Each volume of this series is a reminder of the key role played by the late William Bell Clark, initial editor. Drawing upon his deep knowledge of the Navy in the American Revolution, his initial selections and arrangements of materials compiled over a devoted lifetime provided a framework on which subsequent efforts have continued to build.

FOREWORD

This Day 12 Months the United States of America Declar'd Independent which they've Supported one year. God send they Ever May

This stirring expression of pride and hope for the future came from American naval surgeon Jonathan Haskins, writing on July 4, 1777 while imprisoned in Mill Prison, England. It reveals that indomitable spirit and faith of America's forefathers that have sustained us in our more than two centuries of history. Indeed, they have been at the very heart of our courage and will throughout periods of national crisis.

That same spirit and determination are revealed in the words and deeds of the seafaring patriots encountered within the pages of the Naval Documents. These indefatigable American seamen, with unquestioned daring, risked their lives to ensure the liberty and freedom defended throughout the Revolution and held as cherished blessings by free citizens today. Further, they represent the proud tradition of the United States Navy from its very beginnings -- as a principal defender of America's freedom.

Along with my predecessors, I am pleased to commend the Department of the Navy on this volume of enduring scholarship. It contains many insights and profound lessons of history that can only benefit all who read it.

INTRODUCTION

Samuel Curwen, an American loyalist refugee in England and a former Admiralty Judge, confided to his journal in July 1777 "that an insurrection excited by an enthusiastic ardor for liberty, rightly or wrongly understood, and in such distant provinces, is not to be easily quelled." Judge Curwen was correct in his perceptions, but he could not, of course, foresee that this particular insurrection in distant provinces would not be quelled until American independence was won.

During the summer months of 1777 all out efforts were being made to strengthen the defenses of the Delaware River approaches to Philadelphia. As a member of a committee appointed for the purpose, John Adams sailed down river to inspect the defensive works and chevaux de frise. Adams and the other committee members were accorded a little diversion on their inspection tour. He later told his wife Abigail that they had a "Band of Musick" along, and that it sounded "very agreeable upon the Water."

Although bracing for an expected British Army-Navy attack, Philadelphia did not let the Fourth of July, first anniversary of the Declaration, pass unnoticed. Ships in the river were dressed with American flags and streamers, yards were manned, and a thirteen gun salute was fired "in honor of the Thirteen United States." Similar observances were held in other cities.

Events which are seen unfolding through the documentation in this volume continue to demonstrate dramatically the overwhelming value of British sea strength. Washington confided to the President of Congress that: "The Amazing advantage the Enemy derive from their Ships and the Command of the Water, keeps us in a state of constant perplexity." Richard Henry Lee was more explicit about Admiral Howe's fleet: "Curse on his Canvass Wings—Tis an unfair advantage they take of us." Fair or unfair, the Howe brothers, General and Admiral, used their unchallenged naval superiority to move a large force to the Head of Elk in Chesapeake Bay where the troops were landed to move on Philadelphia.

The cruise of the Continental Navy frigates Hancock and Boston started with promise of success but ended disastrously when the former ship was captured, the latter forced to run off, and their prize H. M. S. Fox retaken. The commanders of the American frigates were at odds, and they paid a high price for their lack of cooperation and coordination.

A growing impatience with the long delay in getting other Continental Navy ships to sea is evident in Marine Committee correspondence. Raleigh, Captain Thomas Thompson, and Alfred, Captain Elisha Hinman, finally sailed in company for France. On their eastward passage Raleigh engaged and heavily damaged H. M. Sloop Druid, a convoy escort.

Upon their arrival in European waters, Thompson and Hinman would learn that American naval vessels and privateers, operating from French ports, had the British mercantile community in a state of near panic. From Whitehaven, England, a resident wrote: "I believe no Time last War were the people on this Coast half so frightened as they have been lately on the Appearance of the American Privateers."

Of course, stepped-up rebel activity in the seas surrounding the British Isles also generated additional Royal Navy ships out on patrol and consequently more American vessels were captured. Increasing numbers of Yankee seamen languished in Mill and Forton prisons. One prisoner observed that the curious citizenry would come by to see the "Americans with horns."

A newspaper item from New York dated September 29, 1777, carried the notice that Captain John Tollemache commanding H. M. S. Zebra was killed in a duel with a Captain Pennington of the Guards. The Zebra had arrived the day before the duel, and the Guards officer had come a passenger in the ship. Captain Tollemache was buried in New York's Trinity Church yard. Particular notice is taken of this duel here because Tollemache, when commanding H. M. Sloop Scorpion, was on the American Station before Lexington and Concord. Through the years, he became a familiar figure to all who have worked on Naval Documents of the American Revolution as his actions were followed in every volume since the first in the series.

Dr. William James Morgan, the superlative editor of this unique documentary work, is the Senior Historian in the Naval Historical Center where he is supported by a small group of experienced and highly qualified colleagues. They form the staff of the Center's Historical Research Branch where, under Dr. Morgan's leadership, they share responsibilities for projects in addition to this Revolutionary War series. Prominent among other Research Branch tasks is the preparation of a three volume highly selective documentary history of the Navy in the War of 1812. These dedicated staff members are Dr. William S. Dudley, Mrs. Joye L. DuRant, Mr. E. Gordon Bowen-Hassell, Lieutenant Donna V. Nelson, USN, Mr. George K. McCuiston, Mr. Robert I. Campbell, and Mrs. Katherine J. Huie.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Scheffenacker, that incomparable husband and wife team of editorial assistants whose names first appeared in Volume 1 with expressions of appreciation for their outstanding contributions, retired while Volume 9 was in preparation. They have left an indelible mark of thoroughness and devotion. They set the highest of standards for those who labor on Naval Documents to strive for.

As Volume 9 neared completion, it was also learned that Commander W. E. May, RN (Ret.) was leaving London and would be unable to continue research and manuscript procurement on our behalf at the Public Record Office. For more than a decade, in what has been truly a labor of love, he has provided us with British documents which are absolutely essential to the balanced coverage and timely progress of Naval Documents volumes. We are deeply grateful to Commander May.

Madame Ulane Bonnel, distinguished and indefatigable historian in Paris, as always, continued supportive of our needs from French depositories and individuals. Sound foreign document review and translation services were forthcoming from Commander Canio Di Cairano, USNR (Ret.).

Unpublished Crown copyright material in the Public Record Office, London, is reproduced by permission of Her Majesty's Stationery Office. Documents from four additional depositories appear for the first time in Volume 9—Savitz Library, Glassboro State College, Glassboro, New Jersey; Charleston Library Society, Charleston; New York Archives, Albany; Archives de la Marine, Brest, France. These additions bring to ninety-five the number of libraries, archives, historical societies, etc., in as widely separated locations as Florence, Italy, and San Marino, California, which have provided the manuscripts for the Naval Documents volumes. The large number of institutions, in this country and abroad, whose holdings are represented in this documentary series is a living testimony to the unstinting assistance and cooperation the project has received since its inception and continues to receive today.

AMERICAN THEATRE

SUMMARY

Manning the Continental Navy ships continued to be a critical problem. Captain John Burroughs Hopkins, commanding Warren, received authority from the Rhode Island legislature to employ a press gang. In Portsmouth, Captain Thompson requested permission to recruit men from the Army for the Raleigh.

America's privateers and Royal Navy ships were reaping a rich harvest of prizes. One prize made by the Massachusetts Navy brig Tyrannicide carried a cargo which would be welcomed by Washington's army—thousands of blankets. Merchants in the British West Indies appealed to naval authorities for increased convoy protection.

The Continental Navy frigates Hancock and Boston, operating in company, captured H.M.S. Fox after a close hot engagement. Following this success, the breach between the American captains widened. Early in July they fell in with a small British squadron. Fox was recaptured, and Captain Manley, mistaking frigate Rainbow for the 64 gun ship of the line Raisnable, surrendered the Hancock without firing a shot. Boston escaped and found sanctuary on the Maine coast.

The British used their superiority afloat on Lake Champlain to destroy American vessels at Skenesborough and to capture Ticonderoga. Anticipating a naval thrust up the Hudson River, efforts were made to ready the two new Continental frigates in that river to join in the defense.

A huge English fleet, including troop transports, weighed from Sandy Hook and stood southward. Capture of Philadelphia was the objective. Again, the mobility afforded the enemy by water movement, and the uncertainty as to where the attack would be made, proved extremely frustrating to General Washington.

Congress on June 14 resolved that the "Stars and Stripes" would be the United States flag, and on the same day appointed John Paul Jones to command the Ranger. The Marquis de Lafayette and Baron de Kalb landed in South Carolina to cast their lot with the American cause.

CAPTAIN PHILEMON POWNOLL TO VICE ADMIRAL RICHARD LORD HOWE ¹

My Lord

[Quebec, June 1, 1777] ²

I received the honour of your orders & instructions of the — [12th of April] by Capt. [Cornthwaite] Ommaney the [20th] of May, to the senior officer here. I acquainted you by letter of [17th May] by his Majs Schonr the Gaspee, of my arrival at Quebec, & inclosed my orders from the Lords of the Admiralty; & informed you of my instructions till I should have the honour of receiving your commands: in consequence of which Anxious to comply with yr Lordships wishes that as few ships as possible might remain inactive here, & at the same time to avoid any blame might fall on my head in case the expedition across the Lakes should require further assistance, agreeable to yr instructions I again consulted Sr Guy Carleton; to know whether the Apollo could serve here any assistance that in case she was not I should leave the com[mand] to [Richard] Pearson to w[at]ch the Lakes he assur'd me as the command of the army was in Genl Burgoyne, not to leave the river on any acct till I had his sanction for it; having before been desired by him to see me before he embark; I imm[ediately] set out for St John in order as soon as possible to get his determination on the seamen already on that service; [it] was that he did not think he had sufficient cause to detain his Majs Ship Apollo as a fresh supply of men would be at hand on the arrival of the Blonde in case he should want them—I therefore End[eavor]ed to put that part of the instructions into execution relative to &c., & which having done I shall lose no time in joinn you at New York.—

CAPTAIN WILLIAM ROGERS TO THE NEW YORK CONVENTION ¹

I have been desired by Zephaniah Platt, Esqr. to let the Convention know what I think of fitting out the sloop Montgomery on another cruise. I think that she is too small to cruise, as most of the enemy's ships of value will be of too much force for her to take; and as she is obliged to carry almost as many officers as a larger sized vessel would, it makes the pay come very high for so small a vessel. But if the Convention thinks of keeping any armed vessels for the State, I could not advise them to sell her, as there is no better vessel of her burthen than she is: if the Convention thinks of fitting out any larger vessel, she could always be commanded by an officer out of the other vessel, and manned; which would make her expenses come much lighter than they do now. As for my own part, I would be very willing to serve the State, if they thought proper to employ me, if I had a vessel that I could go alongside of a ship of 16 or 18 guns; for most of the enemy's ships will be well armed. If the Convention thinks of getting any larger vessel, I would take another short cruise in the sloop, if not, I should not choose to go any more in her.

If the sloop is fitted out again on a cruise, she wants the following stores: 11 barrels pork; 10 barrels beef; 3000 wt. bread; 8 barrels flour; 2 barrels peas; 200 wt. powder; 200 swivel shot; some match stuff; 24 flints for muskets; 15 flints for pistols; 30 wt. buckshot.

Provisions remaining on board: 9 barrels beef; 7 barrels pork; 4 barrels bread; 1 barrel flour.

William Rogers.

MASSACHUSETTS BOARD OF WAR TO CAPTAIN WILLIAM HAYNES ¹

Capt Wilm Haynes,
Sir,

War-Office,

Boston June 2d 1777 -

Yours of the 28th of May has just come to hand & the Board of War are very uneasy that you have not been able to procure a Crew for the Ship Union, which they suppose is compleatly loaded & in other respects ready for Sea, They therefore direct you to go immediately thro' the whole Eastern Country, if necessary, & get a sufficient number of Hands for your Ship on the best Terms you can obtain them; – They fully expect the next Letters from Mr [William] Frost will acquaint them that you have sail'd [&c.]

Boston, June 2.

Capt. Clouston, in a Brig belonging to this State, has taken six Prizes, and was left in chase of a Seventh the 16th of April; the 6th Prize, laden with Salt, Bread, &c. bound from Topsham, in England, to Newfoundland, is arrived at a safe Port; as is also a Brig bound from London for Guinea, laden with Arms, Powder, Cordage, &c.¹ A Snow from Newfoundland, for London, with Fish; and a Sloop from Lisbon, with Wine and Lemons are hourly looked for. Two Brigs laden with Herrings from Scotland for the Streights Capt. Clouston burnt.

We also hear, Capt. Thompson in the Rising States, has taken four Prizes, one of which he burnt.

By the Prize from Topsham, which brings us the latest advices from England, we find no mention of Gen. Burgoyne's coming to Boston with 13,000 men, as has been said in all our papers. Six thousand are reported in the London papers as a design'd reinforcement for their whole Army in America; but no place is specified where they are assembled, or where transports are ready to receive them.

The success of the American cruizers has given a prodigious wound to the British trade. It is computed in England that a million and an half sterling has been taken from the West-India trade alone. The consequence has been several capital houses in England have fail'd for large sums, and more are expected to share the same fate.

Yesterday a Brig arrived safe in Port in 21 Days from Guadaloup, with a Cargo of Salt. We hear she brings an Account of many Captures being made and carried in there.

1. Captain John Clouston commanded the Massachusetts Navy brigantine Freedom. His two prizes which had arrived were brig Britannia from Topsham, William Wicker, master, and brig Penelope, from London, William Booth, master. Both prizes were condemned and sold with their cargoes. From Britannia, after deduction of charges, the state and captors each received in excess of £1705, and from Penelope each profited by more than £3575, Mass. Arch., vol. 159, 501–14, 515–40.

New-York Packet, THURSDAY, JUNE 19, 1777

Norwich, June 2.

A Gentleman who arrived in town last evening from New-Haven, informs us, that on Tuesday last, a privateer from Stratford was cruising under Long-Island, when she spied a sail coming out from the main nearly opposite, bearing her course to the Westward; she immediately armed a whale-boat and sent in quest of her; but night coming on, and the wind being unfavourable, she gave up the chase. While the boat was after the first vessel, the men in the privateer saw another from the main, sailing to the eastward, in which course she continued until dark, (the Privateer thinking it was one of our cruizers, did not attempt to go after her) then thinking she might pass unperceived, tacked about and sailed for the westward, but unlucky for her, she happened to meet our whale boat returning; upon asking the boat from whence she came, was answered, from the main bound to Long-Island; they then requested the men to come on board, for they were going to New-York; the boat's men soon complied with their request, took possession and carried her into Fairfield, there being seven men on board, who are now safely confined. The vessel was found to be a coaster, that has been employed by the Continent for some time, but had taken that opportunity to visit the enemy, having a very fine cargo of provisions, &c. on board.

The same night the above privateer took three more small vessels from Long-Island, loaded with wood and other necessaries for the British army, and carried them into Fairfield.

“EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM CAPT. STIRRET OF THE Falmouth, DATED NEW YORK, JUNE 2, TO HIS EMPLOYERS AT GLASGOW”¹

After being out four weeks from Glasgow, I fell in with two transports with troops; one was the Archer, Coats commander; she mounted eight four pounders, and had 150 soldiers on board. The other the Prince George, Fairholm, with 120 soldiers on board. Two days before I spoke with them, they had an engagement with a schooner privateer of 12 carriage guns, who got off from them, but has done a great deal of damage to their sails and rigging. I kept company with them 20 days, when we got safe to New York.

The Scooner Franklin, Capt. Green, laden with Arms, &c. was chased ashore upon the Caicos Bank, by an English Frigate, on the 12th of May last; as was also the Sturdy Beggar Privateer of Baltimore. The Privateer was got off, but the Scooner not. But Capt. Glanbury, of Virginia, seeing the Scooner the next Day, went to her Assistance, saved part of the Cargo, took off the People, and has brought them to a safe Port. Capt Glanbury is apprehensive that Capt. Garrigues, in a Brigantine for Philadelphia, was taken by an Enemy Sloop on the 13th.

A Brigantine from London to Barbados, taken by the Oliver Cromwell Privateer of Philadelphia near St. Bartholomew's (and her 7th Prize) William Gregory, Prize-master, and ordered for Philadelphia, was spoke with, all well on board, on the 23d ult. in Lat. 34.30 N. and Long. 64.00 W from London. Her Cargo, in Dry Goods only, was said to be worth 14,000 Sterling.

An English Frigate came in Sight Yesterday Morning, having in Company, a North Country built Ship and a Brigantine; intercepted some Fishing Canoes that were on the East Bank; then stood to Sea again, steering to the South-East, and were out of Sight at 5 in the Evening, — carrying with them about 23 valuable slaves taken in the Canoes, mostly the property of Persons that will most severely feel the Loss, particularly a poor Widow, and some Industrious Mechanics; and amongst them a valuable Cabinet-maker, belonging to David Rhind, Esq; a Gentleman who is compelled to depart the State, on Account of his scrupulous Attachment to that very Government from which he sustains this Injury.

CAPTAIN JOHN PAUL JONES TO THE AMERICAN COMMISSIONERS IN FRANCE ¹

Gentlemen, Portsmouth New Hampshire June 3d 1777

I take the Liberty, of acquainting you that in obedience to Orders from the Honble the Marine and Secret Committees of Congress, bearing date the 9th ulto, I immediately repaired here in Order to proceed in the French Ship Amphitrite from hence to Charlestown South Carolina and thence to France, the intention of the Secret Committee was first to avail of this Ships Guns and Men to make a Cruizing Voyage to France. On my arrival there my Orders are to proceed immediately to Paris, to put a Letter into your Hands, and then to take Command of a "Fine Frigate" and to receive Orders from you respecting my future Proceedings. But the Captain of the Amphitrite Monsr Fautrel, has absolutely refused to permit my Proceeding with him in any other Character than as a Passenger, as he thinks it will be a dishonor to the French Flag to suffer an American Commission to supersede his, nor will he consent to Sail for Carolina unless on Conditions such as Colo Langdon the Agent doth not think himself Authorized to Insure. A week hath elapsed since this Account, with duplicates hath been forwarded to the Honble Committee, at the same time Colo Langdon has proposed to them, that I should proceed directly to France in a new Continental Sloop of War of 18 Guns, which he is now fitting, and is in great forwardness,² he has also proposed that this Vessell, should be continued under my direction in Order to strengthen my hands and enable me the better to Effect any Services which you may find necessary.

The Captain of the Mercure, Monsr Heraut for Nantes by whom I send this, had the Politeness to offer a frank Acceptance of the Proposition which had been made to Monsr Fautrel, but I declined his Offer, as his Ship is of a very inconsiderable force (consisting only of 10 Three pounders) and as I did not think myself Authorized to depart from the Express letter of my Orders. I now wait the Secret Committee's determination which must reach this Place before either the Amphitrite or the New Ship, can be got in readiness for Sailing, and I think the probability is, that Colo Langdon's proposition will be Adopted.

I ardently wish to be again in Active Service, and in the meantime the Prospect I have of being shortly under your direction affords me a very singular Pleasure for altho' I am personally unknown to you, I Altogether Esteem your Characters, and have the Honor to be, Gentlemen [&c.]

have been sensible of the Advantages arising from that Mode of distressing the Enemy, but in this Instance we agree in Opinion, it is not practicable, without interfering materially with the more important Operations of the Campaign, that have received the Royal Approbation, and which are already too much curtailed by the Want of Land Force, to admit of a further Reduction. . . .

St Georges 3d June 1777

There are Six Vessels here loaded with the produce of this Island to a very considerable Value, Destined for New York for the Supply of His Majesty's Army and Navy on that Continent. We are well informed that there are five Vessels at Barbados in the same Situation, which with Vessels from the other Islands of which we have no particular Account, will when assembled at St Christophers, make a Fleet so considerable as to merit a direct Convoy for New York; to which Service we hope Admiral Young hath already appointed some one or more of his Majesty's Ships, either of his own Squadron, or of Lord Howe's; that may occasionally be returning to north america; but lest that should not be the case, and that the Importance of this Service should have escaped the Admirals early notice, we beg leave to Solicit Your Lordship's Interest with Him by a Letter requesting his attention to this object, with which we will immediately send off an Express Boat to Antigua. We have the Honor to be with great respect [&c.]

Being inform'd by Congress that the Honbl the Council & Assembly for the State of New Hampshire had made a tender of their Services to give every assistance in their Power toward Maning and equipping the Raleigh whenever she should be ordered to Sea; in consequence of which I beg leave to acquaint you that half of the Guns are now on board & the remainder will Come to hand in a few Days - chief of the Stores & provisions are on board But what is most wanted at present is Men - I therefore in the Name of the United States of America beg your Assistance - what I have chiefly in view is to beg permission of your Honours to Inlist Men from the Different Companys now in the Service & pay of this State amongst which there are a number of Seamen, some of which have at different Times made Application to Enter on board & have been refus'd: If we could for the future be indulged with the Liberty of taking such Men as may Offer from those Companies, it would be a very great help towards compleating our Compliment (particularly from the Forts where there are many Seamen) and Seamen employ'd at Sea must be most Serviceable – had we been lucky enough to have procured the Guns during the Embargo we should have Man'd the Ship with less difficulty than now, when Trade & intercourse is free – but what most engages Seamen's attention is Privateers, not seeing the Wages & other Encouragement given by the Continent far exceeds any other Service whatever; If your Honours can assist me in any way to procure Men, I think it will be the only trouble I shall have occasion to give you – I should have waited on you myself had not my Duty required me on board – I am with great Respect, Gentn [&c.]

[Rhode Island] 4th June About 7 o'Clock this Morning a Rebel Sloop weighed from Howland's ferry, and having a favorable wind she went to Sea. Seven shot were fired at her from the Redoubt at Fogland ferry, but without effect. She appeared to be Armed, and was full of men. It is surprising the Commodore does not station a vessel in the Seconnet passage, to prevent those of the Enemy from going out in this manner. The Galley or an armed transport would be sufficient. The Diamond Frigate is now stationed near Dyer's Island; but as The Lark, and the Galley are advanced above her, she does not appear to be of any use there. She certainly would be of some service in the Seconnet.

At 12 oClock this day, a Privateer brig and an Armed Sloop came out of Providence River, and stood down the Bay. When they came as far as the N. end of Prudence the Brig went in by Warwick point, and the Sloop stood down towards our Galley, which was stationed ahead of the Lark near Papasquash point. When she came within about a mile and half of her she fired a shot at the Galley, and then put about. The Galley immediately got under way and chased her, but the Sloop having the advantage got off. The Galley then fired 2 18 prs at her, both of which fell short, on which she gave over the Chace and returned to her station. When the Galley tacked the Sloop did the same, and kept plying back and forward in the bay till she was joined by the Brig, when they both made sail, and in the Evening returned towards Providence.

Several Sloops appeared in the mouth of Taunton River to day, and two of them came down to Howlands.

It having been found this morning and represented to General Prescott, that our battery at Fogland could not get so many shot at the Sloop which passed, as it could have done had the Guns been placed En Barbette, he ordered the Merlons to be taken down, which was completed by the Evening.

The Unicorn Frigate came in from a Cruize this day. She spoke with the Isis of 50 Guns, and the Swift Sloop off Block-Island yesterday, bound to New York, having parted from their Convoy of 17 sail of Victuallers, &c, in a gale of wind. No particular news from Europe by the Isis.

New Haven, June 4.

Capt. David Hawley, of Stratford, in a small privateer, in the States service,¹ one day last week, captured three small vessels, to the westward of Huntington; two of them were loaded with wood, from Long Island, bound to New York; the other had taken in a cargo of provisions at Derby, which the Skipper pretended was to be carried to New London, where the vessel was owned, but in fact was bound to New York; they are all in safe ports.

[Rhode Island] 5th June A Rebel Sloop attempted to pass the battery at Fogland this morning, in order to proceed to Sea; when the advantage of having the guns En Barbette was fully demonstrated. Ten shot were fired at her before she came opposite the Redoubt, three of which struck her, and damaged her so much that she was obliged to give up the attempt, and run into the bottom of the little bay behind the N. point of Fogland. She remained there till 6 in the Evening, when having a fair wind she went back to Howland's ferry. Our battery had four shot at her as she was going off, some of which fell very near her. Had the Battery been originally constructed in this manner, very few of Rebel vessels would have been able to pass, without being considerably damaged.

Resolved, That the sum of one thousand pounds be advanced to Captain Rogers, to enable him to pay the wages of the crew of the armed sloop Montgomerie, and to reimburse him sundry sums of money by him advanced for the said vessel.

That Captain Rogers render his accounts relative to the said vessel of war and of the expenditure of the money advanced to him, as soon as may be, to this Council of Safety or a future Legislature of this State, that a final settlement may be made relative thereto.

That Lieutenant-Colo. John Broom[e] be requested and directed to see that the officers and crew of the said vessel are immediately discharged, and to sell or cause to be sold, the vessel of war, the Montgomerie, with her stores, to the best advantage for this State; and that as soon as the crew is discharged, he appoint some proper person to take the care and charge of the said vessel until she is sold.

A letter from Genl. Putnam, dated the 4th inst. was received and read, and is as follows, to wit:

Gentlemen - The armies are still inactive except in preparations for the ensuing campaign; our expectations of an attack in some quarter are daily corroborated by intelligence through different channels. We are distressed for the ships and galleys to guard the river. Genl. Washington expects they are now at the chain. A single galley of the enemy is constantly cruising up and down the river at pleasure, has been as far as Fort Independence, and can stop the ferry at any time; we have nothing on water that can oppose her. The crew land, and plunder the inhabitants for more than 50 miles, without molestation. I have desired Genl. Clinton to write you on this subject, and beg leave to enforce the urgency of it in the strongest manner.

Sir,

Fort Montgomery 5th June 1777

I was desired by General Putnam two Days ago to write to the Council of Safety of this State requesting they woud use every Means in their Power to forward the Continental Frigates down to this Post,² he likewise desired me to mention that as very Considerable Additional works at the public Expencc were directed to be made for the more effectual Obstruction of the Navigation of the River at Fort Montgomery, in which this State is so much Interested, it was expected that the two State Privateers woud be sent down to the Chain with the other Vessels, to which I presume there can be no Objection as at that Place they may be of great Service & I cant see that they can be of any in any other Place in the River, especially since the Shipping are out of the Creek & will be armed for their own Defence. . . .

VICE ADMIRAL RICHARD LORD HOWE TO PHILIP STEPHENS¹

Number 30.

Eagle Off New York

Sir,

June the 5th 1777.

By the Augusta I had the Satisfaction to receive your Dispatch of the 4th of March, signifying the Intentions of the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty respecting the Destination of the Apollo, Proteus and Porpoise for Quebec; and the Appointment of the Isis and Swift, together with the Camel and Bute, for conveying several Transports with Stores and British Recruits for this Port.

In a second Letter of the same Date, I had the further Satisfaction to be advised that their Lordships had been pleased to order the Albion, Somerset, Nonsuch and Raisnable for this Service. – I am extremely happy to learn at the same time that my Endeavors in the Discharge of my Duty, have been honored with their Lordships Approbation.

The Nonsuch arrived here the 25th past. And the Camel and Bute the 28th with all the Transports, three excepted, of the Convoy that sailed at the same time from Portsmouth. They had continued under the Conduct of Captain Finch of the Camel only, since the 6th of May: The Isis and Swift having been separated on the Passage. Two of the missing Transports came in a few Days before, and the third a few Days after Captain Finch. But the Isis and Swift are still absent.

On the 3^d Instant Captain Ourry arrived in the Somerset, with the Transports he had in Charge; But the Mercury parted Company the third Day after they left the British Coast. The Troops by both these Convoys are in good Health.

As there was reason to believe it might be soon requisite to embark on a considerable part of the Army, timely preparation has been made for the purpose. And as my Attendance wou[ld] be necessary with the Transports in consequence I have recalled Commodore Hotham from the Delaware, to direct the Naval Operations having reference to the Defence of this Capital Post, and for carrying on the current Service of the Port.

I shall probably be obliged to leave the Preston and Centurion with the Commodore, and one or two Frigates besides those stationed in the Sound, as specified in the General Return inclosed; Many of the Seamen from those two Fifty-Gun Ships, with a part of the Eagle's Complement, being now ordered for Duty dependant on the earlier Movements of the Army. The Eagle, Nonsuch, Augusta and Somerset, are the only two-decked Ships I can yet be assured of having properly fitted to take with me when it may be necessary to leave this Port.

I wrote by the Success Merchant-Ship the 18th past, being the earliest Opportunity to inform You of the Arrival of the Augusta, and the Event of the Landing on the Coast of Connecticut to destroy the Magazines at Danbury in that Province. A Duplicate of the Letter is transmitted herewith.

I have little to communicate by this Conveyance regarding the Service of the detached Squadrons, more than is explained of their particular Destinations in the General Return. The Ships appropriated for the Delaware and Chesepeak Bay, have been confined to the requisite Anchorages within the Capes, on each Station: For preventing the Export of the American Produce to France, which appears to be a capital Object of the Enemy's Attention and Dependance. The Number of Captures will be less, but the Benefits greater to the public Service. Those principal Channels being secured, Detachments of lesser Force are made at times to disturb the Commerce of the Enemy in the many shoaler Inlets along the Coasts of the middle Provinces. And as soon as the Hinchinbrook has released the Galatea off of Augustine, the three Frigates so appropriated in the Return, will be solely employed to obstruct the Intercourse with the rebellious Inhabitants of the Southern Provinces.

The Difficulties to effect that Restraint, will become greater in the Northern Colonies by tempestuous Weather in the Winter, and almost incessant Fogs in the milder Seasons.

Besides the Frigates necessary to be stationed on cruising Service, it is evident that an adequate Number must be appropriated for the successive Relief of the Ships, as well as Seamen, for whom little Refreshment can yet be procured, even during their Stay in port.

You will receive herewith a particular of the Captures made by this Fleet since the Commencement of the present Year. Some Ships with Military and other Stores are said to have arrived in, and some Armed Vessels escaped from, the different ports on this extensive Coast. Such Resources I presume to think unpracticable to prevent, more especially with respect to Vessels of the smaller Classes in each Kind, until the Enemy can be dispossessed of their posts. Several Privateers have been chased by different Cruizers: But from the better Sailing-State in which the former can with facility be kept, and other local Advantages, without Effect.

The Preparations of the Transports for the Reception of the Troops, having engaged many Carpenters who were before assisting in the temporary Yard, the Works have not been lately carried on there with the usual Dispatch. The small Number of Artificers otherwise to be procured (mostly furnished from the Eagle) have been employed in fitting the Vigilant, and an Armed Brig mounting Fourteen four-pounders that I have ordered to be taken upon Valuation into the Service, to replace the Hinchinbrook Schooner.

This Brig, fitted out from South Carolina, and called the Defence, was intercepted by the Roebuck and Perseus on their Return from the West Indies. I have moved Lieutenant Ellis with the Crew of the Schooner into the Brig, with an Addition of thirty four Men to complete her Complement in Proportion to the Difference in Force of the two Vessels. Being now ready for the Sea, Lieutenant Ellis will immediately proceed to his Station on the Coasts of East Florida.

The Vigilant will be completed in every respect by the End of the Week. And as no proper Artillery can be otherwise provided for her, she will be furnished with Fourteen twenty-four Pounders that can be spared from the Centurion.

The Occasion for the Service of the Workmen in the Yard having fully employed the Number that could be procured, it became necessary to contract with a Master Shipwright resident in the Town of New York to refit the Raven, which struck some time since on a Rock in the Passage up the East River, and received so much Damage as to be with Difficulty brought back for the purpose. Being hove down, it appeared that she had lost a piece of the After part of the Keel, and of the Stern-post; And the whole Sheathing was so much decayed, that it was judged expedient to rip it off. The Sloop is now refitted for Summer Service; But being on a single Bottom, must return to Europe in the Fall of the Year. The Rose, which other more pressing Services would not admit of having earlier inspected; must be next put into Condition in the same Manner.

The Repulse has been missing ever since the 16th of last December. She separated in a Gale of Wind from the Galatea and Nautilus, off of the Bermuda Islands. For some time, I flattered myself the Separation might have been caused by some Injury to her Masts; And that Advice would be received in due time, of her Arrival at one of the West India ports. But the last Letters from the different Islands not exceeding a Month in Date, I think it certain that some fatal Accident has happened to the Ship: Whereby, exclusive of other Considerations, the King's Service has suffered a great Loss in the person of Captain Davis, the Commander.

The Camel will be soon ready to proceed to Sea. But as I am only instructed, with respect to that Ship, the Bute, Proteus and Porpoise, that they are meant generally to convoy the Trade from the West Indies, without Distinction of the Stations for which they are respectively intended; And as the Isis, by which I shall probably receive those particulars, is still absent, I am induced, the Season of the Year considered, to order Captain Finch away immediately to the Leeward Islands, with Advice to Vice Admiral Young of the Circumstances, that he may retain the Camel, or direct her to Jamaica, as he thinks expedient for the purpose of her destined Employment. I have been the rather so induced, in consequence of Letters from Vice Admiral Gayton informing me that he shall detain the Lively to proceed with Convoy about this time to England; as the Ship was found on Examination, incapable of being properly fitted abroad.

The Rudder of the Bute being loose, and the Ship otherwise in a very impaired State, as expressed in the enclosed Report, her Departure is necessarily postponed. But their Lordships may be assured, no time will be lost in putting her into Condition for proceeding after the Camel, or as otherwise appointed in the Orders I expect to receive by the Isis.

I forward by this Opportunity an Extract from Captain Jacobs's Answer to the Inquiry I was directed to make by your Letter of the 27th of last October, touching a Complaint from the Spanish Ambassador concerning a Spanish Vessel called the Vergen del Carmen; And two Letters (to be disposed of as their Lordships see fit) addressed to Monsr de Sartine, and found onboard a French Schooner named the Marie, stopped by His Majesty's Ship the Pearl close in upon the Coast of Maryland the 10th of last April.

On the 22d of last January Captain [John] Brisbane sailed in the Flora, to convoy some Victualling Transports in the Service of the Army, to the Leeward Islands. He arrived at Antigua the 3d of March. By Sickness, Desertion of several Men to serve in the Armed Vessels fitted by Individuals in that Island, and other incidental Delays, he was not able to proceed on his Return to this port after the Ship had been careened, until the 4th of May. He arrived the 31st of the same Month, after an Absence of more than Eighteen Weeks. – Not seeing Cause of Censure in the Conduct of the Captain on that Account, I only take Notice of the Retardment, as it may affect the Service of the Ships careening in the West Indies; and that their Lordships may the rather approve of the Expedient, if necessary in future (for facilitating the timely Repair of the Cruizing Ships) to apply to Commissioner Arbuthnot that a Part of the Artificers may be sent from Halifax, for being employed here during the Season of the Year which will not admit for sending the Ships to be refitted at that Port.

The time approaching when it may be requisite to employ the Transports on Military Duties, I have thought it reasonable and highly beneficial for the King's Service, to order a Gratuity to the Masters and Crews of Transports who distinguished themselves by a particular Zeal and Spirit in the Operations of the last Campaign, as I have had the Honor to communicate in my former Dispatches, in the Proportions as shewn in the Account enclosed. I have reason to believe it will be attended with very good Effects, and therefore hope their Lordships will approve and authorise the Allowance.

Sir George Collier will be attentive to afford all possible Protection to the Fisheries at Canso and Isle Madame. And I hope there may be Opportunity to employ one of the Frigates in the St Laurence for the same purpose, with respect to the Fisheries on the Western Shore of the Gulf; according to the Instructions already given to that Effect.

The Townsend Ordnance Transport will be cleared with all Dispatch, And employed, with a View to her timely return to Europe before the Term of her Engagement ceases, as the King's Service may require.

By the Somerset, I received your Letters of the 3d and 5th of April; And the Notice signified by their Lordships Order of the 27th of March, that the King had been most graciously pleased to grant His pardon to James Woolspring, under Sentence of Death for Desertion from the Phoenix.

I shall with great Satisfaction receive such Lights as their Lordships shall judge fit to furnish me with, for my Guidance in the Construction of the Act of Parliament for the Government of the King's Forces by Sea: Many, and some material Disadvantages accruing to His Majesty's Service, from the Difference of Opinions that now subsist in the Fleet thereon.

I expect to receive Advices daily from Quebec concluding that the earliest Information will be given to Sir William Howe of the Movement of the Northern Army. I shall upon Receipt thereof, be better enabled to judge what alterations are requisite to be made in the General Instructions that were sent to Captain Pearson by the Tartar; And shall endeavor to adapt the same as will be most for the Benefit of His Majesty's Service accordingly.

I must beg leave by this Opportunity to mention again the very great Occasion for a Supply of Beds and Slops of all Kinds in the Fleet. And the Want of Beds for the Troops when embarked in the Transports, as more particularly communicated by Captain Bourmaster to the Commissioners of the Navy.

You will receive herewith an Account of the State and Condition of the Ships of this Fleet collected from the latest Returns; And of the Remains of Provisions for the time and Number of Men therein expressed.

I am, with great Consideration, Sir [&c.]

JENIFER & HOOE TO GOVERNOR THOMAS JOHNSON ¹

Sir,

Alexandria June 5th 1777

This Instant Capt [Robert] Conway in the Molly arrived from Martinico & we send by Capt Kelty the Letters for Your Excellency that came by him.

The Capt informs us he left Martinico on the 16th of May in Compy with a Phila Armed Brig & an Armed Sloop of ours bound here – that he parted with them in a Gale of Wind just off soundings; that he has been chased but escaped by sailing, & often gave chase but every Vessell he over hauled were Friends – that he passed the Capes on Friday Night last, saw two Frigates, & was inform'd by a Vessell he brought too in the Bay that an Armed Brig lay in the North Channell – that he believes none of them saw him as he came in – that he thinks there is no chance of Capt Keltys getting out at present – And he is of opinion two such Vessells as Capt Davys and his could easily keep the North Cape open, as large Ships cannot reach them & they would be an overmatch for Tenders. He has on board 125 Barrls Powder for the Congress. 11 Casks 2 Cases & 4 Bales dry Goods for us, amongst them but 20 Blanketts, wch if you think worth sending for may be added to those already sent. Capt Conway informs us he is still at your Command either upon a Cruize, or to take out a Cargo – but says with the necessary Stores the Sloop will not take in more than 40 hhds Tobacco. if he is order'd to Sea the Vessell wants a Sett of Shrouds, if only on any Station about the Bay the old ones will do, in the former event orders to Mr Lowndes to furnish them will be necessary, as rigging cannot be had here. VIRGINIA NAVY BOARD TO LIEUTENANT ROBERT BLAWS ¹

To Lieut Robert Blaws of the Caswell Galley

Sir

The Board have received your Commission, in a manner which they cannot but think ungenteel, and evidently reflecting on you, for besides that, the rule of Propriety dictates the Board should have received information thereof from the Captain, to whom you ought to have intimated an Intention to resign, – another good reason points out that no Officer be Permitted to resign his Commission to relieve himself from the Stigma of arrest and Censure or Punishment for ill conduct, which may sometimes be the case. These reflections have induced the Board to return the Commission wishing you to adopt other means of resignation, less unbecoming an officer to use or irksome in them to receive. –

North-Carolina Gazette, FRIDAY, JULY 18, 1777

Charles-Town, S.C. June 5.

On Saturday the Brigantine of war Comet, Capt. [Edward] Allen, returned from a cruize, in which he took one prize, mentioned in our last to have arrived. On Sunday the 25th of last month, after a very hard gale of wind, early in the morning he descried two sail, one a large ship right astern in shore, the other a sloop on the weather quarter; the ship appeared to be at anchor, or lying to; the sloop bore down on the Comet, and came within half a league of her, then returned towards the ship. Captain Allen having got every thing ready to engage, stood after them. At twelve o'clock the sloop and ship were observed to speak, the Comet being then about three leagues to windward. By an observation taken then, Capt. Allen found he was 20 leagues to the southward of St. Augustine bar. Wind at S.E. The ship and sloop bore away before the wind with a crowded sail; the Comet gave chace; upon the enemy's perceiving it, both ship and sloop hove too. At half past two the Comet came up within musket shot of them, when the ship was discovered to be armed; she carried 16 guns, and the sloop, supposed to be Captain Moubray's, 14. Capt. Allen immediately run under the ship's stern, as if intending to go on her lee side, gave her three broadsides, and then run in for the land. The sloop thereupon tacked, and the ship weared immediately, and both gave chace. Capt. Allen, finding the sloop weathered and got ahead of him, and the ship coming up astern, wore ship, and with all the sail he could set stood along shore. with the wind large. The ship came up on the Comet's weather quarter, and three or four broadsides were exchanged; the ship's rigging and sails being much hurt, she fell astern to refit; then the sloop came up on the lee quarter within half pistol shot, and after giving three cheers, poured in a broadside; the compliment was soon returned by the Comet, and there ensued a very hot engagement, which lasted upwards of half an hour; after which the sloop, being greatly damaged in her hull, sails and rigging, fell to leeward. The ship having refitted, came up on the Comet's weather quarter, and within musket shot exchanged several broadsides; she then dropped astern. Night coming on, Captain Allen kept his wind, in hopes of drawing the ship from the sloop, but as soon as she could get room to wear under the Comet's stern, she bore away for her consort. The Comet kept her wind all night, and next morning saw nothing of the enemy. On board both vessels were a number of soldiers, whose musketry did most of the damage sustained on board the Comet, which was two men killed, and four wounded.

Capt. Allen informs us that, notwithstanding the great disparity between his vessel and the Apalachicola, taken by him the 21st. ult. Capt. [William] Morwick did not strike till most of his sails and rigging were cut away, and all his shot expended. The cargo of his prize turns out more valuable than at first imagined; the invoices being thrown overboard, the precise quantities cannot be ascertained. The following articles are in it, viz. 126 barrels of flour 67 casks of beef, 40 casks of butter, 50 muskets, 2000 lb. of gunpowder, 30 cwt. of lead balls, 2 cwt. of saltpetre, 246 pair of mens shoes, blankets, a large quantity of British, Irish and German linens, a large assortment of most kinds of ironmongery, canvass, silver gorgets, bracelets, ear bobs, vermilion, tomahawks &c. for the Indians, broadcloths, plains, flannels, ready made linen and check shirts, huckaback, checks, stripes, calicoes, chintzes, stationary, 20 casks of porter, 40 do. of bottled beer, cheese, hats, cotton romals, a variety of saddlery, pewter, haberdashery, earthen and glass ware, &c. &c. &c.

Captain Ogilvie, who was master of the Apalachicola on the voyage to London from St. Augustine, and was a passenger in her when taken by Capt. Allen, informs us, that in the end of December last, a few leagues to the westward of Bermuda, he fell in with the sloop Mary, Thomas Jones master, from Edenton to Cape Nichola Mole, then a mere wreck. Captain Ogilvie took the master and his six sailors on board, and carried them to England. In the Downs the sailors were pressed by a boat from the Speedwell sloop of war; some of them giving information that Capt. Jones had been lieutenant of an American privateer, he was also taken away, and was on board the Speedwell the last time Capt. Ogilvie heard of him.

JOURNAL OF THE NEW YORK COUNCIL OF SAFETY¹

[Fishkill] Die Veneris, 9 HO. A. M. June 6, 1777.

Mr. Robert R. Livingston reported the draft of a letter to General Putnam, in answer to his of the fourth instant, relative to the Continental ships and row galleys, which was read and approved, and is in the words following, to wit:

Sir – The Council has desired me, in answer to yours of the fourth instant, to inform you that the late Convention were sensible of the importance of equipping the Continental ships in Hudson's river, and repeatedly wrote to Congress and applied to His Excellency the General, on that subject. Had the means been in their hands, they would, without waiting any further directions, have employed them for that purpose. But such is the situation of this State, from the loss of its seaport, and the dispersion of its inhabitants, that it would be utterly impossible to procure seamen enough to man a single galley, or if even they could be obtained, the want of cannon and many other stores would be an insuperable obstacle to fitting out the ships. Many of the cannon that belong to or could be purchased in this State, have been lost or transported out of this State. We were obliged to borrow a few from the State of Connecticut for the forts in the Highlands.

The Council understood from Major-General Greene's letter, that His Excellency the General, would provide means for arming and manning the ships, and accordingly sent them down at his request. It gives them great pain to find from your favour, that any thing should be expected from this State, which their unfortunate situation puts it out of their power to procure.

They beg leave to suggest to you whether the most speedy and effectual means for equipping the ships would not be to obtain men and guns from one of the neighbouring States, or from the ships that are blocked up at Providence and are like to be useless for sometime. Marines might be furnished out of the Continental troops.

As, sir, you seem sensible of the importance of this business, the Council rely upon your endeavours to see it accomplished; in doing which, they will give you all the assistance which the slender means in their power enable them to afford.

As the Council are informed that the post at Peekskill is now strongly guarded, they flatter themselves that scouting parties in the county of Westchester will prevent any future depredations of the enemy, and deprive them of all supplies from that county.

I am, sir, &c.

Major-General Putnam.

Ordered, That a copy be signed by the President, and transmitted.

Die Veneris, 4 ho. P. M. June 6, 1777.

A letter from the Honourable Phil. Livingston and William Duer, Esqr. at Congress, dated the 31st May, enclosing a resolution of Congress, of the 23rd May, were read, and are in the words following, viz:

Philada. 31st May, 1777.

Sir – We transmit you the resolution of Congress, of 23rd May, 1777, relative to the manning and fitting out two galleys for the defence of the North River. We wish that Mr. [Lewis] Morris who was desired by Convention to write on this subject, had transmitted his letter to the board of war through us, as we then should have been able (in all probability) to have obtained a resolution for fitting those gallies at the Continental expense. For want of previous information, the resolution enclosed was passed without that attention which might otherwise have been paid to it.

We by no means are of opinion that there is any similarity betwixt the State of New-York and other States who have fitted out vessels of this nature.

The use of these vessels in Hudson's river is chiefly to protect the chain near the forts in the Highlands, and by that means keep up the communication betwixt the southern and eastern States. In other States they have been built for the purpose of protecting their own harbours and towns. The purpose, therefore, for which the vessels on Hudson's river are intended, being Continental, the expense ought, in our opinion, to be the same.

If the Council of Safety should be of the same opinion with us, and write to Congress on this subject, we shall procure a reconsideration of this resolution, and exert ourselves to make the fitting and manning these vessels a Continental charge. In the mean time, we think it will be for the interest and safety of the State to exert themselves in equipping and manning these vessels with the utmost despatch.

We are directed by Mr. [Francis] Lewis to inform you that the accounts of the sloop Montgomery will be forwarded in two or three days, together with the share of prize money due to the captors.

We are, sir, with great respect [&c.]

In Council Annapolis 6th June 1777.

We have no Prospect of being able soon to get the Row Gallies which we have already commissioned, rigged or manned, we can get neither Cordage or Hands, and therefore believe nothing better can be done with that at Joppa than is already done with her; we shall be obliged to you to continue the Hands to keep her upper Works wet and take Care of her . . .

In Council Annapolis 6th June 1777.

We learn from Mr Hooe that your Sloop must have new Shrouds before she goes out again. You will therefore apply to Mr Lowndes, who we request to furnish you in preference of any, except the Defence, and proceed to Annapolis. Mr Hooe writes ² that it would be agreeable to you to go on a Cruise, we are inclined to fit you out for that Purpose, as the Freights and small Cargoes do not appear to us to justify the Expence of the Number of Men necessary for an armed Vessel, we will soon determine, on seeing you, whether the Molly is to fight or trade. GOVERNOR EDWARD HAY TO THE LORDS COMMISSIONERS, TREASURY¹

My Lords,

Barbadoes 6th June 1777

I have the honor to acquaint your Lordships that Thomas Pringle Esqr Commander of His Maj's Ship Ariadne has taken an American Privatier called the Musquito of Fourteen Guns and seventy men and upwards, and brought her Yesterday into Carlisle Bay in this Island. Capn Pringle purposes to take all the officers of the Privatier with him, and to leave the common Men here, who will be landed this afternoon to the Number of Sixty and upwards.² I have given Orders to the Deputy Provost Marshall to receive them and to put them under close Confinement in the common Goal with a sufficient Guard to prevent their Escape, and that a moderate and competent daily allowance of Provision be given to each man, the Expence of which I make myself answerable for. These men will be kept under Confinement until I receive your Lordships Commands in what manner I am to dispose of them. I will likewise beg the Favour of your Lordships to give me directions who I may apply to for my Reimbursement of the Charges I shall have been at in maintaining these prisoners, and other Expences relative thereto.

As I have hitherto received no Instructions relative to Rebel Prisoners I hope your Lordships will do me the honor to give me such general Orders as may be a rule for me to act by, upon any future occasion of the like nature.

French or Spanish Prisoners in time of War with those Nations used sometimes to be dispersed among the Merchant Ships of the homeward bound Convoys. I do not dare to venture to do so with these Americans for fear they should be put on Shore in England and left at their Liberty. I have the honor to be with great respect Your Lordships [&c.]

Die Sabbati, 10 HO. A.M. June 7, 1777.

Resolved, that the Honourable the Congress, have from the commencement of the war with Great Britain, considered the security of Hudson's river as an object of the utmost importance to the safety of America: and thereupon, ordered at the Continental expense the erecting of fortifications thereon, and by various resolutions empowered the Commander-in-Chief, and the late Convention of this State, to obstruct the navigation thereof and to build vessels of war for its security.

Resolved, That it appears to this Council from the representations of the Honourable Major-General Putnam, of the fourth instant, that it is necessary for the defence of the river that the Continental galleys now in Hudson's river be fitted and manned; and that the general cause of America may not suffer by any delay in manning the same.

Resolved, That Captain Cook, who is commander of the Lady Washington galley, by appointment from His Excellency General Washington be requested to cause the said galleys to be properly manned and fitted for service and that this Council will advance the money necessary for that purpose.

THREE BRITISH NAVAL LIEUTENANTS TO CAPTAIN THOMAS PRINGLE, R.N. ¹

To Captain Pringle late Commander of His Majestys Fleet on the Lake Champlain

Sir

A letter from you to the secretary of the Admiralty dated on board the Maria at Crown Point Octr 15th 1776 appeared in the London Gazette of Novr 23d following,² which has only reached us now, wherein you congratulate with pleasure their Lordships upon the victory compleated on the 13th of that month by His Majesty's Fleet under your command on the lake Champlain, and proceed to claim the merit of that service to yourself and Lieutenant [James Richard] Dacres as the principal agents without mentioning the name of any other officer employed in it – Now Sir in order to do justice, and to undeceive the public who must have formed a very wrong idea of that affair from your letter, we do affirm it to be untrue! And that in the preparing and fitting out of the fleet, and also in its operations afterwards, no officer or other person employed therein had so small a share as yourself. But to proceed and trace your letter throughout – “upon the 11th I came up with the Rebel fleet command by Benedict Arnold: They were at anchor under the island of Valcour and formed a strong line extending from the island to the west side of the continent” – Although you had information of their being there the night before, you formed no plan nor made any disposition of the fleet under your command to attack them, which you was advised to do the next day before you had seen them; this neglect, whether proceeding from want of capacity or want of inclination, was the true reason of their not being brought to action, and not so very unfavourable a wind as you are pleased to say. It is farther to be observed that when the rebel fleet was discovered, and the Inflexible and Carleton went in chace of them, the Thunderer, the Loyal Convert, and the Gun boats also followed, but irregularly, having no order how to proceed: But each endeavoring to the utmost of his power to attack and destroy the enemy, and did effectual service on the occasion, while yourself in the Maria lay too with the topsails, and was the only person in the fleet who showed no inclination to fight. You farther say “the Carleton schooner commanded by Mr Dacres by much perseverance at last got in to their assistance; but as none of the other vessels of the fleet could then get up I did not think it by any means advisable to continue so partial and unequal a combat.” – Nothing can be more untrue & ungenerous than this assertion. The Inflexible was in the bay and fired several broadsides with much effect, having sunk one of the rebel Gundalos, and was the cause of the Royal savage being run on shore and abandoned by the rebels. The Loyal Convert was also in the bay, whose commander boarded the Royal savage, made some of her crew not then escaped prisoners, turned her guns upon the rebel fleet, and fought till half of the men who boarded with him were kill'd; from which circumstance, and the Convert having fallen to leeward, he was obliged to quit her, which vessel was most shamefully lost, by your not sending the assistance to get her off as he (Lieut Longcroft) desired. The Maria which was the best sailer you brought to an anchor yourself, Lieutenant Starke having refused it as an act truly unbecoming on such an occasion. But let us proceed, you say "consequently with the approbation of His Excellency General Carleton, who did me the honor of being on board the Maria, I called off the Carleton and Gunboats, and brought the whole fleet to an anchor in a line as near as possible to the rebels, that their retreat might be cut off." This Sir is also untrue! The fact is, your signals were confused and not understood as Mr Dacres declared; the Gunboats were called off by the generals aid de camp by his order, and the Carleton was towed off by the Inflexibles boats independent of you: and the fleet was not brought to an anchor as near as possible to the rebels, for the Maria weighed and run out about half a mile from the place where you had anchored her before as did also the Carleton still farther, and the Inflexible was ordered by you to anchor near the Maria not to make the line too extensive: By which means, the rear of the British line was at least one mile from the western shore, and the van beyond the small island at the Southern end of Valcour. From this disposition Sir, and not from the extreme obscurity of the night as you are pleased to say, the rebels escaped:— And had it not been for a most fortunate shift of wind from NNW to South, you never would have seen them more. The Gunboats also which were a very considerable part of the fleet, were not put in the line, nor formed into any order whatever, nor was any order or signal for attack given to the officers commanding them, in case the rebels had been discovered making their escape. But to proceed "upon the 13th I again saw eleven sail of their fleet making off to Crown Point, who after a chase of seven hours I came up with in the Maria, leaving the Carleton and Inflexible astern"; — It is true the Maria got up with the rebel fleet owing to her being the best sailer, and not owing to you, who took in your oars and lowered the topgallant sails, and also kept at a greater distance when abreast of the Congress galley, than any officer inspired with true courage in his countrys cause would have done. But let us ask you why the Maria, as also the Inflexible and Carleton did not continue the chase after the rest of the rebel fleet, when the Congress and the four Gondalos had run on shore, instead of being ordered to ply to windward again to prevent the rebels from burning them, which was then seen to be already effected? Had this been done, the Galley, the Schooner and the Gondal that escaped, must inevitably have been taken; or shared the same fate. But how the narrowness of the Lake, or the wind being of [f] shore, which were not true, were circumstances in their favor we can not conceive —

As to the number of killed and wounded in the fleet you never took the trouble to know it, and had not others, touched with compassion for the widows and orphans of those brave men who fell in their countrys cause, made enquiry into the matter, they must have been deprived of the benefits His Majesty is pleased to allow them.

As to the Modesty and merit of Mr Dacres which you are pleased so strenuously to recommend we do not call them in question, but we think it no proof of either, in him or you, to suppress that of others, particularly of the officers of the Artillery who commanded the Gunboats, that did more service in the first days action than all the rest of the fleet, and exerted themselves with a spirit & intrepidity equal to british seamen, or any other men that ever existed – But we must observe as a mark of the modesty & merit so well recommended, that your letter such as it is here shewn to be was smuggled from the fleet in so clandestine a manner, that no other officer had any notice of such design till about half an hour before its departure. But you will certainly acknowledge that you received a copy of Lieutenant Schank's letter to Captain Douglas on the same occasion, which was sent you from Quebec, as the account of the action therein related differed so widely from yours, no part of which you ever denied, as may be seen by Captain Douglas's letter to Mr Schank, in answer.

It may now be inferred from what is here related, which we are ready to give proof of to those who have authority to decide thereon, that in addition to the promotion you have already received for your valour & good conduct, you are still entitled to a farther reward by act of parliament, clearly pointed out in the 12th & 13th articles of war – We call upon Lieutenant [George] Scott and Lieutt [Thomas] Butler of the Royal Navy, as also the officers of the 29th Regt and of the Royal artillery, who were witnesses of almost every transaction here related – To the truth of which we set our hands at St Johns June the 8th 1777

Number 31.

Eagle Off New York

Sir,

June the 8th 1777.

The Isis arriving here with the Swift the 7th Instant, I have received the Orders from the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty of the 18th of March last, regarding the Destination of the Camel and Bute; and your several Letters of the 19th, 20th and 22d of that Month.

I received the same Day from Sir peter Parker, the Particulars respecting the Escape of the Ships armed by the Rebels at Boston, as contained in the paper of Intelligence, which with the Commodore's Letter and my Answer, is sent enclosed.²

The Commodore not mentioning any other Circumstances in his Letter relative to that Matter, besides the Day the Armed Ships sailed from Boston, and the time the Diamond returned to Rhode-Island, I am not able to form any satisfactory Opinion of the Course and probable Destination of those Ships. My present Instructions to the Commodore have therefore been confined entirely to the farther Security of the Transports sent to receive the Forage collected in the Bay of Fundy.

The Attendance of the Ships of War which might otherwise be spared from occasional Service within the Limits of this Port, being necessary to co-operate in the expected Movements of the Army, I am not able, at this Crisis, to make any Detachment from the Number, to proceed in pursuit of the Enemy, which under other Circumstances would be proper. The Return transmitted with my Letter of the 5th, will shew the Appointments made for the Guard of the port of Boston when the Enemy put to Sea.

Captain [Christopher] Mason arrived here also on the 7th Instant in the Dispatch; with the Springfield and two more Transports, part of the Convoy that sailed from England under the Charge of Captain [Richard] Onslow. As the Separation happened when they were not more than one h[undred] and fifty Leagues from this port, the Arrival of [the] Saint Albans with the rest of the Transports may be daily expected.

The Camel will proceed immediately for Antigua: Captain Finch being charged with the Packet that was to be conveyed by that Opportunity to Vice Admiral Young; Together with the Dispatch of which the Copy is hereunto annexed. The same Information will be communicated to Vice Admiral Gayton by the Bute, as soon as the most necessary Repairs stated in the Account of that Ship's Defects enclosed with my former Letter, can be completed.

Copy
Sir,

Eagle Off New York
June the 8th 1777.

I was last night favored with your letter of the 31st of May by the Kingfisher, respecting the Contents of a Paper of Intelligence received from Captain Feilding therewith enclosed.

As you have not mentioned any other Circumstances of the Case in your Letter besides the day the Enemy's Ships are said to have escaped from Boston, and the time the Diamond arrived at Rhode Island, I am unable to form any Opinion of the Course & probable Destination of the Rebels, since their Departure from Boston. But as some Transports have been employed to collect Forage at the different Ports in the Bay of Fundy as expressed in the Return enclosed, and I have not been informed that they have yet sailed from thence, for Halifax or this Port; I think it advisable that the Flora (now on her passage to Rhode Island) should be immediately dispatched to the Station of the three Frigates You had ordered to Sea under Capt Jacobs. That being joined by one of those Frigates, or by the Mermaid and Ambuscade or either of them, Capt Brisbane should forthwith Repair to the Bay of Fundy; And taking the Transports under Convoy if still in that Bay, or otherwise proceeding to Halifax to make further Enquiry concerning them, to conduct them (in case he meets them) to this Port.

Having performed that Service he will be to return to you at Rhode Island, [or] elsewhere to proceed as you may direct; if he [does] not receive any contrary Instructions on his arrival here as aforesaid.

If he should not fall in with either of the several Ships of the Squadron before mentioned [in] six days after his Arrival off of the East End of Georges Bank, I would then have him repair for Intelligence of the Transports to Halifax. He is on his arrival there, to communicate the Information of the Escape of the Continental Armed-Ships from Boston, to the Senior Captain of the Ships of War at that Port, and to the Lieutenant Governor, and Commander of the Land Forces [in] the Province: And afterwards to conduct himself for the purpose of his present appointment, as [the] Service may require.

You will however be pleased to observe, that these General Ideas, oc-curing upon such knowledge of the Enemy's Motions as I have yet only received, are not meant to preclude you from making any Change in the Appointments which you see reason, upon more perfect Information [of] the Enemy's Intentions, in your Discretion to direct. I have the honor to be, Sir, [&c.]

Sir,

Eagle Off New York
June the 8th 1777.

Enclosed herewith I have the Honor to transmit to You a Dispatch from the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty, which I received yesterday by the Isis.

The Camel being ready, Captain [William Clement] Finch puts to Sea immediately as their Lordships have directed, to take your Orders for his further Proceedings.

I think it proper to trouble You at the same time with a paper of Intelligence I received last Night from the Commodore Sir peter Parker, who commands a detached Squadron stationed at Rhode Island. As the Commodore does not mention in his Letter relative thereto, any other Circumstance besides the Day the Armed Ships are said to have escaped from Boston, the 21st past; and the Day the Diamond, by which he received the Intelligence, arrived at Rhode Island, being the 29th of the same Month; I am not able to form any satisfactory Opinion of the Course and probable Destination of the Enemy's Ships since such their supposed Departure from Boston.

If you will please to fix a Longitude at which the Convoys from the Leeward Islands shall attempt to pass the Meridian of Bermuda, and the time near about which they will be to sail at the different Seasons; I will endeavor by suitable Appointmen[ts] from this Squadron, to co-operate effectually in the Means for securing a safe Passage to the homeward-bound Trade on their return to Europe.

The Nomination You have been pleased [to] make to vacant Offices in the Ships of the Squadron under my Command touching lately at Antigua, being inconsistent with the Authority annexed [to] my Appointment, it became incumbent on me to displace the Officers upon their Arrival. And as I am to presume that their presence may be necessary in the Ships to which they properly belong, Lieutenant [Thomas] Windsor and such of the other Officers who are prepared to profit by the Opportunity, have been directed to take their passage in the Camel, to receive your Commands for their further Proceedings in Consequence.

Instructions and Standing Orders for the Government and Discipline of the Ships of War

Whereas an Uniform system of discipline established in this Squadron, would be productive of many essential Benefits; the subsequent Regulations prepared in that view, are to be conformed to, and Continued in force 'till further Order.

I

Every Ship is to be provided with a Publick Orderly Book wherein is to be Entered all Orders and directions issued for the current daily services; likewise such parts of all General Orders given from time to time and extracts of these Instructions, as may be necessary for the Instruction of the inferior Officers, and Ship's Companys in the duties required of them; for which purpose the Officers summoned by signal on board the Admiral, or Commander of any Division, whereof they make a Part are to attend with the Orderly Book of the Ships to which they belong, to transcribe from that of the Admiral or other Commanding Officer's Ship, such Orders & directions as are then to be given out.

The Orderly Book to be kept on the Quarter Deck, Subject to the inspection of every Person belonging to the Ship —

II

The Petty Officers & Seamen of the Ship's Company, are to be formed into two or three divisions, according to the Complement and Classes of the Ship; each Division to be under the inspection of a Lieutenant, & subdivided into Squads, with a Midshipman appointed to each, who are respectively to be responsible for the good Order & discipline of the Men entrusted to their Care. In forming these divisions & subdivisions, regard is to be had to make them as convenient as may be to the Mens Stations, in the Quarter & Watch Bills, & to their Berths; and each Officer is to keep an exact list of the Names of the Men in their divisions & Squads, noticing thereon their several stations & number of their hammock: and the like references are to be made on the Watch & Quarter Bills, to their division or Squad, for the more ready calling them to their duty, or being able to account for their absence —

In Port they are to Call the Men over by the said lists, morning & evening, at such hours as the Captain of the Ship shall appoint, and finding any Absent or faulty, report it to the Commanding Officer on board at the time; & to enable them to perform this part of their duty with regularity, notice is always to be given them when any man under their Care has leave of Absence, or otherwise, or for what time, that they may attend to the time of his return —

III

The Marines and Soldiers are to be put into divisions under their Proper Officers, as in the Preceding Article —

At Sea their relieves & tours of duty (except when placed as Centry) are to be the same as the seamens' but in Port when the more necessary services of the Ship and their Number will admit of it, they are to be divided into three Guards, and to mount for twenty four hours, or a shorter time as the Captain of the Ship sees fit; They are always to mount their Guard in their Uniforms, and after sunset, the Centinels are to give the Word, All's Well, every ten Minutes or quarter of an hour, beginning with the one on the starboard side of the Poop, repeating it forward on that side, and round back again on the Larboard; In case of not being answered the Centinel who repeated the word last to alarm the Guard. —

The Centinels are to challenge all boats coming to, or passing near the Ship in the Night: And not permitt any to come on board, nor any Persons to enter, or go from the Ship after sunset and before sunrise without leave first obtained from the Officer of the Watch; They are not to suffer any noise to be made on their Posts other than what is necessary in the business of the Ship; and in Case of any Misdemeanor or Neglect of Duty, they are to be regularly relieved before any Punishment is inflicted on them upon that account —

The Marines are not to be forced to go aloft, nor, on the other hand, are they to be restrained from rendering themselves expert in a seamen's duty, at proper Opportunitys agreeable to the Standing Instructions —

IV

It is recommended to the Captains to form their Ships' Companys at three Watches at Sea, whenever their Number, health, abilities & diligence will admit of that Indulgence, especially the Petty Officers, that they may execute their duty with greater Punctuallity and exactness whilst it is their turn to be upon the Watch: In order to facilitate this arrangement, the Admiral has the Intention to give timely notice whenever he is about to Tack, or to make any other alteration that may require more Assistance —

Cleanliness & wholesome Air between decks, being of the utmost Consequence to health, every convenient means of Preserving, and obtaining those important requisites, are to be used: The upper deck washed daily, the lower deck twice, or Oftner, & the Orlop at least once a Week, the Weather and other necessary services admitting thereof —

The Beams & Plank over the sick Berths are to be occasionally washed with Vinegar; these Also to be fumigated once a Month or oftner in damp Weather, by burning tar with a logger head, or firing small quantities of gunpowder, if the sick are in a State to Admit their being moved up from between decks; as it will be necessary the Ports & Hatches should be Closed during these Operations —

The Wind sails are to be kept down the hatches in day time; and the ventilators worked uninterruptedly, night and day —

The Hammocoes are to be got up in fine weather and stowed in the nettings, or constantly lashed up when not occupied; and no greater Number of Chests, or other incumbrances, allowed between decks, to interrupt the free Circulation of Air, than what are absolutely necessary for the requisite accomodation of the Ship's Company —

The times of washing the lower & orlop decks, fumigating the Ship, and every other means taken for the preservation of health, are to be set down in the log book; or the reasons why they were omitted —

VI

As a sufficient quantity of dry, warm cloathing, to afford the men a change when needfull, will much contribute to the beneficial Purposes before mentioned, it is highly necessary an accurate account should be had of the several articles each man is furnished with as well as to prevent thefts & frauds. The Lieutenants having command of divisions are always therefore to take a muster of the cloathing of each man under the degree of a Petty Officer in their respective divisions, as soon as may be after the Ship puts to Sea, and cause an entry to be made thereof in a book provided for that Purpose. Every casual alteration by loss, exchange, purchase, or donation is to be noticed therein; that it may be had recourse to for comparing the claimant's demand on any Complaint of theft, to ascertain the facts: And the men for whose peculiar benefit this regulation is calculated, should be exhorted to punctuallity in giving notice of such alterations to their Officers, for the mutual Justification of all Parties —

No Person is to appropriate to his own use any cloaths, of what kind soever, negligently left about the decks, under pretence of not being able to find an Owner for them; But he is to bring such Cloathing to the Officer of the Watch, for his directions in the disposal of it. And if it is discovered to be in his Possession for any other intent, it shall be deemed a theft, and the Offender punished accordingly —

The Midshipmen are to examine the cloathing of their respective Squads weekly; to take care that the men keep themselves clean; that they do not lose or otherwise dispose of their necessary cloathing; and that their hammocks are scrubbed & washed at proper intervals: For which Purpose the ordering up a certain number every morning in succession, will probably be necessary. They are to make due reports on these heads to the Commanding Lieutenants of their divisions —

The Lieutenants are to see the Midshipmen carefully perform this part of their duty, and acquaint their Captains from time to time what necessary cloathing each man wants; that orders may be given for supplying them, as far as it may be done consistent with the General Instructions concerning slops —

On the First Muster of the Cloathing the Lieutenants are to direct such Part thereof as may be requisite for the Men at Sea, to be stowed in their hammocks; that there may be no Occasion to keep between decks a greater Number of Chests than are absolutely necessary —

Whenever boats are sent from the Ship on duty, or otherwise, care should be taken that none go in them but the regular boats Crews; or such others as shall be appointed by the commanding Officer, instead of any one sick or absent; and it is Particularly recommended to the respective Officers, not to keep nor suffer the Boats to remain on Shore longer than is absolutely necessary, and never after dark, which is too frequently the cause of desertion —

When boats are sent for water or Stores, the Officer of whatever Rank he be, who is sent in the charge of them, is to stay and attend Punctually to that duty, and be carefull to keep the men together; and so soon as they have got in their lading, he is to proceed directly, (wind & tide permitting) back to the Ship. The touching on Shore and letting the Men leave the Boat, is generally productive of the embezzlement of Stores, if they have any in, and other irregularitys —

Upon all Occasions where boats are sent on any service, in the execution of which they may expect opposition, care shu'd be taken to furnish them with Proper Arms and Ammunition, & likewise with water & Provisions, if they are likely to be absent for so long a time, as to make it necessary for the men to have refreshment —

Particular Attention should be had, never to suffer the boats to lye beating alongside the Ship, but always to keep them moored astern, with proper boat keepers, & the fenders out, & at night to hoist them in, having a boat on each side, with the tackles on her, ready to be put into the Water, on any emergency —

VIII

A Midshipman of the Watch to inspect between decks once at least every hour during the Night, to see no tobacco is smoaked, or lights burning in any Part of the Ship, but such as are allowed; that the Centinels are not negligent on their Posts and that the Ventilators are worked —

IX

A Mate or Midshipman is to attend the several Warrant Officers to their storerooms, when any stores are wanted, to prevent accidents by carelessness and inattention to the Lights: And the Warrant Officers respectively are strictly enjoined not to receive or lodge in their Storerooms, any Spirituous Liquors, or other Articles whatsoever, except the Stores committed to their Charge, for the Service of the Ship —

X

A Constant lookout is to be kept at the Mast heads while at Sea, or in any other situation where it may be necessary to watch the approach or passage of Strange Ships: The Men appointed to this duty are generally to be relieved every half hour: But in case they are the first discoverers of any such Ship or the land, then, by way of reward, they are to be relieved immediately: As on the Contrary, they are to be kept up for double duty, if, through their neglect, such discovery is first made from any other Part of the Ship —

The Midshipmen of the Watch, or other discreet Persons, are to be successively charged with looking out for Signals from the Admiral's or any other Ship; And no Signals are to be made but on very extraordinary and urgent Occasions without the previous knowledge & direction of the Commander of the Ship —

XI

The Lieutenant of the Watch is to see marked in the logbook all Signals; every Change of Sail; the Proportion of leeway the Ship shall in his judgement make; and all other observations & occurrences that may happen while he is in Charge of the Ship, by day or night, and attest such entries with the initial letters of his Name —

XII

The Ship's Companys are to be exercised at all convenient times with the Great Guns & Small arms, untill they become expert in the Use & Management of them agreeable to their several Stations in the Quarter Bills. And the sooner to perfect them, this is to be practiced every day at sea in fair Weather when at third Watch by a certain Number off duty, but when at watch and watch, confined to those on duty. When the Seamen quartered to the Great Guns have acquired a compleat knowledge of that part of their duty, they are to be instructed in the use of small arms, and lists kept of those so qualified, in readiness to make a report of their Number to the Admiral when called upon —

The Captains are at liberty to fire in the exercise of the small arms when they see fit. But are never to use Powder or Ball in that of the Great Guns without an Order or Signal from the Admiral —

XIII

It is expected the Captains will take every opportunity when fitting or getting ready for sea, and all other seasonable times, to accustom their raw men to go aloft, and to have them instructed & Practiced in the several dutys incident to fitting or working a Ship, that they may be qualified, as soon as possible, to do the duty of Able Seamen; For this hand they are at liberty to loose, hand, furl, or unbend a Course, or topsail when they see fit, without regarding the Admiral's example in those instances: They will with the same view also be permitted to change a topmast or topsail yard then aloft; first signifying such their desire to the Admiral, and no Particular [signal] occuring to the contrary —

XIV

A Sufficient Number of Guns are to be kept loaded with Powder only, for making Signals, and False Fires and Signal Lanthorns always brought up, and Placed ready for that purpose at the Close of Day. When Signals are made in the Night, care is to be taken to keep the Lanthorns covered till Placed; and then to show all the Lights at once: Spare ones are to be in readiness to replace any that may be blown out, and when the Signal is taken in, they are to be covered again. The utmost care is also to be taken (especially in Flag Ships) when any Signal is to be made that no other Lights, except the distinguishing ones, be seen from any other Part of the Ship, nor any carried about uncovered when sailing or cruizing at Sea; in order to Prevent the Inconveniencies which might arise, by such lights being mistaken for a Signal —

XV

As it is highly Proper all the Ships should be kept in a Constant State of readiness for Action, Particularly to prevent any surprize in the Night, it is strongly recommended to the several Captains to see the Officers in their different departments, have every thing depending on them in that state: Slings for the yards, Puddings, Dolphins, preventer Braces, and Stoppers, ready to apply at the shortest notice; fire buckets at hand, Spare tiller fitted, wings clear, fire booms Placed conveniently for use, passages to the Magazines always clear before night, after Platform in state to receive the wounded, a Sufficient Number of Lanthorns prepared; & that the Casks of Drinking Water (disposed in proper Places for the refreshment of the men at their Quarters in time of Action) be kept Constantly filled and in good Condition —

Spare Arms, Spikes, Ammunition, &c should at all times be ready, & carefully disposed for the seamen quartered on the upper deck & forecastle, for either boarding or being boarded, and Great advantage may be derived from the use of fine Sennet splinter nettings, when time & materials can be had for making them —

When at Anchor the Bow Chace should be loaded with grape shot, and broad axes always laid at hand to cut; and Slip buoys put on the Cable to slip whenever directed so to do —

XVI

On Discovery of Strange ships in the night, the Officer of the Watch is to make it known to the Captain, without loss of time: but if they are seen near, & suddenly, his first attention is to be directed to get the Ship immediately under Command, by filling sail without delay if before lying to; making more, or less sail, as shall be requisite to keep her disengaged, untill duly Prepared for Action, or that he receives the Captain's further Orders thereon. In such exigency he is to give Notice of his discovery by a Midshipman to his Commander, and the other Principal Officers of the Ship, according to the directions which he shall have received in that respect —

XVII

On the beat to Arms, or other general call of the Ship's Company to Quarters in the Night, it is meant that the divisions of the Ship's Company, not of the watch, with the commissioned and inferior Officers appropriated to them, should attend to see the crows, handspikes, rammers, sponges, Powder horns, Priming wires, or tubes, and shot, & Wads provided and properly placed for the Guns on the lower deck; the Guns unlashed, but not run out; the tackles bighted in lengths, and laid along by the side of them; match carefully disposed in the tubs; one lighted lanthorn hung up behind each Gun amidships; and a Provision of sand or cinders to strew upon the decks, in a small [tub] placed between every two Guns —

The Marine Serjeants are to provide spare ammunition for the Marine quarters, and the grenades; taking care to have them properly covered; and separately secured —

The Ship's steward, and his mates, or other persons appointed to act with him under the Surgeons directions, should be charged with the Care of placing, at the same time, lights for his occasions — who are not of trust to be relied on for this important duty, should be appointed and noted in the several lists, to receive from those charged with the distribution of them, the proper number of Cartridges in cases, for their respective guns; which cases should be placed on the opposite side to that on which it is expected to engage, and moved over, from time to time, in the progress of the Action, as occasion may require. The men so appointed should be made sensible, by a proper intimation, of the consequence of this service confided to their special discretion & care.

It is recommended, for an invariable practice in action, (more especially during the night) to be provided to make as many discharges as can be prudently attempted, on the first junction with the enemy; not only on account of the impression a vigorous effort of this kind cannot fail to make from a Ship well placed, but as the difference of drift in any two Ships, and the difficulty of keeping their Stations from damage to their rigging are such, as quickly to separate them to a distance from each other, and render their subsequent discharges precarious, or of no effect —

A very particular attention is necessary to be had to the lower deck Ports in Squally weather, or on occasion of putting in stays, or hauling to the wind suddenly in time of Action; the Officers on the lower decks should be timely informed of the Captain's intentions thereon, for their Government accordingly; and the Benefits of frequent use in the lashing and securing in exercise, by the men quartered to them, will be sensibly experienced on these occurrences —

It is to be observed, that it is not meant, by anything before mentioned, to restrain the Captains from making such special arrangements and provisions for the better discipline and good government of their Ships, as they see occasion to establish; the details, in either instance, where it has been touched upon in these instructions, have been introduced rather with an explanatory meaning than to a complete and circumstantial limitation —

Nevertheless with respect to the Provisions unnoticed; as, (amongst others) for preventing excess in the use of spirituous liquors, or the necessary appointment of the Men to different stations for working the Ship, left to be added; it is the object of these instructions to have the details, in all cases, expressed in the orderly Book as full as the nature of them will admit, for the Information of Persons concerned; that no Plea of Ignorance, or want of sufficient opportunity to become acquainted with the Particular duties required of them, may with reason be alledged in excuse of any omission or misconduct therein —

XIX

Whenever a demand is made for stores at any of the dock yards or Ports where naval officers are established, the warrant officers in whose department it is, are to accompany it with an abstract of their supplies, expence, and remains; that the officer of such yard or Port may be enabled to judge of the regularity of the demand, before it is comply'd with, and particular attention is to be had that no conversion be made, of Stores, to other purposes than those for which they were intended, without a written order; nor any fallacious expence of them set down in the expence books. As however meritorious the intention of such practices may have been, they have given rise to much complaint in the Publick Offices, of abuses committed under those pretexes, and therefore it is necessary for the Kings service they should be suppressed —

And the respective Warrant Officers are to take notice that if any of the Stores under their care shall be misapplied, damaged, or wasted, for want of their representing to their Captain, or Commanding Officer, anything that might have prevented it, the same will be considered as a notorious breach of their duty, and they will be made to answer for it accordingly —

XX

All suitable opportunities are to be taken for keeping the ships complete in their stores, water, & Provisions, up to the time expressed in the last Orders the Captains have received in that respect; without waiting for other instructions therein —

As the advancement of the Public service requires an equitable participation of the Aids, whether in men or Stores, that can be spared for the benefit of this armament; it is with confidence inferred, that the Captains will not suffer any errors in the returns made of men or Stores, or Qualities or sufficiencies of either to escape their notice & correction —

VICE ADMIRAL RICHARD LORD HOWE'S ADDITIONAL INSTRUCTIONS TO THE FLEET ¹

Additional Instructions respecting the Conduct of the Fleet preparative to, and in Action with the Enemy —

Art I

The Chief Purpose of a regular disposition of the Ships limited to Place and Distance in the stated order of Battle, being that they may remain as little as possible exposed on their approach to the Fire of more than the Particular Ships corresponding in Station in the Enemy's Line; Or be subject to receive any injury from each other; And as a Strict adherence thereto, may on many occasions be found prejudicial to the Service by restraining the Captains from taking advantage of the favourable incidents which may occur in the Progress of a General Action; it is the Object of these Instructions to facillitate the Means of improving such opportunities by an Authorised deviation from those restrictive appointments.

This meant that the British Van should be extended to the headmost Ship of the Enemy's Van at all times, preparative to General Action in regular Order of Battle between the two Fleets, Tho' they Consist of a greater Number of Ships. And it is equally desirable on that Occasion, that the same Care, should be taken in the Rear, to engage more particularly the Sternmost Ships of their Rear; that no unoccupied Ships may be left at either extremity of their Line, to facillitate any attempt to double on some Part of the British Fleet. Tho' it is judged that such use of their superiority, proposed to be made by an unexperienced Enemy, will be proportionally guarded against, as the Ships of the Fleet, subject to be affected thereby, shall be more Closely engaged with their immediate Opponents in the Enemy's Line.

In respect to the limitation and Rule, for the Government of the Captains with whom the Option must remain in either case, with Relation to the particular Parts of the Enemy's line, wherein it may be advisable to leave such unoccupied Ships in the meantime; It is recommended to those commanding Ships of greater force to disregard or pass the weaker and worst sailing ships of the Enemy and confine their first Endeavours solely to disable the stronger and more active, as their accidental Situations in the Line afford Opportunity —

In the case of weathering the Enemy's Van preparatory to a General Action, being then approaching each other on different Tacks, the Fleet is to continue standing on as before untill further direction. And as soon as the Admiral has judged the Van to be advanced far enough on towards the rear of the Enemy to allow a Sufficient space for the Ships to form and bring up properly against those opposed to them in the Enemy's Line respectively when come too on the other Tack; He may be expected to make the Signal for the Rear to tack first, or the whole Fleet to tack together, as he sees most Convenient for coming upon the Line of Bearing best suited to the Position of the Enemy and he will afterwards shape a Course for bringing the Ships into Action with them accordingly. The several Commanders will therefore be prepared for such Evolution.

But if any Number of Ships of the Enemy's Rear should Tack, an equal Number of the Sternmost Ships in the British Line are to do the Same in Succession after that which will then become the leading Ship; and being thereby formed in line ahead parallel to those of the Enemy, tacking as aforesaid, are to engage them in that situation unless otherwise by Signal directed —

IV

When arriving up with the Enemy on the same tack having the Wind of them; and they are observed to be lying too or waiting under an easy Sail by the Wind in line of Battle ahead but at such a distance to Leeward that the Fleet is not liable to be materially injured by their Fire, the Admiral will then most probably chuse to continue on upon the same Course, untill the Van of the Fleet appears to be advanced within a sufficient distance of the Extent of the Enemy's Van. He may be thereupon expected to make the Signal for shapeing a Course to join the Enemy and to come to Action with them on bringing up Each Ship of the Fleet opposed to that of the Enemy corresponding in Situation respectively as before expressed —

V

But if the Admiral should think Proper under the same Circumstances in respect to the Enemy, to attempt upon their Rear previous to the Pursuit of a General Action and makes the Signal 4 or 5. page 11 in the Sigl Book delivered; The leading Ship of the Van is to open a Convenient distance; and upon arriving up with the Enemy to give their sternmost Ships his Fire upon the Quarter, then Tack or Wear & fall into the Rear of the Line according to the purport of the respective Signals — This Method of Attack is to be Continued in succession by the Ships of the Fleet, or any Particular division so appointed untill further Signal, Care being always taken to leave room as requisite for each other in the Execution of this Service —

VI

When from any movement of the Enemy, it is thought improper longer to continue the Manner of attack specified in the Preceding Article, and that the Admiral would have the next succeeding ships to take their Stations for the purpose of bringing on a General Action; He will most Probably make the Signal 3. Page 11 to invert the line in Succession primarily instituted for the Circumstance of arriving up at a small distance to the Windward of the Enemy upon the same Tack. The then headmost Ship of the British line is thereupon to be placed against the Sternmost Ship, not before disabled in the Enemy's line, the Ship her second astern is to pass without her to attack the next Ship of the Enemy; and the others to do the Same in Order throughout the Enemy's line; The meaning of this last appointment being to guard in some Cases against the Injury the headmost Ships would be exposed to in passing onward under the Fire of the Enemy's whole Line to the attack of their leading Ship, in the Van; as is generally understood to be required in such relative Positions of the two Fleets, by the XIX Article of the General printed fighting Instructions; The most necessary Purposes of which the particular Signals, and Instructions delivered for the Government of the Ships on the present Occasion are meant to supply —

VII

On meeting with a Fleet of the Enemy inferior in Number of Ships to that under the Admiral's Command; Or if, by the early Desertion of their Posts in Battle, the British Fleet should become superior to them in the Line; the Ships of the Van or Rear in either Circumstance over and above the Number of the Enemy so drawn up, are to quit their Stations in the Line without waiting for further Signals or Instructions to that Effect; the Captains thereof are to endeavour to distress & annoy any of the nearest Ships of the Fleet particularly opposed to them; Or otherwise to assist or relieve any disabled Ships thereof as they can be employed with most Advantage —

VIII

At it may be necessary on some Occasions to set the Ships of the Fleet at liberty to steer for those Opposed to them respectively in the Enemy's line, independant of that necessary regard to the uniformity in distance, Course & Movements to be at other times observed, When the Signal 8 Page 23 is made for that Purpose, it will be incumbent on the Captains of the Fleet to keep those Ships of the Enemy, to which they are thus separately directed, upon the same Constant Bearings if possible as they advance towards them —

Suitable Care however is to be taken by them mutually, not to cross upon one or otherwise subject themselves to any hazard of falling on board each other in Execution hereof — For which end when they are so stationed or Confined in their Situations by the Ships near them, that they have not sufficient space to shape or vary their Course correspondent to the alterations in the Enemy's Position made according to their usual Practice on such Occasions; They will best remedy that Inconvenience by a Proportionable increase or decrease of Sail carried so as to be assured of effecting the Intended Junction as near together as may be with all convenient dispatch —

They are permitted on bringing up against the Enemy to take their Station on either Part to windward or to Leeward of their Opponents as they see most suitable for boarding or Closing with them to advantage to disable them more Speedily —

They must nevertheless be mindful that they are not drawn away by any impression feigned or actually appearing to be made upon the Enemy, so far that they can not have assistance from the Fleet occasionally; Being in such Circumstances to Consider wherein they may render the most effectual Service against the Enemy and to govern themselves accordingly —

IX

The Purpose of this Signal being to have a timely preparation made in the Ships or Division referred to, when it is proposed to attack any Ships of the Enemy protected by their batteries in Port, or otherwise obliged to Anchor inshore for their security, And when neither the Time or Circumstances of the Case do admit of giving earlier notice of the Admirals intentions therein; It has therefore been thought expedient to specify in explanation thereof, some of the most necessary Provisions for the military Service thence likely to ensue —

The Captains of the Ships so Pointed out, are to prepare for such service in due time, by having springs upon their Bowers, and the End of their Sheet Cable, taken into their Stern Ports, for stopping short without winding when they are to sail to their Anchoring Stations, against the works of the Enemy with the wind aft —

Their different boats are to be hoisted out and Hawsers coiled in their Launches or Longboats, with their Stream or Coasting Anchors, in Readiness to Aid or Transport their own Ships to their destined Stations; Or to assist other Ships of the Fleet on the same Occasion —

Their spare Topmasts & Yards (Wind & Weather permitting) will be best secured from Injury in Action, by being lashed along side under their lower deck Ports, or towed astern in smooth Water when no Opportunity offers for leaving them in the care of any other Ships or Vessels attending upon the Fleet —

It is recommended to them whilst advancing to their Stations under the Fire of the Enemy to keep their unoccupied men laid Close down upon the decks on the Off side from the Enemys Ships or Works; to prevent disorder amongst them by untimely Accidents, and that they may be less exposed untill the Ships are duly placed —

Signals & Instructions for the Conduct of the Officers commanding Schooners or other Armed Vessels stationed to give Notice of any attempts of the Enemy during the Night —

Object of their appointment	Officers, Commanding Schooners or other arm'd Vessels stationed to Windward of the Fleet to give notice of any Attempts of the Enemy during the Night, are not to expose the Vessel under their Command to any unnecessary hazard or Loss, by approaching nearer to the Enemy's battery's upon inconsiderable Occasions, or advancing too carelessly into Shoal Water; But in their Whole Conduct they are to have in view as their Chief Object a timely discovery and notice to the Fleet of the approach of an Enemy by day and Night
-----------------------------	--

Not to suffer Strange Ships &c to approach the Fleet in the Night	They are not to suffer any strange ships, boats, or Vessels, whatsoever to approach near to, or to pass within the circuit of the Fleet during the Night. But having taken their Stations to Windward of the Fleet, or in such direction as shall be from time to time appointed the Commanders are to be attentive to the motions of the Enemy, and to give the earliest notice of their approach, and to use every means in their Power to frustrate any preparation they discover to have been made for molesting the Transports or doing Injury to any other Part of the Fleet.

II

Nor Boats unexamined	They are to seize and detain all Boats passing within or near the Fleet after the Watch is set: except the Guard boats declaring themselves to be such when hailed: or such other boats as upon examination they find to be employed upon the King's Service & are able to give the
----------------------	---

Watch word when demanded; and seeing occasion at any time to demand the Watch word as above, they are to take care to do it in such a Private manner, that upon receiving it from the Person approaching them for that Purpose it may not be disclosed to any Stander-by

Discovering an Enemy superior to them assisted by the Guard boats

Upon discovering the Approach of An Enemy from whose attempts any Injury is to be apprehended to the Fleet, and in Opposition to which the Commanders of the Guard Vessels do not imagine their own force or means, with the Assistance of the Guard boats attending would be sufficient, they are to burn many False Fires, shew lights, & fire Guns successively untill they are Answered from the Admiral by one False Fire & one Light at the Ensign Staff: Or that they Observe the Admiral has made some signal to the Fleet with lights or Guns, which indicates his notice of the intended alarm, And they are to return to acquaint him or any other Principal Officer nearer to him with the particulars of the discovery they have made

When able to oppose to the Enemy with the Guard boats.

But upon discovering any attempts upon the Enemy in opposition to which they have need of, and think themselves able with the assistance of the Ordinary Armed boats of the Fleet to Act with Effect; they are then to burn two False Fires at the same time, shew two lights of equal height where they may be most easily distinguished and fire one or more Guns successively, untill they are answered by one False Fire, and one Light as before: Or that the Signal is made by the Admiral for the Guard Boats to repair to their Assistance accordingly. And for their further encouragement on these Occasions they may be asured that their merits shall be represented & noticed to their further advantage accordingly

To give the earliest information upon all Subjects of Alarm And destroy all Signals & Instructions before the capture of the Vessel

They are to be Careful to give the earliest Information upon these subjects of alarm, that the Circumstances thereof will admit: In order that the Admiral may have the most timely notice for sending such Assistance or taking other Preventive measures as the Case may require. And if the Commanders of the Arm[ed] Vessels should be at any time in danger of being taken by the Enemy, they are to be particular[l]y careful previously to destroy these & all other Signals and Instructions in their Possession relating to the Guard & Conduct of the Fleet

Signals & Instructions for the Out Guard boats and Others when on duty during the Night

I

When the Guard boats upon the Out Guard discover any danger to be apprehended by the Fleet from the Attempts of an Enemy of Force superior to themselves assisted by the Guard boats in waiting, & Guard (or Armed) Vessels to be appointed for the same service united; they are to burn Many false fires & fire musquets without discontinuance untill Answered from the Admiral by one False Fire & one Light at the Ensign Staff they are thereupon to return forthwith to communicate the Particulars to the Admiral & to the Ships of War nearest to them –

II

But upon the approach or expected attempts of an Enemy in Opposition to which the Assistance of the Guard boats in waiting and the Guard (or Armed) Vessel, is deemed sufficient; The Lieutenant of the Guard is to burn two False Fires at the same time & fire single musquets successively 'till the Signal is answered as before; The Guard boats in waiting are thereupon to be dispatch'd forthwith from the nearest Ships, to the Assistance of that Guard without waiting for further direction from the Admiral, upon their Arrival the Lieutenant of the Guard is to attack the Enemy as he sees Practicable; Having attention to his further security by sending to make his Situation known to the Admiral, or other Commanding Officer nearest to him as Circumstances will admit –

III

Upon the Appearance of an Enemy giving Cause of Alarm, or discovering strange Ships approaching the Fleet on the side of his Guard, & which he thinks himself already of sufficient force to seize upon & subdue: He is then to burn only one False Fire: But to repeat the same from time to time as he sees Occasion, untill he is Answered by the Admiral or some of the nearest Ships as before, He is thereupon to Advance supported by a proper disposition of the Boats, (some according to his force being appointed to fire into the Stern or other most exposed Part of the Enemy whilst he board with the rest) to examine more particulary into the Cause of Alarm, or to Oppose and Attack the Enemy as he is able And he may be assured that his Endeavours to distinguish himself upon such Occasions will be suitably made known & rewarded.

IV

He is to send upon any cause of Alarm, the earliest Information he is able of his Conjectures on the Subject of it, to the Admiral or the nearest Ship in order that the most timely assistance may be furnished for his support. And if the Admiral would have the Guard boats in waiting to repair to strengthen that Guard – He will signify his Intentions to that effect by the Proper Signal mentioned in the Sixth Article. But it is to be observed that the Out Guard boats of the other Divisions when such are employed, are not to quit their Posts on these and similar Occasions (unless very near at hand or that by the position of the Wind rendering themselves to Leeward of the Fleet, no ill Consequence can happen from their Absence) untill the Signal for the Fleet is cut or Slip or the general Signal for calling in all the Guard-boats is made; Lest the first Alarm given by the Enemy, should have been only meant to divert the Attention of the Fleet from any meditated insult on some other Part, equally Practicable from the direction of the Wind at that time

Private Ships seeing any of these Signals made from the Guard boats, and that they are not quickly observed, on board the Admiral are to repeat the same by signal as for seeing strange Ships in such Quarters (distinguishing for these Occasions as in the subsequent Article) & fire a Gun if necessary

VI

When the Admiral from any appearance of danger or otherwise would have all the out Guard-boats return to their respective Ships: He will shew one Light at the Ensign Staff & one at the Mizen Peek, & fire a Gun –

If he would have the Guard boats in waiting to repair to the Assistance of either of the advanced Divisions he will shew four lights of equal height where they may be most easily seen & fire one Gun –

But if he thinks it necessary at the sametime to mark the Quarter of the Compass on which he would have the Boats particulary to Chace; He will hoist for these Occasions if it be to the North East, one Light at the Mizen Peek, if to the North West two Lights, to the South East, three Lights, and to the South West four Lights at the same place. But if from further Information in any of the foregoing instances, he should afterwards think fit to recall these last from the Chace; He will fire one Gun as a preparative to the Signal, and presently afterwards burn two false fires together, And he will repeat this Signal if he deems it necessary some time after.

VICE ADMIRAL RICHARD LORD HOWE'S INSTRUCTIONS FOR THE PROTECTION OF TRANSPORTS ¹

By the Viscount Howe, Vice Admiral of the White & Commander in Chief of His Maj's

Ships & Vessels, employ'd & to be employ'd in North America

General Object of the Instructions

His Majestys Ship the Isis under your command being to Continue in this Port, until further order, for the Protection of the Transports assembled here, & to be employ'd on such Services as may occur, having references to the Operations of the Army: You are during your continuance of that Service, to observe relative thereunto, & for the better security of Transports whilst at Anchor, the following General Instructions –

I

The Ships to be kept in constant readiness for service

Each Ship of the Fleet is to remain in such Station whilst at Anchor, as may be from time to time directed, according to the change of Circumstances incident to a service of this complicated nature; But of which the Captains will always have sufficient Notice, The Ships are to be kept in constant readiness to cut, or Slip, and put to sea, or to proceed on any Action or Service within the Port as Occasion may require, and that no discovery may be made by the Enemy of the Precautions taken for the security of the Transports & other Vessels attending upon the Fleet during the Night; the Captains of the Ships of War are allways to have an Armed boat lying along side, or otherwise in readiness to be immediately put into the Water; to be employ'd in stopping & examining all Vessels whatever endeavouring to pass near, or thro' the Fleet, by their several Stations: which attempts they are to prevent by every means in their Power; And they are moreover to Keep at least one third of their Ships crews under Arms, as the other necessary Duties of fatigue or Service in the course of the preceeding days will permitt In order that they may be found better prepared against any sudden Attempts which the Enemy shall presume to undertake – one third of the Ships Crews under Arms.

II

No Boats those on the Public Service excepted to pass thro' the Fleet after the Watch is set

No boats are to be suffered to pass the Ships of war without being challenged: nor Officers or others to be absent from their Proper Ships after the watch is set; Except the Guard-boats, declaring themselves to be such when hailed, or such boats, & Persons as may be employed on the business of the Service: All other boats are to be stopped and examined, & if found to be absent from their respective Ships, contrary to the intent of these Instructions, they are to be detained, and a report is to be made of the Circumstances to the Commander in Chief in the morning. Pursuant whereunto all Persons passing thro' the Fleet after the watch is set, are to Obey the Call of the Centinels from the different Ships & to relate on demand

All Boats to Obey the Call of the Centinels from the Ships or to be forced so to do upon refusal

the occasion of such their Absence from their proper Ships accordingly: As Orders will be given to fire upon such Persons as shall resist, or refuse Obedience to this Injunction

III

Stations prescribed to the Guard boats & Conduct to be Observed
therein

The Guard boats for the out guards that will be dailey appointed in due time, being suitably provided with Fire Arms, Cutlasses, Half Pikes, Grenades, & Fire Grapnels, and commanded each by a trusty Petty Officer, are to be Kept always passing backwards & forwards on each part (not exceeding one or two Miles at the discretion of the Lieutenant of the Guard) to windward of the Fleet as the tide & weather will Allow – And when it may be necessary to relieve the boats crews from the fatigue of a too constant duty of this kind, they are to be permitted to wait along side, any of the weathermost Ships, Armed Vessels, or Frigates lying without the Body of the Fleet; Or to return to be changed successively at their respective Ships, as the Lieutenant of the Guard shall direct – They are not to permitt any boat to pass them during the Night but such (as have been first examined) they see reason so to do comformable to the purport of the preceeding Article; nor to suffer any Vessel whatever to approach the Squadron at that time under direction of the Lieutenant of the Guard Not to suffer any Boat or Vessel to pass

unexamined

The Guard boats of each division when more than one to be under the direction of the respective Guard Officers – who are to report in the Morning

The Guard boats of each Division, (if more than one is thought necessary to be so appointed) are to be commanded by a Lieutenant, named dailey for that duty. which Officer is to collect from the different boats under his Orders, & deliver a report of the Occurrences on his Guard to the Admiral or other Chief Officer appointed to receive the same by Eight of the Clock the next day; But the boats of his Division are to be dismissed to return to their respective Ships at relief of the Watch (or Gun firing in the Morning.

IV

The Watch Word to whom communicated –
If any Officer thinks it necessary to call the Guard boat on board for examination

A Watchword will be dailey given for the Guard boats to distinguish each other; They are only to be communi- cated to the Lieutenant having the Watch in the different Ships, & the Officer commanding each of the Guard boats: – And if the Lieutenant of the Watch in any ship sees Oc- casion to call a Guard boat onboard to him of which he is doubtful in the Night & demands the Word; it is to be privately given by the Officer of the Guard boat, to the Lieutenant meeting him at the Ships side for that Pur- pose –

V

Omission to hail a Guard boat to be reported – When it shall happen that any Guard boat passes a Ship of War from whence it has not been hailed – agreeable to the tenor of these Instructions the Circumstances of the Omission with the Ships name are to be reported –

VI

Force to be used from the Ships if necessary to Compel obedience for the Examination of any Boat or Vessel passing near the Fleet The Ships of War Anchored on different Parts of the Fleets are to use force occasionally for the examination and detention of any Boats or Vessels Steering into, or passing near the Fleet at any time contrary to the intent of this appointment. On which account & for the due observance of these Regulations, the most public communication of them is to be made in the different Ships respectively –

PRIZES TAKEN BY HIS SQUADRON ¹

By the Viscount Howe, Vice Admiral of the White, and Commander in Chief of His Majesty's Ships & Vessels, Employed & to be Employed in North America

Whereas I understand it has been judged expedient, to send to Europe American Vessels seized as Prizes, by Virtue of an Act passed in the second session of the present Parliament, for prohibiting all Trade, and Intercourse, with the several Colonies therein mentioned: And as great Prejudice would ensue to the Service by such reduction of the Ships Complements as a Continuance of that Practice must necessarily Occasion; you are therefore hereby directed, when you shall have opportunity to make Prize of any Ships or Vessels of the descriptions in the said Act contained, to send them to Hallifax, or to any nearer Port on this Continent, where a Court of Admiralty may be legally Constituted for the Condemnation thereof; or to Sandy Hook or any other Anchoring Station at which any Part of the Fleet may be then assembled – there to remain under Protection of the Fleet until a suitable Opportunity offers for sending such Prizes with Convoy to some Port in America where such Court of Admiralty may be so duly constituted as aforesaid

By the Viscount Howe Vice Admiral of the White & Commander in Chief of his Majesty's Ships & Vessels Employed & to be Employed in North America

Whereas the Kings Service has received great prejudice in the decrease of the Ships Complements from the Recapture of Vessels the Property of the Kings disaffected subjects, taken & manned by the Ships of War, (which can not be spared from services of greater moment) to see such Prizes safe into Port, Wherefore for Answering the more important Purposes of the Act of the second session of the Present Parliament, for prohibiting all Intercourse with the several Colonies therein mentioned, & untill the constitutional authority of Government is so far restored in some Part of the said Colonies, that the benefit intended may be secured to the Captors, according to the Provisions of that Act; It is recommended to the several Captains making Prize of such Vessels of little Worth to take out the Crews with the most valuable Parts of the Cargoes where it can be consistently done; & to destroy the Vessels; rather than to risk the loss of useful Men, now so much wanted for the Service, in attempting to send such Prizes of little Consequence, to distant Ports for Condemnation –

And altho' the Captains are empowered by the before recited Act, to enter the Men navigating such Prizes to serve as part of the Complement in the Ships they Command: It is nevertheless to be remembered that any Confidence put in men so acquired is likely to be productive of great disappointments

JOHN ADAMS TO ABIGAIL ADAMS ¹

[Extract]

[Philadelphia] June 8. 1777

Upon an Invitation from the Board of War of Pensilvania, a Committee was appointed a few days ago to go down Delaware River and take a View of the Works there, erected with a View to prevent the Enemy from coming up to Philadelphia by Water. Mr. [William] Duer, your humble servant and Mr. [Arthur] Middleton made the Committee.

Yesterday we went, in three Boats, with Eight Oars each. Mr. [David] Rittenhouse, Coll. [John] Bull and Coll. [Joseph] Deane, went from the Pensilvania Board of War. General Arnold, General De Coudrai, an experienced french officer of Artillery, Monsr. Le Brune, an Engineer, and Mr. [Nicholas] Rogers an Aid de Camp of Gen. De Coudray were in Company.

We had a Band of Musick in Company which is very agreeable upon the Water.

We went first to Billingsport, about 10 Miles down the River on the Jersey side, where the River is obstructed with Vesseaux de Frizes, and where a large Fort is laid out with a great deal of Work done upon it.

We then came back to Fort Island, or Province Island, where the River is obstructed again, and the only Passage for shippis is commanded by a Fort of 18. 18. Pounders. Here lay the Fire ships, Fire Rafts, floating Batteries, Gallies and the Andrew Doria, and the fine new Frigate Delaware.

We then crossed the River and went to Red Point [Red Bank] on the Jersey side, where Coll. Bull has thrown up the strongest Works that I have ever seen. Here We dined, and after Dinner Coll. Bull ordered out his Regiment upon the Parade, where they went through their Exercises and Maneuvres, very well.

We had a long Passage home and made it 9 o Clock before We reached the Wharf. We suffered much with the Heat, yet upon the whole it was an agreeable day. . . .

CAPTAIN JOHN PAUL JONES TO LEONARD JARVIS, DARTMOUTH¹

Sir

Boston 9th June 1777 -

Your esteemed favor of 21st Ulto duely Appeared - At the same time I recd orders from Congress to repair immediatly to Portsmouth in order to Proceed to France in the Ship Amphitrite - I returned here a day or two Ago - And now Send you a list of Persons concerned in the capture of the Ship Alexander - the bearer Mr [Joseph] Vesey deserves to Share with the first class of Officers – however he will rest satisfied with less rather than make a difficulty – I think it Just that when there are fewer than the compliment in any classes those who belong to Such classes Are entitled to no greater Share than they could have claimed had the compliment been full – And the remainder ought to be thrown into the Part Aloted for any classes whose numbers exceeds the compliment – And this Addition with the Ten deserving Shares will I am persuaded make up a compitent share for every Officer. –

There was Seven Puncheons of Beef of about 300 lb each and twenty six Bags of Bread of about 100 lb each taken out of the Melish for the Use of the Alfred, but the Value must lay with you to determine. – As I wish to have my Affairs Sittled before my departure from the continent – you will much Oblige me by forwarding my three twentieths of the Alexander, as Commodore Hopkins has no title to any Part – I should also be glade of whatever Part of the Proceeds of the Ship Melish & Brigantine Active you can consistently transmit at present – the remainder when my Pretentions are determined in consequence of Your Application to Congress thro' Captn Bradford – I thank You for your last letter and am with due respect Sir [&c.]

Friday last arrived in a safe port the Snow Sally, a prize taken by Capt. Harreden in the brig Tyrannicide, belonging to this State, having on board a variety of European Goods, among which are 3 or 4000 Blankets, this Vessel, with the Intrepid, Salisbury, Janet and Ann, were loaded by a Merchant in London, and sailed in Company, their Cargoes amounting to £22,000 and consigned to a Gentleman in Quebec – We hope Capt. Harreden will meet with the other three Vessels, as we understand he was in pursuit of them when the prize master left him – The Sally's Cargo amounts to near 6000 l. sterl. and in Articles as beneficial for the States of America as for Mr. Carlton, or any British subjects at Quebec.¹

We also learn that Capt. Harreden has taken a Transport, bound from Ireland for New-York, with 63 Hessian Soldiers on board, which may be hourly looked for.

1. Sally, 120 tons, Stephen Jones, master, was condemned and with cargo sold for £21,281.16.1. After charges and commissions for the agents had been deducted, the state and captors each received £10,284.0.3, Mass. Arch., vol. 159, 742–43.

“EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM AN OFFICER ON BOARD THE Eagle, OFF NEW YORK, JUNE 9”¹

The Preparations for the Campaign are completed, and the major Part of the Troops already in the Field: the Generals [William] Howe and De Heister left New York two Days since for the Jerseys; the Army are in the highest Health and Spirits and I assure you hold all Obstacles to their Success in sovereign Contempt. The Recruits lately arrived from England, with the Isis and Somerset, had a very favourable Passage.

The Enemy occupy the Pennsylvanian Side of the Delaware, having it is said evacuated the Jerseys; they have thrown up a Chain of Works, which I suppose they will desert with their usual Expedition. It is really laughable to observe the Pains our Paragraph-Mongers are at, at home, to magnify the Importance of the Posts possessed by the Rebels, and their superior Intelligence with respect to local Advantages and Knowledge of the Country. Will any Person believe they can again occupy Works more tenable than those from which we have seen 30,000 Men fly with the most dastardly Precipitation? It may be urged, that they were intimidated by our Shipping; this however could not hold true at Fort Washington; had the Rebels chose to have supported their Works on the Jersey Shore, we know by Experience no Ships could have prevented the Garrison in the Fort from receiving Supplies of Provisions and Men. The Advocates for the Americans think the Rivers, which so plentifully intersect this Country, will greatly impede our Progress; I believe very little: The most judicious Means have been taken to obviate this Difficulty; - The pontoons are of a new and excellent Construction; and we Yesterday dispatched 20 flat Boats to attend the Army: Each of these will transport 70 Men; they move over land on Carriages, which are put together when required, and drawn by four Horses at a considerable Pace. I was present when Lord Howe and the General viewed them; in less than twelve Minutes the Carriages were taken out of the Boats, the Wheels put on, the Boats rolled up, and the whole in Motion; they promise to be of great Utility in the Course of the Campaign.

General Lee is removed to the Centurion, for greater Security; He is permitted to walk the Quarter Deck.

We cruized in the Phoenix from the 25th of December, to the 15th of March off Virginia: in which Time we took, sunk, or burnt 14 Sail, all laden: We had a Series of tempestuous Weather; we went twice into Virginia; the first Time carrying a Flag of Truce to York for Exchange of Prisoners. The People there are the most deluded imaginable, forced to accept Information thro' the Channel of their Committees: They have no Idea of their real Situation; Losses are concealed, Defeats made Victories, and French Assistance represented as at the Door. By such Subterfuges, three fourths of the Rebels are engaged in the nominal Support of a desperate Cause.

In a few Days we go round to the Delaware, to co-operate with the Army. My Lord Howe comes on board immediately. We take a considerable Fleet with us – the Augusta, Somerset, St. Albans, Nonsuch, Isis, Preston, Centurion, and several Frigates are at present here.

PIERRE VAN CORTLANDT TO BRIGADIER GENERAL GEORGE CLINTON¹

[Extract]

Sir,

State of New York Kingston June 10th 1777

The Council have desired me to inform you in answer to your favour of the fifth Instant that they have exerted themselves to their Utmost to forward the Continental Frigates but as the State is without Cannon and Seamen it is impossible that their exertions can answer the purpose. The Ships are now at Poughkeepsie, and we hope they will soon be rigged, which is the utmost we shall be able to do towards compleating them. We have informed General Putnam of our Destitute Condition and from the information received from General Green[e] trust he will fall upon some means to procure Guns and Seamen for them that they may be used in the Defence of the River. One of our Privateer Sloops is employed to guard the State Prisoners on Board the Vessels in the River, the other is now at Albany – as soon as she returns she shall be sent down to the Chain, where she can be of but little Service unless men can be procured for her there. . . .

JOURNAL OF THE CONTINENTAL CONGRESS¹

[Philadelphia] Tuesday, June 10, 1777

The Board of War brought in a report, which was taken into consideration: Whereupon,

Resolved, That General Washington be directed to inform General Howe, that this Congress most sincerely laments the necessity to which they are driven by the cruel policy of their enemies, of entering into any resolutions which have any appearance of severity towards those prisoners of war who have fallen or may fall into our hands; but, that there are no other means in our power of inducing our enemies to respect the rights of humanity; that with this view only, it is their determined resolution to carry into execution the law of retaliation; that if any persons belonging to, or employed in, the service of the United States, or any of them who now are, or hereafter may be, prisoners to Lord or General Howe, or any other commander of his Britannic Majesty's forces by sea or land, shall be sent to the realm of Great Britain, or any part of the dominions of the said king of Great Britain, to be there confined in common gaols, or any other place or places of confinement in pursuance of any act or acts of the British parliament, or any other pretence whatever; it is the resolution of this Congress, to treat the prisoners now in our power, and such as may hereafter fall into our hands, in a manner as nearly similar as our circumstances will admit.

CAPTAIN ANDREW SNAPE HAMOND, R.N., TO

You are hereby directed to take under your Convoy the Several Prizes now in the Delaware and proceed with them to New York, where you are to deliver the enclosed Letter to the Right Hon'ble the Lord Viscount Howe, and waite His Lordships Orders for your further proceedings.²

You are to receive on board the Sloop under your command the Prisoners named in the list sent with them and dispose of them at New York as the Commander in chief shall direct.

And whereas I have received intelligence that several of the Enemies Vessels are lately arrived at Egg Harbour, You are therefore in your way to endeavour to look into that place, and if it shall appear to you to be practicable to cut them out or destroy them, You are to take the Hotham and Stanley Tenders under your command (who are directed to accompany you thither for that purpose) and use your best endeavours against the enemies Vessels; which Service being performed, You are then to give Orders to the Hotham Tender to join the Preston at New York, and Send the Roebucks Tender back to me with an Account of your proceedings; making the best of your way afterwards with the Sloop under your command to join the Admiral without further loss of time.

2. Captain Hamond explained this exchange of correspondence: "In a short time after Admiral Hotham left me in the command, and I received a confidential dispatch from Lord Howe informing me that it was Sir Wm Howe (the Genl & Commdr in chiefs) intention to open the Campaign with an Attack upon Philadelphia; and gave me fresh orders to make every preparation possible to land the Army as high up the River as possible. Accordingly every necessary Measure was taken, that could be used for securing a safe Navigation (without giving suspicion of our intention to the Enemy) and I undertook to assure the Admiral in the Course of a week, wind & tide serving, I would engage to land the Army, above Newcastle, in any day that they should Appear early in the Morning, at the Mouth of the River; being sufficiently prepared by experienced People in Boats & small Vessels carrying Flags that would mark the shoals; so that both Men of War & Transports might safely run up without Pilots," Sir Andrew Snape Hamond Autobiography, vol. 2, 4, UVL.

Sir/

Worcester County June 10th 1777

I was at Senepuxent on the 27th May, and there then appeared off[f] that harbor Six Sale of Top sale Vesels one of them a ship. one of them fired a signal gun as for a piolet. the Sloop *Independance*² Sent her boat off[f] expecting they ware Continental Vesels: but found to there Cost they ware enemy as they made Prisonars of five men & kept the Boat. they lay at Anchor all that night, and the next day we Expected them to attempt to Come in. we Caled in Sum of the Militia in order to give them a proper Reseption. But the wind Cumpeled them to put to sea the next Day which I was sorry for, as we ware better prepared to Recive them then – then at present; as Major [Joseph] Vaughan of the Delawar Battelion Was down with 150 of that Reghment A Guard to the Wagons that Caried up the Armes an amunition Last Thursday they appeared off[f] Senepuxent again a few of the Militia was prevaield on to March again with Colo Done but Absalutely Refusd to go over to the Beach to keep Guard. a friday they went to sea again, but by a signal Gun Which the Sloop Independance fired, again on Saturday Afternoon they are agane in Sight. Submit it to your Excelency & Co[unci]l if a proper Guard Drafted from the Militia or other wase procured, Stationd there under a proper officer would not be advisable. I heare that Colo Richardson is on his march to this place if so he will answer Every purpose as I know the Militia will what few have armes Turn out if thur is a regular force here, to keep them in Aw if not only a Very few, will Bare the Burden of the Day and I am afraid two few to Stand any formatable force, and as I am proswaded that the enemys know our Numbers of Well affected men I doubt they will not attempt to Come in Except they have a suficent force to repell them: as you know the Consequ[e]nce of that harbor when almost all the Other harbors are Block'd up I need not remind you of how much Importence it would be to them in case they ware to make them selves Masters of it all which might be p[reven]ted by a regular force Stationd there to raise sum Little Batterys, thur is plenty of Cannon thur not less then forty peces on Bord Several Vessles, and sum on Shore – one of their Vesels stood so nigh the shore that our people Could see what Colur their Clothes ware Twined up with, and we fired Two shott, from the South Beach in to their Main sale, after which they put to sea I am Convinced that with two Small Rogalleys & Sixty men I Could keep out any Vesel that the Chanul would let in. I have heard that Colo Richardson is at Cambridge on his way hear if so the Barer will Deliver him a letter informing him of our Setuation and requesting him to hasten down to our Assistance. if not there I have ordrd the Express to Deliver his Letter to you in which is Collo Dones to me, which I am sorry to say Contains my Opinion of our Militia. If it is posable to assist us with any Armes they would be most exceptable as we have but Very few that a man Couel'd Trust his Life too – I am with Esteem [&c.]

Nathaniel Oakes, late belonging to His Majesty's Ship Fox and Captain Fotheringham's Coxswain when in Port, and at Sea did Qr Masters Duty: Maketh Oath to the following Questions –

Q. What do you know respecting the Action of His Majesty's Ship Fox with the American Privateers and where was you Stationed during the Action.

A. I was Stationed at the Weather Wheel doing Quar Masters Duty; When I relieved the Con at 6 O'Clock, We Saw two Sail to Windward, one a good way ahead of the other, standing to the Westward; We were Standing to the Eastward, and Northward, and continued our Course; when we thought we could fetch the headmost of them we Tacked, and Fired a Gun to Leeward, in about half an Hour we met, the Privateer hailed us. What Ship is that? Captain Fotheringham gave no Answer, but asked, What Ship is that? they then said An American Rover, and ordered us to Strike, Captain Fotheringham replied, I will strike as soon as possible; Men are your Guns Clear, They Answered, Yes, Then fire away, but not in Vain.

We fought about half an Hour, and then made Sail, finding the other Privateer coming up with us, and stood on so for some time, but how long, I cannot say, the Ship that first engaged us, then came up upon our Larboard Quarter, we then put the Helm to Starboard, in Order to rake her, and Fired all the Guns we could get to bear, which She returned and carried away our Main Topmast Studding Sail Halliards, we then fired all the Guns at him we could get to bear, and bore away, in Order to get away from him if we could, But she soon run up along side of us again, when it became almost Calm, and a general Action was continued, close along side each other, I believe for near One Hour and a Half, at which time the other Privateer coming up on our Starboard Quarter and fired a Broad Side, when we Struck, And further I know not –

Q. Please to relate what you know respecting the Condition of the Fox at the time She Struck.

A. She had Five Shot through the Mizon Mast, The Main Topmast wounded, Main Mast head Wounded, The Main Spring Stay gone, Two Strands of the Main Stay Gone, Fore and Main Braces gone, Larboard Main Top Sail Braces gone, Main Yard gone in the Slings, Mizon Yard gone –

The Captain finding the Ship thus Distressed, He Asked the Lieutenants their Opinions, what was most proper to be done;

H.M.S. Fox

They Answered as they saw, little hopes of getting Clear, that it was most advisable to Strike, He then called the Gunner and Boatswain, who advised the same, The Captain then Ordered the Colors to be Struck.

DEPOSITION OF CAPTAIN THOMAS HARDY ¹

Thomas Hardy Master of the Patty a Banking Brig maketh Oath that he was taken the 6th of June by the Hancock and Boston two Privatier Frigates belonging to America. the Hancock mounted 32 Guns, 22 of which were 12 pounders, 6 of 9 pounders, and 4 of 6 pounders and had 347 Men. The Boston mounted 28 Guns all 9 pounders, Men unknown. When they first came under my stern they boarded me, and asked for an Axe to cut my hawser away, and ordered me, and my people onboard the Hancock which was the Commodore's Ship, when I got onboard, Captain Manly welcom'd me onboard the Hancock, and said I have been out a Fortnight and met with no success until I saw you. He then said your Vessel is of no Value to me, but I mean to destroy the Fishery by sinking, burning, taking or destroying all I may find, which business I am ordered by the Congress to do. And after taking all my Sails, Hawsers, Rigging, and every other Store which could be of any Service to them they set my Vessel on Fire, after which they ordered me to stay upon the Deck of the Hancock and directed me to tell them how the Bank laid along, and how Cape Race bore.

The next morning being Saturday the 7th of June about 6 o'Clock we saw a Ship on the Larboard bow, and then gave Chace to her, about half an hour after the Ship to Leeward Tacked to the Westward in order to join us, with Colours hoisted, the Privateer had a Red Ensign, and the other St Georges Colours, the Captain of the Privateer hailed them, from whence came you, the Man of War made no answer but from whence came you, the Privateer then said strike to the American Colours or I will Fire into you, the Man of War then said if you are ready fire away, then the Privateer struck the English Colours and hoisted the Colours of the thirteen united Colonies, and fired a Broad side, which was immediately returned from the Man of War, (which proved to be the Fox) hauled her Wind and after two hours Chace the Privateer came up alongside the Fox and then engaged again for an hour and a half, at which time the Fox struck, the other Privateer called the Boston who had not come to Action before being then come up within half Gun shot, Fired a Broad side into the Fox after she had struck to the Hancock, I was on the Hancock's Quarter Deck when Captain Fotheringham came onboard in the Boston's Boat, as neither the Fox or Hancock's Boats could swim, Captain Fotheringham then presented his Sword to Captain Manly who received it. and further this Deponent sayeth not. -

Question. You say you was Master of a Banking Brig called the Patty, at an Anchor on the Banks of Newfoundland and was taken in the Latitude 43° . 40' Meridian Distance from Cape Spear 95 Miles. -

Q. How long had you been on the Banks.

A. One Month.

Q. Did you see any Man of War during that time.

A. No, but heard the Guns of several Vessels being a Convoy bound to Quebec as I was told by a Vessel who came out under their Convoy.

Q. How do you know it was Captain Manly that Commanded the American Privateer.

A. He told me he was born at Merrychurch² near Dartmouth, I then recollected that I knew many of his Family, and I also know he has sent a Letter by the Master of the Vessel who brought us in, to his Brother a servant of some kind to Mr. Gees.

Q. Was you onboard the Privateer at the time of the Action with the Fox, and what was her name.

A. Yes, and her name was the Hancock.

Q. What number of Men were killed onboard the Privateer.

A. Four Killed and Six Wounded.

Q. Did you hear what number were killed onboard the Fox.

A. Yes, I heard the Lieutenant of Marines and one Seamen, were the only people kill'd, and I heard of no more than two being Wounded.

Q. What distance was the other Privateer from the Fox when she struck to the Hancock.

A. Not more than half Gun shot.

PIERRE VAN CORTLANDT TO THE PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS ¹

Sir

Kingston 11th June 1777

The Delegates from this State, agreeable to the request of Congress, transmitted to us a resolution of that honourable body dated the 23d of May last: by which we are required to equip such galleys as may be necessary for the defence of Hudsons river, & to direct their operations – We flatter our selves that this report passed the house in the hurry of business without the fullest deliberation, since we are satisfied that the Congress can not mean in our present weak, & mutilated state to load us with the defence of Hudsons river after having hitherto considered it as a continental object, & even refused to trust us with the nomination of an officer to command in the works that were erected for its security – From the commencement of the war with Great Britain, the Justice of Congress induced them to distinguish between the state of New York, & every other upon the Continent – They knew that as the center of America in the vicinity of Canada; the exposed situation of its capital, and the deep & navigable river by which it is intersected for near two hundred miles, would render it the grand object of the enemies wishes. That they would endeavour at all events to possess themselves of it – Congress wisely foresaw that should this design succeed the communication between the Eastern & Southern States would be obstructed by means of the vessels of war; that an extensive country would be ready to afford the enemy supplies; that all the neighbouring states would be subject to their depredations; that from the extent of their lines it would be impossible to prevent their intercourse with the disaffected from the greater part of the Continent – And that the Indian nations wd be subject to their controul. In short in the compleat reduction of this State they saw much reason to apprehend that of the Continent – These considerations induced them at several different times to order works to be erected & to empower Genl Washington, & the late Convention to build fireships & other vessels for the defence of Hudsons river at the expence of the continent, by virtue of which powers forts & vessels were built & obstructions raised. And this State in order the better to forward the designs of the Congress delive'd up all their Cannon, & other Stores at different time to their Officers –

We can not therefore but be greatly surprized to find that we are now required to fit out as many gallies as may be thought necessary for the defence of Hudsons river, when by the loss of our Sea Coast & Capital we are deprived of Ship Carpenters & Mechanicks who have sought employment in other states, when our Cannon have been taken for the Continental army, when twenty Seamen are not [to] be found within our government. Were it even in our power to comply with this requisition the Congress must see that it would be highly improper for us to direct the operation of Gallies that are to support the Chain & keep up the communication between the works on the different sides of the river for in this view they must become a part of the work itself & nothing would be more incongruous than that they should be independant of the Officers commanding at that post – or more liable to produce clashing or contradictory orders – For these reasons Sir we flatter ourselves that Congress will excuse our requesting a reconsideration of the above resolution and not by a requisition with which we are unable to comply take from us the pleasure we feel in acknowledging the wisdom & justice of their measures by a chearful acquiescence in their resolutions – That the service may suffer as Little as possible by this delay we have passed the resolves which we do ourselves the honor to enclose – If Sir you reflect upon the great expence which this State has incurred by the bounties paid to militia called out when ever the weakness of the army made it necessary, by large bodies of troops kept on foot to awe the tories – by the suppression of insurrections, & apprehention and support of the disaffected no less than 500 of them being at this time confined – by the maintenance of the numerous poor from those parts of the state which are in the hands of the enemy – And above all by the enhanced price at which we obtain every necessary from the neighbouring States – you will readily believe that a spirit of parsimony has no influence in any thing that we have offered & that we have not only borne our full share of the burdens of this war but shewn an alacrity in taking them upon us which must convince the Congress that nothing but necessity prevents our compliance with their last request.

I am Sir by order &c.

London Chronicle, SATURDAY, AUGUST 2, TO TUESDAY, AUGUST 5, 1777

From the Antigua Gazette.

St. John's Antigua, June 11.

The following account is given us by a gentleman of veracity, that came passenger on board the Catherine, and is just arrived here from Martinique.

On Friday, May 30th, the brig. Catherine, Roger Scallion, master, from Dublin, bound to Antigua, being about 40 leagues to windward of it, was taken by the American privateer sloop the Fly, Thomas Palmer Commander, carrying 14 guns, four pounders; 20 swivels, 104 men, 50 of whom were employed as marines, and only five out of the whole that could speak English, the rest mostly French. As soon as the privateer's men had boarded us, they, notwithstanding Capt. Palmer's fallacious promises, stripped and rifled every person on board, breaking open trunks and chests, and left us with only what we had on our backs, and in the most cowardly manner threatening our lives. On the Sunday following they brought us into St. Pierre's, Martinique, where they put Capt. Scallion, his officers and passengers on board a pettyaugre, and sent us to Dominico, detaining at the same time the crew, to inveigle them on board their privateers.

When we were sent away, the Rattlesnake lay at St. Pierre's with four other Rebel privateers, fitting out for new expeditions.

The day following the brig Betty, Capt. Darcy, from Dublin to Antigua, was taken by the Fly privateer.

And on Monday the 2d of June she took the ship Elizabeth, Captain Byrne, from Liverpool to Jamaica, who made a gallant defence, had four of his men killed, and 12 wounded. After he had struck, they cut and mangled him in the most cruel manner.

Boston, June 12.

The British pirate Frigate, Milford, after a wearisome struggle, of 14 days, got the Continental Brig Cabot, (which was mentioned to have ran ashore on Jeboge rocks, Nova Scotia, some time since) off, and sent her to Halifax, where she arrived, and is now fitting out with the greatest expedition for sea; to be commanded, as we hear, by the first lieutenant of the said Milford. – On her arrival at Halifax, there was a day of general rejoicing; guns firing, drums beating, colours displayed; and the good, loyal, run-away Tories (from this Town) who remain there, were congratulating each other, on the glorious (as they said) acquisition. – Deluded creatures! – they think the fate of America depends on a single Brig. – Were they to capture the thirteen Frigates fitted out by this Continent, they could not have exulted more.

Dear Sir,

Fort Montgomery 12th June 1777

I rec'd your Favor yesterday by Capt Palmer. I will chearfully do every Thing in my Power to have the Gallies immediatly fitted for Use. I fear we shant be able to supply them with Men from this Post as we have but few Watermen among the Troops here. Capt Palmer I think might be able to get a Number from the Country as he has considerable Influence with the People that woud best Suit, but he, from some Conversation which happend at Genl McDougal's Yesterday wishes to decline the Command of the Shark. He thinks his Appointment disagreeable to Genl McDougal & that this might render him unhappy in the Service. You may remember I ment'd him as an Active brave Man which I dare say he is, but not possessed of much of any experience as a Sea Officer in the Fighting Way & I mentioned a Certain Capt Leycraft as an old Privateer Capt who Genl McDougal thought well of as a Suitable Man to command the Gally. . . .

SECRET COMMITTEE OF THE CONTINENTAL CONGRESS TO OLIVER POLLOCK ¹

Sir

[Philadelphia] June 12th 1777

Your Letters of 4th & 5th May ² addressed to Andrew Allen & Robert

Morris Esquires were laid before the Congress by the latter whereby we are informed that your new Governor Don Bernard de Galvez is much disposed to favour the Commercial interest of the United States of America, and as we are appointed by the Honorable Congress to superintend the Management of such Trade as is necessary to be carried on for public Account we do ourselves the Honor of addressing a Letter to his Excellency on this Subject, it is here inclosed and you will please to deliver and if needful translate the same for him –

The good Disposition you discover to our Cause and the Character you bear has determined us to employ you as our commercial Agent in New Orleans in full Confidence that your Conduct in our Affairs will be such as will intitle you to our Approbation and future Favours, and should it at any Time be your Misfortune to fall into the hands of our Enemies as you have suggested, you have Liberty to claim the Protection of the United States of America as their commercial Agent resident at New Orleans and may depend that Congress will redeem you by Exchange or retaliate any Injuries or Indignities that may be offered you, and they have always a sufficiency of Prisoners in their Power to do this with Effect if our Enemies dare to treat ill those Persons that are entitled to our Protection –

Thus much we have said that you may produce if ever it becomes necessary, and now for Business of another kind. We learn from Capt LeMere [James LeMaire] and his Passenger that there is Plenty of Blankets, Shrouds and other dry Goods in New Orleans suitable for the Use of our Army, the Difficulties we meet in our attempts to import a sufficiency of those Things induces us to look for them in every Quarter and we have engaged Capt LeMere to return directly back to New Orleans with this Letter and to return from thence for this Coast with a Cargo of such Goods as you may ship by him for our Account. You will find herein inclosed a List of the kinds of Goods that will best suit us and we hereby authorise you to purchase and ship the Value of forty or fifty thousand Dollars in those Articles but we would have these Goods come by three or four different Conveyances each Cargo of the Value of ten or twelve thousand Dollars. We depend on you to purchase these Goods on the best Terms you can obtain them and we authorise you to charter or buy three or four fast sailing suitable Vessels to bring the Goods to a safe Port on this Coast, observing however that we prefer chartering to buying, and would rather have them brought in french or spanish Bottoms than any other, particularly we wish to have Capt LeMere employed in this Business because he knows the Coast, and is acquainted with a proper Inlet where the Cargo may be safely landed. In order that you may be able to procure suitable Vessels on the best Terms on charter We agree that you may have each Vessel you charter valued by honest impartial Men Judges of such things and you may on behalf of the United States of America insure on each Vessel the Sum she is valued at against all Risques of Seizure or Capture by the British &c –

You will agree the Freight on the most moderate Terms you can either by the Month or by the Voyage, securing us Liberty to load the Vessels back to you laden with Flour if it can conveniently be done and we hereby agree.

to pay the Freights you agree for and the Losses (if any) that may arise on the Insurances you agree to make for Account of the Owners of said Vessels, but if after all these Powers you should find it still out of your Power to charter suitable Vessels you may in that Case purchase on the best Terms in your power, one, two, three or four small fast sailing Vessels suitable to bring the Goods observing that if you cannot get the Goods or cannot get Masters & Men to navigate the Vessels, in either of these Cases none must be bought, but we can hardly suppose such Impediments to arise, therefore if you do purchase, let the Vessels be well fitted & found, get good Masters & dispatch them soon as you can inclosing by each Invoice & Bill Lading of the Goods shipped in each Vessel, and duplicates thereof by other good Conveyances – You will take care to have the goods properly embaled or packed in Bales Casks &c so as to secure them as much as possible from Damage and proper Precautions must be taken to prevent any Danger of Seizure by British armed Vessels in the River Mississippi. We doubt not but your Governor & Officers in New Orleans will concur in doing what may be necessary for this purpose and we judge it might be best that the Goods should be shipped on board of Spanish Bottoms and cleared out as bound for the Havanna or Teneriffe, and if shipped on french Bottoms that the[y] should be cleared out for Martinico or St Pierres & Miquilon altho the latter place is become much suspected, and therefore most dangerous to be used.

the Governor & Officers we suppose will readily grant the necessary Certificates & Passports and you will consult with them & seek their Concurrence in all that may be needful – We think also that you should make it a point not to let it be known that you have any orders to buy Goods on our Account – Capt LeMere will deliver all the Letters he carries to you and you need not give them out till your Business is done – When the Vessels are chartered or bought it should be kept perfectly secret if possible where they are bound, these precautions being necessary to prevent the Enemy getting Intelligence of what you are doing – In short you must buy the Goods we want, cheap as possible, ship them to us soon and on as good Terms as you can, and avoid all in your Power letting it be known what you are about –

Mr Morris has shewn us the Accounts you have rendered to Willing Morris & Co down to 15th Nov. 1776 when the Balance in their favour amot to about 40 M say 42,000 Dollars, and he has Reason to think this Balance has rather increased than decreased since that time, and as he is willing to accomodate us with these Funds for the purpose of making the Purchases, we now inclose you said Willing Morris & Co draught of this Date at thirty Days Sight for fifteen thousand Dollars and one other their Draught at Sixty Days Sight for fifteen thousand Dollars indorsed payable to yourself, both which Sums you will place to our credit – Mr Morris also agrees that you may apply the remainder of his Houses Money in your Hands to our use to execute the Orders given you^s for Amount whereof your Draughts on us in their favour shall be punctually paid, or if it so happens that you have remitted any part of their Effects, so as to lessen the Balance due them, you may draw on us in favour of whom you please with equal Assurance that your Draughts will be paid and besides this we shall ship you Cargoes of Flour back in the Vessels and make you other Remittances to provide for future Purchases, because if we find you execute the present Order to Satisfaction we shall lay our Account in getting from you hereafter very considerable Supplies of useful & necessary Goods, and probably we may find it convenient to lodge Flour at the Cape to be sent you from thence in French Bottoms, respecting which be pleased to give us your Opinion and tell us also on what terms you can sell Bills on France or Spain, if we should authorise you at any time to draw on Madrid or Paris for Sums that may be necessary to execute our Orders – When you dispatch the Vessels with the Goods we have ordered, you will direct the Captains to avoid all Vessels at Sea and if examined by the British Ships of War on their Voyages they should have a feasible Story to tell them to which the Log Book & Journals should be suited, and ultimately they are to push into any Port or Inlet on this Coast where they can get in most safely – The small Inlets between Cape Henlopen & Cape Charles of which there are several are most safe, there are also good Inlets between New York & Cape May and many in North Carolina wherever they arrive let them send an Express to us with their Letters and an Account of their Arrival advising the Place and such other Circumstances as they may think necessary and we shall immediately return the needful Instructions – You will instruct the Masters of the Vessels to keep all the Letters & english Papers constantly slung with a Weight ready for sinking so that they may throw them overboard rather than let them fall into the Enemies Hands –

We observe you mention to have paid Monies for the good of the Cause of which you have kept no Account, but that you propose charging such in future – You'll please to be cautious in such transactions, as any Monies you may disburse for the Service of the United States which they in Justice ought to pay, they will pay, but should you or any of their Agents judge improperly and pay away Money under a Notion of serving the States which they in Justice are not liable, it may be difficult for you in such Cases to obtain Reimbursement all of which we mention for your Government –

It is not unlikely but at some future Day an Expedition may become necessary in your Neighbourhood, and when that is the Case Congress will no doubt avail themselves of the Governor's favourable Disposition and of your Services so that you have every inducement to recommend yourself to their Friendship by your good Management of our present orders & not doubting but that will be the case We remain &c.

3. In his report upon his contracts with the Secret Committee Robert Morris describes the outcome of this venture: “a Vessel arrived from New Orleans & brought advices that plenty of Blankets & other Articles much wanted for our Army might be obtained at that place, Congress directed the Secret Committee to adopt measures for obtaining such supplies but having no Funds there & not expecting Credit they did not know how to obtain them. Willing Morris & Co having above 40,000 Dollrs due to them in that place agreed to supply the Committee with 30,000 Dollrs there provided they would repay the same Sum in Europe & accordingly gave two drafts for 15000 Dollrs each, these were remitted with the needful directions by Capt James Le Mair, the person who brought the advices, his Sloop was left in Chincoteague Inlet whilst he came to Philada with the Dispatches & when he returned thither to proceed back for Orleans he found the Enemy had been in that Inlet & burned his Sloop with several other Vessells that then lay there, he immediately bought another Vessell & proceeded on his Voyage, but never arrived at New Orleans nor has been heard of since – duplicates of the orders & bills were sent by Capt [William] Pickles who embarked at Carolina, the Crew of the Vessell rose upon him & carried the Vessell into New Providence, so that these bills never reached New Orleans, and as it appeared after they were sent off by Capt Le Mair that the Committee cou'd not pay Willing Morris & Co the 30000 Dollrs in Europe they were obliged to Content themselves with Charging these bills in Acct Currt at the rate of two paper for one hard Dollr which amounted to £22500," HUL.

(No 1:)

Sir

Antigua 12th June 1777.

In my Dispatch of the 8th March last (marked No 1 sent Express by His Majesty's Sloop Hawke) ² I represented to their Lordships the proceedings of several of the Inhabitants of these Islands who had for some time before made it a practice to fitt out small Armed Vessels to Cruize on the High Seas to make Capture and Prize of American Vessels; without having Commission or any lawful Authority to empower them to do so; I also laid before their Lordships the methods I had taken to prevent their doing so, and the Consequence that had followed; of their Arresting me for the Detention of the Sloop Hamond, one of the aforesaid Armed Vessels sent in by his Majesty's Ship Portland: a few days afterwards, they brought an Action likewise against Captain Dumaresq for taking away and impressing as they were pleased to call it) the Men belonging to the said Sloop Hamond, grounding their Action on an act of Parliament of the 19 George 2nd Cap: 30: Intituled "An Act for the better Encouragement of the Trade of His Majesty's Sugar Colonies in America," which was brought to Issue and Trial the 3d Instant in the Court of Common Pleas for the Island Antigua; and a Verdict Obtained against Captain Dumaresq for nine Hundred and fifty Pounds Sterling; being £50 Stg for 19 Men the whole Number of Men (Blacks Whites and Mulattoes) that were on board the Sloop Hamond, when Detained by the Portland, notwithstanding only Nine of them were kept, who had offered to Enter for the Fleet, and were put on board the Roebuck; the other Ten were all suffered to go on shore wher-ever they pleased: The Chief Judge however thought proper [to] recommend to the Jury (to find a general Verdict: in Order as our Lawyers say who pressed for a special one) to prevent an Appeal and the whole proceedings going to England: Captain Dumaresq had in the beginning applied to the Attorney General to bring the Sloop &ca, to trial in the Court of Vice Admiralty; for being Armed, & Cruizing without Commission, and in no wise agreeing with her Description in her Papers and Documents, but was refused.

The Sloop Hamond in my Opinion cannot be deemed within the meaning and description of the Act of the 19. Geo: 2nd Cap. 30; as she is neither a trading Vessel, or a Privateer; having no Commission to make her so: This the Attorney General plead but to no purpose; a Spirit of Revenge and indignation is industriously stirred up against the Squadron under my Command, because I would not tamely suffer their illegal proceedings, of Cruizing to take Prizes without Commission; it therefore appears to me they were determined at all events to give their Verdict against us and as far as they could prevent our obtaining redress by carrying it into a superior Court. My Cause is not Yet come to trial, tho I was first attacked; when it does I can expect no kind of favor; to Captain Dumaresq they did make some shew of Civility; but to me through the whole behaved with the utmost insolence; Since I have Commanded here; I never suffered a single Man to be impressed for any Ship of the Squadron; and what was done by Captain Hamond and others of the American Squadron, here and at St Kitts, was without my Orders or knowledge and after they had left me: however had it been otherwise, that could not be made an excuse: as they began their Actions before the other happened. Captain Bryne who comes with the present Convoy; has been obliged when at this Island to keep himself close on board His Ship, or within the Yard: as Writs were taken out against him for the same act as Captain Dumaresques.

I must now beg leave to request, that their Lordships (in behalf of myself and all the Officers of the Squadron under my Command) will be pleased to intercede with His Majesty for our Protection, and that we may not be sufferers for Endeavouring to keep up the Dignity of the Flag in not allowing the most flagrant abuses and Indignity to the Royal Authority. Indeed it would be particularly hard on the Officers who Act by Order, (as they did in this case:) and I flatter myself His Majesty and their Lordships will approve my giving those Orders (Copies of which I transmitted by the Hawk). I must also beg leave to observe that now they have established a Precedent: so long as the Act of the 19 Geo 2nd Cap: 30: remains in force: no Officer will be safe even in entering Men; as they may Construe that into impressing as they have done in the present case; I beleive indeed this is the first instance of an Action being brought under that Act; tho a great many Seamen have been impressed at times at Jamaica &ca neither do I suppose it would have happened here, had it not been for the interfering with their self appointed Privateers (as they call them) the Trading Vessels have certainly never suffered by us; but very much by the aforementioned Armed Vessels, who have decoyed away the Seamen from the Trading Vessels: Transports and King's Ships by large promises of Advance &ca from the aforegoing Circumstances their Lordships will readily perceive I cannot expect any kind of Justice here, in the present dispute; and the whole herd of Lawyers are Retained against us: However I have the utmost Confidence His Majesty will, on their Lordships representation, both protect and redress us. I am Sir [&c.]

[Please to acquaint my Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty that His Majesty's Sloop Otter is just refitted here, and Ordered to return to her former Station Pursuant to the Orders Captain Squire had received from the Viscount Howe. She is the Tenth of the American Fleet that has been Refitted here; I must therefore take leave to represent to their Lordships that such a Number are more than can be Refitted at this Yard on its present establishment; and they have very much distressed the Squadron employed here, under my Command; by keeping them back from being cleaned and Refitted at proper times.] the Number of Sick likewise put on shore from the American Ships incommoded us exceedingly; there being no proper Accomodations for them at the present temporary Hospital, nor any to be procured near the place; and it was with the greatest difficulty the Contractor at that time could procure proper Refreshments for the Number of Sick: as I have repeatedly represented to their Lordships the Necessity there is strongly to reinforce the Squadron employed in these Seas; so I must now add if their Lordships are pleased to make such Augmentation, it will be almost impossible to do more here, than keep them in Order; and their Complements of Men Compleat: the American Ships refitted here this Season, have also hurt us much in that respect, as I thought it for the good of the King's Service that they should go away full Manned, or even with more than their Complements: altho they came here generally very short: but this is a thing that cannot be done again: and we now feel a want of the Seamen, to Man the Ships their Lordships have Ordered me to purchase & Commission and to make up the losses of the Squadron by Death and Desertion: I therefore hope their Lordships will be pleased to take these matters in to Consideration and give Directions accordingly, I am Sir [&c.]

Sir

Antigua 12 June 1777.

Please to acquaint my Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty; that pursuant to their Orders of the 5th February last, I have caused Two Ships to be purchased; in every respect fitt to be made Sloops of war One is the French Ship taken by the Seaford, which on a strict examination and Survey is reported capable of carrying Sixteen Six pound Guns; if those can be procured; I have got Ten of that kind, by taking Eight from the Sylph Sloop (coming to England with the present Convoy) which I replaced by the same Number of four Pounders. this Ship being of such considerable force I have thought proper to give her the Complement of the 16 Gun Sloops, Vizt 125 Men; and the 10th May last I appointed Mr William Young 1st Lieutenant of the Portland to the Command: and have named her the Snake.

The other was a Guinea Ship offered for Sale, which on a strict Examination and Survey is reported capable of carrying Fourteen four pound Guns: and 100 Men: I have called her the Comet and the 30th May last appointed Mr William Swiney (then 1st Lieutenant of the Portland) to the Command; The Snake was appraised at £2200: Sterg and the Comet at £1500 Sterg as P the Reports of Survey inclosed; which Sums I have ordered the Naval Officer to draw Bills for on the Commissioners of the Navy.²

Please likewise to acquaint their Lordships that the King's Armed Brigs Endeavour & Antigua some time ago Cruizing in Company took a very fine large Bermudas Sloop of 150 Tons Burthen; Armed for Defence and Loaded with Tobacco, the Sloop was well known in these Islands, and famous for fast Sailing; and had not the two Brigs chased her together, she would have got off; but could not escape both; as by avoiding One she came within the Guns of the other; She is so fine a Vessel that a great many Friends to the Americans, came from the French and Dutch Islands, with intention of Purchasing her, however as it was well known the use they would have turned her to; was to Cruize as a Privateer; I thought it best to purchase her for the King's Service, (in Order to prevent her being employed against our Trade) and to exchange her for the Pelican Brig, which has proved a very dull Sailer; I have therefore called her by that name; and turned over the Officers and Men into her; also the Guns, Masts, Yards, Sails and Rigging to Convert her into a Brig; she being Much too large and unhandy for a Sloop, her mast being of a Size to Convert into a Frigates Foremast; The Hull of the Vessel that was the Pelican; I intend to Convert into a Vessel to raise Mudd &ca to clean the Harbour, the one now employed for that purpose (being an old Tender called the Denbeigh) quite wore out, and ready to Sink having been used in that Service several Years. I have had the aforementioned Bermudas Sloop, carefully inspected and Surveyed, with her Mast Sails and Stores which they have Valued at £1400: Sterg as P the enclosed Report and I have ordered the Naval Officer to draw Bills on the Navy Board for that Sum.³

The Sloop is pierced for 14 Guns, but I intend first to try her with Ten 4 lb Guns the same the other Brig had. I flatter myself their Lordships will approve of what I have done; and I am Sir [&c.]

Antigua 12 June 1777.

It is with great pleasure I inclose You the within Letter from Captain James Jones of his Majesty's Sloop Beaver; to be communicated to my Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty; relating to his having fallen in with; and taken the Rebels Armed Private Ship of War called the Oliver Cromwell. The Prize is not Yet arrived at Antigua; as Captain Jones is employed collecting the Trade from the Southern Carribbee Islands to conduct them to St Kitts, the place of General Rendezvous.

By Captain Jones's Account the Prize is an exceeding fine Ship; and if on inspection she will make a good twenty Gun Ship; I hope their Lordships will approve of my Purchasing her for that Service; and giving Captain Jones the Command for his good behaviour in the Action; and taking a Ship so superior in force to the Sloop He now Commands: If Captain Jones brings up the Commander and Officers of the Oliver Cromwell I purpose sending them home Prisoners in the Hind, to be disposed of as their Lordships may think proper. I shall also send Prisoners in the Hind the Commander and Pilot of a small Schooner Privateer called the Jenny taken the 24th May by his Majesty's Ship Seaford: The Commander deposed in his Examination that Vanbiber the Congress Agent at St Eustatia; put several Men on board His Schooner from other American Vessels (then lying in St Eustatia Road) and sent him out to Sea after a Sloop belonging to the Island of Antigua Loaded with Cotton &ca that had just left St. Eustatia: this matter He says was done publickly and in no wise hindered or forbid by the Governor of St Eustatia; and that in less than three Hours He came up with, and took as Prize the aforementioned Sloop Laden with Cotton &ca however both the Schooner and her Prize were very soon afterwards taken by his Majesty's Ship Seaford: I have also the pleasure to acquaint their Lordships that on the 27th May Captain Colpoys of the Seaford Stopped and brought into this Port, a Dutch Ship called the De Hoop from St Eustatia (said to be bound to Flushing) having on board 1750 Barrels of Gun powder, and three very large Casks of Gun Flints. The Master says he was bound to Europe; and was carrying the Gun powder &ca back there, as he could not sell it at St Eustatia tho' he had lain in the Road near Seven Months: He owned on his Examination that he had sold (during his Stay at St Eustatia) about 3000 pounds of Gun powder, and 750 Stand of Arms compleat, with Bayonets and Cartouch Boxes: The remainder of his Gun powder being 1750 Barrels now on Board, I think it most likely was to have been put on board Vessels at Sea; to have met him for that purpose; as that has been the practice lately (since their Ports have been closely watched by our Cruizers) with the Dutch and French, and what the more induces me to think it was so intended in the present case is that Captain Colpoys the Day before fell in with a small French Bark, off the Island Anagada quite Clean, and in Ballast; and appeared a fast Sailer, on being interrogated about their Business there, said they were on a party of pleasure and profit, Shooting and Fishing; for what they did not make use of, they Salted and Sold; this Answer was certainly evasive; and I think it much more probable they were on the look out for the Dutch Man to take out His Gunpowder to carry to America.

The other Part of the De Hoop's Cargo consists of Sugar, Coffee, Cocoa; also Tobacco, Rice, Indigo and other American produce, whether that is sufficient Ground to condemn her under the Prohibiting Act appears uncertain; however I shall detain her at all events pursuant to their Lordships Orders of the 15th February last, until His Majesty's further pleasure is known I am Sir [&c.]

Sir

Complaint having been made to me, by Messrs Benners & Co of this Island, consignees of the Ship Water Geus commanded by Adrian Chate-lain, belonging to the Honourable commercial Company of Middleburgh in Zeeland, as well as the Consignees of the Ship Hope [de Hoop], com-manded by Martinus Bruine Hoogez Zeyl, owned by Messrs Snouck Hur-grouse & A Louÿssen of Flushing in Zeeland; the former of which arrived here some time ago from the Coast of Africa with a cargo of Slaves, which have been sold and was reloaded with a cargo of West Indian and American produce agreeable to her manifest and bound for the aforesaid port of Middlebourg; The latter from Flushing laden with Gun powder, provisions and dry Goods, reladen from hence with some Westindian and American produce chiefly a remittance for her Provisions and dry Goods, Seventy hundred & fifty Kegs of Gunpowder and three of Flints, which was not sold here but sent back to their proprietors agreeable to Manifests, and bound to the aforesaid Port of Flushing, that the aforementioned Two Ships have been arrested and taken on the High Seas by His Brittannic Majesty's Ship of War the Seaford, John Colpoys Esqr Commander, belonging to the Squadron under Your Excellency's direction, and Carried into some Port of the Island of Antigua.

It is my duty having attention to the Laws of Nations and the Treaties subsisting between His Brittannic Majesty and my Masters, The High & mighty Lords, States general of the united netherlands to demand, as I hereby expressly do in the Name of the aforesaid high & Mighty Lords, the immediate release of the Aforementioned two Ships with their Cargoes, and full Satisfaction for all the Costs and Damages that already have been or hereafter may be sustained by their Proprietors, in consequence of Such Capture and detention.

It is with great pain that I perceive myself reduced to the Necessity of Expostulating upon so disagreeable a Subject but have reason to hope, that Your Excellency will permit me to ask whether You think the Open Trade and navigation of Dutch subjects from one part of the Dutch Dominions to another, either ought or will be permitted to be thus interrupted, so long as the united Netherlands remain a free and independent State.

Henricus Godet Esqr one of my Aids de Camp, accompanied by Abraham Revene Esqr commandant of the Garrison & Forts of this Island, will have the Honour of Handing this letter to Your Excellency, and I flatter myself be the Bearer of Such an Answer from Your Excellency, as may preclude the Necessity of any further application upon this Complaint.

In which expectation I have the Honour to be with very great respect Sir [&c.]

Whether they would choose to have them burnt, or sunk or fall into the Enemy's Hands; & whom they would trust with the Execution of their Resolves to this Purpose. Newbern, (North-Carolina) June 13.

The Caswell Privateer, Capt. Palmer, of this State, is arrived from a cruize, having taken a large double decked schooner, loaded with provisions, which is hourly expected.

The Sturdy Beggar Privateer, belonging to Baltimore, is arrived at Occacock Bar, from a very successful cruize, having taken four Guinea-men and many other valuable prizes. By her we have an account of the capture, by our privateers, of 22 vessels, part of a fleet that sailed from Cork for the West Indies with provisions; we also learn, that by the vigilance of the men of war and West-India privateers, great numbers of American vessels are taken.

[Philadelphia] Saturday, June 14, 1777

Resolved, That the Marine Committee be empowered to give such directions respecting the continental ships of war in the river Delaware, as they think proper, in case the enemy succeed in their attempts on the said river.

Resolved, That the flag of the thirteen United States be thirteen stripes, alternate red and white: that the union be thirteen stars, white in a blue field, representing a new constellation.

The council of the State of Massachusetts bay having represented by letter to the president of Congress, that Captain John Roach, some time since appointed to command the continental ship of war the Ranger, is a person of doubtful character, and ought not to be entrusted with such a command; therefore,

Resolved, That Captain Roach be suspended, until the Navy Board for the eastern department shall have enquired fully into his character, and report thereon to the Marine Committee.

Resolved, That Captain John Paul Jones be appointed to command the said ship Ranger.

Resolved, That William Whipple, Esqr. member of Congress, and of the Marine Committee; John Langdon, Esqr. continental agent; and the said Captain John Paul Jones, be authorized to appoint the lieutenant, and other commissioned and warrant officers necessary for the said ship; and that blank commissions and warrants be sent them, to be filled with the names of the persons they appoint, returns whereof to be made to the Navy Board in the eastern department:

Don Rafael José de la Luz, Captain in the Royal Army and Military Adjutant of Havanna.

I Certify that on the 7th and 8th of this month four American privateers anchored in the harbor of this Port in need of Water, Firewood, Bread, and other supplies. The first was the brigantine Lively,² Captain Woolman Sutton, the second the schooner Industry,³ Captain Richard Wells, the third the sloop La Fabrique, Captain Louis de Roux, and the fourth the sloop St. Louis, Captain Samuel Spencer, all of which set sail the following day for their destination, Philadelphia. The Governor and Captain General of this Island ⁴ and the Commanding Officer of our Squadron have concurred in this action, taking the precautions ordered by the Intendent of the Army and Royal Treasury to ensure the Suppression of Smuggling. The Captains of the said four ships have expressed their deep gratitude to the Governor and Captain General for the prompt assistance that was provided.

DECLARATION OF DON RAFAEL JOSÉ DE LA LUZ ¹

Havana 14th of June 1777.

Don Rafael José de la Luz, Captain in the Royal Army and Military Adjutant of Havanna.

I certify that on the 10th day of this month the American privateer sloop Vixen, Captain Downham Newton,² anchored in the harbor of this Port and the Governor and Captain General ordered me to go and communicate with the Commanding Officer of our Squadron. Immediately after pratique I went on board the Sloop with an interpreter to ask the Captain from whence he had come and what had caused him to request anchorage in this Port. He replied that he had left Charleston, South Carolina, five weeks before with the intention of cruising off Cape San Antonio and to await the fleet that is expected to sail from Jamaica at this time. For this reason, he requested Water, Firewood, Bread, Chickens, Vegetables and a length of one inch Cable. I notified His Highness and, in agreement with the Commanding Officer of our Squadron, provided this assistance promptly. Thus, on the following day, the ship weighed anchor and made Sail for its destination. In this manner, the Intendent General of the Army and Royal Treasury has conveniently avoided Smuggling, and the Captain of the said Sloop saluted the Governor and Captain General for the efficacious way in which assistance was provided.

VICE ADMIRAL JOHN MONTAGU TO PHILIP STEPHENS¹

Sir

Romney at St Johns 15th June 1777

You will be pleased to acquaint their Lordships that I sailed from Plymouth the 18th of April with Eight Sail of Merchant Vessels under my Convoy, and arrived here the 9th of May and found only the Bonavista Armed Sloop here. Captain Harvey in the Martin being on a Cruise after a Privateer reported to be on the Coast. He returned the day after my Arrival but had not seen any thing of the Privateer he went out to look for; On the 14th of May Captain Fotheringham arrived in the Fox, having seen his Convoy safe into their different Ports; On the 16th following Captain Linzee arrived in the Surprize and brought with him a large American Schooner with 220 Hogsheads of Tobacco onboard from Virginia, bound to Bourdeaux.

I am sorry to inform their Lordships that the Surprize continues very Sickly; having the same Fever onboard, she had last Year.

The Squirrel arrived the 19th of May with the three Victuallers under her Convoy, and as she sailed from England under the Command of Mr Chamberlayne first Lieutenant of the Romney by my order, I have appointed Captain Harvey of the Martin to the Squirrel; and have given Lieutenant Chamberlayne a Commission to Command the Martin until their Lordships pleasure be known.

Agreeable to their Lordships order I have purchased a Vessel in the room of the Quebec (which will be sold as unserviceable) and have appointed Mr Thomas Revil Shivers to be Lieutenant of her, all which I hope their Lordships will be pleased to approve.

On the 13th Inst the Pegasus arrived from Ireland, having seen her Convoy safe into their several Ports. The Active is not yet arrived.

It gives me real concern to acquaint their Lordships that by a Letter I rec'd the 10th Inst from Captain Fotheringham of the Fox, I am informed that on Saturday the 7th Inst He fell in with two American Privateers on the Banks of Newfoundland (where he was Cruising for the protection of the Fishery) one named the Hancock of 32 Guns, 347 Men, Commanded by —— Manly, the other called the Boston of 28 Guns (but number of Men unknown) commanded by —— McNeal, and after an Engagement of one hour and half the Fox was taken. Captain Fotheringham also informs me his Lieutenant of Marines (Mr Napier) was kill'd, with two others, and Ten Wounded; after the Fox was taken, the Rebels sent the greatest part of the Seamen and Marines into Saint Johns, in two Fishing Vessels they had taken on the Banks, but have taken all the Officers with them.

Inclosed I transmit you the Affidavits of two persons, one belonging to the Fox; the other was Master of a Vessel they had taken and burnt.² I am also sorry to inform their Lordships that as the number of Privateers now Cruising on the Banks is greater than the Ships under my command, and some of them of Superior force, that unless my Squadron is reinforced, I fear it will not be in my power to Checque the Havock these Depredators are making among the Fishermen.

I have sent to Vice Admiral Lord Howe to assist me with two Frigates during the Fishing season, which I hope his Lordship will comply with.

Agreeable to their Lordships Order when I was in London, I acquainted the Navy Board that the Martin and Spy Sloops; as well as the armed Vessels that Wintered here, would want a Supply of twelve Months Stores of all Species, and that each of the Sloops would also want a complete suit of Sails, and flattered myself they would have complied with my request, and have sent them out in the Victuallers; but am sorry to say that as they have not been pleased to comply with my Letter the Martin was almost rendered useless, and but for the supplies from other Ships she could not have gone to Sea. And notwithstanding the Spy sent Home a Demand, even that was not complied with, which has obliged me to purchase Stores here at an extravagant price before they could proceed on Service.

Herewith I inclose you the State and Condition with the Destination of the Squadron under my Command, and am [&c.]

BRIGADIER GENERAL GEORGE CLINTON TO MAJOR GENERAL ISRAEL PUTNAM ¹

[Extract]

Dear Sir,

F.[ort] M.[ontgomery] 15th June 1777

Capt Cook Commander of the Washington came here last Night. I will send a Boat To Morrow to take in the Guns from Peeks Kill intended for her Use. It will be impossible to obtain Men from this Post properly qualified to man the vessel, all that would have been Useful for that Purpose being sent to the two Frigates at Poughkeepsie. Capt Cook thinks that the greatest Part of the Men that were with him last summer are in some or other of the Regiments at Peeks Kill and would wish to have them again as they are good Hands & used to the Business. Capt Palmer wishes to decline the Command of the Shark Galley and I have sent an Express to Capt Leaycraft to come down immediately & take the command. If he should also decline Capt Palmer rather than the service should suffer, will again take the Command of her.

The ship Montgomery I expect down To morrow and the Congress toward the latter End of the Week – It will almost dismantle our Forts if we are to furnish them with Guns. I understand there are Numbers of them at Salisbury – Even if they should have been intended for other Use could it not be so contrived as to secure them for the Frigates during the summer – Among them I am informed there are short Eighteen Pounders which the Ships can well bear in this River – If a General Order was issued offering Encouragements to Persons who wo'd engage to serve in the Ships during the season, a considerable Number from the Country might be obtain'd which would prevent the Regiments from being too much weakened

Our ship is to remain at this place, and the Commodore is to have command in the absence of Lord Howe, who is expected to sail in a few days for the Delaware. Some grand stroke is now in agitation.

WILLIAM AYLETT TO CAPTAIN JOHN SELLEN ¹

Williamsburg Virginia June 15th 1777

Sir The close watch kept by a number of the Enemy's Ships at the Capes renders the probability of your getting out very uncertain, however as Opportunities do Sometimes offer, which may be lost if you are delay'd to receive my Orders, I do now Authorise you to depart whenever a favourable Opty offers, of which you may be daily advised at York, but let me Caution you not to venture without a fair Opportunity of Escaping, to keep a good lookout & return if you apprehend probable danger. If you get out I would advise you to keep the Land on board either to the Northward or Southward as the Wind may happen in as Shoal water as you can venture, until you think you [are] out of the Track of the Men of War, & to Stretch out about Meridian So that if you discover a Sail you may either put back or take Steps to avoid her as the Night comes on & by having part of the day, the Night will push you So far out that you may be out of danger by the Morning & I would advise you just at day light every morning while you are near the Coast to furl your Sails as it is at that time that Vessels are most likely to fall in near the Enemy & if a Sail is in view you will discover them before she can you & by that means may avoid them by lying still unless their course should be towards you. I also am instructed to advise you to make a good offing & to make the Coast of New England as far to the Eastward as Casco Bay & to Coast it along to Boston, where God send you may arrive in Safety Yours

Sir

St Christophers 15th June 1777.

Please to acquaint My Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty, that I sailed Yesterday in the Portland from English Harbour Antigua, with Intention to Visit the Different Islands on the Station, having the Ariadne and Cygnets in Company [(the latter had just brought into English Harbour the Oliver Cromwell Privateer taken by Captain [James] Jones of His Majesty's Sloop Beaver)] and seeing a Sloop in the Offing that looked somewhat suspicious I sent the Ariadne to speak her, and I have the Pleasure to acquaint their Lordships, that She joined me this Morning at Basse Terre road, St Christophers with Said Sloop in Company; which proved a French Armed Sloop called the Marangoin having no Papers but a Copy of the Commission granted by the New State of Virginia to John Harris Commander of the Privateer Brig Musketo and was fitted out at Guadaloupe by some French Merchants to act as a Tender to that Brigantine; Agreeable to the Plan formed by Harrison one of the American Agents at Martinico in the Letters inclosed for their Lordships inspection P my Dispatch of the 12th Instant marked No 7. The Marangoin is commanded by John Welch one of the Persons named and recommended in the aforementioned Letters; all the rest of her Crew (being fifty in Number) are French Subjects belonging to the Island Guadaloupe; As I think it Necessary these Prisoners should be all sent to England, to be dealt with, As their Lordships may think Proper, I have directed them to be Distributed amongst the Convoy in Order to be carried there.

[The Ariadne appears to sail very well; and I hope will give a good Account of Several other Privateers before long; had We been so fortunate sooner to have had some fast Sailing Cruizers on the Station, the Rebels Privateers Cruizing in these Seas would not have met with the Success they did.] I am Sir [&c.]

St Christophers 15th June 1777.

I have just had the Honor to receive Your Letter dated at St Eustatia, the 12th Instant by Your Excellency's Aid de Camp Henricus Godet Esqr demanding in the name of their High Mightnesses the States General Restitution to be made of the ship Water Geus and her Lading; consisting of West India and American produce; and of the Ship Hope [de Hoop], and her Lading consisting of One Thousand seven hundred and Fifty Barrels of Gun powder, and some West India and American produce; both taken on the High Seas by Captn Colpoys of His Britannic Majesty's Ship the Seaford and carried into the Island of Antigua.

In Answer to which requisition I am to acquaint Your Excellency that the Ship Water Geus and her Lading are Libelled in His Britannic Majesty's Court of Vice Admiralty for the Island of Antigua for having on board the produce of the British American Colonies now in Rebellion; which had been unlawfully imported into the Island of St Eustatia contrary to the late Act of Parliament, prohibiting all Trade and intercourse with said Rebellious Colonies; the day appointed for her Tryal is the 30th Instant when the parties claiming property therein may be heard in defence thereof, and will undoubtedly have due Justice done them.

The Ship Hope's Detention is on account of the Gunpowder and War-like Stores on board her; and cannot be released without Express Orders from his Britannic Majesty.

I must take leave to refer Your Excellency to the Letter I had the Honor to transmit You the 14th Decemr last; containing amongst sundry other Complaints, one of a very extraordinary nature against Vanbebber the American Agent at your Island; and I must now farther add thereto that the 24th May last, one George Rall Commander of small American Privateer called the Jenny was taken by Captain Colpoys of the Seaford and brought into the Island of Antigua; and that the said Rall on his Examination deposed "that the aforementioned Vanbibber (the Congress Agent at St Eustatia) put several Men on board his Schooner from other American Vessels (then lying in St Eustatia Road) and sent him out to sea, after a sloop belonging to the Island of Antigua, Laden with Cotton &c that had just left St Eustatia, and says this matter was done publickly and in no wise hindered or forbid by the Government of Eustatia, and that in less than three hours he came up with & took as Prize the aforementioned Sloop Laden with Cotton &ca." ² I have the Honor to be Sir [&c.]

Capt David.

In Council Annapolis 16th June 1777.

As you inform us that the Conqueror is now fit for Service, we are desirous that her Efforts may be exerted to clear the North Channel of the Capes of the armed Vessels which we are informed have lately infested it, we presume you are stronger than any of them. We learn that the Frigate Virginia lies in York River, wherefore you must first go there, advise with Capt Nicholson as to your Plan, from him get Assistance in Men, if Necessary, and act in Concert with any Force that he may have the Direction of. We expect that some of the Virginia Gallies may probably join you, but we do not intend by this Instruction to take from you or your Officers, any Part of the Command on Board your own Galley, but only that you act as one Vessel, if any join you, under the general Command of the oldest or superior Officer, if any older or superior to yourself. If the Virginia is gone, so that you cannot consult with Capt Nicholson it will be well, if you can, to get one or more of the Virginia Gallies to join you Get a good Pilot or two, if to be had; write us, if any Opportunity and by all Means cultivate a good Understanding with these who act with you, and remember that nothing can be more dishonorable than Disputes about Punctilio's so big with Disgrace & Ruin to our Cause and Country. We expect your Stay to be but short, we rely on your Discretion and wish you Success and Honor.

Charles-Town, June 16.

We are informed, that his Excellency, the Count D'Argon [Argout], late the French King's General at Martinique, arrived, from thence, at his new Government of Hispaniola, about the 18th of last Month. That about the same Time, the Washington Privateer of this State, commanded by Capt. Hezekiah Anthony, arrived at Cape Nicola Mole, with two Prizes, both Sloops, laden with Provisions, supposed from New York, bound for Jamaica. And that, a Man of War Sloop and an armed Snow, from Jamaica, having fired upon the Hirondelle a French Frigate, on the Coast of Hispaniola, she returned the Compliment in such Sort, that they soon made the best of their Way back to their Port, to refit.

From Martinique we have the disagreeable News, of the Enemy having taken the Continental Sloop of War Hornet, commanded by Capt. John Nicholson, on the 27th of April last; and the Privateer Ship Oliver Cromwell of 16 Guns, on the 29th ult. and carried them both into Antigua. The Oliver Cromwell had a weak and very sickly Crew, and was taken by the Favourite [sic Beaver] Man of War, after an Engagement of three Quarters of an Hour. The Hornet mounted 10 Three-Pounders and 6 Swivels, and had only 30 Men: She was taken by a Sloop of 14 Carriage Guns, and about 100 Men, a Scooner of 12 Guns at the same Time coming up. – Of the latter we have the following Particulars, viz. “The Continental Schooner Lewis, commanded by Captain Stephens, mounting 2 Three-Pounders and 8 Swivels, with only 12 Men, in Company with the Hornet, at Daylight in the Morning of the 27th of April, Lat. 28, Long. 70, saw two sail to the Northward, a Sloop in Chace of a Brigantine, upon which they bore down to them, the Wind at S. At 2 o’Clock within Gun-shot, discovered the Sloop to be an Enemy, and had taken Possession of the Brig, which proved to be a Frenchman, and from Charles-Town, and a Scooner appeared in Sight, bearing down upon them. At half past 8, came to Action with the Sloop, the Lewis on her Starboard Quarter, and the Hornet on the Starboard Bow. – They continued to engage till Nine o’Clock, when the Scooner appearing to be an Enemy, of 12 guns, well manned, and coming up fast, the Hornet bore away before the Wind, and the Lewis hawled her Wind. The Sloop followed the Hornet, continually firing her Bow-Chaces, and the Scooner gave Chace to the Lewis. At half past 9, finding it impossible to escape the Hornet struck to the Sloop, and the Scooner finding they could not come up with the Lewis, discontinued the Chace, and bore down to her Consort.

The Scooner Lewis has since again narrowly escaped being taken by the Enemy, – on the 25th of May, by a Sloop of 10 Guns, and on the 26th by an English Frigate, off the West-End of Porto Rico, both which chaced her a considerable Time.

Two English Frigates and a Tender chased a Vessel last Friday, on this Side of Cape-Romain, till they ran her into 10 Feet Water, when after having fired several Broad-sides, they pursued her about an Hour with their Boats; but Night coming on, she happily escaped. On Saturday Afternoon, about two o’Clock, they appeared off this Harbour, and at 4 gave Chace to a Brigantine off Stono, endeavouring to cut her off from the Land; but she ran ashore at 6, between Stono and the Light-House, and disappointed them; the Frigates thereupon came to an Anchor, and sent in their Boats with the Tender, who set Fire to the Vessel, and she was entirely consumed in a few Hours. She was from Mississippi, laden with Staves, and had been taken off the Havana by a Philadelphia Letter of Marque Vessel; which is all we have yet been able to learn concerning her. – Yesterday Morning at half after 4. both the Frigates were under Weigh, with their Tender, and stood off to the Southward; soon after 9 o’Clock they were all out of Sight.

A Number of Volunteers and French Officers, who have three Years Leave to serve in America, are just arrived here, landed from a Snow that left Bourdeaux the 26th of March last: Amongst them are, the Marquis de Moncalm, and the Marquis de Fayette, the last said to be the Son-in-Law to the Duke d’Aguen.

GOVERNOR PATRICK TONYN TO LORD GEORGE GERMAIN ¹

[Extract]

No 40.

My Lord,

In my Letters of 5th and 8th of May numbers 38. and 39. I had the honour to mention to your Lordship the intended Invasion of this Province by the Rebels, and the preparations made for their reception and to repel them.

I have now the honour to inform your Lordship, that an advanced Body of Rebel Horsemen under the command of a Colonel [John] Baker crossed Saint Mary River on the 10th May proceeding towards Saint John River. The 15th a skirmish happened, several Rebels were wounded, two of them left on an Island on Nassau dangerously; on our part an Indian killed, who the Rebels scalped, cutting off all his Features, and mangled his Body, which greatly exasperated the savages. The 16th at one in the morning a Detachment of the Kings Troops passed Saint John River with the Rangers and Indians; intentionally to cut off this rebel Corps, that had marched into a neck of Land between trout Creek, and a branch of Nassau River. The 17th after great fatigue and a very long march, they came up with, attacked and totally defeated the Rebels, those who were saved by the most precipitate flight were pursued, and drove over Saint Mary River, and were seen by some of our Scouts, who had concealed themselves in a thicket on the other side of Saintilla [Satilla] River who counted them and they informed me there were only forty two Rebels of this Corps returned.

The rebel main Body under the command, my Lord, of Colonels [Samuel] Elbert, [John] Stirk and [John] White, with the Galleys and other vessels commanded by Commodore Oliver Bowen, were arrived at Saint Mary River, and had passed up to Amelia Narrows which they could not get through, expecting to be joined by the Corps of Horsemen.

My intentions were that Captain Mowbray with the Rebecca and all the armed Ships and Vessels should sail into Saint Marys, while the Troops marched by the main scouring the Island in their march, and by a well concerted attack I was certain of giving the Rebels a total overthrow. Towards this object the Rebecca and Hawke armed Ships were ordered to fall down Saint John river, and to anchor without the Bar; the Meredith, and the smaller armed Vessels to be ready to go out to join them on the first notice. A storm of Wind, my Lord, forced the Rebecca and the Hawke to Sea, the former fell in with and engaged a rebel Brigantine of sixteen Guns, and crowded with men, and after a brisk running Fight maintained by the Rebels, the Rebecca silenced their fire for eight minutes and was bearing down upon the Brigantine to Board, when they renew'd their fire, an unlucky shot carried away the Sloop Topmast and rent the mainsail, which gave the Brigantine the advantage in sailing and an opportunity of flight. The Sloop engaged to leeward and the Brigantines Decks were much exposed to the fire from the Sloop two men were seen to fall killed from the Tops into the Sea, and many must have been killed and nine wounded. In this affair Captain Mowbray's spirited conduct deserves uncommon applause, indeed, my Lord, his zeal, activity, and unwearied industry, on all the different parts of service, in Choking up Creeks, assisting in erecting Batteries, and cooperating on all occasions of service, with the greatest assiduity for the good of the King's service, cannot be too much commended. Lieutenant Findley of the 60th Regiment and a detachment of this Garrison on Board the Rebecca, behaved with great resolution and courage, and it is to their behaviour Captain Mowbray ascribes his superiority over the Brigantine. The Rebecca returned in a too shattered condition to proceed to Saint Marys and before she could be repaired to pursue the intended operations, the rebels had time to retire, after they had attempted to cut a passage through Amelia Narrows.

Two Captains and nine Privates of the Rebels were made Prisoners.
I have the honour to be &c.

LIEUTENANT GEORGE HOUSE TO CAPTAIN JOHN PAUL JONES ¹Brig Hamden, Providence River, June the 17 – 1777

Capt Jones, Sir,

I take the freedom of Writing you acquainting you with my Situation, I have had a first Lieutenant's Commission for the Brig Hamden this Ten Months & we have made several Attempts to get out, but all to no purpose, we are at present ready for the Sea, waiting for a Wind but God knows when that will come, it seems to me as if we should not get out this Summer, if you are not provided with Officers, or have a Vacancy I should like to Sail with you once more, if I could get the same Station & could get Clear of the Brign with honour – Capt Burroughs I like very well, it is not out of Dislike to him, but I have been a little Unfortunate, by being Penn'd in here, & no prospect of getting out makes me very Uneasy, I have been speaking to Mr Manly concerning the Matter & he advises me to Write to you about it, & should be much Obliged to you for an Answer as soon as possible. Mr [Gideon] Whitfield Master of the Brig woud go, & in case of the Brigs not going out I believe more would go – I hope you will Excuse my Writing in so plain a Manner, I have no more at present, but hope this will find you well – I Remain Sir [&c.]

CONTINENTAL MARINE COMMITTEE TO NATHANIEL SHAW, JR.¹

Nathl Shaw Jr Esqr
Sir

[Philadelphia] June 17th 1777

We received by Captain Chew your Letter of the 27th ulto advising your having purchased A Brigantine suitable for an Armed Cruizer in our Navy. On recurring to our letter to you of the 22nd August last, we find that our Orders were expressly that you should purchase and fit out the Schooner taken by Como Hopkins in his return from the New Providence expedition and sent by his Fleet into your Port. Our principal inducement in giving those Orders was, that a Vessel of that kind was then wanted for an expedition we had planned and Commodore Hopkins recommended that Schooner as suitable for our Purpose.

If on examination you found that Vessel defective, you certainly did your duty to decline the purchase of her, but we cannot consider that you were authorized by the Orders we gave you to buy A Brigantine Eight Months after without having first consulted us on that head. Commodore Hopkins never has been invested with any authority from us to order the purchase of Vessels for our Navy and we beg leave to recommend in future an observance of our Orders only, advising us when you think any alteration of them will be of service to the Public. From what we have thought proper to say on this subject you will perceive we do not consider ourselves bound to take this Vessel, but as we think the Public service will be benefited thereby we have concluded to take her, and have appointed Captain Samuel Chew to command her. We now request that you will assist him in getting her ready for the Sea with all possible expedition. You will please to put on board provisions &c for A four Months Cruize and make the necessary advances of Money which will be wanted for manning and fitting her out, and recommend your doing every thing in the most frugal manner. Should you have Any Money belonging to the States in your hands for which you are to account with this Committee, you may apply it to this purpose, if not, you may draw on us and your bills shall be paid. You will please to furnish us in due time with accounts of the Cost and outfit of this Vessel with proper vouchers and a List of the Men on board at the time of sailing. recommending this business to your Attention we remain Sir

Captain Saml Chew
Sir

[Philadelphia] June 17th 1777.

The good recommendations we have had given of you as being well qualified for a Command in our Navy, has induced us to appoint you a Captain therein, in full faith that it will be your chief studdy to contribute all in your power to the Interest of the United States and the honor of their flag. We now think proper to direct that you repair immediately to New London where you are to take the command of the Brig Resistance lately purchased by Nath Shaw jr Esqr our Agent at that place. That Gentleman will assist you in fitting and manning that vessel, and we expect your best endeavours will be United with his to have this done with all possible expedition. We have directed our said Agent to make the Necessary advances of the Money that will be required in this business, and to put on board sufficient Provisions for a four Months Cruize therefore as soon as ready for the Sea you are to proceed immediately on a Cruize against the enemy, choosing such stations as you think will be most likely to intercept their Merchant or Transport ships, and you are to take sink, burn, or destroy, as many of their Vessels of every kind as may be in your power. The Prizes you may take you will send into the most convenient and safe Ports in these States addressed to the Continental Agents, and you may continue your Cruize so long as your Provisions will last and then return into the first safe Port you can make advising us of your Arrival and we will give you fresh Orders. You are to preserve strict discipline on board your Vessel, useing your people well; and you will treat any Prisoners you may take with humanity. Great care must be taken of the Brig her materials & Stores, Observing that you are to be Accountable for every thing on board – therefore you will take care that your officers keep proper Accounts of their expenditures in their respective departments and see that no waste is made of any kind. You must make Monthly returns of the State of your Vessel while in Port, together with exact lists of every Person on board to the Navy Board at Boston or at this place and recommending strict attention to these Orders we remain Sir

Your hble Servants

P:S: We send forward to Mr Deshon a sufficient number of blank Commissions and Warrants to be filled up with the Names of such persons as he may think proper to appoint your Officers. Should you be tempted by any Circumstances not known to us at present to continue your Cruize until your Provisions and Stores may be nearly expended, you may procure further supplies at such foreign Ports as may be convenient for the purpose and we shall punctually pay your drafts. –

Sir,

Alexandria June 17th 1777 -

In consequence of your Excellencys Letter of the 6th ² we have enquired after a proper Person to take charge of the Ship but cannot find one. Capt Sandford of this Town is unemployed and fond of the Lydia, but says he thinks there is no chance of escaping the Enemy in an unarmed large Vessel, therefore will not take charge of her.

There is a Capt Copper, who we Loaded at this place about 5 Yrs ago, a very Sober discreet industrious Man, now unemployed, & either at Baltimore or Chester Town, as his Brother here informs us, and would be glad of such a Vessell as the Ship. There is also a Capt Middleton Belt who some Years ago saild out of Patuxent, now settled abt 13 Miles from this Town, and has the Character of a Man of great intrepidity and Boldness and a very fine Seaman - But whether he may be Steady enough or not we cannot say - As to his political Principles we believe them to be very good and he is a Man who would not readily give up a Ship to his sailors. . . .

Mr Jarvis

Dear Sir,

Boston 18 of June 77

Your post going off before his usual time prevented your hearing from me last week, Agreeable to your request I now send you the valuation of the fifty Rifles and the other Musquets. I agree in Sentiment with you as to the price of the Duck, tho'gh had not several pieces been much damgd eight pounds (even at that time) would have been very low as Duck Sold about that time by the Single piece at the Exorbitant price of £15, I think it will always be best to charge the Continent for the Articals they have occation for & which in part belongs to them as low as we can consistent with Justice to the Captors Lest the Congress may Suppose we enhance the Value of things to make our Commission greater – menting a commissn Reminds me of a Conference with Col [Daniel] Tillinghast on the Subject I exhibited an Accot of Sales of a Cargo of Rum taken by the Columbus & Charg'd the Captors 2½ P Cent Commn Soon afterwards it seems Capt [John] Langdon sent forward an Acct of Sales he had made of a Cargo taken by the same ship and Charg'd 5 P Ct the officers and men were dissatisfied and would not allow it Colonel Tillinghast being agent for the Ship wrote to Langdon & Recd for Answer that he should not make any alteration, As he had wrote the Congress and they Order'd him to charge such Commisn on all the Business he did for them I beg leave to hint that I suppose the Congress wont make any difference in the payment of their Servants therefore I agreed to allow you the one half of what I am allow'd it was on the presumption that 2½ would be the allowance that I offered you 1¾ As but few words have pass'd between us respecting this matter I should be glad you will give your mind fully on the Subject as we are both mortal I must confess the Commisn is generous

As it will give you pleasure to hear of the prosperity of the State, I will acquaint you they have had Arriv'd in port three [two] Briggs from Bilbo[a] which they sent for Salt only, but so Elated were the spanish Court with the accounts they Recd of the Advantages over Genl Howe last winter that they Interfer'd & would not suffer them to take but a trifle of Salt & have loaded them back with Large Cables Cordage & Anchors they have a third Brig got into Booths Bay from Nants with 110 Chest of Arms ten tons Powder four Hhd files a quantity duck &c

I cant hear of [Stephen] Cleaveland begin to fear he is taken the packet I dispatch'd 13 weeks ago was waiting her dispatches from paris, daily expect Her, Capn [John] Skimmer is arriv'd at townsend with two Briggs them with a Sloop & Schoonr are all he has taken they are of Small Value except the one which had 600 Quintles of dry fish on board Our frigates have sent in a small Brig² from London for york with a Cargo of 3 or 400 pounds

Capt George Williams this moment informs me he has see[n] the prize master of another of [John] Fiskes prizes Just arriv'd at portsmouth with Salt and duck we have certain acctns from Nants that [John] Clouston has taken 16 prizes on the Cost of England & pass of portugal and had sent them into france & sold them at publick Auction, a speedy and good method to make Remittances. . . .

Sir,

Boston PS

I wrote the foregoing thinking to be obligd to go to Salem yesterday but luckily was prevented in answer to yours of the 14 I am greatly pleasd

you are like to get a mast for the providence which we thought impossible I am glad the Cap has done so much honour to the american Colonnies³ in regard to what you write about [John Paul] Jones he does not improve on acquaintance for und[er] the Guise of dispising money he is aiming and grasping all he can he is no more inti[t]led to third twentieth part than he is my chaise neither would I ever give a penny on it, its true I paid the Commodore his 1/20 of the rum prizes but Jones told me Repeat[ed]ly since he came from philidepia that that matter was Orderd otherwise by Congress and that resolve only ment when the Commodre was out with a Numbr under his command

I beg you to forward the cost and outfit of the *Deleware*⁴ so that I may send it to phila by next post as Mr Morris is desireuous of having it pray be as moderate in your demands as posible its very scar[ce] here the two frigates have send in a small Brig⁵ from Lond[on] to York with cargo of above 800 Skimer is arrived a[t] Falmout[h] with two Brigs without any Cargo save a trifle of green fish and 70 Hhds Salt . . .

3. Lieutenant Jonathan Pitcher, commanding Continental Navy sloop Providence. Marine Lieutenant John Trevett described this cruise as follows:

I am once more on board the sloop Providence and I find Jonathan Pitcher, Esq. is to take command, and we are only waiting for a good chance to sail. Made sail at sunset with a light wind from the N.E. Standing down the river, passed one ship off Prudence, and went through Narragansett Bay, and ran so near a 50 gun ship about 2. A.M. as to hear them talking on board, and at sunrise we were becalmed about two miles from the lighthouse and could see Newport and the ships in the harbour: About 10. A.M. a small breeze sprung from the S.W., and we arrived at New Bedford that night.

We had but few men on board, as it was not expected that we should get out of Providence River, but we got her new manned & sailed on a cruise to the eastward; nothing material happening untill we arrived off cape Breton. About 5 leagues off cape Breton saw several sail, and heard a number of heavy cannon. A brig bore down on us and began a fire at long shot; we ran from her about 1 hour until we got in good order for action, then we took in sail and let her come up close along side. The sea being smooth, we cut away all her colours in forty minutes, and they began to be slack, but in a few minutes they began the fire as brisk as ever, & cut our sails and rigging badly; it lasted about 40 minutes longer, when we cut away her maintopmast. We hailed them without a trumpet, being close on her starboard quarter, (and they stopped firing) to know whether they gave up or not, and the answer was "yes."

Capt. Pitcher was badly hurt, but kept the deck untill she gave up; but I can tell you it was Diamond cut Diamond. Capt. Pitcher sent me in the barge first on board; I found them with a very bloody deck, and her spars, sails & rigging very much injured. I staid on board untill I sent the Captain on board our sloop. The cabin floor was covered with the wounded, so that you could scarcely find room for your foot, and I found some of them were Irish, as they cried out for "Jesus sake" to spare their lives; they were very badly wounded. We found she came directly from England, and that she had 25 Soldiers & 2 Officers on board, besides the crew; and was loaded with King's stores, and bound for Quebeck.

Our sloop was so badly wounded in the masts & spars that we were obliged to send down her topsail yard & topmast. We manned the Brig; and that night the wind blew very hard with squalls, and the next morning she was not to be seen - Capt. Pitcher had ordered her to Bedford. We were obliged to give up our cruise & put away for Nantucket, and in a short time we arrived at Bedford, carrying with us all our new Burgoyne Soldiers. One Word more; a better officer than Capt. Pitcher I think cannot be.

CAPTAIN RICHARD ONSLOW, R. N., TO VICE ADMIRAL RICHARD LORD HOWE¹

My Lord,

St Albans off New York June 18th: 1777.

Having it in Command from the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty to inform them of the misbehavior of any of the Transports under my Convoy, I think it my duty to inform your Lordship of the behaviour of the Brig Favorite, who on the 22nd of April in Latitude 49°:02' North, Longitude made from the Lizard 11°:28' West parted Company with me; I have every reason to suppose intentionally. At 5 AM the 22d of April, the Brig Favorite was upon the Lee Bow about four or five miles. The St Albans having lost her Main-Topmast, at ½ past 2 AM lay too from that time until 11 AM, when she made Sail for two hours in order to lead the Convoy, going two Knots per Hour. She then lay too again until 6 PM of the 23d At 11 AM of the 22d the Favorite tacked being ahead and to leeward, in order as I thought to fetch into the Wake of the St Albans. It was hazy Weather, and I believe she took that opportunity of leaving me, as the last I saw of her was at 5 AM she not having tacked again; it was then quite thick and hazy weather. The first time Captain [Christopher] Mason of His Majesty's Sloop Dispatch came onboard after the Favorite had lost Company, he observed to me that she certainly did it intentionally, as some nights prior he observed the Favorite make Sail and endeavor to go out of the Convoy, when he chased him w[ith] a pressed Sail, fired three Shot, and brought him back, – which fully convinced me of his intention to part Company.

With respect to the Dispatch Sloop, and three of the Convoy parting Company on the [28th] of May, I can assign no reason. At 9 PM the Dispatch and Convoy were close up, it was a very unsettled Night, with much Rain and very dark, sometimes a fresh of Wind, at other times Calm. At ½ past 4 AM I saw only three Sail. At 6 AM a heavy Gale of Wind came on at North East. I kept my Course under a very easy Sail in hopes of their joining me. At 2 PM of the 29th of May, one of the Convoy made the Signal to speak to me, I brought too immediately and lay too until 6 AM when I made Sail again. Some days afterwards the Master [of] the Transport who made the Signal to speak with me informed me he saw two Sail to the Southward the Morning of the Gale of Wind.

Your Lordship will judge of the inattention of the Convoy in general, from the frequent occasions I had of making the Signal for them to come under my Stern, and my firing Shot at them to oblige them to keep their Stations mentioned in my Journal. I am My Lord [&c.]

R^d Onslow.

Colo Whipple the Bearer of this carries with him the Resolves of Congress appointing you to this Command and authorizing him Colo Langdon & you to appoint the other Commissioned as well as the Warrant Officers necessary for this Ship and he has with him Blank Commissions & Warrants for this purpose.

It is our desire that you get the Ranger equipped officered and Manned as well and as soon as possible, and probably we may send you other Instructions before you are ready to Sail, however the design of the present is to prevent your waiting for such after you are ready for Service in every other respect and if that happens before the receipt of further Orders from us you must then proceed on a Cruize against the enemies of these United States conforming to the Orders and regulations of Congress made for the Government of their Navy, and in conformity thereto Take, Sink, Burn or destroy all such of the enemies Ships, Vessels, goods and effects as you may be able. We shall not limit you to any particular Cruizing Station but leave you at large to search for yourself where the greatest chance of success presents. Your Prizes you will send into such safe Ports as they can reach in these United States your Prisoners must also be sent in and we recommend them to kind treatment. Any useful intelligence that comes to your knowledge must be communicated to us whenever you have opportunity

You are to preserve good order and discipline but use your People well. the Ship her Materials & Stores must be taken good care of, and every officer to answer for any embezzlements that happen in his department. You are to make Monthly returns of your Officers, Men &c to the Navy Board. You are to be exceedingly Attentive to the Cleanliness of your Ship and preservation of the Peoples healths. –

You are to afford Assistance and protection to the American Commerce whenever in your power & on your return from this Cruize lay Coppies of your Journal & Log Book before the Navy Board and inform us of the wants of your Voyage

Honble sirs

Boston 19th June 1777

In Obedience to your orders I now transmit the Roll of the Ship Hancock, with the Boston, they are true Copys, as from the Originals left with Mr Cushing – I also inclose the Account of Sales of Ship Esther, Alexander, & Active, I am not furnish'd with the Sales of the Mellish yet, when it comes to hand I shall immediately forward it, I have the pleasure to acquaint you that the Frigates have sent to this Port a Small Brig from London for York,² they took her in Lattde 39d. 20m she has on board by information from one of her men, eight Tons Iron, twenty Chaldron Coal, ten tons of Cordage a Quantity of Duck, which is much damag'd, a parcell of Slops with some Linnens; not a paper is come to hand, for it seems whilst the Capts were perusing them, a Sixty four Gun Ship with four merchant Ships Appear'd, which prevented the return of the papers, however the Brig [was] long enough in sight, to see our Frigates Run Round her, and make their own sport, Capt Manley Bid her a Challenge, by hauling up his Courses and heaving his main Top sail to the Mast, in order to draw her from her Convoy, that the Boston might carry off some of the Ships, But the Brittain was aware of his design, and would not be taken in the trap, I think theirs a probability of sharing his fleet with him . . .

Independent Chronicle, THURSDAY, JUNE 19, 1777

Boston, June 19, 1777.

On Sunday last, a person arrived in this town from Halifax, who left it the 29th of May, from whom we have collected the following authentic Advices, viz. – That a fleet of 35 sail of transports arrived in that harbour lately, from New-York, in pursuit of provisions, &c. under convoy of the pirate Frigate Tartar, of 28 guns; so destitute is Howe's army of every necessity of life – That 16 sail of transports (part of the above fleet) sailed from thence the beginning of May, for the Bay of Fundy, in quest of cattle, hay, &c. under convoy of the Scarborough, of 20 guns, and Brig Diligence,¹ of 12; the former now cruising at the eastward, and the latter entirely lost on Gannet Rock, in Nova-Scotia; so that the transports have now only the Vulture 14 gun sloop of war, to protect them from the rebel navy; and were chiefly at Annapolis [Royal] 17 days ago, taking in their Cargoes. – That the following pirate ships sailed from Halifax, some time since, on a cruize, all bound for the New-England coast, viz. the Greyhound, of 28 guns; the Diamond, of 32; the Scarborough, of 20; the Albany Philadelphia-[built] ship, of 18, and Dawson, in the Brig Hope, of 16; they are very poorly manned, and one-third of them by American sailors, whom they compel to enter their service. — That a French brig, from France, laden with cloathing, bound for this port, was sent in there by a british sea plunderer. — That a fleet of transports, consisting of 12 sail, with 200 invalids on board, and cloathing for 12,000 men, sailed in April last for Quebec, only one frigate to accompany them — That 6 transport ships were preparing for sea, in order to take on board (to transport to New York) two companies of the 37th and two of the 14th, british regiments, and 200 of the marines, mostly invalids, to fill up the vacancies on board the british navy, at New-York. . . . That the American prisoners, to the number of 200, confined on board the lord stanley prison-ship, in that harbour, are treated in the most barbarous and inhuman manner possible; and was it not for the kind interpositions of some of the inhabitants of Halifax, [the last win]ter, in [supplying th]em with [necessaries], numbers of them must inevitably have perished, they having but 4 british soldiers allowance for 6 of them (poor allowance indeed) and that thrown to them, as if to dogs; our navy-men and merchant-men are considered on an equality of footing, and are treated more like savages than christians, when they fall into the hands of perjured George's emissaries. . . . That the 2 cartels (one from this port, and the other from Portsmouth) are detained in that port, by order of the poor, simple, harmless George Collier, deputed commander of the british pirate fleet there; but on what account was not known: That the Rainbow man of war, of 44 guns, is fitting out with the greatest expedition, for sea, to cruise (they say) in Boston-bay: When she sails, there will not be a ship of war left in the harbour. — That Captain Sampson, late of the State brig Independence, was in good health and high Spirits, waiting to be exchanged, to take another slap at the mighty navy of britain. . . . That a ship, called the Adamant, arrived there from London, the day our informant made his escape, in a very short passage; but what news she brought, he could not learn, only, that 3 days before her arrival, she parted company with 45 sail of store-ships, &c. bound to York, under convoy of one frigate. . . . That the Milford, of 28 guns, now on a cruise, commanded by Sir William Barnaby, has been careened lately, her sheathing taken off, and her bottom soaped and tallowed; she is painted very black, and is to serve as a [de]coy in our bay; to carry 200 men, if she can procure them — That the Scarborough sloop of war, intends watering shortly, at the Cranberry Islands, where she has contracted (we learn) with one Jones, of Goldsboro' for 20 head of cattle. — That upwards of 180 Americans, confined on board the prison-ship, in Halifax, have been innoculated for the small-pox, and have got over the sickness. . . . That the inoffensive George Dawson, commander of the Hope brig, is endeavouring to get the command of the Continental brig Cabot, taken and carried into that port, by the Milford. — That Henry Mowatt (well known at Casco-Bay) late commander of the Milford, has been tryed by a court-martial there, for behaving in a cowardly manner, last December, when in sight of the Alfred Continental Ship of War (commanded by Captain John Paul Jones, Esq;) and her two prizes, charged with running from her, by his officers and men. —

We hear a privateer sloop belonging to Providence,² has taken a brig of 14 guns, with about 50 soldiers, besides the crew, which we soon expect to hear the arrival of. She was one of the convoy to a small fleet bound to New-York with troops and stores, and ordered out of the fleet to take the above sloop, which first decoy'd her out of sight of the fleet, then stood about and attack'd her, and after an engagement of nine glasses carried her.³ The privateer arrived at Dartmouth last week with part of the prisoners, 17 of which arrived in town last Sunday, and were immediately convey'd on board the guard ship. The officers taken on board the above prize were put on board a vessel bound for France. One invoice found on board the above prize amounts we hear to ten thousand pounds sterling.

Tomorrow, at One o'Clock, Will be sold by Public Vendue, at the American Coffee House, The Ship Hayfield, with her Ballast, and Water on board, as she now lays at Tilestone's Wharf, with every Thing completely fitted for Sea. An Inventory may be seen in the hands of Russell and Clapp, Auctioneers.

DIARY OF FREDERICK MACKENZIE¹

[Rhode Island] 19th June Yesterday Evening a Rebel Brig came down from Providence, and stood towards Papanquash point as if she intended to go into Bristol bay; but about 7 o'Clock she tacked & appeared to be going back again. At 1 o'Clock this morning the Lark made a Signal that a vessel was coming down, & soon after perceived her going round the point into the bay, and fired several Shot at her; but the distance was too great to do her any damage. She proved to be the abovementioned Brig; and about 2 this morning she came out of Bristol bay, and having the advantage of Wind & Tide, she soon passed our battery. Seven shot were fired at her, one of which struck her, but as it was dark the effect could not be perceived. She stood up the bay, and at day break anchored off Mount Hope. A Sloop came round Papanquash point with the Brig; but she did not chuse to attempt passing our battery, and therefore anchored in the bay, where she now lies. If our Galley had been at her Station, and followed the Brig through the ferry, it is probable she would have taken her. The brig appeared to be the one of 14 Guns which came out of Taunton river some time ago, and went up to Providence.

The whole Rebel fleet may get out if they have only the spirit to risque a few shot from our Batteries as they pass, for as our Frigates are now stationed they cannot prevent them, if they take the proper advantages of Winds & Tides.

The Kingsfisher resumed her Station in the Seconnet passage this morning.

[Philadelphia] Thursday, June 19, 1777

A petition from Josiah Hewes, in behalf of Mr. Nicholas Brown, merchant, of Providence, owner of the sloop Lydia, was read, setting forth, that the said sloop was taken by a British man of war, and afterwards taken up adrift by Captain John Baldwin, in the schooner Wasp, and carried into Chingoteague inlet, where she was condemned, and sold, before it came to the knowledge of Mr. Brown; and, therefore, praying, that right and justice may be done to the owner, and a proportion of the value of the said vessel and cargo delivered to him.

Ordered, That the said petition be referred to the Marine Committee; and that they enquire into the facts, and do therein what they judge right; that in case the facts set forth are found true, they be instructed to relinquish to the owner, such share of the money arising from the sale of the said vessel and cargo, as belongs to the Continent.

COURT MARTIAL OF WILLIAM WHITPAIN, MASTER OF THE CONTINENTAL NAVY SLOOP Independence ¹

At a Court Martial held on board the frigate Washington, in the port of Philadelphia, June 10, 1777, for the trial of William Whitpain, master of the Continental sloop Independance, for deserting from the said sloop, and taking away the boat of her prize, in direct breach of orders, the court were unanimously of opinion, that the said William Whitpain be cashiered, and rendered incapable of bearing a commission or warrant in the Continental navy in future.

GOVERNOR THOMAS JOHNSON TO THE MARYLAND GENERAL ASSEMBLY ¹

Gentlemen of the General Assembly.

Capt Cook of the Defence informs me that a good deal of Uneasiness prevailed amongst his Officers and Men on Account of the Distribution of prize Money they having as they alledged had Encouragement to expect that the Officers & Men would share one half of the Captures and that now he is fitted in every Thing except a few Sailers for another Cruise the Men are not satisfied with being upon Terms less advantageous than those who are in the Continental Service I have promised to lay this Matter before you and to request your Consideration of it.

The armed Sloop Molly belonging to this State being a prime Sailer has made several Voyages but she is navigated at such a great Expence that she can make no profit the Council and myself think it advisable to fit her out as a Cruiser and the Row Galley or Xebeck built by Mr Steward now ready to launch might probably get manned with the same View and be advantageous to the public the scarcity of Men and the high Wages given will we are apprehensive disable us from manning nearly the Number of Gallies designed to be fitted out for Service in the Bay – If you should resolve to have these Vessels employed as Cruisers I should be glad that as little Time as possible may be lost.

Charlestown, June 19

A Person lately arrived from the Bahamas brings Accounts of a Tender, formerly Capt. MacDonogh's Packet, arriving at [New] Providence about a Month since. Captains [Downham] Newton and [Andrew] Groundwater, in two Privateer Sloops¹ of this Port, having got Intelligence of her being in Nassau Harbour about three Weeks ago, endeavoured to cut her out; but the Crew having got into the Fort, from which they fired on the Privateers, and the latter learning that a Man of War, of 16 Guns, was in the Offing, they desisted from the Enterprize, and went out to Sea. A French Sloop which had put into Providence in Distress, a Ship belonging to New London, lying in Harbour Island, with a Cargo of Salt, and a Schooner suspected of being American Property,² were seized by the Man of War and Tender, who were to sail for Jamaica about ten Days ago.

By Intelligence from another Quarter we are informed, that Capt. Groundwater's Sloop soon after her Departure from Nassau, got ashore in a Gale on the Bahama Banks, and went to Pieces. The Crew were all saved by Capt. Newton.

The Marquis de la Faillette, a General Officer, the Baron de Kalb, Major-General of Infantry, and several other French Officers of Distinction, are arrived here in a Vessel belonging to the Marquis de Faillette, on a Visit to the Continent, and with an Intention of entering into the American Service.

[Rhode Island] 20th June About 5 this morning the Rebel Sloop which lay in Bristol bay got under way, and having a light fair wind at N.W. passed through the ferry. The Lark fired some shot at her at the distance of near two miles, all of which fell short. Eleven shot were fired at her from our Redoubt, one of which, a 24 pr struck her in the broadside, and caused great confusion on board; but she got through without any visible damage, & went round to Howland's ferry where she anchored. She appears to be a Privateer, and mounts about 10 Carriage guns besides Swivels, and was full of men. She is a very handsome Sloop, quite clean, and well rigged. She fired three or four shot at the Redoubt as she passed. One half of a Doubleheaded 6 lb Shot struck the Abbattis and was taken up.

The Brig which lay near Mount hope, was seen at anchor up Taunton River this morning. It is highly probable they will both go to Sea the first fair wind after the dark nights come on.

If the Galley had been up, and gone through the ferry after the Sloop, she must have galled her exceedingly with the 18 prs she carries in her bow. Our armed vessels have very little to apprehend from the Rebel battery at Bristol ferry. They must have seen that with our four Guns we have seldom done any material damage to the many Rebel vessels which have passed; and the Rebels have but two Guns in their Battery, and not near so well served.

Last Tuesday a Party of Men from three British Ships landed at Sachem's Head, in Guilford, 3 or 4 Miles from the Town, where they burnt a large Dwelling-House, belonging to Mr. Leete, also two Barns, and carried off several Cattle, Calves and Sheep: But the Inhabitants being alarmed, the Enemy made but a short tarry.

Bound on a Cruise against the Enemies of the American States, and will sail in a Fortnight from this Date.

The Sloop Polly, commanded by Eliphalet Roberts, now lying in the Harbour of New-London. She is a prime Sailor, and well found, mounting 12 Carriage Guns, and otherwise well equipt and having all her Provisions on Board. Great Part of her Men are engaged, but some able Seamen and Marines are still wanting, to whom good Encouragement will be given, by applying on Board said Sloop, or to said Commander at the Golden Ball in New-London. Those who have already engaged, and are absent, are desired without Delay to repair on Board said Sloop.

By the Viscount Howe, Vice Admiral of the White and Commander in Chief of His Majesty's Ships and Vessels employed and to be employed in North America.

In Pursuance of an Act passed in the second Session of the present Parliament, entitled, "an Act to prohibit all Trade and Intercourse with the several Colonies therein mentioned," I do hereby license, authorise, and permit Mr Peter Bryson, Master of the Prize Sloop Sachem,² taken by His Majesty's Ship the Perseus, of the Burthen of Sixty Tons, armed with Four Guns and two Swivels and navigated by six Men, to proceed in the said Sloop from hence to Cadiz, and to return from thence to this Port, with a Cargo of Wine and Fruit for the Use of His Majesty's Fleet and Army employed in North America. This License to be in Force for two Months from the day of her departure from Cadiz.

Given under my Hand and Seal, onboard His Majesty's Ship the Eagle, off New York, the Twentieth day of June 1777 –

Howe

By Command of the Vice Admiral Josh Davies

Note. If any Goods, Wares, or Merchandize, other than Wine and Fruit for the Use of His Majesty's Fleet and Army as aforesaid, shall be found on-board the Sloop for which this License is granted, on her Return from Cadiz, (the necessary Stores for the Sloops Use, and the Baggage of the Passengers, only excepted) the said Goods, Wares &c: shall be forfeited, seized and prosecuted as the said Act directs.

WILLING, MORRIS & CO. TO WILLIAM BINGHAM, MARTINIQUE.¹

Sir Philada June 20th 1777

There is a Brigt called the Nancy & Molly commanded by Captn John Green that is our property altho she now appears in other Colours being registred at Pensacola in the Name of Mr Oliver Pollock of New Orleans who lately sent her with a Cargo of Lumber from the Mississippi to BBdos from whence she took a Freight to New York & by the Newspapers we find she is now there We suppose she will return to BBdos & in one of the enclosed Letters to Mr C[harles] Willing we have requested him to direct Captn Green to call on you in his Way down to the Mississippi for some Letters & orders for Mr Pollock C.W. Imagines this Vessell belongs to him & we expect will direct the Captn to comply with our request at least we hope so – We are not sure whether Captn Jno Green who commands this Vessell knows her to be ours or believes her to be the property of Mr Pollock but we do not like she should be continued in the way she is & wish to take her out of that Tract therefore when Captn Green calls on you try to find out his Political Sentiments (for we do not know him) if you find him against us We hope you may be authorized by the General to detain the Vessell & we hereby as owners invest you with full Power & authority so to do & engage to Indemnify you for so doing – If the Captn is a Whig & knows us to be his owners this Authority may be unnecessary because he will no doubt consent to what we propose but if he refuses you must take the Vessel from him if possible

If you can sell this Brigt for 500 half Joes, do so & apply the Money in part payment of our Debt to Mr C.W. but if that cannot be obtained & you find Captn Green the right Sort of man for our purpose & willing to obey your orders you will in that case Ship onbd said Brigt a Quantity of Rum Sugar Molasses Coffee or of such Articles as you Judge most likely to sell well in Carolina or Georgia but I believe the latter would be the best place & Ship only such Value as you think will purchase a Cargo of Rice send her on as if bound for the Mississippi giving the Captn however a Certificate that she is our property both Vessell & Cargo consign her to Mr Peter Whiteside Mercht at Savannah or in his Absence to John Wereat Esqr at that place & if you chuse to take half this Vessell at 250 Half Joes & be half concerned in her Voyage we have no objection you must in either case order her back to you from Georgia with a Cargo of Rice & the Captn should be prepared & Instructed if met on his Passages to say always to British Cruizers that he is bound to or from the Mississippi to the Americans telling the truth

Shoud Captn Green be improper for this Voyage & these purposes you will drop him & find a more suitable Person – We find Mr Pollock remitted to C.W. a Cargo by this Brig of the Value of £650 BBdos Money & perhaps her freight to & from N York may lodge as much more with him which may lessen his demand on us perhaps about 400 to 500 half Joes – We hope our R M's Concern with you may enable you to make a further payment & we have both given orders & are taking measures to make you remittances for the purpose of discharging our Debt to him & we still hope you may find Opportunity of drawing some Bills on us for the same Purpose & we hope to get clear of this very disagreeable Affair with your Assistance in such reasonable time as will occasion C.W. as little Inconvenience as possible & remain Dr Sir [&c.]

My Lord

Bermuda June 20th 1777

Two Brigs, Rebel privateers, from South Carolina, have visited the West end of these Islands. Took in some Water, Spiked up one Gun, and threw one piece of Cannon, into the Sea from a little fort at the Extreem West End of these Islands, and carried off either four or Eight, pieces of Cannon private property. The Nautilus Sailed towards the West End, but could not over take them, as the privateers were both Clean and lately from South Carolina, and are Commanded by two Bermudian Captains.

The Galatea being removed, to another Station, I am Sorry that the Daphne Man of War, said to be coming here, is not arrived on this Coast, as Yet, but I am informed is gone to St Augustine. The Nautilus alone, is not Sufficient to prevent Insult, from Rebel Privateers; and I hope my Lord Howe, will send another frigate Soon.

I have no Men, to Man any of the forts; but the very few, that Captain Collins of the Nautilus Hath sent to the little fort, to Guard the Entrance into Castle Harbour. The Cannon and Carriages are very Old and bad, but I have Repaired some of the Carriages. I have the Honor to be with great Respect [&c.]

A few days since the Commissary of Prisoners here sent some Masters of Vessels, and others, to Providence in order to proceed to Rhode Island; but yesterday they return'd hither, and 'tis reported that the reason why your State prevented them, was because the Arm'd Vessels now with you, might have an opportunity to pass Rhode Island without the Enemy's gaining intelligence of your designs; In consequence, we have Stop'd the prisoners here until we receive your Reply to this; and if you have no material objection, we intend to send them to a small port near Dartmouth, from whence they may depart for Rhode Island, and will not have it in their power to make any discoveries greatly to our disadvantage.

LEONARD JARVIS TO CAPTAIN JOHN PAUL JONES¹

Sir

Dartmouth June 23d 1777

I have now to reply to your Favour of the 9th Instant which inclos'd me a list of the Persons concern'd in the Capture of the Ship Alexander – which being certified only by the Clerk – I have returnd with the list of the Ship Alfreds Company to Capt John Bradford for you to affix your Signature – I was the more induc'd to this as I observe that you have put down James Grennell as a Boy – when the late Commr in chief Mr Hopkins certifies that he was a Midshipman – although it may be just that when there are fewer than the Compliment in any Classes of Officers those who belong to such Classes are entitled to no greater Shares than they could have claim'd, had the Compliment been full – yet I am persuaded those Officers never would consent that the part allotted to their particular Class shd be divided otherways than among themselves – but should the Congress order it to be so settled I imagine they would make no great Difficulty –

The Supernumerary Officers are pretty well got over the Order of Congress respecting the turning over of Officers from one Ship to another leaves but little room for Dispute – the only Objection now is against the Acting Lieutenants Masters &c classing with the Lieutenants & Masters – the Classes below them will object to their classing w[ith] them & I see not where you can place them or what furthur can be done than dividing the ten Deserving Shares among them²

Capt Hacker has disposed of three & half Shares of the ten & consequently has left six & a half for [the] Ship – he also has allotted a Share to one [Stephen] Rus[t] a Midshipman on board the Prize as first seeing the Mellish.

I observe there was 7 Casks of Beef & 26 Bags Bread taken on board the Alfred from the Mellish – I have been applied to by Commodore Hopkins for his 1/20 of the Alexan[der] & shall acquaint him with your Demand – [but] I cant yet think myself safe in paying it to you any more than to him – as soon as I can see a Resolution of Congress to pay the thr[ee] twentieths of that Vessel to Capt Jones I shall be ready to obey – If you will be kind enough to call on Messs Cushing & White they will pay you Seven hundred & eighty pounds which if the Division is made as I am confident it will wont be much short of yr part of the Ship Mellish & Brig Active & yr part also of the Alexander with the fifty pounds Sterling paid your Order to [Ca]pt Fox³ – I wish you when you sail a [p]leasant & prosperous Voyage & am – with due respect [&c.]

New-York Gazette, MONDAY, JUNE 23, 1777

New-York, June 23.

Last Wednesday Night Mr. Lowther arrived here with his Family, from Edenton, in North-Carolina, being obliged to leave that Province, where the Rebels are persecuting to Death and Destruction every Person, that will not join in the present Rebellion. Last Monday Mr. Lowther fell in with the Hinchinbrooke Sloop of War, Lieut. Ellis, who had taken a Schooner from Boston with 12 Hogsheads of Sugar and one of Rum, bound for Baltimore, in Maryland. Another Vessel, taken by the same Sloop of War, was then burning in Sight.

Last Monday Evening arrived here from England his Majesty's Ship the St. Albans, Capt. Onslow, of 64 Guns, and brought in under Convoy several Vessels with some British Artillery and Hessian Yagers.

The 15th Instant returned here from a Cruize his Majesty's armed Sloop Harlem, Lieut. Knight, and the Stanly Brig Tender: A few Days before they came in, they cut out of Egg-Harbour two Brigs, one of them a Letter of Marque, the other is loaded with Lumber and Tar: They took three other Vessels during their Cruize.

LIBEL OF CAPTAIN JOHN YOUNG AGAINST THE SCHOONER Mary ¹

Baltimore County in the State of Maryland to wit

To the Honorable Benjamin Nicholson Esquire Judge of the Court of Admiralty erected by the Honorable the Convention of Maryland to take Cognizance of and determine the property of Captures of Vessels brought into the State of Maryland pursuant to the Resolves of the Honorable the Continental Congress

The bill of John Young Esquire Commander of the Continental Sloop of war called the Independance duly Commissioned under the Honorable the Continental Congress, who, as well for himself as the Officers, Mariners and Seamen and all others belonging to and concerned in the said Sloop in this behalf prosecuting in all humble manner sheweth; That the said Sloop was fitted out Equipped, Victualled and armed at the Expence of the united States of America and the said John Young being duly Commissioned, authorised and appointed with his officers Mariners and Seamen on board the said Sloop to cruise and Sail on the high Seas; did on the day of in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and seventy within the Jurisdiction of this Court discover on the high Seas, pursue, apprehend and as a lawful Prize take the Vessel or Schooner Mary Commanded by Patrick Bower, burthen about thirty Tons together with her apparel, Tackle, Furniture and Cargoe; belonging to a Subject or Subjects of the King of Great Britain; and the said John Young doth further shew that the said Schooner Mary at the time of her Capture afore-said and long before, and the Tackle, apparel, Furniture and Cargoe of the said Schooner did belong to Subjects of the King of Great Britain not residing in or being Inhabitants of the Bermuda, Providence or Bahama Islands; wherefore the said John Young prays this honorable Court that the said Schooner called the Mary with her Tackle, apparel, furniture and Cargo may be adjudged and condemned as forfeited to the Use of the Captors thereof and those concerned in the Sloop called the Independance according to the Resolutions of the Honorable the Continental Congress in that behalf made and provided –

2. The reason for the Senate's action was given in a brief note, reading “Gentlemen, We cannot agree to that Part of your Resolution which empowers the Governor and the Council to fit out the Sloop Molly, and employ her as a Cruiser, because we think she would be much more advantageously employed in a Voyage to import Salt and Medicines, Articles much wanted by, and very necessary to, the Inhabitants of this State,” House of Delegates Journal, 1777, Md. Gazette of the State of South-Carolina, MONDAY, JUNE 23, 1777

Charles-Town, June 23.

By a Gentleman just arrived here, who was in Jamaica the 27th of last Month, we learn, that the Continental Sloop of War Hornet, was carried in there (not into Antigua) the 9th, by the Porcupine Sloop of War (lately Capt. Johnson's, purchased at Curacoa) mounting 20 Iron and 2 Brass Cannon, commanded by the Hon. Capt. Cadogan – that the Porcupine had 5 Men killed in the Engagement – and that Capt. Nicholson and his Crew were confined, in Irons, on board Admiral Gayton's Ship. – That every Vessel which the Men of War carried into Jamaica, even Bermudians in Ballast, and Frenchmen, were, under some Pretence or other, condemned and sold there. – And that a large and rich Fleet, was certainly to sail from thence for Great-Britain, by the 15th Instant, under Convoy of the King's armed Ship Kent of 36 Guns and 160 Men, Capt. Joseph Tathwell, and the Lively Man of War of 20 Guns, with a like Number of Men.

A French Scooner, laden with Rice, is taken and carried into Jamaica, by the Porcupine Sloop of War.

The Brig Anne, James Garrigues, Master, of Philadelphia, with 18 fine Brass Field Pieces on board for the Use of the United States, has also been taken and carried into Jamaica.

The Cotesworth-Pinckney Privateer of this Port, of only 2 Swivel Guns, 4 Patteraroes, and 13 Men (Officers included) commanded by Capt. William Ranking (of whom some mention was made in this Gazette of the 9th Inst.) returned last Tuesday from a Cruize; of which he has favoured us with the following particulars. On the 23d of May, off St. Augustine, he a second Time fell in with Capt. Mowbray's Sloop, and the Ship which Capt. Allen in the Comet engaged four Days after, which he had approached near enough to know what they were, they gave him Chase for six Hours, but he happily got clear of them. The next day he again saw them, but they did not then chase. This did not discourage him from continuing to cruise off St. Augustine and on the 8th Instant he took within half a mile of that Bar (having cut him off from the Breakers) the Sloop Mary, Robert Harrison, Master, from Antigua for St. Augustine, laden with Rum, Sugar, Beef, Butter, Candles &c. On the 9th he discovered three sail at Anchor to the Northward, in about seven fathom Water, between St. John's and St. Mary's Rivers. He thereupon ordered the Prize to run in shore, while he stood toward the Ships, to see what they were. He soon discovered that one was a Frigate, the others Transports or Merchantmen (probably the same that stole the Negroes off this Bar Sunday the 1st.); the Prize was then ordered to make the best of her Way, while he stood in Shore toward the Mouth of St. John's; where he a third time saw Mowbray, He thereupon returned to his Prize, and ordered her to stand to the Eastward; but, about noon he had the Mortification to see the Frigate come up with and retake her; she afterwards chased him till Night, but he left her at his Pleasure, and ended his Cruize, his Crew being then reduced to six Men.

On Tuesday last Capt. Richard Wells, as Prize Master, brought into safe Port, the Scooner Industry, from Jamaica, taken on the 8th of May, by the Privateer Sloop St. Louis, of Georgia, commanded by Captain Samuel Spencer.

Capt. Wells put into the Havana on the 6th Instant, where he met with a most hospitable Reception, and was readily supplied with every Thing he wanted. Captain [Woolman] Sutton in a Letter of Marque Brig, belonging to Philadelphia, put into the same Port, on the 7th, and Captain Spencer on the 8th, who both met with the like reception and treatment.

The Day Capt. Wells came in, about 9 in the Morning, he saw two Ships and a Scooner, about 5 Leagues S.E. of this Bar, standing off, who did not offer to chace, but are likely to be the same that drove ashore and burnt the Mississippi Brig, mentioned in our last, near Stono. — The Brig was the Union, Capt. Bell, from Mississippi, laden with Barrel Staves, bound for Ireland, and had been taken on the 5th Instant, by the Letter of Marque Brig Lively, of Philadelphia, commanded by Capt. W. Sutton.

Capt. Downham Newton, of the Sloop Vixen, and Capt. Andrew

Groundwater, of the Sloop Swift, both Privateers of this Port, having learnt that a King's Scooner, of 10 Guns, was in the Harbour of Nassau in New-Providance, and had seized a French Sloop which had put in, in Distress, the Scooner Industry, Jonathan Spooner, Master, of that Island, under Pretence of being American Property, as well as a Ship at Harbour Island, belonging to New-London, that was loading salt; they formed the Design of cutting her out, and for that Purpose entered the Harbour on the 1st Instant, but finding the Scooner hawled up under the Guns of the Fort, into which the Crew had retired, and a Man of War Sloop of 16 Guns, appearing in the Offing, after exchanging a few Shot with the Fort, they were obliged to put to Sea again. The Sloop Swift since struck a Rock on the Bahama Bank, in a Gale of Wind, and soon went to Pieces; but Captain Groundwater and his Crew got on board the Vixen – The Man of War and armed Scooner were to sail from Nassau last Yesterday se'nnight, with several Vessels they had seized, for Jamaica.

PETITION OF JOHN BROWNE TO THE MASSACHUSETTS GENERAL COURT ¹

To the Honble the Council, & the Honble House of Representatives, in Genl Court Assembled, at Boston June 1777

The Petition of John Brown of Boston humbly shews That your Petitioner, in the Month of Septr AD 1775 sent a Brigantine belonging to himself, & called the Eunice, on a Voyage to the Island of St Vincents, that the Capt of the Brig, soon after the Act for Subjecting American Property to Seizure was passed, as a Cover made a fictitious transfer of the Vessel, & put her into the Employ of certain Merchants, Subjects of the King of Great Britain, to freight from St Vincents to London, in this Employ she was lately Captured by an American Privateer,² has been libelled in the Maritime Court, & twice tried, and the Jury on the last Trial contrary to the Express Opinion of the whole Court; found, "that the aforesaid Brig was employed by the Enemies of America, and a Lawfull Prize to the Captors" The Opinion of the Justices of the Superiour Court of Judicature &c has been repeatedly given, that the Statute Subjecting Vessels to forfeiture, that are found in the Employ of the Enemy, restricts the Meaning of Enemies, to the Fleet & Army, employed against the United Colonies of America, as it Clearly does in so many words. In Consequence of this Adjudication all the Vessels under the same Predicament with your Petitioners have been restored to their Owners –

Your Petitioner thinks it peculiarly hard on him, that his Property shou'd be forfeited for an Act, which no law of his Country Condemns, and while others under precisely Similar Circumstances are restored, Besides your Petitioner is really apprehensive that this Judgement will be of dangerous Precedent, for if all American Vessels, that have been transporting British Merchandize from any foreign Port to another since the present War are forfeitable. Your Petitioner is persuaded that half the floating Property of the Continent is liable to Seizure, for an Act too which by Adverting to the Laws of their Country, they find no where prohibited.

Your Petitioner therefore humbly Prays, that as the Laws of the State have not provided for Reviews in Maritime Causes as in Common Law Actions, your Honors would kindly interpose in behalf of your Petitioner, and for the furtherance of Law and Justice, direct a New trial to be had on the Aforesaid Brig, at the Next Superiour Court, for the Middle District – And as in Duty Bound shall ever pray &c –

John Browne

 Middle District Suffolk ss }

At the Maritime Court for the middle District of the State of the Massachusetts Bay holden, at Boston in the County of Suffolk, by the Honourable Nathan Cushing Esquire Judge of said Court, on Tuesday the twenty fourth Day of June in the Year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and seventy seven –

John Bradford Esqr Propont vs the Sloop Betsey Nathl Horrick late Master Libel &c filed 149	Be it remembered That on the seventeenth Day of May last, John Bradford Esqr of Boston in the County of Suffolk, in Behalf of John Skimmer Commander of the armed Schooner Lee , & the Officers, Marines & Mariners on board the same, the Owners thereof, and all concerned therein, came before the Honourable Timothy Pickering Esquire, then Judge of said Court, and filed a Libel exhibiting an Information, to wit, that the said Skimmer and his Company, in said Schooner, on the high Seas, on the third Day of the same May, attacked and took and on the sixteenth Day of the same May, brought into Boston in said District, the Sloop Betsey , of about fifty Tons Burthen, commanded by Nathaniel Horrick and laden with the Articles mentioned in a Schedule to said Libel annexed

And the said John Bradford, in his said Bill, averred that the said Sloop, her Cargo and appurtenances were, at the Time of her Capture, the Property of & belonging to some of the Subjects of the King of Great Britain other than the Inhabitants of Bermuda, New Providence or the Bahama Islands; and that the said Sloop was then employed by the Enemies of the united States of America and carrying Supplies to said Enemies. By Means of all which and by Force of the Laws of this State and the Resolves of the Continental Congress in such Case provided, the said Sloop, her Cargo and appurtenances (the Proponant further said) are forfeited, and to be distributed to the Captors and others concerned therein – Praying advisement in the Premisses and that, by a due Course of Proceedings, the said Sloop, her Cargo & appurtenances may be decreed to be and remain forfeited and distributed as the Law directs.

And the Time & Place of Trial having been duely notified, the said John Bradford the Proponant appeareth, and no Person appearing to shew Cause why the said Sloop her Cargo & appurtenances should not be condemned;

After a full Hearing of the Proponant (by his Counsel) the Proponants Bill aforesaid is committed to a Jury duely returned and impannelled and sworn to return a true Verdict thereon according to Law and Evidence, Which Jury are William Foster, John Woods, Elisha Gardner, Joshua Boylston, John Coburn, John Hooton, David Williams, John Champney, Thomas Parker, William Bosson, Francis Archibald, John Bennet, Who return their Verdict to the said Nathan Cushing Judge, and upon their Oath say, "that the said Sloop is a Merchant Vessel that she was taken, on the high Seas, by Capt John Skimmer Commander of the Continental arm'd Schooner called the Lee and bro't into the middle District of this State, that the said Sloop her Cargo & appurtenances were at the Time of her Capture the property of & belonging to some of the Subjects of the King of Great Britain other than the Inhabitants of Bermudas New Providence or Bahama Islands."

And thereupon, It is, by the [said] Nathan Cushing Judge as aforesaid, considered and decreed that the said Sloop Betsey with her Cargo and appurtenances are forfeit; that the same be sold at public Vendue; and that of the monies thence arising, there be paid the Charges of Trial & Condemnation being eight pounds eleven shillings & eight pence and the Charges of Sale and the Wages of the Seamen & Mariners who were taken on board the said Sloop, according to the Terms of their Contract up to the Time of her Condemnation (such Wages as have been advanced & paid to the Seamen & Mariners by the said Nathaniel Horrick late Master of said Sloop out of his own Monies, to be paid to him together with his own Wages, and the arrears of the Seamen & Mariners Wages to be paid them severally); and that the Residue of the Monies arising from the Sale aforesaid be delivered to the said John Skimmer & his Company Captors of the said Sloop Betsey, or their agents or attorney, for the Use and Benefit of such Captors & others concerned therein –

State of Rhode Island & Providence Plantations.

Hon'ble Gent.

Providence June 25th 1777.

The invasion of this State hath obliged us to keep either the whole or a very considerable Part of our Militia upon Duty; and as it is very difficult to prevail upon Men to enlist for a long Term of Time when they receive large Bounties upon short Inlistments, especially in the exhausted State of this Government; we were obliged to give enormous Sums to engage Men in our Continental Battalions. – Six Seamen, Europeans, and Residents in this State who received Three Hundred Dollars each or more having formerly sailed with Abraham Whipple Esq Commander of the Continental Frigate Providence were desirous of entering on board his Ship; Upon which Capt Whipple agreed to receive them and to exchange for them Six Marines who preferred the Land to the Sea Service and desir'd that the exchange might take place, wch accordingly did. Joseph Merry one of these Six Marines, who so enter'd received the Small-Pox, at the Hospital in this State, deserted from it and we are informed is now in the Hospital at Taunton. – As in this Case the State will suffer the loss of the Bounty we desire you to send us an Order by Mr Mumford (to whom we refer you for a more particular Account of this Affair) for the delivery of the said Joseph Merry to such Officer as we shall appoint to receive him.

We have been favor'd with Mr President Powell's letter of the 21st Instant relating to some Prisoners sent here from your State to proceed to Newport. – In Answer to wch we would observe that a considerable Body of Men being stationed here, and the Continental Frigates being in this Harbor it frequently happens that measures are in Contemplation, which make it necessary to stop all Communication with the Enemy to prevent their gaining Intelligence of our Designs; by which means the Prisoners are detained at considerable Expence, and other Inconveniencies arise. We are therefore of Opinion that it will be more prudent to send your Prisoners by the Way of Dartmouth. . . .

Gentlemen/ Lewistown [Lewes] June 25 1777 –

When i wrote you last which was on the 22d of this instant, I inform'd you that the ships was making up the Bay, but before my Express had been gone a half an hour, they all anchor'd above the Brandywine, and Remain there still, there is no more ships in sight at this time.

The Roebuck and the other ships Carry on a fine Stroke of trade with the inhabitants from the uper part of this County, and from Long neck upon the north side of indian River where they get all sorts of fresh Provisions and Fish and fowl together – in these two necks of land there is scarce one Whigg and the Officers has give out that if the Militia should offer to hinder there trade they will land five hundred Men from these ships so that the torrys will Joine them with as many More and they will Plunder the whole County. Mr George Jackson is Comeing up who will inform you better than I Can Write. There has Been a Certain Simon Kollock who Serv'd his time to Mr Jonathan Evans Cooper in your City, Sent on shore from the Roebuck with a Large Sum of Counterfit thirty Dollar Bills he has inlisted near a hundred men from the two Necks above mention'd and is gone Round to [New] York in a Schooner to Joine the Rascally Crew – he, the said Kollock left with the High Sheriff of our County a large sum of his Base Money which the Shiriff has been buying up Cattle with, and imploying others to Doe the like we have detected some of them and at Snow Hill they have taken up one of the Shiriff's Emmisaries one Solomon Triss and Confin'd him in Jail – they found upon him one hundred and thirty thirty Dollar Bills all Counterfit – the Shiriff is not taken as yet, but I hope soon to here he is. if we should be so happy as to take him I am Perswaded that he will bring in some of our Great men, This Gentlemen, is what may be Called Striking at the Very Foundation of our Liberty, and I must beg that you will make all the Interest with the Congress, to have our Case taken under there Serious Consideration and grant us such Redress as they in there Wisdom shall think Proper. if they should take no notice of us our state is gone and the few friends to the American Cause in these parts must fall a sacrifice to Tyrants.

The Bearer hereof Major Henry Neille goes up to wait upon Congress with a Letter to that Honorable Boddy Pointing out some of our Greviances, in hopes of Relief. Any assistance you can give him will Ever be Rememberd by [&c.]

Dear Sir

Boston 26th June 1777.

I had the pleasure of writing you last week - but could not be very particular as I had but a few Minutes warning of the Opportunity - I depended with a degree of certainty on receiving the return of our letters to the Honble the Secret Committee P the last post - no return however hath Appeared; which makes me very Uneasy Indeed! - A whole Month hath elapsed Since my first copies wer forwarded. - Should this Plan misgive - it will be the fifth disappointment of the kind which hath befel me Since my Arrival at Christmas. - it distresses me beyond Measure to think that I should lay Idle and inactive thus long - for no Violence can be greater to my Nature than this Preclusion from Duty.

Under my present uncertainty I think it imprudent to Enlist Men for I find it very difficult to hold the few who have entered. - As I understand that sundry letters have passed thro' here lately from Monsr Fautrel - I should be glad if you will please to inform me in What readiness the Amphitrite is and how he purposes to proceed Also what you think of your proposal respecting the Other Ship -

I must say that I wish it to take place - I have settled Captn [Thomas] Thompson's Accot here and shall write to him Soon - I am with due respect Sir [&c.]

Sir

Boston June 26th 1777.

I should have made an earlier reply to yours of 17th June instant had I not expected that Yesterdays post would have brought me letters from Congress that would have determined the time of my departure. these letters however, have not Yet Appeared - so that I remain in a degree of Uncertainty. - I think myself obliged to you for the preference which you give me by expressing a desire to Sail under my Command - You have my thanks for that Offer. – the Ship in Question being by accounts one of the finest Frigates in France and being intended for a Service which even my wishes could not exceed – must be Officered by Gentlemen of the first natural and acquired abilities. – the necessity of being thus particular is evident, altho' it hath been too little attended to in our Service. – for the Abilities of Sea Officers ought to be as far Superiour to the Abilities of Officers by land – as the nature of a Sea Service is more complicated and Admits of a greater number of Cases than can possibly happen on the land: so that the disciplin by Sea ought to be so much the More more exact and Regular.

As I shall ever regard the good of the Service in preference to the Situation of the particular Ship under my Command – I disdain the Idea of enticing any person to quit the Ship to which they Immediatly belong in the Service – I do not at present see the propriety of your quitting the Hampden without a special Order from the Honble Committee or from the Deputy Board here Established – especially as you are the only Officer whose Commission is for that Vessel. – I would give yourself and the other Officers and Men encouragement equal to their Merit and Abilities provided they were fairly disengaged from Other connections – but, I determin to come under no positive engagement for any particular high Stations without a thorough knowldge of the persons Abilities and Superiour Merits to whom I make such Engagements. – Should any thing favourable Occur I will not fail to render you any consistent Services. – I left your Mother & Sister well in April – & am, Sir [&c.]

Your several favours under the 16th, 21st & 23d I but this hour at 11 O Clock Receiv'd tho' I was twice at the Lodgings of the post early in the morning to enquire after Letters but he was out, the list of names is gone forward for Capt [John Paul] Jones to sign, its fate I shall soon know, I return them by post I am pleas'd to hear the providence has 25 Barrells provision on board, as its next to impossible to get any round, that quantity I presume is sufficient for her Cruise, and I trust you will be able either to [illegible] bread or get flour Baked up to supply them, in regard to her future Cruise I suppose Capt Rathbourn [John Peck Rathbun] who is now with you has his orders how to proceed from the marine Board,² . . .

In answer to the disputes arising between Capt Jones & his Officers Relative to the distribution of their shares its impossible for me to say how it must be determined, and at present as things are situated to the southward, its not probable we shall soon hear from them, in short every reasonable man must know that the Congress can't give attention to those matters at present, & tho' it effects individuals, less things must give way to greater, and they must wait –

Agreeable to a Resolve of this Court, of the 18th Inst, we enclose Copies of Sundry Resolves respecting an intended expedition to St John's River in Nova-Scotia. – You will See that it is grounded upon a Resolve of Congress of the 13th Ulto; which, together with Petitions from Sundry Inhabitants of the Eastern parts of this State, have determined us upon the Measure; being convinced that we must make a Stand Somewhere, & that it would be better to do it at that River, than at any other place, or to remove the Inhabitants: That by securing that River, we Should prevent a communication, that way, between our Enemies at Canada, with those in Nova-Scotia; – Should cover our Eastern Country; – Secure the Indians in our favor; – give greater Security to Your State, & promote the Interest of the united States of America: From all which considerations we are led to desire your aid therein, by permittg Your Inhabitants to inlist into this Service, or in Such other way as you may judge more proper. – Brigadier [Jonathan] Warner is appointed to the General Command; & Colo [Samuel] McCobb, to that of the first-mentioned Regiment; but the Field-Officers of the Regimt to be raised in Nova-Scotia, are not yet appointed.

We have engaged the Alfred Man of War, Capt Hinman, in the Service; & if you Should prevail with Capt Thom[p]son ² to join him, it will make a good Convoy: They must soon enter upon the Service, & 'tis not probable that they will be detained long in it.

Sir

[Philadelphia] June 26th 1777

As it is the opinion of the General officers directed by his Excellency General Washington to take the most effectual measures for Securing the command of the North River that the Continental Frigates will be of essential service in securing the Chain and obstructions in Said River; and as by your Letter of the 9th instant we find you entertain a similar sense. We now think proper to direct that you have the frigate under your Command put in as good A State of defence as can be admitted of, and follow such orders as may be given you by his Excellency the General, or the Commanding officer appointed to direct the operations in that quarter, using your best judgment in the execution of such orders as you may receive. We now send forward to the Council of Safety for the State of New York a sufficient number of Blank Commissions and Warrants for your officers, who are to be appointed temporary only until such time as their Characters and qualifications are sufficiently evinced and made known to us, therefore we wish you to join with the Council in having those Commissions filled up with the Names of Men of Merit whom you can recommend freely for a permanent establishment. We recommend your taking great care of the frigate her Materials and Stores and keep us constantly advised of your proceedings. We are Sir

Gentlemen

[Philadelphia] June 26th 1777

We are informed by a Letter from the Captains of the Continental Frigates in Hudsons River that the General officers sent by His Excellency General Washington to veiw the fortications and obstructions in Said River were of opinion that the frigates would be serviceable in defending and covering the same and we find by an extract from your Minutes enclosed that you were of the same opinion. –

In consequence whereof we have now given orders to the said Captains to have the frigates put in as good a State of defence as can be admitted, and to follow and obey such orders as they may receive from General Washington or the Commanding officer who may direct the operations in that quarter. We must beg your Assistance in getting the ships fitted, and we now take the liberty to enclose a sufficient number of blank Commissions & Warrants for the Lieutenants and other officers who are to be appointed temporary until such time as we are sufficiently informed that they are well qualified for the Stations in which they may be put, therefore you will please to fill the Commissions with this proviso. & we have required the Captains to join in your researches for men of good Character whom you can freely recommend for a permanent establishment in our Navy. We must further beg leave to trouble you to send us a List of their Names, Stations, & qualifications & have the honor to be Gentlemen

Advices from the Dutch West Indies inform us, that by Accounts received there from Holland to the Middle of April, the States General had determined to fit out 50 Sail of Men of War for the Protection of their Commerce, which had met with considerable Obstruction from the British Cruizers; that 12 of them were actually sailed, and that two, with some richly laden Merchantmen under their Convoy, were daily looked for at Currassow. It is added, that Sir Joseph Yorke, the British Ambassadour at the Hague, had demanded Satisfaction for the Protection and Respect afforded to the American Vessels by M. de Graaf, Governour of St. Eustatius; when their High-Mightinesses gave an Answer not all agreeable to the British Minister.

Capt. John Willis, who arrived here on Monday from Martinico, after a Passage of 23 Days, informs us, that the Day he left St. Pierre's, three Prizes taken by two American Privateers, of 14 Guns each, commanded by Captains Orr and Palmer,¹ arrived there, viz. a Ship from Africa with 318 Slaves, a Brig from Corke for Barbados with Provisions, a Letter of Marque Ship of 14 six Pounders, from Liverpool for Jamaica, with Dry Goods. The third day after Capt. Willis left St. Pierre's, he saw 13 Ships, some of which appeared to be Men of War, steering a S.W.W. Course; they did not show any Colours.

By your Letter you tax me & my Officers for not showing proper Signals last Night but I was upon Deck & made the Exa[c]t Signals you gave me which was by firing one Gun & showing three Lights which was for Tack & Sail with the Starbard Tacks on board if there is any mistake it is owing to your now [sic not] giving me a true Copy I am much surprized that you should not observe the Signals when Mr Hill² did whom I give an Exat Copy from your Signals but at the same time it cannot be supozed that your Officers knew the Signals when they never had seen them expecting some ill consequences I desired Captn Waters to go forward to look out & had it not have been for his hailing we certainly must have been aboard of each other you some time ago tax't me for being sparing of my Lights – I must now tax you for being sparing of your Canvas for you commonly keep a considerable distance astern atho' you was shy of our Compy. I should think it more proper especially in foggy weather when there is a good breeze of Wind that we can Command our Ships to keep within hail of each other or so near as that we can hear the Bells strike as for the Fox she keeps so nigh that I can distinguish her Bell in the Cabin every Night as well as I can my own if you will go a head I will be bound to keep Compy with you & be close upon your Quater or so nigh that it Will be impossable to loose Each other you mention of not standing upon Sound-ing which I Join with you, but I think it will not be of any advantage to stand on this Tack after we break off from South, I am very Anctious to get home since I am very lame myself and destitute of Officers. In Case of Foggy Weather I think it would be necessary when the foregoing Signals is made for Tacking for the Sternmost & Weathermost Ship to Tack first & when she is about to repeat the Signal – I am sorry you met with that Accident in going aboard hope your Leg is better, am afraid I cannot wait on you next Sunday on Account of my Lameness for I am no[w] laying upon my be[am] ends & what is worse than that I cannot drink neither, Punch, Wine nor Grog –

State of the Massachusetts Bay }
 Middle District Suffolk ss }

At the maritime Court for the middle District of the State of the Massachusetts Bay holden, at Boston in the County of Suffolk, by the Honourable Nathan Cushing Esquire, Judge of said Court, on Fryday the twenty seventh Day of June in the Year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred & seventy seven

Mackay & Adams Proponts vs the Brig Independa Harvey Master Libel &c filed 153	Be it remembered that on the twentieth Day of March in the same Year of our Lord, Mungo Mackay & Thomas Adams both of Boston aforesaid Merchants, in Behalf of William Brown Commander of the private arm'd Ship called the Boston , the officers, marines & mariners on board the same Ship, the Owners thereof and all concerned therein, came before the said Judge and filed a Libel exhibiting an Information, to wit, that the said Brown and his Company, in said Ship, on the high Seas, on the tenth Day of February last, attacked and took, and, on the same twentieth Day of March, bro't, into Boston in said District, the Brigantine called the Independance of about one hundred and twenty Tons Burthen, in Ballast, & commanded by one Harvey, ²

Which Brigantine and Appurtenances, the said Mackay & Adams, in their said Bill, aver'd, were, at the Time of said Caption, the Property of & belonging to some of the Subjects of the King of Great Britain other than the Inhabitants of Bermuda, New Providence and the Bahama Islands, and was then employed by the Enemies of the united States of America, By Means whereof and by Force of the Laws of this State and the Resolves of the Continental Congress in such Case provided, the same Brigantine, her Cargo & appurtenances (the Proponants further said) are forfeit & to be distributed to and among the Captors and others concerned therein, Praying Advisement in the Premises and that, by a due Course of Proceedings, the same Brigantine and appurtenances may be decreed to be and remain forfeit & distributed as the Law directs –

And the Time & place of Trial having been duely notified, the said Proponants appear. And Richard Derby junr Esqr agent, within the said District, for the State of Massachusetts-Bay, by William Wetmore Esqr his attorney comes into Court & (his Claim having been duely filed) in behalf of said State, claimeth the said Brigantine, her Stores, Guns, Arms, Boat & appurtenances – and saith “that no Condemnation of the said Brigantine &c hath been had by the Enemy – & the same Brigantine &c before the Capture thereof were and now are the Property of the Government and People of the State aforesaid & not liable to Forfeiture” and prays that the one half of what she, her Stores, Guns, Arms, Boat & appurtenances may sell for, be restored & paid to him the said Richard, for the Use of the said Government and People, after deducting the Charges of Trial and Sale from the Proceeds of the said Brigantine &c

And after a full Hearing of the Proponants and the Claimants (by their respective Counsel) the Bill aforesaid of the Proponants and the Claim of the said Richard Derby are committed to a Jury duely returned and impannelled & sworn to return a true Verdict thereon according to Law and Evidence. Which Jury are John Coburn, John Woods, Elisha Gardner, Joshua Boylston, John Hooton, David Williams, John Champney, Thomas Parker, William Bosson, Francis Archbald, John Bennet, Benaiah Perkins. Who return their Verdict to the said Judge & upon their Oath say "that the said Brigantine & her appurtenances, Stores, Guns, Arms & Boat were the Property of the Government and People of this State of the Massachusetts Bay and were taken by the Enemy and were in the Enemy's possession more than ninety six Hours and then no Condemnation thereon being had, was retaken on the high Seas, to wit, the tenth Day of February last, by Capt William Brown Commander of the Ship Boston and his Company & brought into the middle District of this State; and thereupon the Jury determine that one half of the neat Produce of said Brig Stores, Guns, Arms, Boat and appurtenances be to the Recaptors & others concerned therein and the other half to this State of the Massachusetts Bay."

And thereupon, It is, by the said Nathan Cushing Judge as aforesaid, considered and decreed that the said Brigantine Independance with her Stores, Guns, Arms, Boat and appurtenances be sold at public Vendue; and that the Monies thence arising, after deducting the Charges of Trial & Condemnation being eigh[t] Pounds fourteen Shillings & three pence and the Charges of Sale, be delivered, to wit, one half thereof to the Recaptors aforesaid, their agents or attornies, for the Use & Benefit of such Recaptors & others concerned therein; and the other half thereof to the said Richard Derby for the Use of the Government & People of the Massachusetts Bay.

[Extract]

Sir

Albany June 28th 1777.

I have just received two Letters from General St. Clair dated Tyonderoga of the 25th & 26th Instant. He advises me that the Enemy's Fleet and Army are arrived at Crown point; that they have sent strong Detachments one to cut off Fort George and the other either to surprize Skenesborough or throw themselves on the Communication between that and Tyonderoga. Our Garrison at Tyonderoga is greatly inadequate to the Defence of the expensive Works on both Sides of the Lake and I have unhappily no Troops to reinforce them. . . .

Sir/

Worcester County June 28th 1777

In obedience to your Request in yours of the 12 Inst we have consulted as to the Best mode of defence for Synepuxent Inlet and are clearly of Opinion that a row Galley constructed for a small draught of Water, will best answer the purpose, we think that a Galley to Carry Two Twelve poundrs and Sum Smaller Guns could protect the harbour against any of the Enemy's Tenders for which there is Water in the Inlet. From the Bleakness of the place Judge that a floting Battery would be Useless except in Very moderate weather; for that reason we apprehend, that a Galley would be much more servicable, as She would be much more Manageable and would live much better in a high Sea, At present the Militia are planting some Cannon on the South Beach & on South point, which will Command the harbour, but the Cannon must be removed early in the fall, as the Beach is frequently overflowed, when the hard Easterly winds Come on -

Should you think proper to adopt our proposal, we must request, that you will send down a workman who is Acquainted with building Vesels of that kind as we know none that are. we could git Carpendars as Under workmen if we had one Master Bulder

Number 33.

Eagle Hudson's River

Sir

June the 29th 1777.

With this You will receive the Duplicates of my Dispatches sent in the Halifax Packet that sailed for England the 14th Instant.

By the St Albans, which arrived the 17th with the Remainder of the Convoy Captain [Richard] Onslow had in Charge, the Favorite Transport excepted, I had the Honor to receive the Commands of the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty signified in your several Letters of the 11th and 12th of April. Information has since been brought by the Master of a Vessel lately released from Boston, that the Favorite was taken and carried into that Harbor. Captain Onslow's Report respecting his Separation from the Transport is enclosed herewith.

The Main-Yard of the St Albans being decayed and broke in the Slings, and the Crew of the Ship very sickly, it is doubtful whether she can be made ready in time to attend the next Movement of the Army. Captain Onslow, when about One Hundred and Fifty Leagues from this Port, fell in on his Passage from England, with two Armed Ships of the Rebels of Thirty-two or Thirty-six Guns each; supposed to be a part of the Number that put to Sea from Boston the 21st past. They stood off to the Southward upon Appearance of his Intention to chase. He h[ad] Sight also, at different times, of five small Vessels, judged to be a further Part of the same Armament. But, attending to the Principal Object of his Appointment the safe Conduct of the Transports, he steered after th[ese] Cruizers only for the Purpose of forcing them from t[he] Station they appeared to have taken; Tho' the Advantage they had of the St Albans in Sailing did not promise much Success, if it had been expedient to continue the Chace. – They will be probably met with again, if they keep the same Station, by the Raisnable, after the Term of Captain Fitzherbert's appointed Cruize is expired; Or by Captain Parker who sailed the 15th from Chesepeak Bay to clean the Phoenix at Halifax, A Measure made necessary at this unseasonable Time, by the Damage the Cables received consequent of the Injury the Ship suffered in her False-Keel forward, when on Service in the North River last Summer, whereby she was disabled from continuing upon the River Service for which she was intended.

By the Scarborough, escorting some Transports with Provisions and Necessaries for the Army, and a Proportion of Naval Stores wanted from Halifax at this Port, I received Advice from Captain Pownoll of his Arrival at Quebec the 6th of last Month. He had sent his Dispatches to Halifax, by Lieutenant [George] Scott, who then commanded the Gaspée. – But this Brig appearing on Examination incapable of being made further serviceable without a considerable Repair, had been left at Halifax. And from the Report made of her Defects, I have not deemed it advisable to direct any fresh Expence to be incurred on that Account.

I send herewith Copies of Captain Pownoll's Letter, and of the most necessary papers referred to therein, for their Lordships more particular Information. But as it appears that the Matter in Dispute respecting the Subordination of the Officers of the Fleet to the Authority of the General, taken Notice of in the last Paragraph of Captain Pownoll's Letter, was finally so adjusted that Captain Lutwidge accepted the Command of the Armed Vessels to be employed on the Lakes, and had proceeded to get them in Forwardness for immediate Service; I do not think it necessary to trouble their Lordships at this time with a Detail of some Length, which is not requisite for any present purpose.

The Tartar was met by Lieutenant Scott so far advanced up the River St Laurence, that he reckoned Captain Ommanney arrived with the Convoy at Quebec the next Day.

It was supposed the Northern Army would be in Readiness to move from St Johns to cross Lake Champlain the Beginning of this Month. I do not therefore yet see Cause to make any Alteration in the purport of my Letter to Captain Pearson of the 10th of April, with respect to the General Conduct of the Naval Services in the St Laurence.

The Diligent Armed Brig having been lately lost in the Bay of Fundy whilst attending upon the Transports sent to bring Forage from thence for the Army, She will be replaced by the Cabot, an American Armed Brig carrying fourteen Four-pounders, which I ordered to be purchased from the Captors at an estimated Value stated in the enclosed Report, upon Sir George Collier's Representation of her Fitness to be so employed. – And Lieutenant [Edmund] Dod having been acquitted of all Misconduct upon Inquiry at a Court Martial into the Cause of the Loss of the Diligent, I have moved him with the Crew of that Brig, into the Cabot; To form the Complement of the last, established in Proportion to her Force, according to the Return annexed.

I have added thereto, the Particulars of the Intelligence obtained from Mr [Edward] Parry, Agent to the Contractors for supplying Masts for the Service of the Navy from Piscataqua, and lately released on Exchange from the Restraint he has been under several Months with the Rebels. Sir George Collier, to whom the Intelligence was first given, has ordered the Milford off of Kenebec River, to attempt the Seizure of the French Ships named in the Paper of Intelligence, said to be loading, and expected soon to sail from thence for Europe.² And as Six other Frigates are at this Time upon the New England Coasts, I have Reason to hope the foreign Ships may be intercepted in their Attempts to put to Sea: These being the only Precautions that the State of the War will at present admit of being adopted for the purpose, on those Coasts.

By the Scarborough I have the first Account of the State of the Hunter, which had wintered at the Island of St Johns. Lieutenant [George] Keppel will be ordered here by the earliest Opportunity, to take up his Commission for the Swift.

The Repairs immediately necessary for the Bute being completed, she sails this Morning for Jamaica. I wrote by that Conveyance to Vice Admiral Gayton, to the same purport as to Vice Admiral Young by the Camel, regarding the Appointment of a Time and fixed Longitude at which the Trade from Jamaica should attempt to pass the Parallel of Bermuda on their passage to Europe: That I may calculate for strengthening the Convoies, at least until they have passed the usual Limits of the Rebel Cruizers off these Coasts, according to Circumstances with respect to the impending Operations on this Continent.

With reference to their Lordships Commands expressed in a second Letter of the 12th of April, that I should explain the Motives for the Deviation from the general Method of victualling the Troops in Transports, consequent of a Representation from the Victualling Board; I am to inform You, that my Orders to the Principal Agent of the Transports thereon, were dated the 4th and 5th of August, regarding a part of the Guards, and the Hessian Troops which arrived under Convoy of Commodore Hotham

It was intended that the Movement of the Army which afterwards took place from Staten Island to Long Island, should have been executed very soon after the Arrival of the said Reinforcement. In which View it was proposed not to disembark those Corps, until the Descent was made on Long Island. But as those Troops would then continue (which actually happened for some time) upon the Sea-Victualling, which the Rest of the Army, besides other local Gratificat[ions,] were at whole Allowance, which caused some Discontent amongst the Foreign Troops, the Change in the Sea Victualling was made at the General's Desire.

The Duration of the Extra Victualling being expressed "until further Order," had Reference to the uncertain Time those Troops (daily expected to be sent on Service) would remain embarked. It was however found expedient to land them first for their Refreshment on Staten Island; When they became entitled to the full Proportion of Victualling, similar to the Rest of the Army.

A subsequent Order of the 18th of August for Extra Victualling in Species and Quantity, proceeded from the Necessity for providing the Soldier with the Quality of Provision most portable, and best adapted for his Use upon a March. Similar Deviations were necessary for the Seamen attending in the Flat-Boats: Tho' the just Adherence to Rule and Usage, where the Nature of the Case would admit, has never been out of Memory upon any Occasion.

I am, with great Consideration, Sir, [&c.]

COMMITTEE OF CORRESPONDENCE, INSPECTION AND SAFETY OF SALEM
TO THE MASSACHUSETTS GENERAL COURT ¹

To the Honorable the Council & the Honble House of Representatives of the State of Massachusetts Bay.

The Representation of the Committee of Correspondence, Inspection and Safety of Salem

Sheweth

That Capt Richard Valpey, an Inhabitant of Yarmouth in the Province of Nova Scotia, but formerly of this Town; hath made application to this Committee, setting forth, that being at Halifax in said Province, in May last, he was applied to by the following Persons Vizt Capt Habakkuk Bowditch, Messrs Jonathen Payson, Charles Calahan and Andrew Millet, Inhabitants of this State, and who were then Prisoners at that Place, requesting him, that he would devise some means by which their escape from their Captivity might be effected, as they were then in the most necessitous and distressed circumstances and Situation; that he accordingly procured a Vessell and engaged to bring the said Persons from Halifax which he accordingly did, altho' at the Risque of his Vessell as well as his liberty, as he must unavoidably have forfeited both, had he been detected in the execution of his Plan, by the Government at Halifax; that in pursuance of this Scheme, he was proceeding to St John's in the Bay of Fundy, where he had engaged to land the said Persons, but while on his Passage he was informed, that the Place would be in the hands of our Enemies before he could Arrive there; in consequence of which, he put into Cape Porceau; when his Passengers beforementioned, got a Vessell to carry them to Newbury,

That after this, the said Valpey was proceeding to St John's having on board two hogsheads of Rum, two hogsheads of Molasses, one Piece of checked and two Pieces of white Linnen and two barrels of Pork, with which he was going to Purchase a load of Staves, for the use of Persons residing at Yarmouth, that while he was at St John's a Party of Men from Machias, in this State, came and took his Vessell and Goods into Possession, and made himself and his Crew Prisoners: and carried them all to Machias, where they still hold the said Vessell and Goods.

This Committee would therefore intercede with the Honorable Court in behalf of the said Valpey, and beg leave to acquaint the Honble Court, that they are well assured, that the Inhabitants of that part of Nova Scotia, of which the said Valpey is an Inhabitant are almost to a Man friendly to the Interest of these States, that they frequently have assisted our Countrymen, who have been Prisoners and carried in there, in making their Escape, and when any of our Vessells have been forced into that Place, they have afforded all the assistance and Relief which was in their Power, to the Crews: particularly when the Brigantine Cabot was drove in there by the Milford, this same Capt Valpey entertained and supported, Capt Olney, Lieut Knight, and about thirty others of the Cabot's Crew, three days and Nights, in his own house and at his own Expence: as will appear by a Certificate signed by the said Lieut Knight, herewith transmitted:² And as the Cartel between this State and Nova Scotia is now stopped and no way for the Subjects of this State, who may be carried Prisoners into that Province, to be released, but by the assistance of such Persons there, whose humanity and friendly disposition towards these States may induce to afford such assistance; the Committee therefore fear, that unless a stop is put to making Captures of, or Seizing any Vessell which may be employed, in endeavouring to effect the Escape of any such Prisoners, it will entirely prevent and discourage any of the Inhabitants of that Province (who otherwise would be disposed to do it) from giving any assistance to any of our People in future.

This Committee would therefore Pray that the said Capt Valpey may have his Vessell and Goods, ordered to be restored to him, or otherwise relieved as the Honble Court in their Wisdom shall think fit and proper.

The Committee would also beg leave to recommend him to the favour of the Government, that he may have some allowance made him for his Expence in entertaining the Captain and Part of the Crew of the Brigantine as mentioned before –

[Extract]

Sir,

Lebanon, June 30th 1777.

I am advised by General Schuyler that the Enemy are arrived at Crown Point, that they have sent a strong party by the way of Otter Creek to fall in between Ticonderoga and Skeensborough, that another detachment is sent down on the west side of lake George to get possession of Fort George if Possible – Thus the enemys plan of operation is opened. we may hourly expect Intelligence that the army under General Howe is in motion to act in Concert with the Northern Army, probably up the North River. it is not unlikely a Diversion may be attempted on our coasts.

It will be prudent to take every precaution to watch their motions and frustrate their measures. As the Continental troops are now rendezvousing at New Haven, I am of opinion it will be best to send the whale boats in your care to New Haven to facilitate their movements, and the Mifflin and Schuyler should cruise off New Haven and to the Westward to make Discoveries of the motions of the Enemy, which you will please to order accordingly – Niles will be ordered on the same service.² I need not mention how much it concerns the Inhabitants on the Sea Coast to keep a good look out and give seasonable Intelligence. . . .

. . . I could wish that Our State would see it Their Interest to fit out one or two State Brigs. – The Expence might most probably be doubly paid to Them in One Cruize. I cannot think The Hazard of Loosing Them ought to discourage the Attempt. – if They could be got out of the River when fitted. – Might They not be ventured out only in a set of Ballast with a few Hands and sent round to Bedford and fitted out from thence? – I venture Sir at Suggestions from an Attachment to the Honor, Interest & Happiness of the State. – Should They not meet with Approbation I know Their Candour will excuse . . .

Gentlemen/

Navy Board June 30th 1777 –

The Commissioners of the Navy Board having Established a Public Ship Yard, & Rope walk in the State of South Carolina, and haveing given Directions for the Building a Galley for the Defence of the State & the protection of Trade, not being able to get Sufficient Workmen here to Execute the Business with Dispatch, they will be very much Obliged to you if you will Endeavour to Engage and send here as soon as possible Twelve good Ship Carpenters with an Experienced Foreman, One Ship Joyner, and One good Block Maker, on the most reasonable Terms you can, to serve Twelve Months after their arival at Charles Town, their wages to Commence the day of this Agreement ² – We have now Employ'd in the Ship Yard Eighteen Carpenters which were Returning from Georgia to Philadelphia they were Engaged in Philada. for the State of Georgia at Thirty Dollars P Month Each, their wages to Continue [until] they have returned Home – in Order to Induce them to stay here [three] Months ³ which was the Longest time they would Engage for, We gave them forty Dollars P Month, and One Ration and a half a Man P Day, and to Continue their pay till they return to Philadelphia, should they Incline to do so at the End of three Months – We are Hopeful that you will be able to Engage on Better Terms, at least so as to Ease this State of any expence, after they leave the Service, we would recommend that each of them should furnish his Own Tools if such men can Conveniently be got, as such Articles are become very scarce and of Course very dear in this State –

We shall be much Obliged to you to furnish us with all such regulations respecting the Continental Navy, as will be of any particular Service to regulate the Navy of this State, as we are very desireous to have the Navy of this State under as good Regulations and on as respectable a Footing as any Other Navy in America – by Order of the Board I am Gentlemen Your Most Obedt. Gazette of the State of South-Carolina, MONDAY, JUNE 30, 1777

Charles-Town, June 30.

The following British Men of War were, on thursday last, the 26th Instant, lying off St. Augustine Bar, viz. the Brune, of 32 Guns, Capt. James Ferguson (not a very fast Sailer), the Galatea, Capt. Jordan, the Perseus, Capt. Elphinstone, and the Daphne, Capt. St. John Chinnery, of 20 Guns each, and sheathed with Copper. – The Daphne was the Ship that, on the 1st Instant, took 25 valuable Negroes out of Fishing Canoes off the Bar, all which (except one belonging to Mr. R[h]ind, and two to a Widow Wright, who are reserved to be restored to the Owners, when applied for), were sold, on the 23rd, for £.1300 Sterling: she had then on board six Chests of Money, to pay the Troops in East Florida; and in Company, under Convoy, the Union Store-ship, Capt. Wallace, from New-York, with Cloathing and military Stores, for the Garrison of St. Augustine, and the Brig Fanny, of and from this Port, with a Cargo of Salt, for Virginia, Thomas Tucker, Master, which she had taken in ten Fathom Water, about 15 Miles North of Cape Hatteras, on the 29th of May; upon which Day she also took the Sloop Polly, Elkanah Hathway, Master, which sailed from this Port the 27th, bound for Dartmouth (not since heard of) and brought too, the Scooner Angelina, also from this Port, for Curaçoa, Turpin Holroyd Master, who, taking Advantage of a hard Gale of Wind, which prevented the boarding of him, made his Escape in the Night; she had before taken a Scooner from Boston, one Ridley, Master, which after being stripped by the Union, was burnt. The Daphne is also the Ship that on the 9th Inst (as mentioned in our last) chased Capt. Ranking, and retook his Prize; the Prize-master whereof, Capt. Richard Bissel, they have loaded with and remains confined in Irons. – The Brune arrived off St. Augustine the 22d, with two Prizes, a Brig from Hispaniola, of 8 Guns, loaded with Dry Goods, one C[o]x Master, bound for this Port, (the Master of which is confined in Irons, in like Manner as Capt. Bissel) and a Scooner from George Town, laden with Rice, for Bilboa, on board which were Passengers, Mr. Irving, Mrs. Irving and some other Persons. – On the 24th an Indian Chief was brought on board the Brune, who was saluted with Cannon, and for whom the Shrouds were manned – The Union Transport having landed her Cargo of stores, on the 25th began to take in Troops, on the 26th, having 220 on board, in the Evening, she sailed for New-York, under Convoy of the Daphne, which after seeing her safe in, was to proceed to Delaware Bay. – None of the Men of War were healthy, or well manned; the Perseus was said to have the Yellow Fever and Small Pox on board; and the best manned Ship was the Daphne, whose Crew did not exceed 140. – The Brune is stationed to cruize off Cape Fear; the Perseus and Galatea, from the Bar of St. Augustine to this, crossing each other. – The Perseus and Galatea were the two Ships that on the 14th Inst. chased Capt. Sutton's Prize Brig ashore near Stono, and burnt her. – The Ship that, on the 25th past, together with Capt. Mowbray's Sloop, had an engagement with the Comet Brig, Capt. Allen, was a very stout Transport, mounting 16 six-Pounders; the Sloop suffered so much in that Combat, that they confessed they had been obliged to make use of many Plugs; but we cannot yet learn what Number of Men were killed or wounded on board: these two Vessels were lying in St. Mary's or St. John's Rivers; and about 30 Sail of trading Vessels were lying in the Harbour of St. Augustine – On Thursday last Capt. Chinnery gave a Boat to 15 of his Prisoners, and to 13 more another, with Orders to put off immediately; the 15, after having been 53 Hours in her at Sea, bailing all the Way, got safe into Ogechee; but the other Boat has not since been heard of.

We have Advices from Europe to the 28th of April – According to these, General Burgoyne was to have the Command in Canada, and General Carlton to return to England – Great-Britain had failed to obtain the Troops she expected from Germany, to reinforce her Army in America; most of the Transports that had been prepared to bring them over, were appointed to other services; and it does not appear, that the whole Addition she can make to General Howe's Force the present Campaign, will amount to 3000 Men – A great Number of Ships were put into Commission, but, notwithstanding the Continuance of an excessive hot press, very few of them were manned – The Earl of Dunmore and Lord William Campbell had been in England some Time, yet neither of them had been introduced to the King their Master, to receive his Thanks for their distinguished Services – And Trade was every where quite dead. – The French and Spaniards continued unremitting in vast Preparations for War – And we have a Confirmation of the Intelligence lately received here, of a Memorial presented by Sir Joseph York to the States General; of their beginning to pay some Attention to their Marine, &c. with this in Addition, that they have sent Orders to their Governor of St. Eustatius forthwith to erect Fortifications wherever he shall think them necessary, and to return the Salutes of the Americans, Gun for Gun, upon sending a Lieutenant ashore to notify the intended Salute.

From St. Eustatius we learn, that the above Orders were received there on the 2d Inst. – That two French brigantines loaded in this State, for Martinique, were lately taken and carried into Antigua. – That a small schooner (which answers to the Description of the Jenny, Captain Ralls) belonging to Virginia, on the 28th ult. took a Sloop, from St. Eustatius for Antigua, laden with Cotton; but was the same Day taken by the Hind Man of War, which also retook the Prize. – And that on the 1st instant, the Hind also captured two Dutch Ships from St. Eustatius, actually bound for Holland.

We hear that next Friday, the memorable 4th of July, the Anniversary of the Formation of American Empire, is to be observed at a State-Day and Grand Festival.

We have just now received Intelligence, That the Letter of Marque Brig Fair American, Capt. Charles Morgan, and Privateer Brig Experiment, Capt. Francis Morgan, both of this State, arrived off the west End of Bermuda on the 11th instant, and might have taken the Galatea's Tender (formerly the Schooner Peggy of this Port) and the Decoy-Boat, who have for several Months past done so much Mischief on that Coast, could they have got a Pilot; but that not having such Pilot, they both stole out in the Night, and went round to Castle Harbour, where lay the Nautilus, unrigged, and her Guns ashore. That the Fair American and Experiment, however, went into the Western Harbour the 13th, were fired at from the Fort, mounting 5 Cannon, to which they returned a Broadside; That upon preparing to give a second Broadside, the Fort was abandoned; which the Captains Morgans observing, they landad some Men, took Possession of it, demolished the Embrazures, dismounted and spiked the Cannon, and destroyed the Carriages; and remained there six Days. That on the 16th they put to Sea, and on 17th took the Sloop Ann, Wm. Bray, Master, from the Bay of Honduras for Rotterdam, laden with Logwood, Hides, and some Mahogany; which is since arrived in a safe Port. That a Brig from Bristol, in a very short Passage, bound for St. Augustine, put into the Harbour where our Vessels lay, on the 15th. And that had Captains Morgans got in on the 11th, the Enemy had prepared to burn the Tender and Decoy-Boat themselves.

The Man of War that appeared off the Harbour of Nassau in Providence, when the Captains Newton and Groundwater went in there to cut out the Comet armed Scooner, was the Aeolus Frigate of 32 Guns, not a Sloop of 16 Guns: She could not get into the Harbour; but cruized about there till the 17th Instant, and then sailed to Northward. The Comet sailed at the same Time, with the three Vessels she had seized, for Jamaica.

The 1st Instant, a large Guineyman, with 318 Slaves on board, bound for Dominica, was sent into Martinique, taken by a Privateer Brig belonging to Philadelphia, commanded by Capt. Ord; also, a Brig laden with Provisions, from Corke for Barbados, and a Ship mounting 14 six Pounders, from Liverpoole, for Jamaica, laden with Dry Goods, taken by a Privateer Scooner, commanded by Capt. Palmer; which last was captured by immediately running along-side and boarding. This Information is given us by Capt. Willis, who likewise informs, that it was the Beaver (not the Favourite) Sloop of War, which took the Oliver Cromwell Privateer of Philadelphia; and the Loss of that Vessel was owing to more than Half of the Crew consisting of Men who had entered from Prizes, and who, after strongly urging the Captain to fight the Beaver, as soon as she came along-side, refused their Assistance and jumped down below.

On Friday last arrived at a safe Port, the Sloop Polly, late Capt. Henderson, from Mississ[ip]pi, with a Cargo of Barrel Staves, bound for Dublin; taken off the Havanna, on the 13th Instant, by the Privateer Sloop Vixen, Capt. Downham Newton of this Port. On the 11th ult. Capt. Newton wooded and watered at Havana, where he met with the most friendly Reception.

The Brune frigate and Merlin Sloop, in their late Cruize on this Coast, among other Vessels, took a Sloop from Boston, for this Port, and carried her into New-York.

Yesterday arrived at a safe Port, the Prize Sloop Ariadne, William Freeman late Master, from the Musquito Shore, bound for Jamaica, laden with Mahogany and spotted Wood, taken on the 3d Instant, off the East End of Jamaica, by the Washington Privateer of this Port, commanded by Capt. Anthony. This is the 6th Prize taken by the Washington on her present Cruize; two she carried into, and sold at, Cape Nichola, and two Capt. Anthony gave to his Prisoners, to put them ashore at Jamaica.

SAMUEL PURVIANCE, JR., TO ROBERT MORRIS¹

Sir Baltimore 1st July 1777 –

I lately wrote Coll Lee requesting him to procure from the Marine Board an Order for 10 or 12 Thousand Dollars for the Use of the Virginia Frigate, as Mr Stuart & myself were out of Cash on that Accot & had a good many Accots to pay off on the Sailing of the Vessel. Coll Lee left my Letter in the hands of Coll Whipple (when he left Philadelpha) to apply for an Order, which has been neglected, altho I have written to both Coll Whipple & Mr Hancock on the Subject. – I must therefore Sir take the Liberty of requesting you will be so obliging as to procure for us an Order on the Treasury for at least 12 thousd Dollars Besides the Debts of the Vessel here which exceed that Sum. Captn Nicholson writes me last Week from York River, that I must either send him Money or lodge a Credit for him there. – We have Recd no Money on the Frigates Accot since Octor save 10 thousd Dollars, part of 30 thousd left with us when Congress departed from this; Of which 20 thousd have been applyd in laying in Materials for building two New Frigates; For which purpose, We purchasd Two Cargoes of Mahogany that absorbd a pretty large Sum of it. – By last Advices from Capt Nicholson, he was preparing to run the Frigate up into the Fresh Water in York River, to get her out of the Way of the Worm. But shoud the Enemy withdraw their Vessels from that River, it is probable he will endeavour to get back to this Place to heave down. I am Sir [&c.]

JOURNAL OF THE SOUTH CAROLINA NAVY BOARD ¹

Navy Board [Charleston] 1st July 1777

[Com]missioners of the Navy, beg leave to Observe to His [Excellency] the President, that, in their Opinion, the State should be furnished with a Vessel of Greater Force, than any that now belongs to it, to be employ'd as well for the protection of its Trade, as for the Annoyance of its Enemies, and, that if a Ship was immediately built of about 108 feet Keel, 31 feet Beam, & depth of Hold in proportion, such Vessel would be of much more benefit to the State than Another Galley, and is at Present much more wanted. The Board have at Present a Number of Ship Carpenters Employ'd in the State Yard & have wrote to Philadelphia for thirteen more in Order to Carry on the work with Dispatch; they are hopefull they will be here before those now Employ'd Quit the Service, should they Incline to do so, when the Three Months are Expired, the time they first Engaged for; They are also furnished with Timber and Other Materials necessary for the Building of such a Vessel, and if its the pleasure of your Excellency, & Council, that such a One should be Built, you will be pleased to signify it to the Board as soon as possible, (the Operations in the ship Yard being Delay'd for your Answer) and the Commissioners will give Orders Accordingly - The Acteons Guns with others that may be furnish'd by the State, the Commissioners apprehend will be sufficient for the Vessel mentioned - The Public are at a Considerable Expense in hiring Negro Labourers at great Wages, for the Naval Department, great part of which might be saved & the work more certainly & regularly Conducted, if your Excellency would be pleased to Order Twenty of the Labouring Negroes, Employ'd in the Public Service to assist in the works of the Naval Department, under the direction of the Commissioners - The Commissioners have a Quantity of ship Timber laying at Mr Capers Island, which they have accasion for at the Ship Yard, & will be Obliged to his Excellency to Order the Floating Battery to be delivered to the Commissioners, in Order to Convey it Over as the State has no Other Vessel proper for the purpose

CAPTAIN JOHN PAUL JONES TO MARINE CAPTAIN EDMUND ARROWSMITH,

Sir Boston July 2d 1777.

You are hereby Ordered and directed forthwith to wait on Captain Mathew Park of the Marines at Providence And to take Orders from him for your government in the Enlistment of Able Bodied Men, especially Seamen, to Serve in the Navy Under my Command –

You are to Put into his hands the Account of and Receipt for All the Arms which were taken in the Mellish &c ~~and you are to put into his hands~~ also the prisoners Pistols and Side Arms which I committed to Your care – the reason of this demand is because the Agent here Alledges that he did not receive the Arms in Question. Your punctual Attention to this Order will recommend you to my further Notice I am Sir [&c.]

CAPTAIN JOHN PAUL JONES TO MARINE CAPTAIN MATTHEW PARKE,

Sir Boston July 2d 1777.

I have now to inform you that I yesterday recd Orders from Congress to proceed from Portsmouth in the Ship Ranger instead of the Amphitrite – Captain Roach [John Roche] being suspended in consequence of a complaint from this State – I am the more sensibly Affected on his Account as congress have thought proper to put the Ship under my direction – And I wish heartily that he May be able to disprove the charges brought Against him.

The Ranger taken altogether will in my Judgement prove the Best Cruiser in America. – she will Always be able to fight her Guns under a most excellent cover; and nothing can be better calculated for Sailing fast or making Good Weather. – When we reach France She will be a great Addition to our other Force and ~~insure~~ Facilitate our Success.

As you are confident that a number of good Men will enter with you at Providence to Sail under my Command You are directed to enter as Many as possible – but especially good Seamen – as I mean to appoint some petty Officers from Among them – You are to call on Captain Arrowsmith of the Marines and order him to Assist and co-Operate with you in this Enlistment. – for this purpose let him go round with a Drum Fife, and Colours as Often as may be proper. and ~~let~~ it is my express desire & direction that both of you exert yourselves in this Business to the Utmost of your Skill and Abilities. – be careful to Avoid all cause of complaint & let your whole deportment be Such as becomes the dignity of Your Rank – As I obtained for Captn Arrowsmith his present Commission and Brought introduced him into the Service at the first – he will now have an Opportunity of Recommending himself to further Notice. – You will duely note the Orders which I inclose for him and take care that they are Punctually Obeyed.

You are not to pay the Advance at Providence – but such as Enlist must be sent in ~~small parties under persons of trust~~ immediatly here – their reasonable expences will be Allowed – they will be entitled to Wages from the day of Entry – and the Advance will be paid on their appearance at the Ship. Upon the whole I shall expect you to Observe the Strictest Frugality that may be consistent with the Service. – Since the establishment of the Navy none have had so good, so fair a prospect before them as ours is at present – this makes any Arguments in favour of it Unnecessary. – the Ranger is Equiped and in Readiness – A few Men Only are Wanting – I mean to begin enlisting here to Morrow – I will give Orders Also to Enlist at Various places to the Eastward.

The Agent there must Supply you with what little cash may be necessary – I shall write to him and to You Again Unless I determin Soon to come up there myself – Inclosed you have Blank Articles – but as I do not yet know the Name of the Frigate I rather prefer your using the Written Articles which I gave you When here – You may inform Mr House And other Officers and Men – that Congress have Sent us a Number of Blank Commissions and Warrants – and that the Officers are not Yet Appointed. But their must be no Other connection in this Way. – The Clock Strikes Twelve. I am Sir [&c.]

J.P.J.

NB A Surgeon or other Gentlemen who have Abilities may make application to me by Letter (on public service) You may Ask Mr Pitcher what he intends doing; and if You know of any other Officers out of employment – it is your duty to return their Names &ca to me. Congress have determined to Support as few Idle Officers as possible.

. . . As the Enemy will adopt every Stratagem & device to deceive & distract us, notwithstanding the present appearance in favor of their making an Expedition up the North River, I doubt not but you will have the most vigilant lookouts kept along Delaware Bay & proper Expresses & Signals for communicating the earliest intelligence. I think it would be highly expedient that some sensible – judicious Men should be employed in that business at this time, who would view things as they ought to be and from whose Accounts certain inferences & conclusions may be drawn so as to form a proper line for our conduct. – The most fatal consequences may flow from false information at this period – Things should be examined with all possible certainty – I shall not be surprised, to hear of Several Ships appearing in or off Delaware, tho' Genl Howe's destination should be elsewhere. – Their fleet give them the most Signal Advantages, and an Opportunity of practising a thousand feints. I have the honor to be with great respect Sir [&c.]

PENNSYLVANIA NAVY BOARD TO HENRY FISHER, LEWES, DELAWARE¹

Sir/ State Navy Board [Philadelphia] July 2d, 1777

Mr [George] Jackson informs us that he is in danger of being taken off from the Post he has the Care of by the Enimies Barges. The board is of opinion that the Signal Boats is of no use, and ought to be discharg'd, which you will order to be done; the two Guard Boats, [Charles] Lawrence & [Daniel] Murphy,² we are inform'd have much trouble with their people, should that be the case, are apprehensive they are in great danger shou'd they be attack'd by the Enimies Barges, especially as the Inhabitants are mostly disaffected. It's the Opinion of the Board they ought to be Sent up. You'l inquire into the state of those two Boats & Order them for the present as you think best –

In Council 2d July 1777.

The General Assembly having approved our design of fitting out the Xebeck Johnson as a Cruiser – You are to get her rigged and Manned as quick as possible. We wish her to be Manned agreeable to you and Therefore shall not appoint any Officers without your Recommendation or consulting you – It appears to us likely that the Men will the most willingly engage for a Cruise only and therefore We would have you engage them for the Cruise of Six Months to be discharged sooner if the Vessel returns sooner to this Port – they are to be intitled in every Respect as they would be in a private Ship of War. And as a further encouragement you may advance as far as Twenty Dollars to every Seaman & as far as ten Dollars to every Landsman to be deducted & returned to the Public out of their Respective Share of Prize Money – We expect to supply you with Provisions here – If you hear of any six pounders Advise us of it that We may get them for you – The Twelves we expect to get from the Messrs Hughes's – Mr Steward will assist you in any thing he can – To prevent disappointments from a forwardness of disposition retain nobody but who Signs Articles on his first Coming to you – We are [&c.]

JOHN BRADFORD TO THE CONTINENTAL MARINE COMMITTEE¹

[Extract]

Honble Sirs –

Boston 3rd July 1777

Captain Hinman of the Alfred informed me some time ago he had receiv'd orders from the Honble Board to go out on a Cruise & to return here or to some near port to receive your orders which shou'd be left me the Alfred has been ready to Sail about a week only the Captain being disappointed in manning his Ship – the time being so nearly elaps'd he thought best to remain in port till this time & by desire of Coll Whipple who arriv'd here two days ago, I mention this, Lest your orders may have miscarried on the Road & he be detain'd here waiting for them – I wrote the Honble Board under the 22d May & 19th June hinting that the marine Service must suffer if I had not a Supply of money . . .

We have no advice from the frigates² since my last, but the General Mifflin has sent a prize into an eastern port, with thirty five Teirces peruvian Bark, Salt, Raisins, Sherry, &c a valuable prize, the fifty Gun Ship & two frigates continue in our Bay and almost dayly appear in sight of our harbour, that the Risque is great, and the Chance much against the prizes getting in . . . I beg leave again to mention the difficulty I am under relative to the distribution of Shares Among the Schooners people who engaged in the service under his Excellency General Washington On different terms from the mode the Honble Congress has Apportioned their shares, it will be agreeable to the men to let the Captains have their two twentieths, but as there is but few Officers Among them, if those they have, shou'd share the whole of what is assign'd for the whole Class & only two Officers of that Class they will share four men's shares the men are very unwilling to give up that point – the Schooner Lee will Sail on a Cruise in a few days . . .

COLONEL SAMUEL BREWER TO MAJOR GENERAL WILLIAM HEATH ¹

Hond Sir

Ticonderoga 3d July 1777 -

I receiv'd your letter, cannot now refer to the date as I am not now with my Papers. I sensably acknowledge your Kind favor. Shall very cheerfully comply with your request In Sending you every Extraordinary occurrence that may from time to time happen in the Camp so far as shall come To my Knowledge. -

As to Present News can Inform you that the Enemys fleet arriv'd in full view of us at 3 Mile Point the 30th of June Consisting of Two Ships - one of 22 gun & one of 18 or 20 - with 5 or 6 Sloops, and as near as we can tell about 25 Raddows and Gun Boats - the same day their Landed a Large Number of men on 3 Mile point, which were Composed of Fraziers Infantry Canadiens Savages, &c on the west - The next day i.e. the 1st Inst 45 Boats Came up from Crown point Loaded Deep with men, and landed on the East side where they still remain in the woods - the 2nd Inst they took Possession of my old forts at Mount hope which is near the Mill and Block house - they made several attempts upon Leut Hewit with about 20 men - he having 2 - 2 pounders in the block house repuls'd them repeatedly - in the night following the Genl sent him orders to burn the Block house and Mill and make his Escape the best way he could - which he Did yesterday morning after sun rise - before noon they attackt our Piquett in the front of the French lines – our Piquet gave way after a brave resistance, and retreated within the Lines and brought off the Kill'd and wounded – they ventured to Pursue our men so Close to the lines that one of our Regiment had opportunity of Discharging Two round, on them, which with a few Pieces of Cannon loaded, with Grape they Scampered away in the afternoon they Rallied again – (we had replac'd our Piquet) and made the second attack but with out effect – our Piquet stood their ground. at the writing of this they are Imbodied about a mile west of the lines and appear to be about a thousand of them one of the Infantry pushing so hard to kill one of our men (which he did) but was made a Prisoner in an Instant – 2 Waldeckers Deserted to us yesterday, but am not able to give any account of what Intelligence they bring as I am so much unwell, I have not been able to go to head Quarters since they were taken; nothing has been done this day on either Side, but prepare for action our number are few but in high spirits – and I am Determined to conquer or die; our men are very healthy thank God – hope in my next to be able to give you a good account of those fellows that now present Themselves to our view – Sr Excuse my freedom as this Post is now waiting for this – I beg leave to subscribe myself [&c.]

July the 3d 1777.

Under this and other Covers by the same Conveyance, you will receive the Judgments and Minutes of several Courts Martial held in this Fleet on different Occasions.

Upon the Subject of that assembled the 23d of January herewith enclosed, for the Trial of the First Lieutenant, Gunner and Gunner's Crew of the Diamond by Order of Sir Peter Parker, in consequence of a Letter from Captain [Charles] Feilding representing that five Men had been killed and two wounded in the Grand Duke of Russia Transport by a Shot fired from the Diamond in a Salute; I am to observe that as the Proceedings in the Case were founded on a Charge exhibited in a Letter from Captain Feilding, a Member of the Court; and that the Acquittal extended to no other Crime besides a Neglect of Duty in the Parties, who are only described by their Official Characters, not by Name; I thought it requisite to signify those Exceptions to Sir Peter Parker. . . .

DIARY OF FREDERICK MACKENZIE¹

[Rhode Island] 4th July This being the first Anniversary of the declaration of the Independency of the Rebel Colonies, they ushered in the morning at Providence by firing 13 Cannon, (One for each Colony we suppose). At 12 o'Clock the three Rebel Frigates that lie at and near Providence fired 13 Guns each, and at one, 13 Guns were fired from their Fort at Howland's ferry. At Sunset the Rebel Frigates fired another round of 13 Guns each, one after the other. As the Evening was very still and fine, the Eccho of the Guns down the Bay had a very grand effect, the report of each being repeated three or four times. Several Guns were fired during the day, from other places in the adjacent Country. It being usual with us, for Forts or Garrisons to fire at 12 o'Clock, and the Ships at 1, on rejoicing days, we suppose they chose to reverse it, for the sake of differing from our mode.

His Majesty’s sloop Ajax, the 1st inst, about nine leagues from hence, fell in with an American privateer of 14 guns, schooner rigged, which she fought five glasses; and after shooting away her enemy’s ensign staff she made of. The Ajax received so much damage during the action, in which almost all her crew were either killed or wounded, that she was disabled from pursuing her antagonist. The seamen belonging to the Ajax took up the American ensign, which has since been brought on shore here. It is a red field with an hydra painted thereon.

VICE ADMIRAL RICHARD LORD HOWE TO PHILIP STEPHENS¹

Number 35.

Eagle Hudson's River

Sir,

July the 5th 1777.

The General meaning to withdraw the Army from the Jerseys into Staten Island preparatory to the intended Operations of the Campaign, the Rebels affected to meditate some Interruption to the Movement. But their advanced Corps, consisting of about three thousand Men, being vigorously attacked by part of the Troops forming the Right Column of the Army under Lord Cornwallis, on the 26th of last Month, they were immediately beat back to the Heights and Defiles where their chief Force was assembled at some Distance in their Rear.

Three pieces of Cannon with several prisoners were taken on this Occasion. And the Enemy not appearing afterwards, the Army were crossed over from Amboy on the 29th and 30th past, and will soon embark from Staten Island for further Service.

The Otter Sloop arrived here from Antigua the 29th, and the Raisnable the next Day. These two Ships coming in with the Coast from the Southward, did not cross the Tract which appeared to be the Station of the Cruizers seen by the St Albans.

The Raisnable took two American Vessels of Ninety Tons each on the Passage to this Port; One with Rice, Indigo, Pimento and Fustick from Charles Town for Nantz; The other with some Tobacco and Lumber from Boston to Surinam.

The Commander in Chief of the Land-Forces having desired that a Frigate may be appropriated for the Conveyance of the Hessian General Heister ordered to return to Europe; I have appointed the Niger for that Service; And to convoy such empty Victualling Transports as have been cleared of their Stores. Captain [George] Talbot is directed to Portsmouth in preference, for the Accommodation of the Hessian General; And will wait to receive Orders for docking the Ship; which will be particularly necessary from some Damage to the False-Keel that she has received.

The Liverpool arriving the 5th Instant, I am favored with your Letters of the 28th and 30th of April, respecting their Lordships future Intention for Sir Peter Parker; with a Commission enclosed appointing him Rear Admiral of the Blue Squadron. Likewise a Letter of the 5th of May concerning the Copy of a Memorial from M Du Noailles, regarding the Detention of a French Vessel called Le joli Coeur, in consequence of their Seizure thereof made on these Coasts by the Commander of the Perseus.

The Occasion that subsists for the Employment of experienced Officers to direct the different naval Services that may occur in the farther Prosecution of the War, induces me to hope their Lordships will think fit, upon the Removal of Sir Peter Parker, to continue the same Number of Commanders of Divisions on this Station. I have been even obliged to increase it at this time by the temporary Appointment of Captain [Walter] Griffith in that Capacity; As the Continuance of Commodore Hotham is absolutely necessary at this Port during my Absence.

The Particulars respecting the Cause for detaining the French Vessel are transmitted by this Conveyance. And their Lordships' Commands for the Appointment of John Taylor to the Station of Carpenter in the Mercury will be obeyed.

I am, with great Consideration Sir [&c.]

GEORGE WASHINGTON TO GOVERNOR JOHN RUTLEDGE¹

[Extract]

Head Quarters Morris Town July 5th 1777

. . . Our situation is truly delicate and perplexing, and makes us sensibly feel now as we have often done before the great advantage they derive from their navy. – But we are doing the best we can in our circumstances and keep in sight the difficult objects to which they may direct their attention. – As the information from the Northward was such as merited notice, I have sent a reinforcement thither from Peeks Kill and have dispatched a couple of Brigades hence to that post. – We have also moved the whole army to a position more convenient for throwing speedy succours over the North River, than the one we lately occupied, and at the same time sufficiently near to Philadelphia, to oppose any attempt of the enemy to possess themselves of that city.

JOURNAL OF THE CONTINENTAL CONGRESS¹

[Philadelphia] Saturday, July 5, 1777

Whereas, the Secret Committee, by the absence of a number of the members, are reduced to two,

Resolved, That a new committee, to be styled, the Committee of Commerce, be now appointed, to consist of five members; that this committee be vested with the powers granted to the Secret Committee, and that the remaining members of the late Secret Committee be directed to settle and close their accounts and transfer the balances to the Committee of Commerce:

The members chosen, Mr. R Morris, Mr. P Livingston, Mr. W[illiam] Smith, Mr. [Thomas] Heyward, and Mr. Gerry.

Ordered, That the case of Nicholas Davis, formerly referred to the Secret Committee, be referred to the Committee of Commerce.

On application from the Marine Committee,

Resolved, That a warrant for forty thousand dollars be drawn on the commissioner of the loan office in Massachusetts bay, in favour of John Bradford, and a warrant for five thousand dollars on the deputy pay master general, in Virginia, in favour of John Tazewell, the continental agent there, for the use of the frigate Virginia; and another warrant for twenty thousand dollars on the commissioner of the loan office in the State of Connecticut, in favour of Governor Trumbull, for the use of the frigates building there, the same being in part of the money heretofore granted to the Marine Committee.

CONTINENTAL MARINE COMMITTEE TO CAPTAIN JOHN YOUNG¹

Sir

[Philadelphia] July 5th 1777

It is expected that the Continental Sloop Independence under your command is now ready to proceed to France agreeable to the directions sent you a few days since. You will receive herewith sundry dispatches from the Committee of Foreign Affairs and Secret Committee respecting which you will obey such orders as they may give. You are to proceed in said Sloop from Senepuxent for the Port of Nantes in France where you must apply to William Lee and Thomas Morris Esquires Commercial Agents of the United States and they will supply you with money to defray the expences of your journey your Lieutenant must employ the Crew in heaving down, Cleaning and refitting the Sloop, and in getting all such things done to her as may be necessary. The Agents will supply the Money and other articles proper on this Occasion for amount whereof you must grant them receipts, You must give directions also to your Lieutenant and other officers to engage as many seamen as possible that you may return full manned - the more the better only taking care to lay in a Stock of Provisions proportioned to the number of men you get. You are to receive from the Honorable Docter Franklin and the other Commissioners at Paris all Letters and dispatches they have to send, and to wait any time they may think proper to detain you.

You are to receive from the Commercial Agents any goods they have to send out by the Sloop and bring from [them] also all Letters and Packets they have to send. Should the Honorable Commissioners think it necessary to detain you any time for their dispatches, it may probably be an eligible plan for you to make a Cruize on our enemies Trade from which you may return at an appointed Time for their dispatches & then also take in such goods as may be ready – This you may propose to the Commissioners and to the Agents.

If you are fortunate enough to take any Prizes you will send them to Address of said Agents, who will receive the Continental share and divide the other as it ought.

When you are dispatched from France you must make the best of your way for this Coast and get into the first safe port you can immediately bringing to us all the dispatches and Letters, which both going & Coming have always ready Slung to a weight sufficient to Sink them, and if you perceive an inevitable misfortune put them into the Sea for they must not on any Account fall into the enemies hands.

You must duely observe the Instructions of the Navy Board, preserve strict discipline but use your officers & men well that they may be fond of the service – treat Prisoners with humanity and in All things act the part becoming an active good officer which will recommend you to Sir [&c.]

NEWS FROM JAMAICA¹

From the Jamaica Gazette.

Kingston, July 5.

The ship Elizabeth, Capt. Byrne, about three weeks ago on her passage from Liverpool to this port, after an obstinate engagement of three glasses, was taken off Deseada by a sloop privateer, under the Congress colours, called the Fly, Capt. Palmer, mounting 14 six-pounders, 25 swivels, and had on board 106 men, all French except the Commander, she was fitted out by a Merchant at St. Pierre's in Martinico. The Elizabeth had four men killed and 15 wounded, Capt. Byrne dangerously so. The privateer had eight men killed, eight mortally wounded, and a great number slightly wounded.

The passengers were plundered and stripped by the privateer's crew almost naked; application was made to the French Governor upon their being landed at Martinico, but from whom they could obtain no redress; the Agent for American Affairs, however, furnished them with some old clothes.

Capt. Byrne arrived here in the Thynne packet on Monday last, together with Mr. Eccles of St. Thomas in the Vale, and the rest of the Elizabeth's passengers.

Letters from the North Side mention that the American privateers continue to swarm on the coast, and unless the most effectual measures be soon taken to remedy the evil, all communication between that part of the island and this port must cease, few vessels chusing to venture out of the harbours.

July [1–5]

On our return from the Banks it was very Foggy on the Coast of Nova Scotia and a Rocket was frequently fired to discover the proximity of our Ships – A little to the Eastward of Halifax the Fog being very dense, Capt McNeil spoke the Commodore & enquired whether he would ring the Bells as usual, who replied Yes, if all the British Navy was near him – But (Note. The Fox when captured was manned with Mr [Stephen] Hill as Capt from the Hancock, and Simon Groce [Gross] 2d Lieut of the Boston & 67 Men & under Officers from the Boston – they were ordered to keep in Company during our Cruize – The Fox ahead, the Commodore in the Center, & the Boston in the Rear–)

6 Discovered a Sloop & gave Chace, she proved from Spanish River bound to Halifax with Coal & Dry Goods – The Commodore took her in Tow – This day made Cape Sables – Cast off the Sloop & scuttled her –

7 At 6 am discovered a Vessel standing athought our Fore Foot – At 8 she hawled round & stood in our wake – giving each of us a Broad side without trailing up even the Courses (that is the Fore & Main Sails) to get along side of the Fox which before belonged to the British Navy and was their determined purpose to recapture – The Flora being graved and pressing all Sails passed us who had been 4 months at Sea – and overhauled the Fox which continued her Course to the Southward till 2 pm when we saw her Colours struck, & Boats passing & repassing from Ship to Ship – during the time of the Flora's Chase, Guns from the Boston called Stern Chases were continued – At 10 oClock the Flora passed us and fired a Broad side on the Commodore, – we received three Shots between Wind & Water, Several were killed and wounded on board of the two Ships – After the Flora had passed the Commodore, still pushing on for our prize, The Commodore hove about to plug up the Shot holes and ordered the Boston to follow him – The Captn told him that his Ship was injured and could not wear Ship until he had the injury remedied – By the time the Shot holes were stopped, a large Ship we Saw to leeward some while before had got in reach of our Guns shot, which caused Capt McNeil to consult his Officers whether to follow the Commodore after the strange Ship which was afterwards known to be the Rainbow of 44 Guns, the only Ship on the Halifax Station with a Poop, which gave reason to suspect she was a Ship of the Line – This consultation terminated in our Standing to the Northward – The Commodore made all sail to the Southward the Rainbow pursuing after her – The Fox now a prize to the Flora was at a considerable distance to Leeward – we lost Sight of them all by Sunset –

Charles-Town, July 7

Last Wednesday morning a brigantine (supposed to be the Defence late belonging to this State, and taken by the Roebuck and Perseus), accompanied by a sloop having top-sail yards rigged aloft, came in from the N.E. right before the wind, to this bar, and, being so disguised as to have all the appearance of a merchant vessel, by 8 o'clock, ran up along-side, surprised, boarded, and went off with, the ship Franklin, bound for Bourdeaux, Madet Engs, master, very soon after she had got over the bar, having on board 920 tierces and 140 half tierces of rice, about 1200 lb. of Indico, and the following passengers, viz. Mr. Charles Prince (a Lieutenant in the navy on half pay, who had resided here many years) Mrs. Prince, and their four children: The ship, as soon as taken, steered a S.W. course, now and then hawling more southwardly, the brigantine steered nearer in shore, under her top-sails on the caps, and the sloop kept without both: They passed Stono about 10 o'clock, and at 11 were out of sight: 'Tis probable they proceeded immediately for St. Augustine, all the pilots that were at sea, agree, that the brigantine was the Defence, and suppose the Sloop to be another prize.

The same day it was reported, that a man of war sloop and two tenders, were at the watering place, near the entrance of Cape Fear river: But, on Thursday, Capt. Cheese arrived from thence, who informs, that nothing like an enemy had been seen upon that coast lately, except a brigantine, a sloop and a sloop, which had anchored and staid at the watering place 3 days, and sailed from thence the 25th past; and that they were suspected to be West India privateers – But it seems more probable, that the brigantine which took Capt. Engs, and the sloop in company, were two of the vessels.

Last Thursday arrived at a safe port, the prize sloop Blakeney, of and for Jamaica from Cape Nichola, laden with flour, brandy, Geneva, beef &c. taken on the 2d of June, by the Washington, privateer, Capt. Anthony, of this port. ¹ The prize-master informs us, that Capt. Anthony had made two more prizes since the six mentioned in our last, one a sloop of 90 tons from the Bay of Honduras, laden with logwood; the other a small sloop, which he cut out of Dry Harbour in Jamaica the same day, in order to put on board the contents of two long-boats laden with sugar, which he had taken. Capt. Anthony had put into Havana for necessaries, with which he was supplied in the most expeditious and friendly manner.

On Saturday last arrived in a safe port, the prize sloop cut out of Dry Harbour in Jamaica by the Washington privateer, Capt. Anthony. She has on board, besides 7 hhds. of sugar, taken out of the long-boats, some linens, castile soap, candles, &c.

The sloop Swallow, Capt. Gray, of Philadelphia, from this port bound for St. Eustatius was taken on the 26th of May last, at the watering place at St. Thomas's, at anchor, after having beat off the enemy three times, by the privateer sloop Reprisal, Capt. Phillips, of Antigua. Capt. Gray had but 4 hands, one of whom was killed during the defence of his vessel. – The same privateer had, 4 days before, taken the sloop Elliott, of this port, Capt. Pitt, from Surenheim, and carried her into St. Thomas's, where the vessel and cargo were immediately sold.

From Bermuda we learn, that the fort lately demolished at Nealy's Harbour, has been repaired, remounted with cannon, and the command given to a Lieutenant of the Nautilus. That the Galatea's tender having lately taken a sloop, Capt. Gilbert, and a sloop, Capt. Pennistone, both from North-Carolina, the sloop was armed, with 10 guns, and stationed in Nealy's Harbour. That Governor Bruere was going to England, and a West India Packet was daily expected to call for him. And that the Daphne man of war was expected on that station.

Friday last being the first anniversary of the glorious formation of the American empire, when Thirteen Colonies, driven by necessity, threw off the yoke, and rejected the tyranny, of Great-Britain, by declaring themselves Free, Independent and Sovereign States, the same commemorated by every demonstration of joy. Ringing of bells ushered in the day. At sunrise, American colours were displayed from all the forts and batteries, and vessels in the harbour. The Charles-town regiment of militia, commanded by the Hon. Col. Charles Pinckney, and the Charles-town Artillery Company, commanded by Capt. Thomas Grimball, were assembled upon the parade, and reviewed by his Excellency the President, who was attended, upon this occasion, by His Honour the Vice-President and the Hon. the Members of the Privy Council. At one o'clock the several forts, beginning at Fort Moultrie on Sullivan's Island, discharged 76 pieces of cannon, alluding to the glorious year 1776, and the militia and artillery fired three general vollies. His Excellency the President then gave a most elegant entertainment in the Council Chamber, at which were present all the members of the Legislature then in town, all the public officers, civil and military, the clergy, and many strangers of note, to the amount of more than double the number that ever observed the birth day of the present misguided and unfortunate King of Great-Britain. – After dinner the following toasts were drank, viz.

1. The Free, Independent, and Sovereign States of America. – 2. The Great Council of America – may wisdom preside in all its deliberations. – 3. General Washington. – 4. The American army and navy – may they be victorious and invincible. – 5. The nations in friendship or alliance with America. – 6. The American Ambassadors at foreign courts. – 7. The 4th of July, 1776. – 8. The memory of the officers and soldiers who have bravely fallen in defence of America. – 9. South-Carolina. – 10. May only those Americans enjoy Freedom, who are ready to die for its defence. – 11. Liberty triumphant. – 12. Confusion, shame and disgrace, to our enemies – may the foes to America (slaves to tyranny) humble and fall before her. – 13. May the rising states of America reach the summit of human power and grandeur, and enjoy every blessing. Each toast being succeeded by a salute of thirteen guns, which were fired by Capt. Grimball's Company from their two field pieces with admirable regularity. The day having been spent in festivity and the most conspicuous joy and harmony; the evening was concluded with illuminations, &c far exceeding any that had ever been exhibited before.

Last Friday the 4th of July, being the Anniversary of the Independence of the United States of America, was celebrated in this city with demonstrations of joy and festivity. About noon all the armed ships and gallies in the river were drawn up before the city, dressed in the gayest manner, with the colours of the United States and streamers displayed. At one o'clock, the yards being properly manned, they began the celebration of the day by a discharge of thirteen cannon from each of the ships, and one from each of the thirteen gallies, in honor of the Thirteen United States.

VICE ADMIRAL CLARK GAYTON TO PHILIP STEPHENS¹

Sir, Antelope Port Royal Harbor Jamaica July 8th 1777

I have received your Letter of the 2d April, by His Majesty's Packett Boat Thynne, who arrived here the 30th of June, in which you acknowledge the receipt of my several Letters of the 16th Novemr 1776 & the 8th & 11th January 1777 with the Papers therein contained; and am happy that my Conduct meets with their Lordships approbation:

Nothing particular has occur'd for their Information, since my last Letter of the 15th June, which I sent by Captain [Thomas] Bishop, of His Majesty's Ship Lively, who sailed with the Convoy. You will please to lay before their Lordships that agreeable to their Orders, I have fixed the departure of the Convoy, who are to sail from hence, for Europe the 26th Instant, and from Bluefields the 1st day of August, under the care of Captain [Charles] Thompson of His Majesty's Ship Boreas, with whom as an additional Force I send the Ostrich, Captain Peter Rainier, one of the Ships I bought in the Service, who mounts 16 guns.

The Glasgow, Southampton, Stork & the Porcupine and Race horse Sloops, are on a Cruize; the Diligence sailed this Morning for the Moskito shore & Bay of Honduras. The Hornet is almost ready for Sea, when I shall employ her, in the best manner for his Majesty's Service; the Winchelsea sails on a Cruize in a day or two, and the Aeolus is just returned from one. The number of Prizes taken by His Majesty's Ships & Vessels under my Command at present amounts to 148; I shall by the Boreas, write more fully the particulars of the state of the Squadron, for their Lordships information. CAPTAIN JOHN BRISBANE, R.N., TO VICE ADMIRAL
RICHARD LORD HOWE¹*(Copy)*

My Lord,

I beg leave to acquaint your Lordship, that on the 7th Instant at day break, Cape Sable bearing N N E about fourteen Leagues, we discovered three Sail of Ships, and a Sloop on our weather Quarter, and a Ship on our Lee Quarter, standing to the Westward on the same Tack as the Flora was, I thought it my duty to see what they were, tacked, and stood towards them, upon which the Sloop that was towed by the headmost Ship, was cast off, and set on fire, we passed within point blank shot to leeward of the three Ships, hoisted our Colours, and fired a Shot at the headmost to show their's, which they paid no attention to, fired a second at the Sternmost, stood on, and as soon as we could fetch their wake, tacked and followed them, at 9 A:M: upon their finding that We weathered, and came up with them, they formed a line ahead, hoisted Continental Colours, and began firing their Stern Chace, at 10 the two sternmost Ships shortned Sail, tacked and came close under our lee Quarter, exchanging Broad-sides, as we passed each other, we stood on to the Ship who had not tacked, gave her our fire which she returned, she attempted to stay, missed and wore, which gave us an opportunity of raking her, we then wore and gave chace after her, the other two Ships being at this time close upon a Wind on different tacks, during this transaction we run considerably to leeward, which gave the Ship on our lee Quarter an opportunity of joining us fast, and upon her being abreast of our Chace, she tacked and proved to be His Majesty's Ship the Rainbow, she fired several well pointed Shot at the Chace, one of the Enemy soon afterwards tacked and stood to the South West, the Rainbow tacked and followed her, we continued standing to the northward after the Chace, who upon the Rainbow's tacking, kept away more from the Wind, and set steering Sails, and soon afterwards began firing her Stern Chace at us, at 6 p:m: we came up close to her, upon which she struck her Colours, and proved to be his Majesty's Ship the Fox, that had been taken a month before that, by the Hancock and Boston continental Ships, on the Banks of Newfoundland, the Ship that we afterwards learned to be the Boston was at the time the Fox struck, as far to windward as we could but discover the head of her Top-sails out of the water, the exchange of Prisoners took up until near 10 p: m:, the Fox being much disabled in her Masts and Rigging, I thought it my duty to remain by her in preference of chacing, and risking the parting Company with her upon presumption of falling in with the Boston at day light, the Ship which the Rainbow followed was the Hancock, both of which we lost sight of at Sun-set. – at day light not seeing either of the Ships, we made the best of our Way with the Fox to this Port. – I have the pleasure to inform your Lordship the Flora sustained very little damage, only one man slightly wounded, the Sails and Rigging pretty much cut, and the Fore-topmast much wounded. –

I have the Satisfaction to acquaint your Lordship that the Officers and Ship's Company notwithstanding the appearance of the great Superiority, behaved with great Zeal and Coolness.

Inclosed I have the honour to transmit to your Lordship the description of the Rebel Frigates – I have the honor to be My Lord, [&c.]

Sir

Chatham off Prudence Island the 9th July 1777

I have received your Letter of the 28th past, inclosing a Copy of a Letter of the 22d April from Mr James Bowdoin to Sir George Collier – I have also received an account of Prisoners sent now, under the direction of Captn Job Prince to be exchanged here, together with the general Account – In your Letter of the 22d of April to Sr Geor Collier you say “by Accounts settled between Sir Petr Parker and Captn Ayres at Rhode Island, there is a ballance due to us of fifty four, since which there has been sent to Rhode Island the Officers and Crew belonging to the Milford's Tender in number about fifty, for which there has been no return” You will please to observe in my Letter of the 11th of Febry last to Mr Bowdoin, I inform'd him that an account was open between Mr Cooke and myself and that Mr Cooke should have credit for such British Prisoners as Captn Ayres had then delivered to me, since which time many Exchanges have been negotiated, and they have been included in the general Account – The fifty Prisoners belonging to the Milford's Tender which you mention to have been sent to Rhode Island, never arrived here –

I have return'd an equal number of Prisoners for those you have now sent and am glad of the opportunity of releasing them from their late disagreeable situation

Lord Howe's disposition is well known to be averse from every Idea of inhumanity or Injustice, and I may add that the Officers under his Lordship's Command breath also the same sentiments; so that I must believe that you have been certainly misinformed relative to the treatment of the American Prisoners at Halifax, and that you will soon be convinced that they have met with every indulgence and every assistance that could be afforded to men under their unhappy circumstances – I shall transmit a Copy of your Letter to me, to the Viscount Howe. – I am Sir [&c.]

P: Parker

Number 36.

Eagle Hudson's River

Sir,

July the 9th 1777.

The Troops destined to be employed on the Service the General proposes for the next Object of his Attention, being embarked, I shall be to wait only for his Requisition to put to Sea with the Armament, consisting of the Ships of War and Transports expressed in the Return enclosed.²

The General requiring a larger Provision of Ships to be made for Transport Service than the Number present will admit, to be held in Readiness for his further purposes; I have been obliged to direct a Quantity of Shipping to the Amount of about One Thousand seven hundred Tons to be chartered for the Service of Government, in Addition to the former Proportion. The Particulars of the Contract are necessarily postponed for the proper Documents to be collected, and will be transmitted by a future Opportunity.

I am, with great Consideration, Sir [&c.]

Howe

P.S. Herewith You will also receive a Return of the State and Condition of the Ships of War at this Port.

Boston 10th July 1777

My duty lays me under the disagreeable Necessity of acquainting the Honble Board with the loss of the Brig Robert (late Lively) on her passage to South Carolina and sent into Rhode Island, I am glad there was no Cargo on board, and we have made some small saving by taking out a good New Cable of ten Inches full length – I could wish it was the only loss the publick have lately sustain'd from this quarter, but by a letter from Coll Tillinghast I am inform'd the Schooner, which was Charter'd to take in the small Cargo sent from here some time ago in the Brig Betsy is Allso taken and sent into York, its very unluckey as the two Ships Building in this State Call for a great quantity of Iron – and we shall very soon be out when the Workmen must be discharg'd, I dare not Charter a third Vessell without orders from the Honble Board neither should I have ventur'd to send a second, had not the Cargo of the first lay at point Judith, and I found it was greatly wanted at Baltimore, therefore shall wait your future orders – We are without any advice from our frigates, the Alfred is waiting your orders, the Raleigh if my information is good is near sailing having a hundred forty five men on board, I am now compleating their last calls on me, the Lee will sail on a Cruise to morrow, I have the honour to be with All due Respect – Your [&c.]

Independent Chronicle, THURSDAY, JULY 10, 1777

Boston, July 10.

Last week arrived at a safe port a Prize, which makes the eighth taken and the sixth sent in by Captain Fisk, in one of the State Vessels; she came from Topsham in England, was taken in seven days after sailing, her loading salt Provisions, and bound to Newfoundland: He also took another vessel from said Port, which he gave to the Prisoners about 60 in number.

Saturday last Captain Glover returned in a Flag from Halifax, after 8 Days Passage, with about 80 Persons, who had been taken Prisoner and carried in there.

The Flag from Portsmouth remained there when Captain Glover came away, and it was expected would soon Sail with about the above Number of Prisoners, which remained behind.

In the cartel arrived here on Saturday, from Halifax, came Capt.

[Simeon] Sampson, of the State brig Independence – Lieut. [Robert] Saunders, of the Alfred ship of war – Lieut. M'Coy, of Col. Erving's Pennsylvania regiment – a number of other officers, sailors, &c. They all agree in one story; that is, that ever since they have been captives with the enemy, they have been treated in the most severe and inhuman manner; which is beyond the power of pen and tongue to describe. And that they will not exchange old countrymen; but compel them at the point of the bayonet, to go on board their pirate ships, as seamen. This is the treatment which our brethren receive from our implacable, blood-thirsty enemies, – and which the humane, polite Mr. Howe (in his letter to his Excellency General Washington) calls humanity.

By two American sailors, who made their escape from a British transport, lying in Halifax harbour, and arrived in town last Tuesday, from Machias we are informed, – that the British pirate frigates Milford and Scarborough, lay in Machias harbour; they came there with an intention of compelling the inhabitants to take the oath of allegiance to the tyrannical king and parliament of Britain. The Milford sent up Machias river, a boat, with 1 Lieutenant, 1 Midshipman and 9 seamen, with an intent, it is thought, of making discoveries; but they said, as a flag. The Machias Patriots not thinking proper to take such noted liars words, thought proper to secure them; and they are now confined in that town. These two men were draughted from among a number of other American prisoners, on board the above-mentioned transport, to man her; from whence they made their escape.

Last Tuesday arrived at a safe Port, a Prize Brig, laden with Rum. She was from Jamaica, bound to Liverpool, and was captured by Capt. [Jonathan] Oaks, in the private armed Brig Hawk. She sailed from Jamaica the beginning of April last, in Company with 50 Sail of Merchantmen, under Convoy of a Frigate.

Continental Journal, THURSDAY, JULY 10, 1777

Boston, July 10.

Last Sunday arrived at this port the Brigantine Freedom, of 12 guns, in the service of this State, John Clouston, Esq; commander, in 40 days from Nantz – Capt. Clouston sail'd from Marblehead the 8th of last March, and has since taken 16 sail of vessels, 5 of which he burned, gave two away for the sake of getting rid of the prisoners, and discharged 9 for port, three of which are arrived – all the rest except one are undoubtedly retaken or lost – The brig came loaded intirely with military stores.

Captain Clouston informs, that the brig. Rising States, of this port, commanded by Capt. Thompson, was taken by a British frigate, and carried into Bristol.

Monday last was sent into an eastern port, a prize brigantine, by brig. McClary, laden with green fish and salt.

CONTINENTAL MARINE COMMITTEE TO THE CONTINENTAL NAVY BOARD
OF THE EASTERN DEPARTMENT¹

In Marine Committee Philadelphia 10 July, 1777

To William Vernon, James Warren, and John Deshon, Esqr Whereas by a Resolve of Congress the Nineteenth day of April 1777 You were appointed a Board of Assistants to the Marine Committee, to Reside at or in the Neighbourhood of Boston, in the State of Massachusetts Bay, with Power to adjourn to any Part of New England, and to have the Superintendance of all Naval and Marine Affairs of the United States of America within the four Eastern States under the direction of the Marine Committee, You are immediately to repair to Boston and having there met appoint a Clerk properly Qualified and of undoubted attachment to the Interest and Independence of the United States of America. You are to superintend and direct whatever relates to the Building, Manning, and fitting for Sea all Armed Vessels of the United States built, or ordered by the Congress to build in the Eastern Department, and to provide all materials and Stores necessary for that purpose, subject to such Orders as you may from Time to Time receive from Congress or the Marine Committee. You are to collect in due season all fit and necessary materials of every kind for the above purposes and such materials as you may not be able to provide and shall Judge necessary to be imported you are timely to report to the Marine Committee the Kinds and Quality of each, and how and upon what terms they may be imported by you or any Persons you may be authorized to appoint within your District. You are to receive and settle all accounts relative to the above business and also all such Accounts as shall be referred to you by the Marine Committee.

You are to keep an exact Register of all the Officers, Sailors, and Marines in the Continental Navy fitted and Manned within your District and the same transmit to the Marine Committee.

You are to require all Captains or Commanders of Continental Arm'd Vessels, coming into any port within your District, to make return to you of the Officers, Sailors and Marines on Board their Vessels, and of the State and Condition of their Vessels and Stores, and you are to transmit Duplicates thereof to the Marine Committee. You are to apply to the Marine Committee from Time to Time for such sums of Money as may be necessary in your Department.

You will cause your Clerk duely to Register every Continental Vessel that hath been, or shall be Built within your district, which Register shall contain the Name, Dimentions, Burthen, Number of Guns, Tackle Apparel and Furniture of the said Vessels and transmit a Copy thereof to the Marine Committee.

You will direct the Oeconomy of all Continental Vessels and ascertain the Modes in which their Accounts shall be kept on board and how returns shall be made, – not contrary to any that may be, or have been directed by Congress or the Marine Committee. you are hereby required to keep fair Books of all expenditures of Publick Moneys for the Navy within your department which Books shall at all Times be subject to the Inspection and examination of Congress and the Marine Committee, or of such Person or Persons as they may Authorize and appoint for that Purpose, and you are to render Accounts of your disbursements Annually or Oftener if required.

You are hereby empower'd to order Courts Martial in all Cases where the Commanding officers shall refuse, or neglect the same, and it shall appear to you requisite; and (in the absence of the Commander in chief) in all cases where the Commander in chief only is Authorized thereto by the Resolutions of Congress. When any Continental Ship of War comes into any port within your District, you are immediately to give Notice to the Marine Committee of her Arrival and the time it will require to fit and equip her for Sea again in Order that Instructions may be sent by said Committee for such Ships future destination. CAPTAIN BENJAMIN CALDWELL, R.N., TO VICE ADMIRAL
RICHARD LORD HOWE¹

My Lord. Emerald off the Capes of Virginia 10th July 1777

As the Senegal's Water is nearly expended, I am obliged to send Her to New York.

I joined the Phoenix at Her Rendezvous the 5th of last month, and we proceeded immediately into this Bay, and put back Nineteen Sail out of twenty three that were without Cape Henry.

The Raleigh arrived the 14th at Night, the Phoenix Sailed the next Day.

The Thames is Stationed off York Spit at present, & the 1st instant She made the Signal for seeing Ships of Superior force, I got under Sail with the Raleigh, but as the Wind was down, and Tide of Ebb; I could only Anchor in a better situation for Her to join me; in the Evening she got under Sail, and came down about half the distance she was from me, and next Morning join'd Company. Captain Howe delivered me a paper with a List of the Armed Vessels, and their situations, which paper² I inclose to your Lordship, and Ordered him back to his Station: the Senegal was stationed at Cape Charles, (and destroyed Six Vessels, which Captain Molloy will give Your Lordship an Account of,) with the Raleigh occasionally, who is now to continue there, as long as Her Water will last; of which She has not much on board. This Ship is at the Tail of the Horse Shoe, and the 17th, 19th & 20th in June, three Sloops and One Schooner Boat, came down with Ninety Eight of the people, that were to have gone in the Albion, which I gave Passes to, to go to New York.

The 24th we burnt a Sloop with Salt, and the 30th the Raleigh with My Boats, drove on Shore, and burnt a French Brig, a little way to the Southward of Cape Henry, Loaded with Sails Cordage, One Hundred Cask of Rum & Bale Goods.

The 8th a Small Schooner Boat escaped us all across the Middle Ground; at Day Light this Morning, Seven Vessels was observed in the offing; the Senegal, Raleigh and this Ship, gave Chace and took Five, they had passed us in the Night, and were bound to the French Islands.

It is with great concern, I am obliged to send Captain Molloy away, He has been pointedly attentive and Serviceable upon his Station.

The State and Condition of the Ships under my Command, I have the Honour of transmitting to Your Lordship. I am My Lord [&c.]

B.C.

P.S.

I have just heard the Raleigh has lost two Anchors, therefore fear she must be burnt, indeed it is almost certain, as we cannot spare Officers and Men to carry her to York. The Thames must now be brought down, and at present I think of sending Her of Smiths Island; and Guard this place as well as we can ourselves, otherwise Cape Charles Channal will be unguarded, and then all the small Vessels will escape that way.

There are very many both great and Small ready to push to Sea.

My Lord Emerald off the Capes of Virginia 10th July 1777

Since I Sealed my Letter Captain Molloy has offered to assist the Raleigh to New York, I therefore have sent Her to refit which she is in much want of. I am My Lord [&c.]

HOWE

CONTINENTAL MARINE COMMITTEE TO THE CONTINENTAL NAVY BOARD

Gentlen In Marine Committee Philadelphia July 11th 1777

As there are now lying within your Department several Continental Vessils of War, which if at Sea might do essential service, we are exceedingly anxious to have them out for these desirable purposes; and have strong hopes from your exertions, that they will not remain long inactive We know of no better way they can be employed, then in Cruizing, and now direct and Authorize you to send them out as fast as they can be got ready, directing the Commanders to such Lattitudes as you shall think, there will be the greatest chance of success in intercepting the Enemies Transports and Merchant Ships; and they are to Take burn, Sink or destroy as many of their Vessils of every kind as may be in their Power; The Prizes they may take are to be sent into the most convenient and safe Ports in these States, adressed to the Continental Agents.

We shall leave you to judge of the Time for which each Vessil is to Cruize, and when they return into Port, you must again dispatch them with all Possible expedition on fresh Cruizes, always advising us of their Arrival, and the Time you think they will be ready for Sea, but they are not to be detained for any further Orders from us.

You are to instruct the Commanders that they are to be careful of the Ships their Stores and Materials, that they Support strict discipline on board their Vessils, but treat their People well. Prisoners are to be treated with humanity; and that they are to be accountable to you for the expenditure of everything on board their Ships, recommending to them a strict observance of frugality and Economy. We remain Gentlemen [&c.]

LORD MACARTNEY, GOVERNOR OF GRENADA, TO LORD GEORGE GERMAIN¹

[Extract]

Grenada

My Lord

No 26.

St George's July 11th 1777

Since I had the Honor of writing to you last, I have received a Letter from Monsieur de Bouillé, the new Governor of Martinique, a Copy of which I now send to your Lordship.

Monsieur de Kersaint, who brought me this letter seemed to be particularly commissioned to assure me that The Marquis de Bouillé disapproved very much the Conduct of his Predecessor, The Comte D'Argout, The line now adopted, he said, was to permit no public armaments by the Rebels in any of the Ports of his Government, and still less to permit any prizes made by them to be brought in and sold there, That however, I must not be surprised, if such things sometimes happened in the remote Bays, it being impossible to watch every part of the Coast in such a manner, as to prevent them, particularly as these abuses commonly pass in the night time, and are managed by Smugglers and Buccaneers, equally interested in eluding his Vigilance, and ours. Monsieur de Kersaint concluded by saying that the Marquis de Bouillé was a man of honor and above conniving at any thing he disavow'd. I have mentioned these particulars to your Lordship that by Comparing this Language with Other informations you may form a better idea of the real intentions of the French in this Quarter of the World – For my own part, I imagine they will still continue to play the same game, but that it will be play'd with more decency and address than when Monsieur D'Argout dealt the cards – I am the more disposed to think so, because I have received accounts that even since the new Governor's arrival, one or two Vessels of ours, have been taken by the Rebels and carried into Martinique or St Lucie in such a manner as was almost impossible for him to be a Stranger to, but from the negligence of some persons and the desertion of Others, who might prove the facts, I have not been able to authenticate them properly, and I am determin'd never to commit the dignity of this Government by making an ill grounded or a defective complaint.

On Wednesday the second Instant, Vice Admiral Young arrived here and set sail again for Antigua the Monday following. I had a good deal of conversation with him on the subject of the many captures and losses Sustained by the Islands under my Government, and earnestly repeted to him my request for his protection. He assured me of every assistance in his power, but lamented that the ships under his Command were inadequate to the service. Of this indeed we had very sufficient Evidence, for even whilst the Admiral was lying here and his flag flying on board a 50 Gun Ship, Both Tobago and the windward parts of this Island, were hourly insulted by a number of small Privateers which either took our small Craft when they ventured to sea, block'd them up in the Bays, or cut them out as they lay at Anchor. Thus all the Navigation of the Coast was interrupted. No produce could be brought round to the Ports for shipping home, and many Vessels have been disappointed of their loading for this Convoy – The Government Sloop which might have afforded us some assistance was unluckily absent, having been dispatched to Antigua with some prisoners a few days before, And it was with infinite concern we beheld the Admiral unable to protect us – He was under a necessity of returning immediately to English harbor, but if that had not been the case, a large ship like his, could not have acted with efficacy against these Picaroons, and as for his other Vessels, none of them were in the Neighborhood, or likely to appear. They sometimes call in here but are scarcely ever seen cruising for any time near this Island or Tobago; As we lye so far to the Southward and are quite out of the track of the American Trading Ships, there are no prizes to be met with in these parts to reward the Services of ships of War, and that circumstance has been hinted at by some discontented people here, as a reason for our being neglected, but I should be extremely sorry to entertain even for a Moment so injurious an Idea – Your Lordship will however permit me to offer it as my humble opinion & I offer it with the utmost submission and deference that it will be almost impossible to afford the Southern Caribbee Islands, the necessary protection by sea, untill they are made a distinct command from the flag at Antigua. On the mere inspection of a Map, This may not Perhaps appear evident at first sight, but no true judgement can be found of a point of this kind, from any Chart or Draft whatsoever – The nature of the Wind and the setting of the Currents in this part of the West Indies are such, that all Science and Speculation are baffled, all foreign experience is contradicted, and none but a practical Navigator or Geographer on the spot can form any just Idea of them – The Druid Sloop of War, was Six Weeks, without being able to get to Barbados from Antigua and the Beaver not long since made several attempts to reach Tobago but could not accomplish it.

. . . I must not omit observing that the Men of War, which convoy the West India fleets from England, seldom proceed farther than Barbados with the Ships bound for Grenada and Tobago, but leave them to Shift for themselves in the remainder of their Voyage; Now the most dangerous part of the Voyage is precisely between Barbados and these Islands, that some of the most Considerable Captures have been made.

The Difficulty of procuring Seamen here was never known to be so great as of late – Fifteen Guineas P Man are now given for the trip home. I have the Honor to be with the highest Respect, My Lord [&c.]

Macartney

CAPTAIN SIR GEORGE COLLIER, R.N., TO PHILIP STEPHENS ¹

Sir Rainbow at Halifax 12th July 1777.

I request You will do me the Favor of acquainting their Lordships that having Permission from the Viscount Howe Commander in Chief of His Majesty's Ships in America to go on a Cruize with the Ship I command, I in consequence of it, sailed from this Port at 3 o'Clock in the Morning of Sunday the 6th instant; & that same Afternoon at ½ past 4, (Cape Sambre then bearing NE about 12 Leagues distant,) the Man at the Mast head discovered 3 Sail, to which we immediately gave Chace, but from the Distance I could form no Judgement of their Force, or what they were, the Victor Brig was at this Time in Company 3 or 4 Miles astern, & as her Rate of Sailing was inferior to that of the Rainbow, I made the Signal for her making more Sail, to avoid separating from her: at Sun set we had gained so much on the Chace, as to discover they were large Ships, standing as we were on the Starboard Tack, with the Wind at WNW; I judg'd from thence, that they were bound to some of the Ports of New England.

I followed them with all the Sail I could croud, & at dawn of Day next Morning saw them again about 3 Points on the Weather Bow, with a Sloop in Company, the prest Sail I carried all Night, had increas'd the Distance from the Victor Brig so much, that She was no longer discernable from the Mast head: – the Ships we were in Chace of, were about 5 or 6 Miles distant, & from many Circumstances I had no doubt were part of the Rebel Fleet, who had sailed some Time before from Boston under the Command of Manley; continuing the Chace & gaining upon them, they quitted the Sloop, & set her on Fire, going off in a regular Line of Battle ahead, & setting Top Gallant Royals, & every Sail that could be useful to them.

A little after Six we discovered another Sail standing towards the Rebel Ships; she cross'd us on the contrary Tack at about 4 Miles distance, & put about when they could fetch their Wakes; from her not making the private Signal to me, I concluded that she was another of the Rebel Frigates, & therefore paid no Regard to an English Red Ensign She hoisted, & two Guns she fired to Leeward.

About Ten in the Morning the Enemy's Ships went away lasking, & three Quarters of an Hour afterwards I was surprized to see several Shot exchanged between the Sternmost of them, & the Stranger who had last join'd, & whom I had hitherto look'd upon as another of their Fleet, I then hoisted my Colours, shortly after which the two Sternmost of the Rebel Frigates hawl'd their Wind, whilst the headmost kept away about 2 Points from it; this brought the English Ship (which I afterwards found was the Flora.) more abreast of them who pass'd to Windward exchanging a Broadside with each, & pursuing the Fugitive who from the Alteration 2 or 3 Times of her Course seem'd uncertain which to steer; the Flora gain'd fast upon Her, which She perceiving hawl'd her Wind again and soon afterwards Tack'd & stood after her Comrades exchanging a Broadside with the Flora as they pass'd each other.

I was just putting about after the two Ships when I observed this unexpected Manoeuvre of the Rebel Frigate, which made me stand on something longer before I tack'd hoping to get her within reach of my Guns as She pass'd me. – I accordingly did so, but had not the good Fortune to bring down either a Mast or Sail by my Fire.

I tack'd immediately after her, & soon afterwards saw the headmost Rebel Frigate put about; She passed me just out of Gun Shot to Windward, & appeared a very fine Ship of 34 Guns with Rebel Colours flying; one of the Gentlemen of my Quarter Deck had been a Prisoner lately at Boston, & knew her to be the Hancock on board of whom Manley commanded, the Sea Officer in whom the Congress place all their Confidence & Reliance & who is the Second in Rank in their Navy.

The Ship I had fired upon, I found outsail'd me & soon after my Tacking went away lasking, whilst the other Frigate kept her Wind, I then saw with Concern, that one of the three must unavoidably escape if they steered (thus) different Courses, I therefore judg'd it best to put about and follow the Hancock which appeared the largest Ship. – whilst I was in Stays the Flora pass'd me very near in pursuit of the Ship I had fired upon.

It was about 2 o'Clock in the Afternoon of Monday the 7th of July that I tack'd after Mr Manley who seemed at first rather to outsail the Rainbow, but I understood afterwards that to endeavor making his Ship Sail better, He started all his Water forward & by that Means put her out of Trim. – an Hour before the close of Day He altered his Course & kept away large, we however got so near to Him before Dark as enabled us by means of a Night Glass to keep sight of Him all Night: at dawn of Day He was not much more than a Mile ahead of me, soon after which we saw a small Sail to Leeward, which we found to be the Victor Brig who as we pass'd fired at the Rebel Frigate & kill'd one of the Men at the Wheel, but was not able from bad Sailing to keep up, or come near her, any more: – about 4 in the Morning I began firing the Bow Chace upon her, with occasional Broad-sides loaded with Round & Grape, as I could bring them to bear, some of which struck her Masts & Sails: at $\frac{1}{2}$ past 8 I was so near as to hail her & let them know, that “if they expected Quarters they must strike, immediately”; Manley took a few Minutes to consider, & a fresher Breeze just then springing up, he availed himself of it, by attempting to set some of the Steering Sails on the other Side, I therefore poured a Number of Shot into Him, which brought Him to the desired Determination, & He struck the Rebel Colours to His Majesty's Ship, a little before 9 o'Clock in the Morning, after a Chace of upwards of 39 Hours.

I sent my first Lieutenant (Mr [Thomas] Haynes) to take Possession & to send the Prisoners on board, She proved to be a Rebel Frigate fitted out by the Congress called the Hancock, of 32 Guns mostly 12 Pounds, & had about 229 Men on board; Her Compl is 290 Men; the remr were in the Fox; She is a very Capital & large Frigate, is quite new off the Stocks, & I am inform'd that tho' from her Foulness & their mismanagement we came up with Her, yet that She is one of the fastest Sailing Ships ever built.

Mr Manley inform'd me, that the Ship the Flora was in Chace of was His Majesty's Ship the Fox of 28 Guns which He had lately taken on the Banks of Newfoundland, after a very warm Action of 2 Hours, & that the other Frigate was the Boston of 30 Guns, commanded by McNeal – I found Capt Fotheringham late Commander of the Fox & 40 of his People on board the Hancock, but his Officers & some other of his Men were put on board the Boston Frigate, & the remainder sent in a Fishing Vessel they met to Newfoundland.

After taking out the Prisoners I found it necessary from their Numbers being very near as many as my own Ships Company to return to Halifax, where I arrived with my Prize on the 11th Instant.

Manley seem'd much Chagrin'd at his not having engaged the Rainbow, when He found she was but a 40 Gun Ship, as He had all along mistaken Her for the Raisnable whom He knew, was very lately at Louisbourg: – His Capture will be extremely despiriting to the Rebels, as they plac'd the entire Direction of their Navy, in Him.

It is but Justice, to mention the very great Diligence & Alacrity shewn by all my Officers & Men during this very long Chace, & I beg leave to recommend them to their L's Notice; Mr Haynes (the first Lieutenant) is deserving of every Commendation I can give Him; Mr Saml Osborne & Mr Edwd Dalton, (the acting 2d, & 3d,) are very worthy of Preferment, tho' they have not yet been so happy to obtain Commissions as Lieutenants.

The 16th of June Governor Arbuthnot & myself receiv'd Advices, that a Party of Rebels (suppos'd about 200) had landed in the River St John's, & were imagined to be an advanced party of a greater Number. – Major Genl [Eyre] Massey consenting to send some Troops to dispossess them, I ordered Capt Hawker of the Mermaid to proceed with all Expedition for St John's River, on board whom some of the Highland Regiment embark'd, the Mermaid was likewise accompanied by the Gage arm'd Sloop, & the Nova Scotia arm'd Schooner, in the latter of which I sent one of the Mates of the Rainbow, & a small Detachment of Seamen.

By Expresses to the Bason of Minas, & Annapolis [Royal], I directed the Captains of the Vulture & Hope to proceed with all possible Expedition to St John's, & follow the Orders of Capt Hawker; Col. Frankland the Superintendent of Indian Affairs, embarked in the Hope, together with as many Troops from Windsor as She could stow: – a Detachment from Fort Cumberland was likewise ordered, under Brigade Major Stedholm, who was to command all the Troops sent on this Occasion: For the Result of this Expedition, I beg leave to refer their L's to (the Copy of) Capt Hawker's Letter to me, which is enclosed herewith.²

I had the very great Satisfaction on my Arrival, to find the Flora, & the Fox, both here; She had retaken the latter, shortly after I pass'd her, without any great Resistance on the Part of the Rebels, of which I judge Capt Brisbane will give their Lordships an Account. I am Sir [&c.]

CAPTAIN JOHN PAUL JONES TO CAPTAIN JOHN ROCHE¹

Sir –

Portsmouth July 12th 1777.

I am come here on a disagreeable errand – to Supercede you, against whom I have no cause of complaint. Delicacy would not permit my more early Appearance. I wished to give you time to consider Seriously whether your Suspension can be in any respect Owing to me: You must be convinced that it was not when you recollect that I was Appointed to command a far better Ship than the Ranger: Besides, I believe you think me incapable of Baseness.

You will have an Opportunity of disproving whatever may have been said to your disadvantage, and the charges against you, whatever they are, must be supported by incontestable Facts, otherwise they will gain no credit with men of Candor and Ingenuity. Your Present calamity may yet terminate in your future happiness: When it Appears that you have been wrongfully charged, You will be entitled to a greater share of Public goodwill and Approbation than you could otherwise have claimed. I wish you well – and am Sir, [&c.]

Sir/ State Navy Board [Philadelphia] July 12. 1777

We received your Letter of the 9th Inst. and have now to inform you, that the two State Galleys, Captains Price [John Rice] and [Richard] Eyres are preparing and will be ready by Wednesday next to proceed and act in conjunction with the Continental Galleys.²

Have taken an opportunity of A conference with the Commodore on the subject, and we are of opinion that we shall run a very great risque of the Fleet down the Cape May Channel, unless we can procure an equal force with the Enimy for it often happens that A Vessel taking the first of A Southerly breeze, from Sea will push up so fast as to overhawe any Vessels that may be miles up higher, before they feel the Wind, by which means the Enimees Ships may cut off our retreat, and in the interim, while our fleet is blockd up in that Channel the Enimy may send to New York to procure such Vessels as may suit their purpose and the consequence be a total loss of the Fleet.

And we wou'd further inform you that we have taken the enormous expence attending the Navy Service by means of employing a great number of Chevaux de Frise Pilots immediately, the annual expence whereof is £2160. – and their rations equal to their wages who are not in our opinion of any use at this time that we recommend to your consideration wether they ought to be continued. We apprehend there is no necessity of a greater number, than for One to be appointed for each of the Fire Ships, the State Brig and Schooner and they can do all the duty that is necessary. — By order of the Board.

After taking out the Prisoners I judged it necessary from their Numbers to return to this Port immediately. I am Sir [&c.]

NEWS FROM CASCO BAY, MAINE¹

Falmouth (Casco Bay) July 14, 1777.

This Day a Man arrived here from Witch Casset, and informs, That last Sunday he was on board the Boston frigate, Hector M'Neal Esq: Commander, who was then at Anchor in that Harbour. Capt. M'Neal informs, that four Weeks ago, Commodore Manly fell in with the Fox Frigate of 28

Guns, and after an Engagement of 4 Hours, the Fox was obliged to strike to Commodore Manly; who lost eight of his Men in the Engagement. Capt. M'Neal has on board the Boston all the Officers and part of the Men, the Officers are landed at the Eastward, and the Men (except four or five) are enter'd on board the Boston. Capt. M'Neal parted with Commodore Manly and the Prize, off of Cape Sables, last Saturday was a Week. – Commodore Manly had taken seven Fishermen, four of which he burnt, sent two into Port, and gave one to the Prisoners.

JOHN BRADFORD TO THE CONTINENTAL MARINE COMMITTEE¹

Boston 14th July 1777

I have the honour to congratulate you on the Success of the Hancock & Boston Frigates, which have fallen in with, & taken the Fox a twenty Eight Gun ship – they fell in with a forty Gun ship a few days before they took the 28, and would certainly have carried her, had she not been reliev'd by a 60 Gun Ship; Capt Manley engaged the 40, three Glasses before the Boston could get to his Assistance, but they've given the Brittons Ample proof that Americans are not more Bashfull at Sea than they are by Land – We are inform'd that 50 Americans which were on board the Fox emediately Entered & about the same number of Brittons, together with one hundred men they put out of the two Frigates have manned the Fox and she was left Cruising with the Hancock, Whilst the Boston Went into Sheeps-cut to repair – I know not wether she goes out to joyn them again or designs to return to return [sic] here, we lost eleven men in the two Ships & kill'd fourteen of theirs – Thus the Account stand, exactly as I received it last evening from a man well known in town; who came from Booth Bay, where he saw Mr Murray a Divine, who gave him the foregoing account, which he had from Capt McNeill who he din'd with the day before, on board his Ship in Compy with some of the Officers of the Fox, the Capt being on board the Hancock – I hope this is a happy prelude to our future Naval Exploits – I have the honour to be [&c.]

The Man who brings this Account can't ascertain the time when the engagement happen'd – no doubt the honourable board will give directions in what manner the Continent may avail themselves of this Valuable Acquisition, I take the liberty of mentioning it thus early, as she belongs to the Captors –

Dear sir

Boston 14th July 1777

previous to writing on Business suffer me to give you & my Country

Joy, of our late Acquisition by sea, in a Capture of an 28 Gun frigate by the Hancock & Boston. she is called the Fox and has not been off the stocks Sixteen months, they engaged a forty Gun Ship a few days before, & would have carried her, had she not been rescued by a 64 wch came to her assistance, Manly lost seven men, McNeil four, & the fox fourteen, the latter is arriv'd at Sheeps cut to Careen and Clean out to proceed to Sea again to join manly & the fox which is mann'd by fifty Americans entering out of her after being taken, and fifty Brittons following their Example, each frigate put fifty men on board, & she was left Cruising with manly command'd by Capt Waters² may they still be succeeded [sic successful] till our infant Navy grows up to manhood, your favour of the 7 I Recd but last Evg and this day, that of the 12 was handed me by Capt Veasy it gives me pleasure that after your several disappointments you have at leangth furnished the providence with a mast am glad to hear Capt Rathborn [John Peck Rathbun] has so near Completed his Hands, We are lucky in its being in your power to replace them, The Sergeons Instruments Ive Collected, allso the Medicine, I did not hear of the post being Robb'd, till I saw your Ltr last evening, my Letter accompanied his money, a copy of which I now inclose you, in answer to what you write respecting the payment, of the sergeons Bill, for the Care of the man whose Legs were broke and nursing him, Nothing similar has happen'd in my department, but the laws of humanity loudly proclaims that the prisoner should be whole at the Expençe of the publick, in answer to which you write Relative to Mr Veasy if he has a Warrant or Commission for any ship in the navy, he is intitled to Board wages, but not otherwise, But I am Confident he is not intitled to Board for this plain Reason Olney contrary to all rules inlisted his men only for the Cruise, therefore when the brig was hove away the Cruise ended.³

The disastrous affair of Loosing Ticonderoga give me the most pungent feelings for our poor Brethern in the frontiers. An express Arrived yesterday from General Washington to acquaint this state that the enemys fleet had fallen down to the narrows and that the Generals [Howe] Baggage Was all pack'd up at York, but w[h]ere bound he could not tell desired us to be on our Gaurd. . .

I Inclose you a List of Jones's At this late hour you've heard he has Superceded Roach in the ship at portsmo The master of Anthony & prince (two Blackmen) Appears and claims them one remains on board the Alfred, & the other is taken up and now under gaurd, What money remains in your hands belonging to them, please to stop in order to repay the bounty, they have recd from the continent. . .

New-York, July 14.

The 4th instant the Stanley, commanded by Mr. Whitworth, with the Delaware, by Mr. Rogers (two of the Roebuck's tenders) went to Chincoteague Bay, on the coast of Maryland, for the purpose of taking any of the rebel vessels lying within, which they effectually executed. By the deception of French colours which they hoisted in the offing, they brought off pilots, who carried them into the inlet, where they found eight vessels, four of which they destroyed,² and the other four, laden with tobacco and flour, Mr. Whitworth brought safe into this port, with 40 prisoners.³

Monday last eleven transports with provisions for the army, arrived here from Corke, and about 500 recruits for the different regiments now in America. They sailed from Corke the 6th of May, and parted with a brig to the southward of Bermuda bound for St. Augustine.

Whereas it is necessary that the Continental Frigate Randolph commanded by Nicholas Biddle Esquire, now in this Harbour, should be fully manned with the utmost expedition: Therefore and in order to avoid such measures for procuring Seamen as injure Trade, or infringe the Liberties of the People, and not doubting that some encouragement from the State will soon obtain a sufficient number of Men for the said Vessel: I have thought fit with the advice and consent of the Privy Council, to issue this Proclamation, Offering, and I do hereby Offer, Twenty Dollars as a Bounty to any able-bodied Seaman, who shall Voluntarily enter into the Continental Service, on board the said Frigate, within fifteen days next ensuing the date hereof.

Given under my hand and the great Seal at Charlestown this fourteenth day of July, in the year of our Lord One thousand Seven hundred & Seventy Seven.

Gazette of the State of South-Carolina, MONDAY, JULY 14, 1777

Charles-Town, July 14.

Last Wednesday arrived in a safe port, the sloop Chester, James Woodhouse, late master, laden with hides, logwood, mahogany and fustic, taken on the 10th ult. on her passage from the Bay of Honduras for Jamaica, by the privateer sloop Washington of this port, commanded by Capt. Hezekiah Anthony.

The same day was chased into another safe port, by a ship of war supposed to be the Galatea, the said privateer sloop, together with another prize sloop, taken by her in concert with the Vixen, on the 30th ult. from Jamaica bound to New-Providence, laden with rum, and called the Sally.

Capt. Anthony informs us, That Capt. Newton and himself fell in with the Jamaica fleet bound for Britain, on the 1st inst. consisting of upwards of 100 sail, under convoy of four vessels of war: That on the 5th they took out of the said fleet a ship called the Nancy, bound for London, having on board 250 hogsheads of sugar, 50 of rum and eighty pipes of wine: And that they continued dogging the fleet till the 8th; when, having passed the Bahama Bank, the Solebay with 3 ships, a brigantine, and 5 schooners, bound for New-York, separated from the other vessels, and stood to the northward, which the rest steered to the eastward, under convoy of the Kent armed ship and Lively, accompanied by the Porcupine, which was to proceed with them as far as Bermuda, to the southward of which island 'tis probable, the whole fleet will pass to avoid the American cruizers. — Capt. Anthony was chased at one time by the Solebay, and at another by the Porcupine, but had the good fortune to outsail both, as well as to escape the Galatea. — It was expected that another fleet, nearly as large as the above, would sail from Jamaica about the 25th of July.

Fourteen sail of large ships, supposed to be French men of war, passed the south side of the Isle of St. Croix, steering to the westward, on the 6th Instant. On the 14th of same Month, a privateer sloop of 8 guns and 25 men, belonging to Philadelphia, put in there, having 4 days before, taken two brigs from Liverpool, one of 12 guns and 30 men, the other of 14 guns and 35 men, by boarding, one of which she had sent into Guadaloupe, the other she had with her, but the Danish Governor ordered their immediate departure.

Yesterday at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, four ships were discovered in the offing, standing in from the S.E. They continued that course till 6 o'clock, then hawled their wind, and steered off to the S.W. Three of them clearly appeared to be men of war, supposed to be the Brune, Perseus and Galatea, and one of them (supposed the Perseus) kept up a white flag at the main-top gallant mast head from 4 to 6. The 4th ship is supposed to be a prize, or retaken vessel. None of them have come in sight since.

[Fishkill] Die Jovis, 4 ho. P.M. July 17, 1777.

Mr. Platt, one of the committee appointed to inquire for proper persons as officers for the Continental frigates, informed that Mr. Daniel Shaw (who is recommended by Captain Grenell as a person properly qualified for a first lieutenant) from the best information they have been able to obtain, is qualified for first lieutenant of the Continental frigate Congress, and do request the sense of Council on the subject.

Resolved, That Mr. Daniel Shaw be and he is hereby appointed first lieutenant of the Continental frigate Congress, under the command of Captain Thomas Grenell, and that one of the commissions lately transmitted to this Council by the board of war [sic Continental Marine Committee] be filled up with the name of Daniel Shaw, appointing him first lieutenant, until the further pleasure of the said board be known agreeable to their directions.

PENNSYLVANIA SUPREME EXECUTIVE COUNCIL TO THE PENNSYLVANIA NAVY BOARD ¹

Gentlemen

In Council, Philada July 17th 1777

In answer to your's just rec'd we have to say that the Fire Ships were built to embarrass the Enemy's Fleet in the narrow parts of the River Delaware – if they should attempt to approach so near to this City. The Council however have no objection to lend two to the Continental Navy Board,² provided Congress will give orders to you to prepare immediately others to replace them, upon considering the propriety of ordering down our two gallies to act in conjunction with the Continental Vessels, upon the present occasion should you acquiesce to the measure, the Council will be perfectly satisfied.

No. 19. Duplicate

Barbados 17 July 1777

. . . An Irish House here under the name of Thompsons & Seed, who sell Stores and provisions, have armed a Sloop, and sent her to St Vincente, where the Captain One Roberts has obtained a Commission from Governor Morris. This Sloop of Thompsons has begun by seizing a Dutch Vessel bound from St Eustatia to Demerara; both Dutch Settlements; the Vessel was released by the Vice Admiralty of One of Our Islands, and the Owners will most probably be called upon for Damages.

I am afraid it will be found, that many inconveniencies will attend the trusting the lower Class of people of these Islands with Such powers. And Although thus late, If I may be permitted to offer my Opinion, It would be, that For the protection of the Islands, The Legislature of each Island be permitted to arm and send to Sea, as far as two Vessels, fitted out and maintained at the publick Expence of the Island for the purpose of protecting the Coast; and under Such Commissions as the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty may be impowered to grant; Such Commissions in blank to be lodged in the hands of the Governor of each Island, to be filled up by the Governor, with Instructions to issue them out to no other Vessel than such as shall have been fitted out by the Appointment of the Legislature, and at the public Expence of the Island, and by no means to be delivered for the Use of Individuals. I humbly submit these my own particular thoughts to Your Lordship's Superior Judgement, to make such use of them as You may think they deserve. They have arisen from the complaints of the Islands of their being much exposed to the depredations of the Americans and of their want of protection; and which I am sensible Admiral Young cannot afford them to the extent they require, out of the small number of Ships of his Squadron, and the constant duty they are called upon in serving as Convoys &ca

Williamsburg, July 18.

A vessel from St. Eustatia belonging to this state, laden with canvas, is arrived at Edenton.

The enemy's ships of war found means, the week before last, to cut out from Chingoteague about nine vessels. Some they carried off, and burnt others. They were chiefly French vessels.

Last Friday morning the Emerald frigate, lying off our Capes, took the following vessels, outward bound, viz. Capt. Cluverius, in a small schooner; and the captains March, Philipson, Moodie, and M'Fee, in small sloops.¹ The brig Liberty, capt. [Thomas] Herbert, belonging to this state, and a large sloop, capt. Johns, both got clear, besides a number of other vessels.

The Fox, said to have been taken by Capt. Manly, was, we learn by the Cartel arrived here from Halifax, retaken by a 64 Gun Ship, and carried into that Place.

Captain Thomas Dalling, in the Schooner McClary, spoke with the Privateers Active, Capt. [Andrew] Gardner, and ——— [Speedwell] Capt. Grieley [Jonathan Greely], in the Lattitude of 43 04 N. 9. Longitude from London 45 30 West, which had parted from Commodore Manley's Squadron, had met with no Success, but were all well on board.

When the Raleigh Frigate went down the [Piscataqua] River, every well Wisher to the Cause seemed to vie with each other in paying Respect to the Continental Colours as she passed along – particularly at Fort Washington, where the lines was man'd, and the Soldiers all drawn up in great Order, the commanding officer "Prick'd" them on to shew their Joy, in a most extraordinary polite Manner, Lt. W————E saluted with his Pike, in a method quite new; the Soldiers took every Motion from the Lieutenant, and went thro' the whole Maneveers in a most surprising Manner – the Day was so very windy, made it impossible to hoyst the Colours at either of the Forts; – but to shew their Humiliation to the Thirteen United States, they laid their Flags low in the Dust.

DIARY OF FREDERICK MACKENZIE¹

[Rhode Island] 19th July At 6 in the Evening a Rebel Galley came down from Providence towards Papasquash point, and fired three Cannon shot at The Lark. The ship got under way immediately and chased her, but she run up towards Warren. When the Lark was returning near the Point, the Rebels began to fire at her from thence, which was briskly returned. She soon after anchored in her former Station. This Manoeuvre appears to have been entirely with a view to draw the ship near the point, that they might have a few shots at her. The Rebels have not had any Cannon on the point for some time past, so that the fire from thence was quite unexpected. One shot, an 18 pr struck the ship near the Larboard Main Chains, but did no damage.

My Dear Sir

Portsmo 20th July 1777

My day of rejoicing for the success of the Hancock and Boston was over before I had the Pleasure of receiving Your congratulations on the event. the pleasing news was hardly confirmed before I had the mortification to hear of the recapture of the Fox, with this additional disagreeable circumstance that the Hancock was also in danger of falling into the Hands of the Enemy – I could wish the two Captains had not been too much Elated with their good fortune, to this I impute their continuing to Cruise after they had weakened their Ships by putting a considerable part of their Crews on board the Fox, for, 'tho they must have weakened themselves by this means, they could not possibly spare so many men as woud put the Fox in a proper State of defence much less in a suitable condition to Cruise w[h]ere she was &c it therefore wd in my opinion have been more prudent in them to return immediately to port with their prize they might then with the assistance of such part of the Fox's crew as woud enter have put their ships in a much better condition then when they first sailed & probably might soon have made a further addition to the American Navy, sending the Prisoners to Hallifax I think was another great mistake had they taken them all home, it appears very probable to me that many more of them woud have enter'd after they got into Port and were seperated from their Officers, and those that would not enter might remain as a security for those of our People who are sentenced by the British Tyrant & his Infernal Minions to a long imprisonment, however, these are errors that I hope experience will teach us to mend, but if we shod be so unfortunate as to loose the Hancock we shall pay dear for our learning . . .

TO HIS FRIEND AT NEWBERN, DATED, JULY 20, 1777”¹

A Brig from Londonderry, mounting 12 Guns, bound for St. Augustine, with a valuable Cargo (by the Description of the Men I believe Lofthouse Master) is taken by our State Brig of War Notra Dame, Capt. Seamore, and carried into George Town. She arrived off there last Monday, and I believe got in Today. A French Sloop from Cape Francois, with 90 Barrels of Gunpowder, 11 Brass Pieces with all their Appurtenances, 152 Bomb Shells, about 1500 Shot, a Quantity of Soldiers Cloathing, 30 Tons of Salt, and 8 Officers of Artillery, came in last Thursday without a Pilot. Two Men of War at Anchor abreast, and close to the Bay, and another cruising in Sight. I saw a Sloop next Day run into Stono. Five or six North Carolina Boats, two Santee Schooners, and one Schooner from Providence, have got in this Week; while three British Ships of War, the Brune of 28 Guns, the Perseus and Galatea, of 20 Guns each, are cruising before our Bar, where they anchored Wednesday and Thursday; every Day in Sight, so that I can distinguish each particular ship. They brought a Prize Ship, which must be the Nancy Jamaica Man, retaken. The Galatea stood to the Eastward with her last Thursday Evening 5 O'Clock, and returned to her Consort Yesterday Morning; so that I suppose she has conveyed her to the Gulph, where I hope she will be again taken, as she sails very badly.

CAPTAIN HECTOR MCNEILL TO CAPTAIN THOMAS THOMPSON ¹

Capt: Thompson –

I have this moment receiv'd your welcome Letter of the 19th Inst.; On my arrival here I would have wrote you a Narative of our proceedings this last Cruise, but for want of an opportunity which could be trusted I refrain'd writing –

On Friday last I had some thoughts of Stopping one who call'd himself Harris, he was in a Whale Boat which he said he had hired of a Butcher at Portsmo by this Harris I wrote a Letter to you thereby intending to deceive him in case he had been what I suspected, a Spy, – Should you receive that Letter burn it, for I had no other Motive in writing it then those already mention'd –

To return now to Business I will tell you that I have spent a most painfull two Months on this Cruise, the General opinion which had prevail'd, that I was dissatisfied with being under Manley's Command – made me sett up a resolution to obey implicitly every one of his Commands, (as for Signals, I never could get any from him) to the utmost of my power,

I did however endeavour to advise him now & then when in a good mood, and he often appear'd to attend to what I said; but the unstableness of his Temper led him rather to do as he pleas'd – Nevertheless, I follow'd him as the Jackall does the Lyon, without Grumbling except in my Gizard –

On Thursday 29th May we took a small Brigg from London bound for New York² – by this Brigg we found she was part of a Convoy which came out with the Somerset & Mercury, the next day, at dawn we made four large Ships, the Leading Ship I was well assured was the Somerset, I made the Signal to Speak with Manley that I might persuade him not to run directly into their Tract a head of them they being to windward in which position 'twould be very hard to discover their Force before they were very near us – no notice however was taken of my Signal, I then made Sail to overtake him which I did and told him that I was persuaded the headmost Ship was the Somerset, our Prize was still in Company and Sail'd dull – so that we fear'd we should loose her, Capt Manley then told me to Stand to the Southward the Wind being ENE the Prize and myself stood to the Southward and Manley Lay with his Courses up and small Sails handed untill the Somerset came within the reach of Grape Shott being then convinced of his Mistake he made all the Sail he could but so Slowly did he get out of her way, That her Shott flew over him for an hour, by which Time I Tack'd to the Northwd upon the Three Ships a Stern of her, and when I came within long Shott of them, the Somerset left chasing Manley and return'd to her Convoy, having Spoke with them, she wore and Chac'd me Six or Seven hours, at first she seem'd to Gain but having alter'd the Trim of our Ship we then gain'd on her, a little before Night, she return'd to her Convoy –

Manley had run so far to the Southwd that we were not able to See him till Sunsett and did not fall in with him untill the next day – we then Stood to the Northwd and Eastward in hopes to fall in with some of the Scatter'd Ships of the aforesaid convoy, but the weather was so bad for ten or twelve days that we see nothing untill we got on the Bank – On Friday June the 6th we took a Brigg belonging to Dartmouth, her Capt: Manley order'd to be burnt for Country Sake, the next morning we fell in with The Fox about 7 o Clock forenoon, Captain Manley being a head exchanged two broadsides She then made Sail and endeavour'd to gett off, She Sail'd so fast that, twas half after noon before Manley got along Side of her when a Spitefull Short Action Ensued for 45 Minutes before we came up, we did not Fire untill within Pistol Shott and they struck the first broadside, but by some Mistake of their Marines or Topmen, they again Fired into our Ship after I had spoke to one of the Officers and desired him to throw a burning wadd overboard which had Lodged in the Mizn Chains, there was no withholding our People and they return'd a few Shott before I could Stop them – As the Hancock & Fox had Engag'd with all their small kites out, they were both in the most helpless condition at the end of the Action, the Fox had Pegg'd Mr Manley's ribbs so well that he had his pumps going, and both Ships were by the Lee, – with every Sail abroad –

to Stay and the 2d to take the Captain of the Fox on board Capt: Manley as a Compliment to my Senior Officer, This was immediately done, and the rest of the Officers with about 96 of the Men were brought on board me, a dozen of Fishermen came down to see the Sport as I had hoisted British Colours immediately after the Action ceas'd - Towards evening Capt: Manley came along side and order'd me to put all the common Men on Board one of those fishing Vessells and Let them go about their Business, I endeavour'd to perswade him to come on board that I might tell him my thoughts on that Step, he said he could not enter on Accot of Lameness but order'd me once more to sett about embarking them before Night, - I accordingly put 85 of the Fox's men on board one of the Fishing Vessells by Sunsett the Sea and Wind rising after Night prevented putting any more on board and it coming bad Weather before Morning they left us & made the best of their way for St Johns, I immediately foresee the Consequence and the next day wrote to Capt: Manley praying him to make the best of our way to the Southwd and proceed with all possible dispatch for South Carolina, - there 'twas probable we might not be watch'd by a Superior Force, but so sure as we offer'd to return home we were sure to be way laid by Ships from York and Rhode Island, who would be sent out as soon as the Somersett arrived, - and were sure to be pursued by the Newfoundland and Halifax Ships - Capt: Manley at first acquiesc'd, but in a few days alter'd his Mind and his Course, upon the whole we Spent three weeks before we Sett our faces to the Westward, in all which time we saw Nothing but Spaniards and French Men, who run us to the Eastward a great way from the place we had first met with the Fox -

We at last sett out for home, and keeping well to the Northward we made the High Land of Portmuttoon [Port Mouton], on Sunday Morning the 6th Instant about 8 o Clock A M Capt: Manley brought too an old Sloop, Coal loaded from Cape Britain, we lost several hours dallying with the Sloop untill the Morning breeze which was at N was Spent, he then took her in Tow & stood to the Southwd and Westward, about 4 o Clock that afternoon we Saw three Sail astern of us who appear'd to be in chace of us, far from taking notice of the Signal made by the Fox who was then astern, Capt: Manley Tow'd the Sloop all Night and we to keep astern had our Mizn Topsail to the Mast half the Night, when day come on we See the headmost Ship forward of our Lee Catthead, the Second Ship (a two decker) on our Lee Quarter and the third Ship right a stern³ -

The headmost Ship, Tack'd upon us & pass'd under our Lee within Gun Shott, at 8 o Clock as soon as she had our weak She Tack'd after us, we being the Sternmost Ship Exchanged some Shott with her; about noon I got within hail of Capt: Manley, and he proposed Tackg to Engage this Ship before the others came up - we did so immediately & both Exchanged a few broad Sides with her as she pass'd, the Fox did not Tack with us which Exposed her to this Ships Fire, She then attempted to Tack but Missing Stays was Obliged to wear which brought her under the Lee of the first Ship and just to Windward of the two decker. We then had all our heads to the Northwd, the Wind at W B S - Manley being the

Weathermost Ship he Tack'd & stood to the Southward, The Large Ship Tack'd after him The Fox bore away and Run to the Eastward and I kept the Wind to the Northwd At 4 P M we discover'd two Square lofty Vessells to the Northwd of us Standing our way We then put about & Stood to the Southward for one or two hours, when we made another right to Windward coming down with all the Sail She could make, from this one we also Tack'd & stood on to the Northwd untill the Moon was down we then hove about to the Southwd and in less than an hour saw her lights crossing our Weak right astern about $\frac{3}{4}$ of a Mile – Next Morning we had five Sail & the Land of Cape Sable in Sight; the Wind coming to the Southwd, we hauled across the Bay of Funday and thick weather coming on that Night & next day, we see no more of them Except one at 2 A M Wednesday Morning we were within hail of her before we discover'd her but She being on one Tack and we on the other we Saw her Top light time enough to avoid her – We heard a Signal Gun of hers about two hours before –

Now to come to our own Affairs, the State of my Ship is nearly as follows, Sixty Men Short of what I brought out, the Scurvy taking every day, my Vessells Bottom very fowl –

I intend to take the first good opportunity of running along shore as far as Casco Bay or if the weather be favourable as far as Portsmouth where I will certainly put in if I can – We have seen none of the Enemy's Ships from the Mouth of this river this five days but as long as the wind Continues Southerly I cannot pretend to get out, If Capt: Hinman⁴ and you are able to joine Company at Portsmouth and there be a Continuation of Southy Winds [and] should you stretch down as far as Casco you may find me there, Should I be chased by a Superior Force any where near Portsmouth I will come as near you as I can, in which case should the Wind be fowl for me to fetch in perhaps you may be able to come out to my Assistance –

As to your Cruising Singly, or even with two of our Ships, there is a great risque – the Enemy's Cruisers are so numerous, & most of them Stout Ships so that light Ships stand little or no chance, may God bless and prosper you is the Prayer of your Friend and Obedient Servant –

Gentlemen

Portsmouth July 21st 1777.

Inclosed I send a Copy of my last of the 17th Current ~~from hence~~ – several officers have been Appointed since that time and I have reason to think that the Compliment will soon be completed both with respect to Officers and Men –

When I took Command of the Ranger she was scarcely half Rigged – and the workmen are now, and will be for some time necessarily Employed – Colo Whipple writes you pr this Post his sentiments respecting the Ranger – but, as I think the Express from hence must return as soon as I can be in Readiness I will hope for the honor of your further Orders tho' I will not wait on that account – It gives me pain to lay before you the inclosed Copy of a Complaint which was sent to me at Boston – it is too Delicate a Point for me to intermeddle with & would with More propriety come before the Marine Board at Boston were the Members impowered to Act. – there is a matter here which appears to be altogether Singular and Unprecedented in the Division of Prize Money when two Vessels of Unequal Force are Concerned in a Capture as was the Case with the Alfred and Sloop Providence: – the Providence claims an equal share with the Alfred – Whereas in all like Cases the division is made in proportion to the number of Men and weight of Metal – I am extremely Sorry to trouble you with what concerns myself as an Individual – but whatever your determination may be I shall rest entirely Satisfied. I find that twenty six Guns are provided for the Ranger – however I purpose to Carry no More than 18 Six Pounders as I think the Ship incapable of bearing a greater Number yet so as to be Servicable – the Guns are all three diameters of the Bore too Short which is a great loss indeed – I have the honor to be with great respect and esteem

J.P.J.

NB. I have recd a letter from Colo Tillinghast of Providence that an Appeal hath been brought Carried before Congress on account of the Brigantine *Kingston Packet*² taken last Septr at the island of Madame by the Sloop Providence Under my Command. –

I can only Say that the Prize in Question clearly Appeared by all her Papers to be entirely British Property – and to Assert the Contrary must be to acknowledge that some of the parties concerned have been guilty of Perjury.

WILLIAM WHIPPLE TO ROBERT MORRIS¹

[Extract]

Portsmouth, July 21, 1777

I have the pleasure to inform you that the Raleigh has at last dropped down the River with about 150 men, and I think in a fair way of having her Number completed in a short time, tho' I fear she will not be so well manned as I could wish, owing to the Spirit of Privatiering which still prevails & has carried off most of the Seamen. She has not more than 20 seamen besides the officers, who, fortunately, are all seamen. The Ranger is getting ready with all possible dispatch. Capt Jones has a strong inclination to cruize across the Atlantick & I must confess I think very favourable of his plan, especially if a Frigate is, or may be procured for him in France, in that case an enterprize may be formed that will draw the attention of the Enemy in some measure, from the American Coast, to Protect their own. Another Reason that may be offered in favor of the Ranger going to Europe, is that she will be very sparingly fitted out. The Extravagant Prices of every Kind of Store, wo'd be a sufficient reason for fitting her out as Sparingly as possible, but I am apprehensive many necessary Articles are not to be had at any Rate. But least a Frigate cannot be procured for Capt Jones in France would it not be a good Scheme to send a Frigate or two from hence. They might be ordered to cruize on the Coast of Europe, till the latter end of Novr, then return home with as many Stores as they can conveniently bring for the Ships that are now building, or convoy any Ships that are ordered, with stores, from thence. If this plan or something like it is not adopted, I know not how the Navy will be supplied next year. Should it be thot proper to send a Frigate in company with the Ranger, I think no Ship wou'd be more proper than the Raleigh, as the two Captains are very well agreed and both of them well acquainted with the British Coast. These two ships will be an even match for any single Frigate, and should they be so fortunate as to take one of the Enemy Ships of war, I am satisfied they will have prudence enough to take care of her.

Before this reaches you, You will have heard of the Capture & recapture of the Fox. I hear several of her officers are just arrived here, in their way to Boston, they were landed at some Eastern Port from the Boston. Its Probable the Hancock is taken as the Rainbow of 44 Guns was in chase of her when the Boston parted from her and its said come up with her fast. I think Manly and McNeil are not altogether blameless for continuing to cruize a month with their Prize after weakening their Ships so much as they must have done by Maning her. What Capt McNeil has to say as an excuse for leaving the Hancock when a ship of superior force was in chase of her I know not, but I suppose these matters will be inquired into.

Charles-Town, July 21.

The sloop Susannah, Robert Bell, last master, lately taken on her passage from Jamaica to New-Providence by the Washington privateer of this port, and also the said privateer, are safely arrived here through the improved inland navigation from one of our southern inlets.

The four ships that appeared off this bar yesterday se'nnight, and in the evening stood off S.W. made their second appearance early on Wednesday morning, S. of the light house, standing in for the bar. They were the Brune frigate, of 28 Guns, the Perseus and Galatea, of 20 guns each, and a ship, which exactly answers to the description of the Nancy, Capt. Lowrey, from Old Harbour in Jamaica, taken on the 5th instant by the Washington and Vixen, privateers of this port, and must have been retaken by one of these men of war.¹ The Brune hoisted a white flag at fore-top gallant mast head, and the Perseus a French ensign: After making these, and other signals the Brune anchored a breast of, and close to, the bar at half past 9; the Perseus a head of her at 10; the Galatea a-stern at half past 10, and the prize under her stern at 11, all in full view of the town. At 2 in the afternoon, the Galatea weighed and stood off, came in again, and anchored off the Swash in the evening. – Thursday morning the Galatea again weighed and stood off and on till 5 in the afternoon, when the Prize either weighed or slipt, and stood off with her to the eastward, probably to be convoyed to the gulph, on her way to New-York. Half past 2 the same afternoon, the Perseus made a signal to the Galatea, then standing off, which occasioned her putting about and standing to the S.W. nevertheless a French sloop, from Cape Francois, laden with gunpowder, soldiers cloathing, brass field pieces, bombs, cannon shot, salt, &c. and having eight officers of artillery on board, very providentially got safe in, without a pilot, and without receiving the least damage. Friday morning 5 o'clock, the Brune began to heave up her anchor, and was a full half hour getting under weigh; at half past 8, the Perseus also was under weigh, and both stood to the southward; yet a sloop escaped them that afternoon, and ran into one of the southern inlets. – Early on Saturday, the Galatea was seen in the offing standing to the south-eastward, having returned from convoying the prize; and at noon, she appeared again, off Stono, with the Brune and Perseus, coming up to the bar. At one o'clock, being all off the light house, the Galatea hoisted a signal, left the Brune and Perseus lying too, and ran past the bar, looked into the harbour, then returned to the Brune and Perseus, by 3 o'clock, after which the three vessels stood off S.S.E. Two coasters, and three North-Carolina boats got in safe that day. – Yesterday they were in sight all day, sometimes standing off and on, at others lying too, a good way to the southward. In the evening they stood off again to the S.E. Two North-Carolina boats got safe in, one in the morning, the other in the evening. – This morning they all appeared to the southward, the wind at S.W. standing in for Stono. At half past 6 they all put about, the Galatea stood to the southward, being a good way without the others, the Perseus and Brune went to windward. The Perseus and Brune came so near the shore, that the guns in both could be distinctly seen from hence, and even the men on board the Perseus; as she put about very suddenly, 'tis a doubt that she did not strike. At 11 o'clock only one ship was in sight. At 4 this afternoon, they all appeared again, one coming before the wind from off Stono, and another from the S.S.E. to the Brune, then lying too off the light house: They all lay too a little while, then steered one course close to shore towards Stono. And at 6 o'clock, they all put about off Stono, and stood off to the S.E.

The Notre Dame brigantine of war, belonging to this state, has taken and (within this week) carried into one of our safe ports, a brig from London, mounting 22 guns, with a cargo of dry goods, bound for St. Augustine, Alvara Lofthouse (according to the description given of the man) master.² We are not yet possessed of other particulars.

1. Nancy, John Lowrie, master, had been retaken by H.M.S. Brune on July 9, PRO, Admiralty 51/117.

WILLIAM WHIPPLE TO JAMES LOVELL¹

[Portsmouth] 22 July 1777

. . . Long before this reaches you, you will have heard of the recapture of the Fox, McNeal in at Falmouth. The accounts of Manly are various – one day he is taken by the Rainbow and carried to Halifax – the next he is arrived at some Eastern port in a shattered condition, but we have no accounts of him that can be depended on; it would grieve me much to have the account of his being taken confirmed though not on his account for I think he deserves to suffer for his imprudence in keeping his prize cruising with him a month where he was sure to meet some of the enemy's ships of superior force when he might have carried her to port, fitted his ship, and before this time added another to the American fleet. The recapture of the Fox and the rumor of the capture of the Hancock has exceedingly retarded the manning of the Raleigh; she wants about 100 men which number I hope will soon be obtained notwithstanding these discouragements. I think with you that it would be well to send some of the frigates to the coast of Europe. . . .

CAPTAIN JOSEPH CUNNINGHAM TO ROBERT MORRIS AND CARTER BRAXTON¹

Messrs

Marblehead July 23d 1777. –

Notwithstanding my utmost Exertions I am not yet able to put to Sea for Want of Men – Indeed the difficulty in this Respect Surpasses what I ever Imagined – I have been Indefatigable in my Endeavours to fit the Ph[o]enix compleatly that she may fully Answer the Intention; at the same Time keeping that Line of Economy in View that nothing is superfluous. I believe there is scarce a Vessell of her Size fitted out of America, better calculated & furnish'd for Warr, than she is; and now have Thirteen Weeks Provision on Board for Eighty Men – But all these Advantages signify nothing so long as she is obliged to lay by for want of Mariners. So many men have sail'd from this part of the Continent of late (a Considerable Proportion has fell into the Hands of the Enemy) That it is extremely difficult by any means to procure Sailors – The Commanders of Continental Vessells of Warr, although they give Wages, pay advance Money &c. yet are obliged to lay in Port, or go out half mann'd – Instances of which are recent in the Alfred, now in this Port, and the Frigate at Portsmouth, who have now but about 120 Men each, and, I am inform'd are to put to Sea with the first favourable Wind –

Upon the Whole, I would beg leave just to suggest, whether it would not be best for you, and all Persons concern'd to dispose of this Vessell to the Continent, & send me a Continental Commission for that purpose; or put her on the same Terms as to Wages and Prize Money as those in that Service now are?

I mean not to dictate; but be assured I have your Interest very much at Heart, & should be loth to amuse you with flattering prospects, when the Case is really otherways –

I have some very good Officers under me, one of which is just return'd from a Journey of Sixty Miles which he has been in Order to engage Men for the Service of your Vessell, but could not procure one –

I have been at this Place with the Vessell above a Week & have with great difficulty enter'd 4 or 5 Hands, but fear I shall get no more. The whole Number now belonging to the Vessell, Including Officers, is but about thirty – And many of them are uneasy, as the most probable Season for takeing Prizes is almost past. Another Reason for my proposing to you the Making her Continental property, is the probability that an Embargo will take Place directly, on account of the Enemy's late Movements, when certainly no private armed Vessell will be permitted to Sail –

In short, I am in great Perplexity. I shall however continue the most unremitting Diligence for the Service of my Employers – in the mean Time would beg of you to write Immediately, directing me what mode of Conduct to pursue in Case of being obliged to Return to Boston before I can proceed on a Cruize – I am, with Respect Gentn [&c.]

Capt. Eliphalet Thorp declares and says That he last Sabbath day sailed from Fairfield with a Flag of Truce, in order to transport Mrs. Hannah and Miss Ruth Brown, wife and daughter of Nicholas Brown, over to Hempstead on Long Island, and arrived there on Monday, and was there informed by an officer and a justice of the peace, that they had strict orders not to permit any flag to be received any where on Long Island and advised me to proceed to the Scorpion man of war which lay at New-City Island, which I accordingly did, and when I got on board of her, Capt. Brown, the Captain of her, told me that I must immediately turn back and carry the women with me, for that he could not receive them, and he then gave me a copy of Lord Howe's orders respecting flags of truce; and further added, that if any more came, he shou'd seize and treat them as spies; upon which I was immediately obliged to return and bring back the women with me, as witness my hand, this 23d day of July, A. D. 1777.

Ship Montgomery, July 23, 1777.

Your letter of 16th inst. I duly received with blank warrants for only boatswain and cook, which I take the liberty of returning unfilled.

Captn. Grennell ² and myself took for granted, when we accepted the command of the ships, we had an undoubted right to nominate and appoint all our officers. A letter from Francis Lewis, Esqr. (one of the honourable marine committee) dated 21st August last, empowered us to do it; on the strength of which I appointed my sea and marine officers, the latter have acted as such on board, for these two months past, and have had a number of men drafted from different regiments, as marines under their command; and it surprised me much, to find that those gentlemen's commissions have not been forwarded, or even taken notice of, by the honourable marine committee. I find you, gentlemen, doubt the propriety of taking the captains of the Camden privateer and Washington galley, for my lieutenants; it has always been a rule and custom for lieutenants of a frigate to take the command of armed vessels not exceeding ten guns; and if I mistake not, 'tis agreeable to the resolves of Congress.

I shall use my utmost endeavours to look out for persons qualified for master, surgeon, gunner, &c. and advise you when any offers that I can freely nominate and appoint. I am gentn. [&c.]

JOURNAL OF THE CONTINENTAL CONGRESS¹

[Philadelphia] Wednesday, July 23, 1777

Resolved, That the committee appointed to contract for the casting of cannon, be directed to deliver to the Board of War and Ordnance, all the contracts they have made, together with an account of the advances made and cannon received in consequence of such contracts; and that then they be discharged from proceeding farther in that business, and that the Board of War and Ordnance be vested with the powers granted to the aforesaid committee, and that they be directed to attend to the execution of the said contracts, and to take such measures as they shall judge proper and effectual for procuring a sufficient supply of cannon for the land and sea service, and that the Marine Committee apply to the said Board for such cannon as they may want for the continental ships of war, under their direction.

The Marine Committee having laid before Congress a petition from sundry lieutenants of the navy, which had been some time under the consideration of the said committee, and represented, that before any determination was had thereon, a number of the said lieutenants refused to proceed in the execution of their duty, until what they call their grievances should be redressed, as more fully appears by a paper now produced to Congress, dated 21 July, directed to John Barry, Esqr senior commander of the navy in the port of Philadelphia, and signed by twelve of the said lieutenants, viz. Robert French, Robert Martin, Robert Hume, John Fanning, Matthew Tibbs, George Batson, Luke Matthewman, William Gamble, Thomas Vaughn, Joseph Greenway, R. Pomeroy, James Armitage; and whereas such combinations of officers to extort increase of pay and allowances from the public, are of the most dangerous tendency, it is necessary for the public service to make examples of such offenders; therefore,

Resolved, That the said Robert French, Robert Martin, Robert Hume, John Fanning, Matthew Tibbs, George Batson, Luke Matthewman, William Gamble, Thomas Vaughn, Joseph Greenway, R. Pomeroy, and James Armitage, be dismissed the continental service, and they are hereby severally dismissed accordingly, and their commissions rendered void and of none effect.

Resolved, That the said Robert French, Robert Martin, Robert Hume, John Fanning, Matthew Tibbs, George Batson, Luke Matthewman, William Gamble, Thomas Vaughn, Joseph Greenway, R. Pomeroy, and James Armitage, be, and they are hereby, rendered incapable of holding any commission or warrant under the authority of the United States, and that it be recommended to the several States not to employ any of them in any office civil or military.

“EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM MR EDDIS TO GOVR EDEN, NEW YORK
23D JULY 1777.”¹

Annapolis has assumed a very different Appearance since Your Excellency left it. They have formed a Battery from Mr Walter Dulany's Lot company with His Majesty's Sloops Druid and Weazle; Inclosed also is Copy of Intelligence sent me by Lord Howe of the American Privateers got out of Boston on the 21st of May; at present we have no Intelligence of their being in these Seas and I hope by their Sailing so late and the Wind being so long Southerly that they have not been able to intercept the Homeward bound Convoys of May and June.

I must also beg leave to inclose to their Lordships that part of Lord Howe's Letter concerning His displacing the Officers I had appointed to the vacancies that happened in the American Squadron that fitted here last Year. I look'd upon it that all Ships that came on this Station for that purpose were as much under my Command as any others, for without their being so, they could in no shape be fitted; as all Orders respecting that Service to them must come from me; for which reason on their arrival, I gave them all Orders to put themselves under my Command, therefore must naturally suppose that if they were under me in one Instance they were in all others 'till their Departure to execute Lord Howes Orders; which if I had thought it for the good of his Majesty's Service I might have contradicted, and employed them as I thought proper; it is an over act of Power of my Lord Howes that I hope their Lordships will redress. Mr [Thomas] Windsor who I had appointed to the Command of the Falcon his Lordship has sent back in the Camel, as also the Boatswain; The Purser of her stays with his Lordship; the Gunner of the Flora who was moved out of the Beaver into her, is also returned; but the Surgeon of the Mermaid stays with his Lordship. They were all fair Vacancies, no made ones nor was it right for the Ships to go from hence without being properly appointed; It was very natural to suppose that on the sudden change of climates Vacancies would happen, and if a Number of them come here this Season in all probability will again, there fore hope what I did will meet their Lordships approbation and that they will confirm Mr Windsor.

The Oliver Cromwell I had some thoughts of purchasing before to make a Man of War Sloop of; she will make a very fine one and carry 16 Six Pounders. I shall now do it, and appoint Mr Windsor to the Command of her, and propose sending her with the Convoy after the bad Weather Months are over, if any is required, for Guns we cannot get, and those in Her are by no means fit to remain; in every other Circumstance she will want very little; I propose having her Survey'd very soon and Valued, of which I shall acquaint their Lordships by the next opportunity.

I must further acquaint their Lordships that about three Weeks ago His Majesty's Armed Brig Endeavour (Lieutt Tinsley) fell in off this Island with two American Sloops, the one of 12 Guns; and the other of 10, in both about 160 Men, who Engaged her off and on for three Hours, but she beat them off with the loss only of one Man, and five slightly wounded, they appeared to be much damaged and made Sail from her.

The Endeavour being very small and not a very good Sailer have ordered her to be sold and turn'd Lieutenant Tinsley with his People and Ordnance Stores into the Mosketo a Rebel Privateer of 14 Guns lately taken by the Ariadne, having thrown her Guns overboard in the Chace; She will carry (very well) Ten 4 Pounders, is quite new and Built for the purpose of a Privateer and is quite compleat, I have ordered her to be Survey'd and Valued; and named the Endeavour, the Account of which will send by the next opportunity, and shall order the Naval Officer here to draw on the Navy Board for the appraised Value of them both.

I have the Pleasure to acquaint their Lordships that the sloop that was converted into a Brig and called the Pelican is now at Sea, and I am informed answers beyond Expectation.²

I hope their Lordships will approve of what I have done herein, and am Sir [&c.]

Proceeded on our Voyage, the Wind fair, but light. In the Evening opposite to Little Egg Harbor. From this Time to Wednesday 29th, when we arrived off the Mouth of the Delaware, we had every Variety of good & bad Weather. The Transports, with the poor Soldiers, were tossed about exceedingly, & exposed at times to much Danger in running foul of each other. – When we arrived here, Capt. Hammond in the Roebuck (stationed here) waited upon the Admiral. – The Ships lay on & off all the Day; and at length it was determined by the General not to land here. – The Hearts of all Men were struck with this Business, every one apprehending the worst. O quantâ de spe! is the universal Cry; and without the Loss or Risque of a Battel. – What will my dear Country think & say too, when this News is carried Home? Horreo. – News arrived, through the Rebels themselves, of their being routed, above Albany, by Burgoyne, with the Loss of their Baggage & every thing. – In the Evening, stood away to the NE, though it was given out, that we are bound to the Chesapeak; in which Situation, may God defend us from the Fatality of the worst Climate in America at this worst Season of the Year to experience it! – I can write no more: my Heart is full.

Sir,

Antelope Port Royal Harbor
Jamaica the 24th July 1777

I beg leave to acquaint their Lordships that this comes by His Majesty's Ship Boreas, Capt'n Thompson, who with the Ostrich Captain [Peter] Rainier is to proceed to England with the Trade from this Island, & to sail from Bluefields the 1st day of August together with the Hornet who is to go such a distance to strengthen the Convoy.

I have receiv'd your Letter of the 7th May by His Majesty's Packet Boat the Grantham, informing me that their Lordships had been pleased to appoint Sir Peter Parker to relieve me on this Station. also their Lordships order of the 10th May to take the Lowestoffe Captain [William] Locker under my Command who arrived here the 19th Instant, and brought in all his Convoy safe; and I shall employ him in the best manner for His Majesty's Service: Nothing particular has occur'd worthy their Lordships information since my Letter of the 15th June, by the Lively, Capt'n Bishop, a duplicate of which I inclose:

. . . By the Pensacola Packet I am informed the Hound sailed from thence with the trade for England the 19th April; I inclose for their Lordships information, a Letter I receiv'd from Lieutenant [George] Burdon, Commander of His Majesty's armed Sloop West Florida, wherein he gives an Account of the state of the Town of New Orleans, in the best manner he can:

In consequence of my appointing Captain [Thomas] Davey, to Act as Captain of His Majesty's Ship Antelope, in the room of Captain Judd; I appointed Mr James Cotes my first Lieutenant to Act as Master and Commander of the Diligence till my further Order. . . .

The Squadron under my Command is employed as follows. The Winchelsea, Southampton, Glasgow, Race-horse and Porcupine Sloops are on a Cruize. The Atalanta is still stationed at Pensacola, The West Florida and Florida Surveying Sloops are on their stations agreeable to their Lordships orders; The Lord Amherst armed Ship I expect will soon arrive here from Pensacola; The Diligence is gone to the Moskito shore, & Bay of Honduras: The Aeolus is almost ready to proceed again on a Cruize, His Majesty's Sloop Stork, I have sent round the North side of the Island to collect the Trade & Convoy them to Bluefields to join the rest; There will then only remain in the Harbor the Antelope, and Lowestoffe. The latter I shall send to Sea, so soon as She can be got ready; Inclosed is the state and Condition of His Majesty's Ships under my Command that are now in Port; and a List of Officers that I have appointed since the 15th June last: In the Ostrich I send the Captain of a Rebel Sloop fitted out as a Privateer, taken by the Glasgow, & ten American Prisoners, in the Boreas; the Capt's of the respective Ships have my directions, to deliver them to the Commanding Officer at Spithead; by a Merchant Ship who arrived the 20th Instant I am informed that she spoke a Dutch Snow, who had been brought too, by two Rebel Privateers from whom he learnt that Philadelphia was in possession of His Majesty's Troops; The Number of Vessels, taken by the Squadron at present amounts to One hundred & fifty. I am, with great Respect, Sir [&c.]

CAPTAIN HECTOR McNEILL TO THE FALMOUTH COMMITTEE OF SAFETY ¹

Ship Boston 25th July 1777

Gentlemen. I am inform'd that two of the Prisoners Late belonging to the Fox which I forwarded here by Land from Wichcassett last week have been Negligently left behind in this place -

I cannot help Expressing my astonishment on this Occasion at the conduct of those Gentlemen who had the care of the Prisoners -

Were our poor Countrymen who unfortunately fall into the hands of the Enemy no better guarded or let run at loose in this manner we might entertain some hopes of their being able to find their way once more to their own home - but alas the contrary is too well known, many of them have been constrain'd to take arms against their Country, all who refuse so to do have been close confin'd and treated with such cruelty as would Shock the heart of a Barbarian untill they can be redeem'd by Exchange, suffer they must, is it not then great cruelty in us to Neglect redeeming our own people knowing full well what hard measure they have while in the hands of the foe, what mistaken pitty that is which only extends to our Enemys when they fall into our hands, and neglects our own people who meet such cruel Treatment among them, – This is but poor encouragement for Men to enter into the Service of their Country who tho they may take and convey home Prisoners enough to redeem themselves in case of their being taken, yet have only this Melancholy reflection for their Comfort, Namely That their indolent, faithless Countrymen, suffer such to Slip through their fingers, while they poor Souls are sure to perish in a Prison unless they be redeem'd –

I therefore call on you Gentlemen as the Active guardians of your Country and your brethren in Captivity, requesting that you would cause those Prisoners to be apprehended and deliver'd again into my Care, or sent under a proper Guard to Boston – I am Gentlemen [&c.]

. . . Sunday last, We were alarmed at the Appearance of twenty four Sail of the Enemy's Ships, passing from N York thro' the Sound, & Showing themselves as standing for Fairfield, & in like manner at sundry other Places. – Capt [Robert] Niles in our Armed Schooner Spy, who was Ordered out for Discovery, was chased into New London Harbour. several Broad Sides with other random Shott were fired at him. The Enemy pursued him till they came within a short Distance of the Light House in that Harbour. – They pass'd by, only two Ships, & three or four Schooners & Sloops went in at Newport. – Mr Shaw says he found they are bound home, with sick & wounded Soldiers. He was at the time in a Flag to carry Letters to thirty one Gentlemen at New York, who had been sent into this State for their inimical Principles, & had been allowed to go in on Parole to return when called for. – Mr Shaw proceeded up the Sound as far as Huntingdon, when meeting with a British Ship, the Commander prevented him from going up any further, Saying he had positive Orders not to let any Flag pass him. Mr Shaw gave him the Letters, and has his Receipt to deliver them to Lord Howe, mentioning the Purport.

[Fishkill] Die Veneris, 4 ho. P.M. July 25, 1777.

Mr. Platt, from the committee to whom was referred the letters from the Captains Grenell and Hodge on the subject of appointing officers for the Continental frigates Congress and Montgomerie, reported a draft of a letter to the marine committee, which was read and approved, and is as follows, vizt:

Gentlemen - I am directed by the Council of Safety to inform you that your letter of the twenty-sixth of June, enclosing blank commissions, and requesting this Council to confer with the captains of the Continental ships Congress and Montgomerie for men of good character to fill the different offices on board, has been taken into consideration.

We have filled up one commission for Daniel Shaw, first lieutenant of the Congress; some others have been recommended to us, but we have suspended their appointment until we could be more thoroughly acquainted with their characters.

You make no mention of the marine officers. Several have been shipped and recommended by the captains, as also Mr. Victor Bicker, who was appointed last winter by Convention agreeable to your directions, a lieutenant of marines, with orders to recruit some men to guard the ships during the winter.

We should be glad of your directions whether commissions should be filled up for any of the marine officers, and how many.

If Congress should choose to retain the appointment of marine officers, and have none particularly in view, the Council take the liberty to recommend William Matthewman (who served as lieutenant in Canada) to the command of the marines on board the Montgomerie, and Mr. Victor Bicker (who served as lieutenant in General Scott's brigade last year) to a lieutenancy of marines on board the ship Congress.

The Captains Grenell and Hodge claim a right of appointing their own officers, as will appear by the enclosed copies of their letters. I am, gentlemen, [&c.]

To the Honble. the Marine Committee

Ordered, That a copy thereof be engrossed, signed by the President, and transmitted, together with copies of the letters from the said Captains Grenell and Hodge to this board.

The said committee also reported a draft of a letter to the said captains in answer to theirs on the same subject, which was also read and approved, and is as follows, to wit:

Sir – Yours of the twentieth instant has been laid before the Council. I am directed to inform you that the Council are unacquainted with the conditions on which you accepted your commission, and they would have been happy in not having any agency in appointing officers for the ships, and therefore undertook the disagreeable task with reluctance, at solicitation of the marine committee, to whom they have referred your case. I am, sir, [&c.]

To Captain Grenell

Ordered, That a copy thereof be signed and transmitted, and that a similar letter be sent to Captain Hodge.

BRIGADIER GENERAL JOHN GLOVER TO JAMES WARREN, SPEAKER OF THE MASSACHUSETTS HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES¹

Dear Sirs

Peeks Kill 25th July 1777. –

This will inform you, the Enemys Fleet saild from the Hook this 23d inst in Consequence of which Genl Sullivan's & Lord Stirlings Divisions cross'd the North River by Genl Washington's Order, for Philadelphia this morning – But I must Confess I expect them back again.

The Enemy's Conduct is exceedingly Embarrassing to us. – They have for two weeks past been Collecting all the Seamen that have any knowledge of the Southern Coast, from this we supposed their Design was on that Quarter – but last Evening, we took a Mr Williams at the White Plains from New York who was sent by Genl Howe with a Letter to Genl Burgoyne at Fort Edward – acknowledging the Rect of his Letter of the 14th May, & advising he (Howe) was all ready for Sailing, & should make an Attack on Boston, (in which Burgoyne is to Co-operate from the Northwd) & flatters himself he shall not meet with much difficulty – as he supposes the Rebel Army was now Collected, & at such a Distance from that place, that an easy Conquest may be made.

The Letter referr'd to, was sent off to Genl Washington 12 OClock last night (about 28 Miles distce) an Express came in from him this morning 3OClk with Orders for the two Divisions before mention'd to join him – This Express met the one sent off with Howes Letter, 10 Miles on his way – how far this intelligence will operate with Genl Washington, I am not able to say – but taking all Circumstances together (which are too many to Enumerate) all the Genl Officers on this side the North River are fully of the Opinion Boston is their mark –

Should Genl Washington favour this Opinion, he will be on with his whole Army, except my Brigade, which is now Embark'd & waiting for a wind, for Albany & one Brigade which will be left at this Post. –

It's one of the first Principles in War to deceive, – Howe has taken great pains to do this in many Circumstances – His Expedition he keeps as a profound secret – at the same time Offers great Encouragemts for Pilots to the Southward, gives Prisoners an opportunity to Escape with a Design that this may be known to Genl Washington – then sends a Fleet of Ships abt 30 Sail thro' the sound – at the same time sends 4 Arm'd ships & Row Gallies up the North River as if they design'd to stop the Troops crossing from the West to the East side of the River – then lyes still 10 days – sends out Williams with the Letter before mention'd & the next day sails from the Hook, with his whole Fleet Consisting of 170 Sail – These Manoeuvres are design'd to Baffle & deceive us. – I wish the Effect may not prove it – If his Object was Philadelphia, would he not have procur'd Pilots in a more private Manner, on the other hand if Boston would he have sent Mr Williams, a young Gentleman of York, who is a Staunch friend to America – as appears by his being Confined in the Provost Guard two weeks (& other favourable Circumstances) before he was engag'd on this Errand – taken out, & the next day sent off by Major Sherriff – & sent in such a way, & by such a Road, that he could not but have fallen into our hands. However he like an honest man made inquiry for our Guards & deliver'd himself up – He recd 6 half Joe's & was recommended to Genl Burgoyne for a further Reward – from his coming out in this open way, we suppose it was design'd he should fall into our hands, & that we should not pay any Attention to it – at the same time sent off one Taylor – of middling Stature, Dark Complexion, short brown hair – Blue Camblet Coat, with white Lappels who we expect will get thro' – as he has been employ'd in that way for several Months past with success, having return'd from that Quarter, but a day or two before Mr Williams Left York. –

I conceiv'd it my Duty to give the earliest intelligence – The wisdom of the Assembly will take such Measures as to them shall seem most Advisable for the safety of the State. –

I would not be understood to dictate, but Sir, give me leave to say I think it advisable the Militia be immediately put on the most respectable footing, with Arms, Ammunition & provision, ready to March at a moments Warning – by all means meet them if possible, at their first Landing – you will be supported by the Continental Army. –

If a Genl Battle comes on, one or the other must be Conquer'd – if it should be our unhappy Lot, (which God forbid,) we must be slaves – which is worse than Death. We can but die in Conquering them, which will be dying Gloriously – This Idea properly held up I think would Stimulate ministers and people to come forth in defence of their Country.

The Man that refuses, be he whome he may, ought to be deem'd an Enemy to his Country, & dealt with accordingly. – I am Sir [&c.]

GEORGE WASHINGTON TO THE PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS ¹

[Extract]

Ramapough 3 Miles from the Clove July 25th 1777

. . . The amazing advantage the Enemy derive from their Ships and the Command of the Water, keeps us in a State of constant perplexity and the most anxious conjecture. We are not yet informed of their destination, nor can any plausible conclusions be drawn respecting It – at least, not such as appear satisfactory. What renders the matter still more difficult & confused, is their extreme inactivity & delay. For it is certain they began to embark immediately after the evacuation of Amboy and now remain between the Narrows & the Hook or were there, when I was last advised upon the Subject – I have Two Active Officers with an Escort now out, for the purpose of Intelligence and for reconnoitring their situation from Fort Lee and along the River in that Neighbourhood. Things being thus circumstanced and various Opinions, as to their real Object, prevailing among us, Some supposing it to be Philadelphia – Others the North River and Others an Expedition more Easterly, I would submit it to Congress, Whether the Militia of the Neighbouring Counties should not be immediately called to the first or at Chester – the Lower Counties at Wilmington. This measure appears to me highly expedient and no Objection can lie against it of sufficient validity to prevent it, As a few days must certainly determine their real designs. Should they be against Philadelphia and they have favourable Winds, their voyage will be made in a short time, when it may be too late to obtain their [the militia] aid & to arrange them properly for defence, supposing 'em to come in. I am the more induced to recommend this measure, as the Several objects we have to attend to, necessarily oblige this Army to continue at a considerable distance from that place, till their Intentions are better understood; And as they might by a sudden and rapid push, attempt to effect some material & capital stroke, before we could get there, unless there is a respectable force to oppose 'em. . . .

JOURNAL OF THE CONTINENTAL CONGRESS¹

[Philadelphia] Friday, July 25, 1777

The Marine Committee having represented that the extravagant prices now demanded for all kinds of materials used in ship-building, and the enormous wages required by tradesmen and labourers, render the building of the ships of war already ordered by Congress not only excessively expensive, but also difficult to be accomplished at this time, and that it appears, by information lately received, that some of the frigates have been set on the stocks in improper places; Whereupon,

Resolved, That the Marine Committee be empowered to put a stop to the building of such of the continental ships of war already ordered by this Congress to be built, as they shall judge proper, and to resume the building of them again when they shall find it consistent with the interest of the United States so to do.

Congress took into consideration a report of the Marine Committee, on an application of sundry commanders in the navy; Whereupon,

Resolved, That the commanders of continental vessels of war of ten guns and upwards, be allowed 5 1/3d dollars per week, for subsistence whilst in domestick or foreign ports:

That commanders of vessels under ten guns be allowed 4 dollars per week for subsistence whilst in domestic or foreign ports:

That commanders of continental vessels of war of ten guns and upwards, be allowed, whilst at sea, 2 2/3ds dollars per week for cabin expences:

That lieutenants, surgeons, captains of marines and chaplains, be allowed 4 dollars per week subsistence in domestic ports, during such time as the ships they respectively belong to are not in condition to receive them on board:

That the Marine Committee be empowered to allow such cabin furniture for continental vessels of war as they shall judge proper:

That when agents for the United States, or any persons in authority under them, put passengers on board any continental vessel of war, they shall lay in the necessary stores for their accommodation, to prevent expense and inconvenience to the commanders.

"EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM CAPE-MAY, DATED JULY 25, 1777."¹

On Friday between the hours of one and two o'clock, P.M. came to my house Miles Henry and William Dodge, formerly belonging to the Roebuck, and made the following report from due examination, viz. They came into Carson's [Corson] Inlet, situate between the Five Miles Beach and Peck's Beach, about sun-rise, on Friday, and put into a small creek, by the name of Heake Fish, putting in at the west end of Peck's Beach, in a whale boat, under the command of Thomas Slater, and Rowland Edwards, chief pilot, with three hands, besides the two deserters; the names of the three are, William Hatch, James Herner, John Jackson; they all belonging to the brig Stanley, Richard Whitworth commander. From their information, I conceived it my indispensable duty with all possible speed, to dispatch a detachment to take the said whale boat, which detachment arrived on the west end of Peck's Beach said afternoon, about five o'clock, under the command of Major Enoch Stilwell, who by certain intrigues took the whole crew with boat, arms, &c. an account of which I here inclose.

I beg leave to inform you, by what means the two deserters made their escape: they were placed as centries, to guard the others, while they took a nap, during which they made their escape. I shall as soon as possible, immediately convey the prisoners to Philadelphia under proper guards.

N.B. Seven men completed the expedition.

An account of the arms &c. taken from the enemy on Friday, July 25, 1777.

6 muskets, 6 boarding pistols, 5 cutlasses and 1 scabbard, 6 cartridge boxes complete, 2 swivels, 1 spy glass, 1 case with ball in, a worm, sponge and rammer, 1 case with 5 bottles of powder, 1 bottle of rum and 2 empty ones, 1 priming horn, 12 swivel cartridges, 5 small bundles of musket cartridges, 1 compass, 1 whale boat, 1 sail, 6 oars.

His own Ill state of health, his second Lieut being absent, twenty Men at the Hospital, Forty Nine Sick on board, Seventeen short of Complement, (and having Buried sixteen since he left New York, twelve now in a dying state,) and Eleven Absent in Prizes; fear if she stayed longer, Her situation with regard to Her Men, would be irrecoverable, as I am informd there are many on board, not in the Sick List, with stiff Joints and swelled Limbs, which induces me to take the step I have done with great reluctance.

Her appearance, is far beyond Her Service.

Captain Squires informed me, five Frigates went into New York, as he left it, therefore am in hopes, one May be spared to reinforce this Place. . . . Since my last this Ship has taken three Prizes. . . .

ADVERTISEMENT FOR SEAMEN FOR CONTINENTAL NAVY SHIP *Ranger*¹

Encouragement for seamen.

Whereas the seamen of these States have for some time past been discouraged from entering into the navy, by thinking they have hitherto been unfairly dealt with in respect of prize money, and the regular payment of wages: Therefore, to remove all cause of future complaint, I will be answerable to every person who may enter to serve under my command, for the punctual and regular payment of wages. And I will also, with the consent and approbation of officers and men, appoint an agent for the prizes, whose duty it shall be to see the captors part sold to the best advantage, and to make punctual, just and regular payments to every person concern'd.

Every seaman in the navy is entitled to eight dollars per month wages, with an advance of forty dollars at entry on board. Every marine or landsman is entitled to six dollars & two thirds per month wages, with an advance of twenty dollars at entry on board. Every private person, who may loose a limb or be disabled in engagement, will receive two hundred dollars smart money; if kill'd, his wife or family will receive it. Every person, who may be disabled in engagement, will receive half pay during life or an allowance proportion'd to the injury sustained. The pay is extended to persons in captivity, provided they return to the service as soon as possible. The captors share one half of all merchant ships, and of all effects taken by sea or land, without resistance; they share the whole of all ships of war, & of all privateers authorized by his Britannic Majesty to war against these States. They will also receive a bounty of twenty dollars for every carriage gun then mounted, and of eight dollars per head for every man then on board and belonging to such prizes. There are ten shares set apart for the most deserving, with various Advantages, grounded upon resolves of Congress. Persons of abilities will be promoted in proportion to their diligence and merit; — and no equal encouragement can be given in privateers.

The Continental Ship of war Ranger at Portsmouth under my command is in readiness for sea. Such persons as think proper to enter, are requested to apply on board, or at the Ship's rendezvous where they will receive further information.

DR. ROBERT ROBERTSON'S OBSERVATIONS¹

[H.M.S. Juno at sea off Cape Ann and Cape Cod] On the 26th [July] a cask of molasses was taken out of a prize for each of the three ships companies, and eight casks of limes were divided among them; the Orpheus had one half of the limes, as her people were the most sickly with fever and scurvy. I got 18 bottles of small French wine for the use of the sick.

On the 28th, I put three gallons of lime juice and six of molasses in 18 gallons of rum (but, by mistake, the steward put in more rum than I directed), to be served, when diluted with water, to the scorbutic people, in the room of grog.

MINUTES OF THE EXECUTIVE COUNCIL OF NOVA SCOTIA¹

At a Council holden at Halifax on the 28th July 1777.

The Lieutenant Governor inform'd the Council, that he had receiv'd repeated Intelligence of a design being formed by the Rebels, Under the Authority of the General Congress, to invade this Province from the Eastern parts of New-England, by taking Post at St Johns River, and for that purpose, that they were with their Utmost Efforts raising Troops, and had got together Cannon and other Stores, and Ammunition, and were to employ the Alfred Armed Ship, and other Ships of the greatest Force to carry on this Expedition.

Which having been taken into Consideration the Council were of Opinion, and advised that Sir George Collier, be requested to proceed without loss of time, with the King's Ship under his Command to the bay of Fundy, together with such other Force as he shall think proper, in order to defeat the Enterprize of the Rebels, and to do whatever he on this occasion shall think most for His Majestys Service.

I have been unhappy in reflecting that I have been no less than five times baffled in the various Services, which have been pointed out for my Honor and benefit since my arrival at Boston in the Alfred, yet I mention not this as an excuse for my Silence, - I acknowledge that Silence to have been blameable. I have now the fairest Prospect of getting the Ranger completely manned – hitherto the Seamen enter even to my wish – and if Cordage and other materials can be Procured – the Ranger will be at Sea before the Raleigh as the latter is an hundred Seamen short of the complement – it is astonishing that so fine a Ship should lay by for want of Hands. – Inclosed I take the Liberty of troubling you with a Copy of my Letter of 17th Currt from hence to the Honorable Marine board – Since the Receipt of your much Esteemed letter of the 5th Feby I have ardently wished for an Opportunity of distinguishing myself in an enterprising Command, similar to my then appointment – for I agree with you that “our Infant Fleet cannot protect our own Coasts” – and therefore ought to be employ’d to draw off the Enemies attention by attacking their defenceless Places. I am persuaded that with, even the trifling Force mentioned in the within Letter, it is Practicable, to lay some of the Enemies Cities under contribution, and to do infinite damage to their shipping, I know them to be Subject to Panic under the least Surprise, and the Business probably may be effected before they have time for recollection.

I very gratefully remember, when last at Philadelphia, your kind offer of interesting yourself in my favor when any private Enterprize Should be Adopted, I could name many which in all human Probability might be effected, could we get a small Squadron together. it would give me pleasure to bear a Second or a third part in any private enterprize under the conduct of Gentlemen of superiour Abilities from whom I could receive Instruction and Improvement, at the same time I must rely on you to guard me from future Connections with illetirate Men of incapacity, but I have already gone too far. I leave my present and future destination to the Gentlemen at whose disposal I am and whoes Orders shall govern my Actions, as Servant of the Public.

I inclose a Copy of the Paper which I drew up at Philadelphia and put into the Hands of the President, if in forming a Navy System any useful hints should arise from this hasty, and incorrect Essay my end will be fully answered.² I cannot but lament that so little delicacy hath been Observed in the Appointment, and Promotion of Officers in the Sea Service – many of whom are not only grossly illetirate, but want even the Capacity of commanding Merchant Vessells. I was lately on a Court Martial where a Captain of Marines made his Mark, and where the President could not read the Oath, which he attempted to administer without Spelling and making blunders! As the Sea Officers are so Subject to be seen by foreigners, what conclusions must they draw of Americans in general from Characters so Rude & contracted.

In my Judgement the Abilities of Sea Officers ought to be as far Superiour to the abilities of Officers in the Army as the nature of a Sea Service is more complicated, and admits of a greater number of Cases than can possibly happen on the Land – therefore the discipline by Sea ought to be the more perfect and regular were it compatible with short Enlistments. . . .

GEORGE WASHINGTON TO MAJOR GENERAL ISRAEL PUTNAM¹

[Extract]

Dr Sir

4 Miles East of Flemington July 28th 1777

We have certain advises that part of the Enemy's Fleet, Viz Seventy Sail were beating off Little Egg Harbour with a Southerly wind on Saturday morning. From this Event, there seems to be but little room to doubt but that the destination is into Delaware Bay and against the City of Philadelphia. . . .

JOURNAL OF THE CONTINENTAL CONGRESS¹

[Philadelphia] Monday, July 28, 1777

Resolved, That the Marine Committee be empowered and directed to provide and get ready, with all possible expedition, ten fire ships, to be under the command of the commodore commanding in the river Delaware.

The Marine Committee, to whom was referred the petition of the lieutenants of the ships of war now in the port of Philadelphia,² reported, "That they have called in, before them, the signers of the said petition; that they acknowledged, in the most explicit manner, that the offence for which they were dismissed is highly reprehensible, and could not be justified under any circumstances or on any pretence whatever, and that they were exceeding sorry for the rashness which betrayed them into such behaviour;" Whereupon,

Resolved, That the said lieutenants be restored to their former rank and command.

Intelligence

Mr Currie Justice of the Peace in Passamaquoddy informs that the General Congress of North America had been frequently petition'd by the disaffected part of the Inhabitants of the Province of Nova Scotia for Forces to invade the said Province & that they would find them ready to join & assist them to the utmost of their Power, In consequence of which the Congress had taken the same into Consideration & had given Orders to the General Court of the Massachusetts State, to take every Step in their Power as soon as possible, to raise Forces to invade the said Province of Nova Scotia, & that whatever Steps they took relative thereto, would be approved of by them; that they had already Ordered a Regiment to be rais'd between Falmouth in Casco Bay in New England, & St John's in this Province, to get as many Volunteers as possible who are to be in the pay of the General Congress. – Two recruiting Officers were at Passamaquoddy 8 or 9 Days ago for that Purpose, but are return'd again into New England, they had with them the Resolves of the General Court of the Massachusetts State, which was that they were to pursue the most vigorous Measures. – That the arm'd Ship Alfred was expected every day at Machias, with Cannon, Arms, Ammunition & Stores of all Kinds, calculated to put into Execution the intended invasion of this Province, & in particular that she was to bring in her Hold Fourteen Pieces of Cannon, Vizt Ten 6 Pdrs, Two 9 Pdrs, & two 12 Pdrs to be landed at St John's to fortify the entrance of the River in Order to establish a Post & to prevent any of His Majestys Ships from going in; That Machias was to be fortified & the Grand Magazine establish'd there, & to be as a Place of Rendezvous for their Ships.

As many arm'd Ships & Vessels of private Property as can possibly be procured are to accompany the Alfred, which are to be in the pay of the General Congress, during the time they are employed, on that Service, or against the Province of Nova Scotia; – That when the Cannon &c landed at Machias & St John's they are to proceed & invest Fort Cumberland, in their way Collecting all the disaffected of the Province in Order to make further incursions into the Country, to be assisted by the Indians of which they have a great Number in their favor, having for some time had Agents and French Houses fix'd in different Parts in order to tamper with, & inveigle them over to their Interest.

On my leaving Passamaquoddy was inform'd by one Chaffey (an Old England Man who left Machias Tuesday the 15th Inst) that the Inhabitants there were looking out & expecting the Arrival of the arm'd Ships & Vessels before mention'd every Moment; that they had got intelligence by Letter that the Troops were already Embarked & intended for Machias, & that they purposed fortifying the place which at present is in a very defenceless State & without Provisions or Supplies of any kind.

Mr Bell (A Scotch Merchant) informs he left Piscataway about 3 Weeks since, that they were in a very defenceless State having only 2 or 3 Guns mounted in any of their Fortifications & without Men to work them; that the Booms, Rafts &c were quite destroyed by the Tide, the Inhabitants in General & friends to Government were every day wishing for the Arrival of the Kings Ships & Troops, & says it is the General Opinion that it would be easily taken with a very small Force. – Only one Frigate in the Harbor without any Men, & only a few Guns on board.

Boston. – much in the same State, the People in general both in Town & Country wishing for the Kings Ships & Troops to arrive there. – At Newberry Two Frigates. – He also informs that the Frigates commanded by Manly & Mc Neal are said to be gone to cruize in the Bay of Chaleurs in the Gulph of St Laurence, in order to intercept our Ships going up to Quebec, & that it was strongly reported they had already taken One with Troops on board.

And further that just before he left Piscataway Accounts had arriv'd that General Burgoyne had beseig'd Ticonderogo, & had taken all their Magazines of Stores & Provisions at a place called Otter Creek, 30 Miles below Ticonderogo, & that the Rebels were in the greatest Consternation. Certain Intelligence. – That a Person call'd Pedro a Canadian in the Habit of an Indian, who is a small Siz'd Man, with Grey Eyes & a very down look, Speaks English & French, three different Tongues in the Indian Language, is sent into the Province of Nova Scotia by General Washington as a Spy, is much in favor & highly Caress'd by him, is now up St John's River, & who frequently passes between this Province & Philadelphia, by Land in the Space of eight Days, with intelligence to & from Genl Washington. –

“EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM HALIFAX, NOVA SCOTIA, JULY 29”¹

The Hope and Galbraith, armed schooners, which have been stationed up the Bay of Funday, have been very successful in their cruizes there, having taken a number of small craft from New-England, with part of the cargoes of the prizes their privateers had carried in there, and which they were sending to the other provinces, the Massachusetts being over stocked with prize goods; we here have had a glut of them, insomuch that we have sent several ships laden, entirely with them, to England, there being no vent for them here. Our cruizers have been remarkable successful in taking of prizes; but in no instance more than in taking the Hancock, and retaking the Fox. Manly, and some of the prisoners, have been sent to New-York; several of those on board the Hancock have been suffered to enter into the navy, as they were forced to go on board at Boston, whither they were carried in, in the English prizes, taken by the Americans. As the prize-money for great part has been paid here, money was pretty plenty, and trinkets and cloathing sold well, and we seemed alive; indeed, being the only dock-yard belonging to the crown, we daily have visitors from the fleet, for stores or repairs. We had some disturbances on the back of the province, but, like a fire made of straw, it blazed, and then went out. Just as I am writing this letter, two prizes are coming into the harbour, large ships, and are said to be taken by the Milford frigate, which has been the most successful ship in the whole fleet.

CAPTAIN JOHN PAUL JONES TO LIEUTENANT ELIJAH HALL ¹

Sir

Portsmouth July 29th 1777.

As I learn from you, that the Seamen who have enter'd for the Ranger for One Cruize expect to receive an Advance of Forty dollars and that the Landsmen expect to receive an Advance of Twenty dollars as mentioned, in the hand Bills, and as I would by no means deceive any Man, who has Enter'd or may Enter to serve under my Command, it is proper that you should inform them, that at the time when Congress agreed to that Advance, there was no intention of Entering Men except for three Years, during the War, or One year at least. —

Yet as I consider myself under an Obligation to those Men, who have so Cheerfully entered, it being a proof of their good Opinion of me, I would at my own risque give them Orders on the Agent here, for the above Advance or for such part of it as they may find really necessary, payable at the time of their departure from this Continent under my command for which they are to be accountable to me at Settlement. I wish to see every person about me happy and contented but upon enquirey I am convinced that this would be contrary to the Rules of Congress and therefore hurtful to the Service.

I will however besides the Bounty give an Order on the Agent or paymaster of the Navy for the punctual payment of half the Monthly wages to every person Under my Command who may leave Wives or Attornies behind them to receive it in their absence as it afterwards becomes due provided they enter for the Term of Twelve Months. — Otherwise I am Authorized to Advance no more than one Months pay besides Slops to persons who enter only for one Cruise, — I wish to See every person About me happy and Contented — and will do every thing in my power to make them So — the conditions of the hand Bills will be strictly complied with & I am Sir, [&c.]

TRIAL AND CONDEMNATION IN MASSACHUSETTS MARITIME COURT OF THE PRIZE BRIGANTINE Littleton ¹

State of the Massachusetts Bay }
Middle District, Suffolk ss }

At the Maritime Court for the middle District of the State of the Massachusetts Bay holden, at Boston in the County of Suffolk, by the Honourable Nathan Cushing Esquire Judge of said Court, on Tuesday the twenty ninth Day of July in the Year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and seventy seven

Be it remembered That on the twenty third Day of June in the Year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and seventy seven, Gabriel Johonnot and William Mackay both of Boston in the County of Suffolk and State aforesaid, in Behalf of John Manley and Hector McNeil, Commanders of the Continental Ships Hancock & Boston, and the Officers, Marines and Mariners on board the said Ships, and all concerned therein, the said Ships being in the Service of the united States of America, came before the said Judge and filed a Libel exhibiting an Information, to wit, that the said Manley and McNeil and their Crews in the said Ships, on the high Seas, on the twenty ninth Day of May last, attacked and took and, on the fourteenth Day of the same June, brought into the Harbour of Boston in said District, the Brigantine named the Littleton, of about eighty Tons Burthen, commanded by William Johnston and laden with the Articles in the Schedule to said Libel annexed, and the said Johonnot & Mackay, in their said Bill, aver'd that the said Brigantine, her Cargo and appurtenances were, at the Time of said Capture [sic capture], the Property of and belonging to some of the Subjects of the King of Great Britain other than the Inhabitants of Bermuda, New Providence or the Bahama Islands; and that the said Brigantine was then employed by the Enemies of the united States of America and carrying Supplies to said Enemies; by Means of all which, and by Force of the Laws of this State & the Resolves of the Continental Congress in such Case provided, the said Brigantine her Cargo and appurtenances (the Proponants further said) are forfeited and to be distributed as aforesaid—Praying advisement in the Premisses, and that by a due Course of Proceedings, the same Brigantine her Cargo & appurtenances may be decreed to be & remain forfeit and distributed as the Law directs.

And the Time and Place of Trial having been duely notified, the said Gabriel Johonnot and William Mackay, by William Tudor, Esqr, appear and no Person appearing to show Cause why the said Brigantine with her Cargo & appurtenances should not be condemned.

After a full Hearing of the said Proponants (by their Counsel) their Bill aforesaid is committed to a Jury duely returned and impannelled and sworn to return a true Verdict thereon according to Law & Evidence. Which Jury are William Thompson, Thomas Tileston, Edward Brick, Elisha Gardner, John Curtice, George Woods, Phineas Pain, Samuel Henshaw, Thomas Parker, Francis Archbald, John Bennet, Benjamin Cudworth. Who return their Verdict to the said Judge and upon their Oath say “that the said Brigantine was a Merchant Vessell that she was taken by the Capts John Manley and Hector McNeill commanders of the Continental Ships Hancock and Boston and their respective Companies and brought into the middle District of this State, that the said Brigantine, Appurtenances and Cargo were at the Time of Capture the Property of and in the Employ of some of the Subjects of the King of Great Britain, other than the Inhabitants of Bermudas, new Providence or Bahama Islands.”

attest Isaac Mansfield cler[k]

And thereupon, It is, by the said Nathan Cushing Judge as aforesaid, considered and decreed that the said Brigantine Littleton with her Cargo and appurtenances are forfeit, that the same be sold at public Vendue; and that of the Monies thence arising, there be paid the Charges of Trial and Condemnation being nine pounds two shillings and one peny, and the Charges of Sale, and the Wages of the Seamen & Mariners who were taken on board said Brigantine according to the Terms of their Contract, up to the Time of her Condemnation (such Wages as have been advanced & paid to the Seamen & Mariners by the said William Johnston late Master of said Brigantine out of his own Monies, to be paid to him together with his own Wages, and the arrears of the Seamens & Mariners Wages to be paid them severally); and that the Residue of the Monies arising from the Sale aforesaid, be delivered to the Captors aforesaid, their agents or attornies, for the Use and Benefit of such Captors & others concerned therein . . .

. . . General Washington is coming this way with his forces some of which are actually in this City already. Howe's fleet are off the Capes 250 sail. I should not wonder if he tried to draw the General even to Virginia and then pushed for New England, that great object of Ministerial malice. I expect he will do this or make a quick return up North river. I shall not believe he will now come here; he must attempt it before he leaves America; but he may match much better opportunities than the present. I think he ought now to alarm your Sea-coast, while Burgoyne is on the Frontiers. Two or three days will determine the matter. . .

RICHARD LORD HOWE¹

My Lord,

I am sorry to acquaint your Lordship that on the 7th of June last, I was taken in His Majesty's Ship Fox (which I then commanded) by two American Ships, sixty Leagues South-East from Cape Race Newfoundland; the particulars of which I herewith enclose You.

I was retaken in the Hancock by His Majesty's Ship Rainbow, as was the Fox by the Flora. The Boston escaped, and should she unfortunately get into any of the Rebel Ports, I hope your Lordship will take the earliest opportunity of getting my Officers (who are all onboard the Boston) released, as I then may have an opportunity of having my Conduct inquired into. I have the honor to be My Lord [&c.]

NARRATIVE OF CAPTAIN ANDREW SNAPE HAMOND ¹[Roebuck, off the Delaware Capes, July 31, 1777]

The whole Fleet consisting of 250 Sail left New York with a northerly wind, which lasted them only a few hours, so that it was the 31st before they reached the Mouth of the Delaware. I had been apprized of their coming and stood out to Sea to meet them, when a consultation was held between the Admiral & the General on the expediency of landing the Troops up the Delaware, or whether they should proceed on to Chesapeake Bay with the Fleet, and land the Army at the head of it in the N Et branch. The Arguements used against the Delaware were chiefly, that as General Washington, by the long passage of the Fleet from New York, had got his Army over the Delaware before the Fleet arrived, great opposition was expected to be given to the Troops at landing at Newcastle or Wilmington the places intended. That the Enemy expecting the Fleet to come into the River had made uncommon preparations to annoy the Men of War & Transpts with Fire Ships & fire rafts, and had besides a considerable number of Row Gallies, Xebecs & Floating Batterys, which in the Narrow Navigation & rapid tides of the River might do great damage among the Transports: that by going to the Head of Chesepack Bay the Troops would be put ashore without any molestation, have time to recover the Horses after the fatigue of the Voyage before they entered on Service, and where the Transports could remain in perfect security for any length of time that might be found necessary. In the Delaware you was expected, and the Enemy was in force & had made preparations to receive you; In Chesepack Bay you was not expected, the Enemy could throw no obstructions in your way and it increased the distance to Philadelphia only 17 Miles.

As I was present at this conversation I could not help expressing my surprize at the bare mention of Chesepack Bay, upon which my Ld H (in confidence) told me "that the General's wishes & intentions were first to destroy the magazines at York & Carlisle before he attacked the Rebel Army or looked towards Philadelphia; and therefore it was of a great object to get to westward of the Enemy."

As I had for some time past reason to expect the Armament was intended against Philadelphia, and had of course made some preparations for the guidance of the Fleet up the River, I could not help contending for the propriety of pushing up as far as they might go with perfect safety from any thing that was to be apprehended from the Enemy. I confessed that carrying all the Fleet as high as Newcastle would subject them to insult & danger from the Enemy's Row Gallies & fire Vessels, but that by advancing the Men of War only to Newcastle, the Transports would be perfectly secure at Reedy Island. The Admiral I think seemed to incline to the Delaware, but the General saying "he was from the beginning for making the landing in Chesepack Bay", and the wind at that time being quite favorable for going to the Southward, the resolution was accordingly taken; but not untill the Quarter Master General was consulted as to the State of the Forage who reported, that sufficient remained for 14 days.

SUMMARY

A letter written from Dublin in July noted: "Our trade with Waterford, Corke, Belfast, and Derry, is entirely at a stand, in consequence of the swarms of American privateers which infest our coast." Similar cries of alarm and pleas for convoy protection came from other port cities in Ireland, England and Scotland.

While all American raiders were called privateers, a three ship Continental Navy squadron, with Captain Lambert Wickes as senior officer, was wreaking particular havoc on British merchant shipping.

Gustavus Conyngham was once again at sea from Dunkerque in the newly outfitted Continental Navy cutter Revenge. Silas Deane wrote to Robert Morris that Conyngham's exploits had made him "the terror of all the Eastern Coast of England & Scotland."

The Royal Navy countered the serious American assault on Britain's trade by increasing the number of patrol areas and ships assigned to search, capture, or destroy missions. This stepped-up effort had its effect. Mill Prison at Plymouth, and Forton Prison, Portsmouth, received increasing numbers of rebel seamen.

Increasing use of French ports by American armed vessels, and the presence of their prizes in those ports, led to a storm of protests by Lord Stormont, British Ambassador to France. To give the appearance of responding positively to English complaints, King Louis XVI issued edicts restricting American activities in the ports of his kingdom. As a consequence, prizes began to be diverted to Spain.

The American Commissioners in Paris, considering the current political climate, ordered the Reprisal, Wickes, and Lexington, Captain Henry Johnson, to sail for the United States. But two days out of Morlaix on his homeward passage, Johnson encountered H.M. cutter Alert. After a close hot engagement Lexington surrendered, and Captain Johnson was sent a prisoner to Mill Prison.

SILAS DEANE TO JOSEPH HYNSON¹

Sir,

You will receive herewith Letters for Mr Eyries &c at Havre du Grace which on your arrival deliver; if the Anonyme, is gone, you will loose no Time, in following her to Nantes, and on your going on board take a Careful Inventory of her Stores, inquire her Age, & Ascertain her just Value which You are immediately to send Me an Account of, leaving the Copy, of the Letter You may write, with Mr Williams of Nantes that he may forward a duplicate of it to Me, in case the original fail – Mr Williams will procure a Cargo for the Anonyme in which you will embark, as a passenger for the West Indies to which she must appear to be destin'd, but before you sail the Captn must sign Orders to be directed by You in every thing You will stand as far North as to fall in with Portsmouth in New Hampshire if possible, & make the first safe port to the East of Rhode Island unless by speaking with any American or others you receive advice to the Contrary. You are to be very cautious, who you speak to at Sea, & avoid speaking with them if possible – should you be drove off the New England Coast either by Contrary Winds or the Enemy, advise you, to endeavor for North or South Carolina, & on your Arrival, deliver the Letters given you to the persons to whom they are directed and attend their Orders Wishing you all possible Success I am Sir [&c.]

Silas Deane

Paris 1st June 1777

P.S. You are to be particularly careful that no Lettr or paper, fall into the hands of the Enemy, to prevent which keep the whole always ready for sinking in Case of Accident, Your Journey being altered for Nantes, you will attend the above Instructions excepting what relates immediately to Havre –²

JONATHAN WILLIAMS, JR., TO COMMITTEE OF CORRESPONDENCE
IN ANY STATE¹

Gentlemen

Nantes June 1. 1777.

Being appointed by the Honble The Commissioners of the United States at Paris to receive and dispatch all Expresses coming from and going to america, I have the honour to send you by the Mere Bobie Capt Charles Gluyo de la Cheonaye sundry Letters & packets which will be delivered to you in a leaden Box under my Seal. As the Gentleman who has contracted to furnish these Packet Boats is to provide one every month, I hope in that time to send you another; I therefore beg leave to observe that the one following may bring the answers to the present dispatches, and so on in course. I mention this at the desire of the Gentleman that there may be as little detention as possible, but of this you are the best judges, and as in these operations the public Service is the great object, whatever measures are most proper will of course be taken.

If the Vessell arrives in Boston she will come to the address of my Father, if at Philadelphia to Richard Bache Esqr, if in another port I must beg the favour of you to deliver the inclosed Letter to some merchant in whom you have confidence for the Sale of her Cargoe, and the purchase of one in return; I have given the necessary directions as to dispatch that she may be ready to return as soon as you shall please to order.

Exclusive of the Cargo on Accot of the proprietor I have shipped twenty Bales of Broad Cloth &c agreeable to the inclosed Invoice and Bill of Lading, which are to be secured on accot of Congress and disposed of as they shall order. The Invoice expresses only the Number of Bales because I have not the particular accot of their contents, they come to me at different Times and as they arrive here I am to ship them in such ways as circumstances will permit.

I have the honour to be with the greatest Respect Gentlemen [&c.]

JONATHAN WILLIAMS, JR., TO JONATHAN WILLIAMS, SR.¹

Hond Sir

Nantes June 1. 1777 -

This will be handed to you by Captain Charles Gluyola Cheonaye of the Mere Bobie who come to America with public Dispatches. The Cargoe on board agreeable to the Inclosed Invoice is to your address to be sold as soon as possible for Ready Money only and the amount to be Returnd in the same Vessell if it is possible to vest it in any Goods that will answer this Market or (in failure of such goods) in hard money - The best articles are Tobacco, Rice, Indigo Flaxseed Beaver, and furs of other Kind, Bees wax Cotton, hides Deerskins Calf & mutton do Starch, salt Pork, Mohagony, cow horns Deer horns Ivory and any other Articles that will probably answer this Market &c &c I fear it will be difficult to find such Articles with us at a price that will answer, as the best of them Tobacco &c must come with as much hazard to Boston as to Europe, but some of them perhaps may be found with you from the prizes that have been brot into our port - I am desired to limit the price but at this distance it is almost imposible you have however a price current at foot which may serve as some Regulation. if you cannot load her in Return to advantage observing to keep her in the best trim for sailing and to give her the Utmost dispatch put on board her as many white Oak Staves for hogsheds pipes &c of the best quality that can be procured, as she will contain and indeed if you put other goods on board, whatever Surplus room there may be may be so fill'd up. the Staves must be fitt for water and wine casks and not for dry hogsheds - The Gentn who owns this cargo is Monsieur Le Ray de Chaumont a Very Rich Merchant at Paris who has the American cause much at heart – and has on Various Occasions given us very Important assistance Doctor Franklin lives in one of his houses and Looks upon him as one of his best Friends besides which I myself have personally Received very great civilities from him and hope to Reap great advantage from his acquaintance and the Kind partiality he has honor'd me with. for these Reasons I cannot too strongly Recommend your most particular Attention to his Interest and the greatest possible dispatch

I have written to the [Secret] Committee on this Subject² and agreeable to Mr Chaumont desire have observ'd that as Regular packets are in future to be dispatch'd once a month the answer to these Letters this brings may be Return'd in the one that shall follow and this Plan once Enter'd upon each packet boat need be detain'd but a short time in port. all the Cargoes in the future packet boats I shall likewise address to you if they arrive in Boston if in any other Port I shall direct the surplus money to be Remitted to you which you will keep ready to dispose of according to what future orders you may Receive –

Mr Chaumont Intentions is if he can to have in Return all his Interest, because he can at any time place what he pleases in America but if he cant have all in Return his Next Intention is at least to have the first cost in Return and what ever Profit there may be to remain in your hands and at some future time he may give orders for the purchase of some Lands of which you shall be accordingly Notify'd

I have been lucky Enough to gain some Reputation among the people here for accuracy in Accots and Knowledge in Business for this Reson I beg that this Business may be managed in the true merchantile form, proper Sales of the cargo, Invoices of the Returns, and Regular Accts of what surpluss may Remain in case the Vessell should Arrive in Phila I have Consign'd her to Mr Beache [Richard Bache] if in any other Port I have left the Consignment to who Ever the Committee shall appoint and have written a General Letter.³ if she arrives in Boston please to apply for and Receive this Letter – if she should arrive in any of our Eastern Ports please to send down Instructions

PACKET *Mere Bobie*¹

General Rules to be observed in conducting to America vessels carrying dispatches for the Congress.

1. All the Papers, Commissions, Orders &c ought to be Made out for St Pierre de Miquelon. And no one on board Except the Captain and officers should know anything to the Contrary:

2. Speaking with any Vessel should if possible be avoided, without however going too far out of the proper course. There would be no great danger in communicating with Vessels encountered on the European Coast, but any pretext might serve for detention, and it is infinitely better to avoid this inconvenience. Nevertheless if it proves impossible, the Captain should show his clearance papers and instructions for St Pierre de Miquelon and not permit himself to be searched or detained, his Vessel being French and bound for a French Island.

3. The ships course must be directed towards the coast of New England to enter if possible into the Ports of Boston, Portsmouth, or Newberry, but carefully to avoid Rhode Island and the Ports of New London. As soon as a Vessel has entered one of the above named ports notice of her arrival must be given to the Committee of the place, the dispatches and cargo delivered, and orders awaited to return.

4. If a Vessel is chased on the New England Coast by an English Warship of superior force, the commander must gain the open sea towards the South and make sail for Virginia or the Carolinas, observing in the same manner on Arriving in any port whatsoever what was prescribed for the ports of Boston and New England. If about to be boarded by the English all Letters for Congress or the States must be thrown into the Sea.

5. If in danger of being boarded near Land it would be very prudent to throw overboard all the fresh water, and to plead the necessity of watering as the reason for Running into the first port. Circumstances may offer other similar excuses which should not be Neglected.

Signed on behalf of the representatives of Congress.

Jon^a Williams Jun^r

I acknowledge having received from Mr Jonathan Williams the orders of which what is herein written is a True Copy – and to which I promise and bind myself to conform.

BENJAMIN FRANKLIN AND SILAS DEANE TO JOHN JAY ¹

Dear Sir

Dunkirk [sic Paris] ² 2nd June 1777 -

We refer the Committee to ours to You of the 26th ulto of which we sent Duplicates, should either arrive, but apprehensive of the Contrary, we send You the Substance in this. The Brittish Commerce in Europe, especially in the North, is unguarded, the Greenland Whale Fishery & the Hudsons Bay Shippis in particular. Could two or three of our Frigates accompanied by lesser swift sailing Cruisers get into those Seas in the Months of August or September, a valuable part of the Commerce of our Enemies might be interrupted. As Tobacco Rice &c are in great Demand in France & Remittances wanted, we submit to the Congress the sending out some of their Frigates loaded with these articles for Nantes or Bourdeaux, and whilst their Cargoes were disposed of, they might refresh themselves, & make a Cruise against the Enemy. The Coast of England to the West is unguarded either by Land or Sea. The Frigates capable of landing five hundred Men might destroy several of their Towns, which would alarm and shake the Nation to the Center, whilst the Ships might fly and take refuge in the Ports of France or Spain, but suppose the worst, that they are intercepted in their Retreat, the inevitable Consequences of so bold an attempt will be sufficiently injurious to justify the measure. But this must be done by a Coup De Main, and there can be no great apprehension of any Difficulty in retreating, since by means of the daily Intercourse between the two Kingdoms we might know the exact Situation of the brittish Fleet and Commerce in the different Ports, and never attempt until we had a fixed object in view, and were masters of every Circumstance. The Ship building at Amsterdam will be near as strong as a 74 and may join the Squadron in the Months of February or March. The East India [fleet] will be returning to St Helens, & there waiting for a Convoy, which is a single man of war. Three Frigates on that Station might effect a most prodigious affair, and if they first came to Europe as in the [course] of trade, it would be much less suspected, as they might set out from a Harbour here, and not be supposed for any other Route, but that of going directly for america. We have no more to add, than that 4000 Hanoverians are on their march for Stade to embark for america. We are [&c.]

SILAS DEANE TO JOSEPH-MATTHIAS GÉRARD DE RAYNEVAL ¹

Sir

Paris 2d June 1777

I had the honor of writing You Yesterday respecting Capt [John] Adams, of Boston, whose Vessel was sunk on the Coast of Bell Isle by an English man of War since which I have received intelligence that Three 74 Gun Shippes & one 64, are sailed, to cruise in the Bay of Biscay, their names are the Hector, Essex, Egmont & Exeter; permit me to remind You, that from what You did me the honor of telling Me some time since, I was pleased with the hopes of seeing a Fleet at Sea sufficient to check the insolence of Our Enemies, & even to make some diversion in favor of Our Commerce; may I still hope for it? Or am I to see the reverse? To see the Enemies of America, (and God knows they are not the Friends of France), extend themselves the whole length of Your Coast, intercept a Commerce equally beneficial to both Countries, as to detain, & even make prize of Vessels belonging to the Subjects of France, only because they were supposed to have Stores on board for America, – which is the Case with the Seine now detained in Dominica – forgive Me Sir, I will trouble You no farther, but must ask an Opportunity, of waiting on his Excellency, to represent to him, in the true Light, many things, which are of the last importance, and the situation & appearance of which, gives me more inquietude than it is in the power of Language to express. I have the honor to remain with the Utmost respect Sir [&c.]

S Deane

P.S. Since writing the foregoing I have seen a Captn from Nantes an American who says that Capt Adams was chased by an English Man of War. That finding he could not escape he attempted to run his Vessel on shore, but the Man of War got between him, & the Land, & took him within a very small distance from Shore, & the report was that taking out the People he sunk her. Letters from London mention the Same thing so that I have no doubt of the Truth of it. Captn [Henry] Johnson; going out of Bordeaux, was chased before he was out of sight of the Tower but escaped.

I have seen Mr [Ferdinand] Grand this Moment who has greatly alarmed Me; he says that his Excellency told him to tell Me, that I had been ill advised, & was betrayed, but did not inform Me in what. With respect to the Cutter at Dunkirk, I mean that last purchased, in which individuals are interested, I can only say that I advised my Freinds to get her away as quick, & as silently as possible, & to stand directly off the Coast, & on no Consideration, permit her, to return to France or near Any of its Ports. if I shall be instructed to give better advice I shall most readily do it & I doubt not, my advice will be attended to, but the owners have already expended Two Thousand pounds Sterling in the purchase & repairs, which they cannot afford to loose. I hoped farther that Capt Cunningham [Gustavus Conyngham] & his People might get a passage in her, to their Own Country, where they may be usefull. I hope at least they may be dismiss'd from Prison, & be permitted to depart in such manner as they can, though if they disperse, there will be danger of their not returning, & consequently of Our loosing a Number of brave, and honest Subjects. I can only add, that I am ready to follow most exactly the advice which shall be given Me, on this, & every other Occasion by his Excellency, but am at an uncertainty, what to do untill more explicitly informed.

Having laid before my Lords Commrs of the Admiralty your letter of the 27th ultimo, acquainting them, by Lord George Germain's Directions, with the Information his Lordship had received respecting a Brigantine fitting out at Amsterdam, to be laden with Arms & Ammunition for the Rebels in North America; I am commanded to acquaint you, for his Lordships' Information, that if it is His Majesty's pleasure that Orders be given to the Captains of His Majesty's Cruizers to intercept the Brigantine above-mentioned, it is necessary to be exceedingly particular in the Description of her, as otherwise it will certainly occasion the examining many Dutch ships, and probably the bringing some into Port that may not prove to be the Ship in Question, which will not only interrupt the Voyage of such Ship, but expose the Captains of the Cruizers who bring them in, to heavy Damages for so doing.² I am &ca

JOURNAL OF SAMUEL CUTLER¹

[Mill Prison, Plymouth]

June 3, Tuesday. Fifth remove. Nine Americans – myself included in the number – sent on shore to the Fountain tavern for examination. We were escorted by seven soldiers and four midshipmen – before three justices at the above tavern, appointed on purpose to examine the prisoners. After four hours examination together, and separately, we were delivered to two constables and seven soldiers, to be committed to Mill Prison for high treason.

At 4 P.M., 3d June, 1777 I arrived at Mill Prison within quarter a mile of Plymouth town (?). There are four prisons all together. We are all committed to the largest – 132 feet by 23 – without any distinction, officers, people and negroes all in the same room. We are treated worse than the French were last war in these prisons. We are debarred pens, ink, paper, rope, candles, &c. No person is allowed to come into the outer yard to speak to us. We have no communications with any person except Mr. Cowdry, the prison keeper, and the turnkey. Cowdry is as great a tyrant as any in England, and uses us with the greatest severity. Our allowance is $\frac{3}{4}$ lb. beef, 1 lb. bread, 1 qt. very ordinary beer, and a few greens per man for 24 hours. The beef when boiled weighs about 6 oz. This is our allowance daily, except Saturday, when we have 6 oz. cheese instead of the beef. To sleep upon, we have a hammock, straw bed, and one very thin rug.²

JOSIAH SMITH TO BENJAMIN FRANKLIN¹

Honoured Sir

London June 4th 1777

I was born in the State of Massachusetts Bay and educated in the University at Cambridge, where I commenced in 1774 from which time I applyed myself to the Study of Physic & Surgery till January 1777, when I took Passage in the Ship Montgomery of Newbury Port bound to Bordeaux. But on the 14th of March Just as we were verging upon the Coast of Europe, we had the misfortune' to be chased & taken by King George's Ship Albion of 74 guns; ours being a merchant Ship laden with Masts Spars, &c: We were sent into Plymouth & there closely confined without the least distinction or difference to rank or title; and part of the time on short allowance. And after being divested of every thing (except our clothing) even to the little money which I had in my pockets and after much difficulty I obtained my liberty at the expiration of two months; and this by virtue of my being a passenger and their expecting that for this indulgence I should enter into their service. The ship's company after losing all their wages & adventures were turned over to other ships & compelled to do duty; and though they resolutely swore that they were subjects of the United States & beged to be sent to prison with those of their countrymen taken in arms, yet were compelled to serve the king –

I have been at liberty about three weeks, and when I left Plymouth there were about 200 of my country men, prisoners there; and as many more at Portsmouth; the former of which I frequently visited; and informing them that I should go directly to France, they begged of me to represent their situation to your Honour. This I promised to do; as well as many other matters, which nothing but the want of a convenient opportunity prevents my fulfilling – What principally astonishes our many friends here in England is: that thousands of British seamen should be allowed to return to England, at pleasure, to man the King's navy, while hundreds of Americans are kept here in close confinement on short allowance!

I hoped to have got a passage directly to France, but cannot at present; therefore I propose proceeding to Bilboa in a Spanish vessel which sails in about 6 days. And from thence (unless a good opportunity presents there, to go home in an armed vessel) I expect to come to Bordeaux. I want much to inform your Honour of the situation of affairs here. Before I left America the Revd Doctor Cooper, of Boston, was good enough [to] recommend me to you by a letter, which I destroyed with a number of others the day on which we were taken. I have been in my Country's service by sea, & as I am now entirely destitute in a place where I have no relations, if your Honour could help me to a Surgeon's berth in some cruiser, that I may support myself till I can get to America, or help me in any other way I should esteem it a great favour. There is a gentleman Capt'n [Francis] Brown lately commander of a privateer, & had just escaped, who would be glad of like assistance, he is coming to Bilboa with me; he was taken going to France –² If upon receiving this your Honour would despatch a line directed to the care of Mr Gardoqui, Merchant in Bilboa, that I may receive it upon my arrival there, it might do me the most essential service – if I was in suitable circumstances I should, without delay, do myself the honour of waiting upon you in person. I am your Honours [&c.]

A Letter from a Gentleman, who came home Passenger in the Swan, Captain Meadows, from New York, dated Corke, May 25, 1777, has the following:

At Baltimore there is a Congress Frigate of 30 Guns, called the Virginia, and nearly manned. . . . There is also another Frigate of 20 Guns, and several Privateers, ready for Sea; but want Seamen.

At Philadelphia there were three fine Frigates, one called the Washington, of 36 Guns; the Effingham of 32; and the Delaware of 28; besides a Number of Row Gallies, two floating Batteries, three hundred Fire-rafts, and two Fire-ships, in order to prevent the English Men of War from passing the Chevaux des Frize. The City of Philadelphia is defenceless on the Land Side.

“EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM GUERNSEY, JUNE 5.”¹

An American Privateer of twelve Guns came into this Road Yesterday Morning; tacked about on the firing of the Guns from the Castle, and just off the Island took a large Brig bound for this Port, which they have since carried into Cherburgh. She had the Impudence to send her Boat in the Dusk of the Evening to a little Island off here, called Jetto, and unluckily carried off the Lieutenant of Northey's Independent Company here, with the Garrison Adjutant, who were shooting Rabbits for their Diversion. Two Gentlemen of Consequence are gone to Cherburgh to demand them. The poor Pilferers got nothing but six or seven little Guinea Pigs made into a pye for the Gentlemens Dinner, and a few Bottles of Claret, though the Brig they took is valued at 7000 l. belonging to Squire Tupper.

My Lord

[Admiralty Office] 6th June 1777

My Lords Commissrs of the Admiralty having receiv'd Intelligence that two French Ships were fitting out on the 21st of last Month either at Marseilles or Toulon, (believed to be at the former) that they were to be purchas'd or at least freighted by Mr Deane, to be laden with different sorts of Goods for the use of the Rebels; were to mount Vizt one 18 Guns, the other only 12 or 14 though she will be pierc'd for 20, that the largest is about 400 Tons, the other about 340, that they will be mann'd with French Sailors, carry French Colours, and clear out for some of the West India Islands, but that their real destination was new England, with a liberty however, to make any safe Port in No America; that they will carry double Commissions, an ostensible and a secret one, that there will be on board each Ship a French Captain and one with a Commission from the Congress, that one [Joseph] Hynson is to have the direction of the expedition, that the other it is believ'd will be a Frenchman by birth, but in the Service of the Congress & bearing their Commission;² that there will be 12 brass Mortars put on board Hynson's Vessel which is the largest of the two; that Hynson was to receive his Instructions from Mr Deane on the 22d ulto and to set out immediately from Paris to Marseilles, but that as the Ships had not then taken in their lading, it would be some Weeks before they could put to Sea; I am commanded by my Lords to communicate the above Intelligence to your Lordship, in order that you may order your Cruizers to keep a good look out for the said Ships and to seize them in case they should appear upon the Coast of No America; and I am at the same time to acquaint your Lordship that Hynson the Person above mention'd is (as appears by a Description their Lordships have had of him upon another occasion) a lusty black looking Man, and that, tho' perhaps he may endeavor to disguise himself, he must be easily discover'd, having strong marks of an English Seaman, and that there is reason to believe that the discovery once made will lead to every other & unravel the whole iniquitous Project, as he, if once taken, may be easily induced or compelled to tell all he knows. JOURNAL OF CHARLES HERBERT¹

[Royal Hospital, Plymouth]

[1777. June] 4. As we were discharged yesterday, and the boat did not come for us, we were again put upon cazzelteers and draw only a quart of milk, and a half pound of bread. Today is the King's birth-day, and there is great firing of cannon, and chiming of bells, in Dock and Plymouth. This morning about three o'clock, another prisoner died of small-pox – the same person who jumped from the window, as before mentioned. He was taken in the privateer sloop Charming Sally. After he was dead, his coffin was brought, which proved to be near six inches too short. But rather than have another made, they jammed him into that, in a most shocking manner.

5. This morning early, the boat came for us and twelve of us went on board and were carried along side the Blenheim, to which ship our company, and that of Captain [Francis] Brown, had been removed since we went on shore. Four of the twelve that were in the boat belonged to the captain's crew.² They were put on board the Blenheim, but the rest of us were carried on shore again, and guarded to the Fountain Tavern, to be tried by the judges; for that is the place where they sit. We were put into a small room, surrounded by a guard, and having eat nothing through the day, were very weak; so we got the soldiers to boil us a little meat, which we had obtained at the hospital. After this, we were all called up before the judges and examined. They asked each of us in what province we had been born, and whether or not we had a commission from Congress? At what time we entered on board the Dolton? Whether we were taken by the Reasonable [H.M.S. Raisnable]? To each of their questions we answered. We were then sent below into the little room again; then we were called up the second time, one at a time, and asked the same questions, to which we answered. They then read them over to us, and asked us if it was true, to which we replied it was. We told them we were out to fight the enemies of the thirteen United States. After we were examined one by one, the third time, we were all called up together, as at the first, and our commitments were read to us and delivered to the constable. My commitment read as follows:

“Charles Herbert, you are supposed to be guilty of the crime of high treason, and committed to prison for the same until the time of trial.”

We were then delivered to the constable, and guarded to Old Mill Prison, Plymouth.

Alas! I have entered the gates but the Lord only knows when I shall go out of them again.

June 6. Our allowance here in prison is a pound of bread, a quarter of a pound of beef, a pound of greens, a quart of beer and a little pot-liquor that the beef and greens are boiled in, without any thickening, – per day.

7. Pleasant weather, but we are kept in all day as a punishment for a misbeholden word spoken to the sentry on guard.

“COPY OF A LETTER FROM GOVERNOR LE MESURIER TO MR STEPHENS, DATED ALDERNEY THE 7TH JUNE 1777”¹

I think it incumbent on me to acquaint their Lordships that Andrew Nastel Mate and Six Mén, lately belonging to the Brig Good Intent of Guernsey, Paul Bieuvonn Master, are just arrived from Cherbourg and report that they were boarded by an American Privatier the 5th Instant about 4 oClock in the Afternoon, in Sight, and not two Leagues off this Island, and the next morning carried in the Harbour of Cherbourg, where they were put on Shore. The Brig was Loaded with Ginn and Oil, and bound from Rotterdam to Guernsey. The Privatier is a small black Schooner about 25 Tons, long built but very low, and when they want to fight they ta[ke] up their Hatches fore and aft and Stowd in the Hold. They carry Two Carriage Guns (4 Pounders) & Six Swivels with 32 Musquets, and had on board 26 Men, One of them a French Pilot. None of the Guernsey Men, knows the name of the Captain, who took them,² but they say that the Vessel is called the Montgomery belonging to Maryland, from whence they have been out five Months and had taken four Prizes, besides this; One of which th[ey] sent to America with four of their Men on board. The Capt of the Privatier set out Yesterday afternoon, in a Post

Chaise, for Paris to obtain Leave from the Court to sell his Prize; And Bieuvonn remains at Cherbourg 'till he knows if his Vessel will be condemned or not. —

VERGENNES TO THE MARQUIS DE NOAILLES¹

[Extract]

No 32

M. le Mis de Noailles

at Versailles 7th June 1777.

I have received, Sir, the dispatch No 43 which you did me the honor to write to me on the 30th of last month.

The language used by Lord Weymouth to you, Sir, on the subject of the vessel L'aimable Dorothee, did not astonish us in the least; we know from constant experience that the English Ministry admits no other principles than those which the interest of the moment prescribes to it, and that it is needless to expect any Sort of reciprocity on its part for any delicate behaviour which may be observed towards the Court of London. But since it claims to establish a new jurisprudence relative to the search of neutral vessels, it will oblige the other powers to follow its example, or take measures to prevent it being put into practice. This will be the course which England will force us to adopt in order to shelter our navigation and commerce from the annoyances to which she claims to subject them. You may, Sir, make use of these reflections with the English Ministers; but you will only present them as coming from yourself, and as the effect of the desire which you have to aid in maintaining the good understanding which exists between the two nations. You may add that the new kind of search which the English Ministry claims to introduce must appear to you all the more peculiar that, when we made remonstrances on the Subject of the Bill concerning letters of marque, they assured you positively that this precaution would cause no damage to our commerce, and that it was only a matter of restraining that of the Americans. It is to be hoped that these observations, made opportunely, will produce some effect on the mind of Lord Weymouth, and that they may induce the British Ministry to modify the instructions which they give to their cruisers.

With regard to Captain Cunningham's fate, the account which I gave you in my preceding letter, will have enabled you to judge, Sir, the principles and motives which have directed our conduct on this occasion. We were well satisfied in advance that it would not prompt the English to gratitude; nor was it for love of them, but only to do homage to the principles of justice and equity which direct all his actions, that His Majesty acted with severity towards the privateer captain. Moreover, Sir, Lord Weymouth must know the Treaty of Utrecht imperfectly, if he confuses the case of Captain Cunningham with that of the frigate Reprisal. If that Minister will trouble himself to read this Treaty again, he will find there the two cases well distinguished, as you have pointed out. I abstain from speaking of the reproaches cast on us with regard to the Help which our commerce furnishes to the rebellious colonies, because there is nothing to add to the reflections which you have made on this Subject to Lord Weymouth. . . .

PAUL WENTWORTH TO LORD SUFFOLK ¹

My Lord

The two Ships which Mess Horneca, Fiseaux & Co, are building for Congress Account, but ostensibly for Messrs Le ray de Chaumont, Grand & Co at Paris – are of a peculiar construction, under the direction of a Chevr de St Louis, M. Bouck [Jacques Boux], formerly in the French Navy. They are to carry 30 Guns each; of 24 & 18 pounds Calibre on one Deck, & yet to be able to Load 1000 – or 1200 Tons of Merchandize: & are to be completed by the 1st August.

I think I had the honor to mention to Your Lordship that the States Genl, had received from M. de Graaf, about the time they delivered their Answer, what He calls pieces justificatives– the defense turns upon the General Instructions to Governors –: To respect the Flag of every Nation first saluting the States Flag – & then to return an equal Number of Guns to those received, except to Merchants ships, which are to receive one Gun less. The Privateer saluted under Congress Colours, which the Govr Considered as belonging to no Nation, & therefore returned the Salute as to a Merchants ship²

LORD STORMONT TO LORD WEYMOUTH¹

(No 102)

Separate.

My Lord,

Paris 11 June 1777. –

I lost no Time in executing the important Orders transmitted to me in Your Lordship's Letter No 38, which I received yesterday Morning. I executed them in the following Manner. By way of Introduction, I mentioned to M. de Vergennes, the Information Mr [Andrew] Frazer had at my Desire given the Commander at Dunkirk with regard to the Cutter arming there, and added, that I knew the Commandant by means of this Information, and that, which he himself had collected, was apprized of every Particular, and had made his Report accordingly, yet notwithstanding all this Sir, the Armament of this Cutter goes on, and will continue, till positive Orders are sent from hence to stop it. He threw in a Word or two about our Smugglers arming more than they used to do for fear of our Cruizers. I told him that this Cutter which was to mount 18 Guns at least, was certainly not to be employed as a Smuggling Vessel, but was to carry a Commission from the Congress a Commission that would be issued by Franklin and Deane. This Sir, is agreeable to a most extraordinary Plan which they have formed, and of which I have more than once given you some Intimation; They purchase, or hire Vessels, which they arm in your Ports, man them with French Sailors, transmit them Commissions from hence and then mean to pass them for American Vessels, and send them out as such to cruize against us. This is the Case of the Cutter at Dunkirk, it is likewise the Case of a French Vessel now arming at Marseilles, whose present Name is the Tartar.

I believe Sir, there is no Instance of Men who come to take refuge in a Country making such an insolent Abuse of the Asylum granted them (he interrupted me here to say, ils ont L'Asile, mais ils n'ont que cela;) These Refugees do what would be unpardonable in an Ambassador from the most friendly Power. If for Instance, we had the Misfortune to be at War with Spain, and were at Peace with France, you certainly would not suffer a Spanish Ambasador to purchase Vessels, arm them in your Ports, and send them des Lettres de Marque to cruize against us: and yet Sir, what would not be suffered in an Ambassador, from a State in Alliance with you, these Rebel Emissaries have the Insolence to attempt every Day. What they have hitherto only attempted in Europe, they have executed in the West Indies, and that in such a manner, as calls loudly for Redress. There is one Bingham an Agent from the Rebels who resides at Martinico, and who gives Commissions to Ships fitted out there, which are manned by French Men and have at most one American on board; if these Ships meet with any trading Vessel of ours, they take her, and carry her into some one of your Islands, where the Ship and Cargo are sold: if on the contrary they are boarded by any of our Cruizers, the Men all speak French, and shew French Papers. Whilst I was saying this, I gave him a little Extract I had made of the Letter Your Lordship transmitted to me last Week, that gives an Account of the taking of the Sloop called the Venus: And whilst he was reading it, observed to him, that that was but one Case out of many; that those Seas were infested with Ships of this kind which hitherto we had not meddled with, but he must be sensible that the Evil was a very grievous one, and such as must have a Remedy: I added that I was particularly enjoined to make the most serious Representations upon the Subject, that I made them very short, as it would be idle to use reasoning in so plain a Case, and employ Arguments to prove to a Man of his Penetration so self-evident a Proposition as this, that if they really meant to preserve Peace with us, ils ne pouvaient pas permettre a leurs Sujets de nous faire la Guerre; sans doute sans doute, Said he hastily, it is contrary to all Rule, and must not be endured. He then, My Lord, went to his Table and took down in writing a Minute of what I had said to him, and noted in that Minute the different Names I had given him. After he had finished this, which he did not read to me, I told him that I had purposely avoided giving in a Memorial upon the Subject, as Memorials often led to disagreeable Altercations, which was what we wished to avoid; but I added, that I hoped and believed his Excellency would make a faithful Report of the whole to His Most Cn Majesty, on whose Friendship the King my Master relied, and whose Love of Justice he knew, and was persuaded that both these Sentiments would engage him to give the necessary Orders for immediately stopping a Practice so injurious to us, and so directly contrary to every Sentiment of Friendship, every Principle of Justice. I purposely gave this Turn to my Discourse to lay M. de Vergennes under the Necessity of making an exact Report. He not only assured me that he would do so, but said that Orders should be sent to the New Governor of Martinico to remedy this Abuse, and that the Captains of the Frigates stationed in those Seas should receive similar Orders, and be directed to visit all such Ships as they thought suspicious: he ended with saying that those Orders must issue from M. de Sartine's Department, but that upon this Occasion he would take care to read the Letters before they were sent: As this was as much as I could well desire, I ended with thanking him for the Promise he had made me, and the Readiness he had shewn to remedy so pernicious an Evil: I am however, My Lord, far from expecting a radical Cure.

I am with the greatest Truth and Respect My Lord [&c.]

Paris, June 12 [1777]

I receiv'd your Favour of the 6th Inst. P. Capt. Burnell, and am much oblig'd by the Civilities you have shown him. The Prize cannot, as you observe, be sold & delivered in your Port, it being contrary to Treaties, & to Ordinances made in Conformity to those Treaties; But I suppose it may be done in the Road without the Port, or in some convenient Place on the Coast, where the Business may be transacted without much Observation & conducted with Discretion, so as to Occasion no Trouble to the Ministers by Applications from the English Ambassador. I say I suppose this may be done, because I understand it has been practiced in many Cases on the Coast of Brittany. But a formal Order from the Minister to permit such a Sale & Delivery in any Port of France, is not to be expected while the Peace continues, & the Treaties consequently in Force. I request therefore the Continuance of your good Offices to Capt. Burnell, & your Assistance in enabling him to dispose of his Prize in the best Manner practicable; and I shall be glad to hear from you, whether you find such Facilities in the Operation, as that we may conveniently order other Prizes to your Address at Cherburg which may be taken by any of our Cruisers hereafter. WILLIAM CARMICHAEL TO CHARLES W. F. DUMAS¹

[Extract]

Sir,

Paris, June 13th, 1777.

We are still without any news from America, except what we get by the way of England. . . . I believe a certain brig from a place called Rotterdam has fallen into the hands of the chosen people, for one of my countrymen crossed the Atlantic in a small vessel of about 20 tons on purpose to take her; at least he informs me that he had carried into Cherbourg a brig laden with about two hundred hogsheads of Geneva, some pitch, oil, etc., from Rotterdam, which said articles will, before this reaches you, be metamorphosed into louis d'ors of France.

I have crossed the Chesapeake in this very ferry-boat in which my bold countryman crossed the Atlantic.² I had been told by a man high in office in England that resistance was a chimera in us, since their armed vessels would swarm so much in our rivers as even to intercept the ferry boats. His assertions are verified vice versa; our ferry-boats ruin their commerce. You smile and think me amusing you. Be assured that is not the case. This very little boat took on her passage another brig of 200 tons from Alicant and sent her into America. She also took four or five vessels in the Channel, chiefly smugglers, and plundered them of their cash, and the Captain, being a good-natured fellow let them go, as he did a transport, which he took in sight of a man-of-war, and was obliged to give her up, bringing off, however, with him his people. He has promised for the future to burn those he can not send in, and I believe will be as good as his word. This is the way the English serve not only ours but the French vessels which they take on our coast. The captain tells me he was told this last circumstance by several French captains whom he saw prisoners (himself a prisoner) at New York. The eyes of this court will be opened, it is to be hoped, before it is too late, a war being inevitable, in my opinion, to force an accomodation . . . Our valuable commerce is more hurt on the French coast than on our own. We have lost about £60,000 sterling from South Carolina only, all which was coming to be laid out for French manufactures. It is a fact at present that the manufacturers of this country can not execute so fast as they receive orders.

The English papers published by the authority of General Howe at New York tell with triumph that one of their cruisers has sunk a twenty gun French ship at some distance from the Delaware, and every soul perished. We have some fears that this is the Amphitrite.³ Another ship was taken, French property, a few leagues from the harbor of St. Pierre, which she had just quitted.⁴ If they dare to do this in their present critical situation, what will they not dare if successful, or at peace and united with us?

. . . All the navy, all the army contracts are made, for five years in England. Letters of marque were given to contractors and friends of government; for what? To cruise against our trade? No; but to be ready at a signal given to enrich themselves by the first captures on the French nation; for the gleanings of our commerce are no object to a private adventurer, assured as the English ministry are of the pacific intentions of this court. From the quarter I mentioned to you in my last they will try his patience, and they do right, for the only hope they now have of conquering us is to deprive us of the means of resistance and the hopes of foreign aid, which keeps up the spirits of the people. . . .

P.S. You will not mention publicly, for particular reasons, the history of the little privateer. When the captain of our small privateer boarded the transport and told him he was his prisoner, he very insolently asked where his ship was, not conceiving that any person would have crossed the ocean in so small a boat.

PHILIP STEPHENS TO WILLIAM KNOX¹Sir, Admiralty Office 14 June 1777. –

I am commanded by my Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty to acquaint you for Lord George Germain's information that since my Letter to You of the 12th instant respecting the India Ship lately purchased to serve as a Storeship, their Lordships have learnt from the Navy Board that it was their intention to send in her Twenty thousand Beds, which Lord Howe has represented to them to be much wanted for the use of the Soldiers on board the Transports in North America, as also an Assortment of Naval Stores, which will likewise be greatly wanted for the Fleet under his Lordship's Command. It may therefore naturally be conceived that the diverting this Storeship from the Service for the purpose of carrying the Cloathing to Canada, will be attended with the utmost Inconvenience; And as a part of the said Cloathing is already embarked on board the Arwin Galley, and an Able Officer appointed to superintend the Navigating her, and as it is not intended that She shall proceed without a sufficient Convoy; Their Lordships hope that the first Arrangement respecting the Canada Cloathing may take place. “EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM HARWICH, JUNE 14, 1777, TO THE POSTMASTER-GENERAL AT LONDON.”¹

The master of a fishing smack arrived last night from Dunkirk and acquainted me, that he saw Cunningham [Conyngham] and his crew at large on Thursday last [June 12], and they were proving carriage guns, in order to put on board a large cutter of 130 tons burthen; that she was to be navigated by French sailors to Havre de Grace; and that Cunningham and the crew were going there over land, in order to fit her for sea. He also declared, that he saw a brig in Dunkirk road, that had got on board the powder, small arms, ammunition, &c. for the said cutter, which is painted blue and yellow, was built for the smuggling trade, reported to be a fast sailing vessel; that Cunningham told him the guns proving were for his use on board the said cutter; that he soon would have another Harwich packet, which he did not in the least fear of making a legal prize of; which was farther confirmed by the crew the same evening at a public house. I thought proper to give you this intelligence, and make no doubt of necessary steps being taken to put a stop to the proceedings; she is to mount 20 carriage guns, and to carry 50 or 60 men. I am, Sir, yours,

Sir,

Wells Cutter in the Downes 14th June 1777

You will be pleased to acquaint my Lords Commissrs of the Admty, that on the 11th Instt I received a Letter from the Collector & Comptroller of His Majs Customs at Dover, informing me that there was a Brig at Dunkirk taking on board Ordnance Cannon, Shells, Shott, and Intrenching Tools of all Sorts and was supposed to be bound to America, I immediately sailed with His Majesty's Cutter under my Command in quest of her, and on the 12th came off Dunkirk, where I found the same Brig as discribed laying at Anchor in the Road. I went on shore to Mr Frazier to get what Information I could relative to her Cargo, and he gave me the following Account, that she was fitted out at Dunkirk, and had on board, several Peices of Brass Cannon, Pistols, Bumb Shells, Shott and intrenching Tools & cleared out for Martinico and that the Cargo belongs to the King of France. You will also be pleased to acquaint their Lordships that Cunningham and his Crew, was set at Liberty on the 10th Inst at 10 O'clock at Night. The Person who fitted out the Luggger, called the Surprize is named Hodge An American by birth. He is also the Proprietor of the Cutter now fitting out at Dunkirk this Cutter is named the Greyhound & carries twelve six Pounders & thirty Swivels & Cunningham has declared that he means to put to sea in her on Sunday next, but from her Situation I do not think she can sail so soon and this Declaration of his allarmed the Masters of all the English Vessels; so that they are afraid to leave the Port. And, you will also be pleased to acquaint their Lordships that Mr Frazier has received a Letter that the Brig which now [lies] at Newport is fitting out by one [Jonathan] Nesbitt an American Agent, & supposed will sail as a Privateer. You will also [be] pleased to acquaint their Lordships that I shall proceed [in] His Majesty's Cutter under my Command to Chatham [to] get the People paid their

JOURNAL OF CHARLES HERBERT¹

[Mill Prison, Plymouth]

[1777. June] 8. Sunday; and there has been a great number of persons at the gate to see us, who gave in, for our relief, several shillings.²

9. Rainy weather, so that we keep house all day, except when we go out to draw our provisions.

10. There have about ten or twelve prisoners come from the ships to prison to-day. Having so lately had the small-pox, and being so long physiced afterwards, I require more victuals now, than I ever did before; and our allowance is so very small, and having only sevenpence left of what little money I had when I came to prison, I had a continual gnawing at my stomach; and I find that unless I take some method to obtain something more than my bare allowance, I must certainly suffer, if not die, and that soon. As necessity is the mother of invention, I am resolved to try to get something, and to-day when a carpenter came to put in a window at the end of the prison, I entreated him to bring me some deal, and I would make him a box, which he did.

11. To-day we have made a charity-box, and put it up at the gate. There is written upon it, "Health, Plenty, and Competence to the donors." I have finished the box for the carpenter, and he likes it so well that he wants more made, and he brought me some more wood for that purpose, — some for him, and some for myself.

12. I have been busy all day making boxes, and some of the prisoners are making punch ladles, spoons, chairs, and the like; for which they, now and then, get a shilling.

13. We have chosen a purser amongst ourselves to take charge of the avails of the charity-box. Some days we get four or five shillings, and upon others, not more than four or five pence.

14. To-day we drew only half a pound of greens. They tell us it is by the order of the board; our meat is very short, and our broth only the pot-liquor with the fat skimmed off.

M. CORBET, LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR OF JERSEY, TO LORD WEYMOUTH¹

(Copy)

My Lord,

I do myself the honor to acquaint your Lordship that the American Privateers I had the honor to mention in my last sent by way of France, being fitted at Breha upon the Coast of Britany and another Cruizing a few Leagues to the Westward of Guernsey, have evidently fixed their Station to watch Vessels coming from or going to the Westward; and to intercept the Trade of these Islands to and from England thro' the Race of Alderney and the Caskets; one of them a Schooner of Six Guns² on Friday afternoon the 6th Instant took a Brig of about one hundred and Twenty Tons, bound from Holland to Guernsey, and has carried her to Cherbourg, The Mate and Crew are sent to Guernsey the Master remains there to try what he can do; of this I have informed the Admiral at Portsmouth, by a small Lobster Boat that Sailed yesterday in Ballast, trusting to their not being worth taking; I have beg'd of the Admiral to give us that small Force requisite to Protect the Trade of these Islands, which at the same time will enable me to make use of His Majesty's leave to go to England, without which I must remain here blocked up by these Boats, as my attempting it without Protection would be rather imprudent; – Should the Admiral be obliged to have recourse to Superior Authority may I hope for the honor of your Countenance in this Application, both as to the Trade and that I may not fall into their Hands. –

If a Cutter, Sloop of War, or other Armed Vessel was ordered to call in here at least once a Fortnight, many informations that come to me, might be usefull, which by delays are of no use; The Privateer now at or about Cherbourg has a French Pilot, and most of their Crews are French. I have the honor to be &c.

Jersey 11th June 1777.

M. Corbet, Lt Govr

P.S. The Anchoring Ground is good, and proper Pilots may be had in this Island. –

P.S. I open My Letter again to acquaint your Lordship that by a Boat this moment arrived from Carteret, within Six Leagues of Cherbourg, I am informed the Prize is Seized by the Commissaire de Guere, so far as to prevent her being Sold in that Port, that the Captain is gone to Paris about it, that they have a French agent in that Port who seems confident they'll carry their Point, and be allowed to sell there; By my accounts this is the smallest of three Privateers that are in these environs, it is not Thirty Tons, has but two Guns upon Carriages and four Swivels, and about Twenty five Men, mostly French; – It is strongly suspected the French are the promoters of and concerned in this place, for the Americans could never think of these bye Ports, nor could they come in so small a Vessel.

Jersey 11th June 1777.

Jersey 14th June 1777.

A Letter from a Gentleman of undoubted veracity in Guernsey, dated 11th Instant, says, “Last night Samuel Goodwin of this Island coming from England, was brought too by an Armed Vessel of Eighteen Guns, between the Coast of England and Cape La Hougue, They asked him for a Pilot to go into Cherbourg, and as they spoke French and English, they suppose him an American Privateer; They searched the Vessel but finding nothing but Ballast, they let him go. –

GABRIEL DE SARTINE TO THE MARQUIS DE BOUILLÉ, GOVERNOR GENERAL OF MARTINIQUE¹

[Copy]

Versailles 14th June 1777.

A Note, Sir, delivered to M. le Comte de Vergennes by the English ambassador, declares that a Vessel, belonging to Mr. Prejent of Martinique and commanded by a man named Ord, the Only American who was on board, took on March 18th last the English Ship the Venus commanded by Captain Sharpe.² It is further discovered that on the 21st of the same month the Ship was carried into a Bay a League from St. Pierre. Since M. d’Argout has mentioned nothing about This to me, I have reason to think that the account is not at all accurate. You would be well advised to make the most precise inquiries. If these facts are true, the King’s Intention is that in the meantime you return the English Ship and Her Cargo, and that you give me an account of the Matter, so that I may learn His Majesty’s further orders.

It is certain that French Vessels are fitted out at Martinique and are sent out with a commission from the Congress although there are only one or two Americans in their crews; that these Vessels take English Ships, and that when they encounter Warships of that Nation, they show French Clearance Papers to Lábrya [La Brea, Trinidad] which they surrender. These Tactics are genuine Acts of Piracy which can not escape your watchfulness and which you must both forestall and check. I can not recommend to you too much to attend to it with the greatest of care and to observe scrupulously the neutrality which has been prescribed in your Instructions.

London Packet, or, New Lloyd's Evening Post, FRIDAY, JUNE 13,
TO MONDAY, JUNE 16, 1777

Monday, June 16. London.

Two of the American vessels which have been brought into England by their crews, were lately condemned in the Court of Admiralty as prizes to the King; and his Majesty, out of his Royal bounty, in order to reward those brave fellows loyalty and love of old England, has ordered two thirds of the value of each ship and cargo, which amounts to a very considerable sum, to be divided among the crew; and we are well assured that if the crew of any disguised foreign ship that is loaded with arms or ammunition, or any kind of stores for the rebels, should bring her into a British port, and she or her cargo should be in like manner condemned in the Court of Admiralty to the King, that his Majesty would give the whole value to the crew. – More encouragement to the Honest Johns who have been kidnapped into the Rebels employ, to return to their King and Country's service!

On the 7th instant arrived at Milford Haven, the Brigantine Milford, of Milford, Henry Every, jun. master, from Topsham, in ballast, who in the night of the 2nd instant was boarded off the Start, by a boat and six men, from a schooner of about thirty tons, who said they were from America, and declared them their prisoners; but finding the brig in ballast only, re-delivered her for 20 guineas, four of which they returned to the Master. Declared that they had taken ten vessels before the brig, one of them bound from London to Plymouth, with naval stores, and it is imagined sent the captures to some port in France. The master's name was Hall, but would not tell to what place they belonged. Said they had a commission from the Congress. In the day-time she appeared as a fisherman, and in the night stood in towards the land and made captures. Was in pursuit of several other vessels.

CAPTAIN JOSHUA ROWLEY, R.N., TO PHILIP STEPHENS¹

[Extract]

Monarch. Spithead 16th June 1777 –

When the time of my Cruise had expired, the Wind being Contrary to my return, I haul'd away to the Westward in hopes of a favourable Slaunt and on the 4th of June Latd 46.43 Ushant E N E Distce 82 Leagues, we fell in with, and took, the Bell-Savage Brig (Late Yorrick) an American, from So Carolina, bound to Nantz or the first port in France in the Bay of Bisca, Loaded wth Rice Indigo Deer Skins and Tobacco, of about 160 Tuns Burthen Elijah Steel – Master, which I have detained as a prize and Brought in with Me.

Having undoubted intelligence from the Crew, as well as from Letters I found on board her, that a Ship Two Brig's and an Armed Sloop, Sailed at the same time (the 22nd April) but parted Company soon after they lost sight of the Land; and also that Several others were to Sail from thence in the Course of a few days, bound for French and Dutch Ports – I thought it most expedient for his Majesty's Service to Continue on My Station a week Longer, as there was great probability, by so doing, to intercept some of them, and thereby, further distress the Americans: altho' it has not had the desired Effect, I yet flatter myself it will meet their Lordships Approbation.

From the tenor of the Several letters I found on board the prize, it plainly appears that very Considerable Commercial intercourse subsists between the Rebels and France, and some wth Holland – If their Lordships would Chuse to have the Letters laid before them I will immediately send them up.

ACCOUNT OF THE CAPTURE OF CAPTAIN JOHN BURNELL¹

Cherburgh, June 16.

The following are the Particulars of the Artifice made Use of to carry off Captain John Brunel [Burnell], of the Montgomery Privateer, who came in here with a Prize, to the Captain of which the American behaved with unlimited Generosity, and there seemed to be the strictest Friendship between them, which has made every Body exceedingly angry with the Treatment he met with. On Sunday the 15th of June, as Capt Brunel was at Dinner with the Captain of his Prize and a Pilot, an English Officer, disguised like a Smuggler, introduced himself into their Company, and among other Things talking of Spying Glasses, Capt. Brunel said he wanted one, and the Officer boasting much of one he had on board, said he would sell it him for Five Guineas & proposed going on board to try it. Capt. Brunel, who had drank pretty freely, having been well supplied by the Officer, and not having any Mistrust, agreed to go in a Boat belonging to the Town, and with French Colours, having with him his Son, the Captain of his Prize, the Master of the same, and some Merchants of the Place, and he did not discover the Trap laid for him till he was along-side of the Vessel, as Care had been taken to disguise it like a Smuggling Vessel, though actually an armed Sloop. As soon as the Boat got close to the Ship, two Men seised Capt. Brunel, who getting loose, jumped into the Sea, and reached the Boat again, but at that Instant the Vessel uncovered her Guns, and threatned to sink the Boat if they did not bring him back. This obliged them to return, and Capt. Brunell being put in Irons, and his Son² confined, they weighed Anchor, and sailed for England.

It may be agreeable to be informed that since Cunningham, master of the pretended Privateer & his Crew have been released out of Prison, they are employed in fitting out another Privateer, which had been provided before, & is likely to be soon ready. She is a large Cutter, on which they have raised Ports for 20 Carriage Guns which she will mount besides Swivels, & as many men as they can Muster. This Expedition, from what I can learn, is again intended against the Harwich Packets, as proper Intelligence will be given from London to these Corsairs, when a sum of money will be ship'd on either of the said Packets; for Money they are I believe in great want, the Congress Agent in Europe Mr Thos Morris, having already some of his acceptance protested for Nonpayment, to my certain knowledge. Besides the above Vessel, there is now repairing a large Ship of 400 Tons, which was a Privateer out of this Port in the last War, & has been since the Peace, employed in the West India Trade. She will make a formidable appearance, but I believe cannot be got ready for some time.

I am of Opinion that some trusty Person ought to be sent here, in the capacity of a private Gentlemen, on a tour for his pleasure, to watch the motions of these Armaments, in order to take proper Measures to intercept them soon after their sailing out. I am &c Admiralty Office, June 18.

By letters received from the Hon. Samuel Barrington, Captain of his Majesty's ship Prince of Wales, and from Capt. [Joshua] Rowley of the Monarch, it appears the former has taken and sent into Plymouth an American schooner called the Mary, John Roberts master, laden with salt, brandy, and dry goods, bound to South Carolina; and that the latter has taken and brought into Portsmouth the Belle Savage brig, Elijah Steel master, from South Carolina, having on board a cargo of rice, indigo, deer skins, and tobacco.

It further appears by a letter received from Dartmouth, that the brig Success, a letter of marque, Arthur French master, had on her voyage to Newfoundland retaken a brig, called the Falmouth, from Greenock to Quebec, which he intended to carry to St. John's.

"EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM CAPT. MONKS, OF THE Dolphin, FROM NAPLES AND LEGHORN, DATED OFF DOVER, JUNE 18."¹

I arrived here this morning, after a passage of 42 days from Gibraltar, from whence I sailed, in company with sixteen others, under convoy of the Enterprize, who saw us as far as latt. 44. long. 18.34.W. In latt. 45.26, long. 9.00, was brought too by his Majesty's ship Hector, of 74 guns, who had in company an American ship, the St. Ann, Robinson, of 200 tons, taken on the 16th inst. bound from Carolina to Bourdeaux, with rice and indigo. On the 15th inst. I fell in with the Boyne, Capt. [Herbert] Sawyer, latt. 49.15, long. 8.30.W who on my application to him conveyed me to Plymouth, where I arrived on the 16th. The Boyne had also taken on the 12th an American vessel, with rice and indigo for Bourdeaux, and Capt. Sawyer informed me, that on the 28th of May he had fallen in with three privateers, viz, a ship, a brig, and a sloop in latt. 45. who had hoisted American colours, and to whom he gave chace, but carrying away his topmast they escaped. These vessels, by information received from a Dutchman on the 30th of May, off Porto, came out from Nantz the 12th preceding.²

On the 17th I was chased by a brig, who fired several shot through my sails and rigging, and by her behaviour, and being American built, I took her for a privateer, but on coming up she proved to be a tender called the Hope, the officer's name Bridges, who brought me too, and insisted on coming on board; and notwithstanding I informed him of my voyage and destination, and of being under quarantine, pressed two of the best men on board, being then very weakly manned, and at the same time carrying away the head of my foretop-mast, I desired assistance, but could only get two such men as he pleased; whilst he was in company a schooner appeared to leeward, on the French coast, which the men he had put on board told was a privateer, that had taken several vessels thereabouts; but the tender left me, and hawled in directly for the land, without taking any notice of her.

“EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM PLYMOUTH, JUNE 19.”¹

His Majesty's ship Belleisle has taken and sent into this port, the brig Mercury, Askew Hillcot, Master, from the River Mississippi, reported to be bound for London with a valuable cargo, consisting of indigo, beaver skins, and deer skins.

This ship brings an account, that just as they sailed from the Mississippi, a disturbance had happened between the English and Spanish Settlers there, and that the Spaniards had taken all the English shipping on that river, and had placed a soldier in each of the Settlers' houses. It seems that the Spaniards claim all the lands on both sides of the mouth of the river, and that the English rent the plantations of the Spaniards that settle there, as our plantations are many miles up the river.

“EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM HAVRE DE GRACE, DATED JUNE 19.”¹

Cunningham's vessel is almost ready to put to sea, and it will be necessary for you not to trust your property on board any vessel that is bound from Harwich to Holland, unless they are under convoy; for Cunningham has got a stout vessel, which is a swift sailer, and has 12 carriage guns, besides swivels, and his crew is a gang of desperadoes, picked up at Dunkirk from amongst the smugglers, &c. He vows revenge for the loss of his two prizes, the Prince of Orange packet boat, and the Joseph; for as soon as he can put to sea, he has declared he will sail to Harwich, where he doubts not but that he shall soon pick up a prize.

LORD STORMONT TO LORD WEYMOUTH¹

Private

My Lord

Paris June 19, 1777.

Tho Your Lordship can want no further Proofs of the Constant Duplicity and insidious Policy of this Court, Yet I think it my Duty to give You in this secret Manner some very strong ones

I have very good Reason to believe that not long ago M. de Vergennes sent a Message to Deane and Franklin to tell them that they were certainly betrayed, and to beg them to be more upon their Guard for the future

What passed with regard to the Dunkirk Pirate made the Rebel agents apprehend at first a change of System in this Court. Mr Deane has had several Conversations and Explanations on the Subject either with M. de Vergennes directly or through M. Girard which is the same thing, and has had the strongest and fullest assurances that there is No change of System but that France must proceed with great Caution not to provoke a War which the state of her Finances makes her desirous to avoid at least for the present – that she wishes the Americans every possible Success and will contribute to it by every Secret Succour in her Power. These Promises My Lord, are but too well kept. The french Ministers have within these three or four Days consented that between one and two hundred Tun of Brass shall be sent over to North America with proper Workmen to cast it into large Cannon, those formerly sent being all four Pounders. All this Brass or much the greatest Part of it will probably go by the Way of the french West Indies and will certainly be shipped from Marseilles. Your Lordship knows that the Amphitrite took but a Part of the Artillery, which M. de Coudray and Beaumarchais had prepared The Rest was deposited at Marseilles and Dunkirk. Two Brigs that are to convey this Artillery from thence have been chartered there, one of them is actually sailed viz the Brig which Mr. [Andrew] Frazer mentions to have sailed on the 10th Instant for St Pierre in the Island of Martinico having on board a Train of Field artillery and a large Quantity of entrenching Tools The other Brig will sail in a few days and is likewise to go to Martinico

All the articles from Marseilles will be conveyed in one large Ship under the Direction of a Capt Lundy [Pierre Landais] who was a Lieut to M. de Bougainville in his Voiage round the World He goes out to enter into the Naval Service of the Congress.

The order for the Release of Cunningham and the other Pirates was granted on the Sollicitation of Franklin and Deane They kept the order for some time without making Use of it, being Apprehensive that the Crew would disperse if they were released before another Ship was ready to receive them. They are Now I believe on board the Cutter called the *Greyhound*² that Cutter which I have so often Mentioned to M. de Vergennes Notwithstanding all My Remonstrances She is to sail in a few days, but has positive orders to return no more to Dunkirk.

Pulaski is to embark at Nantes on board a Massachusets armed Vessel Capt Fisk. Hynson is certainly gone to Nantes, to take charge of a french Ship that is to sail from thence laden with Goods and Stores The Ship is a bad one and much objected to as such which will occasion some delay Deane is gone to Rouen & Havre but the real object of his Journey seems doubtful The Equipment at Havre is Not I believe as considerable as some of my Informers make it.

The Farmers General have actually paid to the Rebel Agents One Million of Livres for which they are to receive Tobacco. This Payment was made very lately.

M. de Sartines has advised that all Prizes taken by the Americans and come into any french Port should be immediately sold and if possible before they come into the Harbour and without waiting for any instructions from the Rebel agents here He says that by this Means this Court will always be able to plead Ignorance of the Transaction and want of Time to prevent it.

All these Facts which I look upon as certain want no Comment. I earnestly beg that the Information I here give Your Lordship may be kept as secret as possible and I can venture to assure You that this Secrecy is very essential to His Majts Service. Deane thinks himself sure that France will never suffer the Colonies to return to their obedience without risking a War to prevent it I have no doubt that the french Ministers have given this Promise, and I am inclined to believe they mean to keep it, the Execution however will depend on Circumstances, in the present Moment they lie by, thinking the Rebels able to defend themselves and if We prosecute the War in America With the unrelenting Vigour that the Necessity of the Circumstances requires They may, and I am confident, will be surprized with the News of a decisive Victory before they are aware

With the Knowledge We have of their insidious Designs We are not only justified in taking every possible Measure of Defence but in my poor opinion are loudly called upon to be constantly on the Watch and to have a great Fleet ready to act instantly so that if the Necessity should arise we may be able to strike at once a decisive Blow which might end the War the Moment it began as Ld Torringtons Victory ended the War in Sicily.

The whole Conduct of the french Ministry is the more extraordinary & the more dangerous to themselves, as it has not I believe the entire Sanction of the King their Master at least I know the Ct D artois who declares himself a friend to the Americans, said the other day that the King his Brother throws great obstacles in the Way Quand il entend parler de quelques Secours donnés aux Americains il est furieux was one of Ct D artois Expressions I can give Your Lordship this little anecdote as certain but I do not lay more stress on it than it deserves. I am however much inclined to believe that Many things the Ministers do in favour of the Rebels are concealed from his Most Xn Majty

I am with great Truth & Respect My Lord [&c.]

VERGENNES TO THE MARQUIS DE NOAILLES¹

[Extract]
No 34

at Versailles 21st June 1777.

I have received, Sir, the dispatch No 45 which you did me the honor to write to me on the 13th of this month.

The King and His Council have highly approved, Sir, the explanations which you gave to Lord Weymouth on the subject of the search of our merchant ships; you caused that Minister to see clearly that the principles followed by His Court in this matter are not only unjust, in themselves, but also that they may involve the most dangerous consequences. Indeed, if every nation allowed itself, on the high seas and at its own caprice, unlimited search of all merchant ships, commerce would experience most harmful disturbances, and would soon see itself exposed to the license of the searchers, and to all the excesses which they might think allowable. We admit the right of warships to stop and search merchant ships; but, in our opinion, it is abusing that right to exercise it indiscriminately in all cases and at every encounter. The safety and freedom of trade require that the examination should be limited to the papers which state the true destination of these vessels, and that search should only be permitted when they are sailing in a suspicious direction, that is, when they are encountered outside the line of their destination.

In order to justify the violation of these principles, Lord Weymouth maintains not only that the French merchants send a great quantity of contraband goods to the rebellious English Colonies, but also that the Americans frequently take on armaments in our ports. You have been informed previously, Sir, of the prohibitions that have been made in all our ports against the export of arms and munitions of war to the American Colonies. We have, so far as depended on us, taken care that these prohibitions were observed; but it is impossible to prevent all clandestine and disguised exportations. The Court of London itself has daily experience of this; in spite of the most rigorous vigilance, it has not yet been able to keep in check its own subjects, and it may remember that it has never prevented English ships from carrying on contraband trade on our coasts, and principally on the Spanish coasts, despite the complaints of the Court of Madrid; on the other hand, the King cannot and will not ruin the commerce of his subjects by forbidding them to sell in his ports goods which have hitherto been saleable; we have declared this in good faith to the English Ministers before. I understand that it would be agreeable to them that we should shut our ports to the Americans, but would it be prudent to provoke and draw down on ourselves the resentment of a people who, having nothing to lose with us, would find much to gain if they had a pretext for seizing our ships returning from America. In reminding the English Ministers of all these things, you will call their attention, Sir, to the principles which I established at the beginning of this letter, viz, that the search of our ships should only take place when they are, without legitimate reason, in latitudes far from their line of course; in these cases we shall not object either to search or confiscation, if authorised by the circumstances. To convince the English Ministers how much we desire to put an end to the disagreeable disputes to which this matter may daily give rise, we propose to them, after the example of Spain, to communicate to and devise with Us the instructions to be given to the Commanders of His Britannic Majesty's warships. As I do not doubt that on his part Prince de Masserano has received instructions relative to this matter, you will be good enough to plan with him the steps it may be desirable to take to induce the English Ministry to adopt our proposal.

In several Cases the British Ministry has wished to give false appearances to the necessity of the search of our ships by the pretext that the Americans in order to escape pursuit by English warships have hoisted the French flag. I do not Contest this fact, which is probable, but, the inspection of the ship's papers proving sufficiently whether the ship is French, the examination of these same papers gives all the certainty that can be desired without it being necessary to proceed to a more rigorous search.

With regard to the arming and fitting out which Lord Weymouth asserts that the Americans make in our ports, we prevent them when they come to our knowledge, and that is what we have just done with regard to those now in question in the port of Marseilles. But it is impossible that we should be punctually informed of all arming and fitting out, and it is all the more natural that Viscount Stormont should know of them before us, and more precisely than we, as he has spies in all our ports, even with an ostentation, I could willingly say a want of consideration, of which we should have grounds to complain, if we had any interest to hide what can be done in our country. But the British Ministry should not blindly believe all the reports which its Ambassadors receive from their Emissaries. Their reports are mostly very inexact, and sometimes so vague that Lord Stormont in making his complaints has not been able in certain cases to designate either the precise Place of the affair, or the name and rank of the participants. The orders to our ports to oppose all irregular arming and fitting out are precise; they are about to be energetically repeated, but the English Ministry should know from its Experience that people who seek to deceive know well enough how to take precautions in order not to be easily discovered.

Lord Stormont handed to me at our last Meeting The List of the different grievances with which he reproaches our people on Martinique. He had spoken to me about them a week before, and, on his simple statement, orders had been sent immediately to remedy them; for greater efficiency and in order to impress our insular subjects, who appear to have been seduced by a Spirit of plundering, still more severe measures are to be taken, and which shall not leave room for false interpretations. This is what you may, Sir, tell Lord Weymouth, assuring him that, if the King's justice can not prevent some irregularities Especially in Such a Distant Place, it can curb and punish them. His Majesty, faithful to neutrality and to the pacific inclinations of which he has given an assurance to the King of England, will not allow His Subjects to do anything Contrary to them, but he has a right to expect that His Britannic Majesty, animated with the same feelings, will be good enough on his part, to remedy the irregularities and excesses which are only too frequent on the part of his naval officers.

Lord Stormont has spoken to me of some arming made by some of our own merchant captains. I have no precise Knowledge of this, but I have not concealed from him that several of our ships, which are able to arm themselves, think it necessary to take this precaution, in order to protect themselves against the annoyances which they meet with from English Cruisers. We can not prevent them providing for their safety; it is a natural right, and England Alone could prevent it, by ordering Its privateers to respect our flag and our commerce. It is in this sense, Sir, that I have replied to the English Ambassador, and I beg you, Sir, to adapt to this the explanations you may have occasion to give in this matter to the British Ministry. This has not, however, prevented me from requesting M. de Sartine to ascertain from the ports whether the arming has not another object, and to provide against it as far as that may be necessary.

To conclude this, Sir, it remains for me to reply to the observation which Lord Weymouth made to you as to the manner in which we send munitions to our islands. This Minister is in error if he thinks that they are sent only by warships; at least five-eighths goes out on merchant ships; and that is all the more necessary as we rarely send ships of the line to our Colonies, and the frigates which cruise there, are too encumbered with their own armaments, and the provisions which their long Station assignments require, to allow of their being loaded with munitions of war. Moreover, Sir, you will only make further explanations to Lord Weymouth, to correct his ideas, and by no means to justify us: we have no need of that in a matter which depends solely and absolutely on the kindness and good pleasure of His Majesty, as you very well observed to the English Minister.

Sir

London 22d June 1777

I beg you will be pleased to acquaint their Lordships that in consequence of my Orders from Lord Shuldhham I went with His Majesty's Cutter under my Command in pursuit of a Privateer Schooner called the Montgomery, who had taken several Prizes in the English Channel, and on the 14 Inst I was informed at Alderney that she was at Cherburg with a Prize She had taken, In Consequence of that Intelligence I immediately proceeded to Cherburg and came to Anchor at Sea five or six miles from that Place, And formed a Plan with my Pilot to Entice the Commander (who I well knew to be a Man belonging to Ilfracombe) on Board. I therefore sent him on Shore as the Master of a Smuggling Vessel, in hopes by that means to be able to decoy him on Board, which he from my directions and His own diligence luckily affected, by offering him a present of an Extraordinary good Spying-glass on condition he Wou'd protect him from the Revenue Vessel which he pretended had Chaced him from the Coast of England he then invited him his Lieut and the French Gentlemen who were with him on board the Supposed Smugling Vessel, which they accepted of, During which I was prepared with My People Arm'd and Conceald to receive them, I likewise disguised the Cutter as much as possible to prevent their Suspecting a deceit, they accordingly came on Board in a French Boat, and when on Board finding his Mistake the Commander of the Privateer jump'd over board, but on my presenting a Pistol at him, he directly returnd when I had got him on board, I desired the French Gentlemen to go on Shore I then Confined the Commander and his Lieut of the Privateer and took from the former all his Papers Amongst which are his Commission and Instructions from the Congress with letters of at Versailles 22nd June 1777.

I have Examined, Sir, the Extracts, which you have done me the honor to send me, of letters written by various Englishmen relating to the American privateers who cruise in the waters of the Windward Islands. I have seen that they continue to maintain that several of these privateers belong to the inhabitants of Martinique and Guadeloupe, and that the sale of the English prizes takes place publicly in our islands, and particularly at St. Lucia. On this occasion the English ship Venus, taken by a privateer belonging to Mr. Prejent, with a commission from the Congress, is again referred to, which formed the Subject of a note recently sent to you by the English Ambassador. I can only refer to the letter which I had the honor of writing to you on the 14th instant on the subject of the ship Venus. I am still as convinced of the impossibility of preventing every abuse, as of the exaggeration of the facts which arouse the complaints of the Court of London. I am repeating, moreover, to the Marquis de Bouillé, the orders which I addressed to him in my letter of the 14th instant, to forestall and put a stop to all clearances which might be disguised, as well as to observe the neutrality which has been prescribed to him by his instructions. I am instructing him again to inform the Commandant of St. Lucia that the admission of Foreigners into the ports of the Island, must not be extended to Privateers bringing in prizes, in regard to which he must conform to the rules of neutrality by obliging the Privateers to set sail again with their prizes within 24 hours, save those exceptional cases provided for by the Ordinance of 1681, and by preventing all sale of prizes or their cargoes. I am addressing the same orders to the Governor of Guadeloupe, and desire him, as well as the Marquis de Bouillé, to give me an account, in the greatest detail, of all the facts which have given or may give rise to complaints on the part of the English

I have the honor to be with very sincere attachment [&c.]

“EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM ON BOARD THE Conquistador, DATED AT THE NORE, JUNE 23.”

It is currently reported on board here, and we believe not without some foundation, that some American vessels or privateers, harboured in the ports of France, have bound themselves in a league, by an oath, to cut out his Majesty's guardship Conquistador from her moorings in the Nore, where she lies for the reception of new raised men to man the fleet; it is astonishing to us, it being such a scheme as the united naval powers of France and Spain never attempted against our ships at the Nore all last war.

I now beg leave to add to my former letters to your Lordship, that I have not the smallest doubt that the Cutter will sail when ready, which may be in about a week hence, & accompanied by the Lugger, unless orders come from Versailles in the interim to prevent it.

I take the liberty of observing to your Lordship, that in case it should be judged proper to send any vessels on this Coast to watch their motions, that they ought to be of superior force to Sloops & Cutters that have been here as yet, as well as the best going vessels, for both the Cutter & Lugger are considered as prime Sailors, and will be manned by a Set of most daring and desperate men, almost entirely English & Irish outlawed Smugglers, for the Americans amongst them do not exceed eight or ten, altho' all Cuninghams's Crew, excepting one Man* from Ipswich, swore at the Admiralty, that they were Natives of America. – I have some hopes of not only detaching this Man from Cuninghams's Crew but of engaging him to enter into The King's Service. If I succeed I will send him by the first opportunity to England, & recommended to Your Lordships Office.

JOHN COLLET TO LORD STORMONT¹

My Lord,

Genoa 23d June 1777 –

Last week an anonymous letter was brought me, acquainting me that a Large Bark, (a description of which I have the honour to inclose Your Lordship,) was purchas'd for the Americans,² and tho' to be dispatched from hence with Genovese Colours, was to hoist American Colours at Sea, a Person being appointed to take the Command of her. I immediately applied to the Secretary of State here, who promiss'd me every step shou'd be taken to come to the truth, in the mean time the Rudder was taken off, the Vessell secur'd in the Arsenal, and the Sailors Chests rummaged but nothing found, the Secretary told me on Saturday that every precaution was taking to come to the bottom of this affair. I hear from other people she was purchased by one Alberto Causa, a Genovese Merchant here, by orders, and for account of one Fiquet of Marseilles, who was recommended to Mr Causa, by the house of Aubert of Marseilles, for twenty five thousand Livres, She was to be sent down under Genovese Colours, with Six Guns, thirty musketts, and forty Men, I am uncertain as yett if the Government here will find any proofs to stop her, if do not, and she shou'd sail, may still suspect She may be fitted out at Marseilles, wherefore I think it my Duty to acquaint Your Lordship, as I shall do of what this Government determines, and whether She sails or not.

I have the honour to be with the greatest Respect My Lord [&c.]

Last Saturday we received advice from Christiansand, that at two miles west from that place is arrived a large American privateer, of 28 guns besides swivels, and 160 men. It seems she is come from Dunkirk, and is to be followed by another privateer. The English ships coming from the East country will be in the greatest danger. It is surprising that the Captains of English vessels who are continually going to Dunkirk, do not represent the danger to government and obtain frigates to cruize for their protection, and not suffer themselves to be thus shamefully taken on their own coasts.

NEWS FROM WHITEHAVEN¹

Whitehaven, (in England) Thursday, June 26.

The brig Crawford, formerly of Glasgow, arrived here this morning with one hundred and ten seamen, besides five women and some children, which had been taken by the Americans from different vessels, all in this channel.

The following authentic account will best explain this disagreeable affair, which our duty to the public obliges us, however, unwilling, to relate:

The Expedition, Braithwaite, sailed from hence on Sunday the 15th inst. bound for Norway; the Wednesday following, being then about two miles from the Mull of Cantire, she fell in with three American privateers, viz. the Reprisal, Commodore Wickes, of 18 guns and 130 men, with eight cohorns in her tops, and a number of swivels; her carriage guns all six pounders, double fortified: The Lexington, Johnson, of 16 guns and 110 men, with 4 cohorns in her tops, and a great number of swivels; her carriages same weight of metal as the Reprisal's, and fortified in the same manner; and the Dolphin, Nicholson, of 10 guns and 64 men, with a number of swivels and small arms.

The following is an account of all the vessels taken by the said privateers from the 19th instant to the 23d inclusive.

June 19th. Sloop Merrin of Greenock, Neal Taylor, from Greenock to Suna, ballast, sunk.

19th. Brig Expedition of Whitehaven, William Braithwaite, from Whitehaven to Norway, ballast, sunk.

19th. Ship —, Ribble M'Gomery, ballast, sent to France.

21st. Brig Jenny and Sally, of Glasgow, Wm. Drummond, from Glasgow to Norway, ballast, sent to France.

20th. Sloop Jason, of Whitehaven, Isaac Hutchinson, from Whitehaven to Petersburg, ballast, sent to France.

20th. Jenny and Peggy, of Irvin, William Howe, from — to Irvin, ballast, sunk.

20th. Sloop Edward and Ann of Queensferry, Edward Brown, from Koningsburg to Liverpool, wheat, sent to France.

21st. Bark John and Thomas of Whitehaven, John Yowart, from Norway to Dublin, deals, sent to France.

22d. Brig Graystock, of Workington, James Clarke, from Workington to Dublin, coals, sunk.

22d. Brig Richard of Whitehaven, Thomas Ledger, from Whitehaven to Dublin, coals, sunk.

22d. Brig Favourite of Maryport, Caleb Grave, from Maryport to Dublin, coals, sunk.

23d. Ship Grace of Liverpool, John Wardley, from Jamaica to Liverpool, rum, sugar, and tobacco, sent to France.

23d. Brig Peggy of Killabeg, Thomas Atridge, from Corke to Liverpool, butter and hides, sent to France.

23d. Brig Crawford of Greenock, Alexander Alexander, from Greenock to St. Ubes, ballast, given to the masters and crews to bring them to Whitehaven.

Sunk also a small boat off the Mull of Cantire, Thomas MacDugan, master.²

On Tuesday last, Johnson, (by permission of his Commodore, Wickes,) put 110 of the prisoners on board the Crawford, with leave for them to depart, and make the best of their way to any port in England. They were put on board said vessel about one league from Tuscar, but under a promise of reaching Whitehaven, if possible, without putting into any port, or landing any of the passengers. The reason of this caution is obvious; Whitehaven being at the greatest distance, the alarm would be so much longer in reaching the ears of Government, which they could not doubt would immediately take the most hasty steps to prevent any future depredations, especially so near home.

Whitehaven 26 June 1777

Sir

I send this by Express, for the immediate information of my Lords Commrs of the Admiralty that the Reprisal, Weeks Master of 18 Guns, the Lexington, Johnson of 16 Guns, and the Dolphin, Nicholson of 10 Guns; came round the West of Ireland, and upon the 19th instant took off the Mull of Cantire the Vessels as per List at foot hereof² These Pirates proceeded down the South Channell, on monday last fully intending to cut the Dorset Yatch out of Dublin Harbour and destroy all the Ships in Pool beg but very luckily the Wind feinted and not knowing but there might be some Frigates in the Channell Service they durst not come to an anchor in Dublin Bay. a Vessel belonging to me called the Jason, bound to Russia they put such Materials as they took out of the Ships into, and sent her to France, and off Tuskar gave their Prisoners the Crawford and sent them to this Port where she arrived this morning at three o'Clock, Captain Hutchinson informs me that they had [hopes] of falling in with the Linnen Ships bound from Dublin; but having missed them they were returning to France to get a supply of People, He says there are a great many French Landsmen on board; that they sail remarkably fast the Reprisal is a Ship with a Figure Head and Brightsides, the Lexington a Brig and the Dolphin is a Folkstone Cutter sold from Dover - Captain Hutchinson also informs me that there are several others fitting out; and that their Lordships may depend they intend to cruize in the North Channel and a number of them will attend upon the Baltick Trade; as he discovered by one of the Officers; that a few Hempships would be of considerable consequence to them I presume to exchange in France for Rigging and Sails - He says they are victualled for Six Months but have not any great quantity of Water, but that, they said they could get readily, on the Irish Coast. They ordered all their Prizes for Nantz, and would call there themselves or at L'orient just to get the Men they sent in the Prizes on board again I shall draw to the Post Mistress for the Charge of this Express and I beg Sir you'l excuse my incorrectness as I am sollicitous to loose no time in transmitting this very disagreeable account being called out of Bed. AMERICAN COMMISSIONERS IN FRANCE TO VERGENNES¹

To his Excellency the Count de Vergennes Minister for Foreign Affairs
We the underwritten Commissioners from the Congress of the United States of N. America, beg leave to represent to your Excellency, that Captain Burnel[1], Commander of an armed Vessel commissioned by the said States, did lately take Refuge in the Port of Cherburgh with his Vessel and one of his Prizes, putting himself under the Protection of the King.

That an armed Vessel belonging to the King of England, which in pursuit of the said Burnel had cruised some Days before the Entrance of the said Port, did at length come in Disguise, and cast Anchor within half Musket-shot of the King's Forts, pretending to be a Smugler chased in by an English Cutter.

That Captain Burnel, deceived by these Pretences, and conceiving himself always safe under the Command of the King's Forts, did imprudently go on board the said pretended Smugler, when immediately the Deck was filled with armed Men before concealed, many of them with their Officers in the Uniform of the British Marine who attempted to seize him: That he broke loose from them and leapt into the Sea, and swimming would have got into the French Pilot Boat which brought him on board, the People of which were preparing to receive him; when the English Captain ordered his Men to point their Guns into the said Pilot Boat, and threatened a full Discharge upon the said Boat, if they offered to assist or take in the said Burnel, which oblig'd them to desist, while the English retaking him, got him again on board, put him immediately in Irons in the Hold, and hoisting Sail carried him off, together with Mr [William] Morris, one of his Officers who accompanied him, and who is the Son of a Gentleman in America.

For the Truth of these Facts we refer your Excellency to the Procés verbal taken before the Admiralty at Cherburgh.

As we conceive this Action to be in Violation of the Law of Nations, & of the King's Protection, under which the Captain certainly was when in the Water, and when the French Boat was by an English armed Force prevented from receiving him, we rely on his Majesty's Magnanimity, and on the Justice and Honour of this noble Nation, that the said Capt. Burnell will be reclaimed by the King, and restored to his Vessel, together with his Officer Mr Morris: which we do accordingly most earnestly request; being fully persuaded, that the same will make a grateful and deep Impression on the Minds of the Americans, and augment the great Esteem and Respect, they already have for his Majesty, and their growing Affection for the French Nation.

We have the Honour to be, with great Regard [&c.]

Beg to acquaint you, on the 24th Inst I received two Prisoners one of which is John Burnell late Commander of the Montgomery Privatier, at the same time received an Order from the Justice, to keep him confined by himself, which I have done in one of the small Prisons in the upper Yard, being the only place not occupied: the same evening I waited on the Justice to know his reason for his being confined alone, that I might acquaint you therewith, the Answer was there was some discoveries he had made was thought might be of Service to Government, and that I should keep him by himself as long as I could, which submit to your directions: I have learnt from him since he has been in Prison, that he was in Paris, and that Mr Franklin to[ld] him they should give the English a blow where they least expected it, and that he had learnt from a Prisoner on board the Blenheim, that they had boug[ht] a French Frigate, and that she is fitting in some Port in the Mediterranean, and if she fell in with a Man of War, was to be a French Man; but if with a Merchant to be an American Continental Ves-

CAPTAIN SAMUEL NICHOLSON TO JONATHAN WILLIAMS, JR.¹

Dear Sir

St. Malo June 27 1777

This will inform you of Capt Wick[e]s & myself being chased in here this day by a 74 Gun ship who we fell in with yesterday morning off[f] Ushant, Johnston was in company the first of the Chase, but altered his course & Left us where he will get in I know not, but I imagine he will endeavour to beat down the Channel & get into Nantes or Bordeaux, we had been through the Irish Channel & between the Islands of Scilly & the Lands End of England, & Stretching over to Ushant fell in with this Ship; Capt Wicks only escaped by throwing all his guns overboard and sawing three of his beams in two, he had I suppose a Thousand shot fired at him, but very fortunately none struck him; in our Rout we took 18 prizes, 8 of which we sent forward for any port they could make in France or Spain, 7 we Sunk & 1 we gave the prisoners & two Smugglers we gave them their Vessells again.

My Little vessell is torn all to peices, if She goes out again from here she must have new Mast Bowsprit &c, however I hope they will never think of fitting her out again, as she will be only a pick pocket to them, as she is by no means fitt for the business, I have Suffer'd a great Deal in her this Cruize, have been constantly under water as we have had bad weather. We are Received by Governor and all the Officers of this port with open arms and every Service offer'd us.

Amongst our Prizes sent forward is a Jamaica Ship a Norwayman & a Wheat Vessell very valuable. If you can be of any Service to me in getting a nother Vessell I hope you will use your Interest. Pray write & Let me know if you have any news from America. I am Dr Sir [&c.]

"EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM AN OFFICER BELONGING TO HIS MAJESTY'S SHIP THE Levant, DATED GIBRALTAR, JUNE 27." ¹

This day we returned from a three weeks cruize, particulars as follows: After four days sail from the Streight's mouth we fell in with a 14 gun privateer, called the Vigilant, having with her a brig from Lisbon, named the Mayflower, bound to Bristol, which she had taken the day before. We gave chase, and in two hours came along side, and engaged her 10 minutes only, when she struck, after having one man killed and three wounded; the weather being moderate, and our Captain finding the brig making off, ordered the Lieutenant on board the privateer, with some men, to cut all the lanyards of her shrouds and stays, to prevent her carrying sail while we pursued the brig, which we came up with in about an hour, and took her without any opposition. Having taken her hands, and replaced them with 18 of ours, we again made sail for our former prize, which we came up with in about two hours. Our men soon repaired her damage, and without any loss of time put her in a sailing posture. Our Captain, in searching her papers, found the master's name to be Richard Witear, that she was fitted out at Dunkirk, which place he left 12 days before, and said he had been chased by a two-deck ship, which he supposed to be the Worcester, but got clear under cover of the night.

Our Captain ordered the officer to make the best of his way for Gibraltar with the Mayflower under his convoy, we continued cruising to the N.W. for two days, without meeting any thing till the third day at noon we saw a deep laden ship, which we gave chase to, and before dark came up with and fired a shot at her, which so intimidated the crew, that they struck. She proved to be about 200 tons, called the Pitt, Edward Sheers, Master, fitted out at Cherburgh, and bound to Boston, having on board two brass mortars, 150 swivels, bar iron, some shot, musquets, &c. the whole supposed to be worth about 3000 l. sterling.

We sailed for Gibraltar, which place we made in five days, and had the satisfaction to find our two prizes both safe arrived the day before.

The Raven came in five days before with a valuable prize, called the Vengeance, of 10 Carriage guns, and six swivels, and laden with rice, tobacco, indigo, &c. which prize she met about forty leagues to the westward of St. Eustatia.

Sir:

at Cherbourg 28 June 1777.

We find ourselves honored with Your agreeable Letter of the 23d instant. There arrived in This City Mr Budd of Guernsey who by Virtue of a power of attorney for the owners of the Vessel and Cargo taken prize by the American Privateer, demanded the restitution thereof from the Members of the Admiralty, to which no Reply whatever was made. The Proceedings of Mr. Budd induced us to make an estimation of the Vessel and the Cargo. According to the Findings It appears to Consist of Two Thousand Bricks, 121 casks & 17 barrels of Geneva Water, 73 cakes of Resin, 2 Lots of Iron, 25 Copper Fuses, 3 Dozen Calf skins and 4 small baskets of Merchandise. We consider that the total Amount for the Cargo and the Vessel, if Sold at public Auction, would be from 30 to 32 Thousand livres. . . .

CAPTAIN LAMBERT WICKES TO THE AMERICAN COMMISSIONERS IN FRANCE¹

Gentlemen,

St Mallo June 28th 1777 –

This will inform you of my Safe Arrival at this Port Yesterday in Company with Captain Samuel Nicholson of the Sloop Dolphin, We parted from Capt Johnston on the day before Yesterday a little to the East of Ushant – Now for the History of our late Cruize. We Sail'd in Company with Captains Johnston & Nicholson from St Nazair May 28th 1777, the 30th fell in with The Fudrion [Foudroyant] about 40 leagues to the West of Bell Isle who Chased us, fired Several Guns at the Lexington, but we got clear of her very Soon, and persued our Course to the No West in order to proceed round into the North Sea, in our way hither we brought too, Several French, Portugeas & Dutch Vessels all of which we let go, as Soon as we found who they were nothing more happen'd till we Arrived of[f] the No end of Ireland June 19th when we took two Brigs & two Sloops one of Each we Sunk, the other a Small Smugling Cutter we let go, and the other a Brig from Newry, sent into Port in Ballast, 20th took the Sloop Jassan [Jason] from White Haven, bound to Petersburg in Ballast sent her in 21st took Scotch Sloop from Prusia bound to Liverpool loaded with Wheat, took a Small Scotch Smugler and Sunk her 22d took the John & Thomas from Norway bound to Dublin loaded with Deals, the Brig Jenny & Sally from Glasgo bound to Norway in ballast. Sent them forward 22d took a Brig from Dublin bound to Irwin, Sunk her, took three large Brigs loaded with Coals from Whitehaven bound to Dublin Sunk them in Sight of that Port, after taking all the People out of them, took the Brig Crawford from Glasgo bound to St Ubes in Ballast – 23d took the Ship Grace, from Jamaica bound to Liverpool Loaded with Sugar, Rum, Cotton & Tobacco & the Brig Peggy from Cork bound to Liverpool loaded with Butter & hides, sent them forward, 24th At 8 P M, Gave the Brig Crawford to the Prisoners & sent them forward to Whitehaven, We Stood Down the Irish Channel. 25th took the Sloop John & Peter from Haverdegrass bound to Dungarvin in Ballast, gave them their Vessel & let them go; this day we passed between Scilley and the Lands End 26th At 4 P M took a Snow from Gibraltar bound to London loaded with Cork,² sent her forward. at 8 A M, Saw a large Ship of War off Ushant, Stood for her at 10 A M discovered her to be a large Ship of War standing for us,³ Bore away and made Sail from her, She Chased us till 9 P M, and Continued fireing at us from 4 till 8 at Night, she was Almost within Musquet Shott, & We escaped by heaving our Guns overboard and lightning the Ship, they pay very little regard to the Laws of Newtrality, as they Chased me and fired, as long as they dare stand in, for fear of runing aShore.

As I shall be under the Necessity of getting the Ship refitted here I hope you will furnish me with a Credit for what Money I want here, as soon as Possible, we Can get Supply'd here with Guns and every thing Necessary on tolerable easey Terms, I am in hopes you'll soon hear of Captain Johnstons Arrival as I saw him Clear of the Ship that Chas'd us. I think you had best Sell the Cutter and purchase some other Vessel for Capt Nicholson, as She is only a pickpocket and will want a heavy repair, if fitted out again for another Cruize, I shall look out and see if there is any Vessell in this port fitt for a Cruizer, If I should find one, will let you know, As I had not the pleasure of knowing Captain Johnston before I could not give him a Character Sufficient to his Merrit & Now beg leave to recommend him as a Very brave Active Officer & worthy your Honours utmost Attention. I little tho[ught] of Reaching St Mallo, as the ship fired near a H[undred] Shott at us, all of which reached & passed us -

The Prizes is Sent into L'Orient, Nantz, Bilboa or St Sabastian's, or the first port they Can reach. from Gentlemen [&c.]

CAPTAIN SAMUEL NICHOLSON TO THE AMERICAN COMMISSIONERS
IN FRANCE¹

Gentn/

St Mallo June 28th 1777 -

This will inform You of Capt Wickes & Self being Safe Arrived at this Port. Capt Johnson I beleave is Still out - On Thursday the 26th Inst off Ushant we fell in with an English 74 Gun Ship who gave us Chace wch Obliged us to bare away & run up this Channell he was to windward of us & the wind at S.W. Soon after the chace began Capt Wickes made the Signall for Johnson & mySelf to make the best of our way off on wch I hauled my wind to the Northwest, till the Man of War Pass'd me wch he did with out takeg any Notice of me Soon after I tack'd & Stood in close with the land, when I made another Sail bareg down on me I did not make Sail from her till I made her out to be an Armed Snow, on wch I made all the Sail I coud & run for this Port, I think in abt 4 Hours I run him out of Sight. next morning I fortunately fell in with Capt Wickes off this Place & we both came in here together, where we are very kindly received by every Person of Consequence in the Place, – on our leavg Nants we run down on the Coast of Spain but Saw nothg there, from thence we made the best of our way for the Irish Channell, but the winds blowg constantly from the Northwd, were Obliged us to go round Cape Clear & in to the Northwest of the Island, between it, and Scotland where we made 7 Prizes, from thence made Sail thro' Channell & run down between Scilley & the Lands end of England, & was Stretchg over & made Ushant, when we fell in with this 74 Gun Ship, we had Just before taken A Snow Under the Lizard, bound for Falmouth, from Giberalter, loaded with Cork, we sent 8 Prizes forward for the first Port they cou'd make in France or Spain, 7 we Sunk 1 we gave the Prisoners & 2 Smuggelers we gave their Vessells again, 3 Briggs loaded with Coals we Sunk in Sight of Dublin harbour –

Gentn my little Vessell is tore all to Pieces with this Cruize, & if You think Proper to fitt her again will want A New Mast & bowspritt, New topmast, & A Cable & anchor with many other things wch will cost You A Deal of Money & after all is by no Means fitt for the business, for She must carry So much Provisions for her Men that it P[uts her] deep in the water wch Obliges her to carry S[such a] Press of Sail that her Mast can not be Seen [as] Sufficent to Stand; I carried away my Mast 4 feet from the head & Sprung it in another Place 6 feet below the rigging; so that when ever we are in chase or chased, we are allways in Danger of being taken, Gentn I shall say no More about the Vessell because I bought her for You, but remember She was bought for A Packett, wch She is very fitt for Now, or any thing else where You have need, for no more than 20 Men, wch is barely enough to Sail her – She is tight & Strong, Capt Wickes & Capt Johnson will tell You how She has behaved during this Cruze, if another Vessell that has only 1 Mast more can be Procured for me, I shall be happy, however I shall follow Your Orders in every Particular; therefore You will be kind enough to give me Your Orders whether to fitt her again or not, I have abt 30 Good Men & Officers on b'd Now & in case it shou'd meet Your approbation dont doubt but a Vessell Might be got here & fitted at Very little expence more than what the Cutter woud sell for, as a great Part of our Stores &c would do in Another Small Vessell that [size] Gentn [&c.]

VERGENNES TO THE MARQUIS DE NOAILLES¹

[Extract]

No 35

at Versailles 28th June 1777.

. . . The protests, that we make against the force which English warships exercise against our merchant ships, are manifestly founded on the law of nations, on customs of the sea, and on the text of the Treaties; Lord Suffolk, unless he wishes to deceive himself, Should not Suspect our intentions; they are fully justified, both by the very nature of our requests and by the Scrupulous care with which we undertake to redress all the grievances brought before us by the British Ministry. Moreover, Sir, I exhausted this subject in my earlier letters, and I have nothing to add, either to the principles I set forth or to the thoughts which accompanied them: and we are left only with the desire to see the English Ministers agree with their fairness and adopt them as a rule of conduct: If they reject them, and persist in wanting to search all our ships indiscriminately, as well as those of Spain, they will force us to consider other means to shelter our commerce from such an inquisition.

Regarding the King of England's reserve towards the inclinations of the other powers, it naturally did make us very suspicious of that Prince's intentions; but our Suspicions have decreased considerably since we were informed of the conduct of the merchants in our islands: we Know that they are fitting out privateers with commissions from the Congress with really indecent public knowledge, and as the Court of London must Suppose that such fitting out cannot be done at all without the permission, or at least the connivance of the government, It No Doubt suspects us, by our favoring them, of views contrary to the assurances we give them daily of our peaceful inclinations. But I have already informed you, Sir, that measures have been taken to curb the truly reprehensible license of our merchants, and to prevent the accusations for which we gave no cause whatever; thus the English Ministers, whom you were authorized to inform, probably were not long deceived, and consequently have regarded us with feelings other than those suggested by His Britannic Majesty's speech . . .

CAPTAIN GEORGE BOWYER, R.N., TO PHILIP STEPHENS¹

Sir

Burford Plymouth Sound 29th June 1777

You will Please to acquaint My Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty of the return of His Majestys Ship under my Command into Plymouth Sound and lay before them the Inclosed Journal of my Proceedings, in Execution of their Lordships orders of the 23rd May; And also Inform them that having chased several Vessels within sight of Bell Isle, I fell in with a French Frigate of 32 Guns, who appeared evidently to be cruizing off that Place.

And upon my return on Thursday the 26th June Ushant being in sight and bearing SW distance 6 Leagues I saw four sail to the NE their Manoeuvres soon convinced me, three of them were Rebel Privateers, who taking us probably for an India Man intended to attack us. Upon discovery of their Mistake, they Separated, a Ship of 18 Guns edged towards the Coast of France; a large Brig of 16 Guns hauled to the Southward; and a large Cutter kept to the Northward; The other, a Large Snow which they had taken, threw herself readily in our way, a willing Sacrifice to draw our attention from the others. I continued in Chase of the Ship from 9 In the Morning 'till 9 at Night, and came up with her fast, but not having the good Fortune to carry any thing away, by several Shot which struck her, and being close into the French Shore, not far distant from the Rocks to the Eastward of Les Sept Isles, no Pilot on Board; Night coming on, and the appearance of squally weather, The safety of His Majestys Ship obliged me to relinquish the certain prospect of taking her; had the distance been but a few Leagues further. We plainly saw her throw her Guns over-Board, and many other things to lighten her, and I apprehend she is gone into St Maloes to refit, as I saw nothing of her, when I appeared off the next day. I send a Description of the Ship and Brigg for their Lordships information. I am Sir [&c.]

“EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM GLASGOW, JUNE 30,”¹

By a letter which came to hand last night from Port Glasgow, I have received the following particulars: That some of the people who came home with Captain [William] Drummond, of the Jeanie and Sally, of Greenock, who was taken by the Lexington, Reprisal, and Dolphin privateers, say, they heard the privateers men declare they intended visiting Clyde very soon, and could tell distinctly what troops and ships were there, and how many were expected in the next West India fleet. This news has very much alarmed the west coast. Our Provost has ordered 300 stand of arms to be sent from Dunbarton, to be put into the hands of the people of Greenock, for fear of any descent being attempted by the crews of these privateers.

The General Advertiser. Liverpool, FRIDAY, JULY 4, 1777

Whitehaven, Monday, July [sic June] 30.

Two or three hours has given a free circulation to a great number of falsities; one is, that the Lexington was off St. Bees Head, distant only two leagues on Saturday afternoon; that they attempted going into Douglas, Isle of Mann, that night: and on Saturday night they determined to run into Dublin, and cut out the Esther cutter and the Wasp sloop of war; with several other idle and improbable stories, which on the authority of several captains, who were so unfortunate as to fall into their hands, we can safely contradict: and on whose veracity we are bold to assure the public that these privateers never came to the eastward of the Isle of Mann.

On the same authority we can also add, that Wickes, declared his intention of not going out of his course for any prizes, (he was then endeavouring to run down the channel) but such as fell in his track, he must be obliged to take, if he could, in obedience to the orders of the Congress, which was, "to sink, burn, and destroy the ships or vessels of the enemy." — As a proof of this, we are told, that vessels were frequently seen, and passed without molestation.

The people in general speak in the warmest terms of the humane treatment they met with from the commander of the Reprisal and Lexington, both of whom endeavoured to make the situation of their prisoners as easy as their unhappy circumstances would admit.

Two letters from seamen in the privateers, to their friends in Ireland, were brought here by the Crawford, but contain nothing material.

We are credibly informed that Johnson, (the commander of the Lexington) is the same person who was last year taken in the Yankee privateer, and carried into London. — He is also grandson to the late Sir John Stuart, who made a vow that he could never sleep in his shirt till Jemmy got upon the throne, in consequence of which, — he died naked.

JAMES SOLLIOTT TO THE LORD MAYOR OF DUBLIN ¹

My Lord

Chester 30th June 1777 —

Before this reaches your Lordships hands, you will have heard of Three American Privateers ² being in the Irish Chanell where they have taken fourteen Vessels from the 19th to the 23d Inst, this Account is confirmed by a Captain of one of the Vessels (that was taken about 10 leagues to the West of Holyhead on the 22d Inst) belonging to Liverpool where he is Since Arrived after being landed at Whitehaven with Severell other Captains &

Seamen taken by the Said Privateers, the last Accounts we have of them is that they were left off Tuscar on the 23d Inst & were then pursuing their course thro' the Channell, but it is much feared that their reall Destination is to intercept the Linen Ships from Dublin for our Fair & it is much to be feared that they are not yet left our Chanell, it would be therefore imprudent for the Linen Ships to leave Dublin without a proper Convoy, to bring them Safe across the Chanell, There are two of our Traders the Active Capn Simmons & Alexander Captain Williams now ready to Sail with very Valueable Cargoes for Dublin, but we intend detaining them in Port 'till we hear of our Coast being clear of the Privateers, if a Convoy can be procured for the Linen Ships coming from Dublin to Chester, Your Lordship will do Essential Service to the Trade of the City of Dublin, by geting orders for the Convoy that comes from Dublin to take our Vessels (now detained here) under their protection on their return to Dublin, our Vessells being ready for Sea on the Shortest Notice, would be able to Joyn the Man of War in Beaumaris Bay or any other place that may be thought most proper for the Man of War to come on this Coast with Safety, I know it will give your Lordship pleasure to promote & protect the Trade & Commerce of the City of Dublin, at this time So immediatly under your good Management & protection, I remain on every Occasion with the Greatest Respect Your Lordships [&c.]

WILLIAM CARMICHAEL TO THE AMERICAN COMMISSIONERS IN FRANCE¹

Gentlemen

Dunkerque June 30th 1777.

I arrivd here this morning with a determination to comply with your orders & not to suffer Captn Cunningham to sail but as a merchant vessel returning with merchantable property to his own country. I found the parties concernd Disposd, of themselves, to comply with this disposition, heartily sick of having ever attempted other projects & resolvd for the future to seek other scenes of action, where they might more effectually serve themselves & Country. From doing this they are prevented by an order from Court, which disables them from sailing unless they give security not only that they shall not make prizes in the present voyage, tho' they should do it in consequence of being attackd by the Enemy, but such is the tenor of the order (as I am informd) that the security will be liable to be calld upon in case even after the arrival of their paltry little vessel in America any other Person should purchase it for a privateer. Strangers unknown, & as it seems in the Eyes of the inhabitants here, unprotected, can never hope to find security against such remote consequences. So that unless Administration grants these unfortunate sufferers the same privilege that is taken every day by our Enemies in this port, they must give up the property imbarkd in the adventure & return, each one execrating french timidity, partiality & politics, to his own Country, or seek happier fortune in the shore opposite to this. To sell their vessel will be impossible, as no one will venture to buy a vessel so circumstanc'd, & their goods that make up the Cargo will inevitably be disposd of to vast loss. I beg you to represent this in a proper place & manner. The Manifest, spoken of, would have been sent up in a few days, had not this unexpected order arrivd, & you would have heard no more on a subject that has given you, Gentlemen, so much uneasiness & has so much exposd us in the eyes of the world. Our Countrymen that escape from Captivity in England fly to this place as an asylum. Could they be encouragd here we should soon have not only many of them, but many English sailors who fly from the Press or desert the service, & from hence we could send them to other ports less offensive to England. I shall do myself the honor to write you more fully next post. I am Gentlemen [&c.]

Nantes June 30 1777

Honble Gentlemen

10 oClock in the Evening

My last by the Post informed you of the return of the Mercury and the summary of the News she brought, I now send you a number of papers which did not come into my hands 'till today being brought by one of the Ship's Officers. The Captain tells me that about the 10th or 12th of May Capt manly with a Frigate of 36 Guns Capt McNeil with another of 28, and another Frigate of 36, with 30 sail of Privateers sailed from Boston and had orders to cruise together; 2 fine Frigates lay at Portsmouth, one ready to sail, the other waiting for want of Guns &c a 74 is on the Stocks in that place –

Inclosed is a Copy of two Letters I have written to St Malo, in consequence of hearing that a large prize said to be laden with Sugar Cotton & Indigo being sent into that port. The Authority I have assumed is by the express desire of Mr [John] Ross, who exclusive of the right I derive from you (no person of better authority being here) puts into my hands the management of all prizes that comes in here or any other port on the public acct, in the absence of Mr [Thomas] Morris, & at his return to act jointly with him; on the arrival of Mr [William] Lee with superior powers, I shall resign to him. All this is unsolicited and without a request on my part, but I shall do the best I can for the public Good, concluding that with this Intention you will not be displeas'd with the part I act.

I also enclose a Letter from Capt Johnson who is chased into Morlaix, but I as yet have heard nothing of either Wickes or Nicholson, the Barge-men from Painbeuf report the arrival of three prizes at that place, & I am in momentary Expectation of hearing the particulars; that there are three considerable ones appears to me certain, from many different Bargemen who have come to Town, but the prize masters have not yet come up. I shall take these upon myself and do all I think necessary for the preservation of the property, according as circumstances may direct, 'till I have your particular orders, and if I sell them, shall do it to the best advantage. The Bargemen report, that, the 3 Cruizers have taken and destroyed in all 28. this number seems to me too much, but the people persist that the prize master says so, I shall however know by the time the post goes out, when shall be particular I take the earliest occasion to give you all the news as far as I know myself. . . .

I have the honor to inform you that having 44 Barrels of oil, 19 Slabs of marble, 5000 Packages of figs, 25 thousand of Soap and 2000 olives to put in oil, on board,² I had gone to take the vessel out of the Harbor and to go and anchor in a roadstead a league from here, where I was planning in two days to take the remainder on board, but at the moment when we were casting off M. Poellon came and told me that I could not sail, I know that he has orders, even, not to give any permit for the loading of l'Heureux until he has received new orders to do so: so I am here with my arms folded until you can remove the obstacles that are keeping us here and have given orders to have them give us orders to leave, if you think best. . . .

I think it my Duty to transmit to your Lordship the following Intelligence.

About half an hour ago a Vessel arrived here from St Malo, the Master is with me and sais he left here [there] two Privatiers one of 16. Guns & a Cutter, they give it out there that they have taken 16. Prizes and sunk four Colliers, after taking out their Men – further says that they were chased by one of our Men of War was obliged to throw their Guns over board, & that he saw them chusing other Guns to take on board – there was a Brigg in Company with them, but they did not know what was become of her ² – the American Privatiers infest these Islands to the great hurt of the Merchants. I have the honor to be &c.

BEAUMARCHAIS TO VERGENNES ¹

[Extract]

Monsieur le comte

Paris the 1st July 1777 afternoon

I have received this instant the good news that l'Amphitrite, after a tedious passage of 85 Days, has arrived at Portsmouth 17 leagues to the north of Boston. The whole Crew was pushed to the brink of their strength and courage. They are now well. It is Capt. Heraud, commanding l'Mercure, and arrived from Boston in 23 Days who posted this good news on the 28th June on his arrival at Nantes.

Le Marquis de la Chalottais entered Charleston accompanied by 3 other French vessels on the 4th of May.

I learn also by letters from Cape Francais of the 18th May that the cargo of l'Amelia has luckily arrived at that port, and has already been sent out again, distributed amongst several American and Bermudian vessels, bought on my account at St Domingue. The officers who were at the Cape, Have also left on the schooner la Catherine, sent off without artillery, but merely with a cargo of one Hundred Casks of tafia for the Port of Dunkerque, which protects these officers from all danger on their passage to Boston. . . .

I Am very sorry to receive confirmation of the troublesome announcement that the Marquis de Bouillé made at Martinique on arriving there. It seems certain that France has conceded to England, the right of stopping and seizing any French vessel, coming from the Islands, which Will be loaded with produce for the mainland – what distress can have induced us to make such an agreement? ²

And the French ship-owners add this reflection. As the English often come to trade clandestinely in our colonies, and carry away produce; if our French vessels fall in with any with sugar, coffee or cotton, recognized as coming from our Islands, they may then, by way of reprisal, since the French Government delivers them to their enemies, seize them and consider them as lawful prizes, although taken on the high seas. . . .

You see, by these details, that If we do not act well, we at least act quickly. But I much fear that there will soon be some shots fired, between the Merchant vessels of the French and English nations, who are at peace with each other; since one claims to be authorized to ruin the Commerce of the other, and this one is not at all in a humor to accede to the kindnesses of the French administration, towards the honest English at the expense of all its commerce.

Capt. R. and myself are just returned from our Tour to the Coast of France. – In our Passage to Guernsey we fell in with a Rebel Privateer of 12 Guns and 10 Swivels. We were in Mr. Tucker's Yacht of this place with four Men only. As soon as the Enemy came within Gun-shot, she poured in a Broadside on us; one of the Shot struck a Bowl of Punch out of Capt. R.'s Hand, went through the Flap of my Coat, and was nearly carrying away the Bowsprit, singeing the parts around. We gave her a Discharge of our Swivels, on which she sheered off. We hope soon to see a sufficient Number of armed Sloops appointed to scour the Channel of these infamous Fellows.

My Lord,

Paris 2 July 1777.

I am sorry to inform Your Lordship, that the Mercury a French Ship just arrived from Boston has brought certain Advice of the safe Arrival of the Amphitrite: She reached Portsmouth in New England the 30th of April. It is said that these two Ships the Amphitrite and Mercury, had on board no less than thirty thousand Stand of Arms four hundred Tun of Gun Powder, five thousand Tents, and sixty four Pieces of Field Artillery. The Arrival of these great Succours, greater I believe than ever were furnished by a Nation pretending to be at Peace, has raised the Spirits of the Rebels and of their numerous Well-wishers here.

I am secretly informed that Carmichael set out on Sunday last for Dunkirk: There can I think be no Doubt that the Object of his Journey is to quicken the Expedition of the Succours the Rebels are drawing from thence, and which are shipping on board those Vessels Beaumarchais' Secretary has hired.

One Thompson an American Captain who had cruized very successfully before he was taken and who has lately made his Escape, out of I know not what Prison in England is arrived here. He had no Money when he arrived, but was immediately supplied by Franklin with a pretty large Sum, and is going to Nantz, to purchase a French Vessel and cruize as he says in the Channel, where as he gives out, he hopes to take ample Revenge for the harsh Treatment he pretends to have received in Prison.

INTELLIGENCE SUMMARY OF FRENCH ASSISTANCE TO AMERICAN NAVAL VESSELS AND PRIVATEERS ¹

Admiralty Office 3d July 1777. Abstract of Advices lately received respecting Privatiers which have gitted out or refitted, in the Ports of France; or which have arrived at, or sailed from, some of those ports.

Dates of the Advices	From whom reced	Nature of the Advices
5 May 1777	Sr Stanr Porten	That one Cunningham had sailed from Dunkirk in an Irish Wherry of 100 Tons mounting 8 Carriage Guns besides swivels & having on board about 50 men - NB. By various accounts received afterwards it appeared that the above Pirate had taken one of the Harwich pacquet Boats, and an English Brig & carried them into Dunkirk
7 Do	- Do	That an American Privatier which had taken the Swallow (another pacquet Boat) had refitted at L'Orient and afterwards put to sea again & taken several other prizes
Do	- Mr Todd of the post office	That Capt Nichols of the Eagle pacquet Boat had spoken on the 19th Ult, with a Swedish ship from Brest to Malaga, & learnt by her that there were then fitting out at Brest 4 American Privtrs
15th May 1777.	Sr S. Porten	That an English Cutter of 140 Tons, to carry 20 pieces of Cannon besides Swivels, had been purchased & was fitting out at Dunkirk by the same person who purchased & fitted out the Irish Wherry
19 Do	Lord Weymouth	That a privatier of 10 Guns had arrived, the beginning of the month, at Bourdeaux, from Philadelphia, And that the Lexington privatier had sailed from Bourdeaux about the same time to join the Reprizal & other privatiers at Nantz.

23d Do Sir S. Porten

That 3 privatiers (one of 28 Guns, the others of 10 guns each) were at Bourdeaux the beginning of May preparing to sail on a Cruize; That the Reprizal had sailed from L'Orient on a Cruize; And that 6 privatiers (from 16 to 26 guns) were fitting out at Nantz.

Do - Mr Robinson of the Treasury

That an English Cutter, of 150 Tons, built at Cawsand near Plymouth, had been purchased, and was fitting out as a privatier, in the Ports of France - And that two other small privatiers supposed to have been fitted out in the same manner, had been seen in the Channel

24th May 1777 Lord Amherst

That several privatiers were in the ports of Nantz L'Orient & Bourdeaux.

25 Do - Lord Weymouth

That two French Ships (one of 400 Tons & 18 Guns the other of 340 Tons & 12 or 14 guns) were fitting Out at Marseilles or Toulon (but believed to be at the former) destined, as supposed, to No America - the largest to have 12 brass mortars put onboard her - Each to have 2 Captains, one a Frenchman, the other with a Commission from the Congress.

7 June - Lord Amherst

That a small privatier called the Montgomery mounting 2 Carriage, and 6 Swivel Guns, & manned with 23 men was at Brehaut -

NB.

She afterwards took a Brig & carried her into Cherburgh - & since that her Commander has been seized & brought to England.

Dates of the Advices	From whom reced	Nature of the Advices
13 Do -	Sr Thos Pye	That a small Schooner Privr of 50 or 60 Tons arrived at Brehaut on the Coast of Brittany from Maryland; had cleaned & refitted there & had recruited French men to supply the places of those put onboard the several prizes she had taken.
16th June 1777. -	Sr Stanr Porten	That a large Cutter privatier of 130 Tons was fitting out at Dunkirk, to be commanded by Cunningham, the pirate beforementioned; and to be navigated to Havre by French men; to which place he & his Crew were to go by Land. NB. The above intelligence is confirmed by various other accounts, with this addition that Cunningham had declared his intention of seizing others of the pacquet Boats - And that the Wherry which he before commanded is to be employed under him.
18th Do -	Do	That Weeks, Johnson & Nicholson, who command 3 American privatiers (vizt the Reprizal , Lexington & Dolphin) sailed from St Nazier on the 27th Ult.
20th Do -	Lord North	That some Commanders of American Privatiers in France had formed & bound themselves by oath to execute, a design of surprizing, & carrying off from the Nore His Majesty's ship Conquestador
21st June 1777 -	Mr Knox	That a Large ship of 400 Tons belonging to Dunkirk, employed last War as a privatier & since that in the West India Trade, was fitting out again at that Port as a Privatier.

26 Do - Mr Martin of Whitehaven

{ That the Reprizal, Lexington, & Dolphin privatiers before mentioned had, on the 23d Inst off the Mull of Cantire, taken 15 Vessels; some of which they had sunk, & sent others to the Ports of France & America; that they were preparing to return to France to recruit their men; and that great part of their Crews were Frenchmen.

NB.

This intelligence hath been confirmed by various other Accounts - And yesterday advice was received that Capt Bowyer of the Burford had fallen in with them near Ushant & had chased the Reprizal close into the Coast of France near Les Sept Isles, after having seen her throw her guns & many other things overboard - he supposes she is gone into St Maloes to refit -

1 July - Mr Todd

{ That a privatier of 36 Guns is fitting out at Dunkirk - probably the ship abovementioned by Mr Knox.

1 July 1777 - Mr Robinson

INTELLIGENCE REGARDING MARTINIQUE RECEIVED FROM ARTHUR PIGGOTT ¹

(Copy)

I was at Martinique from the 21st of April to the 6th of May, I had heard before I went there much of the protection given by the French at that Island to the American Privateers; and was astonished to find that there had been no exaggeration in the Reports.

Neither myself nor any part of my Family was permitted to land untill an Officer called a Visitor was found to Conduct us to the Lieutenant du Roi, who commanded in the Town and to whom We were to give an Account of our Errand. I imagined at first that this was an ordinary Regulation of a despotick Government, but was repeatedly informed that it had been a new Order of a few days preceding and that it had its rise from what follows.

A large french Ship with Military Stores had arrived at Martinique from Nantz or Bourdeaux I believe from the former Place. She was said to be cleared out for Martinique and St Domingo and the better to cover the Fraud some very small part of the Cargo was landed at Martinique. The Ship was in fact destined for Philadelphia and if the Adventure were a private one of Merchants, it was at least recommended to the care of Comte D'Argout the Governor of Martinique, because without any Reserve or Caution he assisted Mr Bingham in taking measures for the future safety of the Ship and Cargo. There came from France on board of the Ship a Mr Davis who appeared in the habit of an Officer and went by the Name of Col Davis. Accidentally I had formerly seen this Man who was born in Boston. He now brought Letters from Dr Franklyn to Mr Bingham and by the latter was largely supplied with Money and other Necessaries. Davis was to proceed to America, a Pilot was provided for the Ship by the French Governor and Mr Bingham and as the most undeniable proof of the place of her destination, an order was given by Mr Bingham upon the Congress to the Pilot for his Wages, whilst this Ship was at Martinique Ensign — of the 48th Regt happened to be there and being in a Public House at dinner where the Ship and American Colonel happened to be the Subjects of Conversation, he had incautiously declared that they would be taken, adding that he had given Information of her. Whether he had or had not given information the Ship was taken immediately upon going out and carried into Dominica² Comte D'Argout I am told committed himself so far as to send a Sloop of War to claim her as French Property, but she was refused to his Application and was proceeded against at Dominica. There she was claimed by the directions of Mr Bingham, who according to my information corresponded with Mr Glanville a Barrister at Law at Dominica upon that Subject. I apprehend that Mr Glanville acted as Counsel for the Claimant and that he was employed so to do by Mr Bingham. Govr Shirley has no doubt given Information of all the circumstances attending the Capture and Condemnation of this Ship.

The Declaration of Ensign — and (whether it was consequential or not) the subsequent Capture of this Ship occasioned the vigilance of the French Government over the Actions of the English. a few days before my Arrival all the English Men in St Pierre had been summoned before the Lieutenant du Roi and questioned concerning their business. Several of them were ordered off in a few hours under pain of imprisonment, particularly a Mr Hallowell a young Man from Grenada, who was suspected of giving information to Lord Macartney.

A Sloop belonging to a Merchant in Grenada with 54 Slaves on board the property of Planters in Tobago was taken and carried into Martinique. The Owner of the Sloop went to Claim the Vessel and a Mr Stewart a Planter of Tobago to claim the Negroes. They both had Letters from Lord Macartney to Comte D'Argout but instead of receiving any Sort of Satisfaction, they were scarcely treated with Civility. Tho their Property was lying in the Bay Comte D'Argout told them he knew nothing of the matter and was surprized at their Applications. The inefficacy of these has discouraged any further attempts of the like Nature. Lately a Schooner with 30 Hogsheads of Sugar and 20 Puncheons of Rum and several Marine Negroes and an unladen Sloop with 5 or 6 Negroes both at Anchor in a Bay were cut out of Tobago. The Proprietor of the former went to Martinique not to claim but to purchase his own Property and there actually contracted with Mr Bingham for the Schooner and Negroes (the Cargo was otherways disposed of) for a considerable Sum of money tho' not the full Value of them.

There is a Bay called Corbet about a Mile or half a League to the Southward of St Pierre's (the Capital) appropriated to the reception of the Americans and their Prizes. The Americans call it Philadelphia Bay. There the Prizes are openly Sold. Five or Six were taken whilst I was there. the Names of such of these as I could collect I have sent to Lloyds. I had such repeated Cautions of the risk of writing that I did not commit any information that I obtained or observation that I made to writing. The motions of the English were narrowly watched and all Letters which they sent from the Island were examined. The Capture of the Hawke Capt. Mill from Africa with 454 Slaves and a large quantity of Ivory and Gold Dust was attended with some Circumstances that may deserve Notice. A Govr Mill who had Commanded a Fort upon the Coast and was coming home had all his property embarked on board of this Ship. After the Vessel was carried in Govr Mill with the assistance of two English Merchants of Antigua who happened to be at Martinique contracted for the Ransom of the Ship and Cargo at the price of 22,000 pounds Currency. The Arrangement was made, the Money and Bills provided and the Agreement was about to be executed when a Guarda Costa appeared in Corbet and signified his Orders that the Ship should not stir from thence. At the same time Comte D'Argout sent to purchase 11 of the Slaves the Marquis de Bouille 9 and the Captain of a Sloop of War 6 which the Captors durst not refuse to them. These Steps effectually frustrated the Agreement for the ransom and signified very plainly to the Captors that the Inhabitants of Martinique were alone to have the Benefit of the prizes brought in there and this valuable Cargo worth not much less than 30000 pounds Sterling was then retailed to the French for less than 12000 -

The Americans are much caressed among the Inhabitants who are equally jealous of those English whom they call Royalists. The American Flag is not only suffered in their Harbours, but is erected triumphantly in every Street in the Town. Whilst I was there an American Ship mounting 26 Guns called the Oliver Cromwell commanded by Capt. [Harmon] Courter which was generally supposed to be a Frigate, tho she was private Property belonging to Philadelphia upon going out of the Bay saluted a Sloop of War then lying there who instantly returned the Salute. This happened about the 1st of May. Mr Bingham a Native of Philadelphia has for some time been there, the professed and publick Agent of the Congress and resides publickly at No 252 Rue du Petit Versailles, from whence he deals out Commissions against the English to all such as apply for them. He had access whenever he pleased to Comte D'Argout & was upon the best terms with him. He trades very largely not only upon his own Account as a Merchant but in the purchase of all the Arms, Ammunition and Cloathing which he can get as Agent for the Congress.

The Number of Privateers fitted and fitting out is scarcely credible. Every prize Vessel proper to be converted into a Privateer is fitted out as one, for which Trade the Americans find every thing at St Pierres. There are however more Privateers the property of French Merchants than of Americans. They are manned chiefly with French and Italians. The real Master and Officers are French. They generally have a nominal Captain sometimes a nominal Captain and second Captain (this last is the french Appellation for that Officer whom the English call a Mate) who are Americans and to whom the Commissions (for they all have Commissions from Mr Bingham) are given. A Monsr Sargenton, a Monsr Pregent, Messrs Berne et Enfanton all Merchants in St Pierre and many others are largely concerned in these and notoriously so under the Sanction of the French Governor Comte D'Argout.

The Marquis de Bouille arrived about the 1st of May to take the Command from Monsr D'Argout who succeeds Comte D'Ennery lately dead in the Government of St Domingo. Some of the better sort of Planters and Merchants who mindful of the Events of last War had been alarmed at the Encouragement given to the Americans and had remonstrated with Comte D'Argout upon the probable Consequences of it conceived great hopes of a Change of Measures upon the Arrival of the new Governor. When I sailed Mr Bingham had been three Days at Fort Royal where the Commander in Cheif resides with both Governors & was not returned to St Pierres. I did hear that the new Governor had expressed his Surprize at the open manner in which Mr D'Argout had protected the Americans and encouraged the Hostilities of the French. How true this was I know not. I took the extraordinary length of Mr Bingham's visit as no very favorable prognostick.

Our Men of War have taken several French Ships out of Martinique with American Produce on board. This the French have complained loudly of, as an open and violent infraction of the Law of Nations. Not at all informed of our Act of Parliament under which these Captures are made, they ascribe them entirely to the conduct observed by the French Governors and deem them Reprisals on our part for receiving in their Ports the American Prizes. I saw three Ships go out for Bourdeaux and Marseilles with Tobacco on board under Convoy of a Frigate of 36 Guns.

N.B. I cannot at this moment recollect the Name of the Ensign mentioned and for whose Name a Blank is left nor have I at hand a List of the Army in which I could readily find it.

Dunkirk 3d July 1777.

I have the honour to inform Your Lordship that the Cutter, the Greyhound,² has this day taken her Guns on board, amounting to 14. four Pounders, as also a large proportion of Shot & Grape Shot. The Guns were not mounted but put directly into the hold with their Carriages, & this Embarkation was made without any particular precautions or secrecy whatever. I have likewise the honour to acquaint Your Lordship that the Sails of the Cutter have been bent this Evening, and that she seems now quite ready to put to Sea.

The Court of France has, I understand, required of Mr Hodge to find security that no Depredations shall be committed by his Vessel on the high Seas, but that Mr Hodge has answered, he cannot find any security, and has applied to have this Restriction taken off. Should that continue to be insisted upon, it is still to be apprehended the Cutter will seize an opportunity of putting to Sea in the Night.

Mr Hodge, not finding a sufficient number of hands to equip both his Vessels, has given up thoughts of arming the Lugger, & has announced that she is to be sold. I have the honour to be &ca

(No 43)

My Lord

St James's 4th July 1777

The Letters from Your Excellency to No 107 have been received and laid before The King.

The proper representations made by Your Excy to the french Ministers with respect to the Cutter fitting out at Dunkirk; the Artillery and military Stores collecting for the use of the Rebels, and the several causes of Complaint given by their Governors in the West Indies, meet with His Majesty's approbation

The inclosed copy of a Letter from Whitehaven will shew Your Excy that fresh Proofs have been lately given of the Protection held out to the Rebels in the french Ports where the three Privateers, the Reprisal, the Lexington, and the Dolphin have been supplied with every thing that was necessary to them for their Cruise, the last of them wholly fitted out at Nantes, and it appears that after their Cruise they returned to some of the Ports of France.²

This Account by His Majesty's Command has been taken into consideration by His confidential Servants, and their Opinion thereon submitted to His Majesty.

In consequence thereof I am commanded by His Majesty to signify to Your Excellency It is His Pleasure that You acquaint the french Ministers, that however desirous His Majesty may be to maintain the present Peace, He cannot from His Respect to His own Honour, and His Regard to the Interest of His trading subjects submit to such strong and public instances of support and protection shewn to the Rebels by a Nation that at the same time professes in the strongest terms its Desire to maintain the present Harmony subsisting between the two Crowns. The shelter given to the armed Vessels of the Rebels, the facility they have of disposing of their Prizes by the connivance of Government, and the conveniencies allowed them to refit are such irrefragable proofs of support, that scarcely more could be done if there was an avowed Alliance betwixt France and them, and that We were in a state of War with that kingdom.

"The Avidity of Gain will tempt Merchants in all Countries to do very irregular things, and that Avidity may not be easily controlled,"³ but the private views of the Traders of France are not concerned in these transactions otherwise than by buying below their value what is supposed to be sold clandestinely in the case of the Prizes carried into the french Ports. Such a circumstance cannot weigh with a great State, whose Views must be directed by greater considerations. The Views of the Rebels are evident. they know that the Honour of this Country, and the proper Feelings of the People in general will not submit to such open violation of solemn Treaties and established Laws acknowledged by all Nations. The necessary consequence must be a War, which is the object they have in view, and they are not delicate in the choice of means that may bring about an end so much desired by them.

These Reflections, My Lord, Your Excellency will communicate to the french Ministers, expressing at the same time that an explanation is desired, not a menace intended; but on full consideration of the present circumstances they must be satisfied Peace, however earnestly wished, cannot be maintained, unless an effectual stop is put to our just causes of complaint.

Lord Macartney & Governor Shirley have transmitted many depositions on oath, to ascertain the complaints, the particular subjects of which have been sent to Your Excy, but I do not trouble You with them as you need no proofs to be convinced that the french Governors are acting the most unjustifiable Conduct in the West Indies, where there is too much reason to suspect they are concerned in the piracies. London. Friday, July 4.

Letters from Dunkirk mention, that an affray happened last week between some of Captain Cunningham's American crew and the English sailors belonging to a Deal cutter, in which two men were desperately wounded. The next day the English and Americans, having armed themselves with cutlasses, prepared for a general engagement, without the walls of the town; but several of the rioters being secured by the military, a termination was put to this contest.

CAPTAIN JOHN JERVIS, R.N., TO PHILIP STEPHENS ¹

Sir,

Foudroyant, at Spithead 4th July 1777 –

I desire you will acquaint my Lords Commissioners of the Admty, that I arriv'd here this day in His Majestys Ship, under my Command, having seen only one American Vessel, during the Cruize, a Schooner Privateer of eight Guns, which we chac'd under the Isle of Oleron, and I have since heard she went into Bourdeaux and has remained there ever since. My Letter of the 8th of June would inform their Lordships that we saw on the 4th a French Squadron off Belle Isle, consisting of three line of Battle Ships, three Frigates and a Schooner – on the 23d at day break we fell in with another Squadron of three Ships of the line and a Corvette, and as soon as I made them to be French, we haul'd on a different Tack, they immediately chac'd by Signal, and as I did not hold it consistent with the dignity of His Majesty's Colours to crowd Sail from them, the Robuste Commanded by Monr la Motte Piquet, Comodore of this Squadron came within hail at seven o'Clock, when reciprocal Compliments pass'd, and refreshments were convey'd by each others Boats. Monr La Motte Piquet express'd a desire to sail in Company with the Foudroyant, for a few days, which I wav'd, nevertheless during that whole day, and part of the Night, he stuck close to us, tacking and altering his Course as we did; the Squadron was compos'd of the Robuste, Reflechi, Protee, and Curieuse. From the Officer who came on board to make Monr La Motte's Compliments, I learn'd that all their Seamen were detain'd at home, except those employ'd Coastwise, and this Intelligence corresponded with accounts I had before receiv'd from Coasting Vessels, and Pilot Boats. Inclos'd is the State and Condition, and a Journal of the Proceedings of His Majesty's Ship Foudroyant. I am Sir [&c.]

Paris. July 4th 1777 –

Yours of the 30th Ulto and 1st Inst are before us. Mr Morris were he present has not the least right to any direction of Capt Weekes or his prizes, & less so to Johnson or Nicholson, they are continental property, & are immediately under our direction, by the Express orders of Congress, and under no other persons.

Inclosed you have a letter to Capt Weekes and to Capts Johnson & Nicholson on this subject. Mr Lee's arrival would make no odds in this business, as it is distinct from anything containd in either of their appointments, and your appointment from us is the only one that at present can be of any force, we therefore direct you not to give way to any pretensions of any one, but consulting with Mr [John] Ross and Capt Weekes proceed to dispose of the prizes, & to settle their affairs in the best & most expeditious manner possible. Mr Deane has wrote to Capt Weekes to address to the House you mention.

LORD WEYMOUTH TO LORDS COMMISSIONERS, ADMIRALTY ¹

[Extract]

My Lords,

St James's 5th July 1777.

I have The King's Command to transmit to Your Lordships the inclosed copy of a Letter I have received from the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, in which are expressed the Alarms given to the Merchants of that Kingdom from the late appearance of Rebel Privateers, and their apprehensions that some attempt may be made on the Shipping in the Port of Dublin, or other Places of Ireland, especially as the Linen Ships were ready to sail and cannot proceed on their Voyage until there is in the Channel some Ship of sufficient force to protect them.² I am therefore to signify to Your Lordships His Majesty's Pleasure that You should take such Measures as You may judge necessary for the security of the Shipping and Trade of Ireland. . . .

2. Public Advertiser, London, July 16, 1777, carried an "Extract of a Letter from a Gentleman in Dublin, dated July 5.":

Dublin has been thrown into the utmost Consternation by the Appearance of the American Privateers on this Coast. A Stop is put to all Trade. Not one of the Linen Ships, that were loaded for Chester Fair, are suffered to depart, upon which Account the Fair must be postponed, if any Fair be held. The Lord Lieutenant has thought it expedient, lest the Americans should make any Attempt upon the Shipping in this Harbour, to order Cannon from the Arsenal, to form two Batteries to defend the Entrance of it. No Insurance can be procured, and Linen has already fallen a Penny a Yard. They are unloading the Linen Ships with the utmost Diligence, for Fear of an Attempt to burn them, and all the Vessels are drawn as near as possible to the Bridge.

ANDREW FRAZER TO LORD WEYMOUTH ¹Copy.

My Lord,

Dunkirk. 5 July 1777.

I beg leave to inform Your Lordship that it is now confidently said that the Greyhound Cutter² will be navigated from hence to l'Orient, Nantes, or some other Port at the other end of the Channel by a french Master & Crew, & that Cunningham & his People will go by land to join their Vessel. There are reasons to suppose that the Cutter will put into Havre de Grace, as I find some of the People have been making enquiries as to the best way of going thither.

She is now quite ready, and, if the weather permits, will, I imagine, sail on monday next, or tuesday at furthest & if the wind continues westerly, she may easily be intercepted by Vessels sent to look out for her, particularly if sent from Spithead to cruize between Havre de Grace & Boulogne.

Here follows her principal Marks.

A Cutter of about 150 Tons, clinker built, tarred Sides and black bottom, one yellow moulding all along the Gunnel, has nine ports of a side, and a Row-port between each; Stanchions on the Top of the Gunnel all round, supposed to be for supporting a Network. Stern with a round Tafferaill painted black & yellow mouldings - At the main boom is a driver boom, also at the bow-sprit-end is an Iron for a flying-Jib-boom occasionally – A very lofty Top-mast with a Royal Mast, the top Mast irons in the fore part of the Mast – There is likewise a small mizen Mast which ships in the quarter occasionally. This Cutter has 14. four Pounders on board, but not at present mounted, neither are any Swivels mounted. I have the honor to be &ca

JONATHAN WILLIAMS, JR., TO THE AMERICAN COMMISSIONERS IN FRANCE ¹

Gentlemen

Nantes July 5 1777

I omitted mentioning in my last that I had Drawn on you in favor of Messrs Montadouin for 1500 Livres at 8 days date which please to honor – Capt Hynson & myself will go to paimbeof tomorrow to Examine the Duc De Chartres. ² I mentioned to you that her price was 68,000 Livres but that is the price offered for her the Owners Ask 70,000 for her this is a great deal of money but I really think it will be better to purchase than to freight even if one could be had I do not hear of any Ship that would answer our purpose to be procured on freight & I find that the people here Expects at least as much Extraordinary freight as would insure the Ship and the Extraordinary Gratifications to the Capt & people in addition to which our pressing occasion would perhaps augment the price & the Merchts perhaps make great profit – If we purchase you will have a Ship that is capable of carrying all your Stores at once & the 30 Cases of Arms which I shall give from the Magazine with 100 Saddles and 2 or 300 pr of Holsters that will be ready in time She will be able to run from a Superior force or fight an Equal one & when She Arrives in America you will have the means of bringing home a freight of 7 or 800 hhds of Tobacco at a trifflin Expence if She makes this Voyage Safely she will more than clear herself the Profit a french Mercht would make will be saved & if you are to give them as much Extrad freight as the insurance amts to it appears to me the Same thing as if you Risque the property yourself.

In considering the above circumstances and yr Orders I shall (if upon Examination the Ship answers the Character I have of her) make the purchase immediatly & proceed with all possible Dispatch – The next thing to consider is the way she is to be Dispatched Capt Hynson ask for only half the number of guns but twice the weight by which he thinks he can fight a greater force should there be occasion if you choose she should go with out a french Capt & we should not conclude to fit out a privateer we can have a number of American Sailors here; if you choose She should go as a frenchman (which would be best on this Coast at least tho' I imagine make but Little difference on the other) I will so manage the matter as to keep her destanation unknown & when She is ready if we had twice the Number of Spies that we have we should not be affected by them

In consequence of Mr [Thomas] Morris's Return I have relinquished all pretentions to the affair of prizes &c I have received Letters from Wicks

& Nicholson who seem'd to be very much Satisfyed with the house I named to them it appears to me to be of consequence to have concerns with the first houses in the ports of France in preference to any others as in case of need we can have advances and it is always easy to have good connections as indifferent ones this is the only reason which induced me to name them which I hope will meet with your approbation

Capt Nicholson Seems very unhappy with his Little Vessell³ which he thinks will never answer your purpose – I am affraid of proposing any new way of disposing of your Funds as you have already so many but I think if you mean to give Nicholson another Ship I could build one here in about 3 months capable of carrying 14 guns to Sail equal to any thing the Hull of which would cost 20,000 Livers Lanch'd in the water & we may Suppose as much more for her mast yards Riggen &c – I have the honor to be

LORD FREDERICK CAMPBELL TO LORD SANDWICH¹

Coombank, July 7th 1777.

My Lord – I have been honoured with your Lordship's letter of yesterday from Hampton Court, for which I feel myself much obliged. Your Lordship's time is of too much consequence to be taken up in corresponding with me, but I must beg leave once more humbly to represent to your consideration the grounds upon which I have, in the name of the merchants, formerly applied and did lately apply to have a ship of force stationed somewhere in the River Clyde, because I am afraid I have not been sufficiently understood.

In the first place, it was wished that a frigate might have been so stationed because she would at all times have been ready to cruise between the Mulls of Cantire and Galloway, and by that means have given protection to Ayr, Irvine, Rothesay, Greenock, and Port Glasgow, as well as to the north of Ireland.

In the next place, this protection was wished for the more because, the trade of this part of the world having been almost entirely carried on with America only, the merchants had reason to believe this coast would be the first object of the resentment of their privateers – the more so as the Americans knew well that the inhabitants upon these coasts were without forts or arms to protect them, and that their warehouses were full of tobacco, become of late very valuable and all they had to make up for the losses sustained by the American rebellion. Through me, your Lordship knows these fears were represented at the end of last year. They might then appear hastily and improperly taken up, that is not the case now.

Lastly, it was thought that a ship so stationed might have obtained as many good sailors here as perhaps at any other station about Great Britain, probably more.

The inhabitants upon these coasts are mostly sailors, one half of them idle from the stop put to the American trade, the remainder employed in the herring fishery, most of whom might have been obtained to man his Majesty's fleet – the herring busses being now numerous, their rendezvous fixed to this coast, and their return to Greenock and Port Glasgow certain to entitle them to the bounty. In the meantime the merchants of Glasgow and Greenock have and do now, by a large and effectual bounty, give all the assistance in their power towards manning his Majesty's fleet, from which they must chiefly look for protection.

Your Lordship is pleased to say that a ship of 32 guns is ordered to remain stationed on the north-west part of this island, and that a ship of 64 guns and a sloop of 18 are ordered to cruise up St George's Channel and to the north of Ireland to clear those seas of privateers. This may perhaps for a short time be effectual; but from the manner which privateers have come out of and returned to French ports, I must again humbly submit to your Lordship's better judgment whether the peculiar circumstances of the west coast of Scotland does not call for the permanent protection of a ship of force at a fixed station somewhere in the River Clyde, from whence she may cruise as occasion requires. I am [&c.],

Fred^k Campbell

P.S. – Till within these very few years, I never remember the Clyde without a man of war or a frigate merely to regulate the cutters and to assist in preventing the business of smuggling.

To the MERCHANTS and TRADERS of the CITY of DUBLIN.

Mansion-House, 1st July, 1777.

THE Lord Mayor this Morning received an Expreſ from William Croſbie, Eſq; Mayor of Liverpool, incloſing the underneath Depoſitions in a Letter, of which the following is a Copy: which his Lordſhip has directed to be publiſhed for the Information of the Merchants and Traders: And the Lord Mayor requets, that the ſeveral Perſons intereſted, will meet him at the Thoſel-Chamber, To-morrow Morning, at Eleven o'Clock, to take into Conſideration the moſt adviſable Meaſures to be purſued, for the Safety of the Linea Ships, and other Veſſels.

My LORD,

THE incloſed Depoſitions being this Day taken before me, I thought it proper to ſend them to you by Expreſ, as the Merchants may be apprized of the Danger their Shipping and Cargoes are in if they ſhould put to Sea, and that they may conſult with themſelves for the Security of their Property: And, if you ſhould agree with me in Opinion, I think it would be prudent you ſent an Expreſ to the Commanding Officers of His Majeſty's Ships at Cork and Kinſale, that they may take ſuch Steps as they may think prudent, for the Preſervation of the Channel Service, and, if poſſible, the Reduction of theſe Privateers. I have the Honour to be,

To the Right Honourable the Lord
Mayor of DUBLIN,

My LORD,

Your Lordſhip's moſt Obedient, and moſt Humble Servant,

WILLIAM CROSBIE, Mayor of Liverpool.

Truth, depoſeth, and ſaith as follows, that is to ſay: THE ſaid Ann Barrett depoſeth, that about four o'Clock in the Morning of Saturday laſt, the Twenty-ſiſt Day of this Inſtant June, ſhe ſet ſail as a Paſſenger in the Brig
Peggy, Thomas Attridge, Maſter, from Cork in Ireland, bound for Liverpool; which Veſſel had a Cargo of Butter and Hides, and other Merchandizes: And that they proceeded on the ſaid Voyage till Monday Morning, about half paſt four o'Clock, when they were about ten Leagues diſtant from Holyhead, and they were there boarded by four Men in a Boat, from an American Privateer, which was very near to them, and in Company with two other American Privateers, and that one of the ſaid four Men called himſelf the Prize-maſter, and told the Captain, Crew, and Paſſengers of the ſaid Brig Peggy, that they muſt all go on board one of the ſaid Privateers which he named, but does not now recollect which of the three it was: And ſhe ſaith that the Names of the ſaid Privateers (as the ſaid Prize-maſter informed this Deponent, and thoſe on board the ſaid Brig,) were the Dolphin, the Reprisal, and the Lexington, and that each of them appeared to carry ſeveral Guns, but knows not how many. And ſhe ſaith, that Captain Johnſon, of the Lexington Privateer, came ſoon afterwards on Board them, and ſearched for, and took with him, all the Papers belonging to the ſaid Brig, and ſhe believes the ſaid Privateers were a Ship, a Brig, and a ſloop, and that they told the Crew of the ſaid Brig Peggy, that they had before taken thirteen or fourteen English Veſſels, and that they had ſunk ſix, and one more which had been taken by them, was alſo ſunk in their Sight,
And ſhe ſaith, that in about an Hour afterwards, the ſaid Privateers alſo took near the ſame Place, the Ship Grace, John Wardley, Commander, bound from Jamaica to Liverpool, laden with Sugar, Rum, and Tobacco: And the ſaid Prize-maſter ſay'd, that he would ſend the ſaid Ship Grace, and the ſaid Brig Peggy into France: ſaith that the ſaid Prize-maſter informed them that he came from Balimore in Virginia: And there were three or four other Veſſels at a ſmall Diſtance from them, which the ſaid Prize-maſter ſay'd he had taken as Prizes, and were English
Veſſels: And that they permitted all the Crews of the ſaid Ship Grace, and the ſaid Brig Peggy, to take all their Apparel, but none of the Cargoes, and the ſaid ſeveral Crews were put on board a Brig called the Crawford, with which they ſailed into Whitehaven, and that they were there deſired to ſell the ſaid Brig, and divide the Produce amongſt them.

Sir

I request you will be so kind to inform me whether his Excellency my Lord Lieutenant has had any account from the Lords of the Admiralty or whether the Merchants may expect a convoy for the protection of the Vessels – the want of which is very justly complain'd of by them & especially by the Linen Traders, as the Chester fair is now over & they have lost the opportunity of their Market, an hardship at present to them, but which in a short time will be severely felt by both Kingdoms.

There are several Vessels richly laden now in our Harbour outward bound for London Liverpool Parkgate & other Ports – none of which can with any safety stir for want of the long expected Convoy, and as their owners are in much anxiety I am requested in their behalf to make enquiry from his Excellency thro' you whether the Lords of the Admiralty have the safety of Ireland in contempln & on what hopes for protection the Merchts may futurely depend – I have the honour to be with much respect [&c.]

CAPTAIN CHARLES MIDDLETON, R.N., TO LORD SANDWICH ¹

[Extract]

My Lord

Prince George, Spithead, 7th July 1777.

Sir Thomas Pye having examined the prize master of the Liverpool ship ² brought in here by the Prince George's tender, ³ I conclude the Admiralty acquainted with that conversation and therefore do not trouble them with the circumstances of the seizure. It may be useful, however, for your Lordship to know that on the 23rd of June, when this ship was taken, there were in the St George's Channel the Reprisal, a ship of sixteen guns 138 men, the Lexington brig of 16, and a cutter of ten: they are consorts, and sailed together from Lorient the 3rd instant [June]. When this ship was sent away, they had taken one vessel loaded with wheat, one with deals, and an empty ship, and three coal vessels. the three first went to France, the others were sunk. Their present cruise is between Milford and Dublin, and their motives to intercept the linen trade.

The enclosed copy of the prize master's orders will explain to your Lordship their mode of selling prizes in France; and from the best information I can get, the crew of the ship are chiefly English, Irish, and Scots, those of the brig and cutter French. The men who navigate the Liverpool ship are (except two) Europeans, and have been either detained from prizes or forced from indentures to serve the Congress. They seem heartily tired of their present way of life, and some who had attempted to desert from Lorient were dragged back by French soldiers and flogged on board the privateer. Their intention of bringing their prize into England instead of France seems to have been general; and from that consideration, I shall hope to continue them in the Prince George as part of her complement.

The Reprisal is the ship that engaged the Shark off Martinique and took the Lisbon packet: she sails well but not equal to the brig. The cutter is a heavy sailer, but the whole came out clean and must on that account have every advantage in summer cruising. . . .

Our trade with Waterford, Corke, Belfast, and Derry, is entirely at a stand, in consequence of the swarms of American privateers, which infest our coast. Sixteen sailors from on board a Boston brig, landed yesterday near Skerries, and staid in that part of the county several hours; they behaved with great civility to the countrypeople, whom they upon all occasions excite to rebellion. The appearance of the rebels, in a manner at our doors, has given spirits to the Whiteboys and other disaffected persons; and, in truth, not only commerce, but all legal authority, seems annihilated.

LORD STORMONT TO LORD WEYMOUTH

Most Secret

No 111.

My Lord

Paris July 9th 1777

I sit down to give Your Lordship an account of the Manner in which I have endeavoured to execute, the very important orders transmitted to me in Your Letter No 43., which I received on Monday Night. The next Morning after having carefully perused Your Lordships Dispatches, and their several Inclosures, I went as usual to Versailles. I determined to avail myself of the Hint you were so good as to give me, and begin with speaking to M de Maurepas. I contrived to let Him Know, that I wished to see Him in Private, and when I went to Him, was immediately carried into his Closet.

I began our Conversation by saying, that He no doubt remembered, a sort of personal Engagement we had taken, some Months ago, when after Mutual Professions of our desire to preserve a good understanding between the two Nations, we agreed that if any Incident dangerous to the Public Tranquillity should arise, we would first talk upon the Subject like private Gentlemen, and endeavour to find a Remedy. He answered that He remembered it perfectly. I am now come Sir to fulfill my Part of the Engagement, and before I go to M de Vergennes, to whom I shall of course Speak Officially, I am come to You as Lord Stormont come to tell You Sir, that things are dans un grand Etat de Crise. The Evil is of the first Magnitude, and you alone can apply the Remedy, and prevent the Consequences, which, if that Remedy is not applied, must necessarily ensue. I will not trouble you with a Minute Repetition of the Complaints I have made from Time to Time, I will only recapitulate them very Shortly. I then My Lord mentioned Succinctly the behaviour of Monsr D'Argout, (He put me in Mind that there was Another Governor appointed). The Ships that were going from Marseilles Laden with Artillery and Ammunition, (He said they were stopt, and would not go) those preparing at Dunkirk, Bordeaux, and Nantes, and then came My Lord to the principal Point, the Assistance and Protection given to the American privateers: I dwelt upon this, stated it in the Strongest Light, and told Him expressly that armed Ships, that were suffered to take refuge in the Ports of France whenever they pleased, were refitted there, were supplied with Arms and Ammunition, had many French Sailors on board, and went from France with a professed design to cruize upon our Coast, were to all Intents and Purposes, cruizing against us, so that it was great Moderation indeed in the Captain who chased the Reprizal, to stop his pursuit as He had done, when He came near the Coast of France. I added that that Ship had taken refuge in the Port of St Maloes, and the other two were probably gone into Some other Port of France, where they would refit and sail from thence on some other Cruize and Send their Prizes, as I imagined but did not know they had sent many of the Ships, they had lately taken to be disposed of in France. what use Sir could the Rebels make of their own Ports that they do not make of Yours, if this Sir is your friendship to us, if this is Peace, I beg you to tell me what can deserve a contrary Name. He seemed Struck, and answered in Short broken sentences. I assure You I wish, and mean Peace – but what would you have us do – We cannot prevent our People supplying the Americans in the Course of Trade; the thirst of Gain and the Partiality of this Country to them, makes that impossible. It is not our Business to decide on the Legality of Prizes (I had told Him My Lord that in case the Ships lately taken had been sent to France, I expected they would be restored) We cannot do as Portugal has done, cannot forbid the Americans our Ports, and expose ourselves to a War with them. I answered it is pretty extraordinary Sir that there Should be such menagement for these Rebels and Pirates, and so little for a great Nation, with which solemn Treaties have bound you; in the ties of Friendship, and to which you make the most friendly Professions, all we desire is a conduct suitable to those Professions, and similar to that of every other friendly Power. The desire of Gain is a universal Passion, as prevalent in Flanders, as in France, Yet you see no such Things, as those we now complain of, happen in the Empress Queens Dominions; The Rebels do not send their Prizes into Her Ports, do not refit there. I have observed Sir with great Regret, that when I have made Representations to You, they have been attended to for the Moment, and fair Promises made, but some secret invisible Influence has always counteracted my Representations, and rendered your promises without effect. He dropped a Word or two here, that orders were given but were often eluded. I answered You will not seriously tell a Man who has spent so much of his Life in France, that any officer in this Country dares to disobey the Kings Commands. The supplying the Rebels with Cloth and other Necessaries, which I know Merchants will send wherever there is a great prospect of gain, is a very different Thing from furnishing them with Ammunition, Arms and even Artillery, which is repugnant to all Idea of friendship, and directly contrary to the Express Declaration you gave many Months ago.

The Admitting into Your Ports American trading Vessels, that bring You Tobacco and other Articles You want, tho' not a friendly act, is far short of what we particularly Complain of at this Time, viz the Harboursing their Privateers, supplying them with all they want, refitting some, and fitting out others, such as the Dolphin, which ship was actually equipped at Nantes, the allowing them to make this use of Your Ports, without which permission they could not possibly remain in these Seas. The furnishing them by secret connivance with Men, Arms, ammunition and thereby enabling them to cruize against us, and insult our Coast, is joining in the Hostilities. It is in fact sir a Part of the force of this Country that is directed against us, and whether under the flag of France, or not, is in my Opinion a Matter of indifference, a mere Formality; Be assured sir that Your whole Conduct with regard to the Rebels has made a Strong Impression in Europe et excite un fremissement General. I know what some of the greatest, and most respectable Persons in Europe think of it; with regard to us Sir, if you recollect all that Has passed since the first preparations for sending out the Amphitrite, (the Whole of which Transaction I know Sir as well as those who were concerned in it, but hope I shall never be forced to publish all I know). If you recollect I say, all that has been done since that Period, You will be forced to admit, that the whole carries a strong Appearance of an uniform Plan of secret Assistance, and proves that we have acted with great Moderation, But you know Sir as well as I do, that all human things have bounds beyond which they cannot go. We are now come to the utmost Verge of those bounds, and must either return to Peace and Harmony, or Pass the Line, and proceed to an immediate Rupture. Your personal Situation Sir at this Moment is worthy of Envy, You can say to Yourself, with more Truth than any Man this Day in Europe, The Lot of Millions, the fate of Nations is in my Hands; I most ardently wish Sir, that you may make a Proper use of the great Power and Influence You have so justly acquired, and may employ them to the preservation of Peace, which You certainly may Preserve if you please. They amuse you with idle stories, who tell You that some of our Cabinet are for Peace, and others for War; All our Ministers equally desire Peace, but it must be a fair and real Peace, not a Nominal one, that is a Cloak for secret Hostilities, and insidious Designs. If your Conduct is not changed, If Your Succours to the Rebels Continue, if You protect and Harbour their Privateers, Every one of His Majestys Confidential Servants equally sees the necessity of War. The King and His Ministers whole Conduct shews, that we utterly disclaim that Rash dangerous Policy that to mad Views of Ambition Sacrifices the Blessings of Peace, or forfeits them for any trivial cause. We know, we confess that War is a grievous Evil, but we Know too que ce n'est pas le dernier des Maux.

I hope Sir that You sufficiently Esteem those who sincerely esteem You, to believe that whenever we are brought to the Necessity of chusing between the Calamities of War, and the least Diminution of our Honour, our Election is soon made. What the result of this Conversation will be I know not, that will depend upon You, I have done my part, have fulfilled the promise I made, have spoke to You as Lord Stormont, spoke with great Sincerity and frankness and with that eagerness with which it is impossible for me not to Speak, when I give a loose to my Sentiments upon such weighty Subjects as these.

To M de Vergennes I shall Speak as a Minister, execute my Orders Strictly, and mix Nothing of my own. He thanked me repeatedly for coming to Him first, and for the manner in which I had spoke to Him. He no doubt guessed the general purport of the Orders I alluded to, but made no Inquiry. He entered into no explanation of what they would do, I mean my Lord that His promises were not specific. He only Said in general Terms, that they must find a way to Satisfy us, and must see to hinder the American Privateers from Staying in their Ports. He desired me to be full and particular in my Conversation with M de Vergennes, and said, that after I had talked to Him Vergennes, they would concert together, and try to form some fixt regular Plan, that should give us satisfaction. we have our Grievances too added He. M de Vergennes has a long list to give You. I replied that every just Ground of Complaint would certainly be Attended to, and that all I wished was, that their Conduct towards us, might be as friendly as ours to them had constantly been, and if they pleased would continue to be.

What passed in my Conversation with M de Vergennes, I reserve for a Separate Letter.²

I am with the greatest Truth, and Esteem My Lord [&c.]

CAPTAIN LAMBERT WICKES TO THE AMERICAN COMMISSIONERS IN FRANCE ¹

Gentlemen

St Mallo July 9th 1777 –

I received your favour of the 3d Instant and am much obliged for your Attention to the Contents of mine – As you have not been very particular in regard to the Sale of the Dolphin, it will not be in my power to execute that business without more particular instructions on that head – first I shall be glad to know wheather you would Sell her as she is Arm'd or weather we should reserve the Cannon Swivels Stores &c. Secondly, what price you would Accept of for her with every thing on board & what Abatement may be made by Selling her unarmed, there is a very good Frigate here that will Carry 24 Nine pounders and has the Character of a very fast Sailer, as the Owner is not here, I do not know wheather he would Sell her or not, but will inquire & inform you by Next post. I have been very kindly received here & am promised every assistance from the Commandant and Commissary of this Port. Monsr De Segray Beauguard Fills & Co has Offered to Supply me with what Money I have occasion for, the Amount of which I shall give a bill as you direct. As we Can get Cannon here on tolerable good terms, I think we had best get fitted as soon as possible, I think if Brass 9 pounders could be got we had best get them, as they would not be so heavy as Iron 6 pounders, but the 9 pounders are too heavy for us, there is no Brass Guns to be got here, if any Can be procured Elsewhere & you are determined to Mount the Reprisal with Brass Guns, please inform me If not we can get Iron 6 pounders here, and May be fitted and ready for Sea in a fortnight or three Weeks at furthest. Please to let me know where Capt Johnston is to be ordered or if I shall order him here to Join me, there is three large privateers fitted out of Gurnsey and Jersey wch is to be sent to Cruize off Nantz, to take all the American Vessels bound in & out of that Port. We have no Account of only three of our Prizes Arriving and these of the least Value, therefore Conclude the rest are Taken. from Gentlemen [&c.]

St Mallo July 9th 1777 –

I this Morning Recd Orders from Capt Wickes to furnish him with an Inventory of the Sloop Dolphin, I am now about to furnish him with one, wherein I shall Mention every thing belongg to her; I believe She will not fetch much more with her Cannon &c, therefore wou'd advise keepg them & Sendg them too Nants, as they are very Scarce & hard to be got there. here there is plenty, & the difference between buying, & Sellg is very great, & they are in great demand at Nants, in Case You Shou'd not have Use for them, in any of Your own Vessells. I have 10 three Pound[er]s, & 14 Compleat Swivells 8 of wch are new & other 6 as good as New; Capt Wickes will want the Swivells – my Doctr I understand has wrote You Complaing of my Treatment of him ² I dont think Proper to trouble You with those Matters I shall only inform You that have only let him know that I am his Officer, he has made his Complaint to Capt Wickes, but Capt W——s knowg the treatment he has Recd from me, cou'd give him no satisfaction on that head, he wants his Discharge, & as I am not authorised to give it him, shall wait You[r] Orders, in Case You think worth while to give any in regard to that Gentn I am Gentn [&c.]

Corunna 9th July 1777.

I humbly beg leave to acquaint Your Lordship that I have this Moment received an Express from Vigo with an Account that on the 4th Instant three Masters and ten Seamen belonging to the following Vessels which were taken by the Warren a Rebel Privateer mounting ten Guns and as many Swivels commanded by Nicolas Ogleby, were put on Shore in that Harbour.

1. The Brig Argo. Thomas Smith bound from Lymington to New York with a Cargoe of Salt, taken the 25th June.
2. The Brig Princess of Masserano. Thomas Wharton bound from Bergen in Norway to Venice with Stockfish, taken the 2d Instant.
3. The Brig Elizabeth. Wm Dowling bound from Cork to Oporto with dry Goods, taken the 4th Instant.

Nothing further deserving Your Lordship's notice has occur'd since my last. I have the Honor to be with the highest Veneration and Respect, My Lord [&c.]

"EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM MR CONSUL HARDY TO H. E. LORD GRANTHAM, DATED CADIZ 9TH JULY 1777." ¹

Two Days ago a Bermudas built Sloop arrived here from Charles Town in So Carolina loaded with Rice, Indigo & Tobacco. She wears the Provincial Colours; her nominal Commander is a Frenchman, one Vellon, & the name of the Vessell is the Mary. Her Crew are all French except one or two. As I am morally certain that the Cargo she brings is the Property of His Majesty's rebellious Subjects, & that there is great reason to suspect if it is disposed of here, the Vessell is to be fitted out as a Privateer to cruize on this Coast, I immediately wrote to the Governor, requesting that she might not be admitted to Pratic. I send your Excy enclosed Copy of my Letter, to which I have this morning received only a verbal Answer by His Secretary, telling me, that having consulted with the Captain General, and that having no Orders from Court relative to these sort of Vessels, they could not avoid admitting this American, and permitting her Cargo to be sold. An English built Schooner is also come in under French Colours, as is given out, from Martinique, but as she has the same kind of Cargo on board as the other, I suspect she is from Carolina. This latter is bound to Marseilles.

AFFIDAVIT OF ABRAM RUSSELL, MASTER OF THE SLOOP James ¹

Copy.

Abram Russell late Master of the Sloop James of Greenock declares that upon Tuesday the 8th Instant about two or three o'Clock in the afternoon when off the Mull of Cantyre he fell in with a provincial Privateer called the *Muffin*² mounting Twenty Guns six Pounders commanded by Captain Dayes, and that when the Privateer came near him having Colours flying which were all white with the Figure of a Pine Tree thereon and the Motto "Appeal to Heaven" was ordered to bring too when his Vessel was taken possession of and he and the Crew ordered on board the Privateer, that after Plundering his Sloop and taking all the Rigging and Provisions from on board [she] was immediately sunk, and that after being detained on board 'til the next Day he and the rest of the Prisoners the number of which he does not particularly know, were ordered on board a Brigantine of the Burthen of about Eighty or Ninety Tons, belonging to Ellen Foot which was taken the Sunday before loaded with Salt from Liverpool bound to Ballyshannon in Ireland with directions to proceed to the said Port of Ballyshannon, as being a place so much out of the way that early intelligence might not be given of such a Privateer being on the Coast, that after being fairly out of her sight the People on board the Brigantine put on shore at Port Patrick himself and two Men and a Boy belonging to the said Sloop James, and then with a fair Wind steered straight for Whitehaven and that upon quitting of the Privateer she steered her Course South from the Light House of Belfast with all her Sails set intending to proceed immediately for Bordeaux in France and further declares that he was informed by the people on board of the privateer that they sailed from Boston about a Month ago in company with ten other Privateers all with an intention to be upon this Coast.

The following is a List of the Prizes taken by the said Privateer as he was informed while on board. Vizt A Ship from the South of England with Wine and Fruit on board bound for New York taken off the Banks of Newfoundland and sent to Boston. A Ship from Liverpool commanded by Capt Bell with Merchant Goods on board bound for New York was taken the 7th Instant off the Mull of Cantyre and sent to Bordeaux. The Sloop James of Greenock, and the Brigantine belonging to Ellen Foot particularly mentioned in this Affidavit. A Sloop from Sligo loaded with Linen Yarn bound to Liverpool sent to Bordeaux. A Sloop from Greenock loaded with Wool and Soap bound to the same Port in Lancashire was taken Yesterday Morning off Larne and sent to Bordeaux.³

LORD LIEUTENANT OF IRELAND TO LORD WEYMOUTH¹

My Lord

Dublin Castle 10th July 1777. —

Having had the Honor of representing to Your Lordship, in several Letters, the Situation the Merchants interested in the Trade of this and the neighbouring Ports were in, occasioned by the Appearance of three American Privateers, I should have forbore troubling Your Lordship further upon the Subject, and have waited the Arrival of such Force as the Lords of the Admiralty have judged necessary for their Relief: But another Privateer having appeared, I find Myself obliged, in Compliance with the earnest Representation of the Merchants here, to inform Your Lordship of it.

I, Yesterday, ordered one of the Revenue Cruizers to receive on Board Lieutenant [Lambert] Brabazon of the Navy, who had Directions from Me to look out in the Channel; He is returned, and acquaints Me that about half an Hour past two o'Clock this Morning, he discovered a Ship off the Hill of Howth, French built, mounting twenty Guns on one Deck,² which chased him for some Time, but finding she could not come up with him, bore away in Chase of other Ships, and took one in View of him.

The Merchants here in very urgent Terms, requested I would represent to your Lordship that the several Linen Ships which are ready laden in these Ports, are of very great Value, and cannot sail without the Protection of a Convoy; and this being the Time of Year when those Ships regularly sail, their Detainer will, if it should continue, have a fatal Effect upon the Commerce of this Country, as it will prevent the Returns the Merchants have usually received at this Time of Year, and that the Want of Protection in this Channel is very detrimental to the Trade in general.

Mr Brabazon represents this Privateer as a very bad Sailer; but very fully manned. I have the Honor to be, with great Truth & Respect, My Lord, [&c.]

PHILIP STEPHENS TO THE COMMISSIONERS FOR SICK AND HURT SEAMEN ¹

Gent

Admty Office 10 July 1777

Having laid before my Lords Commissrs of the Admty your Letter of the 30th past, informing them that Mr Bell is returned from visiting the Prison at Forton,² and hath reported, that with respect to the Buildings, in some of which the Prisoners are now confined, no security against Attempts to escape can be derived from any strength of those buildings, but that the prevention of their succeeding in any such Attempts, must entirely depend, as it did the last War when upwards of 2000 were sometimes confined at Forton, upon the proper disposition and Vigilance of the Guard; That upon examination, with a proper Surveyor, of those parts of the Buildings in which the Well of those Prisoners are at present confined, from the principal of which the late Escape was effected, it appears that some Alterations could be made without difficulty in point of Work, and with the consent of the Owner of the adjoin Land, which was obtained, so as to render the whole of what is employed for the Confinement of the Well more compact, to admit of the Centries properly communicating with each other, to go round the whole of it with ease, and to save, when so alter'd, one Centry of the present number, and that the necessary directions were given for carrying those Alterations into immediate execution; I am in return, commanded to acquaint you, that their Lordships Approve thereof.

Their Lordships also direct me to inform you that the Secretary at War is made acquainted that the Commanding Officer of the Guard informed Mr Bell, that he had no Orders for the Guards loading and firing in Case of necessity, and that it is submitted to him, whether it may not be proper to send Instructions to the Commanding Officer upon this Head, the Prisoners confined in the said Prison being committed either for Acts of High Treason or Piracy. LORDS COMMISSIONERS, ADMIRALTY, TO COMMISSIONERS FOR SICK AND HURT SEAMEN ¹

By the Commissioners for executing the Office of Lord High Admiral of Great Britain & Ireland &c.

Whereas you have represented to Us, by your Letter of the 25th of last Month, that the Keeper & Agent of Forton Prison had acquainted you that two of the Prisoners, who had escaped, had been retaken & brought back to the said Prison,² and that, as the Persons who retook them had learnt the Route which two of the others had taken, he had encouraged a Pursuit of them, by promising a Reward for their recapture; And whereas you have desired to receive our directions respecting the paying such Rewards as we may judge proper for retaking any of the Rebel Prisoners who may escape, and have, at the same time, mention'd that, in the late & former War, a Reward of ten Shillings was paid for the Recapture of Prisoners of War, We have taken the matter into consideration and, being of opinion, that as the Offences for which the Rebel Prisoners have been ordered to be committed to Forton and Old Mill Prisons, are of a capital Nature, that a Reward of five Pounds should be paid for the recapture of each of those who have escaped, or may hereafter escape, from the said Prisons; You are, therefore, hereby required and directed to pay, to the Person or Persons entitled thereunto, a Reward of five Pounds for each of the said Prisoners who have escaped & have been already retaken, and also for each of them who may escape & be retaken hereafter; & to continue to do so, until you receive further Order. NEWS FROM WHITEHAVEN ¹

Whitehaven, July 12.

Thursday afternoon the Mary and Betty, Thomburn, arrived at Mary Port, having been taken by an American privateer on Monday last, and given to the crews of several vessels to proceed to Ballyshannon. Capt. Thomburn, after parting with the privateer, put two of the crews ashore near Port Patrick, and yesterday afternoon landed Captains Bell, Bouskell, &c. at Workington.

The following are the particulars of this disagreeable and alarming intelligence.

The Mifflin privateer, commanded by W. Day, mounting 20 six pounders, and 94 men,² fitted out at Boston, in Massachusetts Bay, having a commission from the Congress of that province, took the Rebecca and Polly, laden with wine and fruit, on the 24th of June, in lat. 45. 10. long. 25. west, and sent her to Boston. The Rebecca and Polly sailed from Cork on the 22d ult. for New York, along with fifteen other vessels, under convoy of the British King, Captain Purves.

The Mifflin also took

July 6. Ship Rebecca, of Workington, Joseph Bell, master, from Liverpool to Limerick, with rock salt, taken 2 miles N.W. of Insterhull – sent to France.

July 7. Brig Priscilla, Richard Cassedy master, from Sligo to Liverpool, with linen yarn, taken off Insterhull – sent to France.

Same day. Brig Mary and Betty, of Mary Port, W. Thornburn master, from Liverpool to Ballyshannon, with rock salt, taken 5 leagues W.S.W. from Lochendall – given to the Captain to proceed with the prisoners to Ballyshannon.

July 8. Sloop James, Abraham Russell master, from Glasgow to Oporto, ballast – sunk.

July 9. Sloop Molly, of Millthorp, J. Bouskell master, from Greenock to Lancaster, with wool, soap, and skins, taken off the Mull of Galloway – sent to France.

The Mary and Betty left the Miffin on Wednesday last, about noon, off the Mull of Galloway. – Captain Thornburn stood over to Port Patrick, and the privateer stood down the south channel.

The Miffin (formerly the Isaac, belonging to Liverpool, Capt. Ashburn of this town, in the West India trade, was taken by the sloop Warren, John Phillips commander, and carried into Salem, laden with sugar, rum, &c.) is frigate built, and near 400 tons burthen.

Capt. Day appears to be upwards of sixty years of age, is rather lame, and was commander of a privateer last war. His crew consists of English, Scotch, Irish, and Americans, having few or no foreigners on board.

The Miffin had 94 men when she left Boston, but having put 6 men on board the Rebecca and Polly, 8 on board the Rebecca, 5 on board the Priscilla, and 4 on board the sloop Molly, in order to carry them to France, her crew must have diminished, as we are informed, by some of the prisoners, that Captain Day had not inlisted any since he left America. When she bore down upon the Rebecca, Capt. Bell, she shewed English colours, but when within gun shot hoisted a flag, with a white field, having a pine tree in the middle, with the words Appeal to Heaven underneath it.

Several of the prisoners whilst they were on board the privateer, learned, that thirteen other privateers sailed from Boston in company with the Miffin, and that they agreed to share equally all such prizes as the fleet should take during the space of twenty-six days; and that they expected a brig and two schooners to follow them thro the channel, which they had parted with in a gale of wind.

The mate of the Rebecca and Polly went prize-master's mate of the Molly, to France, and his Captain remains on board the Miffin.

Several of the prisoners speak but indifferently of the honour of Capt. Day. Captain Bell of the Rebecca, had one gold and two silver watches in his chest, which, together with his papers, were taken from him by the Captain.

Capt. Bell, of the Nancy, who arrived here yesterday, says he saw the Miffin, on Thursday, with a vessel in company supposed to be a prize, in the channel betwixt the Calf of Man and the Irish shore.

A master of a vessel which arrived here this morning, reports, that he saw on Thursday two vessels in the channel, which appeared to be King's ships, and that he heard 7 or 8 guns go off – so that it is more than probable the vessels sent by the Lords of the Admiralty, have met the Miffin.

“EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM DUBLIN, JULY 12.”¹

On Sunday morning last [July 6] a boat, with several Ladies and Gentlemen, sailed from Tramore, in the county of Waterford, on a party of pleasure, and about four leagues to the South East, fell in with a vessel, schooner rigged, which fired a gun to bring the boat along-side. The company immediately complied, and were ordered on board the privateer; they were conducted to the cabin, when they were told by an Officer, that they were prisoners to Capt. Jeremiah Heydon, of the Oliver Cromwell privateer, of Marblehead; after some conversation, in which the Captain and Officers made themselves merry, they were entertained with cold ham, and some excellent Madeira, and then dismissed. The privateer took leave with three cheers, and stood to the South West towards the Bristol Channel.

Dublin, July 12.

So apprehensive are the Captains of the Irish vessels, trading from France to this kingdom, of falling into the hands of the Provincials, that not one of them will take charge of letters as heretofore, and they are under the necessity of sailing with French colours, as their only hope of escaping from the swarm of American privateers which hover about the coasts of that kingdom.

“EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM LIMERICK, BY YESTERDAY'S MAIL
FROM IRELAND, DATED JULY 12.”¹

Last night a fish-boat arrived here, the master of which declares, that in the morning, about nine o'clock, he was brought to by three American privateers, one of 22 guns, another of 16, and the other of 12 and some swivels; that he was ordered on board the largest, where he was about two hours, during which time [he] was asked many questions concerning the strength of many places in Ireland, what men of war they had to protect that kingdom, and how many land forces they had, and also the strength of the fortifications of several of the most capital ports in Ireland. He also says, the answers he gave to every question that was asked, were taken down in writing. He says, the crew on board the privateer in which he was, were chiefly French. After having gone through a long examination, they gave him a bottle of brandy and some biscuit, and then suffered him to depart. This affair has thrown the people here into great confusion. An account of it is sent by express to the Lord Lieutenant at Dublin.

LORD SANDWICH TO LORD WEYMOUTH ¹

My Lord,

Admiralty Office 12th July 1777.

We have received your Lordship's two Letters of the 5th Instant, each transmitting a Copy of a Letter from the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland; in one of which are expressed the Alarms given to the Merchants of that Kingdom from the late appearance of Rebel Privatiers, and their apprehensions for the safety of their Linnen Ships; and in the other a Representation from Sir John Erwin of the defenceless state of the Fort and Harbour of Cork, and proposition for a Ship or Frigate of War to be constantly stationed near the Fort of the Cove, or between that and Spike Island, for the safety of the Shipping at that place. In return we are to acquaint your Lordship, for His Majesty's information, that upon the first notice we received of the appearance of the Privatiers abovementioned off the Mull of Cantire, we immediately sent orders for His Majesty's Ship the Albion of 74 Guns, and the Ceres Sloop of 18 Guns, to proceed without a moments' loss of time from Plymouth up St George's Channel, as well for the protection of the Trade of His Majesty's Subjects, as to scour the Channel of any of the Rebel Privatiers that may infest it, calling at Dublin and Campbel Town for Advices, and returning round the West of Ireland to Plymouth for farther Orders. Since which, we have sent the Exeter of 64 Guns to cruize between Milford Haven, the Old Head of Kinsale, and the Scilly Islands; and have destined the Arethusa of 32 Guns to proceed up the Irish Channel and cruize between the Mull of Galway, Belford Lough, and Mull of Cantire; the former calling alternately at Milford Haven and Cork, and the latter at Carrickfergus and Campbel Town, for Information, or any further Orders it may be necessary to send to them. These two last mentioned Ships will guard the Southern and Northern Entrances into St Georges Channel; and it is intended to employ two Sloops and two Cutters constantly in attending upon the Linnen Ships; which, it is hoped, will quiet the Alarms of the Merchants, and effectually secure their Trade.

With respect to Sir John Irwin's proposition, we must beg leave to observe that the stationing of Ships in Ports for the protection of the Trade belonging to those Ports (besides the impracticability of finding Ships for that purpose from the numerous applications we have received of the same nature) would be locking them up from the performance of other more essential Service, as the numerous Privatiers that now infest our Coasts cannot be restrained, nor the Trade of His Majesty's Subjects properly attended to, but by keeping our Cruizers as much at Sea as possible, in order to intercept the one, and give due protection to the other; which, indeed, from the great number of our Ships now employed in North America, and from the unexpected Equipment of Rebel Cruizers in the French Ports, is a very difficult task for us to execute, and it is to be apprehended that our difficulties will rather increase than diminish, as we have already set forth in our Letter to your Lordship of the 28th Ultimo, if such Equipments are continued in the Ports of France. We have only to add upon this Subject that we conceive it to be the less necessary to station a Ship at the Cove, as, besides the Exeter which, as has been mentioned above, is frequently to call there, the Boyne of 70 Guns, which is stationed between Ushant and Cape Clear, is also ordered to call at Cork once in every Ten days or a Fortnight. We are, My Lord [&c.]

"EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM GREENOCK, JULY 13." ¹

An express came here yesterday, informing that several vessels, particularly two belonging to this place, have been taken by provincial privateers, so stationed in the mouth of the river, that nothing can pass them. Such as attempt to run, they sink them. The master and crew of one of the vessels that was taken the other day have come to town; they were allowed to come on shore, but their cargoes and vessels were, as they understand, sent to France, with some other prizes, under convoy of two of the privateers; but a privateer of 20 guns, well armed, and about 100 men on board, still remains in the river, not far from Greenock, where she is expected every night. The Council met yesterday, and have resolved to fit out three vessels, one of 16, one of 14, and one of 12 guns; for which purpose a subscription paper was set a-going about twelve o'clock; and about two o'clock when it came to be subscribed by Collector P—, with whom I was then in company, I observed no less than 2900 l. sterling subscribed for. A committee is appointed for superintending the equipment; a commodore and captains are already named; and though this be Sacrament Sunday, the drums are beating for seamen to serve for one month only, by which time it is expected that Government will send armed vessels to clear the coast. About 100 sailors are already enlisted; 600 stands of small arms are come down from Dunbarton, and plenty of stores and ammunition. The vessels are already victualled, and they expect to have 150 able-bodied sailors, besides the military from Glasgow, ready to go on board, and sail this evening or to morrow morning.

I have received and read to my Lords Commissrs of the Admiralty your Letter of this date enclosing by Lord Weymouth's direction a Copy of a Letter his Lordship had received from the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, with an Inclosure relative to another Privatier which had appear'd in the Irish Channel; ² And in return I am commanded to acquaint you for Lord Weymouth's information, that their Lordships having yesterday received advice of the Privatier aforementioned, they immediately sent orders by Express to the Captains of His Majesty's Ships the Fowey of 24 Guns at Portsmouth, and the Burford of 70 Guns at Plymouth, to proceed without a moments loss of time in quest of her, or any other Privatiers that may now infest the Irish Channel, the latter being required to go as far as the Mull of Cantire and to use their best endeavours to take or destroy any of them they may happen to fall in with; protecting at the same time the Trade of His Majesty's Subjects in the said Channel, calling at Corke or Dublin, or any other place they may think convenient for Intelligence, and governing themselves accordingly.

I am likewise to acquaint you for Lord Weymouth's information, that the Captain of the Burford is ordered after cruising three Weeks on the aforementioned Service, to return round the West Coast of Ireland unless by the Intelligence he receives he finds the Rebel Privatiers still infest St George's Channel, in which case, he is to return to Plymouth the same way he went. "EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM WHITEHAVEN, JULY 15." ¹

I believe during no Time last War were the People on this Coast half so frightened as they have been lately on the Appearance of the American Privateers. An Express was sent off to our Lord Lieutenant, Sir James Lowther, to call out the Militia for the Defence of the Coast, as they were apprehensive the Americans would land; to which Sir James sent Word that he would immediately call out the Militia, and that it might be as little detrimental to the County as possible, he would divide the Time, and fix the first Fortnight now, and the other after Harvest. Three Companies are accordingly stationed here, viz. one at Workington, one at Mary Port, and one at Cockermouth. Sir James has also sent us the following Letter, which he received from the Admiralty, and has put us into Heart:

Sir,

Admiralty Office, July 12, 1777.

I have laid before my Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty the Memorial of the Inhabitants of Whitehaven, setting forth their Alarm at the American Privateers having taken and destroyed several Ships near their Coast, and desiring Protection for their Trade. I am commanded by their Lordships to acquaint you, for the Information of the Gentlemen of Whitehaven, that they have sent a Line of Battle Ship and a Sloop in quest of these Privateers, and that a Frigate will be forthwith sent off that Port to cruise for the Protection of the Trade of his Majesty's Subjects in those Parts.

"EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM DUBLIN, JULY 15." ¹

Our Lord Mayor has been very anxious for the preservation of the Shipping and Commerce of this City, and has frequently applied by letter and in person to his Excellency, the Lord Lieutenant, to use his interest with the Lords of the Admiralty, for obtaining Ships of Force to be sent to our Port, to protect the vessels trading from this Harbour. The Lord Mayor's applications have been always received, and treated with respect by his Excellency, who in consequence thereof has sent expresses to Lord Weymouth, and the Lords of the Admiralty, for a convoy, and we are in hourly expectation of their Lordships answer, as also the arrival of those Ships of Force to protect our Trade.

It is to be hoped that the Lords of the Admiralty will attend to his Excellency the Lord Lieutenant's application.

Certain advice is received of an American privateer being in our Channel, she mounts 26 guns, 22 six and four nine pounders, and is very full of men; ² and it is evident from the grassy appearance of her bottom, that she had been a long time at sea. Of the mischief she may have done, the following only is come to hand:

On Wednesday morning [July 9], about twelve o'clock, she fell in with a large three-masted vessel called a Cat, about 500 tons burthen, last from Portaferry, in the North of Ireland, laden with timber, between Carlingford and Drogheda; the Master of the Cat thought to escape, but a shot from a nine pounder brought her to. The privateer had in company a vessel from Belfast for Dublin (laden with rum, and under seizure) and a collier; the hands of the different vessels, passengers with their luggage, and the Revenue Officers who were on board the rum ship, were put on board the collier, with liberty to go wherever they pleased; they accordingly put off, and landed safe at Balbruggin on Thursday evening, lay at Swords that night, and arrived here yesterday, when the Officers waited on the Commissioners with the above intelligence, who were pleased to order written notices to be fixed up in different coffee-houses, for the information of the Merchants, Traders, and others concerned.

One of Mr. Babe's wherries being in the Bay on Thursday evening last, they saw a large vessel between Ireland's Eye and Lambay, which they took for an English frigate; they made for her, and when they got alongside were invited on board, when to their great surprize they found her to be an American privateer, and from their description proves to be the above vessel; they were treated with beef and grog, and asked several questions, particularly if the yacht was in the Harbour; to this they say they answered in the negative. After the people of the wherry staid some time on board they were ordered to depart. During their stay they could neither learn the privateer or Captain's name, but say she was a very large vessel and well manned.

A fishing boat had been brought-to by the above privateer on Thursday evening, while Mr. Babe's men were on board her; the Americans took a small quantity of their fish, which they paid them amply for, treated them as they did the Wherry-men, and then dismissed them.

Yesterday two colliers in ballast, from Whitehaven, were brought-to off the mouth of our Harbour by an American privateer, when, after taking from them what cash they had on board, the produce of their cargoes of coals, sold in this Port, together with such provisions as they found on board, they suffered them to proceed on their voyage home.

There are now 11 cannon at the Pigeon-House, viz. two nine pounders in the Yard at the back of the House, three nine pounders at this side of the Pigeon-House, and six six pounders at the King's Wharf. There are also five nine pounders gone to Howth, to command the entrance of the Bar; and a strong work is now making, and will be finished in a few days at the Light-House, on which, we hear, several large cannon are to be mounted.

GEORGE III TO LORD NORTH ¹

Lord North – The intelligence given by Mr Wentworth if founded is very material, and is certainly very agreeable; ² if timidity actuates the French Court to delay taking an open hostile part, some good Success in North America is likely to make Her the more cautiously avoid taking up a losing game; whatever may be the real motives of this determination, the delaying if possible having more on our hands at present is the natural suggestion of a dispassionate mind; but then France must wound us by aiding and protecting the Rebel Ships which harrass our Trade.

VERGENNES TO BENJAMIN FRANKLIN AND SILAS DEANE ¹

[Extract]

Versailles 16th July 1777

You can not forget, Gentlemen, that in the first Conversation I had with both of you, I assured you that you should enjoy in France for Yourselfs all the Security and Comforts which we showed to foreigners, and for your navigation and Commerce all the facilities that would be compatible with the exact observance of our Treaties with England, which the King's principles would induce him religiously to fulfil. In order to prevent every doubt with respect to the Vessels that may enjoy the favors which we grant to friendly nations in our Ports, I pointed out to you the Article of the treaty which forbids us the right of allowing Privateers free Access into our Ports, unless on account of pressing emergencies, as well as the Depositing and sale of their Prizes. You promised, Gentlemen, to conform to this.

After so precise an explanation, we did not press the departure of the ship Reprisal, which brought Doctor Franklin to France, because we were assured she was supposed to return with merchandize. We had quite lost sight of this ship, and believed she was in American waters, when we learned with surprise that she had run into L'Orient, after having taken several prizes. Orders were immediately given her to depart in 24 hours and to pass on her prizes Only to the Admiralty Courts, which were authorized to judge their validity. Capt. Wickes complained of a leak. Being visited by surveyors, his allegation was found legitimate and admissible; they permitted him to make the necessary repairs, and he was directed to put to sea. After such repeated warnings, the motives of which have been explained to you, we had no reason to expect, Gentlemen, that the said Wickes would continue Cruising in European Waters, and we could only be greatly Surprised that, having joined the Privateers the Lexington and the Dolphin in order to harass the English coast, they should, all three, then come in to take refuge in our Ports.

You are too well informed, Gentlemen, and too acute not to See how this Conduct offends the dignity of the King my master, at the same time it abuses the neutrality which His Majesty professes; I expect, therefore, because of your fairness that you will be the first to condemn a Conduct so opposite to the obligations of hospitality and propriety. The King can not conceal it, and it is by His express order that I inform you, Gentlemen, that orders have been sent to the Ports at which the said Privateers have arrived in order that they be sequestered and detained there until sufficient Security can be obtained that they will return directly to their Native Country, without exposing themselves through new acts of hostility to the necessity of seeking asylum in our Ports.

As for the Prizes which they may have taken, if they have brought them into our Ports, they will be ordered to go out immediately, and the same shall be observed towards every Captor or Capture of any nation whatever. Such Are the Obligations of our Treaties consistent with our Marine Ordinances, from which the King can not, in Any Manner, free himself. It will be highly proper for you to make this order known wherever you may think it most fitting, so that newly-arrived Privateers, drawing from the example of the Abuses of those against whom we are obliged to be Severe, may not expose themselves to the same embarrassments. . . .

[Morlaix, July 16, 1777]

Articles agreed to between the United States of America, and the Officers, Seamen, Marines, and Others, Serving on Board the Ships and Vessels of the said States.

We, whose Hands and Marks are hereunto set and subscribed, being Officers, Seamen, Marines, &c. do, and each of us doth agree to and with Henry Johnson Commander of the good Brig called the Lexington belonging to the United States of America, in Manner and Form following, That is to say,

First, We do, for the considerations herein after mentioned, agree, to and with the said Commander, forthwith to enter and ship ourselves on Board the said Brig called the Lexington and to the utmost of our Power and Ability, respectively to discharge our several services or stations, and in every thing to be conformable and obedient to the lawful Commands of the said Henry Johnson and his Successors, during the Term of Twelve Months, unless sooner discharged from her to another Ship on the Service of the States.

Secondly, We do also oblige and subject ourselves, to serve on Board the said Brig during the said Term; and, as she is a Vessel of War, We do severally oblige ourselves by these Articles to comply with, and be subject to the Rules and Discipline of the American Fleet, and to be governed and commanded in time of Action with an Enemy according to said Rules, and submit ourselves to the Punishments and Penalties therein mentioned, in case we or any of us offer to desert our Quarters, or do not obey the lawful Commands of the said Commander or his Successors; and if, upon due examination, we or any of us should be found guilty of any breach of Duty, or act of Cowardice, We do hereby severally submit and agree, to forfeit our respective Shares of and in any Prize or Prizes we shall then have taken, to be divided among the said Ship's Company.

Thirdly, That when any Prize or Prizes have been taken, we will follow the express Directions of the said Commander or his Successors, in boarding the said Prize, and be under the Command of any Officer whom the said Commander shall appoint, and assist him in carrying the said Prize to such Port or Ports as he or his Successors shall direct; that we will not in any shape embezzle or plunder any thing on Board such Prize or Prizes, but will discharge our Duty with fidelity and care: And in case any or either of us shall be found guilty of any Breach of Trust, contrary to the true Meaning of this Article, we do hereby severally agree, to forfeit so much of our shares in the said Prize and Prizes then or thenceafter to be taken, and of our respective Wages which shall then be due, as shall make good such Plunder or embezzlement.

Fourthly, And it is also further agreed, to be the true Intent and Meaning of all Parties hereto, that the Officer or Officers, or any of the Ship's Company sent on Board any Prize, shall have as good a share and Interest in any other Prize, that shall be thereafter taken, during his or their absence as if he or they had been on Board the said Vessel at the time of taking thereof, any thing herein contained to the contrary notwithstanding.

Fifthly, And the said Commander for and in behalf of himself and the said United States, doth hereby Covenant and Agree to and with the said Officers, Seamen, Marines, and others whose Names or Marks are hereto set or subscribed, to pay them, in consideration of such services, so much Money per Month, as is specified in a Schedule hereto annexed, and set opposite to the Name or Mark of each respective Officer, Seaman, or Landsman; and likewise to advance unto each and every of them, one Month's Pay at Entrance, due security for the same being first given.

Sixthly, And as an encouragement to exert the Valour of the Seamen and Marines, in defending said Brig and in subduing and distressing the Enemy, the said Commander for and on behalf of the said United States, doth further Covenant, Promise, and Agree to and with all and every of the Officers, Seamen, Marines, and others, Parties hereto, that in case any Prize or Prizes shall be taken by the said Ship or Vessel, the same shall be proceeded against, and distributed according to the Resolutions of the said States.

Seventhly, And it is by those Presents mutually agreed and consented to, by and between the said Commander and every the Officers, Seamen, Marines, and others, Parties hereto, That in case the Commander for the time being lose a Limb in an Engagement, or be otherwise disabled, so as to be rendered incapable afterwards of getting a livelihood, he shall receive, out of the neat Profits of such Prize or Prizes, and Prize Goods, if so much arise, before a Dividend or Distribution be declared, the sum of Four Hundred Dollars, or if he lose his Life, his Widow or Children (if any) shall receive the said Bounty of Four Hundred Dollars, together with all Prize Money to him belonging at the time of his Decease. And if the Captain of the Marines, or any other Commission or Warrant Officer, lose a Limb or be otherwise disabled, so as to be rendered incapable afterwards of getting a subsistence, he or they so disabled, shall receive a Bounty of Three Hundred Dollars, if so much arise, from the neat Profits as aforesaid, and in case of Death, the Widow or Children (if any) shall be entitled to the same, together with their Share of Prize Money, due at the time of their Decease. And if any inferior Officer, Marine, or Sailor, lose a Limb, or be otherwise disabled, so as to be rendered incapable afterwards of getting a subsistence, he or they shall receive a Bounty of Two Hundred Dollars, to be deducted as aforesaid; and in case of Death, his Widow or Children (if any) shall be entitled to the same, together with his share of Prize Money due at the time of his Decease.

He who first discovers a Ship or other Vessel which shall afterwards become a Prize, shall be entitled to a double share of such Prize.

He who shall first Board a Ship or other Vessel making resistance, which shall become a Prize, shall be entitled to a triple share.

There shall be ten shares of every Prize, which shall be taken and condemned, set apart, to be given to such inferior Officers, Seamen, Marines, &c. as shall be adjudged best to deserve them, by the superior Officers who shall be appointed to make such determination.

Provided always, And it is hereby declared to be the true Intent and Meaning of the Parties to the afore-mentioned Orders and Articles, that any of the Officers, Seamen, or Marines, shall be liable to be removed by order of the United States, or by the Commander in Chief of the American Fleet for the time being, from the foresaid Vessel to any other armed Vessel in the service of the said States, any thing contained in the foregoing Orders and Articles notwithstanding.

N B. That a bounty of Twenty dollars be paid to the Commander, Officers & Men of such Continental Ships or Vessels of War, for every Cannon mounted on board each prize at the Time of such Capture, and Eight Dollars pr head for every man then on board and belonging to such Prize -

PHILIP STEPHENS TO SIR STANIER PORTEN ¹

Sir

Admty Office 17 July 1777

Having laid before my Lords Commissrs of the Admiralty your Letter of this date, enclosing Copy of an Affidavit made by Abram Russell, late Master of the Sloop James, relative to her and other Vessels having been taken by the Mifflin Privatier off the Mull of Cantire &ca,² I am commanded to acquaint you that their Lordships having received the same intelligence thro' various other Channels, they have sent several Ships to scour the Irish Channel of the Privatiers that infest it, and to protect the Trade of His Majesty's Subjects; And that other Cruizers are stationed in the Northern & Southern entrance of the Channel for the like purpose. I am Sr [&c.]

PAUL WENTWORTH TO LORD SUFFOLK ¹

[Extract]

Poland street London the 17 July 1777.

. . . the N England Provinces have sent on a secret Expedition, five frigates – 2, of 32 Guns, 2, of 28 & 1 – of 22. with 12 other Hired Privatiers for 28 days – Mounting from 12 to 18 Guns.² Some think Nfound Land, others Halifax or the Transports from England to be the Object. . . .

[Enclosure]

Intelligence from a very undoubted Authority.

. . . It may not be amiss to add here, that the trick Weeks put upon the Commandant du Port at L'orient, on a like summons to depart – was to Pump in His Ships Hold a great deal of Water, make report of a Leak, demand a delay &c – a Visit is made a Report cooked up, & the delay permitted, but this would not do with regard to his Prizes – He petitioned However that they should remain till he was in a Condition to Convoy them safe to America – this is refused; He then obtains so much delay as will allow him to go to the deputies, & apply to the higher powers – This takes at least 10 days – The request is Refused at Versailles, but the intention of the Captor is answered – The Vessels are sold – place of delivery appointed – the Mony paid &c &c. . . .

There is at Havre a Kings Armed Coasting Ship of very great length, built after a design of the Chevr [Jacques] Boux – She has been lately purchased by Mess Du Chamont, Grand, Monthieu, Bernier, Beaumarchais of Paris; Lemosin & others at Havre, & is to be fitted as a Privateer, or occasional Merchant Ship, according to the Ships she meets on Her Passages to & from America & France – The deputies³ are to grant them one of their Blank Commissions from Congress. There are others at Nantz, Bourdeaux, Marseilles &c &c – which are intended to be ready against the Winter Months to follow the same Plan.

M. Sartine lately wrote a Circular Letter to the Chambers of Commerce in France, by order of Council, Contradicting a report that the New Govr of Martinique had Issued a proclamation advertizing the Inhabitants to be on their Guard, as the King had abandoned to Great Britain all Captures of Ships having Arms & Ammunition for the American Colonists – “The report, true or false may injure Commerce, & depress the rising Spirit of Trade with the Americans – But it is either not true, or mis-stated, being inconsistent with the Kings instructions to the Govr – And that the King Commanded Him, M. Sartine to declare expressly, that all Ships taken by the English contrary to the Treaties, should be reclaimed in the strongest terms, and that His Majesty was resolved at all hazards, to Protect the Property & Commerce of His Subjects.”. . .

London Chronicle, TUESDAY, JULY 15, TO THURSDAY, JULY 17, 1777

To the Printer of the London Chronicle.

Sir,

Passing the other night through a Coffee-house, I overheard a conversation on the present posture of affairs, and as usual the members were divided, so that the debate was pretty equally contested, until a friend to the Americans asked the ministerialists, whether our navy was not at present in as indifferent a state, and as unfit for war, as when Hawke was first lord of the admiralty? This unexpected question I observed silenced his opponents, who contented themselves with simply denying the assertion; it made, however, such an impression on me, that immediately withdrawing from these orators, I determined to examine into the truth of this: so calling for some old news-papers, I was agreeably surprised, after a little search to find in one of the public papers a list of the men of war we had cruising in the Channel, and of those which had been dispatched since the beginning of this year to join the several squadrons on the North American and West India stations, by which it appeared that we had no less than twenty-eight ships of the line now cruising in the Channel, which of course I imagine must be fit for service. I observed, however, that the list was imperfect, and sat down to correct it, and having made out the following lists, I thought it would do no harm if they were made public; I therefore have taken the liberty of transcribing them hereunder, that if you should be of the same opinion, I may have the pleasure of seeing myself in print for the first time, and as your paper is read at the Coffee-house where the above conversation passed, it may afford the vanquished party room to triumph in their turn.

Ships of the Line now cruising in the British Channel.

Foudroyant* 80 guns, Prince of Wales* 74, Invincible 74, Boyne* 74, Ramilies 74, Courageux 74, Centaur 74, Torbay 74, Terrible* 74, Culloden* 74, Royal Oak* 74, Egmont 74, Princess Royal 74, Hector* 74, Mars 74, Albion* 74, Burford* 74, Bedford 74, Stirling Castle 74, Cornwall 74, Valiant* 74, Nonsuch* 64, Belleisle 64, Exeter 64, Ardent 64, Raisable* 64, Trident 64, Bienfaisant 64.

Those marked * have taken American vessels.

Besides those (which from their being employed may be supposed to be full manned or nearly so) there are several others in commission as guardships, particularly the Ocean, Queen, Prince George, and Sandwich, of 90 guns each; also several frigates, as the Arethusa, Maidstone, Fowey, &c. several sloops, as the Ceres, Speedwell, Ranger, Drake, Hound, &c. and several armed cutters.

The following have sailed since February for New York.

Augusta 64 guns, sailed with Major Balfour, express; Somerset 64, led the second convoy; St. Alban 64, was the third ditto; Isis 50, was the first ditto; Bristol 50, Experiment 50, now sailing; Thames 32, sailed from Corke; Liverpool 32, sailed with Gen. Clinton; Thetis 32, Surprise 32, Squirrel 28, Bute 20, Silver Eel 20, Camel 18, Zebra 14.

Sailed for Newfoundland.

Romney 50, Adm. Montague; Fox 28, was the convoy from Poole; Active 28, convoy from Jersey; Pegasus 18, convoy from Waterford.

Sailed for Quebec.

Apollo 32, sailed with Gen. Burgoyne; Blonde 32, first convoy; Carysfort 28, third ditto, sailed a fortnight ago; Lizard 28, Proteus 20, second ditto. Sailed for Guinea. Pallas 36.

Mediterranean Convoys.

Worcester 64, Ariadne 20.

Convoys sent to the West Indies.

Southampton 36 guns, Aeolus 32, Leostoffe 32, Grasshopper 20, Cygnets 18, Sylph 18, Weazel 16, Druid 10, Porpoise 20 guns.

N.B. No mention is made of several East Indiamen and other large ships armed and sent with convoys, as the Kent, Pigot, Buffalo, Lord Howe, &c. nor of letters of marque.

Total of Men of War enumerated in the foregoing Lists.

1	of	80 guns.
20	—	74
4	—	50

36 sail of the line.

2	of	36 guns.
8	—	32
5	—	28
6	—	20
7	—	10 to 18

28 frigates and sloops.

64 ships of the line, frigates, and sloops, sent to sea on actual service since January 1777.

I do not pretend to say, Mr. Printer, that there are no errors in the foregoing accounts, but I am persuaded they are more correct than any which have yet appeared; there are I fancy some omissions, as I cannot think but there are above four men of war sailed for Newfoundland and above five for Quebec; however it is better to err on this wise than to exaggerate. — Permit me now to ask one query.

If to the above men of war you add the guardships in commission, the 50 and 40 gun ships, the frigates, sloops, armed vessels and cruisers in North America and the West Indies, say, in what time could all the powers of Europe combined, whether Turks or Christians, enemies or allies, produce a fleet comparable to ours, either in number or discipline, might or experience? I am, Sir, your constant Reader and new Correspondent,

A Cockney.

AMERICAN COMMISSIONERS IN FRANCE TO VERGENNES ¹

(Triplicate.)

Sir,

Paris July 17th 1777.

We are very sensible of the Protection afforded to us and to our Commerce since our Residence in this Kingdom, agreeable to the Goodness of the Kings gracious Intentions, and to the Law of Nations; and it gives us real & great Concern when any Vessels of War appertaining to America, either thro' Ignorance or Inattention, do any thing that may offend his Majesty in the smallest Degree. The Captains Wickes, Nicholson, & Johnson have excused to us their returning to France, being chased into the Channel and close to your Ports by English Men of War, of the Truth of which we have no doubt, the Reprisal particularly having been obliged to throw her Guns overboard to facilitate her Escape. We had some Days before we were honor'd by your Excellencys Letter, dispatched by an Express the most positive Orders to them to depart directly to America which they are accordingly preparing to do, as your Excellency will see by the Letter enclosed which we have just receiv'd by the Return of that Express. – We shall communicate his Majestys Orders to our Friends residing in your Ports, and acquaint the Congress with the same to the end that our arm'd Vessels may be warned of the Consequence that must attend an Infringement of them. We doubt not but they will be henceforth strictly attended to. And we are willing and ready to give any Security your Excellency may judge sufficient and reasonable, that after being fitted an[d] provisioned for so long a Voyage, those Vessels shall proceed directly to America, without making any other Cruize on the Coasts of England. We are thankful for the repeated Assurances of his Majestys Protection continued to us and such of our Nation as may reside in France, and for the facilities indulged to our Commerce at this critical Conjunction, which will always be remembered in our Country with Gratitude & Affection. We have the Honour to be, [&c.]

CAPTAIN MATTHEW MOORE, R.N., TO PHILIP STEPHENS ¹

Exeter off Deal in the Bay of Milford

July 18th 1777

Sir/

Soon after I sailed from Plimouth, I received intelligence from Lieut

[James] Norman of the Tender [Effort] bound to Cork, that two American Frigats and a Sloop were cruizing off the Lands End: and next morning I chaced them, and found they were two Dutch Frigats of twenty four Guns Each, and a Cutter, who were waiting for their India Ships: they have cruized on that Station since April last, and the Cutter chaces every Ship, expecting they may be Dutch: I thought necessary to call off this Port to acquaint their Lordships with this particular circumstance, as I am sure they have given rise to the report spread, of Privateers cruizing on our Coast. I shall keep a strict look out and pursue the Enemy where ever I get certain intelligence of their cruizing and I am Sir [&c.]

London Chronicle, THURSDAY, JULY 17, TO SATURDAY, JULY 19, 1777

London. Saturday, July 19.

The following is an extract of a Letter from Holland to a Gentleman in Bristol:

“My friend’s house at Nantz, I find by a letter from thence last week, corresponds directly with the Congress, receiving from them sugars, coffee, tobacco, indigo, &c. and returning them ammunition of all sorts, stores, hardwares, brandy, salt, &c. and this publickly, constantly and very largely. He writes me, the people there are all mad after learning English, on account of this new connection with America, and all the houses of consequence are getting English clerks for this purpose. Thus you see how every power in Europe is anxious for the spoils of your old American commerce, and encourage the colonists to trade with them. This republic will come in for a share of what you have lost.”

RICHARD RUSSELL TO THE BRITISH NAVY BOARD ¹

Honble Sirs, Harwich July 20th 1777
 Joseph Fuller, Master of the James & Henry Fishing Smack of this place, arrived here Yesterday afternoon from Dunkirk, & informed me that Cunningham's Vessel (a Cutter of about 130 Tons, carrying 20 Carriage Guns, & a great many Swivels, & full of Men)² was towed out from thence into the Road last Thursday night between 8 & 9 o'Clock, & sailed at that time in Company with him, Steering away North East Northerly. And that the Speedwell Sloop of War & a Cutter sailed from Dunkirk Monday night or Tuesday Morning.

John Ellis also, master of an other Fishing Smack, who arrived after him from Dunkirk, which place he left Friday night, brought an Account that it was currently reported there that 50 of the Irish Brigade embarked on board Cunningham's Vessel & sailed in her; and that she was not commanded by Cunningham, but by one [John] Beach who was his Lieutenant. He likewise reported that he saw a French Frigate of 36 Guns come into the Road Friday afternoon.

As this intelligence appeared of consequence I thought it my duty to send Fuller immediately up to London express, which I hope you will approve, and am &c³

INTELLIGENCE RECEIVED FROM JOSEPH FULLER, MASTER OF THE
*James and Henry*¹

Admty Office 20th July 1777.

The following information was taken from Joseph Fuller, Master of a Harwich Fishing Smack, Vizt

That he arrived at Dunkirk on the 8th Instant, where he found the Vessel (called Cunningham's Cutter) laying without the Gates ready to sail.

That the same day or the day after (he cannot be certain which) she was hawled within the Gates, her Sails were unbent and her Stores and Ammunition carried on Shore. – A Guard placed over her and no person permitted to go on board but her own Men.

That on the 17th (after five o'Clock P M) her Sails were bent, the Stores reshippt, and by the assistance of eight Boats a head was towed down below the Gates and by 9 o'Clock was out of the Harbour.

That he (Fuller) was just a head in his Smack and when out of the Harbour sailed close along side for at least fifteen Minutes, and that he heard the Commanding Officer in the Cutter say "come my Lads fill your shot Lockers fore and aft and load your Guns."

That they soon lost sight the Cutter steering N.E. by N. – The Smack N.N.W.

That it was the talk at Dunkirk that Cunningham had 90 Seamen and was to have 50 of the Irish Brigade also, who were to be concealed in the Hold, till the Cutter should be got to Sea. He observed while along side, the Cutter was much crowded with Men.

That besides 20 Carriage Guns, 4 pounders, the Cutter is fitted fore and aft with Swivels and has a Row-Port between each Gun.

That he does not know whether Cunningham is sailed in the Cutter. – He saw him on board the afternoon of her sailing, but it was then said that Beech would command the Cutter & Cunningham stay to see to the fitting a large Ship then in the Harbour (late in the African Service) which he was to command when ready.

CONDE DE ARANDA TO CONDE DE FLORIDABLANCA ¹

[Extract]
No 1079.

Paris, 20 July 1777

My dear sir: On Tuesday the 8th instant, the usual day for the Ambassadors' audience, it seems that the English Ambassador ² expressed himself most vigorously to the Comte de Vergennes, complaining about the protection given to American privateers in French ports, which is so offensive to England, that her coasting trade has sustained injury, and even coal ships have been attacked: That in French ports prizes are sold publicly, which is against the Treaties provided in such cases: and many other things which do not correspond to the reciprocal expressions of good faith, which have been the case in the war against the Rebels. . . .

They were speaking about what was the most common knowledge, that everything was a maneuver of this Court, masked by the pretence of freedom of trade: that under said pretence, in the ports of Dunkerque, St. Malo, Nantes, La Rochelle, and Bordeaux there was an open traffic with the Americans, finding the piers covered with articles of war, that publicly these were embarked as much in French vessels as in American vessels, under the pretext of their being permitted for sale in this Kingdom: That he [Stormont] had already spoken clearly on the subject and he did not know whether he could remain in Paris, that he was at the point of considering his departure. . . .

I received your favour by Captain Taylor and must beg to excuse me for not taking Notice of what you Mentioned in his favour before as I was much hurried, I have wrote to Paris in his favour and will do him every Service in my Power, if this Reaches you at Morlaix beg you would not leave that Port untill you receive orders so to do from the Honble Commissioners at Paris, but hold yourself in readiness to depart on Receipt of their Orders from Paris –

Manley has taken the Fox frigate of 28 Guns after a Very warm Engagement of 5 Hours – General Washington has taken Brunswick & 3000 Prisoners It is also Reported that they have had a General Engagement at Amboy, where Howe was beat and drove into New York with loss of 6000 Men, this News came by a Vessel from Dartmouth arrived at Bordeaux Sail'd the 14th June.

We have News here this day from England by the Way of Gurnsey that says Genl Howe has Lost 12,000 Men & had Embarked wth the Remainder of his Army on board the Men of War – Please Answer this as soon as Possible and let me Know wheather it will be Agreeable to you to go Home in Company with me or not, if it is agreeable I will endeavour to Join you, or get orders for you to Join me, I think the Reason the Gentlemen has not wrote you is owing to the hurry of Business now on hand, as our late Cruize has made a great deal of Noise & will Probably Soon bring on a Warr between France and England which is my Sincere Wish, you may rely on it, that Nothing that I have wrote them has lessened you in their Esteem or Made them Neglect writing you – I have had much trouble here, our Vessels is Still Arrested but I shall be done Graving this day & am Suffered to go on and fit out, I am in hopes of being fit for Sea in 8 or 10 days At furthest, As our Guns is Purchased and all Ready to take on board – Nicholson is gone to Nantz where I am informed there is a Ship Purchased for him to go home in, as a Merchant Man, from Sir [&c.]

SIR JOHN HORT TO LORD WEYMOUTH ¹

No 9

Lisbon Sundy 20 July 1777

. . . Respecting the future protection of the British trade in this place;

I hope that, considering the central situation of the coast, the appearance of the king's cruizing ships on this station in pursuance of the directions your Lordship has caused to be issued for their occasional call at Lisbon; will be frequent enough to answer our purpose of convoys, without the necessity of any regular assignations; At least till the restored confidence of the merchants shall again embolden them, more generally than at present, to commit their property to british bottoms in preference to foreign; which latter now swarm here to an extent unknown, as I am well assured, during any French or Spanish war: In the whole of last month, three British merchant ships alone have entered this port.

At Oporto, the case of his majesty's subjects is still more deplorable, being in fact nothing less than that of a blockade – By letters just arrived from thence, of the 7th instant, it appears, that one rebel privateer is regularly stationed between Oporto & Vianna: Two others between Vianna & the Bayone islands; and a fourth was then recently spoken with by a Brazil ship, off C: Finisterre.

Of these, the Warren schooner, of 10 guns, Nicholas Ogilvie or Ogilvie master, of Marblehead, has taken three vessels; One on the 2d instant, & two on the 4th; the particulars were from Oporto immediately dispatched to the admiralty with request of assistance; and expresses both from thence & from this place, to Admiral Mann at Gibraltar.

The Warren has also taken another vessel of which I have not learned the name.

All these privateers, as well as many others which according to their own reports sailed along with them, are the produce of New England. And I apprehend it to be material to observe, that their force is generally contemptible; pitifully manned & hardly ever mounting above twelve little Guns; often eight, six & even four: These, keeping much closer to the shore than is possible for the great ships hitherto employed against them, are generally either invisible during the appearance of the others; or if detected, croud sail; & unless in the accident of a high sea, perpetually outstrip them.

I take the liberty to observe, that these mischiefs, as well as the credit redounding to the rebels, by such public & sounding appearances of exertion, might be prevented in respect of this coast, by even one small sloop or a stout cutter, that with faithful activity should cruize on this station alone.

I have troubled your Lordship a great deal on this subject; Yet I think I ought not to omit one other circumstance: The Warren's people were particularly careful to secure the Mediterranean passes of the ships that fell into their hands; Your Lordship will judge whether any general order ought to be made in this matter; In the mean time, I have directed that it be recommended to all masters of ships, frequenting especially this place & Oporto, that they keep their passes constantly fastened to a weight; & throw them overboard as soon as they shall be assured that they cannot escape. If, as in one case which I have mentioned they should be dismissed; The Admiralty could not I presume make any difficulty to release their bonds, on due proof, & provide them with new passes. I have even ventured to hold out that assurance as the condition of their public spirit. . . .

“EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM DUBLIN, JULY 22.” ¹

Three vessels were taken last week, about seven leagues from Scilly, by the Civil Usage American privateer, mounting 14 carriage guns and nine swivels, with 70 men. One of the vessels was bound from London to Limerick, one from Bristol to the Madeiras, and one from Tinby to this port with bark; they were all sent to America. The Captains were landed here on Sunday last, who report, that they were taken within view of a man of war, who could not sail to their relief, there being a dead calm, and the privateer rowing with 16 oars: They also report, that soon after they were put on board the Dutchman (that brought them here) they saw the same privateer take a large vessel, who, before she struck fired five guns. The Captains say, they were treated with the utmost humanity and civility by the Captain and crew of the privateer.

SIR HUGH PALLISER TO LORD SANDWICH ¹

[Extract]

Admiralty, 22nd July 1777.

. . . I am of opinion the American fleet ² will cruise in small squads of sufficient strength to overmatch our single cruising frigates, first about the coast of Newfoundland to do all the mischief they can, then will look out for the West India convoys. If they divide as I have supposed, there is a chance for the Raisable to fall in with some of them; and on hearing of the numbers in that neighbourhood, I hope Captain Fitzherbert will join Admiral Montagu rather than Lord Howe. From Mr Montagu's letter, I conclude Lord Howe will send some ships to him: in the meantime, I am in fear for his single cruisers, and when reinforcements arrive the enemy will be gone. The escape of so many privateers of force from so great a fleet as we have in America to watch them, and the taking of the Fox, is very mortifying and disgraceful. The account of taking the Fox is not particular enough to form an opinion upon it. I hope the Romney and Pegasus would go out.

From Mr Eden's intelligence and Conyngham's vessel's sailing, I still continue to doubt the sincerity of the professions of the Court of France: and that the orders which they pretend to issue are merely to deceive in order to begin the war with the greatest possible advantage; and which may succeed if our only security at home (which consists in our great ships) are to be dispersed to the other side of the Atlantic after flying squadrons of privateers, whilst so large a fleet of frigates and line of battle ships remain moored in the ports in America or employed only to secure and support an army who it seems cannot support itself. Should not Lord Howe be directed to dispatch ships after such fleets of armed American vessels? For if we are to disperse our home guard after every squadron of privateers in distant parts, whilst the fleets of France and Spain are armed, we certainly shall not be safe at home.

I am exceedingly surprised and alarmed at the great number of Carron guns remaining in the fleet so long after they have been taken out of the army and garrison service.³ . . .

. . . I last night read the dispatches from V. Admiral Montagu containing the Account of the Fox being taken by two American Rebel Vessels, and giving but too much reason to expect that mischief will be done to fishery; but I trust if Lord Howe has sent the two frigates applied for by the Governour, that the gang of Pyrates will soon be driven off. I am engaged in an unpleasant though necessary business; which must naturally occasion many disagreeable events, but I hope I have strength enough to meet them. . . .

CAPTAIN CHARLES MIDDLETON, R.N., TO ADMIRAL SIR THOMAS PYE ¹

Sir Prince George Spithead 22d July 1777 -

I have particularly examined the Prisoners taken in the Grace, and have no reason to believe that Robert McCaver was detained against his Inclination on board the Rebel Privateer as set forth in his Petition, but rather active in their Service - Had it been otherways many Opportunities had offered to favor his Escape since he left Philadelphia, and particularly as she has used no other Ports than French ones since that period; has continued some months in them at one time; has sold & shared several Prizes there, and hove down very lately at L'Orient, where had he been inclined to return to his Allegiance he had Opportunities of applying to the English Resident as several others of the Crew did.

This Man has been by his own Confession rated Masters Mate and at fixed Wages, of Course a Voluntier - His Journal implies the Sentiments of a Person well inclined to their Service, and he was when taken intrusted with the Care of the only good Prize made in their last Cruize - These Circumstances together with some others, and his not appearing to have been the first proposer of bringing the Grace into an English Port Evinces that the Substance of his Petition is not true. -

On the first Examination of these Men I thought their Story appeared plausible, but when I afterwards considered that they were taken far up the St Georges's Channel - That the Winds were unfavourable for the Coast of France, That it blew too hard for some days to keep the Sea, and that they had no Business on the South Coast of England with the wind at SW if they wished to reach Liverpool as was McCarvers Intention even after he had anchored in Torbay; I became very doubtfull of my first Opinion, and from some other particulars related by the Lieutenant of the Neptune Tender, I think it most probable, She never would have come into an English Port had not the winds forced her there - Of this however I leave their Lordships, and the Court of Admiralty, (before whom the Examinations now lie for their Determination) to judge; but as Mr McCarver has publickly declared he would rather lie in a Jail than serve on board any of his Majestys Ships, I leave little reason to believe him a well wisher to this government, and very obvious is the falsity of that part of his plea respecting his being put on board the Grace soon after his having been forced to enter as alledged in his Petition, for it is clear that he was nine Months in Arms against his Country after he left Philadelphia and only put on board when he was thought to be most confidentially usefull in taking care of their Prize.

On the whole I am of Opinion, that Mr McCarver was esteemed a Zealous Partisan on board the Privateer & trust worthy Man to confide their best Prize to – That he had no Inclination of himself to restore the Ship & Cargo to her Owners, and that he served the Rebels more from Choice than force; but finding himself so circumstanced as to be obliged to go into an English Port, He carefully avoided all those on the Bristol Channel which were open to him, as well as Plymouth and others to the Westward of Torbay, where there might be a probability of meeting with Kings Ships, and only put into an Open Road from whence he could take the first Opportunity of wind & weather to persue his Course; but finding himself arrested by the Tender who anchored there in Company, He had the Cunning to make the best of a bad Situation, and to turn the Circumstances of his anchoring there for Shelter to his own Advantage. I am Sir [&c.]
Cha^s Middleton

PS. I would just add that McCarvers orders were to carry this Vessell into L'Orient, Nantz or Bilboa neither of which were practicable as the winds were after parting with the Privateer.

CAPTAIN LAMBERT WICKES TO THE AMERICAN COMMISSIONERS IN FRANCE ¹

Gentlemen

St Malo July 23d 1777 –

I have received none of your favours by the two last Posts – Things remain in the same Situation here as When I wrote you last, We are Suffered to go on & Refit, but very Slowly the Tradesmen of this Port Work but very slow & we Cannot hurey them Much for fear of being Stop'd I think we Can be ready to Sail by the first of Next Month if not Stop'd here – I received a Letter from Captain Johnson of the 18th Inst informing me of his being Arrested and stop'd by orders from the Minester at Paris, they have taken a list of the Names of his French Men now on board the Lexington & taken Capt. Johnson's Parrole to deliver them if demanded & Not to go out of the Port untill he is Permitted by Orders from the Minester, he desired my Advice on this Subject and Says he Could easily get out, if you think it Advisable, but I have desired him not to brake his Parrole or go out, unless desired by you, but to Wait your Orders & make no doubt but he will Comply –

Inclosed you have an Inventory of the Prince of Conte's Stores & Materials, She is a Strong well Built Ship, but will want good deal of New Sails & Rigging before she goes to Sea, I think her Worth About One Hundred & Seventy or Eighty thousand french livers and not More – If you Want such a Ship and Can get her at or under that Price, I think you Can't get a Better Ship for that Sum – Capt Nicholson is at Nants & of course will inform you of his Proceedings there, from, Gent. I have bought the Duc de Chartres for 70,000 L payable at 4, 5 & 6 months but I was obliged to Submit to a Conditional Sale that if before the day of my purchase she should be ready sold in Paris the bargain is Void but if Accts of Such a previous purchase do not Arrive by next Tuesday the bargain with me to be good & as the time between this & Tuesday does not admit of information to be given & an answer received I am moraly certain of not being Jockied & shall have the Ship unless she is realy previously sold which they assure me they do not think will be the Case I consented to these terms because every day is precious & between this and Tuesday I can make the Necessary arrangments for heaving her down which un-avoidably will take two or three days as to the price I think you have not a bad bargain the Ship is in every Respect such a one I could wish for & I think will be an Acquisition to our Navy – As you were particular that every paper should be French from the Begining I have not appeard in the transaction & shall give my Bills to Mr Peltier who will remit them to Mr Montiu & so draw on him in return in the same manner as I did for the Dolphins Expences I have Chosen Mr Peltier for this operation as I think I can do it with a better cover than with any one else at present and as he has the Shipping of the Bales it would be employing two Houses for the same operation if I had employed any other I have agreed to allow him but half of a Commission upon fitting this Ship the french cover to our proceedings will therefore cost you only 1 PCt

Capt Nicholson is very desirous to take his own Crew on board this Ship & with 30 or 40 more which he thinks he could assemble to go out as an American I shall go on as I have began all French & you will detirmine as you think proper with regard to Capt Nicholsons proposals I shall not however engage any french Commander nor french Officers as it will not be necessary to have any till the ship is ready to take in the most disagreeable part of employing french Officers is the Extraordinary Gratifications they require please to limit me in this or at least say how much you think reasonable all the Capts who have hitherto gone have had 6000 L I imagine they will now ask rather more than less & if it is to remain in the Country that is if she does not return french I suppose they will ask double –

I have Just received Letters from L'orient which informs me that a Prize is brought in there which was taken by the Genl Miffin Capt William Day or Dey in the Irish Channel on the 10th Instt she has made 3 prizes in all which are forwarded to Different ports in France the Present one is a norway ship loaded with 403 doz Comon planks 74 others of different Sizes & about 30 barrells of Whale Oil I have a Letter from Capt Johnson at Morlaix which advises the safe arrival of this privateer at Brest where he says he meets with assistance even from the Kings Yard – The Commissary at L'Orient is extremly troublesome about the above prize on Acct of an order from the Minister ordering all prizes to leave the Port in 24 Hours Mr Gorlade has endeavour[ed] to make her appear not as a prize but as a Ship from Boston he however is forbid to unload her till new orders from the Minister –

I therefore mention these Circumstances thinking your previous Knowlidge of the matter may tend to facilitate the procuring a favourable order – The Genl Mifflin is owned by Messrs Ph: Moore & Co She left Boston the 24th May in Consort of two frigates of Force who were bound on a Secret Cruise² I have the honor to be &c

Personally appeared before me Peter John Heywood A Master extraordinary in the High Court of Chancery and also Notary and Tabellion public dwelling in Whitehaven in the County of Cumberland William Newell late Boatswain on board the Sloop Jason of and belonging to the Port of Whitehaven the property of Samuel Martin of the same place Esquire Captain Joseph Hutchinson late Commander James Newell of Tweed Mouth in the Bishoprick of Durham late a Mariner on board the Brigantine Polly and Nancy belonging to the Port of Pool in the County of Dorset William Cantersbury late Commander and John Harrison of the Isle of Man late a Mariner on board the Schooner Peter belonging to the Port of Liverpoole John Mucklenow Commander who being sworn on the Holy Evangelists make oath and say, And first the said William Newell for himself saith that He sailed from the said Port of Whitehaven on the Eighteenth day of June last past in said Sloop Jason for Saint Petersburgh in the Empire of Russia and that on Friday the Twentieth day of the said Month of June about Two o Clock in the morning the said Sloop Jason was taken by the Lexington Rebel Privateer in Company with the Reprizal and Dolphin off the Mull of Cantyre And the said William Newell James Newell and John Harrison severally Depose and say that several Sails and Materials belonging to Sundry Vessels which the said Rebel Privateers had destroyed were put on board the Sloop Jason and was then manned wholly with Frenchmen. That no English Irish or Scots Person was suffered to go in the said Sloop. That the said Sloop was dispatched for the Port of Nantz in the Kingdom of france where the said Sloop soon afterwards arrived and also a Snow and a Brigantine which were likewise taken by the said Privateers. That the said Deponents were continued on Board the Reprizal and declares that a large Man of War having chased her in her said voyage to Nantz Captain Wickes ordered her Guns to be Thrown over Board and four Beams sawed out which orders were executed accordingly and the said Privateer was carried into the Port of Saint Maloes in the said Kingdom of france under the directions of a French Pilot

That the said Deponents were allowed to go on shore with two or three other English Prisoners at a time in Company of Eight or Ten of the Crew belonging to the said Privateer that the said William Newell made application to a Broker who lived in the said Town of Saint Maloes and who could speak English who informed the said Deponent William Newell that he could not get clear and Return to England without an order from

Captain Wickes that the said William Newell accordingly applied to the said Captain Wickes but was by him refused that the day after He had made the said application the said Captain Wickes obtained an order for the Gates of the said City of Saint Maloes to be shut in order that no English Sailors might be admitted except such as brought a pass from the said Captain Wickes with a Seal on it which He procured and brought from the said City for that purpose, that the following Week the said Deponent and John Carson a Seaman belonging to the said Privateer (pretending to belong to an English Brig then lying at Saint Maloes) went round the said Town to the Gate which led from the Country and got in that a Soldier who could speak English advised the said Deponents to apply to the Commissary That the Deponents William Newell and James Newell applied to him accordingly and the said Commissary sent the said Deponent William Newell to the Head Linguister (with whom the said William Newell had been before) that the said Linguister asked the said William Newell what He wanted and being informed that He wanted permission and a pass to Return to England was answered by him in the English Language "You Rascal! if you dont go immediately on board the Reprizal I will Commit you to Goal," and the said Linguister immediately ordered the said Deponent William Newell and his Companions the other Deponents to be sent out of the Gates of the said City and attended himself and gave orders to the said Gate Keepers not to Suffer the said William Newell and his Companions to come in again That the said Captain Wickes knowing the said William Newell to be a Pilot in the Irish Channell made him several offers to Induce him to Continue on board the Privateer But He and the other Deponents being determined to be at Home at any Rate or Perish in the Attempt went accordingly to a small Town about half a mile distant from Saint Maloes off which place the said Privateer lay and concealed themselves in a public House where Wine was sold until it grew dark when the said Deponent William Newell swam off to a vessel which was moored just a head of the Reprizal called a Gabarre or Small Lighter and which was to take in Lumber from the said Privateers and finding the Cabin locked and that the Centries on board the Reprizal did not discover him and having carried a Knife in his mouth He Cut a small Boat loose which was fastened to another Sloop then lying near the said Lighter and brought two of his Companions namely the said James Newell and John Harrison on board the said Lighter the other Seaman John Carson being so drunk that He could not Shift for himself and they had not time to make any delay That on getting on board the Lighter the said Deponents cutt one Cable and slipt the other making sail out of the Port when being as they apprehended discovered by some persons on board two Boats, and which they believed were immediately manned and sent in Chase of them But fortunately a Fog came on and a Breeze of Wind Shott them so far out into the Offing that the said Boats gave over chasing them That the third day following the said Deponents made Portland where they procured some Refreshment of Water, Cabages and a Little Bread (for they had no money) from whence they coasted along shore and got to the Port of Parton near

Whitehaven aforesaid on Sunday the Twentieth day of July Instant the Eleventh day after they had left the french Shores When He the said William Newell waited on John Jackson Esquire Receiver General of the Droits of Admiralty agreeable to the order of the said Samuel Martin Esquire late Owner of the said Sloop Jason and in obedience to the directions of said John Jackson on Monday the Twenty first day of July He brought the said Vessel round to Whitehaven where her Sails &c. were lodged in the Kings Custom House And the said Deponent James Newell for himself saith that He was taken Prisoner by the said Reprizal when sailing in the said Brigantine Polly and Nancy in their voyage from the said Port of Pool to the Port of Cadiz in Spain And the said Deponent John Harrison for also for himself saith that He was taken Prisoner by the said Reprizal when sailing in the said Schooner Peter on their voyage home from Saint Vincents to the Port of Liverpoole aforesaid And lastly these Deponents James Newell and John Harrison for themselves severally further Depose and say that they never had an opportunity of escaping from the said Privateer till the said other Deponent William Newell Imparted to them the said Scheme of Seizing the said Lighter and that the said William Newell was the person fixed on to make the said application to the said Commissary and Linguister as before mentioned. —

Liverpool, July 19 [sic 25].

Sunday last arrived here the ship Pole, Capt Maddock in 24 days from New-York. On the 12th inst. at 5 P.M. in Lat. 56. Long. 26. she fell in with the Tartar ¹ rebel privateer mounting 20 nine pounders, on the main deck 8 four pounders on the quarter deck and 4 four pounders on the fore-castle, full of men, supposed 200 at least, had an Image head, and Quarter galleries; all the guns on her main deck, painted black, the guns on the quarter deck and fore-castle red; the ship painted black and yellow, with tarr'd sides; short top gallant mast heads. She bore down on the Pole under English colours, enquired from whence she came, and whether she was a King's ship, being answered in the affirmative, the Captain then gave orders to hoist the thirteen Stripes and fire away, on which the engagement began and continued till 20 minutes past 8 when the privateer sheered off. Capt Maddock had 2 mates and a passenger wounded, and supposes that near one half of the people must be killed or wounded on board of the privateer, having cleared their fore-castle of men three times, and heard dreadful cries. The Pole had 16 six pounders, and only 40 people in number passengers included; both officers and men behaved gallantly, and to the entire satisfaction of Capt. Maddock; during the engagement, they were in hail of each other, the word Tartar was observed on the ship's stern, and by a list handed about at New York, Capt. Maddock finds she was commanded by one Davies, a Welshman, and mentioned there to have 32 guns.

St James's 25th July 1777

. . . His Majesty has thought proper to direct Lord Stormont to make strong representations to the french Ministers on the support, assistance and shelter given to the American Privateers cruizing in the European Seas, and on the Permission given to the Captures made by those Vessels of being admitted into the Ports of France. The most positive assurances have been made on the part of France that Orders shall be given to prevent this for the future, and that no Privateer or Prize shall be suffered to remain in the french Ports more than twenty four hours, and generally the Court of France has shewn by their professions an earnest Desire of maintaining the present Peace, and of preventing such causes of well grounded complaints.

There is well founded reason to believe that the American Agents residing at Paris have determined, in consequence of this obstruction to their Piracies, to direct their Cruizers to carry their Prizes into the Ports of Spain, where they are to be bought not as Prizes, but as trading Vessels; They are to be sold there without delay, and the Privateer is further instructed to quit the Port as soon as possible.

I am directed by His Majesty to signify to Your Excellency His Command that You lose no time in acquainting M. de Florida Blanca with this Plan, not doubting that His Catholic Majesty will direct such Orders to be sent to the several Sea Ports as shall prevent the execution of this design. . . .

St James's, 25th July 1777

. . . The several dispatches containing an account of the conversations You have held with the French Ministers with respect to the orders signified to You in my No 43, have been fully considered; and the assurances given by the French Court are satisfactory to His Majesty; provided They fulfill the several engagements they enter into. They have taken the utmost line that can be allowed them; and any deviation from it will make a war however great the evil, preferable to a state that must injure materially the commerce of this Country, and disgrace it in the eyes of all Europe. Connivance on the part of their officers at the several ports must be considered as authorised by the Ministers as it is well known there is an energy in that Government that does not admit of the disobedience of their officers.

What has lately passed at Dunkirk does not give great encouragement to believe that a severe execution of the orders sent to the ports will be observed; Since Cunningham's vessel has been allowed to sail on Security being given by Hodge, who cannot be considered in this case as a responsible man. This circumstance does not agree with the assurances given to Your Excellency by M. de Vergennes, and confirmed by M. de Maurepas; and does not imply that good faith on which He values Himself, which the frankness and candour of this Court deserves, and which the present situation requires.

I am to signify to Your Excellency His Majesty's Commands, that You acquaint the French Ministers of these particulars; and further inform them, that their professions are agreeable to Him; but that Your Excellency is directed to apprise them of every circumstance that shall come to your knowledge in which the orders, which they engage shall be observed, shall in any wise have been eluded. In such critical situations a relaxation in the execution must be of the utmost importance.

Your Excellency will endeavour to obtain information what are become of the five prizes taken by the Reprizal, and her Consorts; and said to have been carried into Nantes, That in case they are still permitted to remain in that Port, Your Excellency may claim them for the benefit of the owners.

The sequestration of the three privateers the Reprizal, the Lexington, and the Dolphin would be a proper measure if such security will be required of them as shall be of effect; but if such is taken, as has been with respect to Cunningham; it would seem that they are only waiting till a favourable opportunity shall offer to do more injury to this Country. . . .

MARQUIS DE NOAILLES TO VERGENNES¹

[Extract]

No 51

London 25th July 1777

. . . I told him [Lord Weymouth] that, . . . without awaiting express orders from my Court, I could give him the Confirmation which he desired concerning the fixed determination of the King, my master, to observe all the provisions included in the Treaties; not only because He regarded them as a strict obligation, but also because He wished to give personally to His Britannic Majesty special proofs of his friendship, and of his desire to maintain the good understanding between the two Nations. Lord Weymouth replied that his Court could not receive such expressions without being greatly Touched, that everything which should tend to preserve peace would be in accordance with the wishes of England, that we were at present giving assurances which left nothing to be desired; but that all depended now on the execution of the orders which had been sent to our Ports, to prevent henceforth the American Privateer Captains from abusing the refuge which they found with us; and, not wishing to express his distrust too clearly relative to the non-execution of these orders, he spoke to me again about Captain Cunningham, who had been released, and who had now left Dunkerque to go Privateering. Taking care not to show him my surprise at the Suspicions which he half hinted at, I contented myself with telling him that it must not be doubted that the last assurances which he had been asked to renew, would have this effect. . .

The most essential point remained for me to deal with, that which concerned the freedom of our Navigation. . . . I represented to Lord Weymouth that the Admiralty Courts at Antigua, Dominica, and Jamaica appeared to have adopted principles which it was important for us to see rectified, seeing that they had declared some French Ships legal prizes, because they had been found laden with goods which were suspected of being of North American origin, although it was proved that these Ships and their Cargoes had Come from our Islands. To the objection that we had no trade with the English Colonies, that everything which passed over to our Islands from those Colonies was contraband, I replied that the goods took the nationality of the owner; that Spain had never thought of confiscating an English Vessel on the high seas, although it might have on board valuable produce acquired by smuggling from the Spanish possessions; that goods on changing hands changed owners, and that everything that was put on board in our Ports, having a legitimate destination, ought to be regarded as French property over which no Foreign Nation had any right. . . .

AMERICAN COMMISSIONERS IN FRANCE TO CAPTAIN HENRY JOHNSON ¹

Sir

Paris July 25th 1777 -

Your Letter of the 18th We received, as We gave Our Orders generally to Com: Wickes, we omitted writing in particular to You. We are sensible of Your Spirit, & gallant Behavior as an Officer, & of Your Attachment to your Country as an American, & shall with pleasure do justice to Your Character, in Our Letters to the Congress, who we doubt not, will pay due Attention to your Merits. The Situation, in which the present posture of political Affairs in France, necessarily places You require Your utmost patience, & circumspection, and We cannot too strongly recommend to You, to be very cautious how you express your Sentiments, on the present proceedings, as We can assure You, that they are not designed Ultimately to injure Us, but the Contrary. We are glad You are in such readiness with Your Vessel, & with respect to the Prize Money for Your People, must refer You to Capt Wickes to whom we write this Post on the Subject, we are far from wishing to detain any part of it for the Use of the Congress, & will do all in Our power to have the People paid their proportions, as soon as the Prizes can be disposed of; We are sensible of Your generous Offer with respect to Your share, but cannot think of Accepting it, your Share may be of consequence to You, as an individual, & we heartily wish it were Ten Times larger – As to any French Seamen who may have entered with You they being Subjects of France, must Submit to the Laws, and Regulations of their Country, we shall be Sorry to learn they have offended, against either, & hope, if they have inadvertently, they will not be treated rigorously. it is not probable that You will be detained, longer than three, or four Weeks & in the meantime recommend to You, the providing for Your People, & keeping them together, & Contented, in the best manner, & with the greatest Oeconomy, in Your Power & to have your Vessel in Order, for sailing as soon as You shall receive Our directions – We shall be glad to hear from You by every Opportunity & are wishing You success, & advancement, in the American Navy – Sir [&c.] for B Franklin &

self – Silas Deane

[P.S.] Accts are favorable from America, the last indeed want Confirmation but I doubt not of our having obtained very Considerable Advantages – Capt Wickes in his Letter to Us, has spoken of You, much to Your honor, & We are happy that a good understanding has subsisted between You

“EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM KIRKWALL, JULY 26.”¹

This day the sloop Betty, Capt. Sinclair, arrived here from Bergen, and brings advice, that on the 24th inst. he fell in with a Fairisle fishing-boat; the crew told him they had been on board an American privateer a day or two before, a little to the westward of that island. It seems there are two of them in company, and they were both seen from the Island of North Ronaldshay the evening of the day that Captain Sinclair was at Fairisle. They told the Fairisle fishermen, that they had, for a fortnight before, been cruising off Shetland, but had met with nothing. The station which they occupy at present is surely the best in all the North Sea, as there all the Baltic traders, to the west of Britain and Ireland, generally pass. Of late it has been lucky the winds have proved northerly, which has prevented the ships from beating to windward; the first S.E. wind will bring a great many ships through that fair way; and if these pirates will have the patience to stay a couple of weeks longer, they may pick up a good many of our hemp, and flax loaded ships; for, it is certain, we have not so much as a single sloop of war on the coast to protect the trade.

. . . we can not deny that the American Privateers which have come into European waters have behaved with much indiscretion, even with regard to us. they are now punished for it and I hope that this act of severity will make their fellows more Circumspect. we can not refuse Them Entry into our ports When they are forced to run into them by emergencies caused by the sea or war, The treaties have forseen this; the King does not Mean to Extend facilities beyond it; his orders are precise; and we shall watch as well as we can, for there is in almost all orders of the State, great and small, a conspiracy which, in the English manner, wishes well to the rebels and damns Their Enemies. they repay us in like measure in England; this sort of War will not be dangerous so long as the Governments do not meddle with it. . . .

The Ship the King of Spain a Letter of Marque from Carron in Scotland Laden with 221 Iron Guns for His Catholick Majesty's Service arrived in Ferrol the 23d Instant with the Ship Emperor of Germany belonging to and bound from Bristol to the Island of Dominica, and the Bay of Honduras with the Articles specified in the List I have the Honor to inclose. This Vessel was taken the 15th Instant by the Civil Usage a Rebel Privateer commanded by one Andrew Gidding and was happily retaken on the 18th in Lat: 47. 30' by the Letter of Marque. Nine of the Pirates Crew (who with four men belonging to the Prize were put on board of her in order to guard and navigate her to Bilboa for Sale) remain confined in the Letter of Marque, the Master of which proposes to take the Cargoe on board his own Vessel, and to send the Prize home in Ballast navigated by Spanish Seamen. Without consulting or writing to me he has applied to the Governor of Ferrol for Leave to set the Prisoners on Shore at their Liberty, but as the Governor has not yet determined I have thought proper to advise Capt [James] Hamilton to keep them well secured on board, having no Reason to think this Government will oppose it or prevent their being carried Prisoners to England. One of them named Manuel Gonzales being a Native of Spain may probably be demanded of me in which Case I humbly conceive it may be proper to deliver him, but as I have wrote fully to My Lord Grantham on this Subject I shall wait His Excellency's Command for the Rule of my Conduct, meanwhile I most humbly request the Honor of some Instructions whether the Commander of a Letter of Marque or other Private Ships having His Majesty's Comission may not in case they apprehend Danger from the great Number of their Prisoners set them on Shore, or discharge them in foreign Parts. . . .

SIR STANIER PORTEN TO PHILIP STEPHENS¹

Sir,

St James's 27th July 1777.

Lord Weymouth has this Morning received a Letter from Mr Elsdén, dated Lynn the 25th Inst giving Account that the Patty, John Green, Master, bound from that Port to Wyburgh, was taken on the 21st Inst in the Lattitude of 55.22. North, and Longitude of 3.20. East from the Meridian of London, at 50 Leagues from the Spurn head N.E. by East, by a Rebel Sloop, or Cutter, mounting 16. Carriage Guns, besides Swivels, and about 100 Men. The Master of the Patty was informed that the Sloop was called the Pegasus Captain Richard Allen, of North Carolina.² One of the People on board the Privateer said privately that she was fitted out at Havre de Grace, and had not been out more than four Days; her Rigging appeared entirely new, and not in the least chaffed. From the Circumstance of the Time of her being out of Port, and from the Name of the Captain, it appears very probable that the Cutter is the Greyhound, from Dunkirk, for one Richard Allen, who called himself the Proprietor, was the Person who cleared out that Vessel from that Port.

Mr Elmsden adds that the Northampton, William Gray, Master, loaded with Deals, had been taken by the Pegasus, and sent away. The Maria, John Warns, Master, and a Ship belonging to Scotland have been taken and burnt.³ The Patty, John Green, was ransomed for six hundred Guineas, in a Bill drawn by the Master on Messrs Muilman & Son, of Amsterdam, and William Grace, or Grice, is the Hostage left on board the Pegasus.

I have Lord Weymouth's Directions to acquaint you with these Circumstances, for the Information of the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty. I am &c

Your Excellency

Always preoccupied with never causing a delay in the King's order, because of rumors of an impending war, I have given orders to all of my Ships to make an inventory of all the provisions that remain on board and to replenish themselves for three months. I have informed the intendant so that he can give orders for the provisions, and also the captains to have the necessary provisions for their messes, moreover to fill up the boatswains' inventories with the stores that they have used up while in the roads. By this timely precaution we will all have three months' provisions and will be ready to set sail the moment he wishes to give the order. If the cruise should be longer, it will be only a matter of a day or two to take on the additional supplies.

M. de la Motte Piquet will put into the roads tomorrow. I am awaiting the return of Messrs. Hector and de Bosset at any moment. I am with respect, Your Excellency [&c.]

Having laid before my Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty your Letter of the 27th Instant acquainting them with the Advices Lord Weymouth had received from Mr Elsdon of the Capture of several Vessels in the North Sea by a Rebel Privatier Sloop or Cutter called the Pegasus Captain Allen, but supposed to be the Vessel commanded by Cunningham, which lately sailed from Dunkirk; I am commanded by their Lordships to send you, for Lord Weymouth's information, the inclosed Copies of Letters from Captain Richards, who is appointed to regulate the Impress Service at Yarmouth, and Lieutenant Moore of the Tender stationed at that port, with their several Inclosures, relative to the Recapture of the Northampton Brig, one of the Vessels taken by the Rebel Privatier abovementioned; by which it will appear that the said Privatier is unquestionably the Vessel commanded by Cunningham, with double Commissions from the Congress, and that she is partly manned with Frenchmen, Sixteen out of 21 of her Crew, which were put on board of the Northampton being of that Nation.

at Paris 30th July 1777.

. . . I am writing to Comte d'Orvilliers, who informed me as did you of the Privateer General Mifflin of Boston putting into Brest, which, according to the examination which has been made, proved to need some repairs, that I expect, that as soon as this Ship is set right again, she will go to sea and away from our Coasts. You did well to pay no attention to the proposal that has been made to you by Capt. [William] Day who commands this Privateer, of changing his gunpowder, which is found to be of mediocre quality, and to inform him that the King has prohibited the delivery of any Munitions to Foreign Vessels; but that his gunpowder, deposited in the magazine when he came into the port, would be returned to him. . . .

Most Secret

Paris July 30th 1777

. . . [I then spoke] of what has passed at Dunkirk. Notwithstanding my repeated Representations on the Subject, notwithstanding all Your Excellency [de Vergennes] Said to me when You mentioned the Expedient You had proposed to M de Sartines, which would Have effectually ended the Business, nay more, Notwithstanding the most positive Assurances given to me by M de Maurepas that the Greyhound Cutter ² should not sail; a very few days ago, after that promise was given, which, as was my Duty I mentioned to my Court exactly as it was, that Vessel was publickly Suffered to put to sea, and the Admiralty of Dunkirk took Security from Hodge who cannot be considered as a responsible Man in this Case, and I believe is so in None; besides Sir there is a Clear Contradiction in this whole Affair that appears upon the face of it, Richard Allen is allowed to declare the Ship is his Property, and Hodge gives Security; If the Property is not in Hodge how can He answer for what the Crew will or will not do, If he is the owner how comes Allen to be admitted to make a Declaration that is manifestly false? To compleat the whole that Pirate Cunningham is suffered to go on board of this Vessel not indeed in the Harbour but in the Road. M de Vergennes seemed uneasy and ashamed whilst I was Speaking on this Subject, and when I had done Attempted no Justification but Said that if Cunningham had been suffered to go on board Ses Messieurs de l'Amiranté ne s'en étoient pas vanté that He did not know that Hodge had given Security but understood that the Ship had been suffered to put to sea upon Richard Allen's Declaration that She was his Property. He assured me that the whole was without the approbation or Privity of this Court, and had been owing to a Blunder of the Amiranté who had thought that after Allen had claimed Her the Ship was no longer within the Orders, but was to be treated like any other English Vessel; It struck both M de Maurepas and me, added He, when we heard that Allen had purchased the ship that this Blunder might be made, we mentioned it to M de Sartines who said that our Apprehensions were Groundless, and that such a Thing was impossible. Two Days after, we learnt to our Surprise and Regret that the Cutter had sailed. I assure You this is the exact state of the Case, Il n'y a ni plus ni Moins. He then set me right with regard to a little mistake I had made, and told me that the Advice He had given M de Sartines, did not relate to this Cutter, but to the Surprize which little Vessel He says has been purchased by a french Man who does not care to part with Her as we have often talked of both these Vessels at the Same Time, the first Intention being that they Should sail Together. . .

As M de Vergennes so positively disclaimed all Knowledge of the Permission given to the Greyhound Cutter and attributed it wholly to a Blunder of the Admiralty of Dunkirk I could not in decency appear to doubt of such positive assertions. . .

I then My Lord thought that it would be proper to Lay in a claim with regard to the five English Vessels reported to be carried into Nantz and said that if they were still there it was my Duty to claim them as English Ships which ought to be immediately delivered to their owners or their Agent Cause. I thought this a proper Precaution tho I am inclined to believe that these Ships have left Nantz As no Applications has been made to me by any of the Owners.

After I had finished this Narrative I returned to the Orders contained in Your Lordships Letter and observed to M de Vergennes that the Sequestration of the three Privateers the Reprizal, Lexington and Dolphin might be considered as a very proper Measure if Effectual Security was required of them, but if Such collusive, unavailling security should be taken as has been accepted with regard to the Greyhound Cutter The suffering them to remain in the french Ports, where they will probably meet with every Assistance, will be only furnishing them a safe Retreat till they can find a favourable opportunity of injuering us et sera un Grief de plus. M de Vergennes answered that They would not be allowed to purchase Arms or Ammunition, would have no other Succours que ceux de l'humanité and added that France wished to be fairly rid of them and did not mean to be at the Expence of feeding the Crews. He likewise told me that several Frenchmen had been found on board of the Reprizal, and had been immediately seized and thrown into Prison (I have the same intelligence My Lord from quite another Quarter) He ended with repeating that he wished much to have them gone and asked if they might not be accompanied by a french Man of War till they got beyond the Capes and then be left to take their Chance. I replied that I thought such an Expedient liable to great Objection, as the Accompanying them with a french Man of War, would carry an air of Countenance and Protection which would appear very Extraordinary after all that had passed and was what they by no Means deserved. He replied, that he did not mean what he said to me upon the Subject as a formal Proposal, but had thrown it out as an Idea that came across Him, and then once more repeated that it was much to be wished some Expedient should be found. I answered, that there was I thought nothing so easy as to order them out of Port forbidding them positively ever to return to any Port of France, and taking sufficient Security that they would not Attempt to cruize against us. The Captains of these Ships depend upon, and receive their Orders from Franklin and Deane, they both have sense enough to know how precarious their Situation is here and certainly whenever they know You are in Earnest, they will, they must obey, in a Word Sir there is nothing so clear as this, if You really mean what You profess as we Hope You do, there can be no difficulty in the Execution of any Orders You issue si la Volonté du Roi, votre maitre est sincere il faut de toute Necessité qu' elle soit efficace.

He did not and indeed could not dispute this, but returned to the principal Subject and said that it certainly would not be consistent with the Dignity of France to deliver these ships to us Neither would it sir Said I be consistent with our Dignity that You should send a Ship to protect them I do not insist upon that Idea said He but now that Your Cruizers are lying off our Coast in wait for these Privateers, the forcing them to go out under such Circumstances would in effect be delivering them up to You and is besides what is never done. I replied that the Natural thing was to order them out of Port after Proper Security for their good behaviour and to let them take their chance. He insisted that whilst any of our Ships that were Lying in wait for them was in Sight of the french Coast this could not be done and was contrary to an established rule. I did not admit the Existence of any such Rule, and said, the only Regulation that I knew was that when ships of Nations that are at War happen to be in the same Neutral Port No armed Vessel is allowed to follow till four and twenty Hours after that Ship has sailed out of Port. M de Vergennes insisted that no ship is ever Sent forcibly out of a Neutral Port as Long as Cruizers that are in wait for Her are within Sight of the Coast and said that the forcing these Privateers out of Port under such Circumstances would be the more unjust as France by Sequestering them had given Time for our Cruizers to arrive. . . .

off Cape Ortegual the Royal Oak of 74, and off Cape St. Vincent the Enterprise of 24 guns. All three were cruising against the Americans; all three seemed astonished at our build; they thought us bound for America; my replies left them undecided. The Royal Oak asked to see my commission and muster roll. I told them that their proposal surprised me because, if they could doubt that I was a ship belonging to the King of France, I had stronger reason to doubt that they were a ship belonging to the King of England, especially after having seen them show the flag of Holland. My reply seemed to startle them, and they spoke no more of it, departing with much civility on all sides. . . .

LORD WEYMOUTH TO LORD STORMONT¹

[Extract]

No 48/

St James's 1st Augst 1777

. . . Though the most exact observance of their promises was not expected from the French Ministers, yet such an apparent shew of truth was supposed, as would in some measure secure the European Seas from the depredations of the American privateers.

Cunningham's vessel immediately on sailing from Dunkirk has taken several prizes. He had a considerable number of French subjects on board. This fact is clearly ascertained. He put twenty one men on board one of the Vessels He had taken; the English have brought this prize into Yarmouth; and on examination it appears that sixteen out of the twenty one men from Cunningham's Ship were French. . . .

The Agents of the American Rebels boast that as the Reprizal was not in a situation to put to Sea from the damage sustained in her chase by the Burford, a pretence has been concerted with M. de Sartine, that shall allow a sufficient delay to enable Her to refit for another cruize; and that the Dolphin is to be continued as a Smugler, as she was at first; and a frigate bought at St Malo is to be fitted out to replace Her.

They further assert, that it has been recommended to Them by M. de Sartine, to send their prizes into the ports of Spain for the present. This seems fully confirmed by the instructions given by Cunningham to his prize Master.

The Hippopotamus purchased by Beaumarchais, and the two frigates which are to be prepared in the Mediterranean, are additional proofs of the want of sincerity in the declaration of the Ministers to Your Excellency; and must also be noticed, if You have sufficient information on the subject.

What has lately happened with respect to Cunningham requires the most earnest and serious remonstrance. I am therefore to signify to Your Excellency His Majesty's Command, that You express to the French Ministers His Majesty's surprize at the little attention paid to the orders, which They declared had been given; That You further acquaint Them, that the representations made by Your Excellency in consequence of the orders contained in my No 43² were directed after the most serious consideration, and cannot be waved without entire Satisfaction.

It is not possible to doubt of His most Christian Majesty's sincerity, when His professions of a desire to maintain the present peace, are made so clearly and precisely by M. de Maurepas, and M. de Vergennes by their Master's command; but if facts contradict those professions, by the connivance of Officers unpunished, the same motives that prompted His Majesty to direct the representation, will compel Him to seek the only remedy that is consistent with His honour, and the interest of His subjects. . . .

This is fully confirmed by the Instructions given by Cuningham commanding a Privateer to his Prize Master,² which I inclose to Your Excellency, as well as copy of the Letter from Cuningham to Gardoqui of Bilbao, by which it appears that this is an arrangement concerted betwixt the Agents of the Rebels at Paris and that House. You will lose no time in representing to M. de Florida Blanca the Injury that will be done to the Commerce of this Country, if such proceedings were suffered, and His Majesty cannot doubt from the Justice of His Catholick Majesty that proper steps will be taken effectually to prevent this measure, that is in a great degree designed to interrupt the good Harmony that so happily subsists between the two Countries. . . .

London Chronicle, THURSDAY, JULY 31, TO SATURDAY, AUGUST 2, 1777

London. Saturday, August 2. Postscript.

A letter received yesterday from Capt. [James] Jones, of his Majesty's ship Beaver, dated St. Kitt's, June 15, by a Gentleman in London, confirms the account of his having taken the Oliver Cromwell American privateer,¹ as mentioned in our last, with the following additional particulars:

"I had a very narrow escape indeed; I received a musquet ball through the fore part of my coat, waistcoat, and shirt, near the breast, and grazing the skin. We had the day before chased her consort the Rattlesnake, of 16 guns and 121 men, and a sloop of 10 guns, but falling calm they got off by the help of their oars. These with the Cromwell had concerted and agreed together to attack the Beaver, which you will say with me would have been too much; but a more lucrative object offering separated them.

"I cannot enough express to you the great politeness and hospitality we received on this occasion from Lord and Lady Macartney, as well as from all others at Grenada; and the gentlemen planters and merchants there, to give a further proof of this, have done me the honour to order a piece of plate to be presented to me in London, and will send it as I have directed them to your care to keep for me when ready.

"I had not been idle before, having taken three other American vessels, and though not of much value will tell, and the Cromwell will make full amends being valued at 10,000 l. sterling."

Read over that Letter carefully and follow punctually the orders of his Majesty, which I am reiterating to you today in the most precise manner. I also require you to inform me exactly of the fitting-out of various vessels which might be done in your Port or in those which lie within your department, with direct or pretended destination for North America, in order that from the report that you send me, I can have passed on to you orders which the circumstances will require. Honble Gentlemen

Nantes Augt 2 1777.

I have just received your favour of the 28th Ulto and shall take care to observe all your Directions with the greatest Exactness, but I must first inform you of a most vexatious turn our affairs relative to the Duc de Chartres are about to take, unless we can sufficiently oppose the Design. When I bought this Ship the Condition was, that if she was previously sold at the Day of the agreement with Mr Peltier, our bargain should be void, this was on acct of an offer that had been made at Paris which the Persons here had not recd a Decision about, but as it was presumed that if such a Sale had taken place we should be advised by Tuesday following, it was agreed that after that Time we should begin our Reparations without any farther suspence about the validity of the purchase; on Sunday a Letter from the proprietor who owns 7/8ths arrived here, this Letter says that "as the offer in question did not take place he will take her on his own acct at 70,000 Livres." The persons of whom the Ship was bought shew this Letter for our Satisfaction, that we might be sure the Ship would not be taken from us, he agreeing with us that the Proprietor's taking her could not be esteemed a Sale; I therefore sent Hynson of[f] directly, but to keep strict to the agreement I did not suffer a hatchet to be laid to the Ship 'till after Tuesday, when Capt Nicholson & myself went down to her; we staid there two Days, knock'd down all her Bulkheads, and gave the necessary Orders for taking away several of her incumbrances, enlarging her Ports & &c, to make her a compleat Ship of War. On my Return to Nantes I find Mr De Milleville has sent down his Secetaire Express to claim the Ship as a previous purchase, and he is making all the Noise & difficulty he possibly can, declaring that he will have the Ship again at all Events, and threatens a Law Suit, and the Lord knows what. I cannot find words to express my Detestation of such Conduct, but I shall not relax a litle in anything I have began, let the Consequences be what they may; Mr Milleville must have little regard to his reputation to be trying to undo Bargains in this unjust unprecedented manner. I beg however if you know any body that is acquainted with him to try to convince him of his Error, for I would not lose this Ship for 500 Louis she turns out so perfectly answerable to my Wishes for the purpose she is intended for; She will cost some money for the proposed alterations, but will be a compleat little Frigate when she is finished.² . . .

RAIMONDO NICCOLI TO HIS GOVERNMENT IN FLORENCE¹

[Extract]

. . . In answer to the memorandum presented by My Lord Stormont to this Court to deplore the alleged favor granted by France to the Rebels, and to their merchant ships and privateers, both by affording haven in its ports and by clandestinely giving them freedom to sell their prizes, this Court replied: that regarding merchant vessels, it did not wish to prejudice the commerce of French subjects; that there was no treaty obliging it to prohibit a mutual mercantile exchange with the Colonies; that regarding haven, it has never permitted it except for and during the time it was absolutely necessary because of heavy seas; that regarding permission to sell their prizes, it was never even granted, and that it was never the King's intention to favor the Rebels.

As a sequel to this answer orders were sent to all French ports not to permit American privateers making a stay unless for reason, and not to permit the sale of their prizes.

This went on to order the construction of six ships at Brest, instead of 12 which had been ordered, and for the majority of the politicians a new acknowledgement of the peaceful sentiments of this Court: but since it does not appear natural that it can or will renounce the prodigious profit, which it now brings to the commerce of French subjects, under the present circumstances of the differences existing between the Colonies and England, it is believed that the pretext of a stormy sea will serve as an excuse to give the Rebels more time to delay in these ports, and that the sale of prizes will continue to be done at sea, where there is freedom, and not on shore; in brief, that despite the new orders, things will happen as they have in the past. . . .

No 126/

My Lord

Paris August 6th 1777

When I went to M de Vergennes I told Him, that I must beg his particular Attention, as what I had to say was by Express order from My Court.

The King my Master, who received with real Satisfaction the Solemn Assurances conveyed, first thro' me, and repeated by the french Ambassador, sees with Concern and Surprize; that Notwithstanding those Assurances, Your Orders were Scarce arrived, when they were openly violated at Dunkirk, and that too, avec les circonstances les plus aggravantes for what Sir is the Fact, that Cutter, about which I spoke to You again and again, is publickly suffered to go out of Dunkirk, Notwithstanding all my Representations, Notwithstanding a positive formal Promise from M de Maurepas to me, that she should not stir out of the Harbour, nay more; that Pirate Cunningham, so justly obnoxious to me, and whom M de Maurepas expressly promised to punish, is suffered to go on board Her, This Sir I mentioned to You on Thursday last, but I am now to add, what I did not know till last Night; and what will well deserve all Your Attention. Scarce was Cunningham out of Dunkirk Harbour, when He began to Cruize against us; He has taken Several Ships, one of them has fallen again into our hands. The Crew put on board of this Vessel consisted of one and twenty Persons, and sixteen of that Number are Frenchmen, so that if that Proportion holds throughout, three fourths of Cunninghams Crew are Subjects of France – on these Transactions so repugnant to every Principle of Friendship, so contrary to Your most solemn Professions, the King my Master orders me to make the Strongest, and most serious Representation. M de Vergennes seemed surprized, and confounded, protested that they had been deceived by the Admiralty of Dunkirk, and that to his certain Knowledge, the Rapport made was, that not a single Frenchman was on board. He attempted no Justification, but on the contrary said, it was a thing against all Rule, and directly contrary to His M. Xn Majesty's Intentions. . . .

From Principle, from Inclination, I have thought the whole course of my Embassy, kept clear of everything that could carry the least appearance of Personallity, but in such a Crisis as this, it is necessary to probe the Evil to the Bottom, and Regard to the Public, must outweigh every other Consideration, Since then the Rebel Agents mention one of Your Ministers as their Patron and Counsellor I must mention him too, must tell You Sir, that they assert that M de Sartines has advised them to send their Prizes for some time to spain, Papers that I shall shew You by and by, will prove that Cunningham has followed that Plan. They likewise boast Sir, that M de Sartines has told them, that it was necessary to find a decent Pretence, for detaining the American Ships in the Ports of France, as the Reprisal wanted to be refitted, and when she was so, would be suffered to go to sea, in Company with a french Ship at St Maloes, which would supply the place of the Dolphin that is to be a Smuggling Vessel – M de Vergennes interrupted me to Say, that He thought it quite impossible, that M de Sartines should ever hold such Language, and that if the Americans did spread such a Report, it was pour envenimer les choses ce qui etoit leur Jeu. . . .

GABRIEL DE SARTINE TO M. VIGER, LORIENT¹

at Versailles 6th august 1777.

In your letter of the 1st of this month, Sir, you mentioned that the Anglo-American Privateer General Wislin [General Miffin], Capt. William Day, entered the roads of Port Louis, under the pretext of taking in provisions and water, and that you were preparing to send her an order to get underway within 24 hours; there is nothing in the action which you have taken regarding her, but what conforms to the regulations and this is the action that you ought to take on all occasions of this same nature as they will present themselves.

You noted in the same letter that other Ships of that nation Are still in the Roads, contrary winds not having permitted them to Sail; with respect to Ships of this type, you must see that they follow the regulations in this regard, and in case that there might be on their part a pretence to prolong their Stay, to make them aware that they will be detained in Port.

By your letter of the 23rd of last month regarding the ship Raphael Capt. Benj. Bates, you asked me if the orders which you received concerning anglo-american Ships armed for privateering, and the prizes brought in by them, also concern anglo-american Vessels that might come with merchandise; the orders which have been given do not apply to Vessels whose sole object is Commerce; but I can only approve the measures which you have informed me as having taken, as much for having succeeded in discovering that it was the ship Raphael which the Capt. had at first declared had been laden on His account, as well as for obliging this Ship to Sail from Port as soon as she had been recognised as an English prize; in that same letter you pointed out to me that in order to prevent with greater Certainty the Shipment of Artillery and other munitions of war on Vessels Leaving the Port, unless they Are bound for the french Colonies, as well as for preventing the landing of cargoes and all clandestine sales from American Privateers and their prizes, one might inform the Director of Docks at L'Orient of the orders which have been issued on this Subject, in order that he not expedite any Permit, without informing you of it beforehand, but since you did not wish to take it Upon yourself Without being authorised; There is no objection to informing the Director of Docks of the orders which you have received to this end; I approve of your doing it, these precautions can only serve to assure the execution of the orders which I gave you and to which I call upon you very expressly to follow. I Am, Sir [&c.]

JOURNAL OF A CRUISE IN MASSACHUSETTS PRIVATEER BRIGANTINE
Oliver Cromwell, CAPTAIN WILLIAM COLES¹

[1777. August] 6 Wednesday: Fair pleast Weather Early AM Saw the Man of War in Chace – She continued Chace all Day. – At 7 Saw a Sail a Head & at 8 came up & took her. She was a Brig from Cork in Ballast – Gave her to the Prisoners & Sent her away. – Soon after Saw another Sail and Stood for her, came up & took her being a fine Brig from Cork for Lisbon Laden with Butter & Beef sent her Home by Capt Gray. – She was formerly an American Privateer called the Montgomery mounting 18 Guns, taken & carried in to Gibraltar.² Capn Fibby Comander. She had several Laidys on Board, boun[d] to Lisbon, whom we determined to take on Board us, & together with all our other Prisoners land them (as they were effectonately desireous of it) on the British Shore. – But at 3 P.M. Saw 2 Brigs,³ which we bore away for; & not knowing what they might prove to be, ordered Capt Gray to keep away from us, on a westward Course Out Oars (being a small Breeze) & rowed towards them. – They kept near each other & hove too, and formed in a Posture of Battle to receive us. – Every Thing being prepared for Battle we advanced – one of them gave several Shott which we took no Notice of 'till we came nigh enough to give her 2 Broad Sides – She continuing her Fire. – By our well directed Fire She was compelled to Strike to us, & earnestly beg of us to desist our Fire on her. – Our Capn then ordered to bear away for the other Brig; which orders were immediately complied with. – We then charged the other with an incessant Fire for almost 3 Glasses – She returned our Fire for Some Time with Spirit, but being disanabled wore off, The other which fell a Stern, & notwithstanding She had fairly Struck to us; yet Seeing her Partners Fire, She worried us with her Bow-Chacers: But did us no Damage. – But now our Officers began to think of the Man of War which had been in Chace all Day; & was now reasonably expected to be near up with us; therefore being dark, they rightly judged it best to give over the Assault for this Night; least falling in between three of them, we must be obliged to submit; & so altered our Course.

The Engagement lasted about 3 Glasses, in which Time Capt Coles, (to his eternal Honour be it remembered) with all the other Officers behaved with the greatest Magnanimity & Bravery possible. The Seamen & Marines also, with remarkable Unanimity, good Order, & Heroism Seemed to vie with each Other, which Should excel in their several Departments.

Then must our parent State confess,
That we their freeborn Sons excel;
In Courage, & true Excellence
Our British Foes, tho' they act well.

Coles with his braver Officers,
His Men both martial, bold & brave through the marvellous Goodness of God not one Life was lost on our Side; our 1st Leiut. was wounded by a Cannon Shott in both his Thighs, just above the Knees One or two of the Men were very slightly wounded. – Our Brig recd Several Shotts in her Hull, Rigging &c. but the Damage was inconsiderable. – What the Enemys Loss & Damage was cannot be ascertained; by the best probable Conjectures it must be considerable: As One of our Maintopmen was siting upon the Chest in Main Top containing their Ball &c &c for their Swivels & Blunderbusses one of the Enemys doubleheaded Shott came & Struck part of the Trussle-Trees upon which the Tops is Supported, & directly under the Chest where on he Sat; the uper Head of the Shott Struck the Bottom of the Chest, tore it all in Pieces – elivated the Person, & discharged the Contents of the Chest upon Deck, without any Damage to any Person.

At Sea, ship Sarah Goulburn, lat 44.0. N. long. 39.00. W. 19th July, 1777.

Gentlemen,

I congratulate you upon a prize I have taken, this day, named the Sally, Thomas Tracy, master, from Charles Town, South Carolina, bound to Nantz, loaded with 470 whole, and 120 half, barrels rice and betwixt twenty and thirty casks of indigo. I have put in Mr. Smith as prize master, who will acquaint you of every particular since our sailing. Am in a hurry to dispatch the prize, as I am informed there were 30 sail more to sail from Charles Town the day after them, and am anxious to be amongst them. You'll please remember me to my friends, as I have not time to write them. I remain, Gentlemen, Your most obliged humble Servant,

N. Holland.

P.S. Mr. Smith has behaved very well with me, and executed his office as I could wish. Would be much obliged to you to assist him in another birth.

On Wednesday last, Mr. Smith brought the above prize safe into this port, and she is reckoned a valuable one.

LORD WEYMOUTH TO LORD STORMONT¹

[Extract]

No 49

St James's 8th August 1777

. . . In addition to my No 48, I am further to signify to Your Excellency His Majesty's Commands, on the following points.

Lord Stormont

It is indispensably necessary that the Privateers said to be sequestrated in the ports of France, should be sent from thence, but without the convoy of a man of War; as Such a measure would be the most public avowal of the protection they have already clandestinely given to the cause of the Rebels. Your Excellency will therefore very strongly insist on the removal of these vessels, without delay.

It has been reported that the privateer the General Miffin, on entering the Harbour of Brest, saluted M. du Chaffaud [Duchaffault], and that the Salute was returned. This was a compliment that surely was ill timed; and out of regard to this country, and the Vessel being known to be a privateer, might have been dispensed with. I cannot avoid on this occasion observing that les secours d'humanite which M. de Vergennes mentions, may be extended very far; more particularly as the Americans at Paris have boasted, that it was concerted with M. de Sartines, that when it should be materially convenient to Them to enter the ports of France, that they should stove their water casks, and pretend to have a leak in the Vessel. Your Excellency will urge the necessity that this Privateer the Genl Miffin should immediately depart from Brest.

M. de Vergennes having desired that Your Excellency would acquaint Him with such circumstances as might arise by the non observance of the orders They profess to have given. You will state to Him that the Guernsey prize carried into Cherbourg, after having been ordered out as American property, was sold just without the Harbour; and then carried back into the port as French property. Such proceedings are not consistent with either the letter, or spirit of their engagements; and are collusions unworthy of a great nation. . . .

Your Excellency has on several occasions acquainted the French ministers that His Majesty did not propose to send any ships of the line to the West Indies, unless some should be sent from France. As information has been transmitted to Your Excellency that it is proposed by the French Court to send one Ship of the line on that service; You will acquaint the French Ministers that a ship of the line is ordered from hence on that service; and You will desire They will please to inform You whether They propose to send there any further naval force as their proceedings in that particular will govern ours. munication very properly; and You will be enabled on this ground, to press with more earnestness that a Stop may be put to the Selling at Bilbao, the Captures made by the American privateers. You will also endeavour to prevent the Ships arrived at Cadiz from America, from receiving such assistance, as may enable them to become privateers. I am &c

Sir Foudroyant in Causand Bay 10th August 1777 :
I desire you will acquaint My Lords Commissioners of the Admty, that early on Wednesday Morning, the 6th instant, being to the Southward of Scilly eight or ten Leagues, in His Majesty's Ship under my Command, we fell in with a Rebel Privateer Brig, and chac'd her till Thursday Morning at nine, when the People in hopes of escaping Captivity, run her close in with Hellston Beach, and got ashore, before the Boats sent to secure them, reach'd the Vessel; I had, however, the precaution to direct Lieut [Thomas] Lloyd of the Navy, with one detachment of Marines, and Lieut Mansfield of Marines with another, to go in pursuit of them, and with the assistance of the Country Gentlemen, who shew'd great alacrity and zeal on the occasion, (particularly Mr Rowe Mayor of Hellston) they secur'd, and brought on board forty six of them, including all the Officers; the others, amounting to nine, are probably laid hold of by the Country People, who were in quest of them. — The Privateer carried twelve Guns and Eighty Men when she Sail'd, is call'd the Fancy, John Lee Master, belonging to Newbury Port, had been out seven Weeks, and had taken four Prizes, which he dispatch'd to America — during the Chace they threw nine of their Guns, a great Quantity of Shot and Iron Ballast over Board, and lighten'd the Brig so much, it is with difficulty, we have brought her into this Port.

Inclos'd is a Journal of the Proceedings, and the State and Condition, of the Ship — the deficiencies in the latter, will be supplied in a few days. I am Sir [&c.]

Honble Gentlemen

Nantes Aug. 10. 1777.

The present serves to convey to you a few Newspapers which I have regularly sent to me from London.

The Honble Commissioners do not know of this Opportunity or I should no doubt have some Dispatches to forward. I hope however soon to have a packet Boat to fit out.

The public talk here is that there will soon be a War, but we have had so much talk to so little purpose that it is not believed by every one. The little american Squadron under Commodore Wickes have made very considerable havoc on the Enemy's Vessels in the Irish Channel, this has created an universal Terror in all the Seaports throughout Ireland and on that side of England and Scotland, in some places they muster'd their militia in apprehension of a Descent, and their fears have taught them to respect our naval Force, to so ridiculous a height did these rise, that Chester Fair (one of the most considerable in England,) was obliged to be omitted this Year, because the Linnen Ships were afraid to cross the Channel. Our Cruizers are safe in Port, but under arrest by the french Court, who do it in order to satisfy the English ambassador openly, tho' privately the Ships receive a favourable Reception, and are making every necessary preparation to proceed when the arrest shall be taken off. The Reason a War has not yet taken place appears to be only because France wishes England should be the aggressor, and England is too sensible of her wretched State to begin; but their general opinion is that this Situation of things cannot long continue and tho' a War may not be so near as the News of the Day says it is, yet it cannot be very far off. The following Deposition was this Morning received by the Lord Prevost, sent by Express from the Earl of Fife at Duff House, Bamff:

Capt. [J.] Walker, of the Charming Jenny [Charming Nelly], from Memel to Workington, made an Attestation before Wm. Rose, Esq., a Justice of the Peace for the County of Bamff, on the 8th instant, that he had been taken about the Middle of last Month by the [American] Tartar Privateer, Capt. Grimes, of 24 Guns, and 130 Men, who had also taken the Royal Bounty Greenlandman, for Leith, and the Janet, of Irvine, with deals. That the Crews of the above taken Vessels amounted to fifty-five Men, to whom he gave the last Vessel, after detaining nine of their Crew for several Days. That the said Privateer had detained several Men which had been taken in other Captures, who seemed in high Spirits from the Expectation of what they were to receive as Prize-Money. That he learnt that the Captain of the Privateer intended to land or do Mischief at the Islands of Orkney and Zetland, and used his Endeavours to persuade Capt. Walker to continue with him. Capt. Grimes told his Prisoners, that he served last War on board the Tartar, Captain Lockhart; that at the Conclusion of the War he went to America, and was settled in Long Island; but for an Excuse says, that the King's Troops had taken or destroyed every Thing he had, and used his Wife and Family extremely ill, which obliged him to take this disagreeable Command. He said 10 Sail of Privateers sailed from Boston with him, who had all gone upon different Stations. The Second Lieutenant of the Privateer was formerly a Keelman in Newcastle, and had been transported for Theft.

The Court of Copenhagen has published a Proclamation, forbidding the American Privateers from entering their Ports, except in Case of Distress, and then to depart in twenty-four Hours after.

The Commerce, M'Call, from Florida to Antigua, is taken within six Leagues of that Island by a Privateer of 10 Guns and 120 Men, only one of the Crew was an American, all the Rest were French.

The Isis, Capt. Hudson, a Letter of Marque, belonging to Whitehaven, in company with a Liverpool Ship, has taken an American Vessel, and carried her into Dominica.

London. Monday, August 11.

The following is a copy of a letter to the Collector and Comptroller of the Custom-house in Newcastle, received by Tuesday's post.

Gentlemen,

Yesterday afternoon Captain George Corney, of the Nautilus, of Liverpool, with part of his crew, were put on shore here, who came to this office and informed us, that on the 20th of July last, about five o'clock in the afternoon, when about five or six leagues from the north of the butt-end of the Lewis's Islands, bearing then south east and by south, he was taken by a rebel privateer called the [American] Tartar, John Grimes, master, from Boston, with 24 guns, viz. ten nine-pounders, eight six-pounders, four three-pounders, and two four-pounders, and about 110 men.

The Nautilus was on her passage home from Greenland, 34 men, had on board 93 butts of blubber, and about two tons of whale-fin. The master of the privateer kept the Nautilus for two days, taking from on board all her fishing stores, cordage, sails, and provisions he wanted, and then put on board eight of his own people, three of Capt. Corney's apprentices, and a seaman belonging to his Majesty's service, which was on board a vessel the privateer had retaken, and ordered her for Boston.¹

The privateer then steered directly for the Naze of Norway; the master said his orders were "to take, sink, burn, and destroy all ships that might fall in his way from the Baltic."

On the 28th of July, about 15 or 16 leagues from the Naze of Norway, then bearing east north east, he took the Peggy of Glasgow, from Memel with lumber; about half an hour after he took the brig Fanny of Berwick, Joseph Mills, from Christiana, with deals; the same night at ten o'clock he took the Thomas and Elizabeth, of this place, Anthony Watson master, from St. Petersburg with deals and iron. After having plundered and taken out of the ships what he wanted, he set fire to the two last mentioned, and on board the other ship he put the crews, except keeping some for himself.

The word Tartar was done in paint upon her stern; but having taken some paint out of the Nautilus, he brushed the name out: Captain Corney says he likewise painted her black and yellow, and tarred her sides, that she might look like a King's ship; and that Grimes was an officer on board the Tartar ship of war, Capt. Lockhart.

Hemp, flax, sail cloth, and linen ships, are what he wants. Ships loaded with wood and iron he burns – he ransoms none.

LORD GRANTHAM TO LORD WEYMOUTH¹

No 45:

St Ildefonso 11: Aug: 1777

. . . I had learnt from Cadiz, that Orders had been received there by the Governor to notify to the Master of the Carolina Vessel in that port that he was not to attempt taking any Ammunition or warlike Stores on board, and that in consequence of this Notification, the said Vessel was lading with Salt.² . . .

Upon my opening to M. Florida blanca that I was apprized of the Steps which the Court of France had taken, he assured me that this Court would immediately issue the same Orders to it's several Ports as those which had been given in France, the purport of which he explained to me by furnishing me with the Inspection of the Answer which had been given to Lord Stormont. Upon my explaining more particularly to him the Plan which it was almost certain that the Americans would pursue, & that new Pretenses would be made by them, for the same Purposes, which had hitherto been openly carried on. He assured me in the most explicit Manner, that as the intention of this Court was really to avoid all Grounds of Umbrage or Distrust, he was ready to provide for all such Cases, to stop all Frauds, to receive all the Information which I should give him, & to oppose every Evasion by which the Americans might attempt to frustrate the present Measures. He repeated to me the Desire which His Catholic Majesty sincerely entertained of preserving the Harmony existing between the two Crowns; to which I replied in the fullest Terms, adding that nothing would more effectually prove the friendly Disposition of this Court, than an extensive Understanding & Support of the Principles now adopted, & not suffering them to be counteracted by any Distinction which might weaken or destroy the effect of them. I can venture to assure your Lordship, that I was satisfied with the Manner in which he treated every part of this Subject. . . .

CAPTAIN LAMBERT WICKES TO THE AMERICAN COMMISSIONERS IN FRANCE ¹

Gentlemen,

St Malo 12th Augt 1777 -

This will inform you of my Present unhappy Situation, the Judge of the Admiralty have Received orders of the 6th Inst from the Minester at Paris, ordering them not to Suffer me to take any Cannon Powder or other Millitary Stores on board or to depart from the Port on any Consideration whatever without further Orders from Paris, in consequence of those orders, they Came on board on Saturday to take all my Cannon out and to unhang my Rudder, I have Prevented this for the Present, by Refusing to let them take the Rudder or Cannon without Producing an order from the Minester for So doing, As I told them my orders Corresponded with their's in Regard to Continuing in Port, but I had no orders to deliver any thing belonging the Ship to them, which I could not do without orders, and if the Minester insisted on it, made no doubt but you would give your Orders Accordingly, Which would be readily Complied wth on my Part when Such orders was Received, my Powder is Stop'd & they have been contented by taking my Written Parrole not to depart untill I receive their Permission, I am told they have wrote to the Minester informing of my having taken my Cannon on board Clاندistantly in the Night, if so you may Safely deny the Charge, as I took them on Board at Noon Day publickly & did not think I was to be Called to an account for it, As I was told that I might go on & get my Ship fitted for Sea, as fast as possible in order to be Ready to proceed on the Arrival of my Orders and permission from Paris, which was Supposed would come together, please give me your Sentiments on those Subjects as Soon as possible, as I may act conformable to them, this will be delivered you by Mr Et De Saudrais Sebire a partner of the House of Messrs Le Breton, De Blissen, Et De Saudrais Sebire a Very Reputable House in this place who will enter into Contract for Supplying you with any Quantity of Large Cannon, Anchors Sail Cloth & Cordage you Want, As these Gentlemen have now at the Port of L'Orient two 64 Gun Ships 4 or 5 of 40 Guns wch they propose to employ in Exporting those Articles to America I think a Contract with them, will be more Advantagous than with any Body else in this Country, but Submit it to your Superior Judgment, they tell me they Can get those Goods Ship'd & Ready to export by the Month of October, these Ship[s] well Maned will be Able to fight their way through any of the Enemies Squadrons in America – As my Situation in France is more disagreeable than ever, hope you'll get permission as Soon as possible for me to depart, as I am now Ready for Sea, and have nothing to take on board, but my Powder – I received yours of the 5th Instant & am Sorry you have not yet got any particular Accot from America, tho' in hopes all is well there – Shall be much obliged for any News from that Quarter, You may Put the utmost Confidence in the Above Gentlemen, As it is one of the first Houses in St Malo & make no doubt but they will be very puntual in Complying with their Contracts – As my Ship is Now fitted and Ready for Sea, I employ my time in exciting a Universal Spirit of American Commerce, which I am in hopes will prove usefull both to my Country and Country Men if so Shall be over paid for any trouble I may have in Accomplishing those desireable Ends of Furnishing them with the Necessarys they at present stand so much in Need of, If I can be of any Use to the United States, here, Shall Cheerfully content myself to Stay, but if not, hope you will obtain leave for my imediate departure, As I am heartily tired of France, tho' treated with the greatest Respect by all the People of this Port, except the Admiralty Officers who Seem rather to addopt the line of Mr Gonnets Conduct toward me, Carrying it with a Very high hand – I Can only Say I am sorry our Situation is Such, as puts us under the disagreeable Neccessity of Submitting to such Indignitys as are exercised over us, in the Ports of France. 2. See Volume 8, 262.

3. Moulton petitioned the Massachusetts Council for parole on February 22, 1777, and it was granted February 24. See Volume 7, 1256-57. In his letter to the Commissioners for Sick and Hurt Seamen asking permission to return to America with a cartel to fulfill the terms of his parole, Moulton noted that should his request be refused and "if I ever Should have the misfortune to fall into their hands again, I never Shall be Able to Obtain my Liberty again." Letters to Commissioners for taking care of Sick & Hurt Seamen, Adm/M/404, NMM.

4. The Admiralty's negative decision was based on British policy. Masters and crews taken in unarmed merchantmen not carrying munitions, the True Love for example, were not imprisoned. Thus, as Stephens states, no prisoners in Moulton's category were in English prisons.

I am sorry to inform you of the Death of Capt. Cleland. We sailed from hence on Tuesday the 5th inst. in Company with the Rawlinson, Capt. [W.] Preston, and on Wednesday the 6th, in the Evening, we fell in with a Privateer Brig of 16 Guns,² which came boldly along-side of us, and bid us strike; Capt. Cleland answered he did not intend it; upon which they gave us two Guns, and we returned a Broadside. Capt.

Cleland was killed the second Shot they gave us: We fought them for Half an Hour within Hail of each other, till some of our People fled from their Quarters (and the Rawlinson lying on the off-Side of us, and only firing one Gun during the whole Time, concluded Captain Preston did not intend to fight) we were obliged to strike; we then laid our Maintop-Sail to the Mast and dropt astern. The Rawlinson then begun to play upon the Privateer for the first Time, upon which we filled our Maintop-Sail again, and shot a-head, as nigh as we could to the Privateer's Stern, and play'd Grape-Shot upon her fore and aft for an Hour and a Half until she bore away. On the Friday following fell in with her again; she gave us Chase, but our luckily falling in with the homeward-bound Jamaica Fleet, we suppose prevented her from continuing the Chase, and we thought it best to put back to Cove.

. . . Upon Enquiry and Consideration we are satisfy'd of the Irregularity of the Proceedings at Dunkirk, and are sincerely & extremely concern'd that they have happen'd, as they have given just Cause of Offence to the King, for whom we have the highest Respect. The Remarks made on those Proceedings, which you have communicated to us, appear full of Reason, and there is nothing that can be objected to them. We hope, however, that the Punishment Mr Hodge has received for the Misconduct of his Friend Cunningham & his own will be thought sufficient for him, and that he will be discharged, which we wish principally on this Account, that we fear the Enemies of both France and America will take Advantage of his Confinement & the Detention of the arm'd Vessels, to promote Suspicions & Misunderstandings, and obstruct in America the growing Friendship for this Nation which we are most earnestly desirous of cultivating & confirming.

As to the Vessels, it is our purpose, if they may be permitted to sail, to load them with Merchandize, and order them directly to America: For tho' we see the great Effect their Cruizing in these Seas has had in raising the Insurance in Britain to a Pitch that would ruin much of her Commerce, we think that Advantage to us not equivalent to the Loss of the King's Favour and the Prejudice to his Honour if permitted.

JOSÉ DE GÁLVEZ TO GOVERNOR BERNARDO DE GÁLVEZ ¹

The King has been informed regarding the contents of your letter of May 12, No. 49, concerning the effective and fortunate steps with which you succeeded in seizing eleven English vessels which were engaged in smuggling in your jurisdiction. Your Excellency added that most of them were entirely unfit for sailing and that among these prizes were two that belonged to North Americans who have requested that Your Excellency free them from arrest. Your response reprimanded them for their smuggling, which was just as illegal as that of the British, and informed them that His Majesty would be the only one who could grant what they were asking. His Majesty approves of the way Your Excellency handled this matter, knowing that your zeal and energy will eliminate the deep-rooted, illegal commerce in your Province. And with respect to the request of the masters of the prizes belonging to the Colonists, the King authorizes Your Excellency, by the most secret means to give them leave to depart, or of more importance, in such a way that the British may have no cause to quarrel with such an act. I advise Your Excellency to carry out the Royal Order according to your wisdom. May God Protect Your Excellency.

ARTHUR LEE TO THE COMMITTEE OF COMMERCE ¹

Gentlemen

Paris Augt 16, 1777.

I perceive by your last Letters, that you made a consignment to Hortalez & Co wch in fact is to M. de Beaumarchais. I think it therefore my duty to restate to you all the facts relative to that gentleman, upon wch you will judge how far it is fit to continue those consignments - About May 12 month M. de Beaumarchais was introduced to me in London as an Agent from the french Court who wishd to communicate something to Congress. At our first interview he informd me that the Court of France wishd to send an Aid to America to the amount of 200,000 Louisdres in Specie, Arms & Ammunition & that all they wanted to know was to what Island it was best to make the remittance, & that Congress shoud be apprizd of it. We settled the Cape as the place, & he urgd me by no means to omit giving the earliest intelligence that it woud be remitted in the name of Hortalez.

At our next meeting he desird me to request that a small quantity of Tobacco, or some other production might be returnd to give it the air of a mercantile transaction; repeating over & over again that it was for a Cover only, & not for payment, as the remittance was gratuitous. Of all this I informd the Committee by every opportunity. At the same time I stated to M. Beaumarchais that if his Court wd dispatch eight or ten ships of the line to our aid it woud enable us to destroy the british fleet, & settle the business at one Stroke. I repeated this to him in a Letter after his return to Paris, to which the answer was that there was not spirit enough in his Court for such an exertion, but that he was hastning the promisd succours. Upon Mr Deane's arrival, the business went into his hands & the things were at length embarkd in the Amphitrite Mercure & Seine.

M. de Vergennes, the Minister, & his Secretary have repeatedly assurd us, that no return was expected for those Cargoes or for what M. de Beaumarchais furnishd us. This Gentleman is not a merchant, but is known as a political Agent, employd by the french Court. Remittances therefore to him, so far from covering this business, woud create suspicions, or rather satisfy the british Court their suspicions are just. At the same time his circumstances & situation forbid one to hope that Your property being once in his hands woud ever be recoverd. And as an attempt to force him to account wd hazard a discovery of the whole transaction this government woud of course discountenance or forbid it. These are the facts which I have thought it my duty to state to you. Your better judgement will direct you whether to continue the remittances or not. I have the honor to be &c

CAPTAIN LORD MULGRAVE, R.N., TO PHILIP STEPHENS¹

Sir

Ardent off Exmouth 18. Aug: 1777

On the 7th of this Month I fell in with a Brig under Dutch Colours cleared from Amsterdam for St Eustatia as She appeared to me to be designed for an American Privateer & her Cargo for the use of the Rebels I thought it my Duty to Stop, & bring Her in for their Lordships Directions.

The Brig is American built about 100 tons Burthen the Sails Rigging & two Boats appear to be English.² She has Eight Carriage Guns & four Swivels Mounted & is navigated by A Master Mate Five Men & a little Boy. When Mr [Henry] Savage the 1st Lieutenant went on board to examine Her He was informed by a Dutch Passenger on board from the Masters Papers that the Cargo consisted of Six thousand Bricks, Cables, Cordage, Geneva [gin] with some other Merchandize in Packages the Contents of which he did not know. Mr. Savage also informed on his Return that there were two French Passengers on board; I sent Him back with Orders to search further & to make particular Enquiry concerning the Passengers – on opening the Hold they found Barrels of Gun Powder of which there are three Hundred – it appeared also that there were five Officers Passengers on board with two Servants a list of which I enclose. The Master who is a German denied his having known anything of the Cargo & said He came on board only two Days before She Sailed from the Texel after She was loaded – The Officers were all going to serve in the Rebel Army – There were several Letters on board in the Masters Possession & a Bag said to be from the Post Office sealed up, none of which I have opened but kept them with the Papers 'till I receive their Lordships Directions. I sent an Officer with two Petty Officers & ten Men on board directly taking the Passengers & Crew except the Mate out that Evening. Next Morning we chased & spoke with a French Brig & in the Evening chased a Schooner – on the Ninth we lost sight of the Brig being Still in chase of the Schooner which went [on] wch hoisted no Colours & appeared to be a Privateer – we gained very little upon her all Day & lost sight of her soon after Dark being then in Lat: 47° 54' Lon:

12° 39'. On my Return Home being about 10 Leagues North of Ushant we saw a Brig standing to the Westward Close Hauled with very little Wind – when we were about two Miles off directly to Leeward I tacked & fired a Gun towards Him. He hoisted English Colours but stood by the Wind with all his Sail Set & in three Hours & an Half was quite Hull Down. We Saw Him bear down to another Brig which brought too for Him – soon after the Brig we had chased fired a Gun which was answered by a Sloop that just then Came in Sight. as I suspect them to be Privateers I enclose a Description of the Brig, as also a Copy of the Manifest of the Cargo of the Hendrick & Alida, a Translation of the Masters declaration with that of Monsr Draveman & Count D'Attems,³ & hope on my arrival at Portsmouth to receive their Lordships Directions to whom I am to deliver the Papers & Letters as well as relative to the Foreign Officers. I am Sir [&c.]

WILLIAM LEE TO THE AMERICAN COMMISSIONERS IN FRANCE¹

[Extract]

Gentlemen

Nantes 18 Augt 1777

Yesterday arrived here The Brig Liberty Capt Herbert with 108 hhds of Tobo on acct of the State of Virga consign'd to J. Gruel & Co – She left Virga July 10th runing the fire of 5 Men of War that guards the mouth of the Bay of Chesapeak. The Capt is a true Tar, has not bro't any papers or letters but what relates to his vessel & Cargo. . . This day two Privateers arrived here with two valueable West India Men prizes. The Privateers are The Brig Fanny, John Kendrick, 14-4 pounders 100 Men, belonging to Adam Babcock & Archd Blair left Bedford N.E. July 10: – & Genl Mercer, Jas Babson 14-4 pounders 87 Men, belonging to Winthrop Serjeant & Co of Cape Anne, Sail'd July 1st – Of the Jamaica Fleet consisting of 160 Sail, they took two small prizes of no great value near Newfoundland which they sent to Boston,² the two they have bro't in were taken the 8th instant in the mouth of the Channel tho' the fleet was convoyed by two 28 Gun frigates. Their Names, The Hanover Planter Capt Luny from Jama to London with 360 hhds Musca Sugar, 87 puncheons of rum, some Logwood – 8-6 & 2-4 pounders – & the Clarendon Capt Cowell from Jama to London with 386 hhds Musca Sugar – 106 puncheons of rum & 6-3 pounders. – The Captive people say 11 of the Fleet were missing when they were taken. . . . This is all the News & you will judge best how much is proper to be given to the public, I mean with regard to the Privateers, & their Prizes, since we have an ugly report here, of which we shd be glad to know the Truth, that an American Agent was the other day put into the Bastile, on account of some transactions with, or for, Cuninghame.³ I am with all due respect, Gent.

JOURNAL OF SAMUEL CURWEN¹

[Bristol, 1777] August 19. By the ship Lady Gage, from New-York, July 15th, advices that General Heister is returning to Europe; that the troops are withdrawn from the Jerseys; that Lord Howe and General Howe are embarking, destination unknown; – discouraging news for government, and is a convincing proof I should think that an insurrection excited by an enthusiastic ardor for liberty, rightly or wrongly understood, and in such distant provinces, is not to be easily quelled. A contemptuous idea of the weakness of the colonies, and their inability to withstand the power of this opulent state, is the chief if not the only source of the present discouraging condition of their affairs in North America.

My Lord

[Admiralty Office] 20th August 1777.

I received on the 10th Ulto and immediately communicated to my Lords Commissrs of the Admty, Your Lordships Letter of the 30th April respecting the Appointment of Capt Duncan to officiate as Adjutant to the Commander in chief of the Fleet of His Majesty's Ships employed in North America; And in return I have it in command from their Lordships to acquaint you that they do not conceive themselves to be authorized by any Naval Establishment, or by the Powers with which they are invested, to confirm the said Appointment by any Commission or Warrant, but that, as your Lordship has judged it necessary that Captn Duncan should officiate in the Assistant Capacity requisite for the Conduct of the executive duties recited in the Appointment (of which your Lordship has inclosed a Copy) not being able to carry on the complicated duties of your Station without such Assistance; their Lordships will direct the Navy Board to pay him an Allowance equal to Five Hundred Pounds a Year for the time he shall be so employed: And in regard to your Lordships Recommendation of Captn [Roger] Curtis, My Lords are pleased to permit you to give him a firm Commissn to be Captain of the Eagle, & to fill up the vacancies occasioned by his promotion in such manner as your Lordship may think fit. PHILIP STEPHENS TO VICE ADMIRAL RICHARD LORD HOWE ¹

My Lord.

[Admiralty Office] 20th August 1777

I received on the 10th Ultimo, and immediately laid before my Lords Commissrs of the Admty your Lordships Letters of the 5th & 8th June, giving an Account of the proceedings of the Fleet under your Lordships command, and of the occurrences which had happened, up to the dates of those Letters. In return, I have the satisfaction to acquaint you, that my Lords approve of the orders you have given for taking into the Service an armed Brig of 14 Guns, to replace the Hinchinbrook Schooner, as also those for paying Gratuities – in the proportions you mention to the Masters & Crews of the Transports who distinguished themselves in the last Campaign.

Their Lordships are much concerned for the Repulse, of the loss of which they think there cannot now be a doubt, as the Letters received by the Convoy's lately arrived from Jamaica & Leeward Islands, give no account of her arrival in any of the West India Ports.

My Lords have acquainted the Navy Board with the Expedient you have suggested for facilitating the Repairs of the cruizing Ships, and have directed them to give the necessary Orders to Commissr Arbuthnot to send to New York from time to time such a Number of Artificers as your Lordship may inform him are requisite for that purpose, as well as to encrease the present Establishment of the Yard to enable your Lordship the better to carry on the Service.

Their Lordships understand from the Navy Board, that, besides a large Assortment of Naval Stores, they now send out by the Grampus Storeship a Supply of Beds and Slops for the Fleet, & Beds for the Troops on board the Transports. Their Lordships have directed them to send by the same conveyance a Supply of Cloathing for the Marines; And they have ordered the Commrs for Sick & Hurt to send by the same conveyance also a large Supply of portable Soup for the Fleet, as well as the Naval Hospital.

The Navy Board are now lading a Ship of 400 Tons with an assortment of Stores for Halifax; and it will be of great use to them to be informed as early as possible of the future Supply's your Lordship may foresee a want of, as well as of the places, and the proportions to each place, your Lordship would wish to have them sent.

My Lords were greatly astonished to find, in the Copies of the Intelligence you transmit from Sir Peter Parker, that no less than four Rebel Frigates, and fourteen Privatier Brigs, Schooners & Sloops, had escaped almost at the same instant of time from Boston, Marblehead & Salem, to rendezvous off Cape Ann, not having before received the least intimation either from your Lordship, or Sir Peter Parker, of so considerable a Force being assembled or fitting out in those Ports. Your Lordship has been informed by Vice Adml Montagu of the Mischief the Hancock & Boston have done within the limits of his Command. The Tartar has made her appearance in the North Seas & taken or destroyed several Trading Vessels; And the Mifflin supposed to be the other of the Rebel Frigates above-mentioned, has done the like in the Northern Entrance of the Irish Channel. Their Lordships have no distinct Account of the smaller Privatiers; but from the Numbers they have heard of, in the various Tracts of the Trade of His Majesty's Subjects on this side of the Atlantic, there is reason to believe that they are some of them: Your Lordship will conceive, more easily than I can describe, the Alarm which this must have spread among the Trading part of His Majesty's Subjects in general; and, while so many of the Kings Ships are employed in America, how difficult it will be, if it be possible, for their Lordships to comply with the numerous Applications, that are in consequence daily made to them for Convoy's, being unprepared for so unexpected an Event.

The Merchants trading to Quebec, in particular, have so strongly represented the ruin which must inevitably befall their Trade if not duly protected this Year, that my Lords (not knowing what provision your Lordship may have been able to make) have judged it proper to order the Warwick which sailed the 7th Instant with the Canada Cloathing & Trade for the River St Lawrence, to return again to England, with the homeward bound Trade from that River, instead of proceeding to join your Lordship as was at first intended.

There having been several vague Reports of Line of Battle Ships being building by the Rebels, my Lords desire your Lordship will please to be very particular in transmitting to them any Information you may have received upon that Subject.

The Lively which your Lordship understood from Vice Adml Gayton was to come to England with the Convoy, is arrived in so bad a Condition that it will be necessary to pay her off. I am &ca

LORD STORMONT TO LORD WEYMOUTH¹

[Extract]

Most Secret

No 130/

My Lord

Paris Augst 20th 1777

That I might be sure of executing punctually the important Orders transmitted to me in Your Lordships Letter No 49, I took Notes of all the Particulars mentioned in that Letter, carried them with me to Versailles, and turned to them occasionally in the Course of my Yesterdays Conversation with M de Vergennes.

I began with an Apology for the long Trouble, which I foresaw that I Should be obliged to give His Excellency, and then said, that After the Solemn Assurances they had given, we could not doubt that the Orders they had issued, would be executed with that Exactness and good Faith, that was worthy of us both, I added that I knew that they had as was most natural communicated their written Verbal Answer to their Allies, that M de Florida Blanca had read it to Lord Grantham, had spoke of it with Encomium, and declared that Similar Orders should be immediately given by the Court of Spain. You see then Sir, that this is now become a solemn Engagement taken in the Face of the World in the punctual Execution of which the Honour of both Nations is materially concerned: He readily assented to this, and said that the Orders they had given would be constantly and punctually executed. I replied that the Execution must be considered as very incompleat as long as the three Privateers the Reprisal Lexington and Dolphin were suffered to remain in the Ports of France, that M de Maurepas had expressly told me, that his first Idea had been to order them immediately out of Port, and that the sequestring them till they had given sufficient security that they would not attempt to cruize against us had been adopted as the safer Measure of the two, et comme une Precaution de plus; I added that this Sequestration the Effect of which was only to keep these Privateers safe in Harbours, where they met with all possible Assistance, and where they were probably meditating some fresh Attempt against us, was not un Sequestre mais un azile and was considered as such by the Rebels themselves: I ended with saying, that my Instructions were to press His Excellency for immediate Departure of those Privateers without Convoy, or Escorte, of any kind, which must be considered as a mark of open Protection, and with positive orders never to return to any of the Ports of France. M de Vergennes seemed to have totally relinquished the Idea of Convoying these Ships to a certain Latitude, but in his Answer He told me that a Proposal had been made to Him the other Day, which He intended to mention to me, and which struck Him as calculated to remove every Difficulty: the Project said He, is for frenchmen to purchase these Ships and make them common trading Vessels; He laboured to prove that this Expedient would be liable to no objection.

I told Him, that I was by no means Authorized to accept of this Proposal, and intimated that what passed at Dunkirk must beget in us very strong suspicions of all Such Sales. He answered with Vivacity, that what had been done at Dunkirk gave us very just grounds of complaint, but was in his Opinion Still more injurious to France: I gave this opinion added He this very Day to the King My Master, and told His Majesty that there was so much Stupidity in one part of the Admiralty of Dunkirk, and so much Knavery in the other, that I really did not know S'il lui falloit du foin ou des Verges, this said He was I assure You the very Expression I used not an Hour ago; (I may observe to Your Lordship here, that in this Affair of Dunkirk, the french Ministers seem now to be in Earnest as Hodge is sent to the Bastile). M de Vergennes assured me that the Purchase proposed was of a very Different Nature from that at Dunkirk, and that there could not be a possibility of fraud as it would be made by Frenchmen, Men of Substance, of whom the Ministers would be sure, and for whom they could answer. I repeated that I was not authorized to adopt this or any other Expedient, and that my Orders were clear and precise, to demand that these Ships might be immediately sent out of Port without convoy, and left to take their chance. I repeatedly said the same thing to M de Maurepas, who without giving a direct Answer dwelt on the propriety of the Expedient proposed by M de Vergennes, and seemed very desirous that it should be adopted by us. He said in his Jocosose way, ces Gens la savent a quoi ils seroient exposés et ne voudroient pas sortir. I replied that it would be easy to force them, that I was particularly commanded to press for their immediate Departure, that we justly looked upon it as necessary to the accomplishment of the Promises France had made, and that I must desire Him as I had before desired M de Vergennes, to mention to the King his Master what I had said upon the Subject by the Express order of my Court.

to return to M de Vergennes after I had discussed this Business

I went on to say that I was likewise ordered to demand the immediate Departure of the Privateer called General Mifflin which had put into Brest protesting une voie d'eau. M de Vergennes said that He believed that Ship was actually sailed, however He took a Note of the Name; Whilst He was writing I told Him, that it was reported, how truly I could not say, that M du Chaffault avait oublie le Dignité de son Pavillon au Point de rendre le Salut a ce pirate. This was the Very Expression I used, and I chose it My Lord for this Reason, I am not Ordered to make a direct complaint, and in things of this Nature the only Alternative seems to be, highly to resent or utterly to despise them, the Expression, I chose, carries I think the Contempt I meant to Convey. M de Vergennes was, or Affected to be surprized, and Said that if M du Chaffault had done so, Il ne s'en etoit certainement pas Vante Il s'en Gardera bien, He then told me that the American Vessel certainly had une Voie d'eau. I answered that that might be true in this particular Case, but that I was obliged to mention to Him a Thing of a very disagreeable Nature; We know Sir, that the Rebel Agents boast, that they have an understanding with M de Sartines, who has signified to them, that whenever an American Privateer has any Particular Reason for coming into any of the Ports of France, she need only Stave her Water Casks, and pretend to have sprung a Leak; surely Sir, there is something in all this very unaccountable; a great Monarch after mature Deliberation, issues Orders à la face de Lumiers scarce are they issued when one of his Ministers suggests to the Very Persons who are the Object of them, a Manner in which they may be eluded.

. . . As M de Vergennes had said, that the Expedient proposed for eluding the Orders was very insufficient, as it was easy to pump a Ship and see whether She had a Leak or not, I replied, that that was True if she was fairly and impartially examined, but that the general Prevention in favour of the Rebels was such, that there was but too much Reason to fear, that whenever they wished that their Ships should pass for Leaky, a Leak would soon be found. His answer to this was remarkable, That Partiality said He is indeed very Strong, and is a very serious Evil; do not imagine, that it arises from Love to the Americans, or Enmity to You, the Root lies much deeper, and may escape the Notice of a superficial Observer, but well deserves our most serious Attention. Tho' He did not explain Himself further, it was easy to see, that He alluded to that Licentious Spirit that prevails in this Country, and that no Doubt is one of the Principal Causes of the Enthusiastic Madness in favour of the American Cause, which every Man You meet with has espoused, tho' He is free to own that He does not understand, and has not so much as Attempted to understand the Question. I told M de Vergennes that for my Part, I had long seen the Secret Cause, and Manifest Tendency of the Partiality, I assure You said He, the King sees it too, He made the observation to me the other Day, and my answer to His Majesty was, that it was important to take every proper Means to check and counteract a Spirit of the Nature of which He had formed so just a Judgement. I answered that such action was every way worthy of his Excellency's Wisdom, and then returned to my Notes and went on to say, that whether any Intimation had or had not been given to the Rebels, How they might elude the late Orders, it was but too certain, that in some Instances they had been eluded, what has passed at Cherbourg Sir, is a striking Instance of this: The Prize carried into that Port was ordered out as belonging to the Americans, scarce was she out of the Harbour, when she was sold and immediately returned to the Same Port as French Property: this Artifice was very frequently practised at Nantz before the issuing of the late Orders, and I know for certain, that some Merchants have said, and wrote, that those Orders which they consider merely as Political, will in this Respect, make no sort of change: You see Sir, that such barefaced Evasions would render your Orders Nugatory, would in a Word, make them worse than Nothing: He did not contravert this, but took a Particular Note of what I had said to Him. I then My Lord mentioned incidentally, one or two Points that are not in Your Lordships Letter, but that were connected with the general Subject: I told Him that I had received fresh Information that the Hippopotame which did belong to Beaumarchais, was preparing with all Diligence and was to be ready the 15th of Next Month, that she was to Mount thirty Guns, and cruize against us, He answered that He understood that that Vessel belonged to a french Merchant, and He knew that she wanted to take in a freight for the french West Indies: I replied that my Information was precise, that the real Property was in Beaumarchais, and that the True Destination of this Ship was what I had mentioned; I added that I had reason to believe, that two Ships are building at Rochfort for Franklin and Deane, He assured me very positively that such Projects might be devised, but that the Execution would never be suffered. After a Short Pause I went on; I must now Sir, carry You to the West Indies, where there have been still more unjustifiable Practices: to say the plain Truth, for in such Moments as these it is necessary to speak out, whilst all is Peace between Your Excellency and me, the french Subjects in that Part of the World are carrying on open War. . . .

GEORGE LUPTON (JAMES VAN ZANDT) TO WILLIAM EDEN ¹

[Extract]

Paris th 20th Augt 1777 -

. . . during my Stay at Nantes, I make myself very intimate with Williams, insomuch that he took me to all his Magazines and Shew me every bundle or Box of Goods which is to go out this Fall - Amongst the Number was the Eighty thousand Stands of Arms, Pistols, Swords, &c - likewise three hundred Bales of Woolens &c - he also Carried me to see Eighty thousand Suits of Uniform for the Rebel Soldiers, which is making at that place - all or the greatest part of which will go out in a Ship which they are building at that Place for Nicholson, tho' I believe unknown to the french or indeed to almost any person – She will be a very fine Ship – her Keel is One hundred and Eight long – 30 feet Beam – 550 Tons – She will Carry twenty Six twelve pounders on her Gun deck – twelve of which is Brass and which I have seen – exclusive of this She is to Carry out all the Cordage, duck – Sail Cloth &c for 7 - Seventy four Guns Ships which they are about building at Present in America – likewise fifty Tons of Brass Ordnance which is to Come from the french Kings Arsenal, and which will be cleared out from that place as Copper & bound to Martinico – but which they mean to Proceed to America with immediately – he has already 70 English, Irish and American Seamen engaged to go with him & a house of Rendavous appointed for that purpose, but is not to go out alone – Weeks will be ordered round from St Malo – and Johnson from Morlax to Join them exclusive of which Hynson has a Ship at Havre which mounts 20 - Six pounders and who will also be loaded with a very Valuable Cargo – I say he is also ordered round to Join them at Nantes – I was not mistaken in my conjecture some time ago when I informed you that something of Consequence was going on at Rouen, there are the Goods which is to be Shipped by the way of Havre; – You will have time to send Orders to all your Ships of War Cruizing in the Bay before they leave their diffirent Ports, therefore would advice if I might be allowed the Liberty, that one of your Ships Should cruze of[f] each of the different Ports. If they Should be so fortunate as to meet at Nantes, their force will be Sufficent when they Sail to Cope with One of you[r] Ships, as many other Vessell will be ready about that time – Exclusive of this their is 14 Different Marchand men at Nantes, all which will Sail in the Course of the months of Sepr & October – the chief of them will go to Boston unless they Should hear of your fleet and army being at that place – in that Case they will make the best of their Way to South Carolina – Charles town in Preference to any other – Their is a Number of frenchmen at Nantes who have Joined and built Six Brigantine, Carrying from 14 to Eighteen each – three of which is in the Water and one ready to Sail. they are the best Calculated Vessell for the American Purpose I ever saw – their plan in building those Vessell is to Carry out a Cargo of Goods, to be Sold in the Continent, after which the Vessells will be offered to the Congress at first Cost, in Case this plan Succeeds they Propose sending out two monthly. I am Confident they will Sail very fast – as they are as Sharpe as a Wedge – They will be manned with frenchmen entirely, and will Clear out for some of the french West India Islands. . . I think 'twill not be improper to mention here, and which I can assure you from the best Authority, that the Havanna is Open to all American Vessells – this if you recollect Sir was never granted to any Power on Earth before – possibly you may have know[n] it before but as I imagine its a matter of the Greatest Consequence, have noted it here – I also Conclude from the Above, that if one port is Open to these people no doubt very port in their Dominion is on the Same footing. . .

From Nantes Nicholson and myself set of[f] for St Malo at which place we Arrived in two days – 'Twas there I met with Captain Weeks Again, who related to me his being Chaced by an English Sixty four, and of his very narrow Escape, but this is not material to mention at Present I'll endeavour to answer you with the Same when I have more Leizure than at Present, – I Stay'd onbd his Ship three days with him, She now ready for Sea Again, and in better or[der] and better manned than ever She was since he has been Capt She mounts Sixteen Six pounders – twenty Swivels, and has onboard One hundred and thirty Stout fellows as ever you Saw, the greater part English and Irish – with some Americans – 'twas from him that I have learned many matters of Consequence, which you may depend on as he is the Confidant both of Deane and Franklin, and not a little esteemed by either of the Above – He informed me that One Million of dollors had been obtained from the Spaniard, as he had been informed – but Concluded with saying that he was not purfectly convinced of it as he had it only from Second hand – this Weakes is very Sly, and was obliged to engratiate myself in his favour by making him Present of few things – Such as Sword – Pistols &c – & I found he bit immediately, By these means I say I got the blind side of him and discovered Just what I could have wished from a man of his turn & which was my reason for undertaking the Journey – After he had enquired about his friends at Paris, I endeavored to work him Round, and last found that the french at that Port – Merchants I mean – propose sending in the Course of the months of September and October to America – five forty Gun Ships and two Sixty fours – they will be cleared out for the East Indies, but will Proceed to America – where their Cargoes will be landed – and I conclude they will be Offered to the Congress – the five mentioned above Lay at Port L'Orient – & from what I have learned imagine they are India Ships – The other two I conclude is at Brest – the matter was not finally settled but from appearances and from what the house of De Segray, Beaugard Fil & Compy told me, I say from What those Gentlemen mentioned, 'twill in all probibility take place – As they are Owners of said Vessell and doe all Deanes and Franklin business at that port, – besides which they mean to send out many Marchand Ships which lay there – but imagine the Goods will not be Shipped from that Port – Its impossiable to Conceive the respect that is Shewn Weakes and Nicholson at St Malo: nothing is too much that can be done for them, the Commanding Officer there has had his troops reviewed merely to let them See and at Same [time] Balls & Court parties Are proposed every day for their Amusement. . .

LORDS COMMISSIONERS, ADMIRALTY, TO CAPTAIN WILLIAM P. WILLIAMS, H.M.S. Venus, SPITHEAD ¹

By &c.

Whereas we think fit that the Ship you command, accompanied by the Tortoise and Grampus Storeships (whose Commanding Officers are directed to follow your Orders) shall proceed to New York with the Victuallers named in the inclosed List and any other Victuallers or Storeships in His Majestys Service or Trade which may be at Spithead, or arrive there before you sail; You are hereby required & directed to take the Tortoise & Grampus under your command, and the Victuallers, Storeships & Trade abovementioned under your Convoy; and, then putting to Sea with the first opportunity of Wind & Weather, make the best of your way (consistent with their security) with them to New York; where you are to deliver the inclosed Packet to Vice Adml Ld Visct Howe, or the Commanding Officer of His Majesty's Ships there for the time being; and follow his Orders for your further proceedings.

If there are any Merchants Ships or Vessels at Spithead, bound the same way, which may be ready to sail, & whose Masters may be desirous of accompanying you, you are to take them under your convoy also; and see them in safely as far as your way & theirs may lie together.

You are to take particular care of the Grampus & Tortoise, as well as of the Victuallers and Storeships abovementioned, & to be very attentive to all the other Ships & Vessels which proceed under your Convoy; keeping them together by every means in your power, & upon no Account, leaving them upon pretence of their not sailing fast enough to keep Company with you; as we expect that, in the course of your Voyage, you accomodate your Progress to that of the worst sailing Ship amongst them.

You are at the same time to take all possible care to prevent the said Ships & Vessels from seperating from you and to give their respective Masters such Orders & directions as you judge most conducive to that end; And in case (notwithstanding these precautions) any of them shall part Company with you, or disobey your Orders, you are to transmit to our Secretary a List of their Names, & disobedience; that such measures may be taken thereupon as shall be judged necessary.

And Whereas we intend that His Majestys Ship the Fowey shall also accompany you to New York, if she arrives at Spithead & can get her Provisions & Stores complete in time; you are, in that case, hereby further required & directed to take her under your command; but not to wait for her, if you are in every other respect, ready to proceed before she is. LORDS COMMISSIONERS, ADMIRALTY, TO CAPTAIN GEORGE BURDON,
H.M. SLOOP Drake, PLYMOUTH ¹

By &c.

Whereas we intend that the Sloop you command together with the Sloop & Cutters named in the Margin, whose Commandg Officers are directed to obey your Orders, shall be employed to convoy the Linnen Ships & Trade passing between Ireland & England up the English

Sloop Wolf
Cutter Esther
" Lurcher

Ships at Plymouth

Channel, You are hereby required & directed to make the best of your way in the Sloop you command to Dublin where you will either meet with, or be shortly joined by, the other Sloop & the Cutters abovemention'd, all of which you are to take under your command accordingly, And so soon, as application shall be made to you for that purpose by the principal Persons concern'd you are to proceed with the said Sloops & Cutters to Belfast & Newry and having collected at those Ports all the Linnen Ships or other Trade there bound to England whose Masters may be ready to sail & desirous of accompanying you, you are to repair with them to Dublin, & having done the like there, proceed with the whole of the said Linnen Ships & Trade to Spithead, taking all possible care of them during their Passage.

Upon your arrival at Spithead you are to make enquiry for & take under your convoy any Trade bound to Ireland which may be ready to sail and whose Masters may be desirous of accompanying you, and then make the best of your way back to Dublin; seeing such Trade in safely as far as your way & theirs may lie together.

You are to contrive to act in like manner, with the abovemention'd Sloops & Cutters until you receive further Order; taking care to transmit to our Secretary once a Week, if you have it in your power to do so an Account of your proceedings, and of any interesting Intelligence you may procure, & using your best endeavours to take or destroy any Privatiers or other Ships or Vessels belonging to the Rebellious Colonies of No America, which you may fall in with; but to be very careful not to expose the Ships or Vessels which may be under your convoy to danger upon that or any other account. London Chronicle, TUESDAY, AUGUST 19, TO THURSDAY, AUGUST 21, 1777

London. Thursday, August 21.

Last Friday there was a meeting of some of the principal Merchants of Edinburgh and Leith, at Edinburgh, at which the Lord Provost presided. The intention of the meeting was to take under consideration what would be the most effectual method of protecting the trade of that part of the country from the future depredations of American privateers. By letters from Mr. Stevens [Philip Stephens], Secretary to the Admiralty, it appeared government was desirous to give every necessary aid to forward whatever scheme might be agreed upon as the most likely to answer this salutary purpose; and for that end would pay the usual sums allowed for manning, victualling, and fitting out two or three ships of 400 tons, to carry not under 20 guns each. The meeting accordingly agreed that this plan should be adopted; but as they were not informed as to what sums were allowed by government for such vessels, and consequently could make no contract at present, resolved that a letter should be forwarded to Mr. Stevens, desiring information on that head, and likewise to know whether the men raised for the purpose of manning these ships would be allowed to remain on board them so long as the contract existed, without being liable to be turned over to any other of his Majesty's ships.

A petition will be presented in a few days, to the Admiralty from the counties in general for protections for the harvestmen, as it is to be feared that there will not be hands enough to get it in without; as poor men are afraid to go to their daily labour.

The Lords of the Admiralty have given orders to the officers of small cruisers to examine all the fishing boats on the French coast, and to make reprisals of all such as shall be found to have any extra number of men or arms, or any gunpowder or warlike stores on board; it being known that those fishing vessels supply the American privateers, without the latter putting into port.

The Tartar, an American vessel, laden with flour and rice, is taken by the crew, and carried into Jamaica.

The Lady Mary, Gray, from the coast of Africa, to the Musquetto shore, is taken and carried into Hispaniola, by an American privateer.

LORD GEORGE GERMAIN TO GEORGE III ¹

Lord George Germain has the honor of sending your Majesty the Letters he has received from Sir George Collier, tho' probably your Majesty will have received from Lord Sandwich an account of the very spirited and meritorious behaviour of Sir George Collier and of the Captain of the Flora.²

"EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM DOVER, AUG. 21." ¹

A Dutch ship, named the Spoors, Capt. Anthunson, spoke at sea, the 28th of July, with three American privateers, viz. the Satisfaction, a sloop of 14 guns, a sloop of 10 guns, and a brig of 12 guns, from Rhode Island, in lat. 38. long. 40.30. West. They had taken two brigs from Jamaica, belonging to Liverpool.

July 6th, spoke with Capt. Holland, from Liverpool; he had taken a snow from Carolina, and sent her to Liverpool.²

About twenty-five leagues to the westward of Ushant, spoke with two American privateer brigs, of 14 guns each, with two Jamaica ships in company, which they had taken the day before: one ship had engaged them two hours. They had also taken a sloop and a schooner some time before, and sent them to Nantz, and they intended to carry the ships they had with them there; this was on the 9th of August. The next day spoke with an American privateer, of 24 guns, named the Mars, from Boston; she was off Scilly.

"EXTRACT OF A LETTER DATED NANTZ, AUGUST 21, FROM A PASSENGER
ON BOARD THE Queen of Portugal, CAPT. TIBBY,
FROM CORKE TO LISBON" ¹

On the 5th curt. we left Cove, and in about 23 hours met the Oliver Cromwell, Capt. J. Cole [William Coles], who took us; he paid no attention to our Portuguese pass and colours; immediately he removed all our crew to his brig, leaving only Mr. Tibby with the passengers on board our vessel. Towards evening he went in chase of two brigs, with whom we saw him engaged at night for near an hour.² That night we lost sight of him, and never saw him more. Our prize-master had orders to proceed to America, which alarmed the whole crew, on account of the scantiness of provisions for so long a voyage.³ On the Friday following we fell in with two other privateers, the General Mercer, Capt. [James] Babson, and Fanny, Capt. [John] Kendrick, each of 14 guns, just as they had taken two Jamaica-men, the Clarendon, Capt. [T.] Cowell, and Hanover Planter, Capt. [T.] Luny. As the speediest means of getting on shore, we passengers solicited Capt. Babson to receive us on board, which he did that night. We remained privateering with him till Monday following, when out of compassion to two ladies we had with us, he removed us to the Clarendon prize, where we remained till Sunday last, when we got into this port. We experienced much kindness from our prize-master, but not from the crew. The prize-master permitted us to take away as much of our cloathes as we could carry; but as no chests were permitted to go out, we were obliged to bundle up our apparel in sheets and blankets, and threw them into the boats, open as they were, to the sailors; what we had first collected was greatly diminished by the sudden transfers from ship to ship. No other of our papers whatever remained aboard or appeared to the Oliver Cromwell than the Portuguese pass and papers; but by what I can learn the Americans have a hatred to the Portuguese for forbidding them their ports, and seem resolved to retaliate when opportunity offers. The mode of introducing prizes into this port is iniquitous, and deserves to be made known; both privateers and prizes are reported under fictitious names, and from different ports; no prisoner is allowed to come on shore till the cargoes are sold, or lodged in magazines; by this means the masters are restrained from making timely protests, and when they can protest, all their endeavours to find out either the privateers or prizes are rendered fruitless; the people of the two Jamaica-men are actually confined aboard to prevent their making any protest; the [General] Mercer and Fanny under other names; marks of casks and puncheons are rubbed out. These privateers had taken two other Jamaica-men, which they sent to America.⁴

The General Advertiser. Liverpool, FRIDAY, AUGUST 22, 1777

Liverpool, August 22.

The Priscilla, Capt. Rd. Cassady, sailed 3d July from Sligoe, bound for Liverpool, and was taken the 6th by a rebel privateer called the General Mifflin. These sons of freedom seized all the captain's cloaths that were worth any thing, and 88 l. in cash; every one of his men they took on board the privateer; plundered the vessel of spare rigging, stores, &c. and one bale of linen, part of the cargo, which chiefly consisted of yarn, and after leaving several of the crew on board, ordered the captain to be bound hand and foot, and put into confinement. In this miserable situation he remained until the 19th of July, when his vessel was retaken by the Union, letter of marque, of London, within 10 leagues of Bourdeaux, and carried into Fowey. The privateer's people split all the sails except the foresail, by carrying, whenever they saw any vessel; Capt. Cassady was in a very poor state of health when they arrived at Fowey, and not able to stand, through the cruel treatment he received; his remaining so long bound, occasioned his flesh to swell to a shocking degree; all his prayers and intreaties were in vain, the inhuman tyrants had no compassion. Surely the fear of a single man retaking the vessel, could not induce them to this barbarity. She was a constant Irish trader, had not a gun on board, nor ammunition or warlike weapons of any kind.

LORD SANDWICH TO GEORGE III¹

As Sir George Collier in his letter to Ld Sandwich expressed a wish that the rebel flag should be laid at your Majesty's feet, Ld Sandwich takes the liberty now to send it, not having it in his possession, when he troubled your Majesty yesterday.

The flag was hoisted at the foretopmast head, & seems to be a sort of broad pendant rather than a flag.²

[1777. August] 22. We hear that Ticonderoga is taken by the King's troops, and also Philadelphia; that the Hancock, Captain Manley, is taken, and the Fox retaken; but we cannot tell what to believe by what we hear; for since we have been taken we have heard, nearly twenty times, that Philadelphia was taken, and as many times that Washington was killed; that Congress was divided, that continental money was disgraced, that the Americans had laid down their arms, and that they were starving to death for want of provisions, and naked for want of clothing; all these things have been published in the newspapers, times without number, since we have been taken.

CAPTAIN LAMBERT WICKES TO THE AMERICAN COMMISSIONERS IN FRANCE¹

Gentlemen,

St Malo 22d August 1777 –

I should be very glad to know my future destination and how I am to Act in Regard to the proceedings of the Admiralty Officers at this Port. If I am not dispatched Soon think it Will be Necessary to hawl the Ship on Shore again & Clean her as She is very Dirty and will not Sail without being Clean. I am informed Capt [John] Green of Philadelphia is now at Nantes unemployed, as he is Married & has a Wife and family in Philada. If you have any Employ for him, think you may Safely Confide in him, as I am Perswaded he will do every thing in his power to Serve the American Cause & is Very Capible of Commanding either a Merchant man or Vessell of War – Please let us have all the News you Can – I remain [&c.]

CAPTAIN LAMBERT WICKES TO JONATHAN WILLIAMS, JR.¹

Sir,

St Malo Augt 22d 1777 –

I received your favour of the 17th and note the Contents as to the Man you mention in your last I cannot see how he can possibly Claim or expect to be paid any Share or part of Prize Money, as he Absolutely Run away from the Ship & thereby forfeited his Prize Money, As there is an Express Resolve of Congress that Says any Person or Persons whom deserts or Runs away from any Vessall in the Service of the United States of America, Shall forfeit all his Wages & Prize Money and every thing belonging to him, As I did not make this Resolve cannot break it, but if Doctor Franklin thinks it Necessary so to do & will furnish me with an Order for so doing for my justification I will Cheerfully Submit and pay the Money, tho' I must Confess I do not think so great a Sacrafice is Necessary & am Very Sorry to hear My Charactor is So bad in France, tho' for my Vindication Can Assure you Not one farthing of Money ever Was or ever Can be put in my Pocket – I ever was & hope ever Shall be Content wth my Own with[out] Coveting or desiring other Peoples Goods – Please Communicate this to the Honble Ben: Franklin Esqr & if he will give me an order for paying their Respective Shares, I will Cheerfully comply and pay them – I think this highly Necessary for my Vindication – there has three of my People Run away since I have been here, whom I think may with More Justice Demand their Wages & Prize Money, as they have done More for it, tho' I am Perswaded they Never will demand it, or do I think any but those at Nantes are equal to so great a Task – I would beg you to Propose this Simple Question to their Lawyer, Whether Men Employed on Board a french Man of War, After Runing Away before the expiration of the time they Agree'd for is intitled to Wages or Punnishment I am perswaded his Answer will be the Latter, if so in their Own Ship's Cannot Conceive why it should be otherwise in Our Navy as they Certainly Subject themselves to the Rules & Laws of our Navy when they Come & Sign our Articles Volentarily of their Own free Will and Accord, As those two Men you Mention did – The Pilots Account Shall be made out & his Ballance Sent you by Next Post, for wch Please take his Receipt in full to prevent further trouble, from [&c.]

Sir,

Medway in Gibraltar Bay
22d August 1777

I send you enclosed for the information of my Lords Commissrs of the Admiralty Copies of two Letters that were found on board two American Vessels taken by the Levant:² they are both address'd to Messrs Duff & Welch who are British Subjects, & Merchants at Cadiz, and seem to carry on mutual Correspondence with the Rebels of America (as I apprehend) contrary to Law. In the Letter dated 2d June,³ are found the names of John Bailey of Liverpool & Alexr Elmsley of London who seem likewise to hold correspondence with the said Rebels. You will please to lay these Letters before their Lordships, as I judge they will not think this notice of the behaviour of English Merchants unnecessary.

The Vessels that have been taken by His Majestys Ships under my Command are few in number and (except the Argo) of inconsiderable value; they are as follows, Vizt

By the Enterprize. Ship Aurora, Jacob Getsheues, Master 350 tons; with Wheat and Flour.

Ship Belville, John Cunningham, Master 250 tons; Staves & Bees Wax.

Schooner Polly, John Briggs, Master, 58 tons; Fish.

PHILIP STEPHENS TO VICE ADMIRAL RICHARD LORD HOWE ¹

My Lord.

[Admiralty Office] 23d August 1777.

Since closing my Letters to your Lordship of the 20th Instant, I have had the honor to receive Yesterday your Lordships dispatches of the 18th & 29th June & of the 3rd 5 & 9th of last Month numbered from 32 to 36 both inclusive with the several Papers accompanying them, which came by the Packet; & this day Duplicates of the said Letters & Papers which came by Capt Talbot of the Niger, all of which I have communicated to my Lords Commrs of the Admty & expect to receive their directions to answer them in detail, by the next conveyance; there not being sufficient time for it to be done by this.

I have also, since closing the said Letters had the satisfaction to receive & communicate to their Lordships, a Letter from Sir George Collier dated at Halifax the 12th of last Month given an Account of his having taken & brought into that Port, the Hancock Privatier of 32 Guns — Manley Commander; & of the Flora's having re-taken & carried into the same place His Majts Ship the Fox which had been taken by the Hancock on the Banks of Newfoundland, And their Lordships understanding, by the Officer who brought the Letter; that Sir George Collier had sent, or intended to send, to your Lordship Capt Fotheringham who commanded the Fox at the time she was taken, and who, with some of his people, were found on board the Hancock; I have their directions to recommend it to you, when he & such a Number of His Officers & Men as may be judged sufficient for the purpose, shall arrive, to cause a Court Martial to be assembled as soon as conveniently may be, to inquire into the cause of the Capture of the said Ship, & to try the said Captain, his Officers & Men, for their Conduct upon that Occasion.

I have at the same time their Lordships commands to signify their directions to you & to cause her to be put into condition again, as soon as possible, to re-commission the Fox; to direct the Naval Officer at Hallifax to purchase the Hancock by Appraisement, if she is found fit for His Majesty's Service, drawing upon the Navy Board for the expence, And then to commission her as a Ship of 32 Guns, & to cause her to be put into proper Condition also employing them both afterwards as you shall judge best for His Majesty's Service entrusted to your Care. I have the honor to be &ca

So soon as the Complement of the Ship you command shall be completed for which we have given directions to the Senior Officer at the Nore, you are hereby required & directed to put to Sea, without a moment's loss of time & proceed and Cruize between the Naze of Norway, the Coast of Jutland & the Entrance to Gottenburg for the protection of the Trade of His Majestys Subjects in those parts & diligently to look out for, & to use your best endeavours to take or destroy, any Privatiers, or other Ships or Vessels, belonging to the Rebellious Colonies in No America which you may be able to come up with.

And in case you shall receive well founded Intelligence that any Privatiers or other Ships or Vessels belonging to the Rebellious Colonies abovementioned are Cruizing in parts contiguous to tho' not actually within the Station you are hereby directed to Cruize upon, you are at liberty to proceed in quest of them, taking care to return immediately to the said Station so soon as you shall have taken destroyed or driven them away or be thoroughly satisfied that none such are there.

You are, on your way to the abovementioned Station, to call off Hamburg to gain Intelligence from the Pilot Boats if any such Privatiers are in those Parts, and to inform Mr Mathias the British Resident there by Letter of your being in those Seas; And when you get off Gottenburgh you are to make the same enquiry, & to send the like information to the British Consul there.

You are to continue upon the above Station for the space of one Month after your arrival thereupon, & then repair without loss of time to the Downes & remain there until you receive further order sending to our Secretary an Account of your arrival & proceedings. Given &c. 23d Augt 1777.

SILAS DEANE TO ROBERT MORRIS ¹

[Extract]

Paris, 23rd August, 1777.

. . . In a word Cunningham by his first and second bold Expedition, is become the terror of all the Eastern Coast of England & Scotland, and is more dreaded than Thurot was in the last War – But though this distresses our Enemies it embarrasses us, we sollicit his enlargement & Mr Hodge engaged for his going directly for America – I know not how his engagement was expressed, but to appease the British Ministry and drive off an instant War Mr Hodge has been arrested and Confined – His friends need not be in distress for him, he will soon be at Liberty – He merits much from his Country being ready at all Times to serve and promote its Interests –

. . . the Ship General Mifflin after Cruizing some time on the Coast of England and Ireland put into Brest and there under Continental Colours Saluted the Admiral, who after consulting His officers returned the Salute which caused much Speculation and shows that the Officers as well as the other Orders in this Kingdom are much in our Interest – But the Politicks of this Country are intricate & embarrassed with connections & alliances on the Continent of Europe which with the State of their Fleet and their Sailors being abroad in the Fishery &c puts off bold & decisive measures. some other Prizes have arrived in different Ports – particularly two valuable Jamaica Men at L'Orient² a few Days since sent in by the Capts Babson & Kendricks – This is the brief state of the Proceedings of our Cruizers who have put into the Ports of this Kingdom – The Prizes are sold without Condemnation & consequently to a very great Loss as the whole is conducted Secretly & put too much in the Power of Agents –

Tho' these Cruizes have not been profitable to us they have been of infinite Prejudice to our Enemies, both to their Commerce & reputation – Nothing can be more humiliating to these once Proud Lords of the Ocean then the Insults they receive on their own Coasts And from those they so lately despised. . .

My Lord.

Corunna 23d Aug: 1777.

I most humbly beg leave to acquaint your Lordship that the Rebel Privateers mentioned in my last of the 6th Instant are still cruizing off this Harbour in order to intercept the Letter of Marque the King of Spain and her Prize, which has determined the Commander Mr Hamilton to leave the Prize here at the Disposal of the Proprietors in England, having for that end had her legally and in due Form adjudged and condemned before the Auditor of War and the Comissary of Marine, without any Objections or Difficulties being made.²

I have just received Advice that a Rebel Privateer, and an American Vessel laden with Salt from Bilboa to Marblehead are run on Shore near Llanes in the Province of Asturias in order to escape from one of His Majesty's Frigates,³ and that a Sloop laden with Butter for Bilboa is taken and carried into Rivadesella in the same Province by an American Privateer. Three American Merchantmen are now fitting out in Bilboa in order to return to America with Cargoes of Silks and Woolens, and have bought and taken on board twelve or fourteen Pieces of Cannon without any Objection being made to it by the Comissary of Marine or others, and a Mr Terry from Philadelphia who is settled there as a private Agent or Consul for the Congress, has purchased a Ship of 200 Tons Burthen, and is fitting her out in a warlike manner with fourteen six and four Pounders, however it is thought they will not be able to obtain any Gunpowder in that Port. . . .

San Vicente de la Barquera 4th August 1777

A Sloop from Boston ran on shore yesterday at 5 o'clock in the evening on the sandbar of the Rabia. She had the misfortune to meet an English privateer frigate of 30. guns, which chased her for 6. hours since morning. The captain of the Sloop, and five seamen came to seek refuge on Spanish territory. The English captain sent his long boat on board, his Ship being well armed with swivels, and muskets, to plunder the provisions, and some chests, that were found on board the Sloop, all of whose rigging and sails he destroyed. The cargo, which consisted of salt, and ordinary blankets, had been purchased in Bilbao.

CAPTAIN GUSTAVUS CONYNGHAM TO SILAS DEANE ¹

Sir. Ferroll, 24th Augt 1777 -
 Agreeable to instructions I on the Evening of the 17th July made Sail from Dunkirk and proceeded with Caution to the Noward for some time. On the succeeding Eveing we saw a Frigate which gave us chase and fired severall Guns at us and on the following day were chased by another, both of which we outsailed. from thence we proceeded into the No Sea, and passing severall vessells the people were so much dissatisfied that on the following day I took a Scotch smuggling Sloop which we Plundered of some Gin for Stores and Burned her, taking the prisoners on Board. On the following day we took the Brig North- ampton Capt Grey from Weyburgh Bound for and belonging to Lynn Laden with Boards &c which we sent for Bilboa under Care of Prize-Master Bailey. after dispatching this Brig we made Sail & gave Chase to two other Brigs & came up with them at Evening they both Struck to us and being light in Ballast we Burned One and made a Merit of Necessity by ransoming the other for Six Hundred Guineas. on Board of which we put the Prisoners of the four Vessells which were too numerous to be Kept on Board. the Bills for this Ransom were drawn by Capt John Green of the Brig Patty on Messrs Muillman & Sons of Amsterdam at Thirty days Sight. which Bills I transmitted to Mr Deane by three severall Conveyances by way of Holland. wish Safe to hand and well paid of which please to inform me by the Earliest opportunity as I have a ransomer on Board untill the Bills are paid. after this nothing taken untill 4th Augt when we took the Brig Venus from Greenland bound for and belonging Liverpool Commanded by Capt Week with 33 Men on Board. her I sent for Martinico under care of Prize-Master Hutchinson after taking the Prisoners on Board. She had on Board One Whale. we afterwards put into Broad Haven Bay in the West of Ireland where we watered and put Our Prisoners on Shore. from thence we proceeded and unfortunatly in a Gale of Wind Carried away Our Boltsprit & were obliged to cut away Nine foot off it. this with the having Carried away the Irons from Our Masthead from which we Prevented the advantage of setting our Topsails the Vessells Bottom growing foul and the Want of Provisions of which we were exceedingly scarce, rendered it impossible to proceed on our Voyage without touching at some part of Europe I therefore determined to Put into Spain to Victuall & refit. On the 22d Inst: the day before we arrived we took the Brig Black Prince Capt Thomas Belonging to Plymouth Bound thence from Opporto Laden with Wines and fruit. her I ordered into Bilboa or other Convenient Port in Spain under Care of Prize-Master Cruise. immediatly under the Land at the Entrance of Corruna we fell in with an English Ship of War She fired severall Shots at us but coming close in with the Entrance of this Harbour and under the Gunns of the Fort she was obliged to Desist and Sheer Off. Should you have a necessity to send any dispatches to the Continent I would wish to be the Bearer, as the Cutter sails so well that the risque of Our being taken is not so great as that of other Vessells. The Crew I had from Dunkirk was very unfit for my purpose and those are mostly determined to Leave the vessell here, so that if I cant get hands here to Equip me properly I shall be incapable of doing any otherwise than proceeding home. If I can get Hands here and you think proper to leave the managment of Cruising to myself you may depend I shall endeavour to take the most Prudent Steps in my power and shall distress the Trade of England in another Quarter

By this Post I write to Messrs Gardoquie at Bilboa desiring the establishment of a Credit either here or at the Groine to enable me to proceed in refitting & furnishing necessaries for whatever voyage you think proper to Order (of which I beg to be informed) and hope you will take Speedy Care that such Credit is fixed. While in the North Sea I acted as Capt Allen of the Pegasus agreeable to order but it was impossible to Keep a Secret of this Kind long among such a Crew. Our whole transactions in Dunkirk were known here Previous to our Arrival, So that it was unnecessary to disguise here I shall be busy in getting Every thing in Order untill I have the Pleasure of Hearing from you which I hope will be Soon as I only Stand in Need of Credit and further Orders I am Sir [&c.]

You pointed out to me, Sir, in your letter of the first of this month that the Anglo-American privateer the General Wisslin [General Mifflin], Captain William Day, had entered the roads of Port Louis under the pretext of taking in provisions and replenishing her fresh water, and that you had sent her an order to get underway within 24 hours; I have sent word to you that in the action which you had taken in this regard, you have done nothing but what conforms to the rules, I presume in consequence that this Ship will have sailed; if however she has not yet done so, you will see that she departs without delay, and you will report on the carrying out of my orders. My Lord.

St Ildefonso 25: Aug: 1777

I have received the Honour of your Lordship's Letters No 18 & No 19, & have explained very fully to M: Florida blanca the Transactions relative to the Northampton Prize: I likewise laid before him such Advices as I had received from Cadiz & from Ferrol, distinguishing those to which I gave Credit, from those which I had only reason to suspect. For I had heard that there was strong ground to believe, that the Governor of Cadiz, notwithstanding his Professions, had suffered the Carolina Vessel lately in that Port to depart with Arms, & a greater Crew on board, than she came in with. I apprized him further that I was informed of two or three Vessels having received Arms at Bilbao, & represented very explicitly to him that nothing was more important at this Juncture than a very strict Observation of the Orders, which he had promised me should be issued, & of which I expected the [sic] see the Effect as soon as they could be supposed to have reached the Several Ports.

He assured me that he had already signed & sent most of them, that the Remainder should be forwarded without Loss of Time & strictly obeyed, & that he would make the fullest Enquiry into the Cases which I had mentioned to him. . . .

CAPTAIN HENRY JOHNSON TO THE AMERICAN COMMISSIONERS IN FRANCE ¹

Honble Gentn -

Morlaix Augt [26]² 1777 -

Should have wrote you eir this, I had no subject to write upon, knowing you have enough else to do besides reading a Scrawl, which signified nothing. - Yours of the 19th Inst came safe to hand, have to say I have done tolerable well with the French Sailors, many of them finding I would pay them no money have decamped others (some few) have gone on board, Waiting for the orders from Court. I wait with the greatest patience as I doubt not it will answer a good purpose our detention - I have let my Sailors have a little money, they are wanting some Clothes also, they grumble continually about their prize money as they say they have been in two months, and can't get it settled. - I saw a letter of yours Yesterday to one Mr David here from you, paying him a Compliment respecting his assisting me. Hence it is he speaks English, he has done me some little service tho' none of any consequence. In fact I do not want him as a linguister, as I speak the French well enough to do my own business - I do not think it a house that can be relied on. The house I applied to here is a excellent house, a man that can be relied on on a matter of secrecy, he sent a Vessel from here with your dispatches some time past, and I am well persuaded not a man in the town except myself knows anything of it, even his own mother who is the partner in the house knows nothing, he is likewise a friend to Monsr Chaumont. - I am satisfied it would not have been the Case with the other, as Yesterday after he recd the letter it was ask'd him per Chance when I sailed, he gave them out hints that was not agreeable to me. - I don't mean and would wish that your Honours do not think that I mean to give advice to your Honrs. I should be very sorry after the pains the trouble &c Mr [Veuve] Cornic has taken with me to see a man who has done nothing for me give me my dispatches. The one is steady, the other is flighty – Mr Chaumont is well acquainted with Mr Cornic, and likewise with your honours, he likewise can give you a Character of him.

By &c.

Whereas we think fit that the Oliver Cromwell Privatier lately taken by His Majts Sloop *Beaver*² shall, if found fit for the Service, be purchased for His Majesty, and be employed under your command; You are hereby required and directed to cause the said Ship (if found fit for the Service) to be purchased for His Majesty accordingly, upon the best & cheapest terms you can, directing the Naval Officer at Antigua to draw upon the Navy Board for the Expence.

And whereas we intend that she shall be registered on the List of the Royal Navy as a 6th Rate of 24. Guns, by the Name of the Convert, & that her established Complement shall consist of 160. Men; You are hereby further required and directed to call her by that Name, & to appoint a Captain, Lieut and such other Officers, to her, as are allow'd to Ships of that Class.

You are then to cause her to be manned with the above Complement of Men, arm'd, fitted, victualled, & stored, in all respects in a proper manner for the Service on which she is to be employed, & to direct the proper Officers to take charge of, & indent for, the Provisions, Stores & Ordnance, which may be supplied to her, in order that they may account for the same according to the Rules of the Navy.

As the manning this Ship from the King's other Ships under your command may prove inconvenient to His Majts Service, you are to take the most adviseable means you can to prevent such inconvenience calling on the Merchants &c. settled on the Islands to give all the assistance in their power towards procuring the Men wanted for her, with which it is expected they will be more ready to comply as she is intended to be employed for their protection. LORD STORMONT TO VERGENNES¹

at Paris Wednesday 27 August 1777

I did not lose a Moment in Communicating to Your Excellency some important Information which I have just received from an English Gentleman who is arrived from Nantes. Two Ships of the Jamaica fleet, which have been taken by American Privateers, have been carried into the said Port; But in order to elude the Orders given by this Court on the last such occasion they were allowed to come in fraudulently, that is to say under assumed Names. They are entered in the Customs Registers as two American Ships, bound from St. Eustatius, and bearing the Names Hancock and Boston.

I do not know yet the real Names of these two Ships but do know that they belong to English subjects and as such I reclaim them and demand, as it is my Duty to demand, that they might be sequestered until the Owners or Their Agents are able to produce their Titles.

I have received at the same time other Information on the Subject of the Ship about which I have already had the honor to speak to Your Excellency. This Vessel (which is very formidable), which was built, armed and fitted out in the Port of Nantes for the use of the Rebels, is at this very moment in the River where she dropped down in public, and is preparing to set Sail. No one at Nantes can be unaware of the Destination of this Ship, which mounts Twenty or so Guns and is laden with Arms, Rigging, Munitions of War and many other goods for the use of the Rebels.

I did not wait an instant in giving this Information to Your Excellency, being well persuaded that this Court will immediately dispatch the Necessary Orders to detain permanently this Vessel which, as you can see Sir, is a Ship built, armed and fitted out in peacetime in one of your Ports in order to carry the most Effectual Aid to the Rebellious Subjects of a Nation linked to France by Friendship and the most Solemn Treaties.

It would impose on your Time, M. le Comte, to produce the Proofs in support of this request. A Minister as enlightened as your Excellency will at once realise how just it is, it will suffice thus to add that the Facts could no longer be regarded as in doubt. I speak at this moment with complete Knowledge and after taking the Depositions of an Eyewitness. I have the honor to be with the most perfect Attachment Sir [&c.]

I have the Honor to acquaint Your Lordship that the Revenge a Rebel Privateer mounting fourteen Guns and ten Swivels commanded by Cunningham who took the Harwich Packet,² arrived in Ferrol the 23d Instant, where she is fixing a new Main Mast and Bowsprit, and taking in Provisions, without any Objections being made to her Stay there notwithstanding the Assurances on that Subject lately given to My Lord Grantham. Port: the said Captain and his Crew are Prisoners on board the Privateer, and it is said Cunningham intends to set them at Liberty, if he does not I propose to petition the Governor of Ferrol for their Release, tho' I have no Hopes of Succeeding.

I am informed that the Orders which have been sent here and Ferrol in consequence of the abovementioned Assurances given to My Lord Grantham respecting the Treatment of American Privateers and their Prizes in the Ports of Spain, are couched in very ambiguous Terms, and are not so satisfactory as His Excellency might have expected, and that the whole amounts to no more than that a strict Neutrality shall be observed, and no favor shown to either Party, which if true is only a repetition of former Orders.

I receiv'd by Captain Brine on the 31st Ultimo your several Letters of the 12th June, all which with their several inclosures were immediately communicated to my Lords Commissrs of the Admty, and Copies & extracts of such of them as were judged proper to be laid before His Majesty transmitted to the Secretarys of State for that purpose.

Their Lordships command me to acquaint You that there can be no doubt of proper measures being taken not only to indemnify you & the Officers serving under you in the Actions which have been brought against you for the discharge of your Duty, but to support you in the Execution of it in future, and with that view your Letter marked No 1 of those abovementioned has also been laid before the Attorney & Solicitor General for their Opinion and Advice as to the steps that may be necessary to be taken thereupon.

Their Lordships have sent an Extract of your Letter No 2 to the Navy Board, so far as relates to the Equipment of the Ships of Lord Howes Squadron in addition to those of your own, and have directed them to encrease the Establishment of the Yard at Antigua in such manner as they shall judge proper to enable you to carry that service with Dispatch.

My Lords approve of the Complement you have ordered for the Snake Sloop; ² as also of the Orders you have given for purchasing the Bermudas Sloop ³ taken by the Endeavour & Antigua Brigs to supply the place of the Pelican Brig, & for converting the latter into a Vessel for cleaning the Harbour in the room of the Denbeigh Tender which is worn out; And they have directed the Navy Board to pay the Bills you have ordered the Naval officer to draw for the purchase of those two Sloops as well as the Comet Sloop.

Their Lordships are highly satisfied with the Gallant Behaviour of Captain Jones of the Beaver Sloop in the action with the Oliver Cromwell Rebel Privatier, as well as with the account he has given of that of the Officers & crew of the sloop, and as a mark of their Approbation were immediately pleased to sign a Commission for him to be Captain of the Fowey, to give him the Rank of a Post Captain, which will be sent to you by this Conveyance to be delivered to him. You will at the same time receive their Lordships Order for purchasing the Privatier to serve as a 6th Rate in the Squadron under your Command, if she is found fit for His Majestys service, And it is their Lordships pleasure that you appoint Captain Jones to the Command of her. Robbins the Day before he was taken, fell in with a Privateer of 10 Guns and full of Men, which he engaged some Time, and beat her off, though he mounted 10 Guns, and had only 14 People on board, Half of whom were Boys.

Yesterday Advice was received from Dover, that the Pacifick armed Ship, Capt. Sir — We conclude by this orders are recd for permitting you to depart for America on Condition of not Cruising in these Seas nor returning into the Ports of France with the reprisal. We therefore desire you to put yr Ship into the proper State for Sailing & to Supply her with the Provisions necessary for the Voyage. We must wait to know from you what quantity of Heavy Articles the reprisal will carry without prejudice to her Sailing. The Goods we have in view are Salt Petre Anchors Large Cordage &c. We have wrote to Capt Johnson to the same purpose & hope he will be ready by the Time you are. Your Letter of the inst is before us & yr Sentiments correspond with ours on the Subject. We are fully convinced that the previous measures are merely temporary and that affairs must soon take a very different turn — but at all Events the reprisal & Lexington may be of as much or more Service to America by returning with some necessaries as by continuing in Europe. MARQUIS DE NOAILLES TO VERGENNES¹

[Extract]
No 36/

London 29th August 1777.

... I come now, M. le Comte, to the details of the conversation that I had yesterday morning with Lord Suffolk. I went over with him the various matters upon which you had had the goodness to give me clarification, and the Instructions which it remained for me to implement. I spoke again of Mr. Cunningham, and I gave equally plausible reasons for both his detention and his Release. As for his Ship which, in spite of the securities that had been taken, sailed from Dunkerque to return to Privateering, I have omitted none of the circumstances that seemed justifiable to us, I insisted among other things on the extant proof of our fairness, by the imprisonment of Mr. Hodge in the Bastille. I likewise observed that, if they had found 16 Frenchmen as part of the Crew of the Ship taken by Mr. Cunningham, he should not draw any favorable inference as to the intentions of our Government. I strongly asserted that in making inquiries, it had been stated that these Frenchmen had signed on at the Port of Dunkerque: that besides the Admiralty of this Port could have neither great activity nor much scope.

I then related what had happened with respect to an American Privateer which, having run into the Port of Brest, had been obliged to put to sea again immediately after making some necessary repairs.² To demonstrate how far our fair dealings could go, I again referred to an action more positive than the others, namely, that an English Ship, chased to the entrance of the river to Bordeaux by an American Privateer, had been rescued by a French frigate, which had considered it her duty to oppose such a chase in proximity to our Coasts. . .

London Chronicle, THURSDAY, AUGUST 28, TO SATURDAY, AUGUST 30, 1777

London. Friday, August 29.

A Letter from Douglas, in the Isle of Man, dated Aug. 20, says, "We have at length got time to breathe a little, and recover ourselves from the panic we were thrown into by the number of American privateers which for some time infested this island. The effect it had on some people here was very strange; they were going to sell off their houses and goods, and retire to the Continent. One estate was actually advertised, and would have been sold had there been any buyers. Some thought the Americans would land here, and set up their standard."

On Wednesday arrived at Dover the ship Farmer, Capt. Dennis, from New York, a prize taken by his Majesty's ships Brune and Preston.

The Swift, Edwards, from Dublin to Jamaica, is taken by the Americans and carried into Boston.

The Devonshire, Fisher, from Tortola, is taken by the Hawke and Revenge privateers, and the crew put on board a Frenchman, who has landed them at Bourdeaux.

"HUMANITAS" TO LORDS COMMISSIONERS, ADMIRALTY ¹

(Copy)

My Lords

Plymouth. August. 29th 1777.

Being persuaded of your Lordships tender feelings, flowing from those truly humane principles which have ever distinguish'd Britains from the more barbarous Nations; I cannot but flatter my self with hope of your Lordships immediate interposition in behalf of the American prisoners, who are now Actually perishing with hunger,

My Lords, the relation of Facts I humbly beg leave to lay before your Lordships, & what you may depend upon as Real, without any exaggeration, does not emerge from any attachment to the prisoners, considered as Americans; no but purely from a principle of humanity, nor can I quiet my consence without letting your Lordships know how government is impos'd upon, and the prisoners treated. What discretionary power is lodged in the Agent, your Lordships are the most competent judges, my charge against him is included in the following particulars which upon the strictest enquiry will be found just -

Charge 1st For reasons well known, Mr Cowdry² connives at the Butcher's (Mr Hall of Plymouth) serving in Hucks and Necks of Beef instead of whole Quarters, some times tainted that the maggots drop out of it, being the refuse of the Market, & bad in Quality, Charge 2d he does not give the prisoners, Government Allowance, which he says is three pounds of Beef to four men Pr day - this allowance, tho very scanty, if well served, & the water in which tis boild was converted to Broth, might render their lives supportable, But their allowance, when boild, being repeatedly weighed amounts to no more then, from a pound & half to two pounds, Bones included Query what must the meat be considering the first, charge the 3d the meat tho' bad in Quality, is so much boild, that all the Fat & marrow might be extracted for the chandler which affords a considerable perquisite, Charge 4th he robs the Prisoners of their money, & other little things of value they brought into the Prison, has denied them the priveledge of working & the public of having access to buy of them, or give to them, has set up a Charity Box to beg money of the publick for the poor Prisoners the greatest part of which is put into his own Pocket, but one dividend has been made to the prisoners of a penny pr Man which is notoriously known, would have amounted to many Shillings. Charge 5th the prisoners put into the black hole for attempting to escape, are put on half the abovementioned allowance on which it is impossible for them to live.

Charge 6th the Black hole into which they are put being low, the water lies upon the Floor like a Hogstie, & the prisoners lie all night upon an old door or two they found there, Charge 7th he allows the prisoners in the Black hole, but one hour in the day to take fresh Air: and other prisoners are not allowed fresh air but a few hours in the heat of the day.

Charge 8th he denied the prisoners a sufficient quantity of water, untill a worthy Captn of the guard insisted they should have what they stood in need of - Thro' these unheard of Scences of cruelty many of the prisoners last week were actually perishing with hunger, and in a Delirium whose ravings peirce the hearts of all who pass'd and re-pass'd near this horrible Inquisition & infernal Slaughter house of American Victims.

Charge 9th he has removed a poor woman who sold small articles to the prisoners, and is now turn'd huckster himself, that he may exact upon them without mercy, and open another vein of profit.

Charge 10th he has made a hogstie of a place within the walls of the prison where Coals were kept in the French War, and has now near 20 hogs feeding there, on what the prisoners ought to have, otherways would be no profit to him, this must corrupt the Air, & may breed a fever among the prisoners which will be injurious to the Country,

Charge 11th thro' carelessness one day, a Dog eat the Flesh of four mens allowance, the prisoners seeing it, refused to pick the gnaw'd Bones. – The Agent ordered all the prisoners out into the Yard with the parrade of a Nero, insisted upon knowing who objected, and if they did not deliver them up, he would put all the prisoners on half allowance however he thought proper not to put his threats into execution.

Charge 12th The Small beer is mixt with water to make a saving in that Article for himself.

My Lords, such a scene of horrors this country never saw before, Town & Country are alarmed & what may be the consequence I know not if not timely remedied, Cowdry pleads his own innocence, & says it is no fault of his, it is Governments Orders: which is in affect to say, Government has ordered me indirectly to murder all the prisoners. I doubt not but the principles of humanity & ties of nature will excite your Lordships to exculpate Government from the odium, relieve the miserable & teach the barbarous Culprit his duty by bringing him to condign punishment which will relieve the anguish of mind your Lordships real friends labour under amongst which number is

Your Lordships in Duty & respect

Your Excellency

at Brest 29th August 1777

They were in error to tell you that when the anglo-american Privateer capt. miffin [General Miffin] entered the port of Brest she was saluted, but it is certainly true that when she came into the roads she saluted the King's flag with 13 guns. I returned 3 to her. I beg you to inform me whether I did right or wrong. In all foreign roads, I have always seen salutes rendered to various nations. I am with respect Your Excellency [&c.]

HERMAN KATENCAMP TO LORD WEYMOUTH¹

[Extract]

No 61.

My Lord.

Corunna 30th August 1777.

I most humbly beg Leave to refer to my last No 60. and have the Honor to acquaint Your Lordship that Cunningham contrary to what might have been expected from the Assurances lately given to My Lord Grantham, meets with the kindest Reception both here and in Ferrol, and is freely permitted to purchase and take on board whatever is necessary for refitting his Vessel except warlike Stores. He came hither from Ferrol the Day before yesterday, and obtained Orders from the Captain General for confining untill he should return on board James Macgrath an Irish Seaman who escaped from his Vessel and came to claim my Protection. All the Answer I could obtain from the Captain General to the strong Remonstrances I made on this Occasion was that he acted according to the Orders he lately received, which were to keep and observe the strictest Neutrality, that the man who escaped had signed Articles of Agreement with Cunningham, and was bound to fulfill them. the Seaman in his Defence said he was compell'd by Force to sign the Agreement as were many others now on board the Vessel. I supported him with the best Arguments I could make use of, but in vain, he was hurried to the Guard House. The next Morning however the General privately sent for Cunningham and desired him to consent to the Sailors Release, which being agreed to, the Man was at length set at Liberty.

As Cunningham with his Vessel is to come over here for some Rigging which he cannot get in Ferrol, I am in anxious Hopes His Excellency My Lord Grantham, to whom I have wrote fully on this Subject, will be able to obtain the Release of the Prisoners, and such others as are detained on board against their Will, before he departs; my Petition to the Governor of Ferrol for that End having proved ineffectual. I plainly see My Lord we are to expect no Favor here in the Interpretation of the circular Orders that have been lately given respecting American Privateers, and make no Doubt that Cunningham will be allowed to stay as long as he pleases, for tho' it is expressed in the said Orders that no American Privateer is to remain in the Ports of Spain, yet as they are permitted to enter, without any Time being fixed or limited for their Departure, that Expression will have very little weight with a man so partial in favor of the Rebels as our Captain General. . . .

[1777. August] 31. Sunday. To-day we had a newspaper, where-in was a confirmation of Ticonderoga and Philadelphia being taken; also, of the Hancock frigate and Fox being retaken; this news is very disagreeable to us, for we are sorry to hear of the enemy being in any way victorious; for should they conquer the country, or even get the upper hands of it, we are positive that the gallows or the East Indies will be our destiny. But as to conquering the country, it never disturbed, for me, an hour's rest, though it appears that they are in a fairer way for doing it now, than ever before. We have trouble enough here, without hearing bad news; for it is enough to break the heart of a stone to see so many strong, hearty men, almost starved to death through want of provisions. A great part of those in prison, eat at one meal what they draw for twenty long hours, and then go without until the next day. Many are strongly tempted to pick up the grass in the yard, and eat it, and some pick up old bones in the yard, that have been laying in the dirt a week or ten days, and pound them to pieces and suck them. Some will pick up snails out of the holes in the wall, and from among the grass and weeds in the yard, boil them and eat them, and drink the broth. Often the cooks, after they have picked over our cabbage, will cut off some of the but-ends of the stalks and throw them over the gate into the yard, and I have often seen, after a rain, when the mud would be over shoes, as these stumps were thrown over the gate, the men running from all parts of the yard, regardless of the mud, to catch at them, and nearly trample one another under feet to get a piece. These same cabbage stumps, hogs in America would scarcely eat if they had them; and as to our broth, I know very well hogs in America would scarcely put their noses into it. Our meat is very poor in general; we scarcely see a good piece once in a month. Many are driven to such necessity by want of provisions, that they have sold most of the clothes off their backs for the sake of getting a little money to buy them some bread. I find it very hard, myself, but it is not so hard with me and a few others, who have got into a way of making boxes and punch ladles, for which we get a trifle, as it is with the prisoners, in general, who are obliged to live upon their allowance; but I expect that boxes and punch ladles will soon become an old thing, for many who buy them now, buy them more out of charity than any thing else.

“COPY OF A LETTER FROM MR DE SARTINE, MINISTER OF STATE FOR THE NAVAL DEPARTMENT IN FRANCE, TO THE JUDGES & CONSULS IN NANTES DATED – VERSAILLES SEPTR 1. 1777.” ¹

You can't be ignorant Gentlemen of the Order which his Majesty has repeatedly given to his Courts of Admiralty establish'd in his Ports, not to permit the Sale of Prizes made at Sea by Strange Armed Vessels, in any of his Ports, & to take care that neither such Armed Vessels or their prizes be allowed to remain in his Ports longer than is necessary to obtain such Succours and Aid as from humanity they may be entitled to. This prohibition, which is founded on the principle of faithfully adhering to Treatys, ought not to be evaded under any pretext whatever, & his Majesty learns with great Concern that to elude the vigilance of his Courts of Admiralty & to get possession of Goods coming out of prises, divers means have been devised, such as feign'd Contracts, substituting false Names for the Vessels & disguising the voyages & their destination. His Majesty charges me to inform The Chambers of Commerce & thro' them the Merchants of every place, that agreeable to the terms of his Treaties no effects taken from Prises bro't into his Ports or harbours can be purchased directly or indirectly, on pain of the goods being confiscated, & the holder or purchaser, answerg personally for the same & being compelled to make restitution of the goods or their value. I wou'd have you Gentlemen clearly understand & accordingly inform the Merchts of your place that his Majesty will not suffer the most distant attempt to be made to contravene these orders.

I am perswaded that the Merchts will be anxious to give proofs of their submission to the Kings pleasure, and of their acknowledgements for the active protection which his Majesty always gives to Commerce. I must farther inform you that the Attorneys of the Courts of Admiralty have orders to prosecute every defaulter. I am &c, signed (De Sartine)

P.S. I inform you farther, that the Ports of the Kingdom being always open to all Nations for Commerce, The Mercht Vessels of North America Shall continue to be admitted with their Cargoes, & that they may take in return, such Merchandise as is admitted to be exported. His Majesty excepts ammunition & he hopes that this permission will not be abused by introducing prizes under the pretext of ordinary & allowable Commerce.

Everyone is left to make his own Comments on this Letter I will only observe that it is the first open & formal declaration of Countenanceing & encourageing Commerce with the American States.

GABRIEL DE SARTINE TO LOUIS XVI¹

[Versailles] Navy Office Sepr [1] 1777²

Your Majesty has already repeated several times His Orders to His Ports, to the effect that Privateers, of any nation whatever, are admitted there only for the time which is absolutely necessary for them to obtain Provisions which they have need of, and that, under no pretext whatever, can Prizes be sold there. Orders have been reiterated to the Admiralty Courts and the Officers of the Registry of Seamen so that they will see to the execution of Your Majesty's orders and the observance of treaties; but no matter what might be their zeal and attention in this regard, it is impossible that their vigilance extends along the entire course of Rivers, such as those which form the Ports of Bordeaux, Nantes and Le Havre: it would appear necessary, therefore, to establish an Inspection Station in the Roads themselves or even at the Mouths of the Rivers; this could only take effect by establishing a Frigate or Corvette there on Station, to observe and inspect every Ship which comes in or goes out.

However, after the departure of the three Frigates that are conveying the troops to America, only 4 Frigates and 2 Corvettes will remain attached to the Squadron of Comte Duchaffault, and that this number would be insufficient to furnish at the same time Service to the Squadron, to the Cruisers at sea and to the Stations in the Rivers; I have the honor to propose to Your Majesty, to order the fitting out of two new Frigates, one of which would be fitted out at L'Orient, and the other at Brest, and to establish 4 Ships, Frigates or Corvettes, on Station at the entrance to the Ports, Namely: 1 at Bordeaux, 1 at Nantes, 1 at Le Havre, 1 at L'Orient.

Approved by the King's hand. Good

No 137/

Separate & Secret.

Paris 3rd Sept 1777.

When I spoke of the Mischiefs that had arisen from the clandestine Sale of the Prizes and dwelt upon the Necessity of a Sequestration, and Restitution to the Owners, he [Vergennes] stopped me a Moment, and very politely desired Leave to interrupt me, to mention the Precautions they had already taken. These Precautions, My Lord, which M. de Maurepas alluded to, are 1st a Circular Order to the Courts of Admiralty in all the different Ports (which Order will as usual be published and stuck up in the Streets) to take every possible Care to prevent the Sale of any Prizes or their Cargoes, and to make the Purchase penal.

2nd An Order to the Procureur General des Cours de L'Amiranté to prosecute those who violate this Law, by making any such Purchase, and that immediately, and without waiting for any further Directions from hence.

There is likewise an Order to all the different Commanders of Forts upon the Coast, to make all the American Privateers that are within Distance bring to, and come to an Anchor under the Fort, and if they want Water or Provisions, to detain them there, till those Succours which common Humanity will not Suffer to be refused, can be procured them, but not to let them come into the Ports of France under any Pretence whatever. At the same time that I applauded these Measures, I observed to M. de Vergennes that nothing but Sequestration and Restitution would effectually cure the Evil, that if no Prizes were carried into their Ports hereafter (He had in the Course of our Conversation more than once insinuated, that they would not be admitted) They would have none for the future to Sequester, or deliver, but I insisted strongly on the Sequestration and Restitution of those that are actually in their Ports, nommément the two Jamaica Ships: told him, that I had received a Power of Attorney from the Owner of the Clarendon; that it was certain, that the Ships that passed under the feigned Names of the Hancock and the Boston, were the Clarendon and the Hanover Planter; that their coming in en fraude, and under false Names, was a strong additional Reason for the Restitution I claimed, et venoit à l'Appui de ma juste Demande. His Excellency was as reserved in his Answers as M. de Maurepas had been, and neither promised, nor refused the Restitution. . . .

Capt. Landai is the Bearer of this. He comes with the heureux Loaded with Stores for America. This Cargo has by a Succession of Obstacles thrown in the way been detained from January last at a most prodigious expence. I hope however that it may finally arrive in season to be of essential Service. Capt. Landay whom I have mentioned in my former Letters will offer his Service to the United States. I must repeat here what I have written before that I find him to be a Skilful Seaman of Long Experience in every Part of the World, of Good Judgement and the most unsuspecting honor & Probity, I can but consider him as a valuable acquisition to our Navy. My Agreement with Mr Motieue [Monthieu] the owner of this Ship in Case she should not be sold in America is that she be dispatched with a Cargo of Tobacco as soon as possible if the Article is to be had, if not with such articles as can be procured as I have engaged for the Freight outward & Homewards & you are sensible of the necessity of having remittances by every opportunity. whatever this Ship may be Loaded with I pray that the Cargo may come Care of Messrs Rodrique Hortalez & Co as they have advanced for the Arms & many other Articles of this Cargo over & above their other Large advances. Tobacco is the best Article at present in the Ports of France or indeed any part of Europe & must Continue so for a very considerable time yet to come most probably for 12 months. You will please to send me an Acct of the Cargo whatever it may be that you ship in this Vessel & duplicates by others. I have the Honor to be &c

We engaged to Cruize, for 25 days, in the Service of the United States, under the Command of John Manley Esq. After Expiration, of the said time, agreed for, We steerd for the Irish Channel, nothing remarkable occur'd. The Linnen Ships being stop'd (by reason of Commr Wickes, & Co going through, the Channel a short time before) disapointed, us greatly. –

We took nine Prizes, six of which, we sent to different Ports, which hope has arivd safe, sunk one, & two we gave the prisoners. –

We shall sail for America, in about 8 days, and if You have any Publick, or Private Commands that way, will execute, them, to the Utmost of my Power – As every opportunity of serving my Country and its Friends gives me the greatest pleasure. –

Cannot Conclude, without, Congratulating You on the success, of our Countrymen, (in the Jerseys,) on the 10 & 11th of June & hope the, success, of that Day is followed, by many more – As there, is many different acct's thereof, – Should esteem, it a Particular favour if You write, Just to mention, the true Loss sustain'd by the Enemy, with ours – I remain Honour'd Sr [&c.]

My Lord,

Corunna 3 September 1777.

I most humbly beg leave to refer to my last of the 30th Past, and have the Honor to acquaint Your Lordship that Cunningham, in Consequence of a Petition presented by him to the Inspector of the American Packets for that Purpose, having been provided with a Mast and other Necessaries for refitting his Vessel from the King's Stores, is now ready to sail, and intends to proceed in Company with his Prize the Black Prince directly to America. He has promised my Vice Consul in Ferrol to set the Prisoners at Liberty before he departs, in which Case I shall immediately send them to Oporto the nearest Place where there is any Probability for them to get a Passage home. . . .

Paris Thursday Evening Sepr 4th 1777

. . . He [de Maurepas] repeatedly said that we should have no farther reason to complain of the American Privateers – that Monsr de Chaffault had orders to keep them off the Coast and not let any of them into the Ports of France except in cases of real Distress – That henceforward neither they, nor their Prizes should be admitted into any of the French Ports, that they did Harm to both Nations, debauched the French Sailors, and raised a Piratical Spirit among them, that in a Word, he was determined to get rid of Ces gens la, et de Chasser cette Vermine. He told me he did not yet know if the three Privateers were gone out of Port,² that is qu'il n'en avoit pas encore la Nouvelle, but assured me, that the Orders were sent, and would be punctually executed.

He solemnly promised that the two Jamaica Men,³ and as much of their Cargoes as it has been, or shall be possible to recover, should be restored to the Proprietors, on their producing a legal Title.

He would not promise the Sequestration and Restitution of all the Prizes that are in the Ports of France, or shall be brought into them, though I repeatedly pressed it, as the only sure expedient: However, My Lord, if the Order given to admit no Prizes is punctually executed, the Advantage to us, will, I think, be nearly the same. I know of no Prizes of any Consequence now in the Ports of France, except these two Jamaica Men, the Restitution of which was formally promised me, both by M. de Maurepas, and M. de Vergennes, whom I saw afterwards for a few Minutes. . .

“EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM ON BOARD THE Jupiter, CAPT. CAMPBELL, DATED CORKE, SEPT. 5, RECEIVED YESTERDAY BY THE IRISH MAIL.”¹

Being under Convoy of his Majesty's Ships Camel, of 20 Guns, Commodore, the Weazle of 16 Guns, the Druid of 14 Guns, in Lat. 45, at Half past Four, P. M. a large American Privateer of 32 Guns well manned, and of a formidable warlike Appearance,² got into the Rear of the Fleet, attacked his Majesty's Ship the Druid; after a warm Engagement of 20 Minutes, or thereabouts, the Commodore then led the Van of the Fleet, wore his Ship, and made the Signal for a general Chace, when he and the Weazle, together with all the armed Ships of the Fleet steered towards the Place of Engagement, but before they could give the Druid any Assistance, the Enemy sheered off towards her Consort with flying Colours, about the Distance of one League, seemingly of the same Force.³ At Six P. M. the Weazle joined the Druid, who was left in a most shattered Condition, while the Commodore continued his Chace towards the Enemy, who were both waiting her Reception. At Night the armed Ships stook back, and wore off from the Body of the Fleet, which then consisted of 100 Sail. The Night proved very dark, and the Want of a Commodore's Light to direct the Courses as formerly, scattered the whole Fleet so much, that we could count but 38 Sail from our Mast-Head at Day-break, all of which steered various Courses in a vain Search of the Commodore. Saturday being all spent in a fruitless Search for our small Navy, at Night the Wind proving fair, I stood on my Course, but the following Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, was chased by three different small Privateers, with whom I had the good Fortune of gaining the Weather Gauge, which I kept all Day, and at Night flung them by altering the Course. By the Regularity of the Station of these small Privateers, it appeared to me that the whole Atlantic was in a Manner covered by them, at least from the Banks of Newfoundland to the Western Isles. If so, their Plan was well concerted by sending the said two Privateers to break the Body of our Fleet, that the smaller Vermin might come in for their Share.

SILAS DEANE TO CAPTAIN PIERRE LANDAIS ¹

Paris 5th Sept 1777

Sir Yours of the 15 & 20th ulto should have been answered sooner but I recd them only three days ago & Mr Montieu being determined to go himself for Marsailles I determined to send to you by him as the matter will now be finished and I trust you will sail in a few days after his arrival. my advice is that you Clear out in form for Saint Domingo & be careful that you have no Papers onboard that may shew the Contrary except what are in your own Power, & these have always ready to be sunk in case of an Attack or danger in a Search. You will stand directly for the Continent of North America, and endeavour to fall in as far to the North as Portsmouth in New Hampshire or Boston. on your Arrival you are to apply to the Authority or Magistrates of the Place where you may arrive for Assistance in Securing the Vessel & Cargo for Acct of Congress and you will immediately inform Congress by express of the Place you are at and the Cargo onboard and attend their Orders. with respect to the Sale of the Vessel Mr Montieu will give you his instructions. As you will tarry in the Country if the Vessel is sent Back you are to urge the person who has the Care of the Expedition to send her away as early as Possible & Procure a good Pilot for her return. You will be able to inform the Congress of the Reasons of yr delay more particularly than I can do in a Letter but I have wrote them on the Subject [in] the inclosed Letter which you will deliver with your own Hand. Before sailing make out an exact acct of the Cargo wh you will have onboard and the number of Tons it makes, also the Number of Tons which the Vessel will carry if intirely filled up, which I am uncertain whether the articles to be sent will do or not, but my desire is that you take as much onboard as will be consistent with your Sailing to advantage. If any artillery Officers insist on going you must order them to be disguised like marines or enter as common Passengers for St Domingo.² You will carefully avoid falling in with any english Vessel of War if Possible but should you be attacked must defend yourself in the best manner & to the utmost. with Esteem I am &c

CAPTAIN LAMBERT WICKES TO CAPTAIN HENRY JOHNSON¹

Dear Sir,

St Malo 5th September 1777 -

I received yours of the 1st Instant and am very glad to hear you have liberty to depart as I have the Same - am in hopes of going home together - I Received a letter from the Honble Commissioners at Paris, informing of the Terms of our being Admitted to depart, as they wrote you, think it Needless to give you the Particulars, We are to go directly to America & Not to Return into any French Port again or make any Prizes on this Coast, these are the Principal heads, & Shall refer you to them for Particulars - It Appears to be thier intention, that we should Proceed Home together, but Cannot tell Where to Join or what Port we Shall be sent to as yet - I am all Ready to Sail, only wait the Arrival of thier orders from Parris - If you have any More News of Capt [William] Day Please let me Know or any other News you have from Brest - In Mine of the first instant Mentioned my Acquaintance with Capt [John] Green, who is an intimate Acquaintance of Mine, as we Commanded Ships in the Same employ out of Philadelphia - he is a Very hearty friend to America & a Very good Companion - If it is in your Power to do him any Service, Shall be Much Oblidged and will Render every acknowledgment in my Power at all times.

I have Wrote Several letters to Mr [Thomas] Morris respecting the Setling & paying our Prize Money but he has not So much as Answered one of my letters, As to the Money you got for the Sloop² I think you had best Apply it to your Own Use as you think Proper, as it is So triffling it is Not Worth dividing - I think we had best Appoint Mr Williams to Settle the Whole for the last Cruize, as Part of it is in his hands already & May Perhaps in time get the Remainder - Capt Nicholson sends you a list of his People, which I think you had best send to Mr Williams, wth Mine &

Yours, and an Acct of the Amount of the Sloop you Sold and let him Settle the Whole, I would do it but have lost the list you Sent me from Morlaix of your Officers & Men – I Remain, Sir [&c.]

GABRIEL DE SARTINE TO ADMIRAL LOUIS CHARLES DUCHAFFAULT ¹

[Extract]

Versailles 6th Sepr 1777

. . . The King commands me to order you to see very precisely to the complete execution of the orders relating to Privateers which were contained in His Majesty's Letter dated 28th February. You will request Captains of Ships which you will detach on cruises to watch with the greatest attention so that no Privateer of any Nation whatever will take up Station off the Coasts of France, and to stop those that they should find established there after the first warning to withdraw. You will order them to make the said Privateers leave our Ports, Roads and Rivers, that is those which will have entered therein; to not allow that they stay any longer than is absolutely necessary to procure aid for Subsistence which they might have need of, which ought to be limited to a period of 24 hours; and to inform them that they should not return again, if they do not want to be seized and detained. You will direct the Captains likewise not to allow the said Privateers to bring prizes into our Ports, and to make them leave with their prizes. The King's intention is that if the Captains of His Ships should find in one of His Ports a Privateer to whom they have already given a warning to retire, they will seize her and Turn her over to the Officers of the Admiralty in order to be held in detention there until they have received His Majesty's orders.

You will order the Captains to punctually inspect foreign Vessels which they will fall in with in the Ports, and they will take off all the French Seamen that might be found thereon.

As soon as you have received this Letter you will detach a frigate from your Squadron to take up Station at the entrance to the River to Bordeaux where she can anchor if the Captain judges that he is within range to maintain order and to watch the movements of Privateers. You will give him the Instructions contained in this Letter regarding Privateers, Prizes and the Inspection of foreign Vessels to take off French Seamen and you will prescribe the very greatest Vigilance. He may leave that Station when you give him the order, and turn over those instructions which have been addressed to you on this Subject.

I see that I mentioned to M. [Louis Cavelier] de Cuverville Commander of l'Inconstante that the King's intention is that while waiting for the Transports to be ready to set sail, he watch the movements of Privateers and execute the King's orders in this regard. You will write this Commander by the frigate which you will detach to let him know that she is ordered to take his place on this Station.

I see from one of your Letters that you have been saluted with 13 Guns by the Privateer the Captain Mifflin [General Mifflin], to which you had returned 3. This Salute was polite and can not lead to any consequence: but you know that since the King does not recognize the Independence of the Americans, their flag may not be looked upon as belonging to a Nation and that a Salute must not be rendered to a Flag which is not recognized.

The King has seen the account which had been addressed to me by M. [Jean-Baptiste] de Breuil de Rays of the encounters he had at sea with the Privateers the Captain Mifflin and the Saxon, and His Britannic Majesty's brigantines the Hawke and the Union:² His Majesty approved the conduct of this Officer in every respect. . . .

"EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM BILBOA, SEPT. 7." ¹

Several English vessels have been brought in here as prizes to the American privateers within these last six weeks, before which time we had not seen any American vessels for some months; we suppose, the ports of France being shut, they have brought such of their prizes as they do not think worth sending home into our harbours. About ten days ago a vessel belonging to Scotland, and another to Ireland, were brought in here by an American privateer, the masters of which, as soon as they came on shore, applied to their Consul, and a memorial was sent up to the English Ambassador at Madrid, the effect of which we have not as yet learnt. We have just now heard that a prize is carried into St. Sebastian's by an American privateer.

AMERICAN COMMISSIONERS IN FRANCE TO THE COMMITTEE FOR FOREIGN AFFAIRS ¹

[Extract]

(Duplicate)

Passy, near Paris Sept. 8 1777.

. . . This Court continues the same Conduct that it has held ever since our arrival. It professes to England a Resolution to observe all Treaties, and proves it by restoring Prizes too openly brought into their Ports, imprisoning such Persons as are found to be concerned in fitting out armed Vessels against England from France, warning frequently those from America to depart, and repeating Orders against the Exportation of War-like Stores. To us it privately professes a real Friendship, wishes success to our Cause, winks at the Supplies we obtain here as much as it can without giving open grounds of Complaint to England, privately affords us very essential Aids; and goes on preparing for War. How long these two Parts will continue to be acted at the same time, and which will finally predominate, may be a Question. As it is the true Interest of France to prevent our being re-annexed to Britain, that so the British Power may be diminished and the French Commerce augmented, we are enclined to believe the Sincerity is towards us; more especially as the universal Bent of the Nation is manifestly in our Favour. There not having yet commenc'd a War, is accounted for by various Reasons: the Treaties subsisting among the Powers of Europe, by which they are obliged to aid those attacked more than those attacking, which it is supposed will make some Difference; the not being fully prepar'd; the Absence of their Seamen in the Fishery and West Indies, and the Treasure expected from New-Spain, with the Sugars from the Islands; have all, it is said, hitherto contributed to restrain the National Desire of a Breach with England, in which her troublesome Power may be reduced, the Wealth and Strength of France increased, and some Satisfaction obtained for the Injuries received in the unfair Commencement of the last War. England is extremely exasperated at the Sight of her lost Commerce enjoyed by France, the Favour our armed Vessels have met with here, and the Distress of their remaining Trade by our Cruizers even on their own Coasts; and yet she seems afraid of beginning a War with this Country & Spain together while she has our War upon her Hands. In such a Situation some Accident may probably bring on a War sooner than desired by either Party. In the mean time, perhaps the Delay may have this good Effect for us, that enjoying the whole Harvest of Plunder upon the British Commerce; which otherwise France and Spain would divide with us, our infant naval Power finds such plentiful Nourishment, as has increased and must increase its Growth & Strength most marvelously. —

It gave us great Joy to hear of the Arrival of the Mercury, Amphitrite, and other Vessels carrying Supplies. Another Ship with a similar Cargo which had long been detained at Marsailles we hope will soon arrive with you. We hope also that you will receive between 20 & 30 thousand Suits of Cloathes before Winter, and from time to time Quantities of new and good Arms which we are purchasing in different Parts of Europe. But we must desire you to remember that we are hitherto disappointed in your Promises of Remittance either by the Difficulties you find in Shipping or by Captures, and that tho' far short of compleating your Orders we are in Danger of being greatly embarrass'd by Debts, of failing in performance of our Contracts, and losing our Credit with that of the Congress. . . .

As the English Goods cannot in foreign Markets face those of the French or Dutch, loaded as they are with the high Insurance from which their Competitors are exempted; it is certain the Trade of Britain must diminish while she is at War with us, & the rest of Europe in Peace. To evade this Mischief, she now begins to make Use of French Bottoms: But as we have yet no Treaty with France or any other Power that gives to Free Ships the Privilege of making free Goods, we may weaken that Project by taking the Goods of our Enemy wherever we find them paying the Freight. And it is imagined that the Captains of the Vessels so freighted may by a little Encouragement be prevail'd on to facilitate the necessary Discovery.

Spain not having yet resolved to receive a Minister from the Congress, Mr Franklin still remains here. She has however afforded the Aids we formerly Mentioned; and Supplies of various Articles have continued 'till lately to be sent consigned to Mr Gerry, much of which we hear have safely arrived. We shall use our best Endeavours to obtain a Continuance and Encrease of those Aids. . . .

. . . I have received Accounts from some of the Ports, of the Orders which have been issued with regard to American Ships, being received there; and apprehending that the enclosed Copy of them is authentic, I remit it, together with it's Translation to your Lordship. G: Cunningham with his Privateer the Revenge has been at Ferrol, and at the Coruna, and the last prize which he had taken called the Black Prince. Thomas Evans Master, of Plymouth, likewise came into Ferrol, upon which both were immediately ordered out of that Port; but Cunningham had remained there for some days. I have communicated this Circumstance to M. Florida blanca, as I shall every other event of the like Nature, in order that the Measures taken, may not be eluded, & that they may be as extensive as possible. . . .

[Enclosure]

Translation

Advices received from France and England give reason to suspect that certain Captains of American Privateers purpose to make an ill use of the King's Ports, by entering into them with prizes, with a view to dispose of them by Sale. As the System adopted & constantly pursued by His Majesty with respect to the said Americans, has been that of a perfect Neutrality, without countenancing any abuses or Disorders inconsistent with it, as is manifest from the orders dispatched upon these Affairs from the beginning; I now communicate to you the Advices above mentioned in order that in the Ports under your Jurisdiction, you may prevent these Excesses & others of a Similar Nature, such as the Entry of those Privateers or their Stay without legitimate Cause in order to watch the Opportunity of taking Prizes. Nevertheless this Order is not intended to introduce any Novelty as to the Admission of such American Vessels as come to carry on a legal Commerce, or may be driven by Weather or for want of Necessaries to seek a Port. But immediately upon their being repaired or assisted, it shall be intimated to such as are Ships of War or Privateers that they quit the Port without delay, nor shall they be permitted to sell their Prizes. Observing at the same time that what I have said with regard to the treatment of American Privateers, is to be understood of all others whatever, in order that nobody may make an ill Use of the Territory of Spain.

ARTHUR LEE TO ROBERT MORRIS, CHAIRMAN OF THE SECRET COMMITTEE¹

Sir -

Paris Sepr 9th 1777.

I have not heard from Berlin relative to their determination about opening their ports to our Cruisers.

The Abbé Raynal, who has just returned from a tour in England, tells me that nothing disgusts the English Nation so much with the continuance of the war, as the seeing their ports filled with french Ships to carry on their Commerce with other Nations. Their Merchants are obligd to have recourse to this expedient to screene their merchandize. I say screene, because they cannot expect, that according to the Law of Nations, it will be a protection when discovered. They have been driven to this necessity by the number & success of our Cruisers in & about the channel; which has raised Insurance so high, that their Manufactures are in danger of being augmented thereby in their Price too much for the European Markets.

I thought it would be useful to inform you of these facts to show the utility of continuing & encouraging Cruisers in these Seas, as they may perhaps be so discouragd by the late measures in this Country, which I trust will not be of long continuance, as to confine their Course to the american Seas. I have the honor &c.

The Dispatches sent you you will keep in readiness to be sunk in Case of Danger and on your safe arrival instantly forward them to the Congress. it gives us pain that you are obliged to return without an opportunity of more effectually annoying our Enemy & advancing your own Fortune. at the same time we shall with pleasure acquaint the Congress that your Conduct has been such as merits our approbation and we doubt not that they will take Notice of our representations on the Subject, by giving you a more favorable opportunity of distinguishing yourself in the service of your Country. With respect to your Affairs at Morlaix it was never our intention that you shd apply to any other than the house of M Cornic & Co with whose reputation we are well Satisfied, nor was Mr Deanes Letter other than Merely accepting Mr Days [David's] proposals of Correspondence generally and without any intention of Putting any Affairs particularly under his direction. We are wishing you a Prosperous Voyage, with due respect Sir [&c.]

SAFE CONDUCT PASS FOR SHIP *Harriott*¹

To the Commanders of Ships of War or other armed Vessells belonging to the United States of North America, or to any of the Subjects of sd States,

This Certifies, that the Ship Harriott, Isaac All at present Commander or whoever may Command her for the time being is owned by Matthew Mease Esqr of Philadelphia, and having been detained in England since the commencement of the War, has obtained Clearance from thence, as if English property, but in reality, with the sole purpose of carrying a Cargo of Salt and other Goods – not the manufactory of Great Britain, or Ireland, to some of the united States, which by means of said papers may be effected with little risque –

It is therefore requested of the said Commanders, that they permit the said Ship, to pass for the purpose, and on the Voyage aforsd without detention, and that they would Afford her any assistance or protection she may be in want of, in the same way and manner as is usual to other Vessells of their Countrymen –

DEPOSITION OF WILLIAM MARSHALL, MASTER OF THE SLOOP *Wolf*¹

Copy/

At Port Glasgow the Seventeenth day of September, One Thousand Seven Hundred and Seventy seven Years,

In the Presence of Mr John Martine, Judge Admiral Substitute at Port Glasgow, Compeared Wm Marshall late Commannr of the Sloop Wolf of that Place, And voluntarily made Oath. That upon the Twentyth of June last he sail'd with the said Sloop from the Island of Jamaica loaded with Rum & Sugar along with the Fleet bound for Great Britain under Convoy of His Maj's Ships Lively & Kent. That the Deponant kept Company with the Fleet until the Seventh of August when he was taken in latitude 49. 30 Longitude 11 By two American Privatiers, one called the General Mercer, James Babson, The other the Fanny, John Kendrick Master, Each mounting Fourteen Carriage Guns besides Swivels: That these two Privatiers were seen dogging the Fleet for four Weeks before he was taken and afterwards they Acknowledged they had done so. That the day after the Sloop Wolf was taken, the Two American Privatiers also took the Ships C[l]arendon and Hanover Planter both of London.² At the time of their being taken they Could discover from the Main Top, fifty sail of the Fleet. That about four hours after the Wolf was taken every paper belonging to her Together with the Crew were taken out and carried on board the Mercer and the Sloop Manned by American Sailors with Instructions to carry her to Boston. Immediately after the London Ships were taken the Privatiers discontinued following the Fleet and made the best of their way with these two Prizes for Nantz in France w[h]ere they arrived on the 17th of August last.

And further maketh Oath That when he arrived in the Mercer in the River Nantz there were three American Vessels lying there, One of which he was informed was loaded with Tobacco – That the same Night on which they arrived, a Broker came on board and informed Captain Babson of the Mercer that no armed Vessels belonging to America were allowed to come there, And that he behoved to take care what he was about, upon which the Privatiers hauled in their Guns, unshipped their Swivels, and shut their Ports that they might have the appearance of Merchant Ships, And the names of the two London Ships, which were Painted on their Sterns were altered the same Night, One to the Hancock and the other to the Boston. The Cargoes of both which Ships were afterwards taken out and sold as American Property. That from the time he was taken to the Second of September Instant, he was close confined with his whole Crew on board the Mercer and not allowed the Liberty of Pen, Ink or Paper. That he was put on board a Dutch Vessel bound for Ostend and procured his Passage to Clyde where he arrived last night. That at the time he left Nantz the Privatiers were taking in large Quantities of Gun Powder. And this Deponant was credibly informed there were several Vessels building at Nantz for the Americans. And he knows that one Vessel of Sixteen Guns sailed the same day he arrived at Nantz under French Colours and mostly navigated by Americans. That there was another Vessel mostly clear to sail for South Carolina Commanded by one John Hatter, mounting between twenty and Thirty guns, the Crew of which consisted of French & Americans, All which he declares to be [the] Truth as he shall Answer to God.

Paris Sept 17th 1777

. . . The Rebel Agents Have not relinquished the project of sending Arms & naval stores from Nantz, & whatever professions may be made us, they will always be secretly favored by France in every project of that kind – Our only security against the success of such undertakings is in the vigilance of our Cruizers, who cannot pay too much attention to the Coast of Brittany – The Rebels likewise expect that their ships from Marseilles will sail soon, but these cannot I think escape us if they are properly watched as they attempt to pass the Streights – The repeated intimation I have given to M: de Vergennes of this project, & the secret knowledge we have of the Captain's names are surely Circumstances sufficient to justify the Capture & authorize us to consider these as American Vessels to all intents & purposes, to which consequently the French Flag can give no protection – A Frenchman who lives at Bourdeaux, whose name is La Farque, & who is protected by the Marquis de Poyanne, has had twelve Congress commissions from Franklin, he has actually fitted out several Privateers & is fitting out more – Monsr Foucault a considerable Merchant at Leghorn has a share in this Enterprise & La Rochette a French Spy well known in London is likewise concerned in it. Those Ships are fitted out from Blay near Bourdeaux & from Quimper, Quimperley, Audierne, & Conquerneau – small Ports in Brittany; these small Ports are purposely chosen, the better to escape our Attention. Your Excellency

I have the honor to report to you on the return of the corvette la Silphide, commanded by M. de Rensanne [Le Breton de Ransanne], which I sent on the lookout off Ouessant [Ushant] 10 days ago. You will find attached the particulars on the various Vessels she saw on her cruise, during which she found several English frigate-built Ships cruising off Ouessant very close in shore. Don't you think, Your Excellency, that I ought to put a stop to corvettes, frigates or Ships of the line cruising off Ouessant? It seems to me by their diligence that they wish to find out what is happening here, and perhaps to stop the fleet when it leaves. It is most humiliating to see the enemy at the door every day. Give me your orders and they will be promptly executed. . . .

"EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM BILBOA, SEPT. 17." ¹

The Anglo-American cruizer, the Oliver Cromwell, commanded by capt. Wm. Coles, and mounting 16 guns, arrived here about a month ago. He had sent in, but a few days before, a prize loaded with raisins; and, not long afterwards, another loaded with butter. These two vessels were not the only ones he had taken. During a cruize of only 28 days he had captured eight more, including a Danish and a French brigantine, called the Town of Bayonne, from the port of Rouen, master's name Peter Regnier, whom he had the rashness to take, notwithstanding the neutrality of their colours, and the respect which he owed them. The French brigantine was from a port in the West of England, entirely laden with bale goods upon freight, bound for Genoa and Leghorn. This cruizer, or rather pirate, Wm. Coles, after having taken the vessel, sent it to Boston, taking first out all the crew, except the master and two sailors: ² meeting afterwards with a French ship going from St. Malo to Cadiz, he put on board of her the crew of his capture.

. . . P. S. The renewal of the order from Mr De Sartine was occasion'd by two West India Merchant prizes² bro't in here by Capts [James] Babson & [John] Kendrick Commanders of two Privateers belonging to Messrs Babcock & Blair in Boston & Winthrop Sergeant & Co at Cape Anne. These prizes and their Cargoes have been seized & are now detained by Government here after the greatest part was sold. The Capts were offered £16000 Sterg for the two and the Buyers to take all risks – this they refused, saying they wd rather burn them than take that price. – Afterwards they put them under the care of myself and Mr Jonathan Williams, a Bostonian and Nephew of Dr Franklin, to sell – But their own conduct was such that it occasion'd their seizure wch I not only foresaw but foretold to many here, therefore avoided recvg any part of the Goods or Money to steer as clear as possible of Blame. The whole negotiation was left to Mr W. the Capts Countryman I only advising every particle of which the Capts thought fit to disregard & now they blame every body but themselves, however it is a happiness that many here can witness to the probity of my conduct, particularly Mr Wm Blake a Gentleman of one of the first fortunes and families in So Carolina.

No 22

My Lord

St James's 19th Sepr 1777.

The Letters from Your Excellency to No 48. have been received, and laid before The King.

The strict Orders, which M: de Florida Blanca assured Your Excellency would be sent to the several Ports in Spain to prevent the sale of the Captures made by the American Privateers, had not by the last accounts reached Bilbao, or were eluded by the connivance of the Officers of that Port. Information has been received here that the General Mercer and the Fanny Privateers were to go from Nantes to Bilbao to careen. Your Excellency will take proper steps to ascertain the fact, and in case these Vessels should be admitted to refit, You will state the circumstances to M: de Florida Blanca, & represent to him how contrary such practices are to the professions of His Catholick Majesty. It would be extremely proper that Your Excellency should endeavour to gain accurate information from Bilbao of what is doing at that Port, and of the various practices of the Agents of the Rebels to evade the Orders of the Court, in order to make representations thereon. This is an object so material and important that I must recommend it very particularly to Your attention. . . .

P. S. I have just learned that the Revenge Privateer, Cunningham Master, is arrived at Ferrol; and, to my great astonishment, is allowed to refit, and take in provisions. I expect to hear from Your Excy the reason of this change of sentiments in the Court of Spain. -

I have the honor to report to you that M. de Grasse sent me the lugger le Coureur, M. de Martinet, to inform me of the report he is sending you of the encounter that he had with a brigantine belonging to the King of England which was cruising along our coasts. This is the third time that my Ships have discovered her and she has always promised to put out to sea. I even suspect that it is she who entered the river at Bordeaux in which she took prizes at the point where the trade is heavy. Give me orders on this matter if they meet with her another time. Corunna 20th Sept 1777.

I most humbly beg leave to refer to my last of the 3d Instant.

Notwithstanding the Orders that have been given respecting the Reception and Treatment of American Privateers and their Prizes in the Ports of this Kingdom, Cunningham is still permitted to remain in Ferrol, and has found Means to dispose of his Prize the Black Prince to Arnaud Faular Master of a French Brig called the Postillon de Bayonne, who has sent her to France.² I have provided the Prisoners whom Cunningham has set at Liberty, with a Passage to Oporto, where they will find Opportunities to return home. I am sorry to see the uncommon Favor shown this Man, and the great Facility with which the aforesaid Orders are eluded. I am equally concerned to hear that in Bilboa where there are four Privateers and eleven Prizes, they are permitted to enter, remain, and fit out with as much Liberty as ever. I have the Honor to be with the most profound Respect and Veneration, My Lord [&c.]

That your Petitioner is an Englishman and was one year in his Majestys Service in Virginia under the Earl of Dunmore, and that he was one of the Crew, belonging to a Vessell sent from Norfolk in that Colony to the Island Bermuda by order of the said Earl of Dunmore, and on his return was taken by an American Privateer calld the *Lexington*² belonging to Philadelphia at which place he was set on Shore and from several obligations, he could find no other mode of subsisting honestly unless that of entring into the service of the United states of America, which he was compell'd to do totally against his inclination, That Your Petitioner always entertain'd hopes of quitting the American service, but never had an opportunity for effecting that purpose, & that he was taken on board a Prize taken by the Lexington which was carried by the Men belonging to the Vessell into Falmouth.³ – Your Petitioner is now a prisoner at Mill Prison near Plymouth, he is sorry he ever acted against the Interest of Great Britain, and Humbly hopes he may be plac'd on board one of his Majestys Ships of War. LORD GRANTHAM TO LORD WEYMOUTH¹

[Extract]

No 53.

My Lord,

Madrid 22d Septemr 1777.

I have received the Honour of your Lordship's No 21. and have communicated to M. Florida blanca the Sentiments which I was instructed to convey, and this I did in the most particular and ample Manner that I could; And I am to acquaint your Lordship, that he received them with Expressions strongly professing the Desire of this Court to preserve the publick Tranquility. I was obliged however, at the same Time to repeat and to lay before him the Intelligence which I had received from Ferrol, (and communicated to him on the same Day by the enclosed Note,) of the Stay which Gustavus Cunningham and his last Prize continued to make in that Port; and I pointed out to him, that their Wants, or pretended Necessities had been liberally supplied, and that I had reason to suspect, that a collusive Sale of the Prize might take place. – I stated to him very clearly, that no Proceeding whatever could be so contrary to the Promises I had received, and that it gave me the greatest Concern on the moment I expected to see them performed to find myself obliged to complain of their not being executed. – In reply to this complaint he shewed me, that the Orders, which, upon my first complaint on this Subject had been repeated, had not yet reached Ferrol, and assured me, that those Orders were accompanied with a severe reprimand to the Commandant of that Port; and he immediately directed an Enquiry to be made into the Supply given to G. Cunningham which, according to my Information, had been furnished out of The Catholick King's Stores, and promised that he would seriously and effectually enforce The King of Spain's Intentions in the Orders that had been issued, and that they should be strictly obeyed in all the Ports, even in those of Biscay, which are not under the same Controul. I have furnished him with all the Information which I can collect of Ships, which have been fitted out there, and told him, that I could not but make an essential Difference between such Prizes as may have been sold before the Prohibition was issued, and such whose Sale might be connived at, or allowed afterwards, of which however, I do not yet know any Instance. With regard to the Cargoes of the brig Princess Masserano, & of the Juno, mentioned to me in your Lordship's No 20, and in a Letter from Mr [Anthony] Chamier of the 2d Inst, I see no hopes of Success in application for them, or their Value, unless I could ascertain that they were sold since the Orders were published, in which case, I apprehend there would be a better Ground for claiming them, as this Court would then be more answerable for them. M. Florida blanca however assured me, that in such Cases the Tribunals of the Admiralty Courts here, with Appeal to the Council of War, would be open; But it still remains to know what would be their Decision.

I am under some difficulty for true Intelligence from Bilbao, which place has been the seat of most American Transactions in this Country, the Trading People of that Port being doubtless in that Interest. . .

[Extract]

Paris 23d Sepr 1777.

. . . Thos Morris – who I informed before was an Agent for the Congress at Nantes & the person appointed by them to do all their Shipping business &c – has led such a dissipated life for some months past, that Doctor Franklin and Mr Deane thought it prudent to appoint another person in his place (say Jonathan Williams a Nephew of Doctr Franklins) – In Consequence of Morris’s behaviour Deane & Franklin, wrote to the Congress (and not to his Brother, who put him under their protection) Complaining of the same and desiring he might be removed – As he was a detriment to their Cause, and disgrace to America in General – As soon as this News got to America, his Brother Robt Morris, apply’d to the Congress – and told them he would be happy to know if the business transacted by his Brother here, did not meet their approbation they reply’d in the Affirmative, and voted that the said Morris Should be continued in his Office, and further, they do not censure the Conduct of Deane and Franklin a little, they say he Stands too much on trifles – Morris gives out that Deane is to be recalled – which he asserts he has on Black and white – The letter from his Brother to Deane & Franklin, I have seen – Morris of Phia therein informs them, that they might have wrote to him and not to the Congress Complaining of his Brothers behaviour – and Concludes after many severe reprimands – “that ’tis not all the Commissioners in France that are able to Remove his Brother from his Present

Office, in Spite of all the Nephew or Relations they may have – or wish to provide for. . .

Weakes and Johnson, together with the other American Privateers was ordered out some time since by this Court, – the former of which sailed since my Illness with dispatches to the Congress – but the latter remains still at Morlaix – and a Capt Day at L'Orient in a Sixteen Gun Ship (private property)² the latter is affraid to go out, as he is sure of being taken if he should attempt the same, owing to the Vigilencé kept by your Ships of War in those Seas – The prizes that were brought into Nantes some time since will be delivered up or forfeited to the King of France –

A Brother of Deane's arrived here last Week from America by the way of Havre his business is to go out in a Sutable Season with a Cargo for America – by the same route that he came, (say by french West Indies) I hope I Shall be able to give you sufficient notice before he sails –

The Vessell that Hynson was to have gone out in, has been stop'd by an order from this Court, and final Stop put to that business – Carmichael informs me that the French will listen to nothing since the loss of Ticonderoga – it was a place well known to them, and which they say cost the English some thousands of men last war, by a hand full of Frenchmen – Indeed within my knowledge it has hurt them exceedingly – they declare the Yankeys will not fight. . .

The Vessell that come from America are entered in those ports as if from St Eustatia &c which has often deceived the most Vigilent Eye. . .

Nicholson has got back to Nantes again to overlook and give direction for his Ship building there, which I mentiond before, – I hope you'll put stop to same as she will be a Vessell of considerable force The Vessell which Nicholson had before, lays at St Malo, she is small and Just fitted for the purpose they intend her, (say to Carry over dispatches to the Congress) – She will sail some time next month, and is commanded by a Capt Brown, 'twould be a grand Stroke to take her, which may be done Very easially, as the Capt is a poor indelent Yankey. . . .

I have the pleasure to acquaint you of my Arrival here, Having mett with the Lexington Brig, Armed by the American Congress with Sixteen four Pounders Twelve Swivels and Eighty four Men, commanded by Henry Johnston (late Master of the Yankee Privateer, who made his Escape from the Mars at Blackstakes September 1776) which, I took the 19th instant WBS 14 leagues from Ushant, two days out from Morlaix, bound to Boston with Dispatches for the Congress, which was thrown overboard.

I gave chace at five in the Morning, and came up with him at half past Seven, had a Close Engagement till Ten, when He bore up and made Sail, as soon as I got my Rigging to rights, again gave Chace and came up with him, at half past one, renewed the Action till half past two, when he Struck. I have been so fortunate as to have had only two Men Killed and three Wounded, one of which is since Dead, with my Mast, Rigging and Sails much Cutt and Damaged.

The loss on the Rebels side, are seven men Killed, and eleven Wounded, in the former are Master and Lieutenant of Marines, in the Latter first Lieutenant and Gunner with her rigging Mast and Sails, much Damaged.

It blowing strong Easterly the Night of the 20th with a large swell and thick Weather, I parted company, but am in Expectation of her Arrival in this Port every Hour.

I am to beg you will acquaint their Lordships with the very Gallant behaviour of my Officers and people on this Occasion, I am Sir [&c.]

This Morning arriv'd off the Harbour the Lexington Privateer, taken by Captain John Bazely, off the Lizard, in Lat. 27. There being but little Wind, Capt. Bazely, in the Alert, row'd up with the Privateer, who, thinking him an easy Prey, fired a Broadside into him, and ordered him to strike. Bazely answered he would, but was not near enough. He then received his second Broadside, and being then near to each other, a very hot Engagement continued between three and four Hours; at length the Privateer struck to the superior Valour of the Dover Boys. The Privateer is gone into the Downs to put her Wounded into the Hospital at Deal, several of whom stand in need of Amputation of Arms or Legs; Tomorrow she comes into this Harbour to be repaired before she can proceed to the River. The Lieutenant of the Privateer lost one of his Hands. By the Copy of a Letter found in the Captain's Chest, the Lexington appears to be one of the three which did the Mischief in the Irish Seas; he directs his Agent in France to dispose of the 14 Prizes for the joint Benefit of the three Privateers. The Midshipman who now commands the Prize is a Nephew of General Schuyler, and entered with Bazely about six Weeks ago. The Alert stood for Plymouth to repair, having sustained some Damage in the Engagement. The Lexington had been but three Days out of St. Maloes, and was chiefly manned with Scotch and Irish.

Sir

Please to acquaint the Right Honble the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty, that this morning came in here the Lexington an American Brig Privateer, fitted out by the Congress, of Sixteen Carriage Guns, Twelve Swivels and Ninety four Men, Commanded by Henry Johnson, last from Morlaix. She was taken the 19th Instant, by His Majestys Cutter the Alert carrying ten Carg Guns of 4 prs and 60 Men, Commanded by Lieutenant Beazley, about Thirty Leagues to the westward of Ushant, after a gallant and well disputed Action of several hours, in which the Brig suffered greatly, having lost her mainmast, and been otherwise so disabled that Mr Peter Bruff, the Petty Officer who Commands her, thinks it necessary to go into Dover Pier to refit, before She can proceed for the River.

There were several Men, killed and wounded on both sides, but Mr Bruff cannot ascertain the number on either, being sent on board to take charge of the prize, immediately after the Action, and parting from the Alert the night following, in bad weather.

Mr Bruff further acquaints me, that on the Morning of the 21st Inst off the Start he exchanged some Shott with an American Schooner Privateer, of Eight Carriage Guns, to which he gave Chace, but the Lexington being disabled, could not come up with her.

I have directed Five wounded Prisoners on board the Lexington, as it is thought necessary they should all undergo an Amputation, to be sent to the Hospital at Deal. I am Sir [&c.]

The information We have received confirming the account that Cunningham's Vessel has been allowed to receive every assistance in Ferrol which he stood in need of obliges Me again to recommend this important matter to Your attention, not doubting that You will very earnestly represent to M: de Florida Blanca how inconsistent such a practice is with the professions so frequently made to Your Excellency. This circumstance is the more important, as at present the French Court has most positively engaged to prevent the Rebel Privateers from refitting in their Ports, or receiving any further assistance than humanity requires.

It is also stated that several of The King's Subjects are forcibly detained on board of Cunningham's Vessel, and that such detention is supported by His Catholick Majesty's Officers; I am to recommend to Your Excellency to press M: de Florida Blanca to give precise orders that such British Subjects as are actually on board may be permitted, if they desire it, to quit this Vessel. My Lord,

Admty Office 27 Sept 1777

We have received your Lordship's Letter of the 23d Instant enclosing a Copy of a Paper delivered to your Lordship by the Marquis de Noailles, containing several Complaints of the proceedings of some of our Armed Ships on the Coast of France in the neighbourhood of Bordeaux, and desiring that enquiries may be made into the Circumstances of the Facts, that you may be enabled to send a proper Answer to the French Ambassador: In return We may venture to assure your Lordship that none of the Vessels complained of are Ships belonging to His Majesty; that on the contrary there is great reason to believe they were some of the piratical Vessels fitted out by His Majestys Rebellious Subjects in America, but that unless your Lordship can furnish us with the Names or a more minute & circumstantial description of those Vessels, it will be impossible for Us to cause those enquiries to be made which your Lordship has desired.² We are My Lord [&c.]

PHILIP STEPHENS TO VICE ADMIRAL RICHARD LORD HOWE ¹

[Extract]

My Lord,

[Admiralty Office] 27th Sepr 1777

I have the honor to send your Lordship herewith Duplicates of my two Letters of the 20th and of two others of the 23d of last month.

In one of those of the last mentioned Dates, I acknowledged the Receipt of your several Letters, of the 18th & 29th June, 3d 5th & 9th July number'd 32 to 36 inclusive; And having since received the directions of my Lords Commrs of the Admty upon the subject matter thereof, I avail myself of the opportunity afforded by the Maidstone to communicate them to you.

Their Lordships have transmitted to Lord George Germain a Copy of the Circular sent by yourself and Sir Willm Howe to the Governors of the several Islands in the West Indies, to restrain the granting Licences to Vessels, to navigate in the American Seas, by which His Majs Rebellious Subjects have been enabled to obtain supplies of many Articles of Subsistence, which, without those Licences, they could not have received, and have desir'd his Lordship to lay the same before His Majs, that such directions may be given thereon, as His Majs shall think fit.

I have by their Lordships directions inform'd the Navy Board of what Captain Onslow has represented, respecting the Misconduct of the Masters of the Transports who sail'd under his Convoy, that such Notice may be taken thereof, before they Pay for the hire of those Ships, as may deter other Masters from being guilty of like Practises.

Their Lordships are pleased to approve of your having order'd the Cabot Brig to be purchas'd of the Captors, to supply the place of the Diligent Armed Brig, which had been lost in the Bay of Fundy; and of your Lordships appointment of Lieut Dod to command her; And they have given the necessary Orders to the Navy Board, respecting her being paid for, and for the Establishment of her Complement agreeable to the Papers You have transmitted on these two heads. . . .

With respect to the Court Martial, held to enquire into the loss of the Tryal Armed Schooner; ² My Lords direct me to acquaint your Lordship, that it seems to have been the general practice in Trials of that kind for the Court to examine upon Oath such of the Officers or Crews of Ships in that predicament, as it has been judged proper to call upon to give Evidence touching the loss of such Ships or the Conduct of the Officers and Company upon the Occasion; And that as Lieut [John] Brown and Mr [Leonard] Mosey the Master of the Schooner abovementioned were dismissed from His Majs Service by Sentence of the Court Martial, their Lordships do not conceive themselves to be authorized to restore them to the rank they held without the Sanction of His Majesty's Order in council:

My Lords are given to understand that a Memorial either has been, or is to be presented to His Majs on behalf of Lieutenant Brown, and I am authorized to say that the favorable representation your Lordship has made of Mr Brown's Services, will when the Memorial comes in reference, weigh greatly with them, in making such a Report thereupon as they flatter themselves may induce His Majesty to restore not only him but Mr Mosey also to their former Rank.

My Lords are of Opinion with your Lordship that it will be necessary upon the removal of Sir Peter Parker, to have the same Number of Commanders of Divisions continued; and therefore approve of your giving an Order to Captain Griffith to wear a distinguishing Pendant, for which they will direct the Navy Board to cause him to be paid the usual Extra Allowance of Ten Shillings a Day, but they cannot consent to his having an equal Establishment with Mr Hotham, as from the Number of Captains now in commission Senior to Captain Griffiths, many Inconveniencies must arise if it should be found expedient to send any more Ships of the Line to reinforce your Lordship. . . .

JOURNAL OF CHARLES HERBERT¹

[Mill Prison, Plymouth]

[1777. September] 27. Ten more of Captain Johnston's men came to prison to-day. They inform us that they were taken by a ten gun cutter after almost four hours' engagement, and having expended all their shot; they were so disabled by having their shrouds, stays, and braces shot away, and so nearly wrecked, that they were obliged to strike to their inferiors. They had six men killed and a number wounded; their first lieutenant had an arm shot off, and after they were taken they were not stripped as our company had been, but were allowed all their clothes; and Captain Johnston was allowed even to wear his hanger, which he brought to prison with him, and delivered to the agent. He had considerable money with him, which the agent took, and he is to have it in small quantities as he wants it, for immediate use.

VERGENNES TO THE MARQUIS DE NOAILLES¹

[Extract]

No 47.

at Versailles 27th September 1777.

... Lord Weymouth has given you a valuable admission, M., by assuring you that merchant ships furnished with Letters of Marque, have the other option only to defend themselves and to afford themselves security against attacks by American Privateers. Unfortunately this admission is belied by the facts, that several of our vessels have been taken by these particular privateers, and they come here boldly to annoy the American trade in our rivers. But we are going to put things aright, and hope to bring these privateers to the necessity, at least in our waters, of adhering strictly to the terms of their letters.

... Lord Weymouth was in error, M., to reproach you that the American ships the Lexington and the Dolphin are still in our ports; in fact these two ships have set sail for America; you can tell this to the English minister if he speaks to you about this again.

... I see, M., that you speak of up to 38 as the number of American Vessels taken in the lower part of the Bordeaux River from the 22nd to the 30th of August; I presume that it is a mistake by the copyist, for I find only 18 vessels indicated in the paper which was enclosed in my letter No. 45 of the 6th of this month...

SIR JOHN HORT TO LORD WEYMOUTH¹

No 11.

My Lord

Lisbon sundy 28 September 1777

I have not had the honour of writing to your Lordship since the 10th past.

Since the departure of the last packet, various depredations have been committed near this coast, by the American privateer Civil Usage, Andrew Gidding master. On the 10th instant she took the Brig Beckford, Samuel Pashley master; but finding her in ballast, dismissed her, after plundering her stores, books & mathematical instruments. On the same day, within 10 leagues of Oporto, the same vessel took the merchant ship Dover, John Walsby master. The Civil Usage had already taken six prizes; of which one was a Frenchman; The La Fortune, Bertrand Canger master; bound from London for Cadis, with bale goods.²

This last capture is attended with a circumstance of apparent treachery, which seems worthy of the consideration, both of those of his majesty's subjects, who, on the faith of presumed neutrality, entrust their property in French bottoms & of those who insure it; A Seaman on board the La Fortune having declared, that the captain of that vessel surrendered it voluntarily, induced by the promise of receiving on his arrival in America, double freight, with the release of his ship, & a Freight back for France or Spain.

These mischiefs (anticipated in some measure in my letter to your Lordship of July 20) together with the continuance on these coasts of the same privateer, & another, both amply refreshed at Bilboa; appeared to me sufficiently urgent, to require a farther application to Vice Admiral Mann; To whom, at Gibraltar, I dispatched an express messenger on the 18th instant; as well to acquaint that officer with the facts abovementioned; as to remind him, that the well known & already begun season for the arrival of the Newfoundland ships, as well as the recent exclusion of the American privateers from the ports of the other principal powers of Europe, were likely more than ever to expose the trade to their depredations.

Time has hardly allowed me to expect hitherto any answer from the Admiral: Yet the post of yesterday brings me new apprehensions on the part of the British merchants at Oporto; especially on the preparing departure of fifteen sail of ships loading at that place with wines for Great Britain, without any distinct expectation of convoy.

I take the liberty to suggest to your Lordship, on this pressing occasion, how convenient & satisfactory it would be; if it suited the distribution to the other great objects of his majesty's force; to direct as well the lords of the Admiralty, as the commanders in chief in the Mediterranean; to send as early notice as the nature of the respective opportunities should permit of the probable time of arrival at Lisbon & Oporto, of any ships of war intended for homeward convoy: Such hope, held out; would generally enable the merchants to prepare their departures nearly at the same time; and prevent the over sanguine from precipitating themselves into evident peril.

I think it necessary to acquaint your Lordship, that I am well informed, that the French Court have sent to this kingdom an order for conveying to France forthwith, every French sailor who can be laid hold of. I have the honour to be My Lord [&c.]

SIR HUGH PALLISER TO LORD SANDWICH ¹

[Extract]

Pall Mall, 29th September 1777.

My Lord – I have seen Lieutenant Beazley [John Bazely] who is in very good spirits. I only encouraged him to expect your Lordship would certainly reward him for his gallant behaviour, but mentioned nothing particular, leaving that till your Lordship sees him. I have advised him to stay in town for that purpose. On conversing with him about the action and the qualities of the Alert, he told me that Johnson took him for a smuggling cutter and reckoned on taking him after the first or second fire, and intended only to take out a good sea store of brandy and tea and to give the rest and the vessel to the crew, for they do not reckon the smugglers their enemies. But after he found his mistake, he endeavoured to get off, and would have succeeded had not the cutter outsailed him, which she did with only half her sail; indeed, by Bazely's account, she sails exceeding well, though he had no other opportunity of trying her but one, which was with a large new schooner intended for the smugglers, just launched at Folkestone, which he beat he says every way very much.

The packets on board the Lexington were sunk, but some letters found on board shows that they were ordered out of the French ports, and enjoined not to return nor to make any captures on that coast. A letter from Franklin and Deane to Johnson tells him the proceedings are not intended to prejudice them ultimately, but the contrary. A letter from one Nicholson to Johnson tells him, about the middle of last month, that the Commissioners at Paris have appointed him to the command of a ship on the stocks at Nantes, to be launched in a fortnight, which is to carry twenty-four 12-pounders on one deck; he charges Johnson to keep this secret, that they are raising men for her secretly; the men themselves do not know on board what ship they are to serve. There was only seven Frenchmen found on board the Lexington, but Mr Bazely thinks there was some French officers killed, but they deny it. A letter was found from Franklin to Johnson recommending the Marquis de —— for a passenger. There was not above fourteen Americans, the rest stout young Irish fellows, not one above 26 years of age.

Mr Bazely speaks highly of his master's behaviour, whom he wishes to have a lieutenant; and one of his midshipmen, who is very fit for and wishes to be master of the Alert. He has some anecdotes to tell your Lordship of the last, who is an American born, was exceeding ill treated there because he would not take up arms, is nephew to their General Schuyler &c. . . .

AMERICAN COMMISSIONERS IN FRANCE TO VERGENNES AND CONDE DE ARANDA¹

To his Excellency the Count de Vergennes Minister for the Foreign Affairs of France &c. &c., And to his Excellency the Count d'Aranda, Ambassador of Spain, &c. &c. —

A Memorial from the Commissioners of the United States of America.

The Congress some Months since acquainted us, that 80,000 Suits of Clothes will be wanted for their Army next Winter: Also a Number of brass Cannon, Fusils, Pistols, &c. and a large Quantity of Naval Stores.

To pay for these, they acquainted us that they had purchased great Quantities of Tobacco, Rice, Indigo, Pot-Ash, and other Produce of the Country, which they would forward to us as soon as the great Difficulties of procuring Ships, and Mariners for the Merchant-Service, with Convoys of Force sufficient, could be surmounted.

They also directed us to borrow two Millions Sterling in Europe on the Credit of the United States; which Sum, if the Loan could have been effected here, would have been, as the most profitable Way of tra[n]smitting it, laid out by us chiefly in the Manufactures of these Kingdoms, greatly to the Advantage of their People, not only encouraging and encreasing their present Industry, but, by introducing the Knowledge of their Manufactures and Produce, and the Taste for them, would have been the Source of great future Commerce.

The Loan was found to be, in our present Circumstances, difficult; and without the Aid of some Credit from France and Spain seems impracticable.

And the Ships bringing the Products of America to us, have been interrupted, some by the Treachery of the Seamen, but chiefly by the Enemy's Ships of War, which, with the Difficulty abovementioned of finding Ships, and the Blocking up of our Ports, has left us hitherto disappointed of the expected Remittances.

But France having actually furnished us with some Money in regular Payments, and kindly promised us a Continuance of them; and Spain having given us Expectations of considerable Aids, though without specifying the Quantity, the Commissioners conceiving it would not be less than what France was giving, and impress'd with the Urgent Necessity of the Cloathing, &c. ventured to order 30,000 Suits; and have also sent or contracted for considerable Quantities of Arms and other Necessaries for which they are indebted.

Spain after furnishing us with 187,500 Livs in Money, and some Naval Stores sent directly from her Ports (the Value not yet known to us) has desisted.

And the Commissioners find themselves extremely embarrassed by their Engagements, and likely to be discredit'd with their Constituents by the Expectations they have given of effectual Aids from France and Spain, if not a Diversion that might be favourable to the States: But the worst is the Prejudice their Cause and Country must suffer by the Disappointment of Supplies.

The Commissioners received soon after their Arrival, kind Assurances of the Amity of France and Spain, and substantial Proofs of it which will ever be remembered with Gratitude.

They by Authority from the Congress, offer'd Proposals for a Treaty of Commerce, and for uniting the Force of the States with that of France and Spain, in Conquering for those Crowns the English Sugar-Islands, with other Advantages & Stipulations, in case Britain should commence the War on Account of the Aids granted to us; which Proposals the Commissioners hope were not disagreeable, and have long expected with Anxiety an Answer to them.

Some late Proceedings in France relating to our armed Vessels and their Prizes, and to the Expórtation of Warlike Stores, and the Cessation of Supplies from Spain, might occasion a Doubt that the Disposition of those Courts towards the United States is changed, if the Commissioners had not the fullest Confidence in those Dispositions as being well-founded in the true Interest of those Kingdoms, and as it is conceived no Cause has been given on the Side of America for their Diminution.

They therefore ascribe the late Strictnesses in France to the Circumstances of the Times; and the Stoppage of Supplies from Spain to the Inattention occasioned by Occupation in other great Affairs.

And they hope that a little Time will remedy both the one and the other.

In the meanwhile, they request a present Supply proportioned to their Wants, which will appear by the annexed Estimate.

France and Spain (as they have represented in a former Memoir) will be greatly Gainers by the American Commerce, in Vent of Products and Manufactures, Increase of People by furnishing more Employment, Increase of Shipping and Seamen and of course Naval Power, while Britain is diminished and weakned in proportion, which will make the Difference double. But they offer these Advantages, not as putting them to Sale for a Price; but as Ties of the Friendship they wish to cultivate with these Kingdoms.

And knowing that after a Settlement of their States in Peace, a few Years will enable them to repay the Aids that may now be lent them. They with the more Freedom ask greater Assistance by way of Loan, than they would presume to ask by way of Subsidy.

But if those Powers apprehend that the Granting such Aid may be one means of occasioning a War between them and Britain, and the present Circumstances render such a War not eligible; and if they therefore decline the same, and would advise the Americans to make Peace; it is requested that these Courts as Friends of the United States, would assist them with their Advice and Influence in the Negotiation, that their Liberties with the Freedom of Commerce may be maintained.

And they farther request to be explicitly informed of the present Intentions of these Courts respecting the Premises, that they may communicate as much of the same to the Congress as may be necessary for the Regulating of its Conduct, and preventing the Misapprehensions that the late Proceedings abovementioned may otherwise occasion.

They can assure your Excellencies that they have no Account of any Treaty on foot in America for an Accommodation, nor do they believe there is any: Nor have any Propositions been made by them to the Court of England, nor any the smallest Overture received from thence which they have not already communicated; the Congress having the fullest Confidence in the Goodwill and Wisdom of these Courts, & having accordingly given us Orders to enter into no Treaty with any other Power inconsistent with the Propositions made to them, if those Propositions are likely to be accepted; and to act with their Advice and Approbation. And the Commissioners are firmly of Opinion that nothing will induce the Congress to accommodate on the Terms of an exclusive Commerce with Britain, but the Despair of obtaining effectual Aid and Support from Europe.

But as it is probable that England is not yet sufficiently weakened or humbled to agree to any equitable Terms of Accommodation; & as the United States with an Aid much less than would be spent by France and Spain in case of their entering into the War, will be enabled to continue it with England as long as may be necessary, the Commissioners request that those Powers would resolve upon Granting such Subsidy as may be sufficient for the Purpose; or otherwise lend to the said States the Sum they desire of Two Millions Sterling at the Interest of Six pr Cent. – which they have all reason to believe they shall be well able to pay after an happy Finishing of the War, and which they mean punctually to perform.

CONDE DE FLORIDABLANCA TO LORD GRANTHAM¹

Translation.

Most excellent Sir.

My Lord –

I have just received the acknowledgement of the Commandant General of Galicia, from which I perceive that in consequence of the Orders which we issued in August he sent the American Privateer out of Ferrol where she was, she having scarcely provided herself with such things as she required upon Sufficient Cause & which related merely to the Ship.² Another Privateer had come into the Coruna, & it being signified to her that she must return to sea, she was about to execute it as soon as she had repaired her damage.³ And besides three Prizes which she had taken were already gone for other parts.

These new Events will prove to Yr Exy the good faith & readiness of the King's Ministers to attend to the just Sollicitude of your Court. But at the same time I cannot avoid representing to Yr Exy that according to the Accounts received from various Ports, there are English Frigates & other Vessels of War within sight of these Ports, in order to seize the above Privateers. This would be a just cause for the Americans refusing to go out to sea, nor could we on our Part oblige them to do so, without committing an improper Action inconsistent with the Law of Nations.

Yr Exy will reflect on the weight of these Considerations and I conclude with wishing that Our Lord may preserve your Life &c [St Ildefonso 30 Sepr 1777.]⁴

AMERICAN THEATRE

From August 1, 1777, to September 30, 1777

SUMMARY

The large British fleet numbering several hundred naval vessels and transports sailed into Delaware Bay briefly, and then abruptly put to sea again. This feint, for such it was, caused General Washington to acknowledge that: "We are yet intirely in the dark as to the destination of the Enemy."

After an extremely stormy passage from the Delaware, Admiral Howe brought his fleet past the Virginia Capes and stood up Chesapeake Bay. Frantic preparations were made to defend Baltimore and Annapolis. However, the British continued on course to the head of the Bay where the troops were landed.

After debarking the troops, the naval vessels departed the Chesapeake for the Delaware to again support the British army moving on Philadelphia. America's capital city fell to General Howe as September drew to a close.

While participating in the defense of Philadelphia, the new Continental Navy frigate Delaware grounded and was captured.

Captain Nicholas Biddle, with the frigate Randolph, after observing that he could have been to sea three months earlier if privateers had not been running off with his men, cleared the Charleston bar for a short, very successful cruise. In Portsmouth, New Hampshire, John Paul Jones was also having great difficulty getting a crew for the Ranger. The authorities allowed him to recruit twenty artillery men from the harbor defense batteries.

Frigates Raleigh and Alfred went to sea together under orders for France. In mid-ocean the Americans encountered a British convoy, and Raleigh fought a bitter ship-to-ship action with one of the escorting ships, H.M. sloop Druid.

Meanwhile, staying close inshore, the Boston frigate moved in stages down the coast from Maine, and finally reached Boston harbor. There Captain McNeill found himself blamed for the loss of Manley and the Hancock.

A small British squadron led by Captain Collier in H.M.S. Rainbow attacked Machais, Maine, in retaliation for an earlier invasion of Nova Scotia by the local citizenry, and to discourage any similar excursions. And, there was action on Lakes Champlain and George incident to General Burgoyne's operations.

GEORGE WASHINGTON TO MAJOR GENERAL JOHN SULLIVAN¹

[Extract]

Chester on Delaware Augt 1st 1777.

Dr Sir

10 OClock P.M.

By an Express this Moment received from Cape May, The Enemy's Fleet put to Sea yesterday Morning at Eight oClock and were out of sight Three Hours when the Express came away. – From this Event, it appears Genl Howe has been practising a deep feint merely to draw our attention and whole force to this point. – I am to request that you will counter march the Division under your command and proceed with it with all possible expedition to Peeks Kill, as there is strong reason to believe that the North River is their Object and that they will make a rapid push to obtain possession of our posts there. . . .

VICE ADMIRAL JOHN MONTAGU TO PHILIP STEPHENS¹

Sir,

Romney St Johns 2d August 1777

I am happy to inform their Lordships that I have received an Express from Sir George Collier, acquainting me that on the 7th of July the Flora Captain Brisbane, and he in the Rainbow fortunately fell in with the Hancock and Boston going into Port with the Fox which they took on the Banks of Newfoundland on the 7th of June, and that the Hancock and Fox were taken and carried into Halifax. The Boston made her escape by running away.

Lieutenant Lloyd in the Penguin Armed Sloop fell in with a Sloop Privateer of Ten Guns on the Banks, on the 17th of June and after an Engagement of half an hour the Privateer struck her Colours to His Majesty's Sloop, but perceiving some of the Penguins principal Rigging shot away which would prevent her making Sail for some time, the Privateer set all the sail he could and got away.

Lieutenant Garrett in the Bonavista has taken and brought in a Schooner loaded with Naval Stores and Tobacco.

I have the pleasure to inform you that since my last of the 11th of June nothing material has happened on the Banks; I have heard of some small Privateers boarding several Bankers and plundering them of their Sails, Cordage, and Provisions, but cannot learn that any very considerable damage has been done the Fishery; I think myself exceedingly unfortunate that none of the Squadron has been able to take any of them notwithstanding they are all kept Cruizing as much as possible and are always near the Fishing Ships. I must further beg leave to observe to you, that the Trade from this Island is much distressed for want of Mediterranean Passes, the Thirty you inclosed to me were all disposed of in a very few days, had you sent a Hundred I cannot think it would have been sufficient.

His Majesty's Ships Surprize and Spy returned from a Cruize a few days since and are refitting for Sea with all expedition. I am sorry to say the Surprize still continues sickly.

I must beg you to acquaint their Lordships that it is absolutely necessary the Martin should go home this fall, as she is very foul, has been twice ashore, and has neither Sails or Stores of any kind owing to a neglect of the Navy Board. Indeed the Spy is not much better, for she is very foul and greatly in want of every specie of Stores both Boatswain and Carpenters.

Inclosed I transmit the State and Condition with the Destination of the Squadron under my Command, and am Sir [&c.]

"EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM PHILADELPHIA, DATED AUGUST 2, 1777." ¹

Last night advice was received of the Enemy's Fleet leaving our Capes, and standing off to the South-East, and when the last Accounts came away, the whole were out of Sight. The Minds of the People here are greatly relieved by this Intelligence. It is imagined their coming this Way was only a Feint to draw General Washington's Army as far Southward as they could, and that they intend to go to the Eastward.

FRANCIS LEWIS TO GOVERNOR THOMAS JOHNSON AND THE MARYLAND COUNCIL ¹

Gentlm

In pursuance of advice received last night that 228 British Ships were arrived at the Capes of Delaware Capt Nicholson of the Frigate [Virginia] applyed to me this morning for my opinion whether it would not be adviseable for him with 150 of his seamen armed, to proceed immediately to the Head of Elk by Water and from thence to Phila, if not countermanded at Elk; Thinking it would be greatly for the Service of the States at this critical juncture I coinsided, and thereupon consulted Capt Cooke also for a reinforcement from his Ship for the same service, which must be submitted to your directions; I have this day wrote to the Marine Committee to inform them of the Steps already taken. I am with great respect [&c.]

INTELLIGENCE FROM THE DELAWARE CAPES ¹

Lewis Town, Aug. 2, 1777. 8 o'clock, A.M.

When I wrote to you last, I acquainted you of a large fleet being near the Capes; they made for our bay till the evening, and I expected next morning to have seen them within the Cape, but when day light appeared they were several leagues further out than they were the night before, which I imagine was owing to their being but very little wind and a whole ebb tide in the night; however at 9 o'clock, A.M. of the 31st ult. the Commodore, which was one of the nearest ships to the Cape, fired a gun and hoisted a flag, and bore down on the fleet, the wind being to the Westward. About noon it fell calm, and about 2 o'clock, P.M. the wind came to the Southward, and the fleet stood off by the wind, except 4 frigates and 4 tenders, which are in and near our road. Just before sun set we were alarmed from the light house that the fleet was standing in again; however, on the 1st of August they were entirely out of sight. Whether they are gone to the Southward or Northward is not in my power to tell. When they disappeared the wind was about South. I should have sent off this express before, but delayed it from reports being often brought that they were standing in again. The Roebuck went off with the fleet, and has not been seen since.

Henry Fisher

N.B. Nehemiah Field and Samuel Edwards, both pilots, went on board the enemy's ships from the beach.

Length on the Deck	Sixty Seven feet
Breadth Extreme	Twenty One
Length of Keel for Tonnage	Fifty five
Depth in the Hold	Nine
Burthen in Tons	One hundred & thirty five

It is our opinion that She is capable of carrying between Sixty and Seventy Men, and Twelve four pound or Fourteen three pound Guns; and We Value Her at One Thousand Six hundred pounds Sterling.

Finally We declare that We have taken and made the said Survey and Valuation with such care and assiduity, that We are ready (if required), to make Oath to the Impartiality of our proceedings.

Memo Eagle at Sea August the 3d 1777.

For preserving greater Regularity in the Order of Sailing appointed for the Fleet,² it has been the Admiral's Intention, when working to Wind-ward, that the Ships of War stationed on the Starboard Quarter in the Form of Sailing delivered, should keep to the Westward and Northward of the Fleet; And those stationed on the Larboard Quarter, to the Eastward and Southward thereof, under the same Circumstances: In Order to prevent the necessity for carrying the Press of Sail which would be otherwise requisite on every Change of Tack, for the Ships before to Leeward to gain a Station to Windward of the Fleet, as appears to be the Sense in which the Instructions on this Head have been hitherto understood.

3rd [August] Sunday. At 7 this evening came on a violent storm at S.S. East scarcely giving the Fleet time to take in their sails. A darkness in the west and S.W. gave some Kind of notice accompanied with sharp lightning.

One ship laid for some time on her beam ends without righting. We Slipped our mizzen top sail without any other damage of any consequence – the lightning and thunder surpassed discription and the heaviness of the rain. This tempest Continued violent for one Hour and $\frac{3}{4}$. Could not discover any of the Fleet this night but by means of the almost incessant lightning. The wind blew the Broad Pennant to pieces. A sloop likewise laid on her beam ends – 7 men and a woman took to their boat, but kept her towed, but the painter breaking got adrift and was lost. The Sloop with four men on board, righted an hour after. At 12 o'clock this night hove too for one hour, at which time Sounded in 25 Fathoms of water. Incessant lightning this whole night.

CAPTAIN HECTOR McNEILL TO THE CONTINENTAL MARINE COMMITTEE ¹

Gentlemen, Falmouth Casco Bay 4th Augt 1777

Above you have copy of my last Letter dated at Wichcasset 16th ulto since which I arrived with the Boston at this place, but when I shall reach Boston, or even Portsmouth, is uncertain.

The Enemy keep such a look out and are so Numerous that 'tis no easy matter to Slip throu among them –

Three Nights ago we had four Sail of their Frigates off this Harbours mouth in full sight and by a letter now in my hand from the committee of Safety at Newb'y Port, it appears That four Ships and a Brigg are Station'd in Ipswich Bay, besides those Stationed in Boston Bay.

Thick weather for a day or two has hid them from us, but in clear weather they are allway near in with the Land –

They Seem now to be posted in three divisions, within the distance of forty leags Coastwise, one division off cape Elizabeth and a Little to the east'd of it, the Second off Portsmouth tending South'ly towards Cape Ann, the Third division between Cape Ann and cape Cod –

Notwithstanding all this I hope by the Blessing of God upon our care and good conduct to Save the Boston for a More fortunate cruise then has been our last –

There are so many different reports Circulated concerning Capt Manley, That I know not what to write at this time – I am Still in hopes, that he has Escap'd the Enemy and gone to South Carolina. Happy had it been for himself and all concerned, if he had taken so much of my advice the day after we took the Fox – but alas his Obstanicey and want of reflection at that period, will for ever furnish him with matter for repentance.

When I endeavour'd to persuade him to go to South Carolina, my reasonings were grounded on the following circumstances –

In the first place, The Enemy were well Acquainted with the time of our Sailing from Boston and with the length of our intended Cruise (the latter might be known by the quantity of provisions taken in) which was only for Six or Eight weeks –

2dly Our falling in with the Sumersett in the Tract for New York on the ninth day after we sail'd. This Ship's arrivall at that place would be the means of heastning out crusiers after us, either from York or Rhode Island.

3dly The Exceeding bad pollicy he had been guilty of in turning away upw'ds of one hundred men lately belonging to the Fox within Six hours after She was taken, Those men were put on board Some fishing Vessells, and made the best of their way for St Johns Harbour which was then within 24 hours Sail'g of us. at the Harbour of St Johns Lay Admiral Montague with the Romney and Some other Ships of war – and to me it appear'd probable that he would use his Endeavours to recover the Fox, by sending out as many Ships in quest of us as he could muster – Those Ships of his might be joined by Others from Halifax, so that with the help of the Ships already spoken of from N. York & Rhode Island, a chain of cruisers might be form'd between Cape Sable, and Nantucket Shoals which 'twould be difficult to pass –

After considering all these things, I was totally Against returning home by the way we went out – Therefore I earnestly requested that we might immediately make the best of our way for South Carolina – there refitt & Clean our Ships, and if Capt Biddle could be ready to come out with us so much the better – With four Ships like ours, we might do much Service to our Country & ourselves –

Capt Manley Express'd much willingness to follow this plan at first, when I made him Acquainted with it by my Letter of the ninth of June last – but in a day or two he changed his mind, and his course, and notwithstanding all the remonstrances I could make he continued cruising three weeks or upwards to no purpose, Except that of going farther from home thereby giving the Enemy more time to take the proper steps for intercepting us – On our return.

Part of the Consequences (namely the Loss of the Fox) you are but too well acquainted with by this time – What Capt Manleys fate or mine will be, is not altogether yet decided. May God Strengthen the Hands of the Congress & Save our Country by his Mighty Power, join'd with their honest Endeavours, for Sure I am that they have but indifferent prospects from the ability of many of us Employ'd under them – I am Gentlemen [&c.]

Hear To Reason.

When our Brethren are suffering in Prison Ships in the neighbouring Ports, where many of them starve and die for want, Will you not assist in giving Information where the Prisoners are conceal'd that are taken and brought into Boston, and other Sea-Ports? or will you rather feed and employ them, when they might and ought to be sent in Exchange for our Brethren. The People of the Eastern Ports are often calling on me to send for their People who have been taken, but take no care to send me any to redeem them with, although there has been many hundreds taken and carried into the different Ports to the Eastward of Boston. I therefore intreat the Inhabitants of this State to exert themselves and take up as many as possible at this Time, as a Cartel will soon be sent to make another Exchange, and I will pay any reasonable Sum, for bringing them to my Office, at the upper Corner of Court Street, Boston.

New-York Journal, MONDAY, AUGUST 4, 1777

Kingston, August 4.

Various are the conjectures concerning the motions and destination of the enemy's fleet and the army on board. Some think them still bound for Philadelphia, and that all their late motions have been only to conceal their real design. The last account we had of them was by a man, who we hear has since declared under oath, that on Wednesday the 27th ult. he saw off Blue-Point (about one hundred miles East of New-York) about one hundred and fifty sail of ships standing off the shore to the Eastward.

We hear that by an intercepted letter, and several concurring circumstances, it appears, that the fleet are bound to Newport, Boston, or New-Hampshire - others think, that the hints of such a design have been thrown out on purpose to deceive us, and draw off our armies to the Eastward; and that to favour such a supposition, the fleet were to go off to sea on an Easterly course. But when they were out of sight of land, would tack about, proceed to Delaware and push for Philadelphia, before our army could return from the Eastward. Others think the intelligence was sent on purpose to be intercepted, and supposed by us to be a feint intended to deceive us, and therefore to be disregarded, while they were really proceeding to the Eastward, so that they might make an actual attack before we should be in a condition to oppose them. Others again, and perhaps with most probability, suppose that their army is in such a dispirited ruinous condition, as to be incapable of making an attack any where with the least probability of success, or even without the greatest hazard of being totally ruined; and that in this dilemma, being not at liberty to give over an enterprise originally founded in folly, madness and villany, and not knowing what to do, they have concluded to retire to Halifax, there to wait, as they did at the evacuation of Boston, for further directions from Pandemoneum. Whether either of these conjectures is rightly founded or not, there should not be the least relaxation in our preparations to resist the whole force of the enemy, and every place they can have any motive to approach should be guarded with as much vigilance, as if they were expected there.

New-York, August 4.

Last Sunday Week arrived here from Antigua, the Schooner Betsey, Thomas Muir; on her Passage, in Lat. 34.52, Long. 67, she was taken by a Rebel Privateer Sloop, belonging to Charlestown, called the Vixen, mounting twelve carriage Guns, commanded by one Downham Newton, a Native of Providence. – Capt. Muir, who was permitted to stay on board the Schooner, gained over three of the Hands to his Interest, and retook the Vessel after being six Days in Possession of the Rebels. It is not doubted but Capt. Muir will be amply rewarded for his gallant Behaviour.

By the above Vessel we learn; that about the latter end of June, His Majesty's Tender Brig, Little Endeavour,¹ mounting eight three Pounders and 24 Men, commanded by Lieut. Francis Tinsley, in about 12 Degrees to Windward of Antigua, fell in with two Rebel Privateers, the one mounting 14 four Pounders, the other 12 of the same bore; both having Cohorns, Swivels, and 140 Men between them.

Thus accoured and met, a most obstinate Engagement commenced at about half past Eleven, A.M. and lasted till near Five, P.M. most of the Time within Pistol Shot of each other. The Rebels often attempted to board, and as often to sink the Little Endeavour, which last endeavoured all she could to sink or take the Rebels, who at length shamefully sheered off.

The Little Endeavour had one Man killed; seven wounded, and was much disabled in her Rigging – Dire was the Slaughter of the Rebel Crews, and many a Mangled Corpse the Decks bestrewed; while all a Down, meandring on their Sides, issued in purple Streams, the sanguin'd Gore. O! qualis hurliburli fuit.

The Ship Nancy, Capt. Lowrie, belonging to London, taken by the Vixen, a few Days before Capt. Muir, and retaken by His Majesty's Ship Galatea, arrived here on Tuesday last.

Wednesday last the Syren Frigate arrived here from Halifax, and has brought Capt. Fotheringham of the Fox, and about 40 of his Seamen, with Captain Manley and his first Lieut. the latter commanded the Fox when taken by the Flora. We hear Mr. Manley is on board the St. Albans.

The same Day also arrived from St. Kitts in 14 Days, the sloop Hammond, Captain [Bridger] Goodrich, who on his Passage took the Sloop Neptune, Arthur Wood, Master, from Virginia, bound to Boston, laden with 400 Barrels of Flour.

The Brig mentioned in our last to be ashore at Deal, near Sandy-Hook, was a Prize to the Milford and Thames Frigates; she was taken by a Rebel Privateer on her Voyage from Oporto for Petersburg, and ordered for Boston, and on the Voyage was retaken by the above-mentioned Frigates, and sent for this Port, but the Prize Master thought proper to call on the Coast of New-Jersey, where the Cargo, consisting of Oyl, Lemmons, Wine and Brasil Sugar, was immediately taken ashore and carried up into the Country.

Capt. Ayscough, in the Swan, last week took a Schooner from Connecticut River, with 150 empty Hogsheads on board, and some lumber. She was bound to Sea in order to fill the Casks with Salt Water to make Salt. Also a small Vessel from the East End of Long-Island, bound to Connecticut, with sundry articles, among them two Bushels of Salt.

Last Wednesday Morning two Wood Boats from Long-Island, were taken by a Rebel Privateer in the Sound, near Hempstead Harbour, and carried into Norwalk, in Connecticut.

Some few days before the Syren came in, she lost her Mizen Mast and Part of her Rigging off Nantucket in a violent Gale of Wind.

1. Ship in this action was H.M. brig Endeavour, Lieutenant Francis Tinsley, not Little Endeavour, Journal of Endeavour, June 23, 1777, records simply:

at 6 A M Saw a Sloop to lewd the Antigua gave Chase P S 8 Saw two Sloops astern of us Standing after us at Noon Came up; prov'd to be American privateers; Engaged them 12 Glasses (the one 12 the other 14 Cariage Guns) & Obligated them to Sheer off

DEPOSITION OF LIEUTENANT JOHN BARRETT ¹[Philadelphia, August 4, 1777] ²

The Deposition of John Barrett First Lieutenant of the armed Brigantine Raleigh late commanded by Edward Travis Esqr fitted out by & belonging to the State of Virginia –

The Deponent being duly sworn on the Holy Evangels of Almighty God deposeseth & saith –

That in the Night of the 26th of April last the said Brigantine mounting ten four Pounders fell in with & was captured by the Thames frigate commanded by Capt Howe in the Service of his Brittanic Majesty & while on board the said ship the sd Captain Travis this Deponent & the other Commissioned Officers of the said Brigantine were kindly treated by the said Capt Howe & his Officers, but the Mariners & other Men of the said Brigantine were confined in the Hold of the said Frigate with many other Prisoners in an uncomfortable Situation. That after being three Weeks on Board the said Ship this Deponent & the other Prisoners were landed at New York where they were delivered to the Charge of one Cunningham a Provost who abused them with the most illiberal & insolent Language ordering the Common Soldiers to pull off the Hatts of this Deponent & the other Prisoners & take their Cockades out calling them Rebel Pirates & other disgraceful Epithets. They were then marched up to a Place called the Sugar House where they were confined with common Soldiers, Sailors & even Negroes & were all treated alike both as to Provisions & other Matters & indiscriminate Insolence & Cruelty. That the said Officers & all other American Prisoners were repeatedly abused & beaten by the Hessian Guards & Soldiers with Swords & Sticks. That the Provisions received by the Prisoners at the said Sugar House were about one Pound & an half of Pork & about three Pounds & an half of condemned Bread P Man for six Days. the said Pork was in general good but the Bread so mouldy & bad that it could not be eaten but when the more pressing Hunger obliged them to do it. They had also an Allowance of about one Pint of Pease P Man for the said Time but they were so hard that they could not be boiled so as to be eatable. they had also allowed them half a Pint of Rice or musty Oatmeal P Man. That this Allowance was the whole he ever saw or heard of during his Confinement which lasted about ten Weeks & two days. That after Captain Travis had been confined in the Sugar House about twelve Days he was taken from thence by the said Cunningham on Pretence of writing Letters of which he was said to be accused by a Prisoner who was detected in endeavouring to make his Escape. That the Person who was said to have accused Capt Travis of writing Letters on being brought Face to Face with Capt Travis denied that he had done it but said it was another Person who had written the Letters & tho Captain Travis solemnly protested his Innocence & denied the Charge he was hurried to the Provost & there confined in a Dungeon & was there when this Deponent came away as this Deponent was credibly informed not only by a Note from the said Captain but by a Person of undoubted Veracity who was present at the Transaction & saw the said Captain in Confinement & who informed this Deponent that he saw Captain Travis beaten by the said Cunningham. That the Treatment towards Prisoners as far as has fallen under this Deponent's Notice is cruel to the last Degree, many of them sickening & dying from Want & the Loss of near half the Crew of the Brigantine Raleigh by hard Treatment & Sickness occasioned by it. That this Deponent made his Escape with seven others out of the said Sugar House on Monday the 28th Ulto & arrived at Philadelphia the third instant. And further saith not – Taken & sworn before

CAPTAIN HECTOR McNEILL TO JOHN LANGDON¹

Sir

Falmouth 5th Augt 1777

I did my self the pleasure of writing you soon after I arrived at Sheepscott river, praying the favour of you to forward my Letter to the Marine committee which I had left open for your particular Satisfaction – at that time I was in hopes of Seeing you long before this but the precarious State of a Single Ship in these times, and the want of a good Oppertunity has kept me at so great a distance – We have some Vessells in here now who have been drove in by three or four Large Ships who seem to be Station'd about the mouth of this Bay, three evenings ago we See them from the forts, when I shall be able to Slip by them I know not – Now My good Sir as my provisions are Nearly out and there appears no prospect of a Supply in or near this place, This is to request the favour of you to Save us from perishing for want of Provisions or being obliged to run a certain risque of Loosing the Ship rather than to Starve here, the Chance of getting any thing of provision kind from Boston at present must be much more uncertain then from Portsmouth. I pray you therefore that you would Send me down, three weeks Bread and flesh – which with the Little I have left will I hope be Sufficient to bring us to portsmouth. let it be Sent in some Small Vessell with some Faithfull person & a good pilot, so that She may run into aney hole for Safety. I am Sir [&c.]

WILLIAM WHIPPLE TO JAMES LOVELL ¹

[Extract]

My Dear Sir,

Portsmouth Aug 5th 1777

Matters remain here much as when I wrote you last, except some alarms caused by a report that a very large fleet appeared off Cape Ann on the 31st ulto – the time agreed very well with the accounts we previously had of the fleet's sailing from N.Y: as we supposed the Town was the enemy's object, all hands were preparing to go thither, when on a sudden the fleet vanished in a fogg and we have heard nothing of it since, but it's still a matter of great speculation where this invincible Armada is bound. It is reported as General Washington's opinion that Virginia is the object but those who have not the most favorable opinion of that climate think they know better than to go there, that this only a finesse and that they will return immediately and push up Hudson's river – others will have it that they are certainly coming this way. The last opinion I endeavor to support, not because I realize it, but because I would have every body in readiness if that should be the case. The enemy's ships are so thick on the coast that it's almost impossible to escape them; one of them chased a ship on shore a few days ago within 6 or 7 miles of this she proved to be a West-India man which had been taken by a Connecticut privateer, but unfortunately for the captors the tide was rising and the enemy soon took her off with them. . . .

TESTIMONY OF JOHN LAMBERT AND MARK CLARK¹

[Boston]

John Lambert first Lieutenant and Mark Clark, Second Lieut of the Brigantine Massachusetts A Vessel of War belonging to the State of Massachusetts Bay whereof Capt John Fisk was Commander: Testify and Say That on Sunday the first [sic twenty third] day of March last, they Sailed in said Brig from Salem on a Cruise, and were joined off Cape Ann Harbour by the Brigantine Tyrannicide, Jonathon Harriden Commander, and the Briga Cabot, Capt [Joseph] Olney Commander – That at about Eleven o'Clock at Night of the same day they saw a Sail to Leeward which they judged to be the Millford Man of War, after discovering said Sail they waited for the other two Brigs to come up with them, which they soon did and Spoke with each other. – That Captain Olney and Capt Harriden asked Capt Fisk what he thought of the Ship, Capt Fisk answered that he took her to be the Millford: Capt Fisk then asked Capt Olney what he thought of Engaging of her, he said with all his Heart; And they then Cleared Ship and had all hands to Quarters ready for Engaging, the Ship appearing to do the same, making false fires, and lights fore and Aft, it being then about twelve o'Clock at Night; That betwixt twelve and one o'Clock of the same Night, Capt Olney Spoke with them again, and asked Capt Fisk what he thought of her, Capt Fisk answered that he thought it was prudent to keep to Windward 'till Morning, and then Consult what was best to be done, upon which Capt Olney said he liked it well, and at the same time beged Capt Fisk not to leave him, Capt Fisk replied he'd be Dam'd if he would. That at day light the next Morning they discovered Capt Olney about a Mile and a half upon their Weather Quarter, the Wind then about South East, Capt Harriden was then about as far to Leward, and the Man of War to Leward of Capt Harriden – That at about Nine or ten o’Clock in the Morning Capt Harriden seeing both his Consorts to Windward hove his Main Top-Sail aback, upon which Capt Fisk bore away and Spoke with him, (the Cabot still keeping her Wind: Capt Fisk asked Capt Harriden if he was ready to go down and take his breakfast, meaning if he was ready to go on board the Frigate, Capt Harriden answered with all his Heart. As the Cabot still kept to Windward, and the Wind heading of them, they thought it best to Tack to the Southward and Westward, likewise the Tyrannicide and Cabot Tacked, the Cabot still to Windward; the Frigate also Tacked at the same Time; In the afternoon of the same day it came on Thick and Rainy, when they lost Sight of the Cabot and Frigate for some time; That at about five o’Clock the Weather remaining Thick Capt Fisk and Capt Harriden Tacked and stood to the Northward and Eastward, they could not then discover either the Cabot or Frigate, but Supposed The Cabot was to Windward. – That at about Six o’Clock it Cleared off, when they Saw the Ship to Leward, soon after that Saw the Cabot about Nine Miles to Leward going large, and suppose she bore away in the Rain to get clear of the Ship, the Ship then seemed to bear a little after him to try to cut the Cabot off; the Wind then blowing hard and a large Sea going, they determined not to follow the Cabot as there was so great a Sea, which obliged them to House their Guns, their Decks being full of Water, and if they had come up they could not fight their Guns in such a Sea.

And These deponents further say that they never heard Capt Olney say he would go and take the first Broadside from the Ship or any thing to that purpose. – And they apprehend that in case the Cabot really intended to join the other two Brigs she might have done it after the Weather Cleared up without any danger from the Ship, And had the Cabot joined in such rough weather it would not have been possible to Engage the Ship

And these deponents further say that Capt Fisk appeared to be ready & willing to join with the other Brigs in Engaging the Ship, and never discovered the least backwardness – and further saith not. –

Jn^o Lambert. Mark Clark

HENRY MARCHANT TO GOVERNOR NICHOLAS COOKE¹

[Extract]

Honored Sir,

Philadelphia Augt 5th 1777

The large Fleet which sailed from New-York, and hath since been seen off and on the Capes of Delaware, have not been seen or heard of since last Thursday at sunset. – a few there are, who still believe they are yet intending an Attack upon this City; – some there are, who suppose Them gone still more South-Ward, to Maryland, Virginia or So Carolina; – but the most general Opinion is, that they have either returned to New-York to push up the North River, or have gone to Rhode-Island. – By this Faint, They have drawn Our Army at too great a Distance to give immediate Assistance to the Eastern States; besides that Our Men must be greatly fatigued by such long Marches. – Our Army is however in great Spirits & good Health. – They are indeed much disappointed in not meeting with Mr How, but will not murmur at making a much longer March than Their last; – If They can but relieve Their Brethren, and cut off Our Amphibious

Enemies from Their Sea Retreat. – I hope The New England States have been in such Suspicions of the Intentions of Mr How, as to have put Them upon every necessary Measure of Opposition

I am favour'd wth yours 21st July returning fourteen pounds Pennsylvla bills found among the money paid you on Accot of the Sea Nymph, others to the Amount shall be put into the hands of Mr Brown

Inclosed is an Accot exhibited by Captain Trimmingham for Articles taken by you or by your order out of the Sea Nymph, which I was obliged to pay as the Vessell was order'd to be restored with every Article belonging to Her when taken, those things I suppose were applied to the use of the Sloop Providence, if so fix it that I may receive from the Marine Committee the money for them, If you have kept the Spy Glass, Bookcase or any thing else for your own use order me Payment for them

I shal get an answer from Col: Ross to your Letter as Soon as in my power though I think it probable he may not like to give a decisive opinion in an Affair that is not to Come before him & that must probably be determin'd by another Judge, the only Case that Came before Mr Ross here in wch two Vessells were Concern'd was that of the Lexington Continental Vessell & Chance Privateer & he order'd each a Share in proportion to their force, & the Law & Usage of Nations will I believe Justify this decision, its a reasonable one, by the Same rule that the Providence Claims to Share Equally wth the Alfred, a Smack with a few Swivels & a dozen of Men with a Commission might Claim to share Equally wth the Providence, but perhaps to share Equally they dont mean more than that both Crews should Share as the Crew of one Vessell, not to have an Equal Share or half of the whole taken If so this will not make a great difference, though its Certainly right each Ship Should first draw their Share before any division is made among the Crew, for though Continental Ships Share alike, Private Ships Share Variously & as there Should be some General rule to Govern in Cases where Vessells Cruize together, no other Can hold but that of allotting each Vessel their share – I shall pay Mr Brown the Carpenters Prize money it is £67.10 – or One hundred & Eighty Dollars – I am Sir [&c.]

Sir/

Charles Town So Carolina August 5th 1777.

A Vessell of War, belonging to this State, lately after a short Engagement took and brought into Port, the Armed Brigantine Judith Alvara Lofthouse Master bound from London to St Augustine. She had on board Passengers, who write to you and their Friends by this Conveyance. I should have suffered them to proceed immediately to the place of their destination, had I not been informed, that you detain several Gentlemen Inhabitants of this State, who arrived some time ago in the Betty and Jenny, Thompson Master at St Augustine, having taken passage in that Vessell as the readiest way of getting from London hither, and I am the more inclined to believe this information as Mr and Mrs Logan under the like Circumstances experienced the same Treatment. I cannot conceive that Persons in such a Situation can with any kind of Justice or Propriety be deemed Prisoners of War; However waiving that Point for the present I am ready to Exchange any of Lofthouses Passengers, for an equal number of the Gentlemen, Inhabitants of this State, Thompsons Passengers, who are at St Augustine, and for Messrs John Freeman and William Wescoat if they are still there, so that if you think proper to send them, or let them come hither, you may on their arrival here have in Exchange, on sending for them, or they will be permitted to go, as many of Lofthouses Passengers, as may be equal in number to them, and any Vesell, which you send for them, may have a Pass from me to secure her from Capture.

Some time ago the Brig: Defence belonging to this State was taken by the Perseus and Roebuck. Our Delegates in Congress informed me, that they would endeavour to effect an Exchange of her Captain Pickering, but I do not find this has been obtained, and we have accounts of his having been very ill used. I have therefore ordered Captain Lofthouse into Confinement and shall keep him in it untill Captain Pickering is Exchanged for him, which I suppose may soon be done upon your Application to Lord Howe.

Admitting the Enemy to be void of Humanity (and they have after shewn that they are) I should imagine that motives of Policy, the Apprehension of Retaliation, and the example of Treatment to our Prisoners would induce them to shew a different kind to theirs, but I have heard that Captain Engs of the Franklin lately taken off this Bar, and his Crew are confined in a Dungeon at St Augustine. I desire to know the Truth of this, and shall therefore expect, that you will allow the Bearer, Mr Cross, to see, and converse with Captain Engs, and his People (in presence of who you please), that on his Return he may acquaint me, what usage they say they have received, otherwise I shall conclude that this information is true. It is time that Retaliation should take place for tho' to inflict Punishment is a disagreeable Act, Justice to our People, who suffer demands it. The Treatment of Captain Lofthouse his Officers and Crew will therefore depend upon that, which Captain Engs and his people have received, unless Captain Pickering shall suffer any Cruelties or Indignities, in which case (altho' Engs and his Crew may not have been ill treated) the same shall be retaliated on Lofthouse.

Some time ago one Wharton an Augustine Pilot taken in the Ship Clarissa – Bisell Master, and brought to this State was permitted to be at large in the Town on Parole, but shamefully broke it, and run away, it is presumed that he is returned to St Augustine, in which Case I have a right to demand him of You. I therefore desire to know whether he is in East Florida or not, if he is there must insist that he be sent back hither.

I doubt not that due attention will be paid to the Flag, which carries these dispatches, and am, Sir [&c.]

J: Rutledge

P.S. There were several Letters for you and others in East Florida on board of Lofthouse, which may be forwarded, if a proper Conveyance should offer.²

The multiplicity of Business, which has for several Days engaged the Council, put it out of their power to give an answer to the application made by your Board for Liberty to take such Vessels or Materials as may be wanted by you for the Publick service – the same to be valued by impartial Judges & the Owners paid accordingly – should they demand a Price which you may Judge unreasonable – this is a stretch of Power which the Council wish at all times to avoid and think it more eligible that Congress pay even extravagant prices, than that Council at present encourage such a measure – as it will Irritate those who are our Friends as well as those who are not, & it will be apt to produce a greater Scarcity of Goods by inducing the people to Secret them – as well as to test it, & will tend greatly to discourage the importer.

GEORGE WASHINGTON TO MAJOR GENERAL ISRAEL PUTNAM¹

[Extract]
 Dear Sir

Camp at Germantown 7th Augt 1777

I have your favr of the 4th instant. We are yet intirely in the dark as to the destination of the Enemy, the Fleet has neither been seen or heard of since they left the Capes of Delaware on this day week. If they had intended back to the Hook, we must have heard of their arrival there long before this time, as the Winds have been constantly fair. As the sickly season has commenced to the Southward, and there is no capital Object there, I cannot conceive that they are gone that way. I can therefore only conclude that they intend to go round Long Island into the Sound, or still farther Eastward. If they do either of these, it must be upon a plan of co operating with Genl Burgoyne, who, as matters are going on, will find little difficulty of penetrating to Albany, for by the last Accounts, our Army had fallen down to Saratoga. . . .

MASSACHUSETTS BOARD OF WAR TO LEONARD JARVIS, DARTMOUTH ¹

Sir,

War-Office, Boston August 8th 1777

The designs of our Enemies are calculated to puzzle & distract us in our defence, at one time making a feint towards Philadelphia by Land, then by Water, giving out at the same time they design for Boston, – Their real Plan at present is impenetrable, but negatively a Lodgment upon the Banks of the Delaware is by no means their Object, probably they design a Junction upon the North River, possibly they may attempt to penetrate the Country upon the Newport Side, or probably they design farther Eastward. –

The Considerations make it highly Expedient in the Judgment of Government to keep a vigilant observation of their Motions, & to sound the Alarm upon their first approach Wherefore upon the recent Intelligence from Genl Washington we desire you to fix out such Boat or Boats as you may think proper for discovering their Appearance upon our Coasts. – The look out at the Vineyard is judicious, a Boat off from Nantucket might be Advantageous, & if not too dangerous a Boat in Block Island Channel might answer an important purpose, but we leave the Conduct of this Matter in a Measure to your discretion desiring you to let us hear from you as often as necessary by Express

By order of the Board,

Capt James Holiday master of the Brig Necessity which you have in your possession it appears by the papers is Burmuda property and that she was bound to Falmouth and laid off the Harbour several days in hopes to be carried into Port. As he had given bonds at Burmuda to land his Cargo at a British Port the like Scheme was pursued last year by the same Vessell when she was Carried into Newbury, and not even Libelled, therefore the property being Burmuda you know their is an Express Resolve of Congress which protects their property, you can make no plea of your finding Halifax papers

Lewistown Augt the 8-1777 –

Haveing this Oppertunity by Capt John Learmonth I shall give you the Best intelligence from here Respecting the pirate ships, – there is one frigate and tenders lyng at the Brown, one frigate and tender in our Road and two frigates that Cruise of and Near the Cape sometimes they Come in and stay a tide and then out to sea. On Tusday last Capt Murphey went up to Cedar Creek to take possession of some Craft that was there that the torrys goe of to the ships to trade with but upon Capt Murpheys Entering the Creek he found a Sloop that had lately Arived from New York with Several Articles such as Salt, Rum, Sugar, Coffee & Tea &c &c, he Boarded her, but the men took to the Marsh that belong'd to her, and Capt Murphey pursued them, but Could not over take them however he took four Other Gentlemen that was going Down to trade with Bacon Eggs &c &c the Capt Brought the Sloop out and got Down to Our Creeks Mouth that night but could not get his prize in the next morning there came a schooner tender Belonging to the Ship in our Road and three Cutters, to Retake Sd Sloop upon which a Smart Engagement begun which lasted above half an hour, When to Capt Murpheys Credet be it Spoken that he Made them shear off altho the schooners mettle must have been much heavier than the Bargees the Cutters was obliged to towe the Schooner of and I am Certain that she must have Recd some Considerable Damage, for I was looking with a Glass the whole time of the Action Capt Murphey Recd Very little Damage save being burnt in the face with His own Gun by her Blowing from the Tuch hole – The Sloop he Got safe into our Creek where he would be glad to have Your Orders There is a constant trade from the ships to Ceader Creek and I think if you Could spare one of your small Galleys the Vessels they trade in Might be takeen they are a Sloop and schooner And mount 2 Six pounders and Some Swivels Each they are there once or twice a week Certainly – Capt murphey Desires that you would send him down Powder & Ball as far as Mr John Clowes Near this Place Please to fail not as he is in want of it, Colonel Richardson is Encampd At Mr Clowes about 13 Miles from this he has take up Several of our Damd Rascals of torrys and I beleave he will doe a great Deal of Servise here, Capt Murphey took several letters in the Sloop which he sent to Colonel Richardson to be forwarded to Congress they Are from the infamouse Thos Robinson late of this Place but Now an inhabitant of New York I hope the letters will come safe to hand and shall take it as a favour if Messr Bradfords would have them Put

The British Ship of War Renown, of 50 Guns, which lay off Dutch Island, was last Saturday fired on by a Party of Col. [Robert] Elliott's Regiment of Artillery, from two 18 Pounders, which soon obliged her to remove a Mile higher up the Bay.

On Tuesday Morning the Enemy landed about 200 Men at the North and South Ferries, on the Narragansett Side, with a View, as is supposed, to collect live Stock, and rob the Dairies in that Vicinity. They were opposed by Capt. [John] Garzia's Company of Artillery, and the Militia in the Neighbourhood, who obliged them to re-embark with very little Booty; and so precipitate was their Flight, that they left several Muskets on the Shore.
Two of our Men, and a Negro Boy, were slightly wounded, and three of the inhabitants carried off. A Galley that covered their landing grounded near the North Ferry, and was so warmly saluted from the Shore with Musquetry, that the Hands were obliged to take to their Boats: but the Tide floating her before our Field-Pieces arrived, the Enemy returned and carried her off.
A Company of Artillery from this and the neighbouring Towns, and 200 Men from the Continental Ships in the River, were on their March, in case the Enemy had attempted to reinforce their Party. Several of the Enemy were seen to fall, but they report that they had only one Man killed, and one wounded.

May it Please your Honours

Sussex County 9th August 1777 –

Soon after my arrival here I waited upon the Gentlemen our Friends in Lewes Town to Consult them on the Business for which I was order'd Down, & laid before them the Resolution of Congress on that head. It was determined upon as the most effectual mode, that all the Water Craft in Cedar Creek & else where from which the Enemy are likely to receive Supplies shou'd be collected into Lewes Town Creek, & put under the Care of the armed Boat Stationed there.² Accordingly I issued Orders to Captn Murphey who Commands the sd Boat to proceed to Cedar Creek and Seize all the Craft there; and to enable him to effect this without danger from the Inhabitants, I ordered down two Parties of Foot, one on each side the Creek, to aid and assist him. however Capt Murphey on his Passage up to Cedar Creek on the 6th Instant fell in with and took a Sloop from New York (of which you will be fully informed by Colo Hall and Major Fisher) which prevented him from executing my orders respecting the Craft. I then sent Orders to my Officers to burn all the Craft in that Creek, and to disarm the Inhabitants, which I expect they will effect before they return to Camp. . . .

Boston Augt 10th 1777. –

Our Naval Affairs have had a sad reverse, instead of the Triumph of A man of war Prize, we have lost the Hancock A fine frigate.

The Commissions of the Navy Board or rather the Instructions of the Marine Board Arrived about A week ago. by them it Appears we should be all three present in order to Transact Business. Mr Deshon (tho' we have Expected him 10 days) is not yet Arrived. I see the Business is very large and Extensive, must Engross our whole time, & we are Allowed but one Clerk, which I think quite insufficient. while I remain at this Board I shall do every thing I can to Answer the design of our Appointment, & the Expectation of my Friends, but with you I sigh for private Life and domestic Felicity, & Incline to resign. I only delay it from Respect to your Solicitations. Tomson, Hinman, & Jones are at Portsmouth have not Yet been to Sea, McNeil at Casco Bay, A Number of Cruisers on our Coast, who have taken & destroyed many Vessels, and among them several Privateers. had we the Ships now shut up in Providence ² with those mentioned Above, I think we should soon have A Clear Coast

Head Quarters Camp near German Town August [10] 1777

. . . I am of opinion, that the obstructions in the [Delaware] River, with the help of the gallies, floating batteries, and with tolerable industry to put the land works in a proper state, will be extremely formidable to the enemy, and authorize a reasonable expectation of their being effectual. The fire ships also will contribute to this end, for though there are many obstacles that render their success precarious, and a happy concurrence of circumstances is necessary towards it any of which failing may disappoint the project, and there is therefore no room to be sanguine, yet there is some probability of its succeeding, and they will be at least an embarrassment and terror to the enemy, and will oblige them to use precautions, inconvenient to them, and serviceable to us. . . .

Camp near German Town Augt 10: 1777.

. . . I shall consider myself much obliged by your advising me by the earliest Opportunity of the arrival or appearance of any considerable Fleet on your Coast or of any other intelligence that you may conceive important and interesting.

Since Genl Howe left the Capes of Delaware with his fleet on the night of Thursday forenigh, we have not obtained any accounts of him nor can we fix his destination with any certainty or satisfaction by reasoning on the subject. - 'till he sailed from Sandy Hook I had no doubt in my own mind but that he would have pushed up the North River to cooperate with Genl Burgoyne; his expedition to the Capes of Delaware and departure again without further information of him have put us all into a State of conjecture as to the line of conduct he means to pursue - Whatever it is, I hope eventually, he will be disappointed. I have the Honor to be with great respect Sir [&c.]

G W

P.S. If Genl Howe should arrive on your Coast and make dispositions for landing, I would recommend, that All Cattle & every specie of Provision may be removed out of his reach – Also, All Teams & Carriages to prevent him penetrating the Country, if such be his design – You will readily perceive the propriety of this measure and I am persuaded will put it into execution G W

The Marine Committee laid before Congress a letter of the 28 July, from Isaac Smith, Ebenezer Storer and William Phillips, commissioners appointed to settle the accounts of the continental agents, which was read, and wherein they set forth, that they have settled William Bartlett's account, and find a balance due to him from the states, of £4,504 2 0 15,013 60/90 dollars, and to Jonathan Glover, Esqr £16,527 9 2 55,091 47/90 dollars, being the balance of his account; that they would have complied with the orders of the Marine Committee to pay these balances, but cannot find any person who wants the money in Philadelphia, and as Messrs. Bartlett and Glover are in great want of the money, in order to settle with the captors, they have advised them to send a person express for this purpose; Whereupon,

Resolved, That an order be drawn on the commissioner of the loan office, for the state of Massachusetts bay, in favor of Isaac Smith, Ebenezer Storer, and William Phillips, for the sum of 70,105 1/6 dollars, for the payment of the balances due to Messrs. Bartlett and Glover.

I wish some method could be found Out but itt Appears to be a thing that is very dificult. I was Agoing to give you my sentiments sometime Ago when I heard you had Orderd Several large Ships to be built, but, as you was the best judges of the Motives of your doing itt, Omitted itt as itt could not have any Other merit than a private sentiment.³ The money to be made to carry on & Compleat these Ships must be immense. I reckon itt will require a Wagon load to be sent Once a Month and such a sum to be made which is the Means of the depresasian, and not to have any benifit Arriseing from itt Appears to me they wont get to see [sea] unless we can make Men this Six Years, & to have the Frigates that are building got to see likewise – Frigates I Apprehend would be more servisable, Altho we have lost One, not to exceed 36 or 40 Gun Ships, under proper regulations – . . .

JARED TRACY TO WILLIAM AYLETT, WILLIAMSBURG ¹

Sir

Boston Augt 13th 1777.

I have the pleasure to inform you of The Arrival of The Schooner Sally Thos. Sparks & The Schooner Whig Nathan Bacon, which makes up Eleven that have arrvd here out of Twelve that Sailed from Virginia.

Your favour of the 3d Ulto came to hand by Captn Bacon. I am much Surpris'd at The Conduct of The Captns Sargent Seller & Story in Lying there. It Seems the worms is eating up their bottoms, there Cargoes perishing, The Charter of the Vessles going on & Mens wages & Victuals all which will amount to an enormous Sum. The Vessles might as well go to See & be taken as to Lye there, while the Vessles & Cargoes are perished, but if they lye ever so long there will be a risque at last – whether more or less than now is impossible to tell, it certainly appears by experience not to be great at present. I know not what Orders you have had concerning them but I should think it much better for them to take the first favorable opportunity to get out than to lye there. if they take a Dark night & a fresh Breeze of Wind I think they have ten chances to one of getting by the Ships in your Capes as all our Vessles have done that Attempted it the one taken which was Captn Lewis was taken off Nantucket. There is Several Vessles Cruizing in this Bay but those that are acquainted with the Harbours & Shore here Stand a good Chance to avoid them, as every day it proves by the arrival of a number of prizes. I believe the Captns are fond of having their wages run on, but however they must take this with them if they lye there Twelve months Longer and are taken at last they will have no wages to receive. upon the whole I think it much better for all concern'd the[y] Should embrace the first favourable opportunity to proceed. I am Sir [&c.]

DR. ROBERT ROBERTSON'S OBSERVATIONS¹

[H.M.S. Juno in Narragansett Bay] On the 13th [August] we arrived at Rhode-Island; – the people of the Orpheus continued sickly all the voyage. The dysentery began now to attack the people. I sent to sick quarters on the 14th, one with fever, three with flux, one with bad cough, and three with scurvy. From the 14th the list varied frequently until the end of the month. – On the 28th, one with dysentery, one with vomica, and one with hydrocele, were sent to sick quarters. A third part of the ship's company were sent in their turns on shore, to walk and gather apples, when the ship's duty and the weather permitted. On the 15th we anchored up the harbour, off Prudence.

The patients who complained were, nine of fever, one of pleurisy, five of dysentery, one of vomiting, one of indigestion, three of scurvy, one of rheumatism, one of hypochondria, one of vomica, one of cough, one of eruption, one of strain, two of contusion, two of inflammation, one of abscess, one of furuncle, and one of ulcer: – in all 33.

There were no unusual symptoms either among the fever or dysenteric patients.

Our people there are still in a panic & Bur-

GOVERNOR EDWARD HAY TO MARQUIS DE BOUILLÉ, GOVERNOR OF MARTINIQUE¹

[Extract]

Sir

Barbados 13. Augst 1777

I have received the honour of Your Excellency's Letter of the 24. June. It is with the utmost Concern I observe, that Your Excellency lays it down as a Principle, that You ought to make no distinction between the faithful loyal Subjects of His Brittannick Majesty, and those in open Rebellion, or indeed who have traiterously withdrawn themselves from their Allegiance . . . As Your Excellency thinks proper to allow the American Rebels that same ingress, or egress under Your Government, as You do to the loyal Subjects of Great Britain, and that at this time there are several American Privateers in Your Harbours; I beg leave to tell Your Excellency, that the protection You allow these Pirates (for Such those are declared to be, who plunder the property of British Subjects upon the High Seas), I say, Your Protection to these Vessels, and their Crews, is of infinite prejudice to the British Islands in the West Indies, for if they had not Your Ports to fly to, they could not remain in these Seas to molest the British Subjects and obstruct the Trade of Our Islands.

I take the liberty to send Your Excellency a Copy of a most extraordinary Letter, which I have lately received, signed by Eleven Commanders of American Privateers then at St Pierre. It does not become me to correspond with Rebels and the insolent Expressions in their Letter are better answered by Contempt. But as They make a pretence of what they falsely alledge, in order to use His Majesty's Loyal Subjects who may fall into their hands with Cruelty and Barbarity; To prevent which & for the sake of humanity, I will desire the favour of Your Excellency to give directions, that these Commanders of American Privateers be informed, "That The American Prisoners taken out of American Privateers, & brought here were put under Confinement as Enemies and Rebels, as well for the peace of this Island as for the safety of the Shipping in the Harbour. That They have a very ample dayly Supply of Provisions, and are all in good health, and from being very lean and meagre when they came, are now grown fat & lusty, in good Spirits, and perfectly well contented. It would therefore become these Commanders, who talk so much of humanity to treat their Prisoners in the same manner."

It is only the Men out of the American Privateers, that are put under confinement. These who are taken in American Merchant Ships are immediately at their liberty to go on board any Vessel, not bound to any Colony in Rebellion. I had some of these the other day, who immediately the same day entered themselves on board a Vessel bound to Newfoundland.

I should return Your Excy my thanks for your kind treatment of Mr John Wall, and particularly for ordering his Vessel to be restored to him.

I beg leave to inform Your Excellency, that for sometime past Small French Vessels have come frequently to this Island; They bring Your Excellency's passport as having passengers, or under some such pretence; but I apprehend from their Manoeuvre in seldom coming to An Anchor, that they are rather employed by the Americans as Spies, or at least they have somebody on board for this purpose, to find out what is going forward here & to procure all the Intelligence they can. I would intreat Your Excellency to put a stop to this proceeding, if possible Jean Baptiste Le Blanc of the Sloop Le Chasseur with One Durham of Bermudas, whom I take to be a man much to be suspected, arrived Sunday Morning the 3d Instt and did not come to an anchor altho' ordered but was driven on shore on Tuesday by a Westerly Wind from the Sea.

CAPTAIN JOHN SYMONS TO REAR ADMIRAL SIR PETER PARKER ¹

Cerberus. – Copy of a letter sent to Rear Admiral Sir Peter Parker, August 15, 1777.

Wednesday night being at anchor to the westward of New-London in Black Point Bay, the schooner I had taken, at anchor close by me a-stern, about eleven o'clock at night we discovered a line towing a-stern that came from the bows; we immediately conjectured that it was somebody that had veered himself away by it, and began to haul in; we then found the schooner had got hold of it, (who had taken it for a fishing line) gathered in near fifteen fathom, which was buoyed up by little bits of sticks at stated distances until he came to the end, at which was fastened a machine, which was too heavy for one man to haul up, being upwards of 100 weight; the other people of the boat turning out, assisted him, got it in upon deck, and were unfortunately examining it too curiously, when it went off like the sound of a gun, blew the boat into pieces, and set her in a flame, killed the three men that were in the stern; the fourth, who was standing forward, was blown into the water; I hoisted out the boat, and picked him up much hurt: as soon as he could recollect himself, he gave me the following description, as near as he could remember: – It was two vessels, shaped like a boat, about twenty inches long, and a foot broad, secured to each other, at the distance of four feet, by two iron bars, one at each end, and an iron tube or gun barrel in the centre, which was loose, (as he had himself turned it round with his hand); they swam one over the other, the upper one keel upwards, the lower swam properly, but was so under water as just to keep the upper one a few inches above the surface: to the after iron bar hung a flat board, to which was fixed a wheel about six inches diameter, and communicated itself to one on the upper side of the boat, of a lesser diameter; opposite to these was another wheel, on the flat of the under one or loaded vessel, which had likewise communication with the wheels of the upper boat; it was covered with lead, and the keel heavy loaded, in order to keep it down in the water.

The fatal curiosity of the seamen (who unfortunately had been bred in working in iron) set this wheel agoing, which it did with great ease backwards and forwards, and during their looking at it, which was about five minutes from the time of its being first put in motion, it burst; Upon examining round the ship after this accident, we found the other part of the line on the larboard side buoyed up in the same manner, which I ordered to be cut away immediately, for fear of hauling up another machine, which I concluded was fast at the end, and might burst when near the ship.

The mode these villains must have taken to have swifted the ship, must have been to have rowed off in the stream a considerable distance a-head of the ship, leaving one of their infernals in shore, and floating the other at the distance of the line, which, from the quantity that we have got on board (near 70 fathom) and what the man tells me they saved in the schooner, which was upwards of 150 fathom more, must have been near 300 fathom; they at the length of this line put the other in the water, and left it for the tide to float down, which in this place runs very strong.

As the ingenuity of these people is singular in their secret modes of mischief, and as I presume this is their first essay, I have thought it indispensibly my duty to return and give you the earliest information of the circumstances, to prevent the like fatal accident happening to any of the advanced ships that may possibly be swifted in the same manner: and to forbid all seamen from attempting hauling the line, or bringing the vessel near the ship, as it is filled with that kind of combustibile that burns though in the water. I am, Sir, &c.

J. Symons.

P.S. Having made a model as near as I could, from the description of the man who was saved, and sending for him to enquire if the model represented the machine he saw, he informed me the large wheel on the flat of the upper board was made of wood, with iron spokes, sharp at the end, and projected about an inch without the gunwale of the boat, in order to strike into the side in hauling up, and by that means set the wheels in motion, which in five minutes after it had been moved by the people, burst; it is therefore very fortunate I ordered the other to be cut away; for had it touched under the hollow of the counter, in hauling up, so as to set the wheels in motion, there is no knowing what damage it might have done, either to the ship or people.²

GEORGE WASHINGTON TO THE PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS¹

Sir, Head Quarters Camp at Cross Roads Augt 15th 1777 –

Mr Du Coudray has lain before me a plan of the river, by which it appears, that for a considerable space between the two sand banks on the East side of Fort-Island, there is from four to four and a half fathom's depth of water. According to this representation, there would be room for three frigates to lie between those banks, in such a position as to enfilade the works at Fort-Island, and make it difficult to maintain them. There are but two ways of remedying this inconvenience: one by having a sufficient number of chevaux de frize sunk at the entrance between the two banks, and the other by having the left flank of Fort-Island fortification supported by a good battery, capable of resisting the cannon of the ships and obliging them to quit their station. – The first is evidently preferable, because the efficacy of it will be more certain. A few chevaux de frize properly placed might effectually bar all access to the ships; but there is a possibility, that any battery, we can construct, might be overpowered by the fire of the shipping; – and as we have few cannon, and Fort-Island is itself a marshy spot, incapable of affording earth for the batteries necessary to be raised upon it, which must be brought from the opposite shore, it would not be prudent to multiply works there, more than cannot be avoided. – It would also be a great advantage gained, to secure the Island from annoyance, except in one point and that in front, from only three ships at a time; which would be effected by stopping up the passage between the two banks, with chevaux de frize. – I should therefore think it of importance to have this measure immediately adopted, and carried into execution. With great respect I have the honor to be Sir [&c.]

CAPTAIN SIR GEORGE COLLIER, R.N., TO PHILIP STEPHENS ¹

Sir

Rainbow in the Harbor of Machias in New England, 16th August 1777.

I am to desire You will please to inform their Lordships, that the Lieutenant Governor & Council of Nova Scotia, having in their Representations to me of the 28th of last Month express'd strong Apprehensions, that the Kings rebellious Subjects in the Eastern Parts of New England were about to invade, & ravage that Province, from Machias, & requesting I would take such Measures to prevent it, as shod appear to me best for the Publick Safety; – I, in consequence thereof, put to Sea on the 30th of July, with the Rainbow & Blonde under my Command, designing for Machias; but the Calms, & almost constant Fogs, made our Passage, not only very tedious, but dangerous, from the Rapidity of the Currents, (the setting of which frequently varies,) & the numerous Breakers & Shoals the entrance of the Bay of Fundy abounds with.

I was join'd by His Majesty's Ship Mermaid, off Cape Sable, & she proceeded with me to the Cranberry Islands near Mount Desart, where I anchor'd on the 10th Inst – I found the Blonde here, who had separated from me in a Fog, & the Hope Sloop, whom I had (previous to my Sailing) sent to Passamquodi for Intelligence, & directed to join me here; The Captain of the Hope confirm'd the Report of the Rebels intentions to invade Nova Scotia; that Magazines were establishing at Machias, & other Preparations making there for that Purpose; & likewise that a Sloop with Ammunition, Provisions, & Presents for the Indians, was lately arrived there.

I staid but a few Hours at the Cranberry Islands, & then weigh'd with the small Squadron; The Fogs & Currents however made it impossible to get into the Harbor of Machias before the 13th of August, where I anchor'd about 4 in the Afternoon with the Rainbow & Mermaid, as high up, as the Depth of Water wou'd permit: I immediately made the Signal for the Marines of each Ship, (amounting in the whole to 123,) to embark on board the Hope, which was done (with an Expedition that did Honor both to the Sea, & Marine Officers, &c) without occasioning a Delay of more than a Quarter of an Hour, (for I wish'd to push the Attack as quick as possible, not only on Account of the Tide of Flood which then prevailed, but also to prevent the Enemy from assembling in too great Numbers, before the Destruction of their Magazines was accomplish'd.)

The Hope then proceeded up the River towards the Town, accompany'd by the Ships Long boats, & a Flat bottom Boat well barricaded; The Blonde followed, but got aground at about a Mile up; She however soon floated off, but was not able from the narrowness of the Channel to get higher than 3 Miles

The Hope went on, till she was stopp'd by a Boom across the River, & a trifling Fortification, which together with the Wind coming foul, oblig'd her to Anchor; the Rebels kept up a pretty brisk Fire of Musketry upon Her, from each side of the River, & from the Fort before mentioned; at 5 o'Clock next Morning the Marines were all landed, under cover of a Fog, & drove the Rebels out of the Fort with very little Resistance, which they set Fire to & destroyed, they found only a two pounder & a Swivel in it, the rest of the Guns being on board two small Privateers who belong to Machias.

Near the Fort were three Magazines forming for the intended Invasion of Nova Scotia, & consisted of Flour, Rice, Tann'd Leather, Hides, 300 Pair of Shoes, Ammunition &c, all which were set Fire to & totally consumed, so that in all Probability the Rebels will lay aside all future Thoughts of invading their Neighbours, as it will take considerable Time & Expence before the Articles wanted can be re-established.

Besides the Magazines before mentioned, several small Vessels were destroyed, & a Corn Mill with a very large Quantity of Corn was burnt by the Blonde; a Sloop of about 80 Tons, loaded with Lumber, was likewise taken.

Capt Dawson having reconnoitred the Boom found it cou'd be cut loose without much Difficulty, which was accordingly performed by Him.

The Marines then re-embarked & the Hope proceeded upwards toward the Town; the Rebels however accumulated fast on the adjacent Heights, & kept up a constant Fire of Musketry upon Her, which did no Damage as she was well barricaded: – She got almost as high up as the Saw-Mills in the Town, but finding Breast Works of fell'd Trees, & a number of arm'd Rebels to the amount of about 400 (including 40 or 50 Indians,) & that the Vessels one of which appeared to be a Privateer were hawl'd into a Creek, where they could not be easily got at without landing, (by which our small Force would have been in Danger of being cut off,) Capt Dawson with great Propriety took the Resolution to return, satisfy'd with the Damage already done the Rebels: – He accordingly did so, but a calm taking Place, the Hope two or three Times got aground; which gave the Enemy an Opportunity, from Logs of Trees & thick Woods, of killing & wounding some of the Men, who all behaved with great Spirit & Bravery, as did likewise their Officers, who went thro' every Fatigue & Danger, with the utmost Cheerfulness & Fortitude.

I may with great Truth say, that every Thing which was possible to do with our small Force has been achieved; & if we had had but 100 Troops more, the Destruction would have been compleat; but it plainly appears from the Circumstance of the Boom, & other Reasons, that the Rebels were apprized from the disaffected at Halifax, of the Attack which was meditated against them.

I shall direct one of the large Frigates to stay here for three or four Weeks, to watch for any Vessels of Supply which may be bound to Machias; which I hope with occasional Visits by the Cruizers, will restrain the lawless Banditti of these Parts within just Bounds, & prevent the King's Subjects (their innocent & peacable Neighbours,) from being harrass'd & disturbed by them any more. I am Sir [&c.]

Geo Collier

P.S. I beg leave to add, as one Proof of the inveteracy of the Rebels, that the Musket Balls which were found in the Ships, as well as those extracted from the Wounded Men, are all chew'd or jagged. –

Providence Gazette, SATURDAY, AUGUST 16, 1777

Providence, August 16.

A Prize Schooner arrived at an eastern Port last Tuesday, taken by the Sloop Providence, Capt. Rathbun, in the Service of the United States; she was bound from New York to Jamaica.¹ Two other Vessels were in Company with the above Schooner, one mounting 12, the other 4 Guns, both which Capt. Rathbun engaged, and was preparing to board the largest, when the Schooner bore away, and attempted to escape. After securing the Prize, Capt. Rathbun immediately gave Chase to the other Vessel, and gained fast upon them. Mr. George Sinkins, Master of the Providence, a good Officer, and well respected, was unhappily killed in the Engagement.

Tuesday last four Vessels from the Eastward, bound to Connecticut, were drove ashore at Westerly by one of the Enemy's Frigates.² The Troops stationed there got some Field-Pieces to the Shore, and prevented the Enemy's destroying or getting them off. The Vessels and Cargoes were all saved.

ORDER OF THE CONTINENTAL NAVY BOARD OF THE MIDDLE DEPARTMENT¹

Continental Navy Board [Philadelphia] 16th Augt 1777.

The Officers of British Ships of War have set on Shoar several Persons belonging to American Merchantmen taken by them; these Persons they have considered as Prisoners on Parole; – The American Marine Comm. discharged British Merchantmen taken by their Vessels, not considering them as Prisoners of War – this being the Case it is necessary to come to an Explanation. A negotiation is now on Foot for that & other Purposes, & will, it is expected, be determined in a few Days. In the mean Time, however, the Crews of American Merchantmen so set on Shoar, ought to be considered as Prisoners on Parole –

COLONEL JONATHAN EDDY TO THE MASSACHUSETTS COUNCIL¹

Machias Augt 17th 1777 –

To the Honble Council of the State of Massachusetts Bay

Since my last, acquainting your Honors with the Intelligence I had receiv'd, concerning the Enemy's Design of invading this Place, we have found the reality of it. Last Wednesday the 13th Inst appear'd in Sight three Ships, a brig and a small schooner coming from the Westward, and standing in for the Harbour; & soon after came to an Anchor at the Mouth of the River; One of them was a large Ship, suppos'd to be the Rainbow of 44 Guns, the Mermaid 28, the Vulture 14, and the armed Brig Hope 16 Guns.

Conceiving great Hopes of taking us by Surprize, the Hope stood immediately up the River attended by a Sloop and twelve Boats, till they came opposite to a small Battery we had about 2 miles below the Falls, mann'd with about Twenty men with small Arms and one 2 pounder. The Enemy attempted to land there with six Boats and a Number of Men but were repuls'd by our People with some Loss. Early on Thursday Morning, being foggy, thick Weather, they landed on a Neck of clear'd Land, a little below the Battery, in hopes of cutting off the Retreat of our small Party, but Col: Foster who commanded there, took such Precautions in that point as render'd their Hopes abortive, & secur'd his retreat. The Enemy then took Possession of the Battery & burnt two Houses and barns thereabouts, and soon after the Brig stood up the River together with the Sloop and Boats above mention'd, till they came fairly in Sight & within good Shot of the Falls, not expecting to meet with any Resistance, but seeing Continental Colours flying, and two Breastworks fill'd with Men, one of them having two 2 pounders, the other one 2 pounder and six swivels, they began to think of retreating and accordingly got the Boats ahead to Tow the Brig down. This was about Sunset; I instantly detach'd Major Stillman with thirty Men to attack the Boats & harrass the Enemy in their Retreat; The Major proceeded by Land till he got abreast of the Brig and Boats about a Mile and half below the Falls and began a heavy Fire, which was warmly return'd for some Time from the Brig with Cannon and small Arms; The Affair Continued in this Posture till they came opposite the Battery which they had taken at first where the Brig came to an Anchor, the Boats not being able to keep any longer ahead, because of the incessant Fire of our People, which as the River is pretty narrow, must do considerable Execution among the Boats; Next morning she got under way again with the Boats ahead, and were again attack'd by our Men on both Sides of this River, but finally got out of reach of Small Arms & run aground so that she was left dry at Low Water; Our People got one of the 2 pounders down & began to play upon her in this Position, and Hull'd her several times: It is very unfortunate that we had not one or two good Pieces of Cannon, as by that Means the Brig must have struck to us. However having lighten'd her with the help of the Sloop, she got off the next high Water & drop'd down to the other Ship & this Morning the whole came to Sail & went out, except the Milford; Their Destination is unknown to us as yet but I shall take Care to inform your Honors as soon as I can procure any Intelligence thereof.

I must beg Leave to Request an immediate Supply of Ammunition and Provisions, as what I brought with me will last but a little while, having been oblig'd to expend a good deal in this three days Siege. In all them attacks our Loss is only one man kill'd and Capt Farnsworth of my Regt wounded but hope he will do well. Great Praise is due to Col: Foster and the Militia under his Command, who gave me all the Assistance I could desire and behaved Extremely well, as also to Major Stillman, and the rest of the Officers and Men belonging to the two Regiments now raising.

It happen'd Extremely well for us that Mr Allan and Mr Prebble had arriv'd here with about 40 Indians who were of great Service to us and assisted us greatly.

The Enemy's Loss in all these Attacks must have been pretty considerable, though we cannot at present come at any Certainty of it –

For further Particulars I refer you to Lieut Col: Campbell who has been very alert on this Occasion, & given us all the Assistance in his Power from the Western Settlements—

I am with due Respect [&c.]

CAPTAIN JOHN PAUL JONES TO JOSEPH HEWES¹

My dear and honored Sir,

Portsmouth August 17th 1777.

Inclosed you have sundry letters &c which you are at liberty to use at discretion – for I can unbosom myself to you with the utmost Confidence, – you have laid me under the most singular Obligations, & you are indeed the Angel of my Happiness; since to your Friendship I owe my present enjoyments, as well as my future prospects. – I will not attempt to thank you by letter, but endeavour to prove by my conduct that your Friendship and good Opinion is not misplaced. –

I do not at present expect an Alteration to take place in the line of Rank, – but I will hope for a seperate Command, whereby I may be enabled to distinguish myself in the Service: – for I should esteem it a greater disgrace, and a worse hardship, to be set under the command of any Man who was not in the Navy, as early as Myself, than to be fairly broke and expelled the Service – especially as the Men I speak of cannot plead superiour knowledge, or superiour services; – and many of them with whom I have conversed Mc Neill among the rest, have had candour enough to Acknowledge; that they did not expect to come into the Service in any other Capacity than as Junior Officers. – I aver that many of them durst not step forth as the beginning in such Ships as the Alfred then was, and at a time when Independance had not even been mentioned out of doors. – I know what misfortune is, and I dare meet it again, in it's most frightful aspect rather than loose my rank, – there are characters, among the thirteen in the list, who are truely contemptible – with such, as a private Gentleman, I would disdain to sit down – I would disdain to be Acquainted. – I am no Prophet – but an Alteration in the Navy rank will take place at a period not far distant; Justice will point out the Necessity of that alteration. – should it not take place will it not leave room for reflection? – and how will any Gentleman now in the Service be assured that he will not also be superseded by Men of presumptive Abilities? – I am very far from meaning to reflect on the Gentlemen who drew that line of Rank. – I am persuaded that it was done with intentional Impartiality; – but they have been misled by misrepresentation; and their not being long conversant in Navy matters laid them open to imposition. – I esteem several of the thirteen Captains by whom I am at present superseded – but, untill they give proof of their Superiour Abilities, I never shall Acknowledge them as my Senior Officers – I never will act under their command.

I inclose a Copy of my letter to the Marine Committee on the subject of Rank, when I supposed myself superseded by one Man; – and I am by no means inclined to retract my Sentiments now, that I find myself superseded by a number, – if I have deserved this I am unworthy of bearing a Commission! I am unworthy of drawing my Sword in the Cause of Freedom! – I am uncertain whither Mr Morris did or did not think it expedient to lay that letter before the Committee – perhaps he did not. – I would not make a difficulty about trifles, but this is no trifle to me. – I have last Winter paid off the Sloop Providence, and Ship Alfred from the beginning, and from the date of my first Commission untill now, I have received no more public Money, as an individual, than the Fifty pounds which was Ordered by the Committee this time twelve month to provide Cabin Stores at Philadelphia, and I have now no prospect of a Settlement.

In the term of Twelve weeks, including the time of fitting out the Alfred at Rhode Island; I took twenty four Prizes – among which was only one Sloop – and I have received little more than three thousand dollars, as my share of Prize money; yet these and a thousand other disagreeable circumstances I consider as trifles, – but to be superseded after all is insupportable! –

The Ranger's top sails will be bent tomorrow, – and I hope to overcome all the difficulty that subsisted, when I took this command and to have the Ranger at Sea much sooner than any other Ship in the Service hath yet been. – I may venture to affirm that there is not one of the thirteen persons in question who would in my situation proceed to Sea without a Settlement. – yet I will go.

I am deeply sensible of the many distinctions and preferences, which I have lately experienced from Congress, as well as from the Marine and Secret Committees. – I am incapable of Ingratitude, and ardently wish to be employed in such enterprizing services, as will convince them that I have not deserved their former Neglect.

I now understand that the Raleigh and Alfred are, by the Advice of Genl Whipple & Colo Langdon, destined for France in Order to provide the Raleigh with Stores, altho' she is now laden as deep as a Merchant Ship; – I mention this as there is a probability of our Junction there, and I am pre-determined not to serve under that dull inactive Genius, who would serve with more reputation in a dockyard than as a Commander in the Navy. – there are Frigates now building and lately built in France, that mount Thirty two Guns on one deck, – I wish for the Command of one of these Ships – and indeed, for the present, we ought to build Ships of no other Construction – they sail exceedingly fast, and are capable of carrying Eighteen Pounds.

Please to put the complaint against Captain Manley into the hands of General Warren. –

It will give me much pleasure to hear from you before you leave Boston – and I request your's and Mr Livingston's free Sentiments and advice on this letter. – I have the greatest respect for his Father and for Colo R H Lee, and should be happy in coresponding with them. – Please to inform me to whom you communicate the paper which I shewed you in Philadelphia, – and whither you think it prudent in me to shew it to any person this way. – You will soon hear of my distination, – I can write you to Philadelphia before I sail, I will hope to hear from you in France should I proceed there. –

I have many things to say on Navy matters, – but must at Present conclude with repeating what I have frequently advanced – I mean that short inlistments are incompatible with the Necessary Subordination of a Navy, – therefore I aver that the Seamen of these States ought to be registered and made Subject to Serve in their turns for three Years at one time. – I have the Honor to be with much respect and perfect Esteem [&c.]

. . . The destruction of General Burgoynes army is one of the first objects upon the continent, but how to effect it is the question. You see he moves with caution notwithstanding our army flies before him. It is near a month since he landed at Skenesborough his advance parties have advanced only about twenty or thirty miles and nothing or next to nothing to oppose him. Sure I am he never would have dared to penetrate an inch if he had met with a serious opposition – It is said our troops are pannick struck. this is strange they have met with no misfortune – I am confident if there is a formidable force collects under the command of General Gates that Burgoyne never leaves sight of his Shipping his retreat is secure while he has the command of South bay. in that situation he will rest unless he can bring over a great part of the country to join him. . . .

My dear Sir

Philadelphia 17th Augt 1777

We are not able yet to give you any account of the wandering Howe and his fleet, save that they were seen on the 7th instant off Sinapuxen steering Southward. Our accounts from France say that George depends much on the desperate efforts that Howe & Cornwallis must make to redeem their Bankrupt honor. His present Manoeuvre seems the effort of a despairing Bankrupt – For what good can result from having multitudes of Men & Horses confined on board Ships at this season of the year, exposed to the torrid hell that beams upon their heads? . . .

P.S. Since neither the Northern or Southern posts of this day bring us any account of Howes fleet, I am almost sure that he is gone to Charles Town South Carolina, which, in its present state, against such a great Land & Sea force, cannot stand – It must fall – Curse on his Canvass Wings – Tis an unfair advantage they take of us – [Annapolis] 17th Augt 1777.

The Intelligence received this Morning from [Thomas] Timson, makes it necessary that we instantly prepare in the best manner we can, for Defence or to enable us to assist our Friends. If the Enemy should design to send any considerable Force up the Bay, there will, as it appears to me, be no Place of Security for your Ship, but at Baltimore where too, she may eventually assist in the Defence of that Town. The Gallies at Baltimore we wish to be made as serviceable as may be. You are therefore to run the Defence within the Boom at Balt, put what of your Men you can in the Gallies. Shew this Instruction to the Officers on board them, which they are to consider as a particular Order to them to come down with their Gallies. You are to furnish what Guns or other Necessaries you can from the Defence, to the Gallies and Majr [Nathaniel] Smith is also requested to give them what Assistance he can, you will also come down in one of the Gallies yourself. Pursuant to an Order from James Young Esqr Vice Admiral of the Red &ca &ca &ca dated the 19th Augt 1777 To Us Directed.

taken by His Majesty's Sloop Beaver, and Condemed as prize in a Court of Vice Admiralty at Grenada) and have taken a Strict and Careful Survey of the Said Ship and thoroughly examined the Condition of the Hull, Masts &ca, also the Rigging, Sails and Different Stores; (an Inventory and Condition of which, we have hereunto annexed;) We have likewise set a just and equitable Value on the whole to the best of our Judgments; We find the Hull of the said Ship to be in a very good Condition the Beams & Timbers &ca are of a Proper Scantling and the whole part together in a Workman like manner, except the Method of fixing the Beams, which as the Deck has been raised, are placed directly over one another, and Consequently will be a great Hinderance to the Stowage of Men and Stores; her Masts, Rigging, furniture and Stores are Partly Unserviceable, some good and others much Worn as may be seen in the Inventory and she is of the following Dimen-tions and Tonnage. Vizt

Length on the Deck	Eighty Eight feet
Length of Keel for Tonnage	Seventy three
Breadth Extreme	Twenty Six feet, Six Inches
Depth in the Hold	Thirteen feet
Height between Decks	Five feet, four Inches
Burthen in Tons	Two hundred & 64 ³³ / ₉₄ Tons

Moreover it is our opinion that the said Ship is capable of carrying one Hundred Men and Fourteen Guns carrying Six pound Shot and We Value her at the Sum of Two thousand pounds Sterling.

Finally we declare that we have taken and made the said Surv'y and Valuation with such care and Assiduity that we are Ready (if Required) to make to the Impartiality of our proceedings.

GEORGE WASHINGTON TO THE PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS¹

Sir

Neshamini Camp August the 21st 1777.²

From the Time, which has elapsed, since Genl Howe departed from the Capes of Delaware, there is the strongest reason to conclude, that he is gone either far to the Eastward or Southward, and with a design, to execute some determind plan. The danger of the Sea, – the injury his Troops & Horses must sustain from being so long confined, – the loss of time so late in the Campaign, will scarcely admit a Supposition, that he is merely making a feint, and still intends to return either to Delaware or the North River without performing some enterprize first, in Another Quarter. The probability is in favor of a Southern Expedition; Because he has been seen, since his departure from the Capes, off Sinapuxent, steering a Southern course, – and because, had his destination been to the Eastward, his arrival there from the general state of the winds, must have announced It before this, or his Fleet would have been discovered by some of the Cruisers on that Coast. If he is gone to the Southward, he must be gone far that way; For had Chesapeake Bay been his Object, he would have been there long since, and the Fact well established. Beyond that, there is no place short of Charles Town, of Sufficient importance to engage his attention. The extensive commerce – the vast accumulation of Military and Other Stores in that Town, and its dependencies, with the eclat it would give his Arms, if he should unfortunately take it, afford him stronger inducements to direct his Operations there, than he could possibly have elsewhere.

Matters being thus circumstanced, an Important Question arises, How this Army is to be employed. If his Intentions are such, as I have supposed them, It appears to me, that an attempt to follow him, would not only be fruitless, but would be attended with ruinous consequences. The distance is so immense, that General Howe might accomplish every purpose he had in view before we could possibly arrive to oppose him, and so long a march, thro an unhealthy climate at this season would debilitate and waste a principle part of our Force. Added to this, after we had made a considerable progress, he might easily reimbarck his Troops, and turn his Arms against Philadelphia or elsewhere, as he should think proper, without our being in a condition to give the least aid.

As these, and many Other reasons, which will readily occur to Congress, will shew the impracticability of our counteracting Genl Howe in that Quarter, with any good effect, we have no Other Alternative left, than to remain here idle & inactive, on the remote probability of his returning this way, or to proceed towards Hudson's River, with a view of opposing Genl Burgoyne, or making an Attempt on York Island, as the situation of Affairs shall Point out. A Successful Stroke, with respect to either, would be attended with the most signal advantages, and would be the best compensation we could make, for any Losses we may sustain to the Southward. Besides these considerations, if after all our conjectures and reasoning upon the Subject, Genl Howe should be gone to the Eastward, to cooperate with Mr Burgoyne, the Army will be, by the movement proposed, so far on its way to prevent, I hope, the success of his Enterprize.

The above reasons led me to call a Council of General Officers this morning, to take the Subject of removing the Troops from hence into consideration, and I am happy to inform Congress they were in Sentiment with me upon the Occasion, as they will perceive by a Copy of the proceedings then had, which I do myself the Honor of laying before them. Nevertheless, as it is a movement which may involve the most important consequences, I have thought proper to submit it to Congress for their deliberation and decision. If it is deemed expedient, we have perhaps not a moment to loose, in carrying it into execution; and under this persuasion, I have sent Colo Hamilton, one of my Aids, who will have the honor of delivering this, to bring me the result of their Opinions.

As the Northern department has been all along considered as separate and in some measure distinct; and there are special Resolves, vesting the command in particular persons, in case it should hereafter appear eligible to unite the Two Armies, it may perhaps be necessary that Congress should place the Matter upon such a footing, as to remove all scruples or difficulties about the command that could possibly arise on my arrival there. This I request, from a disposition to harmony, and from my knowing the ill & fatal consequences, that have often arisen from such controversies, and not from the most distant apprehension, that one would take place upon such an event. The Thing, However is possible and to guard against it can do no injury. I have the Honor to be with great respect Sir [&c.]

G^o Washington

P.S. That I may not appear inconsistent – to advise & to act, before I obtain an Opinion, I beg leave to mention that I shall move the Army to the Delaware, to Morrow Morning, to change their Ground at any rate, as their present Encampment begins to be disagreeable and would injure their Health in a short time. Our forage also begins to grow scarce here.

2. Washington wrote another letter to Congress the same day:

[Extract]

I am this moment honored with yours of this morning containing several pieces of intelligence of the Fleet's having been seen off the Capes of Virginia on the 15th instant. I shall in Consequence of this information halt upon my present ground, till I hear something further.

Colo Pinkney of South Carolina paid me a Visit two days ago, he informed me that the Military Stores in Charles Town and the Neighbourhood were immense, and that he did not believe that the Governor or commanding officer there, had had the least intimation of the Fleet's having stood to the Southward, and he seemed very apprehensive that if Charles Town was their object, they would find them lulled into security and quite unprepared for an attack.

As I cannot yet think Genl Howe seriously intends to go into Chesapeak, I would by all means advise that an Express be immediately dispatched (if one has not already gone) to warn them of their danger – to let them prepare in the best manner for defence, and to advise them to remove all supernumerary Stores

[Philadelphia] Thursday, August 21, 1777

Congress took into consideration the report of the Marine Committee:

Resolved, That if, upon due consideration, jointly had by the navy board for the eastern department, and the governor and council of war for the State of Rhode Island, and for which purpose the said navy board are directed to attend upon the said governor and council of war, the preparing fire-ships be judged practicable, expedient, and advisable, the said navy board immediately purchase, upon as reasonable terms as possible, six ships, or square-rigged vessels, at Providence, in the State of Rhode Island &c., the best calculated for fire-ships; that they employ proper persons to fit and prepare the said fire-ships with all possible expedition; that the said navy board provide proper materials therfor, and employ a proper captain or commander, one lieutenant, and a suitable number of men for each of the said ships or vessels, of approved courage and prudence; and that notice be given to all the commanders of the continental ships and vessels in the port of Providence, to be in readiness to sail at a moment's warning: That, as soon as the said fire-ships are well prepared, the first favourable wind and weather be embraced to attack the British ships and navy in the rivers and bays of the state of Rhode Island &c.: that the officers of the continental navy there favour, as much as possible, this design, and use their utmost efforts to get out to sea, and proceed upon such cruize, or to such ports as the said navy board, or the Marine Committee, shall appoint or order.

Resolved, That the governor of the said State of Rhode Island &c. and the council of war of that State, be acquainted with the foregoing resolves; and that they be requested to afford every assistance in their power in effecting the above purposes.

Resolved, That General Spencer be made acquainted with the foregoing resolves, and that he be instructed, as far as possible, to favour, the said designs, by such attacks or feints as he may judge proper with the troops and boats under his command.

Resolved, That secrecy, as much as possible, be recommended in carrying into execution the foregoing resolves.

Resolved, That the sum of 4,000 dollars be paid to the officers and men on board every fire-ship or vessel which shall actually set on fire and destroy any one of the enemy's ships of war, in any of the bays, rivers or harbours, in the State of Rhode Island &c., of 20 guns or upwards; and 3,000 dollars for every ship or vessel of war under 20 guns; and 1,500 dollars for every transport; the proof of the execution done to be certified by the [commodore] commander or commanding officer, or by the oath of such person or persons as may be witness to the fact.

Resolved, That the rewards aforesaid, shall be divided in the following proportion: one-fourth to the captain or commander of such fire-ship or vessel, one-seventh to the lieutenant, and the remainder to the crew, to be equally divided amongst them.

Ordered, That the Marine Committee collect the best intelligence and instructions they can, respecting the best method of constructing fire-ships, and send the same to the Navy Board of the eastern department.²

Dear Sir

Inclosed is The Lieuts Letter – we coud get no Express & I send Harry. This Morning about 9, or half after, the Van of the Enemy appeared above the Bodkin, in sight of Town from the Crt House Steeple, and the Hill above the Church. they were on the Eastern Shore standing up the Bay and have so continued, just now (10 minits ago) I saw them from the Church Hill and they seemd the Rear division being composed chiefly of small Craft with a few large Ships, as they appeard to the naked Eye for I had no Glass, and the distance very Considerable. Capt Nicholson says he counted 150 Sail from his Maintopmast Head. – As they are obliged to go above the Mouth of the River to clear the Bodkin Shoals, before they can stand in to the Mouth of the River, we cannot yet determine whether they mean to come here, or not, but I shoud suppose not, because I think if they had, their Headmost Ships must have hove in Sight coming up the River before now. – Your Letter was sent Express by an Officer to Congress at 2 oClock, and we wrote them of the Enemy being in sight, & standing up the Bay. JOURNAL OF THE MARYLAND COUNCIL ¹ [Annapolis] Thursday 21 August 1777.

The British Fleet having this morning passed Annapolis and consisting of upwards of two hundred & Sixty Sail as said to have been counted by some and as estimated generally. The Governor proposed to the Council as a Question for their opinion whether the small number of Militia already in Town should be kept and others called in and preparation made with a view to defend this place or the Town and Forts evacuated and the Guns and Stores endeavoured to be removed and secured. The Governor and Council were unanimously of opinion that Annapolis cannot be defended by any force which may probably be collected against the force the Enemy may at any Time bring against it and that therefore the Town and Forts ought to be evacuated and the Guns and Stores removed and Secured - Major [John] Fulford was consulted on this question whilst the same was under Consideration and was of the same Opinion as the Governor and Council.

MAJOR CHARLES STUART TO HIS FATHER, THE EARL OF BUTE ¹

[Extract]

Chesapeake Bay, on Board a Transport, Aug. 21, 1777

I was not entirely wrong in my conjecture Gen. Howe intended going to the South. We sailed from Sandy Hook on the 23rd July and arrived at the Delaware the 30th, stood up that river for some hours, when, as if it were a feint to perplex Washington, we put back to sea the middle of the same night, and on Friday got between Capes Henry and Charles (two Capes that form the entrance of Chesapeake Bay), and are this day off Anapolis steering for Baltimore.

During our voyage various reports have been spread concerning Burgoyne, but one in particular seems to have weight, as it is mention'd in all the rebel newspapers; it says that he has had an action with their Northern army at Fort Amherst (formerly Fort Ann), wherein their army was totally defeated, and their General Schuyler surrendered.

Our movements to the Chesapeake seem to indicate that Gen. Howe has hopes, or assurances, that Maryland will return to obedience; it is probable that that part of Maryland, Virginia, and the lower Delaware Counties situated on the peninsular form'd by the Delaware and Chesapeake, may answer these expectations, as in general they have been well affected, and as they are so situated that no rebel army wou'd venture there when very few ships are left for their protection, but the Western Coast of this Bay, from all I can learn, are very averse to a reconciliation. They have hoisted the rebel Colours, and the arm'd vessels we have observed are too strong proofs of this unreasonable enmity. . . .

GOVERNOR PATRICK TONYN TO GOVERNOR JOHN RUTLEDGE ¹

(Copy)

Sir/ Council Chamber St Augustine the 21st August 1777.

I received your Letter of 5th August with the enclosures by a Flag of Truce, to which I have done due honour.

I pass over the Reflection you were pleased to throw upon His Majestys Servants in America for their ill treatment of Prisoners, conscious that they are groundless.

My Personal knowledge of the two great Officers His Majesty hath been pleased to honour with the supreme Command in America will not admit of the least suspicion of ill treatment to deluded Men their Prisoners. The well established Character of the English Nation for humanity and generosity I doubt not will remain unsullied in this unhappy Contest.

The Prisoners brought into this Province have been treated with great tenderness, several have been permitted to walk about the Town at large, many have been allowed to retire to their places of Abode upon their Parole, several promised, that they would procure one of our People to be exchanged for them, some of whom have not fulfilled their Engagements.

The Masters, Mariners, and Men in general of Merchant Vessels, who have been brought into this Province have been permitted to be at large, and to go where they chose.

Your threats of using with Cruelty Captain Lofthouse, or any other Person, whose misfortune it may be to fall into your hands, shall never intimidate me to sacrifice my honour, or the public Interest. I hope I shall never retaliate Cruelties upon the deluded Men, who may become Captives to His Majesty, or to punish the innocent for the Errors, or faults of the Guilty.

I mean not to irritate or to insult, I hope however you will excuse me for saying that there is a great difference between Mr Lofthouse the Master of a Merchant Vessel, and Mr Pickering the Commander of a Vessel of War in Arms, and Rebellion against his Majesty. – but suppose them in similar Circumstances, in that respect, why should a Man, who conducts himself with prudence, and discretion be cruelly treated, because another man behaves with impropriety and insolence. I never heard of Pickering untill I received your Letter, as I am not acquainted with the particular circumstances of his being taken, I decline being any ways concerned in his Exchange.

There is in this Province Mr Engs Master of the Franklin taken by Lieutenant Ellis of the Hinchinbrook off your Bar, he being the Master of a Merchant Vessel can not be deemed an improper Exchange for Loft-house.

Mr Engs with some others for particular circumstances have been confined in a healthy and airy situation, and directions have been given to supply them regularly with a reasonable allowance of Provisions at the Kings Expencc.

Messieurs Freeman and Westcott I gave liberty six months ago to leave this Province, and they have been gone since that time. If you are not satisfied to grant Messieurs Kennedy and Bethune the same indulgence, rather than they should suffer as Prisoners I will take them in Exchange.

I shall in a few days send Mr Engs and some others of our Prisoners belonging to your Province with a Flag of Truce.

Mr Warner the Pilot of this Port, arrived here some time ago, I shall send by the Flag Mr Richard Stevens in Exchange for him, he might have broke his Parole, but I might with the same Justice demand that you would return Mr Logan who voluntarily and unasked engaged upon his honour to procure one of our people in your Custody to be sent in his stead.

I shall only observe, that with respect to Mr and Mrs Logan, and Messieurs Perronnean and Bellenger, who arrived in the Betsey and Jenny from London, that I did not consider them Prisoners of War, that with respect to the Logans they had my Passport to go to Georgia or Carolina, that I wished for their departure for their Convenience long before they went, and that I desired it might be understood by the two last, that I neither considered them as Rebels, or Prisoners of War, that they had liberty to go when, and where they pleased except to the Colonies in Rebellion into which I could not permit them to pass. If they were friends of Government it would expose them to persecution as they were at that time expelling all such from their Provinces, and that if they were not it would be strengthening his Majestys Enemies.

His Majestys Proclamation and my Proclamation forbid all intercourse, correspondence or connection with the Colonies in Rebellion, and I shall never encourage or permit this Province to become the Channel of unnecessary Correspondence with People, who are hostile to, and Opposers of his Majestys Government.

For the satisfaction of the Inhabitants of this Province, I expect you will send as you have offered all the Letters, that came by Lofthouse for this Province under a Cover directed for me. I am Sir [&c.]

CHARLES CARROLL OF CARROLLTON TO GOVERNOR THOMAS JOHNSON¹

[Extract]

Dear Sir/

22d Aug. 1777.

Mr Deards, who got here late yesterday evening, brought me the first authentic intelligence of the enemy's grand fleet being in our Bay. An express passed thro' this place tuesday morning with an acct that part of the Enemy's fleet was off the Mouth of Potowmack: I could not persuade myself that this fleet was any thing more than some ships sent to pillage & collect

Stock: but it seems that Howe's army is on board this fleet, & it is now plain he means to land at the head of the Bay: perhaps he will form an encampment in the isthmus or narrow neck of land between the two Bays, & thus inclose the Peninsula lying between Chesapeak & Delaware Bays: from thence he may flatter himself with recruiting his army with the disaffected & supplying it with provisions. – Pray let me know your determinations. Do you think it proper to call the assembly? can it meet, if you call it? I suppose the Enemy's shipping will endeavour to cut off, if it can be done, the communication between the two shores. Imagine the Militia, or a part of it, will be called out & sent to the head of the Bay? but what magazines are formed there for their support? & what can be collected to feed our militia, & Gen. Washington's army in the space even of 6 weeks? Imagine Howe's intention is to do what I have mentioned above, & when his army is refreshed to move towards Philada

It may not be unworthy of observation with what calmness we now hear of the approach of a fleet of two hundred sail. Two years ago a tender are the glorious fruits of independence, which has delivered our minds

JOHN JAY TO ROBERT MORRIS¹

Dear Sir

Kingston 23 Augt 1777

Mr Deane in a Letter of the 28 May, after recommending an attack on the Greenland fishery & Hudson Bay Trade, desired me to communicate the following Plan to Congress vizt “To send three frigates loaded with Tobacco to Nantz or Bordeaux, equipped in the best Manner and on their Arrival hide the chief of their Guns and appear as Cruizers. Intelligence may be had every week what the station of the British Fleet is, and how the Coast is defended, and a sudden Blow may be struck which will alarm & shake Great Britain to the Center. This Plan will appear bold & extravagant – so much the more likely to succeed as it will be unexpected, & the plundering and burning of Liverpool or Glasgow would be a most glorious Revenge, And believe me it is very easily effected – I dare put my Life on the Issue of it, if left to my Management, and I can get good Men to execute.”

This was a favourite Plan of Mr Dean before he left Philadelphia, and I confess I wish the Experiment may be tryed. The greatest Difficulty I fear would be to get the frigates well manned &c safe to France – I am Sir [&c.]

MINUTES OF THE PENNSYLVANIA SUPREME EXECUTIVE COUNCIL¹

Philada, Saturday, Aug. 23, 1777.

The Navy Board informed the Council by Letter, that the Continental Navy Board, had requested that “Three of our armed Gallies & Two fire Vessels” may be sent down to the assistance of Capt. Alexander, & requested the order of Council thereupon. –

On consideration Agreed, That the request of the Continental Navy Board, be complied with; but that it be recommended, to the State Navy Board, to inform the Gentlemen aforesaid, that the Council think it necessary to observe, that the Gallies are not constructed for rough water & that they hope the Boats will not be run into unnecessary danger.

CAPTAIN JOHN PAUL JONES TO ROBERT MORRIS ¹

Hond Sir, Portsmouth August 24th 1777.

Yesterday Genl Whipple shewed me a letter which he had just receiv'd from you by return of Express wherein you mentioned my having Orders for France, I apprehend you allude to my former Orders from the Secret Committee, as I have receiv'd none lately to that Effect, as the Raleigh and Alfred have proceeded for France, should any Enterprize be adopted there I dread the thoughts of being set under that Mans command, who tho' he may be a good Carpenter, is by no means conversant in an Enterprize, or in the Art of War; and indeed I cannot consider any Man as my Senior Officer who durst not step forth at the beginning in such Ships as the Alfred then was, nor will I ever draw my Sword under the Command of any Man who was not in the Service as early as myself unless he hath merited a Preference by his superiour Services or Abilities. If the principle with Whom I was connected behaved out of Character and was incapable as was certainly the Case, I am ready to prove before you and the World, that I have not merited the heavy Stigma of being Superseded by thirteen Persons whose superiour Pretentions either as to Services or Abilities are at best Presumptive, for Heavens sake dear Sir, guard me against such Connections, which would be far worse than death. I know I can prove by my Conduct that I have not merited to be superseded, give me but an Opportunity of proving it, I ask no more.

Altho' I assisted Captain Thompson with some hands, I expect to have the Ranger at Sea within a fortnight.

CAPTAIN JOHN PAUL JONES TO MARINE CAPTAIN MATTHEW PARKE ¹

Sir

Portsmouth 24th August 1777.

Yours down to the 21st is with me. – with respect to the Swivels unless they can be done this week the time will not now Admit to have them Cast – therefore desire Captain Bradford to Apply for Captain McNeills or any other Eight Short Swivels fit for Tops and Send them here without loss of time. – Should not Colo Fraizer continue determined to proceed in the Ranger the Qr Cask of Wine will be more than Sufficient for my own Stores – however I have sent you two hundred Dollars – to pay Major Swan &ca but the Wine must be Bottled and Sent round here immediately Other wise you are not to take it. – you had no Orders to purchase for the Ranger, – therefore need not have laid out the Money which was given you for another purpose especially as the Agent was on the Spot.

I want the Sewing and Whipping Twine in the possession of Captn Bradford which was purchased by Captn Roach for the Ranger – their being none here at present to finish the light Sails. – I sent you a large Packet P the last post inclosed to Messrs Livingston & Turnbull but, as you make no mention of the receipt of it – I fear those Gentlemen must have left Boston before the Mail reached it. – the Packet contained letters of great importance to my friend Mr Hewes. – I have written to the post Master and desired him to put the packet into your hands. – should he do so you are to break it Open and forward the Packet for Mr Hewes under a cover directed for the Honble Robt Morris Philadelphia. – Your letter contained an Order from the Master of the Alfred to his Wife for the Delivery of my Copper Stove. You must Apply for the Stove with or without the Order – and endeavour to procure from 40 to 60 Sea Hatts or if they cannot be had – send as many Dutch or Kilmarnock Caps for the Seamen. – My Old St George's Ensign was forgot at Captain Bradfords – let it be Sent. – Mr Cairns will oblige me by Sending Deep Sea and lead Lines – I believe we want little else in his way except what was lately Ordered – The Topsail Sheets are Made and the Topsails Bent. – When these things are Shipt you are to return here as soon as possible and bring with you the Agent's Account of Money Supplied me as Commander of the Sloop Providence and ship Alfred – Also the Invoice of Slops & Cloths sent round here for the Ranger. – the Cartridges Mr Wallingsford tells me are Suited to the Muskets. – You are not to loose a day or hour at this important Season – I have not Sat down myself except at Mails [sic] or to write letters since I took this Command. – should Mr Livingston be gone for Philadelphia you may Apply to Mr Russell – Mercht and ask him whither he hath been requested by Mr Livingston to Accept of my Agency. – I have not the pleasure of being Personally acquainted with Mr Russell – but am so much pleased with his Character that I would give him the preference and Use my influence with the Officers and Men in his behalf. – should you not return here this week write me P Thursdays post – every letter you send by the Stage costs three times the postage.

You must procure for me a Waste Book and Ledger of about two or three quires of good paper – Also a half a Ream of different Sorts of post and writing paper, a Small Box of good wafers – an Almonick – Six Books of large Sized writing paper containing one or two quires each unrulled. – And ask the post master to let me have two glasses for the pewter Ink stands which I had sometime ago from his Old Man – as those I recd were on arrival Broken and others cannot be procured here – I am Sir [&c.]

HENRY MARCHANT TO GOVERNOR NICHOLAS COOKE ¹

[Extract]

Honored Sir,

Philadelphia August 24th 1777 –

I have by no Means been unmindful of the unhappy Situation of the State of Rhode Island. A very large Body of the Enemy long since took Possession of near a quarter Part of that State, and altho' the Enemy have called off from Time to Time great Part of their Forces there, Yet Their having gained a Possession, aided still by Their Ships; the Force of the State with the small Aid received from Our Sister States have not yet enabled Us to dislodge the Enemy. – In the mean Time, the whole Trade and Commerce of the State, as well as the Continental Ships have been blocked up. –

Taking into Consideration that the Enemy have seen proper to make this Campaign so far to the Southward and Northward as I am in Hopes will give an Opportunity to raise a sufficient Force of Millitia and State Battallions to induce Our State joined by Massts and Connecticut to make an Attempt upon Rhode-Island: – And in Order to give a Spring to such a hoped for Design; and wishing at least to get Our Shipping and Continental Navy out to Sea, – I ventured to draw up the enclosed Resolutions and to prefer Them to Congress: – They were by Congress referred to the Marrine Committee, and obtaining a favourable Report from that Board, I finally got Them passed by Congress nearly as I had at first drawn them up.²

If They should be thought by the Navy Board for the Eastern Department and the Councill of War of Our State, to have been idle, inexpedient or unadviseable, I shall but have lost my Pains, not doubting but they will be candidly considered. – If on the other Hand, They should meet the Approbation of the State I have the Honor to represent, I shall feel myself amply rewarded: – And should They prove efficacious in delivering Our Trade and Commerce and the Continental Navy, from its present Embarrassments my every Wish will be unspeakably gratified. – I thought I could not well answer it to the distressed State of Rhode-Island &c to remain an Idle Spectator of the Calamities to which it has been reduced without receiving any Continental Aid, while so many Thousands have been expended in the particular Defence of Delaware Bay and River; – Not less than ten Fire Ships, besides several large Gallies having been ordered by Congress, exclusive of very great Continental Assistance in constructing and raising of Batteries &c. &c. –

I would by no Means however wish to see the publick Monies expended in Our State, without a hopeful Prospect of its being really beneficial. – And I would therefore strongly recommend that it be first well considered. – I doubt not You will have the same Resolves inclosed to you by the President; ³ but I have hitherto made it my Duty to transmit you all Resolves that respect Our State – I could wish the Hints I offered some Time past, of sending out two armed Briggs on a Cruize, and to France for Cloathing &c four Our Soldiery may be thought worthy of Attention; especially if Our Harbour should be opened –

Just as Congress as well as Genl Washington had concluded Mr How had most certainly sailed for South Carolina, and an Expedition was forming for Our Army, and some of Them had began to move again Eastward, An Express denounced, Mr How's Appearance with a Fleet of 260 Sail almost up to the Head of Cheaspeak Bay, Genl Washington immediately ordered his Army to march this Way – The main Body of His Army this Morning passed thro' this City. – From the State House We had a fair View of Them as they passed in Their several Divisions – The Army alone with the necessary Cannon and Artillery for each Division, exclusive of Their Baggage Waggons, Guards &c which took another Rout, were upwards of two Hours in passing, with a lively smart Step. . .

It is just reported that How has begun a landing about seven Miles below the Head of Elk. . .

AQUILA HALL TO GOVERNOR THOMAS JOHNSON¹

Dr Sir

I have sent express to let you know the Enimys Fleet now lays off[f] the mouth of Elk River and down towards Sassafras river. I have been watching them this day or two and have Ordered the Militia to Assemble at Swan Town this day. I was there yesterday with a few men, and there was a Brigg, a Sloop, a Gondola, and one or two small Craft pased by Swan Town, about a Mile Above the Place and then the Brigg and Sloop returned back, but the Gondola and a small vessel went up to the mouth of Susquehannah and then returned to the Fleet as did all the rest, If a few Cannon had been Planted at Swan Town they might have Prevented the Vessels from going by Swan Town; after the Vessels had returned to the Fleet Captn Francis Holland with two of my sons, Two of the Paca's and two or three more passed over to Spesutie Island with intent to drive off what Stock they could, but before they return'd with a Parcel of Cattle there came a Sloop and Schooner two Armed Vessels and Anchored opposite a sand bank where Captn Holland was Obliged to drive the Cattle by within Abt $\frac{1}{4}$ of a mile of the Vessels and as soon as the Enemy saw Captn Holland enter the beach they sent off[f] a boat with men to head him, and at the same [time] began to play on him & men with Cannon ball & Grape shott which drove the Cattle back and then Captn Holland was Obliged to retreat down the Island where I sent Canoes to take them off, the Tenders Continues at Anchor yet, and I Intend this day to make another tryal to gett some of the stock off[f], If no more Vessels comes to Assist those that are there then is a fine Parcel of stock on the Island and its a Pity it should fall into their hands. . .

"GENERAL DISPOSITION PREPARATIVE TO THE LANDING OF THE [BRITISH] ARMY" ¹

The Vigilant, Swift, Senegal, Sphynx, Apollo and Roebuck are to form the advanced Detachment of the Ships appointed for covering the Descent. The Captains will take their Stations in the Order of Succession annexed for proceeding up the Elk at Day-Light to-morrow Morning, or as soon after as the Signal for that purpose is made from the Ship in which the Admiral is embarked. They are to be prepared with Stern-Cables and Springs, for taking their Covering Stations according to the Appointments that will be timely signified in the Progress of the Operation.

And for greater Expedition in the Conveyance of those Orders, a Boat from each Ship is to attend the Admiral, who will be forward with the leading Ships, to give the further Directions in these several Respects necessary.

Captain Duncan will command the Flat-Boats.

The Troops of the First Debarkation will be ready for embarking in the Flat-Boats by 3 o'Clock to-morrow Morning; at which time the Night-Signal for embarking them will be made, if the Weather is suitable for the purpose.

As soon as the Troops of the First-Debarkation are assembled in the Flat-Boats, the Boats are to rendezvous with them onboard the Roebuck, there to wait for further Orders.

If the Weather should in the mean time prove unfavorable for Landing the Troops, the Signal for countermanding the Landing will be made by the Admiral; and the Troops are in that Case to be carried back to their respective Ships. The Boats are to wait alongside the several Transports for further Directions.

The Flat-Boats with the Troops proceeding up the Elk are to follow the Covering Ships.

The Transports of the Second and Third Debarkations, Artillery, Horse-Ships &c, are to succeed, according to the Orders that have been already communicated.

The particular part of the Shore on which the Landing is to be made; The Placing of the Covering Ships and other Arrangements regarding the general Conduct of this Service, will be regulated in the Progress thereof as Circumstances may require.

Given onboard His Majesty's Ship the Eagle off of Elk River the 24th day of August 1777.

Williamsburg Augt 24th 1777.

The Briggs Defiance & King of Prusia, after a long delay, longer I think than was absolutely necessary, are ready to depart, & intend attempting to Escape in the Approaching dark Nights. I wish them Success & hope to God they will arrive Safe they have been now more than A month reparing at Portsmouth. the expence attending the repairs & additional Supplys since my last will be furnished you by Capt Paul Loyal one of the Gentn who Superintends the Continental Ship Yard in this State, & I have desired him to give you his Oppinion respecting the Brigg Defiance, it being my Oppinion that She was sent out under an Idea of her falling into the Enemies hands, for the Capt Acknowledgees that She left her Port in a leakey condition & without proper Sails, both as to number & Condition and it is my Oppinion that the Continent ought not to pay for the time it has taken to repair her, or to Sustain the loss of part of the flour which was dam[age]d by their neglecting to pump the Vessel in due time. I fear the whole of this flour will be injured by long lying in a hott hold, altho it was good when I examined it about three weeks ago.

I fear Six of your Vessels will fall into the Enemies hands to wit. Taylors, Atwoods, Riggs, Jas. Perkins, Trasks & Stephen Lows. they are blocked up by the Enemies fleet at the head of Elk, where they were sent with Indian Corn & where they have been unaccountably detain'd. they left this the last of June indeed Taylor & Atwood received their Loads early in June and were long detained by the Enemy and Contrary winds at York. Trask about the last of June, Low a little After & Perkins about the middle of July. the first of them has had time enough to have been back from Boston, While they have been laying there Witham, Bennett & Hunt got back just before the fleet appeared in our Bay, they say the Vessels lay at Elk a fortnight before – A Single Article was taken out of them. these three I hope will be ready to depart in a few days, this flour business I fear will be productive of great loss to the Continent as besides the detention & loss of Vessels, there is a large qty of flour Stored that I fear will perish. VICE ADMIRAL JAMES YOUNG TO PHILIP STEPHENS ¹

Sir

Antigua 24th of August 1777.

Please to acquaint my Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty, that Yesterday arrived here His Majesty's Brigantine Badger, by whom I have received the Several dispatches for the different Governors, which I will forward to them by the earliest opportunity. I have also received Copys of Lord Germain's Letters to the Governor of this Island, from which I perceive His Majesty's Intentions are to give the whole Value of the Prizes taken by the Non Commissioned Vessels to their Owners, unless the Owners of those I have Caused to be Seized by pertinaciously persisting in the Prosecuting of the Suit against me, for having acted in the discharge of my Duty, should remove the favorable sentiments His Majesty entertains for them, and Render themselves unworthy of so particular a mark of His Royal Favour; whether they will or not by this Conveyance I shall not be able to acquaint their Lordships, as I make use of the Opportunity of the Badgers going to Jamaica to send this by the first Packet from thence. I beg to observe to their Lordships, that the Owners of None of the Non Commissioned Privateers except the Hamond, attempted the Prosecution of any suit against me, though they were detained the same Manner as she was, and most of their Men: They were always very glad to have their Vessels returned back to them on asking for, and promising not to fit them out again as Cruizers, which promise they never kept, as some of them were twice taken and released again.

The Hammond was a second Time taken and they might have had her then for asking, as I never refused giving her up; but they took another Method, as their Lordships have already been informed. As She had not taken any thing, the Owners of Her cannot partake of His Majesty's Goodness, therefore they Yet may Obstinate persist; for the Two Extraordinary Verdicts they have Obtained, they may think will make up to them for their Want of Success. I sincerely wish they may not; and that every thing may be amicably settled, I beg leave to return my thanks to their Lordships, for their directions to their Solicitor to take the Cause in Hand, neither myself nor Captain Dumaresq have yet payed any Money, but have been obliged to keep out of the Way 'till we heard from England.

Their Lordships being so good as to Confirm the Commissions I gave in consequence of Captain [Thomas] Wilkinsons Death, Captain [Thomas] Windsor now takes the Opportunity of Returning to England, by the Packet from Jamaica; and I have appointed Mr [John Auriol] Drummond first Lieutenant of the Portland to the Command of the Beavers Prize, late the Oliver Cromwell Rebel Privateer, who will sail the first Week in November with a Convoy for England as I cannot Get Guns fitt for her here; of which I wrote their Lordships by the Camel. I have received Petitions from the Islands to appoint a Convoy after the Hurricane Season is over, and as I have reason to believe it will be a very large one, I must also send home the Grasshopper with them; I am sorry to find that Captain [William Clement] Finch pursuant to his Orders did not Join the Tortola Ships, it might be owing to bad Weather as it is dangerous going among the Virgin Islands at this Time of Year, and it is impossible to beat up from the Island Tortola to join the Convoy at the Place of General Rendezvous; so that the whole must go to them.

I further have the Pleasure to acquaint their Lordships that (as the Portland is in Port for the Hurricane Months) I have Manned a Couple of Sloops as Tenders with a Petty Officer to go out occasionally and that they have taken a Privateer called the Black Snake a Schooner of Eight Guns and Forty Men (Twenty four of whom are French) and Carried her into Barbadoes. She made no Resistance though only one of the Sloops got up with her after a Chace of Eight Hours, I have appointed Mr Newsam the Midshipman who Commanded her to the Vacancy made by Mr Drummonds going into the Beavers Prize, and also Mr [William] Peacock Lieutenant of the Beaver to be second Lieutenant of the Portland, all which I hope their Lordships will approve of.

The Several Reports of the New Endeavour and Oliver Cromwell I will transmit to their Lordships by the first Conveyance. I am Sir [&c.]

many things Necessary with which I would not take up your time at present – Shall now proceed to mention some things which respect my Self more particularly.

In my former Letters I gave you the Outline of our Late Cruize, without entering into a circumstantial Account, or giving my Opinion of men, & things with that freedom I now propose to indulge my Self in this.

I take the Liberty to assure you, That when I enter'd into the Continental Service I had not one Single thought whither I Should be placed the third or the Thirteenth upon the List, my ambition was fully Satisfied when I was favour'd with a Commission placing me where I now am – and Altho I did then foresee that one day or other I might possibly fall under the Command of one man, whose Ability I had reason to doubt – yet I was determined that happen whensoever it might – I would Obey and follow his instructions with all that Zeal which becomes a faithfull Servant to the Publick, who will never neglect or loose Sight of his duty for any private view whatever – With these Sentiments I enter'd into the Service and have constantly made them my practice ever since – my conduct on our late cruize under the Command of Capt Manley will Abundantly prove the truth of what I here advance, for Never did a Pilotfish follow a Sharke, or a Jackall follow a Lion, with more Assiduity and Complisance then I follow'd him at Sea for Six or Seven weeks (chiefly in bad weather Latitudes) – and that without any regular System of Signals, or instructions for my direction dureing which time he led me into Severall Scrapes by his misconduct – and at last left me in one to Shift for my Self.

I hold it criminal to asperse the character of any man, much more the Absent, and in some cases Scarcely Justifiable to Speak all the Truth for which reasons were I not under a Necessity I Should now Say Verey little of Capt Manley – but inasmuch As I find my Self involved in a chain of difficultys by his blunders & misconduct, I must in justice to my Self Say, That he is totally unequall to the Command with which he has been intrusted – he being ignorant, Obstinate Overbearing and Tyranical beyond discription – a man under whose command none can live with pleasure but such creatures as himself – and those Also must be of his own makeing – Such is That Fellow of yesterday, Mr Stephen Hill whom he promoted over all Other Officers heads to Command the Fox, who by his ignorance and Misconduct lost her at last, for had he Tack'd when Capt Manley and my Self Tack'd on the Enemy he might have weather'd them whilst we were engaged with the Flora or had he kept the wind with me even after Manley left us, & Tack'd to the South'd from us he might have Escaped – but to bear away, & run to Leward with all the Sail he could crou'd when a Third Ship of the Enemy was then in Sight to Lewward discover'd the most Stupid ignorance in Nature.

All these things will Abundantly appear when ever a court martial happens, which god Grant may be Soon.

I have been curst with another composition of the Fool and Knave, I mean a certain Mr Palmes who had a Commission as Capt of Marines on board the Boston which Commission he has distroy'd by casting it into the fire. his disobedience to orders & frothy foolish conduct Obliged me to lay him under an arrest – but as there is no means here of bringing him to a Court martial I shall leave it to you how to deal with him – in the mean time I shall take Notice of him another way. I am Gentlemen [&c.]

Sir

[Philadelphia] August 25th 1777

Your Letter of the 18th June advising your arrival at Charles Town with 500 Stand of Arms has come to hand, and we are pleased with your success. The Commercial Committee has now given Orders to the Agents to load your Vessel with a convenient Cargo which you must receive and proceed therewith to the Island of Martinico where you are to deliver the same as the said Agents shall direct.

When this is done you must again return to Charles Town where the Agents will employ your Schooner agreeable to orders now given them, therefore you must follow such directions as they give you in future advising us when you arrive. We doubt not you will be extremly cautious to prevent your Vessel from falling into the hands of the enemy and that you will be diligent for dispatch in Port and at Sea. Wishing you success We are Sir [&c.]

CONTINENTAL NAVY BOARD OF THE MIDDLE DEPARTMENT TO CAPTAIN JAMES JOSIAH, CONTINENTAL NAVY SHIP Champion ¹

Sir/

[Philadelphia]

Captain Alexander having received Instructions from us to make an Attack on the Enemy's Ships in Delaware Bay, if he shall judge proper, you are to assist him in this Enterprise by every Means in your Power; After which Captain Alexander, Captain [Isaiah] Robinson & Captain [Benjamin] Dunn will immediately proceed to Sea. – As you will then be the oldest Officer you are to take the Command of the Remainder of the Fleet, & conduct them with all Expedition into the Cape May Channel: When there, you are to exert the utmost of your Endeavours to keep the same open, so that American Vessels from Sea may come up that Channel to this City, & those bound from hence may get to Sea.

As we know your Ship is but weakly mann'd, you are to divide Captain Brewster's [Peter Brusstar] Crew & yours in such Manner that each may be equal in Number and Strength, which we think may answer the Purpose, tho' not so fully as we could wish.

We hope you will have Opportunities whilst in the Cape May Channel of encreasing your Strength by Enlistments. –

We shall expect to hear from you as often as Occasion shall require.

Wishing you good Success, we are Your Friends

RICHARD HENRY LEE TO THOMAS JEFFERSON ¹

[Extract]

Phila August 25. 1777

. . . After Gen. Howe had long raised the curiosity of this part of the world, to know what could be his view in imbarcking his army and coasting it for 5 weeks in a most oppressively hot season; at length, he appears at the very head of Chesapeak Bay where he remains with more than 200 sail of Vessels—His Troops not yet landed that we know of, but imagined they were put on shore yesterday. We are left yet to guess his object. It may be supposed either for this City, or to conduct a line from the Chesapeak to Newcastle and thereby inclose a large tract of Country between that Bay, Delaware, and the Sea. Let his plan be what it may, Gen. Washington, with a gallant Army is gone to enter a Caveat. The General with his Army passed thro this City yesterday, and they made a fine appearance . . .

RICHARD HARRISON TO THE MARYLAND COUNCIL¹

St Pierre Martinique 25 Augt 1777

. . . I have been waiting with Impatience for the papers concerning the Cargoe of the schooner friendship which Mr Vanbebber had sold in Curaçoa, as well as a state of some other Matters at Statia that it is absolutely necessary to transfer into your Accot here before it can be rendered in regular form – These I have not been able to procure an Accot of the disagreeable & perplex'd situation of Mr Vanbebber, who you doubtless know was confined in the Fort at Statia for three or four Weeks, during which time he had sufficient Employment to think of and provide for his personal Safety, which he at last effected on the Night of the 7th or 8th ulto by evading the Vigelance of his keepers & flying to St Croix, from whence he embarked a few days after and is I hope now safely landed in America— Ever since he has been gone I have been settling our Accounts, & with the assistance of Mr James Smith with whom he left his Books & papers, & who I expect up here in a few days, I hope soon to have them all finally adjusted; that is to say closed and the Ballances transferred into my own private Books – when they are to be paid, must depend on you. . . .

Inclosed is Accot sales of the Mollys last Cargoe, Nte Proceeds at your Credit £1244. 9. 9 – Also Accot Sales of the Friendships last Cargoe Nte Proceeds £770. 10. 10½. – You will find the Charges on the latter very high, the principal of which is for transvoiding the Flour into french Casks – This however I found to be absolutely necessary not only to freshen the Flour but to procure a sale for it – for being obliged to export it. I could prevail upon no body to purchase that would run the Risk of carrying it off in the American Barrells – Upon the whole I think you considerable gainers by it, as it has turned to much better Accot low as the sales are, than I some time ago expected.

We have now here a 64 Gun Ship & 5 frigates lately arrived from France, & several others are shortly expected – This naval armament seems to announce some hostile Intention on the part of the French; and indeed it appears to me almost impossible that they can remain idle Spectators much longer – Next Spring I think at farthest they will begin to unfold their designs if not sooner, especially if our Affairs should take an unfavourable turn in America But whatever may be their Views their Ships will be of great use to us here, as they will at least serve to protect our trading Vessells from the British Cruizers which are very numerous in these Seas & injure our Commerce much, particularly among the Leeward Islands.

Mr Vanbebbers Connection with me ceased when he left Statia all the debts we owed are of course thrown upon me here; it is to this place then that you will be pleased to order the Vessells that are to relieve me, not only on that Accot, but as a place also that [they] may come to with the least Risk – Hoping soon to see some of them arrive, I am with the truest respect and Attachment [&c.]

Court opened by making Proclamation as usual, The Libel, Order, & Return thereon read, the Evidence taken before the Register also read: The Judge then ordered Proclamation to be made for all Persons Claiming property in the Brigantine Active and her Appurtenances to Appear & Assert their Claims and defend their rights to the same. Alexander Brymer Esqr Agent Victualler Appeared and Declared the Brig was Apprais'd at Double her Value & therefor beg'd leave to withdraw the Claim he had filed in Court. The Warrant Issued by this Court to Assertain the Value of the said Brig & return thereon made, read as follows:

Nova Scotia Court of Vice Admiralty To John Newton, Samuel Cotnam & W H. South Esquires & Mr John Loader Master Builder in his Majesty's Dock Yard Halifax.

Greeting.

Whereas Maximilian Jacobs Esqr Commander of his Majesty's Ship of War Amazon did some time in the Month of July Inst retake a certain Brigantine called the Active, from the Inhabitants of some of his Majesty's Colonies now in open Rebellion which said Brig with her Cargo on Board are now under Libel in this Court for the one 8th part thereof, to be paid to the said Captors for the retaking & bringing the same safe into this Port of Halifax. These are therefore to empower & require you or any three of you to make a true and just Appraisement & Valuation of the said Brig her Boats, Stores, Tackle, Apparel, & Furniture as also her Cargo if any on Board, & make report thereof on Oath into the Registers Office on the first Day of Augt next at 12 oClock at noon together with this Warrant, and also to Certify your Opinion whither it would not be for the Advantage of the Owners to have the said Brig and Cargo Sold, should no Claimer appear to take Charge of the same.

Given under my hand & the Seal of the said Court at Halifax the 24th Day of July Anno Dom 1777.

P Curiam Charles Morris Junr Regtr

Pursuant to an Order from the Court of Vice Admiralty we whose names are hereunto Subscribed, have been on Board the Brigantine Active, & taken a Strict & Carefull Survey of her Hull, Masts, Yards, Standing, & running Rigging, Anchors, Cables, Sails, &ca & find as follows vizt -

JOHN DORSIUS TO THE CONTINENTAL MARINE COMMITTEE ¹

Gentlemen

Charles Town So Carolina Augst 26th 1777

I advised the 8th June that the Frigate Randolph was brought down from the Ship-yard after which she was twice Struck with Lightning & her Mainmast Shattered each time in such manner as to Require a New one, a Conductor is since fixed to the Mainmast, these Accidents together with the backwardness of Seamen entering onbd has caused the detention of this Ship in Port She is well fitted now & Several Privateers havg just arrived a Number of Men entered out of them so as to make up about Two hundred exclusive of Officers, the adva they engaged for is

Twenty Dollars p Man Bounty

Ten Dollars p do I agreed to Adva in part of Prize Money that may become due on the Cruize and

Twenty Dollars Bounty offered by this State

Capt Biddle has been onboard for ten days past & dropped down into Rebellion Road in order to embrace the first fair Wind & proceed on a Cruize I have procured Shipping to make Remittances to Mr S. Ceronio at Cape Francois, therefore don't stand in need of the Randolph for that purpose, & Capt Biddle observing the frequent Visits the Enemy make on our Coast, & take prizes so as to injure trade much, intends to stay on this Coast between this & St Augustine which I hope will meet your approbation, as Trade is carried on to a great extent here, when no interruption from Cruizers & the other States benefit by it. Capt Stevens in the Continental Schooner Lewis arrived here the 10th June from Martinique with 20 Chests of small Arms, he was Confined by Sickness for sometime after his arrival & his Vessell laid up, he is Recovered & I have bought the Brig Chance a fine Bermudas built Vessell for £15,000 & given the Command to him, she is to mount 8 three Pounders, Six of which I bought with the Vessell & two are taken out of the Schooner Lewis, she will carry about 350 barrells of Rice & is very suitable to Run between this & Cape Francois, as soon as she is hove down & Caulked I shall load her with Rice, Tobacco & Indico to address of Mr Ceronio for Accot of the United States, the Com[missio]n Capt Stevens had in the Schooner will answer I think if endorsed by our President on the back that the Command is given him in the Brig but shall be glad if you'l please to send a New One for to be delivered on his Return. The Schooner Lewis I have loaded with Salt by Permission from the President on Accot of the United States for No Carolina, she sailed this Morning, in order to get Tobacco in Return which will answer better than any other trade for so small a Vessell if she can be kept constantly in it, Tobacco is an Article much wanted for the Vessells I load on Contl Accot to make their Cargoes of greater Value than what can be done with Rice - I shall soon transmit the Randolphs Accots & am [&c.]

[Extract]

Most Excellent and Dear Sir:

New Orleans, August 26, 1777

I received Your Excellency's estimable letter of 1 June of this year,² in which you were pleased to explain the sentiment caused you by the notice of the seizure of the English boats on the Misisipy [Mississippi], and how little you expected this action in the midst of the deep peace and good harmony which prevailed between our two nations . . . before I apprehended the English Boats, Spanish ones were seized on the Lake [Pontchartrain] by the English war sloop West Florida . . .

I would gladly answer all the points in Your Excellency's esteemed letter if it were not a repetition of what I have answered already to the Gentlemen Commissioners of Your Excellency,³ who in their name and that of your nation have made the same representations, and which I have answered; all will come to Your Excellency's attention and I hope that you will be satisfied. . . .

[Newport] 27 Augt About 4 o'Clock this morning a Brig was discovered passing the Battery at Fogland ferry. She had almost passed the battery before she was seen owing to a thick fog, and there was only time to fire two shot at her before she was again observed by it. A few minutes after the Guns were fired: The Kingsfisher Sloop, stationed in the Seconnet, discovered a large ship very near her, under a pressed sail. She immediately Slipped, got under way, and fired her bow chace at the Enemy, who immediately altered her course and run directly on Shore to the Northward of Seconnet point. The Kingsfisher followed and came to an anchor at a small distance from her. She then fired a good many shot into the Rebel ship, which having obliged her people to take to their boats and row to the shore, the Kingsfisher sent her boats on board with an intention of bringing her off if possible; but as it was Ebb tide, and she had run on shore with great force, and all sails standing, it was found impracticable, and therefore orders were given to burn her, which was soon done effectually, and about 5 o'Clock she blew up. She proved to be a Rebel privateer, mounting 20.6 prs on her Main Deck, and 2.3 prs on her quarter deck; besides 16 Swivels, and a number of small arms. She was a new ship, well fitted, and clear for action.² Our people found a light burning in the light room in the Magazine. She did not fire a shot; but after her people quitted her, a continual fire of Small arms was kept up from the Shore on the Kingsfisher's boats, without any effect. The brig which was in Company made her escape, as The Kingsfisher was fully employed in destroying the Privateer.³

Captain Samuel Chace, Jr.

Great praise is due to Captain Graeme and his ship's Company for their conduct and activity on this occasion. The want of spirit on the part of the Rebels was very conspicuous. It is probable she had not less than 150 or 200 men on board; and for a vessel of that force to run ashore from a Sloop of War of 14 Guns and about 90 men, without firing a shot, was perfectly scandalous.⁴ She was Commanded by one Chase, and it is supposed came down from Taunton River.

Monday Morning the British Ship Swan, and three Tenders, came to off Milford Farms, about nine Miles from hence, where they landed about 40 men, with an Intention, as is suppos'd, to take away some Cattle, but on the Approach of the Enemy they were driven off by the Owners; they remained on Shore about 20 Minutes, in which Time they were busily employed in breaking the Windows, Doors, &c. of Mr. Merwin's House, and destroying his Beds and Furniture, but on the Peoples assembling they took to their Boats, and went off with great Precipitation, taking with them two Hogs, and a few Cheeses. A few Shots were exchanged with them and our People, after they were in their Boats, but we don't learn that any Execution was done on either Side.

PETITION TO VICE ADMIRAL CLARK GAYTON ¹

To Clark Gayton Esqr Vice Admiral of the White, & Commander in Chief of his Majesty's Fleet at Jamaica &c

The petitioners John Morris Esqr Mr Hugh Inglis, Mr Arthur Clarke, on the part of his Wife Katherine, & Mr John Morgridge humbly sett forth.

That your Petitioners, late inhabitants of the Province of So Carolina & Georgia, suffering under the present Anarchy in America did embrace the earliest opportunity of removing from it, and availing themselves to the permission given by the People of So Carolina, did sail from the Port of Charles Town on the 12th of July last, in a French Brigg, for the Port of Cape Francois in Hispaniola, as the only means of getting to this place, and arrived at the said Port of Cape Francois on the 9th Instant.

There your Petitioners there hired a small French Sloop nam'd the Cooper, now in this Port, for the purpose of conveying themselves and baggage to this place, and sailed from Cape Francois the 17th August Instant,

That your Petitioners had no sooner left the Port in the said Sloop, than they were boarded by a boat with 12 Arm'd Men, within two Miles of the Fort, who took possession of their Vessel, and carried her down to a Sloop about two Leagues to the leeward, which was Arm'd with Ten Carriage Guns & twelve Swivels, having Eighty Men onboard, all Foreigners, tho' under American Colours.

After standing off Shore for about an hour, both Vessels Tack'd and put into Port Francois, about three Miles from the Town of the Cape.

Your Petitioners were immediately sent onboard the Pirate Vessel, where they continued from the morning of the 19th to the Evening of the 20th during which, the whole of their baggage, was sent onboard the Pirate, and every thing valuable, but wearing apparel, was taken from them, as speciyed in the inclosed account, which your Petitioners are ready to attest; after which they were order'd to proceed on their voyage, and arriv'd here the 23d instant.

The Pirate Vessel as far as we cou'd learn is called the Fanny, a Sloop about 80 Tons, American built & Comanded by a Frenchman Nam'd Hegue, there was also onboard two French Gentlemen Monsieur Courtan & Monsr Banan known to be residents at Cape Francois & suppos'd to be part Owners.

The Captn Shew'd no Commission, and when asked whether he had any, answer'd it was of no consequence that his Vessel had been plunder'd and robbed by an English Man of Warr, and that he was determin'd to retaliate upon the first English he shou'd Meet.

As your Petitioners flatter themselves the Viciousness of the Act, will clearly appear, from the few Matters of fact herein stated, they have only to request you will be pleas'd to consider their sufferings, and make no doubt but you will endeavour to obtain them such redress, as you may judge them entitled to as British Subjects, and your Petitioners as in duty bound shall ever pray

[Extract]

Portsmouth, Aug. 28, 1777

The Raleigh (after waiting a fortnight for a Wind) sailed the 22d accompanied by the Alfred. She seem'd to go very fast through the water & I have been since informed by some Fishermen who saw her 7 or 8 Leagues off, that she could spare the Alfred, her small sail, and some of her courses. Capt Thompson was greatly at loss what to do. His Ship barely manned for defence, and no probability of increasing the number, the Enemies Ships so exceedingly thick on the Coast, that there is the greatest Chance of falling in with a number of them, on the other hand, the time spending, and the Crews of both Ships growing uneasy, being thus situated and no one here authorized to direct him what to do, he had a consultation with the Officers of the two Ships, the result he transmitted to the President and I hope it will be approved, for tho' I did not presume to advise him I must confess I fully approved in my own mind, the determination, as the best method in his situation, that could be adopted for the Public good.

I never had an opportunity of knowing anything of Capt Hinman till he came here, & as I had formed an opinion of him not the most favorable (and that without any just cause, or indeed without any cause, except the general Prejudice I had taken to Commodore Hopkins's Officers) I think myself bound in justice to say, that from the opportunity I have had of observing his conduct, I am fully convinced he is an exceeding good Officer. He is very judicious & active, an Excellent disciplinarian & at the same time possesses the intire Confidence & even the affection of his Officers & men. I am in great hope these ships will Retrieve the Honour that the American Flagg has suffer'd the loss of, by the ill conduct of some others. The Ranger will sail in about ten days if she has a Wind, Capt Jones tells me he has more than 100 men on his Roll & has a fair Prespect of filling up his Complement in a few days. Are you not mistaken in supposing Capt Jones has orders to go to Europe. He tells me he has received no such orders, since he took charge of the Ranger, however he will go thither unless he receives orders to the Contrary. . . .

I must at the same time add that I hear with much Concern, the Treatment of the Officers lately brought Prisoners into your Province by the Boston,² is by no means such, as the Humanity You suppose me to possess, would lead me to shew to any Prisoners here, or as from the Rank they hold in the Kings Service they are entitled to expect.

I shall therefore be inclined to hope that from this Representation more Lenity will be shewn to those Gentlemen in future. I am Sir [&c.]

Number 37.

Eagle Elk River

Sir

August the 28th 1777

I informed You in my last Letter of the 9th of July that the part of the Army intended by the General for a particular Service was embarked.

I put to Sea from Sandy Hook with the Fleet, consisting in the whole of Two Hundred and Sixty seven Sail, the twenty third of the same Month; being the earliest Opportunity the Weather would admit. But having frequent Calms, and otherwise constant South West and Southerly Winds in the mean Time, the Progress of the Armament was so much retarded, that We were not advanced along the Coast so far as the Delaware before the 29th; Nor off of the Capes of Virginia, the Destination of the Fleet, until the 14th Instant.

The Wind then changing to the Eastward, the Fleet proceeded on and anchored next Day within the Entrance of Chesepeak Bay. By the Attention of Captain Griffith commanding in the Rear, and the general good Disposition of the Masters of the Transports, the Passage was effected without Separation.

Captain Hamond, who had acquired a very correct Knowledge of the Navigation, was withdrawn from the Delaware, the Roebuck being replaced by the Liverpool, and charged with the Care of stationing proper Pilot Vessels to mark out the Channel up the Chesepeak Bay. The Fleet with that Assistance, being by the chief Pilot Mr William Warren Hayton, safely conducted up to the Head of the Bay, anchored between the Sasafra and Elk Rivers the Twenty-second.

Having attended the General to reconnoitre the adjacent Shores next Day, the Descent was fixed to be made on the 25th in the Elk.

The Debarkation of the Army was to be made on this Occasion in five Divisions, corresponding to the Number of Men which could be regularly landed from the Flat-Boats at the same Time.

The covering Ships, consisting of the Roebuck, with the Apollo, Sphynx, Vigilant, Senegal and Swift, moving up the River on the Morning of the 25th, the Flat-Boats under the chief Command of Captain Duncan, with the Infantry of the first Division advanced, and were followed in Succession by the Transports of the Second and Third Divisions.

No Preparation being made to oppose the Descent, the Transports of the other Divisions were also ordered forward: And the whole Army, with the necessary Proportion of Artillery and Stores, were landed the same Day on the Northern Shore opposite to Cecil Court House, about six Miles from Turkey Point.

The Ships of War, with the Transports engaged in this Service, will remain upon the several Stations as expressed in the enclosed Return, until the further Operations of the Army give Cause for making some Change in their present Appointments.

On the Arrival of the Fleet off the Entrance of Chesepeak Bay, I had the Satisfaction to receive Advice from New York, of the Capture of the American Armed Ship named the Hancock, by the Rainbow; And Recovery of His Majesty's Ship the Fox (taken some Time before) by the Flora. The very spirited Determination of Captain Brisbane, and proper Conduct of Sir George Collier, have induced me to trouble the Lords Commissioners with Copies of Captain Brisbane's Letters on that Occasion.

Disposition of the Camp

I have likewise added thereto, the Copy of a Letter from Captain Fotheringham, received at the same time, respecting his Desire to take the earliest Opportunity for having an Inquiry made into the Circumstances of the Capture of the Fox. The Fox being at Halifax, and more particularly not of the Squadron under my Command; I have therefore sent Directions for the Ship to be refitted, and Captain Fotheringham to be replaced in Charge thereof, for conducting Her to Newfoundland or Great Britain, as Circumstances will admit; when a proper Convoy can be provided for the Security of the Ship, in the State she can only be now navigated. He will be assisted therein by such of the Ship's Company as were released at the same time; and is to advise You of his Arrival in England, for receiving the Commands of the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty regarding his further Proceedings, if he is not sooner enabled to join Vice Admiral Montagu abroad. The other Principal Officers of the Fox will take their passage to England likewise, by the earliest Opportunity that offers after they may be exchanged, if the Boston Armed Ship is not intercepted by the several Frigates stationed on the New England Coasts.

Enclosed herewith you will receive an Account of the State and Condition of the Ships in this Bay and at Halifax since the Date of the last Return. — The Main-Mast of the Isis was struck with Lightning the 23d Instant, and appears to be rendered unserviceable, otherwise than for the passage to New York, where the Ship may be supplied with another Mast. The same Accident happened to three of the Transports at different Times, during the Progress of the Fleet up the Bay; But tho' the Masts were equally affected, the Ship's Companies in the several Instances, happily escaped all material Injury. I am, with great Consideration, Sir [&c.]

Howe

P.S. I beg leave further to submit to their Lordships Consideration the Extract of a Letter from Sir George Collier of the 12th past, with the Report of the Dimensions of the Armed Ship referred to therein; And beg to receive their Lordships Commands upon the Proposition.²

REVEREND JOHN MURRAY TO COLONEL JOHN WAITE, FALMOUTH ¹

Sir

My confidence in your zeal & fidelity to your Country prompts me in great haste to inform you – that after receiving a pretty little dressing at Machias Sir George Collier in the Rainbow wt Dawson ² as an attendant arrived in this harbour last tuesday; they took one sloop & attempted another immediately on their coming in – but our people attacked them, killed (as they say) two & wounded several more – since which the Commodore has come to give promises & the militia have gone home – he still lyes here – & it seems probable he has no tho'ts of going off soon – he still acts as if he intends another quarrel with us – we hear that three continental frigates are at Portsmouth ready for sea – if they would come here immediately this Ship would be an easy prey – she has but 334 men a fever & flux rages among them; if you would send an express to Portsmo the Country would thank you – & if the Ships come they might more than repair Manly's loss – I communicate this intelligence by Mr Muzzy who will tell you the fate of your express to Machias with great respect I am [&c.]

CAPTAIN JOHN PAUL JONES TO NEW HAMPSHIRE COMMITTEE OF SAFETY ¹

Gentlemen,

Portsmouth August 29th 1777.

As the Continental Ship of War Ranger under my command is nearly in readiness for Sea, and as I have particular Orders from Congress, to proceed with all possible expedition – I take the liberty applying to you for Authority to enlist a few Men from the Forts and Garrisons of this harbour, whereby I may be enabled with the greater facility to complete my complement, and to fulfil the intentions of Congress, Altho' I am perswaded that you will agree with me that no preference ought to be given where it hath not been merited by superiour Abilities or superiour Services – I should have made an earlier Application had I not waited the departure of the Raleigh.

I am with due respect. Gentlemen, [&c.]

PETITION OF JOHN HINCKLEY AND ANDREW OLIVER TO THE MASSACHUSETTS COUNCIL ¹

State of the } To the Honl Council of said State, assembled Massachusetts, Bay } at Boston August 1777 –

The Petition of John Hinckley and Andw Oliver humbly shews – that one Peter Higgins of Boston, some time in February last entered on board the Brigantine called the Freedom, belonging to this State, in the Capacity of a Gunner, that he proceeded in said Vessell under the Command of Capt Clouston in his late Voyage to France & returned home to Boston in her; and was on board during the whole time & at the taking of a number of Prizes That by reason of some unhappy dispute which arose between Capt Clouston & the said Higgins, in the Course of the Cruise, Capt Clouston declared, that the said Higgins should not remain in the Brig, & that he would discharge him; in consequence of which the said Higgins about three weeks before Capt Clouston gave discharge to his Men, left the Brig, & has since entered on board another armed Vessell in which he was unfortunately cast away & has since return'd in Distress and Capt Clouston has returned him to your Honors as a Deserter, which he says forfeits his Prize money & Wages: - Your Petitioners beg leave further to represent that a few Days before Capt Clouston sailed, Your Petitioners from a Principle of tenderness & Compassion to Mr Higgins distressed & large family, & that they might not be left destitute, purchased a Share of the said Higgins, & after his departure A Quarter of another from his Wife, for both of which the Mr Higgins has given orders on the State Agent for payment, as appear by the Papers herewith exhibited - They therefore pray your Honors to take the matter into your serious Consideration, tho' by a rigorous Construction of Law Mr Higgins may have forfeited his Prize money, that your Honors would view the matter in its Equity, and grant an Order to the Agent that your Petitioners may receive one Share & a Quarter of the said Higgin's Prize money, when received by him, & that the remaining three Quarters of a Share be paid to the said Higgins's family, whose distresses loudly call for your Honors equitable Relief - And as in Duty bound shall ever prayar -

Continental Navy Board

Philadelphia 29th Augt 1777

Sir/

Your Letter to Mr Morris accompanying five Persons Inhabitants of New Jersey & taken Prisoners from the Enemy's Army, was laid before this Board, to which for the future, you will please to address any Matters that may respect the Continental Navy in the Middle Department.

We are at a Loss to know whether the Terms of agreement with the five Prisoners sent us, are to be considered as settled by the Legislature of the State to be at all Times applied in the like Cases, or as a particular Agreement with these five Persons. – We beg leave however to represent that the Advancing Bounty to Men in their Circumstances is what they have no Right to expect on their Parts, & is a very great Risque of the Public Money on ours. Men who voluntarily enlist in the Navy are obliged to give Security before they receive our Bounty, & these Tories professedly inimical & enlisting by a compulsive Choice will by the Terms of your Letter, receive the Bounty & give no security at all on the other Hand, we are sure they will take the first Opportunity of escaping. We are willing to allow them their Share of Prize Money & Wages, but request you will reconsider the Promise of Bounty to Men in their Circumstances. We are Sir [&c.]

“COPY OF A LETTER FROM A YOUNG GENTLEMAN ON BOARD HIS MAJESTY'S SHIP Sphynx, IN ELK RIVER, TO HIS FRIENDS AT YARMOUTH, DATED AUGUST 29, 1777.”¹

I have the pleasure to inform you since my last by the Jamaica packet, that six days after we arrived at New York from Dominica in the West Indies, to our great surprize we found lord Howe with 30 sail of men of war, and 24,000 troops, ready to sail upon an unknown expedition. We were ordered to get provisions on board that night, ready to sail next morning, which we did down to Sandy Hook.

July 26th. We all sailed from Sandy Hook, and after a long, tedious, disagreeable and uncomfortable passage, arrived in this river, the upper end of Chesapeake Bay, where the oldest men in this country never remembered to have seen any vessel, except small canoes. Consider what an astonishment it was to them to see a large fleet of 500 sail come up, which every body thought in the fleet impracticable. This bay is one of the finest I ever saw, being 160 miles in length, and eight broad, navigable to the upper end.

August 27. We proceeded up the river to cover the landing of the troops, which they did without opposition to the number of 22,000 in one day. They had intelligence, that General Washington was about five miles off, but he thought proper to march off into the back country, there to make a stand. General Howe is gone in pursuit of him. We expect to hear in about a month's time of Philadelphia being taken. The army is very healthy and in great spirits. The people on the Maryland side, a great many are friends to government.

CAPTAIN JOHN PAUL JONES TO THE AMERICAN COMMISSIONERS IN FRANCE¹

Gentlemen,

Portsmouth 30th August 1777.

I had the honor of writing to you from hence 3d day of June last— Copy whereof is here inclosed. Congress have thought fit to put the new Sloop of War therein mentioned, now called the Ranger under my command, and have authorized Genl Whipple, Colo Langdon and myself to appoint the Officers. When I took this command, the middle of last month, I found that the Cordage and Canvis which had at first been provided for the Ranger was applied as Extra Stores for the Raleigh, the Ranger entirely unrigged, the Masts, Yards, and Hull alone remained, Warlike and other Stores were wanting, these and other difficulties, altho' they appeared almost Insuperable at first, are now in a great measure overcome by unremitting Application, and from my present Prospects I hope to have the Ranger, Equipped, manned and at Sea, in a shorter space of time, than any Ship hath yet been fitted in the Service, I hope to sail within Ten days. I have received late Orders from Congress, whereby I am entirely unlimited, these Orders however do not contradict my former Orders for France, as appears also by a late Letter from Mr Morris to Genl Whipple, and therefore at the end of my Cruise, I purpose to put in there, and do myself the honor of waiting on you with the Letter which was given me in charge by the Secret Committee.

Inclosed I take the Liberty of sending a Copy of a Paper, which I drew out at Philadelphia at the request of the President, in April last, when a Navy System was under consideration as it was written in very little time, and contains only the thoughts of an Individual, it may doubtless be lyable to exceptions, but should any useful hints arise from it my end will be fully answered, at present we have no Navy system, or Board of Admiralty, without which we never can have a respectable Navy, and by the late Line of Rank every Officer, who stepped forth at the beginning in Ships, like the Alfred, altogether unfit for War, when Independance had not been mentioned out of doors, now finds himself superseded by Men, who were then afraid to venture, and whoe's superiour Abilities are now at best presumptive, I am myself superseded by thirteen Persons, who cannot plead superiour Services or Abilities, this is one of the evil Effects of the hurry of Business, and of attending to Recommendation without Examination, or proof of Abilities by Services, when an Officer who is conscious of having done his duty finds himself superseded by Men, with whom a few years ago, he would have disdained an Acquaintance, the thought must be galling indeed, my honor must be Sacred, and I am determined never to draw my Sword under the command of any Man, who was not in the Navy, as early as myself, unless he hath merited a Preference by his superior Services and abilities.

I could point out various Enterprizes, which I think might be effected from France, with the new Frigate in question, and the Ranger, but it is unnecessary untill I arrive there.

I understand that there are Frigates lately built, and now Building in France that mount Thirty two Guns, on one deck, they are capable of carrying Eighteen Pounders, and must Sail exceeding fast, I should be happy if one of these Ships could be procured for me.

As the Packet is just going I must conclude, and I have the honor to be with Sentiments of Esteem and respect. Gentlemen, [&c.]

PETITION OF CAPTAIN JEAN TENNET TO THE CONTINENTAL CONGRESS¹

Philadelphia August 30th 1777.

The Subscriber declare, that having been in the Month of September last in the Port of New Haven, with a Cargo, I there purchased a vessell fit for a Privateer,² pierced for eighteen Guns, which Vessell, I promised his Honour Governor Trumble of Connecticut to arm at Cape Francois, and to return to the Continent loaded with Provisions & Ammunition; In consequence thereof Admiral Hopkins at Rhode Island granted me the Commission of Lieutenant in the Service of the Continent in order to make use of it in the above mentioned Armaments.

I went to Cape Francois, in the Month of February last, where I completed the Armament, which I had promised, but having arrived within ten leagues of Cape Henlopen I had the misfortune of being taken by Three Frigates,³ who carried me to New York, where I have remained ever since the month of April, confined on board of a Prison Ship, among every Class of People suffering Death and what is hardly to be described during four Months, where I should undoubtedly have died, had I not saved myself by swimming at the risque of my life; as for my Vessell and Cargo although I was cleared out for Dunkirk it was confiscated and sold for the benefit of the British King on the Deposition hereunder mentioned. Vizt –

At two hundred Leagues at Sea I met a Brigt from Surrinam bound to Philada to whom I promised my Company and assistance against our Enemies, which I did some days after, when opposite a small Privateer, by which she would inevitably have been taken, if I had not compelled her to sheer off. The said Brigantine was afterwards taken by the same Frigates that took me and the Captain had the Treachery to make the wicked declaration against me, who deposited as well as all his Crew that I had protected them, in hopes thereby to obtain his liberty. A certain named Raphael Isaac Merchant at New Haven with whom I had (as his Honour Governor Trumbull well knows) some difficulty relative to his dishonesty, in the account which he ought to have rendered me has wrote (in order to revenge himself) to Government at New York, that I had promised to bring back my Vessell; armed and loaded with Provision & Ammunition, and to prove the Thing better has sent twelve Sailors & Carpenters of New Haven who came to make Deposition against me before the Mayor, that I had been the cause that Mr Isaac's had been found out to be a Tory and thereby put into Prison, which Sailors and Carpenters I know very well by sight, are married there and return'd thither, after having took the Oath of Allegiance at New York, where they only went to answer the bad designs of Mr Isaac's this is what has occasioned the bad treatment which I have sustained by Government at New York and the Confiscation of my Vessell and Cargo.

I hope the Gentlemen of the Congress will have some regard to my misfortunes and situation which is very distressing, Seeing I have lost all even my Clothes, and that they would furnish me with an Opportunity of revenging myself of the Cruelty which they have made me suffer, The right means would be to advance me an armed Vessell or I will go to arm it at Cape Francois at my own expence, which vessell I will answer in Case she is taken by my engagements if it is thought convenient.⁴

Sir Wmsburgh August 30th 1777 –
 Your Congratulation on our Success was most welcome. You have mine most sincerly. I am happy to think that the disaffected, both on your eastern Shore & ours, are not so numerous as the Enemy expected, & I once feared. Some People, a considerable Number, in Northampton, who had refused the Test, upon the Appearance of the Fleet, took it with Alacrity. The Enemy having landed in your State, will give you some Trouble, in which my most ardent Wish is to give you Assistance. One third Part of the Militia of Eight Countys, is ordered to march to Frederick Town in Maryland, to act under Genl Washingtons Orders agreeable to a Resolution of Congress. I've ordered to the eastern Shore two Galleys, two companys of Regulars, two field pieces, a few Indians with Colo Gist, & I must think, a considerable Force there might greatly distress the Enemys Rear, while the main Army shall pass the Front.

Two small Batterys are nearly finished at Sengoteague & Matompkin, where the trade of this & your State may receive some Assistance. Is there any Method by which Virginia can annoy the Enemy & thereby assist you?

I must beg you will please to give me the most early Intellegence of every Movement of theirs from Time to Time that so this Country may be on its Guard. With very great Regard I am Sir [&c.]

JOURNAL OF MARINE LIEUTENANT JOHN TREVETT,
 CONTINENTAL NAVY SLOOP Providence ¹

[June 1 – August 31] ²

Now is June we are under sail bound to the Vineyard to get a few men and I took a step on shore at Bedford and pressed one John Scranton, one of my townsmen; and three others and then proceded on board and sailed for Old town; arrived the next day & got what men we could; lay there 2 days and then ran for Sandy hook & Made it, saw some large ships lay there and at the same time saw a ship, brig, Schooner and sloop get under way and come out standing to the S.E. we dodged them until the next day, when we thought we had got them a good distance from the hook we stood for them. About 3 P.M. we came up with the ship³ the other vessels near to her on her weather bow we hailed the ship as She had her Pendant Jack and ensign flying at her mizzen peak she gave us no answer we gave her a bow gun intending to break her cabin windows, drew very near her, the wind so scant we found we could not get to windward we bore away and went under her lee as near as we could and gave her a good broadside immediately she gave us as good a one when she run us aboard on our starboard quarter & hung there about five minutes until she broke all our sweeps that were lashed there at the same time the Brig of 10 guns & the Schooner of 8 lost no time, all three of them firing into us at once. As the ship fell off she gave us the starboard broadside we shot ahead of them with our sails and rigging much cut to pieces and then we bore away, all hands employed in fixing our rigging, we had but a poor crew at this time. Our loss was our sailing master, Capt. George Sinkens of Newport; he was killed & only 2 or 3 slightly wounded. we hove him overboard got our rigging as soon as possible ready and made sail for the ship came up with her just after sunset with a determination to board her for we well knew if we carried the ship the rest of the vessels would fall into our hands. we ran within half of pistol shot, gave her a full broadside but all three of them played their part so well we gave it up then it was near dark. At this time the Schooner was ahead of the other vessels we ran for her & ran along side & took her. we found her to be a Schooner near 140 tons burthen & found the ship to be of 16 guns Henry Johnson commander all of them bound to Jaimaca in ballast. The Schooner had a spand of horses & some carriages on board we ordered her for Bedford where she arrived safe.⁴ We had 12 guns only we steered the same course as they steered intending at daylight to take the 3d heat at them but in the Morning saw only one sail a long distance to the South, we stood for her and she for us, we saw she was a Privateer, she ran and got away, we continuing Southward & Eastward, Nothing happening for some days, saw & spoke a Brig from Eustatia bound to Holland, let her pass. saw several Deans and Duch, we being in the Gulf-Stream. . . . Nothing material happening we finished our Cruise and returned into Bedford and find our ship much out of Repair. – August 1777. Set the Carpenters and caulkers to work. and I went to spend a few days at Providence and East Greenwich.

VICE ADMIRAL RICHARD LORD HOWE TO CAPTAIN WILLIAM CORNWALLIS, R.N.¹

By the Viscount Howe, Vice Admiral of the White and Commander in Chief of His Majesty's Ships and Vessels employed and to be employed &c in North America.

Isaac Redman You are to receive onboard His Majesty's Ship under Timy Cain your Command the two Pilots named in the Margin.

It is intended, upon your joining the Raisonable, that Isaac Redman should be put into that Ship in place of Edwd Johnson, whom you are to receive and retain in the Isis during your Stay at the Entrance of the Bay.
The Pilot Timy Cain is also to remain in the Isis, to be employed for conducting any Ship of War that may arrive within the Capes in the mean time with Dispatches for me, up to the Anchorage of the Richmond off of Swan Point. Captain Gidoin, or other the Commander of the Frigate who may be found on that Station, will signify my further Intentions for forwarding the said Dispatches to me as Circumstances may induce.

Given onboard His Majesty's Ship the Eagle off of the River Elk the 31st day of August 1777.

Howe

To The Honble William Cornwallis
Commander of His Majesty's Ship the Isis.
By Command of the Vice Admiral
Josh Davies.

NARRATIVE OF CAPTAIN ANDREW SNAPE HAMOND¹

[Roebuck off Virginia and in Chesapeake Bay,
August 1 to August 31, 1777]

The Fleet had not sailed 10 leagues before their former ill fortune returned, and the Southerly wind became so fixed that they did not reach the Capes of Virginia untill the 15 Augst and on the next day the whole Anchored off New Point Comfort, Six Leagues up the Bay.

From this time the progress of the Fleet was very rapid; and tho' the Chesepeak Bay is rather an intricate Navigation, and what was never attempted before but by very small Merchant Ships, it was effected by the whole Fleet of Men of War as well as Transports in about 5 days, without any accident whatever: all the Shoals & dangers having been marked by small Vessels & boats; for which purpose the Roebuck had been sent a head of the Fleet.

[The] 21st was spent in exploring the NEt Branch & the River Elk; and the preference being given to the Latter, Five thousand Men were embarked [the 25th] before day light in the Flat Boats, and proceeded at 4 in the Morning up the River Elk, covered by the Vigilant, Roebuck, Apollo, Sphynx & Swift; with the remainder of the Army following in Transports. at 10 oclock the first division was landed opposite to Cecil Court House, and before Night the whole disembarkation was finished without the least interruption.

The Next day the General [Howe] with part of the Army moved forward & took Post at Elk Town, which is at the head of the River, and at about 10 Miles distance from the place of Landing, the Stores & heavy Artillery being conveyed thither by water in Boats & small Vessels.

MARYLAND COUNCIL TO MATTHEW TILGHMAN AND ROBERT GOLDSBOROUGH¹

Gent

Baltimore Town 31st Augt 1777. -

We have but two of the Row Gallies fitted. The Enemy have spare Men of War enough to block them up separately; they may eventually, with their 120 Men, be serviceable, if there's an Attack upon this Town, and, as it is impossible to guard our Shores and Rivers, we hope no Man can blame our Views to prevent such a Disposition of the little Force we have as would render the whole of it of no Consequence at all, which would certainly be the Case if we were to send the two Gallies from hence.² . . .

CAPTAIN WILLIAM CLEMENT FINCH, R.N., TO VICE ADMIRAL JAMES YOUNG ¹

Sir.

Agreable to your orders we sail'd from St Christophers on the first of August, and the same day were joined by the Cygnets and her Convoy from Grenada; which when they had all received Orders made our Number by my List to consist of 127 sail.

We gott under Weigh in the forenoon and bore up to join the Grenada fleet but brought too within sight of the Ships in Basse Terre Road; They were as usual very dilatory in getting under weigh; and there were some that did not shew any Signs of moving when we made sail; which was just Time enough to avoid making the Night Signal & full 8 hours after we first made the Signal for the Ships to weigh; After we were thro' the Passage I Steer'd N.N.W. in hopes of Joining the Tortola Fleet off Anagada but was Surpris'd in the Morning to find that the Convoy some few excepted had kept their Wind the whole Night, and at day Light were as far to Windward as we could well discern. I made the Signal for them to come under my Stern, but very few paid any Attention to it; upon which I lay too and made the Signal for all Masters of Merchantmen which brought down a few more, I continued laying too 'till towards Evening, when finding I should lose much the greater Part of the Fleet, if I persever'd in Standing to the Westward, I made sail upon a Wind; the next day by dint of Powder and shot we made a Shift to Collect 125 Sail. We have now 104 in sight which with the Ships bound to Quebec New York Newfoundland and the Coast of Africa that have parted Company will nearly make up the Number we originally had.

We have detained two Sloops the Particulars of which Capt Truscott² (as he is furnish'd with duplicates for that Purpose) will be able to give you a fuller Account than a Letter will admitt of. I am Sir [&c.]

DECLARATION OF CAPTAIN SIR GEORGE COLLIER, R.N., TO THE INHABITANTS OF MACHIAS¹

Declaration.

The Inhabitants of Machias, not satisfied with the Quiet they enjoyed whilst a great Part of America was suffering the Inconveniences attendant on War; have thought proper without the least provocation, several Times to invade and ravage the Possessions of their innocent and peaceable Neighbours; (faithful Subjects of the King,) in the Province of Nova Scotia; and likewise had the Temerity last Winter, to invest a Fort in the Bay of Fundy belonging to His Majesty.

Such repeated outrages could not pass unnotic'd & accordingly I thought proper to convince these ill judging and mislead People (the Middle of last Month) that their Harbor was accessible, and their Town at the Mercy of the Men of War, if it was thought necessary to reduce it to Ashes; the Hope Brig therefore after shewing the Inhabitants that She could proceed up to the Town in spite of every opposition they could make was satisfied with doing Individuals little or no Damage, in the Wish that such cruel and injurious Inroads might never be repeated by them in future. –

The gracious and Benevolent Disposition of His Majesty towards all His Subjects, even his Misguided ones, makes the Kings Officers extremely averse to destroying private Property – this has been manifested upon many Occasions during the Course of this unhappy Rebellion, but more particularly at Machias and Townsend in which Harbors the Kings Ships under my Command lay surrounded with Farm Houses and Plantations, yet not the least damage was permitted to be done to any one. –

In order however that such Lenity & forbearance may be properly understood, as well as to let all His Majestys Subjects in the Eastern parts of New England know, what they have to trust to in future, I think proper to declare, that if any more Preparations shall be made in these Parts for ravaging and invading the Province of Nova Scotia, or that the Inhabitants should be collecting themselves together for such a villainous Purpose the consequence will inevitably be laying in Ashes every House, Mill, Store House, and other Building belonging to them: of which the Inhabitants of Machias, Naraguagus, Goldsborough and all the Neighbouring Places on & near the Sea Coast are to take Notice, besides which they will have their Harbors effectually blocked up by the Ships and Vessels of His Majesty till the end of the present Rebellion. –

With this generous caution before them the Inhabitants of the before mentioned Places, and the neighbouring ones will act as they think proper; but they must remember if they draw down the threatened Punishment that they have nobody to blame for it but themselves. –

And in order by every proper Method to induce the Kings Subjects in New England to live inoffensively and peaceably, I hereby declare that if they do so, his Majesty's Cruizers will have Orders not to injure or molest the Fishermen in their occupation of catching Fish, provided their Vessels carry no Arms, and that the number of Men do not exceed eight in any one of them. –

Given on board His Majesty's Ship
Rainbow in the Harbor of Townsend in New England the 1st Day of September 1777.

CAPTAIN JOHN PAUL JONES TO JOSEPH HEWES¹

My dear and Honored Sir

Portsmouth, Sept 1st 1777.

Inclosed you have copies of sundry Letters &ca which I forwarded to you the 17th Ulto under cover to Messrs [Abraham] Livingston and [William] Turnbull and which I fully expected would have reached your hands in Boston but by carelessness or otherwise the Packet hath never reached their hands and is I fear entirely lost. – inclosed you have also the copy of my letter of 24th to Mr Morris and of 30th to the Commissioners at Paris. – the reason of my then writing to Mr Morris appears in the letter. – I look up to him and to you with Sentiments of the highest esteem and Gratitude and my first wish is to appear deserving in his and in your Sight and to have it in my power to render Eminent Services to America. – perhaps my fears have been needless? – I will relay on the goodness of Congress – I hope they will not put me under the command of Men who durst or did not embark in the Navy before the Seventh of December 1775 for I assure you I dread such dishonor worse than Death. – I can have no desire to decline the Service while the liberties of America are doubtful – it is my pride and Glory that I was one of the first who endeavoured to defend her Just rights; Suffer me but to continue in the line wherein I embarked – I ask no more or if that be too much, I am willing to stand an examination with any one, or with every one of the Thirteen persons by whom I am at present superseded – and will yield the point to superiour Services and Abilities. – I cannot now hope for the pleasure of hearing from you before my departure – which is fast approaching. I however will expect that pleasure when I reach France – for by a late letter from Mr Morris to Genl Whipple it appears that Congress still mean that I should attend to my former Orders from the Secret Committee. I am not disgusted – nor under a Childish pet; – but will continue in the Service in certain hopes that the day is not far distant when my present fears and apprehensions will be finally removed; in the meantime I mean only to express my Sentiments in decent tho' Manly language. I confess in the Overflowing of my heart that the command of the important expedition which was allotted to me by Mr Morris last winter far exceeded my expectation. I am also deeply sensible of the distinctions and preference which I have since that time experienced from Congress and from the Marine and the Secret Committees – and I attribute the Mistake in the line of Rank not to intention but to your absence and to the partial recommendations which were then exhibited.

I rely on your Friendship – I promise to pay attention to your advice and I most Sincerely am My dear Sir [&c.]

CAPTAIN NICHOLAS BIDDLE TO ROBERT MORRIS ¹

Sir

Randolph Sept 1st 1777

I have the pleasure to acquaint you that I have at last got once more without the Barr of Charles Town Since I wrote my last letter to you I had another Main Mast Split with Lightning We had been ready for Sea for some time and only waited for Men. A Bounty of Thirty Dollars I offerred had little effect and some of the State Armed Vessells being in Port nothing could be done by the State untill they were manned Since I have had my New Main mast (the third I have had in this Port) the President has given an additional Bounty of Twenty Dollars by the help of which I have got many Men I have Officers & Boys included about Two Hundred & Ten People

Several Cpts of Privateers have been detected in carrying off my People but I can get no redress of them From one I had taken four Men in lieu of as many he had enticed & taken from me but the Civil Power obliged me to give them up I applied to the President and he ordered the Capt to replace my Men or he would not let him pass the Forts The Capt Sailed without giving me a Man A few Days since a Privateer Brig Charles

Morgan Commander was coming in I had certain intelligence of his having four of my Men on Board I sent my Barge to Board him but he would not bring to I was Determined to Sink him if he did not and fired at him He brought too and I got two Men from him Two others he had put in a Prize I sent five Men to the President who swore he had Ship'd them knowing them to belong to me But as I could not Stay for a tedious Law Suit no Satisfaction is to be had. It tis easy for those Fellows to act so as to make it difficult to prove they knew of their being on Board untill they Sailed but this was not the case in this instance I wish to have instructions how to conduct myself in such circumstances Also with respect to State armed Vessells. If none of my People had been taken away I could have been at Sea Three months ago and long before my last Main Mast was Struck. Indeed I had despaired of getting Men and was the Day the Lightning Struck us Bending Sails Thinking it better Risk to getting Men at Sea than Lie here on an uncertainty at this Season so bad for the Worms

Lieutt Falconier [Falconiere] of Marines is so exceeding Troublesom and has behaved in so many instances unworthy the Charracter of an Officer that I can not hesitate a moment to comply with the Request of the Officers which I enclose under cover to you and which contains the principle Charges against him I have ordered him to proceed to Congress I am with the Greatest Respect [&c.]

OFFICERS OF THE CONTINENTAL NAVY FRIGATE Randolph
TO CAPTAIN NICHOLAS BIDDLE ¹

Sir [Randolph off Charleston, September 1, 1777] ²

As there is not Officers Sufficient to form a Court of inquiry, We are sorry to be under the disagreeable necessity of addressing you, to remove from among us, Lieutt Panatiere de la Falconer [Falconiere]; as he has in many instances behaved very unbecoming an Officer, and is a disgrace to the Randolph

He Begged a large Jug of Wine of the Capt of a French Vessel we spoke with at Sea, and sold it to several on Board for a Dollar a Bottle -

He has suffered himself to be beat on shore without resenting it -

He gave an Order for Eighty Pounds on Mr [Edward] Blake, with intent to defraud the Person to whom he gave it -

He allways when on shore Associates with the worst of Vagabonds, and those houses no Gentleman ever go to -

He was one Night put under the Town Guard, for stabbing a Soldier; but shewing his Commission and the wound not like to prove Mortal, was let go -

He has behaved so, as to be Most Effectually hated and despised by every one on Board, the Vessell and by all who Know him on shore -

He is the most Obscene talker, and greatest Reprobate and blasphemmer we ever heard –

He has been heard to Damm the Trinity in the most shocking expresion –

He has frequently declared that if any Man affront him, he would Assasinate him for it if it was 20 Years afterwards –

For these and a Thousand more instances we could mention (if Necessary) of the same Nature we think him not only unworthy of holding a Commission in the Randolph, but a Nuissance to the ship, and therefore beg you to Rid us of him –

RESIDING AT CAPE FRANÇOIS, SEPT. 1.”¹

The Corrector, an American privateer of 20 guns, has resorted hither about 10 months, during which period she has sent in several prizes, all of which have been sold to the French Merchants here; this ship is a very good sailing vessel, is well manned with 160 seamen, and has this advantage, she does not run the hazard of having her prizes retaken by sending them to America, but brings them directly into this port, where they are bought up at a small price, and the prize-money distributed to the crew. The French have at present here five line of battle ships, four frigates, one bomb-ketch, a fireship, and two polacres of 14 guns.

Roebuck near Pools' Island
Chesepeak Bay 2d Sepr 1777

Sir

I sailed this morning from the anchorage of the Fleet, with three Victuallers under my convoy, intended for the River Delaware and am retarded in my proceedings by the Roebuck and one of the Transports having run aground; As I am informed by the Admiral it is of Great Consequence that at least one of those Victuallers should arrive in the Delaware as soon as possible, and have with me his directions to the commanding officer of the Chesepeak-Bay, to give sufficient Convoy to any of the Victuallers I may leave behind me on account of bad Sailing or accident; I think it necessary in order to forward this important service to forward the Transports under Convoy of the *Senegal*² to the place of their destination; but if it should be more agreeable to you, to send either of the other Frigates that you may have under your command upon this service, it will be equally agreeable to the intentions of the Admiral, Giving them directions to return as soon as the Transports are delivered to the Commanding officer in the Delaware. I have the honor to be Sir &ca

Sir/ Canada St Johns Harbour 3rd Sepr 1777

I hope you will excuse the liberty I take in informing you that I have been for some time past very much troubled with an inveterate Scurvy and as from the nature of this Country and the impossibility of my procuring those refreshments from which I could expect Relief, I find myself growing daily so weak that I am at present almost incapable of doing my Duty; this together with the weakness the disorder has occasioned having brought on the return of Fitts to which I had been formerly subject to, these and the frequent Scorbutic eruptions which make their appearance in various parts of my body and limbs, induce me to pray the favour of your leave to go on Half pay; so far am Sir I from a wish at leading an inactive life that I should be happy as soon as my health may be re-established to again be employed and that in some more active Service than that I am at present employed in will admit of; should you think it proper, I should be happy to have the opinion of three Surgeons to justify the opinion I entertain of the State of my health, and more fully to make apparent to you my incapacity of doing my duty from Your humble Servant

Gentlemen

Your favour of the 2nd I receiv'd yesterday evening to which I shall pay Strict attention –

Herewith I lay before you Copys of my different Letters since my return from a Cruise to The Honble The Marine Committe at Philadelphia in the 3rd & last of which you will find the State and properties of the Ship Boston under my command, a Return of her Officers & Men I will furnish you with very Soon.

An Indent also for such things as are absolutely Necessary, shall be laid before you as soon as I can examine the remaining Stores. –

Her Dimentions & Burthen I never have been able to come at my Self from either Agents, Builders, or Mastmakers, nevertheless I will make it my Business to Measure the Ship whenever an opportunity offers.

The Ship Boston mounts

Cannon	Swivels

19 of 9 do
2 of 6 do
4 of 4 do

There are a great number whose times with the Ship are Expired, those Men expect their Wages & discharge incessantly. where am I to find Money to pay them.

What Encouragement is to be given Men who may have an Inclination to enter for the Ship and how Long time are they to be Engaged for.

What provision is to be made for the Familys of the Men we have Lost in the Fox.

How are the relatives of the few Slain to apply for their Bountys.

What Stoppages are there to be allow'd on the Men for Venerials, for Barber & for Chaplains.

What provision is there to be made for the Officers who live on board the Ship, as to their eatting and drinking.

These are questions which I hope you will be kind Enough to Answer Speedily as the impatience of the Multitude requires an immediate application.

As to the time 'twill take to refitt the Ship for a Cruise, was it possible to know when she would be Man'd, I might easily tell you, but I am of opinion that the Ships Bottom should be the last thing Medled with, her Stores of all kinds ought to be ready and her Provisions ready so that immediately after Cleaning she should have nothing else to do but Take them in and proceed to Sea. Dear Sir

Boston 4th Sept 1777

Yr favour P Post is before me am glad the Hambden has escaped the Enemy and got safe into your Port I wish she may send you in a good Prize soon after Sailing. You Ask how Conta prizes are to be sold it was design'd by the [Massachusetts General] Court when they prohibited Vendues to Except Continental Property as it millitates with the resolves of Congress, but they rose in a hurry & neglected it – I suppose the Exception will be made on their next meeting. The marine Board are at length Organiz'd ² & Yesterday I laid before them your difficulty respecting the Shares of the Supernumerary Officers on board the Alfred they give it as their Opinion, that they are intitled to only a Single Share as Congress has not Provided for them, & Laugh at the folly of [John Paul] Jones to pretend to Charge 1/20 as Commodore,³ he will sail in a few days for France. . . I know not how to reply to your last Question who to Credit with the Ac/c sent you – if I remember that Ac/c forwarded you was Monies advanc'd sundry Men belonging to the Alfred by the Pay Master General at Philadelphia, I take it that the Marine Board should be credited with the Sum advanc'd Sundry of the Alfred's Men by the p m G – Its five weeks since I promis'd the secret Committee to transmit them the Cost & Outfit of the Esther. As they wrote they were making up their Accts to lay them before the Congress at the same Time. Mr. Morris urged the sending the Active's Accts forward, pray let me beg you to send them by next Post that I may transmit them to Congress – I'm fearful I shall incur Censure by keeping them back. . .

Dear Sir

Philada Septr 4th 1777

I have seen letters from Capt McNeil to the Marine Committee wherein he blames Manly for some part of his Conduct, it was a great pity they did not push into some port with their Prize where the whole might have been manned & gone out fresh again. They wou'd have formed a Stout little squadron. however as that will not be we must attend to what is in our power & if Thompson, Hinman Jones & McNeill are not gone they will now receive orders to cross the Ocean, this point I carried yesterday in Committee & the orders will be sent immediately –

I am much engaged in winding up the Accounts of the Secret Committee & it will be a Herculean labour & in order to do it compleatly I moved for a New Committee which was appointed & is Stiled the Commercial Committee who are to carry on the business in future they have chosen me Chair Man but I am very averse to engaging deeply in this New business untill the old is closed, & indeed I now wish to be relieved from public business totally, I have had a long spell, my own affairs suffering amazingly the whole time & having no Ambition to gratify I wish to Resign any honours & powers to somebody that may be better pleased with them but Wether I shall be permitted to retire or not I dont yet know, but the meeting of our Assembly is at hand & I hope they will leave me out of the new appointments. The Commercial Committee agreed at their last meeting that it was better to lay by awhile as the Enemies Cruizers are too numerous on our Coasts for any thing to escape in the Summer Months, but I suppose

I din'd with the Admiral (Sr Peter Parker) from whom, & Capt Dalrymple of the Juno I learn'd the following particulars of Yesterday's firing ² – About day break Capt Dalrymple sent his long Boat on Shore at Prudence to water under the direction of a midshipman with 8. Sailors & a party of Marines, consisting of a Corporal & 6. Men, as soon as the Corporal had got within about six yards of a wall which he was to pass in order to post his Men on some heights he was fir'd upon by upwards of 200. Rebels when he & two of his Men were wounded, notwithstanding which he fired five Shotts at them & another of the wounded Men fir'd three, the third (who surviv'd but one hour & gave this Account) being shott through the Body fir'd but once, the Rebels bayonetted the other two, who had fallen with loss of Blood; Some Boats being sent from the Juno to the assistance of their Men, a party of about 30 Marines & Sailors form'd & march'd up to a Body of Rebels of 130. which ran from them to their Boats where they join'd their Comorades & made off with their Prisoners vizt the Midshipman & 8. Seamen with four marines, The Signals & firing was for the Boats of the Fleet mann'd & arm'd, but some of the Ships being at a distance their Boats were too late; Nothing can point out more clearly the virulent disposition of the Rebels than their firing upon so small a Party which they might have surrounded & made Prisoners with the greatest ease: Thus do these Fellows attempt small Enterprises & so will they (I am satisfied) continue to do 'till we become more active & enterprise upon them, mais il me semble que nous ne sommes pas dans le train d'agir vigoreusement, – in English Blood for Blood,

Camp at the Head of Sassafra 5 Sepr 1777

. . . the principal division of the Enemies fleet consisting of about 150 sail have fallen down to the Mouth of this river and stretch their line from Grove Point to Howels point – The Isis, the Roebuck and a 40 Gun ship lay off Colo Loyd's a little below Pooles Island. The Sphynx still continues at Anchor at Elk. a 50 Gun ship has been some time fast aground on Stony point where she still lays in that Condition. I have this information from such Authority as I think may be depended on.

I learn from a Midshipman of the Swift Sloop of War who was took prisoner yesterday that he understood when he left the ship (on Saturday last) that the whole of the Fleet was preparing to go round to Delaware.

I am Just Informed that some few ships past Annapolis yesterday – We have sent 14 Deserters & 4 prisoners to Chester

. . . As I apprehend the design of the Fleet is to Rob & plunder the defenceless Inhabitants on the Coast I have detachd a Party to Howels Point to drive of[f] the Stock. . . .

NEWS FROM TOBAGO ¹

Scarborough (Tobago) Sept. 5.

On the 24th of last month was brought to town gaol one John Wilson, commander of a small American schooner privateer, who had taken in the month of April last, off Cortland, the ship Champion, Capt. Fellows, belonging to this island.² He says, that they now put in at Man of war bay to get good water; but being discovered by some Negroes in a plantain walk, they went and informed the manager, who justly apprehended him as a spy, and immediately sent him to be examined by his Honour the Lieutenant Governor. The crew, finding their Captain taken, made off with the vessel.

On Thursday last, the above John Wilson was put on board the Government ship, for Grenada.

In Council Philad. Sept 6th 1777

There is great reason to beleive that the Enemys Ships will make an attempt to weigh the Chevaux De Frize, and to destroy our Fortifications on the Delaware, with design to reach this City; whilst their Army is endeavoring to Penetrate the Country. it therefore becomes absolutely necessary for Council to pay Strict attention to these matters. The Works at Billingsport, Fort Island, Derby Creek and Bush Island, by order of His Excellency General Washington, are left almost without Guards. You will therefore immediately repair to these Works, and Post the two Companys of Militia Artillery, that are under your Command, in such way as to you may appear most advantageous – I desire you will use your utmost endeavors to have those Fortifications put into as good a state of defence as possible, under the direction of such Officer, or Officers, as His Excellency Gen: Washington has, or may order there for that purpose.

Proper attention should be paid to the Military & other stores &c, that are already, or may hereafter, be orderd there – have them carefully examined, and see that no waste or embezzelment happens.

In conjunction with the Commanding Officer of our Fleet, I request that you will exert yourself to take Burn, sink, or otherwise destroy, the Enemy's Ships or Vessels that may attempt to Invade this or the Neighbouring states. I expect in a few Days three or four Companys of the Militia from Bucks County, the whole of which or apart, as there may be occasion, I will order to reinforce you. I am Sir [&c.]

They say One Half of the Fleet is to go into Delaware Bay and the other to fall down to York River, that the Ships had no Soldiers on Board having landed 18,000 under Genl How – The Half the Fleet in Delaware was to assist the Operations of the Army and the Residue to receive them here in Case of a Disaster they say the 64 Gun Ships have but 350 Sailors to navigate them and 64 Marines that they design to plunder the unarmed part of our Coasts of Provision of which they are in Want that One Half of the Marines and Sailors were sick and that the Negroes were received on Board the Merchant Vessells of which there were several in the Fleet who boasted they would make their Fortunes by selling them in the West Indies that they were kicked and cuffed on every Occasion &ca

I congratulate your Excellency on the Weakness of the Enemy in this State and the little probability there is of an immediate Attack within your Government at the same Time also on the Affair of Bennington the Raising the Seige of Fort Stanwix Burgoins entrenching or perhaps retreating. ACTING GOVERNOR JOHN BROWN TO LORD GEORGE GERMAIN ¹

My Lord, New Providence 6th September 1777.

On the 10th of May last I transmitted to Your Lordship Copies of the Acts of Assembly which had been passed during the last Session, together with Copies of the Journals of the Council, and of the Assembly; I at the same time did myself the Honor to write to Your Lordship, informing of the State of this place, Copy of which, together with Duplicates of the Laws, under the Seal of these Islands, and of the Journals, I now send, by the Snow Edward, Philip Brickland, bound to the port of London, packed in a Box directed to Your Lordship.

As in my first Letter to Your Lordship, after the departure of the Rebels from hence in March 1776; ² I mention'd that I had, by Express, made known to Admiral Gayton at Jamaica that the Rebels had been here, and informed him of what they had done, and requested that he would afford what Assistance he could for the defence & protection of His Majesty's Government, and to oppose the Rebels in case of any fresh Attempt on this place, it may be proper to inform Your Lordship that not having received any Aid from thence, nor Answer to my Letter to the Admiral, I thought it necessary to apply to Commodore Sir Peter Parker, on his Arrival in Carolina, who was so obliging as to write me that he should, on his arrival at New York communicate my Letter to Lord Howe, and that from His Lordship I might soon expect a sufficient Force for the protection of these Islands; but as none of His Majestys Ships or Vessels have yet come hither, and the Armed Vessels of the Rebels continue still to Infest these Islands (two belonging to South Carolina having lately attempted to come into this Harbour, with intent, as was said, to plunder or destroy the Town, and three others from the same Place having been at Harbour Island, where they burnt a Vessel) I thought it proper to address myself to The Lord Viscount Howe, and hope his Lordship will send some Vessels hither for the protection of the Inhabitants of these Islands, and the Trade of this Government as soon as His Majesty's Service will permit.

I have the pleasure to acquaint Your Lordship that I have, at length, by becoming answerable myself for the Expence, been able to put the Forts on this Island in such a state of Defence that I am under no great apprehension of Danger to this Island from the Rebels, should any of their armed Vessels again attempt to come into this Harbour. Jamaica, Sept. 6.

A Spanish guarda costa, belonging to the Havannah, named the St. Joseph, having had the temerity to anchor in Kingston harbour, and there to seize a Spanish trading sloop, under pretence of her being a smuggler. The commanding officer of the fort finding the guarda costa had got under way with the sloop in company, caused a gun to be fired at her to bring her to, and to oblige her to set the sloop at liberty. A Spanish Gentleman, who was on the battery, argued with great warmth, that the guarda costa would not bring to, alledging that she was commanded by a King's officer, and puffed up with this thought, he offered to lay any person then on the battery 500 doubloons that she would not bring to or lower her sails for their firing, which bet was immediately taken up by Sir Charles Price, Baronet, who went himself and levelled a 32 pounder loaded with chain shot, at her, and she not minding the two first guns, he fired his, which carried away her mast about 8 Feet above her deck, on which she speedily put out her boat, and, by the help of her and her oars, returned into the harbour, and Sir Charles Price pocketed the 500 doubloons, to the no small mortification of the haughty Spaniard. The crew are thrown into gaol in irons, and will be tried as pirates.

MINUTES OF THE PENNSYLVANIA NAVY BOARD ¹

State Navy Board [Philadelphia] September 8th 1777

The Board this day received the following Resolve from the Supreme Executive Council —

In Council Philadelphia Septemr 6. 1777

Resolved That on the present emergency, when the Enemy's Army endeavouring to penetrate to this City, may be aided by a fleet in the Delaware the actual command of naval force of this State be committed to John Hazelwood Esqr as Commodore in this department, on account of the Age and infirmities of Thomas Seymore Esqr the Superior Officer, as it is manifest to Council that Commodore Seymore in the present State of his health cannot be capable of that Vigour and activity which are essential to the service at this time of danger in which the most strenuous efforts of the stoutest will be necessary

GEORGE WASHINGTON TO GOVERNOR JONATHAN TRUMBULL ¹

[Extract]

Head Quarters Newport [Delaware] 8th Sepr 1777.

. . . Genl Howe's plans are yet very mysterious, a few days ago he sent all his Tents & Baggage on Board again and his ships have fallen some distance down Chesapeak Bay. This can be for no other purpose but to go round to Delaware and meet him there, as he can easily extend himself across the Isthmus which is narrow. This will be a strange Maneuvre indeed, as it will be exposing his ships to some danger upon the Coast at this tempestuous Season, and should an accident to the Fleet he must be ruined. A little time must unfold his true designs, which I trust we shall be able to baffle, as the Troops are in good spirits and the people of the Country shew an universal good will to oppose the common Enemy. . . .

[Extract]

Head Qrs Newport [Delaware] 8th Sepr 1777 –

. . . This morning we expected the approach of the Enemy & yet continue to look for their movemnt My private Opinion is, which last night I delivered to his Excellency, – That if Mr Howe do not come on very Soon, his intention is to ReEmbark on the Delaware Cross Over & Land where he may think most convenient on the Jersey Shore, march up to the Sevardefrize [chevaux de frise], & the Ships of force by Water, from these I presume he will not again Seperate at any great distance but Cooperate as far as may be, & by these in the Sequel expect to Bumbard the City. From this Conjecture, the two following inferences are natural, we Shou'd either attack him in his Camp, or if he move press hard upon his Rear – and this before the Shipping get round. The former requires better intelligence than any our good General has yet received. The 2d is that the Jersey Militia Shou'd immediately finish the Labour at Billings-port – or rather take post on their own Shore. This I shall mention to the General but wish Congress wou'd anticipate his letters by immediately writing to Governor Livingston if that is not already done. . . .

“EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM BARBADOES, SEPT. 8.” ¹

The captain of the Rattle-snake, whom we here call the hero of the marine, is at this instant in chace of a sail that he has espied.² What his success will be, it is impossible to determine: but certain it is, he is the boldest fellow that has made his appearance in these seas for some time.

The Rattle-snake carries only 14 guns, is an excellent sailer, and has taken a prodigious number of prizes, the chief of which she has sold at Martinico.

A short time since the captain, who is a native of Ireland, wrote word to captain Singleton of the Bridgetown, that if he did not take great care he would cut his ship out of harbour. Singleton, well acquainted with his disposition and courage, took, accordingly, every possible precaution against this enterprising Neptune.

Bets used to be often laid at Martinico, relative to the captures the above little vessel would bring into any of the respective harbours. People would be looking out for her; and on her appearance with a prize, the joyful alarm was, Le Serpent à Sonnettes! – The beach would then be crowded with spectators, and the Rattle-snake enter the harbour in triumph.

CAPTAIN HECTOR MCNEILL TO THE CONTINENTAL NAVY BOARD OF THE EASTERN DEPARTMENT ¹

Gentlemen

In my last Letter to the Honble Marine Committe dated 25th Ulto you may remember that I have mention'd Capt: Palmes, his being under Arrest. The Solicitations of the other Officers on his behalf prevail'd with me to grant him all the Liberty he desired, had he resumed his duty and behaved properly since his Enlargement I might have possibly overlook'd all that was past, but inasmuch as he has again misbehaved and appears incouragable, 'tis my duty to insist on his being brought to Tryal as soon as possible. The crimes I have to accuse him with are misaplication of the Ships Stores, Neglect of duty, disobedience of orders, & attempts to Excite Murmuring & Mutiny among the Ships Company. You will therefore be pleased to give orders that a Competent number of Officers be Collected together at this place as soon as may be to hear and detirmine on this Matter.

Another request I have to make is that when those Gentlemen are Collected here for the purposes aforesaid a number of Sea Officers only shall be Orderd to form themselves into a Court of Enquiry to hear and Examine Evidencies such as can be found Capable of giving information of the State of things on the 6th 7th & 8th days of July last in the little Squadron Commandd by Capt: John Manley.

 Sir

Preston off New York
 9th September 1777.

I received the Honour of your Excellency's Letter addressed to Lord Howe, through the Hands of the Chevalier Fagan.

His Lordship not being here present himself, I have the Honour to inform You, that a Court of Admiralty is daily expected to be opened here, when all such French Vessels as have been brought in upon Suspicion of trading with the Rebels, contrary to the Act of Parliament on that Behalf, will be there tried, and either set at Liberty or adjudged Prizes, according as they are before that Court found to be circumstanced.

Their Masters and Crews having been cruelly treated and imprisoned, must have been mis-represented to your Excellency. It was natural to expect that all Attempts to furnish Supplies to the King's rebellious Subjects should be opposed; And that not having room in the Town for the Reception of more Persons besides the Inhabitants, it became necessary to lodge them in Transports for want of any other place to receive them until they could be sent to Europe, where they have been constantly set at Liberty, as will plainly appear to You by the small number that were remaining at the time Monsieur Fagan arrived, and which are now embarked with him; to whom I beg leave to refer You for any farther Particulars; and have the Honour to be [&c.]

GEORGE OLNEY TO THE CONTINENTAL FRIGATE BUILDING COMMITTEE, PROVIDENCE ¹

[Extract]

Gentlemen

Philadelphia Tuesday Eveng 9th Sepr 1777 –

I am sorry to inform you that I am under the necessity of returning to Providence without carrying with me the Balance of your Accot for building the Warren & Providence – you will doubtless be surpris'd at this; but your astonishment cannot be greater than mine was at the circumstance which prevents a Settlement here, agreeable to your wishes. – It is simply this. – Governr [Stephen] Hopkins, being appointed to have the sole direction of Building those Ships, in the manner he should judge best, is the only Person known to the Committee here in the Settlement of the Accots, – that is, he alone is Charg'd with, & consequently accountable for, all the Money paid out of the Continental Treasury for the purpose of building them; – and by the Treasurer's Books it appears, Mr Hopkins has recd, since the first of Feby 1776, 148,500 Dolls, which is 20,950 Dollars more than you have Credited the Marine Committee, including the amots of the 200 ps of Duck, paid for by Mr Hopkins himself! – So that untill Mr Hopkins Accounts for this large Sum, you are to look to him for the Balance of your Accot; – and tomorrow I am to be furnish'd with Letters accordingly to him & you; and if no unforeseen accident prevents, I shall set out for Providence on Thursday Morning. – But as I cannot but think Mr Hopkins has dispos'd of this Money, some way or other, for the use of the Continent, in which case you will have to wait the return of the Post from hence at least for the Balance due, I thought best to write by him, that no time might be lost. – Inclos'd is a Copy of the Drafts on the Treasurer in favr of Governor Hopkins, taken from the Treasurer's Books; which may be some help to Mr Hopkin's Memory. –

The Navy Board, to whom the Examination of your Accots was committed, have objected to two Charges only: – the first is the Balance of Peter T. Curtenius's Accot, he never having sent the Anchor here agreeable to your directions; so it will lay with you to collect the Money: – the other is the Interest, which, as it will be a bad precedent, they rather decline to allow; – besides if Mr Hopkins has the Money by him, which is unaccounted for, there can be no Interest due from the Marine Committee; but from Mr Hopkins. – However, I shall know more tomorrow Mornng when I am to wait on the Board.² – And when too I expect to receive Messrs Brown's Money for their Draft on Mr Morris

“EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM PORT ANTONIO, IN THE ISLAND OF JAMAICA, DATED SEPT. 9”¹

The 6th inst. two American privateers, both of them ships of considerable force, stood into, and cut three vessels out of this harbour; and a few days before, the same privateers took a large ship within a few miles of this place. There is at present nine of those provincial vessels of war cruising round this island, in defiance of the small squadron the admiral has at Port Royal, which are too few in number to check their progress.

CAPTAIN RICHARD PEARSON TO VICE ADMIRAL RICHARD LORD HOWE¹

My Lord

Garland off Quebec 10 Sepr 1777

General Sir Guy Carleton, as well as myself thinking the detention of His Majesty's Ship Triton in the River any longer unnecessary, I have this day dispatched her on a Cruize agreeable to your Lordship's Order to me of the 10th of April last &c, a Copy of Captain Lutwidge's order I herewith inclose, as also a Copy of a late Survey on the Magdalen Schooner which is found totally unfit for Service and not worth repairing and as I have no directions from your Lordship what you would please to have done in regard to her, I am much at a loss how to act in this Case for the best, and much for the good of the Service, but as it appears to me that her being continued in her present Situation will be injurious to it, I think it best to put her out of Commission and send Lieut Lee with her people round to the Southward in the Andrew, an Armed Ordnance Transport which will sail for New York about the latter end of this Month with a Number of Rebel Prisoners which she brings round at the request of General Sir Guy Carleton; from thence she is to proceed to England, unless it should be found necessary to detain her at York, or to order her upon any other Service, she being contracted for by the Master General of the Ordnance for one Year certain.

The Merchants of Canada, having presented a Memorial to General Sir Guy Carleton, and another to me, requesting two Ships of force to be appointed as a Convoy to their Fur Trade to England I herewith inclose you a Copy of the Memorial inclosed to me by His Excellency Sir Guy Carleton, also a Copy of his Letter to me on the occasion; on the receipt of which, I waited on his Excellency and consulted with him what number of King's Ships he judged would be necessary to remain in the River St Lawrence the ensuing Winter, when he was of opinion, with me, that it would be necessary, that some one of His Majesty's Ships should be left at Quebec to receive the remainder of the Seamen which must necessarily be employed upon the Lakes, till the Winter sets in, After having His Excellency's opinion on this head, I wrote him and the Merchants an answer relative to appointing a Convoy, a Copy of which I herewith also inclose; and propose leaving the Viper Sloop for the purpose abovementioned all which I hope will meet with Your Lordship's approbation.

The Progress of General Burgoyne's Army seems now very doubtful, and I much fear that without the speedy assistance of some part of the Southern Army that our Northern one is in great danger but Captain Lutwidge who has just left Ticonderoga will be much abler to give you more particular Accounts of the progress and present Situation. ALARM SIGNALS APPROVED BY THE MASSACHUSETTS COUNCIL ¹

Signals at Hull in the day Time

When a Ship appears in the Bay hoist the large blue Flag

if a Snow the union Flag

if a Brig the Pendant

Should three Topsail Vessells appear then hoist the blue Flag union Flag & pendant one above the other, the Pendant uppermost

For two Topsail Vessells two Flaggs

if more than three Topsail Vessells appear, and under 20 fire one Gun, (the muzzle pointed towards the Castle) and hoist the two flaggs & pendant, the pendant lowermost, and repeat the firing every 4 minits till the Signals are answerd at the Castle – upon discovery of 20 or more Topsail Vessells, Hoist a large blue Flag uppermost, the Pendant next and the union Flag lowermost, and fire two Cannon at one minits distance, if the Signal be not answerd at the Castle by the Flaggs & pendant and firing in 5 minits, then fire 3 Cannon, at one minits distance, (the muzzles pointed towds the Castle) – When you are answerd at the Castle, you are to hall down your Signals. As soon as you discover the Vessells to be French Vessells you are to hoist St Georges Ensign & keep it flying till the same Signal is hoisted at the Castle – upon a discovery of the Enemy in the Night the alarm is to be given at Hull, by firing one Cannon, & three Rocketts successively and if the same Signal is not answered at the Castle in 6 minits repeat the firing & throwing the rocketts till as aforesd every 6 minits until answerd at the Castle –

The Castle is to answer the Signals given at Hull in every respect, & repeat them until they are answerd at Boston on Fort Hill and not to Salute any Vessell comeing in, except Continental armd Vessells; armd Vessells belonging to this, or to either of the united States; and french Vessells, none of them, with more than 13 Guns, always observing to discharge two less, than the Vessell discharges, for which purpose Guns are to be plantd on the West end of the Island to Salute with –

if the alarm is to be general in the Night, then the Beacon is to be fired at Boston by order of Council and an express sent to Stoughton to fire the Beacon there, if a Fleet consisting of 20 Sail or upward of Topsail Vessells is discoverd at Cape Ann, an express to be forwrdd to the Council the like at Marble head – Plymouth, or Barnstable – and Copys of these Signals to be sent to Hull, Castle Island, Fort Hill, The Select men of Boston, Salem & Plymouth & Glouster & Barnstable –

SAMUEL ELIOT, JR., TO GOVERNOR JONATHAN TRUMBULL ¹

Hond Sir

Boston 10th Sepr 1777 –

I have the pleasure of acquainting your Excellency of the safe arrival of the Oliver Cromwell in this Harbor, together with her prize the Ship Weymouth, mounting Sixteen Carriage Guns &c – She was employ'd as a packet from Jamaica to London having on board a Quantity of Cash, the exact Sum I am not able to ascertain, the Prize Master informs me her Letters were all destroy'd – that there were several Passengers, among whom is Capt Judd, Commander of the Antelope of 50 Guns – who with the other prisoners were landed at Kennebeck River in order to proceed by Land to this Place. I expect them this day – I shall pay a due attention to them according to their Rank – Your Excellency will doubtless consent to Capt Judd being exchanged for Capt Manly, if a Cartel should be established –

It is with sorrow I mention to you, Capt Harding's detention at the Eastward by a dangerous fit of Sickness; while he is absent I will take the whole charge of the Cromwell &c, and as Capt Deshon is now in Town I doubt not of conducting to approbation with his advice and assistance which he has kindly promis'd – This prize will occasion a great deal of altercation, as the Agent for the People will endeavor to prove her to be a Kings Ship, which, if done, the State will draw no part. I shall retain another Lawyer besides Mr [Francis] Dana, in hopes of recovering a proportion for the State, and shall acquaint your Excellency from time to time as there shall be occasion.

On Saturday I return'd from Dartmouth, the Prize turns out agreeable to my Expectation. The Cables, & Cordage I have order'd to Boston for the Defence, the Honor was not quite unloaded but as my Brother could conduct the business, I tho't it my duty to return, and attend the lengthening of the Defence, which is now on the ways and divided – Capt Smedley has given her Eighteen feet in length – which will add fourteen Inches to her beam, all who have seen her, give it as their opinion, she will make a compleat Vessel. I shall obtain every Article at the lowest price, and make every agreement upon the lowest Terms – but her lengthening will be attended with an amazing expence. –

Lieut [John] Smith who will deliver this can give your Excellency a particular Account of the Engagement with the packet, and of the several Captures made by the Cromwell – one of which I fear has miscarry'd² – I would request as early, & particular directions respecting both Vessels as is convenient. – I remain with due respect [&c.]

PETITION OF PEREZ MORTON TO THE MASSACHUSETTS COUNCIL ¹

State of } To the honl Council of said State, sitting in Massa. Bay } Boston 11 Sepr 1777 –

The Petition of Perez Morton humbly shews –

That he with several other Persons, as owner of a Privateer Brigantine, pierced for 16 four pound Cannon, that thro' the impracticability of obtaining Cannon for her in this State, he is necessitated to send to Connecticut for them; that by late Regulations of that State, no Cannon are suffered to be transportd from thence, without a Certificate from the Governor to the Seller, of the purchaser's good Intentions, and the Use they are for

In Consequence of this Requisition Govr Trumbull has refused to Grant Certificates to Persons unknown to him, unless they produce Credentials of said facts from the supreme Council of the State to which they belong – Your Petitioner therefore prays your honors to grant him a Certificate, that may convince Govr Trumbull of the good Intentions of your Petitioner in purchasing said Cannon, and that they are intended for the Use aforesaid – to which your Petitioner is ready to attest – And as in Duty bound shall ever pray &c –

Newport Gazette, THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 11, 1777

Newport. September 11.

One Day last Week, about thirteen Men from His Majesty's Ship Juno, went on Shore at Prudence Island, to bathe. The Rebels discovering them from Warwick-Neck, landed a Number of Men, in five Flat-Boats and a Whale Boat, suddenly came upon them, naked and unarmed, and, with a Heroism known only to Rebels, fired upon them, killed three men, wounded several, and carried off the rest. A Marine, who was one of the Party, appearing somewhat obstinate, had his Brains very humanely knock'd out with the Butt-End of a Musket.¹

[Extract]

Head Quarters Germantown 13th Sepr 1777.

. . . I wish it were in my power to turn any part of my present force to the completion of the Works upon Delaware, but in our present Situation it cannot be afforded. Except General Howe can be checked upon land the obstructions in the River will be of little avail, for if he can once totally defeat this Army, he will take possession of the Forts of course and turn our own Guns upon our Ships, Galleys and floating Batteries. In my opinion, the River would be sufficiently secured against any sudden attack by Water only, if the City Artillery Companies were thrown into Fort Mifflin, and all the Vessels of War of different kinds drawn up behind the Chevaux de Frize. . . .

As I am well apprized of the importance of Philadelphia you may rest assured that I shall take every measure in my power to defend it, and I hope you will agree with me that the only effectual Method will be to oppose General Howe with our whole united Force.

I am this moment favored with yours of this date and thank you for your compliance to my request for removing the continental Troops who may be loitering in the City. I have the Honor to be Sir [&c.]

PROCLAMATION OF CAPTAIN WALTER GRIFFITH, R.N.¹

By Walter Griffith Esquire
Commanding a Detachment of His Majesty's Ships on the Eastern Shore of the Chesepeake –

(Having Authority from The Viscount Howe, Vice Admiral and Commander in Chief of His Majesty's Fleet in North America &ca &ca &ca)

He Informs the Inhabitants of the several Towns, and of the Sea Coast on the Western Side of the Chesepeake that if They, in any manner Molest (either in their Persons or Propertys) the Inhabitants of the Eastern Shore; Who, may be disposed, to Return to Duty and Allegiance: They may expect to Feel the full Force and Weight of Retribution and Resentment from His Majesty's Forces. What that Armament and Force is, has been Manifestly Conspicuous to the full View of both Shores from one Extremity of the Chesepeake to the other.

'Tis Needless now to add, (but to such as are deluded by Erronious Account) That Mr Washington and His Army, have Abandoned this Country, and Fled before the General and the British Forces. In this Situation it Behoves such as are Concern'd, That, They, avoid every Act of Cruelty to their Bretheren, and it Behoves Me, to inform them of the Consequence in Case of a Refusal.

The Admiral and General (from Duty and Inclination) Have invariably Persever'd in the Mild and Merciful Intentions of His Majesty; nor has any Advantages gain'd, by our Forces at any Time, alter'd Their Sentiments. They are Ready and Willing to Receive, All Returning, Deluded Subjects to Favor and Protection, But 'tis expected Such, will Deserve, what They Desire, by an Exertion for (What must be) the Mutual Happiness and Interest of both Countryes.

'Tis not the Passions but the Cool Reason of the Western Inhabitants This is Address'd to: To Protect the Unhappy and Suffering is the purport

GOVERNOR BERNARDO DE GÁLVEZ TO JOSÉ DE GÁLVEZ ¹

No. 88.

My dear Sir, New Orleans September 15, 1777 –

On August 28th last the mail brigantine Principe de Asturias sailed for Havana where she was awaited to carry the mail to Vera Cruz. She was insulted and stopped on this River on the first of this Month by a British Privateer Sloop which fired several shots of stone and metal into her.

When I heard of this Attack, I called a meeting of Captains in which it was decided to reinforce His Majesty's Packet with the San Joachin under the command of Ensign Don Nicolas Arniaud on this River, led by two officers from the frigate Volante with twenty-five grenadiers and twenty-five sailors. They were to get under way immediately to find the Sloop, order her to this Capital to give satisfaction and in case of resistance to take her, afterwards bringing her here. It seems that the Sloop heard about the expedition, for she released the Packet, dropped down the river and went out through the passes.

Regarding all which I have told Your Highness, I enclose two statements on what is known and has been done on this matter and apprise Your Highness that as of this date I have also notified His Excellency the Conde de Florida Blanca as Superintendent General of the Mails, as your Subdelegate in this Province, so that through him and by this confidential channel it may come to the knowledge of His Majesty. May Our Lord Keep You Many Years.

[Enclosure]

Mr. Governor – My dear Sir: The grave action of the British sloop-of-war prompts me to trouble Your Excellency by making you acquainted with that which took place and that which followed. Being eighteen leagues from this Town, I met the Sloop, and a French Ship that witnessed the event. She was going up-river, and I was going down, and having passed down my side, she sent an officer alongside in a boat. He climbed on board with his cutlass in hand, and his people did the same. Without saying or asking anything, he wanted to take command of the Ship, which I resisted. First, I advised him that this ship was His Majesty's Packet, and secondly warned him about the results of his actions, but as this was not sufficient, I attempted to show him the Passport, so as to end this Incident, but nothing could convince him to give up his brazen insolence and vicious words Against the nation. Thus, I found myself in this predicament where, if I attempted to resist with force, I would have been unsuccessful, but as he found himself thwarted, he ordered his men to fire, and came alongside us. They fired some stone shot mixed with metal; then they grappled, attempting to insult all our protests and efforts until I reprimanded the Captain, and protested all that had taken place. They withdrew, and gave as an excuse their inability to recognize our Flag; a Frivolous Excuse filled with malice; the one sure thing is that they have insulted a King's Packet, which I have recounted so that Your Excellency may take whatever steps may seem necessary. May our Lord Safeguard Your Excellency [&c.]

Captain Lutwidge having directed me when he left the Lake to report to your Excellency from time to time the State & Condition of the Vessels, In compliance therewith I send you the best I have yet been able to collect, but as from the Sickness so predominant here, hardly any of the Vessels have, for one Week together the same Men, or the same Numbers, so that this return may not be perfectly accurate, many of the Sick Seamen likewise have been sent to Montreal Hospital for want of a Surgeon & other Accommodation at St John's which I have no Account, by which means the Number of Men employed in the Lake Service is greatly shortened.

The Rebels have appeared here this Morning, they have taken Mount Hope & three Companies of the 53d And also I apprehend the few Seamen & Craft left on Lake George² – they have also summon'd the Garrison to surrender of which Brigadier Powell will no doubt inform you more particularly.

The Maria & Carleton which are station'd for the Defence of Mount Independance must certainly fall into the hands of the Rebels should the Garrison be obliged to capitulate or surrender as all possibility of retreat will then be cut off by the Bridge which they constructed in the Winter – If it should be thought necessary to have the other Vessels mann'd and arm'd, to maintain the Lake, and prevent an Invasion of Canada, more Seamen & also Officers will be wanted there. The Vessels as to themselves are all in proper repair & fit for Service only their Guns are landed. I have the Honor to be &c

Antigua, September the 17th 1777

On the 31st of August last I was favored with your Letter of the 5th of July by his Majesty's Ship the Badger, wherein you mention, that it is the pleasure of the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty, that I should defend Admiral Young against the Action brought by the Owners of the Private Armed Sloop called the Hammond against the Admiral, for seizing and detaining that Sloop for having been found Cruising upon the high Seas without any Commission or proper Authority so to do; ² In Answer to which give me leave to inform you, that the Owners of that Sloop Arrested the Admiral for such Seizure and detention of their Sloop, And in Consequence of the Writ that issued against the Admiral an Action of Trover was brought against him for the Sloop her Tackle, Apparel, and Furniture, and the particular things that were found on board her, to which Action I pleaded not Guilty, and the same came on to be heard at an Adjourned Court of the Court of Common Pleas of this Island upon the 17th day of June Last, when the Jury found the Admiral Guilty and gave Damages against him to the Amount of £1201 . . 7 . . 31½ Currency which in Sterling Money at the Rate of 175 this Currency for £100 Sterling is £686 . . 9 . . 10½ And although Rowland Burton Esqr and my self who were of Council for the Admiral pressed the Judges to give directions to the Jury to find a Special Verdict and used every endeavor to prevail upon the Jury for that purpose Yet we proved unsuccessful, but if a Special Verdict had been found, I really think in my Conscience, that the Admiral could not have been Justified in what he did, And I am extremely happy to think that my Opinion to the Admiral is Sanctified by the Opinions of the Attorney and Solicitor General, Signified by Lord George Germain in his Letter to the Commander in Chief of these Islands, and I have only to Lament, that the Admiral would not take my Opinion and advice upon the Application he made to me upon the Seizure of the Sloop Hammond, for if he had, and the Non-Commissioned Vessels, or rather the Owners thereof, had been looked upon as Pirates and Robbers upon the High Seas according to the Admirals Conceptions, the Commander in Chief of these Islands would have been the only person blameable for suffering such Vessels to go to Sea; but happy for these Islands that no other restraint was laid upon those Vessels, but what the Admiral was pleased to exert, for the prizes that they took relieved the distresses of the Inhabitants thereof, and when those prizes were Condemned, they were Adjudged to His Majesty as rights and Perquisites of the Admiralty; However the Judge of our Vice Admiralty Court thought proper to give the Captors the Prizes, as a Reward for their Zeal for His Majesty's Service and for Annoying the Rebels in the manner they did, upon their giving such Security as was approved of by the Judge of the Admiralty to refund the Value of the Prizes, in Case His Majesty should not approve of the Judges Sentences, and from the late Letters which His Excellency General [W. Matthew] Burt has received from Lord George Germain, and from the Owners of the Hammond having enter'd up Satisfaction upon the Judgment obtained by them against the Admiral and that against Captain Dumaresq I imagine His Majesty will be graciously pleased to give the Owners of Non-Commissioned Vessels the prizes they have taken. However I have appealed from all the Sentences of the Judge as far as he has thought proper to give the Captors any part of the Prizes.

I will by the next opportunity that Offers from this Island send you an Account of what the Admiral has expended in defence of himself, and also in defence of the Action brought against Captain Dumaresq and will draw upon you for that sum. And am with all due Regard Sir [&c.]

thursday Sepr 18th 1777.

Sir,

With great fatigue after marching all last night I arrived at this place at the break of day, and after the best disposition of the men, I could make, immediately began the attack, and in a few minutes, carried the place. I then without any loss of time detached a considerable part of my men to the mill, where a great number of the enemy were posted, who also were soon made prisoners, a small number of whom having taken possession of a block house in that Vicinity were with more difficulty brot to submission; but at the sight of a Cannon they surrendered. during this season of success, Mount Defiance also fell into our hands. I have taken possession of the old french lines at Ticonderoga, and have sent in a flag demanding the surrender of Ty: and Mount independence in strong and peremptory terms. I have had as yet no information of the event of Colo Johnsons attack on the mount. My loss of men in these several actions are not more than 3 or 4 killed and 5 wounded. the enemy's loss is less. I find myself in poss[ess]ion of 293 prisoners. Vizt 2 Captains, 9 Subs, 2 Commissaries, Non Commissioned officers and privates 143 British and 119 Canadians, 18 Artificers and retook more than 100 of our men, total 293, exclusive of the prisoners retaken. – The water craft I have taken, is 150 batteaus below the falls in lake Champlain 50 above the falls including 17 gun boats and an armed sloop, arms equal to the number of prisoners, some ammuniton & many other things which I cannot now ascertain. I must not forget to mention a few Cannon which may be of great service to us.

Tho: my Success has hitherto answered my most Sanguine expectations, I cannot promise myself great things, the events of war being so dubious in their own nature, but shall do my best to distress the enemy all in my power having regard to my retreat – there is but a small quantity of provision at the place, which I think will necessitate my retreat in case we do not carry Ty and independence – I hope you will use your utmost endeavour to give me assistance should I need in crossing the lake &c – The enemy have but a very small force at fort George their boats are on an Island about 14 Miles from this, guard[ed] by 6 Companies, having artillery & I have much to fear with respect to the prisoners, being obliged to send them under a small guard – I am well informed that a considerable reinforcement is hourly expected up the lake under the command of Sir John Johnson – This minute received Genl Powals answer to my demand. these words Vizt "The Garrison entrusted to my charge I shall defend to the last" –

Indeed I have but little hopes of putting him to the necessity of giving it up unless by the force under Colonel Johnson I am &c

JOHN BRADFORD TO THE COMMITTEE OF COMMERCE ¹

Honble Sirs

Boston 19th September [1777]

It is with great Pleasure I acquaint you that I this moment receiv'd by Express a Letter from Capt Cleveland acquainting Me with his safe Arrival at Salem Yesterday two oClock favour'd by a Gale of Wind & thick weather. As it is some Days before the Post sets out I thought her Arrival was of importance Enough to Dispatch an Express with the Letters wch Accompany this Cleveland mentions nothing more to me than this, that, the Brig & Cargo, comes to the Address of the Correspondent of Messrs Willing & Morris. I have no Letters Come to hand Directed to me. I shall with Chearfulness obey the Orders which I may receive from the honble Committee

Cleveland writes me he has a great Number of Hands on Pay. I've desir'd him to discharge all but what are necessary to bring the Brig up to Boston & to take the first good Opportunity for that Purpose at the same time to engage them not to dispose of themselves 'till the Return of this Express, I beg leave to hint, that if you have no Voyage already plann'd for the Dispatch, would it not be worthy the Attention of the honble Committee, as she is so well arm'd to run to the West Indies for a Cargo, As Im oblig'd to give 20/ for NE Rum, four Dollars has been given Since I bought last. I beg Pardon for the Liberty I have taken in offering this Hint, As there must be a very Large Portledge Bill on the Dispatch. I beg leave to be favoured with money by the Bearer, being Scant of that necessary Article by Reason of the great Advance I have made for the Raleighs Alfred & Ranger. I went a Jouy to Portsmo last week hoping to get some money from Capt Langdon but was disappointed. As the Express is ready I shall not detain him but Respectfully Salute you and am [&c.]

PETITION TO THE MASSACHUSETTS GENERAL COURT ¹

[Extract]

[Boston, September 19, 1777] ²

To the Honble the Council, & the Honble House of Representatives, for the State of Massachusetts Bay in New-England in General Court Assembled –
May it Please your Honors –

The Petition of the Committees of Safety, Correspondence, and Inspection, for the severall Towns of Georgetown, Pownelborough, Edgecomb, Bristol, Boothbay, & Woolwich, in the County of Lincoln, in Behalf of the Town of Boothbay, and the Places adjacent – Humbly Shews –

That the Rainbow man of war, commanded by Sr George Collier, together with severall other arm'd Vessells lately Came into the Harbour of Boothbay,³ & took possession thereof, and while there stript and Carried off from severall of the Inhabitants of these parts, a Considerable Number of their Cattle, Sheep, swine & poultry, & other Necessarys, and water'd their vessells and while they lay there, made prizes of & carried away a Number of Vessells belonging to these states to the Number of Fifteen or twenty, they also while they lay there threatned the Inhabitants to return with Sufficient Force, & Conquer or Destroy all before them, thereby Putting the Inhabitants in great Terror, we have also the Deposition of a Person on Oath, who was captivated by them, that their intention was to return in about a Fortnight or three weeks, and sweep all before them, and as we doubt not their intention is to make the harbour of Boothbay a Place of Rendezvous for their Ships. . .

A few Days ago we received an Account from the Bar, that two English Brigs, one a very large one, the other mounting 10 or 12 Guns, were arrived within the Bar, and had taken several Vessels which lay there, particularly a large French Brig. There were many Vessels there ready to go out, but the chief of them escaped by running up into the Rivers again. The utmost Dispatch is making here to drive these Sheepstealers from whence they came, for tis supposed the fat Mutton on the Banks has been the chief Temptation to this desperate Manoeuvre. Gentlemen, Darby Creek Sepr 20th 1777.

Yesterday afternoon we weighed with all the Fleet and Rowed down to Darby Creek; the Enemys Ships laying at Chester. – But, we had not got far down, when they weighed their Anchors, and made down the River, with their Boats a head towing them – As soon as we came to Anchor, I sent out Eight Guard Boats, who were near them all Night, and took a Boat and two Men that had been on Board them; but they say they were going over to the Jerseys to bring a Flatt over for Mr Ottenhammer; and they had such an order from him, I saw it – We found with them some of Howes Proclamations which we took from them, inclos'd you have one of them – The three Ships are now in sight, and its now flood Tide, but they are not yet got under weigh, & I believe will not, as there is but little Wind. – There are seven more Ships abreast of deep Water Point, one of which is under weigh and coming up to the other three. – They seem to want to draw us down to action with them below; and in consequence of your Letter shall avoid it, without they come up higher – We are all prepared, & should they come up, hope to give you a good account of them – We are all in high Spirits, and fit and willing for Action whenever a convenient opportunity offers – The Paymasters are much wanted as some of the Captains have got their Money from him and some not – I should be glad he would send each Captain his Amount, that the People may be paid – Having not to add am [&c.]

“AN ACT TO RESTRAIN THE EXPORTATION OF PITCH, TAR, TURPENTINE, AND OTHER NAVAL STORES FROM THE STATE OF NEW JERSEY.”¹

[Extract]

Whereas it is highly expedient in a time of War to preserve amongst ourselves such Articles as may be wanted for our own Consumption, or for the Use of the United States of America; And Whereas the restraining the Exportation of Pitch, Tar, Turpentine and other Naval Stores, may have a Tendency to distress our Enemies and greatly to Weaken their Operations against us, by withholding from them supplies so essentially necessary for the refitting and keeping in Repair their Ships and other Engines of War; –

Be it Enacted by the Council and General Assembly of this State and it is hereby Enacted by the Authority of the same That if any Pitch, Tar, Turpentine, Masts, Yards, Spars or other Naval Stores whatsoever shall at any time hereafter, be laden and found on Board any Ship or Vessel in any port of this State, for which no permit hath been obtained from the Commissioners in Manner herein after directed, it shall and may be lawful for the Collector of such Port, or any person by him duly Authorized, to seize such Pitch, Tar, Turpentine, Masts, Yards, Spars or other Naval Stores, together with the Ship or Vessel in which the same shall be so laden and found, and such Vessel together with such of the aforesaid Articles as shall be so laden or found on Board her at the time of such Seizure, are hereby declared to be forfeited, one third part thereof to the Use of the State, one third part to the Use of the Collector of the port in which the same shall be so seized, and the remaining third part to the Use of the Informer or Informers on whose Information the same shall be so seized. . . .

Whereas it is intended that the Ship you command together with those named in the Margin, should, in the Emerald.

Solebay. Absence of a Senior Officer, be employed under your direction, at and near to the Entrance of Chesepeak Bay.
Otter. More especially to intercept all Supplies of Military Stores attempted to be introduced into the several Ports and Rivers of the Colonies bordering thereupon; As well as otherwise to prevent all Trade and Intercourse with the disaffected Inhabitants of those Colonies and to take or destroy any Armed Vessels they have provided, by every means in your power: you are therefore to take your Station, in such parts of the Bay towards the Entrance thereof, and to employ the Ships placed under your Direction, in such manner from time to time, as you may judge to be most effectual for the several purposes aforesaid.

Your first attention will however be more particularly necessary to prevent the Rebels from putting to Sea with Cargoes of Tobacco whether in American or Foreign Bottoms) destined for the Ports of France, in payment for Supplies of Arms and other Military Stores furnished on those Conditions from that Kingdom; Wherein your care must be further extended, as you can be assisted with small Armed-Vessels of suitable Force and Burthen, in opposition to the Success of a Plan undertaken with the same intent, and proposed to be executed by transporting small Cargoes of Tobacco over to the Eastern Shore of the Bay, and re-shipping them for Europe in Vessels adapted to the Navigation of the Shallow Creeks and Inlets on the opposite Coast of the County of Northampton.

In this view, and more particularly at those Seasons of the Year, whilst the unsettled state of the Weather will not probably admit of keeping the Sea without danger of having the Cruizing Ships forced off of the Coast, proper Anchoring Stations are to be taken within the entrance of the Bay, where they may remain or repair to occasionally, as Circumstances require. Tho' at other times when a sufficient number of Ships can be spared for the temporary Service, the additional Force may be very advantageously appointed to cruizing Stations without the Capes: conducive both to the purpose of intercepting Ships that may have escaped out of the Bay, and preventing the importation of necessary Supplies to the Rebels from foreign Ports.

In case, by the capture of any Trading Ships, or Ships armed for War, you shall be incumbered with a number of Prisoners not inclined to enter for the King's Service, you are permitted to Exchange the same against any British Prisoners, Officer for Officer claiming equal Rank, and Sailor for Sailor, as on a proffered Communication for that purpose with the Inhabitants of the Provinces having British Captives in possession, you find them disposed on those Conditions to release. But if being unable to make such advantageous Exchange, you are likely to be compelled to quit your Station, or to detach any of the Ships under your Orders on the same Account; you are then equally permitted to land such Prisoners, not being His Majesty's European Subjects or taken in Arms, in the Provinces most convenient with reference to the general purpose of these Instructions. But British Prisoners taken whilst in the Employment of the Rebels, may be retained involuntarily to serve in the Ships of War, if you think fit.

You are to continue upon this Service, with the several Ships before-mentioned, and such as may be hereafter sent to be employed in the same manner under your Direction, whilst their Condition, and the State of their Men and Stores will admit, with due sufficiency for their Return into Port to procure the Relief they respectively require, or until further Order. But if the cause for leaving their Stations shall in such time happen, that the particular Ship cannot arrive to obtain the requisite Supplies at the general Rendezvous in the Port of New-York, before the End of the first Week in December (and afterwards until the beginning of March the attempt is to be postponed) the Captain is to repair for the purpose to Rhode-Island; Where a suitable Provision will have been made for affording the necessary Assistance in the mean time, whilst the access to the Port of New-York is likely to be obstructed by the Ice which usually forms there at that Season of the Year.

You are to transmit to me by every suitable conveyance, a particular Account of your Proceedings in compliance with these Instructions; The Incidents that occur; The Stations on which the Ships have been placed from time to time, in the Form annex'd; And the Condition of them, as any Change of Circumstances therein may require. And further to communicate by such opportunities, all advices you obtain of the Practices and Designs of the Rebels for Strengthening themselves in their illegal Resistance; With the measures deemed most effectual for preventing the Success of their hostile Intentions, or which in other respects appear to be for the benefit of His Majesty's Service.

Given onboard His Majesty's Ship the Eagle in Chesepeak Bay the 22d of September 1777.

Howe.

By Command of the Vice Admiral. Jos: Davies.

P.S. The Packet enclosed herewith is to be delivered to Captain Parker as soon as an Opportunity offers for that purpose.

“EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM THE COMMODORE HOTHAM TO THE VISCOUNT HOWE, DATED ONBOARD THE Preston OFF NEW YORK THE 23D OF SEPTEMBER 1777”¹

My Lord,

The Lieutenant General Sir Henry Clinton lately did me the Honor to impart to me a Plan of Incursion he proposed making into the Jerseys, which he was of Opinion, if critically timed, might not only operate strongly in favor of the Grand Army, but be attended with other Advantages; The necessary Directions were accordingly given respecting the Flat Boats, the Disposition of them ordered in the manner he desired, and the Landings made at the following places.

On the 11th in the Forenoon a Detachment of eleven Batteaux (to prevent any Jealousy in the North River) were sent by the Way of the East River through King'sbridge to the Mouth of Spikendevil Creek; whence, soon after the Close of Day, a Body of near 1500 Men with some Field Artillery were passed over to Fort Lee in three Divisions, under the Direction of Captain Reid of the Rose, who commanded this Division of Boats. A sufficient Guard was left in the Fort, in case it should be found advisable to re-embark the Troops from that Spot.

About Nine o'Clock the same Night were embarked from the King's Wharf in the North River, Part of the 7th and 26th Regiments, with about Thirty dismounted Dragoons. They fell down with the Tide to Staten Island in Ten Flat Boats, attended by the Gun-Boat, and were there joined by the 52d Regiment and 300 Provincials; the whole amounting to about 1250 Men, who at break of Day were landed at Elizabeth Town Point. This Debarkation and Division of the Boats was put under the Direction of Captain Uppleby, which being effected, a Detachment of three of his Boats with the Galley were detached up the Hackinsack River to Schuyler's Ferry, to act as Occasion might require a Guard being placed there for their Protection.

The same Night a smaller Embarkation of about 320 Men, including a Squadron of Cavalry with Two Pieces of Cannon, was also made from the King's Wharf by Long-Boats, Horse-Scows &c. They landed at Paulus Hook soon after it was dark and were to march by Schuyler's Ferry to the Heights of Second River.

About 200 Provincials were previously sent onboard the Squadron up the North River to be landed about the Neighbourhood of Tapan, with Orders to move down towards Bergen, driving Cattle before them. Captain Ommanney finding it impossible for the Ships to get up the River, embarked onboard the Gallies with this Body of Men, to which he added a Party of Marines, and took the Direction of the Landing himself.

A Detachment of Sixty Marines were also sent over to Paulus Hook to re-inforce that Post in the Absence of such as were taken from it.

The different Embarkations and Landings were effected as could be wished, and the Troops were again re-embarked from the Jerseys on the 16th. The Detail of the Operations during their Stay there, I shall not enter into, more than that the Acquisition of Cattle derived from this Incursion has been considerable, as I hope it will be found beneficial to the Troops and Seamen, added to the End it seems to have had, of throwing the Enemy into a general Alarm. The whole re-embarked from Paulus Hook and Fort Lee.

A French Sloop commanded by a King's Lieutenant arrived here from Martinico about the Beginning of the Month. She brought a Letter from the Governor of that Island addressed to your Lordship, relating to the Frenchmen we had in Custody found trading with the Rebels.² The Number remaining being so small, I thought it a good Occasion to get rid of them, as well as to compliment him at the same Time with their Delivery. Inclosed is the Governor's Letter with my Answer.

GEORGE WASHINGTON TO COMMODORE JOHN HAZELWOOD ¹

Sir

Camp at Potts Grove Sept 23d 1777

The Enemy have cross'd the Schuylkill below the Army & are now on their March for the City of Philadelphia – I think it of the greatest Importance that the Fort upon the Island should be Garrison'd. If we can stop the Enemy's fleet from coming up & prevent them from getting Possession of the Mud fort, & they take Possession of the City & our Army moves down upon the back of it, it will be the most effectual method of ruining General Howe's Army that ever Fortune Favor'd us with – I could wish you to take out of the Ships & the Row Gallies two or three Hundred Men & Garrison the Fort with them untill I can relieve them with some Continental Troops which I design as soon as possible – You will lay the Gallies round the Fort in such a manner as will prevent the Enemy from landing Men upon the Island. If you think it necessary for the security of the Fort to lay the Island under water, let it be done immediately – I hope you'll exert yourself & all the Officers under your command as far as possible to secure the Fort, & prevent the Enemy's fleet from coming up – Let us Join our Force & Operations both by land & Water in such a manner as will most effectually work the Ruin of the common Enemy without confining ourselves to any particular Department. There is one thing further I would recommend which is that you should have all the Boats immediately collect'd from the City, & above & below it on both sides the River & taken under the care of your Fleet – This will prevent the Enemy from the Means of making an attempt on the Fort, & allso all Intercourse with Jersey for obtaining Supplies of Provision. I am Sir [&c.]

ORDERS TO ALL VESSELS ON THE DELAWARE RIVER ¹

Ordered by the subscriber commanding in Philadelphia, September 23, 1777.

I. That every decked vessel in the river Delaware, between Market-street wharf and Burlington, be, by the next tide of flood, taken up to Burlington, and put under the care of the naval officer commanding there. All such as are below Market-street wharf and fort Mifflin, to be taken down the river, and put under the care of the naval commanding officer there. All such as are found on the river after the above mentioned times, will be burned by boats and guards sent for that purpose. But all shallops, sloops, and flats employed in removing goods public or private from this city, or in supplying it with wood, are excepted in the above order.

II. All sloops, shallops and flats, not immediately employed, must remain in the stream, opposite Chestnut-street wharf, ready to proceed up or down the river, as the tide will permit, on any emergency.

III. Every boat, batteau, skew or other undecked vessel of every denomination between fort Mifflin and Burlington, the old and new ferries in Philadelphia excepted, must be immediately removed into the following creeks, Timber creek, Anncocus, and Burlington creeks, in the Jerseys. All that are found afloat, or on shore, on the Pennsylvania side of the river, twenty-four hours after the publishing these orders, will be destroyed.

IV. All merchandize and provisions, brought into this city since Friday the nineteenth instant, must be immediately removed to some place of safety, and none brought in beyond what is immediately necessary for the use of the inhabitants; all others to be removed if time will permit, or destroyed; the expence of removing and rewarding such as give notice thereof, to be charged to the account of the owners.

V. All riots and unlawful assemblies are strictly prohibited. Such as offend will be immediately confined as enemies to the states.

Sir

St John's 24th Sept 1777

From the Letter of Lieut Starke a Copy of which I sent you a few Days ago you will see the distressed situation which we may eventually be in in case the two Vessels Mr Stark mentions, should fall into the Rebels [hands] nearly all the others having been disarmed I trust therefore you will see the necessity of sending me an Officer with as many Seamen as you can possibly spare I need not tell you that if you should think there would be no impropriety in coming yourself it would be extreemly agreeable to me.

I cannot however avoid expressing my Astonishment at the fear intimated by Lt Stark that his Vessels may possibly fall into the Hands of the Rebels as even if the Misfortune was to happen which he says would put him in that danger. He still would have it in his power to destroy the Vessels which is what might naturally be expected from a Gallant & Zealous Officer situated as Lt Stark is.

I send a Dispatch for Ld George to Mr Cramahé to be delivered to you & beg it may be sent by the first opportunity &c

[Extract]

Dear Sir

Boston 24 Sept 1777

My last to you was under the 19th Instant by express at that time I was intirely ignorant of what the Cargo onboard the Dispatch consisted of – as Capt Cleveland only mentioned his arrivall at Salem and forwarded the Letters by express wch I mentioned to you. the Brig has since got up from Salem and we are unloading her. the musquets I find in very bad Order being damag'd by water before I took them in at Bourdeaux – Cleveland has brot no invoice of the Cargo neither does he know what many Packages Contains. he has been at a great Expence to Arm & equip her for a Cruizer. Brought a Large number of men but was not fortunate enough to meet a prize in his way. She sails uncommon fast he spoke with Every vessel he attempted to on the Passage – she mount 8 four lb Cannon with six wooden ones & made a grand appearence in coming up the Harbour however she is not calculated for a Cruizer without going through the like Operation with the Alfred wch would be very expensive – I have not yet seen the Captains Accounts I find by him Mr Deane paid his Disbursements in france. . . Yesterday a Prize was sent in here by Capt Skimmer a fine new Brig Loaded with Salt of 160 Tons bound from the Streights to the Land ² – Skimmer was left the 29th Ultimo. I most ardently wish he may be happy enough to be promoted by Congress. he in my opinion is Equal to any man in the naval Command. I don't know that He wants any Qualification to command any Ship in our Navy – I congratulate you & my Country on our once more possessing Ticonderoga, god grant, that ere this reaches you Victory may be proclaim'd in favour of America in your City

LIEUTENANT GEORGE IRWINE TO CAPTAIN SIR FRANCIS CLARK, AIDE DE CAMP TO MAJOR GENERAL JOHN BURGoyNE ¹

Sir

Fort George 24th Sept 1777

I think it necessary to acquaint you for the information of Genl Burgoyne, that the Enemy to the amount of between two and three hundred Men came from Skensborough to the carrying place near Tyconderoga and there took seventeen or eighteen Batteaus with Gunboats – their Design first was to attack this Fort but considering they could not well accomplish it without Cannon they desisted from that scheme, they were then resolv'd to attack Diamond Island (which Island Capt: Aubrey Commands) and if they succeeded, to take this place, they began to attack the Island with Cannon about 9 O'clock yesterday Morning, I have the satisfaction to inform you that after a Cannonading for near an hour and a half on both sides the Enemy took to their retreat with loss, there was Gun boats sent in pursuit after them which occasion'd the Enemy to burn their Gun boats and Batteaus and made their escape towards Skensborough in great confusion – we took one Gun boat from them with a twelve pounder in her and a good Quantity of Amunition – we have heard there was a few kill'd & many Wounded of them – there was not a Man kill'd or hurt during the whole Action of his Majesty's Troops – I have the honor to be Sir [&c.]

“EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM ANTIGUA, SEPT. 25.” ¹

A ship from Liverpool has brought in here an American sloop, which she took on her passage; she was bound from New England to Martinico; her cargo consists of 50,000 feet of lumber, and 200 l. in hard dollars, to buy European goods with; by this means all the Spanish cash will find its way out of the continent of America to the islands. We have had several vessels here with lumber from St. Augustine, in East Florida, and, I assure you, very good, and well cut, which has been of the utmost service to us, and greatly reduced the price of that article, as from the scarcity at one time it would have fetched any money. I am told they only want some negroes to assist them in the Floridas, and they could almost supply all our islands. You will hardly believe the number of prizes the frigates and armed ships on this station have taken; they are estimated at above 150 brought into this port and the rest of the Leeward Islands.

Last Monday [September 22] a Fleet of twenty-one Sail of Shipping came out of Gardiner's Bay, and went down the Sound, bound to Newport, among which was 7 or 8 Ships.

The same Day a Ship,¹ burthen about 200 Tons, Prize to Capt. Conklin [Joseph Conkling], arrived at Stonington: She was from the Bay of Honduras, bound to England; we hear she has 75,000 Feet of Mahogany and 30 Tons of Logwood on Board.

About an hour after the above Prize came to Anchor, Captain Conklin, (who was bound in) was chased by a Man of War and a Schooner of 12 Guns,² belonging to the above Fleet; when the latter endeavouring to take a short Course and cut off Capt. Conklin from the Land, ran on Watch-Hill-Reef, at about a Mile Distance from Capt. Conklin, who came to Anchor within Watch-Point; – a brisk Fire was kept up between the two Vessels for several Hours; – the Man of War came to Anchor just without the Schooner, in Order to protect her from Capt. Conklin. The Schooner remained in this Situation till the next Morning, when their People set her on Fire in the Hold, and were directly taken off in the Man of War's Boat. Several Articles were brought out of her by a Boat that went on board soon after she was quitted by her People; but the Boat tarried only a few Minutes, and immediately after they left her, the Magazine taking Fire, she blew up. Her Guns, it is said, will all be saved.³ One Man was found dead by the Side of the Vessel. Capt. Conklin received no Damage.

I this Minute arrived at this Place by the Way of Fort Ann, was induced to take this Rout on acct of my Ignorance of the Situation of every Post of the continenal Army –

On the 22d inst at 4 oclk PM. I set Sail from the north End Lake George with 20 Sail of Boats three of which were Armed Viz one Small Sloop mounting 8 Guns & 2 British Gun Boats having on Board the whole about 420 Men Officers included with a Determind Resolution to attack Diamond Isleland which lies within 5 Miles Fort George at the Break of Day the next Morning, but a very heavy Storm coming on prevented – I arrived at Sabbath Day point abt midnight where I tarried all night, during which time a Small Boat in the Fleet taken the Day before coming from Fort George, conducted by one Ferry lately a Sutler in our Army, I put Ferry on his Parole but in the night he found Means to escape with his Boat, and informed the Enemy of our approach, on the 23d I avanced as far as ½ Mile Isleland the Wind continuing too high for an attack I Suspen'd it untill the Morning of the 24th at 9 oclock at which Time I advanced with the 2 Armed Boats in front and the other Boats, I ordered to swing to the Right & left of the Island to Atempt a Landing if practicable, and to Support the Gun Boats in Case they Should need assistance, I was induced to make this experiment to find the Strength of the Island as also to carry it if practicable – The Enemy gave me the first fire which I returned in good Earnest, and advanced as nigh as I thought prudent, I soon found that the Enemy had been advertized of our approach and well prepared for our reception having a great number of Canon well mounted with good Breast Works, I however approached within a Small Distance giving the Enemy as hot a Fire as in my Power, untill the Sloop was hulled between wind & Water and obliged to tow her off and one of the Gun Boats so damaged as I was obliged to quit her – in this Action I had two Men Killed two Mortally wounded and Several others wounded in Such Manner as I was obliged to leave them under the Cair of Some of the Inhabitants, who I had taken Prisoners giving them a Sufficient Reward for their Services, I Run my Boats up a Bay a considerable distance and burnt them with all the Baggage that was not portable – The Enemy's Force on Diamond Island as near as can be collected are about three hundred, and about 40 at Fort George with orders if they are attacked to retreat to the Island – Genl Burgoine has about 4 Weeks Provisions with his Army and no more, he is determined to cut his Road through to Albany at all Events, for this I have the best Authority. Still I think him under a Small mistake – Most of the Horses and Cattle taken at Ty and thereabouts were left in the Woods Genl Warner has sent out a Party in quest of them Am Dear Sr [&c.]

Jn^o Brown

NB You may Depend on it that after the British Army were Supply with Six Weeks Provision which was two Weeks since the Communication between Lake George & Fort Edward was ordered by Genl Burgoine to be Stop'd and no passes given –

The attack on the Isleland continued with interruption 2 Hours –²

CONTINENTAL MARINE COMMITTEE TO COMMODORE JOHN HAZELWOOD ¹

Sir

Lancaster 26th September 1777

It being of great importance to the future safety of Philadelphia, and to the Public good that the defences on the River Delaware should not fall into the enemies hands, or their fleet be suffered to get up to the City, orders are this day sent to the Commander of the Continental armed Vessels to be subordinate to your Command in defending the River

We have no doubt but that your joint and vigourous efforts will be employed to defend the passage of the River to the last extremity and if at last it must be given up, it is expected that you will Assist in removing the Troops from Fort Mifflen to a place of safety. Your knowledge of the River will best enable you to determine where it may be necessary to sink vessels or other obstructions in Order to supply the vacancies between the Cheveaux de frize already sunk, and to prevent the enemy from bringing many Vessels to bear against the Fort. Such Vessels as are necessary for the above purpose you are hereby authorized to take and supply. We wish you success and are Sir [&c.]

CONTINENTAL MARINE COMMITTEE TO CAPTAIN CHARLES ALEXANDER ¹

Sir

Lancaster Septemr 26th 1777

As the future safety of Philadelphia and the public good so greatly depend upon preventing the enemies Fleet from getting up to Town and succoring the Army, you are desired to co-operate in the most full and friendly manner with the Other Land and Sea forces both of the Continental and the State of Pennsylvania in effecting this valuable purpose. It is expected that you exert every art that valour, vigilance and address can suggest to you, as well as to prevent the enemy from Philadelphia possessing themselves of the Fort, as to keep the British Fleet from getting up. If there should be a probability of either provisions or ammunition failing you, let timely care be taken to get supplied from General Washington who with his Army will be in the neighbourhood of Philadelphia above the City. If the Fort and the passage of the River is bravely and properly defended, the possession of Philada will probably turn out to be the ruin of the British Army. –

Your established reputation for valour makes it unnecessary to say that brave minds should never despair, and that every thing is to be hazarded where the public good require it. You and the brave American forces with you, will therefore keep the defences on the River Delaware to the last extremity. But, if every resource of valour and Skill should fail you, and it becomes absolutely impossible to hold out any longer, you are then to push with the Continental Vessels as far as they can Swim up the River, and having defended them there as long as possible, they must all be destroyed rather than suffer them to fall into the enemies hands. If it should be found that Fort Mifflen must be given up, you are then to use your utmost endeavours to bring off the garrison and convey the Troops to a place of safety. Congress has already determined that in defending the Delaware the Continental Marine Officers shall be under command of the Commodore of this State, and you are accordingly to observe and pay due regard to that Resolve. Wishing you the most honourable Success We are Sir [&c.]

Last Tuesday near two hundred sail of the enemy's fleet or men of war and transports went down the bay, and next morning were seen to clear the capes, supposed to be bound for Delaware. Five or six ships of war still remain in our bay, and one is stationed in York river channel, near Back river.

By a Gentleman just arrived from Charles-Town, we are informed, that one of the large three decked Ships lately carried in there by Capt. Biddle in the Randolph continental Frigate, proves to be a Prize taken by Capt. Palmer in the Privateer Nancy, belonging to Mr. John W. Stanly of this Town. It seems a few Days after Capt. Palmer took her, a large Ship of 20 Guns from Jamaica retook her, in a Day or two after which the Randolph fell in with them both and conducted them safe to Charles-Town. The Nancy has also taken a Guinea-Man with 100 Slaves, Ivory, and other Valuables, and sent her into Georgia.

I have the honor of your Excellencys Letter of the 3d Sepr by Messrs Pascaud & Dubuisson, wherein You request I will grant them Pass-Ports for Two Vessels named the Chance [sic Hazard] & Prudent, to go to Halifax and Quebec to load with Lumber for Building; the Inhabitants of St Nichola Mole being in a most distressed situation for want thereof, owing to a late fire which has destroyed most of the Buildings.² In answer thereto I beg leave to acquaint You I have granted two Pass Ports to the above Vessels, agreeable to your request to proceed to Halifax and Quebec in order to take in their Lading.

I further beg leave to acquaint your Excellency that I designed to have sent one of my armed Vessels, with a complaint exhibited against one Hague a Subject of His Most Christian Majesty, who behaved as You will observe by the affidavit inclosed for your information; I look upon it as an act of Piracy as he seized this property & Negroes out of one of His Most Christian Majesty's Vessels which was hired at Hispaniola to convey the passengers down to Jamaica after coming from So Carolina in a Rebel Vessel.³

I make not the least doubt but your Excellency will administer Justice to His Britannick Majesty's Subjects in consideration of the great Harmony which subsists between our two Crowns & cause enquiry to be made for the said property and Negroes which were piratically seized & have them secured

untill I can send an armed Vessel to your Excellency to bring them down, Your Excellency's compliance to this request will confer a lasting obligation on him who subscribes himself. with all respect [&c.]

JOURNAL OF CAPTAIN JOHN MONTRESOR¹

[Philadelphia]

[September] 27th. At ½ past 8, wind at the West. Two of the Rebel Frigates and 5 row Gallies came up with the Tide with orders to lay as close to the City as possible, and cannonade it in order to drive the King's Troops out. Fortunately the 2 lower Batteries were just completed as they approached us within cannon shot, when we opened upon them and the artillery being extremely well directed their best Frigate the Delaware which got somewhat aground, struck to us and one of the Gallies having her fore-mast carried away run ashore at New Jersey directly opposite to our Batteries. The other Frigate and 4 Gallies in great haste put about and went back to the Fort. This Frigate has 24 Twelve pounders, and 6 Nine pounders with 150 men. She had but one man killed and six wounded. She was 2 or 3 times on fire owing to one of our shot having drove through her caboose, it not being easily extinguished was also owing to one of our Royal Howitzers having burst within her near the bows. Captain [James] Moncrief and the carpenters principally on board the Frigate to extinguish the Fire by cutting away parts of her side. Learnt by deserters from the Rebel Fleet that the Galley drove ashore on the Jersey side had 4 men killed and 6 wounded. We found in this city about 50 Boats of all sorts and procured a Durham boat from Frankford creek that will hold 100 men. The Boats of the Ferries secured, accounts received that Lord Howe and the Fleet were within the Light House. . . .

DIARY OF CAPTAIN FRANCIS DOWNMAN, ROYAL ARTILLERY ¹

[Philadelphia]

September 26th [sic 27th]. – Early this morning appeared in sight over Gloucester Point below the town, two frigates, five galleys, and a sloop, beating up towards the town. I had the honour to command two 12 pounders and two howitzers. I had everything ready to receive them in a little time. My guns were drawn down on the bank entirely exposed. I received the disagreeable orders not to fire at the ships until they fired at me, which made me extremely uneasy. They came very near us; they still came nearer – within 300 or 400 yards. A shot was fired from one of my guns at them. They hoisted rebel colours, and soon after began to fire. This gave me pleasure for then I could fire with safety. We began a brisk cannonade from all our guns; it was returned by them with both round and grape shot, and their galleys, which were at a greater distance, kept up a fire upon us likewise, and fired many good shots though fortunately they did no harm. One of the frigates called the Delaware came within musket shot of our guns, and fired several rounds of grape. We plied her very close and threw her crew into such confusion that they neglected the management of the sails, and after a few more badly directed shot, she ran aground close to our guns. We still kept up the fire, and in a short time she struck her colours. We hailed her and desired her crew to come ashore, which they did, and a party of men was sent on board her. Our fire now was immediately bent upon the other frigate and the row galleys, and our shot was so well plied that they were obliged to put about and stand down the river very much disabled. It was Commodore Alexander's frigate we took; she mounted twenty-two 12 pounders and six 6-pounders, and had on board 152 men who were all landed given in charge to the Provost; they lost but very few people and we not one. One of the galleys was obliged to run ashore on the Jersey side to prevent her from sinking. The frigate was set on fire during the action by our shots, but happily we soon put it out. The same afternoon a number of rebel sailors entered voluntarily on board of her to fight on our side. Strange work! She was very soon got off into the channel and made ready for action. We expect every hour to be at it again, for there are no less than 13 row galleys and other vessels to the tune of 26, about eight miles below us, and as soon as our ships can pass the obstacles in the river we may expect them up. A great number of the rebel ships are likewise above the town. Sometime in the afternoon a schooner attempted to pass the town downward. In a very few shots we dismasted and so disabled her that she ran ashore just opposite the town, but as we lacked boats to send to her, they carried her away in the night after unloading her. Thus ended the insolent attempt of their boasting Commodore, with two frigates and five galleys, each carrying a 32 or 24 pounder, opposed only by four 12 pounders and two howitzers, three of those being drawn up on the bank without the least covering.

I last Night threw myself into this Garrison, where I am Sorry to inform your excellcy that I find everything in the utmost Confusion. not as many Cartouches as will last one day & the very necessary Cartouches for the Block Houses not Sufficient for an Hour. 60 untrain'd Militia are all the Artillery Men in the fort. the provisions almost out. The Militia refus'd Obedience to Capt [Samuel] Treat & have underwent no Sort of training. This day one of the frigates was taken by the Enemy² which effectually cut off our Communication with Trenton, as Commodore Hazlworth [Hazelwood] thinks it will be very imprudent to attempt an attack on her, So well guarded as She is by their Batteries. So that the Stores I Send for by this Express to Trenton must Come by Land which will take up much time. Should the Enemy in the mean time make a vigorous attack on the Cheveaux de frize, & the frigate Come down on our Backs where we have no Battery & No Cover but pickets, the fort & Garrison may probably fall into their Hands. . . .

A Flag just appears from Ld Cornwallis demanding to know why the Commodore wishes to fire on the defenceless Inhabitants of the City. that Should a Repetition of the Kind happen, he must expect that he would retalliate on the prisoners in his Hands & further observ'd the folly of a future Attempt as he had Sufficiently fortified Approaches by water to the City. He further added that he Still held up the Hand of Clemency & Mercy to all that would Submit, & beg'd he would Consider the Situation we were in. that in a very few days he would be able to attack us with Such a formidable force that would be impossible for us to resist. Sir,

A Circumstance happend Yesterday at Philadelphia which makes us apprehensive of the Safety of our Continental Vessels & Naval Stores in & near this Town. The Delaware Frigate by some Misfortune fell into the Enemy's Hands at Philada & is now in their Possession. We think it is not improbable but they may man her Barge & such other small Boats as they can procure & send up the River to destroy our Vessels & Stores. We have ordered our two Frigates &c up to White Hill & landed the Stores. We have Cannon Ammunition &c sufficient but have not Men & therefore propose to your Excellency the Expediency of raising a small Company of Militia immediately for the Defence of the Pass below White hill & security of the immense Value of public & private Property that is above that Pass. Your Orders to this Purpose to Captain Pancross, who is now in this neighbourhood with most of his Company, will effect this good purpose, subjecting him & his Company to such Command as you shall judge proper.

We hope the Return of this Express will convey your Sentiments on this Head. We think with such assistance we can effectually secure the River against armed Boats, & other Force we have not to apprehend. I am Sir [&c.]

GEORGE WASHINGTON TO MAJOR GENERAL WILLIAM HEATH¹

[Extract]

Head Quarters September 30th 1777

. . . With respect to supplying the Continental frigates with ammunition from the Continental magazine. . . it is intirely proper they should have the necessary supply from them. – Indeed they should not be suffered to want so essential an article, and I know of no other way in which they could be furnished, with equal propriety, if at all. –

I am happy to hear of the valuable prizes that have been lately brought in to your port. – We shall stand in need of all our activity to increase our supplies by these means, and render them as far as possible adequate to our numerous and pressing wants. –

The aspect of our Northern affairs is extremely pleasing, particularly by our last accounts, which give us to hope that Tyconderoga ere this has fallen into our hands, and that General Burgoigne after an unsuccessful attack has been obliged to retreat under circumstances that threaten his ruin. – It is of the greatest importance that these favorable prospects may be speedily realized.

Probably before this reaches you, you will have heard that General Howe, after much manoeuvring marching and countermarching, has at length gained possession of Philadelphia. – Many unlucky incidents presented in a great measure the opposition he would have received notwithstanding our misfortune on the Brandywine, before he accomplished his purpose. – But though matters have taken a turn different from what we could have wished, I am in hopes; it will not be long before we are in a situation to repair the consequences of our late ill-success and give a more happy complexion to our affairs in this quarter. . . .

Baltimore, September 30.

On the 16th inst. Major General De Coudray, a brave and accomplished French Officer, most unhappily lost his Life in the River Schuylkill, into which he was plunged by his affrighted Horse, out of the Ferry Boat.
 This melancholy Event, hath involved his Friends in the deepest Affliction, in which every Lover of Freedom unfeignedly participates. He was on his Way to join the American Army, at the Head of a Corps of French Volunteers, who accompanied him from their native Country, for the noble Purpose of drawing their Swords, under the illustrious Washington, in Defence of this Liberty which is the common Inheritance of Mankind, now invaded here by the bloody Legions of an execrable Tyrant. The Corpse of this hapless General was interr'd on Wednesday Evening, with those Marks of Distinction which his Merit justly entitled him to receive, as the last Tribute, from a grateful People.

AUTOBIOGRAPHY OF SIR ANDREW SNAPE HAMOND ¹

[Roebuck in Chesapeake and Delaware Bays,
September 1 to September 30, 1777]

Information soon reached the General that the Rebel army under Washington, were so confident of their strong Position on the Heights of the Brandy wine, that notwithstanding the British Army having got into their Rear there was no appearance of their moving. Sr Wm Howe therefore determined to force their Entrenchmts but before he could venture to give them Battle, he stated to the admiral that he must be certain (before that took place) of having a Naval force, with sufft Provisions at Newcastle in the River Delaware, as a place of retreat in case of accidents. This service the admiral allotted to me, but required my statement upon the best Judgmt I could form, how long it would take me to get round with the Victualers – my answer was that it could not be expected in less than ten days, from the heavy Sailing of the Victualers, especially as there was little chance of any fair wind until we got into the Sea. (Note – This was a great omission in the Commander in Chief, not having considered the possible want of this Resource before the Fleet left the Mouth of the Delaware, when a sufficient magazine might have been established there.)

This answer was sent to Head Quarters by a Party of Dragoons waiting for it; and a reply was returned the next day, stating that on the tenth day, the Enemy should be attacked, which was accordingly done. By great Perseverance I reached Newcastle on the 10 Augst [September 10] the very day I was expected, and soon after Day light heard the Cannon of the Engagemt which lasted the greatest part of the day. . . The next day an immense number of waggons with the wounded arrived, among whom was Sr Wm Meadows who commandd the Grenadiers & B. General Harris &c. My whole attention therefore for some time was taken up to see them properly taken care of – News then soon reached me that Lord Cornwallis had got Possession of Philadelpa, I then moved up the River, and drove the armed craft (among which was the Virginia ² Frigate of 32 Guns) before me, when the Galleys took shelter under the Batterys of Mud Island (a strong Fortification in the middle of the River), and the Frigate, in attempting in the night to slip past the Town, was stoped & taken by the Army. This gave me the opportunity of appointing my First Lieutt to the command of her, and with the foundation of 50 Seamen & marines from the Roebuck, she was soon equipped as an effective Ship of war.

DEPOSITION OF THE CREW OF THE BRITISH SLOOP *Amelia*¹

Jamaica Ss.

This day came before me John Tyrie, late Commander of the Sloop Amelia belonging to London, but last from Senegal, Archibald Sharp, Mate, Luke Cortis, & James Forbes, Mariners, on board the said Vessel who, severally made Oath, on the Holy Evangelists of Almighty God, & say that on the Eighth Instt on their Voyage from Senegal to the Island of Jamaica, with a Cargo of Sixty eight Slaves, they were boarded & taken off the Island of Alto-Velo [Altavelle] near Hispaniola by the Tyger Privateer commanded by Captain Davie, a Frenchman, mounting Twelve Carriage; & Twelve Swivel Guns, and carrying Ninety Men, most of whom were likewise Frenchmen; That, as far as the Deponents could learn there was but one American on board the Privateer, & he acted in the Capacity of a common Mariner only; nor was there any Commission from the American Congress produced, but that one Thos Freeman belonging to the Privateer, who had been a Wharfinger, in the Island of Grenada, informed the Deponents, that he had, what he called, a Congress Commission: although, at the same Time, he confessed it, to be, a mere Forgery: That the Deponents, with their Vessel, & Slaves, were carried by the Privateer Tyger aforesaid into the bay of Flammant [Baye des Flamands] in Hispaniola, where the Deponents, with four others of their Crew (the whole consisting of Ten, two of whom had found means to escape at Hispaniola) were shipped on board a French Merchantman, & were landed on the Shore of Fisher's bay, on the South-East End of Jamaica, the Twenty third Instant: That the Deponents before they left the Privateer, at Flammant bay, had been stripped of all their Cash, papers, Clothes &c except what they had got on; That when they left the Bay of Flammant, the Twentieth instant, the Sloop Amelia was still there, but the Slaves, they were informed, had been carried on Shore; as were likewise two Free Negro Men, who had been hired by the Deponent, John Tyrie, at Senegal as Sailors, & Interpreters. And further these Deponents say not.

CAPTAIN HECTOR McNEILL'S SKETCHES OF THE ACTION AT SEA, JULY 7, 1777¹

[The series of sketches which comprise this appendix are by Captain Hector McNeill commanding officer of the Continental Navy frigate Boston. On July 7, 1777, Boston in company with the frigate Hancock, Captain John Manley, and a captured Royal Navy frigate, Fox, fell in with a British squadron under Captain Sir George Collier. McNeill's drawings depict ship positions at various times during the running action which ensued. Manley surrendered the Hancock, the Fox was retaken while the Boston ran to safety on the Maine coast. This volume contains American and British accounts of the action.]

APPENDIX B

“MATERIALS FOR A FRIGATE OF 36 GUNS”¹

[This detailed and highly informative document was prepared by the Continental Marine Committee and may have been carried as a “shopping list” by Benjamin Franklin when he sailed for France on board the Continental Navy brig Reprisal in the fall of 1776.

In April, 1777, the French ship la Thérèse cleared out from Nantes and crossed safely to Cape François, St. Domingue. She was, as Beaumarchais wrote to Vergennes, “a richly laden vessel,”² and Franklin said she carried stores for fitting out two 36 gun frigates.³ La Thérèse’s cargo manifest shows a large quantity of cordage, sailcloth and anchors which were consigned to M. Carabasse, Continental agent at Cape François, by the American Commissioners in France.⁴

On October 4, 1779, more than two years after the arrival of la Thérèse in the West Indies, Franklin wrote to John Jay, President of Congress, that he had just learned that the naval stores had never been called for and were still in Carabasse’s warehouses. “Probably,” Franklin conjectured, “by the miscarriage of Letters the Navy Board never heard of those Goods being there.”⁵ A letter went off to Carabasse on June 1, 1780, from the Continental Board of Admiralty about these materials which were “to be by you forwarded to some of our ports on this Continent,” and enjoined him to send the stores to Boston, Philadelphia or Baltimore post haste.⁶ Carabasse replied on November 20 that he had sent “these same goods” in five vessels, three to Charleston and two to Edenton, and that they had arrived safely in port.⁷ Unfortunately, he does not indicate the date the ships were dispatched for North and South Carolina.]
