Chronology of the Fifth United States Naval Construction Brigade

- 7 May 44 The Chief of Naval Operations approved establishment of the 5th United States Naval Construction Brigade.
- 27 May 44 Captain William O. Hiltabiddle, CEC, USN, appointed as officer in charge, departed with his brigade staff from Pearl Harbor and reported to Guadalcanal. There they were attached to the 3rd Amphibious Corps for the assault on Guam, Marianas Islands, to assist in beach unloading, water supply, sanitation, waterfront construction, transportation, road and bridge work, reconnaissance and any other engineering services they could render.
- 30 May 44 The Commander in Chief, Pacific Fleet and Pacific Ocean Areas, directed that the brigade be activated at Pearl Harbor and that it would consist of the 26th U. S. Naval Construction Regiment (4th, 56th, 59th and 76th battalions); the 27th Regiment (25th, 39th, 48th, 53rd and 72nd battalions); and the 28th Regiment (Special) with the 2nd, 13th and 16th Special battalions.
- 1 Jun 44 The 5th Brigade was activated at Pearl Harbor as a next subordinate unit of First Provisional Base Headquarters for purposes of administration. The base headquarters was commanded by Major General Henry L. Larsen, USMC, who was to take over as Commander, Island Command, Guam, after it had been recaptured from the Japanese. None of the designated battalions were to report to their regiments until they were released by the assault units to which they were assigned during the initial landing and assault period, and until so ordered by the Commanding General, Third Amphibious Corps, when they would report to the Officer in Charge, 5th U. S. Naval Construction Brigade.
- 4 Jun 44 The Southern Attack Force (TF 53), to which the 5th Brigade Staff was assigned during the assault, departed Guadalcanal.
- 8 Jun 44 Task Force 53 arrived at Kwajalein for refuelling.
- 12 Jun 44 The Southern attack force departed Kwajalein with expectations that the invasion of Guam would commence June 18, but unexpected Japanese strength on Saipan delayed securing of that island and consequently the invasion of Guam was postponed.
- 15-25 Jun Task Force 53 cruised in open waters east of Saipan.
- 25 Jun 44 Transports of TF 53 with the 3rd Marine Division elements of the 3rd Amphibious Corps were sent to Eniwetok.

5th Brigade Chronology----sheet 2-2-2-2

- 30 Jun 44 Transports with the 1st Provisional Marine Brigade of the 3rd Amphibious Corps were ordered back to Eniwetok.
- 15 Jul 44 Task Force 53 transports departed Eniwetok.
- 21 Jul 44 Marine assault forces landed at Guam, The 3rd Marine Division landed on beaches near Asan, some two miles north of Apra Harbor, accompanied by six officers and 201 enlisted men of B Company, 2nd U.S.S. Naval Construction Battalion (Special) who worked the supply dumps by day and manned ridge defenses at night. Elements of NCB 25 landed with the 3rd Combat Team to act as the shore party in charge of Red Beaches 1 and 2. These Seabees worked under fire the first three days and manned beach defenses until the area was secured.

One officer and 18 men of the 53rd NCB preceded the 22nd Marine Regiment to the 1st Provisional Marine Brigade when they invaded at the Southern landing beaches about two miles south of Agat. The Seabees anchored invasion craft at the reef's edge, then, marking a lane through waist-deep water across several hundred yards of reef to the beach, they led the incoming tanks ashore during more than nine hours under enemy fire. In this time 50 LCMs and 5 LCTs were unloaded.

Construction Battalion Maintenance Unit 515 suffered numerous casualties as they participated in the combat for two to three hours. Then they commenced their job of handling all equipment for the Marines and unloading supplies for the inland assault. Cargo handling over the reef was performed under constant sniper fire. After the beachhead was established, CBMU 515 put up two hospitals and each night during the first week performed guard duties.

5th Brigade Chronology---sheet 3-3-3

- 22 Jul 44 The forward echelon composed of 18 officers and 520 men of the 53rd battalion landed to assist in landing operations, haul supplies, build combat roads, repair bridges, establish water points and set up command posts for the combat troops. - 23 Jul 44 The Fifth Brigade staff came ashore at Agat. Operational control of all construction forces remained under Major General Roy S. Geiger, commander of the assault forces on Guam. General Larson, the Island Commander, also came ashore.
- 26 Jul 44 Four road repair units of NCB 25 came ashore to repair the road for the advance of Marine combat equipment from Piti to Agana along the Northern assault beaches. The remainder of the 25th served as ships' platoons and as stevedores to unload cargo from ships in stream for the assault troops.

- 30 Jul 44 The 2nd Marine Engineer Battalion put Orote Airstrip into service. On the same date, the first vessels entered Apra harbor and Seabee stevedoring service began there with unloading in stream, ~~and~~ using small landing craft and self-propelled barges as lighters.
- 1 Aug 44 Seabees and Marine Corps engineers reopened and improved the Agana-Pago Bay road across the island preparatory to final drive against Japanese forces that had withdrawn to the north part of Guam.
- 3 Aug 44 The main body of the 59th Battalion came ashore.

- 7 Aug 44 The 72nd Battalion advance echelon came ashore.
- 10 Aug 44 The battle at Guam was declared to be ended. However, some 9,000 Japanese troops remained at large and continued disorganized action. Of these, some 8,500 were killed or captured by 1946. The remaining men of the 13th NCB (Special) came ashore, as well as small groups from NCBs 72 and 56.

5th Brigade Chronology---sheet 4-4-4-4

The 5th Brigade in turn assumed control of unified Army, Navy and Marine Corps construction forces to commence construction of Advance Base facilities for all services. Captain Hiltabiddle was ultimately to command some 37,000 construction troops in constructing Advance Base, Guam. Seabees were credited with actual construction of some 75% of the projects. Landing on this date were elements of the 48th, 56th, 72nd and 76th Naval Construction Battalions, who commenced their part of the build-up of Guam as an air base to support offensive operations, the headquarters for Commander in Chief, Pacific, and a huge storehouse of supply.
