c. (C) Narrative

During the 1992 calendar year HAWES completed a long Selected Restricted Availability Period. She then entered a work-up period that prepared the ship for future deployments. This period included many inspections, including an Intermediate Refresher Training, Operational Propulsion Plant Exam and inspection by the Board of Inspection and Survey, Atlantic Fleet. The inspection schedule was broken up by a 2 month deployment the Baltic Sea. During this deployment, HAWES was able to operate with units from Germany, Denmark, The Netherlands and the United States. Multilateral training was conducted in Anti-Air, Anti-Submarine, Anti-Mine and Anti-Surface Warfare as well as Communications and Seamanship. At the conclusion of the Baltic Operation, HAWES made historic port visits to Latvia, Lithuania and Estonia. These three countries had not seen a United States Navy ship in over 60 years. It was also the first visit since these countries had received their independence from the former Soviet Union. Thousands of people in each country stopped to welcome HAWES to their shores and tour the ship. The Commanding Officer, Commander DeMasi, USN, hosted numerous receptions aboard for heads of government, cabinet-level dignitaries, high-ranking military officers, mayors and other distinguished visitors. Apart from these countries, HAWES also visited Germany, Sweden, Poland, Finland, Denmark, Norway and Scotland during her two month deployment. After a brief break at home, HAWES conducted a four week operation in the Eastern Pacific in support of Commander, Joint Task Force FOUR Counter Narcotics Operations. While participating in these operations, HAWES transited the Panama Canal, conducted six boarding operations and was credited with interdicting several aircraft smuggling operations. The rest of the year was spend in final preparations for a six month deployment. All in all, 1992 was a very exciting and successful year for USS HAWES.
