—¹

This gentleman's knowledge of and experience in war, which has been the study and business of his life, induce me to expect, with intire confidence, that he will acquit himself in his command in a manner that will do him honor.—I have also the fullest reliance that your most zealous exertions will be continued and that the happiest consequences will result from your united efforts.—I cannot but repeat my ardent desire that harmony and a good understanding between the fleet and the garrisons, may be mutually cultivated. On this every thing depends; nothing but disappointment and disgrace can attend the want of it.—The best designs and most important pursuits have been and ever will be defeated by foolish differences when they exist between those engaged in them.—The most upright intentions are not sufficient to influence men to those measures which their common interest demands, if once the least animosity gets footing between them. It seldom fails to pervert the judgment of the disagreeing parties and, and produce a spirit of opposition, often without their being sensible of it, destructive of the end they both finally have in view.—

I have in terms equally strong, endeavored to impress upon Col: Greene and Col: Arendt the necessity of cultivating that harmony, I now recommend; and I earnestly hope their conduct on every occasion may manifest a hearty disposition to promote so desirable an end.—I am [&c.]

GEORGE WASHINGTON TO

Sir

Head Q^{rs}: [Whitpain, Pa.] Octo^b 21st: 1777.

Your favor of the 18th I received last night and was extremely sorry to find from the Commodores Letter, which made a part of your's, that you & he were not in the strictest harmony.¹ This circumstance, I confess, gives me great uneasiness, as I well know that a good agreement between the Navy & Garrison is of the last importance, and that a want of cooperation and every possible—mutual aid may involve the most unhappy consequences. persuaded of this, and recollecting the train of misfortunes that has been brought on in many instances by a difference of the like nature, I requested Baron D'Arendt in my instructions to him that to maintain a good understanding between him and the Commodore should be a great Object of his care and attention.² This I hope he will do, and I have written to the Commodore to day, recommending the same to him in the strongest Terms.³ Hitherto a happy agreement has done much—It has disappointed the Enemy from effecting, notwithstanding their repeated efforts, what they seemed to consider without difficulty; And should the same spirit and disposition continue, I flatter myself, they will produce the same ends. ~~The Garrison and the Navy are equally concerned in the interesting struggle—If we can but keep the Fort and the Navigation ours,~~ I have not suggested to the Commodore, the most distant idea of my having heard of any misunderstanding between you. The matter is so delicate, that I would not have him beleive, that I ever suspected it. I am [&c.]

The Syren & Unicorn got round into the Seconnet passage today, and anchored to the Southward of the Kingsfisher. As that part of the Island is sufficiently guarded by this movement, the 22^d Reg^t marched and encamped near Elam's house on the right of the Chasseurs. A Battery for two Guns was ordered to be made on the shore to the right of the Chasseurs, in order to Command that part of the adjacent beach Which is favorable for landing on. As soon as the party began to work, the Rebels fired at them from their battery on the South point of Fogland. One shot took place and killed a Hessian. The same shot went so near the head of a Soldier of the Light Infantry as to Strike him down senseless; so that he was obliged to be carried to the hospital.

We began this morning to throw an Abbatis across Common-fence Neck, from the head of the town pond to the Creek which runs to Howland's bridge. . . .

Hartford 22^d Octo^r 1777—

I am favoured with your Letter of the 11th Instant,¹ Note the Contents. The Captors of the Weymouth Packet are entitled to their Share of the prize according to the Resolutions of the Continental Congress That Rule being adopted by the Governor & his Council of Safety, at the time Cap^t Harding was fitted out for a Cruize; the General Assembly will probably make Some Alteration to Adapt it to our particular Circumstances for the future—when Time will admit—which I Shall advise you of as soon as done

The only question between the Captors & this State is whether the Weymouth is a Vessel of War within the true Intent & meaning of the Resolution of Congress of the 30th of Octo^r 1776, Should the Weymouth Packet be Judged a Vessel of War within the true Intent & meaning of s^d. Resolution there is nothing further to be said why the Captors should not be entitled to the whole, Saving a Twentieth part which in all Cases goes to the Commander in Chief, that is a Twentieth part of the prize or part belonging to & divided among the Captors—

It is Supposed that a Packet whose Business is to make the greatest dispatch, & not to pursue or even engage any Ship of war but in their own defence, is not a Vessel of War within the meaning & Intention of Congress—

Agreeable to your Request, have Inclos^d a Warrant² Impowering you to act in all matters therein contain^d, pursuant to Such Orders & Instructions as you Shall from time to time receive from me or the General Assembly of this State—The foregoing is wrote by Advice & Consent of my Council of Safety.—they do not mean to enter into any dispute with the Captors on any other Question save that mentioned herein—

DIARY OF CAPTAIN FREDERICK MACKENZIE

[Rhode Island] 23rd Oct^r Cold raw weather. Wind N.E.

About 9 o’Clock last night 5 boats of the Enemy came near the Officer’s guard at the house near Howland’s bridge, and fired at the men on duty there; the Guard returned the fire briskly, and obliged them to Sheer off. They soon after rowed towards the bridge and the men having landed a little beyond it, fired at our Sentries. Two shot being fired at them from the Redoubt, they retired, and did not appear again during the night. A Bayonet and several Cartridges were found on the beach near the bridge this morning.

The Rebels began to Cannonade the Encampment of the 22^d Reg^t this morning from the S. point of Fogland, and as the shot came home, it was prudent for them to move, in consequence of which they encamped near Lopez's house. No hurt was done, although three Shot came into the Camp. The Rebels also fired some shot at the New Battery, and at the Encampment of the Chasseurs, but without effect. . . . A boat from one of the Ships of War went over to the Eastern shore last night, and brought off from a house near the Windmill, two men; one of whom says he was drafted to serve on the Expedition against Rhode Island. They say that the Rebels have near 200 boats in the Mill-Creek behind the S. point of Fogland;¹ that they have near 10,000 men assembled in the Neighbourhood, and intend making their principal attack near lower Black point. That most of the troops have been drafted for the present service, and their time expires on the last day of this Month, at which time, if nothing is done, they will disperse. They add, that some of them are much dissatisfied, and that many have gone home already.

The General having some reason to Suppose the Rebels will attempt something this night, ordered the working part of 100 men of the 54th Regiment, to march from Newport to strengthen the posts near Black point.

About 70 of the most disaffected Inhabitants of Newport, were taken up yesterday and this day, and sent on board the Prison ship. . . .

THE NEW-YORK PACKET, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 30, 1777

Fish-Kill, October 23.

In our last, we observed, that the British vessels proceeded up the River, past this place. As they went along they burnt a few mills, houses and boats. On Friday they reached Esopus, and there landed a number of men, who marched up to the defenceless town of Kingston, about two miles from the river, and immediately set it on fire: the conflagration was general in a few minutes; and in a very short time that pleasant and wealthy town was reduced to ashes, one house only escaped the flames. Thus, by the wantonness of power, the third town in this State, for size, elegance and wealth, is reduced to a heap of rubbish; and the once happy inhabitants (who are chiefly of Dutch descent) obliged to solicit for shelter among strangers; and those who lately possessed elegant and convenient dwellings, obliged to take up with such huts as they can find to defend them from the cold blasts of approaching winter. We learn that the inhabitants saved best part of their moveable property; but some lost the greatest part of their temporal all. 'Tis said, the enemy took little time to plunder, being told that Governor Clinton was at hand with 1500 men, but unluckily not so near as to save the town. They burnt several vessels and houses at the landing,¹ then scampered off precipitately on board their vessels. Next day they burn several houses at Rhynebeck Flats, and proceeded as far as Livingston's Manor, where they burnt a few more: Our troops are now up with them: It is hoped they will be able to put a stop to these depredations. Britain, how art thou fallen! Ages to come will not be able to wipe away the guilt, the horrid guilt, of these and such like deeds, lately perpetrated by thee!

... Last Monday, our people took a small schooner, belonging to the enemy, in the North-River, near Rhynebeck, with a pretty valuable cargo; she ran aground, and our people took the advantage and boarded her with canoes. Nicholas James and George Hopkins, two of the New-York pilots, were taken on board.

We learn that the enemy have burnt the house of the late Judge Livingston,² the house of Mr. Robert Livingston, and sundry others.

[October] 23 this day will be remember'd by many; the 2500 Hessians who cross'd the River the day before yesterday, were last Night driven back 2 or 3 times, in endeavouring to Storm the fort on Red Bank, 200 slain and great Numbers wounded, the firing this Morning seem'd to be incesant, from the Battry, the Gondelows, and the Augustia Man of War, of 64 Guns, she took fire, and after burning near 2 hours, blew up, the loss of this fine Vessel is accounted for in different ways—some say she took fire by accident, others, that, it was occasion'd by Red hot Bullets from Mud-Island Battry—another English Vessel¹ somewhat smaller, it is said is also burnt, Many of the Inhabitance of this City, are very much Affected, by the present situation and appearance of things, while those on the other side the question are flush'd, and in Spirits—old [H]unt [Count] De Nope,² is said to be among the slain—it was between 11 and 12, near Noon, when the Augustia blew up, many were not sensible of any Shock, others were, it was very plain to most who were at Meeting,³ as this is fifth Day—and appear'd to some like an Earth Quake. . . .

Red Bank Oct^r 23. 1777

I am just Arriv'd at this place on command from Fort Mifflin, and finding that Col^o. Green & the Commodore was sending by express to your Excellency the Glorious Event of last Evening and this Morning, think proper to give you the particulars from our Garrison. This Morning at half after Six OClock the enemy from Province Island began a very heavy fire from their Bomb Batteries¹ and about an hour after, was Joind by their fleet which kept up on us incessantly 'till after 12.

OClock, Our Battery in Consort with the Commodores² Fleet playing on them the whole time, in short we Ply'd them with 18. & 32 lb Shott so closely that they I believe began to give ground, however they ran a Sixty four Gun Ship³ and a Twenty Gun Frigate⁴ a ground & after fruitless attempts in vain to get them off, they set fire to them both, to our no small Satisfaction as it was out of the Power of our Fleet to take them. We sustain'd no Damage except a Cap^t & 1 private slightly wounded

Our Garrison shew'd a firmness & Resolution becoming brave Men, & I dont doubt will acquit themselves with honor. The Fleet are making down again fast, as low as Billingsport. I am doubtfull we shall want Ammunition for our Cannon & 32 lb Ball as the quantity on hand will not I am certain last us more than one Days hot fire. Small Cartridges from N^o. 17. to 20. are absolutely wanting. It wou'd be too much to loose a place of so much Importance for the want of War like Implements, which I haven't a doubt may easily [had] the Sizes for our Cannon of Cartridges 18 & 8 lbs. I hope to hear welcome news from your quarters before long, in mean time every exertion of the Garrison of Fort Mifflin in Opposition to the Enemies fleet will be strictly attended to. We had the upper part of one of our block houses blown up to day. I expect this night or tomorrow night the Enemy will for the last make an Effort to Storm our fort. I have the honor to be [&c.]

JOURNAL OF THE CONTINENTAL CONGRESS

[York] Thursday, October 23, 1777

Resolved, That the Navy Board for the eastern department be empowered to suspend any commander or other officer in the continental navy within their district, until the pleasure of Congress shall be known, giving immediate notice thereof to the Marine Committee, with the causes of such suspension. . . .

The Marine Committee brought in a report, which was taken into consideration: Whereupon,

Ordered, That the president issue his draft on Nathaniel Appleton, Esq^e continental loan officer in the State of Massachusetts bay, for fifty thousand dollars, in favour of the Navy Board for the eastern department, for the service of the navy under their direction; they to be accountable:

Ordered, That the president issue his draft on Joseph Clark, Esq^e commissioner of the continental loan office, in the State of Rhode Island, for fifty thousand dollars, in favour of the navy board for the eastern department, for the service of the navy under their direction; they to be accountable:

Ordered, That the president issue his draft on Nathaniel Appleton, Esq^e commissioner of the loan office in the State of Massachusetts bay, for 3,180 ½ dollars in favour of Isaac Smith, Ebenezer Storer, and William Phillips, Esq^{ts}. agents appointed by the Marine Committee, for settling the accounts of the prizes taken by the vessels fitted out by order of General Washington, to pay off a balance of £954 2 10 lawful money which the said agents certify to be due to Captain Winthrop Sargent on his account.

Resolved, That any two being a majority of the navy board for the eastern department, in the absence of the other, be, and they are hereby empowered, to do and transact all and every matter and thing, which, by the constitution of the said board, all the members jointly were empowered to do.

Resolved, That the clerk of the navy board for the eastern department, instead of the salary heretofore ordered, be allowed fifty-five dollars per month, and that the said navy board be, and they are hereby empowered, to appoint one other clerk, if they shall judge it absolutely necessary, and to allow him such salary as they shall judge adequate to his services, not exceeding the sum of fifty-five dollars per month.

CONTINENTAL MARINE COMMITTEE TO CAPTAIN JAMES NICHOLSON

James Nicholson Esq^r

Sir

York October 23^d 1777

As we understand that the Frigate Virginia under your command is nearly ready for Sea and a prospect of your being able to get out, We desire you may proceed down the Bay of Chesapeake soon as you can with propriety taking under your care and convoy the Continental Merchant Ships that may be ready and such private Ships as apply for that purpose, all which you are to see safe out to sea if possible, when you get out you are to proceed on the voyage directed by the Commercial Committee, and on your return to any part of this Continent give us notice thereof. Should you be fortunate in taking any prizes suitable for Sale in the West Indies carry them with you giving notice thereof to M^r. Stephen Ceronio or in his absence to Mon^{sr}. Carrabasse who will readily obtain permission to make sale of them, but it will be most agreeable to have prizes with Cargoes suitable for this Continent sent into some of own Ports addressed to the Agents where they arrive. You are to inform us from time to time of your proceedings. We expect great care will be taken of the ship her Stores and Materials and that you will be as frugal in expences, and expeditious in getting out of Port as possible. Knowing you to be of humane Temper we need not urge the propriety of treating prisoners with all the kindness your and their situation will admit of. As the Commercial Committee mean to order goods back by the Virginia you are to receive the same on board, and should the Coast of Hispaniola be infested by an[y] Cruizers that you can manage, it would be a good business to go after and seize them whilst the goods are getting ready. We are [&c.]

P:S: On your arrival at Hispaniola wait on the Governor Count D Argent¹ and express to him the high sense Congress have of his favourable attention to the Interests of the United States of America In his former Government and that you were desired to beg a continuance of the same friendly disposition for the time to come.—

VICE ADMIRAL VISCOUNT HOWE TO CAPTAIN WILLIAM CORNWALLIS, R.N.

Sir

Eagle October 23^d. 1777

The Command of the Ships off Billings Port by the unfortunate accident to the Augusta devolving on you, Your attention will be requisite for preventing as much as may be the Effect of any attack attempted to be made on the Vigilant in the situation where she now is placed.—She will be towed forward through the Channel to the W^tward of Hog Island,¹ or back to her former Station off of Tinicumb Island, where she may lye afloat at all times of the tide, in readiness however to proceed up against the Fort² as circumstances may induce; and of which Captain Henry will be duly informed,

It may be soon Expedient to drop the Ships below the Cheveaux de frieze, But that measure should be postponed of the two Frigates³ at least until the Vigilant has quitted her present Station—

Two Anchors & two Cables nearest the Establishment of that Ship will be got ready & sent up with all possible dispatch for the Roebuck, Having only One Bower left, she should fall down below the Cheveaux de friezes, tho' it is desirable that the Opportunity should be taken for that purpose after the Close of the Day—

The Camilla & the Cornwallis (Galley) if the last is not necessary for strengthening the advanced Guard of the Ships, would I think be better in the Western Channel to prevent insults to the other Ships with you from that side.

Care should be taken of the Booms of the Augusta or any of the other Ships which have been temporarily secured on Tinnecomb Island, they may be Employ'd in the meantime as a fence before the advanced Ship, but they should ultimately be preserved for farther Use. I am [&c.]

DIARY OF CAPTAIN FREDERICK MACKENZIE

[Extract]

[Rhode Island] 24th Oct^r Thick weather all day, and some rain. Wind E.

About 7 o'Clock last night the Rebels made a large fire on Papasquash point,¹ which was answered by 3 Rockets from Bristol, and the Rockets by a fire at Howland's. They however remained quiet during the night, except firing a shot from their battery on the S. point of Fogland at some of our boats which were on the look out near their shore.

The Battery on the right of the Chasseurs was finished this Evening, and 2. 12 p^s brought into it. It has been found necessary to construct it with Embrazures. The Rebels fired two shot at the workmen, and one at the Camp of the 22^d but without effect.

Two 12 p^s were placed in the artillery Redoubt this day. We cut an Embrazure in the rear face of Bristol Redoubt this afternoon, in order to place a 12 pr there to fire on Commonfence Neck. The Rebels seeing our men at work, fired three Shot at them from their side, but did no damage.

About 4 this afternoon, some person of distinction among the Rebels put off from Bristol in a boat, and was saluted with 13 Guns; and on going round Papasquash point he was saluted with the like number from thence. The boat proceeded towards Providence.

Some Rebels having advanced on Commonfence Neck towards the Captain's Guard this afternoon, two shot were fired at them from the 3 pr, on which they retired. . . .

COLONEL THOMAS HARTLEY TO THOMAS WHARTON, JR.

[Extract]

Dear Sir

Camp¹ October 24th 1777—

... On the evening of the 22^d. six of the enemies best Ships came up the river past the first set of frizes, and cannonaded our fort² and vessels exceeding warmly indeed, they continued the same the next morning, our people on proper occasions returned the fire. The firing was superior to that at sullivans Island. We were all anxity to know what would be the consequence of this thundering contest—we had detachments near the city³ on both sides of the Schuylkill to attack if an opportunity offered but it seems there was none.—

About eleven o'Clock we heard a monstrous explosion which shook the neighbouring country and a prodigious column of smoak rose towards the heavens. we feared that it might be the magazine at the fort. better fortune awaited America. there were few shot fired afterward.

Our people at the tide of Ebb, sent down a few fire rafts or vessels among the enemy. one of which proved successful the Augusta of 64 guns caught fire and was blown up the rest of the fleet retreated our vessels pursued some other fire vessels were sent after. and a thirty two gun frigate⁴ shared the same fate with the augusta. May they meet with the like success in all future attempts. Our troops in the fort and the gallies must be in high spirits.—The enemys must soon consider themselves in a bad way. The Northern news⁵ is confirmed, General Howe must think of retreating immediately. If there was a true spirit of liberty in this State the army under General Howe would be in a more dangerous situation than Burgoine ever was They have it seems but 18 Transports on this side New-castle—A Lethargy seems to prevail among the people, can neither honour, glory or Interest rouse them to join in expelling these invaders.—

With the help of God if the people at large will not assist I hope we may soon give a good account of these intruders with our little army.—I am [&c.]

LIEUTENANT COLONEL ADAM HUBLEY TO UNKNOWN

Camp¹ October 24th 1777—

All is well on and about Delaware. I wrote you yesterday, giving you an account of a most heavy firing, at the forts² which lasted upwards of seven hours successively with out intermission.

By express just arrived we have the following particulars. That early on the morning of yesterday the Augusta man of war of 64 guns, with sundry frigates and a number of smaller vessels came up the delaware in order to make an attack when they were received by our row Gallies below the forts, at the same time the fort on red bank was attacked by about 2000 Troops (chiefly Hessians) under the command of Count Danupe,³ a most severe engagem^t ensued, both by land and water and whilst thus engaged our commodore,⁴ dropt down a number of our fire rafts amongst the Caitiffs fleet, whilst our brave troops nobly defended their ground, at the bank and about 12, o'Clock, thro' the intrepidity of our land forces and good effects the rafts, with the assistance of the gallies produc'd, put an end, to that ever memorable days work. Our loss on this occasion is inconsiderable. The enemies loss is as follows viz⁴, on the water—the Augusta of 64 guns and the *Danbrige*⁵ frigate of 32 guns blown up by the rafts, three boats loads only of both crews being saved, also one frigate run aground which our people are endeavouring to get off, but if they find it impracticable, they undoubtedly will destroy it—

By land

Count De-Naupe was mortally wounded and fell in our hands, a considerable number killed (not yet ascertained) and 180 prisoners taken, with 12 pieces of brass artillery—

We are just informed, another expedition is forming by Howe, against red-bank, to consist of british troops the remainders of Danupes party returned with infamy to philad^a this day, and their fleet dropt down the river with the same credit be-moaning their loss. Whilst our brave, miskeetoe fleet, as the caitiffs chuse to call it, are returning to their respective stations and with their land brethern celebrate the ever memorable 23^d: day of October.—

Sir

Goshen Octo^r 24th. 1777.

A person employed by me to bring intelligence from the Delaware shore returned last night with the following account—On the 22^d at 4. in the afternoon the enemy made several attacks on fort Mifflin but were as often repulsed the Cannonade was very severe and continued 'till 8. °Clock. in the evening. Yesterday morning it was renewed with redoubled vigour, two large ships¹ advanced to pass the Chevaux de Frize, while a brisk fire was kept up from Province Island, a party of three thousand at the same time attacked Red-bank, so that a continual fire was kept up on all sides which lasted from 6 in the morning, 'till 4. in the afternoon without the least intermission, at which time the enemy quitted their ships, having first set them on fire, they soon after blew up, the explosion exceeds any discription, thus ended the day—every thing seems quiet this morning. I believe this is their last effort, they will certainly quit Philadelphia I am also informed a number of boats were manned and made an attempt to land on Mud-Island, but were defeated with great loss, 'tis said 300. Hessians were drowned this I cant [illeg.] [I] beg leave to congratulate Congress & you on the [News²] and am [&c.]

P.S. One of the Ships I am informed is called the Augusta, my Informant says he was an eye witness. I have dispatched an Express to his Excell^{cy}: gen^l: washington. I have thought proper to send my boy Express.—

COLONEL HENRY LEONARD PHILIP BARON D'ARENDT TO GEORGE WASHINGTON

[Fort Mifflin, October 24, 1777]

You will have been informed of the Enemy's having been repulsed at Red bank by Colonel Green. I gave him all the Succour in my power, by sending him Troops, Amunition and Surgeons. At the same time that the Enemy began the Attack, their Vessels advanced to the Chevaux de frize and kept up a pretty smart Fire upon my Fort, and their Batteries began to play. As their Vessels remain'd in this position, I expected an Attack in the night, however there was none made. Yesterday at day break they began to throw Bombs, but an hour after the Fire was terrible and continued till noon. A Shell destroyed one of my Block houses blew up the Amunition, and overset some Canon. another set fire to the Barracks, even the Palisades took fire—they threw some Carcases, a quantity of quilted Grape, but the greatest fire was from their Mortars. I had only one Captain wounded, as I had taken the precaution to cover the men under the great Wall which makes a Part of our Outline—Sentinels being posted in different parts and myself being upon the watch to guard against Surprise. Their Vessels kept up a heavy fire upon us, but in revenge we made all our Batteries play on them—at present I fire on their Vessels only with Red hot Balls—I have received two Contusions, one from a Fragment of a Shell, on my Leg, and another from a Stone on my Shoulder, but no other ill consequence than a little pain will follow—Unhappily I find myself more unwell than ever—from the fatigue of my Journey and necessary Exertions since my Arrival here—I have every thing to fear, yet would not quit this post but in the last extremity—and hope His Excellency would in that case approve of Collo. Greens succeeding to the Command. I think however that the Enemy's Courage will be damp'd by their failure of Success and Loss of Time.

Now a Word respecting this Place and its Defence—The Fort is the worst that I have ever seen; it would require 800 men, to defend it, and then there would not be a sufficiency for a necessary Reserve, and the Line of Troops would for the most part be only of a single Rank—besides this there is no Rampart, the inclosure for the most part being of Palisades—no works to flank—in a word there are too many Defects to be enumerated here The Battery which seems to be the strongest part, is in effect the weakest—for there the Enemy could land most readily—it could be defended but feebly by small Arms, and the Enemy once landed would be out of danger from the Canon. I have indeed set about some works to remedy these Defects, but want of time, of men, (ours being worn down with constant Labour,) and Materials hinders me from making any thing very good—However we must make the best of matters, and correct at leisure.

As according to my Ideas the Defence of this place consists principally in this point, to hinder the Enemy from closing in upon us, it will be necessary for the Fleet to give us their assistance to the utmost, in firing upon the Boats destined to make a Descent upon us. I have spoken upon this subject to the Commodore,¹ and desired him to station Boats here every night, which has not been done hitherto—but last night he sent some—this Succour is of the greatest importance. I know nothing of the present Situation and disposition of our Army—His Excellency will judge whether some Enterprize against the Enemy might not be form'd on that side of the Schuylkil where the fort is—it appears to me that they have cover'd their Batteries by a Fort near 1000 Paces behind them—if I should hear any thing of Cannon or Platoon firing that way—I should not doubt of their being some Enterprize against their work and should endeavour to second it.

I must do M^r Fleury the Justice to say the he has work'd hard to remedy the Defects of our Fortress, and that he has done all that circumstances would permit—

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM FORT MIFFLIN, OCTOBER 24, 1777

[Extract]

... During the Engagement, the Enemy's Fleet came up to hinder us from sending a Reinforcement, however, they did not effect it. Yesterday Morning they began a Cannonade from 64,¹ a 20,² and a 50³ Gun ship, which was answered by a Discharge from 4 Howits, throwing a Shower of Grape, Shells, Carcasses, &c on us: their Gun Batteries also kept up a heavy Fire. We suffered from the Shore, and directed our whole Attention to the Ships, assisted by our Gallies, who sent 4 Fire Rafts, without any Success. A lucky Shot set Fire to the 64's Stern, and she burned down; the Men got off in the Boats. The 20 Gun Ship was run on Shore, which themselves set Fire to, after saving as many of their Stores as was possible. The other Ship fell down. Our Successes far exceeded our most sanguine Expectations; and I hope they will be satisfied with their bad Fortune. Since, they have been very peaceable. We covered our Men so well, that not one was hurt, except a Captain in my Party, stunned with a Shell; he appeared dead, without a Hurt, for some Time, but recovered. I made two lucky Escapes, one Ball struck within 4 Inches of my Foot, just as I was lifting my other; and a Shell, in our Platform, within a Foot of me. They set Fire to our Block-House, full of Men, without hurting a Man, which we soon extinguished. In this Situation we are now, the Ships about 2 Miles and a half from us. Three Bomb Batteries within little more than three Quarters of a Mile Distance, and a three Gun Battery within 9 Furlongs of us, which throw red hot Balls; all which Salute us generally about 12 o'Clock, sometimes very severely. They have tore our Barracks very much; scarce one but what is much hurt. All the inside of the Fort torn up as if ploughed, or rather as if dug in Holes. They have hitherto been very polite, not disturbing us in the Night.

Isis 24 Septem^r [October] 1777—

I had the honour of your Lordships Letter last night,¹ the Vigilant is moved back to where she was before & Captain Henry informs me, he is to remain untill the Wind is fair for him to move forward—

We have moved up a little higher with the Ships as I thought it probable the Enemy might attempt to get up the Guns out of the wrecks² which we can effectually prevent in our present position, the Roebuck is now well supply'd with Anchors & Cables; so that I apprehend your Lordship would not chuse to have her move below the Cheveaux de frizes, the Augusta's booms are I believe perfectly secure as they are upon the Island³ nearly abreast of the Camilla, the Rebel Galleys are close up under red bank & have not moved all this Day—

There are many sick that have been saved from the Augusta & Merlin which are much in the way on board the Different Ships it would be very Convenient if there could be an Hospital Ship for their reception I have the Honor to be [&c.]

JOURNAL OF THE CONTINENTAL CONGRESS

[York] Friday, October 24, 1777

Mr. President informed Congress that, with the advice of the Marine Committee, he had, on the 7th January last, issued a warrant on the treasurer for three thousand dollars, in favour of James Morris, Esq^r for two months' pay to the seamen who re-took the brig Lexington, as a gratuity, and also for two months' pay on account of wages due to the seamen of the Lexington, Mr. Morris to be accountable;¹ with an order to the treasurer to omit charging this in the public books, till the books of the Marine Committee arrived, when the money would be properly charged; Whereupon,

Ordered, That this warrant be entered and the money charged by the treasurer in the public books.

CONTINENTAL MARINE COMMITTEE TO CAPTAIN NICHOLAS BIDDLE

Nicholas Biddle Esq^r
Comm^r of the Randolph
Sir

York Town October 24th 1777

As quickly after you receive this as your Ship can be provided for the Voyage, you are to proceed to France, and when there you are to be directed as to your future Cruise, and the disposal of your Prizes, by the Commissioners of the United States at Paris. For this purpose you are immediately on your arrival to send a trusty officer to acquaint the Commissioners of your arrival, and to receive their directions. Until you receive their answer it is left to your discretion and the intelligence you may collect of the enemies Cruizers, whether to remain at your Port of arrival, or make a short Cruise, and repair for the reception of their answer to any other port; taking care to inform the Commissioners of your determination on this point.

Whatever supplies of any kind you may want for the Ship in France you will apply for, either to the Commercial Agent in France or any correspondent of the Commercial Committee at the Port where you may be, or to the Commissioners at Paris

We would have you make as little shew as possible of being a Ship of Force, when you arrive, and during your stay in any Port of France; and let your stay in Port be as short as possible. It is not necessary to direct a person of your discretion to be very cautious of communicating to any person, either in America or in France, what is your destination or what your orders. If the Agents of the Commercial Committee of Congress should direct you to take on board Merchandize for France you are to follow such directions concerning this, and the delivery of the goods as you may receive from that Committee

We desire you will correspond with this Committee by every suitable opportunity. Wishing you health & success We are Sir y^r Friends & hble servants

CONTINENTAL COMMERCE COMMITTEE TO OLIVER POLLOCK

Sir,

York October 24th 1777

The Secret Committee of Congress being dissolved we have been appointed under the Stile & Title of the Commercial Committee to take up and continue the Business¹—We find they wrote you a long Letter on 12th June by Capt. LeMere to which we refer you.² The present serving to acknowledge the Receipt of your Letters by Capt Pickles addressed to a former Committee of Congress which we have laid before Congress and by some inattention of the Secretary are now mislaid. The chief purport being to advise us of the arrival of some Stores from Spain intended for the Service of this Continent and of the very favourable Disposition of the Governor Don Bernardo De Galvez—we shall proceed to say what is necessary on these Subjects—Herein you will find inclosed a Letter for the Governor which please to deliver and procure it to be well translated into Spanish for him, in this Letter³ we have requested him if Money be wanting in New Orleans for the due Execution of our Business to furnish what may be needful under Assurance that it will be repaid by our Ambassador at the Court of Spain and we doubt not he will comply.

This precaution we have now taken in consequence of Mr Morris informing us that he finds you have made some Remittances on his Houses Account that will reduce the Balance he expected in your hands—With respect to the Stores sent out from Spain to New Orleans for our Service we are anxious to get them soon & safe to this part of America where they are much wanted & would be very useful. We have had it in Contemplation to order them up the Mississippi to Fort Pitt, but the length of time that would require the heavy Expence & the Danger of Robbery by Indians has deterred us; therefore we must trust them round by Sea and for this purpose we desire you will charter or purchase suitable fast sailing Vessels sufficient to bring the whole. The Authorities vested in you by the Secret Committee we hereby confirm and the Instructions contained in their Letters of which we now give you a Copy are quite sufficient for your Guidance in this Business as well as that they committed to you—We therefore recommend the same precautions they urged but beg you will expedite the Departure of those Stores as much as you can—Capt. Pickles tells us he has a fine Brigantine suitable for the Business of Bringing a Cargo a long the Coast—If that be the case and the Governor & you should think him a proper Person to be employed you will agree with him accordingly—We have wrote the Continental Agents in Charles Town S^o Carolina to hire or buy a suitable Vessel to carry Captain Pickles to New Orleans and that Vessel may be loaden back with part of the Stores—We shall cause another small Vessel to be sent from Virginia to carry Duplicates of our Letters and if she arrives safe she may be employed in the same Service. We are desirous of sending you supplies of Flour, as that would furnish Funds to answer the Demands this Business will occasion, but unluckily our Enemies Ships of War are so numerous as to block up effectually at present all those ports from whence that Article can be exported—We hope however to find them other Employment before long and shall be glad of Openings to make you frequent Consignments of this & other Articles—

We inclose you herein three blank Commissions for privateers with the bonds & Instructions which we send you in full Confidence as our Agent that you will not grant them to any Persons but such as you know will strictly comply with the Terms prescribed in the Bonds & Instructions—If you should think it best to arm the Vessels which you purchase to bring the Stores for these States those Commissions may be filled up for them—We are &c.

MARYLAND COUNCIL TO CHRISTOPHER LOWNDES

Christ^o. Lowndes Esq^r

Sir.

[Annapolis] In Council 24th. Oct^r. 1777.

We write to Cap^t. Coursey to wait on you himself and explain his Bill for Cordage. Belt wants his for a different Vessel, he says he wrote to you for a Ten inch Cable and half a Ton of small Cordage. I suppose he is mistaken, and that he wrote for the Ton, as you mention, tho' the Cable and half Ton only were wanted by him—We do not think we shall now have Occasion for the ten Tons of Hemp, besides what you now have by you, though we possibly may and therefore we wish you to contract for it. If it should not be all immediately, or as soon as you work it up, wanted by the Public, it will yet be a Public Advantage to have your People kept fully employed, and there's no Likelihood of any Loss from it. We will advance the Money for the Purchase, as you may desire it, and shall willingly settle and pay for what we have had, as soon as you please. The Price we presume will depend a good Deal on the Cost of the Materials and ought to be mentioned by you, we expect it will be as moderate as you can well afford. The Georgia Regiment have occasioned Complaints wherever they have went. A Representation of their Conduct has been laid before Congress, who have empowered the Governor to appoint Commissioners to hear Complaints against them and settle Damages, which are to be stopped at the Pay of the Regiment.¹ We believe that your Waggon, when on such Business, will not again be taken, but there would be an Impropriety as we have no Power to grant particular Exemptions. CAPTAIN ROBERT FANSHAWE, R.N., TO CAPTAIN GEORGE KEITH ELPHINSTONE, R.N.

Sir,—

Carysfort, Hampton Road. 24th October, 1777.

It being my Lord Howe's intention that the Carysfort, Perseus and Lizard should act in concert on the coasts of the Carolinas and southward to St. Augustine, you will herewith receive his Lordship's Order to put yourself under my command.

In the course of service incident to this appointment the Signals established by his Lordship in his Signal Book for the Ships of War are occasionally to be used except in such instances as you will be hereafter informed of by me.

You will observe that the account (which accompanies this) of vessels from France to North America is marked 'Secret' (as was that to me); It may however be proper to give that intelligence, with the same caution, to any of His Majesty's Ships you may meet not already furnished with it.

I have brought with me into the Chesapeak Bay the Nancy transport brig, Kildare Williamson Master, having on board an assortment of victualling stores intended to be deposited at Saint Augustine for the ships on the southern stations, in order that the Perseus might be immediately completed with provisions from her, and, if otherways ready proceed forthwith with me to the southward: but on my arrival here to-day Captain Parker informs me that the Perseus is deficient of water also, which it seems cannot readily be supplied till the arrival of the transports coming from the Delaware with provisions and water for the ship under his orders—in this case I think it most expedient that the Carysfort and Lizard should proceed as soon as they can to cruise on the southern coasts, and that the victualling brig should be left under protection of the King's ships stationed in Chesapeak Bay, till the Perseus is ready to convey her to St. Augustine, and as this proposal meets Captain Parker's approbation, you will have my order as well for that purpose as for the future disposal of her.

There are on board the Phœnix pilots for the southern coasts, and Captain Parker will be pleased to furnish you with such as you may think necessary. The pilot on board the Lizard professes knowledge of the coast from the Delaware to Saint Augustine—he on board the Carysfort is acquainted only from Charlestown southward, which I mention in order to guide your choice of one for the Perseus—if it should be necessary to detach the ships to different parts, a suitable exchange of pilots may be made.

There was in peaceable times, an agent at St. Augustine for victualling His Majesty's ships. You will have the goodness to enquire if there be now any person under such contract, and, in the present state of affairs, able to fulfill it, a suggestion here occurs on the probable readiness of such person to take charge of the victualling stores if you should find it expedient to land them and discharge the brig.

Great convenience will ensue if, when the Southern Cruizers go to Augustine for provisions, a ready means of supplying them with water also can be there ascertained.

It has been intimated to me that Governor Tonym some time ago proposed to have a vessel for such service, your representation of the utility thereof will probably induce him to provide for such necessary accommodation in future. And you will be pleased also to get every information you can of what other places the ships will be able to water at, and particularly what annoyance they will be likely to meet, if they should go into Saint Simons or Jekyll Sound for such purpose.

When any opportunity should offer you entering seamen more than may be wanted for your own ship, I will be glad if you would engage what you can for the Carysfort, she being now more than twenty short of her complement, and having forty sick on shore and on board—if you are not already furnished with a general order to bear supernumeraires (as I am not) I will take upon me to give you my sanction for this special purpose.

The admiral having been pleased to communicate to me advice he has received that southwest and southerly winds are said to prevail, from the northward of Cape Hatteras along the coasts of the Carolinas to Cape Florida more than eight months in the year; also that off the Capes Hatteras and Lookout and the shoals of Cape Fear, the Gulf Stream borders so close as to render the navigation confined and difficult, whereby it has not unfrequently happened that the passage from Cape Hatteras to Charlestown could not be made under many weeks, you will, in your occasional passages from one of those coasts to another avail yourself of this intelligence in order to obviate as much as possible those reputed inconveniences: in the passage from the Delaware to Chesapeak Bay the Master of the victualling brig was directed while under my convoy to observe and conform to the 'Sailing Instructions and Signals by day and night for Transports and Ships under Convoy' established by Lord Howe.

It is at present my intention that the Carysfort and Lizard shall cruize in company or separately, as occasion may be, on the coasts of the Carolinas while you are gone to the southward, and on your return any other arrangement may be made according to the intelligence gained, or as our observations and circumstances will best enable. I am [&c.]

NORTH-CAROLINA GAZETTE, FRIDAY, OCTOBER 24, 1777

Newbern, October 24, 1777.

Since our last, Capt. Ward, of the Independent Company stationed on Core Banks, has taken a Prize Schooner called the Liverpool, commanded by Capt. Mayes, from [New] Providence to New York, loaded with Fruit and Turtle for Lord Howe. This Vessel put into Cape Lookout Bay, under the Sanction of a pretended Friend, but Capt. Ward's Vigilance soon discovered her to be an Enemy, and in the Night boarded her with some of his Company, and took her. She is about 30 Tons, has been fitted as a Privateer, and now mounts several Swivels, and is reported a very fast Sailer.

SOUTH CAROLINA NAVY BOARD TO CAPTAIN JAMES PYNE

GOVERNOR GEORGE JAMES BRUERE TO LORD GEORGE GERMAIN

[Extract]

N^o 19

My Lord

Bermuda Octo^r the 24th—1777

The Duke of Cumberland Packet, is arrived from S^t Augustine, and hath brought Me, Your Lordships Dispatch N^o 3, of the second of April.

His Majestys Sloop of War the Nautilus, was getting under Sail, when the Packet arrived and hath left Bermuda to Careen and get Provisions, as there is no Store here, for that purpose.

Therefore I am now left, as I was this time twelve month, when both the Nautilus and Galatea, left the Coast and went to New York, without one Soldier to Man the Forts, to Guard the entrance, into any of our Harbour. and it is to be feared that no other Ship of War, will arrive before the Packet Sails. or perhaps, not for some months, as last Year, the Men of War left Bermuda, on or about, the 20th of October, and did not return, till on or about the 4th of January.

My former letters, will demonstrate to Your Lordship, that the People were exasperated, at the Loss of their several Vessels, being seized and Condemned.¹

And they are at present, in great want of provisions. Indian Corn in particular, to feed their numerous Negroes; or any other Substitute for Bread.—

Our Chief Justice Jonathan Burch Esq^r, hath not behaved to the Satisfaction of Captain Collins, who hath actually protested against the Chief Justice in due form. Your Lordship will therefore See, the Difficulty of my Situation, in Respect to the Disputes between the Captains of the Men of War, and the People, as the want of every Support by land, Occasions the Captains of the Men of War, and their People, to interfere by land, more than otherwise might be necessary. And Your Lordship must not Expect, that we have any Civil Support; adequate to a proper Care of the Government, even to our internal Security; in the Administration of good Government; which Seventy or eighty Men, might man the Forts and Effect. . . . I have the Honor to be [&c.]

George Ja^s Bruere

My Lord. If Your Lordship should think proper, I imagine, that Seventy, or eighty Soldiers, from Chelsea Hospital, or some of the out pensioners, might answer the Purpose, of Manning our Forts, and this Moderate climate, be Healthy for the old men, not well able to March. or discharged for under Size [,] and Cap^t Ackland, might bring them out, as His Ship or Packet is large, on His Return.²

2. On 14 Oct. Bruere had written Germain a similar letter. The governor complained that he had previously asked Vice Adm. Viscount Howe and Gen. Sir William Howe to send additional naval support and soldiers to guard Bermuda's harbors, but the Howes did not answer. Bruere to Germain, 14 Oct. 1777, UKLPR, C.O. 37/36. GOVERNOR EDWARD HAY TO LORD GEORGE GERMAIN

N^o: 20.

Barbados 24. Oct. 1777.

My Lord

I have had the honour to receive Your Lordship's Two Circular Letters of the 7. and 12. June. The Latter contains a Copy of His Majesty's Speech to Both Houses of Parliament at the Close of the Session on the 6th. June.

That of the 7. June incloses a Copy of Your Lordship's Letter to Gov^r Burt of the same date, with the opinion of the King's Attorney and Sollicitor General relative to the Capture of the Sloop May belonging to the Rebellious Colonies by an Armed Vessel called the Reprisal belonging to Antigua. I never thought myself authorized to grant Commissions to private Ships of War; and as well before as since I have strictly adhered to this Opinion; but now I have to shew Your Lordship's directions and Orders upon that Subject. The Lords of the Admiralty have sent me a warrant to cause Commissions to be granted upon the application of the Owners of Trading Vessels fitted out here. I shall ever be very cautious how I grant such Commissions. I have no great opinion of many of the Traders and Seafaring people of the West Indies; and I wish such Commissions be not often much abused.

I have also the honour of Your Lordship's Letter N^o. 8. dated the 9th. August, with your kind approbation of my Securing the Crew of the Musquito Privateer taken by Capt. Pringle.¹—Capt. Pringle had then never joined the Admiral, but certainly there were Ships enough which went from hence in the June Convoy to have dispersed these prisoners among them. But by a Letter I since received from Vice Admiral Young, He seemed to be waiting for Instructions upon the Pirate Act;² However He promised to give Orders to My Nephew Capt. Drummond (to whom He has given a Command, and who was expected here to take down our Ships) to take off as many prisoners, as he could put on board the Ships. But the Wind has blown so strong Southerly, that Drummond does not appear; The Ships are to sail tomorrow under the Convoy of the Fly Sloop, Capt. Garner, by Order of Capt. Pringle, They being both here. There are but Five Vessels from this Island for different Ports. Capt. Pringle refuses to give orders for taking any of the Prisoners, having no Orders from the Admiral. I am extremely concerned about it, because these men would be of less Expence to Government, when landed in England than they can be here; and perhaps there will be no other Convoy bound home from the West Indies these many months.

We have lately heard from Martinico, that upon the Arrival of a Vessel from Old France, an Embargo was immediately laid on all Ships & Provisions in the French Islands. We are at a Loss to conjecture what this may lead to, Though there is no Account of any Number of French Men of War in the West Indies as yet.

I have the honour to transmit to Your Lordship a Copy of an Insolent Letter I received from the Commanders of the Rebel Privateers at Martinico; and the Copy of my Letter to the Governor of Martinico,³ in answer to His, of which I have already sent Your Lordship a Copy; In my Letter to the French Governor I have inserted a Message to the Rebel Commanders, which I have desired His Excellency to send them.

Every Thing is very quiet here, and the weather has been very favorable for some months, which gives a good prospect of plenty of the Island provisions; but Foreign Provisions are very scarce for the want of the Arrival of Convoys from England & Ireland. I have the honour to be [&c.]

LORD MACARTNEY TO LORD GEORGE GERMAIN

Grenada
My Lord

N^o. 39

St. George's October 22^d: 1777

As public affairs in this part of the World began to wear a serious aspect, owing to the countenance & protection which the Rebels received from the French, Dutch and Danes in the neighboring Islands, (not to mention their well wishers in our own,) I some Months since sent a Gentleman, on whom I could depend, to make a little Tour among them, and report to me what he saw and observed. He returned a few days ago, and I now sit down to give your Lordship such information as I have been able to collect from him, together with what has fallen under my own immediate view. I shall begin with Martinique, which ever since the commencement of the Rebellion, has been considered by the Americans as their chief magazine and Asylum in these seas. The Count D'Argout's conduct during his Government was so unjustifiable and he himself so conscious of it, that it became equally his own wish and that of his friends to exchange it for some other appointment, sauf son honneur. He is a native of S^t Domingo, where he possesses a large estate, and has an only Daughter married in old France to the Marquis de Benzols, nephew of the Marshal Duke of Fitz James. Thro the Influence of this Connexion Monsieur D'Argout found means a few months since, to obtain the Command at S^t Domingo, which fortunately for him had just then fallen vacant by the Death of the Count D'Ennery. He was succeeded at Martinique by the Marquis de Bouillè, whose letter of Notification, together with an account of the language held to me by Monsieur de Kersaint, who brought it, I had the honor of transmitting to your Lordship in my dispatch of the 11th. of last July.—¹

{Since ² Monsieur de Bouille's arrival at Martinique, I have received no direct Complaints against him, in which the Islands under my Command, were properly concerned, but nevertheless, it is very certain that the Rebels continue to receive great countenance and assistance within his Government. They are permitted to fit out Privateers from thence, to bring in their prizes and to dispose of them without undergoing the ceremony of a tryal or Condemnation—This is done chiefly in the out bays, and the Governor pretends to be totally ignorant of it; In his conversation he affects a perfect Neutrality, says that he is at a loss to distinguish between the Englishman and the American, He does not know which is which, as both speak the same language and so strongly resemble each other, that all nations who bring provisions in time of Scarcity to the French Islands, are welcome to purchase goods, Warlike Stores and other Merchandize in return, and he never enquires what they do with them or where they carry them. “La France desire la paix, mais elle ne craint pas la Guerre.”

Such is the language held of late by Monsieur de Bouillè, but that of the Merchants and generality of people at S^t Pierre's is as hostile as possible. They consist chiefly of Buccaneers, Smugglers and other Adventurers who are eager for plunder and mischief, and expect that a War wou'd amply gratify them in both—} I dont, however, find that the french planters and men of property are of that way of thinking; They chiefly reside upon their estates, keep themselves separate from the trading part, and wish to improve their fortunes in quiet and Security It cant be supposed that they have much affection for us, but it is certain, that they hold the Americans in the utmost contempt. They cannot indeed form a very advantageous Idea of them, for the Americans whom they have seen, are in general of the meanest education, and most unpolished manners, chiefly low traders, ship carpenters, Sailers and Supracargos, but nevertheless dignified with the titles of Colonels and Captains. {There are between 40 and 50 of them now at Martinique, the principal of whom is one Bingham, a native of Pennsylvania. He is about 30 years of age, was bred in a Compting house, and has within these few years travelled the several parts of Europe for the purpose of establishing Commercial Correspondences for the Rebels. He resides at S^t Pierre's where he is considered as a kind of agent, or Consul, for his Countrymen; He keeps open house and makes a point of inviting to his table all the people of these Islands, who happen to visit Martinique, and I am sorry to say that too many of them have accepted of his hospitality—He corresponds with the Congress, fits out their ships, sells their prizes, and is in general charged with the whole of their affairs there—He prepares all the American Articles for the Martinique Gazette, has constant access to Monsieur Joubert, the Commandant at S^t Pierre, and is often seen with him in public.—The Americans boast that he is well received at Fort Royal by Monsieur de Bouillè, but all the french officers and Gentlemen absolutely deny it. One part of the harbor at S^t Pierre seems to be solely appropriated to the Rebel Vessels, and their prizes, which last after being unloaded in the out bays, and passing thro' several fictitious sales, are brought in and entered as American property.} The number however of American privateers in the West Indies, has of late been very much diminished and will probably be less and less every day, as there are now several of our Cruizers at sea, and our Merchant ships seldom sail without Convoy.—There is also another reason. The Rebels find it very difficult to man their ships, ever since we have sent the prisoners to England. This circumstance more than any other deters the french Creoles from entering on board them, altho Monsieur de Bouille says it is principally owing to his prohibition. Some, however, do venture and I understand the principal part of the Crews are composed of foreign desperado's of different nations; {Among the prizes which have fallen into our hands, not a third of the people are natives of America—The french Smugglers and other small Craft have almost all Congress Commissions (perhaps without Monsieur de Bouillè's knowledge) and dont fail to make use of them, when a fair opportunity offers There is generally one American on board, a man of Straw, whom they then pass as the Commander, to justify their captures—} In truth the Genius of all the West Indians, without distinction, seems turned to piracy and freebooting, and I imagine that if the Rebellion was at an end tomorrow, It would be necessary to keep several Cruizers here, at least for some time, till the seas are effectually scoured and the navigation secured.

Most of the Rebels at Martinique are of the sourest leaven, declare for a total independance, look upon a Reconciliation with horror and talk of their own Partizans in England and their Ideas, with Ridicule and Contempt—{The Americans on the Continent are chiefly supplied in the articles of Cloathing and hardware, with British Manufactures, which are sent thither thro the Medium of S^t Eustatia and Santa Cruz. Gun powder, Artillery, and all kind of Naval and Military Stores, are furnished them by the french—A Merchant at S^t Pierre's told the Gentleman whom I sent there, that if he wanted 10,000 stands of Arms, he could supply him, and wou'd ship them in ten days, on board a french bottom to any port of America.} It appears that the French, Dutch, and Danes, are prodigious gainers by this trade, whilst America itself is almost exhausted to the last farthing, having no foreign Credit and not being able to purchase a single article, without ready money or an equivalent commodity.

At Martinique, there are near 4000 Regulars well armed, well cloathed and in every respect well appointed, There is also a numerous Militia under good Regulation and discipline—The Coast is sufficiently guarded with batteries, and the Stores amply furnished with arms and ammunition. The only Naval force there at present, consists of one 64 Gun ship, 2 frigates of 32 Guns each and a Couple of small tenders.—Under the General Military superintendance of Martinique, (tho a distinct Government) is the Island of Guadaloupe, which is supposed to be nearly equal to it in population, culture and produce. The two Islands together contain about 20,000 whites, 160,000 Negros, employ 300 Topsail Vessels, in carrying on their Commerce, and export annually to the value of near two million Sterling.

The Island of S^t Lucie is also a branch of the Government of Martinique, but it's progress, tho' very Rapid at it's first Establishment, seems to be now at a Stand. It contains about 1200 whites and 14,000 Negros but the Climate is not favorable and the land has proved so much inferior in quality to the first expectation, that numbers have abandoned it and carried their negros off to Trinidad, where the Court of Spain seems to have projected a considerable settlement. The Regular Troops in Guadaloupe and S^t Lucie put together dont amount to more than 1500 Men. The other smaller french settlements are rather the shelter of Pirates and banditti, than the regular Colonies of a polished Nation. They are chiefly inhabited by the Refuse of Martinique & Guadaloupe.

As to the Great french Establishment of St Domingo, being so far to Leeward, it lay out of the sphere of my friend's observation and enquiry, but I presume that your Lordship must be perfectly instructed of what is going forward there, by your accounts from it's next neighbor, Jamaica.

With regard to our own Islands, I need not mention the strange mixture of people & Complexion which their Inhabitants are composed of—Your Lordship knows that above half of Grenada and the Grenadines are french, There is also a considerable Number of French in Dominique and S^t Vincents.

These together with the Americans, of whom there are a great many scattered thro our West Indies, are certainly not well affected to us. I have often had reason to suspect that they convey'd intelligence to the Rebels and that several Captures had been made in consequence, but I never have been able to verify my conjectures, by Evidence—If there should be a french War, I imagine that this Island wou'd be a principal object for the Enemy.—The french having formerly been masters of it, are perfectly well acquainted with it's value and importance, and have often exprest their expectations of being able some day or other to recover it. Your Lordship will see by the Monthly returns how little resistance it could make in it's present state—A British fleet alone can effectually protect it, or indeed any of our West India possessions.— And here I think it my duty to mention that for these three months past, the Admiral has paid very particular attention to this Government. Several Vessels of his Squadron have been cruising round us, and we have had the pleasure of seeing them from time to time in our ports.

Before I conclude this Letter, I must apologize for it's being so long and desultory, but I imagined your Lordship wou'd rather excuse me for trespassing in this manner, than for omitting any thing, which when compared with other intelligence, might possibly tend to remove an Error or clear up a Doubt. I have the honor to be [&c.]

{P.S.

Since writing the above, I have certain information that the Governor of Martinique about a fortnight ago received dispatches from Europe, the purport of which was, that probably before that time the War in America wou'd be over, in which case it was not impossible that the English forces and the Americans, (which last are now so well acquainted with all the french Islands,) might pay a visit to Martinique or some of the other french Colonies—In consequence of this Letter, on the 8th Instant an Embargo was laid on all Vessels at Martinique, The Troops have been review'd, The Guards of the Batteries doubled, the free Negros arm'd and Regimented, and every thing put into such order as if hostility was apprehended.) S^c Georges October 24th. 1777

Having mentioned the Island of Trinidada in my Letter of yesterday, I think it necessary to speak a little more particularly of it, and to observe that if ever it should come to be well peopled and cultivated, it might prove a painful thorn in the sides of these Windward Islands.

It lies about 5 leagues S.S.W. distant from Tobago, and 30 leagues almost due South from Grenada. To go from Grenada to Trinidad takes at least four or five days on account of the Currents, but the return is generally performed in one.

It seemed to have been entirely neglected by the Spaniards and was chiefly inhabited by Caribs and fugitives from the Main, till a few months ago a new Governor¹ was sent there, who on his arrival published a proclamation inviting people to come and settle at Trinidada, offering every advantage and Encouragement that could be desired. In consequence of it many of the inhabitants of S^c Lucie, several Bankrupts of this Island, and various other persons of desperate fortunes, embraced the proposal, carried thither their Negroes & began to form Settlements and Plantations.

Among others a french Gentleman of this Island was tempted to try his fortune there, but not much approving either of the people or the Government he soon returned. Inclosed I have the honor to send a Copy of the observations he made during his Stay at Trinidada, and as he is a man of sense and Veracity, I imagine them to be pretty just.

As² the passage from Trinidada to Tobago, is often performed in two or three hours, it some times happens that notwithstanding the utmost Vigilance of our people, Spanish Launches and other small Vessels approach the Coast unperceived.—About a Month since, a small Schooner from Trinidada came over in the night to Man of War bay at the North East end of Tobago, where two new Plantations were just begun by Messieurs Meyers and Kelly, landed a number of men and carried off near 40 Slaves and a small Schooner lying at Anchor—The Chief of this Enterprize was one Paschall Bonavitta, a Corsican by birth, who had formerly lived at Martinique and Committed several Piracies and Robberies in these Seas under a pretended American Commission.—The Commission now runs in the name of one White and has already served for several different little pirate Vessels, on board of which this White, who is generally the only American of the Crew, had served at different times.—He was with Paschal Bonavitta on the expedition at Man of War bay, but the Schooner was the property of Paschal and in fact Commanded by him—These plunderers then returned to Trinidada with their booty—

One of the Proprietors of the Slaves immediately came over here from Tobago, & made his Complaint to me, on which I dispatched the Favorite Sloop of War which happened to be in the Road here, with a Letter to the Governor of Trinidad, demanding the Slaves to be restored, and the Pirate to be delivered up or severely punished—Neither of which Requisitions was complied with, but in return an evasive, unsatisfactory answer was sent to me, as your Lordship will perceive on reading the inclosed papers, which I have the Honor now to transmit—They consist of my Letter to the Governor of Trinidad and his Answer, also the Deposition of M^r Meyers whom I had sent in the Favorite and who returned in her here, the day before yesterday—³

I send also a Letter from the Governor of Trinidad to Captain Fooks on his first arrival at Trinidad, and Captain Fooks's answer, to which no reply was given.⁴

The Negros were certainly landed at Trinidad and disposed of in the manner mentioned in Meyers's Affidavit No other British ship besides the Favorite went to Trinidad, or was near the Coast, but the Governor's apprehension had magnified her appearance into five armed Vessels as he mentions in his Letter.—

There is no defence or fortification in the Island, Except a small batterie of four Six pounders, and half a Dozen Soldiers, so that the favorite's boats well manned were an over match for the whole force of the Colony.—Captain Fooks behaved with the utmost prudence and discretion offering no offence or hostility whatsoever—But unless the Court of Spain sends orders to the Governor of Trinidad, to observe a different conduct, I am very much affraid that the people of Tobago will take upon themselves to retaliate and tho I shou'd certainly use all my power & Authority to prevent any thing of the kind, it might be very difficult to fix the fact upon the proper persons. I have the Honor to be [&c.]

DEPOSITION OF CHARLES MEYERS

Grenada

The Deposition of Charles Gustavas
Meyers of the Island of Tobago

The said Charles Meyers being duely sworn on the holy Evangelists deposeth that on or about the 20th. of September last in the night time Paschal Bonavitta owner and as this deponent believes principal Commander of a certain Schooner, together with one Joseph White a Bermudian American & several other armed men, landed out of the abovementioned Schooner in a part of the said Island called Man of War Bay. there by force of Arms seized a Schooner belonging to Cap^t Wilkinson & carried off from said Meyers & Kellys Plantation, Thirty seven Negros, the property of said Meyers & Henry Kelly & two Carib Indians born in the Island of St Vincents & landed the said Negros, and Carib Indians in the Island of Trinidad, that therefore he the said Meyers, came to Grenada to lay his complaint before His Excellency Lord Macartney, The Governor of Grenada, & Tobago; that the said Lord Macartney ordered a Sloop of War then lying in the Road called the Favorite Commanded by Cap^t William Fooks, to go to Trinidad with dispatches from the said Lord Macartney to the Governor of Trinidad in order to claim the restitution of the said slaves & Carib Indians and that by the said Lord Macartneys orders, he the said Meyers went on board the Favorite & proceeded in her to Trinidad, where he was informed that the said Paschal Bonavitta had arrived some time before, that he had landed the Slaves, sold some of them, (six in number,) to the Priest at Port d'espagne, had made a present of one Negro Woman & two Children to the Governor of Trinidad, & that the remainder were then working at a Plantation in the Neighbourhood belonging to one Vidal & the said Paschal Bonavitta in partnership, except the two Caribs which were detained by Paschal on board Captain Wilkinsons Schooner, which the said Paschal had fitted out as a Privateer after he had brought her into Trinidad. That the said Meyers being brought before the Governor did claim the said Slaves, that the Governor Emanuel Falquez said they never had been brought to Trinidad, to which the said Meyers answered that he knew they were there, that A Negrowoman & two children part of those stolen by Paschal Bonavitta from Tobago, were seen that day in the Governors house, that the Priest had purchased some others, & that the rest were at the abovementioned Vidal's. To which the Governor replied that he had a mind to put him the said Meyers in Irons, but that if they were at Trinidad, he would endeavour to find them out & seize them for His Catholic Majestys use together with the Schooner abovementioned That thereupon, He the said Meyers, said that all he desired was to be allowed to go to Vidals and to bring the Slaves before the Governor to prove his property and would then be very well satisfied that the Governor should detain them till the King of Spains Determination was known thereupon; But the said Governor Emanuel Falquez refused—That he the said Meyers was informed that the said Paschal Bonavitta was protected by the said Governor, that the abovementioned White who was with Paschal at the time he carried off the Negros from Tobago had no other Commission but the Copy of a Congress Commission in the said Whites hand writing, which had been used by three different Pirates, whose names were scratched out with a pen & another inserted & that the said Meyers was told this fact by a Person at Trinidad who had seen the Commission, that the said White is not the real Commander of the Schooner but kept on board by Paschal for a Cover That the said Meyers from his information & observation believes that the said Governor of Trinidad Emanuel Falquez, has in the whole transaction done every thing in his power to protect the said Paschal & to countenance him in his Piracy.—& that no Justice is to be expected from the said Governor by any of His British Majestys subjects in a case of this nature.—That he believes the answer given by the said Governor to Lord Macartneys letter upon the subject,¹ is not only evasive, but absolutely false & contrary to the Truth.—

Sworn to before me this

DIARY OF CAPTAIN FREDERICK MACKENZIE

[Rhode Island] 25th Oct^r 1777 Thick rainy weather most part of last night, and this day. Wind E.S.E.

About 12 last night a party of near 100 Rebels came forward, and commenced a brisk fire upon our Sentries at Howland's bridge & Commonfence Neck. Our Sentries withdrew after returning their fire; and the Rebels having advanced pretty near, they were saluted with the Guns at the bridge Redoubt, & Commonfence; and also the 12 p^r at Bristol Redoubt, on which they retired. A New Whaleboat, marked N^o 28, was found on the beach beyond Howland's bridge this morning, and brought in by some of our men, in spite of a party of Rebels who endeavored to prevent them.

A 12 p^r was brought from Bristol Redoubt this morning, & placed in that at Howland's bridge, where it will be of much service.

May it please your Excellency,

Borden Town 25th Oct^r 1777

We thought proper to forward the enclosed Letter¹ for your Perusal, partly because it contains a pretty circumstantial Account of the late action at Red Bank² & the burning two of the Enemy's Ships of War;³ but principally on Account of the Declaration in the last Paragraph of a Want of Ammunition in the garrison & Fleet.

We have, whilst at this Place, exerted ourselves in supplying our Ships with necessaries, which is the Reason Captⁿ. Robinson has applied to us for Cartridges & Ball; but as it is altogether out of our Power to furnish those articles, and a Scarcity of them may be attended with very serious Consequences, we thought it most prudent to inform your Excellency of the Requisition made not doubting but you will give such Orders as may have a sure & speedy Effect.

Sincerely wishing you Health & Success we have the honour to be [&c.]

GEORGE WASHINGTON TO THE CONTINENTAL NAVY BOARD OF THE MIDDLE DEPARTMENT

Gentlemen

Head Quarters 25th. Octob^r. 1777.

The applications of Commodore Hazelwood for Seamen, & the necessity there is of his being Supplied, if possible induce me to submit it to the Consideration of your Board, whether those in the Frigates near Burlington¹ cannot be more beneficially employed with him, than where they now are—

The importance of defending the Navigation below, or in other words of preventing the Enemy from becoming the Masters of it, is obvious to all. If they cannot effect this, we may hope, that they will be obliged, either to evacuate the City—or to expose themselves to great hazard, if not ruin, by Sending out frequent Detachments for procuring & convoying provisions & other necessary supplies. Under these Ideas, I think there should be every possible, prudent exertion to provide the Commodore with a Suitable number of hands for manning his Vessels.

The Ground, I presume, for retaining the Sailors on board the Frigates is their Security. This I fear, from their unfinished—unwieldy State could not be provided for, in case the Enemy should attempt to take them. I am certain of it. Will it not be more advisable therefore to Try other means for their safety? I mean to scuttle them, if they can be raised again. I am not a judge of such matters, but if it can be done, I should think the measure highly expedient. The Commodore might then be reinforced & the Frigates would be Secure against any present efforts, which the enemy can make to possess or destroy 'em. These are not the only good consequences that may be pointed out. I will mention one more of great weight. If the Frigates should be taken by the Enemy, of which there is great danger in my opinion, they will make them exceedingly formidable against our little Navy.—So much so that in Conjunction with the *Delaware*² and Such other Vessels, as they may equip, there will be the Strongest reason to apprehend their falling a Sacrifice. I have written to Commodore Hazelwood for his Sentiments & those of the Navy Officers upon the Subject and practicability weirghing them, if they should be sunk, which I shall take the Liberty of laying before you by the earliest opportunity after they are obtained. I have the honor to be [&c.]

GEORGE WASHINGTON TO COMMODORE JOHN HAZELWOOD

Sir

Head Quarters [Whitpain, Pa.] 25th: October 1777

I was last night fav^d. with yours of the 23^d.¹ Give me leave to congratulate you upon your Victory, and return my thanks to the Officers and men for their gallant behaviour, to those particularly who were more immediately engaged. I hope Col^o. Green's success by land added to yours upon the Water, will make the Enemy cautious of attempting either again. You may depend upon being supplied with ammunition while there is a possibility of conveying to you. 1000 Cartridges for 18^{lb}. and 640 for 24 pounders were upon the way down when you wrote, and I hope have arrived before this. I have also this morning ordered down two Waggon loads of ammunition from hence.

I will do every thing in my power, ill as I can afford the Men, to reinforce the fleet. In the mean time you must make the best shift you can by borrowing of Col^o. Green upon an emergency. There are about 100 seamen employed in the new Frigates² that lay up at Whitehill. I have been thinking that they might be scutled and sunk for the present, and all the Men, except a few to be left for ferry men, sent down to you. I have wrote to the Continental Navy Board at Bordentown for their opinion upon the expediency of this matter,³ and shall be obliged to you for yours. I have another Reason for scutling them, which is, that I fear the Enemy will possess themselves of them, and with the Assistance of them and the Delaware Frigate very much annoy your Rear—I am—

VICE ADMIRAL VISCOUNT HOWE TO PHILIP STEPHENS

Number 43.

Eagle In the Delaware
October the 25th: 1777.

Sir,

The Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty will be informed by my last Letter of the 28th: of August,¹ of the Arrival of the Fleet at the Head of Chesepeak-Bay, and Debarkation of the Army the 25th: in the River Elk.

The Provision, Military Stores and Baggage required, having been landed under the Direction of Captain Duncan by the 7th of the next Month, the Army advanced towards the Rebel Forces assembled near Wilmington on the Side of the Delaware.

The Enemy confiding in the Strength of their Situation, and waiting the Approach of the Army, were charged the 11th in the Evening—with so much Spirit, that notwithstanding the Advantages of their post, they were quickly forced on every part; and retreated in great Confusion towards the Town of Philadelphia.

When this Account was forwarded, the Loss in either Army was not ascertained. But twelve pieces of Cannon had been taken in the Field; And the Victory would have probably been complete, but for the great Fatigue of the King's Forces in a long and difficult March round by the Forks of the Brandywine, to arrive in the destined position for the Commencement of the Attack.

Upon Intelligence of this Event received the 13th, Preparation was made for taking the first favorable Opportunity to move the Fleet round to a proper Anchorage for preserving a free Communication with the Army in this River.

The Progress down the Bay was considerably retarded by the State of the Weather and Intricacy of the Navigation, which did not admit of continuing under Sail during the Night. Wherefore, tho' quitting the Elk the 14th, the Fleet could not put to Sea from the Capes of Virginia until the 23^d of the same Month. I then proceeded forward in the Eagle with the Vigilant and Isis, and a small Division of the Transports in which some Articles of Provisions and Military Stores likely to be soonest wanted for the Army, had been for that purpose embarked And left the Body of the Fleet to be conducted by Captain Griffith, with the rest of the Ships of War.

Having had very tempestuous Weather, of some Duration, to the Northward, in the passage down Chesepak Bay, the prospect was favorable for the speedy Arrival of the Fleet in the Delaware.

But when the two Divisions (little separated) were advanced within a few Leagues of the Entrance of the River, the wind changed in a sudden Squall from the Southward in the Evening of the 25th; And having continued between the North West and North East with a Degree of Force much too great for the Transports to make any way against it, I was unable to get into the River (followed a few days after by the first Convoy, which I had left in the Care of Captain Cornwallis when the Weather became more settled.) until the Evening of the 4th Instant.

The larger Convoy with Captain Griffith, tho' much more dispersed, arrived between the 6th and 8th of the Month: with no other material Accident except the Loss of the Transport named the Father's Good-Will, which having sprung a Leak when no Assistance could be given—during the bad Weather, sunk at Sea. But the Crew were saved.

The Ships of War and Transports were anchored in the most convenient Situations on the Western Shore from Newcastle down towards Reedy Island.

On my Arrival off of Chester on the 6th Instant I learnt that the Rebel Army, since the 11th of last Month, had always been retiring with precipitation to avoid a general Action. Sometimes attempting Advantages by Surprise; But the King's Forces maintaining their usual Ascendancy on every Occasion.

The General was in possession of Philadelphia and a Frigate of thirty-two Guns, named the Delaware, attempted to be passed above the Town, had been taken by the Troops which were first posted there.²

Captain Hamond (who was returned here in the Roebuck) had moved up the River with the Pearl, Camilla and Liverpool, as the Army advanced.

When I came to this Station, he was lying with those Frigates off of Billingsport, where the Rebels had nearly completed a very extensive Work, for defending the Approach to the first double Line of sunk Frames, or Chevaux de Frize, which crossed the Navigable Channel in that part of the River.

The General having a few Days before appointed a strong Corps of Infantry to be landed on the Jersey Shore, to dislodge the Enemy from that post, they abandoned it at his Approach. The Front to the River had thereupon been destroyed, and the Troops that Evening withdrawn.

A Trial had in the mean time been begun for opening a passage through that first Obstruction, which the Enemy with their Fire-Rafts, Gallies and other Armed Craft, repeatedly endeavored to prevent under Cover of the Night; But without any material Injury to the Frigates. And a sufficient Channel was at length (tho' not without much Difficulty) made for the larger Ships, by the advanced Squadron; the Conduct of which was on every Occasion to be much approved.

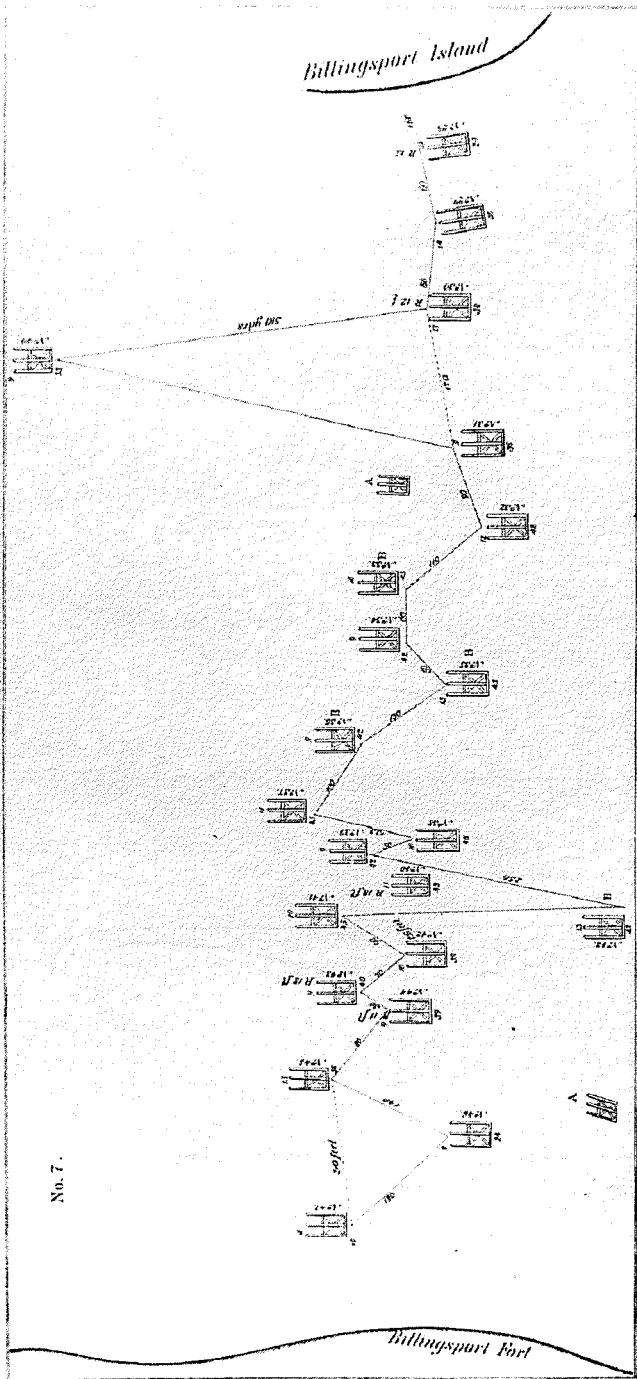

The remaining Obstructions to an uninterrupted Communication with the Town of Philadelphia, consisted of an enclosed Work erected on a flat, muddy Island, named Fort Island, a little Distance below the Entrance of the Schuylkill, strengthened by four Block-Houses; with two floating Batteries of nine Guns each, and twelve or fourteen Gallies mounting heavy Cannon: Besides many other Armed Craft of lesser Force, and several Fire Ships. Opposite thereto on the Eastern Shore, at Red Bank above Manto Creek, a Redoubt was constructed, under which their movable Water Force could find protection occasionally.

In the Front of these Defences, to the Extent of half a Mile or more below the Island (being the part of the Channel where the Navigation was contracted in the Width to about one hundred Fathoms) several Rows of the Chevaux de Frize were sunk so as intirely to render the nearer Approach of the Ships impracticable. And no Attempt could be made for moving the sunk Frames or otherwise clearing the Channel, until the Command of the Shores on each Side of the River could be obtained.

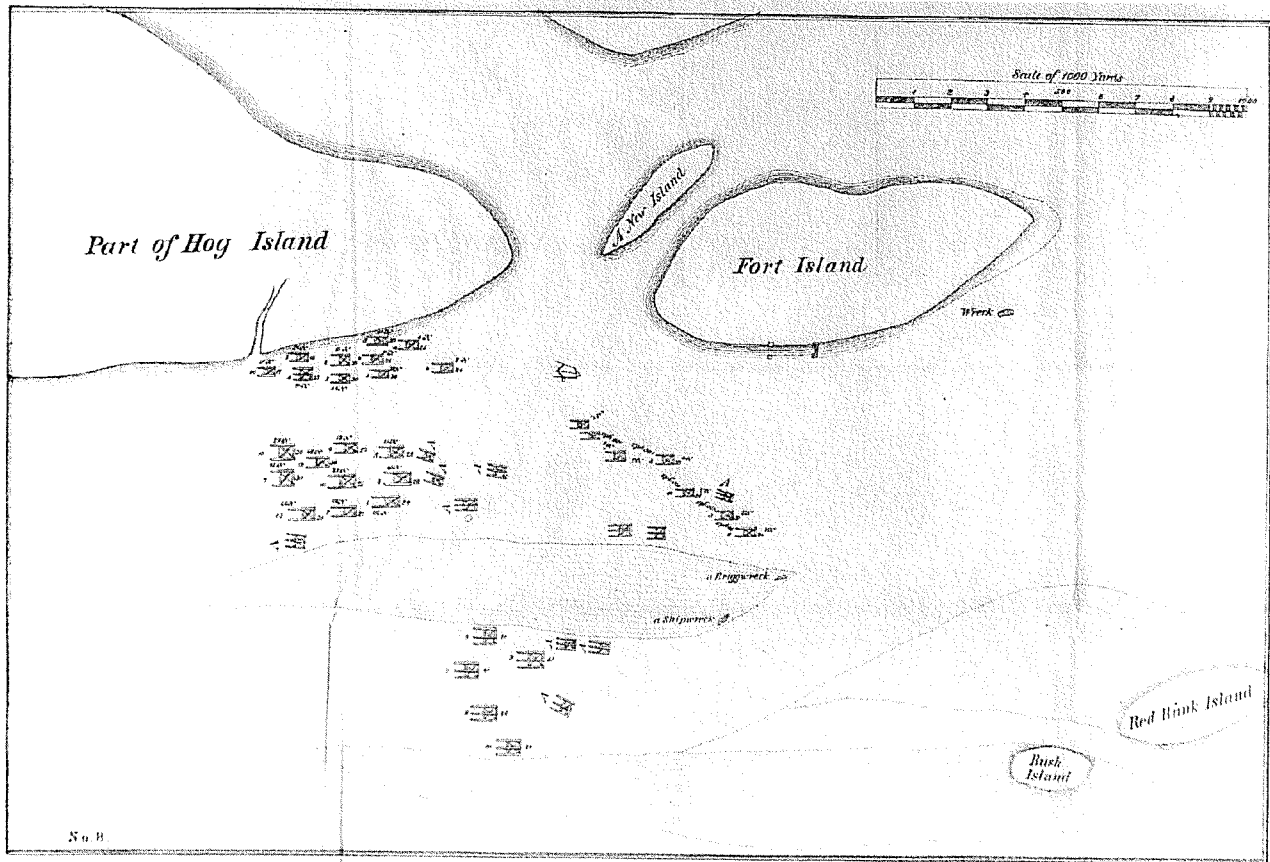

For these purposes, the General ordered some Batteries to be erected on the Western Shore to dislodge the Enemy from the Island; And a Body of Troops to be landed for forcing the Redoubt on Red-Bank.

It was intended that the Vigilant should pass through a shallow and very confined Channel between Hog Island (next below Fort-Island) and the Pennsylvania Shore: To arrive and act upon the Rear and less defensible part of the Work. And the Circumstances of the Navigation not admitting of a more serious Attack for the Reasons before-mentioned a Diversion was proposed to be made at the same time by the advanced Frigates, together with the Isis and Augusta, in the Eastern or main Channel of the River: As well for engaging the Attention of the Enemy at Fort Island and the Redoubt, as to restrain the motions of the Gallies and other Armed Craft, which had retired under the Works at Red-Bank, when they discovered the Danger they would be exposed to in their former Stations near Fort Island, from our Batteries on the Western Shore.

The Wind continuing from the Northward several successive days, the Vigilant could not proceed according to her Destination, at the Time intended. The Augusta, Roebuck, Liverpool and Pearl, were nevertheless—ordered above the first Line of

Plan of Chevaux-de-Frise at Billingsport

Plan of Chevaux-de-Frise at Mud Island

Chevaux de Frize the 22^d: Instant, to be in Readiness for such Service as they should be able to render when the Redoubt should be attacked. And Captain Reynolds, being the Senior Officer, succeeded to the Command of the advanced Squadron.

The Detachment of the Army, consisting of Hessian Troops under Colonel Donop appointed to attack the Redoubt, crossed the Delaware opposite to Philadelphia the 21st: Instant, in a Division of Flat Boats which Captain Clayton conducted in the Night by Fort-Island, along the Western Shore for that purpose.

The Attack of the Redoubt being observed to take place the Evening of the 22^d: just upon the Close of Day, Captain Reynolds immediately slipped and advanced with the Squadron (to which the Merlin had been joined) as fast as he was able with the Flood; to second the Attempt of the Troops which were seen to be very warmly engaged. But the Change in the natural Course of the River caused by the Obstructions, appearing to have altered the Channel, the Augusta and Merlin unfortunately grounded some distance below the second Line of Chevaux de Frize. And the fresh north wind which then prevailed greatly checking the Rising of the Tide, they could not be got afloat on the subsequent Flood.

The Diversion was endeavored to be continued by the Frigates at which the Fire from the Enemy's Gallies was chiefly pointed for some Time. But as the Night advanced, the Hessian Detachment having been repulsed, the Firing ceased.

The Rebels discovering the State of the Augusta and Merlin in the Morning of the 23^d: renewed the Fire from their Gallies, Works and floating Batteries. But their movable Force approaching little nearer than a Random-Shot, the Injury was inconsiderable to the Ships. And by the Alertness and Spirit of the Officers and Seamen (of the Transports as well as Ships of War) attached in the Boats of the Fleet on this Occasion, four Fire-Vessels directed against the Augusta, were sent without Effect.

The Isis was at this Time warping through between the lower Chevaux de Frize. Empty Transports had been ordered up from the Fleet and other preparations made for lightening the Augusta; when by some Accident, no otherway connected with the Circumstances of the Action but as it was probably caused by the Wads from her Guns, the Ship took Fire abaft. And it spread with such Rapidity, that all Endeavors to extinguish it were used in vain. The Men were thereupon taken out, except a very small Number not yet ascertained. The second Lieutenant Baldock, the Chaplain and Gunner appear to be of that Number.

In this State of the Proceeding it was necessary to withdraw the Frigates, for securing them from the Effect of the Blast. And as the Merlin could not be protected from the same Injury, I judged it requisite to give Order for the Sloop to be evacuated and destroyed. The other Ships dropped down nearer to Billingport.

Much Commendation is due to the several Captains, inferior Officers and Seamen concerned in this Service: And particularly in their resolute Exertions to assist in saving the Crew of the Augusta.

The Packet being to sail immediately with the General's Dispatches, I have only to mention, that as the Appointment of the Ships for the Winter-Season must be regulated by the Motions of the Army; I am not at this Time able to submit any particular Ideas for their Lordship's Information thereon, in Addition to the enclosed Return of their present Disposition.

A State of the Ships is sent herewith.³ And I have the Mortification of being obliged to observe, with respect to the Health of the Seamen that I fear it will be farther very much impaired on Account of the small Proportion of Slops which (as I collect from my last Letter of the 31st of May from the Commissioners of the Navy) are arrived in the Buffalo. The Fatigues which the few Seamen capable of doing Duty in Boat Service necessarily undergo, gives great Cause to apprehend how much it may operate in its Consequences, on the future Service of the Ships attending upon the Army. VICE ADMIRAL VISCOUNT HOWE TO CAPTAIN WILLIAM CORNWALLIS, R.N.

Sir

Eagle off Chester Oct^r 25th. 1777—

I am favoured with your letter¹ in answer to my last,² containing your sentiments upon the Matters recommended to your consideration

Being much pressed in time yesterday I could not wait to have the pleasure of seeing you And therefore desired Captⁿ Hammond to mention my wishes about the position of the Ships, And trial to be made for widening the Channel through the lower Cheveaux de frieze—

A Detachment of 200 Men from the 71 Regiment has been ordered here for occupying a Post at Billingsport, they will proceed up the river to morrow with the Addition of the Marines which can be furnished from the Ships here for enabling them to establish themselves in the manner judged Expedient.

You will Please to Afford them such assistance as you can render from the Ships, for the purpose of their appointment as the Commander of the Party for the time being may request, & such farther Addition of the Marines from the Roebuck and Isis as may compleat their force to about 350 Men—.

It is proposed to re-embark a part or the whole of the Marines when the Post is made tenable for the troops which are to remain in it.

The time for landing this Corps and re-embarking the whole, or any part is to depend upon the application of the Commanding Officer.

Transports will be Ordered up for the Detachment of the 71: And the Marines may be taken for the time into the Isis & Roebuck I am [&c.]

VICE ADMIRAL CLARK GAYTON TO PHILIP STEPHENS

Sir,

I beg leave to acquaint their Lordships that this comes by His Majesty's Ship pallas, who with the armed Ship Bute sails from hence to morrow with the Trade to Bluefields, and from thence to proceed with the Convoy to England and I have given Capt^m. Cotton my usual Order to Keep in company with the worst sailing Ships; Nothing has occur'd since my last to their Lordships by the Pacquet,¹ a duplicate of which I transmit inclosed, together with Copies of several Letters, Affidavits & Petitions which are more particularly set forth in the Schedule²

The Porcupine Sloop who sailed in Company with the Lively Captain Bishop, and who was Struck with Lightning, which accident shiver'd her Mast all to pieces and which occasioned her to be towed in to S^t. Augustine Harbor there to get a Mast and refit, but there not being a Mast to be had (sufficiently large for said Sloop) Captain Cadogan, was under the Necessity of converting her into a Brig, which he did, and she is now arrived and at the careening Wharf to repair the damage she sustained when on shore on the Bar of S^t. Augustine and I hope she will soon be ready for Sea

His Majesty's Sloop diligence whom I sent to the Mosquito Shore and Bay of Honduras, met with a like accident and lost her Mast which was replaced and she is arrived and fitting for Sea

I beg leave to acquaint their Lordships that I send by His Majesty's Ships pallas and Bute a Number of Americans and Frenchmen who were taken in Rebel Vessels and some in Arms against His Majesty, among them is a notorious pirate whose Name is Murfee, him and his Officers I have order'd to be confined in Irons, untill the Ships arrive and their Lordships pleasure is Known; he was taken by Captain Atkins in His Majesty's Ship Æolus but had thrown his Guns overboard before she came up with him, his being taken is a most favorable circumstance for the Trade of this Island as he intended (after completing his complement to 100 Men) to come to the North side and cut Vessels out of the different Harbors: I beg leave to inclose his Commission and Instructions from the Rebel Congress as also a List of his Officers, he had only 28 Men on board when taken but purposed going to Cape Francois to complete his complement to One hundred with French Men and then proceed as I have herein before informed their Lordships, which he undoubtedly wou'd have affected had he [not been taken by Captain Atkins,]³

The [Squadron under my Command] is employed as follows. The Antelope ready to proceed to England soon after I am relieved by the Admiral Sir Peter Parker, The Winchelsea, Glasgow and Stork are on a Cruize, The Southampton is just from the Careening Wharf and fitting for Sea, The Æolus is at the Careening Wharf to be hove down, The Lowestoffe almost ready to proceed again on a Cruize, The Atalanta continues at pensacola, The Racehorse armed Sloop is stationed at the North side this Island to protect the Trade, The Florida and West Florida Sloops are on their Stations agreeable to their Lordships Orders, The Hornet is gone to Cape Francois with my dispatches to the Governor of Hispaniola to demand restitution for Acts of Violence committed by the French Kings Subjects on the Loyal Subjects of Great Britain, [which] their Lordships will observe by [the Copies of] those dispatches which I inclose for their Lordships information.⁴

The Porpoise Captⁿ. Haynes at the request of the Governor of this Island is gone to remove Troops from one part of the Island to the other, this request I granted 'tho' I have not any directions in my instructions for that Service & I must beg their Lordships will be pleased to direct me how to proceed in future on the like occasion, particularly in time of War, when Ships are wanted to Cruize against the Enemy⁵

As to the Badger I beg leave to acquaint their Lordships that she arrived so very leaky (which I signified to their Lordships in my last) that I am surprized how she ever reach'd this port, I have order'd every thing to be done to make her fit for Service, but I am doubtful that can not be accomplished; in that case I shall order her to be Surveyed and if condemned will purchase an other armed Vessel in her room, which I hope will meet their Lordships approbation⁶

I also beg leave to acquaint their Lordships that I purpose sending the Lord Amherst armed Ordnance Transport to England in december with a Convoy if there shou'd be any, or without, as she is leaky and y^e term for which she was hired will expire by the time she arrives in England

I likewise beg leave to acquaint their Lordships that the Squadron, under my Command, being much augmented and no Launches fit for Service I find the Sloop Flying Fish is not sufficient to Water the Ships with that dispatch which the Service at present requires I have therefore purchased an other small Vessel for that purpose, both which Vessels will be very useful to unload Storeships as they will contain the Men that are sent on that Service & thereby prevent a Frigate being sent to Greenwich where many Men are lost.⁷

I further beg leave to acquaint their Lordships, that Lieu^t. M^cNemara whom I appointed to y^e Racehorse armed Sloop, being so much indisposed with a fever, that he was not able to go out in the said Sloop, I therefore order'd M^r. Charles Jordan, my acting Lieutenant, to take upon him the charge and Command of said Sloop during the Indisposition of her Commander, & proceed with her round to the North side this Island, to protect the Trade and Convoy the Ships to Bluefields to join the Fleet; and I have the pleasure to inform their Lordships that Two days ago, I received a Letter from the acting Lieutenant M^r. Jordan, acquainting me that had taken a Rebel privateer of 12 Carriage and 16 Swivel Guns, & between 90 & 100 Men, almost all French-men, after having engaged her upwards of Two hours; M^r. Jordan in the Racehorse had 10 Carriage Guns (three pounders) 8 Swivels & 4 Musquetoons and 37 Men, The Privateer had 16 Men Kill'd and 40 Wounded, The Racehorse had 1 Man Kill'd & 8 wounded and took her by boarding. For this very Gallant behaviour I beg leave to recommend M^r. Jordan to their Lordships favor, as also his People & Officers, I inclose with the other papers a Copy of the acting Lieutenant Jordan's Letter to me for their Lordships further information[.]⁸ I purpose giving M^r. Jordan a Lieutenants Commission, and hope it will meet their Lordships approbation⁹

I likewise beg leave to inclose the State and Condition of His Majesty's Ships in Port, a List of Officers made & removed since my last & A List of prizes taken by His Majesty's Ships under my Command to this date. I am [&c.]

My Lord

No. 41

St. Georges October 25th. 1777

A few days since a Privateer Brig, called the Revenge belonging to this Port, brought in here a large Brig called the Venus of Liverpoole, which she retook ten leagues to the Windward of Martinique.¹

The Venus had been fitted out last Spring from Liverpoole for the Green land fishery, from whence she was returning laden with blubber when she was taken in the month of August last in the North seas, by a Rebel Sloop called the Revenge, fitted out at Dunkirk on the 17th. of last July and commanded by one Gustavus Cunningham, the same person who had taken the Harwich packet some time before.²

When the Venus was brought in here, she had onboard nine French men who had all entered at Dunkirk, Two Englishmen, one Scotsman, and one American, John

Hucheson by name, who commanded her. They had orders from Cunningham to carry her to Martinique and declare her up to Bingham the Rebel agent there. Having secured all these people in Goal and ordered them $\frac{2}{3}$ ^{ds.} allowance out of the King's Stores, I now wait for your Lordships Instructions in what manner I am to dispose of them farther In my humble opinion they ought on no account to be set at liberty, but either to be kept prisoners here or sent under confinement to England. In case the latter mode is adopted, It is necessary for me to mention that none of the Men of War will take them from me, unless they have particular orders from home to do it—

I am informed that most of the Prisoners belonging to the Oliver Cromwell, after I had delivered them up to the officer who convoyed the Fleet from hence, were distributed on board the homeward bound Merchant Men, and were set at liberty on their arrival in England by the Masters of the Vessels who had the Charge of them, in stead of being delivered up to a Magistrate to be secured till his Majestys pleasure should be known³ I need not observe that releasing the Rebel Prisoners in this manner, must only serve to prolong the War, Whereas if we were to keep all the people we take onboard their Vessels, Their Trade, their Fishery, and their Privateering wou'd soon be at an end, for as our Cruizers pick up their shipping very fast, we should in a short time have all their Seamen in our hands. I have the honor to be [&c.]

GOVERNOR GEORGE CLINTON TO MAJOR GENERAL HORATIO GATES

[Extract]

Poughkeepsie 26th October 1777 2 o'Clock P.M.

Dear Sir,

... The Situation of the Enemy being very different from what you must have supposed at the Time of writing me will of Course occasion some Alteration in the Measures you proposed to pursue against them. On the 23d their Fleet fell down from Saagertjes¹ where they had for some Time lay to Kingston, came too there that Evening & next Morning came under Sail passed down the River & the last Account I had of them yesterday were out of sight from New Windsor but this not in such Manner as to be depended on tho I believe it to be true. . . .

It appears to me essentially necessary that we should take some Post on the River where we may be able to prevent the Enemy's getting above us with their Shipping without great Difficulty. This with the Artillery mentioned in Col. Malcom's Letter I think may be effected at the Cheveaux Defrize near New Windsor or perhaps at Fort Constitution² & the lower down the River the better. I am clearly of Oppinion the Enemy will not Attempt any Thing Capital up the River since the Object which induced them to venture up it, is by your Important Successes over Genl. Burgoyne's Army, (on which happy Occassion I most heartilly congratulate you) now at an End. . . . I am [&c.]

MAJOR GENERAL JOHN VAUGHAN TO LIEUTENANT GENERAL SIR HENRY CLINTON

Copy
Sir

I had the Honor of proceeding by your Orders with the Troops under my Command on the 15th. Ins^t and destroyed all the Enemy's Vessels and Houses till our Arrival off Esopus on the 17th.¹ and upon my Reconnoitring the Rebel Situation there, I perceived a Battery of 5 Pieces of Cannon with a Breast Work lined with Troops; and also a Work with nine Pieces more, It being proper for me to proceed further up the River, to get every Information possible relative to General Burgoyne's Situation, I found it absolutely necessary to dispossess the Rebels of Esopus, in order to Secure my Communication with Fort Vaughan,² and to prevent the Enemy's assembling there in Force to harrass me on our Return—Soon after landing the Troops, they dispersed the Rebels and took their Cannon, but they retired into the Town,³ and fired out of the Houses, which was a very sufficient Reason for destroying it, but I had a much greater Inducement as the Congress and M^r Clinton had taken Refuge there that Morning and its being a Town notorious for harbouring the most rebellious People in that Part of the Country.

After reimbarking the Troops I proceeded up the River and detached two People with Letters to General Burgoyne, and had the Honor to transmit to you the Information I received on their Return, and also dispatched the next Day the Messenger that came from General Burgoyne—From the Accounts I had received of his Situation, I found it impracticable to give him any further Assistance; And as M^r Putnam had taken post with 5000 Men on my Right, and Clinton or Parsons with 1500 on my Left, I determined to return to Fort Vaughan where I arrived on the 26th. Ins^t without any thing further material happening; and agreeable to your Directions, ordered the Troops destined for Philadelphia to sail immediately for New York.

I can't be too thankful to Sir James Wallace Captain Stanhope, and the rest of the Officers of the Navy for their great Attention and Assistance upon that Expedition.

CONTINENTAL NAVY BOARD OF THE MIDDLE DEPARTMENT TO
GEORGE WASHINGTON

Continental Navy Board

Borden Town 26th Oct^r 1777—

Sir

As soon as we had the Honour of receiving your Letter of Yesterday, we ordered exact Returns to be immediately made of every Man on Board the Frigates Washington & Effingham; these Returns we have enclosed for your Inspection.

We have the fullest Conviction of the necessity there is to exert every Power for the Defence of the Pass near Fort Mifflin, & happy should we be; could we furnish Men in the least likely to be of service there. But as these Frigates have been only officer'd & no Attempt ever made to man them, we have few or no Seamen on board. The Men we have are, for the most part, Militia left sick at Burlington & Bristol & being found on the Recovery were taken on Board merely to assist in getting the Ships up to this Place. With these Hands, such as they are, & the Assistance of a few on Board private Vessels that have taken Shelter here, we have put the Frigates in as good a Posture of Defence as we could, against small armed Boats; not apprehending Danger from any large Force by Water, on Account of the Difficulties of the Channel

Your Excellency's Desires shall always be a Law to us, & if you think the men in the enclosed Returns will be of more service in our Fleet, they shall be immediately ordered down. Every thing may be got ready for scuttling the Frigates in Case of impending Danger, but we apprehend that Business may be safely deferred at least till the Enemy have got up to the City with their Shipping.

We have removed the chief of our Stores to Easton, particularly our Canvass, of which we have a considerable Quantity; agreeable to Orders we saw from your Excellency some Time ago.

There are a number of Shallop men, & a few Sailors on Board the Vessels here, which, if you think proper to un-man our Frigates, we will endeavour to enlist for a temporary service. But as there are but few of these, & fewer still, we fear will be reduced by any Means to leave their Vessels destitute, we apprehend little can be expected from such an Expedient

One thing your Excellency may depend upon, that whatever method you may point out in our Line, for the public Service; our Abilities shall be exerted to the utmost to fulfill your Desires. We have the Honour to be [&c.]

COLONEL HENRY LEONARD PHILIP BARON D'ARENDT TO

Monsieur,

Vous aures la bonte d'informer Son Exçellence que j'ai reçu aujourd'hui l'ammunition, que le LColonel Schmidt avait demandé, et que j'ai fait l'arrangement de prendre autant icy qu'il ne nous manque pas dans une attaque, et que le reste doit être donné a notre flotte pour le garder.

J'ai fait travailler toujours, pour garantir les lieux foibles autant qu'il est possible, j'avancerois mieux Si les obstacles allegués dans ma derniere lettre¹ ne m'empechoint point.

Je suis toujours très convaincu que la guarnison du fort est de beaucoaup trop foible, pour border l'envers par un rang des Soldats il faudroit plus de 800 homme. Mr. le Major Fleury est de mon opinion. On ne peut pas faire une resistance vigoureux avec la Guarnison qui y est presentement, ce sera a Son Exçellence d'en decider. Pour remedier en quelque façon a ce defaut et pour garantir ce fort d'une surprise nocturne qui seroit la plus dangereuse pour nous, j'ai prie le Colonel Green d'envoyer tous les soirs cent hommes icy de la Red-Banck, qui y retourneront a la pointe de jour. La plus grande defense de cette place consiste selon mon opinion d'empêcher l'ennemi, qu'il ne mette pas pied a terre, mais comme dans la nuit on ne voit rien et que les coups de Canon ne porteroient pas juste, toute cette partie de la defense depend de la flotte. Il seroit donc très convenable que toute notre flotte se mettoit icy pendant la nuit pour être a portée d'abord car elle viendroit trop tard au Signal convenû. Le Commodore² ne nous envoie que quelques fois quelques Galeres quelquefois rien que des Battaux armés, qui sont bons pour la garde mais pas pour la defense, et encore a'arrivent ils que dans la nuit. Je lui fait faire toujours des instances pour cette raison.

La dernier nuit nous eumes une fausse allarme, on atiendoit ramer quelques battaux, je mettais d'abord mon monde sous les armes, mais ce n'etaint, il me semble, que quelques battaux ennemis, qui etaint de garde. J'ai appris aujourd'hui que 16 Battaux ennemis charges des troupes, dont le nombre n'est pas connû, avaint passé le Schulkil pour les debarque dans Provd. Island, si c'est vrai, on aurait a craindre cette nuit Instant comme il fera très obfus, etant tems de pluy; je seroit bien sus mes gardes, pour qu'il ne me surprenne point, j'ai envoyé avertes le Commodore. . . .

Fort Mifflin

Votre très humble Servite[ur]

26^{me}. Octbr

Baron Arendt

Je viens d'apprendre tout a l'heure que la flotte a gardé l'ammunition pour elle, disant que c'etait sa destination, et qu'elle n'etait pas a nous. . . .

8 heures le Soir.

Je viens de recevoir ce moment une lettre du Commodore³ dans la quelle il me dit, qu'il m'envoÿe 4 galieres et quelques battaux armés, mais disant en même tems, que si le vent commenroit a Souffler, les galeres ne pouvoit pas rester icy et nous soutenir, et qu'il ne pouvoit pas donner de secours a nous avec sa flotte, ainsi nous ne devons comptes que Sur nous mêmes, voÿes sa lettre cy incluse. . . .

[Translation]

The Amunition which Col. Smith wrote for, is arrived—I have only kept in this place a Sufficiency in case of Attack, and given the rest into the Custody of the Fleet.

I continue to employ our men in Strengthening the weak parts of our Fort, and should make a greater progress but for the reasons alledged in my last.¹

I am still Clearly of opinion that our Garrison is vastly too weak—it would take 800 men to line the Works with a single Rank—M^r Fleury is of the same opinion. We could not make a vigorous Resistance with the present Garrison—To remedy this defect in some measure and to guard against a nocturnal Surprise which we dread most, I have desired Col Green to spare us every night an hundred men from Red bank to be return'd to him each morning at day break—The best defence this place can make is by distant fight, the Enemy must be kept at bay and not Suffer'd to land—but as we can see nothing at night and cannot bring the Canon to bear, all this part of the defence depends upon the Fleet. It would therefore be proper to have the whole Fleet stationed here at night in order to be at hand—for they would not arrive in time upon our giving the Signal for them. The Commodore² sometimes only sends us Galleys, sometimes nothing more than armed boats, which may serve to keep a Lookout but would be of no avail for defence, besides they are not sent to us 'till night—I have made frequent Remonstrances to the Commodore on these points.

Last night we had a false alarm—we heard the Sound of Oars and my Garrison was immediately under Arms. but it proved to be only some of the Enemies Guard-boats.

I have been inform'd to day that 16 Boats laden with Troops the number of which is not known, had cross'd the Schuylkil to land at Province Island—if this be true, we shall have reason to be apprehensive to night, as it will be very dark on account of the rainy weather, I shall be upon my guard to avoid Surprise, and have sent to give the Commodore notice. . . . I have just learnt that the Fleet retains the Amunition for its own use, their officers pretending it was destined for them and not for us. . . .

8 OClock at night—

I have just received a Letter from the Commodore,³ which I inclose, you will see from thence that we are left to defend ourselves. . . .

WILLIAM BRADFORD TO THOMAS WHARTON, JR.

S^r:

Off Red Bank October 26 1777

I have been absent from this Place for some Time up to Burlington, Borden Town & Trenton, after necessaries for the Fleet, and to hurry the Commissaries¹ in this Duty—Last Monday Evening² was returning, but when I got within two Miles of Coopers Ferry, I was informed the Enemy had just landed a Number of Troops, which obliged me to return; by which I lost, by all Accounts, one of the finest Sights ever saw in these Parts. My absence prevented me sending your Excellency an Account of the Action, but Shall mention something of it now.

The 22^d. Instant about 4 o'Clock the Enemy to the Number of about 1500 appeared before the Fort at Red Bank and immediately began a most furious Cannonade, for about 15 Minutes, when they rushed on with great Resolution to Storm the Fort, and got into the upper Part of the Old Works which were not finished, and gave three Cheers, thinking all was their Own, but were received so warmly that they were glad to get out. They endeavoured to force thro' the abettes [abatis] that were before the Fort, and some even got over the Ditch and were killed within the Pickets—After about 40 Minutes Action they took to their Heels and ran off with great Precipitation. The Enemy had about 100 killed on the Field, among which were one Lieut. Colonel and four Captains. They left about 80 wounded, among which were Count Denope their Commander, who lays at Red Bank with his Thigh Broke; and his Brigade Major wounded in three Places³—Near 30 of their Wounded are since Dead—We had in the Fort at Red Bank Two Regiments of Rhode Island Troops under the Command of Col. Green consisting of about 600 Men & Officers. We are informed the Enemy carried over to Philadelphia not less than 300 Wounded. The Inhabitants that saw the Enemy march Down say, they had 14 pieces of Cannon with them & returned with Six. If this should be the Case they must have thrown them into Timber Creek, as we have taken none—

The next Day the 23^d. the Augusta of 64 Guns, the Roebuck of 44. Two Frigates and the Merlin of 18 Guns came up as near as they dare to the upper Chevaux de Frize, when a most furious Engagement ensued between the Gallys & Floating Battery, with the Enemys Ships, the Fire was so incessant, that by all Accounts, the Elements seemed to be in Flames. About 12 o'Clock the Augusta Blew up, whether by Accident or from our Shot is unknow, having taken Fire some Time before. Here presented a glorious Sight before she blew, She laying Broadside too aground, and the Flames issuing thro every Port she had. The Action Still continued with the other Ships, and at Three oClock the Merlin took Fire & Blew up also, being aground, and then the Fire soon ceased. Thus ended two glorious Days—Yesterday the Commodore ordered five Galleys down to the Wrecks. Two Frigates that lay near them immediately weighed and went down as low as the lower Chevaux de Frize—Many of the Boats went on board and I had the Pleasure of being on board of Part of a 64 Gun Ship—Most of her Guns are in the Wreck and We brought off two of her 24 Pounds, and this Day are preparing to get the rest, if the Ships do not come too near us—The smaller Ships Guns are also easily to be got, I think they are Nine Pounds, which make me think she is a 20 Gun Ship and not the Merlin—The People on board the Augusta must have gone off with great Precipitation, as we have among the Rubbish found great number of Cloaths, part of their Books &c. &c. that they seem to have taken nothing with them but what they had on—

Three of the Fire Brigs and one Fire Ship were sent down on the Enemy, but their Shot flew so thick around them and indeed cut their rigging so much, that the Crews got frightned and set them on Fire so soon, that they were burnt in vain—The last Action reduced our Ammunition very low; but this Day we have recieved a Supply of near 1400 Cartridges—One Waggon load was lost coming over Timber Creek with the Ammunition on it—I am [&c.]

Sir,

At Red Bank, Oct^r 26th, 1777,

I received your Letter Dated Lan^r y^e 17th Instant, The fleet is Plentifully supplied with every Necessary, The Greatest Difficulty will be to get rum as we are just out, I should be glad if I could get some whiskey from Lancaster as there is None to be got here; I this Morning spoke to Mr Hog who purchases Cattle for the Continental army; & showed him your Requests Relative to the Price of Beef, & Pork; He said that there could None be got for that Price; & that the Country would Rise if they thought their Cattle would be taken at that Price, in short it seems not Practable; I shall want some Money, & I Think 5 or six Thousand Pound will do for the present as Mr. Bradford the Bearer hereof is a safe Hand, Not knowing when I shall have the like opportunity; I had a Letter from Mr. Savage at the State Salt Works, sent him Three hundred Pounds which he rote to me for he informs me that he has Salt by him, & is Daily Making more, & says that he can procure Beef, for salt & Desired if he was to put it up that I would send him a Cooper for that purpose Ever since I have Been here the Move-ments of the Enemy has been such that I have had no opportunity of Getting one; I Desired him to send salt to Bordentown, Direct to the Care of Mr. Borden, & To Mor-row I Intend to set of for that Place, if Not Blocked in here as the Enemy has this Morn-ing Landed a Number of Men below at Billingsport; What their Designs is Cannot yet Learn. I think if Mr. Borden will undertake to Put up Pork for our State he would be a good hand, should be glad of your Direction in that Matter. I am [&c.]

COMMODORE JOHN HAZELWOOD TO GEORGE WASHINGTON

Sir

On board Chatham Galley Oct^r: 26th: 1777

By your Excellency's pressing in your last letter,¹ so much for me keeping up harmony with the Fleet & Army, I apprehended some letters had been wrote as tho' a difference subsisted here—As to my own part [I] can lay my hand on my heart & declare I have taken every step in my power to keep from the least shadow of a difference, & did not know that any one had the least complaint to make among the Continental Fleet or Army, as I had not ever heard the least mention of any such thing, & perfect harmony always appearing—Calling on Cap^t: Robinson I found he had wrote a Letter to your Excellency concerning a Council of War that was held, & am sorry to find he had given such a representation of it, & beg leave to relate matters as it was—The 19th day of Oct^r: I hoisted a Signal for all Captains to come on board the Galley in which the Flag was hoisted. They came, among which was Cap^t: Robinson & some other Officers of the Continental Fleet. Finding the Galley too small, I desired the Captains to remove on board the floating Battery where we should have more room, & acquainted Cap^t: Robinson my design was to hold a Council, he then reply'd, he supposed there was no occasion for him or his Officers; I told him there was, & I expected him to attend, but he left the Galley & did not come to the Council—This is the state of facts which he represents as a partial or absurd Council & says, I knew he would not give his consent; When he nor myself could not possibly tell what the determination of the Council would be—

Cap^t: Robinson & myself have always had an exceeding good understanding, but am astonish'd at his unkind treatment in his Letter to your Excellency, But as I look on him as a good Officer, this shall not in the least interrupt that harmony I have hitherto kept with him—

Your Excellency may be assured that every thing that tends to promote peace, good order & friendship between me & the Officers of the Fleet & Army shall be done to the utmost of my power.

I wrote to Your Excellency in my last,² of the destruction of two of the enemys Ships, I shall now be more particular—The 22^d, While the Fort at Red Bank was attacked, the Augusta of 64 Guns, the Roebuck of 44, Two Frigates,³ the Merlin of 18 & a Galley⁴ came up through the lower Chevause de Frieze, which were attack'd by the floating Batterys & some of the Galleys, while the rest of the Galleys was flanking the enemy that were attacking the Fort, where the Galleys did much execution—As soon as the enemy was repuls'd at the Fort, the Ships finding so hot a fire, endeavour'd to fall down, but the Augusta & Merlin ran aground—Early next morning the Galleys & floating Batterys attackd them when an incessant fire was kept up—About 11 OClock I believe one of our Ships set the Augusta on fire, & at 12 she blew up, being aground—The engagement continued with the other Ships, & at 3 in the afternoon, the Merlin we think [illeg.] took fire & blew up, then the fire ceased on both sides—The Roebuck dropped [down?] to the lower Chevaux de Frieze & went thro'—Yesterday I went down to the Wrecks, & find the Guns of both Ships may be got out if the Enemy's Ships can be kept at a proper distance—We brought off two 24 Pounders, & as soon as possible shall endeavour for the rest—

This day we can see great numbers of the enemy crossing Webb's Ferry & we are told have large numbers of Fascines with them, by which I suppose they intend a grand attack on Fort Mifflin. We are also assured this day they landed a number of Troops at Billinsport, so that we are apprehensive they intend to attack both Forts at one time—

The Fleet is now so poorly Mann'd, & the constant cry from Fort Mifflin is to guard that Post, that I know not how to act without more assistance.

Col^l. Green & Angel can spare no men [as] they are afraid of being attacked And as to the Vessels⁵ at Borden-town I am informed they have not Twenty private Men on board, so that I expect no assistance from there—

This night it blows hard, & I fear the Galleys will not be able to lay near Fort Mifflin, as when the swell is great, they must get under a safe place Having not to add, Am [&c.]

CONTINENTAL MARINE COMMITTEE TO THE NAVY BOARD OF THE EASTERN DEPARTMENT

Commissioners of the Navy Board

at Boston

Gentlemen

York October 26th 1777

Your several letters of the 3^d & 9th of September and of October 11th have come to hand, but the removal of Congress & the necessary attendance to other very important matters has hitherto prevented an attention to them. You are doubtless to have a general superintendance over the Agents for building the Continental Ships, as well as to furnish them with such articles as you shall judge Necessary, but as they were constituted Agents before your appointment, they are to continue their more immediate attention to that busines. We enclose you a resolution of Congress empowering any two of your Board to act in the absence of the third; but it is the expectation that this will happen as seldom as possible. Enclosed you also have two Warrants one upon the Loan office of Massachusetts Bay for 50,000 Dollars, and the other for the like sum upon the Loan office of Rhode Island.¹ You are sensible of the great call for money from every quarter. The drafts upon these Loan Offices have lately been large as well as upon every other.

Should there not be money sufficient for the immediate payment of the whole of these sums, yet we apprehend the whole will not immediately be wanted, and you'll draw only as you want, that other drafts may stand an equal chance, where the monies are as much or more wanted—doubtless you'll be able to satisfy some demands with the loan office Certificates which these Warrants will enable you to procure, and which we recommend always to be attended to when it can be done. we also inclose you a resolution of Congress making an additional allowance to your Clerk and giving you power to appoint another if absolutely necessary²—The Navy Board however in this Department has but one. You will have inclosed a List of the several Ships names and their Commanders and we have directed the Navy Board of this Department now sitting at Bordentown to send you a number of the printed resolutions of Congress. The getting the ships out of Providence River and the Ship Trumbull out of Connecticut River is a matter of great importance, and what Congress has much at heart; the procuring this with the hazard that may attend it, may be left to your prudence and the good conduct of their Commanders. We are sorry to find that a disaffection subsists between Captain McNeill and his Officers & Seamen. This Ship must be got to sea at all events. Captain McNeill writes us that he expects to be able to man her notwithstanding the obstructions and difficulties he meets with.³ But if you find he is unable to do this, you must appoint some other Commander to the ship at least for the present cruize in whom you can confide, and Captain McNeill must be otherwise provided for, more especially as an enquiry must be had (if not a Court Martial) upon the Conduct of the late Cruize, with Captain Manly, but which its apprehended cannot be fairly done till captain Manly is exchanged. Captain McNeill seems to think such a measure necessary. We think in justice to his Character, as well as to the public good, it is so. You have inclosed a Resolution empowering you to suspend any officer 'till the pleasure of Congress shall be known—This power we doubt not will be exercised with proper prudence. By the words commander in Chief must since the suspension of Commodore Hopkins necessarily mean and intend the oldest Commander in Rank of the Continental Ships or vessels of war in any One Port or Harbor. Or when Court Martials are necessary, the oldest Commander within your district that can be applied to. The procuring Iron & Flour we must leave to be done when absolutely necessary, by such means as would think prudent and proper under a like necessity acting for yourselves. Lead is not to be obtained here, but orders are sending to the Eastward for that article for the Army. We hear a very considerable quantity has lately arrived there, we think at Bedford, perhaps the whole may not be taken up. We have no immediate employ for Captain Tucker, but shall attend to the appointment of Commanders for the Ships building at Salsbury and Norwich⁴—In the mean time you'l please to transmit us the names of such persons within your district as you can recommend for Captains and officers of them paying attention to such as are at present in Commission but out of actual service, informing us at the same time of their particular Merits and pretentions. Captain McNeill has already Instructions where his Ship is to proceed viz to france—A form of like Instructions is herewith enclosed, to be by you given to each of the Commanders of the Ships at Providence. We are [&c.]

P:S: the Warrants for the Money are not enclosed but will be forwarded by the President of Congress—

VICE ADMIRAL VISCOUNT HOWE TO CAPTAIN WILLIAM CORNWALLIS, R.N.

Sir

Eagle off Chester Oct^r 26. 1777

I very much approve the Conduct you have pursued in passing the Cheveaux de frieze after having seen the detachment posted at Billingsport more Especially as you will in that situation be able to give greater security to the return of the Boats which I expect back this Night from the delivery of a lading of Provisions in the Schykill

Being in doubt whether the detachment would be able to establish itself so soon, I postponed mentioning my Wishes to that Effect—But as I judged the Detachment would have been better sustained by continuing the Roebuck on this side the Cheveaux de frize, I should have recommended that arrangement to your Consideration—you will nevertheless determine therein as upon further reflection appears most fit I am [&c.]

P.S: you mentioned in your last ¹ that a trial was to have been yesterday made to overset one of the Cheveaux de frize but have not Said with what Effect—

GILBERT DU LION TO COMTE D'ARBAUD

Copie de la Lettre de M. Gilbert Du Lion Commandant au Port Louis, à M. le Comte D'arbaud en datte du 26 8^{bre}. 1777.

Mon Général.

J'ai l'honneur de vous donner avis, qu'il est arrivée hier au Port Louis un Corsaire du Congrès qu'il y à Conduit une Prise d'un Brigantin d'Irlande,¹ chargé du Boeuf, Lard, Beure, et Farine, avec des caisses de fusils, Beaucoup de Poudre et Balles, Expédié pour le Missisipi. il y à apparence que ce Batiment à été expédié pour l'armée des Royalistes. J'ai notifié à ce Capitaine du Corsaire les ordres que vous m'avés données par vôtre Lettre du 6. Juin dernier, et que vous me renouvelés dans celle du 13. de ce mois. il m'a demandé le tenir de faire de l'eau et du bois, j'ai mis abord de la prise deux hommes de garde pour empecher qu'il ne mit rien à terre. J'ai fait ces opérations en présence du M. De La Saulais avec lequel j'en ai Conferés.

Cette prise chargée comme elle est de Comestibles auroit été d'un grand secours dans ces quartiers ci ou nous manquons généralement de tout, enfin, mon Général, nous manquons de Pain c'est tout vous dire. Si vous aviés la la bonté d'approuver qu'il en fit sa vente ici vous nous rendriés un grand service surtout à la veille d'une Guerre. Jugés des obligations que vous auroit la Colonie. Je Suis &^a Signé Gilbert du Lion.

Copy of a Letter from Gilbert du Lion Commandant at Port Louis to Comte d'Arbaud 26 October 1777.

My General.

I have the honor to inform you, that a privateer of the congress arrived yesterday in Port Louis; it conducted a prize a brigantine from Ireland,¹ which was freighted with beef, lard, butter and wheat, with some boxes of muskets, much powder and balls, sent to the Mississippi. It appears that this ship was dispatched for the royalist army. I notified this privateer captain of the orders you gave me in your letter of 6 June last, and which you repeated in the letter dated the 13th of this month. He asked me to permit him to take on water and wood. I have placed on board the prize two guardsmen to prevent anything from being taken ashore. I carried out these operations in the presence of M. de la Saulais, with whom I conferred about it.

This prize, loaded as it was with foodstuffs, would have been a godsend in these parts, where we lack everything generally, even bread, and I need not say more, General. If you would be good enough to approve it for sale here, you would render us a great service, especially, on the eve of a war. The colony would be in your debt. I am &^a.

Signed Gilbert du Lion.

BRIGADIER GENERAL EZEKIEL CORNELL TO GOVERNOR NICHOLAS COOKE

Sir

Tiverton [Rhode Island] 27th Octo^r 1777—

As many and various have been the reports Concerning the Intended Expedition to Rhode Island, I have thought it my duty to give you the following Narrative of the proceeding in that Affair, and then leave the impartial World to Judge as I know it would be in vain for me to pretend to Justify myself before an Insulting Populace. On the 21st of Sep^r last I rec^d. Gen^l. Spencers Orders to Collect all the Boats on the Western Shore, and forward them to Tiverton, which business I undertook with Cheerfullness and prosecuted the same with all the Zeal I was Master of, but for the Want of proper Assistance the Business went on dull[.] On Monday the 22nd. of Sep^r the Gen^l. Assembly thought fit to give me the Command of a Brigade of Militia, I was then Ordered by Gen^l. Spencer to repair to Narraganset Collect the remainder of the Boats, and bring them forward as aforesaid also to March all the Troops on the Western Shore and Militia to Tiverton, the same I accomplished as Soon as possible with great difficulty. On Monday the 13th of Octo^r I arrived at Tiverton after Assisting Col^o. Sherburne¹ in getting upwards of One Hundred Boats repaired at Warren that I expected was repaired before by Order of Major Munro—When I arrived at Tiverton I found the Militia badly Armed from this State and Massachusetts Bay, it was Unanimously Agreed to send to Bedford [in Dartmouth] and Taunton for Continental Arms—To Boston and Bedford for Flints, as there was not one in Camp all which Arrived the 15th. Oct^r the Troops not all Supplied with Cartridges and None in the Laboratory. on the 16th they Arrived in Camp from Providence, at which time by Gen^l. Spencers Order all the Brigades, were to be under Arms for Embarkation that Night, the Night was favourable, but the Troops Unsupplied with the Arms, that is two Brigades, the Boats not Allotted to each Brigade, One Brigade was not formed, neither Could the Brigad^{ts}. find them, that Night. On Sunday following² the Troops were called out again, and Paraded on the Shore below Fogland Point Gen^l Douglass,³ Col^o. Sherburne and myself, had our Boats and Men ready for Embarkation, The Boats of Two Brigades Coming round from Howlands Ferry were discovered by the Enemy, as many of them did not set out till the Moons Rising and fired upon by their Cannon, One Man killed, the others frightened, and left one half their Boats between Fogland and Quakite,⁴ the Boats not Coming, the Wind very fresh at S. West, the Ship a little below,⁵ it was thought best for the Troops to return to their Barracks, the Enemy then got Intelligence of our design, fortified at our Intended landing place. Upon full Consideration of all the Gen^l Officers they appeared to be Unanimous to remove the Boats across the land to Sapowite,⁶ which we Immediately Set about and Accomplished in good Season except two Brigades who were again in the Rear, and did not get their Boats ready. The Wind at N.E. the Weather wet and dull, Embarkation laid Aside for that Night. the Weather continuing heavy, many of the Troops deserting Some Sick others Mutinous and disaffected, not more than, Five Thousand, three hundred & Sixty Seven Officers and Boatmen Included could be brought into the Field, many of them Appeared more like a Rabble than an Army it was thought fit to Dismiss them and lay aside the Intended Expedition—

The above and foregoing Contains Some of the Most Material transactions and Movements of the Army that was Collected at Tiverton in Order to make a Descent on Rhode Island

All which is humbly Submitted by your Honours [&c.]

DIARY OF CAPTAIN FREDERICK MACKENZIE

[Extract]

[Rhode Island] 27th Oct^r—Rain most of the day, with a strong wind at N.E. Everything quiet.

... A body of about 400 Rebels, with their arms and knapsacks were seen yesterday evening marching up the Boston road from Howland's ferry. . . .

- | | | |
|--------------------|---|---|
| The Chatham | — | In the harbour opposite the town. |
| The Renown | — | In the West, or Naraganset passage, between Cononicut ¹ and the Naraganset shore |
| The Amazon | — | Above Hope Island; W. of Prudence. |
| The Orpheus | — | About a mile above Dyer's Island, between Prudence and Rhode Island. |
| The Juno | — | In the same Channel, & nearly equidistant from Prudence, Papasquash point, ² Hog-Island, and Rhode Island. |

The Kingsfisher — About a Mile below Black point, Seconnet passage.³
 The Unicorn }
 The Syren } Between the Kingsfisher, & Sachawest point.⁴
 The Alarm Galley }
 & Lady Parker, } Ahead of the Kingsfisher, & near Blackpoint.
 Armed Schooner }

As The whole force of the Rebels appears to be collected on the Eastern shore, we have turned our attention almost entirely that way; but I think we should not neglect the defence of the W. side so much as we have done. The placing the Orpheus in the passage between Cononicut & Prudence, would prevent the Enemy from making any attempt from that quarter, and would render the W. side much more secure. She would answer any Naval purpose full as well there as in her present station; for any wind which brings an Enemy down to attack the Juno, prevents the Orpheus from going to her assistance; and if the Juno should be obliged to quit her station, she might as well run down to the Orpheus in the proposed station, as to that in which she now lies. The proposed station would also enable the Orpheus to go to the assistance of the Amazon, or the Renown; or to proceed to the town.

If during an attack at Howland's or any part of the E. side of the Island, the Rebels were to land but 50 men on the W. side, which they might easily do by coming from Warwick point down the W. side of Prudence, the alarm they would occasion, and the uncertainty, until daylight of their numbers and situation, would cause considerable diversion, & might be attended with ill consequences to us.

ROBERT MORRIS TO JOHN ROWE

John Rowe Esq^r
Sir

Manheim Octob^r 27th. 1777

It is now a Week since I received your favour of the 29th. Sept^r: continued to the first Inst on the road from York Town to this place where my Family now reside—I then desired M^r: Coleman to continue his Journey to York & gave him back the Letters requesting he would deliver them to M^r: Hancock with my Comp^{ts}. & that I desired he would read them to Congress in order that they might be prepared against my return when I should bring this Matter before them in form as a piece of business, Accordingly I returned to York last Week but found Congress so closely pursuing business of Importance that I did not think it right to interrupt it & as M^r: Coleman seems impatient at the Delay I have concluded to dispatch him with my own Sentiments relative to the Portugueeze Snow¹ & trust to some other conveyance to hand you any determinations of Congress relative to that affair—I can not help thinking that Cap^tⁿ: Cunninghame's² conduct in seizing this Snow if she is really & truly Portugueeze property is extremely reprehensible for I do not believe that M^r: Braxton³ cou'd or wou'd give him orders to capture such property at a time when no Resolves of Congress authorized it but even if he has such orders those who gave them are much to blame & I do suppose the Transaction will appear in this light to all the World—However as the Vessell & Cargo are sent in I suppose there must be a Tryal in the Admiralty Court because the Crew of the Privateer wou'd not be content that the Owners shou'd dismiss her without Trial neither have they a right or Authority to do so that I know off—

I hope however for the sake of Justice & for the Honour of the United States of America that a righteous Judgement may be pronounced on her, & that she will not be condemned as prize unless upon the Trial Circumstances turn up to prove her Justly, fairly, & equitably within the True Intent & Meaning of those Laws of Congress which describe what shall be deemed Lawfull Prize I should be truly sorry if any hard strained Constructions or political distinctions and considerations should procure a Condemnation, & to prove to you Sir how much I am in earnest I do solemnly declare that I will not as a part Owner receive any part of or benefit from this Capture unless circumstances turn up to prove her what I have said above—I do not expect this will be the case but suppose she will be acquitted & ordered to be restored the former Owners & I shall propose to Congress that they should interfere in this business & if that happens the Captⁿ of the Snow & some of his People being sent away she can not be restored to him & shou'd the Owners of the Phœnix be ordered to restore her they must run great risque in Attempting to do it for I apprehend if they should put an American Master onboard & send her to Fayall with proper Certificates from the Admiralty Court the Commanders of British Cruizers woud pay no regard to such proceedings They woud consider her as a Prize under the Act of Parliament & as such woud proceed against & condemn her the Owners of the Phœnix woud then be exposed to future Lawsuits & damages by the prosecution of the Portugueeze Owners—should the Owners of the Phœnix proceed to sell vessell & Cargo for Account of the former Owners where Shall the property center untill they can remit it to Portugal? it must not be divided amongst them & with whom shall they trust it so that all may be satisfied—I know not—My design is therefore to propose that Congress shall order Vessell & Cargo to be sold & the ꝑceeds to be vested in the Publick Funds bearing Interest for the Benefit of the Proprietors that our Commissioners at the Court of France inform the Court of Portugal of this Transaction & grant Passports to the Owners of this Snow to send one or more Vessells to any Port or Ports in these United States with Publick Assurance that the N^t ꝑceeds will be immediately paid to them or their Att^y or Agent & that leave will be granted to purchase therewith such produce of this Country as they chuse & leave to carry it away in their Vessells This will put it in the Owners power to make good Fortune out of bad they will have their property restored in a Way that will amply recompence any disappointments they have experienced by the seizure of it & if the Court of Portugal procure Passports from Britain they will do this with perfect Security—This Idea I have communicated to some of my Colleagues in Congress & it meets the Approbation of all I have mentioned it to. under this Idea then I give you my opinion that the Vessell & Cargo shou'd be tryed in the Admiralty Court if she is there condemned I have nothing further to say (only to judge for myself hereafter whether she is a prize that I can with a safe conscience benefit from or not) but if she is Acquitted & ordered to be restored to the former Owners, that you shoud then cause her to be taken good care of, either by Authority of the State, of the Court, or of your own Authority as Agent for the Owners which ever may be judged most proper let no Plunder or Embezzlement take place but inform me instantly by Express or otherways of the Acquittal I will instantly bring the Matter to a determination & transmit you back their resolutions with full Orders for what is then to be done—I have no opportunity of consulting M^r Braxton or any other Owners of the Phœnix respecting this business therefore I do not presume to give any Directions for your proceedings in case of Condemnation my whole care is to guard them from any Ill consequences that might arise to them from Injustice or Ill Management in case of Acquittal & to preserve to the former Owners their property with a Secure Mode of recovering it in all which I presume I shall have the Approbation of all good Men—I am expecting from you a Translation of the Papers found onboard the Snow & remain [&c.]

GEORGE WASHINGTON TO THE CONTINENTAL NAVY BOARD OF THE MIDDLE DEPARTMENT

Gentⁿ.

15th. Mile Stone on the Skippach Road Oct. 27—77

The more I reflect upon the evil that may arise from the Enemy's possessing themselves of our unfinished Frigates up the Delaware,¹ the more convinced I am of the indispensable obligation we are under to prevent it, effectually.—If no other method could be devised, I should be for absolutely burning them; but scuttling & sinking with, or without Ballast, as those who are best acquainted with the difficulties of raising them in either State, at this Season may determine will, in my Judgment answer the end.²

We all know that the Enemy have made one vigorous (tho unsuccessful) effort to dispossess us of our Forts, and drive off our vessels, which defend the Cheveaux de frize in the River—we know also, that besides having the Delaware Frigate, they are busily employed in preparing two other large Armd vessells at the City—If in addition to these, they should by Surprize, or force, obtain the Frigates above Bordentown, and bring the whole in aid of their Ships in a general attack upon our lit-the Fleet (thus surrounded) we may, but too easily without the spirit of divination foretell the consequences—their destruction will be certain & inevitable.

At present, these Frigates are of no use to us, whilst the hands are greatly wanted.— considered therefore in this point of view, simply, the measure proposed in my opinion, is highly expedient; and under the prevailing Sentiment that the Enemy cannot hold Phil^a. unless their Shipping got up, it appears absolutely necessary.—

The fatal consequences which may result from suffering the Frigates to fall into the Enemys hands, are too obvious to need more arguments to prove them, and when it is considered of how little importance they are to us in their present Situation prudence requires that they should be so disposed of as to be hereafter useful; and out of the way of being destroyed by the Enemy or being rendered serviceable to them.—

Upon the whole, I take the liberty of delivering it to you as my clear opinion, that the Frigates ought to be immediately, and with the utmost secrecy, Sunk, either with, or without Ballast (so as to make it next to impossible to raise them without Mens diving, either to unlade, or fix their purchases) and that their Crews should be sent down to the Fleet below, where Sailors are exceedingly wanted.—

If I have stepped out of the line of my duty to make this request, I am persuaded you will excuse it when I add, that the good of the Service not only in my judgment, but in that of others, absolutely requires it to be carried into execution. I have the hon^r to be [&c.]

GEORGE WASHINGTON TO THE CONTINENTAL NAVY BOARD OF THE MIDDLE DEPARTMENT

Head Quarters 27th. October 1777

I this morning rec^d. your fav^r. of the 26th. I refer you to a letter which I wrote you a few hours ago urging the necessity of scuttling the Frigates immediately. I then imagined that there were a considerable number of seamen on Board of them, but since I have seen the Returns, I think the necessity more pressing. The people on board could not defend them against a couple of armed Boats. An intelligent lad from Philad^a. says they have been bringing Seamen and flat Boats from the Fleet below, and it is more than probable that they may have their Eye upon the Frigates above, I therefore would advise you to sink not only them immediately upon the Rec^d. of this, but every other Vessel capable of being converted into an armed Vessel. The smaller craft and flat Boats that are not wanted to transport troops occasionally to be carried as high up the Creeks and River as possible. The soldiers that were on board the Frigates to be sent under the care of an officer to join their Regiments and the few seamen down to our Fleet. If those Watermen that you mention who are on board private Vessels could be prevailed upon by any means to serve in our fleet till the Frost, it would answer a very valuable purpose, and rather than miss of them I would offer handsome terms. but not so much as to occasion jealousy & uneasiness in these already in Service

GEORGE WASHINGTON TO COMMODORE JOHN HAZELWOOD

Sir

Head Quarters [Whitpain, Pa.] October 27th: 1777

I am very apprehensive that the Enemy are preparing armed Boats, floating Batteries¹ and Fire Rafts at Philad^a: with an intent to fall down upon your fleet when they are finished. The Delaware Frigate will be of the greatest Advantage to them in covering their smaller Vessels should they attack you. In my opinion there is much greater danger from an attack of this kind, than one directly in your front, because there you have the Chevaux de frise as a defence. I therefore would suggest the expediency of making an attempt to destroy the Frigate and what other preparations they are making, by surprise. I will not pretend to point out the mode to you who must be much better acquainted with things of this kind than I can possibly be, but if you think it can be done no means should be left untried to effect it. I am & P.S. Could not the Frigate be fired as she lays at Anchor in a dark Night—

Df, DLC, Papers of George Washington, Series 4. Docketed: "27 [October] 1777/to/Com: Hazelwood."

1. Washington first received intelligence of the enemy's intention to build floating batteries nine days earlier. On 18 Oct. he wrote Col. Christopher Greene, the commanding officer at Fort Mercer: "I have just received information, that the Enemy are preparing a number of floating Batteries; this is a circumstance that ought seriously to be attended to. Inform the Commodore of it." Washington to Greene, 18 Oct., in Washington, Writings 9: 392-94.

JOSEPH REED TO THOMAS WHARTON, JR.

[Extract]

Norriton, October 27th, 1777.

I gave you a short sketch of our affairs and situation to the 25th inst. The repulse at Red Bank, and the destruction of a Sixty-four gun ship and frigate,¹ in their attempt on Mud Island Fort, you must have been particularly acquainted with long before this reaches you. Though I have seen many who were witnesses of the whole, I cannot yet satisfy myself whether the ships were destroyed by the fire ships sent down, or red hot balls, but am rather of opinion it was the latter. The enemy had been successful enough to raise the lower chevaux de frise. The gallantry of our brave fellows in the fort has been emulated by the row galleys. Every mouth is open in their praise; and I can assure you, from the best intelligence, that they will come in for a full share of the honour acquired in the defence of the river. I am well informed none of them lay further than half a mile from the enemy, and many much nearer. The sixty-four gun ship, to get clear of a fire ship, was obliged to part with her stern spring, by which means she grounded, with her stern exposed to the dreadful fire of the fort and galleys, which raked her fore and aft. We cannot ascertain the enemy's loss, in that attack, but as there was a boat alongside when she blew up, we may be sure all the hands were not taken off. Many must have been killed during the engagement, and probably more while they were burning, as the galleys kept up an incessant fire of grape-shot on the burning ships and boats which came to their relief. . . . The communication with their shipping has hitherto been kept from the mouth of Bow Creek, (which divides Carpenter's Island from Tinicum,) on the bank, which they have repaired, and so by the Blue Bell. But whether they will think this longer practicable, I very much doubt.

On Saturday I was in Chester, off which lay the Eagle and Somerset men-of-war, some frigates and transports, about forty in number. None of their people are permitted to come on shore. Wilmington is perfectly evacuated; but their sailors come on shore unarmed at New castle in considerable numbers. . . . I am [&c.]

VICE ADMIRAL JAMES YOUNG TO PHILIP STEPHENS

N^o. 1

Antigua 27th: October 1777

Sir

The last dispatch I forwarded you, to be communicated to my Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty; was dated the 24th: August;¹ and sent by Captain Everett of His Majesty's Armed Brigantine Badger to Jamaica; in Expectation of his getting there in time to save the Packet for England, that had left these Islands only a few days before Captain Everett's arrival; a Duplicate of which I shall also transmit you by this opportunity.

I have the pleasure to inform their Lordships the prosecutions which had been carried on by the Owners of the Non Commissioned Armed Sloop called the Hammond; against me, and Captain Dumaresq; are now withdrawn;² and that matter finally accommodated; by a Communication of Lord George Germain's Letters, which have given hopes to the Owners of the other Non Commissioned Armed Vessels, that had taken sundry American Vessels; (Condemned as Droit of the Admiralty, but the proceeds to remain in the hands of the Captors 'till his Majesty's farther pleasure was known) that the King will be graciously pleased to give up the proceeds of the whole to the Owners & Crew of such Armed Vessels, as had made Capture of them; they have therefore Voluntarily made a Subscription to pay the Owners of the Hammond, such Expences as they had been at, in fitting out &c, of that Vessel, on Condition of satisfaction being entered up in the different Offices, belonging to the Courts of Law here for the Verdicts obtained against me and Captain Dumaresq, which has been complied with; and the whole contest dropped.³

Captain Robinson of His Majesty's Ship Proteus arrived here from Quebec the 14th Instant; and I have ordered him to be assisted by His Majesty's Sloop the Beaver's Prize, and to take under Convoy the Trade from these Islands, to Great Britain, and Ireland; with which they are to Sail from S^c Christophers the 4th November; & as complaint has been made to me that it has lately become a practice, for several of the Merchant Vessels, to put to Sea so very badly fitted; it is impossible they can proceed the Voyage, without having their wants supplied at Sea, by the Kings Ships appointed to Convoy them; which assistance the Masters of said Vessels rely on; and thereby occasion great delay in prosecuting the Voyage; and as such practices must prove very prejudicial to His Majesty's Service, by occasioning a needless Expence of Naval Stores; sent out at Great Expence for the necessary Supply of the Kings Ships. I have therefore thought it proper (as it may also prove of particular benefit to the Underwriters) to direct Captain Colpoys (who sees the Trade as far as Latitude 30° N^o.) to take the Captains of the Proteus, and Beaver's Prize, to his assistance; and go on board all the Merchant Vessels that have applied for Convoy, and strictly to examine & Inspect into their State and Condition and see they are fitted in a proper manner to proceed to Europe at this Season of the Year; and if it should appear to them any of the Merchant Vessels are not so: they are directed to report the same to me, and transmit a Duplicate of such report to the Admiralty board; and not to give any Sailing Instructions to such Merchant Vessels as they judge unfit to proceed the Voyage:

I flatter myself their Lordships will approve of my giving these Orders and directions (and continuing the same hereafter) to the Kings Ships that may be sent to convoy the homeward bound Trade from these Islands. I am [&c.]

Garland, off Quebec, Octob^r: 28th: 1777.

My Lord,

I beg leave to inform Your Lordship, that after General Burgoyne had passed Ticonderoga and Lake George, and had proceeded on His March towards Albany, I judged it necessary to withdraw Captain Lutwidge¹ and the Triton's Men from the Lake Service, with the Approbation of General Sir Guy Carleton, he being of Opinion, as well as myself that the detention of her any longer in this River would be unnecessary; I therefore dispatched Her on a Cruize agreeable to Your Lordship's Orders in that behalf—But in Order to point out more clearly to Your Lordship the past, as well as the present Transactions relative to the Service in Canada, I herewith beg leave to inclose to your Lordship Copies of such Letters, Orders & C^a. as will fully explain the Situation of Affairs on the Lakes, as well as in the River S^c Laurence.

On the Receipt of General Sir Guy Carleton's Letter from St^t Johns the 24th. Ultimo, I immediately set out for the Lakes, and took with me Captain Graves² of the Viper and Sixty Men from the Garland but on our Arrival at St^t Johns I found the Rebels had failed in their Attempt to Storm Ticonderoga, and afterwards at Diamond Island, and that they were intirely dispersed with great Loss. After having remained a few Days at St^t Johns, in which time I made a proper Arrangement of the Vessels and Men for the defence of the Lakes &c., I returned with Sir Guy Carleton to Quebec, leaving Captain Graves (at the request of His Excellency) to Command the Naval Armament on the Lakes till farther Order.

In a few Days after my return to the Garland, I received from Captain Graves the inclosed Letter with the State and Condition of His Majesty's Armed Vessels employed upon the Lakes;³ in Consequence of which, as well as having daily Accounts of the probability of General Burgoyne's Army being obliged to retreat again into Canada, from His being surrounded by numbers. I thought it expedient (as did General Sir Guy Carleton) that as many Officers and Men should be sent from His Majesty's Ships here, as could possibly be spared [to] give Assistance in securing the Retreat of the said Army across the Lakes; I therefore instantly, for that purpose, sent off Captain Lutwidge of His Majesty's Ship Triton (She being at this Time returned to Quebec) with one Lieut^t, three Mates, three Midshipmen and Eighty Seamen from the Garland and Triton, none of which with twenty eight I sent up from the Garland a few [days] before, are included in the inclosed State of the Lakes.

Two Hundred and Twenty Seamen with Lieutenant Brown⁴ of the Apollo, Lieutenant Schank⁵ of the Cancaeaux and three or four petty Officers crossed Lake George with the Army to Hudson's River, all which I fear from the Accounts we have had lately, are either killed or fallen into the Hands of the Rebels with General Burgoyne and His whole Army; they having been by every late Account said to be surrounded by thirty or forty thousand [Men] between Stillwater and Saratoga, And by the last Account that they had been obliged to Capitulate on the 16th. instant.

This will sufficiently point out the urgent Necessity for having a large Reinforcement sent out to this p[lace] as early as it is possible in the Spring.

I must also beg Leave to inform Your Lordship that His Majesty's Schooner the Magdalen being found by Survey to be totally unfit for His Majesty's Service, and not capable of being repaired I thought it best and most for the Good of the Service to put Her out of Commission and put her up to Sale at a public Auction—I herewith inclose to Your Lordship the Bill of Sale with a Copy of the Report of the said Survey;⁶ and as Her Sails, Stores and every part of her Tackle must have been unavoidably spoiled by letting Her continue the ensuing Winter in her bad Condition, I hope what I have done will meet with Your Lordship's Approbation, having, in this Business, as well as all others, used the utmost of my Endeavors to do every thing for the good of the Service.

His Majesty's Ship Warwick being sent out by the Admiralty with a Convoy to this place, arrived at Coudré the 8th. instant, And Sailed from thence the 25th. agreeable to their Lordship's Order with the Trade of this Province for England. I have the Honor to be [&c.]

CAPTAIN HECTOR MCNEILL TO THE MASSACHUSETTS COUNCIL

To The Hon^{ble}. Council of the Massachusetts State
Gentlemen

Boston 28th. Octo^r. 1777—

Last Lords day week a certain M^r Baker who calls himself a Warden did insult a Centinel which I had placed for the Security of the Ships Stores, now altogether on Shore at the head of the Hon^{ble}. M^r Hancocks Wharfe, the Lower Store on that Wharfe is full of them and the Cannon, Cables, Topmasts, yards, Shott and Water Casks takes up the whole Wharfe as far up as the said Store—The Centinel had receiv'd orders to Let no Person Trample upon, nor even go amongst those Articles thus Exposed, either in the Night time, or on the Sabbath, as the officers of the Ship and most of the Men, were then supposed to be absent, either taking their natural rest, or at some place of Publick Worship,—

The reason why Such orders had been givin the Centinel, was—that several attempts had been made Secretly to Stop up the Vents of our Cannon as they lay on the Wharfe—

These with the Cables, Yards, Topmasts, Anchors, Shott Water Casks &c being all Expos'd on the open Wharfe none other Security could be obtained for them Except the Care of the Centinel.—

I therefore Conceive it was my duty to appoint one and that I had an undoubted right to give such orders, and shall still do what I know to be my duty in this respect, oppose it who will—

One thing I am sure of, that none but bad Men would oppose such a Measure, as the Safety of the Ship and Stores depends on the care that we who are intrusted with them may take of the whole—

On Saturday last a Person who call'd himself a Peace Officer, tho' unknown to me applied desiring I would deliver up that person who had been Centinel on the preceeding Sabbath with whom M^r Baker had the dispute,—this I refused to do being perfectly assured that the Man had only done his duty—and as perfectly Satisfied that M^r Bakers proceedings was vexatious, Litigious & Spitefull which has been Sufficiently proved by his vile Conduct Last Lords day, for instead of observing the Solemnity of the Sabbath—he (M^r Baker) had made it his Bussiness to assemble a band of ruffians, who came down the Wharfe in a Body, attack'd and partly disarm'd the Centinel, some of them Seising him behind his back, others attempting to wrest his firelock out of his hand, and one of them actually Snatch'd the Bayonet from the Muzell of the peice, with it Stab'd the Said Centinel, and another person who came to his assistance,—Crying out all the time they were about this unhallowed work, that they would Support Civil Government—

If Civil Government cannot be Supported without such measures as these—let it be remember'd that all Men may make the same pretences for Committing any outrage whatever.—

My reason for not permitting the officer to go on board the ship is obvious to all Men who know the nature of Shipping and the Character of Seamen—in the first place, all Possible Excuses for doing Mischiefe or committing irregularity's Shou'd be totally taken away from Seamen, their boisterous rude nature being but too apt to catch at any occasion that may offer as a pretext for their Leaping the bounds of good Government—for this reason they ought to be Strictly governed and closely employ'd about their duty as much as Possible—This I have made my Study and have Govern'd that Ships Company for several Months last Winter alongside of the Wharfe, without having one Complaint against any of them, and I think I can bid defiance to all who shall accuse them with unruly behaviour out of the Ship, either on the Sabbath or any other day since the Ship has been in this Port—if this be truth as I can abundantly prove, with what face can it be expected I should give up a faithfull Centinel to the Mallice of an officious dirty fellow, who so far from observing the design of his own appointment, was the first who broke through the rules of decency and good order by attacking and disarming a Centinel placed on our own bounds to take proper care of the Stores belonging to the Ship—

Another reason I have for not Suffering Constables to board the Ship, is that every pettyfogger of the Law have it in their power to send such creatures as Constables on their dirty Bussiness—

In this way, groundless, Malicious Prosecutions may be sett on foot—this we have Suffer'd in the Course of last Winter more than once—it may be said the Law points out a remedy—I confess it does,—but I answer that we have something else to do with our time and Money than to spend them both in disputes at Law—

A third reason I have against permitting Constables to Search Ships—is the moral certainty of their receiving ill treatment in the operation,—this would be almost impossible to prevent,—nay I shou'd think from what I know of Seaman that such a man on such an errand would be likely to Loose his life or some of his Limbs—rather then find the person he was in pursuit of.—

Therefore I am sure it will only tend to farther mischief to insist upon it.—

If the Men belonging to the Ship I Command Committ any disorder in the Town or injure the meanest Inhabitant, I Promise to do my utmost that he may be punished according to Law, but if any person comes on board the Ship, or amongst the Ships Stores, or into the Store House hired for the use of the Ship, and there quarrells with my people—I Think they ought to reap the fruits of their own folly.—

On the Contrary whenever a Complaint is brought to me against one of my Men for committing an unlawfull Action, I will deliver up that Man to the officer of Justice ashore,—but I cannot think it prudent to permitt an officer to follow a Man on board the Ship, where it is more than probable he will meet with Dammage rather than find the person he wants.—

The reason of my troubling you with this affair, is that I understand a complaint has been made to your Hon^{ble}: Board concerning my refusing Constables Wardens &c a permission to search the Ship—whatever that complaint may be I am ready and willing to make my defence when call'd upon before your Honours, where I make no doubt I shall be heard with Candour—I am [&c.]

JOHN DESHON TO CAPTAIN ABRAHAM WHIPPLE

Sir Providence Oct^r 28th 1777

I am informed the Ship of[f] Hog Island is moved,¹ if so (the wind in the Corner it now is, & blowing hard) if you have a pilot on board for N. London you will in my Opinion be Very Safe in Sailing for that port—it is Necessary your Pilott be aquanted in Fishers Island Sound, as it will be Much to your Advantage to Sail that passage in Case you Should be Chaced, however at this time I belive there is but little Danger, the Expedition to Rhode Island I belive is Given Over, which Makes me Very Desirous you Should if Posable Get out of this River²—if you agree with me in Opinion, & this wheather Should Continue till to Morrow Morning, & your Ship Can be Got under Way as soon as light, you will no Doubt make Tryal, I wish you to go as Strong maned as you Posabley Can (& the Soldgiers you have on board Volonteers must be Discharged if they Chuse it) at N. BRIGADIER GENERAL JOHN DOUGLAS TO GOVERNOR JONATHAN TRUMBULL

Hon^d. Sir Tivertown [Rhode Island] Oc^r 28th 1777

when I wrote last I flatterd myself that before this time I should have had Something more agreeable to write, but have the mortification to inform that after all the fateague & expence that has been made the expedition is given over without affecting the purpose

the troops from the Differant States were generally on the ground before those from Connecticut and it was propigated thro the army that they only waited for connecticut Troops, But that was not the case—

our men was on the ground before it was possible to prepar & collect the boats from the Differant Parts, and to make the Distribution & other preparations that were necessary for the expedition. and I Should not Do Justice to Officers or men if I Did not say they have so conducted that I have the Satisfaction to think they are in as good Standing as any part of the army without exception—the necessary preparations were so far Compleated and the prospect so good that the Differant Brigades were ordered to perade on thursday the 16th. Ins^t. Ready for embarkation which they Did and appeard in good Spirits, especially the connecticut & Rhoad Island Brigades—

But on the whole it was found that many preparations were Still absolutely necessary to be made before it would be anywise Justifiable to so embark, for which Reasons the Troops were orderd to their Quarters that night, the night following Proved Stormy & so continued the next Day untill too late to collect an army like this Scattered for want of tents or Barracks Perhaps not less than 16 or 18 miles Distant

They were orderd in again Sunday night the 19th Ins^t. & peraded on the Shoar at their Boats below fogland Ferry, the Boats all properly Placed except a part that belonged to Generals Palmer¹ & Lovel² who were so late in coming round the Point³ that by the light of the moon they were Discoverd & fired upon by the enemy & one man killd & many of their Boats never came up. and what was Still unfavourable to our Design there was so great a Southerly wind that it was Judged impracticable for Boats to pass with troops at that time, it was also fair to Bring the man of war Instantly among us,⁴ who then lay not more than 2 or 3 miles Distant, from the movements of that night the enemy Discoverd where the attack was to have been made and the next Tuesday Day⁵ two Ships and a tender was Sent to block our proceeding in that way⁶—it was then Judg'd best to attack in a Differant quarter (viz) between fogland and Howlands ferry—the weather unfavourable untill thursday the 23rd. Inst on which the troops were orderd in & with much fateague the Boats were carried & Drawn about 120 Rods by land from the head of one Creek to another & movd to the place agreed on for embarkation⁷—the night proved wet & So great an appearance of a Storm that it was not Judg'd prudent to proceed—after which many of the militia from y^e massachusets & Rhoad Island States whose times were near out began to Desert as twas Said thro fear they Should be Detaind on the Island beyond their limited time. the weather Still unfavourable no movment was made untill sunday the 26th. when all were orderd to perade again near the place of embarkation and the numbers to be taken & by Reason of sickness & Desertion no more could be collected than 5367 including officers & Boatmen and many of them too much Disaffected to be Rely'd on.

the weather Still wet and likely so to continue a council was again Called at which the Genl^s, and commanding officers of Reg^{ts} were present, and calld upon to give their Sentiments and were unanimously of the opinion that the time is so far Spent the Army Depreciated and many of them to[o] much Disaffected to be Rely'd on, under the present situation of affairs it was not Justifiable to make further attempts to push the expedition at this time and altho I am Sensible that Gen^l Spencer who has appeard anxiously engag'd in the affair Did every thing to expedite he was capable of Doing yet it was not in his power to have the necessary necessary preparations compleated Sooner than about the time abovementioned, Since which by the appearance of the wind and weather on which our success Did much Depend, the Stars in their courses have appeard to be against our proceeding, and altho I am Sensible that the Judgment of the Vulgar part of the world is generally form'd according to the success of the enterprise yet the more candid whose esteeme I ever wish to merit I trust will at least Suspend their Judgment untill Rightly inform'd of the true State of affairs, on which I am free to Risque my Reputation.—who have the Honour to be [&c.]

DIARY OF CAPTAIN FREDERICK MACKENZIE

[Extract]

[Rhode Island] 28th Oct.—Rain most part of last night, and all this day. Strong wind at N.E., and very cold.

This weather is extremely unfavorable for the Rebels, if they mean to make an attack on us. . . .

A man who says he was a Marine on board The Fox Frigate, when she was taken, and has been confined on board The Rebel Galley,¹ above three weeks, made his escape from her, and came over to us last night. He positively asserts that the Rebels intended to land below Fogland ferry the night of the 19th, but that finding we had discovered their boats in motion, and the wind rather against them, they put it off. He says one man was killed, and another had his arms shot off in one of their boats as they passed our battery. That many of their boats have since returned to Quaket pond,² where they now have about 200 of all descriptions. That they were in their boats again the night of the 26th, and intended to land near Howland's bridge; but the wind rising a little, with some rain, the attack was given over. That they have about 9,000 men assembled for the attack of the Island, and have a good many Cannon. That the time for which the greatest part of thier men are engaged expires the last day of this Month; and that he heard some of the Officers of the Galley say, orders had been given not to send any more provisions to Howland's ferry. He says the Galley mounts 2. 18 p^s 2. 9 p^s 4—6p^s 2. 4 prs, and 10 Swivels, and that there are but 22 persons on board her, all of whom except one, call themselves Officers.

GEORGE WASHINGTON TO COMMODORE JOHN HAZELWOOD

Sir
Head Quarters [Whitpain, Pa.] 28th October 1777—

In consequence of your representation of the Weakness of your Fleet,¹ I have order'd a return of Sailors in the Army to be made to me, & find they amount to more than 100, which will March with a Detachment for the Forts, as soon as the weather will permit This Reinforcement, I expect, will amply Supply your wants, & enable you to give every assistance to the Forts that can be reasonably expected from you, and as their Strength will be greatly augmented, it is my most earnest desire, that every mode may be adopted, by which your force may be brought to Co-operate against the designs & approaches of the Enemy. & that a mutual Confidence & perfect understanding may chearfully take place

The Ammunition which you have & will receive is to be considered sent for the use of the whole, & distributed Accordingly

As there is a greater possibility that the reduction of the Forts might be effected by surprize than any other means you will see the necessity of giving them every Aid by your Gondolas & Guard Boats, as may effectually prevent any mischance of this kind I am &c

GEORGE WASHINGTON TO LIEUTENANT COLONEL SAMUEL SMITH

Sir

Head Quarters [Whitpain, Pa.] 28th. October 1777

... I have ordered a very handsome detachment for the reinforcement of Forts Mifflin and Mercer and the Gallies they have been ready since yesterday but the weather has been such, that they could not march. When they arrive, the duty will not be so severe, and if the men that you carried down at first can possibly be spared they shall be relieved. I will send them down necessaries out of the first that arrive from Lancaster. You seem to have mistaken the Commodores meaning. From his letter¹ I understand that he will always assist you whenever it is in his power. He tells you that in rough Weather his Gallies and armed Boats cannot live and therefore guards you against expecting much assistance from them at such times. I beg you of all things, not to suffer any Jealousies between the land and sea service to take place. Consider that your mutual security depends upon acting perfectly in concert. I have wrote to Col^o. Green² to afford you every possible assistance from Red Bank till the reinforcement gets down. . . . I am &c

[Fort Mifflin, October 28, 1777]

... The Gallies which ought to be a Security to us, are absolutely useless—they have withdrawn to the Jersey Shore, the Channel between us and Province Island is perfectly clear and if the Enemy choose to make a descent here as I have no doubt they do—we cannot hinder them.

... The morning of the 23. the Enemy began a heavy fire from their batteries—their Vessels which had pass'd the Bilingsport Chevaux de frise kept up a Cannonade part of the morning, and our Situation began to be very critical when luckily one of our Bullets or one from the Fleet set fire to the Augusta, a 64 Gun Ship which was nearest our battery and did us most mischief—another Vessel¹ of 20 Guns was likewise burnt, the firing from the Land ceased, the Enemys Fleet retired and we had the Victory. . . .

VICE ADMIRAL JAMES YOUNG TO THE EARL OF SANDWICH

My Lord—

Antigua, October 28th 1777.

I hope your Lordship has received my letter of the 25th of August acknowledging the honour of yours of the 27th of June. I now have the pleasure to acquaint you that the dispute between me and the owners of the privateer is, by the assistance of the general, settled without any more expense to us: those who had taken prizes paying the damages I was cast for to the owners of the Hammond, who had not taken any; and entirely quashing the verdict obtained against Captain Dumaresq, that being so scandalous a proceeding I would not admit of any compromise.

Since my last, nothing material has happened to acquaint your Lordship with, only that within this month the French have sent out a 64-gun ship and 5 large frigates. They say it is to protect their trade from insult. They did not arrive all together, but one or two at a time. They have also a great many troops in their islands, it is said ten thousand. They cruise about as our cruisers, and they sometimes meet. Whether they would take upon them to protect any rebel vessels we might fall in with in their sight, is uncertain; but it is not unlikely such a thing may happen, as now begins the time of year they will push out. When the weather is so bad on their coast, our ships can't keep the sea; if the French should, it might bring on disagreeable consequences, as at present they may be troublesome, though it is now said one or two of the frigates are gone to St Domingo as well as a large ship or two. I hope, if known in England they collect ships in this manner, some more will come here.

I took the liberty in my last to your Lordship to request relief early in the year, and to leave the station in May; for three years in this climate is full long enough, especially when forced in order to carry on the service to be confined to this island. I now beg leave to renew my request, as also permission to give my son post; Captain Dumaresq, as I got it for him, being very willing to give up the Portland when ordered home. I am [&c.]

IN LIVERPOOL, DATED DOMINICA, OCT. 28, 1777.”

“We left Bonney¹ on the 8th of August, with 349 slaves, and buried ninety, and ten white men on the passage. On the 7th of October, lat. Barbadoes, and 58 deg. west longitude, we fell in with the Fly sloop of 12 four pounders, and 95 men, Thomas Palmer commander, whom we engaged and beat of three times. On the 9th, the St. Peter, a ship of 18 six pounders and 130 men, Samuel Chace, commander, hove in sight, and joined the Fly. We then struck to the ship, as we found it impossible to keep them both off, having but 32 men and boys on board, and only 20 able to do duty. They carried us into Port Trinity in Martinico, where they sold the slaves; the officers of the St. Peter bought our ship, intending to fit her out for a privateer.—Captain Rimmer went from hence over to Martinico, accompanied by a king's officer, dispatched by the governor of this island, to demand the ship again;² but they were not allowed to be introduced to the governor of Martinico, and were under the necessity of coming back without any answer to our governor's demand.—It is probable captain Rimmer may be censured by some persons for losing his ship, but he behaved during the actions with the spirit and bravery of a Briton.”

JOHN WENDELL TO CAPTAIN JOHN PAUL JONES

Respected Sir

Portsmouth Oct^r 29th 1777

As my Son M^r Dan^l Wentworth Wendell is desirous of engaging into the Continental Service, I am writting to indulge his Inclination, altho I should much rather he should remain ashore, as it is in my Power to provide for Him otherways, and as you have been so kind as to rate him a Midshipman on the Rangers Books, I take y^e Earliest Oppertunity to thank you for the Favour, and must beg the Continuance of your Regard to him, as he may merit them by his Behaviour, Your Civilities may induce him to remain in the Service; when you find him qualified for Promotion I know it will be in my power to procure it, If you should quitt the Ranger, and my Son should rather incline to remain w^h L^t Simpson, as being his Kinsman I would wish your Compliance with his Request, as I w^d not willingly controul his Inclinations least he might be tempted to quit the Service

I give him my full Liberty to draw his whole Pay, Bounty, and Prize Money, if any, and to apply it to his Expences in procuring Cloathing &c^a to be a Credit to his Officers, I would have him be as little connected with the Ships Crew as his Duty may admit of, and I shall gratefully return every Favour you may indulge him in, It is natural for a Parent to be solicitous for a Child he is fond of and when you can with Propriety grant him any I hope he will not be wanting in his Acknowledgem^{ts}

I shall ask M^r Simpson for his Assistance in Qualifying him for Promotion and to keep him to his Duty and Studies, so as to make him an accomplish'd Gentleman, as I have plentifully to bestow upon him when he may want it—I have not to add further on this Subject than my Wishes for your Health & Happiness, Success and safe Return

With respect to the Matters we conversed about I shall not be wanting in my Representation, and any other Matters you would wish to communicate through the Channel of a Friend you need only to command me, I have the Vanity to assure you that I have an extensive Acquaintance with Seven or Eight Members my most intimate Friends & the President marrying with my nearest Kinswoman¹ besides a personal Acquaintance before

You may rely on it that by my Representation you shall at least continue the Rank you now hold if not be restored to the Rank you were justly intitled to by priority and Merit, and as I shall bend my Interest to support yours, we may reciprocally serve each other, and for that Purpose I would propose to you, that if you shall receive the Frigate and find my Son deserving as you will have an Opportunity of experiencing, if you can promote him to a third Lieutenantcy on board her, he will be immediately in a Line of Promotion, and will give great Pleasure to Me and his other Friends, This will be a favour that shall be requited in a Manner you may not be apprehensive of, at present,

M^r Frankland² will not oppose it when he knows that it is for a Grandson of his Old Friend, Col^o. Wendell of Boston, a Nephew of Col^o. Josiah Quincy of Brantree and a Cousin of President Hancock and a Grandson to his Old Friend M^{rs} Pascal³ of Portsm^o: and a Nephew of Col^o Josh Wentworth that by promoting such Young Gentlemen of family it strengthens the political Connection of y^e Country. I shall most gratefully acknowledge the Receipt of your Letters, at all Times, and be assured that you shall be more known by Congress than you have been and I dare venture to promise, you will not be undervalued—I am with real Sincerity D^r. Sir Your ready sert.

John Wendell

I have given my Son a Letter to Mess^{rs} Lane Son & Fraser Merch^{ts} in London for a Credit in France for £100 Sterling, please to put him in a Channel how to receive it thro' the Gentleman who shall have the Concern of your Ship.

CAPTAIN JOHN PAUL JONES TO THE CONTINENTAL MARINE COMMITTEE

Gentlemen

Ranger, Portsmouth 29th. Oct^r 1777.

Inclosed you have copies of my letters to you from here Since I took this Command.—Also a complete Inventory of the Ranger and all her Stores together with a Copy of the Muster Book—Whereby it appears that the Ship hath been Manned for near two Months Past.—With all my industry I could not get the single suit of Sails completed Untill the 20th. Current—Since that time the Winds and Weather hath laid me under the necessity of Continuing in Port.—At this time it Blows a Very Heavy Gale from the NE—the ship with difficulty Rides it out with Yards and Topmasts struck and whole Cables a Head.—When it clears up I expect the Wind from the N.W. and shall not fail to embrace it Altho' I have not now a spare Sail nor materials to Make one.—some of those I have are made of Hossings.—Had not every Officer of mine exerted himself in procuring Materials the Ranger might have lain in Port longer than the Raleigh. I never before had so disagreeable a service to perform as this which I have now Accomplished and of which another will claim the Credit as well as the profit.— However in doing My utmost I am sensible that I have done no more than my Duty.— I have now to acknowledge the honor of having recived your Orders of the 6th. Ult^o. so that I have before me the pleasing prospect of being the welcom Messenger at Paris of the Joyful and important News of Burguoyne's Surrender &^{ca}. &^{ca}. I have received dispatches from the Council of the Massachusetts for the Commissioners ꝑ Express.—I shall not therefore go out of my Course Unless I see a fair Opportunity of distressing the Enemy and of rendering Services to America.—I have the honor to be [&c.]

SAMUEL ELIOT, JR., TO GOVERNOR JONATHAN TRUMBULL

Hon^d Sir

Boston 29th Oct 1777—

I had the honor of your obliging favor by Capt Perkins, inclosing a power to act in all Maritime affairs, in behalf of the State of Connecticut, in the State of Masachusetts Bay—Capt Perkin's Son handed it to me just before the important Tryall of the Weymouth Packet, my Appearance was demanded as soon as the Court was open'd, which when Presented was put on file by the Clerk, and the Court demanded my instructions relative to the Tryall, which (to prevent an additional expence to both parties) I answer'd were to have the Question decided whether she was a Kings Vessell of Warr, properly Commissioned to Annoy & distress the American Trade & Navigation or in other words, whether she was a Man of Warr—The Tryall continued untill 9 °Clock PM when the Judge gave the charge to the Jury, who this Morning return'd a Verdict in favor of the Captors solely.—This was the most important Tryall since the Commencement of Hostilities, each party had two Attornies, whose pleadings were full, and, did them honor, every thing on both sides, was said, and every person in Court, I might have said Town, who have spoke about it were of the mind, that by the resolves of Congress, she belong'd to the People.—I did not appeal, but if I am so instructed will do it yet, it will oblige me, if your Excellency will favor me with a line by the return of the Post—I mention'd to Capt Perkins, that the 1/20th belonging to the Commander in Chief I would take charge of, which (with the 1/20th of Capt Smedley's Prizes amounting to £ 394..6 LMy) I shall hand to your Excellency by the first safe conveyance.—

A perticular account of the Proceedings shall be sent by the next post.—my hon^d Father desires his duty, we both sincerely congratulate your Excellency on the success of our Arms at the Northward—several friends of Capt Manley¹ in this place hearing that a Cartell is settled, desire Capt Judd² or the Gentleman who came with him, would inform Capt Manley, that his family and friends are all well.—I remain [&c.]

LETTER FROM CONTINENTAL ARMY CAMP

[Extract]

Camp 13 Miles from Philadelphia, October 29th, 1777.

SIR,

... Early in the morning of the 23d, six of the enemy's ships warped through the lower row of Chevaux de frise opposite to Billings's Port, which was at first intended to have been defended by batteries, but afterwards rejected through the plan of defence, as being too extensive. The enemy had been some days busied in removing part of the Chiveaux-de-frize from this tier, in doing which, as it was not defended, they found no other difficulty than the labour. After they had all warped through, they made for the upper ties [tier], distant about two and half miles, defended by the batteries on Mud-Island, called Fort Mifflin, and the gallies. When they came within proper distance, they commenced a very furious engagement from three of their nearest ships (the river not being broad enough for more to fight) with the gallies and fort. The cannonade was prodigious, and lasted without intermission six hours, at which time the ships being much disabled, retreated; but the tide being considerably ebb'd, and being embarrassed with the fire vessels the gallies carried upon them, two ran aground and were set on fire by the crews, who deserted them, and soon after blew up, with horrid explosions, which were heard an hundred miles in the country. One was the Augusta, of 64 guns; the other a frigate,¹ whose name we have not heard. The remaining ship² that was in the engagement, was more fortunate, she being exceedingly shattered, was towed through the lower Chevaux de-frize. The three ships not in the engagement retired without damage.

These events; considerable in themselves, will have still more considerable consequences.

Philadelphia being situated between two unfordable rivers, is a dangerous post for an enemy to occupy, without having the entire command of the rivers or the country. The American army prevents a communication with the latter, and the gallies and [batteries] by the Delaware. The enemy have now to row their supplies from their shipping at Chester, 15 miles distant, by a communication over Schuylkill, which renders the convoys dangerous, and liable to be [lost] upon the least intelligence being given. Hitherto they have brought them in the night only, but even then they narrowly escape.

This is the situation of the enemy at Philadelphia: they must either get possession of the river, at every risque, and open a communication by water, evacuate the city, or submit to more inconveniences in a blockade, while we can keep the field, then at Boston. . . .

... at 3 O'clock we had a mind to make some Attempt upon the Enemy's Batteries¹ overflow'd and unfit for Service—3 Galleys came to help us but the want of concert or deficiency of boats disappointed our Enterprise. the Result of which was only a few Cannon Shot from us and some Bombs thrown into the Fort—The firing ceased by mutual Consent. The night has been quiet and the Tide more moderate—The same Tide which troubled us produced greater Derangement in the projects of the Enemy.—Their Bridge over the Schuylkil was broke by it, and 12 of their Boats six of them large ones, with a number of Plank drifted to us. Their works on province Island appear but little Injur'd except that they are in the water as we are. . . .

COMMODORE JOHN HAZELWOOD TO THOMAS WHARTON, JR.

Sir

On board the Chatham Galley [Delaware River]

October 29, 1777

I have received Your Excellency's letters of the 17th. & 24th. of Oct^r & we thank his Excellency & the Council for their good opinion of our Fleet & I hope our behaviour for the future will meet your approbation, & altho' we have lost 250 or more Men thro' cowardice or disaffection, yet with the remaining few we have left we are determined to spend the last drop of our blood in the defence of this pass & our Country & all those in Action with me those two days you have heard our Cannon behaved like brave & spirited Officers & men; & I hope in our future trials we shall give you more & more of our attachment to our Country & cause in which we are engaged; but we are now very weakly Mann'd from desertion kill'd & wounded, & have press'd on General Washington to spare us 200 Men he promis'd me, but as yet none is come—I now shall give you the particulars of those two days Action on the 22^d. & 23^d.—On the 22^d. about 4 O'clock the Attack was made on the Fort at red bank in which a part of our Galleys was engaged in flanking the Enemy round the works & was of great use there, the rest of the Galleys & floating Batterys were engaged with their Ships who had raised the two Chevause de Frieze at Billinsport some time before. The Ships that came up was the Augusta a new 64, the Roebuck 44, two Frigates, the Merlin 18 Guns & one Galley² of a 32 Pounder all which we drove down, & in going down the Augusta & Merlin ran aground below our upper Chevaus de Frieze, which which we discover'd early in the morning of the 23^d—Immediately hoisted the Signal to engage them & soon after the engagement became general—We had engaged our 12 Galleys & the two floating Batterys & all behaved extreamly well, the rest of our Fleet could not be brought timely to act with us—We had against us, the Augusta of 64 who had her broadside below and aloft constantly playing on us, with the Roebuck & two Frigates & their Galley, & had the Roebuck laid fast, she would have shared the same fate; but she was drove from her station before the Augusta got on fire, We are told by a deserter since, that the Augusta lost 150 or 160 Men Kill'd & drowned, as a great part of her Men was obliged to jump overboard. The Roebuck had 6 kill'd & 10 Wounded—Dear Sir, if you have any influence on General Washington, I beg you will use it with him to send me 250 Men to reinforce our Fleet, for we cannot Mann half our Galleys to go to Action—I have repeatedly wrote him, but have nothing but promises from time to time; & believe me Sir, without the Fleet is kept up, you will never get your City nor shall we be able to hold out much longer; but had I Men, I think I could drive all the force they could bring against us; but how can a man discharge such a trust as I have on me, half Mann'd, without being disgrac'd; give me but this number of Men & all is safe—having not to add, am Sir, [&c.]

COLONEL HENRY LEONARD PHILIP BARON D'ARENDT TO

[Near Red Bank, October 29, 1777]

... If the enemy should make this lodgement in the day time, it would be incumbent upon us to exert our utmost for the destruction of the Party by a timely Sally—but if they should do it in the night and under cover of false Attacks it would be exceedingly difficult to dislodge them—In a word I repeat what I have already more than once asserted, The Defence at this fort consists in this single point, to prevent the Enemy from landing, this is the business of our Fleet especially at night—at which time the Cannon of the Fort would do but little good. I don't know if His Excellency would choose to order the Commodore¹ to station his Fleet near the Island, neither am I sufficiently versed in naval Affairs to be able to form a Judgement of the propriety of it—but this I know, that in case the Enemys Ships should attempt to cover the landing of their Troops, our Fleet should not amuse itself with firing at them, but attack the Boats loaded with Troops—for I have been assured that the Chevaux de frise could not be raised in so short a space of time, as this absence of the fleet would allow them for the purpose. . . .

GOVERNOR PATRICK HENRY TO GEORGE WASHINGTON

Sir,

Williamsburg, October 29th 1777

The Regiment of Artillery commanded by Colonel Charles Harrison¹ is yet in this State. They have been detained here under leave of Congress to do Duty at Portsmouth and York, near which Places the Enemy's Ships of War have been long hovering. At present, seven Men of War² & three large Transports or provision Vessels, are in and near Hampton Road. The Troops of the State are so few, that the Defense of our maritime places will be precarious in the absence of that Regiment. Militia must in that Case be chiefly depended on, and their Skill in managing Cannon promises nothing effectual. But, reflecting on the necessity there may be of reinforcing the army under your Excellency's Command, I trouble you with this, entreating you will be pleased to tell me whether that Regiment will be a desirable aid to you. If it is, perhaps Inoculation ought to be set about immediately. With the highest Regard I am [&c.]

Honored and dear Sir

Ranger, Portsmouth 30th Oct^r 1777.

I herewith inclose duplicates of my letters &^{ca} to you since I took command of the Ranger.—I have left open the letters and papers &^{ca} directed for M^r Hewes, which I beg of you to peruse before you forward them.—My Situation is a truly delicate one—Superseded by thirteen persons not one of whom had embarked in the Navy when my first Commission was dated—some of whom durst not or at least did not then nor for many Months Afterwards Avow their Republican Sentiments but were on the Other Side if we may Judge from the private Testimony of their Neigh'ours—not one of whom is better Acquainted with Navy Matters than myself—and Several of whom are Altogether illiterate and Utterly ignorant of Marine Affairs.—this is my Situation; And the More I think of it the more Unhappy I am.—when I reach France I must expect to meet with Gentlemen who Consider themselves as my Senior Officers and by whom I am Superseded—in acknowledging their Seniority must I not also Obey their Commands and Confess that their Promotion over me was the Reward of their Superiour Services and Abilities—And how much must I be then humbled! may not the World believe that others have cast me thus far at a distance and thrown me out in the pursuit of Honor—the thought distracts my very Soul!—Why Alas! should my Honor and Duty seem incompatible?—tho this may appear a Solecism—Yet it's reality affects me more than All the former misfortunes of My Life—Some of them were perhaps bro't about by my own Misconduct—this I am Sure was not.—I cannot think of quitting the Service especially while the liberties of America are Unconfirmed—I must therefore look up to you as my Patron and Protector—Shall I take the liberty to Add, as my kind Friend and Benefactor—with full dependence that you will do your Utmost to Set me right so as to enable me to Avoid dishonor and yet to continue in the Service.

In my letter of 28th July I mentioned Major Frazer¹ of Virginia—that Gentleman goes with me as a Volunteer—As he wishes to be employed in the Marine Service—should that be agreeable to Congress he will, from his rank in the Army, be Senior Officer in the Marines—and he expresses a Strong desire to Accompany me in any private Expedition.—it is my first and most Ardent Wish to be entrusted with the Command of some Spirited Enterprise—When I can have an Opportunity of proving that I have not merited the disgrace of being Superseded

I must beg you to pardon the liberty I have taken by inserting the Esteemed names of Robert Morris and Joseph Hewes in a private Letter of Attorney; and, as Executors in my Will both of which are herewith inclosed—Inclosed is also a letter from Major Frazer to his friend Col^o. Braxton of Virginia respecting the purchase of a Small Estate on the Mattopony² Which I must request you to forward or not as you think most for my benefit Agreeable to the letter of Attorney—I would only Observe that I should be Glad to own such a place as that is by description but Col^o. Braxton will give you a better account of it.—

Altho' I have not 'till now been able to get in readiness with the Ranger—Yet I assure you my utmost Efforts have not been Wanting The Ship was Manned in Very little time indeed the only instance of the kind that I remember in the Service—I have an Orderly well disciplined and Spirited Crew consisting of an hundred and forty Odd—and since the Tenth of Sept^r. Our Departure hath been Impeded Solely thro' the want of Canvis and many of the principle materials.—

May I indulge myself in the hope of hearing from You in France?—Nothing could afford so much relief to my Anxious Mind.—I attribute my not having that Honor since I came here to the commotions in Pensylvania and to your Opinion of my more early departure.

As the dirty and Ungrateful insinuation of the late Commodore Hopkins to the Committee in March last hath given me Much concern—I have taken the liberty to inclose a letter which I rec^d. on that subject from M^r. Jarvis³ after my return to Boston—I know that you were perfectly Satisfied before—and I hope every other Gentleman was so But I will leave no room for reflection.

John Wendell Esq^r of this Place, a Gentleman of great Landed Intrest and of an extensive Circle of Friends in Congress, has had the goodness to write a Variety of letters in my behalf respecting the line of Rank and Command—His friends will from his Remonstrances mention the matter to you—and he expects use their utmost intrest in Congress—however I would not wish to create a General Uneasiness in the Service—If I am entrusted with the Command for an expedition and should be so fortunate as to Succeed in it—no exception can then be taken at my promotion

The Inclosed Receipt from Major Gardner⁴ will I believe Sufficiently explain the Situation of My little private concerns in the Eastern States—If I knew any men whom could I esteem more than yourself and M^r. Hewes I would not have given you this trouble—Should any letters Appear for me directed to your care in consequence of the Indulgent liberty which you gave me I am Sure they will be duely forwarded I am with a Heart overflowing with Sentiments of Perfect Gratitude Esteem and Respect Honored and Dear Sir Your very Obliged very Obedient most humble Servant

CAPTAIN JOHN PAUL JONES TO JOSEPH HEWES

My dear and Honored Sir

Ranger, Portsmouth 30th. Oct^r. 1777.

I herewith inclose copies of my letters &^{ca}. since you left Portsmouth.—You will no doubt be Surprised to find that the Ranger is still in port—but the Wonder must cease when you understand that with All my own and My Officers Application and Industry I have not been Able to complete a Single Suite of Sails till within these few days past—and other Materials have been equally Backward.—had not my Officers exerted themselves in procuring Materials the Ranger might have remained in port as long as the Raleigh. I never before had so disagreeable a service to perform as this which I have now Accomplished, and of which Another will claim the Credit as well as the Profit.

I have been full Manned for near two Months past—so that you may imagin what I must have felt on being thus detained in port—I have been for some time and am now detained by a heavy Gale from the N.E.—When it clears up I purpose to embrace the first Wind that can carry me thro' the Enemies lines and off the Coast.—I have received Orders and dispatches for France and hope to be the welcom Messenger at Paris of Burguoynes Surrender &^{ca}. &^{ca}.

I have now to inform You that a few days ago I had the honor to receive by post your esteemed favor of 26th. May 1776 [1777] from Philadelphia—directed to me as Commander of the Providence at New York.—My best thanks Sir are particularly due to you for the Sentiments of Regard therein expressed.—this letter had I been in doubt before would now confirm me in the belief that had you been present in Congress the 10th. day of October 1776 I should have held my proper Rank in the Service which (If I was worthy of my first Commission) is N^o. 5—not N^o. 18.—

That I should be thus degraded and set under Thirteen Men, who durst not, or did not Embark in the dispute, and in Ships unfit for War like the Alfred, as Early as myself, distracts my very Soul!—a sea Officer Who can bear to be Superseded by any Man of Presumptive Abilities and talk or think cooly of it is a Villain!—I know one person among the thirteen who, After I had embarked in the Service, made a private Agreement with the Captain of one of the Enemies Ships to carry himself, his Family and effects off the Continent—this can at any time be proved by the testimony of his Neighbours.—I can find many other exceptions among them—And not one of them can teach me My duty—or will ever go further with a Small force in the Service than I have Already done and Mean to do again whenever an Opportunity offers. I should be to the last degree Unhappy were it not for the Hopes I have that Congress will yet do me right—I cannot think of quitting the Service—My whole Mind is rapt in the Dispute!—but how shall I have Spirit to perform my Duty while I think my self degraded and out of my proper Place?—without boasting you know Sir that I have not deserved this.—As you have been pleased to Say in your letter that “I ought to have Commanded Some who were” (at the beginning) “placed in a heigher Rank than myself.”—I shall only Add that I would Lay down my life for America—but can never trifle with My delicate notions of Honor.—

You will please to excuse the liberty which I have taken in Joining your Name with that of my Friend Abraham Livingston in a General letter of Attorney for the disposal of the Captors part of all prizes that may be taken by the Ranger and that may Arrive in any part of America excepting only the States of New-Hampshire—Massachusetts Bay, Rhode Island and Connecticut.—Should you decline to Act in behalf of the Captors you will singularly Oblige me by Appointing such person or persons Within any or every of the Nine States not excepted as you think will do Justice and render Satisfaction to the Concerned—As you know that the Credit of the Service depends not only on dealing fairly with the Men Employed in it but on their belief that they are and will be fairly dealt with.

You will also be pleased to excuse the liberty I have taken by inserting the Esteemed Names of Robert Morris and Joseph Hewes in my own private Letter of Attorney and as Executors, in my Will—both of which will be herewith forwarded into the hands of M^r Morris with Duplicates for you.—

Major Frazer¹ goes with me as a Volunteer—he wishes to have an Employment in the Marine Service—and desires to assist me on any private Enterprize—he hath given a description so truly Elysian to a Small Estate on the Mattopony,² Virginia that I wish to become the Purchaser—he writes his friend Col^o. Braxton thro' the Hands of M^r Morris to whom I will transmitt the necessary Sum—I wish you could Satisfy yourself respecting the Situation and Properties of the Lands &^{ca} before the Purchase.

I Most Ardently Wish for the Command of some Spirited private Enterprize Whereby I may be enabled to prove that I have not merited the disgrace of being Superseded—

I will hope to hear frequently from you while in France to care of Tho^s. Morris Esq^r Agent Nantes—in the Meantime I am with Grateful Sentiments of perfect Esteem and regard Dear Sir Your very Obliged very Obedient most humble Serv^t

[Contemporary Abstract]

The purport of this Petition is to inform the Honble Council

That the Canadians onboard the Guard Ship are in a truely deplorable Situation, in the first place, (they say) that they are quite naked.

2^{ndly} That they are devoured by Vermin: without the Means of cleaning themselves from filth: and say they are stowed in the hold one upon another where they are almost frozen without the power of warming themselves.

In regard to Victuals, (they say) they suffer much & that many of them are ready to perish with hunger.

therefore they petition to be removed from the Ship, And to be put into some place where they may have a fire, (which they say is one half, of the necessaries of Life,) otherwise (say they) some of them are not long for this World.

They promise mutualy, that they will behave orderly, & keep in the Limits assigned them.

REAR ADMIRAL SIR PETER PARKER TO VICE ADMIRAL VISCOUNT HOWE

Extract of a Letter from the Rear Admiral Sir Peter Parker to the Viscount Howe, dated onboard the Chatham off Newport
30th October 1777.

“The 9th. Instant four Seamen made their Escape in a Boat from the Neighbourhood of Dartmouth, and reported that there were three Privateers of twelve Guns each and a Number of Ships and Vessels in that River, and also several Buildings full of Stores at Bedford and Fairhaven, and that the Rebels had marched a large Body of Militia to the Amount of many Hundreds, to join their Northern Army. These Circumstances, together with the Information that the four Seamen were excellent pilots for Buzzard’s Bay and Dartmouth River, and seeing also of what Consequence a Diversion might be at this Juncture, soon determined the Major General Pigot and myself to make a Descent on and attack those places. The Chatham’s Tender was immediately dispatched for the Syren: she arrived the 13th. and Captain Furneaux had Orders to prepare for the Expedition, and take under his Command the King’sfisher, Alarm Galley, the Chatham’s Tender¹ and another Ten-Gun Schooner (which was manned for the purpose by the Chatham) and Six Transports, onboard of which were to be embarked six hundred and twenty Seven Troops under the Command of Lieutenant Colonel Marsh² of the 43^d. Regiment. The 16th. the Troops were embarked, and the Fleet would have sailed that Night, had the Wind permitted. The following Morning I received a Letter from General Pigot, a Copy of which is herewith enclosed,³ and also a Copy of another Letter dated the 19th. of October at 10 O’Clock at Night.⁴ In consequence of the Information in the Letter of the 17th. and some Observations made from this Island the Troops were debarked in the Evening. The 19th. Instant, the Wind being SW, I complied with the General’s Requisition in his Letter of that Date, and sent for the Hessians from Conanicut, and landed them and the Marines of the Chatham and Syren at Newport.

“It being the universal Opinion, that the Rebels would not have been at the Expence and Trouble of collecting from the four Provinces of New-England near Forty Field-pieces, a great Quantity of Stores, and Ten thousand Men (which is the [east] Number any of our Informants make them). I sent the Unicorn the 20th. Instant (being just arrived) round to the Seakennet passage,⁵ together with the Syren, . . . Alarm Galley and Chatham’s Tender.

“Two prisoners who were taken from the Seakennet Shore by Captain Ford,⁶ confirm the other Accounts, both as to the Number of Boats and Men.

“We believe there may be about three hundred Boats, and six or seven thousand Men; a lesser Number we do not think would meditate an Attack on this Island. We are so well prepared, that we imagine the Rebels will soon disperse; which, tho’ a great Disgrace to them, will be a Mortification to the King’s Troops, who most ardently wish for their attempting a Descent on Rhode-Island.”

DIARY OF CAPTAIN FREDERICK MACKENZIE

[Extract]

[Rhode Island] 30th Oct^r Last night was perfectly still and altho there was some rain, it was a favorable night for the Rebels to make their long intended attack.

A Deserter came in this morning in a small boat from Howland's ferry. The information he gives is, that we were certainly to have been attacked the night of the 19th. That 11,000 men were actually assembled that night for the purpose, and that three separate attacks were to have been made; one by Howlands ferry of 3,000 men; another below Fogland, for which 7,000 men were prepared; and the third of 1,000 men, who were to come from Seconnet point,¹ and land as near the town as possible. That the attack at Howland's was to commence three hours before the others, in order to draw our attention and force that way. That their artillery, consisting of Eighteen 3 and 4 prs (4 of which were brass) were embarked in Scows with the Artillery Companies, and were to have been towed over with the different attacks. That the people assembled with the greatest readiness, and had the most Sanguine hopes of success, as our deserters had all along informed them that we had not above 2,500 men on the Island. That the attempt was laid aside for that night in consequence of our having discovered their boats in motion, and the wind being rather too high and unfavorable. That they were assembled again the night of the 23rd, and were to have made one grand attack at Howland's Neck, (all the boats having been previously brought back to Quaket pond²) but Gen' Spencer finding he could not muster above 4,000 men, and a deserter who went over to them that day having informed him that our strength was much greater than they imagined, and that we were well prepared for an attack at Howland's, thought that number insufficient, and therefore gave over the design and dismissed them. That some of them were again assembled the night of the 25th, but as great numbers of the Militia had by that time left the Army and gone to their respective homes, they found their strength quite unequal to the Enterprize, and they were again dismissed. He says they have now given up the intention of making any attack upon us, and that part of the troops returned home four days ago. The Boston Artillery, consisting of two Companies, with four Brass 4 prs, marched yesterday. Others are going this day, and that only 1,000 men are to remain to guard the Coast from Howland's ferry to Seconnet point. He says, that during the time they have been assembled they have suffered greatly from the weather, and want of many articles: numbers of them having been under the necessity of lying out under the Walls and hedges, as the houses and barns were not capable of containing them. That they are in general badly clothed, every article of that nature being extremely scarce and dear. Shoes cost 6 Dollars a pair. Worsted Stockings 4 Dollars, and other articles in proportion. They have not had any Rum given them since they have been assembled. Some people who had Rum there sold it at 3s/ a Gill. . . .

Soon after day light this morning, we saw a number of boats full of men put off from Howland's ferry. They rowed round the N. point of the Island, crossed Mount Hope bay, and went towards Kikemuit River. In the course of the day above 60 boats of different sizes, and several small Sloops, all full of men, went up that way. Many covered Carts were also seen going up the Boston road, each of them escorted by 8 or 10 men. It is now evident that the Rebels have given up their intention of attacking this Island, and that their troops are dispersing and returning to their respective homes. . . .

CAPTAIN WILLIAM CORNWALLIS, R.N., TO VICE ADMIRAL VISCOUNT HOWE

My Lord

Isis off Billingsport
30th. Oct^r. 1777

Captⁿ. Owen has been on shore with the Engineer to examine the state of Billingsport & finds it still full of Water, he is getting his Arms & accoutrements which were much damaged by the rain in Order again & proposes to reland the Troops to morrow morning¹—every thing was taken off but the Cannon which were dismounted & brought down to the beach, the Elk sloop was placed in shore close to them with a party of Marines on board, from whence Centinels were posted on Shore & regularly relieved every two hours; we could not get them off during the bad weather & I was in hopes they would have been able to reland to day, I have been thus particular as your Lordship seemed under some apprehension for the Cannon but I should think from the Possition the ships are now in that a rebel would not venture to shew his head at Billingsport I have the honor to be [&c.]

PENNSYLVANIA STATE NAVY BOARD TO THOMAS WHARTON, JR.

Sir

We apprehend your Excellency has a full acco^t of the last Engagement, at Red Bank, and the destruction of the Augusta and Merlin. The Commodore¹ was on board [one] of the Wrecks,² two days after the Engagement, and took out two Twenty four pounders, and the People got a great many jackets, & Breeches, and other Plunder: & proposed soon after to go down again, to get the rest of the Guns &c, but for four days past we have had nothing but a Constant storm of Rain & Winds, in which we were in continual apprehension, of loosing our Galleys, and Guard boats. The Galleys are all safe, some of the Guard Boats are sunk, and the people on board the Gallies &c, have been so Wet and cold that many are falling down with Sickness. The Commodore does all he can, in every respect, yet we fear some of the Continental Captains,³ as well as some in the Forts,⁴ are Writing under hand to General Washington, infusing a Notion in his head, as tho the Commodore is endeavouring to make a Difference and will not give a proper assistance. The Cry from the Fort, is continually our whole dependance, is on the Fleet; we cannot defend ourselves, and indeed should the Commodore leave them it would soon be over with them. Thus they are constantly expecting the Commodore shall defend the River and at the same time defend and protect Fort Mifflin. The Commodore we are sure will do all in his power to defend every place and give all the assistance in his power to every place.—Your Excellency in your Letter recommends that some of the Navy Board should be constantly together be assured it shall be done. Cap^t Blewer W. Bradford & Paul Cox have been very constant together unless one dispatched at a Time on Necessary Business for the fleet, which must be attended to. M^r Crispin has never been down till a few days, which has thrown the Commissary on us, and Cap^t Blewer has acted as such ever since he has been here; but hope Crispin will now lend his hand.

Our Pay Master⁵ never came near us, we are at a loss for one, if your Excellency should think proper, we would recommend W^m. C. Bradford, who is now here for that office. Deserters from the fleet Yeasterday we learn that the Augusta had 150 kill'd and drown'd when she was destroy'd. The Roebuck had 6 kill'd and 10 Wounded; and they say that another General Attack is soon intended by Land & Water. The late bad weather has compleatly fill'd the Meadows with Water yet the Enemy hold their Forts. In Fort Mifflin our People have foolishly cut thro the banks and the Whole Island is now under Water; in short if they do not stop it again I fear the Consequence, as the People must get sick if not obliged to abandon it. The Enemy have landed a number of Men at Billingsport and are erecting a Battery above that place to defend their Wrecks that we may get nothing out of them

The Nine Thousand Dollars we received by M^r. Jacob S. Howell which shall be expended with all care. The Cattle we have been obliged to purchase has carried our Cash fast as we supply the whole of ours & the Continental Fleet with Fresh Provisions, endeavouring to keep the Salt for the Garrison, or ourselves, if we should be so situated as not to be able to get fresh. We think we shall want about £6000 by the 10th. of next Month By order of the Board I have the Honour to be [&c.]

CAPTAIN JOHN PAUL JONES TO THE CONTINENTAL NAVY BOARD OF THE EASTERN DEPARTMENT

Ranger Portsmouth 31st Oct^r 1777.

You will receive herewith—an exact Inventory of the Ranger together with a Muster Book ¹—both of which I have taken the greatest pains to have Returned very exact.—When I tell you that with all my own and my Officers pains and Application I have not been able to get a Single Suit of Sails Ready for the Ranger before the 20th. Current—as you know the winds and Weather have rendered it impossible to Sail Since that time—you will not be Surprised at receiving a letter from my hand in port at this day.—Many things are now Wanting in the Ship as will Appear by the inventory—I have but 30 Gall^s. Rum as sea Stores for my whole Crew.—You will see by the Muster Book that the departure hath not been impeded by want of Men—She might and would have been at Sea full Six Weeks if not two Months Ago had not Materials been wanting Should any letters Appear for me pray forward them to Europe—the bearer Major Gardner ² my Atto^r will have the honor to present this with my Accounts which I hope you will find fairly and properly Stated—a draft on the Treasury for the Ballance Payable to the Hon^{ble}. Rob^t. Morris would suite my purpose—I must refer You to Major Gardner for further particulars and I am [&c.]

CAPTAIN JOHN PAUL JONES TO JOHN BROWN

My dear Sir

A more early reply was due to your esteemed favor of 6th. Aug^t.—but my departure hath been protracted so far beyond my expectation for want of Canvis and Materials that I have been half distracted, and have deferred Writing as I had it not in my power to say Any thing to the purpose.—the outfit of this small Ship (for I found no difficulty in Manning her) hath given me more trouble and cost me more Anxiety and Uneasiness than All the other duty which I have performed in the Service.—instead of meeting with the necessary Assistance from the Agent,¹ he thinks himself my Master—And he, who was bred in a Shop and hath been but a Voyage or two at Sea Under a Nurse, had once the Assurance to tell me that he knew as well as myself how to fit out, Govern and Feight a Ship of War!—

I am this day going to Sea with less than Thirty Gall^s. of Rum for the Use of the whole Crew—And yet this Article is to be purchased here.—had I not the best disposed Crew in the World this Alone were enough to cause a Mutiny.—I will Mention Another Article which tho' a trifle, is heighly necessary and yet all My Arguments could not prevail with this great man to procure it—I mean a Boatswains Call.—You May guess the rest. I have not been particular in Mentioning these and Many Other Matters to the Committee as I wish if possible to Avoid dispute.

I will with much pleasure write to you from France—and in return will expect the News of the Day and any information you can give me respecting the Navy or any thing that concerns me.—I have received neither Pay nor Rations since my first embarkation in the Service the 7th. day of Dec^r 1775—and I Superseded by Thirteen persons who durst not or at least did not then Step forth.—All publications and resolves respecting the Navy will be heighly Acceptable—together with the Journal of Congress from the beginning—I am [&c.]

GEORGE WASHINGTON TO
BRIGADIER GENERAL JAMES M. VARNUM

Sir Head Quarters [Whitpain, Pa.] 31st October 1777.

The Loss of our heavy Cannon on the North River,¹ and the possibility however remote of our losing those which are in the Forts on the Delaware, in which case we should be totally divested of these necessary opponents to the Enemys Fleet, make it adviseable to remove from Red bank and Fort Mifflin all the large Calibers that can possibly be spared from the necessary defence of those posts—to some Place of Safety where they may be kept in Reserve—Fort Mifflin has had an acquisition of Cannon, taken from the Wreck of the Augusta—by which this will probably have a superfluous number—The Approaching Frosts will effectually stop the Blasts of our Furnaces which is a farther cogent Reason for making a Store of heavy Cannon in case of accidents to our Forts—I mentioned in my Letter to Gen^l Forman² that the Crews on board the Galleys should not expose themselves to the Fire of a Battery which he thinks the Enemy have raised for the purpose of interrupting them—but if a Plan which I have suggested to him can be carried into execution—the difficulty will be removed and a farther acquisition made of the valuable Article in question I am—

P.S. It will be necessary to consult the Commodore, upon the Subject above mentioned, he will judge of the safety with which the Galleys may proceed in dragging for the Cannon.³

DIARY OF CAPTAIN FRANCIS DOWNMAN

October 31st, 1777—We are now making two floating batteries up the Schuylkill intending to act against the fort. This should have been done a month ago, but as in everything else we act like snails. We have no spunk; neither life nor spirits appears in anything we do. By our delays and trifling attempts we point out to the rebels where their works are deficient and give them time to complete them.

CAPTAIN HENRY LEE TO

GEORGE WASHINGTON

Sir

I wrote your Excellency yesterday,¹ since which I have been active in acquainting myself with the disposition & connexion of the enemy on this side the schuylkill.

They have a body of men, (not five hundred in number) on Carpenters island; the possession of this post secures a constant & ready supply of provisions. It is brought up by water, from the fleet off Chester, repositied under cover of the ships against the chiveaux de frise, & then conducted thro' Carpenters island to the new lower ferry; & so on to Philad^a. If this communication is not interrupted, supplies of provision will be as abundant, as if the fleet lay off the wharfs of the city.

There is a beef trade carried on between the inhabitants, & the enemy at a place called Grubs landing, about six miles below Chester. This illicit correspondence came to my knowledge but yesterday. I have detached a party of dragoons to disturb them; & make no doubt my endeavours to interrupt this connexion, will be effectual. I have the honor to be [&c.]

N B—At present, the communication between the fleet & Carpenters island is totally cut off by the inundation of the schuylkill. The fleet are engaged daily in bringing up provision to the mouth of Darby creek, which will be conveyed to Carpenters island as soon as the roads will admit—

DEPOSITION OF THOMAS DOYLE, MARYLAND STATE NAVY SCHOONER DOLPHIN

The Deposition of Thomas Doyle late a Mariner of the Schooner Dolphin belonging to the State of Maryland and lately commanded by Captⁿ William Patterson taken before me one of the Justices of the Peace for Ann Arundell County. The said Thomas Doyle being duly sworn on the Holy Evangells of Almighty God deposeth and saith That some time in November Seventeen hundred and seventy six the schooner Dolphin then being at Martinique Sailed from thence in pursuit of the Schooner Grace which he understood was lawfull prize, and which had sailed from the same place a few Hours before. That the Chace continued about seven or eight Hours before the Grace hove to, and when she Hove to some Hands were sent by Capt Patterson on board of her to request that the Captⁿ would come on Board of the Dolphin and bring his papers. When the Captⁿ of the Grace (Captⁿ Dickenson) came on board with one of the owners, and He was asked by Captain Patterson for his papers upon which he produced a small paper which this Depon^t understood was a Clearance from Martinique and of the same kind with that which Captⁿ ~~Dickenson~~ Patterson had himself obtained, and which he Capt Dickenson said was the only paper or protection he had. That he this Depon^t did not hear Capt Dickenson or any other person say that the Grace was a flagg of Truce, But that he heard Captⁿ Dickenson say that he had a half part of the Grace, that She was Bermudian property, and that if Captain Patterson took her He would injure a Friend, but He did not as this Depon^t saw or understood produce any paper or Evidence to prove that she was a flagg,¹ or that he had any share in her or that she was Bermudian property. This Deponant further saith that he never heard it supposed or pretended that the Grace was a Flagg until in March last after Captⁿ Patterson was arrested, he was informed at Annapolis of it. on the contrary he heard the Mate of the Grace say after she was taken that he expected she would be taken before they could get to Dominique And that the Grace when taken was he thinks nearer to Dominique than Martinique. And further saith not.

DS, MdAA, Maryland Archives, Executive Papers, 6636-8-141E. Five more depositions were taken the same day from former members of the crew of the Dolphin. They were Edward Markland, lieutenant; Richard Coward, master; Stanley Robinson, mate; Joseph Allington, carpenter, and John Tripp, mariner. Their testimony confirmed that of Doyle's. Ibid.

1. Richard Coward deposed in addition: "That the Schooner Grace when at Anchor at Martinique had a White flag upon her shrouds, but he did not know or understand or hear any body conjecture for what reason. . . . That he never Heard the Captain of the Grace say he was a flag of Truce or assign any reason why he thought she ought not to be taken as a prize except that in conversation he heard the Captain of the Grace say Capt Patterson was injuring his friends which this Dep^t looked upon as a piece of Policy." Edward Markland confirmed that there was a white flag in the shrouds at Martinique, and added, "he did not know why it was placed there, nor did he hear Capt. Patterson assign or conjecture any reason for that circumstance." Ibid.

Sir,

I have the Honour of your Excellency's Favor of the 14th of October by M^r Gardiner; my Thanks are due to your Excellency which I beg you will accept for the ready and ample Justice, as far as then was in your Excellency's Power you did to him: I am exceedingly sorry at finding myself again under a Necessity of troubling your Excellency with another Complaint which has this day been laid before me by Captain Gordon who was taken and carried into Port Louis Grande Terre by a Sloop commanded by one Plangue a Subject of his Most Christian Majesty's, and mann'd by French Men, Negroes and Mulattoes; I am happy to find the Commandant at Port Louis put two Soldiers on Board of Captⁿ. Gordon's Brigantine ¹ which I presume he did to preserve her for her Owners in Pursuance of your Excellency's Orders, a Copy of which M^r Gardiner shew'd me.

It will give me infinite Pleasure having this Vessel and Cargo deliver'd to M^r Gordon: Nothing can cement a stronger Friendship between us and our Governments than immediate and ample Redress to Complaints or be more acceptable Intelligence to our Sovereigns: I have already communicated to my Master the Justice your Excellency did M^r Gardiner; I shall be happy by the next Opportunity to add a similar to M^r Gordon: As Soldiers were put on Board I make no doubt of her being securely preserv'd. Sir Head Quarters [Whitpain, Pa.] 1st: Novem^r: 1777.

. . . I am afraid that matters do not go on smoothly between the Commandant¹ at Fort Mifflin and the Commodore,² as there are every now and then complaints of inattention in the Commodore, but I do not know whether with just Grounds. I beg you will do all in your power to reconcile any differences that may have arisen, not by taking notice of them in a direct manner, but by recommending unanimity and demonstrating the manifest advantages of it. As the Commodore will have a considerable reinforcement after you arrive, I hope he will be able to afford more assistance than he has hitherto done. . . .

VICE ADMIRAL VISCOUNT HOWE TO CAPTAIN WILLIAM CORNWALLIS, R.N.

Dear Sir

Eagle [Off Chester] Nov^r. 1st. 1777—

Your laudable Ardor will soon I hope have a more ample field, for the display of its urgency, than the late movement of the Gallies & floating Battery's will yet afford—

I do not conjecture for what reason they have changed their Possitions unless to be in readiness for any design they suspect is carrying on against fort Island—

A multitude of untoward incidents have lately intervned to retard our preparations for the next measure proposed—In the meantime I wish every such Idea to be untalked of and am asured of your discretion upon the Point—

Having explained myself so far I must leave you at liberty to divert the Enemy's attention as Circumstances may require, but I do not forsee that any advantage will be derived by drawing their fire upon the Ships if that is your view, And whilst it can be so conveniently done, think it should be avoided—

It may be eligible to drop a buoy or two the preceeding night, to direct the placing of the Ships, when their service is required against fort Island, and for engaging the attention of the force at red bank: And for the same reason we should give as little suspicion as possible, that we then propose advancing the boats for such purpose; & not prematurely send them forward in any way that may put the Enemy more upon their Guard. I am [&c.]

"EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM A MASTER OF A SHIP IN THE BAY OF HONDURAS TO HIS OWNER IN LONDON, DATED NOV. 1, 1777."

"Since the Washington American Privateer appeared off here, and plundered the Settlement as well as carried off the Shipping, the Settlers are afraid of every Vessel they see making for the Land, imagining it is another American Privateer come to pay them a second visit, and should they come they may play the same Game over again, as they have no Defence, Fortifications not being allowed by the Spaniards when the Grant was made of a Settlement. Notice is gone up to Admiral Gayton at Jamaica,¹ hoping that he will send down some Ship of War to protect the People from the American Depredations; at present the Trade is rather at a Stand, from a Fear of their Insecurity. I can assure you if they are again molested they will certainly break up the Settlement, the Loss of which I need not inform you of, or what the English will suffer by it.”

“EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM CAPT. COOK, COMMANDER OF THE BLACK PRINCE, FROM SENEGAL TO DOMINICA WITH 215 SLAVES, LATELY TAKEN BY AN AMERICAN PRIVATEER, TO HIS OWNERS”

[Roseau, Dominica, 1 Nov. 1777]

“You will not be surprized at the French Governor's admitting the English Prizes into Martinico, and refusing them when legally demanded, when I inform you, that on the 4th of October the Black Prince being carried there, the Governor sent on board for 12 Slaves, which were immediately delivered; the Commandant sent for two Slaves, which were delivered. The next Day the Captain of the Frigate that conveyed the Privateer out of Martinico, sent his Boat for eight Slaves, which were delivered. The Agent of the Privateer seemed dissatisfied at their taking so many, and I asked him the Reason, he told me it was customary to give them some, and that he should not be paid for any of them. The Agent for the Privateer, who left Dominica a few Months ago, formerly lived in Boston.¹

“The Port Royal, a Snow, is fitting out at Martinico, with 16 Guns, for America, with Artillery Stores; the Rattlesnake is made into a Ship, and mounts 18 nine Pounders, all Brass. The Embargo is not taken off the Ships at Martinico.”

Daily Advertiser (London), 2 Jan. 1778.

1. The South Carolina and American General Gazette of 8 Jan. and the North Carolina Gazette of 9 Jan. 1778, under the dateline “Roseau, Dominica Nov. 1,” printed a paraphrase of this letter, identifying the agent as “Hutchinson, a principal owner of the privateer.”

CONTINENTAL NAVY BOARD OF THE MIDDLE DEPARTMENT TO CAPTAIN JOHN BARRY

To John Barry Esq^r Commander on Board the Frigate Effingham

Sir.

As we understand your Ship is now scutled & ready for sinking, you are hereby directed to remove her a little below White Hill, and having found a suitable Birth where she may lye on a soft Bottom and be easily got off at a common Tide, you are to sink her there without further Delay. We expect this Business will be compleated by Sun-Set this Evening, and Report thereof made to this Board.

GEORGE WASHINGTON TO COMMODORE JOHN HAZELWOOD

Sir

Whitpin—Morris's—2^d November 1777.

Upon maturely considering the nature of the Fortress on Mud Island incomplete in such works as would secure it against Storm, and investigating what mode of defence is best adapted to its deficiency in this respect—it appears absolutely necessary to keep the Enemy at bay as much as possible and confine them to distant Combat—this can only be effected by the cooperation of the Fleet under your command or such part of it as may appear to you proper to be detached for the purpose—Nothing but the Fire of your Vessels and Galleys can prevent the Enemy's making a descent upon the Island, if they are determined to effect it by such a Sacrifice as the importance of the object to them certainly deserves—I would advise therefore in case of the Enemy's attempting to throw a number of men over in boats, not to suffer the attention of the Fleet to be intirely call'd off by any concerted attempt which may be made on the Chevaux de frise at the same time—but to order a sufficient number of Galleys to meet their boats and keep up a well directed fire, or board them as Circumstances may require—in a word every measure should be taken which your Skill in naval manœuvres can dictate to prevent them from getting footing on the Island. a fire of Red-hot balls thrown with Judgement from a few Vessels, and the solidity of the work itself will be a sufficient Security in the mean time to the Chevaux de frise—if the Enemy can be foiled in this Stratagem of causing a diversion to your fleet, by cannonading from their Ships, and making preparations to clear the Chevaux de frise—there will be but one way left them which is to attempt a Landing by night how necessary the Guardianship of the Galleys will be in such case, must be obvious—If a sudden Assault from superior numbers, taking the advantage of weak parts, would be dreadful by day, when someth^s of the Enemy's designs is to be discover'd—how fatal might it be in the confusion of darkness when the Guns of the Fort could not be brought to bear

Galleys stationed between the Fort and province Island at night are the only Security which the Garrison could have in such case against a sudden descent from the Enemy, cover'd perhaps by false Attacks and Demonstration from the Shipping—

You are the best Judge of the most proper Situation for the Galleys—however if there is no cogent Reason for keeping the whole of them on the Jersey Side, it appears to me that station^s them or part of them where they will be within distance for giving immediate Support to the Garrison on Mud Island would be turning their Service to the best account—I am [&c.]

CAPTAIN HYDE PARKER, JR., TO VICE ADMIRAL VISCOUNT HOWE

Copy.

My Lord,

I was honor'd with your Lordship's Letter of the 13th: of October by the Richmond, which Ship with the two Transports under Convoy arrived here on the 25th:. The Victualling Transport having onboard a much greater Quantity of Provisions than the Ships could conveniently stow, I ordered them to complete to four Months. The Quantity of Water was not near equal to the Report of the Master, having reported upon his Arrival One hundred and thirty five Butts: instead of that Number we have only received one hundred and three; and these from their not being full, have yielded no more than Forty three Tons of Water. I think it highly necessary your Lordship should be acquainted with this Circumstance, imagining your Intention was, that we should have been supplied with a much larger Quantity; and unless a Supply of that necessary is immediately sent, we shall be obliged to have Recourse to the River Potowmack. This will be attended with the Inconvenience of leaving the Entrance of Chesapeake Bay open, particularly James River, where a great Number of Vessels are loaded with Tobacco, and only wait such an Opportunity of sailing.

Many Letters have passed between me, the Governor and the Commanding officer of the Enemy's Troops in this Province, upon the Exchange of prisoners, but as there is no new Matter, I forbear troubling your Lordship with the Copies, excepting the enclosed Affidavit which they made a pretence for confining Lieutenant Moriarty and the petty Officers in a common Jail.¹ A Lieutenant of the Continental Brig Andrew Doria whom Captain Elphinstone had permitted to his Parole at Charles Town,² came to me to be exchanged which I consented to, in lieu of Lieutenant Moriarty [of] the Solebay, whom I have ordered onboard the Senegal for his passage.

On the 12th: of October Captain Molloy reported [to] me the Death of Lieutenant Thane of the Senegal at the same Time requesting me to appoint another officer, without which the Sloop would be distressed as both the Master and Gunner were infirm Men. This Request I complied with, by the appointment of M^r Thomas Robinson, one of the Mates of the Phoenix, until your Lordships farther Order.

By Information I learn that the two Frigates at Baltimore³ are ready for Sea, as is a Ship with 7[illeg.] Hogsheads of Tobacco; their Destination unknown. some imagine the Frigates are taking in powder and other military Stores to carry to the Head of the River Potowmack; others say they have Tobacco [and] a large Sum in Specie onboard, and are designed [for] France.⁴ I have great Reason to believe that the smallest Ship of the two Frigates is at present in Saint Mary's Bay in the Mouth of the Potowmack. The Richmond and Otter are under Orders to embrace [the] first Opportunity of wind to push up the Bay in the Night, in hopes of surprising her in that Bay. Failing in that Service, they are to collect as much fresh provisions as possible from the Tangier and adjacent Islands. This Refreshment we begin to feel the want of in a very great Degree: the Scurvy making a great Progress onboard the Squadron, particularly so in the Phoenix.

Captain Caldwell having been drove from his anchor, went to Sea on the 20th of October; on the 22^d. took a Brig loaded with Tobacco that had escaped in the Night. This I believe your Lordship will believe is not to be avoided in dark, blowing Nights.

The Senegal being in want of an Anchor and three Cables, besides other Stores, I have ordered Captain Molloy to proceed up the Delaware as high as Wilmington, as well to complete his Water, as the Convenience of receiving his Stores.

I have the Honor to enclose to your Lordship the State and condition of the different Ships; as also Demands of Stores, and a Copy of a Letter from Captain Elphinstone requesting a Survey upon a Man that had been sent from the Hospital, with the Report of that Survey; As also a list of people exchanged as prisoners, and others for protection.

I cannot close this Letter without acquainting your Lordship, that the want of Slops is much complained of by the different Ship's Companies. I have the Honor to be [&ca.]

THE NEW-YORK GAZETTE: AND THE WEEKLY MERCURY, MONDAY, NOVEMBER 3, 1777

New-York, November 3.

The following is the best Account we have been able to obtain of the Damage done the Rebels in the late Expedition up the North-River, between Fort Vaughan and Red Hook:

Oct. 15th. Three Sloops taken in attempting to escape from Fish-Kills, and two Pettyaugers destroyed: The House, Mills, Out-houses, and a Sloop belonging to Col. Francis Stoutenburgh, at Crum-Elbow, burnt. Two Sloops on the East Side burnt that Evening.

Oct. 16. Set fire to two Brigs and a Number of Sloops, in Esopus Creek,¹ burnt the Houses at the Landing,² the Town of Kingston, consisting of between 200 and 300 Houses, not one of which, except Mr. Lefferts's, escaped the Flames.

Oct. 17. The House, Storehouse, Barn, &c. of Mr. Petrus Ten Broeck, a Rebel General; the House, Barn, and Out-houses of Robert Gilbert Livingston, jun. Esq; and a House and Mill belonging to Robert Livingston, Esq; on the East Side of the River, burnt.

Oct. 18. Another House belonging to Robert Livingston, Esq; one to Mr. John Livingston, with three others, destroyed in like Manner.

Oct. 22. Two Houses, one the Property of Mr. Smith, on the East Side, a Sloop and Barn, likewise two Houses, with their Appendages, on the West Side, were burnt; and on the 23d. A Sloop was burnt on the Stocks.

In the Town of Kingston, a large Quantity of Powder, and a large Number of Fire Arms, together with many valuable Stores, were destroyed.

Saturday Sen'night the Bridge laid over the Clove,³ between the Forts Montgomery and Clinton, was destroyed; and the Troops, after demolishing the latter, embarked on board the Transports, and arrived here the next Evening.

The Hotham Tender, commanded by Captain Christopher Hele,⁴ being stationed near Pollepel's Island, whilst the Fleet were up the North-River, to prevent the Rebels sinking a Number of Chevaux de Frize, prepared to obstruct their return, on the 19th Instant, observed two large Boats, full of armed Men, coming off with an Intention to surprise the Vessel. In order to give these Gentry a warm Salutation, he masked the Guns, and made the Vessel appear in a defenceless Situation till within his Reach, when on a sudden discovering his Guns, gave the Contents with such Success, as made it difficult for them to reach the Shore.

Early in the Morning of the 24th, Capt. Hele, sent his Boats Crew on Shore, a little below Tarry-Town, and destroyed two Pettyaugers, which rowed ten Oars each, and a Boat of a smaller Size.

Another more accurate Account from Esopus informs us, That on the Landing of General Vaughan, with the Troops under his Command, the Rebels, without the least Prospect of Advantage, to themselves, fired upon them from a Breastwork just thrown up, and which they did not stay to defend. This, joined to an insolent and provoking Behaviour, occasioned the Army to march up and set fire to the Town, which was presently entirely consumed. There were destroyed Three Hundred and Twenty-six Houses, with a Barn to almost every one of them, filled with Flour, besides Grain of all Kinds, and much valuable Furniture and Effects, which the Royal Army disdained to take with them.—Twelve Thousand Barrels of Flour were burnt, and they took at the Town four Pieces of Cannon, with ten more upon the River, 1150 Stands of Arms, with a large Quantity of Powder, were blown up. The whole Service was effected, and the Troops re-embarked in three Hours.

[Carpenters Island, Pa.]

November 3rd.—I rode down to Province Island;¹ things seem to be preparing for a little fun. Our ships are nearer the chevaux-de-frise than usual. Two floating batteries for 32-prs. are in forwardness, and fascines and planks are ready for the batteries. The rebel shipping moved a little lower down towards Red Bank to-day. For two days past we had suspected that the Enemies Vessels made different turns in the course of the night to the Augustas wreck—either to carry off the Cannon which the Galleys had neglected throwing into the water, or taking possession of—or to tow off the Hulk—but they had a more important object which they have been permitted to execute without interruption—and this mornings daylight discover'd to us their two nights labour—they are raising a battery of heavy Cannon upon the hulk which is aground on the Sand bank, the Galleys do not disturb them in their work.—which, if they finish it, will do great injury to our Fort—where you know there is no Shelter for the Troops—it is important to drive them from that particular Spot of the River, and thirteen Galleys with two floating Batteries may do it if they please. . . . their passage otherwise than by the noise of oars, and firing at Sounds would be wasting pretious Amunition—

CAPTAIN HENRY LEE TO GEORGE WASHINGTON

Sir

[Near Grubb's Landing, Del.] N^o. 3^d. 77—

I mentioned to your Excell^y in my last let^r,¹ an intercourse subsisting between the inhabitants & fleet near Grub's landing.² Having received a confirmation of this intelligence, I pushed down with twelve dragoons & reached the place early yesterday morning. At Robinsons mill on Namur [Naaman's] Creek I fell in with a foraging party; on the appearance of my dragoons the enemy ran without giving one fire. A Captain of the Queens rangers, a factor from Baltimore County & seven mariners & soldiers were made prisoners. The Captain I indulged with his parole, till the 10 inst^t, on or before which day, he will wait on your Excellency to be farther disposed off. The transports have all moved up from New-castle to Chester. They are generally loaded with the wounded & baggage; so that their being ordered up, predicts another attempt on the fort, which they suppose will be effectual. Major Cuyler, Sir W^m. Howes first Aid de Camp sailed in a packet the day before yesterday for London, his business is to press Administration for strong & early reinforcements.

Among the mariners taken yesterday is a mate belonging to the Union transport, he informs, that Lord Howe had sent orders to the Captains of the transports to send up each, four or more of their seamen—What he can want with them is not certainly known. I conjecture, they are designed to man the floating batteries now building in the Schuylkill. It is a certainty from the intelligence received from various characters, that the enemy design shortly to make a push on fort Mifflin. Their only possible mode, by which they can promise themselves success, is their floating batteries. In this they may be totally blasted; if we take possession of Carpenters island. From this post thrwing up strong works, we most assuredly can put a stop to their favourite scheme, & what is of great consequence, co-operate with the gallies in preventing those supplies of provision which go up by water every night to Philad^a. Your Excell^y may rely on it, that thirty or more boats, with muffled oars, pass our fort & gallies every night to the city. The ships blown up the other day were the Augusta, & Merlin

Sloop of 18 guns. The Augusta took fire from her own cannonading, one Lt, Chaplain & forty privates perished in the explosion. The Merlin being fast on ground was set fire to, by order.

There is brisk trade carried on at New-castle. I have detached a party of dragoons to that place, with directions to visit the several landings on the river, to disperse the late resolutions of Congress among the inhabitants, & to assure the people, that they will be strictly carried into execution. I set out myself this moment with a design to burn some of the enemys small craft which lay at Grub's landing, under cover of an eight-gun Schooner³ Your Excellencys most Ob^t Serv^t

MARYLAND JOURNAL, TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 4, 1777

Baltimore, 3d November, 1777.

To the Printer of the Maryland Journal.

My Character having been most cruelly and maliciously aspersed in my Absence, by some of the principal Officers, as well as Part of the Crew, belonging to the Sturdy Beggar Privateer; I beg Leave, thro' the Channel of your useful Paper, to lay before the Public, the Sentiments of the Owners of the said Privateer, whose public Testimony, in my Favour, does me the highest Honour, and must free my Conduct of Censure from every unprejudiced Mind, so far as relates to the Transaction of any Part of the Business, in which I was concerned. As to my Want of Spirit, which I also understand I am accused of, it lays upon myself only to clear up that Point.

John M'Keel.

Captain John M'Keel.

Sir,

It was with much Concern, that we frequently heard the Tongue of Calumny busy in traducing your Character, as Commander of the Sturdy Beggar Privateer, during her late Cruize, and particularly with Respect to your Proceedings at Hispaniola.

It now gives us equal Pleasure to have an Opportunity (since we have examined your several Accounts) of contradicting those injurious Reports, and doing Justice to your Character, by declaring, in this public Manner, that your Conduct has been satisfactory to us; and that we believe you have acted with the utmost Justice, both to us as Owners, and to the Crew of the said Privateer. When we were first acquainted with the injurious Reports, propagated by many of the Crew, on their Return to this Place, we readily conceived their Prejudices arose from your Refusal to pay them the Whole of their Prize Money in Hispaniola, which, by the Articles, they were to be paid only at this Place: We are now confirmed in that Opinion.

That the Public may not conceive the Owners have done you Injustice, or prejudged the Matter by appointing another Captain to command the Vessel before we had received your Defence. We do declare, that our Reasons for doing it, was on Account of the Clamour raised against You, by the People who returned here, which rendered it impossible to procure another Crew to Man the Vessel, as were under a Necessity of sending a new Crew from this to Carolina. Of this Necessity we informed you, when Captain Campbell¹ was appointed, and you allowed the Propriety of it. We are [&c.]

Comte D'Arbaud's Orders Delivered to Mr. Gordon

In response to the representations that have been made to us, that the brigantine Rainbow, under Mr. Gordon's command and coming from Limerick, had been seized by an Anglo-American privateer and taken to the harbor of Port Louis, we have ordered Mr. Gilbert du Lion, or any other commander in the area of Guadeloupe or Marie-Galante, to give assistance to the bearer of this order so as to restore his ship and its cargo to him, and to have Plangue and Gilles, captain and lieutenant of the privateer, arrested and brought here under safe custody. Given at Basseterre, Guadeloupe, under the countersignature of our First Secretary, 3 November 1777. Signed C^{te}. D'arbaud.

I am instructing any officer holding a command in the Guadeloupe government to carry out and to conform with the utmost exactness to the order of which Mr. Gordon is the bearer, which has been given to him so as to support him in regaining possession of the ship he claims along with its cargo, if both are within the area under the control of the government that His Majesty has entrusted to me. Should a commander fail to carry out this order, he will be punished for disobedience.

CAPTAIN SKEFFINGTON LUTWIDGE, R.N., TO GOVERNOR SIR GUY CARLETON

Copy of a letter from Captain Skeffth. Lutwidge to his Excellency Sir Guy Carleton dated Carleton at Crown Point the 4th. November 1777

Sir

I have the honour to acquaint your Excellency that I arrived at Ticonderoga the 1st. Ins^t. and Yesterday afternoon sailed from thence with all the Vessels, the Inflexible, Thunderer, Maria, Carleton and Camel.

The Maria and Thunderer proceeded on towards S^t Johns, the former with Provisions and Sick, the latter with some Ordnance Stores and as many Sick as she cou'd contain—about 150 are on board, and it was thought necessary this Vessel should be appropriated for their reception, after taking in a Tier of Shott and Provisions.

The Camel, laden chiefly with Artillery Stores, and the Inflexible with provisions, remain here to take in some Brass Guns brought from Lake George to the Portage Yesterday, which I expect down in Batteaux this day the danger of the Vessels being stoped by a Northerly Wind and frozen up at this advanced season induced me to get them out as soon as possible, and I hope there will now be no danger of the whole Naval Armament being safely laid up at S^t Johns.

The Vessels lately sent with Provisions were directed to land their Cargoes at Point au Fer, but as their return in time is now impracticable I send a Tender with directions for all the Victuallers to take in Provisions from thence to S^t Johns, and to assist the unloading the large Vessels.

The Carleton is laden with a Variety of heavy stores and is also to receive more Sick Men from the Hospital.

The Lee has taken in Provisions sent hither in Batteaux, and will remain here for the Protection of the Troops on the Lake.

A detachment of 30 Seamen with Officers from the Naval department are left to assist the Embarkation of the Garrison, and to conduct the Tender and Gun Boats, which are to move with the Batteaux—I apprehend they will leave Ticonderoga on the 7th. or 8th. Ins^t.

Captain Graves is on board the Inflexible, and in much better health than cou'd be expected after the unfortunate circumstance of losing his left Arm—the Wound he received was from a drunken Soldier, and does not appear to have been intentional.

As Brigadier McClean writes to Your Excellency at this time from hence, I have only to add that I shall use every possible effort to Secure the Vessels before the Frost sets in, giving at the same time every assistance they can afford to the Troops intended to pass the Lake. I have the honour to be [&c.]

GEORGE WASHINGTON TO COMMODORE JOHN HAZELWOOD

Sir

Head Quarters Whitemarsh 4 Nov^r 1777

Gen^l Potter and Cap^t Lee, who are posted upon the West side of Schuylkill to interrupt the Enemy's communication across the Islands, both assure me that they undoubtedly pass by Night with Boats between province and Mud Island and into Schuylkill.¹ If this passage is not stopped in some measure, it is in vain to think of hindering them from getting supplies from their shipping as long as the River remains free of Ice. I will not undertake to point out to you the mode of doing this, but in my opinion the most probable is, to keep small Boats rowing guard between the south end of Mud Island and the pennsylvania shore, and a Galley or two under the north end of Mud Island, when the weather will permit. If the guard Boats make a signal, the Gallies may get ready to intercept the Convoy. The Enemy will not chuse to fire in the dark, because there will be a greater chance of damaging their own craft, than hurting our armed Vessels, as being greater in number. I beg you will immediately fall upon this or any other Scheme, which to you may seem more effectual to put a stop to this intercourse.

MAJOR JOHN CLARK, JR., TO GEORGE WASHINGTON

[Extract]

Sir

Goshen Nov^r 4th: 1777. 6 o Clock P.M.

... I am just returned from below Marcus Hook, & Chester, have carefully viewed every Ship of War & Transport in the River at these places, & can assure you there is not a Soldier to be seen on board of any of them—several worthy friends have carefully reconnoitred them with good Glasses, & agree with me in Opinion—the Fleet seem'd to be very busy to Day, knocking continually Night & Day on board—& I am well assured by the testimony of numbers on the Shore, they are caulking their Boats—

As soon as I dispatch'd the Express to your Excellency last Night, I embarked for Chichester Meeting House near the Hook, where I fell in with Captⁿ. Lee with a few Dragoons, & about 60 of Foot; among whom were a few Riflemen; we had reced information of a number of Shallops in the Enemy's employ lying at a place called Grub's landing a few Miles below Hook, Captⁿ Lee was ordered to dismantle the Mills along shore, he also communicated to me an intention of destroying those small Craft at the landing, & that he imagined 'twas also practicable to board a Tender¹ belonging to the Roebuck which lay near the Shore to cover the Shallops, she mounted 10 Guns; I was convinced of the practicability of the design—& we marched at 3 this morning & soon arrived near the place—Captⁿ Lee & myself rode down to the shore to reconnoitre their situation & found the Enemy had removed them down the River, except the Tender, no Boats to be got, we determined to have some sport, & soon caught a Tory Inhabitant whom we sent down near the Shore in Company with a few Riflemen & two or three Dragoons commanded by a Lieu^t of Captⁿ Lees, the Tory was obliged to hail the Tender, they knew his Voice & answered him, asked what he wanted, he told them some Company a shore had a little fresh Beef for them, they immediately turned out five of the Crew into a Boat, who landed & came up with their Arms. The Officer of the Dragoons demanded a surrender, but they refused with attempting to run, & made a little show of fighting, their Arms being badly charged did not go off, The Riflemen fired on them & three fell—The remaining two effected an escape under the fire of the Tender who blazed away without injuring any of the Men—I believe they won't attempt to come ashore for Provisions in that quarter in a hurry—we left a few to watch their motions to Day & to morrow, the Mills are dismantled, & we drove off some fat Cattle from the shore at Chester, which I believe were intended for the Enemy—If we cou'd but have got only two Boats, we shou'd have taken the Tender, she kept no watch on board. . . . I am

[York] Tuesday, November 4, 1777

Resolved, That Congress have an high sense of the merit of Commodore Hazlewood, the commander of the naval force in Delaware river, in the service of the commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and of the officers and men under his command, in their late gallant defence of their country against the British fleet, whereby two of their men of war were destroyed, and four others compelled to retire; and that an elegant sword be provided by the Marine Committee, and presented to Commodore Hazlewood. . . .

The Marine Committee reported, "that they have received a letter from the navy board at Bordentown, dated the 27 October last, informing them of orders given by General Washington to scuttle the frigates in the river Delaware,¹ in order to prevent their falling into the hands of the enemy, and that having taken the same into consideration, they are of opinion, that the frigates should be lightened as much as possible, and either run into some adjacent creek or hauled as high upon shore as may be without ballast, and a battery constructed with the guns of the Washington on the most convenient ground, to cover the frigates from the enemy; that the frigates should be charged properly with combustibles, and a careful watch employed under a vigilant officer to burn them rather than let them fall into the hands of the enemy; and lest this should fail, that a sufficient number of small craft should be sunk in the channel below the frigates, effectually to obstruct the enemy from moving them down the river, if they should happen to gain possession of them; and a battery constructed in the most convenient manner to cover the obstructions and prevent the enemy from removing them; that all the vessels, of whatever kind, should be run up as high above the batteries and obstructions aforesaid as possible, and the most effectual precautions taken immediately on the approach of the enemy;" Whereupon,

Ordered, That a copy of the said report be sent to General Washington for his approbation, and if he approve the same, that a detachment of troops be sent to assist in the construction and management of the batteries aforesaid.

THE GAZETTE OF THE STATE OF SOUTH-CAROLINA, TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 4, 1777

Charles-Town, Nov. 4.

Last Saturday sailed, on its return for St. Augustine, the cartel sloop Governor Tonym, commanded by John Mowbray, Esq; with a number of prisoners, in exchange for those he brought.¹ And it is not unlikely, that the same sloop may be on the coast again in a week, as a cruizer, together with Captain Mowbray's sloop Rebecca, and the Hinchinbrook brig of war. 'Tis to be hoped, we shall not suffer three such vessels to interrupt our trade.—Such prisoners as had fallen into the hands of Capt. Mowbray, universally speak well of that gentlemen and his treatment; but it is the very reverse with those who had been taken by Capt. Ellis in the Hinchinbrook.—This cartel left St. Augustine the 8th ult. when all the men of war that had for a long time cruized off this bar, were gone for New-York, on account of the difficulty of getting water; except the Daphne, which, with her tender, a Virginia boat, upwards of 50 feet long, was gone to convoy a three-decker, with a cargo for John Stuart, Esq; to Pensacola.—We have the following further intelligence from some of the released prisoners, viz. that near half the crews of the Brune and Daphne men of war, were Americans, compelled either by hard usage, confinement, or seduction, into the service: That Capt. Sir John Chinnery of the Daphne behaves in the character of a gentlemen to his prisoners: That the Hinchinbrook and Rebecca had lately been on a cruize, from St. John's River; but were soon obliged to return, on account of the Rebecca having lost her Bowsprit: That they will probably wait the return of the Governor Tonym, before they sail again. . . . That the nobleman taken in Capt. Minors's sloop from St. Eustatius, was the Count de Castleburg; and he was sent for England in the Springfield transport, Captain Armstrong: That the accounts we received from Capt. Duck, which were inserted in this gazette, of the 7th ult. of the ill treatment of Capt. Eng's, and the rest of the Americans, who were confined at the Look out, were not exaggerated; on the contrary, that they had been once so neglected, as to be five days without one mouthful of any kind of provision, during which period one man died; and that they attributed this inhuman usage to a Major Brown, who went to England in the Springfield: But that Captain Eng's, after having been nine weeks in this horrid confinement, had, thro' the interposition of some humane gentlemen, been sent for to St. Augustine, where he acknowledges he was used for three weeks, till the cartel sailed, in such a manner as he shall remember with gratitude.²

The privateer sloop Washington of this port, commanded by Capt. Hezekiah Anthony, returned last Thursday from a cruize; of which the Captain has favoured us with the following particulars, viz. On the 7th of September, in sight of Cape Antonio, fell in with the brig Pensacola, mounting 12 guns, and well manned, from London bound for Pensacola, with a very valuable cargo; engaged her from 7 o'clock in the morning till ten, struck several of her ports into one on her starboard side; but the Washington having her rigging all cut to pieces, mounting only 8 small guns, and having few men, was at last obliged to row off and leave her; and though her deck was covered with grape shot, not a man was hurt. On the 15th going into the Bay of Honduras, took a ship of upwards of 300 tons coming out; she proved to be the Spiers, of and for Glasgow, John Lamount master, laden with mahogany, logwood, and some rum. The same day in the bay, took two brigs at anchor, which had been deserted by the people; one called the Nancy, Captain Ferguson, laden with Mahogany; the other called the Anne, Lewis Lawes master, half loaded, both bound for London; rigged and brought them. Capt. Anthony thinks himself obliged to acknowledge, that the behaviour of the inhabitants of the Bay, to him, was such, as intitled them to security against all depredations.³ Sept. 22d. fell in with an armed snow called the Peggy, from London for the Bay, fired about a dozen shot at her, and carried away her main top gallant mast, but there being a heavy sea, and the snow sailing very fast, she got away. On the 7th ult. took the sloop Tom, Stanton Hazard, master, laden with Logwood, from the Bay bound for Bristol.⁴ On the 12th the Washington fell in with and took the General Howe, commanded by Captain Underwood, a sloop of six carriage and 6 swivel guns, from Jamaica bound for New-York, having on board 72 pipes of Medera wine, besides rum, sugar, and a considerable quantity of dry goods; she engaged the Washington near half an hour, and placed her shot so well, that Captain Anthony had his boatswain, William Wallace killed, and two men wounded, and received three shot in his mast, one between wind and water, many in his sails, and had his rigging most terribly shattered. The General Howe had come out under convoy of an armed ship called the Fame, also bound for New-York; which ship coming in sight soon after the sloop had struck, Capt. Anthony, after about seven hours possession was obliged to quit her; but he first hove her guns overboard, and withdrew his people. He dogged the sloop for seven days after, to the lat. 30, but she always kept too near the ship for him to recover her, and then he parted from her in a gale of wind. . . .

On saturday the Washington's prize ship Spiers, arrived off the bar. She had been retaken by the General Howe transport, which had also taken the sloop Sally, Tidde-man Carr master,⁵ of and from this port for St. Eustatius, and anchored off St. Augustine; but while the sloop went in, and the English prize master of the ship went on shore, the Washington's people that were left on board, thought proper to recover her, and conduct her for this harbour.

The French ship that appeared off this bar last Tuesday, did not come over till Saturday morning, when, after having been brought safe in, and coming up the channel, the wind blowing hard at North, she unfortunately got ashore upon Cummins's Island, where she is bulged. She is a ship of upwards of 400 tons, called Lilancour, commanded by Mons. Pierre Barriere, belonged to Bourdeaux, and came last from Cape-François, having on board 300 hogsheads of Melasses, 20 of sugar, 200 of Taffia, and about 50 barrels of coffee, a great part whereof, tis hoped, will be saved.

The brigantine of war Notre Dame, belonging to this State, commanded by Stephen Seymour, Esq; returned from a cruize last Sunday. On the 12th of October she took the brig John, Thomas Calannan master, from Mississippi, bound for London, laden with staves; and on the 18th, the schooner Jemmy & Sally, Rt. Sarjent master, likewise from Mississippi, laden with shingles, and bound for Jamaica.⁶

The Galatea, when she left this coast to return to New-York, took a large brig called the Fox, from Dartmouth for this port,⁷ and a ship from hence bound for France, supposed to be the Pliarne, Capt. Green, about 100 leagues off the land, and carried them in with her.⁸

Copy of Jean Pascaly's Declaration

Today, 4 November 1777, there appeared before us the major of militia of the Grand Cul de Sac, M. Jean Pascaly, who stated to us that he had left Martinique on the 17th of last month on a schooner bound for the French Quarter with expedition from Fort Royal going to the aforesaid place and then from there to Saint Martin, that the said ship had only its ballast. The declarant said he was the only passenger; that yesterday, the third of the current month beneath *Cahouane*¹ he met an English frigate that fired a number of shots at them, that having become becalmed, the said frigate sent two of its longboats after them; he then stated he got into one of the schooner's boats along with his servant and three other people and they reached the Batterie du Basvent still being pursued by the frigate's boats, that upon arriving ashore he abandoned his boat and escaped; from that point he reportedly saw the English sailors from the frigate's boats come ashore and climb up the said Batterie du Basvent. Having gone on to Sainte Rose, he gave us this statement. He also told us that he had seen the schooner seized, the one he had escaped from, and that it was commanded by Augustin Auressy. Done on the day and in the year mentioned above. Signed Jean Pascaly.

THOMAS SHAW TO GOVERNOR JONATHAN TRUMBULL

Sir,

Norwich Nov. 5th 1777.

In my last of y^e 23^d Ult^o. I acquainted your Excellency of my dispatching a Flag to N.Y. & the misfortune attending her¹ & that as soon as I should receive an Answer from N.Y. would let you know. Have had no return as yet. And also of my sending another to Newport who was unhappily detained at Stonington by Contrary Winds a long time which has made considerable expence;² in which went John Jenking Master of the Weymouth Packet, two Mates,³ Docter⁴ & 4 others: for which gave me in return Cap^t Palmers⁵ Officers & others to the Am^o. and also for four Prisoners, I some time since, let go on Parole, the condition of which was to send 4 Prisoners in their sted & was so happy to get Cap^t⁶ Lamphire & Mate &c. Why I came to send these people on parole, was that some time before my brother had sent a number of the Inhabitants of Newport taken in Wood Vessells at Long Island for Exchange, they was admitted to an exchange with much difficulty. And he rec^d an Answer from the Commiss^y of Prisoners there in these words. "I am directed by the Admiral S^r Peter Parker to acquaint you that he does not deem these People to be on the same footing as those who are taken in Arm'd, or Trading Vessells—and that he will not receive any Americans who may have been taken in Boats, or Vessell along shore, in exchange for Seamen."—Cap^t Robinson of this Flag did & said all in his power to get poor Palmer exchanged for Jinking. I also wrote the Commiss^y that these Prisoners where for the purpose of being Exchanged for Cap^t Rob^t Palmer & Crew, their friends having taken incredible pains & been at great expence in procuring these prisoners. And also acquainted him that I had taken his M^r Jinking Parole that in case he was not admitted in Exchange for Cap^t Palmer, that he must return by this Cartel. Notwithstanding this, M^r Jinking when he arrived at Newport, without the least concern forfeits his Parole & goes off to N York. Robinson remonstrates against this conduct, and receives for answer. How can I help it. When the Admiral orders me to N York. And all the answer I get from the Commissary is. "M^r Jenking Master of the Weymouth Packet, not being on the same Rank as Cap^t Palmer he cannot be admitted in exchange; had the Cap^t of the Packet been sent,⁷ the Admiral would have given directions for liberating Cap^t Palmer."—Inclosed you have his Parole. Cap^t Robinson tells me that his Schooner was taken from him & her Sails unbent, with a determination to keep him unless a Flag of theirs up at Providence was released,⁸ and happily for poor Robinson after two days detention, their Flag returned. It is very unhappy for us that we are obliged to put up with their insults. I say we are obliged by the sufferings of our unfortunate friends, on board there Prison Ships, to do all in our power to relieve them; if it were not so I should desire that their might be no more Flags sent to the enemy, but that we should confine our prisoners in the like manner, untill they should send their Flags here for this purpose. But are we Sure that the enemy have the same feelings for their Country men, have they Fathers, Mothers & friends to plead for them? But however I believe it best to try it on; it may have a good effect. I expect Palmers friends will be with you again for the Cap^t of y^e Packet. It is cruel & unjust that they (y^e Enemy) should insist upon a Captain of a Sixteen Gun Ship⁹ for a Skipper of a Four Gun Sloop,¹⁰ or in their Stile a small Pickaroon.

Cap^t Robinson tells me that a great number of the Inhabitants of Newport are confined on board Prison Ships, on suspicion, that they might favour our invasion.¹¹ They was struck dumb with the news of Gen Burgoynes surrendering himself & army. His prisoners were examined by y^e Admiral over & over again. And as often would swere it was impossible. He left 90 prisoners on board the Ship.

I see by the Public papers that their is a small number of Seamen bro't into Hartford, which were taken up the North River.¹² If Cap^t Stillman¹³ would undertake to conduct them into New York by land, which would be the Safest way, I believe he would Succeed. With the greatest esteem and Respect I am [&c.]

DIARY OF CAPTAIN FRANCIS DOWNMAN

[Carpenters Island, Pa.]

November 5th.— . . . This afternoon about 5 o'clock all the rebel galleys drew up in form, and went down and began a very heavy fire at our two uppermost men-of-war.¹ They continued near an hour firing, but at such a distance that they did little or no execution. Two or three of the galleys felt more bold than the rest and ventured pretty near the men-of-war that had not yet returned one single shot, but when he saw them at a tolerable distance John Bull began to speak to them in so rough a tone that they tacked about and made the best of their way back after expending a great quantity of ammunition. The attack was very beautiful, the evening was fine and a dead calm, the galleys rowed down in two divisions, and though the smoke had a great effect their fire was incessant. The rebels opened a two-gun battery on the Jersey shore² to-day and fired several shots at our men-of-war, but John Bull did not care a fig for them and lay immovable as a rock. The day is not far off that we shall repay them with very great interest for all their incivilities. . . .

Downman, "Services of Lieut.-Colonel Francis Downman," 210. Seven sentences of this entry are not printed here. They describe the work on a battery for the six twenty-four pounders brought to Carpenters Island from H.M.S. Eagle, a visit by Sir William Howe to view the batteries, and counter-battery fire from Fort Mifflin.

2. American battery on the north side of Mantua Creek near its confluence with the Delaware River. On this day it mounted one twelve-pounder cannon. An eighteen-pounder would be added on the following day. Within a week the site of this battery was abandoned in favor of one 800 yards further north just below Little Mantua Creek. For documentation on the establishment of this battery, see Brigadier General James M. Varnum to George Washington, 6 Nov., below.

Gentlemen

[York] November 5th 1777

Your letter of the 27th ultimo to M^r Morris having been laid before Congress, you will find enclosed herein a Copy of their Resolves in consequence thereof,¹ and we have only to add that you are to be governed by such orders and Instructions as you may receive from his Excellency General Washington to whom a Copy of the said Resolves are also sent forward. We have the preservation of the Shipping up the Delaware much at Heart, particularly the Frigates, and should they be sunk we see but little probability of their being got up again before the Winter sets in.—

We are sorry that you have been so distress'd for want of money, the Committee imagined that your former application had been attended to, but by some on accountable neglect find it is otherways. we now inclose you herein, an Order on the Loan Officer of the State of New Jersey for 40,000 Dollars² of which you will make due note; and depending on your care and attention to all things that will be for the benefit of the Public, we remain [&c.]

BRIGADIER GENERAL WILLIAM SMALLWOOD TO MARYLAND COUNCIL

A Gentleman just from the British Fleet informs that Daniel Heath is now on board the Fleet and has supplied it with a Number of Cattle and offers with 500 Men to defeat 300 Militia Rebels which wou'd enable him to draw from the Eastern Shore 10,000 head of Cattle the Gentleman had his information from James Frisby who is also on board the Fleet and told the Gentleman, that he hoped and did not doubt but he shou'd soon have it in his Power to call M^r Paca to account for his rebellious proceedings in endeavoring to force him out with the Militia—Frisby also informed that Heath had invited his neighbours to drive their Cattle into his pastures for Protection and that Heath had sold them to the Fleet and had got for them a very large bagg of Gold—

Frisby reviles Col^o Loyed as a Rebel and said he was a damd Villanous Rascall. A young Gentleman of the Name of Tilghman has entered as a Midshipman on board the Eagle or *non such*¹ a M^r Sluby from Chester Town but last from England is now with the Fleet—

A Certain M^r Atkinson who was formerly arraigned for Disaffection and raising men for the King before the Convention of Maryland has lately in a secret manner departed to Somerset County the Place of his former Residence is supposed to have counter feit money and to have gone down for some secret and invidious purpose—Robert Alexander is still on board the Fleet.—

N.B. The Gentleman who gives the above Information has just come from the Fleet on his Parole in order to be exchanged for a British Officer² the Exchange not yet being effected I am not at large to mention his Name but believe his information may be depended on—

HENRY TUCKER TO ST. GEORGE TUCKER

Mr Dear S^t. Geo.

... In my former I ment^d. that we heard of Young Tho^s. Tucker's¹ being taken which I imagine was a great disappointment to your expectations but as he was fully insured it is better than a total loss.—We also have heard of old Cap^t. Tucker's² arrival at N^o. Carolina with 3000 bushels of Salt this must be a pleasing circumstance to you as we are told Salt was worth 4 & 5 £ ꝯ bushel in Virginia and as we understood Cap^t Tucker had carried his Vessel as near to Virg^a. as he cou'd and was intended there himself to look for you, I dare say you have endeav^d. to avail your self as much as possible of the Market by conveying as much salt into that province by Land as possible which we are told may be done for the Expence of a Shilling or two ꝯ bushel a trifle in comparison to the difference of the price between the two places, as I am inform'd it is worth 5 Dollars ꝯ bus^l in N^o. Carolina indeed that is a most extraordinary price but every one is willing to make the most they can these times. . . .

Pray is the ports on the Southside of Hispaniola open for the American Vessels to go to, if they are it w^d. be a much safer Navigation than going to the Cape, or even sh^d. they go to the Mould;³ these things are quite Necessary for you to be inform'd of as the Danger every way now is so great, that if there is any preference of safety it shou'd be pursued. and I imagine Tobacco w^d. yield as good a price at Port au Prince or Leaganne as at Cape Francois, if this plan shou'd at any time be tho^t. advicable the Vessel sh^d. go to the Eastward of Barbados & so over to the Southern Main & then down the Coast to the Southside of Spaniola where I believe there is not any Ships of War or other cruising Vessels. . . . Tudor Tucker is Master & second in Com^d. on board the Antigua Vessel of War⁴ is much liked in the Navy & has been Successful besides his pay as Master & Midshipman he has ½ part of all they take . . . Ante mi Man^l Ponce de Leon, Sⁿ m^{or} de Mar^a

[Translation]

In the city of Havana on November fifth, seventeen hundred and seventy seven, Don Juan Bauptista Bonet, Royal Navy Chief of Squadron and Commander General of the squadron at this port, Inspector of Naval Forces of this Port for his Majesty, accompanied by the Naval Judge-Advocate, ordered Don Antonio Robles to appear before them. Don Robles is a resident of this city and admitted to the rights of citizenship in the city of Malaga, where his ship is registered. He is master of the sloop Nuestra Señora del Carmen, which he swore before me, in the name of God Our Lord and with the sign of the cross, to have obtained legally and for which he was responsible; he stated he would tell the truth and was asked the following questions:

Asked what date he left this port and where he was going, he said that he left last July thirteenth in the above-mentioned sloop, which he owned, en route to the port of Principe of this island, without cargo, to conduct some unfinished business in that town involving part of the cargo he carried in the settee San Narciso from the Port of Malaga, and also to transport a small amount of wax he had purchased there.¹

Asked if he had arrived in the aforementioned port of Principe where he had left the sloop, and why he put into port in the northern keys to board there a small sloop belonging to Miguel Chapus, its master, who had just brought him along with others to this port. This was verified with the statement that: having left this port en route to the aforementioned port of Principe to the windward of this place, and after three days of calm seas, on August 9 he found himself drifting in the Strait of Bahama five leagues away in a different area. There, at three in the afternoon, he saw two frigates outfitted for war, one of thirty-six cannons which he knew was called Brun because this was inscribed on the stern, and the other with twenty-six cannons whose name he did not know, and after mutual agreement to talk, they drew closer, and the aforementioned frigates put out a striped flag, which is the American flag.² They threw their lifeboat into the water and came on board, and when they asked him where he was going, he answered to the port of Principe. Then they reverted to asking him whether he had any money so he could exchange a few doblons for pieces of eight, and he answered that he had no more than 248 hard pesos. Then they asked him for this amount, and he took it out of the big sack he was keeping it in along with the two sets of gold buckles. The English official asked for the privilege of showing these to his captain, who would be curious to see them. Robles gave him the jewelry and money, believing his promise to return them. When they reboarded, the English official asked him to help them out with a barrel of water and he promised to comply. Robles said they did not come back with the doblons, and he told the interpreter, who had been left in the sloop with the other English sailors, to tell the official of the frigate to please finish the business so that they could proceed to their destination. By this time it was night, and a launch came over with several Englishmen in it, who boarded his ship and took him back with them to the frigate Brum, and also the other three individuals in his crew, and they were put under the quarterdeck and kept incommunicado. Although when they were brought to this place, he had asked the commandant why they had removed him from his boat and if he was being made a prisoner, or what they intended to do with him, they only answered that he would have everything he needed, that they were taking him to Florida where he could get water and whatever he needed, and that from there he could go where he liked. Two nights went by, and a one-eyed Genoese came over to him, a man he had seen in Malaga and Gibraltar, and told him to keep this secret because it would cost him his life if he did not. He then told him that the people on this frigate were not colonials as they were pretending to be, but rather Royalists, and were actually scoundrels and thieves, and four days ago they had been anchored in Florida, flying the flag of the King of England. Immediately, the captain of this frigate the Brum, which was anchored three leagues offshore, got in a boat to leave for the port and Robles asked him to put him ashore also, to which he replied through the interpreter that on another day he would take him there with the lieutenant, which he did, leaving him in great misery as well as his crew, and afterwards decided that the crew would be incorporated into the crew of the frigate which was already reduced to thirty-one men, and Robles sent two petitions to the governor of Florida and another to the admiral, telling them that the crew did not want to do this, and that in Spain they would be punished if they were apprehended. At this, he and his crew were left there in freedom but without knowing the whereabouts of their sloop. A Dutch sloop then came to Florida, and in it was a navigator named Joseph de Camper of this city who informed them that the governor of this place had directed him to guide the Dutch sloop here because its captain had died, and this same navigator took them in a launch to the keys to see if they could board some ship which would take them here, which they did in fact find, the ship of Miguel Chapus. Its crew consisted of navigator Don Pedro Santella, Vicente de Robles (those who have come), and Pedro Solis, registered here but unable to come due to illness, etc.

Asked what information he had acquired at that place on the the English colonials and Royalists, both in Europe and America, he said that the day he boarded the launch for the keys, Don Luciano, who is not related to the Spanish patrician from Florida of the same name, the day before received his mail, which brought the news that at Philadelphia the colonials had defeated the Royalists, killing many people and taking prisoners, including a general. The governor, upon receiving and reading the letters, became very agitated and cried that this could not be. This Don Luciano is among the leading residents and a frequent guest of the governor's; he often assists Spaniards as he did Robles, although they were complete strangers. And that was all he knew or had heard on this subject, or on the rest of it, except the following: There entered the port of Florida six French vessels, the last of which had a captain who gave the information that near Guarico he had been taken prisoner, and that his cargo which he was to take from France to Guarico was very valuable. Robles said one night they came to sell him from this same cargo a boat loaded with clothing for a very low price of five pesos. He affirmed the truth of his statement, taking an oath to this effect, and that he was fifty-four years old, and His Lordship signed it along with the Judge-Advocate, to which I bear witness. . . .³

Continental Navy Board

Borden Town 6th: Nov^r: 1777—

Sir.

Your Letter of the 4th: came to hand last Night. We were in hopes the former Demand for Slops was sufficient for the Season, not that we are unwilling to supply you to the best of our Abilities, but as it would have saved us much Trouble had your Indents been compleat at that Time. We shall now be under a Necessity of sending into the Country & undoing our Packages again for the few Articles that are wanted. Had you considered our former Letter you would have found that we have neither Stockings nor Mitts amongst our stores having lately sent you our whole Stock & there fore would not have renewed the Requisition for those Articles. We shall however, endeavour to procure them if possible. The Several Articles you write for, as far as we can supply them shall be forwarded in a few Days.

M^r: Crispin under the State Navy Board has agreed to furnish our fleet with Rum & Bread, & has we expect supplied himself for the Purpose.

There has been some Knavery but no Mistake respecting the Hgsd of Spirit we sent down for the Officers; we can assure you that it was a Cask of excellent Spirit & for which we gave a great Price. But the waggoners or some other Persons must have played us false: for which we are sorry for your Sakes.—

We shall endeavour to procure Stores for the Vessels as soon as we can.—

As no Opportunity offer'd immediately to Red Bank, we have put into the Waggon a Cask directed for you with some Match Rope for present Use, & 3 Rheams of Cartridge Paper; we shall send you more when we forward the other Necessaries.

We have not heard the Event of Yesterday's Firing, but hope for the best.—We desire to be remembered to the Respective Officers of the Fleet. We lament the Loss of young M^r: Batton: Wishing you all Health & Success we are [&c.]

PENNSYLVANIA SUPREME EXECUTIVE COUNCIL TO PENNSYLVANIA NAVY BOARD

In Council.

Sir

Lancaster November 6th 1777—

The fourth instant I had the pleasure to receive your favour of the thirtieth day of October¹ which I laid before council, who are perfectly convinced that the Gentlemen of the navy Board will upon every occasion render all possible service to their much injured distracted country. The late success of the American arms under General Gates as well as the glorious defence made at red bank and by our Small Fleet under Commodore Haselwood, has put our affairs on a much more agreeable footing and I believe will cause many an unhappy thought in the minds of those traitors who have basely deserted their country. The uneasiness which you mention will probably arise between the commodore and some others, I hope is, or will soon be at an end if all differences between the sea and land officers does not subside and Harmony and good will take place, I dread the consequences they will be fatal to our cause, and particularly to this state. It therefore will be highly commendable in the Gentlemen of your Board, to afford their good offices in healing every breach and preventing animosity and rancour.

As M^r Crispin is now with you I make no doubt the fleet will be regularly and well supplied with provisions. I have wrote him on the subject and in answer to his request² sent whiskey for the use of the fleet, as he cannot procure rum. I have told him that council will endeavour to procure some and send forward as soon as possible.—

The Council have appointed M^r William C Bradford paymaster to the fleet in the place of M^r Webb, who they are informed remain'd in the city.—I beg my best complements to the Gentlemen of the navy Board and with great respect remain [&c.]

PENNSYLVANIA SUPREME EXECUTIVE COUNCIL TO COMMODORE JOHN HAZELWOOD

In Council

Sir

Lancaster November 6th. 1777

I duly received your letter dated the twenty ninth day of October¹ which I laid before council. who entertain the highest sense of the conduct and bravery of both officers and men of your fleet; and have no doubt that the same laudable spirit and resolution will influence their conduct upon future occasions. The enemy I am convinced by this time find themselves greatly mistaken, and that the task of enslaving America is much more difficult than they effected to believe. The conduct of some of your officers and men in deserting you, in a time of danger is infamous indeed, but I hope that practice is now at an end, and that those who remain are actuated by a more noble principle. I should instantly upon the receipt of your letter have written to his Excellency General Washington on the subject of supplying your fleet with men, but am well informed that a considerable reinforcement was on their march and would probably arrive at red bank on sunday last, the importance of defending the river and preventing the enemy's Fleet passing the Chevaux D^e Frize, is so obvious to his Excellency, that I have not the least doubt he comply'd with your request as soon as it was in his power; I will however hint it to him in my next letter—I am pleased the commissary is with you, that the fleet may receive regular and proper supply. In his letter to council² he requests they would send a quantity of whiskey as he found a difficulty in procuring that or rum. this shall be complied with as soon as it can be procured.

Council have appointed M^r William C Bradford paymaster to the fleet in the room of M^r Webb who I am informed remained in the city of Philadelphia. I am [&c.]

PENNSYLVANIA SUPREME EXECUTIVE COUNCIL TO WILLIAM CRISPIN

In Council

Sir

Lancaster November 6th 1777

I received your letter dated the twenty sixth day of October ¹ which I laid before council. they are pleased that the fleet have now a sufficient and regular supply of provisions which they had some reason to believe was not the case for some time past.

William Buchanan Esq^r commissary General of purchases, has or will, fix the prices of beef, pork, and whiskey for the army; and will give directions to all the deputy commissaries not to exceed those prices. he requests that those who buy for this state may conform thereto, and this council desires you will attend to it as well as to such prices as may be agreed upon by the Quarter Master General for wheat or flour Letters have passed between those Gentlemen and council on this subject and their opinion as to prices are nearly the same. The following is what council think should not be exceeded viz^t wheat 8/6 [⊘] bushell; Rye 8/6; Indian corn 6/6 Beef 10 dollars [⊘] hundred sinking what is called the fifth quarter, which will reduce it to eight dollars; pork seven dollars, whiskey 8/6 full proof, best first crop of hay £7.10— [⊘] Ton, Second crop £6.— M^r Buchanan is of opinion that 7/6 [⊘] Gallon is enough for whiskey and six dollars for pork, whether our reasons will induce him to allow the prices we have fixt, I dont know, but it will at any rate be very soon determined.

It will be absolutely necessary to salt both beef and pork for the use of the navy, especially as there is salt at the salt works belonging to this state. M^r Bordon will be a very Suitable person to have it put up, and to whom council will write on the subject. Our Treasury is almost exhausted so that for the present it is out of my power to send you the whole sum you require. If a good opportunity offers in a day or two shall send you two or three thousand pounds, and a further sum as soon as the chest is replenished. council purposes to send a careful prudent person to the salt works,² to send forward to this state what salt is already made, to be distributed thro' the same; and therefore I hope and expect that M^r Savage has a considerable quantity made, and will exert himself all in his power to serve the publick, who expect great matters from the large sum of money already expended. Your supplying him with three hundred pounds was well. I shall attend to your request for whiskey, and it is probable that some may be procured here, if it can, I will send you down a few hogsheads I am [&c.]

In Council of Safety

Sir,

Lancaster Nov^r 6. 1777.

Yesterday and not before, I had the pleasure of receiving your favour dated at Red-bank October the 26th¹ w^{ch}. I laid before council, who are much obliged by the contents of your letter altho' they had before reced the substance of it—You will please to continue your information from time to time as opportunity may offer—any assistance which the council can afford to repel the common enemy the Navy board and Commodore² may be assured of receiving upon the first application—The severe check which the enemy has already received by the bravery of our men and good conduct of our officers, will convince them that they cannot effect their purpose of enslaving America so easily as they gave the world to understand they could—it is probable they will make another attack, and I trust they will meet with a like repulse, being well informed that General Washington has sent a reinforcement of men, as well for the Fort at Red Bank as for the Fleet

As M^r Crispin, the Commissary, is with you I doubt not of the fleet receiving a regular supply of Provisions—with respect to you and the Navy board I remain [&c.]

The 6th of November. For several days the batteries to the right on Province Island were strengthened with six 24-pounders.¹ Moreover, two floating batteries were constructed, each of which was to be loaded with four 32-pounders. But they were built so lightly that hardly one 32-pounder could be carried in one boat, and they were so badly battered by the enemy's galleys as soon as they appeared that not one dared to show up again.

Thus far we are still in a bad situation. Washington is making the route by land very unsafe between Chester and Philadelphia. The greater part of the provisions still must be brought through the dangerous passage by water. Washington keeps the army so tightly bottled up by his parties that the market people must sneak through at the risk of their lives, which has forced up the price of fresh provisions so high that a pound of meat costs up to half a piaster. . . .

Sir

Fort Mercer Red bank Nov 6th 1777

Yesterday Morning at 3 O'clock a Party of light Troops were detached with two pieces of battering Cannon to occupy a Piece of ground three miles below the Fort nearly opposite the Somerset Man of War of 74 Guns which lay half a mile from shore,¹ they discovered the works at 10 O'clock in the Morning, and gave us a few shot, but did not think Proper to return the Compliments, until our works were compleat, which were soon finished, the third shot we fired hull'd her, she immediately weighed Anchor, the Tide being in her Favour, was able to move a small distance but soon got aground: The Commodore² ordered, the Gallies down, to attack Her: its the general Opinion had the Gallies done their Duty we should have disposed of her as before with the *Apollo*³ and Augusta; am not fully satisfied but it might have been hers.

But at the flood's making the *Roebuck*⁴ and *Lady Washington*⁵ (the Enemy having taken some time since) came to her assistance, she was so much damaged at Evening she paid no Regard to our Fire; her boats were kept under her sides plugging her during the whole time two of them happened to fall in a line of a shot which cut one in two, left the other Floating, which drifted some distance, but sending a boat recovered her again, Night coming on was obliged to leave them in that situation: the weather being bad Nothing farther has been done since,

I recieved the honor of your Lordships letter, the Gallies kept at a considerable distance yesterday Evening, I did not mean to fire at them whilst they were advancing, as I wished to draw them as near to us as possible, & we kept the men close down, by which means no one was hurt; the Isis recieved a little or no damage, either from the Galleys or Guns on Shore;¹ One of our Coppers is rendered useless, & I am afraid cannot easily be repaired; I have no doubt of maintaining the Station we are in, we have seen nothing of the rebels today, I believe they are gone and have taken their Guns with them—The Isis, Liverpool & Pearl have several Sick that are much in our Way, in the Situation the Ships are Obligated to be kept they cannot be paid the Attention that could be wished—If it were convenient for your

1. American battery at Mantua Creek.

BRIGADIER GENERAL JAMES M. VARNUM TO GEORGE WASHINGTON

[Extract]

Sir

Woodberry 6th Nov^r 1777.

Great Manto Creek is situated two Miles and an half from Redbank, where it empties into the Delaware On the West side of this Creek is the Promontory Billingsport, fortified, and garrisoned by three hundred Men, made up of the seventy first Regiment, and of Marines, according to the best Information I have been able to obtain. On the east side of the Creek, upwards of a Mile from Billingsport, is a small Eminence [Eminence], on w^h the Evening before last, we erected a small Fascine Battery, intending to play upon the Shipping, the Morning following, with one Eighteen, and one Twelve Pounder.—The Eighteen was overset on the Way, and could not be got to the Battery 'till two oClock in the afternoon. The Twelve, in the intermediate Time, was ply'd with great Advantage upon the Sommersett; a Ship of sixty four Guns. The Roebuck and a Frigate were soon driven from their Stations, and the Sommersett fell down to the Distance of a Mile and a Quarter from the Battery, where she touch'd upon the Beach, and was obliged patiently to take our Fire. In this situation, the Commodore¹ sent down four Gallies, which began their Fire at the Distance of more than two Miles; They advanced however 'till the Sommersett & Roebuck, with a Galley,² began to discharge their Bow Guns upon them when they immediately retreated.—The Flood Tide making, floated the Sommersett; but, as there was no Wind, she could not get far from us, by 'w^h means she suffered extremely from our Eighteen & twelve Pounders, She hoisted Signals of Distress; The Commodore came down with a great naval Force, and began a tremendous Fire, out of Gun Shot, he advanced firing 'till some of his Shot reached The Ships. He expended an immense Quantity of Ammunition, &, I am pretty certain, hit the large Ship once, in her Stern; soon after he retired. The Battery discharged, from both Guns, more than an hundred and Twenty Rounds; two Thirds of w^h at least took place; And as almost every Shot was directed at the sixty four, she must be greated shattered.—Cap^t. Lee,³ who commanded the Guns, behaved perfectly well. Had The Gallies behaved tolerably well, the Sommersett must, beyond a Doubt, have fallen into our Hands.—Could we be furnished with sufficient Ammunition for a Twenty four and an Eighteen Pounder, without drawing from the Forts, I am confident we should oblige the Shipping to keep down the River as low as Billingsport; By w^h means they cou'd not attempt raising the Chievaux de Frize. We should be provided with proper Harness Horses for these Pieces, to move them to any part of the Shore at Pleasure. I am apprehensive we might do [illeg.] by throwing up a Battery about one Third of a Mile below Billings Port, from which, & the Battery before mentioned we could easily cross fire upon every Intch of Channel Way opposite the Mouth of Manto Creek and oblige the Shipping to move farther down, liable to be dismasted from our lower Battery; Or farther up, when they would probably stick upon the Chievau de Frize, and be in danger from Fort Mifflin and the Fire Craft. The great Injury their Shipping would receive, might probably draw them out from Billings Port to attack us, their present Numbers we could beat, & by that means possess ourselves of their Works,—Should they considerably reinforce, w^h I imagine they might occasionally do from their Shipping, we might loose our Cannon, by being obliged to retreat.—Billingsport is the Key of the Delaware, as the Ship Channel is within Muskit shot of it.—I can perceive but one objection to a Manœuvre of this kind; and indeed that is an important one; Should the Enemy attack Red Bank in the mean Time, by landing below Timber Creek, which they might do, we could not afford that Garrison timely Aid. The Remainder of General M^cDougalls Division, could they be spared, would form a Counter ballance to that Difficulty.—Col^o Smith is continually complaining of the Remisness of the Fleet. I have conversed freely with the Commodore upon the Subject of Defence, w^h he ought to afford. He has pointed out to me the Places where he has ordered his Guard Boats and some of his Gallies stationed by Night. His Plan, if spiritedly executed, would sufficiently Aid Fort Mifflin, and Prevent the Enemy from making a Lodgment in its rear. The Commodore says he cannot prevent the Enemies Boats from passing up and down the River, as they are covered by their Batteries upon Province Island⁴ and at the Mouth of Skylkill. In short, the Commodore appears to be a very good kind of a Man; but his extreeme good Nature gives too great a Licence to those under his Command, who would obey only from Severity, if any such he has, to [shun?] their Duty. From the Conduct of the Fleet Yesterday, your Excellency will be able to know my Sentiments respecting their Prowess.—I shall religious avoid any personal Disputes myself, where I cannot be of Service by them, to the public; I shall continue however, to create, if possible, greater Harmony between the Fleet and Garrisons.

As the Garrisons have necessarily many sick, We are in great Want of some Gentlemen from the Hospital Department to establish a Place for their Reception, with Medicine and other Articles to make them comfortable. Indeed they suffer on that Account.—

I should have mentioned, when speaking of Fort Mifflin, that the Enemy were busy, yesterday, in erecting a Fortification upon Province Island, in such a Position as to play obliquely Upon the Palisadoes. This Circumstance convinces me that they do not intend a very sudden Attack upon the Fort should they destroy the Palisadoes. The Defence of the Island will then greatly depend upon the Gallies; Altho' it will be difficult to approach to the Rear of the Work, as the Enemy must pass upon a Meadow, w^h is very miery. They cannot surmount that Difficulty by laying Fascines, unless the Gallies quit the Passage between Red Bank and mud Island intirely.—In fine, I must beg Liberty to repeat that Billingsport is of far more Importance than all the Forts and Gallies put together. This seems also to be the concurring Sentiment of the Gentlemen here universally. . . . I hope your Excellency will excuse the Prolixity of this, & believe me sincerely yours,

4. Here and two paragraphs below, Varnum probably means Carpenters Island where the majority of British artillery—thirteen guns—was trained on Fort Mifflin. There was a two-gun battery near the Pest House on Province Island.

CONTINENTAL MARINE COMMITTEE TO CAPTAIN JAMES NICHOLSON

James Nicholson Esquire

Sir

[York] November 6th 1777

This Committee being wearied with the long delay of the Frigate Virginia under your Command in port, and with the great expence Accruing on that Account, have determined that you shall proceed to sea by the first favourable opportunity and depend much on your experience and prudent management to have this desirable business speedily accomplished. You have inclosed your Instructions for the Voyage.—¹

You will inform Captain Parker of the Phoenix that it has been the constant practice throughout the United States to suffer British seamen taken in the merchant service to depart at their pleasure, and consequently there can no just demand be made on us from the British Navy for a return of such persons in lieu of what they have heretofore discharged, because if that Account was to be fairly settled and a List made out of what we and what they have discharged without Account the Ballance would be very considerably in our favour, and still much greater were we to include the vast number of Passengers and other British subjects not seamen heretofore discharged without account; but the practice of exchanging officer for officer of equal Rank, and Sailor for Sailor of those taken in Ships of war will be continued. Mr Barney the Bearer informs us you want a Lieutenant, he will rank on board the Virginia as second Lieutenant should he be agreeable to you in that station we have directed him to obey your Orders. Wishing you success we remain [&c.]

Dear Sir

Eagle. Nov^r 6th. 1777

Not Observing that you had Occasion to return the fire from the Galleys Yesterday evening, I hope that the Distance they kept from you has prevent'd your relieving any material Injury—

Every means must be used to maintain the command of the channel between Billingsport & Hog Island upon which the Communication at present with the Army depends, This I flatter my self you will be able to do in your present Station as the Ships may approach very near the Shore, between Manto Creek & Billingsport

As I understand that the Post at Billingsport could not be contracted for being defended by a smaller Force, the Marines must remain in it whilst it is necessary for it to be held, this you will please to signify to Captⁿ Owen I am [&c.]

Copy of Comte D'Arbaud's Letter to Mr. Burt, Governor of Antigua, Dated 6 November 1777.

Sir.

While, with as much eagerness as care, I am undertaking to do justice to Mr. Gordon, which your Excellency referred to me and which you asked for on his behalf, I learned from the enclosed copy¹ that an English frigate, with as much boldness as persistence, pursued a Spanish schooner sailing off the coasts of the government His Most Christian Majesty has entrusted me, that the frigate was not content to fire several shots but sent its longboat to take possession of the schooner; that the crew of the frightened schooner, having decided to disembark and to flee, the English longboat's crew did not hesitate to pursue the Spanish ship's crew a thousand paces on land and to fire several musket shots to force them to surrender and to carry them off by reembarking in the schooner's boat. I insist on its return. I ask you, Sir, in the name of the king, my master, for punishment of the captain of the frigate, the name of which I cannot give you, although it will be known to your Excellency from the report the captain will be required to make. At the earliest opportunity, I shall advise His Most Christian Majesty of this behavior as irregular as it is contrary to the rights of man and the laws of nations. I cannot hide such behavior from His Majesty. It deserves an authentic reparation and a punishment public enough that a similar violation of the law will not happen again in the future. I have the honor of being, &c^a.

Signed C^{te}. D'arbaud.

P.S. I must not leave your Excellency unaware that some of the men who were running away were mulattoes and negroes, from which I conclude that the men who were after them had the intent to make slaves of them for profit, which is a formal act of hostility or a kind of pillaging on my coasts.

About 4 o'Clock yesterday morning the Syren Frigate, a transport ship, and a Schooner,¹ belonging to the Wood fleet, by some unfortunate mistake or mismanagement, ran ashore upon Point Judith, where the Syren immediately bulged. Every effort was made by Captain Furneaux to get the ship off, but the Rebels having very soon brought down three pieces of Cannon against her, and the ship unfortunately keeling towards the shore when the tide left her, he was under the necessity of surrendering himself and his people prisoners to the Enemy. The Lark and Flora went out of the harbour at 4 in the afternoon in order to afford assistance, but they came too late. A Sloop which went out soon after the first Signals of distress were made, arrived in time to save the people of the transport; and it is probable that had the two frigates gone out at the same time, they might have saved the Crew of the Syren. The vessels now remain on shore, without any hopes of getting them off. The rest of the Fleet escaped the danger, and proceeded to Shelter Island.

Copy of Comte D'Arbaud's Response to Mr. Burt, Governor of Antigua, dated 7 November 1777.

Sir,

Mr. Gordon, to whom I had issued the most exact orders so as to obtain assistance in order to return into his possession his ship and its cargo in the event he might be able to discover both, has returned to Basseterre without having been able to get any firm knowledge of the location where his unloaded effects were set down. He reports that his ship was sunk after it had been unloaded so that I have little hope of being able to satisfy your Excellency at this time, despite any desire I might have had to produce new evidence of the justice I shall hasten to administer when I find there are no insurmountable obstacles.

Mr. Gordon is carrying orders I had addressed to the commanders of the various quarters of this island.¹ He will hand your Excellency the originals. Your Excellency will then be in a position to form an opinion of the hope I had that this matter might take a turn more advantageous to the owners and to the captain of the ship and its cargo.

The two men, Planque and Gilles, whom I had ordered to be arrested and brought here, sailed, according to Mr. Gordon's report, before my orders could be carried out. Should these two men reappear in the area controlled by the government that has been entrusted to me, they will suffer a long and harsh punishment; however, the result is that it will never be possible to return the seized ship, for unquestionably they will have disposed of it in such a way that no trace will remain of the matter, which could be the subject of a complaint against them. Mr. Gordon's investigations confirm this as a certainty.

If our laws made it possible to punish someone on suspicion, perhaps I would have discovered a part of the cargo from the brigatine Rainbow. On the contrary, they forbid it. That is what had stopped me a long time ago. Regarding Sieurs d'Arbousier and Soubies, strongly suspected of being the owners of the Anglo-American privateer that just took possession of the prize, I summoned them, some time ago, to appear before me. All my questions were useless, and I was obliged to limit myself to representations and threats.

I refer to the letter I had the honor of addressing to your Excellency yesterday relative to the acts of violence committed on the coasts of Guadeloupe by one of your frigates.² I ask you in the name of the king, my master, for a prompt reparation. I have the honor of being, &^a.

PROCLAMATION OF THOMAS SHIRLEY

A PROCLAMATION,

WHEREAS insinuation hath been given to me, that false Commissions from the Congress to arm Vessels as Privateers have been printed in this Island, and sold in the Island of Martinico, and one of those false Commissions hath been transmitted to me.¹ I HAVE THEREFORE thought fit, by and with the Advice and consent of his Majesty's Council, in order to bring such daring offenders to Justice, and to suppress all such unlawful and treasonable practices in future, to issue this Proclamation, hereby offering a reward of THREE HUNDRED POUNDS current money, to any person or persons, who will give full information against the person or persons concerned in printing the said false Commissions, so that he or they may be apprehended and brought to Justice, to be paid on Conviction of the offender and offenders.

N. B. The false Commission transmitted to me is left at the Secretary's Office, for Public inspection.

Given under my Hand, and the Great Seal of Dominica, this Seventh day of November, in the Year of our Lord One Thousand Seven Hundred and Seventy Seven, and in the Eighteenth Year of his Majesty's Reign.

THOMAS SHIRLEY.

BRIGADIER GENERAL JAMES M. VARNUM TO GEORGE WASHINGTON

Sir—

Woodberry 8th Nov^r, ½ past 5 PM. 1777.

I have to acknowledge the Rec^t. of your Orders of 7th Instant^l.—The Intelligence you are pleased to communicate, I received last Evening, by two Persons who came out of Philadelphia Yesterday, & by a Spy, whom I had in Billingsport yesterday, two Hours.—My Acc^{ts}. give these additional Circumstances, That the Garrison at Billingsport consist of two Hundred of the seventy first Battalion, & two Hundred Marines. That they were, this Day, to be reinforced by two Hessian Regiments; That there were four Row Gallies & two floating Batteries in Schylkil; That an Attack was to be made upon Fort Mifflin by the Way of Schylkill; That they were to attack Red bank at the same Time, landing just below Timber Creek (a fine beach, and no Obstruction between that and Fort Mercer); that the Troops from Billingsport were to move across Manto Creek, at a Signal given from Philadelphia, & act in Conjunction with those from Philadelphia against Fort Mercer;—That they were to attack this Day Morning at four, if possible, If not, the first Time they should be Ready.—Last Evening, at Ten, Sky Rockets were seen on Province Island, w^{ch} determined me the Action was about to commence, I took every Precaution in my Power; Just before Sunsett this Evening, There appeared to be a large Number of Men, Horses, & I tho't Fascines, passing Schylkill to Province Island. The Ships below fired Guns, w^h were supposed to be Signals. The Acc^{ts}. respecting the Enemy's Intended Movements were given in the same Manner, by two Prisoners, of the second Battalion of the seventy first Regiment, whom my Scouts captivated Yesterday, near Billingsport.—I shall send a Detachment this Night into Fort Mifflin, tho' upon my Honor, I think that Garrison sufficiently manned.—I have the Pleasure to Inform you, that we had Guard Boats last Night between Hog and Province Islands,² the Rout of the Enemy's Boats, w^h met with, fired upon, & carried them to retreat. The Commodore³ will fix a Chain this Night, that is already prepared with dry logs to buoy it up, & Anchors to fasten it down, between those Islands—Fourteen Gun Boats will lay in the Passage,—The Commodore, with all his Gallies will lay close to the North End of Mud Island,—The Floating Batteries, & Xebecks, to guard the Chievaux de Frize, & oppose The Shipping, should they attempt to advance, And the continental Vessells⁴ under Cap^t Robinson's Command will lay at the Mouth of Schylkill, and at the Mouth of Timber Creek I have placed the Continental and Militia Guards, upon Timber & Manto Creeks.—In a Word, I am perfectly satisfied with the different Arrangements,—& the universal Spirit, w^h apparently pervades the whole; & unless I am too ignorant of military Dispositions the Great Governor of the Universe, will give to your Arms Success in this Quarter, should the Mercenaries attack, as we sincerely expect and wish they will, And, to your Excellency additional Laurels!—Pardon me [I] write upon the Run, and am thinking of many thinks at once—The Musketry you mention was the Ecco of Cannon in the Groves. CAPTAIN HENRY LEE TO GEORGE WASHINGTON

No. 8th. 77.

M^r Lindsay¹ is just returned from New-castle & has brought with him two prisoners; the one Cap^t Nicholas of the Eagle-packet, the other, Cap^t Fenwick of a sloop in the service of Government. These two gentlemen being fatigued with their ride, will not arrive at Head-quarters, 'till tomorrow.

The transports have received orders to furnish themselves with five weeks provision, & make ready for sailing with all dispatch. A french ship laden with arms & ammunition lately taken by some of the enemy's cruisers, was the other day brought into New-castle-harbour. There prevails a report in the fleet, that a channel has been discovered which avoids the chiveaux-de-frise, & that, the Somerset man of war is ordered up to try her success on the fort,² by that route.

One of the enemy's batteries on the Schuylkill has been launched two days past, & another is near finished. The mode now pursued by the enemy in transporting supplies, to the city,³ is as follows. They land their provision, above Jone's wharf, near a branch of Eagle-creek, they are carried from hence by water to Guiers dam, where they again put them in boats & readily convey them down another creek to the Schuylkill. There is no way of interrupting them in this business, but by taking possession of Carpenters island.

M^r Lindsay acquaints me, that the enemy obtain large supplies of fresh provision &c, from the inhabitants in the Lower Counties;⁴ his report of this & several other matters engage me to wish for an excursion for a few days in that country.

There is not the smallest intercourse now subsisting between the Country & Navy from Wilmington to the Schuylkill. Your Excellency will please favor me by return of the dragoon with your instructions respecting this route. Enclosed is a Let^r found; supposed to be wrote by Gen Grant. I am [&c.]

CHARLES BONDFIELD TO GOVERNOR RICHARD CASWELL

Sir,

Edenton 8th Nov 1777.

On receiving your Excellency's Commission, appointing me Commissioner for fitting out armed vessels at the Fort of Edenton, I drew on William Skinner Esq, Treasurer for the Northern District, for the sum of One thousand Pounds, which M^r Robert Smith told me, I was by a resolve of the Assembly empowered to do, as I had not at that time seen the resolve, and M^r Smith told me he had, I took it for granted, I was acting right. M^r Skinner advanced the money on my order, since which it appears, that I should have had a warrant from your Excellency on the Treasurer, for what money I should want for that purpose, as there was at that time several demands against the King Taminy and more daily accruing, and I not being furnished with the resolve of the Assembly to know in what manner to act, will I hope excuse me for not applying to your Excellency for a warrant sooner, which you will be so good as to give to M^r Skinner who has my receipt for the money. I have Chartered, that the Brig King Taminy to Messrs Hewes & Smith on account of the Congress, a copy of the Charter party, and an account of the disbursements, I shall furnish your Excellency with by M^r Hewes when he goes for Newbern. GOVERNOR WILLIAM MATHEW BURT TO COMTE D'ARBAUD

(Copy.)

Sir,

I have receiv'd by M^r Gordon your Excellency's Letter¹ and am most exceedingly concern'd to find not only the little Obedience and Attention paid by the unrestrained and ungovernable Inhabitants of Guadeloupe and Grande-Terre under your Excellency's, as I once imagin'd Command, but have now such uncontrovertable Proofs, not only that your Orders at Times are of no more Consequence than Ballads, but also that notwithstanding M^r Gordon presented to you a Petition pointing out where he saw and knew his Property to be Viz^t in the Possession of one M^r Darboussier one of the Owners of the Pirate which took the Brigantine Rainbow, yet your Excellency stop'd in your short liv'd Plan of Justice and suffer'd the piratically plunder'd Provisions of the King my Master going to his Troops to remain in the Possession of Mons^r Darboussier.

Neither our Laws nor those of any Nation inflict Punishments on Suspicion, but Sir, Suspicion strong as must and did appear to your Excellency of these Provisions being in the Possession of Mons^r Darboussier ought I must say, if your Excellency had any Power or Authority in your Government, or intended doing solid ample Justice to have induc'd you to have order'd proper Officers attended by M^r Gordon to have inspected the Stores or Vessels of Mons^r Darbousier, and if these Provisions were found 'twas then beyond Suspicion, 'twas a Proof on which the civil Law by which you are govern'd wou'd have punish'd Mons^r Darboussier, and the Laws of Nations and Justice wou'd have directed Restitution to M^r Gordon: Why your Excell[ency] did not pursue this self evident Plan of Rectitude remains to be accounted for.

As I demanded Justice and Restitution of my Master's immediate Stores,² and your Excellency has thought fit to send me nothing but Copies of Orders which have been treated with most Sovereign Contempt, and was told where they cou'd be found, I shall by the first Opportunity lay a regular and formal Complaint agst your Excellency before The King, and transmit the whole of this Transaction to my Master's Secretary of State to be laid before him.

I will not say 'tis my Opinion, but I cannot avoid telling your Excellency 'tis that of every Man of Sense and Penetration in this Government, that you are not sincere in your Professions of Amity, that while you issue ostensible Orders of doing Justice, Secret Orders are given not to obey them; 'Tis impossible for the World to deem a Commander in Chief in a French Government to be an absolute Cypher, or that the Commandants of Quarters and other Officers wou'd not pay any Respect to his public Orders: unless he knew his private Instructions were to be follow'd & his public were farcical.

I am sorry to assure your Excellency that the flagrant infamous Part which many nay almost all the Inhabitants and Commandants of Quarters of Guadaloupe and Grande-Terre have taken in Alliance and Partnership with Pirates and Rebels has sunk them into a most deserv'd Contempt in this Government where almost every Individual Hopes and wishes for War in Order that they might take ample Satisfaction on the Inhabitants of Guadaloupe for their Treachery and Breach of Faith.

In every Thing, which has hitherto come from your Excellency, I have exerted myself; for the future I shall follow the Example you have set, and direct the Person applying to search, if he finds his Property tell him take it, and refuse as your Excellency did to M^r Gordon when he pointed out in his Petition where lay his Effects either an Order to the Possessors to deliver them, or any Support to take them.

While I know that Pirates carry their Prizes into the Ports within your Excellency's Government, that their Cargoes are landed, distributed and are irrecoverable when claim'd and that the Commandants of Quarters where these Outrages are committed pass unpunish'd, and tho' guilty of Breach of Orders hold their Power to rob, and their Commissions I must tho against the good Opinion and Esteem I wish to hold for your Excellency be induced to incline towards the general Beleaf that this piratical Conduct receives your private Approbation tho' public Disavowal:

Altho' Plangue and Gillet are fled, yet at Morne a L'eau, Petit Canall, and Point a Petre remain'd as your Excellency was inform'd by M^r Gordon's Petition put into your Excellency's hand by himself the Cargo of the Brig Rainbow, and at Point a Petre unmolested were Mess^{rs} Darboussier, Subise, and Clavan and Mons^r Soulagire at Basse-terre enjoying the Fruits of their Plunder and the Stores of the King my Master.

The Negroes which on the 4th of October I wrote your Excellency were taken and secur'd in the Gaol of this Island, and have your Acknowledgment dated the 14th of October of the Receipt of that Letter still remain in Confinement: Shoud I not hear from your Excellency in the Course of a Fortnight or three Weeks shall conclude what Andre Gerar Tells me is true, and set them at Liberty: Your Excellency will be pleased to assure the Inhabitants of Guadaloupe and Grande-Terre that while they continue their present Partnerships and Support given to the Rebellious Subjects of my Master, and they allow the arm'd Vessels to come into their Ports, receive or treat with them for their Prizes, shou'd any of their Negroes fly to and take refuge in this Government, I shall not give myself the Trouble I hitherto have either to Stop detain or secure them: I am truly griev'd their Conduct drives me to this Expedient. I have the Honor to be [&c.]

Your Excellency cannot be a Stranger, as I have already acquainted you with it, that I am well inform'd His Most Christian Majesty, your Master's Wisdom, Justice and good faith towards the King my Master, has induc'd him absolutely to forbid American Pirates bringing their Prizes into any of His Ports in Europe.

CAPTAIN SIR GEORGE COLLIER, R.N., TO MASSACHUSETTS COMMISSARY OF PRISONERS

Sir

Rainbow at Halifax 9th. November 1777.

In Answer to Your Letter of the 15th. October brought me by the Cartel Swift, acquainting me that the Officers & Seamen of His Majestys Ship Fox now Prisoners at Boston shall be released upon my giving Assurance that as many in Number & equal Rank of those taken in the Hancock & Fox shall be exchanged for them.

I think proper to inform You that I consent to the Exchange for those Officers & Seamen belonging to His Majesty according to the Mode You have mention'd, which shall take Place so soon as I am assured the before mention'd Prisoners in Your Possession are liberated.

I understand that there are in Confinement likewise three Men belonging to His Majestys Ship Blonde, One of the Milfords, & a few other Seamen who are in the Kings Service; if these are likewise set at Liberty, an equal Number in Exchange will be granted for them; but I must signifye to You that no Masters of Merchantmen or Passengers will be exchang'd, unless by People of the same Denomination taken in trading Vessels, & that this Exchange should be made from Rhode Island, as being from its vicinity to Boston & many other Respects, much properer for it.

I must desire You will signifye to those in Authority, that during the Time of the Cartel Swift's being at Halifax, another small Vessel¹ under the Name of a Cartel, but calculated only for the most villainous Purposes, made its Appearance at Windsor in the Bay of Fundy;—it is therefore thought necessary to inform You, that if any other Vessels of such Denomination shall come to any other Port in Nova Scotia than Halifax, they will be treated as Spies & suffer accordingly.

And a Person calling himself Daniel Heister having been discovered on board the Cartel Swift, who not only does not belong to Her as a Mariner, but is found to be a Major in the Pennsylvania Militia, with Gold to the amount of £150 sewed up in his Cloaths; His Majesty's Lieutenant-Governor & Council of this Province have apply'd for the delivering this Man up to the Civil Power, which has accordingly been done.

I must desire You will make a Representation to the People in Power of the shameful Robberies which have lately been committed on His Majestys Subjects settled near the River S^t Johns in the Bay of Fundy, by small Privateers, who have plundered & robb'd the poor Inhabitants of their Cloaths, Furniture, & Property, to the disgrace of Humanity, & very contrary to [the] Example set them by the Kings Ships under my Command at Machias, Townsend, & the River Sheeps-cut.

The Privateer the Inhabitants of S^t John's particularly complain of, is a Schooner of about Eight Carriage Guns commanded by Agreen Crabtree² & belonging to Frenchman's Bay; I expect therefore that some Means is immediately used to put a Stop to these Robberies in future.

You will receive herewith a List of the American Prisoners,³ which proceed to Boston in the Cartel; If Capt Barron & the Rev^d M^r Eagleson (who were taken at Cumberland) are set at Liberty, those of similar Rank shall [be exc]hanged for them. I am [&c.]

GEORGE WASHINGTON TO THE CONTINENTAL NAVY BOARD OF THE MIDDLE DEPARTMENT

Gentlemen

Head Quarters Whitemarsh 9th. Novem^r 1777

I yesterday rec^d. a Letter from Congress informing me that they had received a Report from your Board with your opinion ~~that it would be better to lighten the Frigates and float them up the River, and by taking their Guns on shore~~ upon the most probable means of securing the Frigates. Whereupon they came to the following Resolution on the 4th. ins^c: “Ordered that a Copy of the said report be sent to Gen^l Washington for his approbation and if he approve the same that a detachment of troops be sent to assist in the Construction and management of the Batteries aforesaid.”¹

Upon the receipt of this I took the opinion of the General Officers who unanimously agreed that, as we had not any men to spare to construct and defend the works recommended by you, there were no other possible means of effectually securing the Frigates but by scutling them. You will therefore be pleased to have it done in such manner as will render the weighing of them most easy in future and in such depth of Water as will secure them from being damaged by the floating Ice in the Winter. All the other Vessels capable of being converted into armed ships should be scutled also. This should be done as speedily as possible and as secretly, for should the Enemy get notice of your intentions, I should not at all wonder at their sending up a force purposely to destroy them or bring them down. You will dispose of the men that were on Board of them as directed in my former²—I am &—

BRIGADIER GENERAL JAMES M. VARNUM TO GEORGE WASHINGTON

[Extract]

Sir—

Woodberry 9th Nov^r: ½ past 6, Ev. 1777.

Previous to the Rec^t of your Commands of yesterday,¹ I had sent an additional Reinforcement of a Cap^t two Subs, three Serjeants and fifty Rank & File into Fort Mifflin.—I have been at Fort Mifflin to day; The Enemy are prepared to open a Battery of five Guns, I take them to be Eighteens or Twenty fours,² this Night, or tomorrow Morning, In Conjunction with their two Howitzers, besides two small Batteries, w^h they have heretofore fired from. They have been very busy this Day in crossing the Mouth of the Schylkill with Waggon, Fascines &c.—Two double Deckers³ more have passed thro' the lower Frize. There are Eight in the whole upon this upper Station, but all of them are below my two Gun Battery.⁴—Thirsday last one Floating Battery was launched in Schylkil, it sunk with its Guns, w^h were bro't from the Eagle; Two more upon the Stocks, one to have been launch'd this day. They are very busy building two Bridges across Schylkill,—all their Force seems to be in that Quarter, w^h is destined to the Attack of Fort Mifflin—Their Boats are moved from Delaware; This is Intelligence gained from a Ferryman opposite Cooper's Ferry who came from Philadelphia this Day.—Our Guard Boats keep the Enemy from transporting Provisions &c: the usual Way, but they pass unmolested over Tinnicum Island, by the Way of Derby Creek, A Rout, that lays out of our Power.—They Enemy will make Fort Mifflin very warm; I shall relieve them from Time to Time to my utmost. I think they will Open their Batteries with great Activity: Soon after w^{ch}, it is probable they will bring down their Water Craft from Schylkil, which will make a Line of Fire intersecting that from their Principal Battery on Province Island,⁵ at an Angle of about thirty Degrees.—The Commodore⁶ seems determined to meet them with Spirit, adhearing to the same Dispositions, w^{ch} I had the Honor of mentioning in my Letter of Yesterday.⁷—The two Mischiefs the Enemy will Effect by their cannonade, will be making of Breeches in the mud Walls, and knocking down the Pallisades—To remedy w^{ch} as much as possible, I am sending numbers of Pallisades into the Fort, & great Quantities of Fascines.—I hope to God, our mutual Efforts here may be pleasing to your Excellency; I am certain they arise from good Intentions. . . . I am, [&c.]

J M Varnum

. . . . P.S. ¼ past Seven—W^m. Ward is bro't in by my Scouts, a Prisoner from the Camilla, who was this afternoon taken “he come ashore with the Captain,⁸ to dine at Billingsport;—He says the Ships are in Readiness to move up upon a Signal, w^{ch} is to be given from Province Island, w^{ch} will be an English Jack hoisted. They are to attack Red Bank, saying that if they should take fort Mifflin, red Bank would cover the Garrison. Says the Shipping have Orders to move, some to New York, some to one Place, & some to another, in a Fortnight,—Should they not take the Forts.—Says the Ships have not more than a Third of their Compliment, & are very sickly—” Whither their Preparations against Mifflin are real or a Feint, I cannot say, but believe the former, however, shall attend to both Circumstances—

GOVERNOR THOMAS SHIRLEY TO MARQUIS DE BOUILLÉ

[Extract]

Sir—

Dominica 9th November 1777

I have now the honor to answer your Excellency's Letter dated the 19th October¹ which I received about a fortnight ago. . . .

It is extremely unfortunate that your Excellency's efforts for preventing the Sale of Prizes taken from the English Nation by her rebellious Subjects and carried into your Ports prove so very ineffectual and that the extensiveness of your Excellency's Island puts it out of your power to have your orders upon that head strictly and immediately put in execution in all parts of it.

I doubt, Sir, this will not be very satisfactory to my Court—

I must confess, Sir, that the steps your Excellency has taken to prevent French men from arming and acting in an hostile manner against the English Nation are extremely prudent and proper, since I find by your Excellency's own Letters that there are such numbers who attempt it. But, Sir, the English have not declared War with France nor France with England, and I believe it is the intention of both Courts to avoid it if possible; therefore why should your Excellency have so much trouble in hindering Frenchmen from arming. I was hopeful that your Excellency would have been as active in hindering the English Rebels from arming and fitting themselves for War in your Ports.

I have most carefully examined the Congress Commission which your Excellency was so obliging as to send me, and should be under the highest obligations to you Sir, if you could assist me towards finding out the Fabricator here if it has been fabricated in this Island which I much doubt and should rather think it was printed at Martinique or Guadaloupe and that your Excellency has been misinformed in that particular[.] After having made every private search and inquiry, I laid it before his Majesty's Council and the inclosed Gazette² will shew your Excellency the Public method that Government has taken to come at the truth of it. The person who has informed your Excellency will be equally entitled to the reward offered, let him be of what Nation he will. I have the Honor to be [&c.]

CAPTAIN TOBIAS FURNEAUX, R.N., TO REAR ADMIRAL SIR PETER PARKER

Sir,

Providence 10th: November 1777.

On the 6th. Ins^t about 5 AM His Maty's Ship Syren under my Command run on Point Judith; the Convoy under my Charge was immediately apprised of the danger, and all avoided it except the Ship Sisters and a small Schooner¹ (Sam^l: Layton Master) which were too near to shun the point; After making several efforts to get the Ship off without success, sent the first Lieut^v in the Pinnace to inform you of our situation, but as he found it impracticable to get to Newport in the Pinnace went on board a Sloop, and the Pinnace returned with four of her Crew; I then found the Ship must be inevitably lost, and consulted with the Officers remaining on board for the safety of the People, and determined to attempt getting the Schooner off, which was effected; the utmost expedition was using to get the People aboard, some were sent and the Schooner got under way in order to be bro't under the protection of the Ship from the firing ashore, when the Fore & Peek halliards were unfortunately shot away, and the Schooner went ashore: As it was possible some assistance might be sent from Newport, thought it would be imprudent to surrender, before there was an absolute Necessity to do for the preservation of the people. On the 7th: about 8 [AM] we saw two Sail which were imagined to be the Flora & Lark, [they] Anchored about $\frac{1}{2}$ past 9, soon after which sent a boat with a P[etty officer] and four Men to acquaint them that the Ship was still in our possession (and as the boat did not return conclude they were detained on board one of the Frigates) soon after the boat was sent it came to blow very strong and the Sea rose greatly, so that I concl[uded] they would not be able to give us any assistance, but did not give up the Ship 'till about 2 AM, when the Water having rose considerably between decks were obliged to get the People on the Quarter deck, the Sea then making a breach over the Ship, which had received several large Shot from Field-pieces ashore: The lives of the People would have been greatly endangered to no purpose, [if] we persisted in keeping the Ship any longer.—Had two Men [killed] and the Master & four men wounded.—Should have found great difficulty in getting the People ashore, nor do I think it could have been effected without the loss of many, had not the People ashore with the greatest diligence exerted themselves particularly in assisting them.—The People are very much distressed for Cloathing, therefore beg you will please to send a supply of Slops for their relief as soon as possible.—I am [&c.]

CONTINENTAL NAVY BOARD OF THE MIDDLE DEPARTMENT TO GEORGE WASHINGTON

Continental Navy Board

Borden Town 10th Nov^r: 1777—

Sir

In answer to your Letter of yesterday, we would inform your Excellency that when we first sent the Navy Board at this Place & got our Frigates up we had formed a Plan for defending them by a small Battery; of which, among many other Things we gave Notice to the Marine Committee of Congress. We had no Answer to our Letter from that Committee, 'till the Day before yesterday, when they sent us the Resolve of Congress referred to in your Letter. In the mean Time however we had the Honour of a Correspondence with your Excellency on this Subject; in which you fully declared your Judgment of the Matter and explicitly told us what you would have done. We have the Satisfaction of assuring your Excellency that your Orders were immediately complied with & as punctually executed as our Situation would permit of. The Frigates have been long since sunk & now lie fast aground in a Place where they can receive no Damage from the Ice & cannot possibly be got off by the Enemy unless they knew the particular Parts where they have been bored, & of which we have a secret Gage that will enable us to raise them with Ease when a suitable Time shall offer. We gave you our Word that your Desire should be complied with & we have fulfill'd our Engagement so far as respected the Frigates; the men indeed have not been discharged owing to the following Accident: In sinking one of the Ships she unfortunately lay against a steep Bank, which the Tide's falling, caused her to heave outwards from the Shoar. As this is an uneasy Situation & may injure the Ship we have been obliged to retain all the Hands & men here more to get her up-right again. We have not yet been able to effect this Purpose but hope to do it in a few Days with the Purchases & Powers we are preparing to apply. All other Vessels great & small (one only excepted) we have with great Labour crowded up Crosswicks Creek, where most of them lye aground at high Water, nor can any be got down but by means of an extraordinary Tide or Fresh nor then, but with the utmost [torn]¹ & Patience. Not trusting wholly to this [torn] however, our Determination is to sink [one] Vessel at the mouth of the Creek, which [would] effectually Secure them from the Enemy. The Ship excepted above, is a large Vessel belonging to M^r Rob^t Morris, having on [board] a valuable Cargoe of Tobacco part Contin[ental] & part his private Property. This Ship [cannot] possibly be got up the Creek with her [Cargo] we are therefore unloading her into Sha[llops] & when empty shall get her also up the Creek or sink her, whichever may be most suitable. We request your Excellency would be perfectly easy as to the Shipping at this Place. The Enemy may possibly send up & burn them, this we cannot help—but you may depend upon it none of them shall fall into their Hands so as to become an annoyance to your military Operations.

It gives us great Concern to think your Excellency should for a Moment suppose us capable of neglecting your earnest Instructions after having so solemnly assured you we would strictly obey them. We confess, however, the Resolve of Congress in Consequence of our former Representation, gave you sufficient Reason to suppose we had applied to that Body, instead of following your Advice. But the Mystery will unfold when you consider that our Application to Congress was prior to the Letters we received from you on this Subject. We did indeed wrote to Congress a second Time enclosing a Copy of your Instructions to us and declaring our Determination of complying with them. But Congress, anxious, as we suppose to save the Frigates, & not so apprehensive of Danger from the Enemy, framed their Resolve parallel to our first Scheme; which on further Consideration appears to be ineffectual.

We shall be happy in hearing from your Excellency that the above Representation is satisfactory; & that our Conduct in this Affair meets with your Approbation. If any thing is amiss, or you would wish any thing further to be done in our Department you may depend on our earnest Endeavours to comply with your Desire.

We request your Excellency would be so good as to forward the enclosed Packet to York Town by the first Opportunity: We have therein informed Congress of what we have done & our Reasons for so doing.

With the utmost Esteem & sincere Prayers for your Health & Success we have the Honour to be [&c.]

GEORGE WASHINGTON TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS

Sir Camp at White Marsh Nov 10th: 1777

... With respect to the views of the Navy Board for securing the Frigates¹—The situation of the Army would not admit of a compliance with them, supposing they would answer the end. I have therefore written to the Board, in the most pressing terms to have the Frigates scutled in such way, that they may be raised when it shall be necessary, and that in the mean time, they may not be liable to injury from floating ice.² I see no measure so likely to secure [th]em to us and against the Enemy's attempts. I have been extremely fearful, they would have possessed and employed them with the *Delaware*³ & their Batteries on the rear of the Gallies and the Fort,⁴ while the Ships below attacked in Front. I need not point out the probable consequences of such an Event—they are too obvious.

The Resolves⁵ which you request to be communicated to the Army, shall be published in General orders—The Letters for Commodore Hazlewood &c have been put in a proper channel of Conveyance. . . .⁶

... I have nothing very interesting to communicate. The Enemy have lost One of their New floating Batteries. It sunk in a little time after it was launched. There has been a Canonade to day—it still continues. I do not know the occasion, but imagine, it is between the Ships and Gallies. I have the Honor to be [&c.]

LIEUTENANT COLONEL SAMUEL SMITH TO GEORGE WASHINGTON

[Extract]

Sir

Fort Mifflin 10th. Novem^r 1777

... As the principal object I presume of your Excellency is to hinder the enemy from raising the Chevaux de frize this winter, I am of Opinion it could be done nearly as well from the other Shore as from this fort, was our Cannon there. Gen^l Vernum has inform'd you of the two Gun Battery he erected,¹ with which the enemy might be hindered from raising the Obstructions with the Assistance of the fleet and 2 Guns that may be placed on Bush Island. My Opinion & the Opinion of the Officers in this Garrison is, that unless the Seige can be rais'd the enemy must in a short time reduce this place, we are determined to defend it to the last extremity, but we are of Opinion that it wou'd be for the common good to destroy the whole of the works and take the Guns to the Jersey Shore; where they'll serve to guard the River, and in case we could get Possession of Billingsport to mount on it, had we that post it would secure the River effectually. The Gallies will be much annoyed from the enemies Batteries, and when the Shiping comes up, we shall have the whole of their fire, a Saylor taken this morning says they are prepar'd to come up and act in consort with their Batteries.

Our present Situation strikes us in the light I have described, shou'd circumstances alter our Sentiments I shall give you the earliest notice. I have the Honor to be [&c.]

JOURNAL OF MAJOR FRANÇOIS LOUIS TEISSÈDRE DE FLEURY

[November] 10—[Fort Mifflin]

... It is probable that the Enemy will undertake to carry this place by Storm, and I should not fear them if we could fix the floating Chain described in the Figure;¹ it would cover the Front Which is likely to be attacked, and by delivering us from our uneasiness for this Side, would enable us to post the men destined to it's defence, at the Wall of Masonry which is ten feet high and is not out of the reach of an Escalade, notwithstanding the Ditches, Pits and Stakes &ca—with which we have endeavour'd to surround it—

The Commodore,² Master of the incomparable Chain in question, proposes to stretch it by means of Buoys, between our Island and Province Island,³ I believe this obstacle to the communication between the Enemys Fleet and Army will be of little consequence. and if he would spare us the Chain, the Enemy would pay dear for their Hardiness if they dared attack us. Colonel Smith wrote this morning to ask this favour but I am afraid that public Interest will suffer by private misunderstandings.— I am interrupted by the Bombs and Balls which fall thick—

EMMANUEL DE PLIARNE TO THE MASSACHUSETTS BOARD OF WAR

york town 9^{ber} 10th 1777

I had some Difficulties for taking any concern in the Ship Pliarne, as My letters have informed you. the trouble I had for her in Charlestown Made me forseen her unlucky fate, and it is with pain I must tell you that she is Now at New york. I have seen Just Now the News Papers from Philadelphia where the Prizes are Mentioned and it is said that the ship Pliarne, Cap^e Green, Bound to Nantz from Charlestown was taken By the Brune frigate¹— the Brig freedom Armed Vessel from your Port is also Mentioned to have been taken—²

I am, Gentlemen, with several ready to think that all these prizes wich are Made Every Day are Made by the Carefulness and indifference of the Crew—you Cannot find in any port upon the Continent the half of Sailors necessary for the Vessels, and Every adventurer is obliged to Compleat the Number by English or other disaffected Sailors who are Glad to find occasion to run away with the Vessels to the Men of war— by our accounts from Europe I Learn Great quantity of prizes have been made by that way and indeed it is too Much to run the Risk from the own Crew, besides the Dangers of the Men of war—

these Considerations, Gentlemen, Determine me to not be Concerned in any of your Vessels Except to have on Board the share of the Cargo, as it is stipulated in the Contract—I prefere to have Vessels Maned with french men or people I will acquainted with, than to be Concerned in any where it will be two to one, if the sailors don't Go to the Men of war.

as soon as I will hear Virginia or Maryland free from the Men of war, I will write to the Hon. Board of war—this winter is the time to Make remittances and I hope, Gentlemen, you will Seaze Every opportunity to do it.

I think the Best Manner to Convey the Letters from the Hon. Board to me is to Direct them to the Delegates of your State in Congress by your Expresses and other trusty Gentlemen who Come to Congress—your Delegates, I am sure, will be Exact to forward them to me—your Post is so irregular.

I hope to hear soon from you and to receive an answer to my letters from the southern and the letter from this place of the 25th ult. I have the honour to be [&c.]

GOVERNOR WILLIAM MATHEW BURT TO COMTE D'ARBAUD

Copie de la Lettre de M^r Burt Gouverneur à Antigue à M^r Le Comte D'arbaud, en datte du 10. 9^{bre}. 1777.

Monsieur.

J'ai reçu hier apresmidi l'honneur de la Lettre de votre Excellence, ainsi que la Déposition d'un certain Pascaly¹ et la lettre de M^r Guionneau Commandant à Deshayes, sur une Plainte que vôtre Excellence forme d'une frégate appartenante comme Vôtre Excellence l' imagine au Roi mon Maitre.

Je suis fâché que votre Ex^{cc}. me met encore dans la dure nécessité d'observer, les injures mesquines et peu honnetes avec lesquelles fort librement vous tancéz les serviteurs du Roi mon maitre; vous pouvéz vous souvenir de celle qui régarde les juges de la cour de Nice amirauté, que j'ai remarqué: cette seconde qui dit que les officiers de la frégate de sa Majesté ont poursuivi les negres et mulatres afin d'en faire des esclaves à leur profit, ne mérite presque pas de réplique; mais, Monsieur, il faut qu'une fois pour toutes; je prie votre Excellence de tacher de gagner sur Elle de croire que les officiers de Sa Majesté agissent avec zèle pour son service, affection pour sa Personne et famille, Détestation de Rebels, et non par principe d'interets. Comme ceci ne heurte point la protection accordée aux Pirates et Rebels, cette Demande, probablement sera accordée.²

Pascali sçavoit à qui il couroit: ce m'est un devoir de donner à vôtre Excellence une rélation de cette personne distingué; il est si notoirement infame que même M^r Le Marquis De Bouillé, quoiqu'il souffre, que le carennage soit prostitué et un Bassin de Rebels en refond le Batiment Pirate nommé Le Serpent Sonnette cependant persuadé de la conduite infamante de Pascaly, qui avec un mélange de gens, de Corse, français, Espagnols, hollandais, et américains, commande un Pirate américain armé qui navigue de la Martinique et de la Guadeloupe (qui vraisemblément est le Batiment pris) à donné ordre aux gardes Côtes de la Martinique de le faire Rentrer.³

Il faut aussi que j'apprenne à vôtre Excellence que Pascaly n'est pas un Espagnol, mais un Corse fugitif, que s'y il à Commission, c'est de L'Agent du Congrès; qu'il à plus d'une fois volé des negres à Tabac, d'ou il à attiré des Negres, et les à portés à la Trinité, où ils ont etés réclamés; et le Gouverneur à promis de faire tous ses efforts pour les découvrir afin de les remettre.

Voici l'homme à qui vôtre Excellence, et M^r Guionneau donnent avec chaleur protection, le reçoivent à bras ouverte, et voudraient faire voir du résentiment parceque son Batiment à été pris.⁴

À L'égard de la Lettre du Commandant, vôtre Excellence voudra bien m'excuser si je dis qu'elle met de peu d'importance; Les Commandants en Général ont fait voir tant de partialité dans vôtre Gouvernement aux Pirates, que je dois conclure avec beaucoup plus de sens propre, que ce sur quoi est fondé l'opinion desfavorable de vôtre Excellence contre les officiers de la frégate du Roi, que leurs ressentimens d'avoir vu ou d'avoir entendu dire qu'un Batiment avait été pris, à été plus sincere, que leurs zêles ou leurs indignations qu'ils voudraient faire parade, relativement à ce qu'ils appellent Indignités commises contre sa Majesté tres Chretienne: ma sensibilité me fait connoitre, que des sujets qui ne sont point soumis aux ordres de leurs souverains à quoi vos commandants sont contraires, le traite avec des Indignités si insolentes qu'ils sont calleux pour la conduite des autres.⁵

J'ai l'honneur de Déclarer avec la plus profonde verité que j'ai le plus grand respect pour la Dignité de sa Majesté très Chretienne; et que j'aurais un chagrin Infini si quelques Personnes dans ce Gouvernement y offrait le moindre mépris ou Indécence.

Comme vôtre Excellence à mis au jour une accusation si legere et si vague contre une fregate et quelques Personnes, et qu'elle n'a pas donnée aucune indice qui pourrait les faire connoitre comme nous avons plusieurs fregates et mouches dans ces parages il m'est impossible de savoir sur qui me fixer. Je dois aussi vous informer que la conduite maritime des vaisseaux de Guerre, est plus immédiatement a la connoissance de l'Amiral.⁶

Je n'occuperai pas plus longtems vôtre Excellence, que pour lui faire observer que si sa Ligne réelle de justice, avoit été aussi forte que celle avec laquelle elle s'exprime, je n'aurais pas eû tant de raisons de me plaindre dans le cas de M^r Gordon.⁷

Comme vôtre Excellence m'annonce quelle vâ transmettre immédiatement à sa cour cette affaire: j'en feré de même à la mienne, et feré connoitre au Roi mon maitre, comme il est de mon devoir, les Torts réitérés faits à ses fidelles sujets, par les habitants de la Guadeloupe, ainsi que leurs attachements, et Partialité Pour les américains. J'ai lhonneur d'être &c.^a

[Translation]

Copy of the letter from Mr. Burt, Governor of Antigua, to Comte d'Arbaud, dated 10 November 1777.

Sir.

Yesterday afternoon, I received your Excellency's letter, along with the deposition of a certain Pascali¹ and the letter of M. Guionneau, commandant of Deshayes, about a complaint which your Excellency is lodging with regard to a frigate belonging, as your Excellency assumes, to my master the king.

I resent Your Excellency's once more forcing me to bear witness to the petty, unfair insults with which you freely abuse the king's servants; you may recall the one regarding the judges of the Admiralty Court of Nice, which I mentioned; this second one which says that the officers of his Majesty's frigate were hunting down negroes and mulattoes to sell as slaves barely deserves a reply; but, sir, once and for all, I beg your Excellency to try to persuade you to believe that His Majesty's officers act out of zeal for His royal service, affection for himself and his family, and loathing for rebels, and not out of their own interests. As this does not at all conflict with the protection accorded to pirates and rebels, this request will probably be granted.²

Pascali knew to whom he ran: this forces me to inform your Excellency what type of distinguished person Pascali is. He is so notorious that even the Marquis de Bouillé, although he is already tolerating prostitution of the careening-place and a dockful of rebels, and is refitting the pirate ship called Rattlesnake, and although he knew of Pascali's ignoble conduct—Pascali, with a mixture of people, Corsicans, French, Spaniards, Dutch, and Americans, is commanding an armed American pirate ship which is working out of Martinique and Guadeloupe and is apparently the ship which was seized—gave the coast-guards at Martinique orders to bring him back.³

I must also inform Your Excellency that Pascali is not a Spaniard, but rather a Corsican fugitive, and if he has a commission, he is doing it as an agent of the Congress; he has on more than one occasion stolen tobacco from negroes, which he used to attract negroes, and took them to Trinity, where they were reclaimed; and the governor promised to make every effort to find and return them.

Here is the man that your Excellency and M. Guionneau are protecting so warmly, receiving him with open arms; this is the man whose ship you resented being seized.⁴

With regard to the letter from the commandant, I hope your Excellency will excuse me if I suggest that he disregard it; the commanders in general have shown such partiality in your government towards pirates that I must conclude with much more proper sense than the basis of your Excellency's poor opinion of the officers of the king's frigate, that their resentment at having heard about or seen that a ship had been seized was more sincere than their proclaimed zeal or indignation at what they call indignities perpetrated on His Very Christian Majesty: The way I perceive it, subjects who do not at all submit to the orders of their rulers to which your commanders are averse behave with indignities so insolent that they are callous to the behavior of the others.⁵

I am pleased to state very truthfully that I have the greatest respect for His Very Christian Majesty's dignity, and that I would be terribly chagrined if several people in this government were acting defiantly or improperly.

Since your Excellency has made so careless and ambiguous an accusation against a frigate and several people, and he has not given any indication as to how to identify them, since we have several frigates and advice boats in these waters, there is no way I could know which one it might be. I must also inform you that the maritime conduct of warships is something more in the admiral's jurisdiction.⁶

I will not take any more of your Excellency's time except to point out to him that if his approach to justice were as passionate as his language, I would not have so many reasons to complain in the case of Mr. Gordon.⁷

As Your Excellency tells me that he is going to pass this business directly on to his court, I will likewise do the same to mine and inform my master the king, as is my duty, of the repeated injustices perpetrated on his loyal subjects by the inhabitants of Guadeloupe, as well as their dealings with, and partiality for, the Americans. I have the honor of being &c.

Signed, William Mathew Burt.

2. Comment written by Comte d'Arbaud in the margin: "il m'a paru plus convenable, d'attribuer a [illeg.] cupidité, cette voye de fait, qui devenait un acte d'hostilité, si elle était déterminée [illeg.] la poursuite, sans egard, d'un ennemi, sur une côte neutre qui doit imprimer du [r]espect: une audace pareille ne peut, ni ne doit être supportée." Translation: "this assault, which turned into an act of hostility, would be more properly attributed to cupidity as it was a determined and reckless pursuit of an enemy on a neutral coast which ought to be respected: this sort of impertinence cannot and will not be tolerated."

3. Comment written by d'Arbaud in the margin: "Ce n'est point a titre de protection personele accordée au sieur pascali corse ou espagnol, que j'ai demande restitution, et repudation: mais bien a titre d'offense envers les sujets du roy mon maitre, et d'insulte sur les costes d'une de ses possessions, pas une voye de fait, et un acte d'hostilité que le droit des gens, [illeg.] de la neutralité, et l'union qui regne entre les courones de france, et d'angleterre condamment également: tels sont le motifs de ma reclamation, on ne peut prendre le charge par ma depeche a Mr. Burt—et le gouverneur ou ne la pas lire, ou n'a pas dicté la reponse peu mesurée, malhonnete, et tout a fait étrangere a l'objet en discussion qu'il ma adressée: Db". Translation: "it is not at all a matter of according personal protection to M. Pascali, whether he is Corsican or Spanish, that I requested restitution and repudiation, but rather it is on account of an offense against the subjects of my master the king, and an attack on the coasts of one of his possessions, by an assault, and an act of hostility that the rights of men and of neutrality, and the union which reigns between the crowns of France and England condemn equally: these are the motives for my claim: one cannot support the charge by reference to my dispatch to Mr. Burt, and the governor either did not read it, or did not dictate the answer which was immoderate, false, and completely unrelated to the topic under discussion which I addressed. Db."

4. Comment written by d'Arbaud in the margin: "tous ces objets presentes d'une maniere peu convenable, et jobadere [?] tous grossiere, avec des epithetes et des personalites que des personnes en place ne doivent jamais se permettre ne meritent aucune discussion. Db." Translation: "all of these subjects, presented in a manner unsuitable and extremely foolish, with epithets and personal remarks which people of rank should never allow themselves to use, do not even merit discussion. Db."

5. Comment written by d'Arbaud in the margin: "une poursuite a main armée, sur une coste neutre: ne peut être déterminée, que par une audace qui n'admet ni egards ni considerations, je suis bien éloigné de le presumer, ou par une cupidité qui n'est point arrêtée par les lois conservatrices de la propriété qui sont les mêmes et communes a toutes les nations: Db." Translation: "armed pursuit on a neutral coast can only be embarked upon by an insolence which deserves neither regard nor consideration—I am far removed from presuming it—or by a greed unchecked by the laws that protect property, which are the same and common to all nations. Db."

6. Comment written by d'Arbaud in the margin: "l'accusation n'est point vague, elle est moins encore legere. elle porte sur un acte de violence, une voye de fait exercee sur nos costes par une fregate de sa majesté britannique. de 26 canons. Db." Translation: "the accusation is not ambiguous, and even less so careless. It deals with an act of violence, an assault perpetrated on our coasts by one of his British majesty's 26-gun frigates. Db."

7. Comment written by d'Arbaud in the left margin: "imputation personnelle qui porte sur la bonne fois, qui ne merite aucune reponse Db." Translation: "personal allegation about my lack of good faith, which does not deserve a reply Db."

CONTINENTAL NAVY BOARD OF THE MIDDLE DEPARTMENT TO CAPTAIN ISAIAH ROBINSON

Continental Navy [Board] ¹

Sir.

Borden Town 11th Nov^r [1777]

We are very sorry to find by [your] Letter of the 8th. Inst that you have en[tirely] misunderstood ours of the 6th. We did [not] intend by any thing said therein to [give] you the least Pain or offence. We [only] mentioned, that when we formerly s[ent] Supplies for the Fleet, we told you [there] were several Articles required which [it] is not in our Power to furnish, & [we] observed Indents came for those very [ones.] We likewise wished the former Indents [had been] compleat as to those Things we could pr[ovide] since a second Application gave us the [necessity] of sending into the Country & opening [all the] Packages in order to get at them. Our [only] Desire is that our Officers & Men may [be] accomodated with every Necessary & Co[mfort] we can procure them, & have not drop[ped the] least Hint that we thought your De[mands] unreasonable.—You seem to have [made] up your Ideas a little too hastily; w[e wish] however, that you would think [no] more of this Matter, as we shall not.

There is a public Bake house which we have supplied with Flour, [out] of which the Commissaries assured us t[hey] would furnish our Fleet with Bread, [tom] & other Provisions in Common with the[ir] Fleet, & M^r Crispin left us in Order [to] chose a Cargoe of Rum for the Purpose arrived along Shoar. We informed you of this immediately after the Engagement was made. But should he not be able to supply you, or should there be any Mistake in the Matter, let us know immediately & we will exert every Means for procuring you a sufficiency of Rum & Bread. At any Rate, however, we will forward you a few Hgds as soon as we can procure Waggons to carry them.

We are sorry you offer to send us a Sample of the Rum you received for Spirits. This is rather touching us in a tender Point, carrying an Insinuation that we either doubt your Declaration of the Quality of the Rum you received; or that you doubted our having put West India Rum into the waggon for the Use of the officers.—We request you would not affront us so much as to send this Sample.

We rejoice in your Escape from the Enemy's Boats—Your Situation was indeed critical—& we are happy in knowing you have taken Measures to cut off the Supplies to the City; could this be effectually done, Gen^l Howe's Stay at Philad^a must be of short Duration.

M^r James Wharton is gone to Mount Holly to purchase Stores for our Vessels, & will forward them immediably if they can be procured there.—We sincerely wish you well [&c.]

CHAPLAIN EBENEZER DAVID TO NICHOLAS BROWN

Dear Sir

Fort Mercer Nov^{br} 11—1777

I know your anxiety to hear of the event of every Day I wrote you a few days since by M^r Thompsons He was able to inform you exactly concerning our situation then—Last monday Morning the Enemy opened several Batteries upon us from Province Island ¹ & have by day cannonaded & heave shells ever since—not by Night so constant—We have lost but few men—But the works Barracks &^c are near cut all the peaces—& I find that it is in agitation to abandon them. the Enemy got up two Brigs a Schooner & a sloop last night runing near Fort Mifflin these must afford a large supply of Provision they are safe in Schoolkill save the sloop that is run aground—If this could be done when our Galleys had assistance from Fort Mifflin—what when the Fort is turned against them—The Commanding Officer of Fort Mifflin ² & the Commodore ³ are at variance (a most unhappy affaire) I forbear to mention what has hapened between them in my hearing since I have had pen in hand—I could weep for the Consequences—The Bearer hurrys me—in one word I expect that the Enemy will get a superior force upon the water above our Cheveau de frize & the Consequences are evident—May Americas GOD interpose & save our Country when those set for the defence of it are at swords point Gen^l Varnums conduct on the Occasion as well as Col^l Greens dose them honor in striving to make peace—We still think we can hold this Post as long as it shall be thought necessary & Both officers & Men are Firm & unshaken—Oh that we could hold out til Frost Ice—

THE GAZETTE OF THE STATE OF SOUTH-CAROLINA,
 TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 11, 1777

Charles-Town, Nov. 11.

Capt. Vickery informs us, that he was chased to the Northward of Cape Romain, last Wednesday, by a large ship, till he ran into three fathom water, when another ship giving a signal, she gave over the chase, and stood off.¹

The schooner Jemmy and Sally, one of the prizes taken by our State brigantine of war Notre Dame, has got safe into Sunbury in Georgia.

The sloop Tom, from the Bay for Bristol, lately taken by the Washington privateer of this port, arrived here last Tuesday.

On Saturday also arrived here, the ship Spiers, another of the Washington's prizes; taken on the 15th of September last, but retaken on the 19th of October, in lat. 32, just on the edge of soundings, by the armed ship George, from St. Augustine, Captain John Hosmer (described in this Gazette, No. 2076)² and again recovered from the enemy, by Capt. William Nicholls, the prize-master and other men belonging to the Washington, together with three Frenchmen, who had been taken by the George and put on board. The George (not the General Howe transport, as was said in our last)³ had taken the sloop Sally, Capt. Carr, from this port bound for St. Eustatius, before she fell in with the Spiers: On taking the latter she immediately proceeded for St. Augustine, being very ill-manned, and anchored with them off the bar the 22d, at 5 o'clock in the evening; the British prize-master going ashore, Capt. Nicholls thought this a good opportunity to alter her destination, and accordingly, at 8 o'clock, the wind blowing very hard, after securing such men as might oppose him, cut her cable, made sail, though not 300 yards from each of the other vessels, and brought her off safe. Capt. Hosmer had taken another prize during his cruize, a brig from Nantes bound for this port, called the Triton, Luke Chauvet, master, vessel and cargo all French property: He took her on the 2d of October, but she was afterwards lost near St. Augustine. Capt. Chauvet was one of the persons put on board the Spiers, and is arrived in her.

The masters of some small vessels arrived from the Northward yesterday, say, that they on Sunday last saw a ship, and two brigs or snows to the southward of Cape Romain.

'Tis reported: that a privateer sloop, from Halifax, is cruising in lat. 28.—And the Hinchinbrook, with a sloop, and two schooners, none of them well manned, are said to be on a cruize, from St. Augustine,—from whence the ship George also may sail, after having been hove down in St. John's river.

Hon^d Sir

Boston 12 Nov^r 1777—

I take the liberty by Capt Perkins,¹ of writing to your Excellency, respecting the Plan adopted for fitting out the Vessells of Warr belonging to your State—The Oliver Cromwell now lies at the Wharf, under Care of Lieut Chapman,² who has one man only with him,—many Seaman and others would have enter'd before this, had we known upon what establishment to have taken them

Officers as well as Men are desirous of getting out as soon as possible, and are very pressing for enlisting papers—The same I say of the Defence, which is now near ready for Launching, but another difficulty attends her, I am at a loss for the States determination of her being rig'd into a Ship or a Brig, Captain Harding was of opinion she would make a better Ship than a Brig—You must be sensible it will not do for me to determine, I must desire orders as soon as can be conveniently sent; as nothing can be done about Her Masts and rigging, (and the Weather will soon be so cold, as to make it in a manner impossible to work upon them) untill it is determin'd.—Capt Perkins will wait upon your Excellency respecting the Port Wine and Tea sent to Lebanon, out of the Honor Brig, amounting to £569 . . 10/— the moiety I would have paid Capt Perkins on the spot; but he mentioning something about a division of the Tea, I tho't best to lett it alone untill his return, when I will pay him the ballance, and charge the State accordingly—Coll Trumbull³ dld me your favor of 6th Instant, this day—the Order shall be duly attended to, as soon as it suits the Coll^s convenience.—I remain [&c.]

Head Quarters [Whitemarsh, Pa.] 12 Novem^r 1777

I have your fav^r of the 10th: and am only sorry that I did not sooner know my request of sinking the Frigates¹ had been complied with. The delay of the Resolve of Congress from the time you first applied for their advice, was what led me into a mistake, and I am obliged to you for the genteel manner in which you excuse me. I am perfectly satisfied with the measures which you have taken to secure the shipping and desire when you have no further occasion for the Men that they may be disposed of as directed in my former letters—I am [&c.]

DIARY OF CAPTAIN FRANCIS DOWNMAN

[Carpenters Island, Pa.]

November 12th.—The firing from our batteries in a small degree kept up during the night and pushed on with vigour when day appears. Our men-of-war are approaching nearer the chevaux-de-frise. The Vigilant is to come up as soon as the tide will admit her. She is not to come over or through any part of chevaux-de-frise, but up a creek between Province Island and another small isle.¹ Her station is to be on the angle of the rebel grand battery and on the right of our batteries. A sloop,² likewise, with three 18-prs. is to follow the Vigilant, and after she is moored the sloop is to anchor just ahead of her. The men-of-war are to approach as near the chevaux-de-frise as possible and to keep up a fire on the fort and prevent their galleys from falling on the Vigilant. The floating battery with two 32-prs. is to be stationed on the left of our batteries, and a detachment of the guards is to be in readiness to storm.

CONTINENTAL MARINE COMMITTEE TO THE CONTINENTAL NAVY BOARD
OF THE EASTERN DEPARTMENT

To the Commissioners of the Navy Board at Boston

Gentlemen

[York] November 12th 1777

We have received M^r Warrens favour of the 4th & 7th ultimo informing us of the loss of the Brigantine *Hampden*¹ and we have no doubt but care has been taken to save as much of that Vessels materials as possible. Should you think what has been saved of those materials worthy of another Hull we would have you purchase One, provided it can be done on reasonable Terms, and that you get one every way well calculated for a Cruizer, particularly in point of sailing as that is a most material object with us. M^r Bradford the agent at Boston hath lately advised us of the arrival of a Prize Brigantine called the Industrious Bee which he thinks would be suitable for a Cruizer. You will please to order a Court of enquiry on Captain Burroughs and his Pilot and if the Captain is acquitted and you purchase the Hull as above advised we would have the command given to him and when ready for Sea you will dispatch him on a Cruize the most likely for success. Enclosed are some Resolves of Congress which you will please to have published in all the Eastern Papers. M^r Cushing informs the 36 Gun Ship will soon be launched,² but that he knows of no provision of Guns for her. That matter is under your direction and you will use every possible means to obtain them, and inform us as soon as may be what probability you have of succeeding therein and upon what terms; and you will see that all materials are provided for intire equipement for Sea and that all possible dispatch be given. The Expence of the Navy is very great, but every delay adds to the charge and deprives the States of that advantage over our enemies, and of those supplies which are the great ends of their destination. We sent you by Doctor Lynn³ warrants upon the Loan Offices of Massachusetts and Rhode Island to the amount of 100,000 Dollars which we hope considering the present applications for monies from every quarter will for a time answer the demands on your Department. We are extreemly sorry to find such heavy complaints against Captain M^cNeill and we hope that Gentleman will be able to justify his conduct but as a Court Martial must be hereafter appointed for that purpose as well as for doing justice to the publick, we cannot consent in the mean time that the public Service should suffer, in addition therefore to what we have already in our former Letter said to you on that subject we must add, that if you apprehend the service will be injured by Captain M^cNeills remaining in the command of the Boston, you will suspend him till his conduct respecting his last Cruize is properly enquired into—Should this be done, you will put a person in command of her, the best qualified and most deserving you can procure being already in Commission perhaps you'll find none more diserving than Captain Olney; and you will also establish all such Officers in her, as have been in her the last Cruize who from proper inquiry you shall judge adequate to their stations, notwithstanding any suspensions or arrests of Cap^t McNeill We have sent by Captain Palmes warrants in favour of Mr Daniel Tillinghast Continental Agent at Providence for 44,000 Dollars and an order in his favour on the Honble Stephen Hopkins Esq for 15.926 Dollars & 8/9ths which we hope will answer the sums he has hitherto advanced. We shall direct him to exhibit his Account to you till the first of November from the time of his last Accounts exhibited to us— You will examine his vouchers and then transmit his account to us with such observations thereon as may occur to you, in order that we may settle the same to that time, after which he will from time to time settle his Accounts with, and make all applications for direction &c to you

As you have Authority so we approve of the Exchange of any officers from one Ship to another as they service may require, and we doubt not you had sufficient reasons for the Exchange of Captain Granis for Captain Palmes.—⁴

We are sorry to hear the expedition against Rhode Island was likely to prove unsuccessful, but we hope the getting the Frigates out of Providence River⁵ will not depend upon that circumstance, fully relying on your utmost exertions in that object as well as in every other in your department We remain [&c.]

P:S: Captain Palmes having lost his Horse on the Road, and being obliged to purchase another as he informs us, and not being in Cash to defrey his Expences on his return— On his application we have advanced him 200 Dollars and taken his receipt therefor duplicate whereof signed by him we inclose you in Order that you properly settle with him, referring to you how far he ought to be considered as to his loss, & Charges

Sir.

As the Weather is growing cold very fast we are uneasy on Account of the uncomfortable Situation of our Officers on Board the Fleet for want of Fire Places. We have endeavoured, but find we cannot procure the suitable Cannon Stoves. we are told however that some of the small open Stoves are so cast that they may have Pipes fitted to them & therefore may serve the present Occasion. We have, sent a Gentleman down to Mount Holley & we expect he will be able to get 5 such stoves for you & forward them immediately. We have also wrote to the Works at Holly ordering a Quantity of Sheet Iron to be rolled out as soon as possible & sent down. Your Smiths must contrive to make them into Pipes & fit them for; & we hope this may be done without much Difficulty. This is the most speedy Method we could think of for supplying you with these necessary Accomodations. We are [&c.]

Sir

Head Quarters Whitemarsh 13th. Novem^r 1777

The weight of the Enemy's Fire upon Fort Mifflin has made such an impression upon the Works, that I think it more than probable that the Garrison will soon be obliged to evacuate it totally, altho' I have directed them to keep up a shew of possession as long as possible. I shall be glad to know whether it will be possible for you to remain at or near your present station with the fleet, after our people have totally evacuated the Island, and the Enemy have taken possession? or whether it will be in your power to hinder them from erecting new Works upon the Island by the Fire of your Ships, Floating Batteries and Gallies? If this can be done, and we can keep possession of the Jersey Shore three Weeks longer, we may possibly hinder them from getting a clear passage thro' the Chevaux de frize this Winter, which to us is the most desirable event. They have already carr^d. some of their smaller Vessels, such as Brigs and sloops, between the Islands and into Schuylkill.

I confess myself unable to give you any Advice as to the disposition of the navy, supposing the Enemy in possession of Mud Island, and shall therefore be glad to have the opinion of yourself and Officers upon the subject. I am Sir

COLONEL SAMUEL HERRICK TO THE PRESIDENT OF THE VERMONT COUNCIL OF SAFETY

Sir

Poulet Novem^r 14th 1777—

I have the Pleasure to inform you, that the Enemy have abandoned Tyconderoga, Mount Independance &c^a on Saturday last after demolish^s all the Fortifications,

Bridges, burn^g all the Houses, & destroy^g all Stores Cannon &c^a which they could not bring off—Their Retreat was precipitate indeed, as appears by many Circumstances—

A few Days before I was informed by Deserters that their Shipping & a Number of Boats were loaded for S^t Johns, who had orders to return imediately to fetch more Load^g—about that Time I ordered Cap^t Eben^r Allen with 60 Rangers down to Lake Champlain with Orders to take two Armed Vessells by Stratagem, & to secure what Provisions, Forage &c^a he could—Cap^t Allen was join'd by Cap^t Lee¹ at Rutland—and a considerable Number of the Inhabitants & Hunters—a few Days after which enlarged Cap^t Allens Detachment to about 200. Men—

I suppose they had not yet recovered from the Surprize which my Letter of Nov^r 1st occasioned them when Cap^t Allens Detatch^t was discovered on the Lake—a few Days after which made them suppose I was serious in my hinted Projects & being afraid that their Retreat would be cut off at the Narrows—they imediately began their Retreats on the 3rd Instant—& finished the whole on Saturday last—

Major Wait² is gone with 75 Men to take Possession & to secure Stores, Cattle, Horses & Boats, if the Enemy have left any—Cap^t Allen is now harrassing the Enemies Rear endeavoring to take some scattering Boats—

The Coast is now clear & the Season is far advanced & Nothing to be feared from the Enemy in this Quarter till Spring—I would propose to Consideration of the Hon^l Council whether it would not be best for the Reg^t to be stationed in or about Bennington &c^a I have the Honor to be &c^a—

THE FREEMAN'S JOURNAL, OR NEW-HAMPSHIRE GAZETTE (PORTSMOUTH),
SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 15, 1777

Portsmouth, Nov. 14.

Monday last arrived at a safe port a prize Brigantine¹, from London bound to Halifax, taken by Captain Stacpole, in the privateer Brigantine McClary, belonging to this place; the invoice of her cargo amounts to twelve thousand pounds sterling, in the following articles, viz. English Goods, 13 Chests Bohea Tea, Loaf Sugar, Cheese, Steel, Porter, Hard Ware, Provisions, &c. The Captain of the prize informs, that on hearing Gen. Burgoyne had taken Tyconderoga, and his progress towards Albany, looking upon it that America was conquer'd, 35 sail came out with him, laden with the like articles, bound to different ports in America.

To the Hon^{ble}: the Council of the State of Massachusetts Bay.—

The Petition of John Dyson & Sam^l: Thwing for themselves and the rest of the Owners of the Privateer Washington of Fourteen Carriage Guns and ninety men¹
Humbly Sheweth,

That the said Privateer is now Compleatly manned and ready to Sail on a Cruise, and waits only for the want of Powder of which they were disappointed, and they are utterly at a Loss how to procure it unless your Honors will be pleased to Sell them a quantity out of the Publick Stores Sufficient for her Cruise, which will be Eight hundred weight.—

We therefore humbly pray your Honors would be pleased to Give Orders for them to receive the Quantity of Powder as aforesaid as the said Privateer is detained for nothing else at a very great Expence to the Owners, and if they can't Obtain it must break up the Cruise.—

And as in duty bound shall pray &c

Boston 14 Nov^r 1777—

This you will receive by M^r Angell¹ Lieut of the Defence, he waits upon your Excellency for the determination of the Council of Safety, respecting the fitting out the Vessells now in the Harbor of Boston—several Officers have arriv'd since I wrote by Capt Perkins,² who will be oblig'd to lay still untill M^r Angells return, I doubt not I should be able to obtain many good Seamen if I had orders so to do—I must refer your Excellency to M^r Angell for the particulars relating to each Vessel, especially the Defence, as we are very uncertain about preparing her rigging, Capt Harding was for Rigging her into a Ship, and most people are of opinion she could make a better Ship than Brig. I have given M^r Angell a Survey of the Defence,³ properly certified, and hope to receive full directions when he returns—We shall want two pair of Six pound Cannon—if we had all Sixes it would be better—M^r Angell will give your Excellency an account of the Stores we shall want from Connecticut—My brother some time since forwarded 7 bolts Russia Duck to Lebanon, we shall have occasion for that and a large Quantity besides.—I will take the most prudent measures for obtaining the Stores to be purchas'd in this place.—I remain [&c.]

MAJOR GENERAL NATHANAEL GREENE TO
 GEORGE WASHINGTON

[Extract]

D^r: Sir

At M^r: Morris Nov 14th 8 OClock PM 1777

... The flag was flying at Fort Mifflin at sunset this evening, there has been a very severe cannonade today—inclod is a letter from Col Greene respecting the condition of the fort¹—the enemy have got up two or three vessels into the Schuylkill, they were attempting to get up a two and thirty gun frigate,² between hog Island and Provence Island by the best observation we could make her guns were taken out and follow'd her in a sloop³—She did not get up, but what was the reason I know not—The Comodore⁴ should be directed to sink a vessel or two in the new channel as soon as possible, and the fort encouraged to hold out to the last—There is but one bridge over the Schuylkill and that is at the middle ferry—I examined the river my self from the falls to the mouth—

The enemy have got a chain of redoubts with Abatis between them from one river to the other, part of this is from information and part from my own observation—the Schuylkill is very deep and rapaid, too deep for foot to ford it—the bridge at Mattesons ford is not in so great forwardness as I could wish, the commanding officer sais it will be done in three days but a bridge of waggons can be thrown over for the foot to pass if that should not be done—the enemy are greatly discouraged by the forts holding out so long and it is the general opinion of the best of the citizens that the enemy will evacuate the city if the fort holds out until the middle of next week—

There is plenty of forage in the country especially about Darby—We purpose to examin the ground a little more about Darby tomorrow and if possible return tomorrow evening—From the best accounts we can get there is but five Ships, with troops on board in the river.—I am [&c.]

COUNCIL OF WAR HELD ON BOARD THE PENNSYLVANIA NAVY GALLEY CHATHAM

In Council of War held on board the Chatham Galley Nov^r 14th. 1777 Summoned by Commodore Hazlewood to deliberate on a letter wrote him by his Excellency Gen^l Washington dated Whitemarsh 13th Nov^r 1777—¹

After maturely considering the contents of his Excellency's Letter, this Council are unanimously of opinion, That should Fort Mifflin be evacuated & so fall into the enemys hands, it will be altogether impracticable for our Fleet or any of them to keep their present Station, or to prevent in such case the enemys raising works at the aforementioned Fort Mifflin, as in their present situation they are within reach of Shot & Shells from the enemys Batterys on Province Island. But should such evacuation on our side, & possession on that of the enemy take place, this Council are of opinion, that by the Batterys raised & to be raised on this the Jersey Shore on the upper side of Mantua Creek, & above that opposite the Cheveaux de Friez, the passage of the Enemys Shipping especially those of any considerable force, will be altogether obstructed as without raising, or removing the Chevaux de Friez, it is impossible such Ships can have a passage.

Much, indeed all depends on our keeping possession of the Jerseys, for should the enemy prevail there, it is our opinion, that our Fleet will be altogether annihilated, as in that case our retreat & resources will be entirely cut off.

Should we be by the enemy's getting possession of Fort Mifflin, be obliged to retire further up, we have a sure retreat into Timber Creek, where all our Fleet may shelter in safety, from whence the Galleys might in a very short time salley out & we trust defeat any light Vessels of the enemy, for which the pass thro' in the intervals between the Chevaux de Frieze might be practicable, but those Vessels in such case must meet with many obstacles, not only the risque of venturing thro' almost impracticable passes, but be also exposed to the fire of those large Batterys of ours on this the Jersey Shore—

We of the Council are therefore unanimously of opinion, That on our Forces keeping possession of the Jerseys, depends altogether the preservation of our Fleet, & consequently every expectation to be formed from its Manœuvres in future.

JOURNAL OF CAPTAIN JAMES PARKER

[Carpenters Island, Pa.]

14th. [November] I went down this morning our works have rec^d. but very little damage from the Enemy's fire, one of the floating batteries was brought down & carried near the Enemy's Works last night, but the seamen were obliged to abandon her in the Morning after losing a man, tho' this piece of work was long in constructing & Carried 2. 32 pdrs, She is not proof against grape 5 deserters came over with an arm'd boat from the Rebel ships.¹ They inform'd me that the Works on Red bank are very strong.—however that there are ground near it which will command it, that is not Occupied. that the works of mud island is much damaged. that the rebels in it are desperate & that W[ashing]ton is to give each man £10s Extr^a. who will continue on that duty till the 10 Decm^r. there is now a 13 in. Mortar in front of our lowest battery & a medium 12 pd^r on a wharf between the pest house & main Batterys. I now saw the Vigilant move up, she got over a little bar about Carpenter Island. If the wind is favourable, a very formidable attack is to be made tomorrow—

DIARY OF CAPTAIN FRANCIS DOWNMAN

[Carpenters Island, Pa.]

November 14th.—This morning at daybreak the rebels discovered the floating battery and directed all the guns they could against it and in a very little time obliged the officer and men to quit her.¹ The shot went through and through but fortunately they lost but one man. It was now proposed to take the guns out of her and put them on the wharf where I had made a battery.² As soon as night came on, boats went down and towed her alongside the wharf, and one gun was taken out and put on the platform; the other remained in her.

1. According to Capt. John Montresor this floating battery mounted two thirty-two pounders and took up a position five hundred yards from Fort Mifflin. See Montresor, Journals, 476.

2. This wharf was on the southeastern shore of Province Island at the mouth of Mingo Creek.

JOURNAL OF MAJOR FRANÇOIS LOUIS TEISSÈDRE DE FLEURY

Nov. 14th. [Fort Mifflin]

Daylight discovers to us a floating battery of the Enemy, placed a little above their grand battery,¹ and near the Shore; it seems to be a Bomb-battery Fort Mifflin is certainly capable of defence if the means be furnished.—if they supply us from Red-bank with Tools, Fascines, Palisades &c all which they may do in abundance—the Fire of the Enemy will never take the Fort, it may kill us men but this is the fortune of War, And all their bullets will never render them masters of the Island, if we have courage enough to remain on it—but they are removing our Cannon from the grand battery under pretext that it is necessary to raise a battery on the Jersey Side² to keep the Enemy's Shipping at a distance—but what signifies it, whether their Fleet be at the point of Hog-Island or a quarter of a mile lower—will they not by taking this Fort have the Channel of province Island open, for their small Sloops and other light Vessels—will they not drive the Gallies from the River—Fort Mifflin is the important Object, it must be maintained, and furnish'd with means of defence, Men—Earth—and Fascines to cover them—Our new Garrison consists of 450 Men—what can they do in a circumference of works so extensive as ours—being weak every where, they could make a defence no where and the Fort would be carried—The apparent Project of the Enemy is to debark on the Island, either to risque a Storm, or to establish a battery on the old ferry wharf, or nearer if they can—what means have we of hindering them—with a Garrison so feeble can I make any advantageous Sal-lies—can I dislodge the Enemy—if I raise a battery against them will it not serve against ourselves in case of attack—for without a sufficient number to defend it, it must be given up—our grand Battery has 19 Embrasures and 8 Cannons, two of which are dismounted—we must have Artificers to make Wheels—Fascines and Palisades for breaches—Gen^l Varnum supplies us scantily, We must have men to defend the Ruins of the Fort, our Ruins will serve us as breast-works, we will defend the Ground inch by inch, and the Enemy shall pay dearly for every Step—but we want a Com-manding Officer, ours is absent and forms projects for our defence at a distance—³ P.S. As the Light becomes clearer, I perceive the Enemys floating battery, not to be a Mortar-battery but that it contains two 32 Pounders—we are going to raise a Counter battery of two eighteen Pounders taken out of our River battery—which will now have no more than 7 Guns, the Wheels of two of which have been disabled by the Enemys Cannon we are so much neglected that we have been 7 days without wood, and at present have only Cartridges of eighteen pounders for a Piece of 32 which does considerable mischief to the Enemy.

at 7 OClock—The Enemy keep up a great Fire from their Floating battery and the Shore—

I repeat it our Commanding Officer issues orders from Woodberry—if he were nearer he would be a better Judge of our Situation—

Our blockhouses are in a pitiful Condition but with fascines I hope to cover two pieces in each lower Story which will be sufficient to flank us—I say again the Enemys fire will not take our fort, if they attempt a Storm we shall still have a little parapet to oppose to them, but we must have men to defend it—Novem 14th. At Noon—

We have silenced the Enemys floating Battery, I know not whether we have dis-mounted her Cannon, or whether her present Station exposes her too much, but the firing from her has ceased—I suspect that she is destined to land men on this Island—

Their grand battery is in little better condition than our block-houses—we have open'd an embrasure at the Corner of the Battery, and two pieces here joined to two others on the left which we have reinstated, throw the Enemy into disorder—

I repeat it—their fire will kill us men, because we have no cover, but it will never take the Fort, if we have sufficient courage to keep our ground—but a Stronger Garrison is indispensibly necessary we are not secured against Storm, if the Enemy attempt it—I fear they will succeed—in penetrating a Circumference of 1200 Paces defended only by 450 men and half ruined Palisades—A boat which this day deserted from the Fleet, will have given the Enemy sufficient intimation of our weakness—they will probably attack us or attempt a Lodgement on the Island which we cannot prevent with our present Strength

To night an Attempt is to be made on the floating battery of the Enemy.

COMTE D'ARGOUT TO VICE ADMIRAL CLARK GAYTON

Sir,

In sight of the Cape 14th. Nov^r: 1777

I take this opportunity by one of your English Frigates to acquaint your Excellency how much I am surprised at the Conduct of your Privateers towards our Drogers and even our Merchant Ships—I particularly complain of the Hostilities committed by the Palliser Tender of Eight Carriage Guns & 10 Swivels on a French Sloop named the Union of St^t: Mark on the 28th: October last, and also of the Hollten Tender commanded by M^r: John Webster on a Ship named the Pourvoyeur from au Cayes bound to Bourdeaux—if for the future your Tenders under a pretence of searching shall be guilty of the like piracy, I must inform your Excellency I shall be obliged to make reprisals. I hope your Excellency equally jealous as I am to maintain Harmony between the two Crowns, will remedy the like for the future, by punishing y^e Commanders of the Two Tenders, against whom I make my Complaint, I have some Reason to expect this Satisfaction from your Excellency as You can not be ignorant how ready I ever am to render justice to the Subjects of His Brittanic Majesty, at all times when they have made their just complaints I have the honor to be [&c.]

Dargout

I send to your Excellency the two Declarations relative to the Complaints I have made, I have received the dispatches You did me the honor to write by the Hornet, concerning a Prize which was made by a privateer upon the Subjects of His Britannic Majesty,¹ I shall answer more particularly your dispatches, but I imagine You have received my Letter, wherein I mention what Steps I had taken to punish the plunderers & to recover the Effects

RHODE ISLAND COUNCIL OF WAR TO GOVERNOR JONATHAN TRUMBULL

State of Rhode Island &c

Providence Novem^r 15th 1777—

By order of his Honour the Governor and Council of this State, I write to inform your Excellency that on the 7th. Instant, Capt Tobias Furneaux, late Commander of the Syren Frigate a British Vessel of War became a Prisoner, and is now in this Town; and as it is very improper that he should remain in or near this Town on account of its Vicinity to the Enemy upon Rhode Island the Council are induced to request you to permit him to be sent to Lebanon to remain with Capt. Judd^l who is now there—if it be agreeable to your Excellency that he be sent thither you will be kind enough to inform his Honour Governor Cooke thereof by the first Opportunity and he will order him to be emmediately conveyed there²

One Thomas Smith who acted as a Pilot on Board of the Syren was taken at the Same Time; he says he was born in Stamford in Connecticut, his Fathers Name being Ephraim Smith—That he has been absent from Stampford about Six years, and has acted as Pilot on board the Niger and Syren; as he belongs to Connecticut the Council think it proper that he should be sent to that State to be proceeded with agreeable to the Laws thereof—if agreeable to you Governor Cooke will take the Necessary Measures for sending him to Lebanon immediately—

His Honour Governor Cooke and his Council would be glad to be informed whether there is a prospect of Capt. Judd being exchanged for Capt Manly³ and to have your Excellency's Answer with respect to Capt Furneaux and Smith by the very first Opportunity—

By order and in Behalf of his Honour Governor Cooke and the Council of War I am [&c.]

Providence, November 15.

The British Ship of War Syren, of 28 Guns, Tobias Furneaux late Commander, mentioned in our last to have run on Point-Judith, was compelled to strike her Colours after receiving a few Shot from an 18 Pounder on the Shore. The Prisoners, including those taken out of the Transport Ship and Schooner¹ which ran ashore at the same Time, amount to 166 and have been safely conducted here. The Transport Ship mounted 6 Carriage Guns. As it was judged impracticable to get off the Syren, a Number of Men were employed in stripping her, who got on Shore her Sails, the principal Part of her Rigging and Stores, 17 Puncheons of Rum, &c. On Sunday Night the Enemy sent in some Boats to set Fire to the Hull, which they effected; a Part of her however is only consumed, as her lower Deck was under Water; the Guns and many other valuable Articles will still be saved. The Transport Ship is bilged, but the Schooner we are told may be got off.

The two last mentioned Vessels were Part of a Fleet of 30 Sail bound from Newport to Long-Island for Wood under Convoy of the Syren, which was afterwards to have proceeded on a Cruize.

We learned that a Schooner, one of the above mentioned Fleet, was forced by strong westerly Winds into Bedford, where she has been secured.

A Court of Inquiry consisting of Committees appointed by this State, Massachusetts-Bay, and Connecticut, met here this Week, to enquire into the Cause of the Failure of the late intended Expedition to Rhode-Island.

JOURNAL OF MAJOR JOHN ANDRÉ

[Philadelphia]

[November] 15th The Vigilant (an old North Country ship cut down and so reconstructed as to carry fourteen 24-pounders and to draw only 11½ feet water) was brought up and moored between Province and Mud Island, A sloop¹ carrying six 18-pounders was moored close to her. These, with the Batteries ashore, and the Somerset, Isis, Roebuck, Pearl and a galley² below the chevaux-de-frise kept up an incessant cannonade the whole day. The Rebel floating Batteries fired a good deal on the ships. The Grenadiers of the Guards were on Province Island in readiness to storm, had it been required. At — o'clock at night the Rebels evacuated the fort and set fire to the barracks. They left in it twenty-eight pieces of cannon, several of which were good and unspiked. The place was very much battered, every gun dismantled, and a great many dead bodies were found, scarce covered in trous do loups or ditches. Ten other pieces of cannon were afterwards found sunk in a scow.

DIARY OF CAPTAIN JOHANN EWALD

[Philadelphia]

On the 15th [of November] the warships Somerset, 64 guns, and Isis, 50 guns, the battery ship Vigilant of thirty-two 24-pounders, the Roebuck, 44 guns, along with a sloop,¹ drew as near as possible in front of the chevaux-de-frise and bombarded the enemy work so severely that the main battery was silenced by evening. During this time the enemy vessels lay between Red Bank and Mud Island and tried to defend the latter by their fire. Toward evening the American garrison from Red Bank was ferried across to Mud Island in flatboats, of which one boat with forty to fifty men was sunk. An enemy galley also was completely destroyed. At the same time the Vigilant passed the chevaux-de-frise anchored to the right of the island and battered down the main blockhouse with one broadside.

[Carpenters Island, Pa.]

15th. [November] the Vigilant has got to her station between Mud & province Island, she having 18, 24 pdrs. also the Fury a Sloop with 3. 32 pdrs. The large Ships have got as far up as the Cheveaux de frize will permit. the Embankment along the Verge of the River affords fine shelter & there between the batterys with Cap^t Patrick Sinclair & several others I had a very fine View of the whole scene—Our batterys, Vigilant & sloop kept a heavy incessant fire on the fort which was silenced half past twelve. The Row galleys & a floating battery moved down some of them below the so[uth] End of the Isld. to annoy the Vigilant & Sloop but the big ships soon drove them up again. Lord & Gen^l Howe Lord Cornwallis & Gen^l Grant were with many other gen^l Officers on the island. the flat boats were up [blank] Creek, to receive the Granadiers, Guards, & the other troops that were to Storm which was to be led by sr George Osburn. there were many Young Gentlemen goeing Volunteers on this service between two & three there were some false fires made on the east side of the Island. A deserter who was present said it was a signal either for a reenforcement or to be taken Off—Soon after this we saw the galleys & some boats row to the wharf on the east side. The Block houses Barracks & also their battreys seem to be torn to pieces. the ebb tide has run some time, & we are informed the Storm is not to begin till high water. Not the least remission of fire on our part. At Night I returned to the City.

DIARY OF CAPTAIN FRANCIS DOWNMAN

[Carpenters Island, Pa.]

November 15th.—In the morning early our batteries renewed their fire. The 32-prs. at my wharf annoyed their boats and galleys and did much damage to the fort. The morning is fine, the wind moderate and fair. Our men-of-war approach close to the chevaux-de-frise; all the rebel galleys go from Red Bank and attack them, but are obliged to retire. The ships, our batteries, all are pouring a constant and well-directed fire into the fort. The blockhouses are entirely demolished. Several explosions in the fort. They seem to be in the greatest distress and confusion. They have made signals for assistance. A number of boats go to them through our fire. About 12 o'clock the Vigilant appeared, instantly brought to in her station, and began to fire on the fort. The sloop¹ drew up in her place and kept a constant fire. It was a glorious sight. On one side of the fort was to be seen a number of galleys, floating batteries and ships keeping a constant fire on our ships; on the other side, all our batteries, the Vigilant and sloop pouring in a tremendous fire on the fort, and from the men-of-war a no less vigorous fire was directed into the fort and at their galleys. At length, after firing on both sides without intermission the whole afternoon, the galleys, floating batteries and xebecs all moved away. The fort seemed to be totally in pieces; necessary orders were given to storm in the morning. Before dark six or seven of the rebel galleys rowed up towards the fort as if to attack our ships again, but we soon perceived that they had some other intention. They collected at the wharf on the other side Mud Island, and we concluded that they were either landing more troops or taking off those that were in the fort. They were in this situation about an hour, small boats also passing and repassing between the fort and Red Bank. Our cannon here did much execution in both galleys and boats for they were quite exposed. The fort at this time was totally silenced. The night brought on a cessation of firing, except now and then a few shot and shell from our battery. About 12 o'clock at night we were all surprised to see the fort in flames, and to all appearances every part of it seemed to be on fire. We now concluded the rebels had quitted it at the time the galleys were lying at the wharf, leaving only a small party to destroy it. It burnt very fiercely all night.

JOURNAL OF MAJOR FRANÇOIS LOUIS TEISSÉDRE DE FLEURY

October [November] 15th.—[Fort Mifflin]

At day break the Enemys batteries began a vigorous fire upon the Fort, and the Fleet set Sail to come up with the Tide. One of their Vessels A and two Sloops b b advanced between Hog Island, and the northern point of Tinicum, near 1000 Yards from the grand Battery.¹

The Six other Vessels and the Galley carrying a 36 pounder,² approached the Chevaux de frise at the distance of 600 Yards from the Fort, we fired upon them with red-hot bullets.

at 8 OClock their Fire began seconded by that of the Land-batteries, and a quarter of an hour after, two Sloops carrying eight pieces of 32 and 24, brought their guns to bear on the right of our battery, and after many successive broad-sides ruined our parapet, and dismounted one of our Guns, there being only two Embrasures on that side—The Musquetry of the Tops hinder'd the Canoniers from remaining on the Platform; and the Land batteries making a cross-fire with the Vessels render'd the right of the battery untenable. However Cap^t Lee who commanded the Artillery, and Major Fleury who commanded the Infantry appointed for firing at the Tops—did not abandon this part of the right of the battery, 'till all their men were either kill'd or wounded and the Cannon broken to pieces—

Cap^t Dickinson commanded two Guns on the left of the Battery, and Cap^t Lees Lieutenant, the Center—

at 11 OClock, Ammunition began to fail, and Major Thayer order'd the blue Flag to be hoisted as a Signal of distress to the Fleet—Major Fleury the Commissary and some Voluntiers ran to the Magazine, and after searching found a 32 p^{dr's} Cartridge and several 18 p^{dr} Cartridges—and the Fire was renewed—

In conformity to Major Thayers order they were lowering the Flag in order to hoist the Signal of Distress—but Cap^t Lee and Major Fleury ran to hinder it, entreating Major Thayer rather to send off boats from the Wharf, than make a Signal which would discover our weakness to the Enemy—the Major approved and the Flag was hoisted again—The Enemy had slacken'd their Fire a moment, doubtless thinking that we were preparing to surrender—but our Cannon undeceived them—

It was one OClock—our Amunition was exhausted—and we had only two Guns fit for use, the rest were dismounted, some even shatter'd to pieces—our Parapet was destroyed—one of the Sloops station'd towards the middle of the Fort, demolished our Bank and level'd our Palisades—a Body of Troops appeared on the opposite Shore ready to embark—our Garrison was []³

The Major call'd a Council of War at 2 O'Clock, composed of Major Talbot, Major Fleury, Cap^t. Lee, Captain Dickinson & another Captain—The Result was—Supplies of Amunition or Boats.

The Enemy's Fire continued furiously and ours languidly from two Pieces of Cannon—the Wall was half demolished—The Blockhouses flew about in splinters—a Piece of Timber torn from the Blockhouse on the right, struck down Capt. Lee and Major Fleury who were standing near a Gun, the former was kill'd and the latter remain'd senseless—

Major Talbot who ran to their Assistance was wounded with two Grape Shot in the thigh and Arm—

The Fire continued till night, and Ferry boats arriving instead of a Reinforcement—The Amunition, Provisions and Arms were carried off, the Cannon spiked—the Carriages broke—the Barracks set on fire—and at half after eleven the Garrison evacuated the Fort, and at the same time the Oars of the Enemy's boats were heard—bringing on Troops to attack our ruined Palisades—

Docketed: "Conclusion of Major/Fleury's Journal—/15th Novem 1777/inclosing a Plan/finish'd and sent 19th." Notation at top of page: "Major Fleury's Journal of the Siege of Fort Mifflin. 1777."

1. The three vessels Fleury describes here were marked "A" and "b" and "b" on a map drawn by the French engineer depicting the positions of the British ships and batteries firing on Fort Mifflin. From the third paragraph it is clear that what Fleury denominates as "two Sloops b b" are H.M. armed ship Vigilant and H.M. sloop Fury. The identity of the vessel marked "A" is unclear. It may have been H.M. sloop Zebra, which was anchored in the western channel.

2. Five ships came above the lower chevaux-de-frise to support the bombardment of Fort Mifflin: Isis, Liverpool, Pearl, Roebuck, and Somerset. The galley referred to here is H.M. galley Cornwallis.

COMMODORE JOHN HAZELWOOD TO GEORGE WASHINGTON

Sir

Red Bank Nov^r. 15th. 1777

Agreeable to your Excellency's request by letter to me of 13 Nov^r I have inclosed you the opinion of myself & Officers in Council of War held of Red bank the 14th Inst^r.¹ a copy of which you have inclosed, where your Excellency will see we are all unanimously of opinion in regard to our holding this Station with the Fleet. While we were on this business their Fleet came up & attacked the Fort. I immediately carried all our force against them, & after a long & heavy Cannonading with the assistance of a two Gun Battery,² we drove, or caused their Ships to drop down; but they getting their Ship Battery³ & a Sloop Battery⁴ up in the inner Channel close under our Fort Mifflin & under cover of all their Cannon & Bomb Batterys, & keeping up such a warm & hot fire, it was impossible for the Fort & that brave & good Officer to hold it longer, without that Ship could be destroyed. I order'd one half of our Galleys with as brave an Officer as I had, to destroy the Ship & Sloop, but he returned & said it was impossible while they was so well supported by all their Batterys, so at last that brave & good Officer Major Thayer was obliged to set fire to their works & quit the Fort—Our Fleet has received much damage, & numbers kill'd & wounded, which cannot now be exactly ascertained, but as soon as I can get a return made out, shall send it.—We shall hold our Post as long as possible, & shall anxiously wait to have your answer to this, Whether Your Excellency approves of our determination.—Our Men & Officers behaved with spirit & bravery. Having not to add for the present, Am [&c.]

PETITION OF ABRAHAM VAN BIBBER

[Williamsburg, November 15, 1777]

A petition of Abraham Vanbibber was presented to the House and read, setting forth, that on the commencement of hostilities between Great Britain and America he went to the island of St. Eustatia in order to provide military stores for the state of Maryland, and that during his residence in the said island he had the honour to receive from the executive power of this state orders for warlike stores, which are articles prohibited by the states of Holland from being shipped to America, but that, regardless of this risk, he with great caution contrived to ship off large quantities of warlike stores by stratagem; that he continued to carry on this business, undiscovered, for a great length of time, and should perhaps have continued to be serviceable in that way to this day, had not a certain Captain Ralls, in a vessel from this state, been addressed to him, who, without consulting the petitioner, left the harbour of St. Eustatia, though the petitioner was bound for his good behaviour, and captured a vessel which had received a cargo from that island, but that afterwards, having had the misfortune, with his prize, to fall into the hands of the enemy, he was so imprudent as to make known, in the fullest manner, the services the petitioner had rendered the states of America in consequence of which the petitioner was apprehended and thrown into prison, where he suffered great hardships, and afterwards incurred great expense in making his escape;¹ and as these hardships and expenses were brought upon him by the indiscretion of an officer belonging to this state, he prays the House will take the matter into consideration, and grant him such relief as shall be thought just and reasonable.

Ordered, that the said petition be referred to the consideration of a committee, and that they do examine the matter thereof, and report the same, with their opinion thereupon, to the House; and it is referred to Mr. George Mason, General Nelson, Mr. Fitzhugh, Mr. Cary, Mr. Prentis, and Mr. Jefferson.

LIEUTENANT JOHN KNOWLES, R.N., TO THE LORDS COMMISSIONERS OF THE ADMIRALTY

Grand Duke Transport, Southwell River.

Honble Gentⁿ.

Long Island, Nov^r 16th. 1777.

Pursuant to an order from S^r P^r Parker, Rear Admiral of the Blue at Rhode Island, I had orders to get seven Transports ready to go for Wood to Long Island, for the use of the Army & Navy, and to put myself, and them, under the command of Captⁿ Furneaux of his Maj^{ty}s Ship Syren, which I complied with.

On the 6th. Nov^r 1777 at one in the morning the Signal was made on board the Syren to get under way, dark thick weather, wind at NE, when under way steered SSW and SWBS for about two hours. The Syren being at some distance a head was ordered to bring up the Rear; I being a stern & without him. at 5 AM saw some flashes of Guns at different times, which made me think that some accident had happened.

I immediately brought too at day light, being thick, & blowing hard with rain, the Fleet much scattered, I saw two Ships which I supposed to be on shore, but could not tell what Ships they were; they then bearing from us NNE; therefore I could not give them any assistance, but bore away & join'd the Wood Fleet, steering a proper course for the place I was ordered, where we lay all night, & next day expecting the Admiral to send us a frigate.

Before night I weigh'd with all the Fleet, and ran into Southwell River¹ with the wind at East, thinking it a place of more security for the protection of the Transports under my direction.

On the 9th. His Maj^{ty}s Ship Unicorn join'd us by whom we learn'd that the Syren Frigate & Sisters Transport (Trattles,² Master) had got ashore upon point Judith, not above pistol shot from shore, on Rocks, where a Battery was erected by the Rebels, which prevented any of the Stores from being saved as I am informed. I also hear that Captⁿ Furneaux & most of his Ships Company are with the Rebels. I am [&c.]

DIARY OF CAPTAIN FRANCIS DOWNMAN

[Carpenters Island, Pa.]

November 16th.—At break of day we discovered the rebel colours still flying and the fort almost totally destroyed but no appearance of any person. In a little time the Vigilant sent her boat well manned ashore; one of the jacks mounted the flagstaff, tore down the rebel and hoisted in their stead English colours. I got a boat and went over. One man was found upon the island who informed us that the rebels had suffered very much, losing about 50 men killed and between 70 and 80 wounded. The fort is strong and had it been stormed a very considerable loss would have been the consequence. Nothing that could add to its strength was left undone. The island is nothing but a marsh enclosed with a bank. They have cut ditches, they have made trous de loup and stuck a frise in every part outside the stockades, which are very high and put close together, loop holes being cut through these pickets from which they could pick off your men and you could not possibly hurt them. The fire had not consumed the whole buildings; two ranges of barracks was all that suffered from fire, but our shot had completely demolished every part of it. the blockhouses were knocked entirely to pieces, a great number of their guns and carriages were rendered useless by the shot they have received, in short it is in such a battered situation that it is past describing. In almost every place you see blood and brains dashed about, and hardly a spot in the whole place that has not a shot. The only cover the rebels had was outside the fort under a stone wall. Here it was I saw some of the guards (who had gone over under the command of Sir George Osborne) digging up or pulling out of the ditches the poor wretches that had been killed, most dismally torn and mangled by cannon shot, and stripping them of their shoes or whatever they had on them, and then dashing them into the holes again with as little concern or feeling as a butcher shows in killing or cutting up an ox. Their determination to quit the island had been precipitate for they left some of their guns loaded and unspiked, and a quantity of powder and ball and other stores. Twenty-eight cannon from 32prs. to 40prs. and ten other guns sunk in a boat near the wharf.

A battery for four 24-prs. began this morning intended to keep off the galleys from our ships while they are getting up the chevaux-de-frise. In the evening I went to town after being eight days upon Province Island,¹ a volunteer, and going through a very great fatigue night and day. All that time I had not my clothes off, nor got more than an hour or two's sleep at a time. General Howe returned his thanks to the artillery on this occasion.

WILLIAM BRADFORD TO THOMAS WHARTON, JR.

S^r.

My last informed your that the Enemy had been Cannonading Fort Mifflin two Days, and had begun again on Wednesday. Thursday and Friday they kept up a very hot Fire, and killed several of our Men and wounded many. Saturday Morning we opened a Battery of two Guns near Tench Francis House,¹ against the Somerset of 64 the Isis of 50, another 50 Gun Ship two large Frigates, their Gally,² when our Fleet also engaged and a most furious Fire from all Sides continued till near Dark, when the Ships dropped down. While the Ships & Gallies were engaged the large East India Ship that was cut down came up behind Hog Island and got close to the Fort, She with the five Batteries tore the Fort all to pieces and knocked down all the Ambrusers, killed many of our People and wounded more. About 12 o'Clock at Night, the Officers finding it impossible to Stand it any longer, set fire to the Barracks &c. and brought of the People. Thus Fort Mifflin is fallen. What will become of our Fleet I know not. To lay under Red Bank is impossible. If they retreat to Lads Cove a Battery or two on League Island will reach them—I suppose we shall have Ships up again to-Day. Our Fire Rafts are almost all destroyed by the Tempestous Weather we have had. Our men in great want of Shoes and Cloaths—We have received no more Rum than the two Hogsheads I informed in my last, tho' Crispin says he expects two more to-morrow—In the Engagement the Galleys had several Men killed and 10 or 12 wounded. BRIGADIER GENERAL JAMES M. VARNUM TO GEORGE WASHINGTON

Woodberry $\frac{1}{4}$ after 11th AM, 16th Nov^r 1777

Agreeable to what I wrote you last Evening, we were obliged to evacuate Fort Mifflin.—Major Thayer returned from thence a little after two this Morning. Every Thing was got off, that possibly could be. The Cannon could not be removed without making too great a Sacrifice of Men, as the Empress of Russia, alias Vigilant, lay within one Hundred Yards of the Southwest part of the Works, & with her incessant Fire, Hand Granades & Musketry from the Round Top, killed every Man that appeared upon the Platforms.—The Commodore¹ gave positive Orders to six Gallies to attack, & take that Ship. They warp'd over to the Island, & there held a Council, lost a few of their Men, & then returned, without attempting any thing.—I left the Commodore since one this Morning, He had positively ordered six Gallies, well manned, to attack the same Vessels, how they succeeded, I am not inform'd; but, according to Major Thayer's Sentiments, we could have held the Island, had the Ship been destroy'd.—I dont think the Shipping can pass the Cheavau de Frize while we keep this Shore—The two Gun Battery, near Manto Creek, annoy'd them very Much Yesterday. It is still firing slowly; but, the Shipping having remov'd out of direct Distance, too much firing would be Profusion.—We are erecting a Battery between Red Bank and Manto Creek Battery, directly opposite the Frizes, w^{ch}, I believe will be finished to day.²—I am not of Opinion that the Enemy can possess themselves of the Island, without too great a Loss. Whither we shall keep a Guard upon it or not, I cannot determine 'till, from an actual Observation, I shall be furnished with new Circumstances.—While we keep the Shipping down, our Navy will be safe; but, should our Defences prove ineffectual, we shall take out a part of their Guns, & let the others attempt passing the City.—Our Troops are so extremely fatigu'd that no time will be lost in knowing your Excellency's Orders, whether the Troops commanded by Col^o Smith shall remain here, or return to Camp. The Officers seem anxious to join the Army, as their Men are much harrass'd.—However, they have had two Nights Rest, & are necessary here, should we attack Billingsport.—As a great part of my own Brigade have been lost at Fort Mifflin, I shall not be able to make any hostile Attempt this Night; but am of Opinion that the Enemy should at all Hazards, be dispossessed of this Shore.—We shall want the large Howitz, w^{ch} I mentioned before.—Your Excellency's Letter of Yesterday came to me, this Morning early—I am just told the Gallies last ordered to attack the Vigilant did nothing; that misfortune will prevent us from keeping Men upon the Island. I am,

J M Varnum.

P.S. Col^o Greene offered to Officer and Man three Gallies, that would destroy the Empress of Russia, or perish to a Man, Cap^t Robinson of the continental Fleet, offered to go himself. The Commodore possesses a fine Disposition, but cannot command his Fleet.—

M^r Coleman returned here a few days Since and brought me your fav^r of the 27th Ult^o. I perceive that Congress have so much Buisness on hand that nothing is done by them relative to the Portegeuze Vessell.—¹

The Papers that are found are Translated and I inclose you Copys for your Perusal, for my own part I can see nothing in any of them that can Justify Cunninghams² Conduct, which I think is very Reprehensible—

There is one Paper termd by the Portegeuze the Naturilization of the Vessell,³ It appears She was Sold by Br[o]ok Watson of London to John Gathorn & by him Sent out to his Bro^r Richard Gathorn who was at that time Consul at Fayall After the Vessell arrived at Fayall She was then either Sold to the Portegeuze, or Naturalized—for my part I am of Opinion She was really sold as there appears a Rec^t. in the Body of the Paper.— Other People think this is the Method English Bottoms can Sale in the Portegeuze Trade by Naturalizing them & that Still the Property is British.—

The Vessell & Cargo being now here, Somewhat was necessary to be done about her. M^r Lowell my Lawyer being out of Town,⁴ I threw in a Memorial to Government (Copy of which is Inclosed) which they Granted,⁵ By this time M^r Lowel Came to Town, I Shewed him what I had done & the Several Letters to You, he approved of the Whole—

The Captⁿ. & Crew grew uneasy & Insisted on the Vessell being Libeled & unloaded—We then got a Petition to the Judge of the Maritime Court praying that the Portegeuze Snow might be unloaded & the Goods stored & acco^t taken of the Same, which is now doing — Myself & M^r Webb⁶ bound to see the Same forth coming to the Judge's Order; This is the exact Situation of the Vessell at present under good Care—Its probable She may be Tried in a Month or five Weeks I pray that a righteous Judgment may be Pronounced on her for the honour of the United States. 'Tis a great pity the Captain of the Snow was sent Away—I think you will have time to write me Again before Tryall & hope it will be so. Your design to propose that Congress Should Order the Vessell & Cargo to be sold, and the Proceeds vested in the Publick Funds bearing Interest for the benefit of the Proprietors is very Just. Untill this Matter is determined I am aware of the Consequences and You May depend on my Care, According to the best of my Abilities. And under the Consultation of M^r Lowell Whose Character either of the M^r Adams's will Informe

The Privateer being now here,⁷ What is to be done with her? 'Twill be difficult to gett hands M^r Braxton some time since had thoughts of Selling her—I have Communicated my Sentiments to the Bearer of this Col^o. Griffin Who you will see having other Buisness with you—

I also Inclose you a Manifest of the Cargo as appears by Translation⁸

I dont Recollect any thing further at Present—therefore Remain [&c.]

GEORGE WASHINGTON TO MAJOR GENERAL ARTHUR ST. CLAIR,
MAJOR GENERAL JOHANN KALB, AND BRIGADIER GENERAL HENRY KNOX

Instructions for Major General St Clair, Major General Baron Kalb, Brigadier General Knox.

Gentlemen

You are to proceed with all convenient expedition to Fort Mercer, where—by conferring with Brigadier General Varnum, Commodore Hazlewood and such other Officers as you may think proper to consult—and from your own view of the ground and River you will investigate the following Points.

1. The Practicability of hindering the Enemy from clearing the main Channel of the Chevaux de frise which now obstruct it—without having possession of Mud Island—
2. What farther aid would be required from this Army to effect the purpose abovementioned, supposing it practicable, and how should such aid be disposed—
3. Whether our Fleet will be able to keep the River, in case the Enemy make a lodgement, and establish Batteries on Mud Island—
4. Supposing the Fleet necessitated to retire, whether the Land-force could maintain its present Position independently of it—
5. Whether it be practicable to take or drive away the Enemy's Floating Battery, and if either can be done, whether an obstruction may not be laid in the Channel through which she pass'd, so as to prevent the Passage of any Vessel in future.
6. If the Fleet should be obliged to retire and Fort Mercer be invested by the Enemy, by what means could the Garrison be drawn off, or reinforced if either should be judged necessary—

You will be particular in making my acknowledgments to those Officers and Men who have distinguished themselves in the defence of the Fort, and assure them that I have a high Sense of their gallant Conduct—

This is by no means to be understood Gentlemen as restraining you to the examination only of the particular Points enumerated, which are intended as a memorandum—but you will in conjunction with the Commanding Officers on the Spot, make every such arrangement and alteration as shall appear essential—

GENERAL SIR WILLIAM HOWE TO VICE ADMIRAL VISCOUNT HOWE

Philadelphia

the 17th: of November 1777.

My Lord

I cannot too highly acknowledge the signal Services the Army has received from the Perseverance and Activity of the Officers and Seamen under your Lordship's Command, since the King's Troops entered Philadelphia. And I shall be happy, by your Lordships Assistance, to have my Sentiments of them made as acceptable and generally known as possible.

But my Thanks are more particularly due to Captain Duncan for his unwearied Attention and Judgement on all Occasions; And to Captain Henry and Lieutenant Botham, for the Gallantry they displayed on the 15th: Instant in the Reduction of the Enemy's Works on Mud-Island; Which I request your Lordship will be pleased to communicate to those Gentlemen in the most distinguished manner.

In these Acknowledgements I beg to include the Captains and Crews of the Ships in the Eastern Channel, contributing to the Success of the Attack, more immediatly assisted by the well-directed Fire of the Isis. I have the Honor to be [&c.]

CONTINENTAL ARMY AND NAVY PRISONERS TO GENERAL SIR WILLIAM HOWE

Copy.

State House Philadelphia Nov 17. 1777.

To his Excellency S^r William Howe.

We the Officers of the American Army & Navy confined here having this day received a verbal Message from your Excellency, informing us that you had heard of various Complaints, having been made by us, relating to our treatment, but that those complaints, had been imparted to you in so vague and general a manner, that you was at a loss how to redress them, unless they were specially pointed out; and to that end you desired the same should be done.

At your Excellency's request, as also being strongly impelled thereto through our great Necessity, we beg leave to mention the following particulars.

First. That since our confinement here, although it has sometimes been granted, yet we have been frequently denied, the small priviledge in the open day, of walking in the enclosed Yard adjoining this House, which Indulgence we are desirous of obtaining, for the sake of Air, Exercise, & the preservation of health; That it is often attended with utmost difficulty, that Wives, can be admitted to speak to their Husbands, Children to their parents, or one Friend or Acquaintance to another; so that to their great anxiety, those just & natural Connections, are almost entirely seperated; That when these extraordinary and as we conceive unnecessary restrictions have been complained of to the Officers of the Guard, we were told by them that they are in consequence of general Orders, which they are obliged literally to comply with.

Secondly. We have been frequently accused during our confinement with holding Correspondence with the American Army, and by letter & otherwise having given them secret Intelligence to the prejudice of the King's Service; which Charge every Officer for himself, respectively doth solemnly declare to be false, and that if there was any just foundation for such Charge, to the end that it might be properly fixed, and that we might not be indiscriminately blamed, we have most earnestly implored, that such Letter or Letters if any there was might be produced, and that a proper hearing concerning the matter might be had which has been refused; and it is a Rule of natural Equity rarely violated even in Turkey to condemn any set of Men without a hearing, We therefore humbly hope, that your Excellency will not suffer us in future to be officiously accused, of any thing of an atrocious or dishonorable nature, without giving us an opportunity of vindicating ourselves.

Thirdly. Our Situation has been truly melancholy and alarming during the whole of our Captivity in regard to provisions, for altho' we cannot justly complain of the quality of what has been served out to us, except once or twice some bad Flour and Bread, yet so great is the deficiency that double the quantity allowed us would not be near enough;—Camp Kettles too about eight, are greatly wanted for the purpose of Cooking, We have near enough but not quite sufficient quantity of Fire Wood, and a few Tools are wanted to size the Wood properly for use.

Fourthly. The Sick are allowed to remain here rather too long; Medicines have been administered to some who as we conjecture by the Coldness of the House at this inclement Season have contracted bad Colds & their health greatly impaired.

Fifthly. Money sent by Flag lost by accident or otherwise, that is to say not so much by one Guinea and five Dollars delivered to L^{ts} Morris and Massie as their Letters specify.

Sixthly. We cannot omit mentioning the extraordinary ill Treatment of the Officers of the Delaware Frigate after their Surrender they were carried to the provost and near or quite Twenty in one room confined together, without any distinction of Rank, they were not during that time allowed to move out even to ease themselves, & were thus kept confined without Water or provisions & when they applied for redress could receive nothing but vile insulting language, this behavior we doubt not being duly discouraged & discountenanced by your Excellency.

These are the principal causes of complaint which are submitted to the examination of your Excellency; It now remains for us most earnestly to entreat your speedily redressing the same, as also the granting us such further & other relief as you may judge proper, and as the nature & Circumstances of our Case may require

Signed by

O. Towles for himself & the other Officers at their request.—

BRIGADIER GENERAL JAMES M. VARNUM TO GEORGE WASHINGTON

Sir—

Fort Mercer 17th Nov^r 1. oClk PM, 1777

In Consequence of the Enemy's arm'd Vessells laying at Fort Mifflin, their Provision Vessells pass unmolested up to the Mouth of Schykill, between mud Island and Province Island.—A Considerable Number of Shipping have moved up this Day & anchored off Billingsport.—It is probable they may intend landing the Troops from New York, w^{ch} in Addition to those already there, (I mean Billingsport) their Force may be such as to put it out of my Power to prevent a Siege.—It is my Opinion, if your Excellency intends taking Possession of Province Island, this Post should be held: If you give up all Ideas of preventing the large Shipping's going up the River, this Post is of no essential Consequence; Batteries along the Shore, between this & Manto Creek, might annoy greatly, or totally prevent the Shipping from raising the Chieavau de Frize, if the Troops besieging should be dislodged.—If your Excellency should think of establishing a strong post at Cooper's Ferry, I imagine all the large Cannon should be removed to Mount Holley, In that Case, the Troops here would be of great Service.—It will require a large Force to keep the Shore so as to play directly upon the Shipping.—Was our Fleet to continue under the Cover of this Place, the Enimy's Shipping would be in a worse Situation; but, as they seem to be upon the wing, the Enemy will soon be able to open Bomb Batteries from Fort Mifflin. This would not be terrible in itself, but connected with an Investiture, would deprive the Garrison of that Cover w^{ch} might otherwise be derived from the Bank of the River.—Col^o Greene will write you the Sentiments of the principal Officers of the Garrison, upon their present Situation. Provided the Enimy should attempt crossing Timber and Manto Creek's at the same Time, Woodberry will be a more inelible Situation than Haddonfield, as it will throw my Troops between the Enemy's Front and Fort Mercer; And prevent that Communication w^{ch} would be necessary. However, in that Case, I shall act according to immediate Circumstances.—I hope your Excellency's earliest Orders may be given upon these Matters.—It is a great Misfortune, that we have left Fort Mifflin; Nothing but the undaunted Bravery, & persevering Prudence of Major Thayer, prevented a much greater Effusion of Blood, than has taken Place.—The Ground was held 'till the principal Cannode was over, when the greater part of the Garrison were sent off. The Major, with a rear Guard of about forty Men, remained, 'till with amazing Address, he had sent off the most part of the Stores, he then came away. Had the Garrison been bro't away in the Day time, the Loss must have been very great, as the Shipping would have sunk many of the Boats. I mention these Circumstances, in repetition of what was said in my last, as it may be said by some, that the Major continued too long upon the Island.—If that was the Case the Fault was mine, not his.—I can say from my Conscience, I think never did Man behave better.—

I have called for an exact return of the Killed & wounded, w^{ch} will soon be transmitted; It is not so great as was imagined or expected.—I am [&c.]

CONTINENTAL MARINE COMMITTEE TO STEPHEN HOPKINS

Stephen Hopkins Esq^r

Sir

[York] November 17th 1777

Since our last to you M^r Ellery handed to us a memorandum from which we have directed such an examination into the various charges made in the Treasury office, and the order drawn in your favour upon which the charges were made against you as has entirely convinced us, that the late State[ment] transmitted to you was as to the 20,000 dollars charged to you the 10th of Feb^y 1776 as being received towards the building of the Frigates entirely erroneous.¹ This error arose from the short manner in which the charges are made in the Treasury and not reciting the purport of the Orders. By inspecting that Order it appears to have been drawn on the Continental Treasurer and by you received for the use of the Naval Committee who fitted out the Ships of war at Philadelphia. The inclosed Copy of the order of this Committee which is entered upon our Journals will shew you how the mistake is rectified—we are very sorry such a mistake was made, we shall immediately give notice thereof to M^r Tillinghast and at the same time supply him with a Warrant upon the loan office of the State of Rhode Island to enable him to discharge the balance due the Gentlemen you employed to build the Frigates at Providence—and to supply him with as large a Sum as we drew upon you for in his favour. Their still appears a balance of nine hundred and fifty Dollars in your hands—your memorandum shewn to us by M^r Ellery suggests that also is a Mistake but we cannot discover it—If you can clearly point it out we shall be ready to make the allowance, otherwise we woud desire you to pay it into the hands of M^r Tillinghast as Continental Agent for the State of Rhode Island he to be Accountable and his receipt shall be sufficient as also for the further sum of 119 36/90 Dollars due from you to the Naval Committee as appears by their accounts rendered to Congress by M^r Hewes and referred to this Committee. VICE ADMIRAL CLARK GAYTON TO PHILIP STEPHENS

Sir,

I beg leave to acquaint their Lordships that herewith inclosed I send a duplicate of my last¹ by the Pallas, who sailed with the Convoy early in the Morning of the 27th: Ult^o: since which time I have not heard from the Captain, but am Informed by a Gentleman from Bluefields that they did not reach that port untill the 7th: Ins^t: after having been in a Violent Gale of Wind, which has very much distressed many of the Convoy some of whom are returned dismasted to this Harbor & many are Cast away on the North side the Island;² The Racehorse who had under her Convoy several Ships, very narrowly escaped the same Fate owing to the Violence of the Storm and the exceeding bad Weather, she is however arrived, very much shatter'd by her late engagement, I have order'd her defects to be made good and the Sloop to be got ready for Sea as soon as possible

I am sorry to inform their Lordships that notwithstanding the Master Shipwrights utmost endeavours to make His Majesty's Brig Badger fit for Sea, he found it imprac-licable I therefore order'd her to be surveyed and she is reported to me unserviceable in consequence whereof I have thought proper to replace the said Brig by purchasing another, which I signified to their Lordships, was my intention in my last; I have called her the Badger and given the Command of her to the Acting Captain Michael John Everitt commander of the former Brig Badger which is condemned, and directed him to turn over all his Officers & Men: The Brig is capable of carrying 16 Carriage Guns, was the Rebel privateer that took Frazers Highlanders in the Nantasket Rode,³ she is only 3 Years Old, very strong Built and her price £1540 Currency of this Island, which Sum I have ordered the Storekeeper to pay and draw Bills on the Navy Board for, I hope she will answer the purpose and that their Lordships will in this Instance approve of my Conduct; I have directed the Master Shipwright to fit her as an armed Vessel as fast as possible that she may proceed to Sea on Service.

I further beg leave to acquaint their Lordships that by a Letter from the Inhabitants of the Bay of Honduras (a Copy of which is enclosed)⁴ I am made acquainted that the Washington privateer has been there, since His Majesty's Sloop diligence, which is not long, and cut out three of their Vessels, for the particulars of which I beg leave to refer their Lordships to that Letter; and submit to their Consideration whether it may not be proper to have an armed Vessel constantly stationed on that Coast during this Rebellion, which can not be affected unless two Vessels are employed, one to relieve the other, as they can not procure any provisions there for their people

I also beg leave to acquaint their Lordships, that in my humble opinion there shou'd also be, two armed Vessels one to relieve the other constantly stationed at Turks Islands to prevent the Rebels having any intercourse with the Inhabitants of those Islands, as many of them pay no regard or obedience to the Kings Agent there or any other Officer but this I must likewise submit to their Lordships Consideration & superior Judgement.

As the Ostrich armed Ship is gone to England and as her return to this Station may be uncertain I think it Necessary to purchase an armed Vessel in her Room, which I intend to do and to give M^r Jordan⁵ a Lieutenants Commission to command her, and as I advised their Lordships that I designed to reward him, in this manner, for his gallant behaviour, I hope it will meet their approbation.

I also beg leave to acquaint their Lordships, that the Daphne Captⁿ. Chinnery, one of Lord Viscount Howes Squadron, arrived here the 8th: Ins^t. from New York, in want new riggs^s entirely except the standing & in want of a new suit Sails; The Pintles of her Rudder are defective, and she is in want of a great deal of Work to be done to fit her for Sea, all which I have ordered to be Inspected into and the Necessary repairs to be performed as soon as the Service will admit thereof.

Captain Chinnery brought under his Convoy a Ship Loaded with Provisions for the Government Service, and bound to Pensacola, which Ship he is directed to see safe into that Harbor; She having lost her Foremast in the late Gale of Wind I have directed a new One to be made for her, and I will take particular care that she shall be in such forwardness as not to detain the daphne when she may be ready to proceed to Sea & I shall order the StoreKeeper to take proper Bills from the Master for any expence of materials or Workmanship as may be necessary for her equipment

I likewise beg leave to hope that their Lordships will observe that in respect to my directions to order the Convoys, at this Season of the Year, to go through the Gulph, that had the Convoy (which sailed the 27th: Ultimo) gone through the Windward passage, they wou'd have been a great way on their passage in the time they were going to Bluefields only, owing to the favorable Winds that prevail at this time of Year: This the Merchants and Planters of this Island are convinced of and regret that I am under directions to send the Convoys through the Gulph at this Season of the Year

The Squadron under my Comm^d. continue to be employed as when I wrote their Lordships last, except the following Ships, The Southampton and Lowestoffe are on a Cruize the Hornet is returned from Cape Francois and is ready to proceed again to Sea & I have order'd her and the diligence to proceed up the Southside of Hispaniola to meet the Convoy which is daily expected to arrive here. I am [&c.]

1. See above, Vice Admiral Clark Gayton to Philip Stephens, 25 Oct. 1777.

2. Vice Adm. Gayton had not yet received a letter written by Capt. Rowland Cotton, commander of H.M.S. Pallas, on 10 Nov. Out of a convoy that comprised fifteen vessels, only one brig returned to Port Royal. The remainder of the convoy arrived safely at Bluefields. Finding that none of the vessels had suffered severe damage from the storm, Cotton planned to resume the voyage that morning. See Cotton to Gayton, 10 Nov. 1777, UKLPR, Adm. 1/240, 463–65; and “A List of Ships and Vessels under Convoy of His Majesty’s Ship pallas Bluefields Jamaica 10th: Nov^r 1777,” ibid., 466.

3. Gayton’s identification of the purchased brig was incorrect. In June 1776 the Connecticut State Navy brig Defence captured in Boston Bay the transports George and Annabella, which were conveying to Boston Lt. Col. Archibald Campbell and two companies of the 71st Highlanders. See NDAR 5. As of Sept. 1777 the brig Defence was moored in Boston, where she was rebuilt as a ship. See NDAR 9: 907, 950.

COMTE D’ARBAUD TO GOVERNOR WILLIAM MATHEW BURT

Copie de la Reponse de M. Le Comte D’arbaud, à M. Burt, Sur les deux lettres en datte du 8. et du 10. 9^{bre}. 1777.

Monsieur.

J’ai reçu par l’officier que j’avois dépeché à vôtre Excellence les deux Lettres² qu’elle lui à remise en reponse à celles que j’avois eû l’honneur de lui écrire, La premiere relative à l’acte de violence commis sur les côtes d’une des possessions du Roi mon maitre, par une fregate de Sa Majesté Britannique qui hostilement à mis à Terre des Gens à main armés pour poursuivre et se saisir d’une partie d’equipage, soit Blancs; Mulatres, ou Negres, n’importe la couleur ou la Nation, qui avoient atterir avec l’opinion fondée de trouver un azile assés respecté pour n’y être pas poursuivi.

Voila quel est l’objet de ma réclamation auprès de vôtre Excellence, et non celui d’une protection accordée personnellement à un homme Infame, soit Espagnol, ou Corse, pourvû ou non, d’une commission du congrés, consideration qui sont toutes Etrangeres à mon objet qui n’avoit d’autre fin que celle d’obtenir la réparation dûe, d’une voïe de fait bien contraire aux égards et au respect egallement dus à Sa Majesté tres chretienne et qui est capable d’alterer la bonne intelligence qui regne entre nos cours respectives.

Je n’aurois jamais pensé qu’une réclamation aussi juste et aussi fondée put occasionner des personnalités aux qu’elles je ne repond pas pour n’alterer en aucune maniere le respect qui est dû respectivement à nos Places, dont les obligations nous forcent d'entrer dans des détails toujours relatifs aux interêts des deux Nations, sans que nous dussions jamais nous écarter des égards personnels que ne pouvons jamais perdre de vûe sans nous manquer réciproquement.

Quant à l'autre qui concerne le S^r Gordon c'est avec ré regret que j'ai l'honneur d'assurer vôtre Excellence qu'elle me suppose une conduite et des motifs bien éloignées de mes principes. J'ai donné des ordres, ils ont été respectés. Le S^r Gordon en à imposé à vôtre Excellence: la Main forte lui à été donnée, et il à été le maitre de Visiter les Magazins du S^r D'arbousier les effets de tres peu de valeur qu'il avoit fait arrêter lui ont été offerts quoique envoyés en Don par le capitaine Brown au S^r D'arbousier qui n'a eû aucune connoissance de la vente de la Cargaison que la cupidité industrielle de la fraude commune à toutes les Nations, à soustrait aux rêcherches du S^r Gordon ainsi qu'aux précautions justes et Vigilantes que j'avois prises pour les lui favoriser. Il faut pour faire subir un châtiment constater le delit et trouver le coupable, c'est ce qui n'a pas été possible dans l'affaire du S^r Gordon. Les ordres les plus rigoureux sur la vente des prises ont été donnés dans toutes les parties de mon Gouvernement; il me seroit même facile de prouver à vôtre Excellence que j'en ai donné de rélatifs à celle de la prise du S^r Gordon, qui avoient prévenu vôtre réclamation. La fraude à consommé clandestinement ce que le bon ordre avoit voulu sauver, il en est résulté le dégât et la dépradation de la cargaison dont partie à été jettée à la Mer, sans qu'il soit possible de connoitre les mains dans lesqu'elles l'autre partie à resté.

Il me seroit encore facile de détromper vôtre Excellence sur les certitudes qu'elle me montre que le corsaire qui à fait cette prise, est armé par une compagnie composée des S^{rs} D'arbousier, Soubies, et autres habitans de la grande terre Isle Guadeloupe. J'ai entre mes mains les preuves les plus authentiques du Contraire, et je les aurois communiquées à vôtre Excellence, si j'avois trouvé dans sa Correspondance à laquelle les obligations de ma Place me forcent de repondre, les égards et les honnestetés dont nous ne devons n'y l'un n'y l'autre nous écarter. J'ai l'honneur d'être &^a.

Copy of Comte d'Arbaud's Reply to Mr. Burt's two letters dated 8 and 10 November 1777.

Sir,

[17 November 1777]¹

I have received, via the officer I had sent to your Excellency, the two letters² your Excellency handed to him, in response to those letters I had had the honor of writing to you. The first letter pertains to the act of violence committed on the coasts of one of the possessions of the king, my master, by a frigate of His Britannic Majesty, which with hostile intent put armed men ashore to pursue and seize a part of the crew—whether whites, mulatoes or negroes, neither the color nor the nationality was important—who had gone ashore with the justifiable idea of seeking asylum that would be sufficiently respected so as not to be followed there.

That is the subject of my claim to your Excellency and not for protection personally granted to an infamous man, whether a Spaniard or a Corsican, whether or not provided with a commission of the Congress. These are considerations foreign to my objective, which has no other purpose than to obtain the compensation due for an attack truly contrary to the consideration and respect equally due to His Most Christian Majesty, which is capable of modifying the good relations that exist between our respective courts.

I should never have thought that such a fair and justifiable claim could cause personal remarks to which I do not respond in order not to alter, in any way, the respect due our positions whose responsibilities compel us to enter into details always related to the interests of our two nations, without our ever having to set aside the personal regards that we can never lose sight of without our being disrespectful to each other.

As for the other letter that pertains to Mr. Gordon, it is with regret that I have the honor of assuring your Excellency that he credits me with a conduct and motives far removed from my principles. I have issued orders and they have been respected. Mr. Gordon has imposed on your Excellency; assistance was given to him, and he was enabled to inspect Sieur d'Arbousier's warehouses. The items of very little value that the latter had had seized were offered to him although they had been given as a gift by Captain Brown to Sieur d'Arbousier who had known nothing about the sale of the cargo which a persistently active desire to defraud, common to all nations, concealed from Mr. Gordon's searches as well as from the just and vigilant measures I had taken to facilitate his searches. In order to inflict a punishment, it is necessary to confirm the violation and to locate the guilty party. This has been impossible in Mr. Gordon's case. The strictest orders relating to the sale of seized property have been issued throughout my government. It would even be easy for me to prove to your Excellency that I gave orders relating to seizure of Mr. Gordon's property, which had anticipated your claim. Fraudulent acts have accomplished clandestinely what good order had tried to save. As a result of these acts the cargo has been damaged, looted, and a portion of it thrown into the sea without it being possible to learn in whose hands the remaining portion was.

It would be even easier for me to enlighten your Excellency on the evidence you have shown me that the privateer making the seizure was equipped with weapons provided by a company composed of Sieurs d'Arbusier, Soubies and other inhabitants of Grande Terre, Guadeloupe. I have in my hands the most authentic evidence proving the contrary. I would have forwarded it to your Excellency if I had found in your correspondence—to which the responsibilities of my position force me to respond—the considerations and courtesies of which neither you nor I should lose sight. I have the honor of being, &^a.

COMMODORE WILLIAM HOTHAM TO VICE ADMIRAL VISCOUNT HOWE

Copy.

My Lord,

Preston Off New York—

18th. November 1777.

The late turbulent Weather has been so much against the different Convoys joining You, that I can only hope the Want of them will not have added to the Inconvenience of the Delay; but on the contrary that the Thames not having been able to clear the Hook before the last Gale came on, may be reckoned a lucky Circumstance, as the total Dispersion of her Convoy must probably have been the Consequence had they got to Sea; As it is, many of them from various Disasters are returned from the Hook, and I am sorry that the Manners Brig, mentioned in my former Letter to have had the Slops and Bedding onboard should be amongst the Number. Her wants, and most of the others are, however, again made good, and the greatest part (if not all) of them accompany the Dispatch, which brings this Letter.

All Accounts agree that the Enemy are in Force in the Neighbourhood of Mari-neck and Rye; and that they intend to establish a Post as near Hell-Gate as possible, in order to destroy the Navigation of the Sound, as well as to command a Landing upon Long-Island; For which purpose they are said to have a Number of Boats at Stamford and Horse-Neck, and by every Intelligence their Intentions are bent this Way: I have therefore ordered all the small Armed Vessels which can be spared from other Services into the Sound with particular Directions that they may be constantly kept moving whenever the Weather will permit, as being the surest Means to discover, as well as to prevent, any intended Mischief. The Western part of it is more particularly directed to be attended to; as at this Season of the Year not much is to be apprehended to the Eastward of Huntingdon. And as Long Island is generally supposed to be their Object, Sir Henry Clinton has directed some additional Works to be thrown up, and the old Ones to be repaired at Brooklyn, which Precaution has induced me to put the Stores intended for Rhode-Island onboard the Buffalo rather than the Elephant, as the latter will then contain the greatest part of what remains, and of course secure them more effectually than by placing them in the Store-Houses onshore, at least 'till all is quiet. The idea of an Attack has hitherto prevented Major General Robertson¹ from embarking for Rhode-Island.

A Letter addressed to your Lordship from the Rebel Governor Trumbull of the State of Connecticut, proposes the Exchange of Captain Judd, late of the Antelope, who was a passenger and taken prisoner in the Weymouth Packet, for M^r Manly of the Hancock; If you would wish any Answer to be given to it, your Lordship will please to honor me with your Commands on that Head.

Inclosed is an Extract of a letter from Captain Browne of the Scorpion relating to his Gunner. I have the Honor to be [&c.]

(Signed) W Hotham.

P.S. If there should be any Vessels still remaining after the Dispatch is gone; they will be sent under Convoy of the Galatea, who will otherwise proceed alone to receive your Lordship's orders.

In consequence of his Excellency Gen. Washingtons orders to us¹ to inquire in conjunction with Gen^l Varnum & the officers of Fort Mercer & of the fleet, into the practicability of defending the Cheavaux de frize & preventing the Enemy from raising them and its being the unanimously opinion of the Officers and of the Commodore & Cap^t Robeson (the eldest continental officer in the Navy) that the fleet can be of no service when Batteries are erected on Mud Island in the defence of either of the River or Fort We recommend it to the Commodore, with the first favourable Wind to attempt passing up the River past the City of Philad^a to such place as he judge proper endeavouring in his way to destroy the Delaware Frigate by the Fire Ships November 18th.—I went on command to Mud Island. I got two 18-prs. mounted on our new battery. Two 32-prs. are to be put on this battery also. The rebel vessels, except the galleys, are moved from Red Bank and gone near to Gloucester Point. The galleys this afternoon were in motion; we expected them down to the fort. The reinforcements from New York are landed on the Jersey's, and have been joined by a large detachment from our army; their intention is to invest Red Bank; Lord Cornwallis commands.

Charles-Town, Nov. 18.

A letter from Georgia advises, that on the 23d ult. the Pilot-Boat at Sunbury (lately the Cotesworth-Pinckney privateer of this port, and then commanded by Captain William Rankin, so well known here as not to need describing) was carried off from thence, to St. Augustine; and that on the 30th, the same boat returned to Cockspur, and took the Savannah pilot-boat upon the Bar, with Mr. Adams the pilot on board, and carried both off—As both these vessels are said to have appeared off Port Royal Bar last week,¹ it may not be amiss (to prevent strangers being decoyed) to give a description of the latter, viz. She had a figure head, a small round house, railed Bars, remarkably taunt masts, her bottom beam topt with white lead, her sides payed with lamp-black down to her bends, a new head to her mainsail, and jib stept from the head to the foot with new stuff. . . .

Samuel Buffum a young Man hath been several Months confined in the Gaol at Newport. His Friends inform us that General Pigot will give him in Exchange for any able bodied Soldier or Seaman. We beg the Favor of you to apply for and send him in Return for One of those now sent you.

M^r Vaughan acting Lieut. of the *Syren*² and M^r Backhouse the Purser³ we propose to give in Exchange for Adam W. Thaxter and Esek Hopkins jun^r who were acting Lieutenants of the Sloop *Providence*⁴ and are now Prisoners at Halifax. Upon your undertaking to procure them we will immediately send you M^r Vaughan and M^r Backhouse.

We inclose you a List of the Prisoners belonging to this State whom we expect to receive in Exchange;⁵ and have no Doubt you will take the proper Steps for discharging them. Those who are at Halifax, if discharged there, may meet with great Difficulty in getting home. We would therefore be glad they may be sent to Boston or brought to Newport.

Besides the Prisoners belonging to this State we have made a List of all those now on board the Prison-Ship who appear by your List to have been taken in armed Vessels. Should you send us the Officers and Prize Masters of the Privateers we will give in Exchange for them the Warrant and petty Officers of the Syren. The Remainder of these Prisoners excepting the Captain we will send to you immediately in Case you will undertake to return us such Persons of equal Rank as shall hereafter fall into your Hands whom we shall write for—I am Sir, by order and in Behalf of the Council [&c.]

GEORGE WASHINGTON TO BRIGADIER GENERAL JAMES VARNUM

Dear Sir

Head Quarters Whitemarsh 19th. Novem^r: 1777

The Generals S^t: Clair, Knox and Kalb returned to Camp this Evening, they are all clear in their opinions that keeping possession of the Jersey shore at or near Red Bank is of the last importance. I have therefore determined to make such an addition to the Reinforcement that marched this morning under Gen^l: Huntingdon, that I am in hopes you will be able to give an effectual check to the force which the Enemy at present have in Jersey. Gen^l: Green will take the command of the Reinforcement—Very much will depend upon keeping possession of Fort Mercer, as to reduce it, the Enemy will be obliged to put themselves in a very disagreeable situation to them and advantageous to us, upon a narrow neck of land between two Creeks, with our whole force pressing upon their Rear. Therefore desire Colonel Green to hold it if possible till the relief arrives. All superfluous Stores may be removed if it can be done after this reaches you; that in Case of Accident as little may fall into the hands of the Enemy as possible. While we hold the fort, it will be necessary for some of the Gallies to lay close under the Bank to keep the Enemy from making any lodgment under it, and it will also secure your Communication with the Water, which perhaps may be essential, for I do not remember whether there is a Well in the Works. There can be no danger to the Galleys while we keep the Bank above them, and if we evacuate, if they cannot get off, they may destroy them and put the Men on Shore. I have recommended this upon a supposition that they will be very serviceable to you, if you do not think they will you need not keep them.

Altho' I am anxious to have the fort kept, I do not mean that it should be done at all events, so as to endanger the safety of the Men without any probability of success I am &c

DIARY OF CAPTAIN FRANCIS DOWNMAN

[Mud Island, Pa.]

November 19th.—Early this morning I observed the galleys in motion and prepared everything to receive them, but instead of paying us a visit they went and joined the fleet at Gloucester Point; at the same time the rebel forces made a movement at Red Bank, and from everything we could discover such as ammunition waggons on the march, people carrying bundles, and boats being filled with barrels, we conclude they were evacuating the fort and works at Red Bank, which if true, our fleet may be before the town in a little time, as we cannot meet with any interruption in removing the impediments in the river. I was relieved this afternoon and went to town. A report prevails that the rebels have quitted Red Bank and intend destroying a number of their vessels. Wrote to Colonel James by Captain Layard.

COUNCIL OF WAR HELD ON BOARD THE PENNSYLVANIA NAVY SLOOP SPEEDWELL

In Council of War held on board the Sloop Speedwell off Red Bank 19 Nov^r 1777
Summon'd to deliberate on the particularity of passing the City of Philad^a with the Ships or Vessels of the Continental and state fleet on the River Delaware, that are of too great draught of Water to pass thro the Eastern or Jersey Channell

It is the Unanimous opinion of this Council, that such an attempt is practicable with a fresh of Wind in the Morning flood in the Morning of the 20th. Inst to run such ships & Vessels up the Western Channell, but as circumstances are such that their going up cannot possibly be deferrd beyond that time as our Army have evacuated Fort Mercer and of Consequence the Enemy must be possess'd of that Fortress and in cou[?]se of the whole Jersey coast, it is therefore unanimously determin'd that such ships or Vessels as are constrain'd to go up the Western Channel, be prepared with combustibile matter so as to be set instantly on fire and consumed should the wind on the said Morning flood not be such as to render their passage up practicable. It is also unanimously determin'd that should the Wind & weather be such as to render impracticable the getting up in the Morning flood, the Galleys, or other smaller Vessels destined for the Eastern Channell the same preparations [be made for burning such Galleys or Vessels as mention'd in regard of the rest & they accordingly set on fire in prefference of their falling into the hands of the Enemy.]¹

PROCEEDINGS OF JAMAICA HOUSE OF ASSEMBLY

House of Assembly

Wednesday the 19 Day of November 1777

M^r Martin from the Committee appointed to Enquire and report to the house what Protection hath been given to the Commerce of this Island and how the Coast hath been Guarded by his Majestys Squadron on this Station reported as follows.

M^r Speaker

Your Committee appointed to Enquire and report to the house what Protection hath been given to the Commerce of this Island and how the Coast hath been Guarded by his Majestys Squadron on this Station for two years past, do report as follows.

It appears to your Committee from the information of Alexander Fulluton Esquire one of the Members of this house that on or about the 4th day of January last the Casar Cap^t Currie, with a Considerable part of her loading on board was cut from her moorings in the Port of Dry harbour in the parish of Saint Ann and carried off by an American Privateer—That some time in the month of June following another Privateer called the Washington commanded by Captain Anthony came into the said Port of Dry harbour, and cut out a large Shallop which had been sent for a load of Sugar, for a Ship at S^t Anns Bay—That on the same day the Washington took a Ship's Long Boat loaded with Seven hogsheads of Sugar belonging to Landovry Estate in the parish aforesaid—That the said Privateer took a Brigantine from the Bay of Honduras for Kingston loaded with Mahogany and Logwood, and that after making Captures of the above Vessells the Commander of the Privateer landed Twenty Seven Men near S^t Anns amongst whom was the Master of the Brigantine aforesaid.¹

It further appears to your Committee from the Examination in the most solemn manner of M^r George Campbell of the parish of Kingston Merchant that some time in the month of May last, being in Company with Captain Paisley [Pasley] of his Majestys Ship Glasgow a Conversation passed respecting a Privateer that had been cruising off the northside the Island upon which the said Captain Passley declared that although he was at that Time fitting out his Tender to Cruize against the Americans he would immediately alter her Destination that he accordingly with the utmost Dispatch sent the Tender commanded by M^r Poultney his first Lieutenant but the Privateer had left that part of the Coast before he arrived at Anotto Bay.

It further appears to your Committee by the information of Francis Denniss Esq^r one of the Members of this house that about the month of August last a Privateer cut out a small Vessell belonging to M^r Livingston from White River in the Parish of Saint Mary, and that some time before a Sloop was taken carrying Provisions from the Snow Brothers Cap^t Gaul in Saint Ann's Bay to Lowlayton Estate in the parish of S^t George

John Campbell Esquire one of the Members of this house communicated to your Committee Extracts from two Letters dated the 18th and 19th of October last from M^r Francis Somerville of the parish of Hanover Merchant, the former advising the Capture of a Ship's Long Boat off Daviss Cove loaded with Merchandize by a Privateer of Four Carriage Guns, the latter giving intelligence that one of the Privateers which had infested that Coast had been taken.

It further appears to your Committee that during the time the aforesaid Privateer was on the Coast his Majesty's Sloop Race horse of 10 Guns & thirty Eight men commanded by M^r Charles Jordan was sent down to Convoy the Ships bound for England from that part of the Island to the Place appointed for the meeting of the Trade; and that the said M^r Jordan having received Information of a Privateer being on the Coast immediately went to seek her and upon coming up with the Vessell he attacked boarded & took her after an obstinate Engagement and found his Prize of much superior Force to the Race horse having on board twelve Guns a number of Swivels and 104 Men all of them Except one (named McKella) Subjects of the French King and the King of Spain, after this spirited & Gallant action M^r Jordan carried the Privateer into Port²

It further appears to your Committee by the information of Philip Philip Livingston Esq^r one of the Members of this house that a Droger commanded by Captain Kanholte loaded with Provisions and other necessarys for the Kings Forces stationed at Fort George Port Antonio together with Supplies for the Estates in that Neighbourhood and the Parish of Saint Mary was taken in May last off Manchioneal Harbour by an American Privateer commanded by Captain Anthony, and that the said Privateer took a Vessell about the same time off the East End of the Island loaded with Provisions—That in the month of August last a Droger commanded by Cap^t Hamilton belonging to Messieurs Cosins and Dolbearre was taken in sight of Anatto [Annotto] Bay in the parish of Saint George by a small Privateer being the same that made a Prize of M^r Livingston's Vessell.

It further appears to your Committee from the information of James Irving Esq^r One of the Members of this house that in the month of October last a Press Gang from the Racehorse went up to the Town of Martha Brae and carried off a Tradesman from the Shop of M^r Holdsworth and detained him for sometime, but that on a Proper representation of the matter to the Commanding officer the Man was liberated.

It further appears to your Committee from the Examination in the most solemn manner of M^r George Kinghorn of the parish of Kingston Merchant, that in the month of January last a Droger belonging to him called the Nancy, Rich^d Danahue Master was taken by a Privateer off Galina Point in the parish of Saint Mary.

It further appears to your Committee from the information of M^r Daniel Gully who was Examined in the most solemn manner that the Sloop Betsey belonging to him was taken in the month of July last off the west End of the Island, loaded with Logwood and Mahogany, from the Bay of Honduras, by an American Privateer³ and carried into Carolina—That some time in the month of October last the said Daniel Gully was applied to as a Ship Carpenter by Cap^t Paul Surman to repair his Vessell the General Carlton, and at the same time informed him, that one of Vice Admiral Gaytons Officer's had impressed all his hands, except the chief Mate a little Boy and a black man, that in Consequence of the Loss of his People he had not hands sufficient to work his Vessell Properly, by which means he had run her onboard another Ship and had received Considerable Damage

Your Committee have also been furnished with the following affidavit
"Jamaica Is.

John Charlton late Commander of the Sloop Fairborough being duly sworn maketh Oath and saith that On the thirtieth day of April last the said Sloop was taken off Orange Bay in the parish of Saint George in the Island of Jamaica by an American Privateer Sloop called the S^t Louis commanded by Samuel Spencer and mounting Eight Carriage Guns ten Swivels and having about thirty five men,⁴ and immediately on such Capture the American Captain manned this Deponents Sloop and Ordered them to Proceed to Georgia, leaving this Deponent and some of his Men on board the Privateer and this Deponent saith that at the time of such Capture there was on board the said Sloop three thousand Bricks twenty Six Barrells of Provisions, two half Barrells Ditto Six firkins of Butter and five Boxes marked $\frac{L}{W}$ intended to be landed at Orange Bay aforesaid for Low Layton Estate the Property of William White Esquire: Four Hogsheads of Sugar One Tierce of Corn and One Cask of Rum marked

MB belonging to Messieurs Watt and Allardyes One Hogshead of Corn marked AL belonging to Messieurs Dick and Milligan One hogshead of Corn marked IR belonging to James Robertson Seventeen Keggs of Pease and Beans and two Boxes marked RM consigned to Messieurs John and James Allen and two Boxes marked ^L_C belonging to M^r Edward Cairns at Lennox a negroe Boy named York belonging to George Munro Six Teirces of Corn belonging to John Littlejohn and Seven Tons of Fustic and Lignum Vita and some Kegs of Brandy belonging to this Deponent and this Deponent further saith that on the Day following the Capture of this Deponents Vessell a Brig from the Bay of Honduras Charles Anderson Master belonging to Liverpool was also taken by the said Privateer off Saint Anns Bay and the next morning a Long Boat was also taken by the said Privateer off Dry Harbour

W^m Elphinston["]

It further appears to your Committee from several Letters that were written by Vice Admiral Gayton to the late Sir Basil Keith and to his Honor the Lieutenant Governor that he was early and well informed of the Danger the Commerce And Coast of this Island were Exposed to from the American Privateers, which will more fully appear by the following Extract from a Letter of the said Admiral Gaytons dated the 27 August last

“I am now to inform You how intollerably I am troubled with Petitions from the Inhabitants of the northside the Island: Yesterday I received one from Montego Bay dated the 23^d of July signed by more than One hundred of the Inhabitants (a Copy thereof I beg leave to inclose herewith) and which I cannot Comply with untill I have more armed Vessells under my Command; being directed by his Majesty, the Ministry, and Admiralty, to Employ the rest of my Squadron cruizing in the windward Passage to intercept the Vessells that may be trading to or from the Rebellious Colonies, which Directions I shall implicitly obey so long as I have the honor to Continue on this Station.”

Your Committee are therefore of Opinion that the said Vice Admiral Gayton hath not granted that protection to the Commerce and Coast of this Island which might have reasonably been Expected from the Squadron under his Command— That under the Sanction given him by the Governor, and Council to impress Seamen in Proportion to the number on board each Merchant Ship, he hath Exceeded his authority, by impressing a greater number than by Law is allowed; in Consequence of which several Vessels have been obliged to proceed on the Voyage, far short of their Compliment of Men, and that under Colour of the said authority some of the Inhabitants have been deprived of their Liberty, to the great Injury of Society.

Resolved It is the Opinion of this Committee that it be recommended to the house to appoint a Committee to prepare an humble address to his Majesty to Express our attachment to his sacred Person and to request that he would be graciously pleased to order the Commander of his Majestys Squadron on this Station, to keep a sufficient number of armed Vessells constantly cruizing about this Island, for the Protection of the Coast and Trade thereof⁵

Resolved It is the Opinion of this Committee that it be recommended to the house to direct the Committee of Correspondence to transmit to Stephen Fuller Esq^r Agent for this Island a Copy of the Report and Resolution, directing him to use his utmost Diligence to procure a sufficient number of armed Vessells to be stationed here for the Protection of our Trade and Coast: and to instruct the said Stephen Fuller to communicate in a proper manner to the Lords of the Admiralty, the high Sense this house entertains of M^r Jordans gallant Behaviour, in taking the Guest Privateer off the Northwest End of this Island.—

PENNSYLVANIA SUPREME EXECUTIVE COUNCIL TO WILLIAM BRADFORD

In Council

Sir

Lancaster November 20th. 1777

I wrote to you from Head Quarters, I think under date the 15th. Ins^t—this Morning I receivd your favor of the 16th. Ins^t confirming the disagreeable account of the evacuation of Fort Mifflin—this I look upon as highly advantageous to the Enemy—it has however been defended by the Officers & Men with great bravery & resolution—the same good conduct I am afraid has not influenced the officers & Men of our Fleet—complaints has been made that Several of the Gallies refused to obey the orders of the Commodore¹ to engage the large East India ship² which if they had much good might have resulted from it—I wrote to the Commodore on this subject and requested him to order an immediate enquiry into the Conduct of the Officers, and if found Guilty I hoped they would be immediately punished. I flatter myself this step has been adopted and that every Coward & Traitor may be punished & discarded.—

The destruction of the Fire Rafts, occasioned by Tempestuous Weather, is a mortifying Circumstance to me as I expected great matters from them—I hope you will fall upon some plan to refit a part of them so as to make them Servicable the remainder of the season—and if this is practicable I beg no pains may be spared by the Navy Board to effect it—Indeed I am certain there will not, but that every nerve will be exerted to prevent the Enemy Ships passing the Chevaux D^e Frize—the season is far advanced and I hope ere long their ships must retire or be forced ashore by Ice—so that I flatter myself some method will be devised to frustrate the designs of the Enemy notwithstanding the loss of Fort Mifflin—

Council is taking measures to procure Whiskey Shoes Stockings &c, for the Fleet which shall be sent as soon as procured, and a supply of Money shall be forwarded to you & the Commissary M^r Crispin very shortly as I hope the Treasury will soon be replenished—Continue your Advices, and Exertions for the Publick good which will great oblige Sir your Very Hum servant

[Mud Island, Pa.]

November 20th.—This morning about 1 o'clock we were roused out of our beds. Some deserters from the rebel galleys had informed the General¹ that all the galleys intended to be up at town² about daylight to set fire to our frigate, the Delaware, and to cannonade the town. In a little time we were prepared to receive them, having manned and got our guns ready, but they did not come.

CAPTAIN WILLIAM CORNWALLIS, R.N., TO VICE ADMIRAL VISCOUNT HOWE

My Lord

Isis off Billingsport 20 Nov^r 8 AM 1777

Intelligence has been received that the Enemy have left a small party at red bank to blow up the Place, & retired to Mount holly or Burlington, that the troops stationed at Woodberrey were gone the same way, and the Militia at Manto Creek marched to Woodberry, but we are not certain of the truth of this Information—A Detachment was sent this Morning by Lord Cornwallis in two flat boats to the Battery above Manto Creek, who found a 24 Pounder mounted but the rebels were fled.

ALEXANDER GILLON TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS

Sir

Having seen y^e want of Cloathing in y^e Army & knowing how to Remedy that Inconvenience in future I take y^e liberty of addressing myself to you thereon craving you to lay y^e following proposals before y^e Honble Congress if you approve thereof.

I wou'd proceed from S^o. Carolina to Europe with the utmost expedition there purchase on y^e. best terms y^e. following Articles Viz^t. Hats, made Shirts, Suites of Uniforms, Stockings, Shoes, Buckles, Stocks, Blankets, also Arms, Ammunition & all War-like Stores, & ship them as directed or if agreable I wou'd ship them in y^e. Vessels of y^e. Country where purchas'd to y^e. Islands of Lancerota [Lanzarote] & Forteuentura [Fuerteventura] where your Vessels of War cou'd fetch them from as you wanted them my Reasons for preferring these Islands is because it is A new Tract thus not Guarded neither can Cruizers keep their Stations so as to prevent Vessels getting in & out owing to y^e. Trade Winds & Lee Currents & because y^e. Vessels cou'd be clean'd & refitted there it being y^e. place where all y^e. Vessels belonging to y^e. Canary Islands Careene & fit out, & because can there be compleatly Mann'd with Spaniards or if more Men is wanted than their Compliment A Surplus might be procur'd by proper Encouragem^t for your other Vessels or for y^e. Land Service as I know of no Obstruction to their Embarkation & I know by Experience y^e. Men are willing to come to America the foregoing Articles I wou'd propose purchasing for y^e. usual Comssns [Commissions] for acc^t. of y^e. Continent wherein they can be bo^t. best & quickest embark'd for y^e. payment thereof I propose you to advance Annually y^e. Amount wanted to me or my House in S^o. Carolina to be by them invested in such produce of y^e. Continent as you or they think will make the best Remittance which they will remit to me in Europe as soon as possible for y^e. purchase of which as also for y^e. Sales in Europe y^e. usual Comssns [Commissions] to be paid but should it happen that these Remittances did not arrive in time I presume I can in Holland procure Monies at A low Intrest p^r Annum or many articles or Credit so that no disappointment cou'd arrive—to Accomplish this I wou'd tarry 2 or 3 years in Whatsoever part of Europe I found wou'd suit best to fix matters on such a footing as not to require my presence or if you think it necessary I will Reside in Europe during the War to transact this or any other business within y^e. Reach of my Abilities—

By Adopting this mode y^e. Continent will be Supplied on y^e. best Terms & never disappointed part^{ly}. if you wou'd admit more than y^e. quantity wanted to be Ship'd as some might be taken, if not, y^e. Surplus cou'd be easily dispos'd of.

As your Answer to this is y^e. only Reason for my delay here permit me to request you'll favour [me] with it as soon as possible. I am [&c.]

VICE ADMIRAL VISCOUNT HOWE TO CAPTAIN WILLIAM CORNWALLIS, R.N.

Sir

Eagle Nov^r. 20th. 1777 11 AM

I have great satisfaction from the receipt of your Letter of this mornings date the manner in which the Enemy appears to have evacuated the Battery,¹ seems to correspond with the Matter of the Intelligence recieve concerning the Work at red bank; Tho' it is probable they will not entirely quit the last untill the troops under Lord Cornwallis have advanced—

Our next Object will be to discover whether any passage may be already open between the Cheveaux de frieze or through the Eastern Channel for the transports; Or to Endeavour to Open such a passage for them, as soon as the Ships can proceed upon that Work—

I have sent today to have the Circumstances examined as far as it is practicable as the Enemy are possted, You will be pleased to prosecute the enquiry by a proper appointment of the Pilots & other intelligent Persons with you, as those circumstances become more favourable I am [&c.]

Captⁿ. Sampson &

Captⁿ. Harreden

Gentlemen

War Office Boston Nov^r. 21. 1777

Information having this day been given to this Board that an armed Schooner formerly a Marblehead fishing Schooner, about 70 or 80 Tons, black Sides, Quarter

& waiste Cloth, white Bottom, two square Topsails said to be commanded by Captⁿ Callihan from Halifax, seen last Tuesday of [f] Squirrell Island has spoke with several of the eastern wood Coasters all of whom she has let go, after speaking with them. It is apprehended she is coasting with another Schooner said to be the Halifax, for two Ships now laden & near ready to sail for France with Masts,¹ which last Schooner went of [f] that Coast with Cap^t Mowett² in the Albany Sloop of War with 16 guns about 12 days past but may by this time be returned on that Station

You [r] orders are immediately to put to Sea and go to Townsend, there enquire of the Inhabitants about the same and if possible take said Schooners and send them into the port of Boston but if the Albany should be with them you must in that case use your best discretion about attacking

You will stay in Townsend only three days, during which time if you hear nothing about the Schooners you will proceed as before intended—The two Ships bound for France The Enemy's ships have for some time past rendezvoused at Squirrell Island at the mouth of Townsend harbour. If you should be so fortunate as to take either or both these Vessels you will take a sufficiency of Men from the Eastern Shore to bring them to Boston—We are your Friends &c.

JOURNAL OF CAPTAIN JAMES PARKER

[Philadelphia]

[November] 21st I was waked about 5 this morning by the Delaware's Guns, she lys off Kensington in the Narrow part of the Channel. On the bank of the River, which flanks the right of the line of encampment, there is a Redoubt & a Battery, from which & the ship a very smart fire was kept at some craft Attempting to pass between Jersey & penrose Island. It was a very fine still moon light morn. From the top of the house I was very highly entertand with by far the most beautifull fire & Water peice I ever beheld. The almost constant desertions from the Rebel ships had so unmand them, that they were of no service. they forswaw when red bank fell into our hands that the ships must move. Certain distruction was their fate, either from Lord Howe below, or from our Batterys & the Delaware above. Ever since the Hessians lost their favorite Count Donap, they have been muttering Vengeance, & the Rebels are too well informed from some unknown quarter, of what passes here, whether this influened their Councils or not they now determined to burn their ships & abandon the fort. It was flood tide when they began, I saw eleven of them in flames at once come drifting past Gloucester point. before the tide turned they came up near the lower part of the City. A great many rebels were on the Jersey shore opposite where a Brig failing to pass, was fired & abandoned. the Wharfs of the City were crowded with men Women & Children. the the thundering of the cannon enrich'd by the alternate blowing up of the ships, & the buzzing noises of the people maid Visable by the flashes of fire, All together exhibited materials unparalleld for a fine descreptive fancy; & in my Opinion had the Minority Treators in England, the Committee men, Generals & Rump Congress here, been on board the Province ship the scene would have been Compleat.

[Philadelphia]

[November] 21st. I was awaken'd this Morning befor 5 o'clock by the loud firing of Cannon, my Head Aching very badly; All our Family was up but little Molly, and a fire made in the Parlor, more then an hour before day—all our Neighbourns were also up, and I believe most in Town—The Amricans had set their whole Fleet on fier, except one Small vesel and some of the Gondelows, which past by the City in the Night; the fireing was from the Delaware who lay at Coopers Point, on the Gondelows, which they did not return; Billy counted 8 different Vessels on fire at once in sight, one lay near the Jersey shore, opposite our House; we heard the explosion of 4 of 'em when they blew up, which shook our Windows greatly—We had a fair sight of the blazeing Fleet, from our upper Windows. . . .

JOURNAL OF CAPTAIN JOHN MONTRESOR

[Carpenters Island, Pa.]

[November] 21st. Wind at N. E. but very light. This morning at 3 o'clock the moon shining the Galleys began to move from the Rebel Fleet and pass up by the Town and at 4 the rebels set fire to all their marine remaining. As soon as their Galley advanced towards our Guns at the North Part of the city we fired on them as did the Delaware Frigate, which drove one armed Schooner of 8 guns, and one armed Sloop on the Jersey shore. The rebels burnt 15 Topsail vessels and 15 galleys got up the river. Large Party of Rebel Horse and foot attacked our pickets to the bottom of our lines but was repulsed with loss. Came up to the city from the Fleet, 2 Barges from the Ships of war. This morning sailed from Chester, dispatches for New York. Rebel Fleet here cost Five hundred thousand pounds Sterling currency.

DIARY OF CAPTAIN FRANCIS DOWNMAN

[Mud Island, Pa.]

November 21st.—The rebels have abandoned Red Bank, have left 18 pieces of cannon, and blown up the magazine that contained a great quantity of powder. A vast quantity of shot and other stores were found in their works. Lord Cornwallis's army took possession and we are now destroying it. Mud Island is also to be destroyed and the cannon and stores brought to town.¹ This evening the rebels set fire to their whole fleet, except the galleys which, under cover of a dark night stole past the town and went up the river. A brig and sloop attempted to pass, but they were prevented by our batteries and the frigate² and ran aground just opposite the town, they were set fire to, and after burning a considerable time blew up. The loss of this fleet of 30 or 40 vessels, some of them considerable size, must be a heavy blow to them, as almost all of them had a great quantity of powder, guns, and stores on board. The explosion of some of these was so immense that the whole town was shook as with an earthquake. By the taking of Red Bank and Mud Island and the extinction of the fleet, the river is now entirely free, and our vessels are coming up to town every tide. The chevaux-de-frise will be instantly removed and in a few days our men-of-war will be before the town. General Pattison and John Williamson's company are landed and are at Red Bank with the army. Our redoubts and lines round the city are finished and are very strong, so much so, that we need not be under the least apprehension of Mr. Washington's attack, though he threatens hard and some of his ragamuffins are firing at our pickets every foggy morning, but are always driven back with loss.

of Fort Pitt and will serve to inform you that Congress have determined that part of the Stores arrived or to arrive from Spain at New Orleans for the use of these States shall if possible be brought up the Mississippi & Ohio to Fort Pitt, and we are now to request that you will immediately set about carrying this their Determination into Execution—On Reciept here of you are to engage five or six Boats such as have been usually employed in carrying Goods up the River, ship on board them Cargoes of the Stores assorted of all the different Articles. Take proper Receipts or Bills of lading and dispatch them as soon as possible—These Boats should not be deep laden. Moderate Cargoes to have them pretty buoyant will do best, they must all be well manned with careful resolute Men well attached to the American Cause & Interest, particularly the Patrons or Masters. They must also be well armed with Swivels or Cohorns and Muskets and found with sufficient Provisions. Mr James Willing will return with these Boats and to him you may commit your Dispatches, also the superintending Care of the Goods. Perhaps the Governor may be willing to send the Goods up under spanish Protection as far as there are any of their Forts on the River—in this Respect & indeed in every other we must submit to his & your good Discretion to order this Business in the way that shall appear best calculated to bring the Goods safe & soon here at as light an Expencc as possible—

With Respect to the Remainder we confirm the Instructions given 24th. Oct. & 12th. June—We shall order a Quantity of Flour to Pittsburg against these Goods arrived there in order to load the Boats back again provided it can be obtained on any tolerable Terms but the Carriage across the Mountains comes excessive high—We are &c—
P.S. If there are any Indian Goods we would wish them sent this way. We inclosed you in our last letter three blank Commissions, and least they should miscarry we now inclose you three others to be filled up as before—

Jn^o: Fullerton Seaman being examined, Says that it was the common talk at the Mole that 5 or 6,000 Soldiers were expected there from Cape Francois; That they were in daily expectation of War being declared against England and that 10 Ships of the Line were expected besides Frigates from France—

William Simpson, Seaman being examined, Says that 5 or 6,000 Men were expected daily at the Mole; that there were a great Quantity of Men in their Forts already but can not tell what Number, that a French Frigate was cruizing off the Harbor but not any armed Vessel in it; that it was advertized on shore that after a certain day no British Vessel shou’d sail from the Mole, in respect to the Ships he agrees with Fullertons report

Peter Smith, Seaman, being examined Says that War with England was the common talk at the Mole; That 5 or 6,000 Men were daily expected as were 10 Sail of the Line and that all English Vessels in the Mole were ordered out in 48 hours without completing their Cargoes

Archibald Campbell Seaman being examined, Says that it was the common talk at the Mole that France was to declare War with England very soon; they expected 5, or 6,000 Troops from France daily; That their Forts appear to be very full of Soldiers already; That Two of their Frigates were cruizing off the Mole That all English Vessels were ordered out in 48 hours & that none were to be allowed to enter there any more, that many Schooners & Sloops were loading and unloading there and that the Schooner who came out with them was loaded with powder for America; that he wanted to go one day into their Fort but they woud not suffer him

M^r Moncrieff. Lieu^t being examined Says that they expected 25000 Men from France daily; That their Forts were already full of Men; That the Common talk was a War with England; That a Fleet of Ships were daily expected; That a large Quantity of Baggage came into the Mole which he was told belonged to the Army that were arrived at Cape Francois & those daily expected in the Ships of War. That all subjects to the King of great Britain were ordered out of their ports in 48 hours about 5 days ago and that the Baggage arrived at the Mole a few days before that

Will^m. Thompson Boatsⁿ. being examined says that he was three Months in the Mole that the common talk was a War with England; that they expected 30,000 Men from Cape Francois; That he saw the Major and Commander going to take houses to receive them; that a great Number of the Inhabitants on that Acco^t had been turned out of their houses; That a large Fleet were daily expected; That all Subjects to the King of great Britain were ordered away in 24 hours; And that at Cape Francois not any American Vessels were suffered to Enter—

M^r. John Meredith, Captain, being examined says that the common talk at the Mole was a War with England; That all Subjects to the King of great Britain were ordered off the Island in 24 hours; That a Quantity of Soldiers Baggage had arrived at the Mole and that a Fleet of Ships were daily expected from Cape Francois with 25 or 30,000 Men for the whole Island 8,000 of which were for the Mole, That at Cape Francois not any american Vessels were suffered to enter—

REAR ADMIRAL SIR PETER PARKER TO VICE ADMIRAL VISCOUNT HOWE

Extract of a Letter from the Rear Admiral Sir Peter Parker to the Viscount Howe, dated onboard the Chatham off Newport 22^d. November 1777.

“I am sorry to inform your Lordship of the Wreck of His Majesty’s Ship the Syren to the Northward of Point Judith. The 6th. Instant at 2 in the Morning she sailed from this Port with seven Transports and several Vessels belonging to Newport under her Convoy, in order to proceed with them to Sag Harbour, to load with Wood for the Use of the Troops and Inhabitants. About 5, by some strange Mismanagement, the Syren, a Transport named the Sisters, and a small Schooner¹ belonging to Newport, ran onshore a little to the Northward of Point Judith, within Pistol Shot of the Beach, having mistaken their Course; The Wind being fair at NNE, the rest of the Transports and Wood Vessels proceeded on their Voyage, and are under the Protection of the Unicorn. About 4 o’Clock in the Evening I was acquainted with this melancholly Accident by a Schooner-Boat, which came alongside the Chatham. I sent the Flora and Lark immediately to their Assistance; but, before they could get near enough, the Wind shifting to the NW and blowing fresh, Captain Furneaux was obliged to surrender himself and Crew to the Rebels. The next Day the Flora and Lark returned, not having been able, from the great Surf, to board any of the Vessels. However We had the Satisfaction the 9th. Instant at 10 o’Clock at Night, to burn the Syren; The Guns and most of the Stores and Provisions being onboard, The Transport was among Rocks and could not be boarded; but she is bilged and nearly destroyed, so that she can never be made of the least Service by the Rebels.”

WILLIAM BRADFORD TO THOMAS WHARTON, JR.

Burlington, Novemr. 22d, 1777.

My last to your Excellency was the 16th, informing of the Evacuation of Fort Mifflin.¹ After the enemy got Possession of that Post they were very still, firing but two or three shot. Our Fleet dropt something higher up, but not out of reach of their shot. Tuesday morning a large Fleet of ships came up to Billingsport, which proved to be General Clinton with a number of Troops from New York, which he landed at Billingsport. Various were the acc^{ts} of their numbers, from three to six thousand men. The Commodore² and Cap^t. Robeson, with the Land officers, consulted, when it was tho’t our Fleet could not possibly support Red Bank, as they must lay within shot of any Batteries the Enemy might erect on the wharves at Fort Mifflin. The officers of the garrison also seemed to think they must abandon the Fort soon, as they could not hold out a regular seige. Wednesday Evening Generals Knox, St. Clair & Calm [Kalb] came from Head Quarters, and their opinion was, that the Fleet proceed up and endeavour to pass by the City³ as soon as possible.⁴ Thursday morning before Day, the Commodore ordered the 13 Galleys to go close up under Coopers Ferry, it being quite calm. They accordingly proceeded and got up without being discovered. The Continental vessels with the Province ships⁵ & shallops were ordered to take the first good wind & push by, but no wind blowing, and the Fort at Red Bank being left. On Friday morning the Brig Convention, Capt. Rice, the schooner Delaware, Capt. Eyres, with all the shallops, except two that was sent into Timber Creek to unload, with some Guard Boats that was left, got under way but was soon discovered, and a very hot fire of shot and shells from the Town & Frigate⁶ began on them. The schooner was drove ashore between the Two Ferries & set on Fire, and one of the accommodation shallops was drove ashore, the rest all got by. After the above vessels sailed, there being no wind, the Continental Brig Andora Doria, Xebechs, Repulse and Champion, sloops Race Horse & Fly, with the Province ships and two Floating Batteries, were set on Fire and burnt, which made a most terrible conflagration, to the great joy of our cruel & wicked enemies, and much to the depression of my spirits.

I am now here alone, Capt. Blewer & Cox being gone Home, but hope will be here again. Mr. Crispin is here, but has no money. I have 6000 dollars, as much as possible shall spare him. We shall be very Happy in receiving your Excellency’s advice in Regard to the Fleet. The men are badly cloathed, want shoes & stockings, and fear many will desert to the Enemy.

We have now here Thirteen Galleys, the Brig Convention, and Four Shallops.

It is astonishing to think of the Precipitate retreat from Fort Mercer, they seemed determined not to see the Enemy. How General Vernam will account for this Conduct, others must judge. There was at the Fort and at Woodberry at least 1800 men. Thursday, General Huntington with 1200 men, crossed Dunk's Ferry, going down to their assistance, but were turned back yesterday by General Vernam, and are all now at Mount Holly. Yesterday General Green got over to this City with 2000 men, also on their way to Red Bank, so that had the Fort made a small shew of Resistance a relief would have come and a noble Fleet have been saved.

The Troops are just marched from here, and believe are all going down to Red Bank. I am [&c.], finding Yesterday morning that the Enemy were burning their Vessels & that the British Troops were advancing to red bank;—I Ordered the Cornwallis (G^v) with some Armed boats up, & Captⁿ Hammond Sir Ja^s. Wallace & myself went up in hopes of getting hold of some of their Gallies, we got to red bank just as Lord Cornwallis entered, we then proceeded round to timber Creek, whilst the troops marched that way, but as we found nothing there nor could get any certain intelligence of the Gallies, we went on to Philedelphia, the Enemy have burnt all their Vessels, including the Schooner Galley but I am afraid the rest of the Gallies have got above the town—The Cornwallis is gone to Philedelphia in Consequence of your Lordships Letter to Captⁿ Duncan, which I was desired to Open as he was gone down, & I shall pay due attention to the whole of it; herewith I send your Lordship a Copy of a letter found at red bank from a M^r Livingston to a Colⁿ Green which I thought your Lordship would like to see I have the honor to be [&c.]

OF THE EASTERN DEPARTMENT

The Commissioners of the Navy Board at Boston
Gentlemen

[York] November 22^d. 1777

We have received a Letter from John Bradford Esq^r the Agent for Prizes at Boston dated the 30th of October last informing us that the Schooner Lee Captain Skimmer was then out on a Cruize, and wanted to know our determination whether this vessel should be continued in the pay of the public after her return into port

As we do not think proper that the States should hire armed vessels as cruizers we now direct that this Schooner be discharged on her return, and that you settle with the Owners and pay them the balance which may be justly due to them

As M^r Bradford recommends Captain Skimmer in very warm terms as a Gentleman every way well qualified for a command in our navy, you will please to enquire particularly into his merits and if you think him deserving we would have you give him the first suitable Vessel which may be in your power.—We are [&c.]

CONTINENTAL MARINE COMMITTEE TO JONATHAN HUDSON

M^r Jonathan Hudson
Sir

[York] November 22^d. 1777

We have determined that the Continental Brigantine built under your direction and now called the Baltimore shall be fitted and prepared for the Sea immediately, and depend upon you to have this business done with as much dispatch as in your power we have directed Mess^{rs} Samuel & Robert Purviance to deliver to you any Rigging Sail Cloth or materials which they may have in their possession belonging to the Public that shall be wanted and may be suitable for fitting this Brigantine, therefore you will apply to those Gentlemen Accordingly and what they cannot furnish you must provide yourself on as moderate terms as possible

You will advise us of your proceedings and we are [&c.]

VICE ADMIRAL VISCOUNT HOWE TO CAPTAIN RICHARD ONSLOW, R.N.

Copy.

By the Viscount Howe, Vice Admiral of the White, and Commander in Chief of His Majesty's Ships and Vessels employed and to be employed &c. in North-America.

You are with all convenient dispatch, to complete the Provisions in His Majesty's Ship under your Command, to a proportion of three Months of all Species from the Victuallers as will be more particularly pointed out; And with Water in the full Quantity that the Ship can Stow. When so prepared in those respects, You are forthwith to proceed to Hampton Road in Virginia; And take the station of the Phoenix, which you may expect to find there, for the purposes chiefly, as Expressed in the Copy of the Orders to Captain Parker herewith enclosed.¹ Upon which Service you are to remain, as long as your Provisions and Water will last with due sufficiency for your passage to Rhode-Island to procure a fresh Supply, conformable to the tenor of the Orders to Captain Parker as aforesaid; Unless you are sooner relieved, or otherwise directed.

A farther Object of your appointment therein, being to afford an opportunity for Captain Parker to complete the Water in the Phoenix; Either by repairing to this River or proceeding higher up in Chesepeak Bay for that purpose, And at the same time to leave him at liberty to prosecute any attempt which shall seem advisable, with one or more of the Stationed Ships that may be consistently spared for the same occasion; In acting with Effect against the Armed or Trading Ships of the Rebels, as from the intelligence he may have gained, He judges it advisable [to] attempt.

And whereas from the Remains left in the Victualling Transports attending the Fleet, it is inexpedient to complete the Provisions in the S^t Albans for a longer Term than is before expressed; But from the nature of the Service for which the Ship is now intended a material inconvenience might ensue in consequence of the deficiency in the Article of Provisions when the Ship left New-York. It will be requisite the daily Issues in the Ship should be regulated in such manner, that the Supply for three Months may serve for the Term of four Months, during your absence from Rhode Island: You are then to reduce the Allowance to the Ship's Company whilst on this Service to two thirds of the full proportion established; At such times however in continuance or at seasonable Intervals, [which] in your discretion you think fit.

Given on board His Majesty's Ship the Eagle off of Chester in the River Delaware the 22^d day of November 1777.

Howe.

By Command of the Vice Admiral.

MARYLAND COUNCIL TO
CAPTAIN GEORGE COOKCap^t. Cook.Annapolis, 22^d Nov^r 1777.

By the General Orders of this Day, the three Galley's Conqueror, Baltimore and Independence are to be under your Command as chief or Principal Officer, and you are to proceed with them to the Sound between the Islands and the Main, of the Eastern Shore and there check, or distress the Enemy, all you can. If you think it may be done with Success or without hazarding too much, you are to attack the Enemy's main Force in the Sound, but in this or any other Matter of Consequence, you are to have a Meeting of your principal Officers and advise with them and to have Regard to their Advice, for, though it is expected that a ready and chearful Obedience will be paid to your Orders, yet, in Things of Consequence, when Time and Opportunity favours, the Advice of the Officers ought to be had and attended to. When the Service no longer requires your Stay, you will proceed back with the Conqueror and Independence, leaving the Baltimore as a Guard below, but no Hands are to be left in her but those who properly belong to her. If the British Ships change their Station to any other Place within this State, you are to go with the three Gallies, into their Neighbourhood and choose the best Situation you can for the Safety of the gallies and to cut off the Tenders. If you find any Persons carrying on a Correspondence with the Enemy, secure such and their Vessels if you can, and assist the Operations of the Militia all in your Power, against the Enemy, or in securing those who may be suspected of corresponding with the Enemy. Contrive my Letter to Col^o. Dashiell and, if the Arms I have wrote to him about, can be got ready, you will put Part into each Galley and bring them to Annapolis. Particular Care, especially to keep them Dry, must be taken of them They are packed in 40 Boxes. Advise of your Situation by every Opportunity and, if your Stay should be any Time and no Oportunity offers send an Express.¹

We are &^{ca}.

MASSACHUSETTS GENERAL COURT

To the Hon^{ble} the Council, and the Hon^{ble} the House of Representatives of the State of the Massachusetts Bay—

The petition of Simeon Sampson Charles Dyer & others, humbly sheweth,

That your Petitioners were Officers & Mariners in the armed Brig^t Independence, owned by and in the service of this State, and by the fortune of war fell into the Enemies hands,¹ whereby they lost their firearms & other military accoutrements, as will appear by a schedule which accompanies this petition, certified by one of your Petitioners, who commanded said Brigantine, to be their own property. Your Petitioners flatter themselves, that their conduct was such as has secured to them the approbation of their Countrymen, and they cannot suppose your Honors will oblige them to sustain the loss of weapons, which they employed in defence of the United States, and for the particular advantage of this—They therefore, request your Honors to grant them such a compensation, as will enable them to replace the Arms & Accoutrements which they lost as aforesaid—And your Petitioners as in duty bound shall ever pray—

CONTINENTAL NAVY BOARD OF THE MIDDLE DEPARTMENT TO
GEORGE WASHINGTON

Continental Navy Board

Sir.

Borden Town 23^d. Nov^r. 1777

It is with the greatest Concern we inform you of the total Destruction of the Continental Fleet at Red Bank; having been burned by our own Officers in Consequence of a Determination of a Council of War. We have not yet had an Opportunity of making a regular Inquiry into the Reasons of so desparate a measure. As far as we can collect from the Officers and Crews here, it was occasioned by the Assurances of the Commander of the Land Forces, that they must expect no further Protection from his army; not even to secure a Retreat in Case of Emergency—But this must be the Subject of future Enquiry—Be the Cause what it may the Loss seems at present to be irreperable.

We request the favour of your Excellency to let the enclosed Packet go with your next Despatches to Congress, & are [&c.]

CHAPLAIN EBENEZER DAVID TO NICHOLAS BROWN

Very Dear Sir

Mount-Holly Nov. 23—1777

In my Las^t wrote 13—dated 12 of this instant through a Mistake, I informed you that it was in Agitation to evacuate Fort Miflin. Co^l. Smith who had Commande^d until 11 instant at Evening was strong for the evacuation having declared the Fort not tenable, before he received the slight wound, which caused him to give up the command^d—Lieu^t. Co^l. Russel commanded from the 11th unto the 14th instant with a Spirit that did him honor—Major Thayer then took Command & forthwith sent a spirited Letter, requesting a reinforcement & expressig his surprise that persons should talk of abandoning the Fort for what then threatened—From this time the Fire was very heavy & Constant—the 15 of the Month & 6th Day of the Canonade The East-indiaman Cut down¹ of which you must have heard with 20–24 pounders came up a Channel that was said by the Commodore² to be insufficient for her, & laid within Pistol shot of the Fort. Our Cannon being chiefly dismounted, & the Fort badly constructed—What was extraordinary she fired 2–24 pound shot into a 32 Pounder, from which she received the cheif annoyance. This Day the fire exceeded all Description from their Fleet & Batteries. Amidst the Hottest Fire Major Thayer was always calm, & was mentioned that he could & would hold the For^t only let the Galleys destroy the Indiaman—Possitive Orders were given by the Commodore for this purpose—But a Council of war was afterward held by the Officers of the Galleys & they concluded it, most safe to return—to this Heroic conclusion I impute the the evacuation of Fort Miflin—at least its being evacuated when it was—Co^l. Green told the Commodore that if he would let him Officer & Man the Galleys the ship would be destroyed as the First principle of his Officers was to obey—But all was in vain—The Provincial Officers must not be dishonored—& the Commodore still hoped they would do something—After dark when the firing abated I accompanied Co^l Olney to see Maj. Thayer & the situation of the Fort—it was battered very much—Thayer was most firm & unshaken still mentained that he could & would hold the Fort only let the Galleys do their Duty—Gen Varnum & Co^l Olney after this went on board the Commodore^s & bore the request of the Major—When they saw after Orders & conclusions were like to fail—they urged in the warmest Manner that the Galleys might be maned & Officerd from our Garrison—But no—The Maj. then made an honorable retreat bringing off all of Consequence save a few Cannon & destroyed the Baracks &c^e. It is the Opinion of Gen. Green who was a Spectator from the Pensilvania shore that there never was a more noble defence in America in this or in former Wars—His Excellency has been pleased to present his particular thanks to the Major—The evacuation of Fort Mifflin rendered Fort Mercer in a manner useless—& the Fleet thought it not safe to lay below Philadelphia the 13 Galleys passed the City hugging the Jersey shore & I believe some others but the Vessels of larger draught are bur^t. . . . GEORGE WASHINGTON TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS

[Extract]

Sir

Head Q^{rs}. White Marsh Nov 23^d 1777.

. . . I am sorry to inform Congress, that the Enemy are now in possession of All the Water defences. Fort Mifflin and that at Red Bank mutually depended on each Other for support, & the reduction of the former made the tenure of the latter extremely precarious, if not impracticable. After the loss of Fort Mifflin, it was found Red Bank could derive no advantages from the Gallies & Armed Vessels—(they could not maintain their Station) and in case of Investiture the Garrison could have no Supplies—no retreat—nor any hope of relief, but such as might arise from a Superior force acting without on the rear of the Enemy and dislodging them. Under these circumstances, the Garrison was obliged to evacuate it on the night of the 20 Ins^t, on the approach of Lord Cornwallis, who had crossed the River from Chester with a Detachment, supposed to be about Two thousand Men, and formed a junction with the Troops, lately arrived from New York and those that had been landed before at Billingsport. From Gen^l Varnum's Account I have reason to hope, that we saved most of the Stores, except a few Heavy Cannon—however I cannot be particular in this instance. I am also to add, from the intelligence I have received, that most, if not All the Armed Vessels have been burnt by our own people, except the Gallies—One Brig and Two Sloops, which are said to have run by the City. How far this might be founded in necessity, I am not able to determine—but I suppose it was done under that Idea and an apprehension of their falling into the Enemy's hands, if they attempted to pass up the River. . . . I have the Honor to be [&c.]

VICE ADMIRAL VISCOUNT HOWE TO PHILIP STEPHENS

N^o. 44.Eagle—Delaware

Sir

Nov^r. 23^d. 1777.

The General¹ advising me of his Intention to send a Packet immediately to England, I avail myself of the opportunity, to acquaint you for the Information of the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty, respecting the Progress of the Military Services in which the Ships of War have been concerned since the date of my last Letter of the 25th: of October,² the Duplicate of which is herewith enclosed.

I mentioned in that Letter, the Preparations making for the Attack meditated on the Works the Rebels had constructed on either Shore, for preventing an open Communication by Water with the Army at Philadelphia; on which it was obvious to them that the farther Operations of the Campaign would greatly depend.

The Wind still continuing to prevent the Vigilant from passing to the Rear of the Enemy's Works on Fort Island; by the only Channel practicable for that purpose, the opportunity was taken by the King's Forces, & by the Enemy, with equal Assiduity, to strengthen the Preparations judged expedient on either part for the proposed Attack.

The Officers and Seamen of the Ships of War and Transports, were employed in the mean time with unremitting Fatigue and Perseverance, to convey Provisions, Artillery and Stores, to the Schylkill, between Fort Island and the Pensylvania Shore. Six 24 Pounders from the Eagle, and Four 32 Pounders from the Somerset, transported in the same manner, & the requisite proportions of Ammunition, were mounted in the Batteries erected by the General's² Appointment on Province Island.³

The Wind becoming favorable the 15th. Instant, that first Occasion was taken for ordering the Ships upon the intended Service.

The Somerset and Isis were appointed to proceed up the Eastern Channel of the River, to act against the Fort in Front: The Roebuck, Pearl, and Liverpool, with the Cornwallis Galley and some smaller armed-Vessels, against a Battery with heavy Artillery which the Rebels had lately opened on a Point above and near to Manto Creek; in a situation to rake the Ships anchored to fire upon the Fort, and more advantageously chosen as the shoalness of the Water did not admit Ships to approach within a desirable distance of the Work.

The Vigilant, with a Hulk⁴ mounting Three 18 Pounders, commanded by Lieu^t Botham of the Eagle, proceeded at the same time through the Channel round Hog-

Island, and anchored on that side the Fort, according to the intention pointed out, for co-operating with the Batteries on the Pennsylvania Shore.

The Isis being as well placed in the Eastern Channel as the Circumstances of the Navigation would permit, rendered very essential Service against the Fort and Gallies much to the personal Honor of Cap^t. Cornwallis and Credit of the Discipline in his Ship. The Roebuck and other Frigates stationed against the Battery, were equally well conducted.

Greater Caution being necessary in placing the Somerset, that Ship could not be carried as far up the Channel as the Isis was advanced.

The Impression made by the Batteries on Province Island (before very considerable) being united with the well-directed Efforts from the Vigilant and Hulk, soon silenced the Artillery of the Fort: And farther Preparations being in Progress for opening the Estocade and forcing the Works next Morning, the Enemy set fire to and evacuated the Fort during the Night.

The Numbers of the Enemy killed and wounded, appeared to have been very considerable. Those in the different Ships, [as] stated in the annexed Return, were much less than could be supposed; particularly of the [Isis] and Roebuck, which were struck many times from the Gallies and Works.

As a farther Evidence to their Lordships of the meritorious Conduct of the several Officers therein named, I have added the General's concurring Sentiments signified to me on the Occasion. Captain Duncan remained several Weeks with the Army, to superintend the different nautic Services and Preparations before mentioned.

A Detachment from the Army under the Command of Lord Cornwallis, having been landed the 18th. at Billingport (where a Post had been some time before established) for attacking the Redoubt at Red Bank, the Enemy abandoned and blew up the Work—They had passed several of their Gallies unperceived above the Town of Philadelphia in the Night of the 19th. which proved very favorable for the purpose; and attempted to do the same with the rest of the Gallies and other Water-Force the following Night: But being seasonably discovered; they were opposed with so much Effect by Lieutenant Watt of the Roebuck (ordered by Captain Hammond before my Arrival to take his Station in the Delaware Prize near the Town) that not more than Three or Four of the former appear to have escaped: And being otherwise unable to prevent the Capture of the rest of their armed-Craft (consisting of Two Zebecques, the Two Floating-Batteries, and several Ships, besides Fire-Vessels, amounting to about Seventeen in Number) they were quitted and burnt. Lieutenant Watt having testified great Propriety and Spirit on this Occasion I have continued him in the Command of the Delaware, retained as an armed-Ship in the Service to remain near the Town of Philadelphia, where such additional Naval Force is particularly requisite. (And if Their Lordships shall think fit to have that Ship purchased and received into His Majesty's Navy on the Establishment of a Sloop of War, I beg leave to recommend the Appointment of Lieutenant Watt to the Command thereof, on such Establishment.)

A more accurate Inspection of the Obstructions to the Navigation of the River adjacent to Fort Island, becoming practicable under the Circumstances beforementioned, Two Channels were discovered through which the Transports containing the Provisions, Stores and other Necessaries for the Army might proceed to Philadelphia. They were ordered up the River accordingly, to be afterwards secured to the Wharfs of the Town, for the approaching Winter Months.

THE TAKING OF MISS MUD I' LAND.

Sold by W. Humphrey 227 Strand London.

The Vigilant, and the Cornwallis Galley will be to remain with the Delaware at the Town, in such Stations as the General deems expedient for the defence of it: and the Roebuck, Pearl, Camilla, and Zebra will be left there also for any occasional Service under the chief Command of Cap^t Hammond, during my Absence with the other Ships of War, for which no sufficient Retreat is to be here obtained.

When these Arrangements have been completed, I intend proceeding to Rhode Island, with such of the larger Ships as may not be immediately appointed for particular cruizing Services. I shall then deliver Their Lordships Instructions to the Rear-Admiral, that he may repair to his destined Command at Jamaica, as soon as I am able to make a proper Disposition for the Conduct of the Squadron attached to the central Station where he is now detained; Commodore Hotham's presence being indispensable; in the mean time; at New York.

I have on this head farther to represent the great Difficulties I am under in the present Circumstances of the War, for want of the Assistance to be derived from the requisite Number of Flag, or other Commanding Officers, necessary in this extensive Charge; more especially since the Illness of Captain Griffith who has been incapable of Business ever since his Arrival in this River, has deprived me of the benefit I before received from his able Services. And I am to entreat that in the Nomination of such Officers (which I am opinion should not be less than Three, or even Four, including Commodore Hotham from whose Talents I have received the most essential Aid) Their Lordships will be pleased to take into their Consideration the particular Officer in whom they will permit me to vest the Authority with which I have the Honor to be intrusted, in case of my greater Inability to execute the various Duties of this very complicated Service; which I must acknowledge with much Concern I have great Reason to apprehend my impaired Constitution will not allows me to attend, with the Punctuality that the Nature and Importance of it requires.

The unfortunate Event of Lieu^t Gen^l Burgoyne's Operations with the Northern Army, terminating as I am advised by the Commander in Chief, with the Surrender of those Troops agreeable to the Tenor of a Convention executed the 16th. of last October, has rendered a suitable Provision necessary to be made for their Conveyance to Europe. A proper Number of Transports has been appropriated for that Occasion. But as it would be scarce practicable at this Season of the Year for light Transports to gain the Port of Boston, where the Embarkation is conditioned to take place, the Transports have been ordered under Convoy of the Raisnable to Rhode-Island: that if the proposed Alteration is adopted, and the Troops can be embarked at that Port, they may be the sooner released.

The Rear-Admiral is directed to furnish Two Frigates for attending the Transports to Europe; subject in their more particular Appointment to the desires of the Lieu^t General, or other Commanding Officer present with the Troops, conformable to the Intentions of the Commander in Chief forwarded by the same opportunity. The Captains nominated for this purpose, are upon their Arrival in England, to acquaint you therewith and transmitting the Particulars of the Orders and Requisitions by which they have been governed, they will be to wait for their Lordships Commands in consequence at the Ports to which they have been respectively directed.

In my Letter of the 29th. of June [ultim^o.] ⁵ I reported the destination of the Milford to attempt the Seizure of a foreign Ship said to be taking in Masts in Kennebec River. The Captain, Sir William Burnaby went there, and afterwards to Sheepscot

River for the same purpose, but was not able to procure any Information correspondent to the Intelligence upon which his Instructions were founded. A subsequent Attempt has been executed in Sheepscoot River by Sir George Collier in the Rainbow with Effect. But the Intricacy of the Navigation, and Opposition made by the armed Inhabitants from the Shore in the narrower part of the River where the Ship had been conveyed, did not admit of her being moved down to the Rainbow. The Officer ordered upon this Service, was therefore obliged to destroy the Ship. Four Masts of different Dimensions were brought away in the Rainbow for Use in the Yard at Halifax. Sir George Collier succeeded farther to destroy some Stores and other Materials provided in the Harbour of Mechias for making Incursions upon the opposite Shore of Nova Scotia.⁶

On the 9th Instant I received Letters from Captain Pearson dated the 1st of last August from Quebec. He acquaints me therein that he had found it necessary, in consequence of Gen^l Burgoyne's Application to send all the Supernumeraries which arrived from England, being 185 in number, for the Lake Service. He does not specify what had been done with the Transports detained by the Absence of their Crews: but who adds that he had sent an armed-Ship to England with the Dispatches from General Burgoyne to make known the Progress of the Northern Army, at that time upon the Lakes, I conclude he will have advised you by the same Conveyance, of the farther Particulars necessary to be communicated respecting the several Services he had in charge. His Letters have been forwarded to me from Halifax. But all Intercourse with the S^t Lawrence being impracticable since the Receipt of those Letters, I have not been able to send any Instructions to him on their Contents. I am [&c.]

Yesterday I Received a Line from General Parsons ¹ & he writes me that he is Requested by General Putnam to Desire that I would Imediately send the Sloop with all her Warlike Stores in C^o: with an Arm'd Schooner belonging to this State (which Goven^r: Trumbull has Consented Should also go with them²) up the Sound as farr as Fairfield or Norwalk, they both Sail this Evening. y^e: Scuiler the Barer L^t: Carr [Kerr] late of y^e: Cabbott takes Charge of her his Character I Suppose is best known with you, I Mentioned to him that it was more than Probable you would give him the Command of her, and I Really think that if the Sloop was to Cruse in the Sound this Winter (In Case y^e: Enemy keep Possession of N York) would be of much Service to us in Distresing the Enemys Coasting Vessels

Since the purchasing & fitting out of the Briggtⁿ Resistance & Supply's for the Ship Trumbull & they are still [calling] I am a in Adv^a largely for y^e. GENERAL SIR WILLIAM HOWE TO CONTINENTAL ARMY AND NAVY PRISONERS

Copy
Sir,

Philadelphia Novem^r 24th. 1777—

In answer to your Representation of the 17th. ins^t in behalf of your self and other Officers Prisoners in the State House ¹—I am to acquaint you that it was judged expedient to deprive the Officers of the Liberty of Walking in the Yard to prevent a Second escape, but on Condition the principle Officers will be responsible for Security of the lower Class both with respect to their remaining within the limits prescribed as well as for not holding Correspondence by Letter or otherwise, except such as shall be permitted in Consequence of Examination in that case every indulgence that can be properly admitted shall be allowed until an Exchange does take place; or that a more extensive Parole may be granted.—

With regard to provisions the same allowance is given as is issued to British Officers when on Board Transports—and if this is found insufficient the Complainants are at full Liberty to purchase such Provisions as the Market may afford. In like manner the allowance of Fuel is regulated and the same permission of purchase given.

Upon enquiry it appears the money not delivered to Lieu^{ts} Morris & Massie as mentioned in their Letters was not sealed up & therefore may have been purloined or lost, but had the Complaints been made at the time it might possibly have been recovered or the loss accounted for.

With respect to the Treatment complained of by the Officers of the Delaware, this is intirely new to me, but I suppose upon the first Entrance of the Troops there might not be that exact attention to the Prisoners that could have been wished, tho' I am informed there was no suffering on that Account as the prisoners were supplied by the Inhabitants—

With relation to the Demand made for a hearing in Justification upon the intelligence reced of a Correspondence being held with the Enemy by some of the Officers confined, I have to say that I should have punished the Guilty without including the whole could I have fixed it upon an individual I am [&c.]

CAPTAIN PATRICK FOTHERINGHAM, R.N., TO PHILIP STEPHENS

Sir

I beg you'll acquaint the Right Honble the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty that on my being retaken and brought in here, having no opportunity of getting to Admiral Mountagu at Newfoundland, I went to New York in the Syren expecting to have found Lord Howe there, but before my arrival his Lordship had Sailed on an Expedition; I wrote his Lordship an Account of the Action and the Reason of my Loss of the Ship,¹ and inclosed I send you a Copy of his Lordships letter to me, which I have Complied with, and am now fitting the Ship for Sea.² I beg you will likewise acquaint their Lordships, that at the same time I received Lord Howes Letter, Orders were sent by him to the Commanding Officer here to gett my Officers and Men that are Prisoners at Boston exchang'd for those taken in the Fox and Hancock, An Offer has been sent for that purpose which I hope will soon take place, as I then hope to have Men sufficient to carry the Ship to England, where I shall have an opportunity of laying my case before their Lordships, and of having my conduct properly inquired into. I should have wrote you an Account of the manner and reasons of my being taken but I understand there has been Depositions made by some of the Men who then belonged to the Ship which have been sent to the Admiralty from Newfoundland I am [&c.]

JOURNAL OF THE CONTINENTAL CONGRESS

[York] Tuesday, November 25, 1777

The commissioners for building ships of war in Virginia, having represented to the Marine Committee the necessity of a guard being provided for the protection of the continental frigates now on the stocks in that State against the efforts of the enemy's ships of war, five of which lie frequently within ten miles of the yard where the frigates are building, and the committee having taken the same into consideration, brought in a report, which was read; Whereupon,

Resolved, That the governor and council of Virginia be requested to provide such a guard, from time to time, at the continental expence, as may be deemed necessary by the said commissioners, upon consideration of circumstances, for the protection aforesaid; and also to furnish the said commissioners with arms and ammunition sufficient to enable the men working in the yard, to assist the guard in repelling any attempt that may be made by the enemy for the destruction of the frigates aforesaid.

Resolved, That the commissioners aforesaid be authorized to prepare a few fire-rafts for the better security of the said frigates, it being represented by the commissioners that such rafts may be of considerable service, and fixed at no great expence.

Resolved, That for the purposes of laying in provisions, and other expences of the said yard, an order be drawn on the loan office for the State of Virginia, in favour of the Marine Committee, or their order, for the sum of ten thousand dollars, to be remitted to the commissioners aforesaid.¹

Charles-Town, Nov. 25.

Last Wednesday morning about 8 o'clock a taunt rigged vessel was cen about S.S.E of our bar, standing to the Eastward, the wind at about N.N E. appearing sometimes as a brig and others as a ship, but by 10 o'clock she was out of sight, and not again seen from hence that day—We are since informed, that the sloop Fanny of this port, was chased into South-Edisto on Wednesday, by a ship of war and a small tender.

Thursday morning proved so foggy, that nothing could be seen in the offing till 9 o'clock, when, the wind being light and at N.E., several vessels appeared, viz. a ship and a sloop standing in from the N.E. a large ship with crowded sail, from the S.E. and two sloops from the S.W. The Ship from the S.E. was soon discovered to be an English frigate,¹ and stood in towards the shore of Sullivant's Island, till she had passed the South end of it, so as to prevent the ship and sloop in the N.E. from passing to the bar; at 11 o'clock the frigate's boats were hoisted out, and sent towards the ship and sloop, and at 12, the wind having almost died away, she anchored off the Advance Guard. The sloops to the S.W. in the mean time put about, and bore away for Stono, where they got in; one proved to be the Fanny, the other the Little William, both of this port, from Hispaniola. It being impossible for the ship and sloop in the N.E. to escape, the former was run ashore, upon the reef that lies off Long-Island, and quitted by the people in their boat; the sloop put about and attempted to reach Dewees's Inlet, but also getting ashore, was likewise abandoned, the frigate's boats pursued and intercepted the sloop's people, got her off, went to the ship, set her on fire about 4 o'clock, and returned with the prize sloop near to the frigate, where, after having taken out the cargo, which seems to have been tobacco, cutting away her mast, stripping her sails, and scuttling the vessel, they left her. At night the frigate weighed anchor and stood off; since which the air having been constantly foggy, it has not been possible to see if she still remained on the coast.—The burnt ship proved to be the Weatherill, Capt. Hawkins, from Boston; he and his crew came up to town the same night.—The sloop is not known,² but is a small, likely, well built, new vessel, and was towed in from sea, and brought up to town on Friday morning, by some black fishermen, who met with her on their way to the fishing ground: Her being scuttled, altho' a handy vessel for a tender, induces us to believe, that the frigate which took her was rather a passing vessel to or from Florida, than a stationed cruiser, or that she must have been very weakly manned.—The ship Lydia, Capt. Moore, from Boston, happening to come in sight, while the Weatherill was burning, bore away for Port Royal, and has got safe in there.—And notwithstanding the fog, the brig Polly from Nantes, with a very valuable cargo on board,³ and the sloop Friendship from Hispaniola, had the good fortune to fall in and anchor close to the bar on Saturday, with the ship Polly from North-Carolina, and to get safe into this port on Sunday. . . .

The sloop Welcome of this port, Benjamin Tucker master, was, on the 20th of last month, at half past 6 in the evening cut out of St. Eustatius road, in very thick squally weather, by four seamen, who had just shipped themselves with Capt. Tucker, and left a Tortola privateer off the road for that purpose; and they carried the vessel into Tortola—which ought to be a caution to masters of vessels.

John Stewart Masters Mate of the Ship Repulse and James Ledlie Master at Arms of the same Ship stands indicted before this honorable Court of deserting their posts when it was their Watch on Deck and in sight of the Enemy. John Pemberton Armourer, John Campbell quarter Master and Michael Tarney a Boy stands Indicted of Deserting from said Ship in sight of the Enemy and taking away a Boat with four Muskets and four Cartridge Boxes in Company with the above named John Stewart and James Ledlie—

The Prisoners acknowledged the charge of taking away the Boat but alledged that it was not with an intent of deserting—

Evidence

John Kidney deposes and says that on Thursday the 20th November instant in the Morning that John Pemberton Armourer came and releived said Kidney off Centry and told him to go down below as likewise did James Ledlie the Master at Arms—

Lieu^t Matthewman deposes and says that he was on board the Sloop Surprize being his Watch on Deck, that on Thursday the 20th November instant about three Quarters of an hour past Four in the Morning about three quarters flood, he hear'd a Boat rowing for some time on the Pennsylvania side before he could see her, he heard a Boat hailed by the Arnold Battery but could not distinguish what answer was made. Lieu^t Matthewman ordered M^r Roberts the Mate to hail her, they answered the Putnams Boat. Lieu^t Matthewman then ask'd where they were bound, they answer'd ashore, he then asked who commanded the Boat, they said Cap^t M^cKnight, L^t Matthewman immediately ordered them along side and thinking they hesitated ordered one of the four pounders to be pointed at them, he then hailed them and to bear a hand along side, their answer was they were coming as fast as they cou'd, when they came along side they told him (L^t Matthewman) they were carrying apart of Cap^t Brewsters Clothes ashore to Cap^t M^cKnight, and that there was a Waggon waiting for them, and that Cap^t Brewsters Wife would be there by the time they would have the Cloathes in the Waggon. Lieu^t Matthewman order'd them on board the Sloop and inform'd Cap^t Dunn of the whole of the proceedings, after Cap^t Dunn examined them, he order'd them to remain on board, the Master at Arms James Ledlie begged permission to permit the Boat to go ashore with some of Cap^t Dunns Men, which when granted said there was no occasion they were his own Clothes, asserting he had a Right to provide a place for his Cloathes, as other principal Officers were doing the same. Lieu^t Matthewman ask'd where they got the Arms they answered it was no matter that he would hear enough of it before long, they had a quantity of Provisions in the Boat and were rowing along the Pennsylvania Shore—

Cap^t Benjamin Dunn deposes and saith that on Thursday the 20th. of November Instant, about a quarter before five OClock in the Morning he heard a Boat hailed from the Battery but could hear no answer, afterwards he heard M^r Roberts Mate of his Sloop Surprize hail her, but could not hear any answer, Lieu^t Matthewman who was on Deck ordered the Boat along side who (L^t Mⁿ) afterwards told him it was the Repulse's Boat with some Officers in her, who said they were taking some of Cap^t Brewsters Wife's Cloathes ashore, he told L^t Matthewman to send the Officer in the Cabin, the Officer was James Ledlie, Cap^t Dunn asked him where he was going his answer was that he was taking part of Cap^t Brewsters Wife's Clothes to Cap^t M^c-Knight, as M^{rs}. Brewster was going to Egg harbour Cap^t Dunn answered the Clothes that belonged to Cap^t ~~Dunn~~ Brewster he would have them sent ashore in his own Boat, and would keep him on Board with the rest of the Men, James Ledlie after Cap^t Dunn ordered the Boat to be manned in order to take the Clothes ashore, said it was needless as the Clothes belonged to himself, Cap^t Dunn asked him the Reason why he said they belonged to Cap^t Brewster's Wife, because he thought they would not be let pass, Cap^t Dunn asked him where he was going to leave his things, he answered at Captain M^c-Knight's. Cap^t Dunn ask'd him where his Wife was, he said in Town, he asked them where they found the Arms, Michael Tarmy One of the Prisoners said the Master at Arms gave them, Cap^t Dunn again asked them who had the Watch on Deck, they answered the second Lieutenant.—

It appears by their own Confession they were the only Officers on Deck when they left the Ship, Cap^t Dunn ordered the Boat to be unloaded with the Clothes Provisions, Four Muskets and four Cartride Boxes and put a guard over them—

Upon a due and impartial consideration it is the unanimous opinion of the honorable Court that John Stewart Masters Mate, James Ledlie Master at Arms, John Pemberton and John Campbell Quarter Master all of the Ship Repulse are to be hung off the Yard Arm of any Continental Vessell, and that Michael Tarmy of the same Ship receive Thirty Six lashes on his bare back with a Cat of Nine tails as being a Boy and called out of his Bed—Sign'd for and in behalf of the Court—

John Barry Pres^t

The Charecter of James Ledly Master of Arms, John Stewart, Masters mate, John Cammall Quarter master John Pemberton Armour & Michael Tarney all Belonging to the ship Repulse Peter Brewster Esq^t Commander and found guilty of Desertion at a Court martial held on Board the Ship Lyon November 25th. 1777—

James Ledly has Behaved himself on board the ship Repulse, and Discharged his Duty on Every Occasion, he has since the time of his Entry been Intrusted to go in the boat, and particulary went as an Officer in the look out boat to watch the Enemy's motion where he might have Different opportunities, but always found him true and faithful till this last affair—

The said Ledly has an unblemished Charecter whilst in the Land Service as appears by a Charecter signed Colon^l Alexander Hamilton.

From the General Character of M^r James Ledly and from my own Observations on his Conduct for a considerable time past I have all Reason to Beleive him Discreet well Behaved man and a good Soldier, he has a good Deal of Practice in the Artillery and as he has Embarked early in the Service, and have Evidenced a Uniform Zeal and fidelity he Deserves all proper Encouragement from the Public Philad^a. Feb^r: 10th. 1777—

. . . the enemy have drawn themselves down upon the Peninsula of Gloucester—the Ships are drawn up to cover the troops—there is but one road that leads down to the point, on each side the ground is swampy, & full of thick underbrush, that it makes the approaches impracticable almost—these difficulties might have been surmounted, but we could reap no advantage from it—the Shipping being so posted as to cover the troops and this country is so intersected with creeks, that approaches are rendered extremely difficult, and retreats very dangerous.—I should not have halted the troops, but all the Gen^l Officers were against making an attack, the enemy being so securely situated.—and so effectually covered by their Shipping. . . .

. . . From the best observations I am able to make & from the best intelligence I can obtain it is uncertain whether any of the enemy have crossed the river, the boats are constantly going but I believe they are transporting stock—there is as many men in the returning boats, as there goes over.—By tomorrow it will be reduced to a certainty—I believe the enemy have removed the great Chiveaux de frize—there went up 60 Sail of Vessels this morning. If the obstructions are removed in the river it accounts for the enemies evacuating Carpenters & Province Islands as they are no longer necessary—the prisoners say the enemy are going into Winter quarters as soon as they get up the river. . . . The order for Tryal dated the 22^d: of Nov^r: 1777 was read The Court was duly Sworn first, then the Judge Advocate agreeable to Act of Parliament.

The Court having ordered all persons intended to be produced as Evidences, should withdraw, Captain Fra. Reynolds being called, deposed.

On the 22^d: of October 1777 the Augusta passed the lower Cheveaux de frize, about 4 o^c:Clock that afternoon I perceived the Galleys to keep a very heavy fire on the Eastern Shore, which I then conceived to be flanking a party of Hessians going to assault Red Bank, some time after I was confirmed in this opinion by observing Musquetry fired, on which I thought it my duty to comply with Lord Howes instructions in giving every Assistance to the Hessians: ¹ I immediately hoisted the Topsails and sent an Officer to each of the other Ships acquainting the Captains that my intention was to go as near the upper Cheveaux de frize as possible, in order to draw the fire of the Galleys from the Hessians, and I desired they would do the same, which they complied with; in turning up, and just as we were about coming to an Anchor, the Ship took the Ground; before we could get an Anchor out to heave her off, the Flood tide was done; She lay perfectly quiet all night, during which time we were employed in getting out an Anchor, and got in the End of one of the Roebuck's Bower Cable, to heave her off in the morning as soon as high Water; We also started all the water in the ground Tier we could come at, and at high water we began to heave in order to get the Ship off, but Unfortunately the wind being Northerly in the Night, which had Chequed the Flood, we hove without any Effect, on which Lieutenant Barker (one of the Agents) went down with orders to bring up some small Craft in order to get her off the next Tide—soon after daylight the Rebel Galleys and Floating Batterys began to fire on us, which we returned occasionally—about eleven o^c:Clock, as I was on the Quarter deck with the Master & His Nephew M^r: Reid, I thought I heard an odd Crackling kind of Noise, I sent M^r: Reid into the Cabin to see what it was, he returned and told me, the Ship was on fire, I found the Sides, after-part of the Ship, and above the Cabin all in flames, every means were then used to put it out but without any Effect; The fire becoming more general, my attention was then to save the people.

- Question from the Court. } Can you tell what was the occasion of the Fire?
- Answ^d No.
- Questⁿ Are you satisfied with the Conduct of your Officers and Ships Company during the Fire?
- Answer Yes, I have nothing to lay to their Charge, as they used every means to extinguish it.
- Questⁿ Was the Augusta engaging when the Fire was discovered?
- Answ^d Yes.
- Questⁿ Was it with her Weather Guns or Leeward ones?
- Answ^d With the Weather Guns, the wind being fresh on the Beam.
Lieutenant Edward Edwards Sworn.
- Questⁿ Inform the Court what is your opinion relative to the Fires breaking out in the Augusta?
- Answ^d I do not know the occasion, being Quartered in the Waist, and the Fire being in the Cabin.
- Questⁿ Was every possible means used by the Captain, Officers and people to extinguish the Fire?
- Answ^d Yes; for without the Assistance of Fire Engines, the Situation of the Fire was such, it could not be put out.

The Court in pursuance of an Order from the Viscount Howe Vice Admiral of the White and Commander in Chief of His Majesty's Ships & Vessels in North America directed to Captain George Ourry of His Majesty's Ship Somerset proceeded to enquire and examine into the Cause of the Loss of His Majesty's Ship Augusta on the 23^d. October 1777 in the River Delaware, and having heard Captain Francis Reynold's Narrative of the Transactions delivered and also heard the deposition of several of the Officers & Ships Company relative to the fact, we are unanimously of opinion that her loss was occasioned by accidentally taking fire in Action with the Rebel's armed Vessels, not by any Neglect, or bad dicipline in the Ship, and also that every possible means were used to extinguish it And We do therefore entirely acquit Captain Reynolds his Officers & Ships Company from having in any Respect failed in their Duty—And they are all hereby Acquitted accordingly.

COURT-MARTIAL OF COMMANDER SAMUEL REEVE, R.N.

Minutes taken at a Court-Martial Held and Assembled on board His Majestys Ship Somerset off Billingsport in the River Delaware on the 26th: of November 1777 to Enquire into the Conduct of Captain Samuel Reeve and His Officers &c^a. relative to the Loss of His Majesty's Sloop Merlin in the Delaware on the 23^d. of October 1777.

The order for Tryal dated the 22^d. of November 1777 was read The Court was duly Sworn first, then the Judge Advocate agreeable to Act of Parliement.

The Court having ordered all Persons intended to be produced as Evidences, should with draw, Captain Samuel Reeve being called, deposed.

Question from the Court Give a Narrative relating to the Loss of the Merlin Sloop?

Answer On the 22^d. of October 1777, by Lord Howe's orders signified to me by a note from Captain Curtis, I anchored just above the lower Cheveaux de frize, and weighed from thence by Captain Reynold's order, with directions to Anchor on his Starboard Quarter, the Ship then riding to the Flood, this movement was made without any Sail on the Ship; As I had just turned her head towards the Jersey Shore, in order to take the Station Assigned me, I perceived the Augusta and the other Ships to loose their Topsails, and having a little before that remarked the firing at Red Bank of Cannon and Musquetry; I went to Captain Reynolds for Instructions how to proceed, who told me that the movement of the Ships was occasioned in Consequence of the Fire aforementioned, and that He would have me assist in disturbing the Rebel Vessels in the movement which they were then making; as soon as I returned on board the Merlin, I ordered the Topsails, Foresail, Jib, and Staysails to be set, by the wind upon the Larboard Tack, before this was quite Effected, we were ordered from the Roebuck to bear up, in order to prevent her coming on board us, as soon as it appeared to me, She was clear of us, I asked the Pilot if it was not necessary to go about, which he agreeing in, I ordered the Helm to be put aLee, the Jib and Foretopmast Staysail to be hauled down, and the Head Sails braced too, the Roebuck at that time having began to fire upon the Rebels, I directed the two Nine Pounders on the Forecastle to be prepared to Fire, as soon as the Ship came Head to Wind, and the other Guns to be brought into Use, as they should be found Serviceable, but finding the Ship did not come too, and there was two fathom water under the Main Channels, I directed them to Sound forward, and found the Ship was on the Ground, on which I sent the Lieutenant to Captain Reynolds to inform him of it, and ask assistance, And at the same time sent the Longboat with the Kedge Anchor to be laid out a Stern on a line where the Ship appeared to have come on the Ground, the Lieutenant returning from Captain Reynolds, told me he consented to let me have the Longboat & the Anchor in her, but his people were too much employed to man her, as our Small Anchor was then laid out and finding soon Afterwards the Augusta was also aground, I made no further application to Captain Reynolds, but went myself on board the Liverpool and Pearle, leaving directions to heave upon the Hawser already laid out, the only aid I could obtain, was the Longboat of the Liverpool, in which I sent out the Merlin's Stream Anchor of Nine hundred Weight, and hove upon it, but without Effect, the Kedge having been brought home before; in this Situation and the Tide falling, together with the Consideration of the Augusta's being aground, made me desist from any other Endeavours till the morning Tide,—on which, before high water I repeated my application to Captain Reynolds for Assistance, but I found him too deeply engaged about his own Ship to attend to it, on which I went on board the Merlin again, and hove upon the Stream Cable, till we brought the Anchor home, the wind having in the Night come to the Northward; I found the morning Tide not to rise so high by more than a foot, as the Evening before; Soon after daylight, the Rebel Vessels having advanced and fired upon our Ships, an Engagement continued between them, until near 11 °Clock, at which time The Augusta appeared to be on fire, on which occasion the Boats were all ordered to her Assistance—some time after the Signal was made on board the Roebuck for the other Ships to weigh, and about half an hour after 11 °Clock, I received by Lieutenant Applin of the Roebuck, an Order from Lord Howe to remove the people out of the Merlin and destroy her, which order was executed accordingly.

Question

What do you conceive to be Lord Howe's reason for ordering the Merlin to be burnt?

Answ^d For avoiding the Consequences to be apprehended from the blast of the Augusta, as being on the ground She could not be withdrawn with the other Ships.

Questⁿ Did you apprehend any danger of being aground in consequence of orders from the Roebuck to bear up, to prevent her falling on board you?

Answ^d I did not, having no warning on that head from the Pilot, and it being near dark.

Lieutenant Richard Calcot Sworn.

Questⁿ By what accident did the Merlin get on ground on the 22^d of October 1777?

Answ^d By her missing Stays, having bore away to avoid the Roebuck.

Questⁿ Was every method in your opinion taken to get her off, after She grounded?

Answ^d Yes, & every method was taken, by Shoaring her up &c^a to prevent her being damaged whilst She lay on the Ground.

Questⁿ Did the Captain, Officers, and people do their utmost Endeavours, on that occasion?

Answ^d Yes.

Question What do you conceive to have been the Admirals reason for ordering the Merlin to be destroyed?

Answ^d To avoid the Explosion of the Augusta?

M^r: Thomas Oldfield, Master Sworn

Questⁿ By what Accident did the Merlin get on ground on the 22^d of October 1777?

Answer By her Missing Stays.

Questⁿ Was every Method in your opinion taken to get her off, after She grounded.

Answer Yes.

Questⁿ Did the Captain, Officers, and people do their utmost Endeavours, on that occasion?

Answ^d Yes.

Questⁿ What do you conceive to have been the Admiral's reason for ordering the Merlin to be destroyed?

Answer The Galleys coming so near her, and for fear of The Augusta's blowing up.

Matthew Croell, Pilot Sworn

Questⁿ By what Accident did the Merlin get on ground on the 22^d of October 1777.

Answer By bearing up for the Roebuck, and being little wind, before She came too, in going about She took the Ground.

Question What was the reason you did not apprize Captain Reeve of the danger he was in of getting aground?

Answ^d That the Bar was Shifted since I was there, and being almost dark, likewise a great deal of Smoke, And I did not conceive She was so nigh the Bar.

Questⁿ Had you a Man heaving the Lead at the Time?

Answ^d Yes, we had three fathom water a minute before the Ship Struck.

Questⁿ After the Ship took the ground, was every means Used to get her off?
 Answ^d Yes, by carrying out Anchors, and every other Means tried as quick as possible.

Questⁿ from } the Court to } Captⁿ. Reeve } How has the Pilot behaved on other occasions?

Answ^d I have no Complaint to make against him.

Questⁿ How long had he been on board the Ship?

Answ^d From the middle of May last, untill the time of her destruction.

Questⁿ Where was the Merlin Employed during the above Time?

Answ^d Within, and Without the Capes of the Delaware.

JOHN STERETT TO MORDECAI GIST

Dear Colonel,

Baltimore Nov 26, 1777

... Captain Booker has gotten safe out I wish you success with this briggs I think it a good risque. John McClure informed me that he had wrote you fully about her.¹ You have been unlucky in the Harlequin concern, that is the Schooner Harlequin Sloops General Marier [Mercer] & Black Jo[k]e (Take care how you deal in Black Joke)—All arrived and not one prize except a small Brigg loaded with fish belonging to the General Marcer of little value there will be considerable sum of money lost by these vessels. But to make up for your bad luck in these vessels the boats you are concerned in with W. Hammond arrived and Jam informed me have made great voyages But of this I make no doubt you have had a particular account. . . .

CAPTAIN ROBERT FANSHAWE, R.N., TO CAPTAIN GEORGE KEITH ELPHINSTONE, R.N.

By Captain Robert Fanshawe Commander of His Majesty's Ship the Carysfort.

As soon as the Perseus is ready you are to proceed in her to cruize off Charles Town, Sth. Carolina, where in ten days at farthest you may expect to meet His Majesty's Ship the Lizard (according to my order to Captain Mackenzie, a copy of which you herewith receive).

You are there to employ the Perseus and Lizard in cruizing on the coasts of the Carolinas in order to intercept any supplies carrying into the ports of those Provinces, to prevent any trade and communication with the rebellious inhabitants thereof, and to take or destroy any armed vessels provided by them, by every means in your power.

Charles Town being the place of greatest resort of foreigners bringing supplies to the Rebels in the southern Colonies you are to give your chief attention to that port, and so to direct that one ship, at least, may be off it once in five days at furthest.

As soon as the Carysfort's water and provisions are complete I will proceed in her to join you. If in the mean time you should find yourself encumbered with a number of prisoners, you may exchange them, as you may be able, for British captives of equal rank, except foreign officers, or His Majesty's European subjects, serving the Rebels, whom you are not to exchange.

Given [&c.] off Augustine the 26th Day of November, 1777.

P.S.—Since writing the above Order I have received intelligence from His Excellency Governor Tonyn of several vessels being seen to sail from Tybee and Sunbury in Georgia, laden with rice, indigo and tobacco, under convoy of an American sloop mounting twelve four-pounders, as mentioned in the account given to you, but as your joining the Lizard seems to me of material consequence, you will be pleased to make that your first object, and you will afterwards take such steps as you may judge proper respecting these vessels from Georgia, but so as that one frigate at least may be off Charles Town as above directed.

Rob. Fanshawe.

THOMAS SHIRLEY TO LORD GEORGE GERMAIN

My Lord,

Dominica 26th. November 1777—

I have had the honor to receive your Lordships dispatch N^o. 9¹ and beg leave in answer to inclose to your Lordship the correspondence which has pass'd between the Marquis De Bouillé and myself since his arrival to take upon him the Command at Martinique,² by which it will appear to your Lordship that the same conduct has been pursued by him which was begun by his predecessor the Count D'argout, who was removed to the Government of St^t. Domingo a much more honorable as well as profitable Government. in short my Lord it is my Duty to assure your Lordship that notwithstanding all their promises the same practice of allowing the Rebels to bring their prizes into their Ports and selling them publickly as well as suffering them to fit out and Arm in their Ports is continued to as great a degree as ever and your Lordship will observe in the French Governors letter to me upon that head he only says he has ordered a Number of Piratical Corsairs fitted out and Armed by the French themselves to be disarmed and their people put in Prison—

I must beg leave likewise to observe to your Lordship that the charge he has made against this Island with respect to the Congress Commissions being fabricated here and Sold at Martinique is groundless and founded upon no probability but only done for a political purpose and that the sentiments express'd of it in the gazette which I beg leave to inclose are the sentiments of every body here tho' it was thought advisable in Council to issue the inclosed Proclamation publishing our attachment to His Majestys Government and utter detestation of such Rebellious practices.³ I have the honor to be [&c.]

November 27

COMMANDER THOMAS LENOX FREDERICK, R.N., TO THE EARL OF SANDWICH

Spy sloop, St John's, Newfoundland,

November 27th 1777.

My Lord,—

Having found myself under the necessity of deviating from the orders left by Admiral Montagu at his departure from hence, I take the liberty of laying before you my reasons for so doing and hope they will meet with your approbation. I flatter myself, as I have acted with a view in every respect to the advantage of the service, I shall stand justified in your Lordship's opinion.

When Admiral Montagu sailed for England he left orders here that the Active frigate should winter in this harbour, the Spy sloop at Placentia, and the Hinchingbrook sloop at Trinity, besides the armed vessels in the different ports along the shore; since which we have heard the news of the unfortunate event that has happened to General Burgoyne's army, which renders an attack on this island in the spring of the year much more probable than when Admiral Montagu left it, especially as the force intended for the protection of the island during the winter season is much weakened by the Active's being blown off the coast, which I make no doubt the rebels will have an account of as it is more than probable that some one or other of the number of vessels that will sail from hence this fall may be taken by them, as neither the *Vestal*¹ or *Pegasus*² who were to have convoyed the latter trade have arrived here; and of consequence I am become the senior officer on this station. From the alteration in the appearance of affairs in this island since Admiral Montagu left it, Captain Pringle,³ the commanding officer in the fort, has thought proper to represent to me that the fort at the entrance of the harbour was so far finished as to be capable of making a very good defence, provided there were men enough to man the guns; at the same time requesting me not to leave the harbour, as a naval force was absolutely requisite and the seamen would be of infinite service in the defence of the place should it be attempted, and in all probability, should the rebels meditate an attack on the island, they would direct it against the harbour as it is the most considerable and where the greatest property is. This request induced me to open the orders Admiral Montagu left for Captain Williams⁴ to regulate his conduct by during the winter if he had arrived. The Admiral's having therein given Captain Williams directions to call all the squadron together in case he should see occasion so to do has determined me to winter in this harbour as well as to give Captain Brudenell⁵ in the Hinchingbrook orders also to remain here, that we may be enabled to give every assistance in case the rebels should make an attempt against this place; for by dividing ourselves and wintering in different harbours in a country like this, where it is not possible during the winter season to convey intelligence by land, we might fall an easy prey to a force that would not dare to look at us were we together, besides leaving the principal and most material place in the island unprotected and where there is a large quantity of military stores and provisions. From these reasons I have formed my conduct, and make no doubt but that your Lordship will approve of what I have done. Since I came to the above determination I have received a petition from the principal merchants in this harbour, praying that I would give them a convoy for their ships bound to Europe, as the two ships appointed by Admiral Montagu for that purpose were not arrived and there is the greatest reason to suppose they are blown off the coast. I gave them for answer that I did not imagine I had authority or could with the least propriety lessen the force remaining for the protection of the island, and therefore did not choose to send either of the ships away. They then sent me a second petition, setting forth the great value of their fleet bound to Europe and the loss the trade would sustain should their ships be taken. I again referred them to my first answer, since which I am informed they intend to apply to the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty for an enquiry into my conduct in this matter, being much dissatisfied with my answers to their petitions. Should they put their intentions into execution, I hope and flatter myself that I shall meet with a friend in your Lordship, to whom I already stand bound for many favours.

I did myself the honour of writing to your Lordship last spring to return you my sincere thanks for the promotion you was so obliging as to bestow upon me. I ever shall retain a proper sense of your Lordship's kindness and am [etc.],

Tho^s Lenox Frederick.

JOURNAL OF COLONEL JOHN ALLAN

[Machias] Thursday Nov^r 27, 1777 The Congress, Capt Martin sailed on a cruise. A committee was chosen and sent to examine into the accounts of the Meresheete lately commanded by Joshua Wing.¹

On the contrary we feel ourselves uneasy that the Tyrannicide brought from Bourdeaux some Articles not ordered, others tho' of our denomination not of a good quality particular the Fire Arms which are old & neither fit for Service or Parade

Many of the Blankets wrote for were Coarse Coverlids, And the Brig Nantz & Sloop reprizal were neither full or laden, and thus we find ourselves amazingly deficient in Cloathing as we have precluded any importations from other Houses

Were this a disappointment in trade a ruin of private speculation we should feel it less, but as the publick are greatly injured we are sensibly affected by the neglect. . . .

We have again began the remittances to your House the Lumber ships and other speculation will soon go forward & hope every future Ground of uneasiness will be removed—We salute you kindly and are with Regard & Esteem [&c.]

S^t Domingue—Cape 27th: Nov^r: 1777

I have the Honor to acquaint your Excellency that I have dispatched the Schooner Desire Captⁿ. Setton, belonging to Mons^r Roux & Company of this Town with the Effects which were plundered from some of His Britannic Majesty's Subjects by a privateer commanded by one Heguy.¹ I send also by this dispatch a List of the Effects sent on board the Schooner & signed by Mons^r Roux the Merch^t after the Examination I have made in this Matter there are many of the Things wanting, but I assure your Excellency that the plunderers shall be detained till they have made up the deficiency therefore I desire your Excellency will send back by the Captain of the Schooner, a List, attested by the proprietors of what is wanting, as well as a Receipt of those things which shall be delivered to You by the said Captain. For to renew my Complaints in my Letter of the 22^d of this Month, in case y^c Vessel who brings this shall arrive before the one I wrote by M^r Hamilton who sailed the 25th. for Jamaica I send You a duplicate of the declaration made before the Admiralty by Mons^r Gaspard Poitvin Captⁿ of the polacco, Providence, belonging to Sette in Languedoc & Mons^r Nougier supercargo on board the said polacco, the two deponents assert that they were actually bound for Sette, that they had no contraband Goods on board, consequently their Cargo Vessel and all their Effects have been unjustly declared a good prize by the Court of Admiralty at Jamaica.² I earnestly intreat your Excellency to answer me most particularly on this head, that I may on my part give a final Answer to these complainants and also give an Account of it to the Court of my Master, I also take this opportunity to acquaint your Excellency that I am very well informed three of Your English Vessels cruize not only upon our Coast but under French Colours, in consequence of which I am indispensably bound to send some Frigate to take them. I have the honor to assure your Excellency that I do every thing on my part to maintain the peace between the Two Crowns, I see with regret it is not the same on yours, because I have complaints made every Day, however I shou'd imagine these transactions were unknown to You but they might be remedied by making an exemplary punishment of those who shall disobey your Orders. WILLIAM BINGHAM TO JOHN LANGDON

[Extract]

John Langdon Esq:

Sir,

Saint Pierre, Martinique, Novem: 27, 1777.

Herewith You will please to find Duplicate of my Respects of the 26th Ult^o, Ⓢ Captain Collins, with Bill of Lading for sending Military Stores shipped by him, on board the Sloop Washington, on Account of the United States of America. I have since heard that the Washington has been taken by an English Cruizer & carried into Tortola, but, as I have had no confirmation of it, I hope the Report was without Foundation. . . . This will be handed to you by Capt: Palmer, who, since he left the Betsy Frigate, has employed his Time to the best of purposes, in Cruizing against the Enemies of his Country.—

Spars of all sizes are in great demand here, & would bring almost any Price; they are absolutely the best Article that can be shipped from the Northern States to these Islands. If a War should break out between England & France, which at present is much talked of, & from Appearances I believe cannot be far distant, a Speculation of that kind would yield an excellent Profit. Flax-Seed is also an exceeding good Article for the European Market. If it was not for the advanced Season of the Year I would propose taking a joint Concern with you in a Vessel, & have her loaded with that Article, & dispatch her to Europe, where it is very scarce, & in great demand, but she could not possibly arrive there Time Enough to get the first of the Market, or make enough to repay us for the Risque of such a Voyage.—

I have now shipped the Remainder of the Gun carriages belonging to the Field Pieces which I ship by Captain Collins, on board the Brig^a Irish Gimblet, John Lamb Commander bound to the State of Connecticut. They go with the rest of the Cargo to the Address of Nathaniel Shaw Jun Esquire, Continental Agent for that State. I have desired M^r Shaw to acquaint you of their Arrival as soon as they come to Land.¹—I am [&c.]

CONTINENTAL NAVY BOARD OF THE MIDDLE DEPARTMENT TO GEORGE WASHINGTON

Continental Navy Board

Borden Town 28th. Nov^r: 1777

Sir.

We are under a necessity of drawing your Excellency's Attention, once more, to the Frigates at this Place.¹—Notwithstanding our Endeavours, we have not been able to raise the Effingham—she still lyes on her Beam Ends in a very disagreeable Situation. After the Destruction of our Fleet at Red Bank, the officers & Crews of the several Vessels came up to this Place, to the Amount of between three & four Hundred. We are much at a Loss for Accommodations for these Men; but if we had our Frigates afloat, this Difficulty would be obviated. As we have now so many Hands at Command, we are of Opinion, we can with Certainty get these Ships ready for their Reception; & at the same Time have the Plugs so fix'd that they might be drawn at a minute's Warning & the Vessels sunk, should the Enemy make an attempt upon them.

Nevertheless, however safe or convenient this Plan may appear to us, we do not think proper to put it in Execution without your approbation. As the Winter is now approaching fast & must soon put an End to all our water Schemes, we request your Excellency's Answer by the Return of the Bearer (Capt. Pomeroy) Whatever your Advice may be in this Matter, you may depend on our strict Compliance with it.

Several Captains of the Vessels lately destroyed have saved some of their Sails, Stores &c. we wish to know whither you are of opinion, they may be kept here with Safety or not.—

GENERAL SIR WILLIAM HOWE TO LORD GEORGE GERMAIN

No. 73

Philadelphia, 28th November 1777

My Lord,

From a Variety of Difficulties attending the Construction of additional Batteries, in a Morass, against the Fort upon Mud Island, and in the transportation of the Guns and Stores, they were not opened against the Enemy's Defences until the 10th. Inst^t. On the 15th: the Wind proving fair, the Vigilant armed Ship carrying sixteen 24 Pounders, and a Hulk ¹ with three 24 Pounders, got up to the Fort thro' the Channel between Province and Hog Islands; These, assisted by several Ships of War in the Eastern Channel, as well as by the Batteries on shore, did such Execution upon the Fort and collateral Block Houses, that the Enemy, dreading an impending Assault, evacuated the Island in the night between the 15th. & 16th., and it was possessed on the 16th. at Day break by the Grenad^{rs}: of the Guards. Much Commendation is due to Brigadier General Cleaveland, to the Officers and Men of the Corps of Artillery, and to the Troops in general employed upon this Service, attended with great Fatigue.

The Enemy's Fire upon the Ships of War, the Vigilant and Hulk, from two floating Batteries, seventeen Gallies and armed Vessels, and from a Battery on the Jersey Shore,² was exceedingly heavy, but the Gallantry displayed by the naval Commanders their Officers and Seamen on this Occasion frustrated all their Efforts, and contributed principally to the Reduction of the Enemy's Works. Permit me at the same Time to report to your Lordship that the Perseverance of the Officers & Seamen employed in bringing up Stores from the Fleet, under the Conduct of Capt. Duncan of the Eagle, demand my highest Acknowledgments, and that the Services they rendered, were most essential, and borne with the utmost Cheerfulness.

I have the Honor to enclose a Return N^o. 1. of the Cannon and Stores found in the Fort—The Enemy's Loss during the Siege is computed to have been 400 killed & wounded. The Loss to the King's Troops was only seven killed, and five wounded.

On the 18th. at Night Lord Cornwallis marched with a Corps from Camp, and passed the Delaware on the 19th. from Chester to Billings Fort, where he was joined by Major General Sir Thomas Wilson with a Corps that arrived a few Days before from New York under his Command, having with him Brigadier Generals Leslie and Pattison.

As soon as the necessary Preparations were made, his Lordship pursued his march to attack the Enemy entrenched at Red Bank; upon his Approach the Rebels evacuated the Post, and retired to Mount Holly, where they joined a Corps of Observation detached from the Main Army of the Rebels encamped at White Marsh. His Lordship found in the Enemy's Works, Cannon, Ammunition, and Stores as per Return N^o. 2. The Entrenchment being demolished, his Corps retired by Gloucester on the 27th. and joined the Army in this Camp.

The Enemy's Shipping, having no longer any Protection, and not finding it advisable to attempt the Passage of the River the Channel being commanded by the Batteries of the Town and the Delaware Frigate, they were quitted, without being dismantled, and burnt on the Night between the 20th. & 21st., but the Gallies of a smaller draught of Water by keeping close along the Jersey Shore escaped from the great Breadth of the River.

A forward Movement against the Enemy will immediately take place, and I hope will be attended with the Success that is due to the Spirit and Activity of His Majesty's Troops.

The Passage of the River by the Reduction of the two Places aforementioned has been sufficiently opened to bring up Frigates and Transports, but the Removal of the Chevaux de Frize is postponed to a more favorable Season.

Major General Sir Thomas Spencer Wilson having represented the very critical Situation of his private Concerns in England, has my Leave to return, and has taken Charge of my Dispatches to your Lordship by the Eagle Packet. With the most perfect Respect, I have the Honor to be [&c.]

JOURNAL OF THE CONTINENTAL CONGRESS

[York] Friday, November 28, 1777

The Committee on the Treasury brought in a report, which was taken into consideration; Whereupon, . . .

Ordered, That the following warrants issue on Thomas Smith, Esq. commissioner of the continental loan office for the State of Pennsylvania, viz. . . .

One in favour of Blair M'Clenaghan, for 16,400 dollars to discharge the continental navy board their order of the 3d September last, on William Alricks, their cashier, for the payment of two ships purchased of the said M'Clenaghan;¹ the said navy board to be accountable: . . .

Congress proceeded to the election of a commissioner to the Court of France in the room of S. Deane, Esq. and, the ballots being taken, John Adams, a delegate in Congress from Massachusetts bay, was elected.

Resolved, That William Carmichael, Esq. be appointed secretary to the commissioners at the Court of France.

Resolved, That an enquiry be made into the causes of the evacuation of Fort Mercer, on the river Delaware, and into the conduct of the principal officers commanding that garrison; and that a committee be appointed to report the mode of conducting the enquiry.

Resolved, That an immediate enquiry be made into the causes of the failure of the late expedition against Rhode Island, and into the conduct of the principal officers conducting such expedition; and that a committee be appointed to report the mode of conducting such an enquiry.

Resolved, That an enquiry be made into the loss of Forts Montgomery and Clinton, in the State of New York; and of Fort Mifflin, on the river Delaware, in the State of Pennsylvania, and into the conduct of the principal officers commanding those forts; and that General Washington be directed to cause this enquiry to be made, and to transmit the proceedings of the court to Congress with all possible despatch.

Resolved, That whenever any expedition which may be undertaken either by sea or land, by order, or at the expence of the United States, shall fail in the execution; or whenever any important post, fort, or fortress, garrisoned and defended at the expence of the United States, shall be evacuated, or taken by the enemy, it be an established rule in Congress to institute an enquiry into the causes of the failure of such expedition, or into the loss of such post, fort, or fortress, and into the conduct of the principal officer or officers conducting the expedition so failing, or commanding the post, fort, or fortress so evacuated or taken by the enemy; the enquiry so instituted, to be conducted in such manner as Congress shall deem best adapted for the investigation of truth in the respective cases.

Resolved, That the committee for conducting the enquiry into the causes of the evacuation of Fort Mercer, and the failure of the expedition against Rhode Island, consist of three members.

The members chosen, Mr. Duer, Mr. Dana, and Mr. F L Lee.

The Committee of Commerce, to whom were referred the proposals of Alexander Gillon, Esq^r contained in his letter of the 20th inst. reported,

That they have conferred with Mr. Gillon on the subject, and are of opinion, that a sum of money not exceed[ing] 250,000 dollars should be advanced to the said Alexander Gillon, Esq^r or his attorneys, annually for three years if the war with Great Britain shall continue so long; the said advances to be made by this committee, or such other as may hereafter be appointed to superintend the continental commerce, in such sums and at such periods as may be necessary for accomplishing purchases of suitable produce or other articles to be remitted to Europe:

That the said Alexander Gillon, Esq. or his attorneys, shall purchase all the remittances they make, ~~to Europe, on the best terms in their power that~~ and charter or purchase ships suitable for transporting the same to Europe, on the best and most frugal terms in their power, and under such orders, restrictions, and limitations, as they may, from time to time, receive from the committee or board that superintend the continental commerce, who are to call for, examine and inspect the invoices and other accounts, as often as they shall think necessary:

That the said Alexander Gillon shall forthwith repair to Europe, and purchase, at proper places, such cloathing, arms, ammunition, and other articles, as may, from time to time, be directed by the said committee, or board of commerce, to the amount of the net proceeds of all the remittances he or his attorneys in Europe shall there receive from his attorneys in America, such articles, to be bought on the best terms, and shipped for these United States, in such ships, or by such conveyances, as may be most likely to arrive safe; the said Alexander Gillon to conform himself in the transaction of this business to the instructions he may receive, from time to time, from the committee or board of commerce, to which he is to give regular advice of all his proceedings:

That the customary mercantile commissions be allowed for purchasing and making the remittances, and on the sale thereof in Europe, and a commission of five per cent. on the purchase and exportation of all the articles ordered from Europe, the said commissions to be the only compensation or benefit the said Alexander Gillon, or his attorneys, are to receive or derive to themselves from this business, being deemed fully equivalent to the services they are hereby required to perform; Whereupon,

Resolved, That the above report be accepted, and that the committee of commerce be authorized and directed to enter into a contract on behalf of the United States, with the said Alexander Gillon, Esq^r agreeable to the tenor and terms thereof:

CAPTAIN WILLIAM DAY AND OTHERS TO THE PUBLIC

Mr. Printer,

Understanding there has been various reports respecting the treatment of the Americans in France—We beg leave through the channel of your paper, to undeceive the public, by assuring them that the treatment of the officers and seamen of the ship General Miffin,¹ both at Brest and port L'Orient, was beyond their most sanguine expectations—We were permitted to go into the King's dock at Brest, to clean (a privilege never granted to a Briton) and when there, received every assistance we could expect, both from the gentlemen of the navy and army, of his Most Christian Majesty.—As to the mercantile part, we have nothing to say.

This State purchased said sloop Dolphin at the price of £1000.

The account this day settled with Capt. Jabez Perkins as agent to the captors, and an order drawn on the Pay-Table directing them to draw on the Treasurer for the sum of £490 13 2, it being the sum due to the captors for the one half of s^d sloop. Said order deliver'd to Genl Jabez Huntington.

N.B. There was a quantity of wood taken on board said sloop, which was sold to Capt. Robert Niles, the one half of which belonged to this State and is said to be settled by Capt. Niles in the settlement of his accounts against this State with the Committee of Pay-Table and must be enquired into. . . .

Voted, That Colo Joseph Trumbull be directed and empowered to . . . apply to Sam^l Elliot jun^r, Esq^r, after his account with the State, and advise relative to the two vessels of w^ar, the Oliver Cromwel and Defence, belonging to this State, of their situation and circumstances, and direct that the Defence be rigged a ship, and immediately advise his Excellency the Governor and Council of Safety thereof by express or otherwise and observe their further directions in the premises.

Head Quarters 29th. Novem^r 1777

I am fav^d. with yours of the 28th, I see no Reason for changing my former opinion in respect to sinking the Frigates to insure their safety. If they are weighed again and converted into Barracks for the Seamen, they must be brought near the shore and when the Frost sets in they cannot be sunk should the Enemy approach at such time. I however leave the Matter to your judgment.

The Hulls of the Vessels will be all that are necessary for Barracks, if you should determine to put them to that use. The sails, Rigging and all other Stores of them and the Vessels that have been burned should be removed to some distance from the Water side. I am [&c.]

[York] November 29th 1777

Your letter of the 6th of October having come to hand and we deeming it necessary to lay the same before Congress, you will find enclosed herein some Resolves that have been passed in consequence thereof.¹ To those Resolves we refer you for your Government in what relates to the safety and preservation of the Continental Frigates you are building² against any attempts the enemy may make to destroy them.

We trust to you to have this business properly executed and have no doubt but the Governor & Council will readily comply with what is requested of them.—

We have agreed that you shall purchase and lay in a sufficient quantity of Provisions for the use of your yards & for that purpose and to enable you so to do, we now enclose you a draft of Congress on the Loan office of Virginia for Ten Thousand Dollars which pass to our Credit. We expect you will be able to procure further sums for your drafts upon us and are [&c.]

Sir

yesterday afternoon I had the honor of yours of that Date acknowledging the Receipt of my Letter with the Intelligence inclosed;¹ In Answer thereto, I beg leave to acquaint you, that I think the Intelligence of such a nature, that, agreeable to my Instructions from my Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty, It is my Duty to make them immediately acquainted therewith the Intelligence was brought to me by a Captain of one of His Majesty's Frigates, under my Command, which, in my Opinion, sufficiently authorizes me to send it to England by Express, as I proposed to your honor.

I further beg leave to observe to your honor and to the hon^{ble}. the Council, that, I so lately sent a Sloop of War to hispaniola, with dispatches to the Governor of that Island, that I have not any Pretence to send One now, admit I had, and was provid[ed] with a Vessel for that purpose (which I am not) it would require so long for a Vessel to go there and return, that my express with this Intelligence might be half way to England in the time. In consequence thereof I have purchased the Privateer Resolution taken by Captain Locker, called her the Lowestoffe's Prize and appointed Lieutenant Jordan to command her, she will be ready to proceed with your and my Dispatches in 6 or 8 Days, and I shall direct Lieut^l. I have very great Pleasure in being able to inform their Lordships, that by the Disposition & Attention of His Majestys Ships under my Direction, the important Fisherys of Canso, & L'Isle Madame, have been so well protected as not to have lost a single Vessel by the Rebel Privateers, during the whole Season; which is now at an End, & the Ships all sail'd for their respective Destinations.

Since the destruction of the Enemy's Magazines at Machias (of which I had the Honor to give their Lordships an Account in my Letter of the 17th. August) the Rebels have remain'd in Quiet near the Frontiers of Nova Scotia; & there is at present every Reason to Imagine they will not attempt to interrupt the Peace of this Province by Invasion, during the Course of the ensuing Winter.

A Rebel privateer of 16 Guns (formerly a British ship called The Blaze Castle)¹ came down the River last night. She passed near the Amazon,² who immediately on perceiving her, made the proper signals, to the ships below her, but nothing being done by them, and the Privateer having the advantage of a fair wind and a dark night, she got clear out to Sea. She came down between this Island and Cononicut, and must have passed very near to the Admiral's ship. Tis said two Merchant ships went out at the same time.³ The Naval people here, whose business it is to prevent any of the Enemy's ships escaping, deserve severe censure for this neglect of duty.

DECLARATION OF JACOB FUNCKS

Je Soussigné Jacob Funcks capitaine du Bateau hope appartenant à MM. John J. Cripps & May de charlestown à la Caroline du sud, chargé de vingt cinq boucauds de tabac, soixante & quatorze boucauds de riz; un boucaud d'indigo, trois barrils de farine & soixante quinze macornes¹ d'ognons. Declare par le present que jeudi vingt sept novembre de l'année de nôtre seigneur 1777, sur les quatre heures de l'après midi, y ayant alors vingt huit jours que j'étois parti du dit charlestown, je fus chassé par une fregate angloise entre l'isle de la tortüe & Jean rabel, ce qui m'obligea de changer ma route & d'arriver pour la terre dont j'étois le plus prés, que je reconnus bientôt pour être la baye de Jean rabel de l'isle de S^t domingue. c'est alors que j'aperçus un autre vaisseau qui dirigeoit sa Route sur moi pendant que l'autre fregate me chassant toujours me força de m'échouer à jean rabel, ou y ayant été poursuivi par deux canots armés remplis d'hommes je m'embarquai avec les gens de mon équipage dans mon Canot & fus à terre. là je croyois etre à l'abri de tous dangers, mais plusieurs hommes des canots armés furent mis à bord de mon bateau & y mirent le feu sous le couvert des canons de la fregate qui tiroit sur nous & quelques françois à terre. Cette fregate tira deux coups de canon sous pavillon françois qu'elle ammena & hissa pavillon américain; ensuite Elle arbora pavillon anglois sous lequel elle tira encore plusieurs coups dont les boulets porterent tous à terre entre nous. le reste des gens des dits canots vinrent à terre pour me prendre avec mes gens mais n'ayant pû nous trouver ils firent des perquisitions dans les maisons des habitants & avant de s'en retourner à leur bord ils furent à la place où étoit deux pieces de canon sur leurs affûts & un pavillon françois hissé qu['ils] ammenerent, & démonterent les canons. le j[our] suivant je vins au Môle S^t Nicolas où j'ai f[ait] la presente déclaration pardevant Mons^r Commandant de cette place, laquelle déclaration les temoins Soussignés & moi affirmons etre véritable. Au Môle S^t Nicolas le trente novembre mil Sept cents Soixante & dix Sept. Signés, Jacob funcks capitaine; Silvanus Gale, second; John Bolton; & une croix pour marque ordinaire de David Crahton. tous faisant partie des gens de l'Equipage.

Je Soussigné interprète Juré de la langue angloise á la residence du Môle S^t Nicolas, Certifie avoir traduit la déclaration ci dessus & des autres parts en tout son contenu de l'original en anglois qui ma été remis par Monsieur de la Valtiere Lieutenant de Roi au dit lieu; en foi dèquoi, au Môle S^t Nicolas le trentieme novembre Mille Sept cents Soixante & dix Sept. f^s Gautarel²

[Translation]

30 November 1777

I the undersigned, Jacob Funcks, captain of the Bateau hope, belonging to Messrs. John J. Cripps & May of Charleston, South Carolina, loaded with twenty-five casks of tobacco, seventy-four casks of rice, one cask of indigo, three barrels of flour and seventy-five large baskets [?] ¹ of onions, state in this declaration that on Thursday, the twenty-seventh of November in the year of Our Lord 1777, at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, it being twenty-five days since leaving Charleston, I was chased by an English frigate between Tortue Island and Jean Rabel, which forced me to change course and to approach the land to which I was the closest, which I quickly recognised as the Bay of Jean Rabel of the Island of Saint Domingue. It was at that moment I saw another vessel making for me while the other frigate, still chasing me, forced me to run aground at Jean Rabel, where, having been pursued by two armed boats filled with men, I embarked with members of my crew in my boat and made for the shore. There I thought I was safe from all dangers, but several men from the armed boats went on board my ship and set fire to it under the cover of the frigate's guns that were firing at us and some Frenchmen on shore. The frigate fired two shots while flying a French flag, which she hauled down and raised an American flag; she then displayed an English flag under which she fired several more shots, the cannonballs all landed on the shore among us. The men remaining in the boats came ashore to seize me and my men but being unable to find us they searched the houses of the inhabitants. Before returning to their ship they went to the place where there were two guns on their carriages and a French flag flying, which they hauled down and then dismantled the guns. The next day, I came to St. Nicolas Mole where I made this declaration before the commanding officer of the place. The undersigned witnesses and I declare this declaration to be true. At Mole St. Nicolas, 30 November 1777. Signed, Jacob Funcks, Captain; Silvanus Gale, second in command; John Bolton; and a cross for David Crahton. All of them being members of the crew.

I the undersigned sworn interpreter of the English language at the residence of Mole St. Nicolas certify that I have translated the above declaration and other parts in all its content from the original in English, which was given to me by Monsieur de la Valtiere, King's Lieutenant of the said place; in witness thereof, at Mole St. Nicolas, the 30th of November 1777. JOURNAL OF CAPTAIN JAMES PARKER

[Philadelphia] Monday 1st. December 1777. Last night Cap^t Alexander, who commanded the Delaware frigate, with four of his officers escaped from the State house. The Public Clock having sometime ago being removed from thence, the place of the dialplate was planked up, part of which they removed, & putting the lines by which the Clock weights hung over to the outside, by them went to the ground, & got off. Their friends inside drew up the lines, & placing the planks all appeared right. The Whole officers expected to move this way in small numbers, but this was discovered & the place secured. The passage through the Cheveaux de frize is still very narrow, & must continue till warm weather, when they can work below Water. Several Vessels have got up on them lately, a Navy Victualler¹ will be lost, but the provision saved; also a Brig^a from Glasgow with bale goods. five rebel light horse came in this day. Gen^l Potter they say is at Germanton, & that he keeps a picket guard at the Rising sun, four miles from this, & that Washingtons main body remains still at the White marsh Church—

COMMODORE JOHN HAZELWOOD TO THOMAS WHARTON, JR.

I rece^d: Your Excelencies letter on the 17th.¹ wherein you inform me of the Contents of a letter Gener^l Washington rec^d from the Commanding Officer of red Bank,² Informing of the Evacuation of Fort Miffling and of the Constant & heavy firing of the Enemy particularly from a Floating Battery which lay very near the Fort which Made that Step Necessary & have no doubt, disagreeable Enough to your Excelency & to Every well Wisher to our Cause in General, But when your Excelency is made Acquainted with the proceeding & action of that day & Sir the Plan of Action by our Fleet & a View of the Whole you will I am Confident give Praise & Honour, to them & not degrade our Gentlemen whom have with the Greatest Spirit & Bravery defended the Pass of our River for Two Months Altho not half Manned & those few men under them Naked for want of Cloathes of Every Kind & Blankets, Thus we have with Spiritt whenever the British Fleet advanced beat them back & Drove them in Every Action & they rec^d Much Damage, & Cou'd the Army Maintain the Heights we could hold the Pass by Battery on Shore & the fleet for ever—Your Excelency may think that our force was greater than It really was, our Force on the River was 12 Gallies & two floating Batteries & a few Armed boates its true that we borrowed the men to Reinforce us going to action out of the Other Vessels & Captain Robinson in Particular has been Always ready to give Every Assistance with his people & the rest of the Continental Officers, the rest of the fleet Cou'd not come down below the Chevax De Freeze & the Most of our Actions has been below them, I am Sorry there Shoud be any Blame on our Fleet they have played their part well our Enemys has said it, & am sorry those we are Fighting for cannot Speak well of us, & as to the Gentleman that Commanded on that day to the wstward, not obeying Orders I did Accuse him for not doing more untill I was made acquainted with the Damage that part of the Fleet had Rec^d. & Saw the Floating Battery whom I order'd over to Assist the Gallies in the Destroying the Enemy's Ship³ & Sloop⁴ Floating Battery & they Rec^d so much Damage before she could get over to their Assistance & had her Cables & Warps cut to pieces as fast as they Run them Out & unluckily for us the Wind blew fresh Westerly that Day that we could not get the Fleet as Soon to Action as we Wished to do, for we was Obliged to Warp them to Action The Gallies & Floating Battery, I was Carrying all to Act on their Floating Battery & was playing on her When an Officer with a Note from the Commanding Officer⁵ came from the Fort & woud be glad the Commodore woud Fire on the Ships below As they Gauld^d the Fort Most, I Immediately Drew all the Fleet from her for Some time when I saw their Ship Floating Battery Warping up higher I then Sent the Gallies & Battery to Atack her for by the Note from the Fort I thought they would Manage her & that they would Wish us to drive down the Ships which we did, & had no Assistance but from a Two Gun Battery⁶ which we would have Man^d. ourselves but the Artilery officers woud not Suffer us to do it, the Action was Hott & Heavy that day Six Battery^s playing on us from the Shore to Westward besides two Nine Inch Mortars & two Floating Battery^s & Seven Ships & two of these Gallies that with their Shot from their Battery^s & Ships the River was Cover'd with Shot on all Sides of us and Cross Fire in Such a manner I was Surprized the Fleet never gave way which they never did untill their Ships was drove down we had on that Day 38 men kill'd & Wounded & all the Gallies Except one much Shater'd with shot two of Which we have now on Shore Reaparing here but I make no doubt there is many whom are not Judges blame us for not destroying their Ship Battery, do they know that no part of our fleet can get in there if its not halfe or two thirds Flood, or Suppose they could, can any man think that twelve Open boates could go into Such a Pass under the Fire of Six Battery^s & their two Floating Battery^s, & then not more than four hundred Yards from them & destroy a Ship of Twenty Four, 24 pounders besides a Sloop with three Heavy Cannon in her a Work no part the British fleet would attempt doing or if they had never could Effect^d. Such an Attempt for my Own part I have run Every Risque to do whatever our little Fleet was Capable of doing, & have defended the pass so long as the Army thought proper to Stay on the sides of the River what more we Could do I know not unless it was to Stay untill the Enemy's Army had got above us & those in the City⁷ had posted themselves on windmill Island & at Coopers Ferry & all to fall Prisoners with the Fleet in their hands but I think we have done much better but if it's thought there has been any Neglect let us have a hearing & you will find I think that the Fleet has Kept the Pass & not anything from the Shore. When Gen^l St Clear, Kelb & Knox came down⁸ mysef & the Oldest Continential Officer⁹ was Sent for in Councill & we then gave our Opinion that we could hold the Pass of the River as well as before with the Battery^s we were erecting if they could be Supported with the troops & that we thought the Loss of Fort Miffling was nothing that we Could Efectually hold the Pass of the River as well Without it as with it, the Gener^{ls} thought the Enemy would be on our backs before a Sufficcient Reainforcem^t could come How then can any blame be laid on the Fleet, I have Inclosed your Excelency some few papers I now shall In-deavour to give your Excelency some Account of our Reatreat, on the 18th of November we had a Councill with the Generals & Officers of the Garison & on the same evening they gave me their Determination in writing a Copy¹⁰ of which you have Inclosed with some other other Papers we heard nothing more of it untill Next Morning when one of our Officers came on board & Told me our people were leaving the Fort we on that day brought the Galleys up into Lads Cove where we held Councill which you will see the purport of¹¹ we lay two Nights for a Wind to Pass the fleet but having none it was agreed by the Whole Gentlemen that the Galleys Ought to Pass that Night Accordingly I got them under way at 3 OClock in the Morning & about half past four they past the Citty without having one Shott fired at them they had with them Nine Armed boates whom all got Safe up about 10 OClock the same day Captain Robinson & mysef went on Shore in order to See Gen^l Vernom to know what Support we culd get from the Troops but we found they had Reached Hattenfield where we could Expect Nothing from them I took a Horse & went up to get Waggons to bring up our Stores & to dispatch the Galleys down to Assist in geting the remainder of the Fleet past the Citty but it being late when I got up & the Tide not answering untill Morning & before day I heard a firing at Town & Soon after saw one of our boates whom told me that what part of the Fleet they thought Could be got bye was passed & that the Rest was Sett on Fire agreeable to a Councill held in the Evening by all the Gentlemen of both Continential & State Captain Robinson told me he waited on the Gen^l & he told him he could give him no Support untill he got up to Ancoakus & Saw that our Fleet must fall in their hands if they was not destroyed, we Should have Sent some of the Fleet down the River if we could have been Supply^d with Bread to go with tho we have been fully Employed here Crossing & reacrossing Troops & their Baggage & Still Complaints that they can get nothing done by the Galleyemen—is Every Officer in the Army to Lodge Complaints To General Washington of the Fleet & the Officers in it not to be heard or is the Fleet under the Command of Every Officer in the Army if it is it's the first Fleet that ever was Commanded by sea Officers under the Command of any Army or the Officers in it if it is so I believe few will Continue in it, we would wish to Support our Rank & Honour which we never shall be able to do while every officer in the Army is to be a Judge of our Actions let our Conduct be Examin^d into By men of Judgment if we have not done our Duty let us Suffer accordingly I Should be glad Your Excelency Would point out a place where the Fleet may Winter for I dont think the River will be open long hear, I have been unwell three days but am much better & Shall I hope be able to go on board the Fleet tomorrow I hope to hear from Your Excelency Soon, having not to add am [&c.]

DIARY OF JAMES ALLEN

[Allentown, Pa.]

2^d December, 1777.—My distance from Philad^a the present seat of war, causes me to hear news very late, & passing thro' the hands of military men, we get but partial accounts of bad news. However I was so lucky the night before last to receive a very particular account of the transactions in the City from M^{rs}: Craig who left it last Thursday morning. Last Saturday 22^d exactly a week after the evacuation of Fort Mifflin, the Garrison of Fort Mercer blew up the Fort with all the stores &c. The exploing of next campaign to put Hudson's river into a state inaccessible to the enemy's Ships of war and thereby to render their enterprizes on that quater extremely difficult and dangerous to them. . . . The great Superiority of the enemy's Fleet renders it impossible to send those products¹ in any quantity to sea with a tollerable prospect of safety. Thus we are prevented from sending you the four thousand hogshheads of Tobacco which you have contracted for, & which Congress have directed to be sent; although several thousands have for some time been purchased up for payment of our debts in France. The good Intentions of our friends in that country are almost entirely frustrated by the exertion of the whole power of the enemies by Sea to prevent our from sending to, or receiving from Europe any thing whatever. A War in Europe whould greatly and immediately change the scene. The maritime force of France and Spain with the American cruizers would quickly lessen the power of Great Britain in the western Ocean, and make room for the reciprocal benefits of commerce between us and our friends. . . .

As the marine Committee have already sent some and will order some more of the Continental Ships of War to France under your directions, permit us to suggest an expedition which appears likely to benefit us and distress the enemy. We are informed that two or three well manned Frigates dispatched early in February so as to arrive at the Island of Mauritius in June (being provided with letters of credence and for such refreshments or aid of stores &c as may be necessary from the Minister to the french Governor of that Island) may go from thence to cruize on the Coast of Coromandel, twenty days sail from the Island of Mauritius, where they will be in the way to intercept the China ships, besides distressing the internal trade of India. The prizes may be sold at Mauritius and bills of exchange be remitted to you in Paris. We would observe that in passing to Mauritius our Vessels had better call at Goree than at the Cape, to avoid the vigilance and apprehension of the British Cruizers. Another beneficial attempt may be conducted along the Coast of Africa. The french and dutch settlements, and perhaps the portuguese will purchase the prizes and give bills on Europe. We think your plan of getting one of the new constructed Ships of war equal to one of 64 guns, built for the use of these states in Europe is a very good one, and may be employed to very beneficial purposes. The heavy iron Cannon which you propose to send will be welcome for fortifications and for Vessels; and here they cost abundantly more than you can furnish them for from Europe. besides the delay in getting them which frequently distresses us greatly, and surely your determination to supply us with materials wanted here for shipbuilding is very wise, since it is by marine force that the most destructive wound may be given to our enemies.

We are directed to point out proper ports into which the stores mentioned in the resolve of Congress of November 10th may be imported. We are obliged to own that the port of Charlestown, South Carolina and those to the Eastward of Rhode Island are the only safe ones. We wish the number of Manufactures in lead and Sulphur had been limited in that same resolve; but we place full confidence in your discretion. . . .

CONTINENTAL MARINE COMMITTEE TO THE CONTINENTAL NAVY BOARD OF THE EASTERN DEPARTMENT

The Commissioners of the Navy Board at Boston
Gentlemen

[York] Decem^r 2^d 1777

It is the earnest desire of this Committee that you press forward the two Frigates at Rhode Island¹ and get them to Sea if possible with all dispatch when they are to proceed to France agreeable to our former directions. We are exceedingly anxious to have this business accomplished and hope for your utmost exertions therein being Gentlemen [&c.]

P:S: Having been informed that the Syren frigate is cast a Shore on point Judith—that she is in our possession and that her Guns, Cables & Anchors, and some other parts of her Tackle and Apparal are like to be saved, we would have you purchase her Guns and Anchors and her Cables and all other Tackle and Apparal if you should think them fit for service, and remove them to some safe place in Massachusetts Bay to be applied to the use of the first frigate that may want them.

In order that you may not be in want of money to carry on the business of your Department we now enclose you two drafts on the Loan Offices of Massachusetts Bay and Rhode Island² for fifty thousand Dollars which you will please to draw as you may want it—

CONTINENTAL MARINE COMMITTEE TO CAPTAIN JAMES NICHOLSON

Captain James Nicholson
Sir

[York] December 2^d 1777

We find it necessary to give you the following Instructions which you will please to Observe. We desire that you will proceed with the frigate Virginia down the bay as low as you can with prudence place said frigate not to be exposed to superior attack from the enemy and there wait for a fresh northwest wind and other favourable circumstances to proceed to sea upon the Voyage directed by your Instructions of the 23^d. of October last. It is expected that you will provide a fast sailing Tender to preceede the frigate and give you notice of the Situation of the enemy their Numbers and force thereby to enable you to act in such manner as will be most likely to effect the business of your voyage properly. We expect the speedy execution of those Orders and wishing you success remain [&c.]

VICE ADMIRAL VISCOUNT HOWE TO CAPTAIN ANDREW S. HAMOND, R.N.

Copy.

By the Viscount Howe, Vice Admiral of the White and Commander in Chief of His Majesty's Ships and Vessels employed and to be employed &c^d. in North America.

Whereas it is intended that the Roebuck, together with the several Ships and Vessels named in the Margin,¹ should remain in this River; In such Stations during the ensuing Winter, for the Protection of the Town of Philadelphia and to keep an open Communication therewith, as Circumstances may require and the Commander in Chief of the Land Forces² approve or recommend: You are therefore to take the Captains of those Ships under your Command, for being so employed; and otherwise generally to co-operate in the Measures suggested by the Commander in Chief, or other Chief Officer in his Absence, as You are best able for the Benefit of His Majesty's Service in those respects, until farther Order.

A particular Attention will be requisite to the due Arrangement and orderly Conduct of the Transports appointed to remain at the Wharfs of the Town, whilst the State of the Weather at this Season renders that precaution necessary. You are to be assisted therein by the principal and other Agents of the Transports, as well as Wardens of the port who will have the General's Directions to that Effect.

When, as the Winter-Season advances, it becomes unadvisable longer to keep the several Ships of War on the detached Services in the mean Time requisite above the Town and contiguous to the Obstructions in the Channel of the River which the Enemy has effected; You will be to assign the proper Situations for placing those Ships also at the Wharfs of the Town, for the like Security. And when the River is cleared of the Ice in the ensuing Spring, so that the Ships of War may resume their former Stations they are to be disposed of (with the Concurrence of the General, or Chief Commander of the Land-Forces for the Time being) in such Manner as may be then judged most effectual for maintaining the same open Communication; And farther to assist in the Means which may be proposed by skilful Persons, for enlarging the present Channel, and rendering the Navigation safer from Billingport towards the Town: whereon you are at Liberty (no more eligible Expedient occurring) to contract with and employ such qualified persons as are willing to engage in that Undertaking.

The Experiment is, however, to be excepted under the Circumstances last mentioned: As some provision will be necessary for facilitating the Arrival of Transports or Ships of War directed to this River at such Times as the Navigation is practicable. And as the Experiment appears best adapted for this Occasion, the Commander, Sir James Wallace, will be to take his Station off of, or within the Shoals of the Brown and Brandywine, when his Stay is no longer required at Billingport; for affording such protection as aforesaid, and directing the Commanders of the Ships of War sent to join me here, to the Rendezvous left for his Guidance in that respect. He will be to receive into the Experiment the Pilots put onboard the Solebay, now occupying the same Station.

The Liverpool having received Damage by grounding on the sunk Frames off Billingport in attempting the Removal of them; She is to be hove down for repairing that Injury, in the Course of the ensuing Winter-Months with all the Expedition the State of the Weather will admit.³ And such Assistance, of Shipwrights or other Artificers is to be contracted for, and Stores purchased, as are found necessary: The Supplies which can be furnished from the Ships of the Squadron being insufficient for that Occasion. The same Latitude is given with respect to the Repair of the Flat-Boats, which is to be made an Object of your particular Care, and for procuring any Cordage or other Stores requisite for the ordinary Service of the Ships under your Direction.

Having retained the Prize named the Delaware to be employed with a proper Complement of Men as an Armed Ship in His Majesty's Service; And nominated Lieutenant Watt to the Command thereof; You are to take that Officer under your Orders, to be employed in the said Ship as part of the Squadron stationed in this River for the purposes of your present Appointment.

Given onboard His Majesty's Ship the Eagle off Chester the 2^d. Day of December 1777.

(Signed) Howe.

THE GAZETTE OF THE STATE OF SOUTH-CAROLINA, TUESDAY, DECEMBER 2, 1777

Charles-Town, Dec. 2.

Last saturday morning the wind being at W. several outward bound vessels put to sea from this port, of which a brig, a sloop, and afterwards a sloop, stood to the northward, the rest to the southward. After the pilots had left them, a ship was discovered standing in from the S.E. and soon gave chase to those vessels that went to the northward; but the brig and sloop being seen in the evening, standing in shore towards Bull's-Island, and the sloop towards the bar, tis imagined that, as soon as it was dark, they stood off and got clear of the enemy, as they could not be seen on Sunday morning. . . .

The sloop Betsy, of Antigua, John Weatherdon late master, from Grenada, intended for New-York, having on board upwards of 70 hogsheads of rum, some sugar, and fruit, arrived in safe port last Saturday, the mate and crew, who were all Americans, having thought [proper] to alter her destination, to regain their liberty, which they never had an opportunity of doing while they were prisoners at Grenada, where not the least support was ever allowed them, nor were they suffered to depart from thence, unless to navigate the vessels of their enemies. The crew consisted of 4 men and 2 boys, mostly of Newberry port: Having no other prospect of getting back to their country, and dreading to be confined to perish in a noisome prison-ship, if they should reach New-York, they preferred, on the 16th ult. to confine the captain to his cabin, and take possession of the vessel, even while in company and under convoy of two armed brigs from Grenada, also bound for New-York, and happily succeeded in their attempt. On Friday last, they were chased by a large sloop to the southeastward, and on Saturday by a ship, both which, by their actions, they judged to be cruizers.—They inform of the sloop Driver, Capt. Nog, for Surinam, having been taken off Bran Point, on the 24th of July last, by the Revenge privateer brig, Capt. Daniel Campbell, and carried into Grenada; also of a sloop from Boston, one White, master, with lumber and fish, for Surinam, being carried into Grenada, about the end of August. . . .

The sloop Owners Delight, of this port, Capt. Conyers, bound for St. Eustatius, is taken by the enemy, and carried into Tortula. . . .

The brig Ann, one of the prizes taken on the 15th of September last, in the Bay of Honduras, by the Washington privateer, of this port, Capt. Anthony, arrived in safe port last Sunday; after having been chased last Friday morning by one ship, and in the afternoon by another which continued the chase till 12 o'clock at night, when the brig running into less than three fathom water, near the Coffin Land, the ship stood off again.—After the Ann had been 56 days captured, the prize master was obliged to put into Havana, for necessaries, which the Spaniards readily supplied him. . . .

The master of a sloop who got in over the bar, through the fog, yesterday, says, he has been chased every day, between Bull's island and this bar, by a British man of war, for six days successively, till last Saturday—and that during that time, at different periods, he has seen at least a dozen of vessels on the coast, some of which he fears have been taken.

The fog having cleared away this morning, has put it out of all doubt, that there are British cruizers now off this bar; for, at 8 o'clock, it discovered, one coming from the N.E. almost before the wind, towards the bar, and a sloop running in for the shore of Dewees's island, while another ship stood in from the S.E. towards Stono inlet. At 10 o'clock, the sloop came to an anchor off the end of Long-Island; and the ship off Stono put about, and stood to the eastward, as near the wind, as she could lie. At 12, the ship from the N.E. had passed the south bar a considerable distance, fired a gun, and hoisted a white flag at mizen-top-mast head. The schooner then weighed, and made sail along shore, and has since come in. After the ships had spoke together, and drifted almost off Stono; at 5 o'clock, they both put about again, and stood off to sea, as close to the wind as possible; and at 6, the smaller was standing to the S.E. and the largest inclining more northerly, probably with a view to intercept a Bermuda sloop, which appears coming up from the N.E.—One of the ships is not unlike the Perseus; the other seems to be a small frigate, and is probably the same that lately burnt the ship Weatherill.—As we never had so many good armed vessels, or a greater number of brave seamen, in this port at one time, we flatter ourselves, that these Lords of the ocean will not much longer reign paramount here.

The Volunteer privateer schooner, of this port, commanded by Capt. Eliphalet Smith, has been sunk by the Brune frigate, Capt. Ferguson.¹—A New-York printer has been pleased to give an account of the taking and sinking of the said privateer, in a paper dated the 9th of October, upon which we shall only remark, that there does not appear much humanity in firing a whole broadside, of a frigate's cannon, upon a small schooner, that appears to have been within musket-shot.—The New-York printer says "The Volunteer privateer fell in with the Brune, about 25 leagues E.S.E. of Sullivan's island: When hailed, her captain answered, the Lord Howe, from St. Augustine, bound for New-York; on which he was ordered to lower his sails, and send his boat on board the Brune: On his not complying with this order, the Brune fired a 6 pounder at her. Her sails still continuing up, and as she was dropping fast astern, with an intention of getting off the Brune fired a broadside and some musketry into her. The captain was killed by a musket shot, and the 2d lieut. wounded by another. On their bringing to, and calling for quarter, the Brune's boats were sent on board her for the prisoners; she was found to be much torn by the shot, and making great quantities of water—the prisoners were hardly got on board when she went to the bottom."—Among other vessels taken by the Brune, on the same cruize, were, the ship Pleirne, Samuel Green master, from this port, for France, and the ship Choptank, Benjamin Carpenter master, from Martinique, for this port, with coals, salt, and rum.²

POSTSCRIPT, Tuesday Night.

We are just now informed, That the two men of war cruizing off the bar, are the Lizard frigate of 28 guns, Capt. Mackenzie and the Perseus of 20. They have been out six weeks from New-York and have burnt and sunk 11 vessels during their present cruize, being too weakly manned to spare hands to carry them into port.—We have this information from Mr. Pendergrass, who with Mrs. Grove and Mrs. Barton, all of this town, were passengers in the schooner just come into the road; which is from Boston, Pinkman master, and last Sunday fell in with the Lizard, about 60 leagues from the land, whose lieutenant came on board, but finding she had passports for St. Augustine, she was suffered to proceed for that destination, with a caution to take care not to be found near George Town or this port.

Every day last week a brig and a sloop have stood off and on in sight of Stono, come very near the reef, and sometimes chased fishing boats. They stand in all day, and off at night.

JOURNAL OF THE CONTINENTAL CONGRESS

[York] Wednesday, December 3, 1777

The Committee to whom it was referred to consider of a proposition for surprizing and destroying the enemyies shipping at St^t John's or elsewhere, on Lake Champlain, during the winter season have duly considered thereof, and being of opinion that such an enterprize is of the utmost importance and promises the greatest Prospect of Success; provided it can be conducted with prudence, Resolution and Secrecy, Report the following Plan for carrying it into effect.

I. That the Hon^{ble}. Jas Duane Esq. be authorized and directed in a personal Conference to communicate the Enterprize to Brigadier General Starke who is appointed to the Command; and to consider with him of the best and most practicable means for its accomplishment.

II. That Brigadier General Starke be authorized with the utmost Secrecy to select or Raise a competent number of Volunteers for this Service; and to receive from the commanding officer of the Northern Department a sufficient Quantity of Military Stores, Carriages and provisions; or if more convenient to hire Carriages and to purchase provisions; and that the Sum of Five thousand dollars for these & other contingent expences shall be advanced out of the Military Chest in the said Department to him or his order for the Expenditure whereof he is to be accountable.

III. That if the Enterprize should prove successful the sum of Twenty thousand dollars shall be paid to the said General Starke and his officers and men, to be divided among them in proportion as the pay of Continental Officers and Privates bears to each other as a Reward for their Services and in full satisfaction of all Wages and Claims: or in such proportions more advantageous to the privates as the general and his officers shall ascertain. But if stipulated wages should be preferred to the Chance of such Reward, the general shall be at Liberty to retain the officers and men at double continental pay and Rations during the Expedition, in consideration of the inclemency of the season and the importance of the service.

IV. That General Starke be engaged to keep secret the said Enterprize, and not to communicate it untill the nature of the operations shall render it necessary.

V. That a Warrant in the Words following, subscribed by the President, shall be transmitted to General Starke; viz:

“In Congress York Town the 3^d. day of Dec^r. 1777.

“Whereas Brig^{de} General Starke is appointed to command a secret expedition during the winter season: you are therefore directed & required upon his order to supply him with such sums of money not exceeding Five thousand dollars: and such carriages Military Stores and Provisions as he may require, taking his vouchers for the same and for which he is to be accountable.

“By order of Congress.

“To the Commanding officer, Pay Master General, Quarter Master General and Commissaries of Stores Provisions in the Northern Department.”

VI. That if from any unforeseen accident General Starke should be unable or unwilling to engage in the said Enterprize: The Commanding officer in the Northern Department be in such case directed and authorized to appoint some other brave and diligent officer to the said Command and that the officer so Commanding shall have the same powers and with the other officers and Men the same Rewards or Pay, as are before proposed.

VII. That all officers in the Service of the United States be required, and all civil officers and others requested, to give every aid and assistance in their power for forwarding and securing the success of the said Enterprize.

WILLIAM BINGHAM TO CONTINENTAL FOREIGN AFFAIRS COMMITTEE

Gentⁿ

St Pierre Mtque Decem^r 3^d 1777

Herewith I have the honor to convey to you Copy of my last Respects; ¹—The Embargo which had been laid upon all Shipping bound to Europe, has Since been taken off, in Consequence of Orders received from the Ministry—& a temporary Accommodation has taken place betwixt the Courts of London & Versailles—

The Designs of France in forwarding such a Number of Troops to the West Indies under the Convoy of Six Ships of the Line & Several Frigates, appeared of a very alarming Nature to G-Britain;—At her lowest Ebb of Despondency She could not refrain from expostulating on the Subject—but the important Acquisition of Ticonderoga, joined to the Advantages which they expected would result from the Operations of the Northern Army, had raised the drooping Spirits of the Ministry, & had given them reason to believe, that the Campaign would be attended with a happy issue;—This, with Some other political Views referred to before, induced them to demand in a high Tone, the Motives which impelled France to Send Such a great naval & Land Force to the West Indies—a very Specious Reason could be given for the latter, as it was alledged, that the Time of Service for the Regiments on this Station was expired & others were Sent out to relieve them;—accordingly the Troops were embarked, & as the pacific State of their Affairs did not demand So formidable a Convoy, the Ships of the Line were withdrawn, & a Single Frigate appointed to each Division—

three Divisions have already arrived here, consisting of 7000 Troops—this Island is to be garrisoned with 6500, which Number being compleated, the remainder will take their Departure for S^t Domingo;—These Troops are not intended to be idle—2000 of them is Sufficient for the Defence of Martinico, & indeed is double the Number that were ever Stationed here before—France must have Some grand Object in View or She never would maintain, at an enormous Expence, Such a heavy Establishment in the Colonies—it is certainly an unequivocal Mark of her hostile Intentions—

The Arrival of the Spanish Galleon is an Object of great Importance & which engages the Attention of France & Spain—Most of the Register Ships richly loaded with Merchandize have already arrived at Cadiz,—by a Vessel from the Havannah we have Accounts that the Specie is all deposed on board 22 Ships of the Line, besides Frigates, which will Sail together in the Month of December, & that it amounts to more than Fifteen Millions Sterling—

But the Necessity of preserving Terms with GBritain, has been attended with Some obsequious Concessions on the Side of France, which greatly lowers the Dignity of Such a respectable & powerfull Nation—

France had demanded a Strict Neutrality for all her Vessels, navigating (even in the American Seas) without the Limits—this was granted her;—but She found GBritain but ill-disposed to humble herself in other Matters—who demanded in her Turn,—that no American Prizes Should enter into any of the French Ports to be disposed of, or Should continue longer than 24 Hours;—that no Privateers Should be fitted out there, & that no Ammunition or military Stores Should be Shipped on board any American Vessel—The Dread of GBritain Seems to have become a political Habit, which has infected the Councils of France, which they cannot Shake off, but which continues, after the Causes that occasioned it, have ceased to exist—The fear of an immediate Rupture which might attend the Non-Compliance with these Requisitions, induced France to grant them, & Orders have been issued in Consequence to all the Commandants in all their Ports—I have had no Trial as yet of their Operation here, but I am almost confident that I Shall find a Number of Ways to elude & evade them, & prevent their taking Effect;—especially as the Prohibition rather proceeds from a political Expedient, than any real Intention of injuring us—besides, however the Strict Observance of these Orders may be exacted in France, under the immediate Notice of English Emissaries, yet it cannot be expected to operate in the Same Manner amongst the Islands—as the Reins of Government are always relaxed at a Distance from the Seat of Empire. . . . I have the honor to be [&c.]

GOVERNOR EDWARD HAY TO CAPTAIN THOMAS PRINGLE, R.N.

Sir

Barbados 3 December 1777.

In answer to Your Letter received yesterday I give You Joy upon Your having taken the pyrate Schooner Johnstone,¹ whose Capture is certainly a relief to the Trade of His Majesty's Subjects in these Islands.

Upon the Subject of Prisoners in general, as in every thing else, I beg leave to inform You, that it is my Duty to observe all Acts of Parliament, and to obey the Orders of His Majesty's Secretary of State, as Commands from His Majesty—The Act prohibiting all Trade and Intercourse with certain American Colonies in Rebellion directs the Captors how they should dispose of their Prisoners; It mentions neither Magistrate nor Governor: and When You brought the Mosquito Privateer here in June,² there was a numerous Convoy bound from hence to S' Kitts to proceed to England; Ships sufficient to have taken all the Men; There would not have been three men to each Ship; The Masters of the Vessels would have been glad of them. You have since had the direction of Two Convoys, in July and October, and would not take one prisoner. And it certainly must have occurred to You that Prisoners would be of less Expence to Government, when maintained at home, than when maintained here, where They are a Burthen. I have the honour to inclose an Extract of a Letter from Lord George Germain, who seems to be of this opinion.³ In a Letter from His Lordship since,⁴ He points out the mode of sending them home, but This Letter arrived too late for the October Convoy, where there also were very few Ships from hence. Now there will probably be no Convoy from hence before May or June, & the Pyrate Act,⁵ by which I have been governed, expires the 1st of next month, that is, the first day of January 1778. I certainly after that time can receive no more Prisoners, unless I hear that That Act is continued in the present Sessions; how I can answer continuing to confine those I have is likewise a great doubt with me.

As to the Thirty Prisoners on board the Johnston Pyrate, If notwithstanding what I have now writ upon the Subject of Prisoners, and notwithstanding the Secretary of State's Letter, You should still determine to put them on shore, I must not let them straggle about; They must be confined, & the provost Marshal has orders to receive them, & to know of You the time You chuse to land them. I have the honour to be [&c.]

DEPOSITION OF LOT LEWIS CONCERNING BRIGANTINE LUSANNA

Lot Lewis of lawful age testifies & says that he has acted as mate of the brig^t Lusanna Matthew Wood Master upwards of eighteen months last past that during that time he understood by the Register that the said brig^t Lusanna was owned by M^r Shearjashub Bourne tho' he understood the property was in fact M^r Elisha Doane's of Wellfleet & covered by M^r Bourne in order to secure the property in that manner This deponent says that they sailed from St Helens on or about the 13 day of September last in Company with a fleet bound to New York under convoy of the British frigate Venus that on the passage they parted company in the Night & the next morning seeing nothing of the fleet they lay to for four hours supposing them to be astern & then no fleet appearing they made the best of their way for Halifax when they were chased by a Vessel which afterwards proved to be the brig^t MClary who after between one or two hours chase most of the time within musquet shot came up with & obliged them to strike That before this voyage the brig Lusanna before-mentioned was employed to carry Pitch tar timber & bricks which he understood were ordnance Stores from London to Gibraltar & he supposes on account of the Government of Great Britain as the flag they wore had in it the figure of three blue balls & three gun-carriages that they sailed on the voyage last mentioned on the first day of October 1776 The colours above described were received of a Gentleman who I suppose to be a Government Contractor who used to ask why the Brig did not wear ordnance colours as she had ordnance stores on board & on being answerd they had no ordnance colours onboard the said Contractor supplyd them & afterward made Capt Wood pay for them

WILLIAM BRADFORD TO THOMAS WHARTON, JR.

Sir,

My last¹ to your Excellency was on my arrival at Burlington, giving an account of the Galleys getting up and the Burning the continental Fleet,² the Ship Montgomery and two Floating Batteries. Since which nothing material has happened.

The sailors belonging to the Continental Fleet went up to Borden Town, and are mostly deserted.

I have now sent up W. C. Bradford to your Excellency for some money to pay the Fleet, as the men will undoubtedly desert if they do not get their pay. I have at present 3000 Dollars. In my last acquainted you had 6000 but have been obliged to lay some out for Cattle, Potatoes, & paying off some of the Fleet, that was not paid before, of which W. B., can give some acc^t. The Fleet has had but one Hogshhead of rum since they came up, and none for some time before, so that your Excellency may think what I hear as I pass by them. I am alone as to a Board. Mr. Crispin is here but am exceeding sorry to say that I am in a manner obliged to be Commissary, unless in serving it out, for if things are provided for him he does very well but will take no pains to get one thing.

By many Persons from Philada., we have accounts that the enemy are fitting out several Vessels to come up the River to attack us at this place, but if they do I hope they will be disappointed in their views. For any thing particular, I must refer to the Bearer. I am [&c.]

JOURNAL OF THE CONTINENTAL CONGRESS

[York] Thursday, December 4, 1777

Resolved, That it be earnestly recommended to the legislatures of the states of New Hampshire, Massachusetts bay, Connecticut, and New York, to take effectual measures for the preservation of all pine timber growing within their respective territories, which may be suitable and useful for masts or other purposes of navigation, and for preventing any waste and destruction of that valuable kind of timber.

GOVERNOR VALENTINE MORRIS TO LORD GEORGE GERMAIN

[Extract]

My Lord

St. Vincent December the 4th: 1777

Yesterday Evening the Thyne packet, brought me the Honour of your Lordships duplicate of the third of September, and the originals of the two others of the 3rd. of October, before the receipt of which I had procured from Martinico, an Account of the late arrivals there from France; none but frigates accompanied the Troops, but I must entreat your Lordship not to put any further reliance on the promises of that Court, than a due observance of can be compelled. some large ships are expected at Martinica, to drop in singly, and seperately; and exclusive of the 2nd. battallions of such Troops, as they before had the 1st. battallions of in these Islands, I am confidently assured came but one battallion of what they call Dragons du Roi: of which no part have ever before been in America, and which are esteemed prime troops, and are trained to serve equally as Horse and Foot; in which latter capacity they are come out here: and consist of about six hundred men: altho very credibly informed that this is one of the Corps, I do not yet give that as an indisputable fact which I however beleive, will not be long be fore I know with the utmost exactness.

I again have the honour of repeating to your Lordship that the number of regular troops and well trained Militia now in the French Islands of Martinica, Guadeloupe, & Marigalante is most formidable to these Islands and are not less than between nine and ten thousand men.

I am most happy in congratulating your Lordship on the various successes of his Majestys Arms in America, where had the least reverse of fortune appeared, your Lordship may be assured an attack on the British Islands in these Seas would have been made by the French: there were even several in this Island who think themselves or rather their correspondents, in the secrets of the cabinet, that had no doubt but that by the month of February this Island was to have been in their possession: your Lordship will readily believe my life, as well as that of many other of his Majestys faithfull subjects, would have fallen e'er such an event should have taken place.

The American Privateers have taken a fresh start in these seas, six of them, of these two Large ones, having put to sea from Martinica about ten days ago; and fourteen more were preparing to go out to be in readiness to intercept the soon expected West India Fleet. . . . I . . . have the Honour to be [&c.]

INDEPENDENT CHRONICLE (BOSTON), THURSDAY, DECEMBER 11, 1777

Portsmouth, December 5, 1777.

On the 1st instant, arrived in this port, (after a most fatiguing passage of sixty-six days, from Marsailles) the Flamand, a 26 gun ship; commanded by Monsieur de Landais, Captain of the French King's ships; laden with 48 brass cannon, 19 mortars, 2500 bomb shells, 5000 musquets, 20,000 pounds of gun-powder, and other warlike stores. For this precious cargo we are indebted to the cares of Messieurs Roderigo, Hortalez and company, who from the beginning of the war to this time, have shown the greatest zeal for our good cause, and in many instances, by their friendship, have done us essential service; Monsieur de Franncy, member of the society, who is arrived himself with this cargo, will take notice of the most pressing wants of our country in order to continue to furnish us with the most necessary supplies.

With this ship is arrived, the Baron de Stenben [Steuben], General Quarter Master Lieutenant, and Aid de Camp to his Prussian Majesty; he brought over with him two officers, and is believed to come here with the design of serving America, and to bring letters from our Commissioners in France, Messieurs Franklin and Deane, and it is thought will serve in our army.

JOURNAL OF THE CONNECTICUT COUNCIL OF SAFETY

[Extract]

At a meeting of the Governor and Council of Safety holden in Lebanon the 5th day of December, 1777.

Voted, That Mr. David Trumbull be and he is hereby directed to exchange beef and pork at Boston for salt sufficient to put up what provisions he is ordered to put up for this State for the purpose of victualling our navy there: provided he can exchange the same on reasonable terms.

Resolved, That his Excellency the Governor be and he is desired to draw an order in favour of Maj^r Nathaniel Ruggles of Roxbury, on Samuel Eliott jun^r, Esq^r, agent for this State at Boston, for three hundred bushels of salt belonging to this State, for the purpose of putting up provisions for the armed vessels belonging to this State now fitting out at Boston: provided the same cannot be procured by way of barter as aforesaid.

Order d^d Mr. Trumbull 5th Decem^r, 1777.

... Resolved, That the ships of war, Oliver Cromwell and Defence, belonging to this State and now lying in the harbour of Boston, be immediately fitted out on a cruise against the enemies of this and the other United States of America, and that the captains of said ships of war be and they are hereby directed to inlist their crews with all convenient speed, in order to proceed on their respective cruises. And that the officers, marines and seamen on board said ships, while in said service, be under the rules, orders and regulations prescribed by Congress for the continental navy, relative to the government and well ordering the said ships and the officers, marines and seamen on board the same. And the said officers, seamen and marines, besides the provisions and their stipulated pay and wages, after all other necessary expences are discharged, shall be entitled to a division of one half of all their captures, whether ships of war, armed or other vessells, their cargoes and appurtenances, legally condemned as lawfull prizes, to be made agreeable to the rules and directions now given by Congress, and the other half to be and belong to this State.

CHARLES HAMILTON TO GOVERNOR JOHN DALLING

Copy

Sir

. . . Here joined is a Letter from the General of Hispaniola,¹ whence I sailed the 26th. ult^o. and where 6, or 7000 Men were hourly expected from France; these Troops added to upwards of 3000 already stationed at Fort Dauphin and Cape François will form an Army of at least 10000 effective Men—large Magazines were at the same time gathering, Four large Frigates are now at Anchor in that Harbour, none under 32 Guns, and two more at Port-au-Prince; I used my utmost Endeavours to discover whether the French had any hostile intentions but without success, they pretend only to aim at Self-Security; however, from the circumstance of their admitting now the American trading Vessels in that Harbour, it may easily be guessed at that they mean to monopolise their trade by giving them protection, and be ready for War at all events.

No American armed Vessels are however suffered to come into their Ports, or, are Arms permitted to be openly exported.—During the time of the Embargo, which was taken off but five Days before I sailed, no American Vessel was admitted to remain at the Cape; I should not my self have obtained the Liberty to have gone on Shore, altho' I had put [illeg.] in great distress, had not my Vessel carried a Flag of truce, and been in Ballast only; but immediately after the Embargo was raised, Vessels arrived from New-England, Virginia and Maryland, publicly landed their Cargoes, and took on Board whatever commodities they pleased to purchase—This is, Sir, the only Intelligence of Moment I can furnish your Excellency with—happy, if it proves of Service to the State, and serves to testify my Zeal, and the profound Respect with which, I am [&c.]

GOVERNOR WILLIAM MATHEW BURT TO COMTE D'ARBAUD

Sir,

Le. S^r Vatable did me the Honor of delivering your Excellency's Letter of the 17th,¹ respecting the Complaint of one of the King my Master's Frigates: I have already wrote your Excellency, that your Description was so vague I cou'd not say what Vessel had done what your Excellency complain'd of; but since that have found that 'twas his Majesty's Sloop, Favorite.² The Fact was this; she had chac'd a Schooner, in which she had reason to imagine was Pascali, whose Robberies had justly made him the Object of Resentment: it fell Calm: the Boats were sent after the Schooner; when Pascali found they wou'd Board him, before the Boats reach'd his Vessel, he got away from the other Side of her, and push'd for the Shore: the Schooner was then two or three Gun Shot from it: The English Boat follow'd him, with a young Midshipman in her; as she approach'd the Shore the Ship made a Signal, by a Whiff in her Ensign, for the Boat to come on Board; she did not see it; when the Captain with his Glass suspected the Boat was near the Shore he fired a Gun to call her off; she did not hear the first; but eagerly follow'd and landed; the Captain fir'd a second Gun, which the Boat's Crew then saw, and immediately quitted the Shore: The Admiral, and his Majesty's Ships are equally cautious of giving Offence or offering any Indignity to his most Christian Majesty's Forts, or Settlements: but the Impetuosity of young Men, who feel the Insults their Sovereign meets with, and the Robberies committed by Pirates on his loyal Subjects, by his rebellious ones, and knowing the great Protection which has hitherto been extended to the North Americans in Guadaloupe and Martinique may be precipitated by Zeal beyond a proper bound; this I beleive was the Fact in the present Case; they have been censur'd for their Misconduct; of which the Captain and Ship were innocent: In Respect to what your Excellency says, of Ships chasing within reach of your Forts 'tis impossible at Sea to judge exactly of the Distances a Gun will throw a Shot; if ever it happens that they approach too near, it is never meant to insult the Court of Versailles, but to annoy and seize a rebellious Subject.

In Regard to what your Excellency is pleased to call Personalities; it was to The Governor, and not to Count D'Arbaud in his private Character, that I wrote; and when, Sir, I found that no Redress was given to my Master's Subjects tho' repeatedly demanded, and that I receiv'd only from the Governor, Assurances that he had given Orders, which I repeatedly found were not executed, it was the Governors ineffetual Authority, I thought it my Duty to censure and arraign, and not the Heart of The Count D'Arbaud.

As to M^r. Gordon's Complaint as he stated it to me, before he went to Guadaloupe, and since his Return from thence, which have been transmitted to England your Excellency must excuse me if I say his Complaint did not meet with the Success I had every Reason to have expected, and that the Commandants of Quarters had greatly misbehav'd; what became of the Soldiers when put on Board his Vessel, or why they did not protect her for my Master's Subjects I am, I own, at a Loss to account for.³

The Duty I owe the best of Masters, my Sovereign, will ever prompt me to the utmost Exertion of my Abilities and Power for his Service, & That of his faithful loyal Subjects; and if in the Discharge of that Duty, Zeal shou'd lead me to Ideas or Expressions of Warmth, they cannot be more disagreeable to a Governor to receive, than they are to myself to be compell'd to write. I have the Honor to be [&c.]

CAPTAIN SIR GEORGE COLLIER, R.N., TO LORD GEORGE GERMAIN

My Lord

Rainbow at Halifax 6th Dec^r 1777

It is with very sincere Satisfaction I am able to acquaint your Lordship, that the valuable & important Fisherys of Canso, & L'Isle Madame have been so well protected by His Maj^s Ships which I stationd for that purpose, that not a single Vessel has been taken by the Rebel Privateers during the whole Season, (tho numbers of those Pirates appear from Time to Time;) the Fishery for this Year is at an end, & the Ships all saild for their respective Destinations.

My burning the Enemies Magazines at Machias which they were collecting last Summer for the purpose of invading this Province,¹ seems to have had the good Effect for which that Enterprize was undertaken; & their having remaind very Quiet ever since, gives us strong Reasons to imagine they have laid aside that Intention: how far the unfortunate Defeat of Gen^l Burgoyne & his Army may stimulat^e them to undertake fresh Outrages, must be decided by Time; I beg Permission however to assure your Lordship that in the Department committed to my Direction the most vigilant & unremitted Attention shall be continu'd for promoting his Majestys Service, & the Defence of this part of his Dominions.

The communication with both England & New York from hence, is so uncertain, that we are sometimes several months before any news is receivd from either; I mention this, as my Wishes flatter me with a probability that from your Lordships Goodness in answering my first Letter (near a twelvemonth ago) I may experience other Proofs of your Condescension to 3 or 4 others I have had the Honor of writing You since that Time; & which from the favorable news they contain, may possibly make me Happy with the Assurances of your Lordships approbation & Protection.

With the most profound Respect & the sincerest Attachment, I have the Honor to remain [&c.]

RIVINGTON'S NEW-YORK LOYAL GAZETTE, SATURDAY, DECEMBER 6, 1777

New-York, December 6.

We learn by Mr. Seton of Long-Island, who arrived here in the Cartel from Boston last Monday, that the cargo which he brought with him from Cadiz in the brig Two Friends, by licence from his Excellency, consisted of salt, port wine, claret, Florence wine, rota, tent, heres or sherry wine of five different qualities, mountain, Cordials (in 3000 bottles) balsam peru, jesuits bark, gum elemi, licorice root, balsam capivi, jalap, gum amoniac, &c. That the sherry sold from 45 to 50 l. lawful per quarter cask, the salt at 5 dollars per bushel; and the jesuits bark at 4 l. lawful or 3 l. sterling per pound, and the whole produced upwards of 50,000 l. lawful or 70,000 l. New-York currency.

The above mentioned brig and cargo were taken on the 10th of August last by the Gloucester privateer, John Coulston commander,¹ mounting 18 carriage guns and 10 swivels with 130 men, in lat. 39 50 long. 59, and was sent as a prize to Cape Anne, where the cargo was sold.

VICE ADMIRAL VISCOUNT HOWE TO PHILIP STEPHENS

Number 47.
Sir,

Eagle Off Chester
December the 6th: 1777.

The Dutton and Grosvenor being not in Condition to be retained longer as Transports in the Service, and therefore ordered to England; I take the Opportunity to transmit, for being communicated to their Lordships, the enclosed Duplicates of my Letters of the 23^d. of November and 2^d. of this Instant, lately sent by the Eagle Packet.¹

I have to add, respecting the State of the Squadron assembled in this River for the late conjunct Services, that the Somerset and Nonsuch are ordered to Rhode-Island; And the Isis to New York: The last for taking in the Main-Mast there provided in consequence of Directions given some Time since; And to repair the other Damages caused by the Enemy's Fire on different Occasions, so far as the State of the port, with respect to the floating Ice which collects at this Season, may allow.

The Bristol will probably precede the Eagle on the Passage to Rhode-Island; As my Stay here will be requisite as late as the Circumstances of the Navigation in this River will permit.

By the enclosed Copy of the Instructions² given to Captain Hamond, who is moved up to Philadelphia in the Roebuck, their Lordships will be advised of the purpose and Appointment of the Frigates to be left under his Direction during my proposed Absence

The S^t Albans, which lately arrived from New-York, has been stationed in Chesapeake-Bay Under the Regulations herewith also transmitted for facilitating the Arrangements specified in Captain Parker's Letter of the 2^d. Ultimo,³ thereunto annexed.

Commodore Hotham having communicated in his last Advices of the 18th. of November⁴ from New York, some particulars respecting the supposed Intentions of the Rebels for annoying that post, a Copy of the same is likewise sent herewith; That their Lordships may be informed concerning the Precautions the Commodore has taken in his Department thereupon.

I understand that a proportion amounting to about Three Thousand Tons of Transports, which by the General's⁵ Desire has been prepared to proceed under Convoy of the Apollo, are intended for conveying a Corps of Troops to New-York, when the farther Operations of the Campaign have terminated in this Province.

The Judgment and proceedings of the Courts Martial on Occasion of the Loss of the Augusta and Merlin are sent under a separate Cover by this Conveyance.⁶ Captain Reynolds returning to England in the Dutton, accepts the Care of these Dispatches. And it is incumbent on me to add my Opinion, that he conducted the different Services with which he has been charged since his Arrival in this Country, with peculiar Spirit and propriety. I am [&c.]

Sir

Martinique, 6 December 1777

I learn with utmost surprise that one of your coast guard ships has just seized the brigantine Union belonging to Sieur Seigenton, a merchant from this Island, dispatched with all necessary documentation and a deed of ownership in perfect order. I shall not accept the irregularities, the injustice, nor even the violence of such a procedure that can be regarded only as an act of piracy or as a means used to disrupt the peace and harmony existing between our two nations, and to create a war. I shall confine myself to asking your Excellency only for the return of the ship and for punishment of those who seized it, or to advise me whether our two nations are at war, so that I may act accordingly. I have the honor of advising his Excellency that a refusal by him could be regarded only as an act of hostile intent. I urge him to weigh carefully its consequences and disadvantages.

Baron de Fagan, my aide-de-camp, who will hand my letter to your Excellency, will be responsible for its response, which will determine my course of action. I have the honor to be

CAPTAIN ANDREW S. HAMOND, R.N., TO CAPTAIN JOHN LINZEE, R.N.

By Captain Andrew Snape Hamond &c.

Whereas the Lord Viscount Howe Commander in Chief of His Majesty's Ships and Vessels in North America, has appointed the Pearl to be one of the Ships intended to remain in this River for the Protection of the Town of Philadelphia; and to keep an open Communication therewith. You are therefore hereby required and directed as soon as the Transports intended for Philadelphia shall have left Billingsport to take the first opportunity of passing the upper Chevaux de frize to the Anchorage off Mud Island, where you are to give all possible assistance to Lieutenant Barker employed in raising the Ship Juliana, a Navy Victualer; and if it should appear that there is but little prospect of succeeding, so as to bring the Ship to Town, immediate attention is to be given to get as much of the Cargoe out as possible, before the Ice forms in the River; and for this purpose the Ship may be destroyed if the Cargoe cannot otherways be taken out.

Sir

During the Absence of the Army from the Town it is to be apprehended that the Enemy may avail themselves of that opportunity and attempt to make a diversion by sending Fire Machines down the River under Cover of their Row Gallies to annoy the Ships at the Wharfs. It is therefore my desire that a particular attention is paid to the Night Guard; which is to be under the direction of an Officer from each Ship alternately; and the Cornwallis Galley is to be advanced in the Evening as a Rendezvous for the Boats during the Ebb-tide. You will therefore please to make this known to the Captains of the Ships advanced with you, and take the trouble of seeing that the Order is punctually complied with. I am &c.

CAPTAIN WILLIAM GARNIER, R.N., TO VICE ADMIRAL CLARK GAYTON

Sir,

I think it Necessary to inform You that being cruizing off Point Isabella, the North side of Hispaniola on Thursday the 27th: November, I discover'd two Sail in Shore of me, Viz^t: a Brigantine and a Topsail Schooner, at half past One P.M we gave chase at 6 P.M lost sight of them in a heavy squall of Rain, it remained almost Calm the whole Night, in the Morning at day light we saw the Brigantine in shore of us, it being then very light Airs of Wind from the SW I hoisted out the Barge & Cutter,

Man'd and armed them and sent them after the Brigantine the [they] came up with her about 7 O'clock when the Brig fired a Broadside and several more Shot at the Boats, on which I made the Signal to call them back, soon after daylight we likewise discovered a large Ship standing to the Eastward which we found to be a French Frigate, we continued the Chace after the Brig, she standing in for the Shore at 10 AM we fired a shot at her, though not within Gun shot about 10 Minutes after which the French Frigate fired a shot, at a great distance a stern of us, on which I sent the Second Lieu^t on board her, to Know if that shot was fired at us, or if he meant it as an insult to the British Flag, likewise to Know if he was ordered to protect the Americans in the open Seas, the Captain returned for Answer that he did not mean to insult the British Flag nor did he fire the Shot at us but that his Orders were to protect all Nations in sight of his Colours and that he was cruizing there for that purpose In this particular Instance the Brigantine rowed away from us it being little or no Wind and so near the Shore that I did not think it prudent to follow her any further, she got within a Reef where the Ship cou'd not come near enough to reach her with our Shot and I found her too Strong for our Boats—

You may recollect when I received my last Orders I asked You if I shou'd meet any Vessels under the protection of a French Frigate whether I shoud stop them, and search them or Not, when You positively told me No, but had You not given me those Orders I should have thought it indispensably my duty to have taken the Americans when ever I meet them in the open Sea, notwithstanding any protection I am [&c.]

P S I am likewise to inform You that the Brig had rebel Colours flying from 8 O'clock in the Morning. on the 5th: Ins^t: I spoke the Inconstant a French Frigate of 32 Guns with 3 Sail of Transports under her Convoy and Yesterday I saw a Frigate going down with four Sail more of large Ships Long. 59, W. fell in with the Privateer Brig Lyon, Ishmael Hardy, Master, who carried 16 four and six Pounders, above 20 Swivels, and 125 Men.¹ The Maesgwyn engaged the Lyon five Hours, within Musket Shot, when both Vessels being greatly shattered, and the former having most of her running Rigging, and all her standing Rigging, except the Mizen Shrouds, shot away, they agreed to stay by one another to refit, which took them up the remainder of the Afternoon, and all the Night. At Day-break they engaged again within Pistol Shot for two Hours, in which Time the Maesgwyn fired above 80 Broad-sides, but having 10 of her Men killed and wounded, above four Feet Water in her Hold, occasioned by the Shot Holes, (being hull'd in above 40 Places) and her Rigging again cut away, she was obliged to submit to the Privateer, and was carried into Salem, New-England.² Her cargo consisted of 170 Puncheons of Rum, 140 Casks of bottled Liquor, 1000 Bushels of Salt, some Cheese, Tripe, &c. Above 50 Casks of Rum were entirely started, and much of the bottled Liquor, by the Shot which passed through her. The Privateer was so much damaged that it broke up her Cruize, her lower Masts being so wounded, that the first Fresh of Wind after the Engagement carried them both away.

COLONEL SAMUEL B. WEBB'S ORDERS

On Board the Schuyler,
Tuesday Evening, 9 December, 1777.

The several Vessels under Convoy and in Company with the Schuyler are carefully to keep company—never to be out of hail ahead. The Schuyler will take care to shorten sail as occasion may require.

The signal for landing by night will be a false fire—by day, setting the Ensign; immediately the troops to be ready as fast as possible to step into the boats.

Capt. Wooster¹ of the Grenadiers, with the three right hand divisions to disembark and cover the landing of the detachment. He will take care to advance double sentinels in front.

Capt. Hart² on landing will form on the right; the others in course. Capt. Moseley³ at the left of the Line.

So soon as the signal is given a profound silence to take place, none but the commanding officers of Divisions to be suffered to speak a loud word.

After landing, the Adjutants will see that they are properly formed in subdivisions; the Artillery will form in front between the Grenadiers and the Column; no man then to leave his ranks on any pretence.

The Colonel has the greatest confidence in the Troops he has now to command, and doubts not that they will do Honor to their Officer as well as themselves, for which it is absolutely necessary there should be a strict compliance with orders. Those that do it will receive the treatment due to good soldiers; but on the least variation, necessity will oblige the commanding officer to make public example of the offenders.

PENNSYLVANIA SUPREME EXECUTIVE COUNCIL TO

In Council

Sir

Lancaster December 9th 1777

I rec^d. your letter of the 4th Nov^r which I suppose should be Dec^r.¹—and laid it before Council—I am truly sorry, that we were under the necessity to burn any part of our Fleet this and the evacuation of Red bank has given the Enemy great advantages over us. however it is folly to repine and I hope in the end It will be found to be of no real advantage to them.—

I had little doubt of furnishing the Fleet with whiskey from hence some time since for which purpose I employed M^r. Adam Kimmel to procure four Hdgs. and impress two waggons to carry them and 180 pairs of Shoes and stockings for the seamen but he has met with uncommon delay in procuring waggons I hope however they will soon be with you

At present we have little or no money in the Treasury but expect it will be replenished in a few days, have therefore kept the paymaster M^r. Bradfth. until some can be signed—Some censures have been past part on our fleet which I have now to believe they do not deserve A letter which I rec^d. from the Commodore² and if I have time shall answer by this opportunity explains some matters very fully and convinces me that if the pass has been lost thro any mismanagement it does not lay with the officers and men of ou[r] fleet—I am [&c.]

Whereas you have represented to me that the Crew of His Majestys Armed Ship, under your Command, suffer very much by the Weather at this inclement Season for want of suitable cloathing and there not being a sufficient Assortment of Navy Slops in the Squadron to answer their necessary demands. You are hereby authorised and required to cause the Purser of His Majestys Armed Ship under your Command to Purchase such Slops as may be requisite for the Use of the Ships Company; taking care the same is done at as easy a Rate as possible, and that they are good and fit, for the purpose. The Purser will be also to procure proper Vouchers for the Slops he may so purchase, and the Prices paid by him for the different Articles are to be charged against the Men receiving any thereof upon the Ships Books in a distinct Column under the head of purchased Slops.

CAPTAIN ANDREW S. HAMOND, R.N. TO CAPTAIN SIR JAMES WALLACE, R.N.

By &c &c.

The present appointment of the Experiment being to prevent the Rebels from obstructing the passage of the Chevaux de Frize, or Sunk-frames, at Billingsport; it is necessary that you continue on that Service as long as from the state of the Weather you may judge to be practicable, or until the Ships allowed to Sail from this Port 'till the 24th Instant shall have passed by; You are then hereby required to proceed down towards the Capes of the Delaware, to prevent the Rebels from getting Supplies into any of the lower parts of the River; and to prevent Ships and Vessels from attempting to come up to the Town whilst you judge that Navigation to be impracticable.

When the Season of the Year shall be still more advanced, and it appears to You necessary for the safety of the Ship to quit the Delaware entirely, You are then to Cruize off of Egg Harbour, and along the Coast to the Southward at such distances from the Shore as circumstances and the Weather will allow of; or as you may judge most proper for the purpose of intercepting any of the Enemy's Armed Vessels, or the Trade (which from Information) the Rebels intend and expect to carry on during the Winter Months, in the different Inlets, between Chesepeak Bay, and the Delaware.

And whereas Intelligence has been received that a Dutch Ship is now loading at St^t Eustatius, which is intended for little Egg-Harbour, and is expected to arrive there about the 10th. January, the Cruizing off that Port, when the Weather allows you no longer to remain with Safety in the Delaware, is, therefore, to be the first Object of your attention.

As soon as the Season of the Year will admit of your laying with safety within the Capes of the Delaware, which will be towards the latter end of February, the River being by that time allways clear of the Ice, it is material that you use your best endeavors to attain the Anchorage between the Brown and Brandy Wine Sands, giving me the earliest account of possible of your arrival, and wait there until you are relieved by one of the Frigates from hence, or until You shall receive further Orders.

In case you should meet with any Ships at Sea, that have Dispatches for the Admiral, or have Orders to join the Fleet in America; You are to acquaint them His Lordships Rendezvous is Rhode Island, until about the middle of March; after that time in the River Delaware.

The Several Chevaux de Frize Pilots ordered to the Experiment are to be put on-board any of His Majestys Ships that you may meet with bound hither in the Spring of the Year, but no Merchant Ship unless sufficiently Armed is to be permitted to come up the River until you shall have ascertained that the Passages of the Chevaux de Frize, has not been further obstructed by the Enemy during the absence of the Men of War.

The Admiral judging it necessary to cause an alteration to be made in the Monthly Change of Signals established for the purpose of the Ships under his Lordship's Command to know each at meeting, You will please to take notice that those

Signals intended for the months of March and September are now to be used instead of those for January and July as is expressed below, and that the Alteration is to take place the 1st of January next.¹

The Phoenix of 44 Guns & Emerald of 34 with two Tenders are now lying in Potomac between Sandy point and Quantico Creek—Capt Hyde Parker the Commander has issued a Manifest signifying his Desire to exchange Gold & Silver for Provisions, and in case the Inhabitants refuse a sale, his Resolution to take by force every thing wanted by his King's Ships—They have done no deed in their Course up the River except by receiving some fugitive Negroes. But as they have been disappointed in their Expectations of trading, it is expected they will endeavour to pillage the Inhabitants and destroy the exposed Tobacco warehouses on their rout Our people are well disposed to give Battle to the Ravagers wherever they may land, but We have no Arms to equip Men for the Stations which ought to be guarded, And this County is so out of Water, that the Ships can sail to any point much sooner than the Men, who have Arms; can reach it by marching—From the last Accounts there are about one hundred Marines on board the two Ships, And its expected there are three other Vessells of War coming up the River, Under these Circumstances I have been requested to apply to your Exclly. for 60 Stand of Arms to be sent to Portobacco as soon as possible, which You may be assured shall be returned whenever the Occasion for them ceases. THE MARYLAND JOURNAL AND THE BALTIMORE ADVERTISER, TUESDAY, JANUARY 27, 1778

Charles-Town, (S. Carolina) Dec. 9.

Last Sunday morning several guns were fired off this harbour, but the air was so foggy that nothing could be discerned from hence till 9 o'clock, when a boat appeared rowing in over the bar. By 10 o'clock the weather had cleared up a little, so that two men of war could be seen coming down from the northward, the Hinchinbrook anchored at the bar, and another ship coming up from the southward. At 11 o'clock the boat, before observed, got up to town, with eleven men in her, who informed, that they belonged to the ship Friendship, William Towell,¹ master, from Boston for this port; but that having been chased by the two men of war, and finding it impossible to escape the brigantine, they had quitted their vessel early in the morning, which was taken possession of by one of the Hinchinbrook's boats, while another pursued them. At 12 o'clock, the Hinchinbrook weighed from the bar, and stood to the northward, and in the evening the four sail were seen standing the same course.

Yesterday morning, the three ships and brigantine were seen by the pilots, all at anchor a little to the southward of Sullivan's Island. At 2 o'clock they were observed from town, the largest (supposed the Lizard) near Sullivan's Island, the other (supposed the Perseus) and the Hinchinbrook, under sail, more to the southward, and standing in; the prize std more southerly and farther out; and another ship coming from the southwestward before the wind. At 4 o'clock the fog was so thick, that only the northernmost ship could be discovered till at anchor, and that the ship and brig which had been standing in, had put about, and were then standing off to the N.E.

This day has proved as foggy as most of the past: But, at 8 o'clock this morning, the ship (supposed the Lizard) appeared to remain at anchor, with the ship that came from the southward yesterday afternoon, which is also a man of war, to the northward of her; where they remained at 4 o'clock. The ship and brigantine which stood off last evening, have not been seen to day; nor the prize ship, which probably has been sent off for New York, or burnt. Four o'clock, a smart westerly wind rising and clearing the horizon, the two men of war at anchor got under way, and, at five, continued standing off to the eastward.

Sir,

9th Dec^r 1777.

I beg leave to acquaint their Lordships that nothing particular has occur'd since my last Letter of 17th November¹ (a duplicate of which is inclosed) except my having received intelligence by Captⁿ Locker of the Lowestoffe and Captⁿ Montais of the Stork,² that a great Number of Troops and some Ships of the Line are daily expected to arrive at Hispaniola, which I think is my duty to communicate to their Lordships as early as possible,³ as I advised their Lordships in my last that I proposed purchasing a Vessel and giving M^r Jordan the Command of her, to reward him for his Gallant behaviour in the Racehorse when he took the privateer of so much superior Force, I therefore beg leave to acquaint their Lordships That I have purchased a small privateer Brig⁴ taken by the Lowestoffe and called her the Lowestoffes prize, compleated her Complement to the Establishment of a Cutter, and Commissioned M^r Jordan for her, by whom this will be handed to their Lordships with the intelligence inclosed; and I further beg leave to recommend M^r Jordan and his Officers to their Lordships favor, in particular the Surgeon's Mate now with him in the Lowestoffes prize and who was in that station on board the Racehorse at the time the Action happen'd, when his brave behaviour prevented M^r Jordan from being Kill'd: The Brig M^r Jordan commands was built at Liverpoole, is about 70 Tons, 3 Years Old, carries 8 carriage & 12 Swivel Guns and is reckoned a very fast sailor her price £1,000 Sterling including her Ordnance & Ordnance Stores & the Naval Stores as she now stands compleatly rigged

& fit to proceed to Sea, and I have directed the proper Officers to pay for her, which I hope will meet their Lordships approbation⁵

I also beg leave to acquaint their Lordships that I designed to have sent the Lord Amherst Ordnance Transport to Convoy such of the Trade as might be ready to sail the 31st: Ins^t: but in consequence of my having received a Petition from the principal Merchants & Planters of this Island (a Copy of which is enclosed, setting forth that there will be very few Ships ready at that time, and requesting that I wou'd postpone the sailing of the Convoy untill the 20th: January from Bluefields) I have put off their sailing as they request & have strengthened the Convoy by ordering the Lynx Captⁿ: Parry to sail with the Lord Amherst I am [&c.]

December 10

MAJOR GENERAL EYRE MASSEY TO LORD GEORGE GERMAIN

My Lord,

Halifax 10th December 1777.

My last letter to your Lordship, was the 20th September, since which no safe conveyance has gone from hence.

After Major Small’s return here with his Detachment,¹ Lieut: Governor Arbutnot & I, form’d a plan for taking Post at the entrance of Saint John’s River. I order’d from this place a framed Blockhouse ready to erect, and sent four Six Pounds, with a proportion of Stores; and at the desire of the Inhabitants, I have given the Command to my Major of Brigade; as he has a thorough knowledge of his profession, as well as of the people and the Country.

This plan has frustrated that of the Rebels, who had prepared every thing at Machias, for to be beforehand with me; and are now assembled under the Command of one Allen at Machias,² where they have mounted Cannon and thrown up Lines; but yesterday I had a letter from Brigade Major Studholme,³ who is only a Captain in Lieutⁿ: Colonel Goreham’s Provincial Corps,⁴ informing me that he has work’d day and night to get his Post in proper Order: and that with his abattis and pickets, he has no fear of quitting his Post, by any force that can come that way: he informs me of one Crabtree a Pirate⁵ landing some Men out of an eight Gun schooner, to destroy that whole settlement, but instantly fled on hearing that Captain Studholme had taken post there.

I now beg leave to assure your Lordship, that all last summer, the coast of this Province, was infested with small Pirate vessels, which took several Merchantmen in sight of our Light house; nay had the insolence to come into the North West Arm; and by good information, one Leech has made ten thousand Pounds, by taking English Merchantmen last summer—Were I not to report this to your Lordship, I should be as great a Rebel as Leech.

I have often mention'd to the Lieutenant Governor while the retaken Ships were sold here, the Rebellion would never be put an end to; for they are instantly bought up, & sent out on the same wicked plan to distress our trade.

The Gage an arm'd vessel,⁶ Sir William Howe⁷ left here under my Command, lately run on shore one of those little Pirate sloops; she was put up to be sold; when I heard of the Rebel set that wanted to buy her I order'd her to be bought for His Majesty's use; as I shall man her well, to watch the motions of the Rebels; and as Sir George Collier, who now commands the Navy Department has said, whatever Prizes either the Gage or that sloop take; the first King's Ship shall take them from them; which has damp'd the Officers, who have the Command of them.

I most humbly pray your Lordship will enclose me, three or four letters of Marque and I will answer for it, I will keep the Bay of Fundy safe, which is the protection of this Province.

Lieut^t Governor Arbuthnot and myself have ever agreed in that point, as well as in almost every other, and I much regret he lost the Command of His Majesty's Ships here; as he is a most excellent Officer, and had he the management; those trifling Pirates, dare not have appear'd on this Coast; without meeting the fate they merit.

General Burgoyne's misfortune has given new spirits to all the ill affected people of this Province; and as no Officer in the King's Service knew the Country, General Burgoyne had to march through better than myself.

The late Lord Howe's⁸ movements with an American Army (who I had the honour to serve with last war) should have been adopted: which was: no Baggage, nor no heavy Artillery: had that method been pursued, a flying Army would have got safe to Albany.

I must say without any Orders, I sent Two Detachments, towards the Eastern Coast, to cause Alarms, as much to employ and keep at home their Banditti, for to favour the Northern Army as any other motive; though I could not have expected to succeed by such small Detachments, when such numbers, might have appear'd against them; but on such circumstances, the Officers Commanding had my Orders, how to act; so that I did not risk the King's Troops.

I have one more remark, that I think is my duty, to lay before your Lordship; and have no other motive I declare, but the honour I bear my King, and the old Country.

All the goods brought here in prizes, have been sold at an exorbitant price for to supply the Rebels; & that trade has gone on here, though I have as often spoke of it; and some people told me they did not think it my business.

But your Lordship may enquire of M^r Newton,⁹ the Collector of this Port: now in England; and he left a Deputy, M^r Binney¹⁰ here, who seems full as well inclin'd to serve that side. The method taken, is, for to give clearances to the Ships from this to Liverpool; (a most Rebellious place in this Province) or to any of the Ports in the Bay of Fundy; and thus have the Enemies, of Great Britain been constantly supplied.

Governor Legge¹¹ will inform your Lordship, that he knew the two above mention'd Men too well, to let such villainy go on.

I am certain no method will prevent it; but small armed vessels, under the Order of Lieut^r Governor Arbuthnot, and if Lieutenant Russell, who is a favourite of M^r Arbuthnot's, had the Command of a small well arm'd vessel; his knowledge of the Coast, as well as of the people, who assist the Rebellion: I will engage to say, he will do more service for his Country, than any ten Frigates on this Coast. I am [&c.]

Providence Dec^r 10th 1777

In answer to yours of the 28^h. Nov^r last must inform you, that We have settled an exchange of the Prisoners captured in the Syren, with Sir Peter Parker, upon the following Conditions—That all the Prisoners with him belonging to this State should be released, and after that is effected, to exchange the Remainder, for Prisoners belonging to any of the United States, who were taken in Armed Vessels—in consequence of which We have sent to Sir Peter Parker 70 of the People belonging to the Syren, in return we had 29 Men sent belonging to the Warren Privateer Silas Howel Commander including the Officers¹—Eight Persons belonging to the Buckram Privateer²—Five Persons belonging to the Tartar Privateer³ (which were taken in a Prize⁴)—One belonging to the Belona,⁵ & one to the Freedom Privateer⁶ all belonging to your State—And eleven Persons taken in Trading Vessels—so that we have not released at present any of the People belonging to this State, who have been taken in Armed Vessels, they being at Halifax and New York.—Sir Peter Parker hath informed us that he hath wrote to those places for the Prisoners belonging to this State, of whom we sent him a List; and that they should be released.—

As our Ports are so intirely blocked up, that we have no opportunity to bring in any Prisoners it must be left intirely to the event of chances, our ever getting any to release those belonging to this State.—Therefore we must before we can give you any encouragement to have any of the Syren's People have those belonging to this State released, and after that is done We are very willing that the remainder should be disposed of for Releasing any of our Brethren who are in Captivity.—I am [&c.]

VICE ADMIRAL VISCOUNT HOWE TO PHILIP STEPHENS

Number 48.

Eagle Delaware [River]

Sir,

December the 10th: 1777.

By your Letter of the 20th. of August,¹ wherein you acknowledge the Receipt of mine of the 5th: and 8th: of June,² I am advised of the Directions the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty have been pleased to signify for a Number of Artificers to be sent from Halifax to New-York, when required, upon the Plan I had the Honor of submitting for their Lordships' approbation, in my Letter of the 5th: of June above-mentioned. My Stay in the Delaware has prevented my return to New-York in time, for making the necessary Arrangements on which that proposition was founded, this Winter.

I am in the same Letter apprised of the Supply of Naval Stores, Slops, Beds and Marine Cloathing ordered to be sent in the Grampus Store-Ship; together with a Quantity of Portable Soup, which the Commissioners for Sick and Hurt have been directed to furnish for the Fleet and Naval Hospital. But I have not yet received Notice, that any Provision has been made, as I have requested, with respect to an Extra Supply of Medicines for being distributed to the Surgeons of the Ships of War, who cannot be furnished with that essential Article in any other Manner.

The Expence of Naval Stores in this Fleet being casual, I could at no Time limit the Proportions for establishing a Rule to govern the Supplies thereof. The Number and Class of Ships varying, the Dimensions, as well as Quantities, of each Specie of Stores requisite, became still more uncertain. I have communicated to the Navy Board the best general Expedient I could suggest thereon, in a Recommendation to have the Supplies (of which the different sized Cordage is most in demand) furnished in Advance; And urged the Utility of having the Ships of the higher Rates stored above the proportion for foreign Service, that the Surplus might be deposited on their Arrival, for future Occasions.

I am yet uninformed of the Particulars arrived in the Store-Ships with the Venus. I expect to find those with the other larger Store-Ships at Rhode Island; As the floating Ice which begins to collect at this Season, will not admit of their Stay at New-York. But I do not apprehend the Distribution, or other Disposal of the Stores, can now be made for the Return of the Ships to England, in the Time by their Lordships' Intentions pointed out.

You inform me that their Lordships were greatly astonished to find in the Copies of the Intelligence transmitted from Sir Peter Parker, that the Number of Frigates and other Armed Vessels recited in your said Letter of the 20th. of August,³ had escaped at the same Time from Boston and the adjacent Ports; their Lordships not having before received the least Intimation from me or the Rear Admiral that so considerable a Force was assembled or fitting in those Ports. And you add your Sentiments of the Alarm which that Incident must have spread amongst His Majesty's trading Subjects, and the Difficulty you apprehend their Lordships will be under in providing for so unexpected an Event.

It is incumbent on me upon this Occasion to observe, that their Lordships have been furnished with the earliest Notice of such Advices as I had ever Reason to believe were well founded. And I must beg leave to represent, that if their Lordships have been induced to conclude it would be a Matter of little Difficulty to establish Channels of Communication for procuring Intelligence from any Port, District, or Country in possession of the Rebels; They have had very different Information of the Temper and Principle of the disaffected Colonists, from any I have been able to obtain. The Sentiments of the King's well-disposed Subjects are so certainly known in all the Provinces, and the Rigours exercised against them such, as in a great Measure prevent the Communication of all timely and correct Intelligence.

I have always conceived the first Object of my Instructions to be, for co-operating with the Army in the Services the General is to undertake: And perfectly comprehend the Propriety of that Injunction as the Means of keeping a Fleet upon the Coasts, must solely depend upon the Extent of Country possessed by the Land-Forces, on this Continent.

But the Progress of the Army in the Provinces where only those Inhabitants who reject every tendency of Reconciliation, are in Authority, has not released the Ships of War from the constant Attendance on the Movements of the Army which was first requisite. The Means to preserve the Communication open with the interior parts of the Country (in some Cases many Leagues above the Entrance of the River leading thereto) continue to occupy the Ships in an increased Degree. And until the Army is competent to insure such Communication, the Deficiency must be furnished from the Fleet.

The Squadrons stationed at New-York, Rhode Island and in the Delaware, are Examples of this Necessity subsisting without Intermission. The rest of the Ships have been disposed (as their Lordships have seen by the Returns) either for commanding the Navigation of Chesapeake-Bay, protecting the Coasts of Nova Scotia and port of Halifax; preventing, as much as may be, an unrestrained Use of the Harbours of the Southern Colonies: Or have been stationed off the Port of Boston and the more Northern parts of the New England Provinces.

I understand I am admonished by the Tenor of your said Letter, that this latter Service has not been adequately performed.

I acknowledge the Truth of the Allegation: But must add, that the Incompetency of the Provision made in the other Instances will be (for the most part) equally observable, when the Rebels may, by farther Experience, have better learnt to avail themselves of their Advantages. Their Lordships, however, adverting to the nautic Circumstances of the Case, will, I trust, not deem me reprehensible on that Account.

I am to recommend to their farther Consideration, that the Number of Ships assigned for these Services, large as it is confessedly to be reckoned, will be found inadequate to the proposed End; If the Appointments of the Ships are esteemed as requisite as I conceive, for the several purposes.

The passage to or from the Fitting port and Stations of many of the Ships at different Seasons of the Year, is, in point of Time, a Voyage. The continued Detention of those on the detached Services without a Change, which their Number is not sufficient regularly to admit, produces the unavoidable Consequences of Debility in the Crews as well as impaired Condition of the Ships.

The Appointment of the Ships whilst in port being in many Instances not less military than of those employed on distant Services; little timely Relief can be afforded to the last. Whence it follows that when their Water and Provisions are nearly expended, they must quit their Stations; which remain unsupplied in the mean Time, until they can be replaced alternately from the Fitting Ports: Those assembling at Halifax only excepted.

If their Lordships have seen Cause to disapprove of the Disposition which has been made of the Ships, I shall be happy to receive their Instructions thereon: Not having discovered wherein a more advantageous Arrangement could be made of the Fleet for the general Service with which I have had the Honor to be entrusted.

You have received with my Letter of the 29th of last June,⁴ the only Information I have yet obtained respecting the Intentions of the Rebels to build any Ships of the Class reported; Upon which You have signified their Lordships Commands, that I should transmit the Particulars communicated to me. I am [&c.]

GOVERNOR JOHN DALLING TO LORD GEORGE GERMAIN

(N^o. 10.)

My Lord,

Jamaica 10th. December 1777.

The enclosures, which I have the honor to transmit to your Lordship, are two Letters from Admiral Gayton with the Memorandums of Captain Locker, and my Letter to him after I had laid them before His Majesty's Council here.¹

Although the Admiral has thought proper to send a Vessel of War express to Great Britain in consequence of this intelligence, yet I am certain that neither such Armaments, or indeed any could be smuggled out of the Ports of France without your Lordship's knowledge.—This consideration makes me rest easier than I otherwise should do in our present almost defenceless state, however, your Lordship may depend upon my exerting the utmost efforts of vigilance, and Care not only as to defence, but in obtaining a knowledge of what may be doing at S^t. Domingo.—

When the Power to Sir Basil Keith arrived from the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty I consulted the Attorney General upon it before I granted Letters of Marque, the Power being directed to him as Governor of Jamaica without an alternative—He was of opinion by the terms of my Commission as Lieutenant Governor requiring me to exercise and perform all the powers and directions given to the Captain General and Governor in Chief, that I was fully authorized to grant Letters of Marque, which I have done, but as some doubts may arise in the Court of Admiralty here on claims made of Vessels taken by virtue of such Letters of Marque I submit it to your Lordship whether a new power will not be proper and necessary—

General rains have continued uncommonly favorable, and we cannot but experience a superabundance of all the necessaries of life during the ensuing Year.

Before I conclude this Letter, I beg leave to mention the Bearer Lieutenant Jordan to your Lordship as a young man of Merit, his late conduct in taking a Rebel Privateer of superior Force² has procured him the Acknowledgements of the Legislature here, and the House of Assembly has voted him the sum of Seventy pounds for purchasing a gold hilted Sword as a mark of their Regard, and approbation. I have the honor to be [&c.]

GOVERNOR NICHOLAS COOKE TO REAR ADMIRAL SIR PETER PARKER

State of Rhode Island &c.

Sir

Providence Dec^r 11th 1777—

Your favor of the 1st. instant, & also of the 7th inclosing Letters to L^t Gen^l Burgoyne came to Hand & agreeable to your request they were immediately transmitted to him—

I have charged Cap^t Sayer¹ with the conduct of a Cartel Vessel, with the Petty Officers, & the Remainder of the Crew belonging to the Syren, with some other Prisoners as you will see by the inclosed List, amounting on the whole to [].²—

I have inclosed you a Memorandum of some Prisoners, whom their Friends are desirous should be released—And I will take it as a particular favor, if you would procure their discharge.—

We have made inquiry after Barnabas Hardwright & Thomas Hutchinson, & cannot hear any thing of them, & think it most probable that they have made their escape, as divers Prisoners have gone off, without our consent.—If they come to our knowlege hereafter they shall be sent to you—

We have not permitted M^r Vaughn,³ & the L^t of the Marines,⁴ to go in this Cartel, as we wait for the event of the Negotiation for Mess^{rs}. Hopkins⁵ & Thaxter⁶—As there is a Cartel Vessel going from Boston with a Number of Prisoners for Halifax, it would expedite the Release of the Prisoners there, whom we have wrote for, if you would by the Return of this Cartel, give an Order for their discharge, & suffer them to avail themselves of that Cartel, for their return to Boston.—

As we have sent a larger Number of Prisoners than we have received or wrote for,—We expect that the ballance due to us, remain to be called for at such Times & in such Persons of equal Rank as the fortune of War may put into Y^r Power, who are agreeable to Us;—I am [&c.]

“VOTES AND PROCEEDINGS OF THE HOUSE OF DELEGATES OF THE STATE OF MARYLAND”

[Annapolis] Thursday, December 11, 1777.

Resolved, That the governor and the council be authorised and empowered to take such of the sails and rigging belonging to the ship Defence as may be spared from said ship and are necessary for fitting out the gallies heretofore directed to be built for the protection of our bay and harbours; and also such of her guns and military stores as may be useful and necessary for the said gallies. That they be authorised and empowered to appoint a commodore or commander in chief for said gallies, who shall have the care and superintendance over the whole, and who shall from time to time apply to the governor and the council for their directions. That the governor and the council be requested to cause the ship Defence, together with her tackle, apparel, and furniture, not necessary for the purpose above mentioned, to be sold at public vendue to the highest bidder, for the benefit of the state, the money arising from such sale to be paid to the treasurer of the western shore, subject to the orders of the general assembly, or the governor and the council. That such of the officers belonging to the said ship, who are desirous to continue in the service of the state, shall be retained by the governor and the council at their discretion, and shall have command in the gallies or in the artillery company to be raised for the service of the state. That the sailors on board the said ship shall have their election to remain in the gallies on the pay of this state till their time of service be expired, or be discharged. That the marines on board said ship have their election to serve in the gallies, or be enlisted in the artillery company abovementioned. That the governor and the council be authorised and empowered to settle and adjust, by arbitration or otherwise, the dispute subsisting between the state and captain William Stone, relative to his claim of the brigantine Friendship, or any other matter depending thereon. Sent to the senate for concurrence by Mr. Smoot and Mr. Read.

PETITION OF NEHEMIAH SOMES AND OTHERS TO THE MASSACHUSETTS GENERAL COURT

State of the
Massachusetts Bay

To the Hon^l Council, & Hon^l House of Representatives of said State, in General
Court assembled, [12] December AD 1777—

The Petition of the Subscribers, Agents for the privateer Schooners Speedwell & Active, commanded by Cap^s Greely & Gardner, humbly shews—

That the said Schooners in Company with the State Brig Massachusetts took a certain Ship, called the Johnson,¹ that by Decree of the maritime Court the said Capture was adjudged one half to the State's Brig and the other half to said Schooners equally between them—That by a Resolve of this Hon^l Court passed 10th of October last, Caleb Davis Esq^r was empowered to take, and did accordingly take from said Prize Ship Johnson, four six pound Cannon, and appropriate them to the Use of the State Brig Hazard, the State therein promising to be accountable to the Captors for the same at full Price as should be set on them by three Persons to be appointed for that purpose by the Captors, and the said Davis.—Your Petitioners would further represent, that there are still remaining as part of said Prize, two six pound Cannon, four four pound Cannon, two swivels & two Cohorns; That your Petitioners from the manifest Justice of the Case, as being joint Captors with the State, applied to the Board of War, for as many of the remaining pieces of Ordnance to be appropriated to their Use, as would be equal in Value to the aforesaid four six pound Cannon appropriated to the Use of the State—This reasonable Demand was peremptorily refused by the Board of War, who urged as a reason for their Conduct, that the Resolve aforesaid stipulated, that the said four six pound Cannon used by the State, were to be paid for in money, and the remaining were to be equally divided between the whole.—This Construction of the Resolve, however literally true it may be, is so obviously inequitable, that your Petitioners cannot suppose, that it ever entered into the meaning of your Honors—

And as your Petitioners Consent was never asked to this mode, they humbly apprehend they are not bound to abide by it—

They therefore pray your Honors, that, in furtherance of Justice, and to the restitution of your Petitioners Right, this Hon^l Court would be pleased to direct, that so many of the Cannon remaining on hand of said Prize, be delivered to your Petitioners to ye use of their Constituents, as will ballance the said four six pound Cannon appropriated to the Use of the State as aforesaid.²—And as in Duty bound &c—

Lieutenant Barney of the Frigate Virginia will hand you this—he came from Baltimore with a representation from Captain Nicholson that he was deficient in his Complement of men—we have therefore thought proper to despatch him down to your

Board—in order that you may procure for him 50 or 60 of the seamen belonging to the service now unemployed at Bordentown¹ which we request you will do. The Virginia is under sailing orders² and waits for those men to proceed. As we are very anxious to get her to sea we hope you will give all possible dispatch to this business. There will be occasion for Two or three Waggons to carry down the baggage &c and perhaps you may think best to send provisions along. Those Waggons will be furnished by the Quarter Masters Deputy nearest to you and we will just suggest that the men can go from the head of Elk by Water—you will give Lieutenant Barney suitable instructions which he will obey.

There are now at Baltimore lying loaded with Tobacco on the public account a Ship and a Snow which the Commercial Committee intend sending to France, and would wish them to proceed down the Bay under Convoy of the Virginia.³ But as they are in want of Masters and Crews to navigate them (which it is impossible to procure where they are) we wish you we wish you to engage some proper persons for Masters and Mates and send down with Lieutenant Barney ten Seamen for each of the said Vessels. PRESIDENT JOHN RUTLEDGE TO MAJOR GENERAL ROBERT HOWE

Sir,

December 12th, 1777.

The trade of this port being likely to suffer great injury from the vessels of war, which have for some days past, been in sight of the town. In order to clear the coast and protect the trade, Capt. Biddle has agreed to go on a cruize with the Randolph and several other vessels, engaged by the state, to be put under his command, but it being thought expedient that a number of marines should be embarked in the vessels: the council have advised, that you should be desired to order as many of the continental troops under your command as Capt. Biddle may apprehend to be necessary for this service, to be detached upon it. As I do agree in opinion with the council, I do, therefore, and in pursuance of their advice, request that you will be pleased to give the necessary orders for this purpose,¹ and am

Yours, &c.

Dear Sir:

I received the letter from Your Lordship dated November 12 in which you include that of Señor Marques Gonzales y Castejon, in which His Majesty orders that the frigate called the Volante remain in the river, along with another ship from this department, if I would find it useful, as I interpret His Majesty's intent, that is, to protect this province from assaults which the English were threatening to make as a result of the confiscation, as I informed His Majesty. And the reasons having ceased for now, and because we are on good terms with the Governor of Pensacola, because of this tranquility the frigate the Volante, having begun its voyage and finding itself in the middle of the river, I arranged with its commander that it continue on to Havana. From there, after inspecting its sheathing, which was in poor condition, it would always be able to return here under the following conditions and circumstances, which I will explain to Your Lordship. I already told Your Lordship on another occasion that it would be almost impossible for the frigate to stay here at the expense of this post, but that if it were to be at the expense of that of Havana, it is a protection which I accept and I would like to have, because it would be very useful. Your Lordship also knows that I have asked the King for approval of the small galleys which I am building (the number of which I have reduced to two) which I believe are needed, as I hope His Majesty agrees, since those he has and maintains are already of great help to me, which places me in the position of not needing them so much as the frigate I requested, although I consider them more useful than any other class of warship, since the properties of the vessels and the circumstances of this river suit one another. This is in the supposition that peace continues, since these are enough to command the respect due to the possessions of our sovereign, but if war is declared, Your Lordship knows that I will rise to the occasion. If this happens, since no news of declaration of war would reach here [New Orleans] before that place [Havana], I would be indebted to Your Lordship if in such a case I could then have the said frigate the Volante, and the xebec St. Cristobal, in preference to any other ship due to its being (according to what I have heard) the most proper ship for the maneuvers required by this river. Your Lordship will already know that if I may be allowed to diverge a little from the instructions of His Majesty, who orders that the frigate stay here, it is because I do not want to cause him unnecessary expenses, and I believe that His Majesty will approve this resolution taken solely for the well-being and economy of his royal treasury and not to remove to this department a ship which may serve for the present other purposes of the court. If war is declared and the frigate returned, I would be in debt to Your Lordship and to the governor and his officers for the contribution I have asked from them to provide support to this post, with the extra defensive force she supplies. Your Lordship may always decide what he thinks best, in understanding of which I will agree to and comply with whatever he determines. May Our Lord keep you [&c.] New Orleans, December 12, 1777. I kiss Your Excellency's hand. Your Lordship's most attentive servant Bernardo De Galvez. Sr. Don Juan Baptista Bonet.

[Cape François] 12 December 1777

Admiralty Office of the Cape

Today the twelfth day of the month of December one thousand seven hundred seventy seven; before me Jean Baptiste Estere, king's counselor, lieutenant general of the Cape Admiralty, together with the king's attorney and the clerk of this court: there appeared Sieur Jean Gabarrus, usually residing at Jean Rabel, proprietor and master of the schooner Marie Tapage. Who said and declared that on the 27th of November last at about three o'clock in the afternoon, he was made aware of two English frigates which were under French ensign chasing an insurgent vessel; that said vessel being on the verge of capture it stranded itself in Jean Rabel Bay facing an old guard house where there are two cannons on carriages; that the said two frigates having seen the said vessel aground, they manned two longboats with fifteen men each, and to support their longboats going to seize said vessel the frigates fired round shot without interruption on said insurgent vessel; those cannon balls fell far inland of that bay. The said frigates being broadside and still under French ensign; that he the declarant with other persons following the regulation written and posted on said guard house, having hoisted a white ensign on said guard house and fired a blank cannon shot, and as said two longboats came rowing hard ashore, they fired another round shot ahead. But the longboats being within musket range of said guard house, they fired continuous musketry on the guard house, and the frigates continued to fire round shot on shore. That the said two longboats approached shore by means of their musketry, and their crews, armed with muskets, pistols, and swords, landed in said Jean Rabel Bay, and then went to said guard house and threw the two cannons down. Having removed them from the top of their carriages, they took away and destroyed the French flag. That after this hostility they advanced one quarter of a league inland in search of the crew of said insurgent vessel and having inspected all the neighboring estates and not finding any of said crewmen, they re-embarked in their longboats and went to the insurgent vessel, and having done everything to refloat it and not succeeding, they set it afire and did not leave it until it was entirely burned; then they went aboard his, the declarant's schooner, and after having inspected the same and overturning everything in the hold and examining his ship's papers, they showered him with invective and threatened to take him aboard said frigates to have him garroted since they had asked him several indiscreet questions concerning the troops there might be in the colony and the preparations or movement they might make in this town. To which the declarant responded that he had no answer for them and that he was amazed at their indiscretion. Finally after threatening him roundly, they embarked in their longboat and went on board said frigates, which hoisted the English ensign when they saw that the insurgent vessel was afire.¹ Of which statement the said Sieur Gabarrus requested a copy which we granted him with the consent of the king's attorney and he signed it along with the said king's attorney, us, and the clerk of the court. Signed in the registry: Cabarrus, Dumesnil, Estere, and Payou, Clerk of the Court.²
