1988 COMMAND HISTORY
VRC-40

1. Command Composition and Organization:

a. Fleet Logistics Support Squadron FORTY (VRC-40) is assigned joint tasks of Carrier On Board Delivery (COD) and air logistics support services to the Navy's Atlantic Fleet. VRC-40 operates the C-2A(R) "Greyhound" and the CT-39E "Sabreliner".

The Grumman C-2A(R) carries the largest cargo payload of any carrier based COD aircraft and is the mainstay of the carrier battle group logistics support effort.

The primary mission of the Rockwell CT-39E is providing around-the-clock logistics support to VQ-4 maintenance contingencies along with executive airlift and priority-one cargo transport.

VRC-40 operates three standing C-2A(R) detachments: Alfa, Bravo and Charlie. The detachments deploy to military air bases throughout the Atlantic Fleet Area of Responsibility (AOR) to provide fleet support to both Atlantic Fleet carriers and to the USS LEXINGTON.

b. VRC-40 is homeported at Naval Air Station, Norfolk, Virginia.

c. VRC-40's immediate senior command is Commander, Fleet Tactical Support Wing ONE (CTSW-1), also located at NAS Norfolk.

d. VRC-40's Commanding Officer from 25 September 1987 to 2 September 1988 was Commander Carl E. Ingram:

e. On 2 September 1988, Commander John D. Magnino assumed command of VRC-40.

2. Chronology

The following is a chronologic list of command events for 1988:

All detachments are listed in three columns; dates deployed, deployment location, and detachment involved. All detachments were for Atlantic Fleet Carriers except those that operated from Key West, Pensacola, Florida and Corpus Christi, Texas. At those locations, the detachments supported the USS LEXINGTON. All other entries are self-explanatory.

3. Narrative

1988 was a year of new operations and growth for Fleet Logistics Support Squadron FORTY. With the arrival of three additional C-2A(R)'s by the end of the year, C-2A operations expanded considerably. VRC-40 operated out of 10 airfields in the U.S. and Caribbean and sent its first ever detachment to Northern Europe. C-2A operations peaked in the month of June, when VRC-40 supplied COD support to six carriers from five separate locations. By the end of the year VRC-40 had supported every Atlantic Fleet carrier and the USS LEXINGTON. Operations ranged from as far South as Roosevelt Roads, Puerto Rico, to as far North as Andoya, Norway.

The first highlight of 1988 occurred for VRC-40 on 25 February 88 when VRC-40 was officially adopted by the USS ROOSEVELT as its eleventh squadron. In the adoption ceremony conducted on the bridge of the USS ROOSEVELT, Captain Dayton Ritt presented Commander C. E. "Bo" Ingram with the adoption papers and an autographed photograph of CVN-71.

On 13 March 88, a maintenance plane captain assigned to VAW-124 walked into the turning propellor of 162154 (COD 42) aboard the USS ROOSEVELT and was killed. The aircraft was stationary at the time, awaiting taxi from its parking spot. The squadron was absolved of the accident by Commander Naval Air Force, U.S. Atlantic Fleet for record purposes.

Responding rapidly to the April 88 disaster aboard the submarine USS BONEFISH, VRC-40 supplied critical medical, diving and engineering support personnel and equipment to the USS KENNEDY supporting the rescue operations between 25 and 30 April. Within one 24 hour period, VRC-40 carried over 27,000 lbs of cargo and 48 disaster response personnel to the USS KENNEDY.

One of VRC-40's best sailors represented the squadron outstandingly when AMS1 [REDACTED] was named U.S. NAVY SHORE SAILOR OF THE YEAR on 26 May 1988. With this nomination, AMS1 [REDACTED] was meritoriously advanced to Chief Petty Officer and was transferred to the office of the Master Chief Petty Officer of the Navy for duty.

On July 7, VRC-40 scored another first when it flew the Marshal of the Soviet Union, Field Marshal Sergei Akhromeyev to the USS ROOSEVELT. This was the first time ever a Soviet General had been to an operating aircraft carrier and had seen Naval airpower in action around an aircraft carrier. He was the guest of, and accompanied by the Chairman, Joint Chiefs of Staff, Admiral William J. Crowe.

18 August proved to be another banner day when VRC-40 celebrated five years of class A mishap-free flying.

29 August was the start of another first for VRC-40 when Det Bravo left Norfolk for "Teamwork '88". This NATO exercise saw the first overseas C-2A operations for VRC-40. By the time Det Bravo returned on 11 October, they had visited Halifax, Nova Scotia; Mildenhall, England; Prestwick, Scotland; and Andoya, Norway. In the six weeks overseas, Det Bravo accumulated over 300 hours, accumulated 52 traps and maintained a mission completion rate of 115%.

Commander C. E. Ingram passed the mantel of leadership to Commander J. D. Magnino in the change of command ceremony on 2 September. Master Chief Petty Officer of the Navy (Select), AECM Duane R. Bushey was the guest speaker. The ceremony was also attended by Commander Tactical Support Wing ONE, Captain James J. Drew.

Starting 1 October 1988 VRC-40 assumed sole COD support for the USS LEXINGTON. This action took place when the Blue Ghost, the USS LEXINGTON's C-1, the last active USN C-1A, was retired. VRC-40 had augmented the Blue Ghost COD, providing service for the USS LEXINGTON prior to 1 October.

The year ended for VRC-40 with two VIP embark periods. On October 2, Det Alfa flew the Foreign Minister of France out to the USS FORESTAL from NAS Mayport. The command was able to provide the foreign minister with the aircraft safety brief in his own language. On 20 November, Det Bravo flew 19 Republican governors from NAS Pensacola to the USS LEXINGTON, making them all honorary tailhookers.

The two CT-39E Sabreliners of the squadron supplied 66 hours of ready alert launched logistics support to detached TACAMO (VQ-4) missions, and carried innumerable DOD, DON, and congressional VIP's all across North America. The T-39 travelled as far north as Goosebay, Canada, as far south as Panama City, Panama, as far west as San Diego, California, and as far east as St. Johns, New Foundland, Canada.

In the year 1988, VRC-40 supplied COD support to all seven Atlantic Fleet carriers (USS CORAL SEA, USS SARATOGA, USS FORRESTAL, USS AMERICA, USS JOHN F. KENNEDY, USS DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER and USS THEODORE ROOSEVELT) and the USS LEXINGTON from twelve locations in North America and from eight locations in the North Atlantic and Europe. This achievement was accomplished with as few as four and a maximum of seven C-2's attached to the squadron. 1988 was another outstanding year for VRC-40.

While not announced until early 1989, VRC-40 was awarded the Commander Naval Air Force, U.S. Atlantic Fleet Battle Efficiency "E" in recognition of its 1988 achievements.
