107th Construction Battalion (INACTIVATED)

107TH BATTALION

Formed at Camp Peary in July 1943, the 107th Battalion had brief tours of duty at Camp Endicott and Camp Parks and arrived at Port Hueneme Nov. 10, 1943. Shipping overseas from Hueneme Feb. 20, 1944, the Battalion arrived at Iroquois Point, Oahu, Feb. 25. Leaving Oahu on Feb. 27, the outfit arrived at Kwajalein atoll March 6 and the following day four officers and 242 men participated in the initial landing on Ebeye Island. Transferring to Bigej, another of the Marshall group, in two echelons, the sections landed on June 1 and July 4, 1944. Moving again on Sept. 1, 1944, the outfit sailed for Tinian, via Eniwetok, and disembarked on Tinian on Sept. 10. At war's end the Battalion was still on duty at Tinian.

Outline History of

The 107th U. S. Naval Construction Battalion

31 July, 1943 - Commissioned and reviewed by Admiral L. A. Combe and officer presented. Personnel engaged in advanced military and technical training, range practice with Carbines at Sun Valley, and men from West had embarkation leaves.

4 Sept., 1943 - Boarded trains for Camp Parks, Shoemaker, California.

10 Sept., 1943 - Arrived at Camp Parks, men from West took embarkation leaves. Personnel engaged in additional military and technical training, ship's service details, quonset construction, roads, and range practice with 1903 Springfields.

Stood prepared with sticks and stones to repel "invasion" of Mt. Diablo by the 4th Battalion, although the 4th was only there in someone's imagination. Took further hardening exercises playing "King of the Hill" nearer camp. The vanquished automatically fell or rolled into the creek at the foot of the hill.

9 Nov., 1943 - Moved to Camp Rousseau, Port Hueneme, for further military training, issue of equipment and preparation for embarkation. On night of 19 November, the whole battalion was called out to participate in "West Coast Defense Maneuver". The 107th successfully defended (without ammunition) the camp lumber yard on Mt. Arden. This was just a gag pulled on each battalion going through the camp.

23 Nov., 1943 - Moved to Acorn Training Detachment area, Port Hueneme. Sent detail to Oakland Supply Depot to prepare and crate materials for shipment abroad. Construction details sent to Morro Bay and Point Mugu. Detail sent to San Clemente Island to build experimental models of Japanese gun positions. Carpenters built guest houses for Splinter City. Equipment issued and jeeps named for "the girls left behind".

13 Jan., 1944 - Commissioned as part of the Acorn Unit 23, Comdr. William R. Hopf, Commanding, and Lt. Comdr. John W. Hentz, Executive Officer.

17 Feb., 1944 - Heavy equipment loaded and shipped aboard the U.S.S. Otto Mears.

20 Feb., 1944 - Personnel and remainder of equipment and supplies sailed on Army Transport, the Sea Pike, with 2100 passengers aboard, mostly sea sick for first couple days of voyage.

27-28 Feb., 1944 - Ashore at Pearl Harbor. Camped on Iroquois Point at the Advance Base Reship Depot. Hungry after eating fruit or soup for daily noon chow menu.

6 March, 1944 - Arrived at Kwajalein in Marshalls. No stevedores available to unload supplies and equipment. 107th men with no previous experience in operating electrical winches took over the job. First full construction battalion unit on Ebeye Island and the first battalion to raise the American flag over former Japan's possession. Constructed air base facilities, roads, parachute drop, tank farm, admiral's quarters and offices, and repaired dock. Naval Air Base, Ebeye, commissioned 14 May, 1944. Designed and built essential galley and mess buildings for facilitating transfer to new project. Made section tent decks to contain sea bags when palletized for removal to new project.

10 June, 1944 - Battalion moved to Bioko Island on Kwajalein Atoll, the natives having previously left, and raised the first American flag over the island, flying it from the top of a bared coconut palm. Cleared the island of mines and explosives, erected tank farm, tanker mooring facilities, U. S. Pacific Fleet recreation facilities, including "Golden Gate Park".

1 Sept., 1944 - Sailed for now advanced base project, Tinian and en route were caught in a lashing rain driven by tropical storm wind.

10 Sept., 1944 - Arrived at Tinian, took over share of defense and protection of island from roaming enemy personnel, dug fox holes, and dodged falling shrapnel aimed for enemy bombers. Came close to catastrophe when enemy bomber flew low over Officers' Country, coming over the island undetected. Two men, unarmed, captured a Jap soldier. Set up portable buildings and built camp from salvaged Jap lumber, dismantled sugar mill and Jap radio towers, installed submarine fuel lines, tanker mooring, tank farm, and island fuel distribution system. Erected 58th Wing, 313th Wing and Army Garrison Force camp, and utilities, established livestock facilities, built roads, North causeway in Tinian Harbor and furnished men and equipment for work on air strips and naval hospital. Erected 210 ft. steel homing tower for use by Navy, 58th and 313th Wings.
