

Sailor Sam

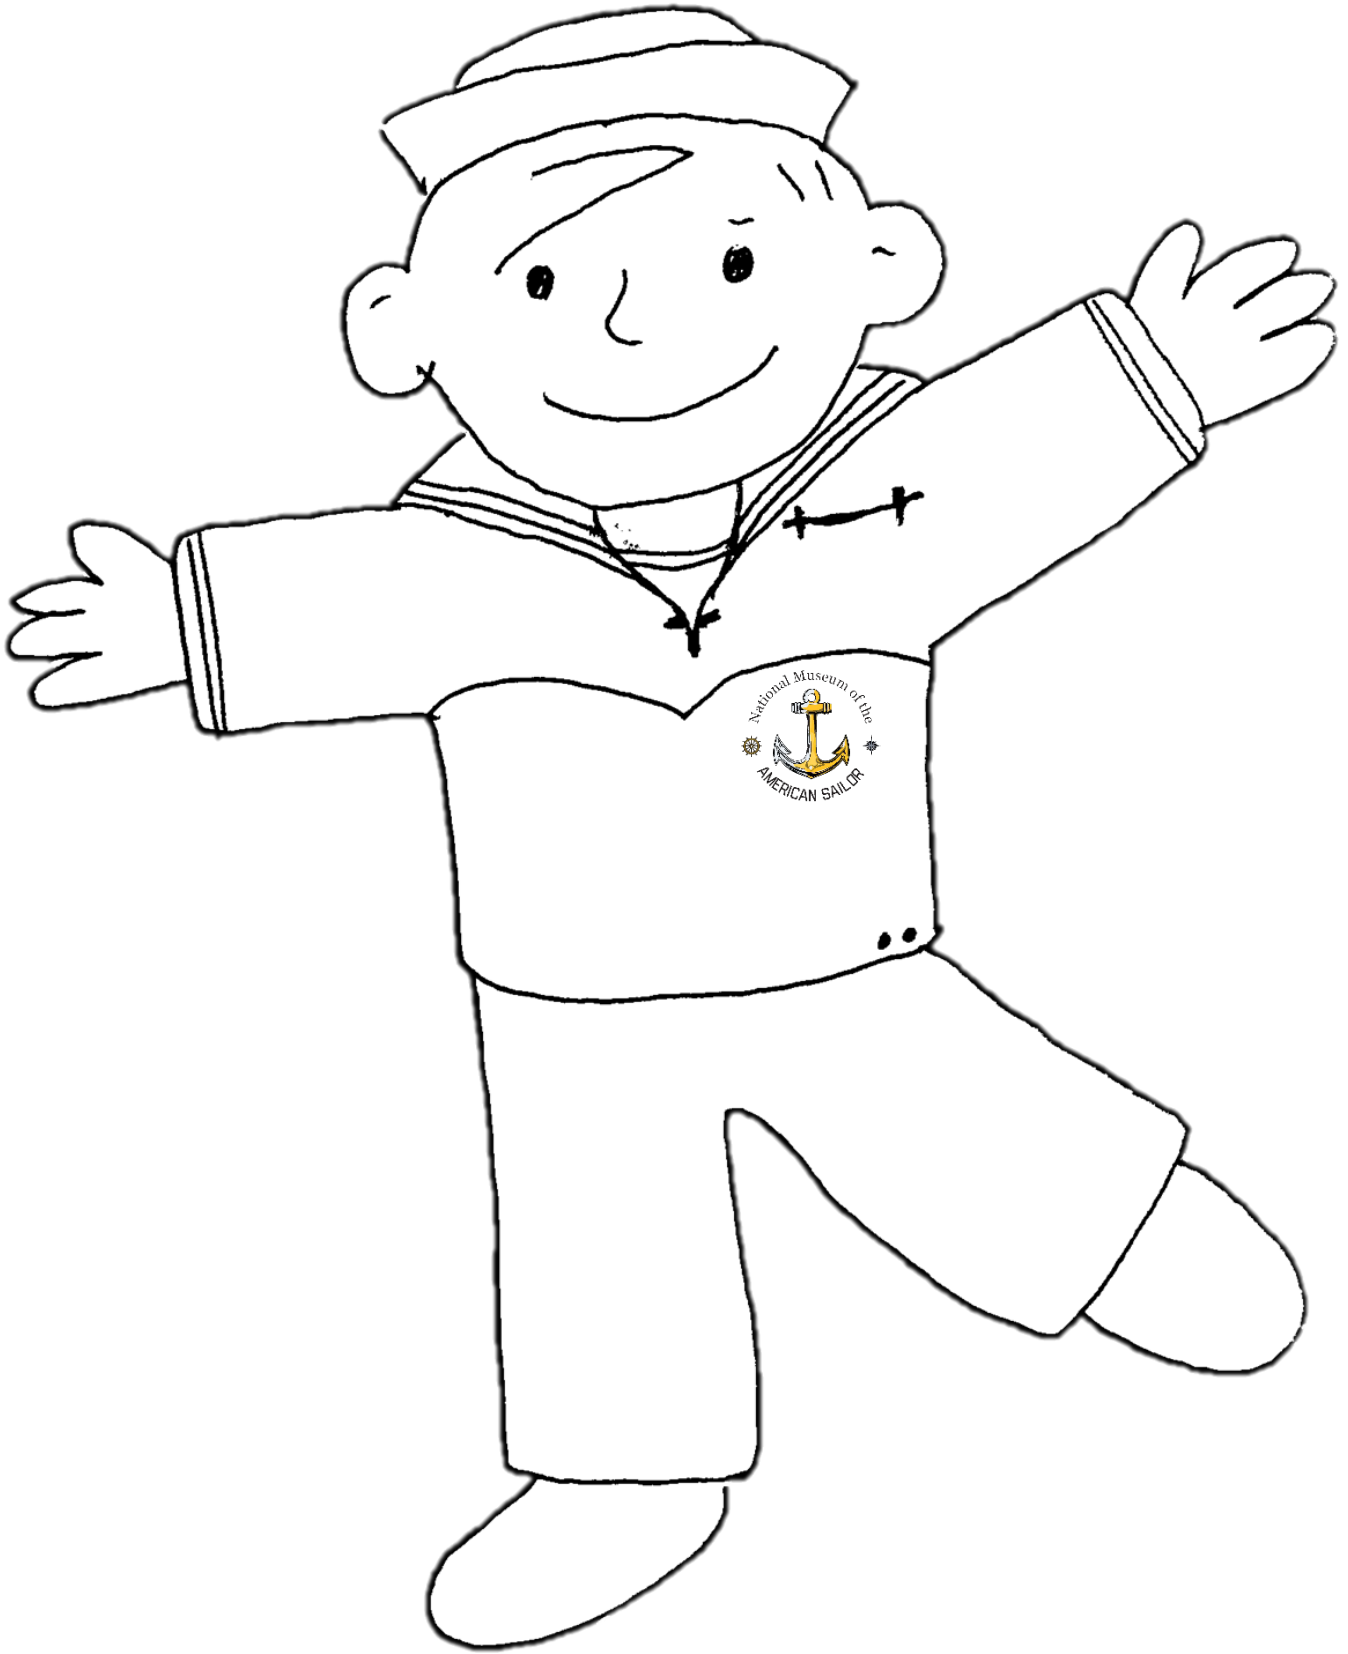

National Museum of the American Sailor Activity

Your favorite flat character joined the Navy! Flat hero Sailor Sam recently completed boot camp at Recruit Training Command in Great Lakes, Illinois. Now, Sailor Sam is ready to set sail for new adventures. Help Sailor Sam reach his next duty station by sending him to friends, family, and deployed loved ones around the world.

Where might Sailor Sam go? Remember, sailors travel all over the world to help American citizens, protect our country, and even conduct research about our planet. Sailors serve aboard ships, in the air as naval aviators, and on shore at a wide variety of naval bases. Be creative when planning Sailor Sam's next adventure. He can visit individuals, museums, naval ships, or even famous people!

When you've identified Sailor Sam's next duty station, cut him out, color him in, and mail him off. It's always a good idea to include a letter to his next commanding officer explaining the Sailor Sam project. A template letter is included on the next page. Share Sailor Sam's adventures with the National Museum of the American Sailor by tagging us in Sailor Sam social media posts and using the hashtags #sailorsam and #navymuseumsathome.

Return Address:

Dear _____,

My name is _____. I am _____ years old and am in Grade _____ at _____ School. My favorite school subject is _____.

_____ . In my free time, I like to _____.

I'm participating in the National Museum of the American Sailor's Sailor Sam program. The Navy's flattest sailor is on a tour around the world and you are his next commanding officer.

Please take good care of Sailor Sam, take him on a mission, and then mail him back to me with a photo and a description of his service with you.

Very respectfully,
