USS GEORGE WASHINGTON (CVN 73)
COMMAND HISTORY, 1994

COMMAND COMPOSITION AND ORGANIZATION

USS GEORGE WASHINGTON (CVN 73), sixth of the NIMITZ-class nuclear-powered aircraft carriers, was commissioned on July 4, 1992 at Naval Station Norfolk, Virginia. Home ported at Norfolk, she is an asset of Commander, Naval Air Force, U.S. Atlantic Fleet, under Vice Admiral Richard Allen and an operational unit of the Second Fleet first under Vice Admiral William Flanagan, and then Vice Admiral Jay Johnson after a change of command.

Commanded by Captain Robert G. Sprigg, GEORGE WASHINGTON is tasked with numerous missions, the primary one being to conduct sustained combat air operations. In this role she serves as the flagship for the COMMANDER, GEORGE WASHINGTON BATTLE GROUP, commanded by Rear Admiral Alexander Krekich.

GEORGE WASHINGTON's embarked air wing, Carrier Air Wing SEVEN, is commanded by Captain Herb Coon. The air wing's task is to conduct sustained offensive air operations against land, surface, and sub-surface targets and to defend the battle group in support of assigned missions.

The air wing employs about 80 aircraft including: the F-14 (series) Tomcat fighter, flown by the VF-142 Ghostriders and the VF-143 Dogs; the F/A 18 (series) Hornet strike-fighter, operated by the VFA-131 Wildcats and the VFA-136 Knighthawks; the A-6E Intruder medium attack aircraft, flown by the VA-34 Blue Blasters; the EA-6B Prowler electronic warfare aircraft, flown by the VAQ-140 Patriots; the S-3B Viking anti-submarine warfare aircraft flown by the VS-31 Topcats; the E-2C Hawkeye airborne early warning aircraft, flown by the VAW-121 Bluetails; the ES-3B Raven, flown by the Black Ravens; and the SH-3H Sea King helicopter, flown by the HS-5 Nightdippers. The tailcode for Carrier Air Wing SEVEN is "Alfa Golf."

In addition, GEORGE WASHINGTON serves as the base of operations for Commander Destroyer Squadron TWENTY SIX while at sea, and has served as a platform for joint operations with Army and Air Force aviation and ground units as part of the deployment work up cycle.

The focus of GEORGE WASHINGTON'S calendar during 1994 was the maiden deployment, scheduled to begin on May 20 with a planned completion date of November 17.

The year started with COMCARGRU FOUR and RADM Ed Allen embarking for COMPTUEX and a graded evaluation period. After a number of combined ship and airwing exercises in the Puerto Rican oparea and a visit to Ponce, PR (the first for a carrier in almost 50 years), our own battle group embarked for the final evaluation period, where the staff's work with the ship/airwing team was graded. The results were some of the highest grades ever given for a COMPTUEX.

Upon return to Norfolk, planning for FLEETEX/JTGEX in April moved into high speed with only two brief interruptions for fleet carrier qualification periods. FLEETEX/JTGEX combined Army H-47 helicopters and special forces troops and Air Force H-53 Pave Low helicopters with CVW7, sans VF 142, to test principles that could be used in NEO operations or special forces insertion missions. The result was a successful integration of all four services (the Marines from the GW ARG also participated) in a final exercise at Fort Bragg, NC. One point of interest was the reduction in time it took for the Army helicopter crews to manually fold the blades on the H-47 from over 2 hours, to under 50 minutes.

After a busy POM period the end of April and beginning of May, the ship departed on the 20th with a send off by ADM Boorda, the first carrier to deploy upon his assuming the office of CNO.

The first event for deployment was the 50th anniversary commemoration of the D-Day landings in Normandy, France. June 1 saw the arrival of GW at Portsmouth, England for the first phase of the ceremonies. After numerous official events ashore, and hundreds of tours aboard for media and veterans, the culmination of the events in England was reached on June 5 with the sail past of the Royal Yacht with the Queen, President Clinton, and President Mitterand. President Clinton, the First Lady and a host of cabinet and military officials then joined the White House Press Corps aboard GW for a crew address, media interviews, dinner on the mess decks and a concert of big band music presented by the CINCLANTFLT band, while crossing the channel. At 0700, June 6, the first ceremony of the day took place on elevator 1 as the President and selected D-Day veterans placed a memorial wreath in the water off Omaha Beach. The ceremony lasted approximately 1 hour and concluded with the sounding of Taps and the Navy Hymn. The official party disembarked immediately following the ceremony for further services ashore, but helicopter loads of veterans came out to visit the ship, and included a group of survivors from USS CORRY, a destroyer lost on June 6, 1944. This group also place a wreath donated by the American Legion and VFW in Norfolk in memory of their ship mates. The D-Day ceremonies were completed with a short visit to Brest, France and a dedication of a monument to the memory of mariners lost during the war.

Underway from Brest, the GEORGE WASHINGTON headed toward the Mediterranean to relieve the SARATOGA and take up station in the Adriatic conducting no-fly-zone operations over Bosnia. The ship operated in the Adriatic until September with short breaks in July and August for visits to: Antalya, Turkey; Corfu, Greece; Haifa, Israel; and Rhodes, Greece.

July 11 in particular stood out as a date to remember for the ship as the entire crew was put to the test battling a blaze caused by mogas on the aft starboard fueling station. The training and team work paid off, and although the fueling station was destroyed, the fire parties performed superbly and extinguished the fire in under one hour.

The end of August brought about another challenge as the ship's tasking was changed on short notice to include a period of duty in the Arabian Gulf during the month of September. Completing another first for the ship, GW transited through the Suez and worked for COMUSNAVCENT and JTF SOUTHWEST ASIA conducting no-fly-zone operations over southern Iraq. Completing this assignment, GW chopped back to SIXTH FLEET the last day of September for more operations in the Adriatic. However, after one week, Iraqi troop movements toward Kuwait ensured that the GW would be heading back to the Arabian Gulf, arriving at the Suez and passing through within two days of being notified. After almost four weeks in the Gulf participating in Vigilant Warrior, GW was released back to SIXTH FLEET for a Mediterranean crossing and then transit home.

Prior to the start of the deployment, the CNO had promised to have the ship back in exactly six months from the departure date. November 17 was the target date. However, Hurricane Emily had other plans, and after making a record crossing for time that even included a "GO NAVY" spellout on the flight deck for the Navy-Army football game, the ship had to anchor less than 1 mile from the end of pier 12 in Hampton Roads because of high winds. The deployment was safely completed one day late on November 18.

After four weeks in port, the ship got underway in December for an ammunition offload with USS SUPPLY (AOE 6) prior to entering Norfolk Naval Shipyard in January, 1995 for an SRA.

1. The accomplishments of USS GEORGE WASHINGTON (CVN 73) during calendar year 1994 are without equal. Operationally, every tasking, whether short notice or long range, was accomplished with a complete commitment to excellence. This same dedication to excellence has been the foundation for every activity in which the ship has participated resulting in a list of achievements that mark GEORGE WASHINGTON as the premier unit in the Atlantic Fleet. In accordance with reference (a), the following information is submitted as rationale in support of USS GEORGE WASHINGTON'S nomination for this prestigious honor.

2. During the competitive cycle, USS GEORGE WASHINGTON'S accomplishments include the following awards and recognition:

a. 1994 COMNAVAIRLANT Battle E winner. Winner of 1994 departmental warfare area awards as follows:

In addition, 276 Sailors participated in PACE courses.

(25) Command representatives selected for the all-Navy basketball and boxing teams.

3. USS GEORGE WASHINGTON established herself as the preeminent afloat unit, from pioneering operations with Army and Air Force units and testing and evaluation of new technologies and equipment, to a highly successful maiden deployment. The impressive accomplishments of GEORGE WASHINGTON sailors positively affected every unit in the Navy and are without parallel during this period. Providing a catalyst for the superb performance of the GEORGE WASHINGTON team was their operational schedule listed in chronological order.

a. January 1994 through February 1994: COMPTUEX, including numerous governmental and private industry familiarization embarks, and the first visit by a carrier to Ponce, Puerto Rico in over 40 years.

b. March 1994: Special Operations Forces carrier qualification period for Army and Air Force pilots and troops, and fleet replacement squadron carrier qualifications.

c. April 1994: Exceptional first integration of Army and Air Force aviation and special operations units with the ship's air wing during FLEETEX/SOCEX 94-2, featured by national news media and witnessed by civic leaders.

d. May 1994 through November 1994, Mediterranean Sea, Adriatic Sea, Arabian Gulf, Deployment 2-94:

(1) Presidential embark and commemoration of the 50th anniversary of D-Day, June 4-6.

(2) Mediterranean and Adriatic Sea in support of Operations Deny Flight, Provide Promise and Sharp Guard.

(3) Red Sea and Arabian Gulf in support of Operations Southern Watch and Vigilant Warrior.

e. November 1994 through December 1994: Surge carrier.

4. Representative of the sustained superior achievements of GEORGE WASHINGTON sailors was the performance of the damage control and main propulsion teams, evaluated as outstanding by type and fleet commanders, during training, evaluations and operations.

5. In summary, USS GEORGE WASHINGTON has performed superbly in every respect. The numerous accomplishments of this fine warship have set new standards throughout the fleet and are a model of achievement that I am proud to be associated with. There is no finer unit in the fleet than USS GEORGE WASHINGTON, and she has my strongest recommendation for receipt of the 1994 Battenburg Cup.
