USS HAMPTON (SSN 767)

HISTORY OF USS HAMPTON

As the fifth military vessel to bear the name, the USS HAMPTON (SSN 767) continues an impressive legacy of warships that dates back to the Civil War.

The CSS HAMPTON, built at the Norfolk Navy Yard in 1862, was the first American vessel to bear the name. A wooden gunboat serving the Confederate cause, HAMPTON participated in significant actions along the James River including the Battle of Dutch Gap, operations against Fort Harrison, and the engagement at Chaffin's Bluff. The HAMPTON also survived an engagement with Union Ironclads in the Hampton Roads waters before being burnt by the Confederacy to prevent her from falling into Union hands.

The second HAMPTON (SP-3049) was a 48-ton tugboat built in 1905. The tugboat was chartered by the Navy for several years before finally being commissioned on April 21, 1918. This 63-footer oversaw free trade and safe traffic in one of the world's largest natural harbors, Hampton Roads. HAMPTON served on general harbor duty under the 5th Naval District until being returned to her original owner in 1919.

The next vessel to bear the name, PCS-1386 (later designated HAMPTON) was commissioned November 4, 1944. PCS-1386 trained officers and enlisted men in the intricate art of submarine detection until the end of World War II. After the war, PCS-1386 continued training exercises based in Key West, Florida, as well as performing exercises in the Atlantic, Caribbean, and Gulf of Mexico from 1946 to 1956. PCS-1386 was named HAMPTON on February 5, 1956 and was decommissioned on April 27, 1956. HAMPTON transferred to the 5th Naval District and was assigned to the Naval Reserve Training Center, Baltimore Maryland. HAMPTON operated as a training ship until she was struck from the Navy list on July 1, 1959 and sold.

The fourth HAMPTON (APA-115) was an amphibious transport ship commissioned on February 17, 1945. After initial shakedown training, HAMPTON operated as a training ship for precommissioning crews out of Newport Rhode Island until May 1945. HAMPTON was then put to service during World War II transporting troops to far away ports throughout the Pacific Theater. Following the war, HAMPTON was used extensively to perform the enormous task of bringing home thousands of veterans. The ship was transferred to Norfolk in March of 1946 and was decommissioned on April 30, 1946.

USS HAMPTON (SSN 767)

The nuclear powered attack submarine USS HAMPTON (SSN767), was commissioned on November 6, 1993 and has been rapidly building an impressive list of achievements ever since. During her short time in service HAMPTON has deployed to the Mediterranean Sea as part of the America Battle Group, conducted an Independent North Atlantic Deployment, and deployed to the Mediterranean Sea and Persian Gulf as part of the Enterprise Battle Group. HAMPTON has received several unit awards and has built a reputation as one of the top attack submarines in the Fleet. Swift, Silent and Deadly, USS HAMPTON (SSN 767) remains prepared for war in the desire for peace.

HAMPTON has been helmed by four Commanding Officers:

CDR D. J. ANTANITUS	August 1991 – March 1994
CDR S. A. CORRELL	March 1994 – April 1996
CDR C. L. STATHOS	April 1996 – January 1998
CDR M. J. MATTHES	January 1998 - PRESENT
