A Message from the Skipper

Men of the 123rd Battalion!

This second yearbook of the Battalion is the conclusion of our record and our achievements from the organization of the unit on 28 August 1943 through October 1945.

It was my good fortune to be a member of this splendid unit, first as your executive officer and later as Officer-in-Charge. At no time in my life have I worked with a finer and more capable group of men. Regardless of how you came into the service or what your assignment may have been, I want you to know that you have done your share and have done it well.

You have a lot to remember. You have done your duty. You are richer for the thousand new friends you have made. You went out and put in long hours on the drill-field when you could see no reason for it. You worked hard on jobs which to many of us, not seeing the overall strategy of the war, seemed unnecessary and useless.

But it was worth it! Most of you have lived all your lives in America and maybe you take your freedoms for granted, but anyone who was born and reared outside the United States can really appreciate what freedom can mean to an individual. I tell you it was worth it!

Now let me say quite simply what every American should say to you, "Thanks! men of the 123rd. Good luck and may God bless you all."

F. GRABER

Lt. Comdr. CEC, U.S.N.R.

... And Then There Were None

As the pages of the last year book closed to go to press, most of our jobs were also closing on Eastern and Sand Island. And in the closing of those jobs, it must always be remembered that the "three horses" were always on the job up to the last day. Even while the majority of the men were boarding the USS Hendry for transportation to Oahu, others were bringing to completion the electrical work already started. It was a sad day when the PA 118 pulled out, as subsequent duties taught us so well.

Again we were off for new assignments, training and experience. We had no worries because we knew now that the job did not exist which we could not handle. Just here, something might be said about the men who reported on Midway from the 50th Battalion and, in fact, about all those who reported after we left the states. They have done a swell job and have won their places as full-fledged Win-Place-Show men. They belong.

The trip down was one of the better ones, as we were to learn on the Crockett later. Our bands, boxers and other showmen and the chaplain, made good use of the forward hatch. We arrived at Pearl (the first time we had seen it since we had put in at Honolulu before) and were ferried to Iroquois Point via LCTs.

Our camp for the next four months was the MCAS at Ewa. It was a very efficient Marine Air Station and we found there many of the friends we had made at Midway. It was here that the first Marine WRs were stationed outside the continental limits. There were a lot of parties with real white girls and we had fun.

Before we had even settled down, the Skipper declared a 72-hour liberty for all hands. It was a tossup between going to Hilo by air or spending three days in Honolulu on the beach at Waikiki. (There was a slight increase in mast actions at this time.)

Work began slowly but at last the Inshore Patrol project was finished and the Civilian Housing job abandoned. Just about this time a group was sent to the states to collect our gear. The rest of the personnel were scheduled for two and three day bivouacs — complete with K-rations. Before that some of the men had been put through a jungle warfare school and mine disposal school. On the day we left we were a well-trained battalion.

As the ship made preparations for getting under way, the dentist got his detachment orders and a fire broke out in No. 2 hatch right on top of the Disbursing Officer's safe. But the old PA 148 pulled out on time — the only thing she did right on the whole trip — and we were on our way to the Philippines. We could tell quite a story about the trip. This is just a small part of it. There were the tales of near collisions (some true), of submarines (nothing to it), of enemy planes (maybe), etc. Then there was the group of warships, including one of our heavy cruisers. It was a beautiful sight.

After maneuvering outside Pearl, the convoy formed and we were under way. It was hot. And for once the officers were worse off than the men. It was two weeks before someone discovered that there was a steam vent turned on in the officers' quarters. We did have a little fun, though, showing up ship's company in their "turkey shoot."

May 1, 1945, found us crossing the International Date-line and joining the Order of the Golden Dragon. A few days later we passed close by some of the Japanese held Marshalls. Then it was Eniwetok. Time passed very slowly but it would have been a lot worse if it had not been for the efforts of the Recreation department. They kept the bands going and put on all kinds of shows and smokers. It made all the difference.

In Eniwetok we hove to in the huge lagoon for an overnight stop. A few lucky ones drew liberty passes. They will have to tell their own story. Just after leaving the Marshalls area we passed to the north of Truk. Remembering all the stories we had heard of this Jap Pearl Harbor in the Carolines, we held our breath and shivered a bit, in spite of the sun.

Once more we were in the midst of thousands of ships. We did not count them but who had ever before seen that many crowded into one harbor? This was Ulithi. We did not have much of an opportunity to look it over. We just dropped part of our convoy and went on past Yap, moving on until we dropped anchor in Kassal Passage at Babeltohuap in the Palaus. This was still Japanese territory. We waited here until the convoy formed for our last run, to the Philippines. And it was not long before we hit Leyte Gulf. It brought long thoughts of a terrific sea battle fought here not so very long before.

A few hours later and we were off Samar, the end of the journey. We wasted no time in disembarking and getting our camp set up near the air strip. (It seems that we could not get away from the roar of those engines.) As we came ashore at Guiuan (what a liberty town! No Stage Door Canteen) our first impression was the ancient mission church down near the jetty. Later we discovered that it had been built and lavishly adorned with silver over 300 years ago. Maybe that church had something to do with the fact that we consistently found the Filipino people friendly, courteous and honest.

Tents were up in a hurry. For the first time we were using our infantry gear in earnest, especially the helmets. Such niceties as showers, own galley and heads were put up even though this was a temporary camp. Two weeks later we moved over to our own area on Calicoan. It is difficult now to remember what it looked like the first time we went over there. When you compare the before and after pictures, think of what the Filipino says: "The Jap come and move our cattle, our chickens, and our food. The American come and move our island!" We moved the island around until we had the best looking and most comfortable camp on Calicoan.

It was here that we lost Commander Siemer. He left us for an important job in Manila. He was relieved by our own Lt. Commander Graber, whose place as Exec was taken by Mr. Cochrane. At about the same time, the chaplain was relieved, and there was a regular rat race through the Medical Department. We had five different doctors in about two months. Quonsets were now our homes and the heads rejoiced in modern plumbing. The Recreation Department, almost singlehanded, put together a beautiful theater. The Seabag was born again, introducing the Gripe Box, the most popular feature it ever had. Fellows, if you have one of those copies of the Seabag, look up that column. Reading it is just like having Mr. Graber there in front of you.

Survey crews and dock building crews were sent out to other areas and across the street Momo's men were slapping together quonset warehouses in record time. We were laying pipelines, moving coral and going to sick bay to get painted with that purple stuff for heat rash and fungus. It was a pretty good life.

Then the scuttlebutt started to flow again. It was rotation first and then stories about a trip to China or Japan. Maybe at last all that drill, the long hikes, and the carbine practice were going to pay off. It was then that Mr. Graber started speaking to us before the movies to tell us that he did not know any more than we did. We want him to know, though, that we appreciated those talks. He made us feel that it was really our battalion.

Remember the night when we came home from the movies and got the word that the Japanese wanted to surrender? We did not think of new duty that night. Down over the air strip rockets were bursting in air and in our own Ship's Service the beer was free. This was the beginning of the end for the three horses. Work slacked off and there was a lot more time to count points and wonder how long they would stay that high. For the first time we began to believe that we might get home some day.

On August 12, 1945, the Battalion took time out to dedicate the beautiful chapel on the hill in the middle of the compound. It was consecrated to the worship of God and in memory of our friends, Edward R. Rada and William J. Padgett. The impressive ceremony was conducted by an array of fourstriper chaplains and Bishop Lee from the states.

The big second anniversary celebration fell on Sunday, August 26. In the ball game between the seamen and the officers, the seamen squeezed out a win despite the heroic efforts of Mr. LaFrance. At noon chow (the meat had been hoarded for six weeks. Remember how we used to scream for meat?) the officers, with some feminine help, served on the line while the chiefs did the dirty work in the scullery and pots and pans room. Mr. Young with his red neckerchief had some difficulty as MAA, in spite of his baseball bat. A happy day closed with a dance in one of the warehouses with some Filipino girls from Guiuan.

Then we were thinking of points again. A few felt pretty good about it but most began to feel like twenty-year men. There was still a long wait ahead.

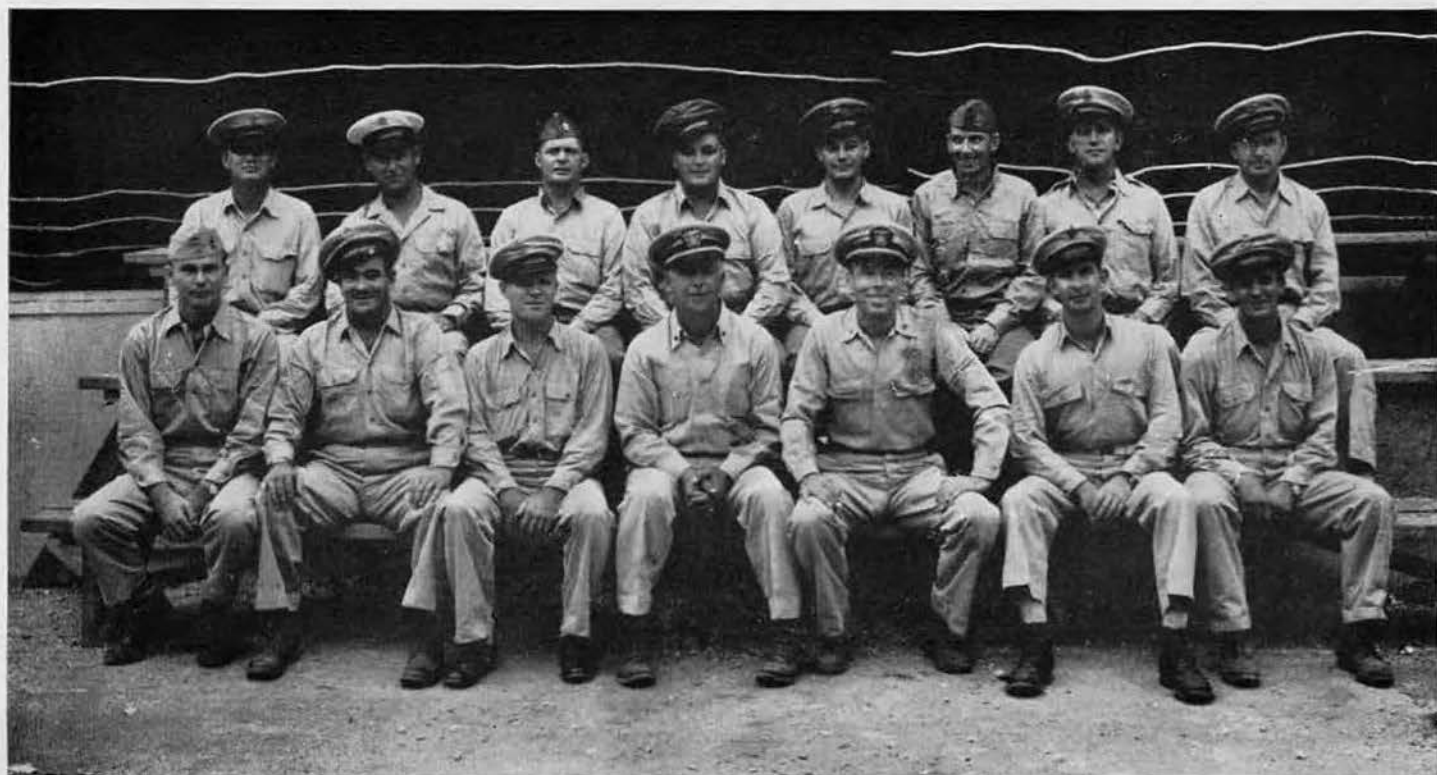

The last phase of the life of the 123rd Battalion came as a shock to us all. In Mr. Graber's words, "When I heard it, it made me sick to my stomach." And even though it brought home a little closer we all knew what he meant and how he felt. After working and playing together for two years it is not easy to watch things fall apart. Still the last race was over. The 123rd took over the 93rd but lost its name. Now there is nothing left but a few seamen who forgot to get married before they left home and a handful of staff officers who, for their sins, are now swabbies.

This brief resume of our second year in the Battalion is not really a history. There are many stories which you could add to it. Its main purpose is to jog your memory a bit when your days as a SeaBee are so far behind you that you cannot remember which came first, Ewa or Midway. Good luck and God bless you wherever you are.
