WASHINGTON: 1972
Each volume of this series is a reminder of the key role played by the late William Bell Clark, initial editor. Drawing upon his deep knowledge of the Navy in the American Revolution, his initial selections and arrangements of materials compiled over a devoted lifetime provided a framework on which subsequent efforts have continued to build.

And without a Respectable Navy—Alas America!

Captain John Paul Jones
October 17, 1776
"My future Success must be very uncertain... however I will not yet give up the pursuit." The writer was Captain John Paul Jones, USN; the occasion, one of his reports to the Marine Committee of the Continental Congress; the bearer, another of his British prizes from the North Atlantic shipping lanes: the brigantine _Favourite_, Liverpool-bound with a cargo of West Indies sugar which Captain Jones diverted westward instead, the better to sweeten the prospects of the rebellious American States.

Here in one laconic sentence is the essence of America's mood and outlook during the summer and autumn of 1776, the period covered by Volume 6 of Naval Documents of the American Revolution. Independence had been declared at last, but the real winning of it was barely underway. Modest successes on the high seas did not offset the stinging defeats dealt Washington's army at New York City and Benedict Arnold's little fleet on Lake Champlain during these months. Both engagements bought time, but what would time bring? As the fledgling Republic braced for its first winter, no one could say. However an answer of sorts does run through all the papers collected here -- an iron determination, come what might, to "not yet give up the pursuit" of liberty and nationhood.

It is a pleasure to welcome a new book in this distinguished historical series. In these pages, just as in those of Volume V to which I contributed a foreword two years ago, there is much to stir the heart and steel the purpose of Americans today -- seaman recruit or Commander in Chief, President or private citizen.
The voices of patriots present at the creation convey our heritage of heroism with a vividness no polished historian writing for the ages can match. They remind us of how narrow was the margin of survival, personal and national alike on which these men and women worked to build a nation. This is brought home to us, for example, in the words of commanders concerned with the privations endured by their men as in another report from Captain Jones: "...the Men I have are scarce Able to Stand the Deck for want of Cloathing, the weather here being Very Cold." We also find reminders in the words of diplomats and statesmen playing for the highest stakes against the longest odds, men like Silas Deane, America's representative at the French court: "The fate of my country depends, in a great measure, on the arrival of these supplies...."

Reading all this, we might marvel more than ever that in the end, seven long years from the events of this book, the revolutionaries did prevail. And why? Because weak as the Americans of those days were in arms, poor as they were in goods, they were rich and strong and steadfast in spirit.

There is the great message of this book and its companion volumes issued or yet to come. Deeper than the resource these documents represent for the scholar, beyond the fascination they hold for the casual reader, lies the home truth of all our history from that day to this: all that America has been or is or hopes to be she owes to the Spirit of '76. By helping to rekindle this spirit for our Nation's Bicentennial era, the present work honors the U. S. Navy's finest traditions of excellence and service to the national interest.
INTRODUCTION

Naval power at sea and on inland waters played key roles in the period of the Revolutionary War covered by this volume of documents.

British transports and the convoying fleet, commanded by Admiral Lord Howe, had sailed through the Narrows of New York in July. General Clinton and Commodore Sir Peter Parker joined the forces of the Howe brothers by sea after the failure to capture Charleston, South Carolina. Then, the British launched their attack across the bay on 22 August 1776, projecting troops ashore on Long Island and providing gunfire support from ships of the fleet. Had the American army been trapped on Long Island, as very nearly happened, the cause of independence would probably have been lost then and there.

Supported and sustained by sea power, New York would thereafter be the main base for British operations. This gave them an excellent harbor and central location for naval operations along the Eastern seaboard, and provided flexibility for deployments of army forces to any location that could be reached by water—far more rapidly than Washington’s troops could move by land.

Had the forces of Sir Guy Carleton, coming down the waterways from Canada, been able to link up with the forces stationed at New York, the result might have been eventually decisive in favor of the British. This time it was the fresh water navy of Benedict Arnold that, despite the bad beating on Lake Champlain, so delayed the advance south that the British effort was given up for that year.

Thus it was that the use of British sea power was very nearly decisive in the summer of 1776, and that naval operations on inland waters in the fall frustrated actions that would have cut the states in two.

The Depository Location pages in this volume list some eighty activities from Venice, Italy, to San Majino, California, from which manuscripts have been selected for inclusion herein. This list bears witness to a fact which cannot be overly emphasized, namely that the success and continued progress of the Naval Documents of the American Revolution series is dependent upon the resources, the knowledge and generous cooperation of numerous individuals, libraries, historical societies, archives and museums.

Dr. Maurice Bear Gordon, a physician with a keen feeling for history, has taken time from a busy medical practice to prepare the fine pictorial essay, "Naval and Maritime Medicine During the Revolution," which enriches this volume.

Within the Naval History Division, the editor, William James Morgan, is strongly supported by dedicated and extremely competent associates in the Historical Research Branch—Mr. Robert L. Scheina, Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Scheffenacker, Mr. Robert I. Campbell, Mr. E. Gordon Bowen-Hassell, Lieutenant (junior grade) Kristin G. Tryon, relieved by Ensign Mary L. Greeves, Chief Yeoman Lenzie D. Crosby, Mrs. Carolyn Ransdell, and on summer Naval Reserve duty, Master Chief Petty Officer George K. McCuistion.

Mr. W. Bart Greenwood, Navy Department Librarian, assisted by Miss Mary Pickens of the Library staff, has once again searched out and collected appropriate maps and charts. Lieutenant Commander Richard M. Gannaway, while on temporary Naval Reserve duty, joined with Mr. Charles R. Haberlein, Jr. of the Naval History Division's Curator Branch to collect, select, and identify the many contemporary illustrations to be found in the volume.

Commander W. E. May, RN (Ret.) undertook indispensable research in the Public Record Office and other United Kingdom depositories. Sound and valuable translation services, from several languages, have been provided by Commander Canio Di Cairano, USNR (Ret.), and personnel of the Naval Reserve translator program in the Office of Naval Intelligence.

To all, named and unnamed, who have contributed to the work and thus have made it possible, our debt is great, our gratitude boundless.

Edwin B. Hooper
PREFACE

Documents contained in this volume, as in previous volumes in the series, are selections from the manuscripts brought together from domestic and foreign sources by the Naval History Division and the late William Bell Clark. The collection, mostly on microfilm, is vast and comes from as widely scattered locations as San Marino, California, and Venice, Italy.

The Naval History Division continues to expand its document holdings. During the period this volume was under preparation, for example, significant additions for subsequent volumes were added from several southern states and the Public Record Office, London. From the latter, an already imposing collection of logs of Royal Navy ships operating in American and West Indian waters was markedly expanded.

Original manuscripts are the object of the collection effort. While some pertinent items from sound and modern editorial scholarship are used in Naval Documents volumes, every effort is made to avoid transcripts, and to replace with original manuscripts those older printed document compilations which may be suspect. While this is not always possible, the results achieved have been highly rewarding.

The term “naval document” is not subject to as precise a definition as are the papers of an individual or a single organization. Documentation bearing upon the regular naval forces on both sides, state navies, privateers, merchant shipping, logistics of the conflict, and operations on sea, lake, bay and river fall within the context of “naval document” as used in this series.

For purposes of selecting what material to include in a particular volume, the focus is on those documents which give the most comprehensive coverage to naval aspects of major events during the volume’s time span, as well as those which present the user with a meaningful overview of the entire sea effort.

The mass of documentary material is such that only a percentage of that available can be placed in the Naval Documents volumes. Nevertheless, the Naval History Division’s entire collection supplements the printed work, and forms an available ever-deepening reservoir for scholarly research and writing.
This drawing and others of similar nature throughout the Volume are from journals kept on board ships Lloyd and Betsey, Nicholas Pocock, Master. (Courtesy of the Trustees of the National Maritime Museum, London.)

AMERICAN THEATRE

From August 1, 1776 to August 31, 1776
The Declaration of Independence bolstered the American spirit, and changed the nature of the Revolution. No longer a struggle for rights by British colonists, it now became a battle for the formation of a new nation. However, Americans would have scant time to savor the heady spirit of the Declaration, or to revel in mutual congratulations over the increased number of prizes taken on the high seas, or the thumping defeat of the enemy before Charleston.

To the northward, both adversaries rushed completion of the small fleets with which they would vie for control of that critical invasion route from Canada—Lake Champlain. But events in August 1776 were dominated by preparations for, and the final unleashing of, the huge British amphibious assault on New York.

The Howe brothers, General and Admiral, enjoyed overwhelming superiority on land and afloat at New York. Mastery of the harbor and surrounding rivers belonged to the British. Their troops could be moved and supplied by water without opposition.

Crossing in ships' boats from the Staten Island staging area, waves of British and Hessian soldiers landed on Long Island under the massed guns of the Royal Navy. In the ensuing Battle, August 27, Washington's forces were soundly defeated with heavy losses. Only a well executed withdrawal across the East River to Manhattan saved the American army from complete annihilation which could well have brought the Revolution to a sudden end at Brooklyn Heights.

New York, the important port which the enemy had desperately needed since evacuating Boston and which he was to hold throughout the war, was now his. Yet, Washington's battered army remained intact and could fight another day.

We are fitting out a naval force on the lakes.—We have three schooners, one sloop, and several gundalows, with about 300 men, including seamen and marines. There are upwards of Fifty ship-carpenters from Philadelphia, at Skeensborough, who are building Row Gallies, on the construction of those in the river Delaware, so that in a month’s time our strength on the Lakes will be very considerable: In that space of time, from the best intelligence, General Burgoyne intends to visit us.

. . . We are informed that the English have one schooner launched, and three more on the stocks at St. John’s, that they build batteaus fast, and carry on their preparations for crossing the lakes, with the utmost assiduity.

Major General Philip Schuyler to John Hancock

[Extract] German Flatts August 1st 1776.

General Arnold in a Letter of the 24th Ult: from Tyonderoga advises me, that only seventy Sailors could be drafted out of the Army and that three hundred would be wanting and intreated that Measures should be taken to procure them—I have accordingly written to Governor Trumbull on the Subject, and as General Arnold suggested that they could not be got for the Wages allowed Seamen by Congress (as these would have no prospect of making prizes) — I have therefore ventured to intreat the Governor to engage them on the best Terms he can, as Congress will perceive by the following Extract of my Letter of Yesterday’s Date.

“I am this Moment informed that only seventy Sailors can be procured out of our Northern Army, and that we shall want two or three hundred more and that they may possibly be procured in Connecticut, and it is conjectured that Captains Samuel Chew and Francis Brown of New Haven, Capt Amos Green of Stamford, Captain [Azariah] Whitlesey of Saybrook and Capt Seth Warner of Haddam would if not employed, be willing to engage as Captains to command Vessels on Lake Champlain—I am a Stranger to all these Gentlemen—permit me to beg the Favor of you to send to them or such others as you may think proper, to engage forty Men a piece and to make the best Contract you can with them for their and their Mens Monthly Wages and Allowance which will be strictly complied with.”— I hope this Measure will meet with the Approbation of Congress as the Necessity of having Sailors is evident, and as there can be no Doubt but that Governor Trumbull will make the most favorable Contract for the public that he can.

GEORGE WASHINGTON TO GOVERNOR JONATHAN TRUMBULL

[Extract] New York Augt 1st 1776

Since my last nothing of importance has occurred, or that is worthy of notice except an augmentation of about twenty nine Ships and Brigs with seven or eight smaller vessels to the Enemy’s Fleet—I have not yet learned what they bring, certainly—However, some Troops were seen landing from them yesterday, which the General who observed them took to be Artillery Men. It is not improbable that they may be some of the Guards whose dress is pretty much like that of the Artillery—P. S. The three Galleys you were so kind as to order have safely arrived also two from Rhode Island. With these and one that is finished here we are preparing to attempt something against the Ships above—

[New York] August 1st.—About 30 sail of British ships arrived at the Hook. Three or four more row-gallies went up the Hudson. In bringing the hulks, chevaux-de-frise, &c. round from the East River, to the Hudson, a sloop sunk, not far from the Grand Battery.

CAPTAIN BENJAMIN TRUMBULL’S JOURNAL OF THE CAMPAIGN AT NEW YORK

New York, August 1.

On Monday last five of the men of war's boats endeavouring to land on Tappan meadows, where about 15 inhabitants of the neighbourhood concealed themselves in a fishing hut, on the edge of the meadows, which they had barricaded up, and lay there until three of the boats were within shot of them, when they fired, loaded again, and fired eleven rounds, without the loss of a man on our side. They killed several of the enemy, as they heard a great shrieking and crying amongst them.

This Morning between 40 and 50 Sail appeared in Sight, which proved to be Sir Peter Parker's Fleet, with Generals Clinton & Lord Cornwallis, and the Troops under their Command, on board. They have had an unsuccessful Attack upon Charles Town, and lost near 200 Men, in Killed & Wounded, belonging to the Ships. Three Frigates, who led the Charge, run aground in going up, through Ignorance of the Pilots; and, very happily, the Experiment of 50 Guns, arriving the Day before, by interposing between the Fort & them saved the whole Fleet from Destruction. The Acteon, a new Frigate of 28 Guns, it being impossible to get off, was scuttled & burnt. Under all these Disadvantages, the Reinforcement of 2900 Men is an agreeable Circumstance, and especially as they are in very good Health. The Ships, in coming in, made a very fine Appearance.

"Extract of a Letter from Philadelphia, Aug. 1." 1

Last night arrived an account of the capture of the brig Richmond, by the Congress, fitted out of this place. She was bound from London and Nevis for Halifax, and had on board the following articles, viz, '1078 joes, 672 guineas, 15 moidores, 41 hogsheads of rum, 6 hogsheads, 5 tierces, and 5 barrels of sugar, 1 hogshead of loaf sugar, 24 hogsheads of prize molasses, 3 cases of drugs, and a trunk of Irish linen. The brig was arrived at Egg harbour; the gold they hid in the water cask. The cash, and several London passengers, are on board the privateer, who was left in chase of a three-decker. They took several London letters directed for people in New York, also some newspapers, one of them of the 23d of April, which is the only one we have not seen before. It contains very little, except advices from Jamaica, by which they seem alarmed at the arrival of the French troops at Hispaniola, and that some of the merchants had forbid their orders for goods, expecting a visit from them. That seven ships, one of them the Hancock and Adams, with wheat, had arrived at Lisbon from Philadelphia; and that two with tobacco, and one wheat loaded ship, were arrived in France.
Mr. Gibb’s ship, capit. Robinson, is below, from Marseilles, with 1100 arms, 37 tuns of lead, 15 tuns of powder, flints, &c. I have just seen the supercargo, who tells me they are seven weeks out; that he could not procure a newspaper, although he offered a guinea for one, but saw one as late as the 25th of May.

CAPTAIN CHARLES POPE TO THOMAS RODNEY

Dr Sir

Wilmington August 1st 1776

Since I saw you in Newcastle, I have been treating with a Carpenter of this place, who engages to build and have ready for launching a Vessel by the Middle of October provided we procure three or four Workmen for him—At present he has but two, and says it will take six hands to build her in ten weeks:—The Dimensions agreed on are 54 feet Keel, 20 feet Beam and 8 feet Hold. The Dimensions of the Brig Lexington Commd by Capt. Barrey [John Barry] is 58 feet Keel—21 feet Beam—and 9 feet Hold—The Carpenters say her length will be a considerable advantage to her sailing—Several Labourers have been employed two or three days in cutting the Timber and Keel—the greatest part of the Plank is now ready—and he fully expects indeed is determined to have her on the Stocks in three or four Days.

I would recommend it particularly—nay request it as a Favor of Mr. McGarmot to ride down to Lewis Town—Cedar and Broadkill Creeks and employ all the Hands he can—the more hands the better for us—she will be the sooner off the Stocks, and I am certain hands may be got down there—I beg you may insist on Mr. McGarmots going down; as the Time is drawing fast that requires our presence in the English Channel—

I shall endeavor to get off from this Service in a few Weeks, and think there will be no great Difficulty in procuring a Discharge. Was it not that I prefer the Sea to the Land Service, should continue a Soldier as long as there would be Occasion.—

Best regards to the Family and remain [&c.]

JOURNAL OF THE VIRGINIA COUNCIL OF SAFETY

The Members present taking under their Consideration the proceedings of the Committee of Safety with respect to their Directions for building six Row-Gallies for the purpose of Transporting Troops across the Rivers pursuant to a Resolution of General Congress, find that the said Committee had empowered Persons upon James, York and Rappahanock Rivers to provide Materials for building the same; but as this Board do not know what progress may have been made therein, and do not look upon themselves as competent Judges of Naval affairs are of opinion that the Commissioners of the Navy be requested to take this Business under their Consideration, and carry the said Resolution of Congress respecting the said Row-Gallies into Execution.

It appearing that the Public Treasury is at present in an exhausted state, owing to the delay in getting ready the Dollar Bills lately ordered by Convention to be struck, and that there is a considerable sum of Continental Money deposited with the Treasurer by the Congress for the purpose of exchanging the same for Gold and silver which on Trial is found to be impracticable, Ordered therefore that the Treasurer be requested to pay any warrants which may be drawn by this Board, or the Navy Board during the present situation of the Treasury out of the said Continental money to be replaced hereafter; and that he be informed at the same Time, that the Council will issue as few warrants as may be, until the Treasury can be restored to a better Condition.

St. Vincent's, Aug 1.

The Shark man of war, Capt Bennett [sic John Chapman], on her way from Antigua to this island, opposite the island of Martinico, fell in with a North American privateer, mounting 18 ten pounders. The action lasted near two hours, when the latter was obliged to sheer off; and the former pursued till she received two twenty-four pound shot from the fort at Martinico, which obliged her to desist; and the captain went on shore to make his complaint to the French governor, who declared he would not suffer any English man of war to come within reach of his cannon after the Americans: that if they were pirates he would not countenance them, but by no means looking on them in that light; they claimed his protection while they remained at Martinico; when they put to sea it was their own affair.

Captain Bennett [sic] learned at Martinico, that this same American vessel had taken two English ships homeward bound, and that they had 39 prisoners on board; but the captains nor names of the vessels he could not hear; the colours which the American shewed were a field white and yellow, with 13 stripes.

2. Captain Chapman described the Reprisal's colors as red and white striped with the union next the staff, and made no mention of any yellow. See Chapman to Vice Admiral Young, July 29, 1776. Volume 5, 1278-79.

New-England Chronicle, Friday, August 2, 1776

[Boston, August 2]

Messieurs Printers, In your paper of the 25th instant you mention, “last Sunday a ship of 200 tons burthen, commanded by James Arnout, was sent into this harbour by Commodore Hopkins, &c.” In the same paper, we observe that a certain Caleb Hopkins, who calls himself “Commander of the armed ship called the George, &c.” has libelled the ship called the Queen of England. We are greatly surprised at his assurance, in libelling said ship, as she was not within one and half miles of the George when she struck, and an island between them, and the Commodore (as he is called) did not come on board the Queen of England, ’till an hour after she struck, and then was employed only as a pilot.

Captains.¹

Hull, July 29, 1776.

Friday last was taken to the Eastward of Mount Desart, by two Whalemen, and last Wednesday sent in here, a large Schooner of 160 Tons, from Jamaica bound to Halifax, laden with Rum, Sugar, Pimento, &c. She, it is said, was formerly owned in Salem.

Last Lord's Day was carried into Marblehead, the Ship Peggy, commanded by James Kennedy, mounts six 3 and two 2-pounders, bound for New York, taken by the armed Vessels Hancock, Capt. [Samuel] Tucker, and the Franklin, Captain [John] Skimmer. She is one of the Fleet of 24 Sail, who, it is said, by those that were taken in her, came out with transports, under convoy of two men of war, the Renown of 50 and the Flora of 20 guns, having on board a number of troops. – The cargo consists of 75 doz. hose, 180 yards Irish sheeting, 2 boxes cord, 74 doz. porter, 83 doz. strong beer, 311 tieres salted beef, 6 barrels herring, 24 camp kettles, 5 doz. canteens, 2 doz. kettles with covers, candlesticks and spoons, 2648 mutton hams, 50 doz. Rappee snuff, 100 gallons rum, 3884 yards oznabrigs, 12 and half doz. claret, 4 barrels flour, 2 kegs barley, 230 doz. red port wine, 50 doz. Sherry, 53 doz. white port wine, 16 doz. strong beer, amounting to £.1509–1–9 sterling, and some cash. Also the following Tory gentlemen and ladies, viz. Patrick Reed, Thomas Frazier, Robert Semple, and wife, Elizabeth Burns, John Burns, Abigail Pecit, Thomas Semple, and the pious Benjamin Davis and son, Thomas Pamp, and John Whitehead. The Privateer Warren, Capt. Burk, engaged with another of the fleet, and near taking her, when by some accident she had three of her men blown up and seven wounded, which obliged them to put into port.

The above Tories were brought to Town in a Marblehead Schooner on Monday morning, and escorted up to Gaol; – they inform that they left Halifax the 4th July; that they sailed in Company with 3 Transports with Hessian Troops bound to New-York; and that the Day they left Halifax, they saw a fleet of 40 Sail, which they supposed to be Transports with Hessian Troops.

1. Gray and Redding commanded two companies of the 14th Continental Infantry, stationed at Hull and Point Alderton.

2. The Warren's engagement was with the British transport Unity, whose captain made the following report of the encounter:

   Off the Isle of Sable, early in the Morning, we saw a Schooner, which seemed inclined to speak with us; about Noon she was only a Half a mile from us, when she fired a Shot to bring us too; she had hoisted no Colours notwithstanding she fired a Shot; we were surprised at this, and could therefore hardly think she was one of our armed Schooners, as the Officer would certainly know his Duty better: we accordingly brought too, but took Care also to get all the Soldiers up, and in Arms, and had them all ready under the Quarter-deck, and out of Sight; she ran under our Stern, and bade us strike to the Congress; on which having four Guns abaft, (all we had on board) we complimented her with a Couple; she then kept on our bow, and seemed inclined to board us, our Soldiers immediately went forward, and gave them such a Discharge of small Arms, that she found she had caught a Tartar. I believe we killed them five Men at this Fire. She then shot ahead of us, in order, I believe, to consider what to do; the Determination was to leave us, which they did, by steering away South, whilst we kept on for Halifax Harbour, not having suffered the least Hurt. The Schooner had ten Guns, and I believe upwards of fifty Hands.

[Extract]

Fort Montgomery 2d August 1776.

On Thursday last the Shipping & Tenders fell down to the Mouth of Croton River where they have ever since continued at Anchor near the East Shore. Since which they have attempted once to land on this Side the River with their Barge but were repulsed by our Militia.

On Saturday last the 300 New England Militia left Peeks Kill & returned Home without giving me the least Notice of it, tho I believe they had the Consent of the Committee of [Provincial] Congress who expected in the New Levies from West Chester & Dutchess that Evening to Supply their Place. They were disappointed, the Shore, of course un-guarded & the very same Evening the Enemy's Barge came up the River six Mile from where the Shipping lay, went a Mile or Upwards into the Country & took off a yoke of Oxen, a Steer, a Cow & 10 Sheep from the Farm of one Baily, who it is said is on Board the Phenix, and I suppose was their Guide.

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO BRIGADIER GENERAL HENRY HOOPER

[Extract]

No 105

Sir, Since our last we have had advice from Major [Thomas] Price our commanding officer in Saint-Mary's, that the British fleet lay near the mouth of Smith's creek in Potowmack, that they were very weak in Land-forces not exceeding 300 men, that they were so sickly that 50 dead bodies had appeared on the shores, chiefly negroes, and that having gone up the River Potowmack to take in water & returned, he imagined they would soon sail from that Quarter.

Their Forces appear so inconsiderable and contemptible to him, that he has dismissed all the militia, and keeps only two independent Companies to oppose them...

We do not expect from their weak state that any attempt will be made, except to plunder, and we think the 500 regular Troops together with the 200 Militia, a sufficient Force to protect your shore until the fleet sails, which we daily expect to hear of, and if some of them go to sea & only a few remain at our Capes, and in Virginia to destroy our Trade, as is suggested to us will be the case, the remainder of the militia also may be discharged.

If the schooner you have taken would answer to make an armed Boat or vessel for the Defence of this Colony, we should be glad you would send her over that she may be put in repair & fitted for the service, if she is unfit, an Acct of her Size, value and stores will be agreeable to us.

2. The lower Eastern Shore counties of Maryland, on the Chesapeake Bay.
Since our last we have recd two letters from Major [Thomas] Price, copies of which are inclosed, from them you will learn the situation of the Enemy below, our pilot boat came up last night & informs they are not yet gone off, several vessels are dismasted, and on shore at the point of St. George's island with intention to burn them; Middleton thinks they are going off down the Bay, and we hope soon to be able to write you to that effect, altho' we apprehend a visit to the Eastern shore, and are preparing accordingly. – we have the Satisfaction to inform you that the report of a Landing at Colo [William] Smallwood's was not true – Mr Brents houses were burnt and a good deal of damage done – we hear of no particulars of any other mischief up above. . . .

We congraulate you on the safe arrival of the Molly Captn [Thomas] Conway in great Wiccomico, Virginia, with 21,000 Wt of Gun Powder & 270 Stand of Small arms for the use of this Province, we shall get the Cargo up here, as soon as we can with safety. . . .

Williamsburg, August 2.

Since our last, we have certain advice that lord Dunmore, with his motley band of pirates and renegadoes, have burnt the elegant brick house of William Brent, esq; at the mouth of Aquia creek, in Stafford county, as also two other houses lower down Potowmack river, the property of widow ladies, with several ferry boats; that on Tuesday se'night he re-landed on St. George's island, but was beat off by 1200 Marylanders; that he had burnt eight of his vessels, and was seen standing down the bay the Thursday after with all his fleet.

"Extrait of a Letter from St. Eustatia, Dated August 2, 1776."¹

We have just received an account from Martinico that the Reprisal, Capt. Weeks [Lambert Wickes], belonging to the Congress, had an engagement with the Shark sloop of war, of sixteen guns, belonging to his Britannic Majesty, within sight of St. Pierre's wherein the former had greatly the advantage, and acquired much honor amongst the French, many of whom were spectators of the battle. The American vessel afterwards going into the harbour of St. Pierre's, the Captain of the Shark demanded the American rebel, as he termed it, but the French General refused to deliver him up. A French frigate is just arrived from Old France, with despatches, as late as the 22d of June, to the Governors of the different islands, ordering them to protect and assist the American vessels as far as possible, and to be prepared to defend themselves, if necessary. From this it appears a French war is not far off.

LIBEL OF CAPTAINS DANIEL BUCKLIN AND JOSEPH WHITE AGAINST THE PRIZE BRIGANTINE Harlequin

State of Rhode Island and Providence Plantations.

A Libel is filed before me, in Behalf of Daniel Bucklin, of Providence, in the County of Providence, in the said State, Mariner, and Commander of the private Sloop of War called the Montgomery, duly commissioned by the Hon. Nicholas Cooke, Esq; Governor of said State; and also in behalf of John White, Mariner, and Commander of the private Sloop of War called the Revenge, belonging to Salem, in the State of Massachusetts Bay, also duly commissioned with Letters of Marque and Reprisal, to cruise against the Enemies of the United States of America, against the Brigantine called the Harlequin, of the burthen of about 180 Tons, with her Appurtenances, late commanded by Capt. John Goodwin; and also against the Cargo of the said Brigantine, consisting of about 119 Hogsheads, 137 Tierces and 20 Barrels of Sugar, 62 Hogsheads of Rum, 2 Boxes of Shelly-work, &c. bound from the English Island of Nevis, in the West Indies, to the Port of London, in the Kingdom of Great Britain; which said Brigantine, her Appurtenances and Cargo, as 'tis said, were lately taken and captured upon the high Seas, by the said Daniel Bucklin and John White, their respective Officers and Men, belonging to said Sloops of War, and brought into the port of Providence aforesaid, and at and before the said Time of Capture, belonged to and were the Property of some of the Inhabitants of Great Britain, and were used for the Purpose of carrying Supplies to the British Fleets and Armies now acting against the said United States.

The Justice of the above Capture will be tried, at the Court erected in and for said State of Rhode Island and Providence Plantation, for Trial of maritime Causes, to be helden at Providence on the 19th Day of August, A.D. 1776, at the Hour of Ten in the Forenoon. This Notice is given, pursuant to Law, that the Owner or Owners of the said Brigantine, her Appurtenances and Cargo, or any Person or Persons concerned therein, may appear and shew Cause, if any they have, why the same should not be condemned.

Providence, August 3.

Sunday last the Montgomery Privateer, Capt. Daniel Bucklin, of this Port, returned from a Cruize, during which she took three valuable Prizes, also two others in Company with a Privateer belonging to Salem:¹ She brought in with her a Snow of 180 Tons, Capt. [John] Goodwin, bound from Nevis to London, having on board 119 Hogsheads, 137 Tierces and 20 Barrels of Sugar, 62 Hogsheads of Rum, &c.²

On Monday arrived a Brig. taken by the Diamond Privateer, Captain William Chace, of this Port; her Cargo consists of 195 Hogsheads and some Barrels of Sugar, 65 Bales of Cotton, 25 Tons of Fustick, and a Quantity of Staves and Heading: she was bound from Tortola to Liverpool.³

Extract of a Letter from a Planter at Tortola to his Friend in Liverpool, dated July 1, 1776, found on board the last mentioned Prize.
If this unhappy Dispute between Great-Britain and America should be brought to a Conclusion, and they be once more united, there will be an Opening for Sale of Rum, though to the Windward the Price keeps up I hear to 2s.6d. per Gallon owing to Government contracting with Mr. Blackburn for One Hundred Thousand Gallons for the Troops in America, I am afraid many Planters here will suffer for want of Lumber, as they have it not in their Power to send for it. I am informed there is a Deal of good Lumber to the Southward of Georgia.

1. Captain Joseph White, of the Massachusetts privateer sloop Revenge.
2. The brigantine Harlequin.
3. The brigantine Mary.

General Arnold informs Me, that the Sail Cloth may be had of Mr Thomas Mumford of New London & Cordage of Mr Mortimer of Middletown, to which Places & persons You will be pleased to go & Endeavour to procure these Articles; But You are not to confine Yourself to these Persons only; If the Articles are to be had nearer to this Place or at a Cheaper Rate, You will purchase them & bring them to this Place without Delay, [or] forward them by a safe Hand, by the quickest Cheapest & most direct Rout.

If You should need Assistance in procuring or forwarding any of these Articles, You will apply to His Honor Governor Trumbull for his Order, to be furnished therewith.

You will make no Delay in procuring & dispatching these Articles to Albany, as a Delay in this Matter May prove detrimental to our Army in the Northern Department.

JOURNAL OF THE NEW YORK PROVINCIAL CONVENTION

Saturday Morning

A letter from Pierre Van Cortlandt and Zeph. Platt, Esqrs. was received and read, and is in the words following to wit:

Head-Quarters, Mouth of Croton, Augt. 2d, 1776.

Gentlemen—The enemy's ships lie off here, and their barges row up and down the river a nights; and notwithstanding our utmost exertions some infamous rascal must have given them information that the New-England troops went off on Saturday last, and not a sufficient number coming in to guard the shore, they landed at one Bailey's on Sunday night, and went back a half a mile and drove off one pair of oxen, two cows, one calf, one heifer and eleven sheep: no doubt had the assistance of some tories on shore. . . .

Last Thursday, a number of ships, arrived at Staten-Island. They are supposed to be part of the fleet, with the Hessian troops on board.

JOHN COVENHOVEN TO THE NEW JERSEY DELEGATES IN THE CONTINENTAL CONGRESS

New Brunswick Augt 3d 1776

Gentlemen— As it is of great Importance that the Communication between New York, this & the Southern Colonies be preserved, and no adequate provisions that we know of, having been made to keep open the Ferries over Pasaick & Hackinsack Rivers between Newark & Powles Hook, which in their present Situation may not only be safely obstructed by a single armed Vessel of the Enemy lying near them; but the Ferry Boats may be seized & the passing & repassing of our Troops on emergent Occasions, thereby, for a considerable time impeded; And as from the exposed & unguarded Situation of the Settlements up said Rivers, the Creeks & Country adjacent to Newark Bay the Enemy may receive Supplies of Provisions either by Plunder or from disaffected Persons; And the making Provision for the above Purposes; as they intimately consider all the United States belonging to Your honorable House, We must desire You to propose, at first Opportunity, in Congress, that the most speedy & effectual Measures may be adopted to obtain these salutary Ends—

We conceive there are but two Practicable Methods—Vizt By Batteries at the Several Ferries or by armed Vessels.—The Ground on each Side of the Ferries, being low salt Marsh, will not, without very great Expences, admit of being fortified; but if this had not been the Case, a larger Number of heavy Cannon wou'd be necessary to answer our Purposes than perhaps can be procured; or if procurable, than woud be necessary if employed on board one or more Vessels of the Row Galley or Gondola Construction—Protection by armed Vessels have a further Advantage over Fortifications at the Ferries; the Fortifications must have great Strength, a considerable Number of Cannon & a large Body of Men stationed there, or a Descent of the Enemy might take Cannon & Men together, as the Cannon cou'd not be retreated with, and the Distance of the Ferries from Succour, too great to expect Supplies in Time—On the Contrary, an armed Vessel stationed at or near each Ferry of the Row Galley or Gondola kind, carrying only an 18 Pounder each, with Swivels, Cohorns or Blunderbusses may be sufficient, & their Forces may be occasionally united; for being so contiguous, they may readily act in Concert; and by being made to draw but little Water and to row swiftly, may if they find the Force attacking them too powerful, secure a safe Retreat where the Enemy's Tenders cannot pursue them—

But perhaps heavy Cannon may be spared for one Gondola & not more; in such Case a Vessel of the Cat Schooner kind might be usefully employed for the other Vessel:—We are informed there are two in Pasack River, well built & almost new & that either of them may be hired for a small Consideration provided their Owners are assured of their being returned in as good Order as when delivered or of being paid the Value in Case they shou'd be irreparably damaged—The Dimensions about 45 feet in Length—14 feet, Breadth 4½ feet depth, draw but little Water & one of them sails remarkably swift.

Altho Gondolas may not so advantageously attack Ships of War, yet their Tenders, or Vessels of such Size as can approach the Ferries will not chuse to come in the Way of an 18 or 24 Pounder—

If not a single Cannon of this Weight can be spared; perhaps both the above-mentioned Cat Schooners may be usefully employed in this Service; they will probably carry either two six Pounders on each Side, & a 6 or 9 Pounder in the Bow, or three 4 Pounders on each Side & a 6 Pounder in the Bow—besides Swivels, Cohorns & Blunderbusses (as they may be procurable,) Spears & small Arms—

We were so perfectly convinced of the Importance & Utility of making Provision for the above Purpose, that had the State of our Funds permitted it, as much depends on Dispatch, We might probably have gone into the Measures necessary to that End, not doubting but Congress, when convinced of their general Utility to the United States wou’d have ordered a Reimbursement of the Expences—&c

Two other armed Vessels might be advantageously stationed at proper Places between the Ferries abovementioned & the Mouth of Raritan River; they might Cooperate occasionally, either for the Purposes afsd, or for annoying the Enemy, or be employed to protect the Ferry from South to Perth Amboy & the Navigation of Raritan River; which Protection wou’d be a great Saving either in Troops crossing the Ferry to Amboy or in transporting Provisions, Baggage &c. from Brunswick, by Water, to the Camp at Amboy—

As it is important that no Time be lost in making the afsd Provision; And as from the Multiplicity of interesting Business before Congress, this may be delayed; If Congress will provide for the Expence, & request it, We shall be willing to give a helping hand towards carrying their Resolutions on this Subject into Effect

We are Gentlemen [&c.]

2. This letter was read in Congress August 6. It was resolved that provision should be made "for keeping open the communication between that state and New York, by way of the ferries over the rivers Passaick and Hackinsack . . . and that this Congress will reimburse the expences of such service to the state of New Jersey." CAESAR RODNEY TO THOMAS RODNEY 1

[Extract]

Philada. August the 3d 1776

Yesterday Came to Town a Ship belonging to the Congress from France with ten Tunns of Powder, about forty Tunns of Lead, one thousand Stand of Arms &c. &c. And the Same day an Armed Veshell taken by Captain [John] Barry 2

At sea –

Since I finished my other Letter have been up to Congress where We Recd Inteligence by letter from Captn. Weeks [Lambert Wickes] in the Congress ship, the Reprisal, That he has at Sea on the 13th of July taken two prizes, a Ship and a Schooner bound for Liverpool Loaded with Cotten, Sugar Rum &c. 3 The Letter Came by the Prize Schooner which arrived in an Inlet near Egg Harbour—and the Ship Prize has been Seen off the Capes of Delaware and Supposed by this time got in...

2. The sloop Lady Susan.

3. The ship Friendship and schooner Peter.

4. Two letters were written to Thomas Rodney this date. This entry is an extract from both letters.

"Extract of a Letter from Philadelphia, August 3."

Since my last, we have arrived, a sloop from North-Carolina with naval stores, and a sloop of 8 four pounders; she belonged to the Goodrich's of Virginia, and was commanded by one of them; was out 3 days from Bermuda, when he discovered and gave chase to the brig Lexington, Captain Barry, but finding his mistake, put about too late; for in about an hour and a half, Barry ran along side, when she struck. She has 8 Negroes on board; all, or most of the men, to the amount of 25, entered on board of Barry—

This morning we have an express from a schooner taken by Captain Weekes, in the Continental ship Reprisal; she was bound from St. Vincents for Liverpool, with upwards of 100 hogsheads of rum, and is safe at Absecomb Inlet. They bring an account of his having taken a ship of 4 or 500 tons burthen, from Grenada for London; she was quite full, and by the captors said to be worth 35,000 1. A ship was seen last Wednesday to the southward off our Cape, by the North-Carolina man, which we hope is the prize.

Captain Fowler, in a sloop belonging to your city, is arrived safe in port with 4,000 1. worth of indigo, in 12 or 13 days from Charlestown; she passed the [British] fleet in a thunder storm. By him we learn, that two deserters from the fleet confirm the accounts which General [Charles] Lee received from the five deserters, already published here, and further add, That the brig that had the Captain of the Commodore on board for London, had returned off Spencer's Inlet: the said Captain died soon after he got on board, and was buried on Long-Island the 3d of July: That the men began to grow sickly, and they are dissatisfied with General Clinton's conduct; they suspect he keeps a private correspondence with General Lee: That there was some talk of his being under an arrest: That the last rumour among them was, of their embarkation for Long-Island in New-York government. The Commodore's ship is so much shattered, it will take them some time to refit. The 4th of July he hoisted his pendant on board the Experiment. One shot from the fort, took off three midshipmen's heads, who happened to stand in a range, one of whom is a Nobleman's son.

A few days before Captain Fowler sailed, the whole fleet was in mourning, supposed for the death of Sir Peter Parker, who was wounded, and lost a part of his breeches in the late engagement.—
thinks the two large ships will not be able to go over the Bar, so as to get out.

2. The Lady Susan, Captain William Goodrich. Among those who entered on board the Lexington was Richard Dale, whose Memoir in The Port Folio (June, 1814), reads in part: "upon his return from Bermuda—whither he had gone with William Gutteridge [sic]—he was captured by captain John Barry, commander of the United States' brig Lexington, and on the same day entered as a midshipman on board said brig. This occurred in July, 1776." The owner of Lady Susan, Joseph Hinckson of Bermuda, challenged the capture on the grounds that his sloop had been illegally taken over by Lord Dunmore. On August 22, 1776, the Admiralty Court in Philadelphia ruled that the owner receive one half the money arising from the sale of Lady Susan. The remainder to go one third to Barry and his crew, and "two-thirds for the Use of the thirteen United States." Records of the Admiralty Court of Pennsylvania, April 13–December 3, 1776, LC Photocopy.

3. The schooner Peter was the vessel arrived at Absecon, and the prize ship Friendship was the one sighted by the North Carolina sloop.

4. Sir Peter Parker remained very much alive after the engagement, but the nature of his wound brought forth a satirical verse in the Constitutional Gazette, July 27, 1776:

   If "honor in the breech is lodg'd,"
   As Hudibras has shewn;
   It may from thence be fairly judg'd
   Sir Peter's honor's gone.

CAPTAIN CHARLES DOUGLAS, R. N., TO VICE ADMIRAL RICHARD

LORD HOWE 1

My Lord,

Isis, Quebec, August the 4th 1776

This is conveyed by the Pearl, having under her Convoy, three Transports carrying round the Rebel Prisoners. And the Tartar, forthwith to be relieved by the Bute at the Isle of Bic, after ranging round a great part of the Gulph of St. Laurence, taking a State of the several Fisheries, & cruizing until the 15th of September between Cape Ray and Scatari, is to wait upon your Lordship.

Very shortly after my last was sent away, I received Information by Express from Chambly, that because of Want of density of the 'Ground, thro' which the Engineers were preparing a Road, the Enterprize of getting the Hulls of the three Vessels, transported overland from thence to St. Johns, would not answer: as to remedy the looseness thereof, would require more time and Labour, than the Season and several other Circumstances could admit of. General Carleton being just then returned from Montreal, and approving of the measure, all the Artificers I could muster superintended by Lieutenant [John] Schank who commands the Canceaux, were set to Work on the 23d Ultimo, to take down the Frame of a Ship building here—On the 26th her Stern frame, Stem, Keel, and some of her Floor Timbers went away in Long-boats for the River Sorel, and I hope are by this time at St. Johns; where Blocks were previously ordered to be laid, for her Reconstruction; her length from Stem to Stern is eighty Feet—the said long boats My Lord were willingly ceded, as may appear by the herewith inclosed, And are to be employed on Lake Champlain. I flatter myself that the Masters of the Transports, above the Rapids of Richlieu, may still (for since my last they have made Difficulties,) be prevailed upon, to follow the laudable Example Set them by their Brethren here—Who are all to depart for Spithead, the moment their men return from the Sorel.

In Consequence of the pressing Requisition of General Carleton, apprized of Mr Schank's Men instead of reserving the Canceaux arm'd Ship, to carry his more recent dispatches to the Eastward as was intended (keeping the Gaspee for that purpose) I have sent her up to the Sorel. Lieutenant Schank is to superintend the Reconstruction of the Vessel at Drawing of British Warship Used on Lake Champlain, 1776. Possibly HMS Inflexible.
St. Johns, which he saw pulled to pieces at Quebec, and to command her on the Lake, with his Officers and Men from the Canceaux, about forty in Number making Part of her Crew—A Frame taken down in the Sorel, & that of the Maria arm'd Schooner, are some time ago taken in hand—but how soon all our Force will be afloat, is impossible for me to ascertain; so much being necessary, & our Means respecting the Magnitude of the Enterprize, so scanty; & the Loss of Time in getting every thing sent so far up against predominate Westerly Winds and opposing Currents, so great; Yet I'd fain hope it might be brought to Completion, some time in September.—The Major part of the Seamen necessary for this Equipment, must be furnished by His Majesty's Ships; are to be attached to the three Vessels above alluded to; (when rebuilt,) to our flat bottom'd and the Gun-boats; And are to be commanded by Capt. [Thomas] Pringle of the Lord Howe—Lieut. [Joseph] Nunn has declined serving on Lake Ontario, and resumed the Command of the Magdalen: Mr John Stone 2d Lieutenant of the Lizard by my order, & Mr John Curling Mate of this His Majesty's Ship, who were to have served as Lieutenants under him, are transferred to Lake Champlain, where a good many Officers of that Rank are wanted. — All such Officers & Seamen, thus to be employed, are only lent or to be lent, from their respective Ships, until further Order: and for their Encouragement, are to have extraordinary Pay from General Carleton, equal to what they would have in their several Classes, on board His Majesty's Ships of War at Sea—Capt. Pringle & Lieut. Schank, are paid as Masters and Commanders—Warrant and petty Officers, the same Pay as in the Ships to which they belong, and each able and ordinary Seaman is to have 17s/6d P Mensem added to his Navy Wages—His Excellency wishes the Isis, the Juno, the Blonde, the Triton and Lord Howe to continue in this River, & in their present Stations; the Canceaux in the Sorel; the Bute at the Isle of Bic, the Gaspée & Magdalen Schooners, to be kept in readiness for carrying Dispatches as is the Juno for any particular Exigency—The Triton is returned to the Foot of the Rapids of Richlieu.

For farther particulars, I beg leave to refer You to Captain [Thomas] Wilkinson, And have the honor most respectfully to remain [&c.]

Ch Ch Douglas

P.S. I have been under the necessity of ordering Guns, with their Carriages, proportion of Shot, Tackle, Furniture &c. to be spared from His Majesty's Ships 'till the Lake Business be over: vizt. from the Isis, ten twelve, & four Six Pounders. Blonde Six twelve Pounders. Juno four twelves & two Sixes. Pearl the same; Triton, four Nines and the Lord Howe and Bute, also four Nine pounders each.

"A Letter from a Gentleman, who was in the Engagement wth the Ministerial Pirates off Tarry-Town, dated Sunday Morning, Aug. 4." 1

Sir. I have just Opportunity to inform you, that Yesterday at 1 o'Clock, P.M. the Gallies attacked the Phoenix and Rose off Tarry-Town. The Lady Washington fired the first Gun on our Side, in answer to one received from the Phoenix; this first shot from us, entered the Phoenix. The Washington Galley, on board of which the Commodore's Flag was hoisted, then came up within Grape-Shot of the Ships, and singly sustained their whole Fire for above a Quarter of an Hour before any other of our Vessels took a Shot from her (the Tide wasting them more than the Pilots expected, to the Eastern Shore, and the Lady Washington falling back to take her Station in the Line according to Orders.) The Spitfire advanced in a Line with the Washington, and with her behaved well. We had as hot a fire as perhaps ever was known for an Hour and an Half. The Washington, on which I was on board during the whole Engagement, had the Ledgings of her bow Guns knocked away, which prevented our working them, and was otherways considerably damaged, being thirteen Times hulled, had three Shot in her Waist, many of her Oars carried away, &c. The Lady Washington, after hulling the Phoenix six Times, had her bow and only Gun, a Thirty-two Pounder, on which we placed much Dependence, split seven Inches, and her Gun Tackles and Britchings carried away. The Spitfire was hulled several Times, and received one Shot between Wind and Water, which not being quickly discovered, occasioned her making much Water. The rest of the Gallies received considerable Damage in their Rigging, Sails and Spars. Under these Circumstances, our Commodore, Colonel Tupper, thought it prudent to give the signal for our little Fleet to withdraw, after manfully fighting a much superior Force, for two Hours.—Never did Men behave with more firm determined Spirit than our little crews; one of our Tars being mortally wounded, cried to his Messmates, "I am a dying Man, revenge my Blood, my Boys, and carry me along Side my Gun, that I may die there." — We were so preserved by a Gracious Providence, that in all our Gallies (which consisted of Six), we had but two Men killed and Fourteen wounded; two of which are thought dangerous. — We hope to have [an]other touch at these Pirates before they leave our River, which God prosper.

P.S. The following are the Particulars of the Gallies, with their killed and wounded:

Whiting, M'Clave, 1 killed, 4 wounded.
Spitfire, Grimes, 1 Killed, 3 wounded.
Crane, Tincker, 1 wounded.

On board a whale boat 2 wounded.

[On board H. M. S. Eagle]
Sunday, 4th [August].

In the Afternoon the Renown of 50 Guns and the Flora of 32 Guns, with 22 Sail of Convoy, came into the Harbor. We have had so many Arrivals of late, that the Rebel Commanders, we learn, give out to their People, that we send Ships down in the Night, which come up in the Course of the next Day, as a manoeuvre to intimidate them.

The Structures, which we supposed yesterday to be Fire Stages, were towed up the North River this morning; and seem to be intended for Cheveaux de Frize to block up the Passage, either to prevent the Ships, that are now above, from coming down, or our Fleet from getting up, without being raked by their Batteries. It is of a peculiar Construction; and all the Industry of malevolence, which is the most active Sort of Industry, has been used to complete it. Our People don't seem to regard it, and fancy they can easily run it down, or remove it out of their way.

LORD DUNMORE TO LORD GEORGE GERMAIN

[Ship Dunmore in Potomac River, Virginia], 4th of August –

Seeing a Tender of Captn Hamonds (that he had sent to Sir Peter Parker) coming up I would not close my letter till I saw Mr [Richard] Whitworth, who commands her, and I am extremly sorry to find that No 4 contains but too true an Account of our loss before Charles Town. I have letters from Sir Peter [Parker] and General Clinton, both informing me that it is perfectly out of their Power to give me any sort of assistance, which will render my Situation (if possible) more intollerable than it has been for these fourteen Months past, that I have been constantly pened up in a Ship hardly with the common Necessaries of life, but what makes it now a thousand times worse, in that I am left without even the hope of being able to render His Majesty the smallest Service, this I must say is truely discouraging, and leaves me in the utmost difficulty to determine what to do; my utmost desire is (when I do resolve) that I may do what may be most agreeable to His Majestys wishes and the best for His Service. Mr Simenton, the bearer of this, or Governor Eden, who accompanies him, will be able to inform your Lordship particularly, of the forlorn State in which they have left us; and I have the Honor to be, My Lord [&c.]

VICE ADMIRAL JAMES YOUNG TO COUNT D'ARGOUT

English Harbour, Antigua, 4th August, 1776

Sir

Captain Chapman of His Brittannic Majesty's Ship the Shark has transmitted me an Account of His being attacked off St Pierres road, Martinique, by an American Pirate, called the Reprisal, carrying 120 Men, and 18 Six pound Guns; which He would have taken, had She not been protected by the Forts, and received into the Road of St Pierre. Captain Chapman acquaints me he desisted from Engageing the Pirate, as soon as the Fort at St Pierre's by firing at him, had Signified they deemed the Vessel under their protection; as He supposed they believed her to be only an American trading Vessel coming into their Road; however afterwards when Captain Chapman followed her into St Pierre's Bay, and acquainted Your Excellency, with the particulars of his Engagement; and desired your permission to Seize and take possession of her as an American Pirate; who could carry no Kings Commission, nor be Armed by any lawful Authority to Wage War; I am certainly very much Surprized to find you should hesitate or make any difficulty to permit him to do so. Surely, your Excellency cannot intend to Open the Ports of His Most Christian Majesty and give an open and avowed protection to Ships Armed for Offensive War, by His Brittannic Majesty's Rebellious Subjects in America, who are professedly sent into these Seas to Cruize & Annoy, and take the Vessels and property of the King of Great Britain’s Faithful and Peaceable Subjects. After this Explanation, I cannot suppose your Excellency will any longer protect the Pirate abovenamed; and I have sent Captain [Thomas] Eastwood of His Britannic Majesty’s Ship of War the Pomona, to Demand in the Name of the King of Great Britain (my Master); the delivery of said American Vessel, her Men, Arms &c., that I may bring them to trial for the Offences Committed by them contrary to the general Law of Nations, and their Duty as Subjects.—

Since I have had the honour to Command the British Squadron in these Seas, I have endeavoured all that lay in me, to Cultivate friendship, and good faith, with His Most Christian Majesty’s Governors at all his different possessions in these Seas, as likewise with those of other European Powers in Amity with Great Britain and whenever during the present trouble, any mistakes may have happened, have readily entered into proper Explanations concerning them, and if I thought the Officers, under my Command, at any time wrong, I have blamed, and Reprimanded them for such Conduct, and given all due Satisfaction in my power; after such friendly behaviour, and inclination in me towards the Allies of Great Britain, I could not but expect an equal return, and confess the greatness of my Disappointment to find so gross an Insult now offered to the British Flag, through your Excellency’s Acquiescence—

Whilst the American Vessels came into these Seas unarmed, (‘tho the Traffick they were employed in, was often very pernicious and dangerous,) I did not in any instance, suffer the Ships under my Command, to attack them within the limits of any Port in Amity with Great Britain; however I presume your Excellency, as well as I do will readily draw the Line of distinction, between Vessels Manned and Armed for Offensive War, and Trading Vessels, and that the Neutrality and protection which was afforded and claimed by the latter, cannot be given the former, but they must be treated by all Powers in Amity with Great Britain as Pirates.—

I wish to receive your Excellency’s answer, and a clear explicit explanation of your Sentiments on this Subject; by which my future Conduct must be regulated, and that I may likewise transmit the same to the Court of London, by a Ship of War I shall send to England, immediately on Captain Eastwoods return: I have the honour to be Your Excellency’s &c.

[James Young]

P.S. I must entreat your Excellency will signify your determination about giving up the American Vessel to Captain Eastwood; that He may be enabled to Act in that matter agreeable to Commands he has received from me.

Secret Orders

In case the American Vessel [Reprisal] you are directed, by my Order of this date, to Demand the delivery of, from the Governor of Martinico, is still remaining in that Bay; You are to Anchor in the Pomona as near to her as you can; and constantly to watch her motions; and be ready to Slip and follow her in case She should attempt to get away from thence before you receive the Governor’s Answer, You are in that case to follow her (notwithstanding the Forts may fire to prevent your doing so) until you get beyond the Limits of the Port, and then attack, and use your utmost endeavours to take, burn, sink, or otherways destroy said American Vessel. Should you Succeed in your Endeavours to take her you are not to return back to St Pierres but bring her forthwith to me.— However should the Compte D’argout agree to give up the Vessel, her Arms, Tackle, Furniture &c. to you, but Object to Giving up the Company of said Vessel to be tryed by the Laws against Pirates; You are in that case to accept the Vessel, her Arms, Tackle, Furniture &c, and Suffer the People to go on shore, bringing away the Vessel as directed in your other publick order of this date.— During your Stay in St Pierres Bay you are to use your best Endeavours to get the best Intelligence you can, concerning the American Vessels, and the Trade now carried on by them, and report the same to me at your return, but you are to be careful to make these Enquiries with privacy and delicacy so as to give no publick offence to the French Government; for which this shall be your Order.2

Given under my Hand onboard the Portland in English harbour Antigua the 4th August 1776.

2. Ibid., Young directed Captain Eastwood to make his request for the Reprisal “with firmness, tho in such decent terms as cannot be deemed affrontive.”

CAPTAIN CHARLES DOUGLAS, R.N., TO VICE ADMIRAL RICHARD LORD HOWE

(Copy) [Isis, Quebec] August the 5th

An Account from St: Johns just received, gives me reason to believe, that the Frame which was building in the Sorel, & which I (with General Carleton's Approbation) ordered to be taken down, before I left Chambly, will be ready for Launching about the 16th and the Maria about the 30th of this Month—the Lieutenants Butler & Starke (such by my Order only) superintend their Reconstruction—Captain [Thomas] Pringle's Command, My Lord, on Lake Champlain will be very extensive, & I dare assure myself, his Execution of the important Duties thereof, will justify my having appointed him thereto; As also General Carleton having sollicited, my so doing: And I'd fain hope recommend him to such advanced Rank, as your Lordship only can bestow.

It has been represented to me, since the foregoing was written, that there is an additional Number of prisoners, (hourly expected down the river) to be sent away, I have added the John & Christopher to the three other Transports.

As many of the Transports are immediately to sail, I confine the Tartar's Cruize between Cape North & Cape Ray, until the 15th of next Month, & shall send Orders to Captn [Thomas] Mackenzie of the Lizard at St. John's, to take a State of the Fisheries for your Lordship. Tho' our preparations for Lake Champlain, will at any rate be late, seeing many things have been in a Manner to create, yet if the hourly expected Victuallers do not arrive, I most fear Delay from a want of salted Provisions for the Army, on their leaving this Country—We are able to supply all the Seamen to be employed on the Lake; either belonging to His Majesty's Ships, or others, being in number about three hundred; but out of our Stock of four Months victualling sent out under the Tartar's Convoy, and the Remains of what We brought with Us (comparatively little) We can do hardly anything at all for the Troops.

1. PRO, Admiralty 1/487. Continuation of August 4 letter.
2. Lieutenant John Starke, of the Maria, wrote, of this period:

   The Maria was the only Vessel on the establishment of the Navy ordered for this Service, the rest being Provincial Vessels—Lieut Starke had her taken to pieces, and carried over land, the distance of twelve Miles, together with her Masts, rigging, Guns, Stores &c and had her rebuilt, and again equipped for Service, in a short time. He also exerted himself with zeal, in the carrying over the other vessels and craft intended for the expedition on the Lake, and in the equipment of them. These services were beyond the usual course of his duty as an officer serving under a Commission from the Admiralty, whose authority does not extend to the Lake; but the advantage and even the necessity of His Majesty's Service required them—His indefatigable diligence and activity upon this occasion, and also his knowledge in various branches of the Mathematics, displayed in constructing Machines, and in applying the various mechanic powers, necessary for transporting the Vessels and craft from the foot of the Rapids of Chambly to St John's, have been mentioned much to his credit by the officers who were present, particularly by Sir Charles Douglas the commanding Naval Officer, who directed and superintended these operations; and for which, he had the honour to receive the thanks of Sir Guy Carleton the Commander in Chief, given out in Public Orders.

This very extraordinary and singular piece of Service, which can scarcely be paralleled in any age or country, of carrying twelve Miles over land, and dragging up the rapid and shallow stream of the River Sorell, a number of Vessels of various sizes and constructions to form a great Naval Armament, was carried into execution and completed with great exertions of ingenuity and labour, in the space of three months.

John Langdon to William Whipple

[Extract] Portsmouth 5th August 1776

My Friend - Your favo'rt of the 22d ult is now before me, in which you mention the number of Men, that are to be allowed each Ship, and that they must be shipped for One Year, or more, this is the very first of my knowing these two matters - I am very impatient to know my Department as we may Expect some prizes bro't in by the Schooners, every Day, in that Case I should not be able to Act. if there is only to be one Agent let me Know it, & also inform General Washington, that Orders may be given to those Armed Vessels employed by the Continent, to call on me for Supplies, and deliver Prizes &c. I understand that Captain Bradford the Agent for Prizes for Massachusetts has the direction of those Armed Vessels. I hope it is only meant while in that Coloney. when they are in this Colony, I hope the Agent here, will have as much Power as the Massachusetts this you'll look into, as I think there are some Schemes on foot to keep every thing in their own hands, by no means let the Agent of any Colony have it in their power to order Continental Vessels to Cruize where he pleases, and to bring the prizes into his own Colony when other Harbours are more handy, pray dont fail to see this matter done immediately that there might not be any interference of Agents it is very Odd that the President does not Signify to me my Appointment, and what I am to do, all this time I am Agent and other People doing the Business, I mean of what comes in now since my Appointment, it is not so when any one appointed for the other Colony –

You say you tho' I had ample power, to fit the Ship for Sea I tho' the [Marine] Committee meant so, but it was impossible for me to prevail on them to say so, and therefore could not Act upon Uncertainties – It is very unaccountable that Governor [Stephen] Hopkins will say the Ships at Providence are as foward as this, when he has not seen neither. I have myself seen both, and when its certain we have waited since first of June for Guns to go on withall and those at Providence not a Mast made, or Tops, and the Ships tho' Launched not more than three Quarters or two thirds done at this time now these things are fact, for which you have my word, which I hope is equal to Mr. Hopkins's, and if that will not do, can produce Thousands of Witnesses, by our not having the first Guns, and proper attention paid our Ship the Continent have lost full as much as would pay for the whole 13 Sail, however things will go on Just so, it is hard that we can’t have Orders for some of them Carbinets which were taken for our Marines they are the proper Guns, only 100 would do very well, I suppose the Ship to find all Arms of all sort . . .

Pray what Wages had the Master builders at Phila who built the Ships P Day? am glad the Officers are appointed agreeable to Memo—as some of them have been Employed on board . . .

. . . I am at a loss for words to Express my feelings on the good News from the Southward [Charleston] they behave most manfully, the Regulars poor Devils. How an Admiral or a General looks with his Breetches shot away it would been happy if they had lost what was in them. . . .

We have Just got glorious News from the Eastward, one of our Privateers has taken Six prizes West India Men, one of which is Capt Lear of this Place, who owns his Ship himself, tho’ she is made over to Lane & Co for Security against British Ships only, pray you and Brother Whipple, ask about that matter, there can be no doubt but the Ship & his Adventure is Lear’s, and never in the Hands of our Enemies, they are all Loaden with Sugar & Rum &c taken by one Privateer from Salem to the Southwd of Bermudas, and Eastward the British Ships and Cargoes will be Condemned and the Cargo of Lear but it will be hard to have him loose his Ship as he is worked hard for it and is a staunch Friend to his Country –

3. The prizes were taken by Captain Joseph White, in the Massachusetts privateer sloop Revenge. See The Freeman's Journal, August 3, 1776. Captain Lear was the father of Tobias Lear, who became Washington’s secretary after the war.

DAVID COBB to ROBERT TREAT PAINE

[Extract] Boston Augt 5th 1776

My Dear Sir I[t] wou'd give me great pleasure & satisfaction to have a line now & then from Philadelphia so that I might peep into the Secrets & Mysteries of the Grand Book of Temporal Fate; but if I do not, my Weekly Journal will go on, such as it is, 'till eternal fate, prevents it.

Monday 29th Benja Davis & others that were taken yesterday, landed at the Long Wharf from Marblehead & from thence conducted to the prison; they have a number of Women with 'em. — the Cargo of the Ship consist of £15,00 Sterling in Cash, a quantity of English Goods, 200 Tierces of Beef &c Tuesday 30th Nothing.

Wednesday 31st A Schooner was bro’t into this port today, taken by two Whalemen; she is from Jamaica to Liverpool, Nova Scotia, Laiden with Rum & Salt; she is said to be own’d by Derby of Salem & sail’d from thence above a year ago, when the Capt had orders to make her Jamaica property; since which he has been Trading from Jamaica to Nova Scotia – her Condemnation is uncertain. – the Tory Ship came from Marblehead to this port to day –

Thursday, Augst 1st A General Fast. – no particular occurrance –

Fryday 2d A Large Jamaica Ship is arriv’d at Townsend at the Eastward, sent in by one of our Privateers.

Saturday 3d The Juliana a Jamaica prize Ship, was tri’d at Salem yesterday, when the Mate claim’d 1/6 of the Ship & some of her Cargo, as being Jamaica property; the evidence was so clear, that the Jury were oblig’d to acquit the part claim’d. – it gives some uneasiness. – but I am just inform’d that the Congress have allow’d the seizure of all West India property, except Bermudas & the Bahamas, which I rejoice at –

Sunday 4th Capt [Joseph] White of Darby’s Privateer has arriv’d at Casco Bay with two very large Jamaica Ships, having taken on this Cruize no less than 4 or 5 of sd Ships – what grand fortunes will soon be amass’d.

The principal part of the Cargo’s of the Scotch vessels being sent to [New] york, and as it will be some time Ere any moneys will be Recd for any of the vessels wch are in my hands and my not being Able to git any from the late Agents, Occasions a great want of money. I flatter my self some way may be found out to Supply me, it gives me pain to be thus troublesome Sir but if the intercourse was not shut up between philada & here, I shou'd be able to get supplies the Brig Dispatch Cargo Amounts to near 10,000 Dollars, and her out fit is very Considerable, and I've paid of three portlidge Bills one of wch had run Six months, besides a great sum I've been Oblig'd to advance for the schooners which are very Expensive; I hope Mr Morris will send my dispatches forward for the Brig, as she has been Ready for the Sea five weeks, with fish a perishable, and Oil a wasting Article on board.

I cant yet Obtain any Accounts from the Late Agents But they tell me they have Ballances due to them. I shou'd feel happy to Receive my Commission, as it would give me a Sanction with the Late Agents, which at present they are unwilling to allow me, its marvelous to me that [Jonathan] Glover & Bartlet [William Bartlett] shou'd not have money's in their hands belonging to the Continent as they've had so many valuable prizes. Newport Mercury, Monday, August 5, 1776

Newport, August 5.

Last Friday se’nnight a sloop from Bermuda arrived at Nantucket, who the day before, to the southward of that island, saw 53 sail of square rigged vessels, standing to the westward; which 'tis likely, are part of the Hessian fleet.

Last Wednesday arrived at New-London, the sloop Betsey, Capt. Benjamin Bigelow, in 15 days from St. Eustatia, with a large quantity of duck, 6 tons of powder, some small arms, &c. Mr. William Turner, of this island, came passenger in the above vessel, and informs that a large number of troops have lately arrived at Martinica and 9000 at Porto-Rica.

Last Monday morning two brigs went up the east side of the island; one of which is an Antiguaman, loaded with sugar, rum and cotton, sent in by the privateer Diamond, Capt. Chase, but had been taken before by Capt Newman, of Philadelphia, and was taken again by Capt. Chase, because she had no copy of Capt. Newman’s commission on board: – The other brig is a whaleman, which is released.

let me inform you my Dear Sir that Genl Arnolds Character has been here traduced lately in the most villainous assasign like manner, and I understand the aspersions prevail with you. allow me then to obey the Dictates of justice, by asserting that I have been a spectator of His Conduct in the Hour of Danger, in the Moment of Gay Security have observed His exertions where the public Interest was concerned & have always found Him, the intrepid, generous friendly, upright Honest Man—is it for Men, who cant boast more than an easy enjoyment of the Continental Provision, to blast the Reputation of Him, who having encountered the greatest perils, surmounted extremest hardships, fought and bled in a Cause which they have only encumbered? No forbid it Honor, forbid it Justice—these are effusions of a Heart actuated by no partial Tie or prejudiced View.—

We have an Acct from Canada (which wants confirmation) that the Enemy had left St Johns with their Artillery, all to two hundred Men who remain in the Garrison, and this in consequence of the Arrival of a French Fleet—whether this is a Fact, whether it is meant only as a Decoy or whether they have drawn their Force from this, in order to penetrate the Country in a different Quarter is the Question. We understand that in attempting to bring several Vessels into the Lake from Chamblee the Carriages failed and they were destroyed—that they had continued their old mode of Tyranny in such a Degree as again to establish the Canadians Our Friends, and that the foreigners deserted in great Numbers to the back settlements or Country.

Our Navy are in great forwardness but I seriously believe we shall have no other use for them than to transport our Army into Canada.—Mount Pleasant on Mount Independence

New York, August 5, 1776.

The inclosed copy of a Letter from Col: [Benjamin] Tupper, who had the General Command of the Gallies here, will inform Congress of the Engagement between them and the Ships of War up the North river on Saturday Evening and of the Damage we sustained; what injury was done to the Ships I cannot ascertain. It is said they were hulled several times by our Shot. All accounts agree, that our Officers and Men, during the whole of the Affair, behaved with great Spirit and bravery; the damage done to the Gallies shews beyond question, that they had a warm time of it, the Ships still remain up the river and before any-thing further can be attempted against them, should it be thought advisable, the Gallies must be repaired. . . .

By a Letter from General Ward of the 29th. Ulto, he informs me, that two of our armed Vessels the day before had brought into Marblehead, a Ship bound from Halifax to Staten Island, she had in about 1509 £ Cost of British Goods, besides a good many belonging to Tories. A Halifax paper found on board her, I have inclosed, as also an Account sent me by Mr. [Ebenezer] Hazard transmitted him by some of his Friends, as given by the Tories taken in her; their Intelligence I dare say is true, respecting the arrival of part of the Hessian Troops. General Ward in his Letter mentions the day this prize was taken, Capt. [William] Burke, in another of our Armed Vessels had an engagement with a Ship and a Schooner which he thought were Transports and would have taken them, had it not been for an unlucky accident in having his Quarter Deck blown up. Two of his men were killed and several more were wounded. 2

The Hulks and three Cheveaux de frieze that have been preparing to obstruct the Channel, have got up to the place they are intended for, and will be sunk as soon as possible.

[Extract] Philadelphia August 5th 1776

Sir, Since my last, a vessel fitted out by the Secret Committee has arrived here from Marseilles in France which place she left the 8th of June. She has brought for the use of the American States 1000 good muskets, about ten tons of powder and about 40 tons of lead &c &c. – A small privateer from this City called the Congress has taken a vessel bound from the West Indies to Halifax and sent her safe into port beside a cargo of West India goods – there was found on board 1078 Joes – 672 guineas and some other gold coin. – Capt Barry in the Lexington, one of the Continental vessels has taken and sent in here a privateer of six carriage guns commanded by another of them infamous Goodrichs of Virginia. — Capt Weeks [Lambert Wickes] in the Reprisal another Continental vessel has taken and sent in a sloop bound from the West Indies to Liverpool — he has also taken a ship from Grenada to London which is not yet arrived — both loaded with West India goods

P.S. Josiah Bartlett

August 6 yesterday arrived here two prizes taken by Capt Weeks — one the ship before mentioned, having on board it is said 500 hogsheads of sugar — the other a brig bound from the West Indies to Ireland taken since the ship and sloop — the particulars of her cargo I have not heard. This is the best way of supplying ourselves with necessaries since Britain will not suffer us to procure them by trade and I expect another year we shall be well supplied this way — Yours &c

By order of the Board, Ab’rn Mason was directed to deliver to Tho’s Hazlewood as much old Sail Cloth as he may want to Cover Fire Rafts.

ROBERT SMITH TO THE PENNSYLVANIA COUNCIL OF SAFETY

Gentlemen,

I am now ready to raise a Number of frames, But the depth of water oposite to where we have framed them, is not sufficient to bear them off, we must go lower down. The water there is deeper, but we have not room enough on the Beach to raise them, I wo’d therefore propose that a Number of Labourers should be set to work at a gully that has been made in the Bank by the rains that has fallen from time to time, to enlarge this gap, that we may have room to lay the floors at a sufficient distance from the water, till we can erect the upper works in order to add weight that the tide may not Carry them off before we have finished the frame.

Mr Hicks tells me that he cannot employ the Labourers under his care at the fort, before they are discharged. Supose you should order him to set twenty-five or thirty of those People on this service, and put him in a way how they are to be vituald; there is Lodging ready near the place for 312 men, there they may sleep. I Beg, Gentlemen, that this may be attended to, otherways I shall be hindered much, and the public business will lag behind. I am, Gentlemen, [&c.]

CAPTAIN ANDREW SNAPE HAMOND, R.N., TO HANS STANLEY 1

Dear Sir,  Roebuck in Virginia 5th Augst 1776

You hear seldom from me for want of opportunitys to write to you, and because I have nothing material to acquaint you with. The history of a defensive kind of war, which has been my misfortune for some time past to have been engaged in, is painful for me to relate, and would give you no pleasure to read. In short, the support & protection that I have been under the absolute necessity of giving to Lord Dunmore & his floating Town, consisting of a Fleet of upwards of 90 Sail, destitute of allmost every material to Navigate them, as well as seamen, has given full employment for three Ships, for these three month past, to prevent them from falling into the hands of the Enemy; and had we to deal with People the least enterprizing, we should not have been able to have done it so long. However this inconvenience is now nearly at an end, as I am sending all that is able & in a condition to go to Sea to St Augustine, after having destroyd about twenty sail, and put the people that inhabited them into other Vessels. We shall then be much more at liberty to act offensively against the Enemy than we hitherto have been, which if we had a sufficient force to do might be done to great advantage, as on Account of the Navigable Rivers of this Country, there is no part of the continent where ships can assist land operations more than in this. But unfortunately my Lord Dunmores Troops have been so few in number, such a motley set, and so full of disease, that it has been totally impossible to do or attempt any thing of consequence; and our whole exploits have amounted to nothing more than burning & destroying Houses on the Banks of the Rivers, and taking the Cattle off the Farms; which decides nothing. Whenever a Thousand Men can be spared, properly equipt, for the service of this Colony, with eight or 10 sail of small Ships to act with them, they may distress the Colonys of Maryland & Virginia to the greatest degree, and employ more than ten times their numbers to watch them.

I say nothing to you about what is going on at head Quarters, as from a want of small Vessels for Packets, our communication and correspondence with each other is less frequent than you can possibly imagine. I hope that defect will be supplied us from home, as we cannot here get proper Vessels, and if we could, we should want both Guns & Men for them; and without them we shall never be able to stop the kind of Trade the Rebels mean to carry on during the Winter, which is to be done in fast sailing Pilot Boats, and carried on from the small inlets on the Coast, where our Ships will not be able to get near them; and to confess the truth, I am clearly of opinion that unless we can withhold the foreign supplys from getting into the Country, this is likely to be a very tedious war. The Troops in these two Colonys have scarcely a second shirt, and their Coats are already in Rags, so that they will certainly feel great distress next winter. They however talk largely of resources within themselves, but, upon my word, from the best authority I can get, the fact is much other ways.

I have the pleasure to tell you that since the Congress have declared themselves independant states, there is a spirit of loyalty broke out in the lower Counties of the Delaware and on the Eastern Shore of Maryland, which properly managed & cultivated may turn to a very good account. It seems they have long had divisions among them on religious accounts, and the Churchmen are clearly of opinion that it is the Presbyterians that have brought about this revolt, and aim at getting the government of America into their hands, which they (the Churchmen) are rather determined to die than submit to. These Friends are numerous, and inhabit a Country that forms a Peninsula, by the Chesapeake Bay on one side and the R. Delaware on the other, which from water to water is only about twelve miles. Whenever an Attack is made upon Philadelphia, which I hope will not long be delayed, these People declare they will assist; and want only arms & ammunition (which the other party have by degrees got from them) to do it by themselves.
In the beginning of the Year I sent to Admiral Shuldham to ask for such a force to be sent to me, that would authorize me to make an attempt to clear the passage of the Delaware and an attack upon the Town, which at that time was very defenceless. By unfortunate and unavoidable delays, it was the end of April before I received his answer. He agreed with me, he sayed, in every article of my request, but from the distress of the Army, which had obliged them to evacuate Boston, no troops could be sent to assist me, nor was there a cohorn or Howitzer in store. Upon this, I gave up all thoughts, as you may conclude, of attacking so formidable a pass; but being desirous of reconnoitring the River, and seeing a little what the thing was, to enable me the better to proceed when a force should arrive, I took the Liverpool with me and sailed up the River within a few miles of their Chevaux de frizes, as they call them, which are immense frames of thick wood, sunk with Ballast in a narrow part of the River, defended by batterys on each side, and a floating one in the middle; together with 13 Row Galleys, each carrying one Gun, from a thirty two pounder, to an eighteen pounder, and from Seventy to fifty Men.

As soon as the Enemy perceived that we had stoped; and were busily employed in filling out empty water Casks, they sent all the armd craft down to attack us, and brought with them a Vessel fitted as a fire ship for the purpose of destroying us. We met them under sail (as the Tide ran too rapid to ride with a spring upon the Cable) and lay under the disadvantage of being obliged to engage them at the distance they chose to fix on, which was scarcely within point blank shot: and being such low objects on the water, it was with some difficulty that we could strike them; so that we fired upon them near two hours before they thought proper to retire & row off.

unfortunately at this juncture the Roebuck grounded and being high-water, could not be got off 'till 4 the next morning, but as it was soft mud, the ship did not receive the least damage.

It was then so thick a fogg, that nothing could be discerned 'till about 8 o’Clock, when it clear’d up, and we perceived the Galleys at Anchor about 3 Miles above us. The wind had changed and now blew up the River, and we pursued them immediately with all our sails; and they as industriously avoided us by plying their oars & sails. This Chace lasted only about two hours, when it fell so little wind, that we were not able to stem the tide of ebb, and not having six inches water more than the Ship drew in the best of the Channel (which was not above a quarter of a Mile wide, though the River from bank to bank was about a Mile & half) I was under the necessity of Anchoring.

The Galleys rowed to a point of land on the western shore & anchored also.

When I found there was no prospect of bringing them to a close engagement, but that they meant to retire as I advanced, and not having a force sufficient with me to make an attack upon the chevaux de Frize, I found it would answer no good purpose to go further up the River, which every mile made more intricate; but it was best to try if we could draw the Galleys down to a wider part of the River, where we should be in less danger of getting aground, when we could run near them and have a better chance for destroying them. Accordingly when the ebb tide made, about 5 in the afternoon, we got under way and turned down the River with an easy sail; The Galleys with their former attendants, en-creased by several large Launches, with each a Cannon in their Bow, immediately followed us, and kept up a smart fire, but cautiously remained at their usual distance. This gave me great hopes, I should be able to draw them into a wider part of the River, but about 10 at Night they thought proper to stop near New Castle. when I found I could not get them any further I anchored also for the Night, intending to pursue them again at day light, which when I attempted to do, they run again up the River; at least those that we saw did, which was only 11 sail; the rest I conclude were disabled: but have never to this hour been able to get an exact account of what they suffered.

after waiting in their Neighbourhood three days, finding there was no prospect of getting them down, and having fully executed all I had in View in going up the River, and entirely repaired the very little damage they did us, I came down the River, and finding letters from the Admiral acquainting me that Sir Peter Parker was gone to Attack Charles Town: I immediately intended sailing to join him thinking the Roebuck could be of more use there than to remain cruising off the Delaware. However in this I was dissapointed for when I came off[£] the Capes of Virginia, I received such an Account of Lord Dunmore's situation, as obliged me to look in upon him, where[£] I found I had just arrived in Time to save him out of the hands of the Rebels.

Before this letter reaches you I conclude you will have heard of the ill success of the unfortunate expedition; on which I shall make no comments, but least you may have heard the story imperfectly send you the General's letter. These little miscarriages I trust will have a good effect in the end. Englishmen allways ralley when things are at the worst, and I have not the least doubt but our Affairs at the end of the Campaign will wear a better aspect than they do at present. One thing I must own astonishes me, which is the astonishing delay the Troops have made in getting out here. They arrive now in the very worst season. The Heat of these two months is more than an Inhabitant of the northern parts of the World can endure, and an Army acting here should go into Summer Quarters, as well as winter ones.

The letter you did me the honor to write to me in January, came to me about two months ago, and made me extremly happy; as I ever shall be to hear of your health & welfare, events that I can never be indifferent about, while I have breath to draw.

The Vessel that carry this is now getting under sail therefore am under the necessity of concluding it. Pray give my kindest love to Mr Sloane & his family Pon Brewer & all Friends.
I always am my Dr Sr with the sincerest attachment [&c.]

GOVERNOR PATRICK TONYN TO THE COMMANDING OFFICER OF THE BRITISH SHIPS IN SAVANNAH RIVER

(Copy)

Sir, An expedition against this Province being preparing, by all accounts in Carolina and Georgia, a part of the operations is to be carried on by the inland Navigation.

Cockspur situation will not prevent a communication between Savannah and South Carolina, from whence several Vessels have lately passed laden with Indigo, and have been shipped on Board a fast sailing Vessel at Savannah, which has proceeded down a Creek called the St Augustine passage. A Vessel lately which had eight thousand pounds sterling of Indigo on Board made this passage, and is gone to the foreign Islands; since the middle of June three Vessels with Rice have done the same, and are gone to a foreign Market.

This has induced me to send you the inclosed sketch, which will shew the Situation, the Rebels take the opportunity of a dark night to make the passage.–

For the enterprize intended against this Province Row Boats to carry Cannon in the Bow an eighteen pounder, four of these Boats I know are building at Beaufort, two at Savannah, and several in other parts. A privateer is fitting out at Sunbury, and other armed Vessels are equipping in the different Creeks in Georgia.–
Six Vessels are dayly expected to slip into some of the Ports on the Coast of Georgia from the Islands, they have supplies for the Rebels. Mr Thomas Young a Gentleman of large Property in Georgia, was strongly recommended to me as a loyal Subject, he obtained two or three protections from me for his Vessel to supply His Majestys Islands with Provisions, under the sanction of his recommendation, and loyalty to His Majesty. I hear since he has also procured protections from the Rebel Congress for his Vessels, and his motives are to supply the Rebels. I hope you will let this circumstance be known to all His Majestys Ships under your Command, that proper search may be made in any Vessel belonging to Mr Thomas Young that comes in their way.

The Pensacola and Jamaica Packet is arrived here, Lieut: Clark [Arthur Clarke] who commands her informs me that some Rebel Cruisers have been in the Keys to the Southward of this Province, this should be made known to any of the King’s Ships that may be passing in those parts.

If we can here be of any use to any of the Ships at Cockspur you have only to command it, I shall be happy to render you all the Service in my power.

Sir Peter Parker having added to the station at Cockspur the Active and Sphinx, I hope you will be enabled to have some Success against these frequenters of the Georgia Coast, and extend your Cruising to this Province, particularly to St Mary’s River—Wishing you all success—I am Sir [&c.]

[Endorsed] Copy—Governor Tonyn’s letter to the Commanding Officer of His Majesty’s Ships Savannah River—No 2—In Govr Tonyn’s (No 3 private) of 26 Aug—1776.

Vice Admiral Clark Gayton to Philip Stephens

Sir

Antelope Jamaica August 5th 1776

I beg leave to acquaint their Lordships that His Majestys Ship Pallas was to have Sail’d the 26th of last Month with near a hundred Sail of the Trade had not an intend’d general Insurrection of the Negroes been discovered, which oblig’d the Governor with the advice of his Council to lay a general Embargo on the Shipping, to establish Martial Law, & to request me, to keep the Ships under my Command in Port for the safety & protection of the Island which I comply’d with.

On the 3d instant he inform’d me that as the Season of the Year was so far advanc’d; it might be attend’d with great loss to the Trade detaining them any longer should a Hurricane happen; and that as the Measures which had been taken prov’d so effectual in suppressing this Rebellion (which I apprehend was to have been General throughout the Island) he had with the advice of his Council taken off the Embargo, but stil thought it necessary to continue Martial Law for some time longer, and requesting that the Atalanta & Racehorse; might not be recall'd from the North Side of the Island, where I had instantly dispatch'd them on the first account of this Rebellion and given their Commanders directions to give every Assistance in their Power to quell the same.

I have therefore order'd Captain [William] Cornwallis to Sail the 6th inst for Bluefields, to remain their Forty eight Hours to give the Trade time to compleat their Water after being detain'd so long and then to proceed with them into the English Channel agreeable to my former orders. I have order'd the Maidstone to go with him but have desir'd that as soon as ever he judges the Convoy to be in Safety to make her Signal to separate and have order'd Captain [Alan] Gardner to return with all possible dispatch & join me here as the Governor & Council have request'd me to keep the Ships in Port as much as possible for the safety and protection of the Island, as they are still apprehensive of the Negroes taking the Advantage of their absence to rise.

As the West Florida Sloop is ready to Sail, and I judge it of great consequence her getting on her Station in the Lakes of the Mississippi I have order'd Captain Cornwallis to take her under his Command as she might be of Service in going through the Gulph with the Convoy and then to make her Signal to separate to go to Pensacola, all which I hope will meet with their Lordships approbation.

I beg leave to acquaint them that His Majestys Ship Antelope arriv'd the 27th of last Month after having seen the Trade in Safety, she brought in two American Sloops; one with Rice the other with Lumber which is a great acquisition to the Island those Articles being much want'd.\(^2\)

I further beg leave to acquaint their Lordships that I have given Mr Thomas Lloyd a Commission appointing him Master & Commander of the Atalanta (in the room of Captain Underwood Deceased) and have order'd him to be Borne as a Supernumerary on board the Antelope 'til her arrival I have likewise given Mr Thomas Cadogan the Second Lieutt a Commission for First and have appoint'd Mr Chas Holmes Everitt, Second, and Mr James Cotes to be Lieutenant of the Porcupine Schooner, and Inclosed is a list of Officers Made, with the State & Condition of His Majestys Ships & Vessels under my Command for their Lordships information.

In the latter part of my Letter of the 2d July, I inform'd their Lordships of my having purchas'd a fine Brigg of near 130 Tons Burthen, & that she & the Racehorse were capable of bearing Masters & Commanders, with proper Officers & Eighty Men, submitting it to their Consideration putting them on that Establishment, which I beg leave to say I think would be great use; as the Americans have a Number of Arm'd Vessels superior to those, with their present Complements. I am, with respect Sir [kc.]

CAPTAIN WILLIAM CORNWALLIS, R. N., TO PHILIP STEPHENS

Pallas, Port Royal, Jamaica
5th August 1776.

When I was at Cape Coast I received information that there was an American Brig in the River Gabon with Arms and Ammunition on board; I fell in with Captain Warren in His Majesty's Sloop Weasel at Accra and detached him to the said River, and as I imagined a small Vessel would be necessary to examine the River, I ordered Lt Bray of his Majestys Ship under my Command on board a Prize of the Atalanta's to accompany Capt Warren. Lieut Bray has since joined the Pallas and acquainted me they had seized the Brig and carried her to Antigua. I am Sir [&c.]

WILLIAM BINGHAM TO SILAS DEANE

[Extract]

St. Pierre August 5th 1776

Sir The Committee of Secret Correspondence having honor'd me with the Appointment of their Agent in the West Indies to transact their Affairs, both in the commercial & political Line, have instructed me to inform you of it, & to cooperate with you in giving them constant Intelligence & Advice concerning every Matter that may be connected with the Interest or improved to the Advantage of the United Colonies. And as frequent opportunities present from this Place to the different Ports in France as well as America, they are very desirous that we should maintain a regular, frequent & well serv'd Correspondence, in order that both they & you may be duly & reciprocally informed of every interesting Event that may be passing on either side of the Water, for which Purpose I shall endeavor to obtain a correct & extensive Knowledge of the Affairs of my Department. I shall examine & inform myself of everything I see or hear that is relative to the Situation or Interest of America, & shall transmit you by every opportunity the Result of my Enquiries & Observations.

The Committee desire that “You will address your Current Despatches to me under Cover to the General, but when you have any particular Matters to communicate, either to Congress, themselves, or me, that you think should not be risqued thro that Channel for fear of Inspection, that you would procure a Mercht in France to put such Despatches directly for me under Cover to a Mercht in Martinico, with an express Injunction to deliver them into my own Hands. But as soon as I had made Acquaintance with an established Merchant of good Reputation in Martinico, that I had best name him to you, that you may so address your Despatches without the Intervention of a Merchant in France” You will therefore plan to direct them to Monsr P Begorrat Negotiant au St Pierre, Martinique, pour remettre a Monsr Bingham de Philadelphie....

From the Reception I have met with from the General, I have the greatest Reason to believe that France is very favorably disposed towards America. He has informed me that by a Frigate which had just arrived, he had received some Dispatches of a very important Nature from his Court. That his Orders were to favor the Americans throughout all their Ports & protect their Commerce at Sea, whenever & wherever they should find an opportunity.

The Continental Sloop of War the Reprisal of 16 Guns, & one of the Ministerial Fleet the Shark of the same Weight of Metal, but better man'd, have lately had an Engagement opposite the Port of St Pierre. I was a Spectator of the whole of it from on shore. And to the honor of America, the Reprisal damaged the Shark so much, that She was forced to sheer off in order to refit, when the Fort fired upon her & put an End to the Engagement. Never did I feel the Sensation of Joy in a more lively Degree, than upon viewing the different Treatment which the two Commanders met with from the Inhabitants of St Pierre; Capt [Lambert] Wickes was complimented & caressed beyond measure, whereas Capt [John] Chapman was under the necessity of procuring a Guard of Six Men to protect him from the Insults of the Mob . . .

Since writing the above his Excellency has done me the Favor to show me a Letter he has just received from Admiral Young sent express by the Pomona Sloop of War. He therein demands in the Name of the King his Master, that these American Pirates (as he stiles the Reprisal & her Crew,) that have taken Refuge in the Harbor of Fort Royal, may be delivered to him, in order that they may be brought to Tryal & proceeded against accordingly; & calls the Protection given them a gross Insult offered to the British Flag & with his Excellency's Acquiescence. he mentions that he shall dispatch a Ship of War immediately to London, with his Excellency's Answer, which is as spirited & animated as we could wish or the occasion require; Prudential Reasons would not admit of his saying more, but he refuses his request in a categorical decisive Stile.

2. Bingham came as a passenger in the Reprisal from Philadelphia. He must have been landed, probably at Pointe du Prêcheur, before the engagement.

Isaac Smith to John Adams

[Salem August 6th 1776]

Yours of the 17th Ulto I have recd As to the Massachusets raising more Men—would say the sea ports are draind very much by those going a privateering &c. and the late success of One belonging here (Capt White) who with Another has taken four ships &c. two are in att the Eastward. One between 4 & 500 hhd laid Barbadoes Sugars the Others from Antigua his success, now with two Other prizes sent in before, which makes every body this way going upon the business. there is now four or 5 fitting Out. One sails to day — We have had Our Coast pretty clear for sometime till lately, & A ship or two are att the Eastward, & have taken A Number of Coasters [illegible] fishermen &c Amongst which I have One, by which shall suffer £300 Ste[rg]—& last week a ship off Cape Codd took a brig with flour from Phila—We have & are still paying for a Vessell to gaurd the Eastward Coast: but has been lying in harbour the chief of his time & doing no service, (Obrion!)³

I am Ancioul[s]ly concern'd as to the event of Our Affairs att [New] York as there must happen some, grand event soon may ittt please God to disappoint Our enemies in all there scheams & bless all Undertakeings for Our defence & priveledge's—I have he[a]rd to day As though a Number of Vessells were culeed from Connecticut, which I think would be of great importance, properly managd to stop or set fire to the fleet when they may come to Attack the Town—I suppose the first division of the Hessians are Arr[ive]d before now att [New] York, after which there will be a movement—

JOURNAL OF LIEUTENANT JOHN TREVETT

[June 22 to August 6]

We carried w[ith] us one of the bills, which the Hon. President received with pleasur[e] 2 We tarried one day longer than we needed, on the account of seeing Independance declared, which was on the 4th day of July 1776. 3 The next day we set out for New York, on our way for Rhode Island When we arrived at Newport, we went immediately on board the privateer which was lying in the harbour of New Port, we brought dispatches for Capt. [Nicholas] Biddle, whom we had the pleasure of finding on board, we found they had made a short cruise since we were taken, and had captured one Jamaica Ship, but being chased hard by a British Frigate, they ran her on shore at Fisher’s Island reef, and lost the Ship, and all her sugars, but saved 100 puncheons of rum, sails & stores, which were sent to Mr. Nathaniel Shaw of New London, who was appointed Agent, and Capt. Biddle gave me my share of prize money, which I received from Mr. Shaw, so ends this Cruise.

1. Trevett’s Journal, NHS.
2. Trevett and the prize crew from the recaptured transport Oxford had arrived at Williamsburg on June 21. Trevett recorded: “I drew a bill on the Hon. John Hancock, then President for the cash we received from the State of Virginia,” ibid.
3. The Declaration of Independence was not publicly announced in Philadelphia, until July 6, 1776, when it was read by Thomas Mifflin in the square before the state house. Trevett’s departure from Philadelphia was probably on July 12, 1776, as Charles Biddle, writing to his brother Nicholas on July 11, stated: “some of your Men are here Waiting for you,” Nicholas Biddle Papers, HSP.

COLONEL THOMAS THOMAS TO GEORGE WASHINGTON ³

from the scitution of the Men of Warr and Tenders now opposite this place in Hudson’s River think it my duty as Commanding officer here to Inform your Excellency of the Advantageous scitution of the Ground here for placing some Cannon to play upon the shipping whilst Attacked by our Gallies; the Cannon may be placed upon an Eminence within near half a Mile of the shipping, and if your Excellency should think the above plan Expedient, an Engineer might be Necessary to form abreast work for three or four peices of Cannon which I beg your Excellency in that case will Order up with the Necessary Apparatus and Intrenching Tools—I Conceive shall be able to collect a sufficient Number of men with those already under my Command here to throw up abreast work in a very short time in an Evening after planned by an Engineer—should your Excellency think this Advisable it may be Necessary to Order the Commodore of the Gallies to postpone an Attack upon the shipping untill a proper breast work is thrown up, in case his Orders should oblige an Attack sooner—I dont pretend to dictate to your Excellency but only take the Liberty of stating the above for your Excellency’s Consideration with which I would wish your Excellency’s Indulgence.

Tuesday, 6th. August.

Nothing material occured this Day. In the Evening, it was intended to send up the Solebay Frigate of 28 Guns to assist the other Ships above the

Roebuck at the Capes of Virginia the 6th Augt 1776.

Sir

The Sickly and weak State of the Troops under Lord Dunmores command, as well as the bad condition of the Transports have determined His Lordship and my self to proceed with them to New York; being clearly of opinion that remaining within the Capes without power of Acting against the Rebels only tends to bring disgrace on his Majesty's Arms, and give Spirits to the enemy.

It is therefore my direction to you, that you remain with His Majesty's Ship under your command on this station, and use your utmost endeavours to prevent any of the Rebel Vessels from getting in or out of the Capes, and in every other respect to annoy the Enemy by every means in your power. I have left my Tender the Pembroke to cruise with you, but as Soon as you are joined by the Otter, or any other Ship or vessel of War, It is my desire that you dispatch her to me immediately at New York and give me an account of every thing that may happen in my Absence from Virginia which I flatter my self will not be above 14 days at farthest.

I am much concerned at the Shortness of your water, but imagine by the assistance of the Tender you will be able to get some small Supplies from Smith's Island, so as not to be obliged to go off the Station untill relieved by some other Ship. I am, Sir [&c.]

You’ll please to observe that [Stephen] Egan told me and sent me repeated word, that Wright’s Negroes and his own would join and form their Camp under the North end of Amelia, where the Schooner now lies within a quarter of a Mile of the Shore, it is but just around the point—

GOVERNOR PATRICK TONY TO CAPTAIN THOMAS BISHOP, H. M. S. Lively

Sir, I beg leave to inclose a copy of intelligence just now come It being also confirmed to yourself by Lieutenant Grant of His Majestys Schooner St John—

Considering it a fortunate circumstance that His Majesty’s Ship Lively under your Command is at this time in this Province, and being confident that His Majesty’s Service on an extensive and general view is the true object of your Conduct, I therefore hope you will not think this requisition incompatible with the orders you may be under from the Admiral—

The St. John Schooner of four Guns being the only aid in the maritime department, except an armed Vessel fitted out by Letter of Reprisal now in this harbour, and Lord William Campbell’s Schooner that arrived at the same time with the Lively—

As you are informed of the present situation of the St. John and His Majesty’s Troops in St. Mary’s River, I have directed the Sloop Captain Osborne Commander and the Schooner Lady William Captain Gickie Commander to put themselves under your Command—

With this force you will give me leave to request of you to proceed with all imaginable dispatch with His Majesty’s Ship Lively to St.
Marys River in order to support His Majesty's Schooner and Troops in those parts against all attempts made by the Georgia Rebels, and I further beg that the utmost efforts may be put in force against these invaders of this Province and His Majesty's wise Government—

I trust you will take upon you on your arrival at St. Marys or with His Majesty's forces to give such orders and Commands as you may think fit for the general benefit of this Province consistent with the circumstances of events—I have the honor to be with the greatest respect Sir [&c.]

MAJOR GENERAL HORATIO GATES'S ORDERS TO BRIGADIER GENERAL BENEDICT ARNOLD

UPON YOUR ARRIVAL AT CROWN-POINT YOU WILL PROCEED WITH THE FLEET WITH [SIC OF] THE UNITED STATES UNDER YOUR COMMAND, DOWN LAKE CHAMPLAIN TO THE NARROW PASS OF THE LAKE, MADE BY THE SPLIT ROCK; OR TO THE OTHER NARROW APPROACH, DOWN THE LAKE MADE BY ISLE-AUX-TETES, AND THE OPPOSITE SHORE. YOU WILL STATION THE FLEET IN THE BEST MANNER, TO MAINTAIN THE POSSESSION OF THOSE PASSES, ACCORDING AS YOUR JUDGMENT SHALL DETERMINE, CAUTIOUSLY AVOIDING TO PLACE THE VESSELS IN A MANNER WHICH MIGHT UNNECESSARILY EXPOSE THEM TO THE ENEMY'S HEAVY ARTILLERY, FROM THE SHORE.

YOU WILL MOST RELIGIOUSLY OBSERVE THAT IT IS MY POSITIVE ORDER, THAT YOU DO NOT COMMAND THE FLEET TO SAIL BELOW THE PASS OF THE ISLE-AUX-TETES ABOVE MENTIONED, INCESSANTLY REFLECTING, THAT THE PREVENTING THE ENEMY'S INVASION OF OUR COUNTRY, IS THE ULTIMATE END OF THE IMPORTANT COMMAND, WITH WHICH YOU ARE NOW INTRUSTED. IT IS A DEFENSIVE WAR WE ARE CARRYING ON; THEREFORE, NO WANTON RISQUE, OR UNNECESSARY DISPLAY OF THE POWER OF THE FLEET, IS AT ANY TIME, TO INFLUENCE YOUR CONDUCT. SHOULD THE ENEMY COME UP THE LAKE, AND ATTEMPT TO FORCE THEIR WAY THROUGH THE PASS YOU ARE STATIONED TO DEFEND IN THAT CASE YOU WILL ACT WITH SUCH COOL DETERMINED VALOUR, AS WILL GIVE THEM REASON TO REPENT THEIR TEMERITY. BUT if, contrary to my Hope and Expectation, their Fleet should have so encroased, as to force an entrance into the upper Part of the Lake then after you shall have discovered the Insufficiency of every Effort to retard their Progress, you will, in the best Manner you can, retire with your Squadron, to Ticonderoga. Every Vessel in the Fleet, being furnished with a Batteau, you will have it in your Power to Keep out Scout Boats at Night, and occasionally to annoy the Enemys small Craft. In the Day Time, your Boats can act, when Opportunity offers, under Cover of the Cannon of the Fleet.

As the most Honourable the Congress of the United States, rest a great Dependence on your Wise and prudent Conduct, in the Management of this Fleet, you will on no Account, detach yourself from it, upon the lesser Services, above mentioned. A resolute, but judicious Defence of the Northern Entrance into this Side of the Continent, is the momentous Part, which is committed to your Courage and Abilities. I doubt not you will secure it from further Invasion.

As I am entirely unacquainted with maritime Affairs, I shall not presume to give any Directions, respecting the Duty and Discipline of the Seamen and Marines, on board the Fleet. I have traced the great Outline of that Service, which your Country expects from the Rank and Character you have acquired.

I have, as is my Duty, fixed the Limits, beyond which you are not to go; But you must communicate that Restriction to nobody. I wish, on the Contrary, that Words, occasionally dropped from you, with that Prudence which excludes every Sort of Affectation, and which, I believe, you possess, may, together with all your Motions, induce our own People to conclude it is our real Intention to invade the enemy; which, after all, may happen. It will keep up their Spirits, without affecting your Reputation, whatever may be the Event.

It only remains for me to recommend you to the Protection of that Power upon whose Mercy we place our Hopes of reedom here, and of Happiness hereafter.

You will frequently report the State and Situation of your Fleet, and of every interesting Occurrence.

Given at Ticonderoga, this 7th Day of August 1776. – Horatio Gates

Dear General

Skensborough Augt 7th 1776

I found on my arival here last evening, the Gallies much forwarder than I expected, three will be launched in a Fortnight; if not sooner & Timber is Cutt For three or four others, the Carpenters are Very Industrious, & spirited, nothing will Retard the building but want of Plank, & Iron, I have wrote Capt. Varick to hurry on the Latter, & have ordered the Carpenters to omit building more Gondalos than those on the Stocks— as they take a large quantity of Plank, & retard the Building of the Gallies, which are of more Consequence. One Gondalo will be Launched To morrow & the eighth & last in a few days—The Seamen will be Drawfted this afternoon, & to'morrow I hope to have the pleasure seeing you at Tyonderoga. I have transmitted a Copy of a Letter from Mr. Jona. Glover, setting forth the nature and Grounds of a dispute between him and a Mr. [John] Bradford respecting their Agency. Not conceiving myself Authorized, nor having the smallest inclination to interfere in any degree in the matter; It is referred to Congress, who shall determine and give direction upon it in such manner as they will Judge best. I will only observe, that Mr. Glover was recommended to me as a proper person for an Agent when we first fitted out Armed Vessels and was accordingly appointed one, and so far as I know, discharged his Office with fidelity and Industry.

GEORGE WASHINGTON TO JOHN HANCOCK

Head Quarters, 1 OClock P. M., August 7, 1776.

Sir: Since closing the Letter which I had the honor to write you this Morning, two deserters have come in, who left the Solebay Man of War last Evening. one of them is a Native of New York. Their Account is that they were in the Engagement with Col. Moultrie at Sullivan's Island on the 9th. July [sic]; the particulars they give nearly correspond with the narrative sent by General Lee; that they left Carolina 3 Weeks ago as a Convoy to 45 transports, having on board General Clinton, Lord [Charles] Cornwallis and the whole Southern Army, consisting of about 3000 Men, all of whom were landed last week on Staten Island, in tolerable Health.

That on Sunday 13 Transports part of [Richard] Howe's fleet and having on board Hessians and Highlanders, came to Staten Island: that the remainder of the Fleet which was reported to have in the whole 12000 Men; had parted with these Troops off the Banks of Newfoundland and were expected to come in every moment; that they were getting their heavy Carriages and Cannon on board; had launched 8 Gondolas with flat Bottoms, and 2 Rafts on Stages to carry Cannon. These men understand that the attack will soon be made, if the other Troops arrive; That they give out they will lay the Jerseys waste with Fire and Sword. The computed Strength of their Army will be 30,000 Men. They further add, that when they left Carolina one Transport got on Shore, so that they were not able to give her relief, upon which she surrendered with 5 Companies of Highlanders to General Lee, who after taking every thing valuable out of her brunt her

That the Admiral turned General Clinton out of his Ship after the Engagement, with a great deal of abuse; great differences between the Principal Naval and Military Gentlemen; that the Ships left in Carolina, are now in such a Weakly distressed condition they would fall an easy Prey. I am, etc.

P.S: The Ships are changing their position, and the Men of War forming into a Line but I still think they will wait the arrival of the remaining Hessians before any general attack will be made. Monday's return will shew our strength here.

Governor Josiah Martin to Lord George Germain

On board The Sovereign Transport in the Narrows of New York Harbour

My Lord,

I have the honour to acquaint Your Lordship that I arrived on the 1st instant with General Clinton and his Division of the Army at this place, where I find all manner of preparation going forward for the great scene that is likely to be opened on this theatre; and which I most fervently hope will soon close with all honour and glory to the Vigour and spirit, and to the Wisdom and magnanimity of Britain’s Councils.

I am to pray Your Lordships pardon for the omission of some advices in my Dispatches from North Carolina which I ought to have transmitted earlier. — The first My Lord regards the institution of a Court of Vice Admiralty in Cape Fear River, which in the course of its proceedings, took cognizance of prizes, brought into the Port, by the King’s Ships of War, after the Act of Parliament prohibiting all trade with that Province, and most of the other Continental Colonies became known there; as well as of such as were brought in previously to the declaration of that law. but I am to observe to Your Lordship, that most, if not all of the condemnations which passed, were founded on breaches of former Acts of Trade. the circumstances My Lord which led me to the measure of instituting a Court of Vice Admiralty at that period, I flatter myself will justify it to Your Lordship, however it may seem, at first view, to militate against the intentions of the Act of Parliament before alluded to.

When General Clinton arrived in North Carolina in March, Provisions were extremely scarce on board The Ships there. At this time and soon afterwards, no prohibition then known, the Cruizers brought in Sundry American Vessels loaded with Rice bread and flour &c. all of which were locked up from use for want of some legal mode of proceeding against them. The Captors urged me to establish a Court of Vice Admiralty that their prizes might be brought to trial. The General saw it absolutely necessary that the Cargoes should be distributed for the immediate support of The Ship’s Crews and the few Soldiers who were there, as well as the need there would be of such supplies when the number of mouths should increase by the arrival of the expected Armament from Ireland. The prohibitory Act of Parliament arrives while these matters were agitated. — I saw My Lord that it contained no express restraint of the powers vested in me as His Majesty’s Governor of that Province to constitute a Court of Vice Admiralty, while it bore a manifest interdict to the Captors to bring their prizes into the Ports of a Colony of a description too corresponding with the then state of North Carolina. I represented this to the Captains of The King’s Ships of War, who acknowledged they were forbid by the Act to bring Prizes into such Ports: Alleging on the other hand, that if following the letter of the Act, they were obliged to send their prizes to distant Ports, where they might be tried, they should unman their Ships, and render them unfit for service; and that as they confidently relied on the expediency, and necessity of the case for their indemnification, they wished to hazard the trial of their prizes in a Court of Vice Admiralty there. After mature consideration, being clearly of the opinion that the Act of Parliament did not restrain the jurisdiction of the Vice Admiralty Court; discerning no possible ill consequence from the condemnation and sale of Prizes at that Port, and seeing that the ends and objects of the Act of Parliament of preventing succour going to the Rebels were fully answered while the purchase of prizes and their Cargoes was necessarily confined to His Majesty's Fleet and Army, I gave into the measure of erecting a Court of Vice Admiralty, and that relief was afforded by it in a formal course of proceeding, which necessity must otherwise have compelled the Commander in Chief to take by the strong hand of power.

My next omission My Lord was the neglect formally to notify to Your Lordship that with the approbation of General Clinton I hired the Ship Jenny John McNeil Master of three hundred and ten Tons burthen for the reception and accommodation of a number of His Majesty's faithfull subjects who fled to the Fleet in Cape Fear River for protection, and could not be otherwise provided for. of this circumstance My Lord I shall think it proper at the present opportunity to advise The Lords Commissioners of His Majesty's Treasury and I shall humbly hope that my conduct in both these cases will meet with Your Lordships approbation.

My best information since the unfortunate check of the Loyalists in North Carolina, (of which I had the honour to give Your Lordship the minutest detail then in my power in my Dispatch No. 1.) teaches me to think their good purpose was frustrated at last by egregious misconduct; and that they would have made their way good, even in the small force they appeared, if they had been conducted with a little more prudence; the want of which cannot be enough lamented: more especially as expense to Government, was necessarily incurred, in the course of that unlucky business.

I have now My Lord the sore mortification to find my family inaccessible at only Twenty miles distance: but I trust the time is at hand that will deliver them, and me from misery; my share of which, abstracted of the circumstances of my family's distress in a sort of Captivity, (that Your Lordship will believe have not been a little afflicting to me) I leave to Your Lordship to compute, after observing, that I have now spent nearly fourteen months on board divers ships, under every possible disadvantage, and inconvenience. I have the honor [&c.]

Jo. Martin.

Wednesday, 7th August.

A Rifleman, who got off from Long Island last night, was brought on board this Morning, and his Gun with him. It was of a handsome Construction, and entirely manufactured in America. As there are no Flints in this Country, they have smuggled them in from Holland & France.

The Orpheus & Greyhound, two Frigates sent out upon a Cruize, returned without seeing anything of the Fleet, which gives much anxiety. 2

A letter from Captain N. Biddle to the Marine Committee, was laid before Congress, and read; Whereupon,

Resolved, That the General [Washington] be directed to propose an exchange of Lieutenant [James] Josiah, by giving in exchange for him a lieutenant of the navy of Great Britain, and that the general remonstrate to Lord Howe on the cruel treatment Lieutenant Josiah has met with, of which the Congress have received undoubted information. 2

Philadelphia August 7th, 1776.

Dear Sir

The Above is a Copy of our last, which went by the Dispatch Captain [Peter] Parker. 2

The Congress have since taken into consideration the heads of a Treaty to be proposed to France, but as they are not yet concluded upon, we cannot say more of them per this conveyance.

You will see by the Newspapers which Accompany this, that the expedition against South Carolina, is foiled by the gallant resistance made there. The Enemy, much diminished by Sickness, it is thought will attempt nothing farther in those parts. The people of North Carolina, Who at first had taken up their Bridges, and broken the Roads, to prevent the Enemy's penetrating their Country; have since, being ready to receive him, repaired the Roads and Bridges, and Wish him to Attempt making use of them.

Gen: Howe is posted now on Staten Island near New York, with the Troops he Carried to Halifax when he was driven out of Boston. Lord Howe is also arrived there with some reinforcements, and more are expected, as the great push seems intended to be Made in that Province.
Gen. Washington's Army is in possession of the Town, about which Many entrenchments are thrown up, so as to give an opportunity of disputing the possession with G: Howe, if he should attempt it, and of making it cost him something: but it is not so regularly fortified as to Stand a Siege. We have also a flying Camp in the Jerseys, to harass the Enemy if he should attempt to penetrate thro' that Province to Philada.

In the different Colonies we have now near 80,000 Men in the pay of the Congress. The Declaration of Independence Meets with universal approbation, and the people everywhere seem more animated by it in defence of their Country. Most of our Frigates are Launched in the different Provinces, and are fitting for Sea with all the expedition in our power. They are fine Ships, and will be capable of good service. Our small Privateers and Continental arm'd Vessels have already had great success as the papers will shew you: and by abstaining from Trade ourselves while we distress that of our enemy's, we expect to Make their Men of war weary of their unprofitable and hopeless Cruises, and their Merchants Sick of a Contest in which so much is Risk'd and Nothing gained. The forming a Navy is a very capital object with us, And the Marine Committee is ordered to bring in a Plan for increasing it very considerably. The Armed Boats for the defence of our Rivers and Bays grow More and More in repute. They Venture to attack large Men of War, and are very troublesome to them. The papers will give you Several instances of their success.

We hope that by this time you are at Paris, and that Mr [Thomas] Morris has joined you, whom we recommend to you Warmly, and desire you May Mutually co-operate in the Public Service. With great esteem We are Dear Sir [&c.]

Since our last arrived at Egg-Harbour the brig Richmond, taken by the privateer Congress, Capt. [John] Craig, of this port; she was bound

"ANOTHER LETTER FROM PHILADELPHIA, AUGUST 7." 1

Since my last, we have arrived, a sloop from North Carolina, with naval stores, and a sloop of 8 four pounders; she belonged to the Good-rich's, of Virginia, and was commanded by one of them; was out three days from Bermuda, when he discovered and gave chace to the brig Lexington, Captain Barry, but finding his mistake, put about, too late; for in about an hour and a half, Barry ran along side, when she struck. She has eight Negroes on board; all, or most of the men, to the amount of 25, entered on board of Barry.— [William] Goodrich is a prisoner on board the brig. 2

This morning we have an express from a schooner taken by Capt.
Weekes, in the continental ship Reprisal; he was bound from St. Vincents for Liverpool, with upwards of a hundred hogsheds of rum, and is safe at Absecomb Inlet. They bring an account of his having taken a ship of four or five hundred tons burthen, from Grenada for London; she was quite full and by the captors said to be worth 35,000 l. A ship was seen last Wednesday to the southward of our Cape, by the North-Carol ina man, which we hope is the prize. 3

Capt. Fowler in a sloop belonging to your city [New York], is arrived at Egg-Harbour with 4000 l. worth of indigo, in 12 or 13 days from Charlestown; she passed the fleet in a thunder storm—

Sir, I had the honour to write you yesterday, inclosing the intelligence from Mr [John] Martin which I am sorry to Acquaint you is too true.—The Moment I received it I sent for [Stephen] Egan and desired him to take such measures as he thought best to Secure Lady Egmont's Property. As I proposed going off the Barr; At the same time sent an express to Captain Graham Unmoo'd, Weighed, and dropt down the Schooner to Amelia North End, and Anchor'd about a quarter of a Mile from the Shore—As soon as the Tide would permit I sent the Pilot and Midshipman in two Sailing boats to Assist Captain Graham—The Sloop and Pompey who got down to Egan's landing on Thursday Morning.

I wrote Captain Graham and have Sent you a Copy inclosed. On which he came on board the St John I repeated the same request and much pressed of him a reinforcement of (20 Soldiers) also pressed him to embark the Troops in the St John, Governor's Sloop and Pompey, urged in that case we could make a resistance by being united, and prevent their landing on Amelia by placing them in such a Manner to prevent them passing Amelia Point—In Answer to which Captain Graham told me, he would Consult Egan and the Wrights—And give me an Answer in the afternoon, As the Ebb was made, and the Rebels Vessels expected to make their Appearance every Minute—I sent the Pilot in the afternoon to wait on Captain Graham, who brought me back word from him, that he would write me to Morrow Forenoon, (or if convenient) come himself, I kept the Schooner in the best Place and Position for defence she would Admit of and the boats Mann'd and Armed to reconnoitre the Coast along Cumberland and Amelia Shore—at 9 (P M) my Officer called on Captain Graham, who was on board the Governor's Sloop, he told him that some of Wrights Negroes had returned from Lynch's Plantation near the No End of Cumberland Island, and said there was no Vessels to be seen in the Sound—at 4 (A M) saw a large flat resembling a Vessel cut down and made into a floating Battery, with one Mast and liberty Colours flying, full of Ports and a great Number of Men.—Hove Short, loaded the Guns with Round and grape Shot. Saw two More Vessels coming round Cumberland Point after the flat who was rowing and To[w]ed by other boats towards us—at 6 she came nigher us and fired 3 Shot which went past and near the Schooner—Weighed and fired a Shot at them.

It being quite calm got the boats ahead double Mann'd the Oars and with the utmost difficulty got her over the Barr—Saw the Rebel Schooner another Vessel and several boats go up Amelia North River—soon after saw a large Smoak and heard an Explosion supposed to be the Sloop set afire or blown up by Captain Graham, who I am positive will do everything in his power for the good of the Service and will take every Method to prevent the Troops from falling into the Hands of the Rebels—My fatigue and hurry will not permit me saying more on the Event—please to communicate my letters to Colonel [Augustine] Prevost and Captain [Thomas] Bishop I have sent them express into Nassau by Woodland the

Dear Sir, I wrote you some Weeks ago by a vessel bound to Bristol, which I hope came safe to hand as it informed you of our safe Arrival at this place and of our Detention here, for want of a proper & good opportunity, but my Mother having applied to the Governor, he intends to send us in a Vessel of his own, part of the Way, which will facilitate our journey very much; so by the Politeness of the Governor, we may be able to get away in a few Days.—Since I wrote you, I must tell you that the Fleet destind to subdue So: Carolina has been totally defeated in the following Manner—the Bristol & Experiment each of 50 Guns, the Active, Actaeon, Solebay & Sphynx each of 28 and a Bomb were orderd to attack a fort on Sullivants Island about 4 Miles from Charles Town; the first fort they had to pass—Accordingly the pilot Sampson brought them too 800 yards from the Fort; a heavy fire commenced on both sides for 9 Hours, when at length the Bristol (Sr Peter Parker's Ship) having lost two of [her] Masts, her Captn & 60 Men killed & many wounded; the Experiment lost her Captain & 40 men killed and many wounded—And many Men in the other Vessels killed & wounded, they thought proper to sheer off with the Ebb Tide in the Evening in a most shattered Condition, and had it not been for want of powder of which the Provincials had not enought at the Fort, some of them must have been sunk, but they wasted Powder for two Hours, and they ran away during that Interval.—during the Action the Actaeon Frigate ran a shore and was burnt by order of the Admiral—This Fort was commanded by Colonel [William] Moultrie (Brother to the Lieutenant Governor of this place) and defended by 200 resolute Fellows, it mounts on the Front 30 twenty four Pounders, but the British Fleet was so situated that they could work but 15 of them, but it seems they managed these so well as to rend Destruction with every Shot—Before the Action General Clinton had landed 1400 Men on the Back of the Island in order to Attack the Fort in the rear, but [illegible] they miscarried as General Lee was before hand with him and understood the Country best. The Fort lost 10 Men, and had some few Wounded.—Thus you see this great Armament fitted out by Lord Germain to subdue the Rebels in So: Carolina after being off the Town 3 Weeks was obliged to steer for Virginia in a most ignominious manner being entirely conquer[e]d by few men & a Palmetto Cabbage Stalk and land Battery—Had they gained this Battery, they had another larger & Stronger to take before they could come near the Town which is well fortified as I told you in my last—So may the Enemies of America perish—Suppose you had heard this before, but I believe in a different Manner, but I have Related the Truth and had it from people who were on Government side and present at the Action—I doubt not but it makes now much Noise with you & that some will say that the Carolinians can fight & manage a Cannon as well as Lord Cornwallis or Germain—however they may pay for it in the End. . . .

Count d'Argout to Vice Admiral James Young

Sir,

At Fort-Royal the 7 August 1776

According to the dispatch which your Excellency has just forwarded to me, the 4th of this month, I see that the account given you by Captain Chapman is not accurate.

The 27th of July last the Captain, being on land, noticed two leagues to the Windward, west of the Point, a ship which maneuvered, to come to anchor in the Roadstead of St. Pierre. He embarked forthwith, cut his cables, weighed anchor and overtook the ship toward 9 P.M. near Pointe du Prêcheur. The frigate, the Shark, fired first and after a Combat of almost 3 quarters of an hour she desisted from fighting and made for Pointe du Prêcheur, giving chase to a schooner up to the very ports of our cannon. Since it was not known that the vessel she was chasing was her dispatch boat, one of our batteries fired two rounds from the cannon, which forced her to stand out to sea again. Meanwhile the American sloop of war peaceably anchored in the roadstead at two o'clock in the morning.

These are the facts according to which you should judge if the details which were transmitted to you are indeed incomplete.

If your Excellency has made all efforts to maintain the amity and good faith which must prevail between us, I surely have not neglected my efforts to contribute to it. In this regard, I believe still that it was due to a misunderstanding that one of your frigates on the 3rd of this month fired two cannon shots into one of our Merchant ships flying its flag.

As for turning over to you the Bostonians frigate which has taken refuge under the flag of the King my Master, I would consider myself unworthy of His confidence if I acquiesced to such a request. Surely if your Excellency knew me better you would not have asked it. I will content myself with noting my surprise to you, age having taught me to speak calmly of things which I feel with passion.

Such is my resolution, which you have no doubt already anticipated. Moreover, I am going to send an account to my Master the King, sending him your request, his orders on the subject, in such case, form the basis for my conduct. I have the honor to be [&c.]

to the Massachusetts Council.

May it please your Honors—

The Committee of Correspondence, Inspection & Safety for the Town of Boston beg Leave to represent to your honourable Board that a Complaint has been made to them “that a certain Briggantine lately a Prize taken by some of the Continental Cruisers whereof one Pine ² a Person inimical to these States is now Master, is in a very secret Manner getting ready for the Sea at an obscure Part of the Harbour of Lynn Purpose as carrying off Prisoners of War & other disaffected Persons & very contiguous to the Residence of the most capital [Tory] now among us—

It is unnecessary for this Committee to suggest to your Honors the Danger to which the Departure of this Vessell might subject us—it is too striking to need any Representations—We therefore pray your as well as our own we make this Application, as to your Wisdom shall seem competent to remedy the Evil complained of—

Manuscript of a Song for the Montgomery.
Skenesborough, 8 August 1776

Capt: Varick has been very active and industrious in procuring the Articles for the Navy many are arrived at Tyonderoga, and proper Steps taken to procure the others. The Carpenters go on with great Spirit — The eight Gondalos will be compleated in a few days — One Row Galley is gone to Tyonderoga, and will soon be fitted and armed, three others will be launched in ten days or a fortnight — Four others will be set up in a few days — great part of the timber being cut — Iron, Sails, Cordage and Anchors will be wanted in a few days about two tons of the former is here, and Six Tons will be wanted to compleat the Gallies in hand — Twelve or fifteen Tons will be necessary for the Gallies to be set up It will expedite the Building if Six or eight Tons can be sent up In Spikes from five to Seven Inches long chiefly about Six Inches —

This afternoon I return to Tyonderoga, & in a few days propose to go down the Lake with the vessels compleated, about ten Sail —

1. Washington Papers, L.C.
On the Morning of the 4th Instant, I gave you a short Account of our Brush with the Phoenix and Rose Men of War, off Tarry-town, on Saturday last. Give me now leave to add thereto the following remarks:

The Force with which we were to attack these Ships being entirely inferior to theirs, our Dependence, under Providence, was to find them, or force them, into such a Situation as they could not bring their Broad-sides to bear upon our Gallies; and indeed in this Situation the Phoenix was, about twelve Hours before we got up to her, being at that Time fast aground; but before we could reach them, both Ships were entirely clear, with Springs out upon their Cables, and their Broad-sides ready to engage us. Let me observe here that this was not at any Time the Case with the Frigates that were attacked by our Gondolas at Philadelphia; which makes all odds: For had the Tide or the Channel prevented the Phoenix and the Rose bringing Springs upon their Cables and their Broad-sides to bear, our Gallies would, no doubt, have managed them in our River without much Difficulty. But our gallant Commander was determined to exchange a few Shots with them at all events. The Enterprize was worthy a People contending for their dearest Rights: For it is a Fact that the Ground-tier of even one Side of the Phoenix, was equal to all the Force of our Gallies put together. Judge then - let the World - let our Enemies judge, if the Sons of Connecticut and Rhode-Island, from which States our Gallies were almost wholly officered and manned, did not behave with a Spirit and Intrepidity becoming the Descendants of such noble Ancestors, in fighting, for two Hours, an Enemy of at least four Times their Force. - O! ye despicable ministerial Bawlers! - it could only have entered into such servilly dastard Souls as your own, to believe that the brave Americans were Cowards.

We expect e'er many days to have another strike at them upon a more advantageous Footing; when I hope to give you a more pleasing Relation. To [ha]ve six Galleys within the Distance of Grape Shot from the Broad-sides of a British Frigate and a Ship of the Line, for the Space of two Hours, and to loose but two Men, is highly deserving our Admiration and Gratitude. All our wounded Men, except one, are likely to do well. I have been to see them and find that they are taken the greatest Care of. The Commanders of the galleys are anxious to finish this Business, so as to join you at New-York before any Attack may be made there.

VICE ADMIRAL RICHARD LORD HOWE TO PHILIP STEPHENS

Number 3.

Eagle off of Staten Island

Sir,

August the 8th 1776.

By the Detention of the Sandwich Packet I am enabled to inform You of the Arrival of a great part of the dispersed Transports from the Clyde. Some of them had been separated early from the Flora in bad Weather by the Misconduct of the Masters, as Captain [John] Brisbane represents; And others, subsequent to his Arrival with them off of Boston, in the very foggy Weather he met with on his passage from thence.

The Brune separated from Commodore Hotham, and the Niger with the Light Horse from Halifax, are also arrived here.

On the 2d of this Month the Solebay, Thunder Bomb and Saint Lawrence Schooner, with the Transports carrying the 15th, 28th, 33d, 37th, 46th, 54th, and part of the 4th and 44th Regiments; The Ordnance and Victualling Transports from South Carolina; And the Boreas with the 50th Regiment in three Transports from Jamaica; joined the Fleet.

The Renown with the Transports part of the Flora’s Convoy which had put into Halifax; the Malaga mentioned in my first Letter, and another of the Transports belonging to the Hessian Embarkation, which had also proceeded for that Rendezvous after their Separation from Commodore Hotham, arrived here the fifth Instant. The Dispatch Schooner, which came from Halifax with this Convoy and separated from it the 13th past, is still missing. They sailed from Halifax the 3d of last Month.

Commissioner Arbuthnot acquaints me by that Opportunity, that the Jersey Hospital Ship put into Halifax the 8th past: The Commander having been obliged by the Weakness of the Ship, to order her Anchors to be cut from her Bows in the bad Weather he met with on his passage out, and to throw over board the Flat Boat he was charged with.

The enclosed Copy of Commodore Hotham’s Letter to Vice Admiral Shuldham of the 24th of June will inform their Lordships of the Commodore’s proceedings and Intentions at that Period. The Brune sent with his Letters to Halifax, joined him again a few Days after, and proceeded with him on his Way to this Port, until the 19th of last Month: But then separated from him in Chase. Since that time, when he was supposed to be about eighty Leagues to the Eastward, I have not had the Satisfaction to receive any further Intelligence from him.

Captain [Charles] Thompson sailed three Days since for Jamaica, with no other Restraint upon his immediate Return to that Island, except the Charge of two Transports, which he was to see one hundred and fifty Leagues to the Eastward of this port on their Voyage to Cork to bring Provisions for the Army.

Their Lordships will see in the Dispatches from Sir Peter Parker, (of which I have added a Copy from that sent for my Information by the Solebay) the State of the Ships that have been employed on the Expedition under his Command: and also the Disposition he has made of the Ships left to the Southward.

I shall wait 'till I have seen the Commodore, before I trouble their Lordships with any Propositions respecting the purpose for which those Ships have been so appointed: The Condition of the Sloops particularly, seeming such as will disqualify them for any essential Service.

The Army continuing in the same Situation as mentioned in my last, leaves me no Room to make any Addition to this Letter concerning the particular Services that may be required of the Naval Force assembled at this Port. I am Sir [&c.]

[On board H.M.S. Eagle off Staten Island]

8th [August].— Saw a canoe coming from the shore. Sent and brought her on board with four riflemen that had left the rebels. During the time we have been here, we have observed the rebels very busy in erecting batteries, fitting out row galleys, and making large and high building of wood to sink in the river to destroy the navigation above the town: the row galley and floating batteries have been sent several times against the Phoenix and Rose, but we hear they have always been beat off with loss.

MAJOR FRANCIS HUTCHESON TO MAJOR GENERAL FREDERICK HALDIMAND ²

[Extract] Camp at the Watering Place on Staten Island August 8th 1776

Dear Sir

I wrote to you the 28th of last Month by a Ship to Ireland and now take the opportunity of the Packet to acquaint you of the arrival of General Clinton from South Carrolina with Seven Regiments Vizt 15th, 28th, 33d, 37th, 46th, 54th, 57th they got into sandy Hook the first Instt with two Ships of the Guards, and three of the Hessians that parted Company from Commodore Hothams fleet, some time ago, and put into Halifax; a Colonel Bluck Commands the Hessians, he speaks some English, & seems to wish to speak it better, one of the Ships that has their Rifle Men on board, fell in with & took a large Sloop bound from Philadelphia to France, loaded with Flour, they brought her to Halifax, where she is Condemned, and will be sold for their Account: the Rebells have several privateers at Sea, that have taken some West India Men home-ward bound that are great prizes for them . . .

Our Army are in great Health & Spirits, and I beleive we wait only being Joined by the Hessians, to do something of Consiquence, as soon as they arrive & are Brigaded, I will send you the line of Battle—The Phenix & Rose men of War are still about 40 Mile up the North River, but We have no Cummunication with them as yet, & have no doubt but Numbers of the Country People have got on board of them for Refuge who are friends to Government. We have Just now heard, that they Attacked the Ships last Saterday, with five floating Batterys, which were drove back with great loss. . . [Charles] Lee is on his March back from South Carrolina and will incurrage them in every Villany when he arrives—Sir Peter Parker is not as yet got in his Ship the Bristol is under Jury Masts—General Clinton with the transports parted from him, soon after the[y] Sailed from Charlestown—We in the Qr Master General Department are hard at Work. We have built ten large Battoes that will carry each (with Ease) 100 Men Armed & Accoutered, and are still going on; as they are flat bottomed, like those we had on the Lakes last War, I think they will answer better than those sent from England. We have already Coa[torn] sufficient to make a first landing of Six thousand Men, with fifty ps of Ordnance ready Mounted, which will go on shore on plats-forms laid on three Cannoes,—Each with a frunt to let down like the Scows, on which the Guns will be run off on the shore—It is most amazing what can keep 'Commodore Hothams fleet, we have had these ten days past the finest Winds that can blow for them. The Packet is in orders to sail tomorrow Morning, but I beleive she will be kept ready to push off the Moment that fleet appears. I will keep this Letter open to the last Moment in hopes to acquaint you of it

Governor Tryon is very well he is on board his Ship Dutches of Gordon, he desired me to present his Compliments to you when I wrote, he seems very grave and I fear is not well pleased, his Consiquence is rather Eclipsed by the Number of great folks we have now among us . . .

Lord [Charles] Cornwallis, General [John] Vaughan and Governor Martin came with the fleet from the Southward. We have too many great Men togather, to agree well long: there must be seperate Commands made for them, none think themselves unequal to the task. by the orders of Yesterday Genl Clinton is to Command the first line & Lord [Hugh] Percy the Second line of the Army, but the Barron De He[i]ster when he comes, will be Second in Command to General Howe. . . .

1. Haldimand Papers, BM.
2. Ibid., Hutcheson wrote another letter to Haldimand on August 12: "I have now the pleasure to acquaint you of the long wished for arrival of Commodore Hotham with the fleet from England . . . Before the arrival of the foraign troops or the Guards, We had 12361 Rank & file fit for Duty."

JOHN HANCOCK TO GEORGE WASHINGTON

[Extract] Philadelphia, August 8th 1776
Sir Your letters of the 7 with the papers enclosed are received and now under consideration of Congress.

Enclosed I send you a resolution passed respecting lieutenant [James] Josiah. He was first lieutenant of captain Nicholas Biddle & was taken in a ship capt Biddle had made prize of, by the Cerberus Frigate

By a letter which he found means to convey, he informs that “he is used worse than he ever thought one englishman could use another—that he was sent before the mast with the rest, but upon refusing to do duty was given under the charge of three boatswain’s mates, & expects the gangway soon, as he is daily threatened.”

You will please to mention the matter of Lieut Josiah as real information, but not discover that it was by Letter, as it may prove injurious, in case he is not Exchang’d.

Essex Journal and New Hampshire Packet, Friday, August 9, 1776

Newbury Port, August 9.

On Wednesday last was carried into Portsmouth, by the Hancock Privateer, who sailed from Philadelphia, a large three deck'd ship named the Reward, of between 5 and 600 tons burthen, she was a 20 gun ship last war, in the service of the British King, she was from Tortola, bound to London, and had on board between 10 and 11 hundred hogsheads of Sugar, 86 hogsheads of Rum, 12 Bales of Cotton, 9 Cannon, and some Brass ditto—There were on board said ship, a number of Turtle directed to Lord North, with his name cut in the shell, the best of which, Capt. Wingate Newman, Master of the Privateer, is determined to send to the Hon. John Hancock.

The Public having been only transiently informed of the capture of the Privateer Brig Yankee-Hero, of this Port, of which James Tracy was late commander; as her engagement with the Milford Frigate was a bold action and well conducted; considering her unavoidable situation, you may if you please Mr. Printer give the following narrative of it, chiefly collected from those who were in the engagement.

Captain James Tracy sailed from Newbury Port the 7th of June in the Yankee-Hero for Boston, with 26 men only, including officers; this number was not a quarter of his complement; he was provisioned for a six months cruise, and was to take in the remainder of his men at Boston; the afternoon he went out, going round Cape Ann he observed a sail in the Offing, but in his situation did not think of looking after her: Two boats full manned with their musquets, who had put out after the sail came on board, and informed him a number of transports had been close in with the Cape that day – 14 men from the two boats joined him, and sent their boats on shore; he had now 40 hands in the whole (only a third his complement) with these he put away for the sail which bore E.S.E. about 5 leagues distance, the wind being then Westerly; at 6 miles distance they perceived her to be a ship, and soon from her management to be a ship of war. As a contest with her must have been very unequal, Capt. Tracy who intended to make a harbor that night, ordered the brig to be put about for the shore not then suspecting the ship could come up with him; but he had not tacked 10 minutes before the Westerly wind died away, and the ship taking a fresh southerly breeze came fast in, endeavouring to cut the brig off from the shore: After some time the ship thus getting in the wake of the brig, the wind again came fresh to the westward upon which the brig hauled to the wind in the best angle for the shore; the ship gave chase, and in an hour came up within half a mile and began to fire her bow chasers which the brig only answered with a swivel, Capt. Tracy reserving his whole fire, until the ship, keeping a constant fire, came up within pistol shot upon his lee quarter, when the brig gave her the best return they could make from their main and quarter deck guns, swivels, and small arms, and after then, kept up a constant fire: The ship was soon up along side, and with 12 nine pounders of a side, upon one deck, besides forecastle and quarter deck guns, and with her marines, overlooking the brig as high as her leading blocks, kept a continual fire, after some time the ship hauled her wind so close, (which obliged the brig to do the same) that Capt Tracy was unable to fight his lee guns, upon this he backed under her stern, but the ship which sailed much faster, and worked as quick, had the advantage and brought her broadside again upon him, which he could not evade; and in this manner they lay not a hundred feet from each other, yawing to and fro, for an hour and twenty minutes, the privateers men valiantly maintaining their quarters against such a superior force. About this time the ships foremost guns beginning to slack fire; Capt. Tracy tacked under her stern, and when clear of the smoak and fire, perceived his rigging to be most shockingly cut, yards flying about without braces, some of his principal sails shot to rags and half his men to appearance dying, and wounded –
Mr. Main, his first lieut. was among the first wounded, and Mr. Davis one of the Prize Masters, fell in the last attack. In this situation they went to work to refit the rigging and to carry the wounded below, the ship having then taken a broad sheer some way off, and none of her guns bearing; but before they could get their yards to rights, which they zealously tried for in hopes still to get clear of the ship, as they were now nearer in shore, or to part from her under the night she again came up and renewed the attack, which obliged Capt. Tracy to have recourse to his guns again, though he still kept some hands aloft to his rigging, but before the brig had again fired two broadsides, Capt. Tracy received a wound in his right thigh and in a few minutes he could not stand; he laid himself over the arm chest and barricade, determined to keep up the fire, but in a short time from pain and loss of blood, he was unable to command, growing faint, and they helped him below; as soon as he came too, he found his firing had ceased, and his people round him wounded, and having not a Surgeon with them, in a most distressed situation, most of them groaning, some expiring— Struck severely with such a spectacle, Capt. Tracy ordered his people to take him up in a chair upon the quarter deck, and resolved again to attack the ship, which was all this time keeping up her fire; but after getting into the air, he was again so faint, that he was for some time unable to speak, and finding no alternative, but they must be taken or sunk, for the sake of the brave men that remained, he ordered them to strike to the ship. Thus was this action maintained upwards of two hours in a low single deck'd vessel, with not half the metal the ship had, against an English Frigate, whose navy had been the dread of nations, and by a quarter the number of people in the one as the other, yet the victors exulted as though they had overcome a force as much superior as this was inferior to them. The brig had four men killed and thirteen wounded including officers, the number in the Milford wounded, is not known, though there were some. The deprivation of these brave officers and men is to be regretted by all friends to this country—With justice to Capt. [John] Burr of the Milford, it must be acknowledged, he treated them with humanity and politeness the officers and men that were wounded; but to the eternal disgrace of Britain, and the present king and parliament, let it be recorded, that in this very action above related, upwards of thirty Americans (prisoners in Milford) were forced at the forfeit of their lives to fight against their countrymen, and the officers and men of the Yankee Hero, that were not wounded, are now detained in several of their ships, and may meet with the same cruel fate—an exaction, that even Savages have not been known to require. It is to the credit of the Hero's men, that not one would enter upon the ship's books, though not only urged by every persuasion, but by threats.

Capt. James Tracy, and Mr. Main his first lieutenant, we hear, are likely to do well of their wounds, though they mend but slowly; they and the other wounded men are at Halifax; twelve of the Hero's men were kept on board the Milford—Mr. Robert Tracy his second lieutenant, and the rest of the brig's company, are on board the Renown Commodore [Francis] Banks.

Gentn We have the pleasure to inform you that the enemy's fleet left Potowmack River on Friday last, and is gone off down the Bay; they had collected a number of small vessels, which they had dismayed, and left on the point of St George's Island, with intention to set fire to them, but a high Tide floated them off, and they were driven on Shore near our Guard, who have taken possession of them, and have found sundry goods and other effects on board to the value of three or four hundred Pounds currency; some of the Hulks may be repaired, and made fit for service. – they burnt some other small vessels, and from appearance expect they are gone down to the Cape – our Pilot Boat is just returned yesterday evening and says he heard at Pyanketank, that the men of war had Stopt in Hampton Road, and were making demands of fresh provisions and water, and promised, on being supplied, to leave the Bay – The Deserters, of whom many have come over to us, inform that the Tory families are going, some to the West Indies – others to Halifax, and the Roebuck to New-York.

Williamsburg, August 9.

By advices from Hampton, we learn that last Wednesday morning the Right Hon. the Earl of Dunmore, Viscount Fincastle, and Baron Murray of Blair, Mouilli, and Tillimet, after dividing his fleet, and burning ten or a dozen vessels, took leave of the capes of Virginia, where he has, for more than a twelvemonth past, perpetrated crimes that would even have disgraced the noted pirate BLACK BEARD. One part of the fleet was seen to stand to the southward, it is imagined for South Carolina, the other to the northward, supposed for New York. Their strength, from the information of two negro deserters, who came up to Hampton in the evening, amounts to near 400, regulars, negroes, and Tories; that they were now tolerably healthy, and had lately got a supply of provisions, which they took from a Rhode Island vessel. — So respectable a band will, no doubt, be a most valuable acquisition to the generals Howe and Clinton!

We have just got a supply of 290 half barrels of gunpowder, and 90 stand of arms; and 436 barrels, with 18 chests of arms, arrived safe some little time ago.

[Williamsburg] Friday, August 9th 1776.

The Board having received information of the arrival of Captain [John] Pasture, at Hampton, with 7500 lbs of Gun powder, consigned to this board by Messrs Vanbiber and Harrison of Saint Eustatia, Resolved that Captain Pasture be instructed to leave one thousand weight of the said Powder at Hampton, for the use of the Troops on that Station, And that Captain James Barron carry one thousand weight to Portsmouth of such as he may judge proper for Cannon for the use of the Garrison there, Also that the residue of the said Powder be brought to Jamestown by Capt Pasture.

Information was made to the Board by Captain Barron that the Commissioners of the Navy having appointed a person to victual the Fleet the Commissary of Provisions had refused to supply them any longer and that the Agent Victualler is not yet ready to enter upon the duties of his Office, Ordered therefore that the said Commissary continue to supply the Fleet as usual, till that can be done by the Officer appointed by the Navy Board.

A Letter, was written to Brigadier General [Andrew] Lewis, desiring him to send orders by Express to disband the Minute Men and Militia, lately drawn into Service in the Northern parts of this Country, as the Departure of the British Fleet renders it unnecessary to keep them longer in Service.

At a meeting of the Council,

Capt: [Daniel] Roberts, Messrs. [John] Girardeau and [Samuel] Saltus being appointed a Committee to agree with some gentlemen about loading, etc.; some vessels for the service of the public, reported that they had, agreeable to orders, met at Mr. Lavien's; that they had agreed with Mr. Philip Moore on the following terms, viz.: That he should have one-half penny per pound freight on Indigo and ten pounds per cent commissions for buying and selling. That the public should guarantee the vessel against the weather, in proportion to what they ventured in her, and as Mr. Moore's vessel runs no risque, the Committee recommended that two thousand pounds be ventured in her, which was agreed to. They also report that Mr. Ratoone offers his vessel to the public; that she is upwards of seventy ton burden, well built, rigged and fit for sea; and that he asks for her no more than two hundred and sixty five pounds.

They also recommended that this vessel be purchased and that Commissioners be appointed to procure a load of rice for her, and send her off—and that Messrs. Thomas Maxwell, Senr., John Winn, Senr., and John Kell be Commissioners for that purpose—which being considered, it met with the approbation of the Board.

Orders were issued that Mr. Edward Telfair have permission and authority to take any quantity of pitch pine plank, that may be upon Mr.
Rae's wharf, or elsewhere in and about Savannah, for the purpose of building a galley, and that he be obliged to take a sworn measurer to take an account of it previous to a removal, and pay the proprietors, at the rates and prices of such plant, heretofore used for the public service.

Isis, Quebec, August 10th 1776

My Lord, The Prisoners lately taken at Lake Champlain, the Pearl waited for, being just come down; She sails tomorrow – By Accounts received from Chambly they go on as briskly as can be expected at St Johns, in putting up the several Frames of Gun-boats, and the two Schooners Maria & Carleton; the latter will be first ready, but I find not so soon as I had reason to believe, by eight or ten days, some of the Artificers being ill of Fluxes – another armed Brig sent out to General Carleton, by the Treasury Department, is just arrived, her ten six pounders and twenty five Men, will be of Use on the Lake – Westerly Winds & Calms much prevailing, the long-boats of most of the Transports, have for some days, been employed in staging up Provisions, from one Ship to another, relays of which are placed for that Purpose, all the Way from this to the Mouth of the Sorel: when this Business is compleated, they are to depart for England, some very few excepted – those below the Rapids of Richlieu first, & that very shortly.

The Apparatus for Lake Champlain, being of very considerable Magnitude, & the Service of very great Importance, General Carleton as I am, is very sollicitous to have the Armament particularly well Officer'd – I have therefore added Mr Willm Burchell Master's Mate of the Blonde, who is very deserving, & above eleven Years since passed his Examination, to the Number of Officers appointed to serve as Lieutenants, on the approaching Expedition – I beg Leave most humbly & earnestly to recommend him to your Lordship, for establishing Rank accordingly: at present he acts as Lieutenant of the Blonde, in the room of Mr James Dacres who has assisted the Quarter Master General ever since the Army entered St. Peter's Lake, in which Situation a Sea Officer has been absolutely necessary in this terraqueous Expedition; Mr Dacres is to have a Command of Consequence on Lake Champlain, upon which he will be second Sea Officer in point of Seniority, with the Pay of a Master & Commander annexed by the General My Lord, I have the Honor most respectfully to remain [&c.]

Ch'a Douglas

P.S. The Ship taken down here, And to be re-constructed at St: Johns, is to be called the Inflexible – The Wind is now Easterly, & We look with Impatience for the expected Victuallers from Ireland; To guard against a Change, or Calms, The Boats are kept in readiness, as alluded to in the foregoing, to convey their Contents upwards, but as yet We have heard nothing of any such Victuallers, being entered the River.

As it is more than probable, that Lieut [John] Schank, with the Ship's Company of the Canceaux, will because of the Lake Service, be detained here very late; I presume your Lordship, will have no Objection to her wintering here, if it should be found necessary, more especially as Mr Schank's Service, may also be very useful next Year upon the said Lake.

Apprehensive that the Enemy, If they go up the North River, may attempt to go down the Creek in their Boats and destroy Kings bridge, His Excellency judges it Necessary, that you should direct Colonel [Rufus] Putnam & Monsr [Antoine Felix] Wiebert to mark out some Convenient spot where a small work proper for its defence and security must be thrown up, as speedily as may be.

His Excellency wishes you to sink as soon as possible the Vessels &c. for Obstructing the Channel, and should you want more, that you will certify Genl Putnam of the same.²

JOURNAL OF THE CONTINENTAL CONGRESS

[Philadelphia] Saturday, August 10, 1776

Resolved, That the said [Secret] committee be directed to deliver to the order of the Marine Committee, such quantity of arms and ammunition, as may be necessary for the use of the continental frigates.

JOURNAL OF THE PENNSYLVANIA COUNCIL OF SAFETY

In Council of Safety,

Resolved, That it is the opinion of this Board, that the present dissatisfaction which prevails in the Naval Department of this State, arising from a disputed Command, will greatly weaken the defence provided for the River Delaware, and that a hearing of the Officers before Convention, and a speedy determination of that matter, would be Conducive to the security of this State.

"EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM PHILADELPHIA, AUGUST 10."

We have this day an account of a Jamaica Guinea ship, with 7 hogsheads of sugar, 8 or 9 of rum, and 7,000 dollars, being taken by a privateer from Maryland, and is safe arrived in port, also a New England brig from Martinico. The Antigua brig I mentioned in my last, fell in with the Boreas man of war, when the prize master passed for the real Captain, went on board, and shewed his papers, and was politely treated; (the Boreas was from the West-Indies and Carolina:) The Captain desired him to keep well to the eastward, but the prize master said he was not afraid of the Americans, as they were a pack of cowards; to which the Captain replied, he was mistaken, for at Carolina they fought more like devils than men, much more than cowards.

[Williamsburg] Saturday, August 10th 1776.

It being represented to this Board, that the publick landing at Quarles's Warehouse is a proper place for building Vessells for the public service, and that the Warehouses there (at present useless) are very proper for reception of the Workmen as well as the materials for carrying on the Work, and necessaries for subsisting the men, This Board think proper to recommend to the Court of the said County of King William to permit Mr Caleb Herbert and his Workmen to occupy so many of the said Houses as he shall find necessary as long as he shall be engaged in building for the Country, and to allow him at the expense of the public, to make such necessary additions to the said houses as he may be directed to do by the Commissions of the Navy.

Ordered, that Colonel George Weedon of the 3d Battalion be permitted to apply to the Commissioners of the Gun manufactory at Fredericksburg or to Mr James Hunter for such Arms as they may have already finished for the publick, upon his delivering as many other Guns which are now in the possession of his Battalion in their room, which Guns are desired to be forwarded to this place without delay for the use of the marine Companies in York and James river.

Williamsburg, August 10.

A Captain of a vessel, who is just arrived with powder and arms, informs, that he met with Lord Dunmore’s fleet off the Capes, standing out to sea, in two divisions, one to the southward, and the other to the northward. They have been several days lying in Lynhaven Bay, and have burnt some small vessels which probably they had not men to manage, or were unfit for a voyage. – May they never return.

Sir, English Harbour Antigua 10th August 1776

By the Argo I acquainted their Lordships that the Shark Sloop had engaged an American Privateer off St Pierres Bay, Martinico; and transmitted for their further information copies of Captain [John] Chapman’s Letter to the Governor of Martinico, and his Answer thereto, likewise Captain Chapman’s Letter to me on the occasion. Since then, I sent Captain [Thomas] Eastwood in the Pomona Sloop, with a Letter to the Compte D’argout (Governor of Martinico.) Copy of which Letter, and of Captain Eastwood’s Orders, and Instructions thereon are inclosed, and Marked No 1, & 2; and the Paper marked No 3 is the Compte D’argout’s answer to my Letter; by which their Lordships will perceive that all kind of Protection, and Countenance, is given to the American Rebels; at the French Islands, and I can likewise assure them of the same being done at the Dutch and Danish Islands: So that I apprehend We shall now be very much pestered with these kind of Armed Vessels, and that they will make no manner of Scruple to Arm and fit them, for Sea, at all the Islands in these Seas, not belonging to Great Britain; as they certainly can more readily procure Ammunition and Naval Stores for them at said Islands, then in America. – The Vessel I wrote about is now heaving down and Refitting at Port Royal, Martinico; it is said She sails very well, and had taken before her arrival there Three Prizes, Vizt a Ship from Grenada, a Brig from this Island (bound to Ireland, with Rum) and another to Glasgow, all which She sent to America.
Their Lordships I presume will perceive by the Governor of Martinique's Answer to my Letter that any further Correspondence with him (or indeed with any of the Governors at the other Islands) will be useless. I therefore hope they will be pleased to give me such farther Instructions as may be thought proper, and necessary on the present occasion, as by the Kings late Instructions We are so very strictly enjoyned to Observe the exactest Neutrality towards the Foreign Ports. – I likewise wish to receive their Lordships farther directions about that part of the Kings Instructions relating to the keeping the American Prisoners, as they will soon increase here to a considerable Number; and there is no place of Security provided to keep them on shore, neither can it be proper in this Climate to Croud the Ships with them, as that would undoubtedly cause great Sickness to happen onboard, and thereby very much distress the Service. – I have just now received a Letter from Governor [Valentine] Morris of St Vincent, Copy of which, marked No 4 is inclosed; by it their Lordships may perceive I have not been mistaken in the Surmise I mentioned in the beginning of this Letter. I shall send the Pomona to Sea to morrow, with directions to Cruize between Port Royal Harbour and the Island of St. Lucia, to endeavour to intercept said Vessels, and will write at the same time to Captain Chapman (who was directed by my Orders of the 16th July last to Cruize about those Islands) to assist in the like Service, and I flatter myself they may by keeping a good look out, be enabled to intercept and take the aforesaid Armed Vessels. I am Sir [&c.]

Jams Young.

JAMES WARREN TO JOHN ADAMS 1

[Extract]

Boston, August 11, 1776

... I wish I could entertain you with any important intelligence. We have nothing going forward here but fixing out privateers, and condemnation and sale of prizes sent in by them, so many that I am quite lost in my estimate of them, and West India Goods are falling at a great rate. Yesterday arrived a prize taken by a [New] York Privateer with several hundred bags of cotton (a capital article), etc., etc. 2 While all this is going forward, and whole fleets have been here, and might have been taken by your ships if at sea, I can't sufficiently lament the languor, and seeming inattention to so important a matter. A very fine ship lies at Portsmouth waiting only for guns, 3 and I am told there are not yet orders issued for manning those at Newbury Port. 4 This delay disgusts the officers, and occasions them to repent entering the service. ...

VICE ADMIRAL RICHARD LORD HOWE to LORD GEORGE GERMAIN 1

Eagle, off Staten Island.
11th August 1776

My Lord,

Conceiving it of the utmost Importance, in pursuit of the Objects of the special Commission with which I had the honor to be charged by His Majes-try, that the Colonies in Rebellion should have the earliest Information of His Majesty's most gracious Intentions, with respect to the Restoration of Peace, and the granting of Pardons to such of His Majesty's Subjects as, by a speedy Return to their Allegiance, might deserve the Royal Mercy; I thought proper, in the course of my Voyage, to prepare a Declaration to that Effect, together with a circular Letter address'd to the Governors, or, in their Absence, the Lieutenant Governors or chief Magistrates, of the respective Colonies; Copies of which I have the honor to inclose to your Lordship, Ns 1 & 2. –

I had little expectation that these Letters and Declaration would reach the Hands of His Majesty's Governors. – My Object was, that they should be circulated as much as possible throughout the Provinces; and I hoped to have found an opportunity of landing them soon after the time of their Date, by means of some Vessel I might meet with upon the Coasts; But no opportunity offered 'till I arrived off the Harbor of New York, on the 12th of last Month, when I dispatched the first Lieut of the Eagle, to Amboy, with those intended for the Colonies to the Southward of New York, directing him to deliver them to any Person who might appear in Authority, and to desire they might be forwarded by the Post. –

The inclosed printed Paper No 3, which came accidentally to my Hands, will inform your Lordship of the Resolution of the General Congress, upon their Receipt of the above mentioned Packets, which it seemed were transmitted by Mr (called General) Mercier [Hugh Mercer], the Commanding Officer at Amboy, to Mr Washington at New York, and by him to the Congress. –

Captain [William C.] Burnaby in the Merlin Sloop was charged with the Packets for the Colonies of Massachusetts Bay, Rhode Island, Connecticut, and New Hampshire, and directed to land them at Rhode Island – On the 28th of last Month he returned, with a letter to me from Mr [Nicholas] Cooke, acknowledging the receipt of my letter & Declaration, and acquainting me that he had communicated them to "the General Assembly of that State" then sitting at Newport, who would transmit Copies of them to "the most Honorable the General Congress of the united States of America, to whom every application ought to be Addressed, and must be referred." A Copy of Mr Cooke's letter to me is enclosed No 4 –

As the issuing of the above mentioned Letters and Declaration, is the only Measure I judged necessary to take before I could have a Conference with General [William] Howe, I have nothing further to add in this separate Dispatch but my hopes of being informed by your Lordship, that my Conduct is honored with His Majesty's Approbation. – I am &c.

JOHNSON BARTELL TO JOHN LANGDON

Dear Sir. Yours of the 29th ulto is come to hand and I congratulate you on your late appointment. Col Whipple sets off to morrow morning for Portsmouth and takes with him your commission as Continental Agent and will be able to inform you of every thing relative to it. He will be likely to make a little stop at New York and will go by the way of Providence and if possible procure the guns for your ship &c which stops may prevent his being with you as soon as this may reach you, but will no doubt in a few days after. He takes with him sixty thousand dollars for the account of New Hampshire . . .

You have no doubt heard that Clinton and Cornwallis since their defeat at South Carolina have joined General Howe – Governor Dunmore and his ragamuffins it is said have left Virginia and are supposed to be going to join General Howe. I think we may expect that some important event will soon take place at or near New York – God grant it may be favorable to the United American States

August 13th. Col Whipple left us for New Hampshire yesterday 2 o’Clock. I am [&c.]

ROBERT MORRIS TO SILAS DEANE

Dear Sir. I have been so exceedingly harrassed with Public business of various kinds that it has not been in my power to be so good a Correspondent to you as I always intended, but as you know my situation you’ll make allowances & excuse it. I am much Concerned that we have been so unfortunate in our Remittances to you. One ship whose Cargo Cost £6000 Curry and upwards has been taken sometime since this Cargo was intended for Cadiz to address of Messrs Duff & Welsh with orders to hold the Nt.pceeds at your disposal but as they will never receive it you need not write to them on the Subject. Since that a Brigt Charming Polly (first Capt McFaden [William McFadden]) Capt [Philip] Lacey has been taken on this Coast with a Cargo of near £3000 Curry that was bound for Bourdeaux Consd to Messrs Delap with orders to Account with you for the Ntpceeds besides these Genl Washington has unloaded either two or three Vessells that were loaded on purpose to make Remittances to you and their Voyages by this means are broke up. other Cargoes are & have been necessarily detained by the Men of War on our Coasts and in our Bays &c, hitherto you will think your self unlucky in these untoward Circumstances and you have really been so, but this must not dispirit us for you may depend on it, I will persevere in making you the necessary Remittances with all possible Expedition, and you will in the end be fully Convinced of my attention to you.

By this Conveyance I remit sundry bills to Messrs Saml & J. H. Delap Amounting to £2000.0.9 Sterlg with orders to hold the same at your disposal the amount being towards the Indian Contract and you will apply it accordingly, by other Conveyances I shall remit more bills as fast as I can get them – in the mean time I hope you will appear in such a respectable character as to be able to obtain all the Indian Goods on Credit until the remittances get safely to hand these Goods will be exceedingly wanted and I most sincerely wish you may not have lost one mom[ent] in obtaining & sending them out....

I have in a former letter told you the whole Continent wou’d be in want of Woolen Goods the ensuing Winter and you may depend that sufficient supplies cannot be sent out in time. We have lately got in a most Noble Crop of Flax and every body that understands cleaning & manufacturing of it are employed this will furnish large quantities of Coarse Linens, but Linens of about 2/ to 3/ Stg p yard, good shirting Linens Table Linen, Ravens or other Duck fit for Tents, Sail Cloth of all sorts, Cambricks, Lawns, Muslin & will all Continue to be much Wanted, all sorts of Cutlary Ware, Coppers Tin & Lead & every kind of Goods fit for Winter Wear must bring any price I therefore propose that Tom & you shou’d try yours and our Credit jointly and propose to some of the most Wealthy Houses in France to ship out quantities of suitable Goods to Martinico & Cape Francois to be re-shipped from thence hither, I dont care how much Value you send the more the better especially if you can get Insurance made on the Value from the West Indies here against all Risques we will employ good Vessells in transporting them hither and it will very often be in my power to obtain Convoy as our Frigates will frequently be Cruizing in the West Indies. I wou’d propose that you shou’d immediately send off as large a Value as you can in Winter Goods & an assortment every Month afterwards suitable for the Season at which they may be expected to arrive.

These Goods may if you please come out 2/3ds on account of Willing, Morris & Compy and 1/3d on your Acct You must fix with those that Ship them the length of the Credit and the Interest to be paid for their advances as well as their Commission &c youl observe that British Manufacturers were before the present Contest shipped from England in the greatest abundance for 2\(\frac{1}{2}\) pCt Comm on 12 Months Credit, after which 5 pCt Interest to Commence if the payments were not then made; I am very sensible we cannot expect that Confidence from French & other Foreign Merchants now, that we formerly enjoyed with the Merchants in England, but I know that all Trading People do & must run Risques & that they are content to do so, when paid an equivalent, now when it is Considered that from our late Non Exportation agreement, and from other interruptions to Commerce, it is not possible we can Remit bills previously or have proper Funds in Europe, it will not be thought strange that we shou'd under such Circumstances seek for Credit, and if our Cause is Crowned with success (which I think must be the case sooner or later) there is little danger in trusting us or indeed none at all, & that on the Contrary if we shou'd be unsuccessfull the Goods may be stopped in the West Indies for you may be sure we will not order them from thence unless we see perfect security in sending. I say when these things are attended to, not half the danger will appear that may at first be imagined, now if the Goods arrive safe we can sell them instantly for ready Money at very high prices and wou'd immediately Invest the Money in the purchase of Tobacco, Indigo, Flour wheat & such other produce as may suit the Fren[ch] Market. If Insurance can be made on these Products against the Risques the Remittances will thereby be Rendered Certain & the payment for the Goods speedy I hope therefore you will exert Yourselves to the utmost to Effect this plan and if any French or Dutch Houses choose to join you in it they may be a third, you a third & we a third or in any other proportion you like better. At Martinico Wm Bingham Esqr & Mr Richd Harrison will Receive & forward the Goods at Cape Francois Mr Stephen Ceron[io] or in his absence Mr Jno Gaignard. . . . "COPY OF A LETTER TO CAPTAIN RICHARD SMITH OF HIS MAJESTY'S SHIP Lark, DATED Perseus AT SEA THE 11TH. OF AUGUST 1776."

Sir

I am sorry to acquaint You that several of the Ships under my Convoy are exceedingly refactory and inattentive to the Signals made for His Majesty's Service, which gives me reason to believe that some of those who sail best incline to make the best of their way, which may occasion detriment to the Service: I therefore humbly represent that if your orders will admit of joining Convoys and keeping Company, we may be better above to execute the Service intended. I am Sir [&c.]

JOHN LANGDON TO NICHOLAS BROWN, PROVIDENCE 3

Sir –             Portsmouth 12th August 1776

Your favour P Captain Hawkins I've recd  am sorry for the Misfortune of the Masts; on receiving your Letter, immediately orderd our Mast makers to examine the Docks for Masts  they have got some of them, and are at work, shall soon have them ready. Capt Hawkins is at Newbury will soon be here with his Sloop to take them round, have order'd some to be hawled for Top Masts &c shall take every care to give every dispatch in my power, we shall, Hew them; and also toung'd them, that they may be lighter for transporting on deck – Colo [Joseph] Nightingale has been here, with whom I've discoursed fully relative to the Guns; I've desired him to inform the Committee that I depend on the next Guns to your's and therefore if the Contract is wrote & sent down, I will sign it, and send it back, and in that case my Guns will be done (as I conceive) full time for Your second Ship,2 therefore I cant conceive the least impropriety of your lending me the Guns for this Ship now, as mine will be done in time for you, as I never meant to interfere with the first Contract for Guns, for I understood when there, that the Committee could not cast any more at so low a price; therefore expect to pay more.

If it suites the Committee, should choose to have 26, 12 pounders, 6 Six pounders – 20 Swivels, but should it not suit, the whole Twenty Six to be Twelve pounders, Eight or ten 18 pounders would do, I mean if the Guns can be lent out of those already cast, which I hope they may, as it will most certainly serve us all to get this Ship out – Should the Committee see fit to spare them, pray send teams off immediately with them to Boston to the Care of Messrs Brusk and Hammott who will send them me by Water    pray let me know by return of post if they will spare them, and how soon they will set off, pray send by the first teams, one of each sort. — I am with Respect [&c.]

I have not Omitted since I have been in this department giving a particular caution to each Commander to prevent any Embezlements, and have furnished them with the resolve of Congress on that head, but it Signifies little, for great Complaints are made, by those who came in the last prize, that they Acted more like pirates than men who were so honorably employ'd. I am taking every measure to Efface that notion of their being privateers, for while they continue in it they will Act like such. Great need there is of a reform in our little Navy which I hope in time may be effected. I have the Honour to be with great truth [&c.]

Monday, 12th. [August]

This Morning, as soon as it was light, we were gladdened with the Sight of the grand Flight [sic fleet] in the offing. The Joy of the Navy & Army was almost like that of a Victory.

The Fleet came up this Evening to the number of 107 Sail. What is very extraordinary, they have lost but 8 men in the whole. Passage of 14 Weeks; and just before they came to the mouth of the Harbour they fell in with Capt. Davis [Henry Davies] of the Repulse, who convoyed the Remainder of the Embarkation from Portsmouth, though he sailed some Weeks after the Commodore [Hotham]. So large a Fleet made a fine Appearance upon entering the Harbor, with the Sails crouded, Colors flying, Guns saluting, and the Soldiers both in the Ships and on the Shore continually shouting. The Rebels (as we perceived by the Glasses) flocked out of their lurking Holes to see a Picture, by no means agreeable to them.

Agreeable to the order of the day, Commodore Hopkins attended, and was admitted; when the examination, taken before the Marine Committee, and the report of the said Committee in consequence thereof, were read to him; and the commodore being heard in his own defence, and having delivered in some further answers to the questions asked him by the Marine Committee, and two witnesses being, at his request, introduced and examined, he withdrew.

The Congress then took into consideration the instructions given to Commodore Hopkins, his examination and answers to the Marine Committee, and the report of the Marine Committee thereupon; and, the farther defence by him made, and the testimony of the witnesses; and, after some debate, the farther consideration thereof was postponed. 2

2. In the Hopkins Papers, RIHS, are some fragments of the defense offered in justification of his actions. They read:

AUTobiography OF John Adams 1

Commodore Hopkins had his hearing, as in the Journal. On this Occasion I had a very laborious task, against all the Prejudices of the Gentleman from the southern and middle States, and of many from New England. I thought, however that Hopkins had done great Service and made an important beginning of Naval Operations.

It appeared to me, that the Commodore was pursued and persecuted by that Anti New England Spirit, which haunted Congress in many other of their proceedings, as well as in this Case and that of General Wooster. I saw nothing in the Conduct of Hopkins, which indicated Corruption or Want of Integrity. Experience and Skill might have been deficient, in several Particulars: But where could We find greater Experience or Skill? I knew of none to be found. The other Captains had not so much, and It was afterwards found, they had not more Success.

I therefore entered into a full and candid Investigation of the whole Subject, considered all the Charges and all the Evidence: as well as his Answers and proofs: and exerted all the Talents and Eloquence I had, in justifying him where he was justifiable, and excusing him where he was excusable. When the Tryal was over Mr. [William] Ellery of Newport, came to me and said you have made the old Man your Friend for Life. He will hear of your Defence of him, and he never forgets a Kindness. 1

2. While Adams dated his comments on the day that Hopkins appeared before Congress, the entry really covers August 12, and August 15, 16, when the debate continued.

3. Adams added in his autobiography:

More than twenty Years afterwards, the Old Gentleman hobbled on his Crutches to the Inn in Providence, at four score Years of Age, one half of him dead in consequence of a paralytic Stroke, with his Eyes overflowing with tears to express his Gratitude to me. He said He knew not for what End he was continued in Life, unless it were to punish his Friends or to teach his Children and Grand Children to respect me. The President [Jonathan Maxcy] of Rhode Island Colledge [Brown University] who had married his Daughter, and all his Family shewed me the same affectionate Attachment.

A french Vessell, a pretty large Brigantine, deeply loaden; arrived here yesterday from Martinique. She had 50 Barrells of Limes, which are all sold already, at such Prices, that the Amount of them will be sufficient to load the Brig with Flour. A Trade We see, even now, in the midst of summer is not totally interrupted, by all the Efforts of our Enemies. Prizes are taken in no small Numbers. A Gentleman told me a few days ago that he had summed up the sugar, which has been taken, and it amounted to 3000 Hdds. since which two other ships have been taken and carried into Maryland.

Thousands of schemes for Privateering are afloat in American Imaginations. Some are for taking the Hull ships, with Woolens for Amsterdam and Rotterdam—some are for the Tin ships—some for the Irish Linnen ships—some for outward Bound and others for Inward Bound India Men—some for the Hudsons Bay ships—and many for West India sugar ships. Out of these Speculations many fruitless and some profitable Projects will grow.

We have no News from New York. All is quiet there as yet. Our Expectations are raised—the Eyes of the World are upon Washington and How, and their Armies. The Wishes and Prayers of the virtuous Part of it, I hope, will be answered. If not, yet Virtues grow out of Affliction.

New-England Chronicle, Thursday, September 5, 1776

Halifax, August 13.

Saturday night last [August 10] arrived below, and Sunday morning came up to town, his Majesty's frigate Liverpool, from Head-Quarters, and brought in with her a Jamaica ship, and an Antigua brig retaken; also, a Philadelphia sloop bound to some part of New-England. We are informed that General Howe and the Army under his command are encamped on an Island near New-York, called Staten-Island.

We have undoubted authority, that two Thousand Highlanders under the Convoy of three Frigates, and three armed schooners on a new construction for drawing the least quantity of water, have been dispatched by Lord Howe up the Bay of Fundy, to penetrate by that side into the New-Hampshire Government, and that Col. M'Lane with 3000 of the lower country Militia of Canada, with 600 Indians are on their full march to join that Body of Highlanders at the head of the River St. John's, and to cooperate with them.

On the 2d inst. arrived his Majesty's Frigate Milford, Capt. [John] Burr, from a cruise, and brot in a prize Schooner loaded with Fish and Lumber for the West-India Market. — Also, the Princess Royal, a home-ward Jamaica ship, (loaded with Rum, Sugar, and other valuable Articles) which having parted her Convoy, fell in (off the Bermuda Islands) with a Letter of Marque Schooner in the American service of 6 Guns, and some swivels, bound to Santa Cruze who took her and put an officer and 12 men on board. But after they had her in possession 16 days, she fell in with the Milford, in Boston Bay, who retook her, but the Prize Master and his men took to their boat and got on shore before the Milford came up.

1. Reprinted from the Nova Scotia Gazette.
2. The recaptured vessels were the Ship Nevis, from Nevis for London, and the brig Devonshire, from Antigua for Ireland. The prize sloop was the Swan, laden with Indian corn, and taken August 1, 1776.
3. The schooner prize was the Triton, from Kennebec River, taken July 20, 1776.

Sir

Halifax 13th August 1776.

Having just now receiv'd information that the Rebels of New England are preparing to Invade this Province, & that for that purpose, they have made a Road from St Johns River enlong' the Coast as far as the River Shepody toward the Head of the Bay of Fundy, and that they propose bringing Cannon in Boats along Shore, for the purpose of attacking the Fort at Cumberland.

I therefore think it necessary for His Majestys Service to desire that you do without loss of time, collect all the naval Force you can, & proceed directly to St Johns River, & there receive what Intelligence you can as to any such designs, or defeat any preparation's within your reach that you may find making; that from thence you proceed up to the River Shepody keeping close in Shore, [I which I am inform'd may be done with safety] in order to take up any of their Vessels which may be employ'd on this Occasion. When you shall have arriv'd at Shepody, you will then do what you shall think necessary for the King's Service, and so proceed to Cumberland, and co-operate with Colonel Gorham, unless in your way you shall have had an oppertunity of defeating any preparations or attemps for an invasion.

I am Sir.

JOHN LANGDON TO JOSIAH BARTLETT, PHILADELPHIA

Portsmouth 13th August 1776

... This will be handed you by Capt [John] Roche who has been the last Season, an Officer on board one of the Continental Vessells and has been of eminent Service to the States, Captain [John] Ayres who commands the Vessell on board of which Captain Roche acted as first Lieut 2 gives him the greatest Character not only of an Officer, but a Gentleman who has it in his Power to do great good in our Navey – I've therefore taken the Liberty to recommend him to you, and the Honble Members of Congress of my Acquaintance as a Gentleman and an Excellent Officer. I think he would support both Characters with Eclat, I've been several Years acquainted with this Gentleman in the West Indies, where he resided, and always wore the Character given him here; he came to this Country last Year, and immediately Enter'd the Service not minding in what Station, he served, as he was determined, to serve the Country, which he tho't grocely abused by the Sons of Tyranny being likewise a great Friend to the Liberties of Mankind—I shall thank you to mention this Gentleman to Mr Adams's Mr [Richard Henry] Lee, Mr Rutledge; Jay &c and if any good Opportunity offers, in the Navey pray serve him—

York but directly Dispatch her for the west Indies & there to Load Sugars for London, but your Petitioner was taken by two Armed Schooners in the Service of the united-States & was brought in here the 29th of July Last & Committed to Jail, but as your Petitioner was in a very poor state of Health when Committed that he got the Liberty of Goal Keepers House where he has remained since Your Petitioner Prays that your Honors would take his Case into Consideration & grant him the same Liberty as other Masters of Ships brought In here. As your Petitioner had a Man on Board by the Name of [Benjamin] Davis whose Character he did not know till he was brought into this Place, he beleives is the Occasion of his receiving different punishment from other Masters of Vessells. CAPTAIN JOHN SMITH TO THE NEW YORK CONVENTION ¹

Esopus, August 13th, 1776.

When Captain Biddle, of the Congress armed vessel the Andrea Doria, on the 29th May last took the Oxford transport, on board of which was a company of His Britannic Majesty’s 42d regiment of foot. Capt. Biddle upon taking the officers out of the Oxford, only allowed them to take their bedding and a few shirts with them, and told them that by orders of the Continental Congress, all that was the private property of the prisoners that were taken would be allowed them, and that he would return the officers their swords upon coming on shore.

My reason for troubling you with this, gentlemen, is, as you mentioned, that when any prisoners had any business of any kind they were to apply to you. Now I and the rest of the officers of my company, who were taken on board the Oxford, will be glad to be informed whether or not we will be allowed our baggage, and what was our private property that was on board when we were taken. All my clothes and other baggage, and about 60 guineas in cash were on board; as likewise Lieut. Franklin, who is prisoner with me here, and Lieut. Morrow and Ensign Campbell, whom Captain Biddle carried to Rhode-Island with him. Captain Biddle gave command of the Oxford to one of his lieutenants, a Mr. [John] McDougal and a Mr. Tribbet [John Trevett]. I should be very much obliged to you, gentlemen, if you will be so kind as let me have an answer to this as soon as it is convenient. I am, with respect, gentlemen [&c.]

John Smith,
Captain in His Britannic Majesty’s 42d Regt.

CAPTAIN THOMAS SYMONDS, R.N., TO MAJOR GENERAL HENRY CLINTON

Sir,

I this morning waited on Adl Shuldham, & asked his opinion in regard to the Freight, for the money brought from So Carolina, he desires me to inform you, that as a receipt was given for the money when rec'd on board the Solebay, I stood charged with it, & must have been answerable for any loss, & thinks the offer I have made fore one pr Cent, very reasonable, as it has ever been a custom, for Kings money, as well as Contractors, to pay freight.

As you consented in referring it to Adl Shuldham, I hope, to have no occasion to give you any further trouble about it. I have the Honor to be Sr

Dear Sir

Baltimore 13th August 1776

I wrote you sometime ago acquainting that I had two Schooners wc were sunk at the entrance of this harbor by order of the Committee, for upwards of three months. An allowance has been made me, to put the Vessells into as good order as when they were taken away, but I am told an application must be made to the Council of Safety for payment of the demurrage. I should be glad to know when it will be proper to apply, & what vouchers the Council will require to ascertain the time the vessells were out of my possession? If necessary I can make it appear, that I have paid considerable sums for freight of other Vessells, during the time my own were sunk — I hope you will excuse my being so troublesome to you; I do not want to come down to Annapolis, until I am prepared wt the necessary vouchers to compleat the business – You will oblige me very much by giving me an answer at your convenience. I am Dear Sir [&c.]

NARRATIVE OF CAPTAIN ANDREW SNAPE HAMOND

[H.M.S. Roebuck, July 15 to August 13, 1776]

July [15] George’s Island is about 2½ miles long, has an excellent Harbour on the East side of it, and a small Haven on the North, sufficiently open at one end for small Vessels to turn in to it, but at the other is not above 100 yards wide nor has above 3 or 4 feet water. Lord Dunmore Landed his Troops upon it the day after our Arrival, and we searched every where for fresh water, but on Account of the dryness of the season, very little prospect appeared of being able to supply the Fleet with a sufficient quantity for their Voyage from thence. I therefore ordered the different Vessels to send their empty Casks onboard two of the Transports carrying the detachment of the 14th Regt & a part of the Queens; and with them, accompanied by Lord Dunmore in his own Ship, we sailed up the Potomack in order to fill the empty Casks with fresh water; and at the same time harass & annoy the Enemy by landing at different places. The Fowey remained with the rest of the Fleet and the Otter was sent to cruize in the Bay.

While the Fleet lay at Gwin’s Island the Carpenters had been employed in fitting up one of the Flats, which we found there, to carry a Cannon, and to Row with 14 Oars: I put a Six pounder into it, and kept it constantly employed in the little creeks & Bays about George's Id by being in a great measure covered over, the People were quite sheltered, could go close to the shore with safety, and by that means did great mischief among the Enemy.

On our Expedition up the River we kept the shores on both sides in continual alarms, but we saw no considerable body of the Enemys Troops untill we arrived into Fresh water, when a large Number assembled at the House of a Mr Brent on the Virginia side, and seemed to bid us defiance; However we landed about 100 Men at Noon day, under cover of a Tender & the Row Galley, beat the Enemy off (which were double that Number, and very advantageously posted) and set fire to the House and all the buildings: when we returned to our Ships without the loss of a single Man and only one officer & 5 Men wounded

The water being filled, and the wind coming favorable we moved the Ships a few leagues down the River, with an intention of landing in the Morning at day break at a Mr Mercer's House on the Virginia shore, which is a guard House for the Rebels, but as it came to blow hard, and the wind down the River we rather chose to pursue our way to the Fleet. After that time the Ships got so often a ground that the People were too much fatigued to attempt any opperation[s] on shore, and we join'd the Fleet at St George's Island on the 29th July.

The Defence a Rebel Privatier of 20 Guns belonging to Maryland, hearing of the Fleet's being left at George's Island under the Protection of the Fowey only, came with 2 Tenders up the River to attack them, and a Battery from St Mary's was to be open'd as soon as she appeared in Sight. The Roebuck's return frustrated their schemes, and the Rebel Vessels returned to their rendezvous at Baltimore.

In about three days the Fleet had taken onboard their water from the Transports, when after destroying about 20 Sail of Vessels that could not be navigated we got under way, proceeded down the Chesapeake Bay, and arrived at the Capes the 4th Augst

The next day the Otter sailed and convoyed about 50 Sail of Vessels to St Augustine & Bermudas.

The Fowey Sailed with about 7 Sail of Vessels bound to England, onboard one of which was Govr Eden, when after seeing them 20 leags from the Coast, she was ordered to return & cruize off the Capes of Virginia.
A violent bilious intermitting fever, together with a most inveterate scurvy had for these two months past raged with great violence both in the men of war & Transports, and was so mortal that the Roebuck had lost 30 of her best seamen, and had 76 on the Surgeons sick list. The Fowey had 35 Men sick, and Lord Dunmore’s Army was reduced to about 150 Rank & File, one third of which was incapable of duty. I therefore thought it necessary to consult with his Lordship on the measure the most proper to pursue in our weak situation, the result of which was that we should make the best of our way to New York for the following reasons.

2d The impossibility of landing even to water the ships, (The springs on the Islands being all dried up[ ]) I.

3d The necessity of the Admiral & General’s being acquainted with our situation as soon as possible, to prevent the disgrace His Majestys Troops might suffer when their extream weakness became known to the Enemy.

5th Augst Accordingly we set sail from the Capes the 5 day Augt with the Dunmore, 5 Sail of Transports, two Vessels laden with Rum sugars & dry goods, and 5 Small Tenders & Pilot boats, and arrived off of Sandy Hook the 13th Augt where we join Sir Peter Parker from the So ward, and saild up to New York in Compy

In our way we saw several Rebel Privatiers; two of which we chaced, but to prevent losing Company with the Convoy was obligd to leave them.

Thus ended my Command to the Southward.

We are making great Preparations here, in Case of a Visit in the Winter. If Howe shou'd be beat at N. York, I suppose he & his Myrmidons will either go to Virginia, or come here. I hope we [are] invincible to any thing that will come agst us——

We have some Thoughts of Sending a Couple of Thousand Men, to ravage E. Florida, & cut off the Communication between Augustine & the Country.

You see how this Province has exerted itself, altho' we have had some inimical Villains amongst us, we have taken such Steps we keep them in Good Order.

Independence is declared throughout the 13 united States of America. I suppose it will not be long before you see the Declaration of the Congress, as there are Vessells fitting out to trade with foreign Nations, and I imagine before now Ambassadors are sent to treat of Foreign alliances—All the Troops both foreign & domestic that Great Britain can send will [not] be able to hurt America. She bids degenerate Britain Defiance.

P.S. When Administration gets an Acct of the Action of Sullivan's Island; they will be devilishly at a Loss, how to dress it up for the Public. The Day after it, the Rainbow Sloop of War was sent to Great Britain with the Accts—Be assured they had near 300 kill'd & wounded in the Action, we took 50 highlanders, & have had abt 50 Deserters, from the Navy & Army, who say that if the Army had been encamp'd on the Main One half at least wou'd have deserte'd, but it was as difficult for them to make their Escape, as it was for the Seamen.—

The Deserters from the Navy have brought us up several fine Barges—And the whole Fleet & army have been gone ab[ou]t two or three Weeks—With every Lye the Ministry & their Tools can invent upon this Occasion, it must make greatly against them.

We have sent one of our arm'd Vessell's of Eighteen Guns yesterday, to cruise off Augustine, in Hopes of falling in wth two Ships expected from London there, wth Military Stores and dry Goods.

The Memorial of the Comittee of Correspondence &c of the Town of Salem –

Humbly Sheweth, That a Brigantine now lays at Beverly, fit for Sea and destined to some Port in France, as is supposed, or for some other Port in Europe that she has been fixed & Laded by Order of Congress, and yr Memorialist Imagine on a Secret, or at least a very Important Voyage; that therefore it is highly Expedient that no Person shou'd go in her that might Act the part of a Spy or Informer Nevertheless, Mr. Jonathan Dowse, (Son to Joseph Dowse Esqr of Salem) who lately held a Petit Office in the Customs, has Engaged a Passage in said Brig. & sent His Stores on Board, being, his intention as he says, to get to England to procure payment of his arrears, and find an employment to which he thinks his past Services will recommend Him. Your Memorialists are Also Informed by Capt [Stephen] Cleveland, who goes Master of the Brig. that Mr John Lawless of Salem has proposed to take Passage in his Brig. in his way to England or Ireland – the latter being his Native Country! Now your Memorialists think the Character of both those Gentlemen, (Messrs Dowse & Lawless) too liable to suspicion as Unfriendly to America to be permitted to take Passage in said Brig. if they shou'd be allowed to go in any Other way, in a word your Memorialists fear, it may be attended with Mischief if any Other than the Proper Crew of the Brig or passengers of Known good Characters, well Affected to these States, and Furnished with the Necessary Credentials, be Suffered to go in her –

These hints the Comittee beg leave to lay before the Honble Council, and Only add That the Brig was fitted under the care of Capt John Bradford of Boston the Continental Agent –

By order of the Comittee –

Read & Ordered, that John Winthrop, & Richard Derby Esqrs be a Comittee to take the same Under Consideration & Report, who reported a Draft of a Letter to sd Comittee that as they suppose the Characters these Gentlemen sustain, make it very Improper for them to Embark for any part of Europe at this time, the said Comittee therefore is directed to use their utmost Endeavours to prevent these Gentlemen from Sailing in the Vessel Aforesaid or in any Other, Untill the further Order of the Council. – Which was read and Accepted & signed by the Chairman –

... A Committee was chosen to devise during the Recess of the [General] Court, some successful Method of making Cannon, & I hope this Matter will be put forward to Advantage; I have no Doubt that the Manufacture of Small Arms, will at the first Meeting of the Assembly receive every possible Encouragement; We have happily succeeded in the Manufacture of Salt petre, & we have 3 Powder Mills at Work & a fourth erecting; Salt I have no Doubt will be made as soon as we feel the Necessity of it; hitherto, tho' it has been at an high Price, we have not suffered for the Want of it. I am more ignorant as to the Probability of our getting Sulphur, & Lead; the first I believe we shall be able at some Seasons to import, if the Cruisers of the Enemy are ever so vigilant; they are however both of them Objects that deserve Attention; the mention of the Enemies Cruisers, reminds me of our own; It is an unlucky Circumstance that the continental Frigates are not yet at Sea, had they been many more of the Enemies Vessells, & a Number of their Troops would have fallen into our Hands, I suppose the Delay has been inevitable; it surely is a Matter that will not be neglected; Is it not worthy Consideration whether it will not be adviseable, to order those continental armed Vessells which are ready for Service, in Conjunction with the Vessells of the particular States, & such private armed Vessells as will engage, immediately to Newfoundland; much may be done against the British Fishery, on Shore as well as at Sea, we shall be furnished with a Commodity to exchange for such french Goods as may be bro't us; the West India Islands will be without their Supply of Fish, & the Poole Men, who meant us much Harm, will be rewarded according to their Deeds.

On the 12th of July made a sail astern, she soon came up with us, though we little imagined her to be an American privateer, being then in lat. 32.25. long. 52. At half past eight in the night she fired a gun to leeward—from which we concluded she was an English cruizer—but were too soon convinced to the contrary. When we first made the sloop she appeared large, from the crowd of sail she carried; but on a nearer survey we found her to be very small, painted black, with 10 guns, 50 men, and every necessary for a cruise. She is called the Montgomery, Capt. Buckling [Daniel Bucklin]. They took out all the Eagle's people but myself, the boatswain, and a boy, and convoyed us to this place.

My people are all well; we are supported at present at the expense of the owner of the privateer, and indulged with the liberty of going about where we please, and are in every respect treated with the greatest kindness and civility. We are the seventh West-Indiaman taken by this privateer; numbers of vessels have been taken coming from the West-India Islands.

August the 14th 1776.

Sir I have the Satisfaction of being able to inform their Lordships by the Sandwich Packet, that Commodore [William] Hotham, whose distinguished Abilities gave Room for every favorable Expectation, arrived on the 12th with Eighty five Sail of his Convoy; completing with those few before arrived, the whole of the Hessian Embarkation that sailed from England under his Direction. He was joined off of this Port, by Captain [Henry] David (whose Capacity and Diligence have been particularly exemplified on this Occasion) with all the Transports in his Care, that were able to accompany him out of the British Channel. The Reports delivered by those Officers are herewith enclosed.

The Loss of the Hessian Troops by Sickness is most inconsiderable, Not exceeding ten or twelve, as I have yet heard; tho' for the last fourteen Days of their Passage, the Scurvy began to prevail; But amongst the Crews of the Ships of War in a greater Degree.

I am favored with your several Letters of the 27th of April and the 13th and 22d of May, to the Contents of which I shall have due Regard.

I am also to acknowledge the Receipt of an Order from their Lordships of the same Date with the last, respecting the supposed Situation of the Bahama Islands, founded on the Intelligence transmitted by Governor Tonyn, and Lieutenant [William] Grant Commander of the St. John Schooner.

As soon as the Capital Service impending, the permanent Establishment of the Army in this Province, is effected; To which I conceive their Lordships will approve that every Consideration of lesser Moment should give place, And after a Port of Retreat is secured for the Winter-Use of the Fleet; my earliest Attention will be given to provide more amply than my present Means will admit, the other requisite Services comprehended in the Tenor of their Instructions.

Whilst I was preparing to close this Dispatch, the Commodore Sir Peter Parker in the Bristol, with the Experiment and Syren, Sibella Store-Ship and two Transports having each three Companies Part of the 28th and 57th Regiments on board arrived here from South Carolina. And soon after the Roebuck with the Ships lately attending the Earl of Dunmore, and that in which his Lordship was embarked, from Virginia.

The immediate Departure of the Packet not allowing Time to examine so fully into the State of those Ships as to enable me to form a Judgment thereon fit to be reported immediately, Their Lordships I flatter myself, will have the Indulgence to dispense with the Receipt of any more particular Returns than those before prepared of the State and Appointment of the Squadron herewith enclosed, by the present Opportunity.

I cannot however inform them too soon of the great Want of Ordnance Stores of all Species, for the Ships of this Squadron: particularly Match, Powder, and Ball of 6, 9, 12, 18 and 24 lb; Both to supply the past, and probable future Expence of those Articles: as I have no Advice of any adequate Provision having been made thereof. I am Sir [&c.]

JOURNAL OF AMBROSE SERLE

[On board H.M.S. Eagle]

Wednesday, the 14th [August].

This morning early, Sir Peter Parker in the Bristol, with the Experiment & Roebuck, and several Transports, appeared in the offing; and a little after Noon came up & saluted the Admiral [Howe]. The Bristol has lost her main & mizen Masts in the affair at Charles Town, and is much shattered about the Stern. We have now a gallant Fleet here, consisting of the following Ships:

[William] Howe, Ld. [Charles] Cornwallis, Genl. [James] Grant, Admiral [Molyneux] Shuldham, Sir Wm Erskine, Col. Sheriffe [William Sherriff], Sir Peter Parker, Lord Wm. Campbell, Lord Dunmore, Commodore Hotham, and many other officers of the Fleet & Army, to the number of 34 Persons. They all expressed great Satisfaction at their Entertainment, which indeed was worthy of the truly noble Personage who gave it.

In the Evening, the Syren came in from the South, with several Transports under her Convoy.

1. Adams Papers, MassHS.
2. In another letter of the same date, to his wife Abigail, Adams explains the foregoing thus: "This is the Anniversary of a memorable day, in the History of America: a day when the Principle of American Resistance and Independence, was first asserted, and carried into Action. The Stamp Office fell before the rising Spirit of our Countrymen." Butterfield, ed., Adams Family Correspondence, II, 95-97.

NARRATIVE OF COLONEL ETHAN ALLEN ¹

[Prison Sloop in Halifax Harbor, June 23 to August 15, 1776]

I sent letter after letter to captain Montagu [James Montagu], who still had the care of us, and also to his lieutenant, whose name I cannot call to mind, but could obtain no answer, much less a redress of grievances; and to add to the calamity, near a dozen of the prisoners were dangerously ill of the scurvy. I wrote private letters to the doctors, to procure, if possible, some remedy for the sick, but in vain. The chief physician came by in a boat, so close that the oars touched the sloop that we were in, and I uttered my complaint in the gentlest manner to him, but he never so much as turned his head, or made me any answer, though I continued speaking till he got out of hearing. Our case then became deplorable. Still I kept writing to the captain, till he ordered the guards, as they told me, not to bring any more letters from me to him. In the meantime an event happened worth relating. One of the men almost dead with the scurvy, lay by the side of the sloop, and a canoe of Indians coming by, he purchased two quarts of strawberries, and ate them at once, and it almost cured him. The money he gave for them was all the money he had in the world. After that we tried every way to procure more of that fruit, reasoning from analogy that they might have the same effect on others infested with the same disease, but could obtain none.

Meanwhile the doctor's mate of the Mercury came privately on board the prison sloop and presented me with a large vial of smart drops, which proved to be good for the scurvy though vegetables and some other ingredient were requisite for a cure; but the drops gave at least a check to the disease. This was a well-timed exertion of humanity, but the doctor's name has slipped my mind, and in my opinion, it was the means of saving the lives of several men.
The guard, which was set over us, was by this time touched with the feelings of compassion; and I finally trusted one of them with a letter of complaint to Governor Arbuthnot, of Halifax, which he found means to communicate, and which had the desired effect; for the governor sent an officer and surgeon on board the prison sloop, to know the truth of the complaint. The officer’s name was Russell who held the rank of lieutenant, and treated me in a friendly and polite manner, and was really angry at the cruel and unmanly usage the prisoners met with; and with the surgeon made a true report of matters to Governor Arbuthnot, who, either by his orders or influence, took us next day from the prison sloop to Halifax jail, where I first became acquainted with the now Hon. [James] Lovell[l], one of the members of Congress for the state of Massachusetts. The sick were taken to the hospital, and the Canadians, who were effective, were employed in the King’s works; and when their countrymen were recovered from the scurvy and joined them, they all deserted the King’s employ, and were not heard of at Halifax, as long as the remainder of the prisoners continued there, which was till the middle of October. We were on board the prison sloop about six weeks, and were landed at Halifax near the middle of August.

New-England Chronicle, Thursday, August 15, 1776

Boston, August 15.

Yesterday se‘nnight was sent into Portsmouth by the Hancock Vessel of War, belonging to the State of Pennsylvania, a large three-decked Ship, named the Reward, of between 5 and 600 Tons, (She was a 20 gun Ship last War, in the British Service,) now mounting 14 Guns; was from Tortola, bound to London, and had on board between 10 and 1100 Hogsheads of Sugar, 12 Bales of Cotton, and several Pieces of brass and iron Cannon. ³ We hear she was taken by the following Stratagem, viz. Just before dusk the Evening the Hancock came across her, the Captain of the Prize taking the Hancock to be one of the Tyrant’s Pilferer’s was very much rejoiced to fall in with her, and doubtless, vice versa, when the Hancock at Night threw out a Light for a Signal as a Pilot. At Day-light the next Morning, the Vessels being near together, the Captain of the Ship invited the Captain of the Hancock to come on board and take a Breakfast; who replied, his Hands were so few and sick, that he had not enough to man his Boat and work his Vessel, and in his Turn, invited the Captain of the Ship to come on board him, which he readily complied with by ordering his Boat out, when he and about a dozen of his Hands went on board the Hancock, and were taken as good Care of, as Men in such Circumstances could allow The Hancock then sent an equal Number of her own Hands on board the Ship, when, alas! she fell into the Hands of the United States of America.

There were on board the above Ship, a Number of Turtle directed to Lord North, with his Name cut in the Shell, the best of which, Capt. Wingate Newman, Master of the armed Vessel, is determined to send to the Hon. John Hancock.

1. The brigantine Enterprize, Captain Joseph Dwight, and sloop Beaver, Captain Stewart Deane, were granted letters of marque and reprisal by the New York Provincial Congress, June 29, 1776. Their prize was the ship Earl of Errol.

2. Both prizes were taken on August 4, 1776, but the name of the brig, according to the libel filed against her, does not agree with the name given in the newspaper account. She was not the St. John, but the Betsey.

3. We hear she was taken by the following Stratagem, viz. Just before dusk the Evening the Hancock came across her, the Captain of the Prize taking the Hancock to be one of the Tyrant’s Pilferer’s was very much rejoiced to fall in with her, and doubtless, vice versa, when the Hancock at Night threw out a Light for a Signal as a Pilot. At Day-light the next Morning, the Vessels being near together, the Captain of the Ship invited the Captain of the Hancock to come on board and take a Breakfast; who replied, his Hands were so few and sick, that he had not enough to man his Boat and work his Vessel, and in his Turn, invited the Captain of the Ship to come on board him, which he readily complied with by ordering his Boat out, when he and about a dozen of his Hands went on board the Hancock, and were taken as good Care of, as Men in such Circumstances could allow. The Hancock then sent an equal Number of her own Hands on board the Ship, when, alas! she fell into the Hands of the United States of America.
The Prize Master, Mr. [William] Barton, informs, that the Hancock had taken a Brigantine from the West-Indies, just before this Ship, and sent her to Egg-Harbour, and was in chase of a Ship, supposed to be a Jamaican, and almost within gun-shot, when he left her.

1. The Hancock was not a Pennsylvania owned vessel, but a privateer, commissioned June 15, 1776. Libel was filed against the Reward on August 13, The Freeman's Journal, August 24, 1776.

WILLIAM DENNING TO ABRAHAM YATES, JR.

[August 15].

The bearer of this is Capt. Exceen, the brig Friendship, loaded by me in April last, by direction of a committee of Continental Congress, with wheat and flour for Lisbon. He is returned with his brig to Fire island inlet, with a load of salt. He had orders to apply to the Convention of whatever State he arrived at on his return to this Continent. He now waits your directions. Your most hble. servt.

Wm. Denning.

P. S. He left Lisbon 7 weeks 4 days ago this day. Capt. Exceen says his cargo consists of 197 moys of salt, on board on account of the Continental Congress; that he had medicines on board (three or four hogsheads) belonging to Thos. Grant, shipped by Long, about or between 3 or £400 sterling.

JOURNAL OF THE CONTINENTAL CONGRESS

[Philadelphia] Thursday, August 15, 1776

The Congress resumed the consideration of the instructions given to Commodore Hopkins, his examination and answers, &c. and, thereupon, came to the following resolution:

Resolved, That the said Commodore Hopkins, during his cruise to the southward, did not pay due regard to the tenor of his instructions, whereby he was expressly directed to annoy the enemy's ships upon the coasts of the southern states; and, that his reasons for not going from Providence immediately to the Carolinas, are by no means satisfactory.

At the request of [the delegates of] Pennsylvania, the farther consideration of the report was postponed till to morrow.

Resolved, That the Secret Committee be directed to deliver to the order of the Marine Committee, such stores by them imported as are necessary for the fleet.

MINUTES OF THE SECRET COMMITTEE OF THE CONTINENTAL CONGRESS

[Philadelphia] 15th August 1776

The Committee considering the favorable opportunity that now presents for shipping off Produce from this Port and other places to the Southward, the Enemies Men of War having gone. Agreed That the sum of eighty thousand Dollars be advanced Mr [Robert] Morris to be by him laid out in produce and exported on the Continental Account. Accordingly an order was drawn on the Treasurer in his favor for that sum.

THOMAS JEFFERSON'S NOTES ON COMMODORE ESEK HOPKINS' DEFENSE

Aug. 12. 1783 [sic 1776].

The Commodore'[s] excuse for not going to Souther[n] colonies agreeable to orders.

[Be]fore he left capes of Delaware, he heard the Liverpool was joined to Ld Dunmore, wch made enemy an overmatch. & many of his men sea sick.

he did not go to N. Carolina bec. [he] recd intellige the enemy's force hd gone from there & from S. Cara to Georgia. (his men recovd as he got to the Southward) he did not go to S. Carola for same reason & because [he] had no pilots.
he did not go to Georg[ia] bec. enemy's ships as he heard were all there & too strong.
he app[ointe]d Abaco as a rendezvous, & to wait there 15 days for each other; he chose that place because nearer to Georgia than to S. Carolina.
he got there with all his fleet except the Fly & Hornet, & as he was to wait 15 days for [them] he thought he might as well form [an] expedn somewhere. he heard from (a whaler I believe) that there was 200 barrels of powder cannon &c at [New] Providce belonging to king. he therefore went there. but the night he arrived the govr removed the powder. he took the cannon.
he dd nt go to Savanna becs while at Providce he heard all the enemy's fleet had assembled there & that [illegible] were too strong for him on his return North[ward] he took a bomb brig for which [he] recd thanks of Congress.
he carrd [the] cannon to Rhode isld rather than to the Carolinas because [they were] not wanting in the Carolinas & he thot he cd get more safely into Rhode isld he dd nt delivr them to Govr of Connecticut as ordd by Congress bec. he hd them as ballast, & found he cd nt get ballast at N. Lond[on] witht sendg to N. York, a delay wch he cd not admit as Gen. Washton wrote him he apprehended the enemy wd attempt to block him up in N. London.
he delivd them to Govr Cook of Rh. isld bec. he offered him pig iron as ballast in lieu of them, & Govr Cook undertook to delivr them to ordr of Congress after he [returned] from Providce he was not at liberty to go to the Carolinas bec. hs instrns directed him to go to Rh. isld had nt pilots to carry him into inlets of N. Carolina or over Charles town bar.
Commodore dd nt sent vessel for intelligence into South. col. bec. both Fly & Hornet parted with him within 2 days after [they] sailed, in bad weather the Hornet nevr joined him, the Fly not till he got to Providce a clause in his instrns authorized him to depart from his instrns if in his discretion he thought [it] for the public good. if he was mistaken then it was no crime.
instrns are never given positively & it is right they should not be, because of change of circumstances
The Commodore had a premedetated design not to go to the Southern colonies but to Providence bec. he dd nt send into Chesapk for certain intelligence. bec. he dd nt send hs vessel of intelligence into N. Carolina but only sais he heard enemy hd left that place whereas in truth the Cruiser remd there alone & had above 50 prizes with her, bec. he dd nt send in to So Carolina for intelligence he hd better [have] gone there for rendezvous than to Abaco bec. Gadsden hd promd him on seeing signals to sent out Pilot boats. bec. he might have crossed the bar bec. it was nearer to Georgia than Abaco was. bec. 2 days before he got to Abaco he told major Nicholas he was to go to Providence, whereas he ss in his defence he did not intend to go there till he reached Abaco, (the rendezvous appointed) & then finding the Fly & H[ornet] separated he thought he might as well employ th[e] time of 15 days which was agreed on to wait there, in some expedn The not meeting the Fly & Hornet cd not prevent him from going to Savannah bec. they were mere vessels of intellige not of force, they only carried, one of them swivels, [the other] 3. or 4 lbs There was no cannon in N. Carola, so wre mch wantg there. he was furnished wth 2 vessels on purpose to procure sure intellige to direct his motions. particularly the Fly a very swift vessel was [bought] & fitted out on purpose. after the expdn to Providence why did not he then go to Carolinas or Southern colonies, that being not only the main object of his expdn, but in truth the object of equipping the Navy. his managment of engagemt with Glasgow shews he wanted skill & activity. Cannon nt wanting for ballast bec. two of his officers say she had still the ballast with which she had gone to Providence & returned. He ot to have obeyed Congress in delivg cannon. tho’ he was come out of the harbor of New London with the cannon on board; he ot to have retd wth them objection that he had no pilots to carry him into inlets of N. Carolina & bar of Charles town not good, because he knew that [before] when he set out why did not he inform [illegible] Comme before he went that it [might have] been provided for, or delegates [have] taken proper [measures] besides as to Charles town Gadsden hd agreed with him fort Johnston had more king’s cannon than Providence; if cannon hd bn his object [he] mt have gone & taken them at the time he retd from Providence there was the Cruiser & a tender wth Govr Martin waiting to join highlandrs & 16 mi. below them were a number of transports [with Clinton’s army.] he had the Wasp with him a small vessel proper to send in for intellige from Ch[arles] to[wn] bar to Savanna bar 70. miles. from Abaco is 3 times as far. besides it was in Winter season when Northerly winds prevail wch prevent his coming from Abaco to Savanna & facilitate it from Charles town the objn is [not] that he did not exercise an honest discretion in departing from his instrns but that he never did intend to obey them. true all instrns have [a] discretionary clause, which proves they have some positive intention, otherwise there was never a positive instruction & never a disobedience of orders, which is not true since return from Providence the fleet has merely act[ed in] defence of trade of Eastern colonies.

"EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM CAPE NICOLA MOLE, AUGUST 15, 1776"

From the best authority, I am informed, that four French frigates are ordered to cruize about this island to protect the American trade, and two Spanish ships are to do the same about Porto Rico for the like purpose. There are about 8 or 10,000 troops in this Island. – Twenty-nine ships of the line are getting ready at Brest, and 14 at Toulon, & 20,000 land forces, to put to sea, but where bound is not known. – Twelve Spanish ships of the line and 6 frigates, with many land forces, went by here some weeks past for the Havannah, but for what end is a secret.

CAPTAIN CHARLES DOUGLAS, R.N., TO PHILIP STEPHENS

[Extract]
(Copy)

Isis Quebec 16 August 1776

... our business of building, and reconstructing are going on as fast as our paucity of proper hands, will admit of. After a very long passage the Twenty Glasgow Shipwrights, and ten house Carpenters, from Portsmouth, are at last arrived, and are to be hurried up to Chambly from Transport to Transport, Relays whereof are placed, with proper rowing Boats to ensure the Conveyance upwards of the provisions which are hourly and impatiently expected for the army from Ireland against an opposing Current, and the prevailing light Westerly Winds of the Season...

His Excellency having applied to me for four Transports to carry away the Rebel Prisoners (as well those who were caught in the lower Town of Quebec on the 1st of January, as those since taken) with a view of their returning in peace to their respective homes. The Pearl is sailed with them under her Convoy for New York to join Lord Howe. Some Rebels taken very lately at Lake Champlain are to their very great surprise included in the number.

The Canceaux Armed Ship is stationed at the Sorel. The Blonde continues at Champlain. The Triton and Lord Howe at the foot of the rapids of Richlieu. The Isis and Juno in this Bason (the latter with a Defective Fore Yard) The Bute with Pilots is at the Isle of Bic, and the Tartar to cruise between Cape North and Cape Ray, until the 25th of September.

Newbury-Port, August 16.

Yesterday Capt. Wingate Newman, arrived in the Privateer nam’d the Hancock, from Philadelphia, she brought in as a prize, (which is now safely anchored before this town) the ship Nancy from Antigua, Capt Keys, bound to London, having on board about 400 hogsheads of sugar, 90 of rum, and a few casks of Madeira wine. Three or four gentleman passengers, and a lady came in the above ship. – He likewise brought in with him the Sloop Industry, Capt William Hazen, bound to St. John’s, in Nova-Scotia, in ballast.

A few days before the taking the above ship, Capt. Newman had a smart engagement with a sloop of war, of much superior force, for three glasses, but night coming on, they parted, both having received much damage, but on board of Capt. Newman no lives lost, nor none much hurt.

Our strength by sea is as follows, – two schooners, one sloop, two row-gallies and six gondolas, all fit for action. – At this place we have one gondola launched, and another just finished. – We have also three row-gallies in great forwardness, from 60 to 70 feet in keel and 16 feet beam, which will mount each 6 cannon and 20 swivels, and are to go with 36 oars besides sails – They will be fit for action in about three weeks – As soon as they are launched General Watterbury, with the regiment to which I belong, are ordered on board them, and when rigged, &c. are to proceed up the Lake to join the fleet.

By the last accounts from St. John's we learn, that the enemy had not more than 40 batteaus built, and two gallies or gondolas – If this is true, I hardly think they will venture down the Lake this fall – We are determined, however, to be prepared for them – Five other gallies are to be built here, as soon as those which are on the stocks are launched.

By the light of this Vessel we discover'd another standing towards us at a Cables length distance - Immediately Order'd the Cable to be Cut & Commenced Firing upon the Fire Ship; in Ten Minutes afterwards she Boarded us on the Starboard Bow at which time the Rebels set fire to the Train and left her, Set the Fore Topsail and Head Sails which fortunately cast the Ship and disengaged her from the Fire Ship, after having been Twenty Minutes with her Jibb Boom over our Gunwhale. The Rose's Tender was Totally consumed; the same fate must have Attended the Phoenix had not the Steadiness of the Officers & Ship's Company saved her.

Memoirs of Major General William Heath ²
[New York, August] 16th. – Our General was again requested to be a spectator on the bank of the river the approaching night, with the most positive assurances that he should not be again disappointed: he accordingly went, attended as on the preceding time, and took a proper position on the bank. The night was pretty dark; they soon found that the galleys and fire-vessels were silently moving up with the tide. After some time, and almost immediately after the sentinels on board the British ships has passed the word, “all is well,” two of the fire-vessels flashed into a blaze; the one close on the side of the Phenix, the other grappling one of the tenders. To appearance, the flames were against the side of the Phenix; and there was much confusion on board. A number of cannon were discharged into the fire-vessel in order to sink her. A number of seamen ascended, and got out on the yard-arm, supposed to clear away some grappling. The fire-vessel was alongside, as was judged near ten minutes, when the Phenix either cut, or slipt her cable, let fall her fore-topsail, wore round, and stood up the river, being immediately veiled from the spectators, by the darkness of the night. The tender burnt down to the water’s edge, and was towed to the shore by the Americans, out of which was taken, one iron six-pounder, two three-pounders, one two pounder, ten swivels, a caboose, some gun-barrels, cutlasses, grappling, chains, &c. The Rose, and the other two tenders, remained at their moorings; but it was said that one of the tenders was deserted by her crew, for a time. Several of our galleys were said to have been inactive; otherwise, a very considerable advantage would have been reaped. The Americans sustained no loss or injury, saving one man, who, in communicating fire to one of the vessels, got considerably burnt in the face, hands, &c.²

[Harlem] Die Veneris, 9 HO. A.M. August 16th, 1776.

Whereas a secret committee appointed by this Convention to devise means for annoying the enemy’s ships and obstructing the navigation of Hudson’s river, having by their letter received this day, informed the Convention of their fitting out two armed vessels at Poughkeepsie, and giving the command of one of them to Capt. Henry Benson, who they have sent down to New-York to procure and purchase sundry articles, necessarily required in fitting out said vessels, and request the Convention to supply Capt. Benson with money for that purpose.

JOURNAL OF JOHN PAUL JONES

[May 10 to August 16, 1776]

The next day, the 10th of May, 1776, Mr. Jones was ordered by the commander in chief to take command "as captain of the Providence." This proves that Mr. Jones did his duty on the [New] Providence expedition. As the commander in chief had in his hand no blank-commission, this appointment was written and signed on the back of the commission that Mr. Jones had received at Philadelphia the 7th of December, 1775. Captain Jones had orders to receive on board the Providence the soldiers that had been borrowed from General Washington, and to carry them to New York, there enlist as many seamen as he could, and then return to New London, to take in from the hospital all the seamen that had been left there by the squadron, and were recovered, and carry them to Providence. Captain Jones soon performed these services; and having hove down the sloop and partly fitted her for war at Providence, he received orders from the commander in chief, dated Rhode Island, June 10th, 1776, to come immediately down to take a sloop then in sight, armed for war, belonging to the enemy's navy. Captain Jones obeyed orders with alacrity; but the enemy had disappeared before he reached Newport. On the 13th of June, 1776, Captain Jones received orders, dated that day at Newport, Rhode Island, from the commander in chief, to proceed to Newburyport to take under convoy some vessels bound for Philadelphia; but first to convoy Lieutenant Hacker in the Fly, with a cargo of cannon, into the sound for New York, and to convoy some vessels back from Stonington to the entrance of Newport. In performing these last services, Captain Jones found great difficulty from the enemy's frigates, then cruising round Block Island, with which he had several rencontres; in one of which he saved a brigantine that was a stranger, from Hispaniola, closely pursued by the Cerberus, and laden with public military stores. That brigantine was afterwards purchased by the Continent, and called the Hampden. Captain Jones received orders from the commander in chief to proceed for Boston instead of Newburyport. At Boston he was detained a considerable time by the backwardness of the agent. He arrived with his convoy from Boston, safe in the Delaware, the 1st of August, 1776. This service was performed while the enemy were arriving daily at Sandy Hook from Halifax and England, [under the escort and protection of Lord Howe,] and Captain Jones saw several of their ships of war [which he had the address to avoid.] Captain Jones received a captain's commission [under the United States of America,] from the president of Congress the 8th of August.

It was proposed to Captain Jones by the Marine Committee of Congress to go to Connecticut, to command the brigantine Hampden; but he choosing rather to remain in the sloop Providence, had orders to go out on a cruise against the enemy "for six weeks, [or] two or three months." He was not limited to any particular station or service.

PETITION OF PASSENGERS ON BOARD THE PRIZE SHIP Earl of Errol to the Massachusetts Council

The Petition of Hugh Munro for himself, his Wife, Daughter, Neice, and Two Servants, Geo. Campbell & Servant, John Bar[slet], Child and two Servants and John Grant and his Servant, Humbly Sheweth —

That your Petitioners left the Granadines the ninth day of July last in the Earl of Errol in order to proceed to London, to which Port they were bound, that in the Latitude of 33.5° on the Twenty fourth of the said Month they were taken by Two ships belonging to Gentlemen of New York and bought into the Harbour of Boston.

That notwithstanding the Indulgence and good Usuage they have received since their Capture and the great Lenity shewn to them on their arrival here, They Beg Leave to request of the Honle Council to take into consideration, That being Passengers only on their way home, some for Health and others going to their Families, they Cannot but Labour under many Inconveniences unavoidable to the Situation they are in —

That sensible how ready the Gentlemen of the Council of this State have always been, to aleviate as much as possible Distresses of this Kind, They hope that the same favour that has been so obligingly Granted to Others, will not be withheld from them —
They therefore take the Liberty to inform the Honle Council that in consequence of the permission given to Mr [William] Ross (a Gentleman in Similar Circumstances with themselves) He has now purchased a Ship to proceed to Europe on the Terms allowed him, That this would be an opportunity to your Petitioners of the utmost importance to them, as it is hard to Say when another of the Kind might happen, should they be so unfortunate as to be refused this

On that account they presume to Solicit your Leave to be included on this occasion, which, if Granted, will do as much Honour to your Humanity as it will be doing favour to them

And your Petitioners as in Duty bound will ever Pray, &c &c.

I am surpris'd you should pretend to Contradict my Orders to the Captains of the Schooners at this time when we are alarm'd by a Signal of the Approach of the Enemy, and much more so, as I acquainted you some time since that the Commander in chief had Appointed me to take command of the Navy on the Lakes, had I not receiv'd this Appointment from my rank in the Army and as commander in chief of this Post, it is your duty to obey my Orders, which you have receiv'd and executed for some time past, you surely must be out of your senses to say no Orders shal be obey'd but yours, do you Imagine that Congress have given you a Superior Command over the Commander in chief; or that you are not to be under his direction, if you do, give me leave to say you are much mistaken and if you do not suffer my Orders to be Immediately complied with by sending to the Captains of the Schooners to obey them I shall be under the disagreeable necessity, of Convincing you of your Error by Immediately Arresting you.

Dear General

Crown Point Augst 17th 1776

About two OClock this Afternoon Colonel [Thomas] Hartly acquainted me, that a Party of his men who were posted Seven miles down the lake, as a Covering party to the Oar makers, had made a large fire as a Signal that the enemy were approaching. I sent Colonel Hartly with one hundred men to secure the retreat of the Party if Attack'd and Order'd the two light Schooners down the lake to cover them; they were no sooner under way than Commodore Wynkoop fir'd a Shot & brought them too, and soon after sent me a note (Copy of which I Inclose with my Order to the Captains of the Schooners, and Answer to the Commanders note) I waited some time expecting the Vessells to sail but finding they did not I went on board the Commodore when he Order'd them under sail, he refuses to be commanded by any one and Imagines his Appointment, (which is by General Schuyler) cannot be superceeded. I have shewn him such parts of your Instructions as I thought necessary, which has brought him so far to reason, he says if you think proper to turn him out he will quit the Vessell. I have given him to Understand that I shall at all events pursue your Orders, & that if he did not Incline to remain in the Service he would not be Compell'd to it. Colonel Hartly is not yet return'd. I am with Sentiments of Respect and Esteem [&c.]

MAJOR GENERAL WILLIAM HEATH TO GEORGE WASHINGTON

[Extract] King's Bridge, 17 August, 1776

Dear General, The last night the fire-ships and row-galleys made an attempt upon the enemy’s ships, which lay at anchor up the river. The fire-ships were well conducted; the armed schooner was grappled and burnt; the Phoenix was grappled for about ten minutes, but got herself clear. The
By His Excellency

GEORGE WASHINGTON, Esquire,
General, and Commander in Chief of the Army of the United States of North-America.

WHEREAS a Bombardment and Attack upon the City of New-York, by our cruel and inveterate Enemy, may be hourly expected: And as there are great Numbers of Women, Children, and infirm Persons, yet remaining in the City, whose Continuance will rather be prejudicial than advantageous to the Army, and their Persons exposed to great Danger and Hazard;

I Do therefore recommend it to all such Persons, as they value their own Safety and Preservation, to remove with all expedition, out of the said Town, at this critical Period,—trusting, that with the Blessing of Heaven, upon the American Arms, they may soon return to it in perfect Security. And I do enjoin and require, all the Officers and Soldiers in the Army, under my Command, to forward and assist such Persons in their Compliance with this Recommendation.

Given under my Hand, at Head-Quarters, New-York, August 17, 1776.

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

NEW-YORK:—Printed by JOHN HOLT, in Water-Street.
Lady Washington galley and Independence were conducted with great judgment and bravery. I wish I could say that the other galleys did any thing at all. The Phoenix either slipt or cut her cable; the Rose was left alone, and it is thought might have been taken. I was an eye-witness to the whole; and from the confusion which was apparent, I am confident that if an attempt should be made on the fleet below, and but one or two ships set on fire, their confusion would be beyond description.

My Lord, Being authorized by Congress, as their Commanders in every Department are, to Negotiate an Exchange of Prisoners; and presuming, as well from the nature of your Lordship's command, as the Information that General Howe has been pleased to honor me with, that the exchange in the Naval Line will be subject to your Lordship's Directions, I beg leave to propose the following mode of Exchange for your Lordship's consideration, vizt "Officers for those of equal Rank and Sailors for Sailors."

If the above proposal should be agreeable to your Lordship, I am charged in a particular manner to exchange any Officer belonging to the British Navy in our hands & of equal Rank, for Lieut [James] Josiah, who was lately made prisoner in a ship retaken by the Cerberus frigate.

The reason, my Lord, of my being charged to propose the exchange of Lieut Josiah, in preference to that of any other officer, is that authentic Intelligence has been received, that regardless of his Rank, as an Officer, he has not only been subjected to the duties of a common Seaman, but has experienced many other Marks of Indignity.

As a different Line of conduct, my Lord, has been ever observed towards the Officers of your navy, who have fallen into our Hands, It becomes not only a matter of Right, but of Duty, to mention this to your Lordship, to the end that an Inquiry may be made into the case above referred to.

From your Lordship's character for Humanity, I am led to presume, the Hardships imposed on Lieut Josiah, are without either your Knowledge or concurrence, and therefore most readily hope that upon this representation, your Lordship will enjoin all Officers under your command, to pay such regard to the Treatment of those that may fall into their Hands, as their different ranks and Situations require, and such as your Lordship would wish to see continued by us to those, who are already in our power, or who may hereafter, by the chance of War, be subjected to it. Another Subject of great Importance, We ought to have been informed of, I mean your Navy. or We ought to have known the Number of your armed Vessells, their Tonnage, their Number of Guns, Weight of Metal, Number of Men, Officers Names Ranks and Characters. in short, you should have given Us your compleat Army and Navy Lists — besides this one would have thought We should have been informed, by Some Means or other of the Pri- vateers fitted out in your State — their Size, Tonnage, Guns, Men, Officers' Names and Characters. But in all these Respects I declare myself as igno- rant, as the Duke De Choiseul, and I Suspect much more So. — our People have a curious Way of telling a Story. “The Continental Cruiz- ers Hancock and Franklin took a Noble Prize.” Ay! but who knows any Thing about the Said Cruizers. — How large are they? how many Guns? 6, 9, 12, 18 or 24 Pounders? how many Men? who was the Commander? These Questions are asked me So often, that I am ashamed to repeat my Answer, I don't know. I can't tell. I have not heard. our Province have never informed me. — The Reputation of the Province, the Character of your officers, and the real Interests of both Suffer inexpressibly by this Inaccuracy and Negligence — look into Coll [Archibald] Campbells Letter. with what Precision he States every particular of his own force, of the Force of his Adversary, and how exact is his Narration of Facts and Circumstances, Step by Step? — When shall We acquire equal Wisdom? Sir, Williamsburg August 17th 1776

The Commissioners of the Navy having information of some six pounder on River, will be oblig’d if you’ll make proper inquiry, and acquaint us whither the owner will dispose of them, and the price, if they belong to the Public, be so good as to let us know the safest and most expeditious way of getting them up the Country. We understand they belong to a Mr [Henry] Howard, near the half way House between Hampton and York, who no doubt will spare them as we cannot fitt out our Vessels for want of Cannon. Be pleas’d to acquaint us with the result of your inquiry as soon as possible. I am by order of the Naval Board [&c.]

Major General Horatio Gates to Major General Philip Schuyler

Dear General

Ticonderoga, 18th August 1776

Thursday, General Arnold went to Crown Point to take the command of the Fleet, collected there, Inclosed is a Copy of my Orders to him, which he read and much approved, before his departure from hence, – Late, last night, I received the within Letter from the General, with an Extract of what passed between him and Mr [Jacobus] Wynkoop, which you will also find in the Packet, together with my Letter at Day-Light this Morning, in consequence of General Arnold’s Letter to me I shall send Mr Wynkoop to Albany immediately on his arrival here, and I dare say you will without Scruple, forthwith dismiss him the Service – He ought, upon no account, to be again employed. Many Officers of rank in this department say, he is totally unfit to command a single vessel, at this important hour of business – I would not submit this Affair, to a General Court martial here, least they should have doubts how to decide upon it, as the Continental Articles of war make no Provision for so extraordinary a circumstance – The Times will not admit of trifling – Decision alone must govern these Occasions –

I expect Genl [David] Waterbury by Saturday Night, with the Row Gallies. As he is an able Seaman and a brave Officer, I intend he shall join Genl Arnold with the rest of the Squadron the Instant they can be armed & equipped – As Genl Arnold and he are upon the best terms, I am satisfied no Dispute about command, or want of Confidence in each other, will retard the public service – I am Dr Genl [&c.]

MEMOIRS OF WILLIAM SMITH

[Haverstraw] 18 Do [August]

The Phoenix and Rose shot by all the Forts & got down to Staten Island thro' the Delays in obstructing the Channel. They have created some Expence to the Continent in the Land Carriage of Provisions from Philadelphia to New York—Had they brought up a 1000 spare Hands, they might have spread Fire all along the Shores up to the Highland Forts. It is difficult to say who is most to blame the British General for sending them up so weak or the American one for suffering them to escape when the Feet of the neighbouring Cliffs on the West Side of Hudson’s River furnished moveable Stone & the River Sloops for shutting them in—A Deserter who had assisted in sinking the Vessels was their Pilot thro’ the Gut left unfinished.

[Extract] Kings Bridge Augst 18th 1776

Dear General Early this morning The Phenix man of war, Rose Frigate, and the Two Tenders Came to Sail and stood Down the River, Keeping Close under the East shore, in Order to avoid the Fire of our Cannon, But notwithstanding this Precaution the Phenix was Thrice Hull'd by our Shot from mount Washington, and One of the Tenders Once,— The Rose was Hull'd once by a shot from Burdits Ferry — They Kept their men Close, otherwise Some of them would have been picked Down by a Party of Riflemen who were Posted on the Bank,— They fired Grape shot as they Passed, But did no Damage save to one Tent we hope to hear that your Batteries have Done the work for some of them,— We shall recover Some Swivel Guns, Gun Barrels, shot &c Out of the Wreck of the Tender which was Burnt the Other night, the Particulars of which shall be Transmitted to your Excellency as soon as I can obtain them . . . The ships have now tried the Practicability of Passing our works They have Explored every part of the shore as far as they have gone up the River, and Sounded the River in almost every Place, should the ships rejoyn the Fleet with out Receiving much Damage, I think How[e] will be Emboldened to Attempt an Attack some where above this Place, thinking that there may be a greater probability of succeeding here, than in the Face of so many, and Strong works, as have been Erected in and around the City,— However should his Inclination lead him this way, nature has Done much for us, and we shall as fast as Possable add the Strength of art, . . .

I have Just now received your Excellencys Command, to Enquire into the Cause of the Inactivity of some of the Row Gallies in the late attack on the Enemys' ships but as the Gallies have all Left this Post and fallen Down to the City I must beg your Excellency to Excuse me from that Service —

GEORGE WASHINGTON TO GOVERNOR JONATHAN TRUMBULL

[Extract]

New York Augt 18th - 1776

I am happy Capt Van Buren has succeeded so well in the business he was upon, it being of great consequence for us to fit out and maintain our vessels on the Lake—

On the night of the 16th two of our Fire Vessels attempted to burn the Ships of War up the River. One of them boarded the Phoenix of 44 Guns and was grappled with her for some minutes, but unluckily she cleared herself—The only damage the Enemy sustained was the destruction of one Tender. It is agreed on all hands that our people engaged on this affair behaved with great resolution and intrepidity. One of the Captains—Thomas—it is to be feared perished in the attempt, or in making his escape by swimming, as he has not been heard of—His bravery entitled him to a better fate—Though this enterprise did not succeed to our wishes, I incline to think it alarmed the Enemy greatly—For this morning the Phoenix and Rose with their two remaining Tenders taking the advantage of a brisk and prosperous gale with a favorable tide, quitted their stations and have returned and joined the rest of the Fleet—As they passed our several Batteries they were fired upon, but without any damage that I could perceive—

The whole of the British Force in America, except those employed in Canada, are now here; [Henry] Clinton's arrival being followed the last week by that of Lord Dunmore who now form a part of the Army we are to oppose. His coming has not added but little to their strength— I have the honor to be with great respect Sir [&c.]

LIEUTENANT COLONEL WILLIAM TUDOR TO JOHN ADAMS

[Extract]

New York 18th Augst 1776

Dear Sir It was with no small Degree of Pleasure, on my Return here, I observed the Cheerfulness which brightened the Countenance of every Soldier I met. The whole Army are in most excellent Spirits & shew an Impatience for Action And the Spade & Pick Ax have been so well employ'd, that there is scarce a Spot upon the whole Island, where a Redoubt or Breast Work could be of service, but what has either one or other. From the Advantages we now possess, I think General Howe must be repulsed whenever he attacks, but should he be able to carry the Island, it must be with so prodigious a Loss that Victory will be Ruin. He must get Winter Quarters for his Troops somewhere, & I am afraid if he can't get them in York, he will once more attempt it in Boston. Their Command of the Sea gives them vast Advantages.

The Phenix & Rose have just now passed our Batterys & I fear without much damage – I was in one of the Batterys during the whole time they were within gun shot – The visit they had two nights agoe from our fire ships made them sick of their Station & they have now joined the fleet at the Narrows – Every countenance here is cheerful and if our Enemies dare attack they will undoubtedly procure themselves a severe drubbing – My compliments to friends I am Sr [&c.]

Journal of Ambrose Serle

[On board H. M. S. Eagle]

Sunday, 18th. August.

This Morning, the Wind being strong at N E and the Weather hazy, the Phoenix and the Rose, with two Tenders, came down the River, in defiance of all the Efforts of the Rebels from Batteries, Chevaux de Frize, &c. Not one of all their Shots struck the Phoenix, and but one or two the Rose, and those did but little Damage. One man only was wounded by a Splinter in the Leg. The Rebels kept up an incessant Fire from all their Guns, many of the Shot from which we saw falling very short of their objects. The Ships, on the other hand, returned a smart Fire, and came down, with Sails set and Colours flying, till they joined the Fleet. A young Man came off from the Shore in a Canoe, and got on board the Ships, by whom we find, that the former Accounts of the Situation of the Rebels were true, and that many among them Would be glad to leave their Service. A Captain Hornneck, an Engineer, who came off with him, was drowned by the Canoes striking against the Rose. They tried to save the poor Gentleman, but in vain, as they could not stay for him, being in the midst of the Rebels' Fire. This was regretted as a capital Loss. Capt. [James] Wallace explained the Reason of the great Fire we saw two Nights ago. The Rebels had fitted up a large Brig as a Fire-ship, which came very close to the Phoenix, but did no Sort of Damage. It was well constructed for its purpose, which the activity of our People defeated.

18th [August] Sunday — This night and morning blowing and raining very hard. At five o'clock in the morning or a little after, heard a heavy cannonade up the North River; it continued to increase, and came nearer to us. About seven o'clock all the batteries in and near the town and opposite shore were firing away very fast; at this time very thick, raining and blowing. A little before eight the Phoenix, Rose, Trial schooner, and Shuldham sloop, appeared in sight close to Bedloe's Island. The two ships fired away on both sides, and soon after anchored here at Staten Island. The ships received no damage whatever, and not one shot struck the Phoenix; the Rose had two men slightly wounded.

JOHN LANGDON TO JOSIAH BARTLETT

[Extract] Portsmo August 19th 1776
My Friends Your favours of the 5th instant I've recd and most heartily rejoicewith you at the Success of our Arms, in taking so many Prizes, they are continually coming in here – Capt Brown in a small Sloop has just arry'd here from Holland, belonging to Colonel [Isaac] Sears of New York and others, she is Loaden with Medicines Linnens &c valuable Cargo.–

If the Committee had let me have the Guns for this Ship, when they have been laying at Providence near two Months, and the Ships there not ready to receive them we should no doubt have taken more Prizes, than would have paid for our whole Fleet, however by some fatelity or false information we have been kep't from them –

Our people are Entring on board Privateers very fast, so that we shall have few hands left for the Continent, all this for want of Guns for our Ship, the people do not like to Enter, without Guns, as they want to be out after Prize Money –

RICHARD DERBY, JR. TO JEREMIAH POWELL

Sir Salem 19th Augt 1776
As my Health will not permit me to attend my Duty at the Board at Present, I take the freedom to Inform You that the Brigg Massachusetts is nearly fixed & has onboard 97 Men, 2/3 of which having Entered within this 4 Days.

Nothing seems now to be wanting but 4 or six Guns, & three Small sails, & both Guns & sails I find to be totally out of my Power to Procure, without the Aid of the Councill or [General] Court, — there is a Ship at Danvers which I Suppose is owned in London, she has been Launched I believe 18 months & has a Compleat Suit of Sails, the Value of the three Sails I Want, in Common times would not be more than £15—, I have offered the Capt of this ship twice that money for them, & tho' there is not the least Probability of his Getting away, he will not Part with them. I have Endeavoured to Borrow them, & to oblige my Self to Replace them when, he should want them, but all to no Purpose, I Do not Love to use force, but, Circumstances Consider'd, is it not Reasonable that the Board should furnish me with an Order to take them? if they Do I could wish to have it on the Morrow.

And if the Board will furnish me with an Order on the Commissary, or which will be better Direct Collo [Thomas] Crafts to Deliver Capt [Daniel] Souther four or six Suitable Guns from any Place from wherever they Can be most Conveniently Spared, I Can soon have them. Collo Crafts Informs me that there are two Ship Six pounders onboard the Rowe Gally, I think they Call it; and Certainly they are of no sort of use there, nor Do I think they ever Can be while they Remain Onbord her, & therefore I hope the Board will have no Objection, to those Guns being Orderd onbord the Massachusetts. there are two others, Capt [Caleb] Hopkins informs me, now on Long Wharfe which he Landed out of the George Guard ship, these may, I think, be Spared & Collo Crafts has some others as the Guns now wanted for this Vessel, are not Large Enough to be used to any Great Advantage in Batterys, I know of no Place where they Can at Present be so usefully Employed as onbord this Brigg, but if the Board are of a Different opinion, the Vessell must Lay by. I have taken, Almost, Infinite Trouble to Get as many as I have, and more 'tis not Posable for me to procure at any Rate, — May I ask the favour of your Honor to urge this matter & Let me know the Result of your Endeavours as soon as Possible? I am Sir [&c.]

Watertown, August 19.

Yesterday se'nnight the Tyrannycide Privateer in the Service of this State, commanded by Capt. Fisk sent into Salem a Prize Brig called the St. John. Her Cargo consists of 120 Hogsheads of Molasses, 81 Casks of Rum, 52 Casks Coffee, 14 Hogsheads of Sugar, and 8 Casks of Cocoa.

The same day also arrived at Dartmouth, taken by the above Privateer, the Prize Schooner Three Brothers, Capt. Smith from Dominica for Nova Scotia. Her Cargo consists of 50 Hhds of Rum, 86 Casks of Molasses, 40 Barrels of Flour, 10 Barrels of Pork, and £420, L M. in Cash.

Thursday last a fine Prize Ship, from St. Augustine for London, laden with dry'd skins and Indigo, was sent into Salem by a Privateer commanded by Capt. [John] Skimmer.¹

The same Day arrived at Newbury Port, a Prize schooner, laden with rum, &c. We have not heard by whom she was taken.²

Last Week the Warren Privateer of Dartmouth carried in there a ship from the West-Indies for Newfoundland, laden with sugar and melasses; she was commanded by Capt. Cockran [William Cochran] of this Town, and owned by Thos. Boylstone of Boston.³

1. The prize was the brig Perkins; not a ship. She was taken by Captains Skinner and Tucker, in Washington's schooners Franklin and Hancock.
2. Probably the sloop Two Friends, rather than a schooner, taken by Wingate Newman in the Pennsylvania privateer brig Hancock.
3. The ship Argo of 170 tons.

PRESIDENT OF THE MASSACHUSETTS COUNCIL TO AARON HUBBARD

In Council Watertown Aug. 19. 1776

The Board are greatly concerned that the Cannon which they contracted for with you several months ago, are not yet ready. — They have several Vessels now manned & fitted for the sea, with every article except cannon. By this, a very great expense is daily incurred by the Government, and not the least advantage derived from it; nor can be, till the Vessels are furnished with the cannon which are expected from you. The Board therefore most earnestly urge you to make all possible dispatch in this affair, and to postpone every other business till this is finished.

New-York Gazette, Monday, August 19, 1776

New York, August 19.

A Brig belonging to this Port, arrived last Sunday safe in a Harbour on Long Island, with a valuable Cargo from Lisbon, chiefly consisting of Powder and Salt. The Captain informs us, that a large French Fleet lay off Cape St. Vincent's, and that two British Frigates were cruising about to watch their Motions. Another brig, also belonging to this Port, in Company with him, was taken by one of the British Pirates, off Bermuda.

Every Tide we expect an Attack will be made on this City from the piratical Fleet at Staten-Island.

Vice Admiral Richard Lord Howe to George Washington

Sir,

Eagle off Staten Island, 19th August 1776.

Concurring with the proposition you have been pleased to make in your favor of the seventeenth for an exchange of prisoners in my department, viz. "Officers for those of equal rank, and sailors for sailors," I will take the liberty to propose an officer of the same rank with Lieut. [James] Josiah, when he arrives.

The Cerberus being absent, I have no other information respecting the situation of Mr. Josiah, than what is communicated in your letter. But the matter, you may be assured, shall be inquired into, and every attention paid to the rules of propriety, as well as the dictates of humanity, on all such occasions.

Principles and conduct form the true distinction of rank among men; yet, without a competent habit in the manners of the world, they are too liable to meet with unmerited disregard. But insult and indignities, to persons of whatever rank, who are become parties in these unhappy disputes, cannot be justified, and are, I persuade myself, as much disapproved of by every officer under my command, as they can never cease to be by me. I am, with great personal respect, Sir [&c.]

Howe.

JOURNAL OF THE CONTINENTAL CONGRESS

[Philadelphia] Tuesday, August 20, 1776

Information being given to Congress that the Crews of some of the American vessels have risen against their captains, and piratically seized the vessels, and that one of them being carried into England, the pirates have been publicly countenanced, and the vessel and cargo taken by administration, and sent to victual their fleet and army in America:

Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed to enquire into the circumstances of the captures, and report thereon:

The members chosen, Mr. [Benjamin] Franklin, Mr. [Robert] Morris, and Mr. [Thomas] Jefferson.

Sir, It is impossible that at this date you can be a stranger to the important contest subsisting Between Great Britain and her (late) colonies, Neither can it be necessary for us to enter into any detail of the Origin, or history of the progress of the dispute, sufficient it is for our present purpose to inform your Excellency, that the good people of America grown quite impatient under the yoke of tyranny, and sore with the cruelty's Daily practised against them, have at length determined to shake off the yoke and oppose at the revoque of every thing that is sacred and dear to mankind the future opperations of that government which had determined to seize with a strong hand their property, and in violation of all natural, moral & Civil obligations to annihilate their liberty

These being the avowed purposes of the court of great Britain, pursued with the utmost violence, notwithstanding the many and frequent representations, and supplications of this people, their delegates in General Congress did resolve in July last to shake off[i] their dependence on such oppressors and to set up for free and independant States, as you will see by the printed declaration wich we have the honor to inclose we have the honor to inclose we depend principaly on the Virtue and Strength of our people to support this state of independancy, wich was loudly called for by them and received with universal marks of joy and approbation, but that we might not be wanting in any part of that duty we owe to ourselves, and posterity, we have sent a person to the Court of france to represent our present situation, and to sollicit a favourable disposition toward [us] as we are well assure[d] of the mutual and important advantages that will arise to both Country's from an alliance founded on just principles and supported by commercial inter-course.

The Court of france Cannot be insensible to her Own interest, and we have (uncertain) information that our resident is arrived and has meet a most favourable reception, but from himself we have not yet received any advice

we have also sent a young Gentleman to reside for some time at Martin-ico for commercial purposes. he has been favourably received, and informs us by authority of the general, that our Commerce will meet with Encouragement and protection in that island as we Know well that the island of hispagnolia has Constant occasion for the produce of these states, and Vice Versa, these states will require large supplies of the produce of that island, we have been led by the consideration of mutual benefits to intrude upon your Excellency's time and to solicit your protection, and Encouragement of the Commerce Carried on between our inhabitants and yours. we do not Mean by this to Express a Wish that your Excellency should depart from the line of your duty, or that our people should interfere with the municipal laws and regulations of your Country:

but we are well assured that the favorable Countenance of a Governor will greatly Encourage an infant commerce, and will paliate and Excuse such errors, neglects or crimes against the rules or laws as arise from ignorance of them.

the great painstaking and the vigilance used by our Enemies to deprive us of the necessary supplies of arms and ammunition, has made it necessary for the Congress to institute a trading Committee, stiled the Secret Committee with full powers to pursue such commerce as may be most likely to procure the articles wanted for the public Service. we the undersigned are members of that committee and members of the general Congress as will appear by the Certificate from our president & Secretary. in consequence of the power we are Vested With, and of advice we have lately received of arms and ammunitions being now very plenty in your island, we have sent a young italian Gentleman that had resided here a Considerable time and is warmly attached to our Cause, to Cape francois, where We propose he should remain for the purpose of receiving the Cargoes we send him, and shipping in return the articles we may order. his name is Mr Stephen Ceronio a Gent'n of good family at Genoa, and of exceeding good character and we beg to recommend him to your Excellency'[s] Patronage, and protection during his Stay on the island, not doubting but his Own Merit will recommend himself to your frendship and Civilities, Should he at any time have opportunitys of purchasing Such goods as we Want, and not have sufficient effects in hand we beg your Excellency would in such Cases assure the Owners of them, that we shall Constantly remit him sufficient to discharge all Contracts he makes for our Account.

We hope a favourable acceptance of this application and have the honor to be your Excellency [&c.]

Colony of New Hampshire Brackett Esqr at Portsmouth in the County of Rockingham ss

At a Court Maritime held before the Honble Joshua Hampshire for the Colony of New Hampshire on the twenty first Day of August Anno Domini 1776—
The Information and Libel of Joshua Wentworth of Portsmouth in the County of Rockingham in the Colony aforesaid Esqr for and in behalf of the united American Colonies and also in behalf of the Officers Marines and Mariners of the three continental armed Vessels named Hancock, Lee and Lynch against the Brigantine named the Elizabeth her Cargo and Appurtenances being of the Burthen of about one hundred and forty tons commanded by Peter Ramsey – the Libellant in behalf of said Colonies and of the Officers Marines and Mariners of said three armed Vessels Sheweth that John Manly Commander of the said continental armed Vessel named Hancock, Daniel Waters Commander of the said Continental armed Vessel named Lee & John Ayres Commander of the said Continental armed Vessel named Lynch with the Officers Marines and Mariners of said three armed Vessels did on or about the third Day of April A.D. 1776 (said three armed Vessels being then in the Service of the united Colonies) seize & retake, upon the high Seas and bring into the port of Piscataqua in said County the said Brigantine of about one hundred and forty tons Burthen then commanded by Peter Ramsey – which Brigantine at the time of the Recapture thereof, was in the Possession of the Enemy & had been taken from Richard Hart of said Portsmouth Mercht late Owner thereof by some armed Vessel belonging to the fleet employed against the united Colonies and detained in their possession more than ninety six hours then next preceeding the time of her being retaken as aforesaid, Which same Brigantine at the time of the recapture thereof had on board a Cargo consisting of divers Good Wares & Merchandizes together with four Negroes – which Cargo She was then carrying to the fleet and Army employd against the united Colonies – By means whereof by the Law of said Colony in such case made and provided the said Brigantine her Cargo and Appurtenances ought to be condemned – Wherefor the Libellant in manner aforesaid prays Process against the Premises and that the same may be condemned and disposed of as the Law directs – William Jackson Wm and Jas Jackson, Samuel Austin, John Leverett, Robert Ruggles Samuel Dashwood, Cyrus Baldwin, Edward Keighly, Thomas Drowne, Samuel Whitwell, Adam Rupp, Richard Newton, Samuel Parkman, John Barrett and sons, Jona Williams, John Rowe, William Breck, Abigail Berry, William Burke, Francis Shaw – Saml Ruggles, John Lowell Warden of old North, Benja Austin Mary Williams Nathan Frazier, Samuel Patridge James Jackson & Richard Hart also at the same time, put in their several Claims to said Brigt and part of her Cargo (as on file []). Whereupon after a full hearing of the parties by their Counsel learned in the Law, together with their respective evidences, the case was committed to a Jury duly sworn to try the same according to Law and Evidence – who return their verdict and say – “That the said Brigantine at the time of her being so taken had not before been made a Lawful prize of by the enemy, neither was she at that time carrying her cargo to and for the use of the fleet and Army employed against the united Colonies, & that the several claimants that have filed their claims in this Court for part of her Cargo, ought to have the same restored to them and that Capt Burk properly belonged to the fleet at the time of her being taken and that the Jury had no evidence respecting the Goods that were not claimed."

All which, being seen and understood by the Court it is considered and decreed by the Court that the said Brig and so much of her Cargo, claimed by the several claimants as is mentioned in their claims on file be restored to them according to their respective claims, and that the claimants recover their legal Costs of Court from which decree and sentence of the Court the said Joshua Wentworth Esqr in behalf of the united Colonies and Captors pray'd an appeal to the American Congress – which is granted Him – he giving security to prosecute the same with Effect according to Law.

COLONEL JOSEPH REED TO MAJOR GENERAL WILLIAM HEATH 3

Head Quarters New York
Aug. 21 1776

Sir

The Captains of the Row Gallies having much resented the Suspicions formed of them for their Behaviour up the River as well as when the Men of War passed this Place intimated to the General that they supposed the Situation of the Times would not admit of a Trial or they should call for one. The General has thought proper to take them at their Offer & ordered a Court of Inquiry to sit next Friday – As you seemed to be of Opinion there was a Failure of Duty when they went up last Week, the General desires you would collect such Evidence of their Behaviour as you think will put the Matter in the proper Light & send the Witnesses down here by that Day at 10 oClock. – As Genl [Thomas] Mifflin seems to have been particularly attentive to their Behaviour the General thinks his Testimony may be of Service & would have him attend if he can be spared –
We have nothing new – the Troops continue embarking – but have not yet landed – I am Sir [&c.]

A flag of truce come from the Enemy the 20 Instant the 21 General Washington sent A flag in, and at Evening the General sent the Brigadds to prepare themselves for an Attack for undoubtedly the Enemy was Embark’d, that we may depend on their coming out this evening or tomorrow Morning.

We Learn by authority that the enemy only wait for wind and tide, that they are in readiness for an attack have Embark’d suppose to attack Long Island Powls Hook and the Jerseys, their number imputed to 35 thousand, although it seems incredible, the information we suppose comes from a Spie that we have among them, this information came from the Island the 21st Instant, the manner I cannot describe but no doubt very Privatly some way or other

we learn that the Enemy are very sickly and no doubt it may Prove true, as they have very Little but salt Provisions

Constitutional Gazette, WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 21, 1776

New-York, August 21.

For some days past, the British army on Staten Island, have been embarking on board the transports; so that we expect their whole force before this city every tide. We hope to give them a reception, worthy the free born sons of America, and may every freemen of America make this his Toast, That New York is now an assylum for American Liberty.

Yesterday a number of the ministerial fleet left their station at Staten-Island, and went through the Narrows; it is supposed they mean to land part of their troops on Long-Island.

LIEUTENANT ELIAS BALDWIN TO SOLOMON PORTER, DANBURY MERCHANT 1

[Extract] New York Augt. 21, 1776

We are in great Expectation of an Attack this Day. A Spy went over I hear from Amboy some days since Returned Yesterday – says they were to make the attack this day, in 3 places, on long Island – at Amboy – & North of the City from the North River Perhaps their sails being very wet from the Shower last Evening & the wind a head this morning may prevent the Attack this Day. The Army Numerous, tho’ how numerous I cant learn & In high spirits. That I doubt whether we shall ever be better prepared for them than now. The Connecticut Militia are mostly arrived. Some Troops have come in from the Southward how many cant learn. – Sickness I believe abates in the Army since the Rains – of which there hath been great Plenty this way. But I can’t tell with much Certainty. –

3 oClock afternoon.

About one all the Militia from Connecticut paraded together 12 or 13 Regiments amounting probably to between 5 & 6000 Men – the greatest Number [of] Men under Arms that ever I saw were vie[wed] by General Washington & most of the other General Officers. The Colonels are to wait upon the Generals at 5 to receive more particular ord[ers]. Tis Reported the Enemy have landed at the south[ern] Extremity of long Island. I saw several fires In that part of the Island – w[hich] tis conjectured are the Inhabitants burning their hay – Grain &c to prevent th[e] Enemy’s receiving benefit therefrom. Tis not Improbable some attack may be made on the Morrow – The Critical Moment probably is not far of[f]. – May God preserve us & give such sucess as shall effectually secure our dear priveliges – that we may be a free people as long as the sun & moon shall endure – All seem to be in high spirits . . .

JOHN ADAMS TO JAMES WARREN

Philadelphia, August 21, 1776

[Extract]

The success of your Privateers is encouraging. I lament with you the Languor and Inattention to the Fleet. I wish I could explain to you my Sentiments upon this Subject, but I will not. I am determined you shall come here, and see, and hear, and feel for yourself, and that Major [Joseph] Hawley and Some others shall do the same. I must not write Strictures upon Characters. I set all Mankind a Swearing if I do. I must not point out to you, not even to you, the Causes of the Losses, Disgraces, and Misfortunes, that befall you. I make the Faces of my best Friends a mile long if I do. What then shall I do? Just what I have long Since determined, go home, and let two or three of you come here and fret yourselves, as long as I have done, untill you shall acknowledge that I had Reason.

There is a Marine Committee, who have the Care of every Thing relating to the Navy. Hopkins and his Captains, Saltonstall, and Whipple, have been summoned here, and here they have lingered and their ships laid idle. I cannot, I will not explain this Business to you; because if I should, it would get into a News Paper, I suppose. You must come and see.

We suffer inexpressibly for Want of Men of Business. — Men acquainted with War by Sea and Land, Men who have no Pleasure but in Business. You have them, send them along.

Have you got Boston Harbour sufficiently fortified? If not take no Rest until it is done. [William] Howe must have Winter Quarters, somewhere. If he can't obtain them at New York, he must attempt them at the Southward or Northward, it will be your Fault, if you are not prepared for him in the North.

CAESAR RODNEY TO THOMAS RODNEY

P.S. One [William] Woodcock, at Wilmington, has been speaking to me about a privateer he was applied to to build by Captain [Charles] Pope. He says he has a parcel of carpenters sent to him and cannot go on for want of the iron-work, rum, &c. Some person among you ought to go immediately and enter into a contract with him and find the means of supplying him.

THOMAS JONES TO THE MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY

Virginia Northumberland County August 21st 1776

Gentlemen I have delivered to Mr Thos Walker at the request of Capt
Nicholson, four hundred & thirty two half barrels of Gun-Powder, Eighteen Chests of Arms, four loose Muskets, and Twenty pieces of Oznabrigs, Mr Walker tells me he received only 431 half barrels of Powder, the Persons I entrusted to deliver it, are certain they delivered the whole quantity. I hope it will be found right. — As soon as I was informed by Captn [Thomas] Conway of his arrival,² and that the Powder &c was landed, & stored not more than two Miles from navigation in the lower end of the County, I thought it by no means a safe place for so valuable Cargo, especially as Lord Dunmores Fleet was lying at no great distance from it, therefore I directed it to be carted about 12 or 14 Miles higher up the County, where it might be more immediately under my own inspection, this, together with the necessity of keeping a constant guard, has occasioned a considerable expence, but not more I hope than will be thought requisite. The several accounts were lay'd before the Committie, who regulated them as they thought proper, except some few, which I made a particular agreement for.—You may be assured Gent. that I have acted as if it had been upon my own account, and the trouble I have been at, you are exceedingly welcome to. I think myself happy in having had it in my power to serve the Province of Maryland, particularly on so interesting an occasion.

1. Revolutionary War Prize Cases, Court of Appeals, 1776–1787, NA.
2. The case of the Vulcan generated lengthy litigation. John Lyon and John Kellum claimed to be the real captors. James Ingram of Norfolk, owner of the Vulcan, claimed that necessity forced him to join Dunmore. He contended that the sloop never carried "Supplies to the Ministerial Army," and could not be taken as a legal prize. The Virginia Admiralty Court denied Ingram’s claim, and he appealed to the Continental Congress. On January 24, 1777 Congress reversed the decision of the Virginia court, ibid.

No 21
My Lord;

The unlucky turn the naval operations took at Charlestown makes a very considerable change in the situation of affairs in this Province.

It was thought expedient for the benefit of this Province to summon the Inhabitants to meet me at the Statehouse yesterday morning.

After mentioning a few outlines of the present situation of public Affairs, and recommending a manly spirit to be exerted in defence of the Province, and that it was the duty of every man in these bad times to shew his loyalty and allegiance to the best of Kings, and his duty and affection to the British Constitution; I proposed to them to be embodied into a Battalion of Militia. I have the satisfaction to inform your Lordship, that the whole joyfully consented without a dissenting voice, they testified their readiness to comply with whatever I thought fittest for them, and would go wherever I should lead them in defence of the Province.

I then declared Lieutenant Governor [John] Moultrie to be their Colonel, Robert Bisset Esqr Lieutenant Colonel, and Benjamin Dodd Esqr Major, which gave general satisfaction.

The Companies are to be composed of a Captain, a Lieutenant, two Sergeants, two Corporals, and twenty five private Sentrys.

Two Companies of the Battalion will be raised at Saint John River. I expect four here. I fear by what Colonel Bisset mentions, we cannot venture to raise at Doctor Turnbull’s Settlement more than one Company, but in the other Settlements in these parts, we shall be able to raise four black Companies, to which must be given double or treble white Officers, in proportion to the Officers of the white Companies.

If these measures meet your Lordships approbation, I shall be happy.

I have the honour to be with the greatest respect [&c.] Pat. Tonym

Upon General Schuyler's request, three Sea Captains are appointed here, to raise Crews of Seamen, and proceed to Lake Champlain, and take command of some of the armed vessels on the Lake — To enable them to enlist their men, we have advanced the necessary sums out of our Treasury, to be reimbursed from the Chest at Albany —

A quantity of Cordage and Rigging, upon General Schuyler's application, have been purchased in this State and at his request, Two Hundred Swivels will be cast with all expedition for the use of the armed vessels on Lake Champlain.

Last Saturday Capt Hinman of your armed Brig Cabot presented me a letter from Colo [Gurdon] Saltonstall, directing the former to ask my opinion relative to his sailing on a Cruise — Considering that he had been long waiting in readiness; that the multiplicity of business in Congress is the probable reason of his not receiving orders for it; that the expense is great; that his Sailing may prove beneficial; that the season and opportunity of going out with Captains [Seth] Harding and [William] Packwood in armed vessels afford a prospect of distressing our Enemies and of helping these States — I gave him my opinion that it is advisable for him to embrace the first fair wind, and good opportunity to proceed on a Cruise: To use his best discretion as to the manner of his proceeding, and to the time for his return — I apprehend he will govern himself by this, and hope the measure may meet your approbation —

Continental Marine Committee to Commodore Esek Hopkins 1

The Marine Committee

Sir Philadelphia August 22nd 1776.

As you are now about to return to Rhode Island where we understand the Alfred and Cabbot remain inactive.

—We think proper you should exert your utmost endeavours in conjunction with the Commanders of those Vessels to get them equipped and manned with all possible expedition, for a six months cruise.

We think a most important service may be performed by the Alfred, Columbus, Cabbot and Hampden by dispatching them for Newfound Land with orders to destroy the British fishery there; they must make prize of every British ship or vessel they meet with; they must seize and destroy their fishing boats and stages and make prisoners of their fisher men, or such of them, as will not freely enter into our service, and as it is highly probable they may take more prizes than they can conveniently spare men to bring into port, it may be proper in such case to destroy them. The season is now come when the Newfound Land men begin to load their fish cargoes, consequently no time must be lost, and if the Columbus is not in port when you reach Rhode Island, you'll dispatch the Alfred, Cabbot and Hampden immediately appointing such place of rendezvous and such signals as will enable them to meet again in case of separation, and also enable the Columbus to follow and join them, and whenever she returns from her present cruise, you must order her on this service giving the commander of her a copy of the instructions, signals &c. We doubt not there are some British ships of war on the Newfound Land station to protect their fishery and of course our commanders must act with such caution as to avoid being taken themselves, but we hope this will not prevent a spirited and resolute conduct in the execution of their expedition, which we flatter ourselves will in the event prove highly detrimental to our enemies — honourable and beneficial to the United States of America. — These being the objects we have in view we desire that your orders to the commanders may be adapted in the best manner your knowledge and experience can devise to obtain the end proposed.

When this small squadron have done the enemy as much mischief as they can in that quarter they must proceed into the Gulph of St Lawrence and there take cruizing ground as may be most likely to intercept the supplies of Indian Goods and other stores that we suppose will be sent from England for Canada when they know that our Troops have evacuated that Country. There is another object well worthy of their Attention but we fear the acquisition of it is too uncertain to found a Cruize upon, we mean the Capture of the Hudsons Bay Ships which in their return must be very valuable; if the Captains should be of opinion that by dividing their force they can accomplish both these services, we would submit that Point to your and their determination. We have no doubt but they will take valuable prizes in the Gulph of St. Lawrence if the Cruising ground is well chosen, and they must send their prizes for such of our Ports as they will be most likely to reach with safety. We deliver you herewith some of the marine books, list of continental agents in every state, and several of the printed declarations of Independence. They may do well to notify the inhabitants of the French islands of St. Pierrs & Miquelon of this declaration and sound how the inhabitants stand affected toward us, assuring them the French Government favor our Cause and will probably become our Ally by treaty. Perhaps our ships may find shelter and protection in these islands if the enemy have ships in that quarter too strong for us. Should this Fleet take any prizes whose cargoes might be particularly useful to the inhabitants of these States, they may do well to convey such into port, and if they gain any intelligence that the Commanders think important they must dispatch one of the small vessels with the account to us—putting into the first port and sending an express with it to the General or to us. You will instruct the commander of each vessel to write us by all opportunities, of their proceedings and of the occurrences they meet with, they must make us monthly returns of their crews, of the provisions made to them, of the provisions, and make copies of their log books and journals to be transmitted to us at their return.

They must be careful of their ships, stores and materials, use their officers and men in such a manner as will recommend the service and at the same time preserve strict discipline. They will no doubt from principles of humanity and generosity treat their prisoners with all the kindness and attention their respective situations and circumstances will admit of and we hope their conduct will in all things be such as to merit the continuance of our confidence.

You will direct the commanders of each vessel to be very exact in keeping a list of all persons on board that are entitled to prize money mentioning their names, stations, & shares, copies of which they must furnish the agent or agents that receive the prizes in order that just & equitable distribution of prize money may in due time be made.

We also wish to have a full and just valuation of all the cannon, stores &c which you brought from Providence that have been appropriated to public use or that remain for that purpose, and we desire you would have the vessels you took and the property in them libelled and tried in order that Such part as is condemned may be sold – the Accounts Settled and distribution of the Prize Money made. We are sir [&c.]

We also deliver you Some blank Warrants which you will fill up with Proper Persons for the Master and other inferior Officers for that Schooner.

Let it be an article of your instructions to all the Captains to be particularly careful to Send all salt they May take to Some of these States as we expect it will be very Much Wanted. Should you think it adviseable to go upon the expedition to Newfound Land &c Yourself You May do therein as you judge will be Most Serviceable to the continent and hoist your Broad Pendant on board any of the Vessels you choose. –

I some time ago advised you that Congress had appointed you to the command of the largest of the frigates, called the Congress now at Poughkeepsie, and desired you would furnish me with a list of such persons as you would recommend for your commission and warrant officers, but am as yet without your answer, so conclude my letter miscarried. Pray let me hear from you as soon as possible.

Ran away from on board the Scorpion sloop of war, the following seamen, viz. George Patterson, boatswain, a well set man, about 5 feet 8 inches high, brown complexion, short black hair curl'd round, and snub nose: had on a small round hat bound, a blue jacket and narrow trousers. James Parks, a likely well made man, about 5 feet 7 inches high, brown complexion and black hair, with a cock'd hat: had on a long blue jacket and short wide trousers. John Lowry, a stout well made man, with a red face, light hair, about 5 feet 6 inches high: had on an old blue jacket and an old pair of narrow duck trousers. Thomas Davis, a slender made man, about 5 feet 10 inches high, dark complexion, and much pitted with the small-pox, and long black hair: had on, a new felt hat, blue jacket, and new osnabrig trousers. David Rees, a short slender man, about 5 feet 5 inches high, dark complexion, short strait black hair, and has a great impediment in his speech: had on an old hat, blue jacket, and very dirty shirt and trousers. Whoever takes up the said seamen, and secures them in any gaol so that I can get them, shall receive eight dollars reward for each.

I wrote you the 1st Inst Copy of which goes by this Opportunity.—

Mr. [James] Le Maitre has at length arrived here, but as I apprehended, by way of Halifax & without the Sloop. — On the Night of the 5th of June near the Island of Bermuda, the Crew, instigated & headed by the Mate (who it seems was a Caledonian) fell upon Capt [William] Britton & him whilst in their Beds and threatening the least resistance with immediate Death, made them both prisoners, at the same Instant Breaking open their Chests & seizing upon all their papers, which the Hurry & unexpectedness of the Assault gave them no time to destroy. Having thus far accomplished their villainous design, they took the Management of the Vessell upon themselves & shaped a course to the N Eastward, intending as the mate has since acknowledged, for some port of Great Britain, with hopes, no doubt, of being generously rewarded for their Treachery. But falling in with an armed Transport, a little to the Eastward of the Banks they were taken & conducted back to Halifax, & there delivered with the papers &ca. to the Governor 2 Le Maitre says he is ignorant of the Contents of the Letters but supposes they contained some matters of Consequence as the Governor appeared much vexed when he read them & treated him in a very scurvy manner, suffering him to be despoiled of all he had, even his wearing Apparel, Shoe Buckles, &ca.

This is the third Instance of the kind that has come within my Knowledge, and I am really afraid they will happen more frequently unless you are exceedingly cautious at least in the Appointment of your Officers.— The Congress I think could scarce devise a punishment adequate to such perfidy.

Mr Le Maitre informs that Admiral Howe arrived with his Squadron at Halifax about the 26th of June, but as the General his Brother had left that place with his Army a few days before, he without making any stay, proceeded to Long Island, which it seems is now the place of rendezvous.— According to the best Accounts he could obtain, the Ministerial Army there consist’d of 20,000 Men, 12,000 of whom are, or I would rather say, were Hessians, & 3000 Highlanders, the residue being the Remains of the Boston Army. He adds that [John] Burgoyne was at the Head of 9000 Troops in Canada, & that they were daily looking out at Halifax for 6000 Hanoverians & a further reinforcement of Highlanders— And it is reported here that there is a Negociation on foot between England & Russia for 13,000 Russians, wch are to be sent also to America. — They are formidable Stories, & by no means incredible, for you must be convinced long before this that no Expence, no Means, no Art will be unessay'd to crush & utterly ruin you.

These things I doubt not you’ll have heard long ago, at least such of them as are passing in your Neighbourhood, and you must ascribe my troubling you with a repetition of them to the Anxiety where with I am continually agitated for the Success & prosperity of the Cause. I am Sir [&c.]

R Harrison
I hope I shant have so bad an Acct to render of Capt [Thomas] Patton – but I really begin to suspect some thing extraordinary has happened to him – He got out safe and is no where in the West Indies, I believe. 3

Major General Horatio Gates to Brigadier General Benedict Arnold

Dear General, Ty[onderoga 23d August 1776: –

This will be deliver’d to you by Doctor [Stephen] McCrea, whom at the Recommendation of Doctor [Jonathan] Potts, I have appointed First Surgeon to the Fleet under your Command. he has Instruments, & Medicines, two things much in request with you. Mr Francis Hagan accompanies Mr M’Crea, as his Assistant Surgeon. I cannot procure any Instruments for him here, but wish you could hire Doctor Speram’s for the Voyage. You are I am told acquainted with Doctor M’Crea. I am assured his Abilities are their Own Recommendation. – Another Gondola sails from hence this morning, & the Row Galley will Sail tomorrow. Yesterday Mr Titcomb, Mas[te]r Carpenter from Skeesborough return’d thither from hence he got a good Recruit of Ship Carpenters Twelve of his Gang being now Sick: he is a fine looking Fellow and seems desirous to Command The Row Galley he has just finish’d, he professes himself a Seaman, from the Sense, & Manly appearance of Mr Titcomb, I think you would do well to appoint him, but I shall not interfere further than to recommend him – I wrote yesterday to General [David] Waterbury, to Spur him up to reinforce you with all Speed with the Row Galleys. I am confident he will exert himself to Join you as expeditiously as possible. – The Rumour we heard of an Action at New York, proves premature. the Enemy had Embark’d from Staten Island, but not Landed again when the last Accounts came from thence – it is positively asserted that The Hessian General had sent to Genl Washington, to know what Treatment the Prisoners of that Principality were to Expect, & was Answerd that they must Expect to be treated as Hirelings – may Health Honour & Success attend You – I am Dear General

I have borrowed Dr Sparham’s Instru[men]ts. I am glad to hear the Gondalo, & Gally is like to Join me so soon. – I have not the least objection to Captain Titcomb’s commanding One of the Gallies I think he had better take the Second he is building as takeing him from his gang before she is finished will retard the business. – I believe Capt. New York, August 23, 1776.

Sir: I beg leave to inform Congress that Yesterday Morning and in the course of the preceding night, a considerable body of the Enemy, amounting by report to eight or nine thousand, and these all British, Landed from the Transport Ships mentioned in my last at Gravesend Bay on Long Island, and have approached within three miles of our Lines, having marched across the Low, cleared Grounds, near the Woods at Flat Bush where they are halted, from my last Intelligence.

By Wednesday Evening's Post I received a Letter from General Ward, inclosing a Copy of the Invoice of Ordinance Stores taken by Captain Manly with the Appraisement of the same, made in pursuance of my direction founded on the Order of Congress, which I do myself the honor of transmitting.

2. The stores appraised were those from the ordnance brig Nancy, taken by Manley in Washington’s schooner Lee. See Volume 2.

CAPTAIN THOMAS CREGIER TO THOMAS RANDALL

Sir

Cranberry Inlet, August 23d, 1776.

I received your favour about four weeks since by the hand of Doctor Boyd, wherein I found you advised me to join Capt. [William] Rogers, but understanding Rogers was gone to the Sound in order to refit, and what more induced me to keep to the southward, was my having expectation of meeting with some of the fleets, who I much expected this way, but have been deprived of that satisfaction. There appeared six sail one day, and seven sail the other day, but they are all large ships under strong convoys, so there was no doing any thing with them, and every day frigates cruising along this coast. Three days ago, fell in with a ship and sloop tender, about ten guns, the frigate being about a mile and a half from the sloop, and was determined to give the sloop battle, but could not bring her to battle. I have been assisting in bringing in this and Egg Harbour Inlet, 2 prizes taken from the West Indies by 2 different privateers; one of those prizes I had much trouble with, and, in short, was three days at work getting the other into port, which lay aground on the bar of Egg Harbour, a ship of three hundred tons, laden with sugar, rum and molasses, bound to Bristol.
Dutch Conception of the British Landing on Long Island, August 22, 1776.

I am too well informed that your city is invaded by pirates and ruffians, which I hope in God to hear a good account of them, and that very shortly. My provisions grow short, and in a little time shall want a new supply, unless I fall in with some of the enemy’s store vessels; but as for that I can not promise myself, but will discharge my duty in the search of them; and as for being supplied by the way of Long island, I believe there is no prospect, as I do imagine the troops intend landing on the said island. My bread is but very indifferent, and does not keep good, although it is aired every fortnight, yet it moulds fast, and believe it never was made of sound flour. You know I laid in only four months’ provisions, and you may judge how long what remains will serve me; my people begin to want many articles, and I would be glad if you will send me some cash, as I may furnish them with a little. I have advanced of my own cash to the officers and men, thirty-nine pounds. The custom out of Philadelphia, is to advance half of their wages monthly, and beg you will send me whatever you think proper, and charge the same to me. I beg your advice in every respect, and any instruction given me, shall gladly comply with it. Myself, officers and men, are willing at any time to march to your assistance, on the shortest notice, and am willing to sacrifice both life and every thing to serve my country. Whatever instruction you may have, let me have it by the bearer, my chief lieutenant. I remain with due respect, &c

Thomas Cregier.

To Thomas Randle, Esqr. Member of the Provincial Congress in New-York, or any of the Marine Committee.

[Philadelphia] Friday, August 23, 1776

Resolved, That the Marine Committee be authorized and empowered to purchase materials, in all such parts of America as they may think proper, for building more ships of war, and that the said committee report to Congress a plan of the ships that should be built in addition to the present navy.

Continental Marine Committee to Lieutenant John Baldwin 1

Sir [Philadelphia] August 23d 1776

The Continental Schooner Wasp under your command being now thoroughly repaired, well fitted equipped and manned you are immediately to proceed in said Schooner on a Cruize against the enemies of these States. We deliver you herewith a Marine Book by which you will know who are our enemies and also how to conduct yourself in conformity to the Continental Rules and Regulations you have likewise a List of the Agents in the several States to some of whom you must address the Prizes you take. We deliver you herewith a Letter for a Gentleman in Bermuda which is of much consequence to America. You are therefore to proceed with the utmost expedition to Port Ellis at the Eastend of that Island and deliver the said Letter as quickly as possible, receive from him any others he may send in return, and as you will then be near the best Cruizing ground for West India Ships you may make a Cruize about that Latitude for such length of Time as your Provisions will enable you to keep the Sea, unless success should tempt you to return much sooner with a good Prize. You must be careful of the schooner her Stores and Materials. Use your people well but preserve strict discipline, treat prisoners if any you make, with humanity and in all things be duly attentive to the honor and interest of America, if you can get any Seamen at Bermuda Ship as many as you can accommodate and bring us the best account you can obtain of the State and condition of that Island, with respect to Provisions, Numbers of Inhabitants what Canon arms &c they have there and enquire particularly after any British men of war, that have been there, that are there, or that are expected. Should you be unfortunately taken either going to or after you leave Bermuda be sure to destroy all Letters you may have for or from that Island. Should you gain any intelligence you may think important you must quit all other pursuits to inform us thereof soon as possible. Wishing you success We are Sir [kc.]

Lieutenant John Hennessy to the Pennsylvania Council of Safety

I am really sorry I lye under the disagreeable necessity of Resigning, thro' the means of my taking a reasonable part (as becoming an officer) w'th Commodore [Samuel] Davison. I am sertain, was I to Continue in the fleet (w'ch I make, no doubt, your Hon'ble board w'd appoint me to some Command,) it w'd be disagreeable to some of the Gentlemen, and for the sake of any more disturbance, I beg leave of your Hon'ble body to request of my Resignation. 2 I am not, upon no acco't whatever, going to Sea in any Private property, but in the service of the Continent, w'ch I think is respect-fuller for a man that follow'd the sea, and more service to my Country, than to Continue in River Service. I remain, Gentlemen, wishing the service all the success Providence can bless 'em w'th, Your Hon'ts Most [&c.]

2. Ibid., 261, 304, Hennessy had been commissioned as First Lieutenant of the gondola Effingham October 4, 1775, and transferred to the Arnold floating battery March 15, 1776.
On Motion, Resolved, That the appointment of commanders for the vessels and armed boats ordered to be fitted out by the last convention, be made by the Council of Safety.

"AT WINDSOR, 40 MILES FROM HALIFAX, NOVA SCOTIA, Aug. 24, 1776" 1

Declaration of James Young, First Mate, and John M'Kurdy, Second Mate of the Anne Transport, on board of which were 100 Men of the 72d Regiment

That on the 8th of June, they were taken near Cape Ann by four privateers, and carried into Marblehead; that they privately bought a boat and made their escape to Annapolis Royal about a fortnight ago.

That the rebels have four forts, at or near Marblehead, but keep a guard only in one of them, where there are thirty pieces of cannon, two of which are forty-two pounders, which they brought from Boston; the trunions being broke off, they have fixed them in wooden stocks, and mounted them on carriages.

That there are two large ships at Newburyport, rigged, but no guns or men: 2 A brig of fourteen guns at Salem, and one at Portsmouth, ready for sea.

That the Dispatch Schooner, of five guns, was carried into Salem the latter end of last month, by a sloop of 14 guns. The Captain, [John] Goodridge, and his brother, the mate, killed. The master lost his arm, and five out of eight seamen killed. 3 That the surgeon, a Mr. Charley, is at Marblehead.

That eight ships from the West Indies have been taken.
That they are fitting out one of them, which was a Spanish frigate, to carry 20 guns.

That a ship belonging to one Reid, [James] Kennedy, master, that sailed from Halifax with Gen. Howe, is taken. That Mr. Benjamin Davis, and several others were passengers, and that they treated Mr. Davis very ill. That they do not give the prisoners sufficient provisions, but offer them good wages to enter on board their privateers, and that many do enter.

That the rebels had, for some time, a flag flying in Nantasket-road, to decoy vessels in, and that as their men were coming out of Marblehead, they saw a large ship going in, which they took to be a transport.

That the congress have promised the masters of the prizes, that they shall have leave to go away the 11th of September.

That the people in the country were in great distress for want of provisions, much discontented, and say, they do not like this sort of liberty.

That there are very few in arms at Boston, and only a few artillery at Castle William.

Portsmouth, Aug. 24, 1776

Capt. Francis Brown, who arrived here last Sunday, in 9 weeks from Amsterdam, laden with drugs, dry goods, spices, &c. &c. informs us he saw a fleet of about 30 sail (which he took to be Howe's) the 31st of May, in the English Channel – He could procure no public papers on any terms.

Last Tue[s]day the Nelly Frigate, of London, Capt. Lyonel Bradstreet, commander, last from the Bay of Honduras, with 126,000 feet Mahogany, 40 tons Logwood, and a number [of] fine Turtle, was sent into this Port, by the Hancock and Franklin Cruizers – She was taken in Latt. 38 00 N. Long. 65 06 W. out 10 Weeks.¹

We are desired to Inform the Public, the Account in last Week's Boston Papers concerning the taking the Ship Reward (bro't into this Port) by S[t]ratagem is a mistake; as she was chased from one o'Clock P.M. till 12 next Morning, when she struck to the Hancock privateer. ²

COLONEL JOSEPH REED TO GOVERNOR JONATHAN TRUMBULL 1

Sir There can be no doubt that before this reaches you you will have heard that the Enemy have landed a considerable body of men on Long Island within 7 miles of our Lines. We cannot yet determine whether the main body of the Army is landed with a view to make a general attack on that side, or whether it is a large detachment sent to draw off our attention from this place while they proceed up with their Fleet and principal Force – The success has been various in the little skirmishes we have had, but our Troops have generally drove them back.

Before his Excellency rode out this morning he directed me to acquaint you with our Situation, and to submit to your consideration, whether it would be possible to transport a body of men (say 1000) to Long Island below the Enemy with a view to divide their Force and make a diversion – His Excellency is not insensible that a great part of the Western Militia are now in this Camp, but he supposes it might be possible that the Eastern Militia might be employed in such a service. I should illy express the General’s intention, if what I have said should be construed into an order or even a request, unless in your own judgement & those with whom you think proper to consult, it should stand fully approved: nor will our operations be governed in the least by a dependence on such a measure. But at the same time the great advantages arising from it are so extremely obvious that I need not enlarge upon them.

I have the honor to present you with the Genls respect and to assure you that I am [&c.]

This morning arrived in this harbour, the sloop Elizabeth, Robert Bur-with those undermentioned were taken by a Pirate schooner fitted out in Maryland, called the Enterprize, of 12 guns and [30] men, commanded by a

... The Milford Frigate of 28 Guns came to our Bay yesterday, the last evening a Ship tis said very narrowly escap'd falling into her hands, she (the ship) put into Marblehead with all sail, had she had two miles further to have gone, she must have been inevitably lost as the Milford was just at her Stern; this morng. we heard a very heavy firing off[f] in the Bay since which we have an accot of the Frigate's having takeng a Schooner from which she took all the hands & then Burnt her - 'tis said the Council has sent an expresses to Newbury & to the other seaports where there are Con-

[Extract] Philadelphia August 25, 1776

We are now approaching rapidly to the autumnal Equinox, and no great Blow has yet been struck, in the martial Way, by our Enemies nor by Us. If We should be blessed this Year, with a few Storms as happy as those which fell out last Year, in the Beginning of September, they will do much for Us. The British Fleet, where they now lie, have not an Harbour, so convenient, or safe, as they had last Year. Another Winter will do much for Us too. We shall have more and better Soldiers. We shall be better armed. We shall have a greater Force at Sea. We shall have more Trade. Our Artillery will be greatly increased, our Officers will have more Experience, and our Soldiers more Discipline – our Politicians more Courage and Confidence, and our Enemies less Hopes. Our American Common-wealths will be all compleatly form’d and organized, and every Thing, I hope, will go on, with greater Vigour.

JOSHUA WENTWORTH TO GEORGE WASHINGTON 1

Sir,

Portsmouth Augst. 26, 1776

I have the pleasure to advise the arrival at this Port a Prize Ship named the Nelly Frigate (Lyonel Bradstreet Mastr) from the Bay of Honduras for London, Lading with a Cargo of 120,000 feet Mahogany Logs, and Thirty Tons ship't & un[illegible] Logwood, sent in by the Hancock Capt Tucker & the Franklyn Capt Skimmer, in the service of the United Colonies. The Vessel & Cargo the property of Inhabitants of Great Brittian, I have Libled her & shall persue to Trial &ca

The Trial on the recapture of the Brig. Elizabeth, taken by Comr Manly & others in the service of the Continent & bound for Halifax, ended the 22d Inst The Jury acquitted her & Cargo, which appearing so directly Contrary to the Resolves of Congress & the Law of this Colony; That I conceiv'd it my Duty to appeal; in Justice to the Continent & Captors, which I hope Your Excellency will approbate. Part of the Claimants (notwithstanding the verdict is in their favor) are desireous of compromiseing with the Captors, and offer them their full Quota, of Salvage Which is, the one third of half the Value of Vessel & Cargo, we hav'g establish'd that the Enemy were [in] Possession more than ninty six hours, but the flagrant error in the Jury, forbid my conced'd to any compromise, for the Captors, as in that Case I must have surrender'd the Just Claim of the Continents, added to which there was taken with said Brigt a Mr [William] Jackson, a Mr [Edward] Keighley & Mr [Richard] Newton passengers with their Effects, & those Effects are Intended, as the resolves of Congress express to supply the enemy, & become forfeited yet th[ey] were releas'd with the rest of the Cargo—Each claim is separate, shou'd Your Excellency recommend my compromisg with those Claimants who are Esteem'd friendly, I shall Comport with it, but as your last favor desired my persuing the line of Duty pointed out by the Laws of the Continent I shall steadilily attend toe them, until otherways directed—From a Principle of Humanity I cou'd wish the suffering Claimants cou'd be releived, but I think it out of the line of my Duty to help them.—In a few days I shall forward the appeal to the Secretary of Congress and fully advise him thereon, and shou'd he think it necessary Shall attend the Trial at Philadelphia or elsewhere that may be appointed

The Nelly Frigate is a Ship of 305 Tons mounts 2 three pounders & 4 Two pounders.

The Petition of William Pringle late Commander of Ship Anna Maria. — Humbly Sheweth

That on the 5th July last, your Petitioner, in the Ship Anna Maria, of which he was Master, bound from Barbadoes to London, was taken by the Private Sloop of War, called the Revenge, Commanded by Capt Joseph White, and about the 18th of said Month brought into Salem. —

That your Petitioner, having a Family in England, must make it very distressing, both to him and them to be destained in this Country. —

That your Petitioner before he left Barbadoes, had bought and forwarded home, Bills of Exchange to a very considerable amount; which Bills were drawn on the strength and Credit of the Sugars on board the said Ship Anna Maria; which Bills will now of course be protested, and if your Petitioner should not get home soon, so as to obtain Security for the payment of them, he may probably entirely lose the Money.

That your Petitioner being detained here, will be very detrimental to his affairs on many other Accounts: and his extream anxiety of mind, which he must necessarily be under, arising from his being separated from his Family and Friends, and in a Country where he is an entire Stranger (tho' treat'd with great kindness and humanity) he apprehends will greatly injure and impair his health. —

Your Petitioner's humble Prayer therefore is that the Honorable Board would be pleased to permit him to take passage for England in the Ship Creighton, lately purchased at Boston ² by Capt William Ross, who was Passenger on board and taken in the Ship Zachary Bayley. —

your Petitioner further prays that Mr George Delano, a young Gentleman who is a near Relation to the principal Owner of the said Ship Anna Maria, and took the Voyage for his health, together with his Servant, may also have leave to take passage with your Petitioner, in the said Ship Creighton. —

And your Petitioner as in duty bound shall ever pray

Sir –

Capt. Hazlewood [Hazelwood], who came up to us by request of Convention, has fitted a fine vessel, as we conceive in a masterly manner, and given such instructions to some persons we have here employed, with respect to mixing fire combustibles, &c. that we think we can now carry on our works without further assistance. He has in general been very assiduous, and of very much use to us. We are unhappy at this time not to have a quorum of our committee present, therefore must beg leave to submit to your Honourable House, the consideration of any reward this gentleman may have reason to expect from this State, for his extraordinary expense and trouble in this business. Sir: I am now to Acknowledge the Receipt of your’s of the 15th. and 19th. Instant and am much obliged for your care and dispatch in forwarding the Two Sea Morters which I wish may come safe to hand. The number and strength of the Enemy and the many different posts we have to occupy together with the late Manouevres of General Howe render it utterly impossible for me to relieve you by sending a General Officer from this to take Command in Boston, Congress seeing the Situation pass’d the enclosed Resolve, and I cannot but hope you will conclude to keep the Command till something decisive is done with our formidable Enemy in this Quarter, who have landed most of their Army on Long Island and advanced part of them as far as Flatt Bush within three Miles of our Works; between them and the Works is a Ridge of Hills covered wt. Woods in which I have posted a large Body of the Army, which have once repulsed an advanced party of them in an attempt to get through and I cannot but hope will prevent or at least weaken them much should they effect their purpose of passing. I am, that may be found in any foreign Ports.

The Pomona Frigate has taken and carried into St. Kitts, a Dutch

I have just received a letter from the General which will make it necessary for me to appoint some movements with the ships here towards the Town, to countenance the intended operations of the Army this night & to morrow morning. Your ship will be useful on that occasion, and your presence always desirable. If therefore your stay is not immediately necessary where you are, the service in Gravesend Bay will be very consistently left with Capt Parker, who may order all assistance he has need of from Cap. Sr Geo: Collier if his ship is not necessary, in her present station maybe advanced as high as we lye, but on the Eastern shore to cover the march of the troops along this Coast. He will be then in the way to receive occasional orders. I am obliged to go immediately to Gen [James] Grant's head Quarters at DeNuseys House to clear up a passage in Gen: Howe's letter, if this arrives in time for you to meet me there we can talk upon the intended Movement of the Ships &c But time pressing, my Way there will be short. My Lord I have on every occasion represented to the Generals and Admirals, the Situation of the Province, repecting military and maritime Affairs.
I requested, My Lord, a naval assistance from every Admiral. As yet we have not had any permanent.

Captain [Thomas] Bishop of the Lively Frigate, did not go into Saint Maries, as I desired.

I am informed by people from Amelia if he had entered the River with the Sloop letter of Mark – Osbourn, he would have destroyed all the rebel Craft: but, my Lord, he sailed for New York, and sent Osbourn with my dispatches to the Commanding Officer at Cockspur, a Copy of which; I beg leave to enclose to your Lordship. No 1. & 2. 2

The retreat from Saint Maries I am in hourly apprehensions, may be attended with very bad effects on Saint John River.

These reasons, my Lord, have determined me to take the Sloop Captain Mowbray, into the Government service on the best terms I can make, and shall order her for the Service in Saint John River.

"Extract of a Letter from an Officer on Board the Pomona Sloop of War, Dated Barbadoes, August 26, 1776." 1

Our Admiral has ordered our station off the Virgin Isles, where we have been very lucky, taking one or more prizes every week. Yesterday we arrived here with one, she was laden with cotton, silks, &c. and had on board besides 20 tons of saltpetre; we saw her about four A.M. and about two P.M. was alongside of her. We hailed her, but she gave us no answer, but laying her topsails aback, hauled up her ports, and gave us a broadside, when she filled her sails, and would have stood from us; but we gave her a handsome peppering before she struck; having raked her twice. When we went on board, the Captain would hardly answer any questions put to him, but we found by the ship's papers that his name was Theobald Dibnal, part owner of the vessel, which was called the Palm-Tree, and consigned to Philip Handle, merchant, at Savannah, in Georgia. We lost five men killed, and ten wounded, and the American ten killed and 15 wounded.

"Extract of a Letter from Crown Point, Dated August 27." ¹

Our fleet, consisting of 3 schooners, 1 large sloop, 4 gondolas, and 4 galleys, now lie in Lake Champlain, near Crown Point and expect to sail in 3 days, and lay in a narrow passage of the lake, to prevent the enemy from passing. We have information that the enemy are on their way to this place from St. John's, they have no other craft than battoes; if they come, I trust we shall give them a warm reception, as our fleet is well fitted and manned. We have now at Ticonderoga about 3500 effective men, and more coming in daily: The fort and every height and point about it is well fortified. – Besides we have the command of the lakes.

Memorial of Commodore Jacobus Wynkoop

To the Honorable the United States of America in Congress assembled –

The Memorial of Jacobus Wynkoop

Sheweth –

That your Memorialist has been employed, and served in the continental Service, and in the service of the United States of America, from the 28th Day of June 1775, until the 18th Day of August Instant –

That your Memorialist by his first appointment, was a Captain of the 8th Company and 4th Regt of continental forces raised in the Province of New York.

That his Honor M Genl Schuyler, Commander in Chief in the Northern Department, did sometime after the appointment of your Memorialist to the Captaincy aforesaid, offer to your memorialist the Command of the Vessels on Lake Champlain, and signified to your memorialist, that his honor would recommend your Memorialist to the Honorable the Continental Congress as a person fit for the said Station.

That your Memorialist being at Fort George, did in the month of January in the present year receive a Letter from his Honor M. Genl Schuyler, informing Your Memorialist that his Honor expected momently to hear from Congress, on the Subject of his appointment –

That in the month of April last Your Memorialist, at the City of New York, did receive from the Honorable the Provincial Congress, for the Province of New York, a certified copy of a Letter, written by his Honor M Genl: Schuyler, to the President of the said Provincial Congress, which is in the words following

Albany March 8th 1776

I am Honored with yours of the 4th Inst – The Continental Congress have resolved, that Capt Wynkoop should be employed upon the Lakes, under Commodore Douglass. Whether the latter Gentleman means to engage in that service, I do not know – Of this Congress can very speedily inform itself, as he resides near New York; Should he not engage, there is no person I would more willingly have to command the Vessels than Capt Wynkoop. At any rate, I wish You to send him up the soonest possible, with a sufficient number of Sailors for the two Schooners and Sloop—

Ph. Schuyler

To Nathaniel Woodhull Esqr.

The foregoing is a true copy of the Original examined and compared by Robt Benson.

Your Memorialist received, at the same time, an extract from the minutes of the Committee of Safety for N York aforesaid; A Copy of which follows—

In Committee of Safety—New York April the thirteenth 1776

Ordered that Captain Jacobus Wynkoop do enlist the number of mariners desired by M Genl Schuyler, for the Service at the Lakes, with all possible dispatch; That Capt: Wynkoop proceed to Albany with the said Mariners, to Genl Schuyler, and take his directions as to the Vessels on the Lakes until the Honorable the Continental Congress shall have appointed him to that Command, or some other Gentleman shall arrive at the Lakes authorized to take the Command.

Extract from the Minutes

John McKesson Secy

That in Consequence of the aforesaid Letter and Order, your Memorialist, immediately enlisted a number of Sailors and proceeded up to Fort-George where he received from the Honorable M Genl Schuyler, an Order in the Words following—

Sir Fort-George May 7th 1776

You are immediately to repair to Tyonderoga, and take the Command of all the Vessels on Lake Champlain, which You will, with the greatest expedition, put in the best condition possible, for immediate Service.

I am Sir [&c.]

Ph: Schuyler

That your memorialist expecting the appointment of Commodore of the Lakes, and not being willing to act in a subordinate capacity did agreeable to the said Order take upon him the Command of the Vessels on the Lakes aforesaid, & has since continued in that department, in the Service of the said Continental Congress, and of these United States, acting and exerting his abilities for the public advantage—

That on the 17th Day of August Inst Your Memorialist, being on his Station, was alarmed, by the Report of a Swivel from one of the Schooners under his Command, which was succeeded by a similar signal from another of the said Schooners.—

That Your Memorialist observing that the Said Schooner was making ready to get under Sail, and conceiving that they ought not to move without his immediate Orders, (unless in case of alarm when a Boat should be instantly dispatched to inform him of the Occasion) and fearing that some design had been formed by the Captain of the said Schooner, or their Crews to go over to the Enemy; by the Command of your Memorialist a Swivel was fired to bring too the said Schooners.

That upon firing of the said Swivel, they came to an Anchor again, and your memorialist ordered the mate to go in the boat, and bring the Captains on Board the Commodore Schooner; All preparations for sailing were stopped, and Capt: Premer Commander of one of the said Schooners (The other Capt being on shore) came on board the royal savage, then under your Memorialists immediate Command –

That your Memorialist then desired to know from the said Captain, for what reason those Guns were fired, and preparations made for sailing, who informed your Memorialist, that he had received from his Honor Brigadier Genl Arnold Orders to get his Schooner immediately under way and beat down the Lakes, 8 or 10 miles and if he made any discovery of the Enemy to send a boat, and acquaint him of the particulars –

That Your Memorialist not having received any Intimation of being superseded in the Command aforesaid, and conceiving that any Orders even from the Commander in chief of the Army in the Northern department, or the Commanding Officer at Lake George or Tyonderoga, respecting the Vessels on the Lakes, should be directed and first communicated to your memorialist, and be given out by him to the respective Captains under his Command, your Memorialist being also best acquainted with the State and Condition of the said Vessels, Your Memorialist did transmit to his Honor the said Brigadier General Arnold, a Letter in the words following

On Board the Royal Savage Aught 17th 1776

Sir

I find by an Order You have given out that the Schooners are to go down the Lakes; I know no Orders, but what shall be given out by me, except sailing Orders from the Commander in chief; If an enemy is approaching I am to be acquainted with it, and know how to act in my Station I am Sir Yours

Jacobus Wynkoop Commander of Lake Champlain

That Your memorialist soon after received a Letter from his Honor the said Brigadier Genl Arnold, informing Your Memorialist of the Approach of the Enemy, and intimating that the Commander in chief had appointed him to take the Command of the Navy on the Lake and threatening Your Memorialist with an Arrest –

That your Memorialist having thus received information of the approach of the Enemy, that the Service might not suffer, by the dispute of the Officers, issued out an Order to the Captains of the said Schooners in the words following –

On Board the Royal Savage Aught 17th 1776
To Capt Seamons
Capt Premer
Gent

You will immediately get under way, and go down the Lake about 8, or ten miles—If You make any discovery of the Enemy, Send a Boat to acquaint me of the Particulars; If none of the Enemy appear, You are directly to return.

Yours Jacobus Wynkoop Comd

That immediately after your Memorialist had received the Letter aforesaid, from his Honor the said Brigadier Genl Arnold His Honor the said Brigadier Genl Arnold came on board the Royal Savage, and asked your memorialist, how he dared to countermand his Orders, and acquainted your memorialist that he had power to take the command of the fleet, and shewed a paper containing writing Orders from his Honor M Genl Gates to that purport—

That your Memorialist conceiving that no Officer could be placed over him in the Naval Department, unless by appointment from the United States in Congress assembled, or the Provincial Congress for the Province of New York, except in cases of Misbehaviour, and your Memorialist being conscious of having done his duty, did acquaint the said Brigadier Genl Arnold that he would receive no Orders from him as naval Officer under his present appointment, and that all orders from the Commanders at the several posts on the Lakes ought regularly to be first communicated to your Memorialist.—

That his Honor the said Brigadier Genl Arnold, then dispatched a Letter to his Honor M Genl Gates, acquainting him with the above particulars, and on the 18th Day of Augt Inst Your Memorialist received a Letter from the said Brigadier Genl Arnold, in the words following.—

Sir
Crown Point Augt 18. 1776

The following is a paragraph of a Lettr Orders I have just received from the Honorable M Genl Gates Viz—

It is my Orders You immediately put Commodore Wynkoop in Arrest—and send him Prisoner to Head Quarters at Tyonderoga

Sign'd Horatio Gates

In Compliance of the above Order, I do hereby put you in Arrest, of which You will take notice and govern yourself accordingly—A Boat and Hands shall be ordered this Evening or to morrow morning to attend You to Tyonderoga—Please to let me know what time will be most agreeable.—

I am Sir [&c.]
B:Arnold: B:Genl

That agreable to the above order Your memorialist immediately repaired to Tyonderoga and was ordered from thence by his Honor M Genl Gates, to the Honorable M Gen Philip Schuyler at Albany and was informed by his Honor the said M Genl Gates that he had sent his Crime forward.—
That your Memorialist humbly conceives that if he had suffered the said Schooners to go off unmolested, and design of the Captains or Crews of the said Schooners had been to go over to the Enemy, and such decision carried into execution – that your memorialist would not have been suffered to escape with impunity, and that therefore it was his duty when signals and preparations were made by them for sailing, to know their destination and issue out the Necessary Orders.

Your Memorialist therefore humbly Requests these United States, in Congress assembled; to take this Memorial into their wise Consideration and grant him such Relief as he is in Justice entitled to –

Journal of the New York Committee of Safety

Tuesday Morning,

[Harlem] August 27th, 1776.

Major Lockwood informed the Committee that the enemy's ships are at White Stone. Thereupon, Resolved and Ordered, That Mr. Hobart and Mr. R. R. Livingston, be a committee to wait on His Excellency General Washington, and confer with him relative to the state of Nassau island, and what measures may be necessary for distressing the enemy thereon, or defending or removing the inhabitants, and that they report the results of their deliberations thereon to this Committee, or the Convention of this State.

Ordered, That Capt. [Anthony] Rutgers be requested immediately to proceed to the city of New-York, and afford all possible aid, attention, direction and assistance in stopping, or impeding the navigation of the East river, and that he employ all such persons as he shall think proper, to give him aid.

An express arrived from New-London and communicated a copy of a letter from Erastus Wolcott to the committee of Say Brook, and is in the words following:

New London, August 24th, 1776.

Gentlemen – Yesterday in the morning, appeared at the east end of Fisher's island, two of the enemy's armed frigates and a brig, and this morning they passed by this harbour, standing to the westward. I thought it best to give you this intelligence by express, that you may keep a good look out, and take what measures your prudence will suggest, and must leave it to you whether or not to forward this from town to town by express, (if no direct opportunity offers); this may much depend on what is already known of their being in the Sound, and by observing their motions.

I am, gentlemen, With esteem and regard, [&c.]

Erastus Wolcott.
To the Committee of Say Brook.

Ordered, That a copy of the letter from Erastus Wolcott, dated New-London, Augt. 24, 1776, be immediately transmitted by express to Brigadier-General [Nathaniel] Woodhull, and that he be requested to cause all the stock on the seacoast of Long island, which are most exposed to the enemy's depredations, to be drove with all possible despatch so far into the interior part of the country as to be out of danger from the enemy.

Memoirs of Major General William Heath

New York, August 27th. — Early in the morning, two ships and a brig came to anchor a little above Throg's Point. Our General immediately detached Col. [Morris] Graham with his regiment, to prevent their landing to plunder or burn. Before he arrived, several barges full of men landed on New City Island, and killed a number of cattle. Two companies of the regiment, immediately on their arrival, ferried over to the island. The enemy carried off one man and 14 cattle — the remainder of the cattle were secured.

On the same day, there was a most bloody battle on Long Island, between the Americans and the British. The British, by a long circuitous march in the night of the 26th, with a part of their army, found the left of the Americans not so well secured as it ought to have been; and they had an opportunity to reach ground which gave them great advantage, while it equally exposed the Americans in the strong grounds towards Flatbush. There was here also another circumstance of ground which now proved disadvantageous to the Americans. There was a considerable marsh, into which a creek ran, and on which there was a mill, known by the name of M'Gowen's. At the mill there was a passway over; but unluckily, when some of the Americans had retreated by this mill, (for they were soon routed by the British, who formed an attack almost in a semi-circle) it was set on fire. This would have been a politic step, had all the Americans on the other side, in that quarter, previously passed; but those still beyond the creek were now driven to almost desperate circumstances; they could not pass at the head of the creek; for the British column, which made the circuitous movement, were in possession of the ground on the left; consequently, many were here killed or taken prisoners, and numbers perishing in attempting to get over the creek, some of them sticking in the mud. Those who escaped retreated to the American works. The British sustained a considerable loss in killed and wounded, and a subaltern and 23 men were taken prisoners; but the American loss was far greater in killed, wounded, and prisoners. Among the latter were Gen. Sullivan and Lord Sterling. Several field-pieces were also lost. At evening, the British army encamped in front of the Americans.

CONTINENTAL MARINE COMMITTEE TO CAPTAIN WILLIAM STONE 1

Sir

[Philadelphia] August 27th 1776

The Marine Committee have directed me to inform you that the Horn-et Sloop is now returned from her Cruize, during which she has been extremely leaky as Captain [William] Hallock the Bearer hereof will inform you. The Committee have come to a resolution either to purchase the Sloop or deliver her up to you as they will not any longer hire her, but as the greatest part of the materials she now has on board belong to the Public they wou’d prefer buying her at the valuation, to stripping her and when you consider that she will be a mere wreck when so stripped, and that the Hull is old and Shattered I should imagine you would readily see that it is more your interest to sell than to receive her back in such bad condition, as you will have the hire to this time in addition to the price. You will upon the whole receive a great sum for her I am Sir [etc.]

... I am afraid, that Boston Harbour is not yet impregnable. — if it is not, it ought to be. — Boston has not grown into favour with King George, Lord North or General Howe. — It is no peculiar Spight against New York, which has induced the Fleet and Army, to invade it, — it is no peculiar Friendship, Favour, or Partiality to Boston, which has induced them to leave it. — Be upon your Guard. — hesitate at no Expence, no[r] Fail to fortify that Harbour against all its Enemies. — You ought to Suppose the whole British Empire to be your Enemy, and prepare your selves against its Malice, and Revenge How's Army must have winter Quarters Somewhere and will at all Hazards — They may try at Boston there they lost their Honour, there they would fain regain it if they [could] The Enemy, have a tough, hard Bone to pick at New York, according to present appearances. Journal of the Pennsylvania Council of Safety 1

John M. Nesbitt, Esq'r, Treasurer, was directed to pay the following acco'ts, Viz't:

Capt. Joseph Blewer £23 6 0 for repairing a Shallop, damaged in Sinking the Peers at Fort Island.

Mr. John Stelwell £23 11 6, being for Expenses in saving Powder out of the Brig Nancy, paid by Capt. Wm. Pollock.

Capt. Thomas Bell £399 18 0, for Freight of 142 Barrels of Powder & 53 Tons of Lead.

The Board then adjourned to 3 o'Clock, P.M.

The Council having heard the complaints made against Commodore Samuel Davison, with the proofs brought to support them; and taking into consideration the situation of the Naval armaments belonging to this State, are of opinion, that most of the Charges made against the said Samuel Davison are frivolous, and discover a dangerous Spirit of Licentiousness amongst the other Officers, inconsistent with The Duty they owe their Country, and not to be justified on Military Principles, which exacts a due Obedience at all times to the orders of superiors; But as it appears to the Council that the Officers of the Fleet in General, have not that respect for, nor Confidence in, the said Samuel Davison, which is absolutely necessary to give Vigour and Efficacy to the Command, and that notwithstanding the Known merit of said Davison, yet the charge of Incompetency to so important a Trust is not altogether without foundation; It is therefore

Resolved, That the said Samuel Davison, Esq'r, be no longer Continued in the Command of the naval armament of this State, and he is accordingly dismissed from the same.

Resolved, That Capt. Henry Dougherty be appointed to the Command of the Galley building at Kensington, by Mr. Williams, and that she be called the Delaware.

Resolved, That Capt. John Rice be appointed to the Command of the Galley called the Convention.

Agreeable to a Resolve of the Honourable Congress, & by direction of the Board, the following Commissions for Privateers, were granted, viz:

FRANCIS SHAW TO THE MASSACHUSETTS GENERAL COURT

[Extract]
Honble Gentlemen, Machias 28th August 1776

After Removing many Difficultys started by the Crew of the Diligent, and laying wind bound several Days We sailand from Piscataqua the 14th Instant and arrived here the 25th, after being Confined in Gouldsborough six Days by the Viper Sloop of War, who took two Sloops from this place within about five Miles of us as we run into Gouldsborough and lay off and on that Harbour most of the Time as We had not more than half our Compliment of Men, and them but very Indifferent Capt [John] Lambert tho't proper to let the Ship Remove before we should proceed, by persons that have been taken & releas'd we find she has but ten Carriage Guns, 18 Swivels & about 100 Men one half of them Disaffected and only wait an opportunity of being properly Engaged to Rise on their Officers, her present Station is between Gran Mannan and Sequin, should she fall in with two of your Honors Sloops of War, I dare say they would Clear this coast of the greatest Scourge they have had since the Commencement of the present War—should I succeed in gitting a Number of Indians it would be Impossible to git them to the Westward, unless the Viper is Removed from her Station, add to that the Distress this Country must be in, as they can git no provisions from the Westward past her, and the advantage our Enemy has by supplying the English W. I. Islands with Lumber & Fish they take from us—

I would further add one or more Ships are loading at Annoplass, that the Inhabitants of Nova Scotia come to Passamaquoddia for Lumber for them, and as several have been taken and afterwards Clear'd by your Honors, our armed Vessels are Intirely Discouraged from taking them and unless some stop is put to that Trade, and the Viper Removed, the Acts of the Honble Continental Congress against the English Islands being Supply'd will be frustrated, and this Extensive this new Country Intirely ruined—

PETITION OF ICCHABOD JONES TO THE MASSACHUSETTS GENERAL COURT

State of the Massachusetts Bay

To the Honorable the Council & the Honble House of Representatives of the State aforesaid assembled in General Court at Watertown Aug 28th 1776

Most humbly shews

Ichabod Jones late of Boston in the County of Suffolk That your Petitioner in May 1775 considering that the People at Machias in the eastern part of this State were of themselves unable to procure the Provisions necessary for their Subsistence & knowing that the greater part of them depended on your Petitioner to supply them, the other Traders having declined to do it, did purchase a Quantity of Pork Flower & other Articles of Food & convey the same to the People aforesd in two Sloops belonging to your Petitioner – That when arrived at Machias the Inhabitants at the Request of your Petitioner met together & were informed that if they could furnish themselves in any other Way with necessary Provisions your Petitioner would be extremely glad to be freed from the difficult & hazardous Task. That a great Majority of them declared they could not obtain the necessary Supplies without the Assistance of your Petitioner & desired him to continue as formerly to bring them Provisions –

That afterwards by Means of some of Machias People with the Assistance of others in the neighbouring Places the Vessels aforesd & the Person of your Petitioner were seised – that at the time of this Seisure the Inhabitants of Machias owed to your Petitioner & Compy, nearly the Sum of four thousand Pounds lawful Money which he is able & ready to prove – That your Petitioner is lately informed they have taken Possession of his Houses Mills & all his other Estate at Machias & not only of the Estate of which your Petitioner was sole Proprietor but also the Estate which belonged to himself & others in Partnership –

That your Petitioner learns from an Advertisement in the Watertown Paper of August 19th that Libels are filed against the Vessels & Cargoes abovementioned before the Judge of the Maritime Court for the eastern District in this State & that the Justice of the Captures is to be tried at the said Court to be holden at Pownalboro on the 9th of September next –

As your Petitioner is confined to this Town of Northampton under large Bonds (with scanty Means of Subsistence) he is unable to attend himself or to procure any person to attend in his Behalf on so short a Notice & is greatly apprehensive that his Property therefore will be condemned altho’ if allowed to attend the sd. Court with his Evidence he persuades himself the Innocence of his Conduct would fully appear –

Your Petitioner therefore most humbly prays your Honors to take the Premisses into your wise Consideration & that he may be heard thereupon & having no Doubt on a full Knowledge of his Case your Petitioner would be discharged from any further Confinement – Your Petitioner also prays that he may have Liberty to attend in Person the Tryal aforesd of his Vessels at some future Time to which the said Court shall by Order of your Honors be adjourned to the first Day of October next in order that the petitioner by an attorney may Shew cause if any he has why the said Vessels Should not be Condemned. A—and that the judge of said Court be Notifyed thereof by being served with a Copy of this order—passed—Sent up for Concurrence

That Your Petitioners Humbly conceive that if we your Petitioners with a Small number more to Joyn our Brethren there Could be Supply'd with Some Necessarys as Provisions and Amunition we Could at Present Easily distroy those Forts and Relieve our Brethren and Friends by permission From Your Honors for So doing or in any other way your Honors Shall See meet and—

New-Haven, August 28

Last Monday passed our Harbour, standing to the Westward, two Frigates, the Nigard of 32 guns, Capt. [George] Talbot, the other is said to carry 28 guns, also a large Brig of 16 or 18 guns, who had in Company two small vessels supposed to be prizes. They left the English Fleet, near New-York, last Friday se'nnight, and it is probable will remain in the Sound to interrupt our Communication with the Army at New-York.

As the Small-Pox is now perfectly removed from the Army, I shall in consequence of the Intelligenc received of the Motions of the Enemy immediately assemble my principal Strength to maintain this Important Pass, and hope General Waterbury, in a Week at farthest will be able to come with the three Row-Gallies to Tyconderoga, and proceed the Instant they arrive and are fitted to join General Arnold upon the Lake.

Memoirs of Major General William Heath ¹

[New York, August 28, 1776] On the morning of the 28th, there was a skirmish between the Americans and British which terminated rather in favour of the former. The same night, the British began to open works, at the dis-distance of about 600 yards from the American works on the left. Gen. Washington wrote to our General to send down to the city all the boats that could be spared from Kingsbridge and Fort Washington, intimating, that he might possibly find it necessary, at night, to throw over more troops to Long Island. This order was immediately complied with, and the boats sent down, while the real intention of their use was fully understood.

Dear sir I wrote you soon after I came into Town of the landing of the Kings Troops upon long Island we expected an Attack upon the Town by the Shipping or an Attempt to land above the Town soon—but it seems the Enemy have collected most or all their strength upon the Island—they have been advancing towards our lines ever since they landed—and have met with little opposition from our people till Yesterday.—Reinforcements did not go on fast to the Island till Monday & yesterday. Probably our Generals suspected it only a feint—There are now a large body of Troops on the Island all the Connecticut Regs are there save the Militia—and those on the Jersey side viz [Philip Burr] Bradley's & part of [John] Durkee's & [Comfort] Sage's on Govr Island. Part of General Mifflin's [Thomas Mifflin's] Troops are called in from the blue Bell. The lines in the City are almost wholly manned by the Connecticut Militia. Our Alarm post is above the Town by the North River; About 1¼ or 1½ miles from our Quarters, Whither we are to repair by break of Day. Yesterday 5 or 6 Ships appeared standing up to the Town—this Caused a General Alarm—we all continued at our Alarm posts till from morning to Sunset. The Ships came up about half way from the hook where they came to anchor towards Night—One of them saluted the Battery at Red hook with a few Guns & the Compliment was returned probably very inoffensively to both Sides. There was a Considerable Engagement on the Island Yesterday—But particulars I cannot learn with any Certainty. Our people took near 40 Prisoners—40 or more were sent over wounded. Col. Perrin 2 of Pennsylvania was killed—probably considerable Number have been killed on both sides—I fear we have a considerable number taken prisoners, but time only can assure us of the particulars—Lord Sterling is probably Missing either killed or taken. [Lt.] Col. [James] Grant of the Regulars probably killed as a Hat was found shot through with his name wrote in it. Our Troops are doubtless retreated to their Lines—and the Enemy very near.—Nothing Material has been done today as we hear—doubtless they will soon attempt to force our lines w[hich] will be bloody work...

Vice Admiral Richard Lord Howe to Commodore William Hotham

I return you many thanks, my dear sir, for your congratulations on the events of yesterday. I have the satisfaction to hear from Genl Howe, that he has every reason to be contented with the prospects before him, and in the highest degree so, with the spirit & temper of the Troops.

I should be more deficient in judgement & discretion that I will confess that I am, if I did not much covet the assistance of you, & your present captain likewise, when any effectual service is to be undertaken. At present we must wait upon the movements of the Army; But if you can contrive to have the service in Greenwich Bay carried on by Sr Geo: Collier with the assistance of Capt [William] Williams, I shall be glad to see you with the _Ph[o]enix, Rose, & Greyhound also, when the last can be consistently spared, nearer to me; for any occasional service, as well as opinion in the conduct of it. Wherefore, tho' your own ship goes down to you today, consider of the plan of arrangement which it maybe necessary to give to Sr Geo: Collier for the Gravesend Bay Service with the State of His Ship in point of Water, and follow your own sentiments for the rest. I will in the mean time endeavor to provide some means to supply him with Water which I believe he wants, that no time maybe lost in fitting him for the proposed Service and that I may the sooner derive the assistance from you which no person can value more than your ever faithful servt

COMMITTEE OF ACCOMACK COUNTY, VIRGINIA, TO THE COMMITTEE OF SOMERSET COUNTY, MARYLAND

Gentn/ Accomack Augt 28th 1776

The bearer hereof (Nathan Linton) has informed the Committee of this County, that some time past he in company with one other man took up a wreck at sea, and carried it into some creek in your County, that before they could strip the wreck it was retaken from them by Joseph Wailing a noted Tory who was then bound to the Kings fleet with 20 or 30 people of his own stamp, that he the said Linton insisted he was intitled to some recompense for his trouble in saving the wreck, but Wailing refused to allow him any thing, saying the boat belonged to one Goodrich in the fleet and he would keep possession of it for him. Linton then said he would make application to some officer in the fleet for satisfaction, and was procuring a boat for that purpose, but Wailing offered him a passage in his boat, which he said was to return immediately after discharging her cargo of Tories. Linton accordingly made application to Capt. [Matthew] Squire, who after being informed of the several circumstances above mentioned told him he might have the hull of the wreck, and five barrels of Oyl which was in the wreck, being of no use to the fleet; Linton also informs this Committee that he took up four clintcher boats drifting; three of which together with 100 Gallons of Oyl and some old Iron, he says was taken from him by Col Waters.

This Committee has refused to do any thing in Linton's Case, untill fully informed concerning it from you, and what Character he supports as a friend to America— which we hope you will supply us with by first opportunity; in the mean time we desire that the boats and oyl as they are perishable articles may be sold and the money arising from the sale thereof retained untill the matter can be fully heard and determined

Signed Pr Order Committee
John Powell Clk

N.B.: As Linton had rather have the Boats Oyl and Iron deliver'd him than sold, we are willing the said [w]ld be delivered him if he can give you security for the delivery of those Articles in our County— J. Powell [Endorsed] I will be Nathan Linton's Security for the Safe delivery of the goods here, and that they shall be Subject to the order of our Committee. Onancock, Augt 28th 1776 Isaac Smith

GOVERNOR SIR BASIL KEITH TO VICE ADMIRAL CLARK GAYTON

Sir

Kings House Spanish Town Augt 28th 1776

I held a Council yesterday before whom I laid all the Papers and Informations I had receiv'd relative to the Internal situation of this Country since their last meeting on the 21st inst when the Board were unanimous in advising me to take off Martial Law provid'd I renew'd my former order of the 11th of July requiring the Colonels and Commanding Officers of the Militia through the Island to keep a proper Guard within their respective Parishes till my further order, but at the same time it is express'd in our Minutes that we are more induced to this from the apprehensions of the approaching rainy Seasons so very prejudicial to the health of the White Inhabitants than from any opinion on the information before us that the internal peace & Security of the Island are entirely restor'd, & establish'd, in consequence of which I propose lodging the Colours at Noon of the 29th. It was likewise our Unanimous opinion that I should after offering you the best thanks of the Board which I have the most cordial satisfaction in doing for them, and myself, for your constant attention to the safety & Welfare of this Island to represent to you, that we do not think it necessary at present to request further assistance of you than that of the largest of the two Arm'd Vessels, now to Leward which we wish you will order to remain at Lucea, for about a fortnight longer, unless future applications should be found Necessary. JUDGE J. BRACKETT TO THE NEW HAMPSHIRE COUNCIL

Gentlemen Portsmo Augt 29th, 1776.

The Ship Prince George commanded by Capt. Emms [Richard Emms] had her trial last week; the Jury brought in their Verdict & condemned three quarters of Ship & Cargo to the use of the Colony—the other quarter to the Matross Company (Stationed at Fort Washington) to be equally divided between officers & privates – tho' both the Resolves of Congress & Law of the Colony, say, the Captors shall have one third & the Colony two.

There was also a trial of the Masts &c. which were claimed by Mr. Perry [Edward Parry]: the Jury thought the claim was not Good, & condemned them to the use of the Colony likewise. I shall in a day or two decree According to the Jury's Verdict & Issue a Precept to the Sheriff to sell and make distribution According to said Verdicts, and should be glad you would appoint Pearse Long Esqr Agent for the Colony, that there may be somebody here to take care of its Interests, &c. I am, Gentlemen, [&c.]

Dear Sir

Your favour of the 25th is now before me, I am much of Opinion with you relative to Cannon, think the prices too high by one half, I've endeavoured to Contract with them for Cannon but could not, therefore intend letting it alone for the present, till seeing Colo Whipple, who I expect every moment here from Philadelphia, the price of Cannon at Providence has risen so fast, it looks like taking the Advantage, however I may be mistaken – The affair of the Milford I most heartily wish could take place, tho' we cannot give any Assistance with our Ship without Guns from some other place those here in our Batteries (except one or two) being 32 pounders, Six and 4 do therefore think it unlikely we can assist, however I intend mentioning it to our State and if it's possible to procure Guns, no doubt shall join you What in under Heavens does our Friends at Providence mean by not letting us have those Guns which have been cast so long. As to the Cable you mention I had 90 fathom of Junk instead of one third of all the Junk that was bought in Boston as that was our Agreement if you remember, I therefore expect at least five Tons more of Junk from you, as am much in want of it, not one piece of Light Canvas in this part of the World.

JOHN BRADFORD TO JOHN HANCOCK

Dear Sir

I had the Honour to write you by the last post in which I hinted that I had Sent Capt [Samuel] Tucker with fifteen hands to portsmo to bring the prize round to Boston, Tucker proceeded so far as Salem where he met Mr Tracy who assur'd him he was at portsmo the day before in Company with Mr [Joshua] Wentworth and [John] Langdon, who were determined to keep the vessel there and had libell'd her; on recievg this information he with his men Return'd,2 I beg Leave to Suggest Sir if they have authority to stop prizes that Just goes into the mouth of their harbour for a nights Anchorage, no more Continental prizes may be Expected to this port, for as the Autumn is Approaching, all the prizes must come round Coast ways from the Eastward to shun the Enemy's cruisers and must harbour every night, and I think it would be Extraordinary for them Gentlemen who have no Care or trouble in fitting out the Schooners to receive the Emolument arising on the Comission, I thought it my Duty Sir to give this information and beg leave to offer it to the Consideration of the Marine Committee

I had the pleasure of taking Mr Adams & Whipple by the hand Yesterday almost the Instant they arrived,3 they left their fellow traveller at Hartford having meet an Accident, but they expect him in a few days. I wish a long Continuance of your health and am with all due Respects [&c.]

[Extract] Albany August 29th 1776

Sir, Captain Wynkoop, who has been sent down to me by General Gates has this Morning delivered me the enclosed Memorial, with a Request that I should transmit it to Congress – As I cannot refuse complying with his Request I have thought it incumbent on me to let it be accompanied with General Gates and General Arnold’s Letter on the Subject – Altho’ I believed Wynkoop to be brave and industrious and equal to the Command of what Vessels we had when I recommended him, yet I was so far from being sufficiently acquainted whether he was equal to the Command of such a Number of Vessels as we have now there, that I learnt General Arnold’s Appointment with great Satisfaction and very much approved of it ... Our Carpenters sicken very fast. Capt Titcomb of the Massachusetts Bay had only ten at Work on the 25th out of fifty, and many of the other Companies were also down. We are however so much a Head of the Enemy in our Naval Force, that I do not apprehend they will be able to equal our Strength this Campaign notwithstanding the Indisposition of our Carpenters – I have ordered a Physician to Skenesborough to examine the sick Carpenters that such might be discharged as are not likely to be of future Service – the Expence being very high.

If the Enemy should find themselves unable to make an Attempt to penetrate into the Colonies this Campaign it is more than probable that they will assiduously employ themselves in the Course of next Winter to procure Materials for building as large Vessels as the Lake will bear in Order to get a Superiority next Campaign and altho’ I am under no Apprehensions that they will ever be able to penetrate into the Colonies from the Northward as there is such a Variety of Difficulties to be surmounted before they can reach any part where they can be subsisted, yet if they should obtain a Superiority on the Lake, they might in another Campaign possess themselves of Tyonderoga, and thus compleat part of their plan, by surrounding us with a Chain of Forts, and greatly harrass our Frontiers. Would it not therefore be prudent to provide every Material this Fall and Winter for the Construction of as large Vessels as any that can be borne on the Lake?

JOURNAL OF THE NEW YORK COMMITTEE OF SAFETY

Thursday, A. M.

[Harlem] Augt. 29th, 1776.

A letter from Comfort Sands, Esqr. dated at New-Rochelle, yesterday, and sent by Mr. Danl. Redfield, informing the Committee that said Redfield was sent to be examined relative to the enemy's ships, and requesting the Committee to give him a permit to pass King's Bridge.

Danl. Redfield, being examined, says, that about 4 o'clock on Monday morning last, his sloop, going from New-York, was taken by the Brig Halifax, mounting 10 four pounders, Quorme [William Quarme], commander; that about 12 o'clock same day, they run his vessel, after having stripped her of the rigging, cable and anchor. The man who piloted the vessel was one Reed; the frigates were La Brun [Brune] and the Niger; that the design of the enemy was to bring over their tories from Long island; that the ships of war were to run to King's Bridge, there to land their forces, and make a juncture with the other part of the army; that the enemy by this means would be able to cut off all communication with our army both by land and water, and oblige our troops in New-York to surrender. That the enemy had plundered Hart and City island; that he thinks they got about 12 or 14 head of cattle, besides sheep, ducks, &c; that while he was on board several persons come on board from Long island; that on Tuesday a man came on board who said that the King's army had killed 1,300 of our men, and had gained the ground of our men; that one Barne came on board from the City island; that his partner, Stephen is kept on board in order to be exchanged for the mate of the Niger, who had been taken by the sloop Beverly and carried into Amboy. Says the private men were very inveterate against us; they did not use his person ill.

"MINUTES OF THE COUNCIL OF WAR ON THE EVACUATION OF LONG ISLAND" 1

At a Council of War held at Long Island, August 29th 1776.

It was submitted to the consideration of the Council, whether under all circumstances, it would not be eligible to leave Long Island, and its dependencies, and remove the army to New York. Unanimously agreed in affirmative, for the following reasons:

1st Because our advanced party had met with a defeat, and the wood was lost, where we expected to make a principal stand.

2d The great loss sustained in the death, or the captivity of several valuable officers, and their battalions, or a large part of them, had occasioned great confusion and discouragement among the troops.

3d The heavy rains which fell two days and nights with but little intermission, had injured the arms, and spoiled a great part of the ammunition; and the soldiery being without cover, and obliged to lay in the lines, were worn out, and it was to be feared could not be retained in them in any order.

4th From the time the enemy moved from Flatbush, several large ships had attempted to get up, as supposed, into the East River, to cut off our communication, by which the whole Army would have been destroyed, but the wind being northeast, could not effect it.

5th Upon consulting with persons of knowledge of the harbour, they were of opinion that small ships might come between Long Islands and Governour's Island, where there are no obstructions, and which would cut off the communication effectually; and who were also of opinion that the [hulks] sunk between Governor's Island and the city of New York, were no sufficient security for obstructing that passage.

6th Though our lines were fortified with strong redoubts, yet a great part of them were weak, being abbatied with brush, and affording no strong cover, so that there was reason to apprehend they might be forced, which would have put our troops in confusion, and having no retreat they must have been cut in pieces or made prisoners.

7th The divided state of our troops, render our defence very precarious, and the duty of defending long and extensive lines, at so many different places, without proper conveniences and cover, so very fatiguing, that the troops had become dispirited by their incessant duty and watching.

8th Because the enemy had sent several ships of war into the Sound to a place called Flushing Bay, and from the information received, that a part of their troops were moving across Long Island that way, there was reason to apprehend they meant to pass over land and form an encampment above Kingsbridge, in order to cut off and prevent all communication between our army and the country beyond them, or to get in our rear.

DIARY OF LIEUTENANT JABEZ FITCH

Thirdsd the 29th [August]:

At about 4 in the Afternoon all the Officers & most of the Soldiers that were Prisoners here were order'd into the Flat bottom'd Botes & went down to the Fleet, where we were put on Board the Pacific a Ship of about 900 Tons, Commanded by one Capt Dun. Here our Accomodations were but somewhat Coars, for Officers & Men, being almost 400 in Number, were soon Drove under Deck together without Distinction; Here we kept our Residence three Nights Successively, & my own Lodging was no other than a Great Gun or a Quile of Riging, yet we here Recd great Indulgence from one Mr. Dowdswell an Officer of the Marines, who was our Emediate Overseer.

Memoirs of Major General William Heath

[New York, August] 29th. – The ships on the East River fell down to Hunt's Point. On the same night, the Americans evacuated Long-Island, bringing off their military stores, provisions, &c. Some heavy cannon were left. In this retreat from the Island, and which was well conducted, an instance of discipline and of true fortitude was exhibited by the American guards and pickets. In order that the British should not get knowledge of the withdraw of the Americans, until their main body had embarked in the boats and pushed off from the shore, (which was a matter of the highest importance to their safety the guards were ordered to continue at their respective posts, with centinels alert, as if nothing extraordinary was taking place, until the troops had embarked: they were than to come off, march briskly to the ferry, and embark themselves. But somehow or other, the guards came off, and had got well toward the landing-place, when they were ordered to face about, march back, and re-occupy their former posts; which they instantly obeyed, and continued at them, until called off to cross the ferry. Whoever has seen troops in a similar situation, or duly contemplates the human heart in such trials, will know how to appreciate the conduct of these brave men, on this occasion.

[H.M.S. Roebuck, August 14 to August 29]

14th Augst In New York Harbour, I found my Lord Howe, with his Flag onboard the Eagle, Lord Shuldham in the Chatham and Commodore Hotham in the Preston, with about 25 Sail of Men of War. They were laying off Staten Island, on which General Howe's Army (consisting of 24 thousand Men) were encamped; the Transports, which could not be less than 300 Sail, covered a space of at least 3 Miles; And as the part of the Island where the Camp was, is sloping ground down to the water, the whole together, exhibited, by much, the finest scene I ever Saw.

Lord Howe had arrived abt three weeks before this, but as yet no operations had been commenced against New York: owing as was said: to having waited for the arrival of the reinforcemt from England, which came in only a few days before, under the command of Como Hotham, after a most tedious & tiresome passage of 14 Weeks. Lord Howe however had written to General Washington to inform him of the Powers that were lodged in him, & his Brother the General, of treating with the Colonies, granting pardons &c. The first letter, as it was directed only to George Washington Esqr &c &c &c he sent back unopend: saying he could receive no letter that was not directed to him by the Title of General Washington, Commander in Chief of the American Forces, which My Lord Howe thought proper to comply with, and his second letter was received; Also his Answer, saying he should lose no time in laying the whole before the Congress, then sitting at Philadelphia. His Lordship had also wrote to Doctor Franklyn, whose answer breathed nothing but a firm resolution of the whole colonies to throw off the Government of Gt Britain. So that whatever hopes might have been conceived of settling the dispute by negociation, it now appeared very certain that they were futile & [neg]atory.

The Phoenix & Rose, which had been sent up the North River 5 weeks before, where they had been attackd by Galleys & Fireships came down this Morng passing through the Fire of the Batterys on both sides without either recieving any damage –

22d Augst

I Received orders from the Admiral to hold the Ship in readiness for covering the descent of the Troops on Long Island: In the Evening the Phoenix, Greyhound & Rose came down & Anchored near us, and at day break the Ships warped close to the Shore of Gravesend Bay. soon after the Admiral came down, hoisted his Flag on board the Phoenix and made the Signal for the Troops to land. By 8 ocklock the Flat bottomd Boats appeared in three divisions, and proceeded to the shore in great order, where they landed without the least opposition; and as the Transports with the remainder of the Troops that were to be landed, followed the Boats immediately, & anchored very near the beach, there was at least 15. Thousand Men, with a large train of Artillery, on Shore in less than an hours time, the first landing being about Six thousand Men. The Boats were Commanded by Commodore Hotham, assisted by Six or eight Captains and a Number of Lieutenants, each boat carrying a Midshipman, a Coxswain & 10 Rowers.

after the Troops were landed the Admiral struck his Flag on board the Phoenix, and left Como Hotham with the Command of that Division of Transports, and to give the necesssary Orders for the Baggage & Horses of the Army to be sent over as soon as possible.

22d August

Until this day we had lain without the Narrows, now the Troops were landed, I moved the Ship near the Admiral's off the Watering place at Staten Island; where I erected Tents with my Sails for the sick Men and sent upwards of Sixty ashore, ill with fevers & scurvy, and borrowed 30 Seamen from the Bristol to replace them.

General DeHyster with 5 Thousand Hessians crossed over to Long Island and joined the Army, which was encamped round Flatbush. All that part of Long Island that lays opposite to New York is high land and commands the Town. The Rebels had therefore fortified it in the best manner they were able, and had thrown up a chain of Redouts & Lines to oppose the British Troops, which they expected would immediately attack them. Fortunately however this was not the Case; for General Howe, remaining quiet in his Camp at Flatbush four days, gave the Rebels such Spirits, that they determined to take the Field the Moment they should hear the Army was in Motion.

From our Camp to the Rebels was about 7 Miles, our Troops began their March at Midnight and came on with so much silence that at day break they were discovered on the Hills before the Rebels had heard of their Moving. They however made the best disposition of their Forces they could, and for some time shewed a resolution of making a stand; particularly on their right wing which was commanded by Lord Sterling and extended down to the Water, where on Account of having a considerable advantage of ground he prevented General [James] Grant's Brigade from advancing until near 10 Oclock, by which time the right of our Army had got so much behind the left of theirs, that they found themselves in danger of being surrounded, and having suffered considerably in their Center during the Action, they immediately gave way, and made a precipitate retreat into their Works.

The Fleet assisted in this operation by 5 Ships getting under way and making an appearance of attacking The Forts, on which I led with the Roebuck, and exchanged a few Shot with the Fort at Red Hook, but it was situated too high for our Guns to do it any damage, and nothing being intended more than to make a Diversion, to keep the Enemy in their Forts, I hauld off again, and upon the defeat of the Rebels Ashore, The Ships Anchored by Signal from the Admiral.

In this Action the Rebels lost in killed wounded & taken Prisoners upwards of 3 thousand Men: among the Latter were Ld Sterling & Mr Sullivan two of their Generals; who were afterwards exchanged for Genl Prescot [Richard Prescott] (who the Rebels had taken in Canada) and for Mr [Montfort] Brown Governor of the Bahama Islands that had been taken from thence by Hopkins’s Squadron. The English Army had about 50 Killed & 300 wounded, mostly very slightly and by the accident of mistaking a Party of the Rebels (who were dressed in Blue) for Hessians, an officer & part of a company of Marine Granadiers fell into the Rebels hands.

After this success Genl Howe lost no time in erecting Battery’s against the Rebels works, but on News being brought to the Rebel Army, that several Men of War had arrived near Hell-Gate, thro’ the Sound, they saved him the trouble of using them; for on the apprehension of being surrounded, a Panick seized them, and in the Night of the 28th, they, to a Man, deserted all their works on Long Island, and crossed over in Boats to the Town; leaving all their Cannon and a great quantity of Provisions behind them.

They still however kept possessn of Governor’s Island, where they had two Regiments in Garrison. In the afternoon the General sent to them to surrender, but on their refusal, he immediately opened a Battery against it at Brookland, and two of the Roebuck’s Guns being by this time placed upon Red Hook, together with the fire from her lower Deck, they were soon obliged to quit the Island, leaving every thing behind them. The Ships immediately moved up, but as night was now come on, and it was uncertain if the Fort was entirely aban-donened, we neglected taking possession of it. In the Night the Rebels returned, with a Number of Boats, and carried off their Tents Baggage & Provisions

New-York Journal, Thursday, August 29, 1776

New York, August 29.

On Wednesday afternoon last week, about 5 or 6 o’clock, came up from the north, a cloud of an exceeding black and terrible appearance, from which it rained considerably, with some wind and thunder, but not near so much of either as was expected. Soon after, between 7 and 8 o’clock, came up another cloud, which some, who observed, say moved in an opposite direction, and met another cloud, supposed to be that lately passed, right over the city of New York, and parts adjacent. The effects were terrible; the rain for a long time poured down in torrents, attended with almost incessant broad streams of the fiercest lightning, and most tremendous peals of thunder, resembling in quickness after the flash, the discharges of heavy cannon, but louder, and roaring without intermission. The storm is supposed to have continued near an hour, and the height of it about half that time, exceeding in violence and terrible effects, any thing of the kind that was ever remembered here. In the house of Mr. Joseph Hallet, in Hanover Square, where soldiers were quartered, a soldier named [Abraham] Bartlett was struck dead, and two others terribly wounded by the explosion of a number of charged cartridges, an house adjoining was set on fire, but soon extinguished. One of our Row Gallies in the East-river, was struck, the mast and sprit shattered, and three men struck down, but by proper application, all recovered. A house was struck in Maiden Lane, but whether any person was hurt or not, we have not heard. The old City Hall was struck, and some of the bricks beat down, but no person hurt, Four men were killed on Long Island, and some houses and barns burnt in Toppan.

[St. Pierre, August 29, 1776] ²

The Reprisal, the Vessel which was appointed to bring me here, sailed a few Days agoe; tis Said that several Vessels of War are laying in Wait for her; I have no reason to believe She will be taken; but if She was, I am confident She would meet with very rough Treatment . . .

The General promised me, that one of the French Frigates should convoy the Reprisal beyond the Track of the British Cruizers, but upon Recipient of Admiral Young's Letter, he called a Council, & it was thought advisable, that it should not be done; Perhaps they were afraid of commencing Hostilities; as the French Navy is very weak in the West Indies

2. The date is approximated. Josiah Bartlett, in reporting the arrival of the Reprisal at Philadelphia, wrote that she sailed from St. Pierre on August 26, 1776. As Bingham lists her as sailing "a few Days agoe," it is assumed that "a few" might represent three days.

Last Saturday, two Frigates, a Brig, and a small Tender, being part of King George’s piratical Fleet from Sandy Hook, came round Montauk-Point into the Sound, and have proceeded as far up as the Narrows: It is supposed their Views are to obstruct the Communication between New-York and New-England. Several Vessels that were ready to sail from this Port with Troops for New-York, are by this Means detained.

We hear that a small Vessel out of Connecticut-River, with Onions, was taken by the above Tender.

Last Tuesday Morning two other Men of War were seen off Montauk-Point.

New York Augt 30. 76.

Dear sir. Last night was a time of the utmost Confusion & hurry Imaginable—Our Troops from long Island retreated into the City last night. The latter part of the night when they finished their retreat was very favorable to the Design a thick fog came on just at Day break—I believe they came off[f] without any Molestation from the Enemy. The town is now again filled with Soldiers—but all in Confusion, I hope things will be soon reduced to more Order. The Reason of this Retreat I cannot certainly learn. The heavy rains we have had here for several Days past have fatigued the men on that Station, great part of whom were without any Cover, almost to death. I never saw poor creatures look more banged than they do. Some say the Rains have greatly injured the works there. Doubtless the Generals think them not Tenable or they never would have quitted them. The Retreat was conducted with great prudence, tho' the Measure was unexpected & surprizing to me. . . . I have this moment heard that the last division of our troops were fired upon by the Enemy as they pushed from the Shore & several killed. Tis doubtless the Enemy's design to cross the Sound below hell gate & take possession of Kings bridge. for this purpose they have Carried a Number of Boats across the Island. should they effect this they will ruin us. But I trust they will never be able to Effect this we have a large body of Troops at Kings bridge & thereabouts—

NARRATIVE OF ABRAHAM LEGGETT 1

[July 1 to August 30]

I then with several others [at Poughkeepsie] formed ourselves in a company under the command of Barnardus Swartout all Vollenteers—the times began to appear very Interesting—the British Fleet and large army was at Staten Island—we march'd off in high spirits till we got to the Calder-barrack near the Croton River—there we staid but three days for direction—we then had news that the English army was preparing to land on Long Island—that they easy effected under the protection of Shiping—our army was at this Time on Brooklin Heights fortifying as fast as they Could—the Enemy advanced upon Part of our army under the com'd of Lord Stirling and General Sullivan—they fought on the Retreat to Flatbush Hills. There the battle became Very Hot but the Enemy was too powerful—they extended their right wing so as to cut off the retreat of our detachment from the main army, which they succeeded in and they kill'd and captured many, amongst them was several officers and the Two Gen'ls—many was Drowned in the mill Pond. This took place 28th August [sic] 1776—the next day the 29th, Capt. Swartout crossed with us to the Island and we was placed on the left from the Hill call'd Fort Greene to Wallabout—the two armies close in view of each other, and for three Days the Rain fell in Torrents so that we could not Cook—then was the first Time I was Brought to eat Raw Pork—

1. Baldwin Family Papers, YUL.
the last night we was on the Island myself and Several of Volunteers was put on advanced Centres [sentries] with speshel orders how to behave should we discover the Enemy advancing – the night was Foggy & very dark. Some circumstances made all the Centres return on the lines but myself – my Remaining at my station was imputed to bravery. Early in the morning yet very dark we was Paraded under the Report that we was to attack the Enemy in their lines. We was Led around we new not where till I Saw the old stone Church of Brooklin – then an officer riding by Says a groce mistake – we was ordeed to wheel about and remain the lines, wich we did – a dangerous attempt – there we remained till some Time after – we then formed the Rear Gard we was ordered forward, still expected to meet the Enemy till we found ourselves at the Ferry and the army all cross’d. But the Gard then under the Command of Gen’l [Thomas] Mifflin – we then was order’d to choak up the Street with wagons and Carts to Prevent the Light Horse from Rushing Down upon us – at this time no boats – I prepar’d myself to Swim the River flood tide But fortunately two Battoes struck Shore – by this Time there was but a few of us left – we all hurred on board and Shoved off – the Enemy Rush’d down on the Hill and Commenced a brisk fire. Fortunately no one was hurt in our Boat – the other Boat had four wounded – 2

2. The narrative, written late in life, suffers from the usual vague dating. What Leggett described of his adventures on Long Island occurred between August 28 and early morning of August 30, 1776.

Flag of Truce, to confer with Washington & to procure himself some Necessaries.

Soon afterwards, we were most agreeably surprized to find, that the Rebels had entirely abandoned Long Island, and left every thing of Bulk and Weight behind them; soon after which our People began to fire from Red Hook upon Nutting Island. This hasty Evacuation surprized us the more, as they had constructed Forts, Redoubts and Intrenchments without End. Not a Foot of Ground was unfortified. Before Night they also abandoned Nutting Island, upon which likewise they had spent a great Deal of Labor. Our People harrassed them in this last Retreat by their great Guns from Brookland Ferry, Red Hook, and other Places. In the Evening some of our People, who were sent up to the Town with a Letter, by a Flag of Truce, directed to Sullivan (who is to set out to-morrow morning for the Congress at Philadelphia), observed a great Firing of Musquetry & much noise in the Town, from which they concluded, as our Troops could not possibly be there, that they were all in Confusion among themselves. The Ships of War had weighed Anchor in the Evening, and sailed up towards the Town, which, together with the rapid Progress of the Troops, 'tis imagined has occasioned a Panic. The Ships cast anchor off Nutting Island, the Night coming on apace, and the army and other arrangements not being immediately ready for a great Operation.

Sullivan promised me to mention Mr. Stanhope's Situation, and to do what he could for his Release from Captivity

Joshua Wentworth to Charles Thomson

Sir, — Portsmouth, Augt. 31st, 1776

On a late Trial of a Brigantine named the Elizabeth, retaken from the Enemy on her passage to Halifax — The Jury, were guilty of a Most flagrant error in their Verdict by acquitting the Vessel & Cargo, after I had supported the fact set forth in the Lible, (vizt) that she had been in Possesion of the Enemy more than Ninty six hours, wch will plainly appear by the Masters deposition, — I cou’d not consistant with my Duty as Agent for the Continent, let the matter rest on this Verdict, Therefore have appeal’d to the Honble Continental Congress, and now forward you, the Papers of Appeal, not doubting a very different determination on the next hereof. — The Claimants made an Offer to Compromise with the Captors of £ 1000. Stg about one third of their Just Quota, this was refused. Part of them then offer’d their full share, but considering, the injustice of the Verdict, I cou’d not Consent toe it for the Continent Claim, — The bearer Como Manly was at the recapture, who can Inform you very particularly. — I likewise forward you beside the papers from the Court Maritime, Capt. Ramseys desposition who, was Master of the Brigt when taken, & the Command given him by Admiral Shuldham — also a deposition one of the Claimants desired my forwarding.

In this recapture, there were, a Mr [William] Jackson a Mr [Edward] Keighley & a Mr [Richard] Newton, who claim their Good they had with them in this Vessel, undoubtedly those persons must be deem’d carrieg their Interest for the supply of the Army &c — If it shou’d be thought necessary my attendance at the Trial, shall be oblig’d you wou’d advise me, & the time appointed. also please to advise me your receipt of those Papers. — Shou’d the Honble Continental Congress, Permit a Compromise with the Claimants, (except those that were in the Vessel wd presume to think they wont allow it with them) shall be further oblig’d by an early direction thereon.— The Mode proposed, (if such a measure was permited) was to have the Goods Valued, by Three Gentlemen vers’d in Merchandize, & each Claimant to pay his Quota. I mention this for your full Information of what has been agitated since the Trial — I would presume to recommend a decision as soon as may be, for the Interest of the concern’d, as the Good has been a long time in my Care, and I fear they may injure much by laying, as they are chiefly Woolens & Linnens, or rather a greater half of those Good. – In my Estimation the Vessel & Cargo may Yields £30,000 Lawfl. My at Public Sale. – I am with due respect [&c.]

BRIGADIER GENERAL BENEDICT ARNOLD TO MAJOR GENERAL HORATIO GATES

Dear General

Buttonmould Bay Augt 31st 1776

The 24th Inst I left Crown Point, the 25th at night Anchored at Willsborough, the Same night came on a Violent Storm at N Ett. the Next Day at 2 P M was obliged to weigh Anchor & return to this place, where the whole fleet arived the same evening, except the Spitfire Capt Ulmer who could not Clear the Shore & was obliged to come to an Anchor again, & rode out the Storm, tho exposed to the rake of Cumberland Bay. Fifty miles long, the hard gale made an amazeing Sea, & when I expected to hear the Gondola was Foundered, or drove on shore, she Joined us haveing received no Damage. tho a light Batteau, Veered a Stern of her was sunk, with the Sea, breaking Over her. The severe weather prevented my dispatching Lieut Whitcomb before yesterday morning, the first Fair wind, I will follow him. I should have gone this evening but the breeze is so light, night would have come on before we could have reached a safe place of Anchorage—I have had no Advices From St.Johns, or the Isle aux Nois, the earliest Intelligence I receive shall be communicated to you, emediately. I am very Anxious to hear from New York & make no Doubt, when you receive any material, Advices, I shall soon be Acquainted with it. — Inclosed is a return of the Strength of the Fleet, by which you will observe that Seventy four Men are wanting to compleat the Numbers proposed for the Vessells, which Are barely sufficient when compleat. I should be extremly glad, they would be sent to us soon — If you think proper to Send them the bearer Lieut [James] Calderwood, will take charge of them — Mr [James] Gilliland has the only good drawft I know of Lake Champlain, which he says was Delivered Capt [Lewis] Bush for you. It will be of great Service to me as I have no Drawft of the Lake. If a good officer can be procured to Act as Captain of the Royal Savage, I think he might be of Service, in Case any Accident should happen to me the present Master is not fit for the Command In Chief, tho a good Man in his present Station.
I suppose by this time General Schuyler has paid you a Visit, please to make My respectful Compliments to him if arrived – & let him know I will write him very particularly as soon as I arrive at the other end of the Lake – I am with real Affection & Esteem Dear General [&c.]

Journal of Captain Henry Duncan, R.N.

[On board H.M.S. Eagle off Staten Island]

On Thursday, 29th [August 1776], General Sullivan and Lord Stirling both dined with the admiral, and were rather impudent than otherwise in talking of yesterday's engagement. This day, we with several of the men-of-war moved up nearer the town; the army had got within musket shot of the rebel's works on Brookland Heights, and General Grant in the bay opposite to Red Hook.

30th, Friday. — This morning Sullivan breakfasted with us, and was afterwards sent with a flag of truce to New York and was left there. The admiral was going on shore, and was met in his barge by Colonel Sheriff, who informed him, to the surprise of the army, the rebels had quitted all their strong posts on Long Island, and deserted it entirely. Our people took possession of them, and found them strong and might easily have been defended for a considerable time. Some of the rebels, not knowing the precipitate flight of the others, were overtaken by our people by the time they got to the boats, and received a heavy fire from them, which the general believed did considerable execution. This evening, we, with several of the ships, moved up within random shot of the town. The rebels quitted Governor's Island. On Saturday morning, the 31st, some few men returned to it.

2. Both generals were taken prisoner at the battle of Long Island.
3. This seems to be the British version of Washington's evacuation of Long Island. The few men left behind, and who were fired at from the shore, had been a rear guard.

VICE ADMIRAL RICHARD LORD HOWE TO PHILIP STEPHENS

Number 5.

Eagle off Bedlow’s Island, New York
Sir, August the 31st 1776.

A Proposition having been made to me by the Commander of the Rebel Forces for an Exchange of Prisoners, Number for Number and Rank for Rank, I have thought it for His Majesty’s Service to concur therein.

I have in Consequence directed that some American Prisoners taken by the Milford in an Armed Vessel from Boston should be conveyed in the Rainbow to Halifax; and have desired Commissioner Arbuthnot to take the necessary Measures for effecting a suitable Exchange, with the Assistance of Sir George Collier, whom I have ordered to remain at Halifax for the better Protection and Security of that port.

Observing that the King’s Service has received great Prejudice in the Decrease of the Ships’ Complements by the re-capture of Vessels the property of His Majesty’s disaffected Subjects, taken and manned by the Cruizers of the Squadron; I have recommended to the several Captains when making Prize of such Vessels, to take out the Crews with the most valuable parts of their Cargoes, and destroy the Vessels: Until the constitutional Authority of Government is so far restored in some part of the Colonies, that the Benefit intended by the restraining Act of the last Session of Parliament, may be better secured to the Captors than the present disordered State of the Colonies will admit. VICE ADMIRAL RICHARD LORD HOWE TO PHILIP STEPHENS

Eagle off Bedlow’s Island, New York, August the 31st 1776.

By the Hyde packet, which the General sends with his Dispatches to make known the successful Progress of the Army in its first Operations, I transmit for their Lordships Information, Duplicates of my Letters of the 28th of July, and 8th and 14th of August sent by the Sandwich Packet, No 2. 3 & 4; with Copies of such of the Papers referred to therein, as seemed to be of any Moment.

I have now to add in respect to the Changes made in the Disposition of the Ships since the Date of the last Return, that on the 19th Captain Parker in the Phoenix, with the Rose Captain Wallace, and Tryal Armed Schooner, Lieutenant [John] Brown, taking Advantage of a fresh Easterly Wind, returned from the North River thro’ the Fire from the Enemy’s several Batteries and joined the Fleet off Staten Island without any Loss.

The Spirit and perseverance of this small Squadron will be best explained to their Lordships by Captain Parker’s Journal enclosed.

General Howe giving me Notice of his Intention to make a Descent in 188-625 O - 72 - 26

Gravesend Bay on Long Island on the Morning of the 22d, the necessary Disposition was made, and seventy five Flat Boats with eleven Batteaux and two Gallies built for the Occasion, were prepared for that Service.

The Command of the Whole remained with Commodore Hotham. The Captains Parker, Wallace and [Archibald] Dickson in the Phoenix, Rose and Greyhound, with the Thunder and Carcass Bombs under the Direction of Colonel [Thomas] James, were appointed to cover the Landing.

The Flat Boats Gallies and three Batteaux manned from the Ships of War, were formed into Divisions commanded respectively by the Captains [George] Vandeput, [Christopher] Mason, [Roger] Curtis, [Benjamin] Caldwell, [Charles] Phipps, [Toby] Caulfield, [Samuel] Uppleby and [Henry] Duncan; and Lieutenant [Samuel] Reeve of the Eagle. The rest of the Batteaux making a tenth Division, manned from the Transports, were under the conduct of Lieutenant Bristow, an Assistant Agent.

Early in the Morning of the 22d the covering Ships took their Stations in Gravesend Bay. The Light Infantry with the Reserve to be first landed, forming a Corps together of four thousand Men, entered the Boats at Staten Island at the same Time.

The Transports in which the several Brigades composing the second Debarkation (about five thousand Men) had been before embarked, were moved down and suitably arranged without the covering Ships by eight o'Clock. The first Debarkation not meeting with any opposition, the Second succeeded immediately after. And the other Transports carrying the rest of the Troops following the former in proper Succession, the whole Force then destined for this Service, consisting of about fifteen thousand Men, was landed before Noon.

On the Diligence and Utility of Captain [John] Bourmaster and the other Agents of the Transports on that Occasion, too much Commendation cannot be bestowed.

On the 25th an additional Corps of Hessian Troops under General [Leopold von] Heister, with their Field Artillery and Baggage, were conveyed over to Gravesend Bay.

Being informed the next Day by General Howe, of his Intentions to advance with the Army that Night to the Enemy's Lines; and of his Wishes that some Diversion might be attempted by the Ships on this Side; I gave Direction to Sir Peter Parker for proceeding higher up in the Channel towards the Town of New York next Morning, with the Asia, Renown, Preston (Commodore Hotham embarked in the Phoenix having been left to carry on the Service in Gravesend Bay) Roebuck and Repulse: And to keep those Ships in readiness for being employed as Occasion might require. But the Wind veering to the Northward soon after the Break of Day, the Ships could not be moved up to the Distance proposed. Therefore when the Corps under General [James] Grant, forming the left Column of the Army were seen to be engaged with the Enemy in the Morning, the Roebuck Captain Hamond leading the detached Squadron, was the only Ship that could fetch high enough to the Northward to exchange a few random APLUE OF NEW YORK ISLAND with part of LONG ISLAND, STATEN ISLAND, EAST NEW JERSEY, with a particular Description of the Engagement on the Woody Heights of Long Island between FLATBUSH and BROOKLYN on the 27th of August, 1776, between HIS MAJESTY'S FORCES Commanded by General HOWE, and the AMERICANS under Major General PUTNAM, showing the Landing of the Reverse Army on Long Island, and the Taking of the City of New York. With an annex of an Expedition with the Independent Expedition of BURGOYNE.
Shot with the Battery on Red Hook. And the Ebb making strongly down the River soon after, I ordered the Signal to be shewn for the Squadron to anchor.

It was observed, that as soon as the Centre Column of the Army was seen to have turned the Flank of the Enemy's Line opposed to General Grant, they immediately attempted to make their Retreat within their Works; But that they suffered great Loss, both in the Number killed and made Prisoners.

On the Night of the 29th the Rebels abandoned all their Posts and Works on Long Island, and retired with great Precipitation across the East River to the Town of New York.

Captain Bishop arrived in the Lively from St Augustine the 22d Instant, with Letters from Governor Tonty.

The Governor expresses therein his Apprehensions of an Invasion of the Province under his Government on the Side of Georgia. And before the Lively sailed to give any Assistance the Captain might be able to render on that part, Advice was received that the Rebels had plundered the Settlements on Amelia Island.

I have directed Captain Bishop to return with a Supply of Provisions and Stores of such Natures as could be spared for the Ships stationed in East Florida; And to make the best Disposition of them with the Concurrence of the Governor that their State and the Supplies Captain Bishop is enabled to afford them will admit: Not having others in this port that are of the Classes, and in Condition to replace them. Captain Bishop is to call off the Capes of Virginia in his passage along the Coast to deliver Instructions to the Commander of the Otter (the Fowey being daily expected here for Water) and to the Captains of the Ships left in Cape Fear Harbour, to join me in this Port. The Cruizer is represented to be incapable of putting to Sea. And Captain [Anthony] Hunt is directed in that Case to provide for the Removal of the Company and Stores, and to evacuate and destroy the Sloop.

The Swan and Tamer are also not in a State for present Service; But the first Opportunity will be taken to give them the Repairs which it is hoped may be sufficient for enabling them to return to Europe.

Commissioner Arbuthnot having disembarked all the Naval Stores from the Britannia Store-Ship at Halifax, as I am informed by Captain [George] Montagu of the Mercury lately arrived from thence, the cruising Ships here will be greatly distressed for that Article. I have ordered the Rainbow to proceed to and remain at Halifax for the farther Security of the Port. And by that Conveyance I shall desire the Commissioner to prepare an Assortment of Naval Stores to be embarked again in the Britannia, ready to be transported here, as soon as an Opportunity offers for conducting the Store-Ship to the Fleet.

Finding the Defects of the Bristol such as cannot be conveniently repaired abroad, I propose sending her to Plymouth as soon as the Nature of the Service upon which the Squadron is now employed will admit. And in consequence of an Application made upon my Arrival here by Vice Admiral Shuldham for Leave to return to England (a Copy of which with my Answer are enclosed) I have assigned that Ship for his Conveyance.

I informed their Lordships in a former Letter that the Dispatch Schooner was separated from the Renown in the passage from Halifax; I have since learnt that the Schooner was taken soon after by an Armed Vessel of the Rebels of much superior Force; Lieutenant [John] Goodridge being killed in the Action.

I send enclosed an Account of the State and Condition of the Squadron. And am Sir [&c.]

SUMMARY

Ports in England and France hummed with the activity of accelerated naval preparations. On both sides of the Channel, diplomats and informers kept their courts fully advised. Essentially the same question was being asked in London, Paris, and Madrid—"Was the purpose of this augmented naval armament offensive or defensive?"

France and Spain reasoned that the build-up of British naval strength was in excess of that required to crush the rebellious Americans, and that it could be used to descend on their West Indian possessions. Britain's concern centered on the knowledge that France saw in the American troubles a prime opportunity for revanche. The imminent prospect of war between Spain and Portugal did nothing to dispel the tension.

Silas Deane, Continental agent in Paris, after officially making his mission known to Versailles, was closely working with Beaumarchais, Dubourg and others to muster a large shipment of arms, clothing, and essential supplies for Washington's army. In spite of his efforts at concealment, Deane's identity and reason for being in France were no secret to Lord Stormont, British ambassador. Stormont also cast a suspicious eye on Beaumarchais "who was lately not worth a shilling but now has Millions at his Command."

News reaching London of the alarming number of ships being captured by American privateers sent insurance rates up, and the merchants storming to government demanding protection. The Admiralty responded by diverting Royal Navy ships to convoy duty, and by arming ordnance and store ships. Even the East India Company requested and received naval coverage for homeward bound ships laden with madras and other exotic cargo.

The King of Portugal, staunch friend of Britain, issued an edict denying American ships use of his ports. Suggestions by English envoys that it would be a pleasing gesture to George III if Spain and Holland followed suit, fell upon barren ground. The Portuguese port closure, however, led to a recommendation, backed by Beaumarchais and Deane, that American armed ships attack and seize Portuguese vessels.

Late in August, H.M. Sloop Ranger arrived at Spithead carrying dispatches from General Clinton and Commodore Sir Peter Parker telling of their complete defeat before Charleston, South Carolina. As October opened, word was anxiously awaited from the Howe brothers at New York.
Gabriel de Sartine to Count de Vergennes

Versailles, 26 May 1776

I have the honor to send you, Sir, the summary of the letters which were sent to me by the governors of our colonies concerning the conduct of the captains of English warships in those seas. I also enclose extracts of declarations made upon their return by the captains of merchant ships that were visited by English officers and of which several were fired upon with shot. Since England wages an open war with her colonies of North America, our merchant ships cannot refuse at sea the visit required by the captains of English warships, and to this effect they must lower their sails at the first call as we require other nations to do for us in similar cases under penalties regulated by article 12 of the title of prizes in the ordinance of 1681. The shots fired upon our merchant ships were certainly caused by some resistance or delays to which several captains confessed and they appear to me as being of little consequence, but the English officers must exercise caution with respect to our frigates and the approaches to our coasts and roads. I beg you to examine these documents and to tell me what you think of them. I shall be very happy to arrange with you the replies to be made to the various governors as well as the orders that will be sent to the ports. I have the honor to be with sincere attachment, Sir [&c.]

Extract of various letters concerning the English frigates cruising off St. Domingue.

From Count d'Ennery. 25 January 1776. No. 83.

Two English frigates cruise off the mole St. Nicholas and intercept the few vessels from New England that come to or leave this port. I will order two of our frigates to cruise there in order to draw them away from our coast and prevent them from sailing too close to it as well as visiting our ships, as they have been doing. They have not harmed them or insulted them, but they have visited at least 20 or 30 French vessels.

Ditto. 13 February 1776. No. 95.

The two English frigates fire solid shot upon the French vessels that want to proceed on their way. I know that we cannot prevent them from stopping the vessels from New England or from their own Nation, but it seems indecent that they should sail so close to our coast and search or visit our ships in our own waters. Consequently, I am sending to this station the frigates Amphitrite and Dédaigneuse with orders to ask them to bear off farther from our coast and prevent them from visiting our ships. Since our frigates are stronger, I hope they will comply with my protest. Furthermore, I enjoined wisdom and prudence on Messrs . . . and de Grasse but I told them not to suffer any impertinence.
From Count Le Begue. 16 February 1776.

As I was sailing under the island of Tortue and as I was beating against the wind, I met at night and very close to land an English frigate that had been cruising there for a long time against all the vessels from New England. First, she fired a blank and I payed no attention. Then she fired one round of solid shot that fell astern. Since I had not cleared for action I stood on in order to give myself time to do it, but with less sail than she carried. Indeed, she closed with me and fired a second time with solid shot; then, I clewed up my main sail. The moon was bright. I hoisted my ensign and my pennant and I payed off in order to bring my broadside to bear on her bow because she was on my quarter. I fired solid shot then with order to miss. She made signals that I could not understand and bore away right before the wind. I stood on my course towards the Cape where I arrived the next day.

Extract of the declarations made by the captains of merchant ships coming from the French colonies.

Captain Foligny of the ship Constance from Nantes, upon leaving Leogane and disemboguing, met three English frigates cruising off this port and the mole St. Nicholas. One of these frigates first hoisted a white ensign then the English ensign and sent on board his ship a boat carrying fifteen armed men. The officer commanding this boat ordered several rifle-shots before coming on board although he had brought his ship to, then he required to look over the ship as well as the papers and after asking the French captain several indiscreet questions told him to proceed on his way.

Captain Maillard of the ship Thomas from Nantes declared that on 2 March 1776 and coming out of St. Domingue he met at night off the mole St. Nicholas two English frigates that signaled him they wanted to speak to him. They then joined him after firing several solid shots at his ship. Then he bore away and clewed up his sails. They asked where he came from and where he was going and after answering these questions, they told him to proceed on his way.

Captain Menard of the ship Lilavois from Nantes declared that he met off the Island of Inagune [Inagua] an English frigate of 28 guns which hailed him and asked him where he came from and where he was going, wished him a good journey, then left him.

Messrs. Lavigne and Lalanne, owners of the ship Cérés from Le Havre declared that on the 5th of March last as their ship was disemboguing from Guadeloupe she met an English frigate that fired one solid shot upon her.
The captain hoisted the White Ensign and sailed on, but this frigate did not cease firing solid shot until the French captain hove to. The frigate sent a boat with an officer who after asking . . . why they had not brought the ship to at the first shot merely took the name of the ship and that of the captain, took note of the cargo, then withdrew.

Captain Toustaing of the ship Port de Paix coming from Port de Paix declared that on 31 March 1776 as he was in the disemboguement at about eleven o'clock in the evening, a ship fired a blank upon him, which he answered in similar manner by firing a blank. As the frigate fired a second time, but with solid shot, M. Toustaing immediately clewed up his sails. An English officer came on board his ship and looked at the papers, then told him that he was sorry but that he thought he was English.

Letters from Philadelphia, brought by the Lion, Wilson, by Way of Cadiz, dated April 1, mention, that three Ships, laden with Flour, which sailed the 30th of March from that Place for a foreign Market, after being out six Days, were pursued and taken by two of our Ships of War, who carried them to some of the West India Islands, and that several more were then loading there with Flour, &c. for a foreign Market.

In the Dublin Journal are the following Articles, dated Corke, May 28:

The Morris [Morris], Captain [Thomas] Bell, about 250 Tons Burthen, the Property of Morres and Williams [Willing, Morris & Co.] of Philadelphia, sailed from Havre the 17th inst. for the said Place with 300 Casks of Gunpowder, each Cask equal in Size to a Beef half Barrel 5000 Pigs of Lead, a considerable Quantity of Canvass and coarse Linen for Sails, Tents and Shirting, and twenty Chests of Arms. This Accounting may be depended on.

A Sloop is arrived at Youghal from Havre in six Days, by whom we learn that a Philadelphia Ship, commanded by Captain Bell, sailed from Havre for America about fourteen Days ago with a considerable Quantity of Gunpowder and Saltpetre on board. The Day she sailed some French Fishermen saw her taken by an English Cruizer and carried her to Portsmouth. ¹

1. The Morris was one of seven vessels freighted by Willing, Morris & Co. under contract with the Secret Committee of Congress, to export provisions and invest the proceeds in arms and ammunition. The French fishermen were in error as to her capture, and Robert Morris, in summarizing the results of the venture, reported: "They also Credit for Nt proceeds of ship Morris's Cargo drawn for by them £ 1216.18. 4½." His Majesty's Post Master General having appointed Capt'n John Mitchell to command the Duke of Cumberland Packet Boat employed in the Service of that Office between Falmouth and North America, and having desired My Lords Commrs of the Admity to give orders to all Commanders of His Majesty's Fleets and Ships of War to give upon all occasions the Best assistance they can to the Commander of the said Packet Boat, to avoid detaining her and stopping her upon any account; I am commanded by their Lordships to signify their direction to you not to stop or detain the said Vessel on any Account whatever, but to give her Captain all the Assistance in your Power; And in Case His Majesty's Service shou'd absolutely require contrary proceedings; It is their Lordships direction that you acquaint them with the Reasons of it that they may judge how far your Conduct is justifiable, I am &c P.S

1. PRO, Admiralty 2/552, 95-96.
I had the honor, Sir, to receive the letter which you wrote me on the 26th of this month, as well as all the enclosed documents.

I agree with you, Sir, that our merchant ships should not excuse themselves from answering the call of English warships, and it appears to me that if these have had to use force so as to oblige the former to comply with this rule, it was only after encountering resistance on their part, in view of which we have no grounds for complaint in this matter.

However, the establishment of English cruises near our coasts and roads not only causes prejudice to the trade in which the inhabitants of New England engage with our Colonies, but in my opinion, it is also prejudicial to the dignity of the King and contrary to common usage.

Indeed, it is against all rules to establish cruises within range of the guns of a fort, and the King could not tolerate the English cruises without making sacrifice of the rights of his Sovereignty. I will instruct M. Garnier to make confidential representations to the Court of London in this matter and especially to present to them the facts reported by M. d'Argout and suggest to them that they recommend more consideration and caution to the persons in charge of carrying out their orders. However, I believe that the most effective manner to move the English ships away from our coasts and ports is to establish our own cruises in such manner that they will keep off the English ships and compel them to keep a good offing. Thus American vessels and our own will be able to sail more freely and will find means to escape inspection by the English. Furthermore, if the English are so bold as to pass our ships and sail too close to our coasts, it will be possible to chase them with gunfire without hesitation or evasion: a few examples of this kind will inspire their respect far better than the orders and threats from the Court of London.

3. Vergennes sent Sartine’s letter and enclosures to Garnier in London on June 1 with instructions “to make confidential representations on this matter to the British Ministry.” AMAE, Correspondance Politique, Angleterre, vol. 516, LC Photocopy.

M. GARNIER to VERGENNES

[Extract] London, 30 May 1776

You may have been informed, My lord, that the Frenchmen who were in Philadelphia and about whom there was a great deal of talk in this country were captured upon their return on an American vessel and brought to Lord Dunmore, Governor of Virginia, who sent them here on board the vessel that was shipwrecked off Cape Lizard. There were three of them. The youngest one perished. The other two were questioned with respect to the purpose of their trip. They said that they had left St. Domingue with a cargo of molasses which they had sold at great benefit in America. The older one of the two that were left had been a musketeer. Since they had lost everything in this shipwreck and there were no papers to provide more information about them, the Government gave them everything they needed in order to return to France, considering that, being at peace with us, they could not hold Frenchmen prisoners in England although they had been captured on American vessels; a very wise decision on the part of the Government.

The two Battalions of Hessian Grenadiers sailed from Portsmouth on the 24th of this month, under convoy of the Frigate Repulse, 32 guns. 35 vessels carrying war ammunition, victuals and 500 recruits joined this same convoy.

GABRIEL DE SARTINE TO COUNT D'ENNERY, GOVERNOR OF SANTO DOMINGO ¹

Versailles, 30 May 1776

I had anticipated, Sir the observations that you brought to my attention concerning the need to send a few of the King's Ships to cruise off St.
Dominique. As soon as he received news of the offensive actions committed by the English frigates in the waters of this Colony, the King had ordered that two frigates and one corvette be stationed there in order to enforce the authority of the French flag. The frigate La Tourterelle under the command of M. de Beaussier and the corvette L'Etourdie under the command of M.
Le Begue now stationed at St. Domingo are destined for this mission. These Officers have been directed to give you a copy of their Orders in which the King's Instructions are explained in detail. You will please to see that they be properly executed. H.M. recommends that you do not change anything in the arrangements that he made unless extraordinary circumstances which he could not foresee compelled you to do so.

You will send me in double envelope, the first one marked For You Only, your reports with respect to the orders of Messrs. Beaussier and Le Begue and the Officer who will be in command of the frigate which is to be sent to you. I have the honor to be with sincere attachment, Sir [&c.]

GABRIEL DE SARTINE TO LIEUTENANT DE L'ABBADIE, COMMANDING THE SLOOP OF WAR Le Rossignol

Versailles, 30 May 1776

I enclose herewith, Sir, particular Instructions which will give you directions relative to your cruise while you will be stationed at Martinique. It is His Majesty's intention that you give a copy of these Instructions to M. D'Argout, Governor General; you will please to comply therewith.

It is said in the Instructions which you received as you left France that one of the main objects of your cruise is to put a stop to illegal trade. The new Instructions which I am sending you alter this arrangement: It is possible that circumstances and the needs of the Colony require that less vigilance be exercised in this area. Consequently, H.M. [His Majesty] recommends that you comply with the orders you will receive from the Governor General.

You will send me in double envelope, the first one marked For You Only, the reports relative to your Cruise as directed in the new Instructions which I am sending you. I have the honor to be, &c.

PHILIP STEPHENS TO VICE ADMIRAL ROBERT MAN

Sir,

[Admiralty Office] 31 May 1776.

Lord Weymouth, One of His Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State, having transmitted to my Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty Copy of a Letter he received from Mr Consul Hardy at Cadiz, dated the 3d Instant, giving an account that his Majesty's Frigate Enterprize and Zephir Sloop, had been for several days cruizing off that Port, and had chased and searched some Vessels very near the entrance of the Bay, which proceedings gives great umbrage there, and he is apprehensive may cause Complaints from the Court of Spain; I am commanded by their Lordships to acquaint you therewith, and to recommend it to you to order the Commanders of the Cruizers which you may station from time to time to intercept Ships and Vessels belonging to the Rebellious Colonies of North America, to avoid cruizing in sight of the Ports, and not to approach the Coasts of Spain so as to give any Interruption to the Subjects or Trade of that Nation, or any just cause of Complaint. I am &ca

GIAMBATTISTA PIZZONI TO HIS GOVERNMENT IN VENICE

[Extract]

Most Serene Prince,

London, 31 May 1776

After the Royal Army decided to abandon Boston for reasons already explained, there was a rumor that its Commanding General Howe had sailed for Halifax, capital of Nova Scotia; however, such information has now become doubtful. Some persons who believe themselves current with the military deployment of this Court in America maintain that after the fleet of transports had arrived at a certain point to mislead the Americans regarding his voyage to Halifax, he suddenly changed course for Long Island, that is Isola Lunga, a very short distance from New York, capital of the same Province. In fact, as said Island is situated facing the midpoint of the very extensive English American coastline, such situation appears very suited to favor any enterprise by the Royal Army. However, while well founded news is awaited on this matter, a ship has come from America, bearing the news of American uncertainty as to where the campaign will be opened by choice, along with a notice to this Ministry of having met at sea on the [21st] day of the month expiring, at a long distance from St. Helena Island, the Warship Eagle of this Crown, which ship was sailing under fair wind toward this Continent and was carrying Admiral Lord Howe; it is then reasonably conjectured that the first of the two expeditions of troops thus far sent has arrived at its destination, and that the second is about to arrive. . . .

Yesterday arrived in the River the John and James, Baker, from Alicant; which brings letters that say, there were six American vessels taking in goods there for Philadelphia, but do not say what sort of goods, but only that the Americans carry on an extensive trade to those ports.

London Chronicle, Thursday, May 30 to Saturday, June 1, 1776

London [May 31].

Letters from South Carolina, brought by a ship that is arrived at Nantz, mention, that on the 8th of April last, four large ships were then loading at Charlestown with indigo and rice, for a foreign market, they mounted from 20 to 30 guns; and that a transport, laden with porter, had been brought into [South] Carolina by two American privateers, who had taken the cargo out, and were then proceeding to fit her as a privateer, being a very good ship.

Gabriel de Sartine to the Commissioners in Nantes and Bordeaux

Versailles, 31 May 1776

The English Minister Plenipotentiary, Sir, was informed that a Dutch ship loaded with 40 thousand pounds of Powder destined for Bordeaux and two others loaded with 45 thousand pounds destined for Nantes recently left Amsterdam. The Court of London thinks that this Powder is eventually destined for New England. We have been requested to send orders to our ports and prevent this destination to be reached. Although I have grounds to assume that this supply of Powder is destined, on the contrary, to our traders on the Coast of Guinea, who turned to Holland after being unable to obtain any from England as they used to, I thought necessary to remind you again that His Majesty's intention is that his subjects shall not supply any war ammunition to the rebels of North America. You will please to give all your attention to this matter and keep your eyes open on the Dutch ships that might bring powder into your port.

[Endorsed] Copy of the letter sent by M. de Sartine to Messrs. Doyard and De la Porte.

Draft of Instructions corresponding to those of the Spanish Court for the four Frigates and the three Corvettes which His Majesty proposes to keep operational and on observation cruises in the Windward Islands and Santo Domingo.

His Majesty having deemed necessary to keep four frigates and three corvettes stationed in the American Sea, these instructions will explain to M.—-—-to whom is entrusted the Command of———-the line of conduct he is to maintain during his cruise and inform him more perfectly of the object of his mission. H.M. thought it pertinent to disclose to him the respective missions of the other frigates or corvettes and to indicate to him the areas to be guarded by the said frigates and corvettes of H.M. as well as by those of H.Cath.M. [His Catholic Majesty.]
The precautions which must be observed in the present circumstances require that particular attention be directed to the routes which the English might follow as they sail from the New England Ports to the Gulf of Mexico, the Island of Cuba, Santo Domingo, Puerto Rico, Guadeloupe and Martinique.

Spain will direct four frigates to cruise in the following waters:

One to cruise 30 or 40 leagues Northward of the North East point of Puerto Rico.

A second one will cruise between the western point of Puerto Rico and the eastern point of Santo Domingo.

A third one, between the eastern point of Cuba and Mayaguana.

A fourth one, between the western point of Cuba and Vezil [Sisal?] and the place where one begins to take soundings before reaching Campeche.

By these dispositions, all passages on the lee-side of the Antilles are guarded by Spanish frigates; and it would be difficult for the English to reach the Gulf of Mexico without being sighted by one of these frigates stationed there on observation.

The Frigates and Corvettes which H.M. proposes to keep armed in the American Sea will receive the following assignments:

The Frigate L'Aigrette under the command of Captain Thomas Dorves will cruise to windward of Martinique and patrol Northward as far as the parallel of the southern point of Guadeloupe or that of Marie Galante and Southward as far as the parallel of the North Eastern point of St. Lucia.

The Frigate La Licorne under the command of Captain de Peynier will cruise to windward of Guadeloupe and will extend her cruise Northward as far as the parallel of Barbuda and Southward as far as the parallel of Dominica.

These two frigates will observe the English ships that will come to scout the Antilles in order to pass either to the North, or to the South of these Islands, or through the channels lying between them.

The Corvette Le Rossignol commanded by Lieutenant de L'abbadie will cruise to leeward of Martinique and will maintain such a course that she will always be able to reach Guadeloupe.

The Corvette Le Rossignol commanded by Lieutenant Dussault will cruise to leeward of Guadeloupe and will extend her cruise towards Saint Christopher.

The Corvette L' Etourdie commanded by Lieutenant Le Begue will cruise to the North of the French Cape of Santo Domingo and will extend her cruise towards the Caicos Islands.

The Frigate La Renommée, commanded by Captain de Monteil will cruise off St. Nicholas Mole and towards the Great Inagua.

This Frigate and the Corvette Le Serin will observe the Ships that might want to reach the Old Channel.
Finally, the Frigate La Tourterelle, commanded by Captain Beausier de Chateauvert, will cruise to the South of Fort St. Louis to Santo Domingo in order to observe the Ships which might pass through the Channel between this Island and Jamaica.

The only instructions which H.M. will give to the Commanders of his Frigates and Corvettes destined to cruise in the waters as directed above in order to observe the possible movements of the English Squadrons are limited to the following points to which M.—will pay the greatest attention.

1) They should hide as much as possible, even from their crews, the purpose of their cruise.

2) They should all act in concert exchanging intelligence which may guide them as much, of course, as distances and circumstances will allow it, while each one will keep strictly to the primary object of his mission.

3) With regard to inspecting and detaining of English Vessels, they should not stray from the general practice which has been followed up to now, that is to say, they should pretend that they are trying to stop smuggling on the coasts of the Isles belonging to H.M.; but each time they will be able to detain some Vessel on these just grounds they will attempt to obtain information as to the destination, movements, and business of the Ships of the English Fleet.

4) Rather than trying to intercept the illicit trade of the Americans, they should be more concerned with maintaining their cruises at fairly good distance in order to keep the English Frigates away and to prevent their daring to come too close to the French Isles or visit the harbors and various anchorages as they have already done.

5) In the event that a Vessel from New England, belonging to the Insurgents, would be pursued by an English Frigate and would ask for the protection of the French Flag, the Commanders of the King's Frigates and Corvettes will grant it to her, and if in spite of the declaration made to this effect the English Frigate still attempts to seize her, the said Commanders will oppose such an action and will use the forces entrusted to them by H.M.

6) They will act likewise with regard to Neutral Vessels having left European or American Ports and laden with ammunition or other kinds of Aid for the Insurgents; and in the event that one of these Vessels would be pursued by an English Frigate and would ask for the protection of the King's Flag, the Commanders of His Majesty's Frigates and Corvettes would not allow that said Vessel be inspected. But in both preceding cases, they are not to move towards said Vessels and must wait until circumstances bring those close enough to ask for the protection of the King's Flag, nor are they to try and facilitate through their own manoeuvres those which the said Vessels may make in order to approach His Majesty's Frigates and Corvettes.
Gulf of Mexico and Caribbean Sea.
7) They should be prompt to communicate to the French Governors all the intelligence they will receive and their own findings, particularly to the Governor more concerned by this Information than the others by reason of securing the Colony whose defence is entrusted to him.

8) In pertinent cases the same information should be given to the Governors of the main Spanish Colonies because, independently from the fact that both Nations share the same interest in this matter, the subjects of His Catholic Majesty will endeavour on their part to obtain other intelligence which they will heedfully communicate to the French Governors.

9) If they should encounter His Catholic Majesty's Warships and Frigates, they should conduct themselves towards their Commanding Officers with suitable courtesy and trust and exchange information they might have which might be useful to the Service of both Monarchs.

10) Finally, at every available opportunity they should approach Vessels returning to France and those arriving in American waters, and use the former to acquaint His Majesty and the latter to acquaint the French Governors with everything of interest they may have discovered or learned during their cruise.

The Commanders of the Frigates and Corvettes will coordinate all their operations with the Commandants of the Islands where they will be stationed.

His Majesty enjoins the said Commanders to remain at sea as long as possible and to put into Port only when pressing needs will compel them to do so or when they will have intelligence for the Commandants of the Colonies.

DR. BARBEU DUBOURG TO VERGENNES

[Extract]
Monseigneur

Paris 31st May 1776

Permit me to impart to you my uneasiness with regard to our great affair, and, above all, as to the man who has the charge of it.
You have seen the contract passed between the secret committee of the Colonies, and ratified by the General Congress, of the one part and the Sires Pliarne and Penet of the other; so we could not doubt the intentions of the Congress. But it seems likely enough that, having but very recent and slight knowledge of these two men, who have offered themselves to them at a moment when they were not in a position to choose, they have accepted their proposals, without, however, having full confidence therein, and that they have taken what precautions they could to bridle him whom they were sending into France charged with their commissions.²

M. Penet was born in Alsace the son of an artillery store keeper who, having many children, could give them but a mediocre education. This one went to seek his fortune in America, and, at his departure, did a stroke of business, not indeed of a dishonest man but of a not very scrupulous adventurer. He obtained from M. de Monthieu, 600 Muskets upon credit as a private venture and their lender was many years without receiving news of him; but, at last, when he believed all lost he received about half his principal and interest combined. This story is well vouched for. One cannot conclude much from it if there was nothing to support it. Let us pass to another point.

This M. Penet has told me that he has letters from Messrs. Franklin and Rush for me, which remain in Holland with his large pack and that he has sent to have it forwarded to me here. I am impatient to receive this packet, which will, perhaps, teach me more of the way of thinking of the American Committee. Meanwhile this man evinces the greatest desire to form a partnership to share with me, upon very liberal terms, all the benefits of the immense trade of which the most fortunate prospect seems to offer itself to him alone; whence it seems possible to conclude that he feels the need of a little support.

Finally, what appears to me more conclusive than everything else, is that he confided to me last night that for all consignments he shall make either of men or stores he will be obliged to draw upon M. Swenghauzen,³ or Chevisgouze banker, at Nantes, but that the letters which shall authorize him therein were not delivered to him at once, and are only to come to him by the vessels expected at Nantes from America, to take in cargo—proof that they have not thought fit to put themselves altogether at his discretion.

That being the case, Monseigneur, it seems to me necessary, in the first place to try and get to the bottom of all that, in the second place to provide in one way or another for the pressing needs of our good friends the Colonists of America.

To fulfil the first object,—would there be no means of making inquiry in Alsace about him personally, at Nantes as to the power entrusted to him and the advices transmitted from America to the banker Swengaus [Schweighauser]? This latter point is the most important, but only a commandant or intendant, commissioned thereto by the Court could manage it. That is too far beyond my reach. Still, could we not facilitate and accelerate the arrival of the packs from Holland, which should contain these letters, with details, more or less, about him?

And supposing that we could only deal with much reserve and caution with the Sieur Pennet, how could we contrive so as not to leave the Colonies destitute of the resources most necessary to their defence, in which France has so great an interest? I am very devoted to them, looking upon this new State almost as my second country. I flatter myself that they honour me with a singular confidence and I would rather die than abuse it in any way; but my arms are not long enough to embrace an object of this importance. I implore your goodwill for them, your protection for myself. I have the honour to be with profound respect [&c.]

VERGENNES TO DR. BARBEU DUBOURL

M. Barbeau DuBourg Doctor of Medicine
Rue Copeau—Paris

Versailles the 1st June 1776

I have just received, Monsieur, the letter of yesterday which you have thought good to write to me, in order to inform me of your uneasiness about the person who presented himself to you as recommended by your friends, and who cannot now produce his credentials. The most favourable judgment one can pass upon the man in question is that he is one of those fortune-seekers who are willing to enrich themselves at any cost; that, with this aim, he has been to offer his services you know where, that they have been accepted and that thinking to find people here equally bold and venturesome he has perhaps undertaken to supply to distant parts what he is seeking to obtain here, only to receive the price of it after delivery. So reckless a party not being of a kind to find associates, I think you would do very well, Monsieur, to put a check upon the facilities which you seemed inclined to procure for this man, and above all, not to answer for anyone whatsoever. One advice, moreover, which I cannot omit to give you is to inspire this man and his adherents with the greatest caution in their manner of dealing and dispatching business. You are aware that if the object of his negociation were to acquire sufficient publicity for direct and well defined complaints to reach us we could not avoid giving redress and so putting a stop to everything. Pray recollect what I told you, one can connive at certain things but one cannot authorize them.

The enquiries which you suggest, Monsieur, would be, at the least, useless; the production of the credentials is what you ought to insist upon; in default, avoid everything which would implicate you, and consequently compromise you. I am &c

JOHN ROBINSON TO GEORGE III

Mr. Robinson has the Honour, by Lord North's Order, to transmit to His Majesty, the Dispatches which have this Day been received from General Howe, and to add that a Fleet of Victuallers sailed from Cork under the Convoy of the Greyhound Man of War, on the 4th of April for Boston, besides the several Victuallers which went the latter End of last year and which have been drove off the Coast of America, which Fleet it is hoped must have arrived with Genl Howe at Halifax very soon after the Date of His Dispatch, and which probably wd have been with him by the time he wrote, if they had not gone to seek him at Boston.

M. GARNIER TO VERNENES

[Extract] London, 4 June 1776

There was an action at sea between the Frigate Glasgow and some American Privateers that dared attack her. The fight was obstinate, but both parties separated without much damage. The frigate returned to a port of Rhode-Island, and the Privateers to the Port of New-London in the province of Connecticut. 2

The number of horses being embarqued for America amounts to thirteen hundred at the rate of 12 tons per horse. The freight cost is 15 shillings and 6 pence per ton, and the freight for fodder costs 5 pounds Sterling per Ton. As you can see, My lord, this [is] quite an expense for this one item, the least important in this famous expedition. When we recall that the origin-inal purpose behind this enormous expense was to impose a small tax to America, we seem to see an Alchemist of a new kind throwing into his cru-cible everything he can gather that is made of gold and precious metals in order to turn it into lead: this ruinous and mad war is the reverse of the Philosopher's stone for England.

Glasgow. See next entry.

London Chronicle, Saturday, June 1 to Tuesday, June 4, 1776

London [June 4].

A severe naval engagement likewise was fought about the same time off Philadelphia between the Glasgow man of war, with two frigates, and the provincial Commodore Hopkins's fleet, consisting of five ships mounting together 100 guns and all ably manned: after an obstinate fight, of four glasses, one of the Commodore's fleet was taken, another sunk, and the rest were driven in the most tattered condition with the loss of half their hands into New London, near Rhode Island. 1

6, 1776 between H.M.S. Glasgow and the Continental fleet. See subsequent accounts,

Lord George Germain to Governor Sir Basil Keith

[Extract]

(No 9) Whitehall 5th June 1776

Sir, I have received your Dispatches numbered 1 & 2, and your Letter of the 27th of March and have laid them before the King. 2

The Information you had received, of the Arrival of so considerable a Body of Troops at St Domingo was a just ground of Alarm, and His Majesty very much approves of the prudent Measures you took for the safety of the Island, without interrupting it's Commerce, or exciting too strong Apprehensions of Danger to the Inhabitants.

Mr [Charles] Cobb's Letter contains so exact a State of the Military Forces in the Island, as leaves no room to suspect that the Count d'Ennery has any Instructions to employ it in any hostile Enterprises; but at the same time you cannot, in the present Circumstances, be too much upon your Guard, and every Precaution that can be taken without exciting Jealousy, or creating Alarm ought to be made use of, to prevent any Surprise, and to obtain constant & exact Information of what is passing, in both the French & Spanish Islands, and His Majesty relies upon that Zeal & Attachment for his Service, which has hitherto distinguished your Conduct, for exerting you to continue your Attention to these important Objects.

PHILIP STEPHENS to VICE ADMIRAL CLARK GAYTON, JAMAICA

Sr 5 June 1776.

Have received & communicated to my Lords Comrs of the Admty your letter of the 28th of March last, with it's several Inclosures.

Their Lordships are satisfied with the reasons you have given for ordering the Naval Storekeeper at Port Royal to purchase the Lady Keith Schooner, and, considering her as one of the three Schooners which they have directed you to purchase, will confirm the Order you have given Mr Francis Le Montais to be Lieut & Commander of her.

My Lords approve of your having employed an Attorney to defend you in the several Actions brought against you for the detention of the Vessels seized, as belonging to the Rebel Colonies, and part of their Crews; but their Lordships commanded me to inform you that you should have defrayed the Expence yourself and charged it in your contingent account, instead of directing the Naval Storekeeper to pay it.

I have only to add that their Lordships have sent to the Navy Board an Extract of so much of your Letter as relates to the Surgeon of the Maidstone, the appointment of those Officers being vested in that Board, and to assure you that I am &c

Whereas the Commissioners appointed by Acts of Parliament for the Discovery of Longitude at Sea &c have agreed with Mr William Bayly to proceed in His Majesty's Sloop Discovery on her present intended Voyage in order to make Nautical and Astronomical Observations and to perform other Services tending to the improvement of Geography and Navigation (as you will see by the Copy of his Instructions which will be sent you by their Secretary) and have desired that he may be received on board the abovementioned Sloop; And whereas we have ordered Captain Clerke her Commander to put himself under your Command and follow your Orders for his further proceedings You, are therefore hereby required and directed to cause the said Mr Bayly, together with his Servant, Instruments and Baggage to be received on board the Discovery accordingly; directing Captain Clerke to victual him and his Servant during their continuance on board in the same manner as her Company are, or shall be, victualled; and to give him all convenient accommodation and such assistance and support as he may stand in need of from time to time to carry his said Instructions into execution and to be particularly careful, whenever there are convenient opportunities and he shall be desirous of landing in order to make observations on shore, to furnish him with a proper Boat and with a sufficient Number of Men, as well to assist in fixing his Instruments as to protect him from any annoyance or disturbance which may be attempted to be given him by the Natives during his stay; and to land, at the same time, a sufficient Quantity of Provisions and Necessaries for the use of himself and Servant, and the Persons who may be put on shore to assist and protect him as above directed.

And whereas the said Commissrs have thought it expedient to send out for trial during your present intended Voyage, two Watch Machines which have been made by Mr Kendal in consequence of their directions, one of them, being a Copy of that made by the late Mr Harrison and the same that was sent out with you upon your last Voyage, on board the Sloop you command, and the other being of the said Mr Kendal's own Construction and having never yet been at Sea for trial, on board the Discovery; and in order as well to prevent any improper management, or ill treatment of the said Watch Machines as any suspicions thereof have desired that the Keys of the three different Locks which are affixed to the Boxes in which those Watch Machines are respectively kept, and which Keys will be sent to you: by the Astronomer Royal may be disposed of in a manner similar to that which was practiced on the like occasion during your last Voyage. You are hereby further required and directed immediately after they come to your hands, to dispose of the said Keys (which to guard against Accidents will be sent in Duplicate) in the following manner, Vizt, to keep those of one of the Locks of the Box containing the first mentioned Watch Machine yourself, and to deliver those of the other Locks of that Box to your 1st and 2d Lieutenants respectively; and you are to be present yourself, and to take care that your said Lieutenants be present also, every day at the winding up of the said Watch Machine and to see that the respective times shown thereby be properly inserted, and attested under your and their hands respectively, in the general observation Book, agreeable to the 2d Article of the above-mentioned Instructions to Mr Bayly; and you are to give orders that the Keys of two of the Locks on the Box containing the other Watch Machine be kept in the Custody of Captain Clerke and his first Lieutenant respectively, that they be present every day at the winding up of the said last mentioned Watch Machine by Mr Bayly, and that they do see that the inspection times shewn thereby be properly inserted and attested agreeable to the abovementioned Article of Mr Bayly's Instructions, a Copy of which you are to de-deliver to Captain Clerke; But, if it shall happen that you yourself or your first or second Lieutenant, cannot, at any time, through indisposition, or absence upon other necessary duties conveniently attend as above directed, you are, in such case, to take care that the Keys in the Custody of the Person who cannot attend be delivered to some other Officer of the Sloop you command, whom you can best trust therewith, in order that he may supply the Place of such Invalid or Absentee; and you are to give similar directions to Captain Clerke with respect to the Keys which are in the Custody of himself and his first Lieutenant respectively. Given &c the 5th of June 1776

London [June 5].

An old Seaman remarks, that the Provincial Squadron cannot be very formidable, since the Glasgow, an old 20 Gun Ship, engaged and beat the whole Squadron: However, none of them are taken, as was at first reported.

The Glasgow Man of War, of 20 Guns, and 160 Men, was attacked by Commodore Hopkins’s Fleet on the 20th of April [sic April 6] off Newport in Rhode-Island; and notwithstanding the Superiority of both Guns and Men, yet got clear off.

Commodore Hopkins’s Fleet consists of two Ships, the Alfred, of 34 Guns, 330 Men, commanded by himself; the Columbus, of 30 Guns, 300 Men, by Capt. Whipple; with two Brigs and two Sloops; the Number of Guns on board the same amount to 104.¹

1. This report, the first reasonably accurate summary of the engagement between the Glasgow and the Continental fleet, probably “leaked” out of the Admiralty Office before the release on June 8 of Captain Tyringham Howe’s account which was published in the London Gazette, June 4 to June 8, 1776.

Mrs. Johnstone²

I received your Letter of the 23d May. I will perform “my” promises “in the way I have pointed out.” I am about to send to Cape François in the island of St Domingo, a Ship loaded with Merchandize to the value of £25000, besides Cannon, Powder and Stores, but this last article will arrive but in small Parcels on account of the risque. “On your part do not fail to send a Ship loaded with good Virginia Tobacco,” and let your friend send in the Ship an intelligent discreet and faithful Person with powers to receive the Money or Merchandize and Powder, “and to make the remittances in Tobacco,” which I can no more do without, than your friend can without what I send to him in a word, let him give his Notes to my House for what he shall not be able to pay in Tobacco, and make certain and solid arrangements with my Agent at the Cape for the future.

The Captain on his arrival at the Cape must enquire of the first Magistrate, who is the Merchant entrusted with the affairs of Roderique Hortalez and Co. and he will introduce him to the correspondent of your humble Servant.³

Gentlemen – Marseilles the 6th June 1776 –

I confirm what I did myself the pleasure of writing you by Mr Van Horne, who I hope will long ere this, be arrived, & the Cargo under his direction safely Landed with you; he will him self have related to you the many obstacles we had to surmount in procuring it here, as such a Cargo had never before been shipped from any port of France; and the publick Orders relative to the Articles it was composed of expressly & rigourously prohibited their Exportation. In order then to obtain a Secret permission, it was absolutely necessary to go to Paris, as such would never have been granted to any one in writing; every thing I could desire was granted me there, but on my return I found I had still many other difficulties to encounter here, & at Toulon, which I at last got over with much trouble & perseverance: and I rest upon the whole so much the more satisfied that in having succeeded for Mr Van Horne, I open’d the way to others in this Kingdom, who have supplied both our Islands & your Continent with these Commodities.

Our worthy friend Mr Thomas Morris arrived here about 12 days ago, I have since had the pleasure of Several Conferences with him on the present state of affairs, and as he possesses a very great share as well of political as Commercial Knowledge, the Informations he has been pleased to give me, have afford[d]ed me the most perfect Satisfaction.

Your firm resolutions to maintain your priviledges are certainly very just & commendable, & it was very pleasing to me to learn that you were in a state to enable you to render unfruitfull the Efforts of Great Britain, & frustrate her designs to deprive you of your Liberty. may the God of Justice protect you, & secure to you the Conservation of your Rights, these are my Sincere prayers; but I cannot look upon all the present Horrors of this Cruel warr; & it’s consequences perhaps still more fatal, without being deeply affected, and would be exceedingly happy if I or my friends could be in any way instrumental, in stopping those Rivers of such noble Blood, in these Circumstances so much profused. I highly disapprove of the injustice of the British Government, in not listening to your Complaints, as I do of their Obstination to Submit you to Laws contrary to your priviledges. all the Neutral Nations in general, & France in particular, warmly blame Such a Conduct, the English them Selves are Sensible of the Impropriety of their proceedings, which they have carried too far to retract, it would be manifesting their real weakness if they now consented to grant what they have So constantly refused; But there is an Expedient which would be equally creditable for you and decent for great Britain. I mean that the Continental Congress should demand the mediation of some respectable power in Europe, who might terminate in an amicable way all your troubles and preserve your Rights. I think there is the greatest reason to believe, that the English Government would readily & willingly grant in favor of such a mediating power, what they have so constantly & obstinatly denied you. If you inclined to make choice of our Court, I would act with equal Zeal & Satis-

As to assistance by furnishing you with ammunition & stores, you may rest fully assured that any of your Vessels which may come hither in search any further permissions being necessary than the one I have already obtained, if you thought proper to send back Capn Van Horne's Vessel or any others, by making them a french Bottoms & dispatching them for one of our

M. GARNIER TO VERGENNES

[Extract] London, 7 June 1776

My lord, we cannot mark without justifiable alarm the daring acts of which the English Sea Officers are capable. As the war gets hotter, they will become more dangerous; and their avidity for spoils will increase as they get used to firing their guns. If the English people are generally proud and greedy, it can be said with them maritime pride exceeds national pride by several degrees and that the sailors are the most miserly and at the same time the most prodigal of all the people in England. The name of Lord Howe Commanding the naval forces over such an extended Coastline is more likely to exalt than temper this pride, and I sincerely hope that the British Ministry will not have to repent for employing him in circumstances that require more caution than valor and more shrewdness than military talent.
The facts presented in the various documents which you were kind enough to send me are assuredly of a dangerous as well as offensive nature. In conformity with your instructions, My lord, I spoke of it yesterday to Lord Suffolk in a friendly and confidential manner, telling him that our confidence in the promises and good intentions of the English Ministers had prevented us up to now from taking the precautions which circumstances might require for the protection of our Islands and our trade, but that, however, the Governors of St. Domingue and Martinique were complaining bitterly of the conduct on the part of the Commanding Officers of the English frigates cruising in the Seas neighboring our Colonies. "I know, Sir," this Minister replied immediately, "that a large quantity of powder leaves your Islands for America, that the American ships carry it under the French flag; I positively know this, so that I cannot doubt it." Although he was looking down, Lord Suffolk put a remarkable amount of dignity into these words.

I answered that it could very well be that the Americans obtained powder from our islands and others, and that I was equally convinced that England was no more sterile for them in this respect than any other country where there were people interested in this sort of smuggling. As for the flag, the English Frigates use ours as well as the American ships, from which I concluded it apparently was a ruse of war employed by both parties; furthermore, that the King's attitude towards His British Majesty was friendly and obliging enough to arouse all the gratitude of the King of England and his Administration; that these were the feelings which he had often expressed to me himself.

I went on with my speech presenting our detailed grievances against their officers, especially Captain [Robert] Keeler Commanding the Corvette Lynx which has just arrived in Portsmouth. I explained that he would agree with our motive for speaking confidentially since such procedures were obviously contrary to the intentions of the British Ministry and since our purpose was to bring him on the one hand to punish the defaulters, especially Captain Keeler, in a manner he would deem most suitable, and on the other hand to provide more effective means than in the past to prevent the repetition of such violations.

Lord Suffolk found my request to be very modest and promised to take it into consideration. I observed that I did not show him the letters in which our Governors express themselves with all the resentment inspired by pranks which they consider as an insult to the Sovereignty of the King as well as the respect due his flag, and that, wishing to avoid anything official in my approach, I preferred to tone down the affair rather than make it worse.

The Minister did justice to my intentions as well as my procedure. He agreed that our ports, our roads and our coasts should be respected, and that once the Americans were in our waters their shelter should be sacred; he assured me that he would speak to Lord Weymouth and to the Admiralty without wasting time.
Of course, I did not want to leave any trace of doubt with respect to the words used by Lord Suffolk when he interrupted me so seriously, and I thought it was best not to be afraid and come back to this matter. I therefore confessed to him that I was quite surprised he had placed this matter first in reply to what I had to tell him, and I asked him if his intention was that I report it to my Court. The Minister answered that he mentioned this fact only to show me the necessity that compelled them to visit most strictly the ships bound for or coming from our Colonies; furthermore, that he did not impute this traffic of powder to the Government, but merely to individuals who found it to their interest to sell ammunition to the Americans as the inhabitants of St. Eustache and other islands do it.

My lord, this is what happened during my conference with Lord Suffolk on the subject which you had assigned to me. Lord North to whom I mentioned this assured me that since my last grievances new orders had been sent but that distances caused delays in their execution.

The frigate Aldborough which ran aground recently in Plymouth was pulled out and towed into the harbor on the 2nd. Her crew relates that she went through our Squadron composed of 2 Ships of the line, 3 frigates, 2 Corvettes and three Transport ships which appeared to be sailing for the Coast of Guinea.

London Chronicle, Thursday, June 6 to Saturday, June 8, 1776

London [June 8].

On Thursday night advice was received, by express from Falmouth, that the Glasgow man of war was arrived there from Halifax. She was sent with dispatches from General Howe, which were carried to the Secretary of State's office. She sailed from Halifax the 12th of May.

The following letter was received yesterday at Lloyd's Coffee-house, dated Bristol, June the 5th:

I hereby certify, that I sailed from Jamaica the 19th of April, in the ship called the Mars, and on the 4th of May, in lat. 29.40. and long. 67.30. I fell in with a letter of Marque sloop, bound from Rhode Island to Cape François, with a cargo of provisions, to purchase gunpowder, mounted with four carriage and 12 swivel guns, and 14 men. She hoisted Provincial colours, and ordered me to come on board in my boat, and bring my ship's papers and letters with me, or they would sink me. This I complied with, and then he sent a prize-master on board to take the command of my ship, and ordered him to keep him company. The next day my mate proposed to my ship's company not to work the ship, which they agreed to; the Captain made use of threats and promises, which had no effect on them; after many altercations, the Captain of the armed sloop, not having men capable of working or navigating my ship, he on the second day ordered me to go on board my ship, and permitted me to proceed on my voyage, and this morning I arrived in the port of Bristol.

Mag. Miller.¹

It was reported yesterday that advice was received that Commodore Hopkins, with his squadron, consisting of nine ships, was seen within three leagues of St. Kitts, and that it feared he intended to pay that island a visit.²

Postscript.

London.

Advice is just received, that the following ships are taken by the Provincial privateers, viz. the James, Littledale, and Norfolk, Grindal, of Whitehaven; the Henry and Esther, Helles, and Stakesby, Watt, of London.³

Accounts received from on board his Majesty's ship Glasgow, say, that during the engagement with Hopkins, nothing could be supposed fiercer than it was. Hopkins's ships were full of men, and had they been under proper command, and exercized as in the King's service, it would have been next to a miracle for the Glasgow to have escaped. She had two ports beat into one, her masts wounded, her sails and rigging cut almost to pieces, yet she made shift to fight against, and get clear from, six vessels, who had above 600 men, and 104 guns, whilst the poor Glasgow had but 24 guns, and 125 men. Captain [Tyringham] Howe, (no relation to Lord Howe) who commanded her, has gained great credit by the affair.

¹. The American was probably the armed sloop Joseph, Captain James Munro, which cleared Providence for Hispaniola, on April 20, 1776.

³. See Volumes 3 and 4.
Capt. [John] Boyle, in the Hunter sloop of war, is arrived here; he sailed from Quebec the 16th ult. and says, the Surprize arrived there the 6th of May, with the Isis, and several other ships, at the sight of which the Rebels immediately raised the siege, leaving behind them 20 pieces of cannon, 6 mortars, &c. The Hunter met the transports, having on board General Burgoyne and the Brunswick troops, in the river St. Laurence; so that, he says, there is no doubt but by this time the Rebels are entirely drove out of all Canada.

M. GARNIER TO VERGENNES¹

[Extract]

My lord, London, 11 June 1776.

Information received from Canada is becoming clearer. An officer, dispatched from Quebec on the 16th of last month on board the Corvette Hunter, brought yesterday letters from General Carleton dated on the 14th of the same month. They indicated that, upon the arrival of the first reinforcement brought by the ship Isis and a few Frigates or transport Ships, the Americans, numbering about three thousand, had decided to raise the siege on the 6th of last month. They abandoned their artillery and war ammunition. The Garrison made a sortie on the same day, the 6th of May. However, this detachment must not have got too close to the retreating Americans since there was not a single man killed, wounded or made prisoner.

The essential thing is that Quebec is safe. On the 21st, the Corvette Hunter met the English troops and those from Brunswick under the Command of General Burgoyne sailing up the St. Lawrence. Counting this reinforcement and what may be obtained from Canada, General Carleton will soon be at the head of about ten thousand men in order to march on Montreal and attack the Lakes. It is assumed that the Americans will dispute every inch of the passage. General Burgoyne has with him 20 boats suitable for this expedition. They only need to be assembled and have the guns mounted. But a great number of other boats will be required to carry the troops, and it is expected that this expedition, subject to a number of difficulties, will require a considerable amount of time, even if we assume that it will be successful.

We have no confirmation concerning the capture of General Lee. We only know that badly needed arms and ammunition arrived in Virginia. As you can imagine, My lord, people say that we have sent them. But it matters little where the Americans obtained them as long as they have them.

From Halifax, we have reliable intelligence that General Howe's Army is in miserable condition. A number of the troops have to remain on board for lack of lodging ashore. The soldiers are suffering of dysentery and were on half-allowance until the arrival of the supply-ships which had fortunately reached Halifax before the departure of the Frigate Glasgow arrived on the 5th at Plymouth and which brought this news.

If General Howe's Army can not find billets in Halifax, it will be even worse off after the arrival of the Hessian troops; thus it can be expected that this Officer will hurry and begin operations in some more bountiful Province either by landing in Jersey or by making another attempt upon New York. Two of the ships which had left Boston with him fell into the hands of the Americans. One of them had a cargo of cloth exported from England and valued at thirty thousand pounds Sterling.²

The report made by the crew of the Frigate Glasgow on her fight against part of M. Hopkins' Squadron is quite different from the relation published in the Gazette of London. According to the information received from our correspondent in Plymouth who has it from the members of the crew themselves, the American Privateers attempted to board her several times, and she was able to get clear only by cutting off part of her stern, mounting a gun there and fighting her retreat. She only lost one man because the fire of the Americans was constantly directed at her rigging and her sails which were torn to pieces, as well as her masts which were badly damaged and delayed her passage greatly. Our Correspondent adds that she would have certainly been captured if other ships had not appeared during the pursuit. The Privateers had hoisted a Blood ensign and nailed it to the mast to show that they would not surrender. Hopkins himself did not want to get too deeply into the action because he carried an enormous quantity of powder which had to be saved at all cost. In addition, he brought back 200 pieces of cannon which he landed in the Province of Connecticut, and captured prize after prize on his way. It is even reported that he took a bomb-galiot.

You know, My lord, that until now the Americans cruised only against the transport ships belonging to the Government, but since Congress received the Prohibition Act which authorizes the seizure of all American Ships, it authorized in return the capture of any English Ship wherever they may be encountered, except those which would bring war ammunition to the Colonies. This bait should cause the Privateers to multiply and should be detrimental to the trade of Great Britain in the West Indies.

Through a resolution on the 6th of April, Congress has opened the Ports of the Thirteen United Colonies to Goods and Ships from all Nations. The only item not included is tea; the only Nation not included is Great Britain. This resolution, although it may arouse the speculations on the part of other trading Powers, especially those which have a great deal of natural resources and industry, would undoubtedly be of more value if it had been accompanied by the capture of Quebec; because, in order to trade with America, the latter must be independent, and it will become independent only through success on the battlefield. Among the resolutions carried on the same date, we find one which forbids the importation of slaves. If it is put into effect it augurs a sharp decrease in the crops of rice and tobacco.

2. Brig Elizabeth, whose rich cargo was comprised chiefly of loot from the counters and shelves of Boston merchants.
3. The Continental fleet carried little powder. Most of the gunpowder had been removed from New Providence a few hours before the capture of the island.
4. The few prizes taken by the squadron included the bomb brig Bolton.

London Gazette, Saturday, June 8 to Tuesday, June 11, 1776

Admiralty-Office [London], June 11, 1776.

By Letters from Captain [Charles] Douglas, of His Majesty's Ship the Isis, dated Quebec the 8th and 15th of May, received Yesterday by Captain [John] Hamilton, late of the Lizard, who arrived from thence in his Majesty's Sloop the Hunter, it appears that the Isis, which sailed from Portland on the 11th of March, having Succours on Board for the Relief of the Place, made the Island of St. Peter's on the 11th of April; that he had from thence with the greatest Difficulty, made his Way, pressing the Ship, by Force of Sail for Fifty or Sixty Leagues through large Fields of thick Ice; that on the 21st of April, when he got clear of the Ice, he made the island of Anticostie, and the same Evening entered the River St. Lawrence; that on the 30th he anchored in a Snow Storm near the Pilgrim Islands, and from thence, as the Storm cleared up, observed successive Smoaks from Cape to Cape, towards Quebec; and that, after various Obstacles from Fogs, Calms, or contrary Winds, he arrived on the 3d of May near Isle aux Coudres, where he was joined by His Majesty's Ship the Surprise, and Martin Sloop, which sailed on the 20th of March from Plymouth, having likewise Succours on Board. Captain Douglas adds, that having secured here all the French Pilots, and every Hour becoming more and more precious, he gave Orders on the 5th of May to Captain [Robert] Linzee, of the Surprise, to make the best of his Way, and give Notice to Governor Carleton of the approaching Relief. Captain Linzee arrived in View of the Town at six o'Clock the next Morning; and after answering the private Signals from the Garrison, came to an Anchor in the Basin of Quebec, between the Rebel-battery on Point Levi and the Lower Town, where the Isis and Martin came to an Anchor also, very soon after; and the several Detachments they had on Board were immediately landed. Captain Douglas further observes, that the General wisely availing himself of the different Impressions which the Arrival of the Ships had made on the Minds of the Rebels, marched out to give them Battle, but that they as instantly retreated; on which Captain Douglas ordered Captain Linzee and Captain [Henry] Harvey, of the Martin Sloop, with a Province Armed Vessel, to proceed up the River as far as the Rapids, in Hopes to annoy them in their Retreat, which was attended with good Effect, as it hindered the Parties on the opposite Sides of the River from joining in their Flight towards Montreal. He represents their Flight to have been very precipitate, as they left not only their Cannon undischarged, their Ammunition, Scaling Ladders, Intrenching Tools, and Provisions, but even many of them their Muskets.

The Surprise and Martin were farther successful in taking an Armed Schooner belonging to the Rebels, carrying Four 6 Pounders and Six 3 Pounders, but the Men escaped into the Woods, they also recovered His Majesty's Schooner the Gaspe, which in the last Winter, had fallen into the Hands of the Rebels, and had been sunk by them, but was soon weighed and found to be not materially damaged. It also appears, from Captain Douglas's Letters, that on the 8th of May His Majesty's ship Niger arrived with Three Transports, having on Board the 47th Regiment, from Halifax; and that on the 10th, Captain [Skeffington] Lutwidge, of His Majesty's Ship the Triton, arrived with the Lord Howe and Bute Transports, having Troops on Board, together with the British Queen, Agnes and Beaver, Victuallers from England.

Captain Douglas speaks highly in Commendation of the Captains and Officers of the Ships employed to carry Succours, for their Perseverance and Exertion in the many Difficulties they had to encounter in the Passage through the Gulph, and in every other Part of the Service.

M. de Lombard to Gabriel de Sartine

My lord, In conformity with the instructions you sent to M. de la Porte in your dispatch of 31 May last, I fruitlessly made the most rigorous investigation in order to discover the Dutch ships which sailed recently from Amsterdam with a cargo of 40 thousand pounds of gunpowder destined for New England according to the English Minister Plenipotentiary. Since the instructions which you had sent previously to this port, we took scrupulous care in order to prevent any ship from New England to take on war supplies of any kind. I shall be twice as careful in this matter and I shall keep a watchful eye on the destination of gunpowder which might be brought here by Dutch ships. I have the honor to be &ca. I have the honor, Sir, to send you the reply which I received from the Navy Commissioner in Nantes concerning 45 thousand pounds of powder which recently left Amsterdam and which the Court of London believes to be destined to New England. However, you will see that M. I have the honor to be with sincere attachment, Sir, [&c.]

"Extract of a Letter from Whitehaven, June 14." 1

On Monday morning arrived here a schooner, which sailed the 14th of May from Squam (it is a creek on the N.E. side of Cape Ann, a few leagues from Boston) commanded by Captains [William] Wood and [John] Robinson, whose ships, the Jenny and Nelly, were taken by the Provincialists; as were also the James, [William] Littledale; the Norfolk, [Jonathan] Grindall; and the Happy Return, [James] Hall, all of this port. The above schooner was purchased by the Captains who came home in her jointly, with Capt. Littledale and Capt. Nellis, of the Henry and Esther, of Whitby, who, with their people, being prisoners, had obtained leave to depart the continent, and take their passage for Great Britain.

This being granted, and the provisions laid in for the people, as they amounted to forty-eight, some disagreeable accounts coming to the Provincials they unbent the sails and took away her rigging, till they gave further permission. During this and sailing Capt. Littledale, Capt. Nellis, and a Mr. Wilson, who were coming home with them, were drowned by the boat oversetting in going on shore from the vessel. The schooner sailed the Monday following this accident, and off the banks of Newfoundland was boarded by his Majesty's ship the Centurion, Capt. Braithwaite [Richard Brathwaite], who pressed eleven hands out of her, his ship's company being then eighty short of complement.

When the schooner left Squam, upwards of thirty vessels were upon the stocks at Newbury, among which were one of 24 and another of 36 guns; one of 36 was launched a few days before a little to the northward of Newbury. Ships, they were informed, were arriving there daily from Bilboa with gunpowder and military stores. The men of war sometimes pursue them to the mouth of the river, at the entrance of which there is a very bad bar, about three miles from the town. Numbers of people were employed at Newbury making saltpetre, of which one man will, with indifferent materials, make a pound a day.

2. The Continental frigates Boston and Hancock, building at Newburyport, and the Raleigh, launched at Portsmouth.

VERGENNES TO M. GARNIER¹

[Extract] Versailles, 15 June 1776

There can be no better way of showing to the King of England our desire to perpetuate the good intelligence which exists than that of presenting to him the actions of subordinates which might disturb it. The English cruisers take certain liberties which might determine commitments against the wishes and will of the two Courts. I believe that it was not in a manner of reproach that Lord Suffolk mentioned to you the war ammunition which the Americans may have obtained from our islands, and that he does not wish to use it as an argument in order to justify the acts of carelessness on the part of their sailors who took it upon themselves to make incursions into our roads and under our guns. The English have encouraged illicit traffic as long as it was convenient for them, and they would like to stop it now that it has turned to their disadvantage; but greed will always be stronger than caution and human laws. We had a good example of this during the disorders in Corsica. The English merchants brought arms and war ammunition there with much publicity. We always understood that they were private and independent ventures, loathsome even to the Government. The King would be displeased to see his subjects taking the liberty to bring any form of offensive assistance to the Americans, and if they were caught by English ships in this illicit traffic they could expect no support nor help from us. However, I cannot help but note that Lord Suffolk, while mentioning their numerous cruises, gave us to understand that they also watched those of our ships which sail to and from our islands and carry arms and other war ammunition on board. But there is an essential difference which you will please to mark to the English Minister. I can conceive that vessels coming out of the Bahama strait on pretext of returning to Europe with rather large quantities of contraband may be presumed to deal in illicit traffic and be suspect enough to be stopped and subjected to the loss of their cargo, but I cannot understand on what grounds one could take the liberty to limit our direct trade with our islands, whatever the nature of the cargoes may be. What England considers as contraband in the present circumstances is quite legal from one French possession to another French possession, and I remain convinced that if this matter were taken to any English tribunal, its decision would be favorable to us, but we cannot rely upon the wisdom of the British Government and believe that it would raise such a delicate question. Furthermore, the sea is free and we do not stand opposed to the British if they seize the American ships, even those which would sail under our flag, and prevent them from reaching our ports and returning to theirs; but our territorial waters must remain a sacred shelter for them.

I find easier to believe the disasters which General Arnold is said to have suffered before Quebec and which forced him to raise the siege than the arrival of the ship Isis which is said to have anchored at this place on 19 April; there is no previous example to the effect that the St. Lawrence is navigable before the end even of the month of May.²

2. Even though the April 19 date was in error, Vergennes was wrong in his surmise, as the Isis arrived early in May.

H. KATENKAMP, BRITISH CONSUL AT CORUNNA, TO LORD WEYMOUTH ¹

[Corunna] 15th June 1776.

Several masters of American vessels, in order to deceive His Majesty's ships of war, have of late made fictitious sales of their ships to British and Irish merchants established in this kingdom, and thereby continue their navigation with safety. An Irish merchant established at Ferrol acquainted me last week that he had made a purchase of the ship, the King of Prussia, of 300 tons burthen, belonging to Philadelphia,² and desired me to indorse the ship's Register to him, but suspecting the identity [sic authenticity] of the sale, I refused to do it, notwithstanding the offers that were made me, unless both the purchaser and captain would positively swear that no foreigner or inhabitant of the Colonies in rebellion held or retained any part, share or interest therein, with which they have not thought proper to comply.

ORDERS TO CAPTAIN DE MONTEIL, La Renommée¹

[Extract] Marly, 17 June 1776

His Majesty having decided that the Frigate la Renommée will cruise off the coast of St. Domingue, he issues these particular instructions to Captain de Monteil in order to acquaint him with the nature of his mission and the line of conduct he will maintain with respect to the command of his frigate, his Crew, the victuals and the salutes.

As soon as the said frigate is ready and the winds are favorable, M. de Monteil is to get under way and leave the road of Brest. . . .

Upon his arrival at Port au Prince, he will communicate the present Instructions to the Commandant of the Colony and M. de Vaivren, Intendant, and he will comply with the orders contained in his particular Instructions relative to his operations and his cruise while he will be stationed in this Colony.

One of the main objects of M. de Monteil’s mission during his cruise is to stop the trade which foreigners might try to carry in to St. Domingue. In this end, His Majesty orders him to remain constantly at sea and to put into ports and roads only when he will receive special orders in writing from the said Commandant a copy of which he will send to the Secretary of State in charge of the department of the Navy upon his return in order to establish the length of his calls as well as the extraordinary expenses which they may have caused. . . .

The campaign of the frigate la Renommée will last seven months as of the date of her departure from Brest. . . .

He will salute all the ships of the crowned heads flying our flag or some other mark senior to his. However, he will not salute English ships regardless of their flag and he will not request to be saluted by them; he will act likewise if he has to put into the places and dominions of the King of England.

DR. BARBEU DUBOURG TO VERGennes

Monseigneur

Paris 19th June 1776

I have this morning seen M. de Gribauval, who, interesting himself much in the fate of our friends in America, into whose secrets he has been initiated by the Count de St Germain, is very uneasy on their account because of the advance of the English by way of Canada. He fears lest they may be forced to bend beneath the yoke of the Mother Country if they are not promptly and efficiently succoured. Consequently, having meditated thereon, he thinks it would be very possible to transmit to them what they need the most urgently in order to make a stand against their enemies; and he is persuaded that I would experience little or no difficulty therein on the part of the Minister for War provided I found some source elsewhere to furnish the expenses of transport. There are in the Royal arsenals more than 300 or 400 pieces of cannon of No. 4 calibre, (the most necessary in their position) not at present in use for the service of the State, which could be sold to Spain to be forwarded to Havanna, and which any merchants would purchase at Havanna for the neighbouring Continent. It would only be a question of filing off the fleurs de lys or double L’s. They would soon be replaced by new castings, and the merchants would send over for their discharge as soon as possible a sufficient, or more than sufficient, amount of produce of the new Continent, as for instance 4 or 5 millions of tobacco the sale of which is assured beforehand by my arrangements with the Farmers General. He wished then that I would make the application for them at once to the Count de St. Germain, not being able for his part to undertake more than to support it well. Not having the honour to be known to that gentleman I have no hope but in your goodness, Monseigneur,—if you would condescend to inform him of it in order that I might gain admission to present to him my humble petition upon this subject, we could find means to smooth away all difficulties; we should not want for officers for the service of this artillery; M. de Gribauval, already authorized to grant leave for this service, would choose them himself; and I do not believe M. Penet so destitute of means as not to furnish with ease all the unforeseen expenses. I shall write to him tomorrow. I have the honour to be with the most profound respect Monseigneur.

"Remarks on the State of His Majesty’s Fleet"1

June 20th 1776.

We have now 29 Ships of the Line compleatly fitted as Guardships, which, with the aid of a Press, might be all at sea in a Fortnight.
There is one additional Guardship of 74 Guns ordered to be got ready to receive Men.

All our Frigates (that do not want considerable repair) including Ships of 50 Guns, and Two of 64, are in America, or appropriated for the American Service, so that we have nothing left for our Home Stations except 2 Frigates of 32 Guns, 8 Sloops, & 9 Cutters; These, together with 20 Tenders, will be disposed of to the best advantage for raising volunteer Seamen, and for beginning a Press whenever that Measure is found necessary; and for the same purpose we have Rendezvous's with proper Officers in 20 of the Out Ports, besides a Regulating Captain & several Lieutenants under him in the Port of London.

Besides these Vessels stationd at home, there will seldom be less than 5 or 6 Frigates in England fitting out for America, or of those that from time to time will be coming home to refit.

I suppose we have above 30,000 Men now employed, of which, about 15,000 on the American Service, 8,000 at home, and the rest on the several foreign Stations.

In case of a War 20 Ships of the Line may be depended upon as ready for Sea (if there is no difficulty about getting Men) within a Year from the time of their receiving Orders to fit out; but it must be observed that it will usually require a Month to prepare each Ship for receiving Men, and at least two Months more before she will be manned and ready for Sea.

What I would propose should be done, in case upon consideration it is judged that the French & Spanish Equipments deserve our immediate attention, is, first, to order one additional Guardship to be commissioned at each Port, which, if the Asia of 64 Guns returns from America this Year, will make 24 Line of Battle Ships ready for Sea.

I would give immediate Orders for 12 Line of Battle Ships more to be got in readiness to receive Men, which would put them in the State we suppose the Fleet at Brest now to be in, as far as the preparation of the Ships in the Dock Yards; for it is to be apprehended that they can raise Seamen to a certain number much faster than we can.

The Workmen in the Yards to be allowed to work double Tides.

The Marines to be augmented from 90 to 100 private per Company.

To go on raising Voluntier Seamen.

To prepare measures for a Press with Secrecy that it may be carried suddenly & effectually into execution, in case the Answers & intelligence we receive from Foreign Courts are not satisfactory.

It must be observed that by these preparations we shall considerably exceed the Number of Seamen voted, and incur a large expence in fitting the Ships.

2. Ibid., 380, this statement and proposals, apparently prepared at the Admiralty, were presented and acted upon at a Cabinet meeting the same day.
By the Advices from Rotterdam and other Intelligence received, it appears

That the French have now at Sea a Squadron consisting of 1 Ship of 74 Guns
2 ......... 64
6 Frigates
6 Sloops &
2 Cutters.
manned as in time of War

That orders are sent to Brest de pourvoir a leur besoin, or, to forward, so as that they may be ready to sail in 15 days after receiving the definitive Orders from Court,

1 Ship of 90 Guns
3 ........ 80
7 ........ 74
1 ........ 70
7 ........ 64
2 ........ 50
11 Frigates from 32 to 26 Guns

That 2,000 Workmen of one sort or another are expected at Brest.
That 4000 Sailors are ordered for that Department, and are daily passing thither.

That Orders are also sent to Rochfort & Toulon to visit all the Ships & Frigates at those Ports, & to put such of them as are good, into a condition to be armed; to which end they work without intermission at the last mentioned Port, the number of Workmen there being also increased, particularly in Ropemakers & Coopers, and the Bakers kept fully employed.

It also appears that orders have been given for fitting out at Brest Rochfort & L’Orient for the East Indies

2 Ships of 64 Guns
1 ........ 56 &
2 Frigates

and that one of the ships of 64 Guns & the two Frigates are actually sailed for the Isle of France with Troops, a great quantity of Bomb Shells, Shot, Powder & on board.

And it farther appears that Reinforcements have been sent this Year to their West India Islands, which, with the Troops that were already there, amount to about 7000 Men.

With respect to the Spanish Equipments it appears, about the latter end of April,

That they expected at Cadiz 10 Ships of the Line and 4 Frigates from Ferrol
That officers & Petty officers were to be sent from Cadiz to Ferrol towards manning those Ships and Frigates.

That on the 8th of May 2 Ships of the Line sailed from Cadiz with the Flota

That an Edict has been published for all the Registered Seamen to appear at the proper Office in three days under pain of death.

That on the 20th of May a Squadron sailed from Cadiz under the command of a Rear Admiral, consisting of

5 Ships of 70 Guns
2 Frigates of 26.
2 Sloops of 10
1 Xebeck of 30

the destination of which was kept secret,

That there remained in the Bay of Cadiz
2 Ships of 70 Guns
1 Frigate of 26.

That Orders are sent to Ferrol to hold all the Ships there in readiness to be armed, if there should be occasion for it, & that the Cadiz Squadron is to be increased to 15 Ships of the Line, besides Frigates.

It also appears they are preparing at Barcelona a number of Tents, a great Train of Artillery, Baggage Waggons & all sorts of Necessaries.

By these Intelligences it appears that France & Spain have, or will soon have a larger number of Ships in Commission in Europe than we have, and that they may have double the number unless we immediately take proper measures to keep pace with them in our Equipments.

It was yesterday reported in the city, that Commodore Hopkins, with nine ships under his command, had landed in the island of Bermudas, and carried off all the valuable goods he could meet with whilst he staid, which was three days.¹

1. While this report was without foundation, it illustrates the uneasiness created in London by news of Hopkins' amphibious assault on New Providence. The Public Advertiser, July 29, 1776, carried another: “a British fleet was totally defeated by Admiral Hopkins upon the 23d of June, after a dreadful slaughter on both sides.”

In Cyphers

The Army of England in America consists of forty thousand Men and their fleet of one hundred Ships, of which but two are of seventy four Guns. Their Officers both by Sea and Land, and Engineers are good; they are well supplied with Artillery and Stores. Consider then, Sir, how difficult it will be for the Americans to resist such forces, "if they are not assisted by France with Officers, "Engineers and large Ships of War." You may send them out without the least risque. Ten French Ships of War dispatched secretly to the Cape or Martinico, and joined with the American Fleet might scour the American Coast, and destroy the whole English fleet, dispersed as it is at present, On which the land Army deprived of succour would be easily defeated. And by this shock the English Marine would be mortally wounded. Do you fear that this will kindle a War between the two Nations? But how will England be able to support a War without Fleets, without Colonies, without Seamen, and without resources? On the contrary, if you suffer America to fall again under the dominion of England, the latter will for ever be invincible.

Present, The King's Most Excellent Majesty in Council.

Whereas His Majesty was graciously pleased, by His Royal Proclamation, bearing Date the 22d Day of March last, to promise and declare, That the Bounties of Three Pounds for every Able Seaman, and of Two Pounds for every Ordinary Seaman fit for His Majesty's Service, should be paid, in the Manner thereby directed, to every such Able and Ordinary Seaman not above the Age of Fifty, nor under the Age of Eighteen Years, who should, on or before the Thirtieth Day of April then following, enter themselves to serve in His Majesty's Royal Navy either with the Captains or Lieutenants of His Majesty's Ships, or the Chief Officers on Board such Tenders as should be employed for raising Men for the Service of the Royal Navy: And whereas the Time thereby limited was, by Order in Council, prolonged and extended from the said Thirtieth Day of April to the Thirtieth Day of this Instant June. And it being judged expedient for His Majesty's Service that the said Bounties should be continued to be paid for some longer Time: His Majesty, with the Advice of His Privy Council, doth therefore Order, and it is hereby accordingly Ordered, that the Time limited for Payment of the said Bounties be prolonged and extended from the said Thirtieth Day of this Instant June, to the Thirty-first Day of August next inclusive: Whereof all Persons concerned are to take Notice, and govern themselves accordingly.

G. Chetwynd.

[Extract] Marly, 21 June 1776

Already some time ago, Sir, I told you that the English Ministers form conjectures about what we do from what they themselves would do if they were in our place, and they are convinced that any form of assistance received by the Americans comes from France. I shall not deny that some help may come from France. Our merchants like to make money as well as those of other nations; and I am sure that the English merchants themselves do not fail to act likewise in spite of the much stricter prohibitions to which they must be subjected. Furthermore, there is no such thing as contraband on land, everything there is merchandise. Only at sea, and according to its destination, may a certain merchandise be called contraband. We do not protect those who carry it; we do not stand against the English if they seize them; we would not protect any French subject who would be caught in this illicit traffic, with the exception of course of their passage from France to our islands, or any port under the sovereignty of the King. I have made myself sufficiently clear with respect to all this in my last dispatch, Sir. Furthermore, if the English fear that the Americans obtain assistance from us by way of trade, our market is open to them as well as the others. Whoever can pay the most can be assured of the preference.

I have seen the resolution passed by Congress on the 6th of April last to open the ports of the thirteen united Colonies to the vessels and merchandise from all nations, with the exception of the English and tea. I do not believe that there will be many people interested in this venture: the risks outweigh any possible advantages since it is most probable that the English who have not yet recognized the independence of America would seize indiscriminately any vessel entering or leaving American ports on pretext of illicit trade. Something else seems to require more attention: it is the order issued by Congress to its ship-owners to chase indiscriminately all English vessels in all parts of the world. The desire to make captures more easily may attract Privateers in the European seas where the English are less on their guard and it will be rather embarrassing to decide what to do if they want to send their prizes to our ports for security. With respect to all civilised nations, the Americans to this day are only in a state of open rebellion against their legitimate master. This does not keep them from finding shelter in our ports for themselves, their ships and their goods; we continue to consider them as English subjects and we let them enjoy all the rights attached to this quality; but in what light shall we look upon the prizes they will most certainly capture if these are claimed? Since it is most likely that this probable contingency has already been the object of reflections on the part of the English, you will please to inform me of any sensible or reasonable comments you may hear on this subject.

M. de St. Paul is worrying again; he sees fleets being armed in our ports as well as everything which his imagination, exalted by nature, may suggest to him. Nothing of the kind is taking place, we wish to be ready for any eventuality and our caution has no other purpose but that to assure our safety in all possible events.

I rec'd on the 10th Inst by Capt Hamilton your Letters of the 8th & 15th of last Month; the former giving an Account of your arrival at Quebec on the 6th in the Isis, together with the Surprize & Martin Sloop, after having forced with the utmost difficulty a passage through large fields of Ice, & of the happy consequences which attended it; the latter acquainting their Lordships with the arrival of the Triton & Niger with several Transports & Victuallers & of your proceedings since the raising the Seige of Quebec; And having laid your said Letters before my Lords Comms of the Admty, I have it in command from them to acquaint you, that they cannot too much approve of the indefatigable zeal & the diligence with which you & the rest of the Captains of His Majts Ships & Vessels pursued & effected so difficult a passage with such Credit to yourselves & advantage to your King & Country. This you will take care to make known to them.

Their Lordships have the highest satisfaction in the Accots they have received of the meritorious Service of the Navy Battalion formed by Capt Hamilton, and intending to appoint him to the command of a Ship at home, have signed a Commission for Capt Mackenzie to be Capt of the Lizard, as also one for Lieut Boyle of the Isis, who brought the Hunter to England, to be Commander of her in the room of Captain Mackenzie. Their Lordships have likewise signed Commissions for Lieuts. McEvoy and Berkeley to be 1st & 2d Lts of the Isis, and Mr Butler, late master, to be 3d Lieut of her; And my Lords intending also to provide for Mr [William] Fooks 1st Lt & Mr John Thompson Master's Mate, of the Lizard, at home; I am to signify their Lordships direction to you to send them to England by the first opportunity, and to acquaint you, that they have signed Commissions for Lts Macclellan to succeed Mr Fooks & for Mr Starke, who had been ordered by Capt Hamilton to act as Lieut of the Lizard, to be 2d Lieut of her in the room of Lieut Macclellan, all which Commissions, except Capt Boyles, will be sent to you by this conveyance, to be delivered to the Persons for whom they are respectively designed.

My Lords understanding, by your last Letter, that Genl Carlton is desirous that Mr Starke should command, as Lieut, the Schooner which has been taken from the Rebels, I am to acquaint you that they have authorized Vice Adml Lord Howe, Commr in Chief of His Majts Ships & Vessels in No America, to purchase the said Schooner for His Majesty, and have recommended it to his Lordship to appoint Lieut Starke to command her, and fill up the vacancy which will thereby be made in the Lizard.

Their Lordships have promoted Lieut Nunn to the command of the Beaver Sloop & intend to send her out to him, with which they have acquainted Lord Howe, that he may appoint a Lieut to command the Magdalen Schor in his room.

Their Lordships have also promoted 2d Lieuts Brown & Strickland of the Marines, serving on board the Lizard, to 1st Lieutenancies, which you will please to signify to them.

And, in consequence of what has been represented to the Earl of Sandwich by Genl Carlton, and by yourself in your last mentioned Letter, their Lordships will lay before His Majesty the Case of the several Officers of the Navy Battalion with respect to the Allowance of Pay they crave while they served on Shore.

I have nothing further in command from their Lordships but to acquaint you, that they cannot approve of your hoisting a broad pendant, much less of your appointing a Captain to serve under you in the Isis, and that if you have done so, it is their direction that you do immediately recall the Appointments you may have made upon that occasion. 23 June (Sunday)

PHILIP STEPHENS TO VICE ADMIRAL RICHARD LORD HOWE

My Lord 23d June 1776

I have now the honor to acquaint your Lordship by direction of my Lords Comrs of the Admty that His Majts Ship the Repulse sail’d from Spithead on the 26th of last Month having under Convoy the Transports Storeships and Victuallers whose Names are in the List you will please to receive in this

The Diamond with the Lark Ambuscade & Unicorn have orders to proceed & take under Convoy the Transports which carry the 2d Division of Hessian Troops The Regt & Artillery of the Prince of Waldeck; the 16th Regt of Light Dragoons; the Remount Horse for the 17th; And the Draught Horses for the Baggage & Artillery of the army serving with Genl Howe; as also the Transports having 402 German Recruits on board. They take under Convoy likewise the Seven Vic-Tuallers named in the Margin loaded with Provisions for the use of the Fleet, and the whole will sail from Spithead as soon as the Wind permits: Three other Victuallers are daily expected. Vizt Northam, Edward & Adventure, And if they arrive in time will proceed with the same Convoy, as will three more Transports Vizt. John, Chambre, Susannah havg British Recruits on board for Genl Howe’s Army, but this being uncertain the Convoy is ordered not to wait for them.

My Lord having been informed by the Lord of the Treasury that there are a number of Victuallers at Cork laden with Provisions & Stores for the use of the afore-mentioned army they have directed Capt Jordan of the Galatea to repair thither, & taking them under Convoy proceed on the 1st of July to Halifax, where he is to leave the said Victuallers or proceed with them to such Port or place as he shall learn by directions, which it is expected he will find the Army is removed to.

Besides the Supplies in the Army Victuallers above-mentioned my Lords have understood it is intended that the like shall be repeated at the expiration of every following 14 Days, or as near to that period as the same can be done; which it is thought fit I should intimate to your Lordship as you may expect Convoys will from time to time be appointed to see the Ships which carry such supplies safe to the place of destination.

The Second Division of the Brunswick Troops & the Hannan Artillery with a party of 447 German Recruits & a detachment of British Troops consisting of Six Officers & Sixty Private intended to join the Army serving in Canada being embarked, my Lords have ordered Capt Jacobs of the Amazon with the Garland to take the Transports which have the said Troops on board under Convoy to see them in safety to Quebec, with all such Store Ships & Victuallers belonging to the Navy, victualling or the Ordnance Departments as may be destined to Canada.

Having now acquainted your Lordship with the Convoys which have sail’d, or that are ready to sail, since your departure from England I have only to add on this Subject that as soon as the said Services are performed the Captains of the several Ships aforementioned are ordered to join the Squadron under your command & follow your Orders for their further proceedings.
Their Lordships have thought fit to order His Majts Ships the Pembroke & Boulogne to be fitted to proceed to Halifax, where the former is to serve as a Sheer Hulk & the latter lay in the Harbour to be employ'd on such Services as she may be applicable to: And to be established whilst they serve as such with the Officers & Men as follows.

And in order to assist in Navigating the said Ships there will be employed in them respectively the additional Officers & Men as under.

With respect to the additional Officers it is their Lordships directions that you send them to England by the first opportunity that may offer: But as to the Petty Officers & Seamen they leave it to your Lordship to dispose of them amongst the Ships under your command in such way as your Lordship shall find necessary with the others whom I shall have occasion to mention in a subsequent part of this Letter.

Their Lordships with a view to benefit the public all they can by the Service of these new Ships have directed the Navy Board to provide & send in them as many large Masts & other Stores as they can take in; And knowing from the representations before them of the State of Stores at Halifax, the very great advantage it must be to have the Magazines there replenished as largely, and in as short time as is possible, they have further directed them to take up two Storeships of about 300 Tons each & load them with the utmost expedition with every assortment proper for the use of a Fleet, & which they hope may be in readiness to sail by the middle of August next.

By means of these; and the Supplies which are likewise ordered to be sent to Antigua & Jamaica for the refitting such Ships & Vessels as you may send to those places for that purpose, their Lordships hope the Service so far as respects the supplying the Fleet with Stores, will be effectually answered & the Ships thereby kept in continued employ

Vice Adml Shuldham representing in his last Letters, as Vice Adml Graves had done before, the want of ordnance Stores for supplying the Fleet at Halifax & the same was signified to the Master Genl of the Ordnance, & having received an Answer thereto I sent your Lordship a Copy thereof for your information on this Subject, desiring at the same time to refer you to a Letter to Mr Shuldham of the 27th March Copy of which was given to your Lordship, by which you will observe that every thing in their Lordships power respecting the Ordnance Articles has been duly attended to

Mr Shuldham having also taken Notice in his Letters that some of the Ships are short in their Complements of Marines; Their Lordships command me to acquaint you that it is their intention to send out Marines to compleat the respective Ships Complements so soon as the numbers at Quarters will enable them to do so.

Their Lordships upon reviewing the Complements of such of the Schooners, & other small Vessels, which at present bear 30 Men only; reflecting also upon the Services to be expected from those Vessels, think it may be of advantage to have their Complements increased to Forty Men each, they therefore, if your Lordship shall coincide in opinion with them herein, command me to authorize you to increase their Complements accordingly.

Lord Geo Germaine having transmitted to my Lords the extract of a Letter his Lordship has written to Genl Carleton & to Genl Howe respecting the return to England of such Transports as can be spared from the Services of the Armies under their respective commands, I send you by their directions a Copy of the said Extract & am to recommend it to your Lordship to do every thing in your power toward carrying Lord George's directions into execution: and for your further information your Lordship will receive also a Copy of my Letter on this Subject to the Senior Officer in the River St Laurence with a Copy of the Order therein referr’d to their Lordships wishing in a matter so very important as this is, that you may see the same in its fullest light. What more I have to observe is their Lordships desire that in sending home such of the British Transports as can be spared your Lordship do give preference to those which have been longest abroad and are most in want of refitting.

Mr Shuldham has very strongly stated to their Lordships the distress that may attend his Majestys Ships Stationed in No America, from the impossibility of procuring Men to keep up their respective Complements: but they hope from the great number of American Ships lately taken on that Coast, his apprehensions on that head have been obviated, as by Virtue of the prohibitory Act a power is given for putting the Crews of Prizes on board His Majestys Ships where they are to be considered as much in the Service of His Majesty as if they had enter’d into it voluntarily: Which their Lordships doubt not you will observe, & comply with, as far as necessary to compleat the Complements of Ships which may be deficient – Nor can they doubt in your Lordship’s doing this but you will Order a preference to be given to those Men who are Natives of Great Britain or Ireland should the number that may be taken be more than enough to compleat the Complements of the Kings Ships as aforementioned, it may be proper to send the overplus to England, as opportunities offer of Ships returning, in lieu of the Marines, which may be left to do Duty with the Battalion on Shore; But if in the event the number of Men taken in Prizes shall be more than can be disposed of in the modes above provided for, and by their increase they should become inconvenient, My Lords Command me to say, that under such a circumstance they see no impropriety in your ordering such Men to be set on Shore in any part of America Your Lordship shall approve of

However their Lordships not chusing to trust too far to those Supplies which may arise from Men procured from prizes have besides the Men put on board to assist in Navigating the Pembroke & Boulogne ordered one Hundred Landsmen to be sent out in the numbers, and on board the Ships mentioned in the Margin to be disposed of in the Ships Your Lordship may think fit, Ambuscade 20
Lark 20
Amazon 20
Unicorn 10
Garland 10

and by which their Lordships hope the Ships will be completed with such Men as may be confided in.—

The Glasgow which was sent to England to repair the damages she received in Action with five Rebell Cruizers, being arrived at Plymouth, And the Hunter which came with Dispatches from Quebec being arrived at Portsmouth, My Lords have order'd them to be immediately Refitted & so soon as the same is done they will be returned to serve as part of the Fleet under your Lordships command &c

1. PRO, Colonial Office, 5/124, 95.
When we consider the forces of a Nation we ordinarily distinguish her own from those she derives from her alliances. The combination of these means is the measure of her power and determines to what degree she may impress rival nations. I doubt that, if England considers us under both these views, she will find the balance to tip in her favor. But I shall leave these speculations to her competence. I shall limit myself to look for her interest, her views, her means, her undertakings. Today I propose, My lord, to call to your attention the condition of her forces.

When considering the political situation of England, we find this Power to be without system, without liaison, without purpose, and almost without any influence on the Continent, with the exception of Portugal whose alliance, useful to her trade in time of peace, would be a burden in time of war. We see her fighting the difficulty of governing far away possessions with eccentric agitation, while the different parts of her empire act upon one another in order to destroy one another.

If, from there, we look over her means, we find from the progress of the present war that everything points to the insufficient resources of England in men and money in order to sustain a prolonged war at sea. The extraordinary inducements for the levy of sailors, the permission to use foreigners on merchant ships, the quality of military crews where real sailors are in proportion of less than 1 to 3 do not indicate a superabundance of means in this area. On shore, the difficulty of finding recruits due to a shortage of men which was openly confessed in Parliament by the Secretary of War, compels this Power to import foreign troops at great expense; the impossibility to face such an expensive undertaking even by using all her revenue places her in such a position that she must increase taxes and issue new Government bonds. Such behavior should surprise rather than alarm the rival powers of England, especially when we observe that her use of the resources which she exhausts, or the charges which she multiplies can only bring about the ruin of the country from which this country pretends to draw the bulk of her commerce by open force.

Following this survey, there remains for us to consider more especially the present state of her forces at sea as well as on land. This is the subject of the tables No 1 and No 2. The first one will interest you more since England is detached from the Continent not only by her policy but also by her geographic situation and can be considered only as a maritime Power divided over several parts of the world and of which the real center is the Sea itself.

You will undoubtedly observe, My lord, that the ships in activity and those ready to be activated at the first order constitute the essential part of the Navy. If to these two columns consisting of 67 Ships of the line mounting from 100 to 50 guns inclusively, 62 Frigates mounting from 44 to 20 guns inclusively and 55 ships mounting less than 20 guns, we add the ships requiring average repairs, consisting of 25 Ships of the line, 5 Frigates and one Sloop, we see that the foundation of the English Navy consists of 92 Ships of the line, 67 Frigates and 56 ships of less importance, or a total of 215 sails. Since these are the real forces that we would have to fight, should we be at war, it seems to me that we should make our plans on the basis of this foundation upon which we must properly fix our attention.

It is not enough to ascertain that it exists. We must also examine the works upon which it rests. The cruises strain the Ships. Thus, upon their return from their station, they are successively classified among the ships in need of more or less considerable repair. Each year, the weather causes damages and wear to those that remain in the Ports. Already several of the guardships are reputedly no longer in condition to undertake a hard cruise, and within a year or two, a number of those which are presently considered to be in excellent condition will be counted among the damaged ships in want of repair.

All the ships being built or repaired are therefore destined to replace rather than increase the number quoted above, and we must look upon this column as the feeding branch of the Navy. The ports have a three year supply of timber at the rate of 22 thousand tons per year. They must be constantly maintained on the same footing. Thus, My lord, these are sufficient means for the continuous upkeep of the foundation upon which we must direct our speculations.

We have placed the next column in the real foundation of the Navy, although the ships there included are not really in condition to put to sea. These are the sick who, in case of need, would soon be able to join the Army.

As for the Vessels that require major repair and consist of 14 Ships and seven frigates, they get weather-beaten a little more every day. We will see more of these go down among the condemned ships rather than come back into the column of ships in repair where they have to return before being reinstated among the sound ships. The last column contains only nominal forces and I will not mention them here. They are counted in the alphabetical list attached to the table. This list is composed of 141 Ships of the line, 88 frigates, 67 Vessels of lesser importance, for a total of 296 sails. I must warn you, My lord, that I placed in America by anticipation a few frigates and sloops which have not yet left for their destination. Furthermore, the list indicates the domestic distribution of the guardships and ships not in commission in the Ports and which, for this reason, I have omitted in the table.

The conclusion that we may draw from this table can be divided into two main points:

1. The number of Vessels of which the real forces of the English Navy are composed amounts to 92 Ships of the line, 67 frigates and 56 vessels of lesser importance, for a total of 215 sails.
2. Of this number those actually in activity consist of 35 Ships of the line, 61 frigates and 55 Vessels of lesser importance, for a total of 151 sails of which 89 are employed in North America.

By having the condition of each ship in different ports examined by expert people, I have avoided errors and I was able to classify each ship according to her worth. This examination brought us to find out that among the ships that are not employed, only 32 and one frigate could be readied at the first order, and 25 ships and six frigates would require repairs of 6 to 8 months.

If we distribute these forces by dividing them into squadrons of the required strength in time of war in the Mediterranean, Africa, the East and the West Indies, Europe, everywhere finally where England has possessions to defend, we find that they present an imposing display when gathered under a single point of view, but when they are spread over the immensity of the globe, they become hardly adequate to fulfill so many purposes, and England, by remaining on the defensive, would present many a weak point to her enemies. I am convinced that the English Ministers repeat this to themselves once in a while, and I believe that they are more occupied with preserving what they have than with planning new conquests. However, if we have every ground to remain at ease with respect to the considered designs of England, since we must suppose them to conform to the interest, the faculties, as well as the dispositions of a Nation and a Government which are inclined toward peace, we have everything to fear from sudden events which opportunity, chance, or the carelessness even of individuals may bring about, when we look at the advantage they would derive at the beginning of a war from their 150 vessels in activity. Three fourths of these ships being composed of frigates or sloops are most apt to privateer and consequently to make a clean sweep of our fishing and trade at a time when both of these would be defenseless.

Besides this advantage which the English, in their bad faith, will draw from the ships they have constantly cruising on all the seas, this system offers them a more honorable one in the number of officers that it forms for a profession requiring more practice than theory. Indeed, we cannot conceal from ourselves that the great superiority of the English Navy consists especially in the confidence and the emulation which reigns in it, spirit founded on the success and the experience of its officers who are accustomed to master their element. This is what would give them especially the means to wage an offensive war, the only type of war that befits a nation that can be lead only by victories and that would be without strength and credit in the course of a slow war barren of glorious ventures.

However, if these considerations, joined to our past experience, arouse our vigilance more and more and lead us to be more cautious than ever, we will be able to avoid in the next war as fatal a beginning as that of the preceding war. Once we are out of this awkward situation, everything leads us to assume that, regardless of the development of the war so to speak, it will end only with the complete downfall of England.
You will observe, My lord, that this conjecture rests mostly on the political situation of England and the contradiction that exists between her financial means and the extreme measures which she must take in order to activate her forces. This year Parliament voted for only 28 thousand sailors and the money voted for the Navy, although deemed to be insufficient, amounts to three million seven hundred and twenty seven thousand pounds Sterling. Should a rupture with the House of Bourbon occur, it would not be extravagant to estimate that England would have to employ three times as many sailors as she has today and triple the expense in proportion in order to support a war exposed to more considerable risks and losses than those suffered today against a Nation which has no Navy.

You will ask perhaps, why triple the number of sailors since it is obvious from the table on the Navy that one could not in any case double the number of Vessels in activity today? There are two answers to that: one stems from observation and the other from fact. The first one shows that among the 60 Vessels which remain to be employed, we count 57 Ships of the line which consequently require more numerous crews than the frigates and sloops presently at Sea, and, furthermore, one would also have to double the crews of the Ships already employed since they have only a few Privateers to fight today and need only a sufficient number of men to maneuver them. The second answer points to the example of the last war when we saw Great Britain use as many as 80 thousand sailors.

I shall end these observations, My lord, on the maritime forces of England by informing you that I made the necessary inquiries concerning the rumors found in the public papers to the effect that a few individuals here had Privateers with letters of marque against the Americans, and I found that this rumor, which is contrary to the assurances given to me by Lord North in this respect, is totally unfounded.

M. GARNIER TO VERGENNES

[Extract]

London, 28 June 1776

Yesterday, there was a conference at Lord Weymouth's. I took this opportunity to discuss with this Minister various matters about which I had already conversed with Lord Suffolk: . . .

As to the liberties taken by their cruising vessels, I also read to him the letters from Messrs. d'Ennery and d'Argout, and I observed to him that I did not officially request M. [Robert] Keeler's punishment, but that by referring the conduct of this officer to him it was our intention to leave to the prudence of the British Ministry to judge whether the best way to have their orders carried out was to punish those who did not conform to them. I tried to make him feel how important this [was] to them as it is to us by pointing out to him that the great care we take in this respect is the least equivocal proof of our desire to perpetuate the good intelligence. Lord Weymouth disapproves of the conduct of the English Officers, does not look for any excuses, does not mention the Americans smuggling with our Islands, falls back on the strict orders given to respect our Coasts and our Flag, promises to see to their execution and begs me to believe that they would be in despair if we had a ground to be unhappy. He will request information from the Admiralty concerning M. Keeler's conduct. Furthermore, up to now nothing seems to augur on the part of the English Ministers as offending an idea as that of limiting the direct trade of our Islands. Such pretensions may be ventured but they are nothing more than an act of sovereignty with regard to Holland and Denmark. I cannot imagine they would go that far with regard to France and Spain.

I shall remain on my guard, however, in order to wave aside as soon as I can see it coming a question which could only deeply hurt the King's dignity. The remark which you made so judiciously, My lord, about the behavior of the English during the disorders in Corsica had not escaped Doctor [Benjamin] Franklin who, before his departure for America, had quoted this example to me more than once; and I would have used it modestly without fail with regard to Lord Weymouth if he had led me to the subject of the similar contraband which afflicts them today. We found English guns in Corsica and we did not complain about it. If the English find French guns in America, they should wisely use the same reserve with us. The important point, My lord, is the one which you recommended to me with your usual foresight, I mean the prizes which the Americans might bring into our ports and which would be claimed by the English Government. If we had to shape our attitude according to what the English would do in a similar situation, the problem would soon be solved because we would not return them. At least we would be authorized not to agree to anything until we received letters of concessions by which the English would reciprocate each time we would claim a French ship, but in order to be valid, this security would have to be sanctioned by Parliament. Furthermore, My lord, I have not yet heard anything on this matter and I will not lose time forwarding to you any information I may obtain. Meanwhile, the prizes that would be taken to our Islands would apparently be sold there before any claim could intervene.

As we were about to take leave after yesterday's conference, this Minister told me in a trifling manner as if to make conversation that there had been much talk concerning our important armaments. I had not yet received, My lord, your dispatch of the 21st. I answered that, to my knowledge, we were not arming, but that I was not unaware that England was armed and that, while the Sea was covered with her ships under the command of Officers who did not breathe peace as much as the British Ministry and were most capable to commit acts of boldness that might shorten the continuance of the said peace, I would not be surprised that we took on our side the necessary steps to be ready for any eventuality. Lord Weymouth said that we should know the purpose of their armaments and that we could not doubt their peaceful intentions. I replied that we did not doubt it but that, since they had established a Squadron of observation in time of peace, they were to expect that this example would be followed. The Minister said that this establishment was already old, and he asked me if I knew when the Duke de Chartres would return. I answered that I believed his cruise should last 3 or 4 months, but that I did not remember exactly at what time his Squadron had sailed.

Admiralty-Office [London], June 29, 1776.

Vice-Admiral Shuldham, in his Letter dated the 20th of May last, gives an Account, that the Cruizers of his Squadron had intercepted and taken Twenty-four Ships and Vessels belonging to or trading with His Majesty's rebellious Subjects in North America, in Addition to those mentioned in his Letter of the 25th of April, among which was The Lyon Schooner, bound from Cape Francois to Rhode Island, laden with Arms and Ammunition.¹

"Extract of a Letter from Plymouth, June 29."

His Majesty's ship Galatea got under sail on Wednesday last [June 26] for America; but an express arrived to stop her until further orders, and it is now said she is going to Jamaica. The Commissioner paid the officers and seamen belonging to her two months advance before she got under weigh.

Arrived his Majesty's sloop the Hound, with money to pay the artificers of his Majesty's dock-yard, from Portsmouth.

Yesterday morning the following men of war sailed from St. Helen's, viz. the Diamond, Capt. [Charles] Fielding; Unicorn, Capt. [John] Ford;

[Richard] Smith, having under their convoy 22 sail of ships, with foreign troops on board for America, having orders not to wait any longer for the horse ships; and this morning his Majesty's ship Daphne, Capt. [John] Henry, with several transports, dropped down to St. Helen's, and will sail to-morrow, if their dispatches come down, and the wind will permit, which will make the third division that sailed from this place since February last.

Morning Post and Daily Advertiser, Monday, July 1, 1776

By a gentleman who left Philadelphia in the end of February, we have received the following intelligence, which may be depended upon.

French vessels, both from the colonies and France, come in there daily; bringing sugar, melasses, salt-petre and other commodities; which they sell freely for cash, and provisions; particularly a vessel from Port L'Orient, brought in sixty tons of salt-petre, which was sold for upwards of 12,000 l. sterling. Two Frenchmen of note have continued there during the winter, one of whom was sent off to the camp at Cambridge, with an escort; the other staying at Philadelphia, greatly caressed by the Congress. It was suppose[d] they were agents from France, sent to observe the situation of things, and conclude a treaty with the new republic. — They are fitting out different squadrons of frigates and letters of marque, for various services, and to cruise against the West India trade. One small squadron has sailed for St. Helena, to intercept the East India trade. [Three blurred and indecipherable lines] Hopkins had sailed with eight vessels under his command; two of them frigates of thirty guns; their service was kept a secret. Some suppose them to be gone to France, to get such warlike stores, as they most want; some, to Rhode Island, to take Capt. Wallace, in the Rose; some to Virginia, to seize Lord Dunmore; others, that they are to cruise against the West-India trade. They are victualled for six months,

The people think of nothing but independence, and talk of war with pleasure. A man of war has not been seen or heard of in that river this whole winter. The trade up to the city is entirely free, and has not suffered the least obstruction. Their numerous provisions vessels, in their return from the Dutch and French islands, have got all safe back with powder, warlike stores and other goods. Clothing they have in plenty at Philadelphia.—Their newspapers are stuffed with essays, in favour of independence. They leave to Wilkes, Burke, and their other part[i]zans in Britain, to dwell upon the hardships, impositions and tyranny of Britain, which they never felt, and speak boldly out, that a dependence on Britain, is a check upon their grandeur. They speak with contempt of the British constitution; and give this shrewd instance of its imperfection, that it has not power sufficient to keep its colonies in subjection. They say such a virtuous people as they are, ought to disdain any connection with such a vicious, corrupt nation as Britain; lest they share in the punishment, which is ready to overtake her.

A pamphlet greatly celebrated and much read among them, supposed to be written by Adams, and actually corrected by Franklin, and of which their several printing houses are vying, and multiplying copies, under the title of Common Sense, says, 'reconciliation and ruin are near [illegible]' that the King of America lives on high; and delights not in the blood of his subjects like the Royal — of Britain; that by shaking off their dependence on Britain, they will make all Europe the guardians of their liberties, and open to themselves the ports of every nation: As a lure, on the other hand, they say, it can never be their interest, to make war with Europe; but they are silent respecting those sweet morsels, which the French and Spainards possess in America. They say Britain will come shortly crouching to them, begging to be allowed some small share of their trade. They remark on the folly of calling Britian their mother country; as if that title carried an idea of duty and respect; For Europe is their country, and Britain is indebted to them not they to Britain.—

It is confidently given out that a fleet of twenty ships of war, and eighty transports is preparing at Brest, to co-operate with the Americans, either in sweeping our helpless sugar islands, or in attacking Quebec. It is certain, the French governors here have offered all American vessels on their coasts protection; and that one of their men of war actually convoyed off this station, a vessel commanded by one Parker, which took in four hundred barrels of powder, at Martinico. Never was there such a brisk trade at St. Eustatia, as at present, to America, carried on chiefly, I believe, by renegado Englishmen; and though our few cruisers now and then take one of their provision vessels; yet they are so numerous, the loss is not felt. So inveterate are the Congress members against Britain, that though they are in want of every species of goods, they oblige every master of a vessel to bring certificates upon oath, that the [illegible] they import, are not of British manufacture. One of our merchants, who went down a few days ago to St. Eustatia, saw them actually cutting out the British mark, from a bale of goods shipping for America, to prepare it for the necessary affidavit: This circumstance you may assuredly depend upon as a truth.

One Tudor is superintending the building of three frigates, at New York. We expect our seas to swarm soon with their little privateers; and that our good friends the Dutch will give them all the assistance in their power. If the states general really wish us well, and I think they can only keep their own independency while Britain is powerful enough to protect them, they should allow us to keep consuls in St. Eustatia and Curraçao [Curaçao] to prevent any improper trade with America: — Or if good sense had not this effect, suppose we stopped the interest of their money in our funds, to enable us to finish a war, which they formed and support. — The friends of America in St. Eustatia, and our several islands, send them constant intelligence of every thing transacted here, which they insert in their news-paper; nay, and point out to them, the active friends of government. Three or four more frigates upon this station, would have interrupted their trade greatly; but we seem to be entirely neglected.

We returned you at the Same Time your Letter for your Brother Mr Simeon Deane said Gentleman having remained in America. By the Inclosed Letter from Captn J. [Endorsed] Solli Coffre & Freres Lettr from Marseilles

2 July

Morning Post and Daily Advertiser, TUESDAY, JULY 2, 1776

London, July 2, 1776

By a gentleman who left Philadelphia in the end of February, we have received the following intelligence, which may be depended upon:

If the men of war, for I think it will be impossible to assemble an army capable of acting this season, finish not the business this summer, we shall certainly have a French war on our hands, to call off our attention; a thing which the friends of America expect, and rejoice at the thoughts of; and in this case our sugar islands may fall an immediate prey; for it is certain the French are pushing out an extraordinary number of troops to all their settlements. A push should therefore be made in America, with the ships of war, and every floating stick of timber, every magazine for naval stores should, if possible, be destroyed. Every sailor taken should be carried to Europe, if not wanted in the fleet; and be distributed among the merchant men, particularly the India ships. — If we have a French war on our hands, a strong squadron should be immediately sent out to protect the sugar colonies, and transports should be ready before the middle of October, in America, to bring over at least 12,000 men to the West-Indies, and make at once a sweep of the French islands. In making the attack, their towns and plantations should be more aimed at than their strongholds. Indeed the only strong forts of consequence are at Martinico and the West end of Hispaniola.

When the American trade, and shipping are destroyed, you may leave these heroes to boast of their prowess, and parade their armies as they please; it will be a pity to risk the life of a gallant soldier against them. And in this case two expeditions might at once be carried on against Martinico and Hispaniola. And if we value the sugar trade, these islands should be suffered to be even deserted, rather than ever be returned to France. — I say this, on the supposition, that France is ungenerous enough to meddle in the present dispute.

We find, there is no attention given to the supplying of the sugar colonies with the articles, which they formerly had from America. Many improvident people begin already to be pinched for food; and there is no promise of a supply; 150,000 acres extraordinarily laid down for raising grain would more than supply all the West-Indian demands for inhabitants, poultry, and horses. — Suppose the bounty upon corn were confined at present to West Indian consumption; or that no bounty should take place till certificates were produced of a sufficient quantity shipped to the West Indies. If the British market were opened for rum by lessening the duty; it would be more profitable for us to be supplied with our provisions from Britain than from America. At present the British ships which take away our sugar, come generally out less than half laden. The freight of our provisions from Britain ought therefore to be but little additional expence; and much below what is necessary to support the American trade; and we should pay for them with our produce, instead of paying the Americans besides rum a considerable proportion of money, to supply them with cash, to buy French melasses and sugars, to injure our own consumption.

Franklin is so much revered in Philadelphia, that whenever he walks the streets, he has a crowd constantly at his heels. Sometime before the gentlemen left Philadelphia, he and some others of their chiefs, and Macleod [John Carroll] a priest, set off for Canada, to reconcile the Canadians to their measures, and frame a code of laws for them. We shall see if Parliament, or the free thinking Congress, be more favourable to popery
It is surprising to think of the number of ignorant fellows that you have suffered to carry out transports and storeships. One fellow has carried down his lading to dispose of it at Jamaica: Several, as we are here credibly informed, have given up their ships designedly to the Provincials; and numbers of them were so ignorant of the coast, as to come here to the West-Indies, rather than venture in. Every transport should have carried a navy Lieutenant or skillful midshipman, or master's mate, to keep the master to his duty, and guard against his treachery. It deserves to be a matter of enquiry, whether those masters, who have treacherously delivered up their ships, had any encouragement from the traitors in London; for the worst enemies of government are to be found there.

Notwithstanding all the boast of securing Philadelphia, by staking the river and building galleys with long guns, people begin to remove their effects from thence, expecting it to be laid in ashes. I abhor the burning of towns; and it would be a pity, if it could be avoided, that so fine a one as it is should be destroyed; though if any place has greater demerit than another it is this.

Though the colony would not take up arms to defend itself from the French, even when fire and destruction threatened, it has for a speculative point, run headlong into arms against its protector. It has shaken off the peaceable tenants of its founder; and raised the standard of rebellion in the very face of its charter; which expressly reserved taxation by Parliament: a reservation intended by Penn, to take the colony out of the power of the Crown, and make it dependent upon Parliament, as a situation most favourable to liberty. Little did he then think, that the time would come when America should solicit the crown, to take it out of the hands of parliament, and rebel against King and Parliament, because they were not indulged with their request; and that all who pretend to be patriots in Britain, should join in abetting their insolent demands. Might it not be made a convenient place of arms, till peace was restored.

Should France the good ally of the Americans attempt to entangle us in another destructive continental war, by attacking Hanover; suppose we were to transport all the Hanoverians to Pennsylvania and the middle colonies, and leave Hanover deserted as a bone of contention to be scrambled for by the Germans and French. The Hanoverians would gain a fertile territory by the exchange; and if we took care to make good regulations for them, we might exchange riotous and unprofitable rivals for faithful and useful subjects. Or suppose we were to give Hanover to Denmark for her sugar islands.

I think it hardly possible that the Americans can supply all their demands with the barter of provisions; so that their present trade must drain them entirely of their cash; flour as a specimen, is now at Philadelphia at 6s (currency, or about 4s. sterling) per 100 wt. Indeed nothing but paper is to be seen in circulation. Those who refuse to take it, are sent to work in slavery, in their iron mines.

The Jane (formerly the Minerva) [James] Fulton, a transport from Clyde to Boston, was taken by the Provincials on the 6th of May, and carried into Salem.¹

The Jane, Fulton, taken by the Provincials, had a cargo on board, worth upwards of 6000 l. which is mostly insured at Glasgow.

A Gentleman who came from Georgia, and arrived in Town last Friday, says, that when they left America they had authentic Information of Commodore Hopkins, together with the Provincial Fleet, being blocked up in the Harbor of New London, by Captain Wallis [James Wallace], of Rhode Island, and several of the King's Ships, and that it was impossible for one of Hopkins's Ships to retreat or get over the Bar; it seems he had put in there for a Supply of Powder and Provision.

Letters from Holland say, that the States have issued out an Order for no Ship to take Arms or Ammunition to any Part of his Britannic Majesty's Dominions, on the Forfeiture of the Ship and Cargo, and Imprisonment of the Officers belonging to such Ships; the Order to continue in Force so long as the Americans continue in Arms against their Sovereign.

Advice is received by Tuesday's Irish Mail, that an American Vessel, being in great Distress, for want of Provisions, put into a Creek in the North Part of Ireland, where the People seized her, and after plundering the Vessel of every Thing of Value, and stripping the People, they set fire to the Ship, and consumed it; they then suffered the Crew to depart, who got to Kinsale in a most deplorable Condition.

M. Garnier to Vergennes

[Extract] London, 5 July 1776

You are informed, My lord, of the plans for the Royal Army in Canada. The intention is to penetrate the English Colonies by way of the Lakes Champlain and George. It has been admitted that much time will be needed to build the boats required for this passage. Then, these boats will have to be carried from one lake to the other and the Americans will have to be overcome at Ticonderoga. We might say that first of all the Lakes must be reached.

. . . Such are the plans for this country, as you have known them for a long time, My lord, and as they were explained to me on the map by Lord Barrington, Secretary at War. He intends to encircle New England in such a way as to cut all communications with the Southern Provinces.

. . . Their enemy claims that they [the Americans] lack everything; but we know that in spite of the vigilance of the English Cruisers they have ammunition in fair abundance. It is only feared that they are poorly supplied with locks for their firearms. They have quite recently captured the transport Hope which had sailed from Corke for Boston with a cargo of 75 tons of powder, one thousand rifles, a few military waggons, and six gun-carriages. This prize as well as the capture of other transports is one of the lesser consequences of the unexpected evacuation of Boston.

Edict of King Joseph of Portugal

Joseph, by the grace of God, king of Portugal and of the Algrave, &c. I make known to all who shall see this present edict, that having been lately informed, that the English Colonies in America, had not only separated themselves by an act of the Congress, the 15th of May last, from the subjection to the crown of Great-Britain, but also were making laws of their own, and giving particular power to resist the lawful authority of his Britannic Majesty my good brother, friend and ally: and whereas so pernicious an example ought to interest even the most indifferent princes not to favour or assist, directly or indirectly, subjects thus publicly and formally rebelling against their lawful sovereign: it is my will and pleasure to order, that in all the ports of these kingdoms and its dominions, no shelter shall be given to any ships loaded or in ballast, coming from any of the ports of the said North American British colonies, but on the contrary, that they are to be repelled from the said ports, and in the same manner they entered, without giving them the least succour of any kind whatsoever. The masters of ships, who have been permitted to enter hitherto, in consideration of not having received any express injunction to the contrary shall be notified to depart with their ships out of the above mentioned ports within the space of eight successive days, without fail; examination being had before their departure, if they have on board any gunpowder, or other warlike stores of the kinds already prohibited by my royal orders, given the 21st of October last, to the arsenal of the army, and to the office of outward consulship; and confiscating, for the benefit of the public works, any of the said ships on board of which shall be found clandestinely concealed any of the above mentioned warlike stores, as goods rightly seized and manifestly known to be the property of rebels. Our Lord the King hath ordered this by his royal decree of the 4th of this current month of July, and directed to his royal council, commanding it to be printed and set up in all public places of Lisbon and ports of this kingdom, and of the Algraves, in order that every one should have notice thereof, and that no person may pretend ignorance.

PHILIP STEPHENS TO CAPTAIN JAMES COOK, H. M. SLOOP Resolution, PLYMOUTH

Sir,

[Admiralty Office] 6th July 1776.

I send you herewith the Secret Instructions which my Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty have been pleased to sign for your proceedings with the Sloop you command and the Discovery Sloop commanded by Captain [Charles] Clerke; But as Captain Clerke is not yet able to repair on board the Discovery, and it is of great consequence that you should yourself proceed to the Cape of Good Hope without delay, I have it in command from their Lordships to signify their direction to you to put to Sea with the first opportunity of wind and weather without the Discovery Sloop, leaving directions for her Commander (to be delivered to him on his arrival at Plymouth) to follow you to the Cape of Good Hope without a moment's loss of time; And as their Lordships do not wish that you should wait for him at the Cape any longer than you think it may be done with prudence, and without risking any inconvenience to the further progress of your Voyage, it is their Lordships farther direction that if you judge it proper to sail from the Cape before the Discovery arrives, you do, in that case, leave with a trusty person, to be delivered to her Commander upon his arrival, such Rendezvous, and Accounts of the Course you intend to steer, as you shall think most likely to effect his speedy junction with you.

Their Lordships command me to add that a Copy of your Secret Instructions will be delivered to Capt Clerke before he sails from Plymouth, with directions to him to open them, and execute them as far as he is able, in case he should not, after using his utmost efforts, be able to join you according to the Rendezvous you will leave for him; but to deliver them to you unopened, in case he should join you.

I most heartily wish you a successful Voyage; and am &ca

Claude Julien to Vergennes¹

My lord, [Paris, July 8, 1776]²

Although it seems from public notices in the different ports of the Kingdom that American Ships come in freely in order to exchange the Goods which they bring from their Colonies for Merchandise from our Continent, the Supplicant, a Merchant in the City of Bordeaux, uncertain as to whether this new Traffic is carried by virtue of some special permission, and unwilling to innovate without the approbation of the Government dares request very humbly, My lord, permission to give ear to the trade offers which might be made to him by American Shipowners.
The latter may offer the following trade items:

- Sperm oil
- do. from other fish
- Rice
- Tobacco
- Sperm candles
- Pitch
- Tar
- Turpentine
- Pelt
- Indigo
- Boards of oakwood
- Masts and spars of all sizes
- Wood for cooperage
- Salt-wort
- Flour
- do. of pine

And a number of other essential items.

In exchange, this Nation may take Wines, Spirits, a quantity of manufactured articles of infinite variety.

The favor which the Government may grant the French merchants in this circumstance is of the greatest consequence for the State since it would enable them to obtain at first hand and for a much better price the same merchandise which the English and the Dutch bring us only after a profit to two or three other hands.

This would also present a most essential advantage to the Farm General, especially if the Farmers General are satisfied with ordinary and fairly reasonable duty charges so as not to frighten the Merchants in their New Speculations.

The Supplicant will act only by virtue of the permission he dares expect from the kindness of Count de Vergennes by whom he already has the honor to be protected having the advantage to be his compatriot.

M. GARNIER TO VERGENNES

[Extract] London 9 July 1776

I have the honor to send you herewith the Translation of a resolution passed by Congress and published on the 15th of May, to abolish any authority on the part of the Crown, and to recommend to each Colony to chose its own Government. It is even reported that, in consequence, the provinces of South Carolina and Georgia have already elected each a Governor, a Council and an Assembly.

The instructions of the Capital of the Province of Massachusett[s] tend no less but to divest the King of Great Britain of any authority in America, and the language used in them is of the most hostile nature. The King of England has already made the only reply of which they might be susceptible. He has sent fifty thousand men and a fleet of eighty sails to subdue these Colonies. Considerable forces such as these can only be victorious wherever they attack, and with military victories coming to the support of political operations, we must hope that this year will see the end of a war detrimental to the subsistence of our Islands and which may provoke incidents that might endanger general Peace.

On the 5th of this month, an accident occurred in Portsmouth on board the guardship Marlborough. Four barrels of powder which had been set aside by the Gunner caught fire. The explosion caused great damage to the ship and cost the lives of 17 persons besides 43 men who were critically wounded. This ship had been recently brought from the roadstead to the port for repair. Fortunately, most of the powder had been removed from the magazine when the accident took place. It is believed that these four barrels which caught fire had been set aside by some dishonesty of the Gunner who proposed to sell them for profit. The Captain was not on board the ship of which the crew was composed of only 180 men. I have not heard that any officer was wounded.

This affair it is thought will be a good pretence for the French to take advantage of the present disturbances between England and her colonies. The Frenchmen are, however, treated with the utmost respect, notwithstanding several letters which were found on board the vessel, have been opened and perused by Admiral GAY-...ton, leave no shadow of a doubt that the French are absolutely assisting the Americans to the utmost of their abilities.

Lord Sandwich allso desires to inform your Majesty that the Ordnance Board (as he is informed by Mr Wilkinson the Agent for transports) received an anonimous letter to the same purpose as that written to Captain [Archibald] Dickson, before the Hope Storeship sailed from Portsmouth; in consequence of which they sent orders that the passenger who had been mentioned as in connection with the rebels, should be sent on shore and not be allowed to proceed in the Storeship to America.
Mr Wilkinson who is employed as a broker for transports by the Navy Board, is also employed by the Ordnance, and let the Hope to that department.

*Vergennes to M. de Clugny*¹

Versailles, 10 July 1776

It seems to me, Sir, that our political interest, as well as our commercial interest, requires that we treat favorably the Americans who frequent our ports; indeed, if they succeed in establishing the freedom of their trade, they will have already developed the habit of dealing with our merchants, and if they fail, we will have entertained with them, at least momentarily, a trade exchange which is obviously to our advantage. Therefore I think, Sir, that we are in the position to show the greatest marks of favor to the American vessels and that the circumstances in which they find themselves should exempt them from the rigor of the decree of 1701 as well as from the decision of the Council of 1742. This last point presents less drawbacks since the English Colonists can only import their own produce into our country and since they have almost no merchandise or industrial products to bring us; but whatever their imports may be, I believe not only that we should not forbid them, but on the contrary, that it is advisable to relax the duties that we may be in a position to require from them. I also believe, Sir, that it would be proper to allow the Americans to export by way of other foreign vessels the articles which we could not admit: this is the method followed in England; besides the advantages it presents to the Americans, it may help to establish a store between the English Colonies and the European nations that need their products. . . . I think it would be necessary to take all the precautions that prudence might suggest so that our motives and our views and even our procedures remain hidden from the English; in this respect, I can only rely entirely upon the instructions which you will deem proper to issue.

M. GARNIER TO VERGENNES1

[Extract] London, 12 July 1776

The English Ministers no longer mention our Armaments to me; but I have heard that they are becoming alarmed. Some of their confidants claim even that the differences with Portugal depend upon the war with the Colonies, that is to say they consider this discussion as a pretext that will be used according to the state of affairs; that, if England meets with rapid success in America, the Portuguese affair will settle down, whereas in the opposite case, it would determine general war. This smacks too much of metaphysics and I don't believe it is the opinion of the English Ministers. I would think rather that Portugal is trying to spread this notion. However far from the truth it may be, I would not be surprised if it made proselytes in the system now favored here whereby Spain wants war and we shall not fail on our side to take advantage of the distress which afflicts England.

The second Hessian division was forced by adverse winds to enter the harbor of Plymouth on the 6th inst. . . .

The Treasury is presently commissioning on the Thames 25 Vessels of 120 to 400 tons carrying from 4 to 10 guns, without any fixed number of crew. Our Correspondent in Deptford informs us that they take as many as they can find; and that the number of these Vessels which are to carry supplies from Ireland to America is still to increase. It is probable that, unable to provide convoys to all the Vessels that sail singly to America, the Government felt the necessity to enable them to defend themselves. At least, it is the most natural explanation and it is also my opinion. However, if we wished to look at the dark side of things, it would not be difficult to regard all these preparations as some dreadful plan capable to arouse the attention of the neighboring Powers since, if need be, all these Vessels could soon become as many Privateers.

I have just learned at this instant that a City Merchant received intelligence that the Ship on which Doctor Irwin [Charles Irving] had sailed to found a new Establishment on the Mosquito Coast in the Gulf of Honduras was captured by two Spanish Coast-Guard vessels in the mouth of the Black River.¹

. . . What is certain on the side of the Americans is their activity at sea and the ships of the Crown they are capturing. They recently seized three transports, one of which named the Hope had a cargo of one thousand carbines, much powder and other munitions; so even if the abovementioned declaration by Congress were not true, these operations make it evident their determination to resist the strength of England.

The other day the 74-gun warship Marlborough, one of the eighteen assigned to guard duty in the ports of these kingdoms, burned its main deck and its entire hull warped when fire broke out in three barrels of gunpowder. . . .

Dr. Barbeu Dubourg to Vergennes

[Extract]

My lord, Paris, this 13th of July 1776

I saw M de Beaumarchais this morning, and following your express authorisation, I gladly conferred with him without reservation. Everyone knows his good sense, his talent, and no one gives more credit than myself for his honesty, his discretion, his zeal for everything that is great and good: I believe he is one of the men best suited to political negotiations, but perhaps at the same time least suited to the business of trade. He likes ostentation, he is said to support young ladies, he passes for a spendthrift finally, and there is not a single merchant or manufacturer in France who does not entertain this notion about him and does not hesitate a great deal to do business with him.

Therefore, I was quite surprised when he informed me that you had instructed him not only to advise you but also to center around him alone the whole and the detail of all trade operations for the export as well as the import either of war ammunition or usual goods, from France to the united Colonies, and from the Colonies to France, the management of all the business, the determination of prices, the settlement of deals, the contracts and the collections to be made, the debts to be paid off &ca. I agreed with him that it might ensure somewhat better the secrecy of all these operations, but I objected to him that by taking hold of all this immense traffic and by excluding completely people who had gone to such an expense, endured so much fatigue and run so many risks at the service and by order of Congress, he would give them good reason to shout monopoly and deeply wrong them, whereas they deserved quite a different fate. He told me that this would not cause any prejudice to them and made full use of his eloquence to prove it to me after a fashion. I confess that these particular motives would not weigh heavily enough in the balance against the necessity for secrecy in such a critical conjuncture; but may I doubt whether there are not other means, whether there are not even better means to ensure this important secrecy, because assuredly M.de Beaumarchais, with all the resources of his genius, could not do without employing at the same time many subordinate agents who would always be less discreet than merchants whose chief aim is to conceal their speculations and to distrust continually every one. But I shall return to my first and most important reflection and I beg you, My lord, to give it all your consideration. There may be a hundred, perhaps a thousand persons in France who, although much less talented than M. de Beaumarchais, could better serve your views while inspiring more confidence to those with whom they would deal in trade, either French or American, in the cities, the ports, the factories &ca. . .

The Sloop St. Peter, of New-York, under Dutch Colours, from St. Us-tatia to Amsterdam with Tobacco, Sugar and Rum, is taken by the Dolphin Cutter, Capt. Miller, and brought into Cowes.

They write from Boston, that the Privateers yet at Sea are mostly small; but there are a great many on the Stocks, which will be soon launched, to carry from 16 to 24 Guns; and several Frigates are building, and some of them near finished, in different Parts on the Continent, for the public Service, which will mount from 36 to 44 Guns.

There is a very advantageous Trade carried on from New England, which in fact is at the general Risque, as they insure for each other; and although several of their Vessels are taken, they nevertheless find it very beneficial, as nine out of ten escape; and it is said the same good Fortune attends the Adventurers in other Colonies; the Value of the Vessels, and the Cargoes taken from them is trifling, whereas those they take are worth more in Proportion than ten to one. In short, their Success is so pleasing, that in consequence the Spirit for Privateering is so prevalent, that they intend the West-Indies, and other Parts, shall swarm with them next Winter.

Advise is received by the London, Hall, which is arrived at Brightelmstone from Tobago, that the American Privateers swarm about every Island in order to intercept our homeward-bound Ships, and that many Vessels which have been loaded for some Time are fearful of sailing till they can procure a Convoy to England.

The following letter was received on Saturday from Mr. Charles Barns, Commander of the Snow Blake, in the Service of Government, dated Cadiz Bay, June 20. — “Yesterday Morning I chased an American Ship, of about 250 Tons, into this Bay, but cannot take her, it being a Foreign Port. I never was more surprised in my Life, when I found there were three American Privateers riding here at single Anchor, and a Number of their Merchant Vessels loading and unloading at their Quays. . . ."

Beaumarchais to Silas Deane¹

I don’t know, sir, if you have any body with you, whom you may trust for translating the French letters, which treat on important affairs. On my part I shall not be able to treat with security in English, till after the return of a person whom I expect at this moment from London, and who will be an interpreter between us, meanwhile I have the honor to inform you, that I had for some time past, the desire of helping the brave Americans to shake off the English yoke. I have already tried several means to open secret and sure correspondence between the general Congress and a house which I am about to establish on that occasion; I shall exert my endeavors to provide the continent either by way of our West Indies or straight from here if possible, all such articles which the Americans shall be in need of, and which they can not any more get from England. I have already mentioned my plan to a gentleman in London who pretends to be much attached to America, but our correspondence, since I left England having been carried on with difficulty and in ciphers, I have received no answer to my last, in which I tried to fix some terms for that great and important affair.

But since you are vested with a character which permits me to have confidence in you, I shall be very glad to begin anew, in a manner more certain and more regular, a negotiation which was before but touched on. My means are not very considerable, but they may be much increased if we can establish together, a treaty of which the conditions shall be honorable and advantageous and the execution of the same shall be exact.

I can not grant either to Mr. Dubourg or to anybody else, the confidence of speaking freely of my plan; but when you have compared the nature of the offers which shall be made to you from every quarter, to the disinterested zeal which attaches me to the cause of America, you will perceive what difference there is between treating with common merchants and on the hardest terms, and the good fortune of meeting with a generous friend who shall think himself happy in proving to your nation, and to you, its secret representative, how truly he is devoted to them. I am sir, Your &c. &c.

Advice is received from St. Maloies, that the Americans carry on a very extensive trade to that place; that no less than seven vessels arrived there the first week in June, and at the time the account came away, there were four more just arrived.

The certain accounts daily received of the many captures made by the American privateers, have roused the Underwriters from their lethargy; the Ministry have lulled them a long time with a notion, that the Americans had very few privateers out; and those were of such small force, that a merchant ship which carried a few guns might beat them off; but behold they are convinced, to their great cost, that they have been led into an error; for that the Americans are very powerful at sea; that some of the privateers carry guns enough to engage the largest frigate we have; and it is well known that New-England produces as fine and brave sailors as Old England.

The ministerial gentry in the City have taken great pains to stifle the report of four Jamaica ships being taken by the Provincial privateers, and have prevailed on many to give no credit to it. On the other hand, others believed, that it would not have been entered in New Lloyd's book, without they had some foundation for it.

LORD GEORGE GERMAIN TO COMMODORE MARRIOT ARBUTHNOT, HALIFAX

[Extract] Whitehall 20th July 1776

I understand that some Rebel Traders in the New England Provinces have established a Correspondence and are forming Connexions with certain ill affected persons in Nova Scotia through whom they expect to receive Supplies of Merchandize from England and that there is now a Vessel loading in the River upon this Account, The Ship is owned and commanded by Malachy Salter and proposed to be cleared out for Halifax, but the greatest part of her Cargo is supposed to be intended to be privately sent from thence to Boston or some neighbouring Port in that Province; Proper Orders are given for a strict examination of her Papers before she sails from hence; but as it is possible they may have taken their measures so as to elude detection here, we must rely upon your vigilance and that of the other Servants of the Crown in their several Departments for preventing any Merchandize being carried to the Rebellious Colonies from Nova Scotia, and for an exact and strict execution of the Act for prohibiting all Trade and Intercourse with them.

Sir, [Paris] July 20th, 1776

In compliance with your request at our interview of yesterday, I send you inclosed copies of my commission, and an extract from my instructions which will fully satisfy you of my being authorized to make the purchases I have applied to you for. To understand this extract, it is necessary to inform you that I was ordered to make my first application to the ministers and to procure the supplies wanted of them by way of purchase or loan; and in case the credit or influence of Congress should not be such under the present circumstances to obtain them from that quarter, I was instructed then to apply elsewhere. My application to the minister and his answer I have already acquainted you with. With respect to the credit which will be required for the goods and stores which I propose to engage of you, I hope that a long one will not be necessary. Twelve months has been the longest credit my countrymen have ever been accustomed to, and Congress having engaged large quantities of tobacco in Virginia and Maryland, as well as other articles in other parts, which they will ship as fast as vessels can be provided; I have no doubt but very considerable remittances will be made within six months from this time and for the whole within a year; this I shall in my letters urge Congress to do. But the events of war are uncertain, and our commerce is exposed to be affected thereby: I hope, however, that at least such remittances will be made you, that you will be able to wait for whatever sum may remain due after the credit we shall agree on is expired, having the usual interest allowed you.

I send you also an invoice of the clothing and of many articles of the furniture and stores necessary for our army, in which I can not be so particular at present, as it will be necessary to be hereafter in case you undertake it; but as the articles for the uniforms can at this time be ascertained as well as ever, I have made out a detail of them; though my instructions speak of but 100 brass cannon, and of arms and clothing for 25,000 men, yet considering the importance of the articles to America, I shall, (if to be obtained) venture in a larger quantity, the probability of some part being taken, with other circumstances, will, I think, fully justify me therein. But it is improper to add on this subject until you resolve whether you will undertake, and on the terms, which I presume you will do. As soon as you shall have obtained a translation of this and the enclosed, I will do myself the honor of waiting on you; In the mean time, I am, with the utmost respect and attachment, Sir, [&c.]

Silas Deane.

[Extract] Paris, [July 20, 1776]

I wrote you every material occurrence to the time of my leaving Bordeaux, and sent duplicates by Captains Palmer, Bunker, and Seaver, one of which you will undoubtedly have received before this comes to hand. I left that city on the last of June and arrived here the Saturday following, having carefully attended to everything in the manufacturing or commercial towns in my way; which, indeed, are neither numerous nor of great consequence. I spent at Angouleme a day in viewing what, as to manufactures alone, deserves attention on the journey — the foundry for cannon, where the greatest part of those used in the kingdom are manufactured. The cannon are cast solid, after which they are put as in a turner's lathe and bored out and the outside smoothed and turned at pleasure. They can bore and complete a twelve-pounder in one day in each lathe, which takes four men only to work. The workmen freely showed me every part of their furnace and foundry. On Monday after my arrival I waited on my bankers, and found that Mr. [Edward] Bancroft had arrived the same day with me, Mr. Thomas Morris and M. Venzonals about ten days before. I waited on M. Dubourg and delivered him Dr. Franklin's letter, which gave the good gentleman the most sincere and real pleasure.

M. Penet, on his arrival in Paris, waited on M. Dubourg, showed him a copy of his contract with the committee of Congress, and told him he had letters from Dr. Franklin to him, but had left them on the road or at Rotterdam through fear of a search. He told M. Dubourg, to whom he was a perfect stranger, so many particular circumstances that he could not doubt of his sincerity, and in consequence he embarked in his affairs to a large amount. Five or six weeks have now passed without the arrival of the letters said to be left on the road. Arms, powder, etc. to a large sum were in readiness, when my arrival gave him confidence that I would take the burden off him, as he doubted not that my credentials would be explicit. I saw immediately the arrangement of the whole, and that M. Penet had returned to France (copy of the contract excepted) almost as empty-handed as he came to Philadelphia, yet had found means to collect a very considerable quantity of stores, part of which he had actually shipped. This circumstance gave me hopes; yet I found that it would now be expected I should become responsible for the articles, which embarrassed me much, since to detain them would be quite disagreeable, and to step out of my own line and involve myself with Messrs. Plairne and Penet's contract would be equally so.

M. Penet had somehow got intelligence of my being in France and that I was expected at Paris; he therefore waited for me, and I saw him the next day at my hotel, when he complained of want of remittances, and desired me to pledge my credit for the stores, which I waived in the best manner I could, for I saw the consequences might involve me in many difficulties and frustrate my greater designs. I therefore told him I would certify to the merchants, if necessary, that the Congress would pay for whatever stores they would credit them with; and in the mean time advised him to proceed strictly agreeable to the letter of the contract, and I was positive that the Congress would fulfill their part of it. I finally satisfied both him and M. Dubourg, and he parted for Nantes to ship the goods the next day. I must do him the justice that is his due: he has been indefatigable in the business; his heart seems to be entirely in it and I believe him honest; but his connections, either commercial or political, are not of themselves equal to such an undertaking; but the cause he was employed in had in a great measure, I found, supplied this deficiency, which was to me a favorable appearance.

M. Dubourg told me that the ministers would not see me, as they meant to be quite secret in any countenance they gave the United Colonies, and that my arrival in France was already known in London, in consequence of which Lord Stormont arrived express but a few days before and had applied to the court on the subject. I showed him my commission and told him I was determined to apply; for every circumstance, in my opinion, was favorable instead of otherwise. On this he wrote a letter to Count de Vergennes, asking liberty to introduce me the Thursday following, on which day I went to Versailles, and, though the letter had not been delivered to his excellency, yet he gave us immediate admission. Fortunately his chief secretary spoke English well, by which means I had an opportunity of conversing freely with him on the subject of my commission for two hours, and was attentively and favorably heard by him and was asked many questions, which shows that the American disputes had been, and still were, a principal object of attention. I pursued nearly the line marked out by my instructions, stating the importance of the American commerce and the advantages Great Britain had received from a monopoly of it. That, all intercourse ceasing between the two countries, the Colonies had considered where they might dispose of that produce which they necessarily had so large a surplus of, and receive for their raw or first materials the various manufactures they wanted. That they first turned their eyes on France as the best country on Europe for them to be connected with in commerce. That I was purchasing a large quantity of manufactures, for which I expected to pay the money, and that I would want a quantity of military stores, for which remittances would be made. That I doubted not the Colonies had before this declared independency, and that I should soon receive instructions, in consequence, more full and explicit; that in the mean time they were very anxious to know how such a declaration would be received by the powers in Europe, particularly by France, and whether in such case an ambassador would be received from them, etc.? To which he replied that the importance of the American commerce was well known, and that no country could so well supply the Colonies, and in turn receive their produce, as France; it was therefore the interest of both to have the most free and uninterrupted intercourse, for which reason the court had ordered their ports to be kept open and equally free to America as to Britain. That, considering the good understanding between the two courts of Versailles and London, they could not openly encourage the shipping of warlike stores, but no obstruction of any kind would be given; if there should, as the custom houses were not fully in their secrets in this matter, such obstructions should be removed on the first application. That I must consider myself perfectly free to carry on any kind of commerce in the kingdom which any subject of any other state, in the world might, as the court had resolved their ports should be equally free to both parties. That I was under his immediate protection and should I meet with any difficulty, either from their police, with the rules of which he supposed me unacquainted, or from any other quarter, I had but to apply to him and everything should be settled. That as to independency, it was an event in the womb of time, and it would be highly improper for him to say anything on that subject until it had actually taken place; meantime, he informed me that the British ambassador knew of my arrival, and therefore advised me not to associate with Englishmen more than I was from necessity obliged, as he doubted not I should have many spies on my conduct.

I then told him the precautions I had taken, and should persevere in, in coming from Bermuda, and that I did not mean in public to pass for other than a merchant from the Island on speculation during the present cessation of commerce in America; but, at the same time, I told his excellency that I was well assured it was known in London that I was coming long before I arrived in Paris, and I doubted not they conjectured my errand; but at the same time I should take every precaution in my power, and most sincerely thanked him for his protection and assistance so generously offered, which he might depend I would never abuse. He was pleased with my having come by Bermuda and passing as an inhabitant of that island, and said if questioned he should speak of me in that character. He then asked me many questions with respect to the Colonies, but what he seemed most to want to be assured of was their ability to subsist without their fisheries and under the interruption of their commerce. To this I replied in this manner: That the fisheries were never carried on but by a part of the Colonies, and by them not so much as a means of subsistence as of commerce. That, the fisheries failing, those formerly employed in them turned part to agriculture and part to the army and navy. That our commerce must for some time be in a great measure suspended; but that the greater part of our importations were far from being necessaries of life, consequently we should not suffer under the want of them, whilst it was not wealth or luxuries that we were contending for. That, our commerce ceasing, it would be out of the power of our enemies to support themselves on our plunder, and on the other hand our ships, as privateers, might harass their commerce without a possibility of their retaliating. That I hoped to see a considerable marine force in the Colonies, and that, joined to the impossibility of Britain’s guarding so extensive a coast, would preserve some of our commerce until it should be thought an object deserving the protection of other powers.

After many questions on this subject he put this, in which I thought he seemed interested — whether, if the Colonies declare an independency, they would not differ among themselves? To this I replied that the greatest harmony had as yet subsisted, and that I had no grounds to doubt it in future; that the common danger which first drove them into measures which must end in such a declaration would subsist, and that alone was sufficient to insure their union.

He then desired me to give his secretary my address, and said, though he should be glad to see me often, yet as matters were circumstanced his house was too public a place, but that I might put the same confidence in his secretary as in himself, to whom I might apply for advice and direction; but that whenever anything of importance occurred I need but inform him and he would see me, but on common occasions I must address the secretary, which would be every way more convenient, as he understood the English language well and was a person in whom the greatest confidence could be placed. Having settled the mode of intercourse, I expressed the sense I had of his excellency's politeness and the generous protection he had given me, and on parting said if my commission or the mode of introducing the subject were out of the usual course, I must rely on his goodness to make allowances for a new-formed people, in circumstances altogether unprecedented, and for their agent, wholly unacquainted with courts. To which he replied that the people and their cause were very respectable in the eyes of all disinterested persons, and that the interview had been agreeable.

After this I returned to Paris with M. Dubourg, whose zeal for the American cause led him to draw the most favorable consequences from this beginning. The next day, while from home, I was informed that Count Laureguais had inquired out my lodgings, immediately after which he asked leave to go for England, which was refused by the court. The same day I was informed that Sir Hans Stanley and Sir Charles Jenkinson, who I knew were at Bordeaux when I left it, were in France for the sole purpose of inquiring what agents were here from the Colonies and what commerce or other negotiations between them and the Colonies was carrying on. This alarmed my friends and as I had agreed for other lodgings, to which I was next day to remove, M. Dubourg advised me to secrete both my lodgings and name. I told him that the Count Laureguais' conduct appeared mysterious, yet I could never think of keeping myself secret, for though I should not seek these gentlemen nor throw myself purposely in their way, yet I must think it an ill compliment to Count Vergennes to suppose, after what had passed, that I was not on as good and safe footing in France as they or any other gentleman could be. However, his uneasiness made him write to the count what he had advised, who returned for answer that such a step was both unnecessary and impolitic, as it would only strengthen suspicions by giving every thing an air of mystery, while there was not the least occasion for it.

The next day I had a fresh conference with M. Dubourg, who brought me a number of memorials from officers and engineers offering their services in America, some of whom I believe deserve the utmost encouragement; but more of this hereafter. While I was casting in my mind how best to improve the present favorable crisis for supplying the Colonies, Monsieur Beaumarchais made proposals for procuring whatever should be wanted, but in such a manner as was understood by M. Dubourg to amount to a monopoly, which indeed was not his only objection for Monsieur Beaumarchais, though confessedly a man of abilities, had always been a man of pleasure and never of business; but as he was recommended by Count Vergennes, M. Dubourg could not avoid noticing him, but immediately expostulated with the count in a letter, which brought on embarrassments no way favorable, and I saw that M. Dubourg was so far from sounding the views of his superior in this manoeuver, that he was, with the best intentions in the world, in danger of counteracting his own wishes, the extent of which were to obtain the supplies of merchants and manufacturers on the credit of the Colonies, in which the strictest punctuality and most scrupulous exactness would be necessary, and which, under the present difficulties of remittance I feared would not be lived up to.

As I had learned that in the late reform of the French army they had shifted their arms for those of a lighter kind, the heavy ones, most of which were the same as new, to the amount of seventy or eighty thousand, lay useless in magazines, with other military stores in some such proportion, I apprehended it no way impossible to come at a supply from hence through the agency of some merchant, without the ministry being concerned in the matter. In such case the merchant would be accountable to the ministry and the Colonies to the merchant, by which means a greater time of payment might be given and more allowance in case of our being disappointed. With this in view, I went to Versailles on Wednesday, the 17th. and waited on M. Gerard, first secretary of foreign affairs, and presented to him the inclosed memorial, which led to a very particular conversation on the affairs of America, and which I turned finally on this subject, to which he would not then give me any immediate answer, but promised me one in a day or two. Returning to town, I found Messrs. Dubourg and Beaumarchais had a misunderstanding, the latter giving out that he could effect everything we wished for, and the former, from the known circumstances of M. Beaumarchais and his known carelessness in money matters, suspecting he could procure nothing, and the more so as he promised so largely. They parted much displeased with each other, and Mons. Beaumarchais went directly to Versailles. On M. Dubourg's coming and informing me what had passed I immediately wrote to M. Gerard the inclosed letter, and in return was desired to come with M. Dubourg the next morning to Versailles.

We went as desired, and after explaining many things to M. Gerard, had a conference with his excellency, from whom I had fresh assurances of the utmost freedom and protection in their ports and on their coasts; that, in one word, I might rely on whatever Mons. Beaumarchais should engage in the commercial way of supplies, which, indeed, was all I wished for, as I was on the safe side of the question, viz. on the receiving part. I communicated to his excellency that clause of my instructions for procuring arms, etc. of which he asked a copy. I then informed him that I considered the present as the most critical juncture of American affairs; that the campaign would undoubtedly be carried far into the winter; that supplies now shipped might arrive very seasonably in the fall to enable the Colonies to hold out the present campaign. He replied that no delay should be made by any obstruction of any officer, or others, of the customs or police. He then told me that Count Laureguais was perhaps a well-meaning man, but not sufficiently discreet for such purposes as this; that Mr. Lee (meaning Mr. Arthur Lee of London), had confided, he feared, too much in him, and wished me to caution him on the subject, and that if I would write to him he would inclose it in a letter of his by a courier that evening. I most readily embraced this safe way of corresponding, and sent a letter I had before written, with an addition on this subject, a copy of which is inclosed.
I have thus given you the heads of my negotiations to this time, July 20, and will not take up your time in making remarks on it and the prospect before me, which are obvious, but inform you of the plan I mean to pursue in the execution of my commission, and hint some methods by which I think I may be enabled to complete every part of it to your satisfaction and the relief of my country, which is all my wish and the extent of most ambitious hopes. I go on the supposition of an actual, unconditional independency, without which little can be effected publicly; with it, almost everything we can wish for.

It is by no means probable that Europe will long remain in a state of peace. The disputes between Portugal and Spain are on the point of producing an open rupture; the former relies on England; the latter will look to this kingdom, and has already applied to this court on the subject. Nothing but the division of Poland has taken the king of Prussia's attention off from the injustice done him in Great Britain at the close of the last war. He has now completed his part of that extraordinary work, and, I am well informed, listens with pleasure to the dispute between the United Colonies and Great Britain. He is ambitious of becoming a maritime power, and is already in possession of the capital ports of the Baltic; but without commerce it is impossible to effect the design, and no commerce can put him so directly in the road as the American. The consumption of coffee, sugar, and other West India productions increases fast in the north of Europe, and it must be his interest at least to supply his own dominions. In case of a war in Europe, France, Spain and Prussia might be brought into one interest, and the Emperor of Germany is too closely connected with his majesty of France to take part against them, after which, Great Britain having her whole force employed in America, there could be nothing on the one hand to prevent Spain and France from reducing Portugal to a submission to the former, nor from Prussia and France subduing and incorporating into their own dominions Hanover and the other little mercenary electorates which lie between them, and which for several centuries have been one principal cause of every war that has happened in Europe.

With respect to Russia, it is as closely allied to Prussia as to Great Britain, and may be expected to be master in the contest. Denmark and Sweden are a balance for each other and opposites. Not to enlarge on this plan at present, I have only to suggest that an application to the King of Prussia will do no harm, and may be attended with good and great consequences; the Prussian ambassador at this court and at that of London may be sounded on the subject. But my powers and instructions are so limited that I can by no means take such a step; yet when I see Great Britain exerting her whole force, and that of her allies and courting every power in Europe to aid her, I can but wish she may be counteracted in her own system, and, by having employ found for her in Europe, bring her to leave America in peace, and I think myself bound in duty to hint at what to me seems the most probable means. Dr. Bancroft was full with me in this opinion.

Precis Prepared for George III of Events Leading to the Expedition Against the Southern Colonies

[Extract]

Genl Clinton arrived at Cape Fear on the 12th of March, & on the 21st of July Lord George Germain received a Dispatch from him dated in Cape Fear River the 3d May, on which day the Bristol with the rest of The King's Ships arrived there, many of the Transports having got in a few days before. In this Dispatch General Clinton observes, that had the embarkation taken place at the time appointed, there was great reason to believe that the intentions of Govt would have been answered — That affairs however, had lately much changed for the worse — That the well-affectted Inhabitants of the back Settlements had met with a severe check near Moor's Creek, of the particulars of which he had acquainted Mr. [John] Pownall by the Cumberland Packet, & of the consequenc&s which followed from it. That he now begged leave to add, that by all the accounts he had since been able to collect, their Chiefs had been imprisoned, & all others who had either taken up Arms, or been suspected, had been disarmed & watched with a most jealous eye — That in this situation he apprehended no immediate success could be expected in No Carolina — & therefore for these reasons, & as they were without horses to convey their cannon, or without water carriage that they could call their own, he was of opinion that an attempt would scarcely be advisible. — That the Province of South Carolina differed very little from that of No Carolina. That the well affected there had been defeated & dispersed. That the reduction of Charles Town would be very difficult; & if effected would contribute but little to the reestablishment of order in that Province, the well affected Inhabitants of which lived all in the interior Country. That with respect to Georgia, the climate alone at that season of the year must render every attempt abortive. That under these Circumstances therefore his views would probably be directed to the Provinces bordering upon Chesapeak Bay, unless called away by orders from Genl Howe, before any thing could be effected. To these observations he adds, that he is of opinion, that any attempt to assemble the friends of Governt in any of the Provinces, without giving it a fair & full trial, would be so far from producing any salutary purposes, that it would only serve to inflame men's minds & sacrifice your friends to the rage & fury of the multitude, & therefore upon this principle, he should proceed warily during the short time it might fall to his Lot to Command in the Southern Provinces.

DR. BARBEU DUBOURG TO VERGENNES

[Extract].

Paris, 21 July 1776

I beg you in the second place, to ask M. de Sartine for his consent, at least tacit, to have cannon cast at the Ruelle forge in Angoumois, on the account of some owners of privateers; this forge, excellent for this purpose, is well situated, and was returned to the King's demesne last October; if it were still in the appanage of the Count d'Artois, I should have had every desirable and suitable facility for these operations, and notably to cast cannon there in the English fashion, under the direction of M. d'Antic, who knows this method better than anyone in Europe, and is in a position to still further improve it.

Sir

Paris July 22d 1776

Inclosed I send You a Copy of the Article of my Instructions which was the subject of Our last Conference. I have not as yet had the pleasure of seeing Monsr Beaumarchais but am so Confident, from the Character I received of him from You that he will be able to procure for Me the Articles I want. That I shall Apply to him in preference to any other person; And I

PHILIP STEPHENS TO VICE ADMIRAL RICHARD LORD HOWE

My Lord

23d July 1776

The Diamond, Ambuscade and Unicorn, three of the Ships which I have had the honor to inform your Lordship were to convoy the Transports carrying the 2d Division of Hessians, with the other Reinforcements therein mentioned (except the 16th Regiment of Light Dragoons) put to Sea from Spithead on the 28th of last Month; but were not able to get out of the Channel, the Wind coming strong to the Westward, which obliged them to put into Plymouth where they remain with their Convoy.

The Daphne, which was charged with Convoy of the Transports having on board the 16th Regiment of Light Dragoons, sailed also from Portsmouth the 4th instant, but from the same reason was obliged to put into Torbay, where she remains likewise.

The Adventure, one of the Victuallers which (as I mentioned in my former Letter) was expected to arrive at Spithead in time to sail with the aforesaid Convoy, not succeeding in her Voyage, my Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty have directed her to proceed under convoy of His Majesty's Ship Perseus; whose Captain is ordered to join your Lordship, and on his arrival put himself under your Command: The like directions are given to the Master of the John, Chambres and Susannah Transports, as they could not be got to Spithead in time to sail with Captain Fielding.

Besides the Victualler and Transports last mentioned, Captain [George Keith] Elphinston takes under his Convoy the Victuallers named in the Margin, loaded with Provisions for supply of the Fleet under your Lordships Command, being part of the second Proportion of four Months for 13,000 Men; and the Grand Duke, Friendship King of Naples and Betsey, having on board the Provisions to complete the aforementioned Proportion, will sail at the same time, if they can be got round before the Perseus sails; but this being uncertain, the Captain is not to wait for them. If there should be any army Victuallers at Spithead, in readiness to sail with Captain Elphinston, he is to take them under Convoy with the Ships abovementioned.

Captain [Richard] Smith of the Lark is ordered to repair to Cork, and take under his Convoy from thence such army Victuallers as may be ready to proceed with him to Halifax, where he is to leave them, unless the Commanding Officer of His Majesty’s Land Forces there shall desire him to convoy them to the place where General Howe with the army may be, in which case he is to do so, and then proceed to join your Lordship wherever you may be, and follow your orders for his further proceedings. But if the Victuallers remain at Halifax he is in that case to make the best of his way to join your Lordship and follow your orders as aforesaid.

The Commissioners for the Sick and Hurt Seamen, having in consequence of directions they received from my Lords ordered the Medicines, Bedding and other Stores intended for the use of the Naval Hospital in North America to be put on board His Majesty’s Hospital Ship, the Jersey, I have thought it necessary (the matter having before escaped my recollection) to inform your Lordship thereof, that if you have not already done it, you may give such orders for the disposal of them as you shall think fit; as also for the disposal of the additional Quantities of Stores and Medicines which the aforementioned Commissioners have provided and which, my Lords have ordered to be sent out in the Perseus. Whereas it is intended that the Transport Vessels named in the Margin having on board British Recruits for the Army under General Howe, and the Victualling Transports named in the inclosed List laden with Provisions for the use of the Fleet (all which Ships are at present at Spithead, or daily expected to arrive there) shall proceed to North America under Convoy of His Majesty's Ship under your Command; You are hereby required and directed to take the said Transports and Victuallers under your Convoy, and, when ready to put to Sea with them the first opportunity of Wind and Weather, and proceed with them to New York, where it is expected you will find Vice Admiral Lord Howe, Commander in Chief of His Majesty's Ships and Vessels in North America; But if, upon your arrival at Sandy Hook, you should be informed his Lordship is not at New York, You are then to proceed to such place as you may learn he is removed to, and, upon joining his Lordship, you are to put yourself under his Command and follow his orders for your further proceedings.

And it being intended that the Victualling Transports named in the Margin shall also proceed under your Convoy, in case they arrive at Spithead before you are ready to sail, you are accordingly to take the said Victualling Transports under your Convoy in case they arrive in time and proceed as aforementioned, but not to wait for them.

If there are any other Storeships or Victuallers belonging to the Navy, Ordnance or Treasury Departments intended to join the Fleet under the command of Vice Admiral Lord Howe, or the army under the command of General Howe, or any other Vessels bound to North America that may be ready and willing to accompany you, You are also to take such Vessels under your Convoy, transmitting to us before you sail a List of the names of the several Ships and Vessels with the names of their Masters, and the nature of the lading they have on board. Their Lordships will confirm the Commission you have given to Lieutenant Bourmaster to be a Master and Commander when it shall be laid before them; and their Lordships will grant Commissions to Mr Thomas Forrest and Mr Samuel Thomson, whom you have ordered to act as Lieutenants in the Cerberus and Chatham when it shall appear they have passed their Examinations to entitle them to that rank; and they will order them to be paid for the time they may act by virtue of your Lordships Orders.

SILAS DEANE TO BEAUMARCHAIS

Sir: Paris, July 24, 1776.

I have considered the letter you honored me with the 22d, and am of the opinion that your proposals for regulating the prices of goods and stores are just and equitable. The generous confidence you place in the virtue and justice of my constituents affords me the greatest pleasure, and gives me the most flattering prospect of success in the undertaking to their, as well as your, satisfaction, and permit me to assure you the United Colonies will take the most effectual measures to make you remittances, and to justify in every respect the sentiments you entertain of them; but at the same time, as the invoice for clothing only, and without the incident charges, amounts to about two and three millions of livres, and as the cannons, arms, and stores will raise the sum much higher, I cannot, considering the uncertainty of the arrival of vessels during the war, venture to assure you that remittances will be made for the whole within the time proposed; but in that case, as I wrote you before, I hope that the interest on the balance will be satisfactory. With respect to cargoes sent from America either to France or the West Indies, designed as remittances for your advances, I think there can be no objection to their being sent to the address of a house in France, or to your agents where they may arrive.

I find that cannons, arms and other military stores are prohibited and cannot be exported but in a private manner; this circumstance gives me many apprehensions, for, as I can not have those things shipped publicly, I can not have them purchased openly without giving alarms, perhaps fatal to our operations. In this case various deceptions and impositions must be practiced. You know that the ambassador of England is attentive to everything done by me, and that his spies watch every motion of mine, and will probably watch the motions of those with whom I am known to be connected. In this situation, and being a stranger in a great measure to your language, I foresee many embarrassments which I know not how to obviate, and such as I fear may greatly perplex even yourself, notwithstanding your superior knowledge and address. Two things, you will agree with me, are as essential as even the procuring of the cannon, arms, etc. First, that they are good and well laid in, and that they be embarked without being stopped and detained. The fate of my country depends, in a great measure, on the arrival of these supplies. I can not, therefore, be too anxious on the subject; nor is there any danger of expense so great but what must be hazarded, if necessary, to effect, so capital and important an object. I pray you to consider this subject, and to give me your thoughts upon it. I called on you this morning, with Dr. Bancroft, to have conversed with you on this subject, but found that you was gone to Versailles. Permit me to urge your early attention to this subject, and to assure you that I have the honor to be with the highest respect Yours, sir, etc.,

LORD STORMONT TO LORD WEYMOUTH

No. 53 Paris July 24th 1776

My Lord On Monday Night I received the Honour of yr Lordships Letters Nos 26 and 27.

As it is natural that this Court, tho' they may not desire the Independency of America, should wish, that the Reduction of it may cost us dear, and must therefore be disposed, to connive at least, at any assistance the Rebels can draw from hence, I keep that object constantly in view, and collect the best secret Information I can, without betraying any suspicion, or Mistrust.

I am assured that there are several French adventurers, who attempt to supply the Rebels with arms and ammuniition. They clear out for Africa, and sometimes go to North America, sometimes meet American Vessels at Sea.

I have heard it said that Monsieur de Chaumont, a Man of Rank and Fortune in this Country, is secretly engaged in these Enterprizes, which are winked at here. Messrs. Gerner and Viars Merchnts at Bourdeaux, have sent lately, two thousand eight hundred Barrels of Gunpowder to Martinico; In January last Gunpowder Sold there, for Six Livres a Pound.

I am told, that Gradiz a Jew Merchant at Bordeaux, sends under French Colours, Powder, Arms, &c. to North America and it is pretended, has got Permits from this Court.

The Result of the best enquiry I have been able to make with regard to the American Gentleman, who called himself Nathan Rumsey is, as follows.—

He staid here but three or four days, had an interview with Monsieur de Mazieres, a Farmer General, to make an offer of supplying la Ferme [Farmers General] with Tobacco from America, but met with no Success, His offer was absolutely rejected. He had frequent interviews with a Banker here, called Grand but what Business he transacted, or attempted to transact there, I do not Know. He is now gone to Nantes, in company with a Monsr Penet, a Considerable German Merchant and his Cousin; from Nantes he goes to Bordeaux, and Marseilles, in order to establish a Correspondence with Some of the principal Merchants there, and it is Said, means to return to Paris in about a Month.

I have not discovered that Rumsey ever went to Versailles tho' this Penet with whom he is intimately connected has I am told several acquaintances there. Another informer tells me, that Rumsey had an American Companion, but this I doubt, as I know there was no such Person Lodged with him, I am assured that he arrived at Bordeaux on board a small Sloop of twenty five Tun, carrying ten Guns, and neatly painted white and Red, which waits there to carry him back to America.

There is a Physician here, called Barbeux du Bourg who is in regular Correspondence with Doctor Franklin, and who helps to circulate all those Reports to our Disadvantage, which are so greedily received by the Wishings, and Coffee house Politicians, of this Country, who are always loudest, when they talk of what they least understand

I am with great truth and Respect My Lord [&c.]

which time hope to be favoured with your Answer.

The Elisabeth Cargoe out of N york is all sold and the Neat Produce will be about £ 36000.

as to Imploy the said Vessell under French Colours in those Seas untill the 1st Septber the time being so short it would not be practicable, besides the Heavy Charge which would Accrue from such an Oparation renders it impossible, if Some french Man of war should be ordered out of the Streight Mouth and a Permission Obtained for Captn Palmer to follow 'em under french Colours, he might by that mean guet Clear of more than half the Danger. we leave the whole under your farther Consideration and bagg to favour us with an Answer as soon as possible. there is two Engs [English] Fregatts Continualy Cruising in the Streight Mouth Stoping and Searching all the ships. A Dutch Captn Arrived last week reports that he has been Visited by one of them the officers of wch told him that they had taken two America Vessells bound for the Continent out of a french Port in the Mediteranean we are much apprehensive it is Captn Robinson and Captn Waldron, who sailed from this Port last Month. No 29. St James's 26 July 1776

My Lord I cannot avoid making mention to Your Excellency of the Armament carrying on at the several Ports of France rather from the great Importance of the subject than from any thing new I can have to say thereupon. Your Excellency's Attention is directed to that Point and you will not fail to transmit to me every thing you can collect that may tend to explain the Intention of the french Court.

I transmit to Your Excellency herewith an Edict of His most Faithful Majesty with respect to any American Vessel that may put into the Harbours of Portugal.² It is unnecessary to apprize you that it would be very desirable that something similar should be done at the Court where you reside, but as in the present situation of Affairs it would not be expedient to receive a refusal to any application on that subject, I must wholly leave the matter to your Discretion, not doubting that you will use the most proper means to try the practicability of a Measure that would be important at the present crisis. M. GARNIER TO VERGENNES¹

My Lord, London, 26 July 1776

You will see from the List enclosed herewith of the Crews presently on board the Guardships that they come to a total of 4,948 men who are quite unequally divided since there are ships with more than 400 men and others that do not have enough to man their boats. To tell the truth, only those in Chatham are in this situation because the port is the least exposed. Among the others we can see two with crews of 500 men. You will remember, My lord, that these two ships had been cruising off the Azores in order to intercept American vessels following the intelligence brought by the ship from Philadelphia taken by treason to Bristol by her crew.² They stopped several Vessels which they met during their cruise but they did not capture any. These two ships will return to the other Guardships the detachments they had drawn from them in order to be able to put to sea.
We receive intelligence from all the Ports that Sailors are so rare that they cannot be found in spite of the extraordinary inducements offered by the Government, and that most of those who are on the Register of Seamen are land people, so that out of the 4,948 hardly a third are true sailors. However if we consider this total as an effective number and compare it to what is required in order to complete the commissioning of these 20 Ships in time of war, we see that 9,000 men are still lacking. Thus, My lord, the greatest advantage to England in having these Guardships on the present footing, is to have always available 20 seaworthy ships which by the detachments they can provide put her in a position occasionally to put a few Ships to Sea on a day's notice, and to have, if need be, a fleet ready to sail in a short time by means of an impressment.

They are busy training the men they receive in order to provide trained crews to the Frigates that put to Sea. Thus, we cannot consider that they are on stable footing today. But we must not conceal from ourselves that this is a useful establishment which deserves to be imitated.

Captain [James] Cook sailed from Plymouth on the 18th of this month for his new journey to Otahitee, new Zealand, and from there to the Coast of California from whence he will look for a passage to the Pole. The ship which is to follow him is still in Plymouth.

We still have not received any news concerning the military operations in America. Lord How arrived in Halifax on the 25th of June with his single ship and he was to sail without delay to rejoin the General his brother who had left on the 10th of the same month.

The Board of Trade received intelligence today that American Privateers captured nine richly loaded ships from the West Indies, namely, 3 from Jamaica and 6 from Nevis, Antigua and the Barbados. This piece of news is so unquestionable that the cost of Insurance went up from 5 to 15 p. 100. A Ship arrived in Bristol from Jamaica and confirmed the capture by two Spanish coast-guard ships of M. Irwin's vessel. I am with respect &ca.

The Second Hessian division finally left Plymouth on the 23rd of this month with the pack-horses. They will be convoyed by the Frigates Diamond, Unicorn and Ambuscade. The Frigate Lark sailed from Portsmouth on the 24th with two transports carrying recruits and ammunition. This frigate has one hundred thousand pounds Sterling to pay the troops in America. Well, nothing can distract them from their purpose and it is easy to see that they intend to impose their rule.

You probably know, My lord, about the decree passed in Portugal on the 4th of this month to close all trade in that country to the Americans. It may be presumed that if they had had to supply a number of islands in the vicinity of the American Continent, they would not have come to such a decision which will bring them a dangerous enemy without increasing the number of their friends. . . .

It is one thing or the other, either the Americans are still English, or they no longer are. In the first case it is not for us to make any distinction between them, nor for England to prescribe to us whom we must admit and whom we must exclude. In the second case, the Americans are the enemy of England and we are a neutral power. Shall we say that they are pirates? They do not commit any acts of piracy against us and it is up to us to decide how we should treat them.

This, My lord, is the legal aspect of the situation, unless I am mistaken. If we proceed from there to our political interests, we will probably find that it is essential for us to weaken a Power which claims sovereignty over three parts of the world and, after appropriating the empire of the Sea to itself, applies tyrannical methods to trade.* It is no less than a matter of breaking the British Power in half. M. de Montesquieu believed that making Ireland independent was the only way to achieve this. He could not have foreseen what is about to happen. Never perhaps has a more important event offered itself to the speculations of France. The essential thing is not to fail without disturbing the peace of the other States, if it is possible. The Ministry that will be able to fulfill this double goal will deserve well of the country and will receive the homage of posterity.

A few days ago, one of the American supporters asked me this question with respect to which you had requested some information from me, My lord. He claims that the Americans are getting ready to put many ships to sea during the next winter and would like to know if they can leave in safety in our ports the prizes which they might capture. I replied that this matter was new and that I could not yet give an answer.

*Note To give you an idea, My lord, of the manner in which these people think and express themselves, it might be useful to offer you quite a recent example. The other day, Lord North was speaking of the Dutch in front of me and was turning their ambition into ridicule as they place themselves on the same footing with England and say we maritime Powers. It is, Lord North added, like the story of the shoemaker who lived next door to the Lord Mayor and said my neighbor and I. Lord Barrington often told me that we could not become a maritime Power and that the more money we spent to achieve this goal, the more he would be pleased being certain that the money will be wasted. I asked him once upon what he based such a strange opinion while speaking of a Power which has an important trade, a large population and Coasts extending along both Seas from Dunkerque to Antibes. He always persisted in his assertion, refusing to reveal his secret.

My Lord,

Admiralty Office 27th July 1776.

Vice Admiral [John] Montagu, Commander in Chief of His Majesty's Ships at Newfoundland, having acquainted us that having purchased at St Johns, a Bermudian Vessel & Commissioned her by the Name of the Penguin; and it being impossible to get any Guns for her in that Island, he intended to send for 10 or 12 Guns, three Poundrs left in the Charge of Mr Andw Pinson, a Merchant at York Fort, on the Coast of Labrador, when the Fort was dismantled last Year by Rear Admiral [Robert] Duff, as the said Guns would do for the Penguin; and that part of Labrador being within Genl Carleton's Govt, We acquaint Your Lordship therewith, in order that he may be informed thereof. We are &c

London Chronicle, Thursday, July 25 to Saturday, July 27, 1776

London [July 27].

Yesterday an account was received that the following ships are absolutely taken by two Provincial privateers, called the Revenge and Montgomery, viz. the brig Henry, Blyth, from Barbadoes to Halifax, taken the 28th of May, laden with rum; the Rover, Hunt[er], from Antigua to Dublin, taken the 13th of June, laden with ditto; The Isabella, Kirk, from ditto, for ditto, taken the 13th of June, loaded with rum; the Harlequin, Goodwin, from Nevis to ditto, taken the 2d of July, loaded with sugar and rum; the Devonshire, Fisher, from Antigua to ditto, taken the 1st of July, laden with St. John's Harbor, Antigua.
rum; the Polly, Lear, from ditto to London, taken the 2d of July, loaded with sugar and rum, in lat. 34.55. lon. 53.36.¹

Capt. [Christopher] Stephenson arrived in town yesterday, and gives us the following account of the capture of his ship the Lady Juliana, from Jamaica to London, in company with the Reynolds, Capt. [Keylock] Rusden, from ditto for ditto, and the Juno, Capt. [Samuel] Marsden, from ditto, for Bristol. "On the 9th and 12th of May last they were attacked by two American privateers off the Matanzas, bearing S.S.E. and that the Reynolds, Rusden, was taken by the American privateer [Congress], Capt. Henry [sic George McAroy], mounting six three pounders, and ten swivels, on the 9th of May; and Lady Juliana, Stevenson, and Juno, Marsden, were taken by the Chance, Capt. [John] Adams, who mounted four six pounders, and ten swivels, the 12th; that the provincials put the captains and passengers on board a Spanish vessel that was leaky, who carried them into [New] Providence, where the captains purchased a vessel, called the Baltimore, which is since arrived at Plymouth."²

The amount of the cargoes of the prizes lately taken by the American privateers, we are informed, is equal to the sum of 140,000 l.

Capt. Williamson, of the Frances, who was taken with the Jamaica ships by the Provincial privateers, was told while on board her, that several privateers were cruizing in the Gulf and windward passage for the homeward bound Jamaica ships.³

1. The American privateers, taking these six vessels, were the Revenge, a Massachusetts sloop, Captain Joseph White, and Montgomery, a Rhode Island sloop, Captain Daniel Bucklin.
2. The captors of the Lady Juliana, Reynolds and Juno, were Pennsylvania privateer sloops.
3. The Frances had been taken by the Revenge and Montgomery, but was released, "being a Guineaman, in Ballast, and since arrived at Dover," Public Advertiser, London, July 27, 1776.

Silas Deane to the Committee of Secret Correspondence¹

[Extract] [Paris, July 27, 1776]²

Mons. Chaumont, a very wealthy person, and intendant for providing clothes, etc. for the French army, has offered me a credit on account of the Colonies to the amount of one million of livres, which, I have accepted. I have in treaty another credit, which joined to this, will purchase the articles directed in my instructions; the credit will be until May next, before which I hope remittances will be made. I have purchased of said M. Chaumont a quantity of saltpeter at ten sous, or five and one-fourth per cent., in order that Captain Morgan might not return empty.

As soon as I have given the orders for dispatching him and settled some other matters here I design for Dunkirk, to ship the Indian goods, which I hope may arrive in season for the winter supply, though I leave you to consider my situation, with only about six or seven thousand pounds to complete a contract of forty, and the bills for my private expenses being protested, obliged to support myself out of that capital, which I labor to do with all the economy in my power. Dr. Bancroft is returned to London, and by him I wrote to Monsieur Garnier, and agreed on a mode of correspondence. I think your remittances in armed vessels will be much the best method, and I have ordered Captain Morgan's sloop to be armed; and should she arrive safe, recommend him as one I am confident will serve the Colonies with great zeal and fidelity; and I have had some experience of the goodness of his temper and his abilities. Mr. Seymour, his mate, is also deserving of encouragement as a good seaman and of undaunted resolution. I am not without hopes of obtaining liberty for the armed vessels of the United Colonies to dispose of their prizes in the ports of this kingdom, and also for arming and fitting out vessels of war directly from hence; but I will not venture on this until I see what effect my last memoir may have, the substance of which is to show the danger to France and Spain if they permit Great Britain to keep so enormous a force in America and to recover the dominion of the Colonies; also how fully it is in their power to prevent it, and by that means deprive Great Britain of the principal source of her wealth and force, even without hazarding a war of any consequence in point of danger.

This memoir, which takes several sheets, I am unable to send you a copy of, as I have no one to assist me, and must make out several copies for the persons to whom they are to be delivered. I was directed to apply for arms and clothes for twenty-five thousand men, and for one hundred field pieces, with ammunition and stores in proportion. This I wished to get of the ministry direct, but they evaded it, and I am now in treaty for procuring them, through the agency of Monsieur Chaumont and Monsieur Beaumarchais, on a credit of eight months from the time of their delivery. If I effect this, as I undoubtedly shall, I must rely on the remittances being made this fall and winter without fail, or the credit of the Colonies must suffer. If I can get the arms out of the magazines and the field pieces here I hope, for a much longer credit; but if we send to Sweden for the brass cannon, the credit will not be lengthened beyond that. Some new improvements have lately been made in this branch, consequently the cannon now manufactured will be preferable to those of former construction. Some engineers here assert that iron is preferable to brass—that is, wrought iron—out of which the pieces may be made lighter and to a better purpose. Considering the want of these pieces and the plenty of iron in America, the experiment might, I think, be made without delay. I am still in hopes of procuring an admission of the article of tobacco directly from America, but the Farmers General will not offer equivalent to the risk.

Without intelligence from April to this time leaves me quite uncertain and extremely anxious about the line of conduct now pursuing by Congress, and consequently, I cannot, without further intelligence and instructions, proceed in my negotiations either with safety or honor. The resolution of Congress of the 15th of May is not considered by the ministry as a declaration of independence, but only a previous step, and until this decisive step is taken I can do little more to any purpose. This taken, I dare pledge myself the United Colonies may obtain all the countenance and assistance they wish for in the most open and public manner and the most unlimited credit with the merchants of this kingdom. I must, therefore, urge this measure, if not already taken, and that the declaration be in the most full and explicit terms.

Merchants here would speculate deeply in the American trade could they be insured at any premium within bounds. I wish to know if offices are already open, and I would suggest that if the Congress would take the insurance under their own direction, it would give it such a proportionably greater credit, that supplies would most certainly be obtained in plenty. I shall be able to secure a private interview with the Spanish ambassador and shall present him my memorial, and am in a train which I think will carry it quite to the fountain head.

Thus I have in a minute, possibly a tedious, detail mentioned every thing material on my mind which has occurred since my arrival, and submit the whole to the wisdom and candor of the honorable Congress, observing that I have gone to the extent of my instructions, and though I have been successful beyond my expectations, yet I have but been laboring principally to set certain great wheels in motion, which still want something more decisive on my part, and I am confident of all that is wanting to set them so effectually moving as to roll the burden and calamities of war from our doors back with aggravated ruin on its authors, which, if I can be the means of effecting, the world may bestow the rest of its honors on whom it pleases; I shall be contented, the extent of my most ambitious hopes thus accomplished.

M. Dubourg has continued to render me every assistance in his power; to be particular would swell this letter beyond all bounds. His abilities and connections are of the first style in this kingdom, and his zeal for the cause of the United Colonies is to be described only by saying that at times it is in danger of urging him beyond both; in short, I am every way deeply indebted to him personally for bringing me acquainted with agreeable persons of rank and character, and on account of my honored constituents for assisting me to make such a favorable beginning and progress in my business. I know not how affluent he may be, but as he has really for some time devoted himself to assist in this negotiation, I am confident something honorable will be thought of for him. I have complimented him by asking of him his portrait to be sent to his and my friends in America in my private capacity, mentioning our mutual friend Dr. Franklin. This I found so agreeable, that I am confident some such distinction would be more acceptable than more lucrative rewards. Dr. B[ancroft]. took pains to collect all the political publications of the last year for me and brought them with him; he was at considerable expense in his journey; I sent him from Bordeaux a bill of thirty pounds and paid his expenses in my lodgings here. At parting I desired him to keep an account, and when the money was expended to inform me. This gentleman is certainly capable of giving as good, if not the best, intelligence of any man in Great Britain, as he is closely con-ected with the most respectable of the minority in both houses, not particcularly obnoxious to the majority, and for his abilities, they are too well known to Dr. Franklin to need any attempt to do them justice in a letter. . . .

ARTHUR LEE TO SILAS DEANE

[Extract]
[London] July 28th

. . . . It seems necessary to me that we should have an interview to settle a plan with more safety than can be done by Letter, even in Cypher. For this purpose I would come to you immediately, but that it being now in the middle of our Law Circuit, my quitting it abruptly would be remarked. That will be over the 10th of next month; when I will set out to meet you, unless you should think it improper. I have inclosed you a Cypher for greater safety, & beg you will answer me as soon as possible inclosing it to Mr. Alderman [William] Lee No. 33 great tower Hill, London. If you have no objection to my coming, be so good as to hire for me a convenient private Lodging near you, to be entered the 15th of the month & continued in weekly. Let me know the House, street & Quarter, that I may drive to it immediately because enquiries are always made about those who come to the Hotels. I would have it taken in the name of Mr. Jackson. I beg too that you will mention precisely where you lodge, that I may find you without inquiries which are dangerous.

Permit me to warn you against any communication whatsoever with English, Scots or Americans, here or with you, until you are very well assured of their characters, & with the middle of the three never.

If you should have an opportunity of writing to — before I see you, caution them against Sir James Jay, Dennis DeBardt, Mr [John] Langdon formerly Delegate from N. Hampshire, Paul Wentworth, & William Molleson a Maryland Merchant with whom Mr [Matthew] Tilghman, a Delegate for Maryland corresponds without knowing that his intelligence goes directly to Administration. Col. Mercer too, who is always with ministerial people should not be trusted. I have good reason to fear that Joseph Reed in Philadelphia is a dangerous man. In these times it is necessary to obtain from trusting those of whom there is the least suspicion. The Scale is coming so near to a ballance, that a little treachery may turn it to our destruction, & the ruin of public Liberty.

"EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM PORTSMOUTH, DATED JULY 28."¹

This morning sailed from Spithead, the Perseus frigate, Capt. [George Keith] Elphinston, with all the transports and victuallers under her convoy for America.

LETTER FROM PLYMOUTH¹

[Extract] July 28

I send this purposely to inform you, that this Morning arrived here a Coaster, the Master of which declares, that Yesterday he met with a Topsham Pilot-boat, who told him, that between the Start and Torbay he met with an American Privateer, mounting twelve Carriage Guns, spread a great deal of Canvas, full of Men, and is painted Black. He asked the Pilot many Questions; and among the rest, what East or West Indiamen were expected. When I first heard it, I did not believe it, but sent a Person to the Captain of the Coaster, who confirmed the above Account, so that I believe it true, and would have you make it public at Lloyd’s, &c.

29 July

Public Advertiser, Monday, July 29, 1776

London, July 29.

The nine English Ships; mentioned in Saturday’s Paper, were all taken by two Provincial Privateers, with the greatest Ease, after they had been convoyed 150 Leagues from the Ports they respectively sailed from, and left by the Men of War under a Supposition that they were totally out of Danger. The privateers which took them were but thinly manned, and weakly armed. One carried ten and the other twelve Guns. Several of the Ships had a greater Number, but (which is very extraordinary) no Powder on board, the Governors of the Places they sailed from not allowing any to be shipped for fear enough should not remain with them to defend their Situations in Case of an Attack, which was something more than probable.¹

A petition is preparing by the West India Merchants, to be laid before the Admiralty, praying there Lordships to appoint Cruizers and Convoys for the better Protection of their Trade.

The certain advice received on Friday of nine sail of ships being taken by the American privateers, have raised the insurance on all Jamaica ships, and ships from the West-India islands 20 per cent. more than it was before; and many of the underwriters even refuse to enter their names on a policy; for they look upon it a very hazardous venture, as there are a vast number of privateers out to intercept our homeward bound West-India ships.

1. There were ten vessels named, and this refers to the seven taken by the privateers Revenge, 12, and Montgomery, 10 guns.
By Letters received from Captain Douglas, of His Majesty's Ship Isis, dated at Quebec the 26th and 27th of last Month, it appears, That immediately after raising the Siege of Quebec, of which he gave an Account in his Letters of the 8th and 15th of May, every proper Measure was taken to facilitate the farther Operations against the Rebels, by sending down the River all the Pilots which could be procured to bring up the Transports that were daily expected with General Burgoyne from England and Ireland; and, that no Time might be lost on their Arrival, he had provided Pilots for the upper River, and placed Frigates and Armed Vessels in proper Stations to assist and escort them; and also, lest the Transports should be prevented by contrary Winds from sailing up the River, he had stationed Vessels with Provisions at proper Places, for the Use of the Troops, if they should be obliged to disembark and march by Land. By these Dispositions, all the Transports with Troops which had Pilots on Board, proceeded up the River without stopping at Quebec, and arrived at Three Rivers Time enough to defeat the Rebels, and afterwards drive them from St. John's and all their Posts below Lake Champlain. Captain Douglas in the same Letter says, that the prudent and spirited Behaviour of Captain [Henry] Harvey, of the Martin Sloop, cannot be too much commended; and that the Zeal, Vigour, and Unanimity, of His Majesty's Servants on both Elements were scarcely equalled on any other Occasion within his Remembrance. He also writes that he was, in Concert with General Carleton, considering upon a proper Establishment for Armed Vessels to be employed on the Lakes Champlain and Ontario, and in contriving the most expeditious Means of getting them, with other Craft on the said Lakes, in order to the better accelerating the Passage of the Army; and that Captain Harvey, of the Martin, was returning to Sorel, in order to examine into the Means of floating between Camels (as is practised in Russia and Holland) through the Rapids of Chamble into Lake Champlain, the Six Armed Vessels, one of which was already arrived from England, and the others hourly expected.

By a Letter received from Vice-Admiral Young, dated at Antigua the 31st of May last, it appears, that Captain [Henry] Bryne, of His Majesty's Ship the Hind, which had been sent on Service to St. Augustine in the Province of Georgia, having Intelligence that the Rebels were fitting Armed Vessels in the adjacent Rivers, and being at Anchor off Sunbury River, he ordered Lieutenant [Alexander] Ellis, of the Hinchinbrooke Armed Schooner, with the ship's Tender and Boats, mann'd and arm'd, to proceed over the Bar, where they set on Fire a Brig that was loading, and a Ship on the Stocks, intended by the Rebels for a Privateer to carry 20 Guns. It further appears from the Admiral's aforementioned Letter, that since the Account transmitted in his Letter of the 3d of March, and published in the Gazette of the 8th of last Month, the Cruizers under his Command had seized Seventeen more Ships and Vessels, either belonging to or employed in carrying on a Trade with His Majesty's Rebellious Subjects in North America.

Public Advertiser, Tuesday, July 30, 1776

London, July 30.

When the Advice arrived on Friday last, relative to the Captures made on our Shipping by the Americans, all the West-India Merchants immediately locked up their Warehouses, as not knowing what Value to set on Rum and Sugar, and the other Commodities produced in the American Islands.

Penet & Pliarne to Silas Deane

Nantes, 30 July 1776.

Sir, I could not sooner send you the enclosed samples of the same cloth which I have sent to the Continent. I can deliver one hundred thousand ells of this material in different colors at 5# 6#. 7# per ell in French money. You will not be able to judge the quality and beauty of this cloth from the samples alone, but they will show you the colors.

We have also twenty thousand wool blankets available from 4# to 6# each.

I can supply you with all the items and I assure you that you cannot expect such good quality, low prices and immediate service from anyone else in Europe but our firm.

I have just made arrangements for guns. I can send you 30 thousand for 12# or 13# apiece, similar to those which I have sent to the Congress and which are quite reliable. Again, I renew my offers to be of service and I hope, Sir, that you will have enough confidence in our Nantes firm to give it the preference of your trade, since we are already trusted by the Continent and we have six vessels directed to our firm sailing for the account of private persons from the Northern provinces and which we are going to load with such articles.

I have received orders to have uniforms made for the regiments of some provinces, which I shall do immediately.

If you wish to deal with our Nantes firm for your supplies, I beg you to let me know by the first mail so that I may make other arrangements if it is not convenient for you. Two ships are to get under way any time and if you wish to have a few things sent there, I beg you to let me know.

In Bordeaux, our office is in the hands of Recules de Basmarin & Raimbaux. My associate M Gruel wrote to them. They will have the honour to offer you their services. You can trust them fully. It is a wealthy firm in that city.
Allow me, Sir, to warn you about the Irish and Scottish firms in Bordeaux, or any other places in the kingdom. I have good ground for complaining about them. They are our worst enemies.

I am also advising you that I refused the guns which you saw in Paris. They tried to deceive me and make me pay twice as much for them as they are worth. It is scandalous: they wanted them to be loaded without allowing me to see them. But I did not do it and refused them. It would have been disloyal and deceitful to the Congress if I had shipped such weapons. I have a factory which supplies me with as many as I want and which charges me half as much for much better weapons. I have the honor to be with the most sincere consideration, Sir, [&c.]

London, July 31.

A private Letter from Philadelphia, which came by the Way of Ireland, says, that the General Congress have sent Agents to Génoa, and other Ports, to purchase Ships of War from 40 to 80 Guns; and have ordered, in every Port they have, large Ships to be built as fast as possible, as they intend next Spring to have a very powerful Fleet.

1. Appearance of this fanciful item undoubtedly prompted the following spurious paragraph, which appeared in the Public Advertiser, London, on August 2:
   The following is taken from a Letter received by a Merchant in the City, which came by the Way of France from Philadelphia, dated June 1. 'The 28th ult. arrived in this Port three Ships Genoese built, which mounted 64, 56, and 48 Guns each. They are named the Defence, Cumberland, and Supreme. Each Vessel is provided with close Quarters, and boarding Nets, &c.'

Canterbury, July 31.

On Monday [July 29] about Twelve o’Clock, a Sloop arrived in the Downs, having on board Capt. Risden [Keylock Rusden], and a Part of his Crew, his Ship and Cargo being taken by a small Provincial Privateer the latter End of May, at the Mouth of the Gulph of Florida; the Captain being put on Shore, had, by the Assistance of some Friends, purchased the above Sloop, in which he returned to England.

1. Rusden was master of the ship Reynolds taken by the Pennsylvania privateers Congress and Chance.
GEORGE ROSS AND JAMES HODGES TO PHILIP STEPHENS

(Sir)

We beg you will acquaint the Rt Hble the Lords Commissrs of the Admiralty, that the Ship Zachary Bailly from Jamaica bound to London, and Creighton from Antigua for America (with Rum for the Use of His Majesty's Forces) whereof we were Masters, was taken by the Privateer Yankey [Yankee] of Boston, Henry Johnson Commander, of Nine four Pounders, Sixteen Swivels and forty three Men; the former was taken the [blank] June in Lat: 29°. 54. No Longe. 70°. 30 W. the latter the 26th of the same Month in Lat: 31°. 00 Longe in 68°. 30 W. —

We were taken on board the Yankey with eight of Our Crews, with Mr Rd Rouse Master's Mate & three Seamen belonging to His Majts Ship Experiment, who had been Passengers in the Creighton & a few days after parted Company with the Prizes, each to make the best of their way to some Port in the Massachusetts Bay. But on the 3d of July then in Lat: 36°. 40 N. & Long 65.00 W. We embraced a favorable opportunity to seize Capt Johnson & the Centinels upon the Quarter Deck, and with the assistance of Our People got Command of the Deck without Bloodshed; Immediately after taking the Vessel discovered two Sloops in chace of us, which we suppose were American Privateers, being greatly inferior in number to the Prisoners on board & unable to fight all our Guns, declined an Engagement & bore away for England.

We cannot help expressing our apprehension, about the safety of the Jamaica Ships, having seen several American Cruizers in their track.

Upon our arrival in London shall Personally wait upon you to be Honored with their Lordships Commands relative to the Privateer & her Crew, they act under the Commission of the President of their Congress; The Flag a Pine tree in a White Field, with the Inscription Appeal to Heaven. We have the Honour to be with great Respect Sir, [&c.]

"Extract of a Letter from Dover, July 31."¹

The Zachary Bayley, from Jamaica for London; and the Creighton, from Antigua, with rum for the army, were taken by the Yankee privateer, Captain Johnson, carrying nine four pounders, 16 swivels, and 43 men. The prizes were sent to New England, and the masters together with a midshipman of the Experiment man of war, who was a passenger, and eleven seamen, were taken on board the privateer. On the third of July they seized the privateer, without bloodshed, and have brought her to Dover. They were chased by two sloops, whom they imagined to be American privateers, but durst not engage them because of the number of prisoners they had on board.

Captain Johnson (the American commander of the privateer) complained of the illiberal treatment he received, by being insulted frequently while at sea, calling him by the most opprobrious names, and threatening him with the cruellest and most savage punishments, and also for suffering many people to come on board after the privateer arrived in the river, to insult him in the grossest terms, though he was then a prisoner; and when his brother came to see him, after a three years absence, they were not permitted to talk together one minute in private.

The prisoners on board the Yankee privateer, having petitioned not to be close confined, but that they might be put to some employment, upon which it was agreed that they should be placed on board the guardships. The vessel was afterwards ordered to be sold, and the money to be given to the captors.

LORD STORMONT TO LORD WEYMOUTH

Paris July 31. 1776

My Lord—As great Latitude is left me, in the Execution of the orders transmitted me, in Yr Lordships Letter No 29, and as the Business is of considerable Nicety, as well as Importance, I will venture to state to Your Lordship, what has occurred to me upon it, after turning it much in Thoughts, and weighing it with all the Attention I can. — The objections to an unfavourable answer, are too obvious to be dwelt upon, and that in the present moment, we should receive such an answer as we wish, is more than I can bring myself to expect; Besides the desire, this Court naturally have, to protract the American War, till it waste our strength and Treasure, which desire, must make them averse to anything, that tends to damp the Hopes of the Rebels, They think My Lord, that France is a Gainer, by the Trade, she is beginning to carry on with America, and in a great commercial, and Natural View, would as much wish to wound the Act of Navigation, as we must always wish, to keep that valuable act entire. To strengthen this general reasoning, I must add, that I have been, more than once, informed, that the leading Opinion in the french Cabinet is, that they should give us friendly Professions, but should avoid any Step, that can tend to discourage the Rebels; that they should in a Word, lie by, wait the event, and take Council from it. I have been informed too, that the giving a declaration in writing, that they would not suffer the Rebels, to be supplied with Ammunition, was by some of the french King's Ministers, considered as an oversight. — Your Lord Ship remembers, that, that Declaration was given me, upon my first shewing M de Vergennes, an Office Ld Grantham had past to M Grimaldi, and that Ministers answer to his Lordship; and then, passing an office of a Simular Nature, and conceived almost in the same Words. Perhaps My Lord, the same Method Might Succeed again. If Spain, whose Trade with the American Rebels, is much less Considerable, than that of France, could be brought to give such a Prohibition, as Portugal has given; this Court might perhaps in that case, be induced to follow the Example of their Ally; tho they would, I doubt, not follow that, of a Court so closely connected with us as Portugal, who must consider our Prosperity, as inseparable from her own.

I can assure Your Lordship, that the Naval Preparations, carrying on in the Different Ports of France, are as they ought to be, the object of my Constant attention. I am not at present, able to add any thing very Material, to the Accounts I have already sent you. The Intelligence, which I gave your Lordship by the last Messenger, and gave it as very doubtful, I am now convinced is Not true. No orders have been given, to slacken these Preparations, The more probable opinion is, that they have been quickened — Upon the first arrival of the News from Spain, Monsr D'Aranda, as I am positively assured, went both to Monsieur de Maurepas, and M. de Sartines, and insisted Strongly, upon the Necessity of carrying on all these naval Préparations with double Vigour, and pressed much for orders to be sent to the different Ports.

It seems to me very doubtful, whether his Request was complied with. I have been again informed, from pretty good authority, that he held the Language I mentioned in my Letter No 55, He has since changed his Tune, and now says, that M de Maurepas, and he, reasoned differently at first, but that at last, that Minister came over to his Opinion; But this Language may be artificial. — I am inclined to think My Lord, that if any orders were sent in consequence of his application, it was only par Maniere d'acquit, and that this Portugal Business, has made no alteration in the Plan of this Court which is, to go on with these Preparations, as fast as the funds, allotted for that service, will permit. There must, as I have already observed to Yr Lordship, soon be a Diminution, of the Activity with which they are carried on, unless the four additional Millions, M de Sartines demands, can be found. This will be the more difficult, as their Treasury is certainly at a low Ebb at present, and no body imagines, that M Clugny's Management will increase the Revenue.

There are Letters from the Neighbourhood of Toulon which say, that the Preparations there, are carrying on with uncommon Activity; upon the strength of these Letters, and of the Reports that are so prevalent here, (where War has been much talked of, since the first News from Spain) a foreign Minister, with whom I am very intimate, spoke to M de Vergennes Yesterday, and pressed him home — He said, "That in Consequence, of what His Excellency had been pleased to tell him some time ago, He had assured his Court, that the present sentiments of France, were perfectly pacific; and that the Naval Preparations she was making had no hostile View, But that now, that he heard so much, from various Quarters, of the Activity, and Vigour, with which these Preparations were carrying on, He took the Liberty to ask him again, whether they were going to make any Armament. He added, that he had no Right to expect to be let into Secrets, but that armaments could not long be concealed, and he was persuaded His Excellency had too much friendship for him, to expose him to the disgrace, of giving his Court false Information, upon so essential a Point." M de Vergennes answered him, with every appearance of openness, and Sincerity, begged him, not to credit the Reports of Paris, which would certainly mislead him, said, that what they were doing in their Ports, should not be called "des Préparatifs", c'etait seulement des Mesures de Sureté, et de Prévotion."

He added, that he was very sensible, that any armament, in the present Moment, would give an Alarm, but assured him most positively, that no armament was making, no armament was intended.

What adds Credit to these assurances, for the Truth of which, both M. Maurepas and M. de Vergennes, have repeatedly pledged themselves, is, the moderation with which they have certainly acted, in this Portugal Business. Such Conduct is, I think, a strong Earnest of their pacific Intentions, had they meant or wished a War, they would have inflamed, instead of Mollifying the Resentment of Spain. Tho' I think it my Duty, to state things exactly as I see them, and upon that principle, represent the present French Ministry, as friends to Peace, Yet I am very far from meaning to say any thing, that could tend, to lull us into security, having ever been persuaded, that our only real Safety, against such a Rival who will always wish, if she does not Meditate Revenge, is, that which we derive from our own Vigilance, and superior Naval Strength. I am with great truth and regard My Lord

[Extract] London, 2 August 1776

You know, My lord, that Lord Weymouth mentioned our armaments only once and without pressing the matter. The more lightly he treated this matter, the more concerned he was; as I realized. Since then, he did not mention it to me any more. The other Ministers never spoke to me about it. Silence in such delicate matters is always suspicious; consequently I am more attentive than ever to all the movements of the English Navy. I had the honor to inform you previously that four Line of Battle Ships had been newly commissioned to serve as Guardships; orders have been given for six more to be commissioned for the same purpose, to wit, the Sandwich, 90, and St. Alban, 64, for Portsmouth; the Queen, 90, and the Bienfaisant, 64, for Plymouth; the Prince George, 90, and the Augusta, 64, for Chatham. A large quantity of cables, masts and rigging are being sent to Halifax. Three new Frigates are building. Finally, we have intelligence from Plymouth that the Belleisle of 64 is destined for the East Indies; that the Sloop Spy which was brought to this port by Sailors belonging to the Yachts in Deptford, formed her crew with detachments from Guardships with the addition of 20 Marines, and that she sailed on the 25th of last month for Newfoundland. You will also recall, My lord, the information I had the honor to send you with respect to 50 Vessels being furnished with arms to transport supplies to America. The Government also purchased a large Vessel called Union from the India Company. She received the name of Elephant and is being equipped with 16 guns to sail for America.

I can only see one reason behind all these maritime preparations. They are preparing here a large armament in case it should be needed. Among the Ships being brought to seaworthy condition, two are in want of repair and will necessarily require time. Furthermore, men are needed for their crews, and at the moment they are in America. Thus, this fleet should not be ready to put to sea before the end of this year, and this only with the help of an impressment. But if it should take place on any pretext, the most sudden and vigorous course on our part, My lord, if I may express my opinion, is that which will ensure our safety.

. . . But of all these preparations, I must confess that I [am] most concerned with the least noticeable one. I am speaking of the expedition of the Sloop Spy to Newfoundland. The Squadron which is cruising in that Sea left a long time ago and I cannot imagine why this Ship should be sent at this time. But our weak condition in this part of the world, the importance for England to get hold of our best sailors early at the beginning of a war, the ease with which it can be done and our unfortunate experience in the past will always give me great cause to worry. It may be also that our Correspondent in Plymouth is ill-informed because the Office of the Navy indicated her destination as America. I am doing my best to find out the truth about the destination of this Sloop and the real purpose of her mission.

The Frigates Perseus and Richmond left Portsmouth on the 30th of last month with 15 transports loaded with recruits, war ammunition and victuals for America.

2. The Sloop Spy, Captain William Shadcerly, was ordered with dispatches to Newfoundland on July 11, PRO, Admiralty 2/101, 233.

[Extract] [Paris] August 2

I should have sent this off earlier, but delayed on account of hearing something more directly, if I might depend on certain articles for which I was in treaty; I am now assured I may, and the whole will be ready to ship in all the month of October. My next labor will be to obtain a convoy, which I do not despair of, though it is a delicate question, and I have only sounded at a distance, yet I have no doubt of obtaining one, at least off the coast of Europe, and the articles will be shipped as for the West India Islands. I propose arming and well manning the vessels in which these articles shall be embarked, and I advise again the sending all remittances to Europe in armed vessels. The probability of meeting with English merchants is well worth the risk. I hope that it will be considered that one hundred field pieces, and arms, clothing, and accoutrements, with military stores for twenty-five thousand men, is a large affair; and that, although I am promised any credit, yet as they must be paid for, the sooner the better, if to be done without too great a risk.

A considerable part of these articles are now on hand, and orders are issued for the others by the contractors this day. I prefer Bordeaux to any other port for shipping them from, but the remittances must be made to several, on which I will give you my opinion in my next.

Penet & Pliarne to Benjamin Franklin

Sir,

At Nantes the 3 August 1776 —

We have the Honour to write you by Capn Crawford of Rhode Island that Mr [Nicholas] Brown of Providence consign’d to us at Nants, whom we have dispatched with a Cargo of Powder Muskets salt peter &ca, who promis’d to deliver you this.
I had the honour to inform you, in May last at my arrival in Europe of the success of my operations, and of the advantageous dispositions I met with, now I will inform you have embarked in your ship the Hancock a Cargo of Muskets Saltpeter Powder Tin Lead &c. amounting to 60 or 70 thousand Livers, which sum only M. Schweighauzer could pay us. We are forced Sir to acquaint you that all the Houses you have in Spain and Portugal use you very ill and make no remittances to Nantes, we have now in our stores Goods ready to send you to the amount of Forty thousand Guineas, but two of your Ships have arrived, here from Cadiz in Ballast one is the Hancock and the other the Adams, the last brought no money. We asked Mr Schweighauzer if he would answer for the Cargo which we were desirous to deliver to the Capn on his paying us when he should have money of yours in his hands, he told us he could not take that on himself. notwithstanding Sir as we have the greatest confidence in you and the Honourable Congress, we shall immediately dispatch this Vessell with a Cargo of Ammunition, provided however we can obtain from Manufacturerers, the credit we require, and we beg you will send us remittances by the first opportunity, we request it less on our own Account than by the desire we have of serving so respectable a Nation as yours, you may depend on our willingness to do every thing in our Power for your assistance.

I have seen Mr Dean formerly a Member of your secret Commity as well as Mr Morriss' brother; we have offer'd them our services at Paris, we carry on our businesse seperately without communicating our Opererations to one another, if our house can be useful to them they may dispose of it.

Several Vessells have been consign'd to us from Rhode Island and Virginia they have been dispatched in few Days with good Cargos and we can flatter Ourselves that all Vessells consign'd to us will meet with equal dispatch as we have taken our measures in consequence.

We have obtain'd a written Permission for twenty thousand hogds of tobaco, by on receipt of this Congress may remit us what quantity they please and we will warrant their admition in our Ports.

If you have any yellow Wax, Rice and Furs they are articles on which you might obtain great Profits.

We hope Sir, that Congress will have sufficient Great Confidence in us to consign directly to us their Vessells loaded with your Produce, we can safely warrant and assure you that we can dispose annually of those four Articles to the Amount of Fifteen Millions this Currency, and send you in return immediatly on the arrival of the ships any quantity and kind of Merchandize you may require.

We have now at our disposal and in our Manufactorys, Cloth for your soldiers and Blankets of a good quality and Cheap, you may inquire of Mr Brown of Providence to whom we have remitted some.

If Mr Dean applies to us for his operations he shall be served immediatly if not he will find the difference, the name and Direction of our House at Nantes is Mr Jacques Gruel Isle feydeau at Nantes, one of the best in the Place and in which you may place an entire confidence. I recom mend it to you as the fittest house for your Operations, and will serve you with all possible exactitude. I take the Liberty to recommend M Pliarne to you and beg you will let him have what money he may want and Congress may take his Draughts on me for the amount.

Will you be pleased to assure the Members of the Honourable the Congress — Secret Commity and all those I have the honour to be acquainted with of my Zeal, and of the desire I have of procuring them all possible assistance I dare flatter myself that I shall more and more merit their Confidence, & have no other Interest than to oblige your Nation, support Liberty and sacrifice myself for your Country as which I regard as my own, such are my Sentiments and those of my Freinds who are concern'd with me.

My Presence in France is too necessary, being obliged to transact the secret affairs myself, to permit me to return to the Continent before the End of the Warr, unless you think proper I should go sooner, my residence is at Nants at the House of M. Jques Gruel Merch it is the most advantageous Port in France for your ships, its River runs 150 Leagues into the heart of the Kingdom and facilitates the transport of all kind of Goods. consequently there are large purchases made in this City of all kinds, which induced me to fix on it as the fittest for your affairs, here you may send all your ships, I will be answerable for the disposal of their Cargos, if you send to Bordeaux Direct to Mesrs Reculé de Basmarin & Raimbaux, at Cadiz to Mesrs Delaville Brothers, with orders to advise Mr Jques Gruel at the arrival of each ship Consign'd to them, so that they may dispose of the Cargos and their produce to satisfy your demands.

Mistrust the Irish and scotch houses in Europe. I have reasons to give you this Caution — send no more ships to Lisbon.

Pliarne, Penet & Co

I have the Honour to write to General Washington, I ask him a favour would you be pleased to sollicit it for me, I shall think my self happy to merit it, that is that he would grant me the title and Commission without sallary, of his first Aid de Camp, that I may have the Honour to wear the uniform and the Ribbon they have when I shall have the pleasure to appear before, I shall be greatly obliged to you if you can send me this Commission, Pardon my importunity, but I am too much attached to your Nation not to be [illegible] I shall deserve, and may be given to me with all Confidence.

Make yourself easy Sir. I can not say more by this, we are all your Freinds and will give you proofs of it, Four Persons which I send will soon be with you, two of which are of Distinction and of great Merit, who will deliver you my Letters themselves, I could not intrust them to any one else as they are of great advantage and importance to you I have the Honour to be with Respect Sir [&c.]

P. Penet & Co

P S. I have the honour to observe, fear nothing as to Warlike Amunition I will furnish all you may want, in as large quantitys as you can require as well as Cannon, I labour with your Freind Mr Dubourg to whom I have not yet delivered your Letter having left it with my Effects in holland where I landed, I shall send it to him soon.

I beg Mr Franklin would inform Congress that we shall have besides the above mentioned Amunition a quantity of Cloths, Linnen – Blanketts &ca so as to dispatch the ships as soon as they arrive, that you may have them with you before the Winter.

LETTER FROM CADIZ

[Extract]

August 3.

There have arrived here within this week past seven of our merchant-men from the Havanna: One of these vessels brought two English Sailors, being part of twenty-two British Sailors belonging to three vessels of their nation, who were taken off the island of Cuba on their homeward-bound passage from Jamaica by two American privateers, who gave the above twenty-two men leave either to go to America, or be put on shore; the latter of which they chose; and having a boat given them, arrived safe in it on the island of Cuba. The twenty others are expected here in the next ships that arrive from thence.

"HUMANITAS" [WILLIAM LEE] TO THE LORD MAYOR OF LONDON

My Lord: London, August 5, 1776.

I was last week on board the American privateer called the Yankee, commanded by Captain [Henry] Johnson, and lately brought into this port by Captain [George] Ross, who commanded one of the West-India sugar ships, taken by the privateer in July last; and, as an Englishman, I wish your Lordship, who is so happily placed at the head of this great city (justly famed for its great humanity even to its enemies,) would be pleased to go likewise, or send proper persons, to see the truly shocking, and, I may say, barbarous and miserable condition of the unfortunate American prisoners, who, however criminal they may be thought to have been, are deserving of pity, and entitled to common humanity.

They are twenty-five in number, and all inhumanly shut close down, like wild beasts, in a small stinking apartment in the hold of a sloop, about seventy tons burden, without a breath of air, in this sultry season, but what they receive through a small grating over head, the openings in which are not more than two inches square in any part, and through which the sun beats intensely hot all day; only two or three being permitted to come on deck at a time; and then they are exposed in the open sun, which is reflected from the decks and water like a burning glass.

I do not at all exaggerate, my Lord: I speak the truth; and the resemblance that this barbarity bears to the memorable black-hole, at Calcutta, as a gentleman present on Saturday observed, strikes every one at the sight. All England ought to know that the same game is now acting upon the Thames on board this privateer, that all the world cried out against at the mention of in India, some years ago, as practised on Captain Hallowell and others of the King's good subjects.

The putrid streams issuing from the hole are so hot and offensive, that one cannot, without the utmost danger, breathe over it; and I should not be at all surprised if it should cause a plague to spread. The miserable wretches below look like persons in a hot bath, panting, sweating and fainting for want of air; and the Surgeon declares that they must all soon perish in that situation, especially as they are almost all in a sickly state with bilious disorders.

The Captain and Surgeon, it is true, have the liberty of the cabin, (if it deserves the name of a cabin,) and make no complaints on their own account; they are both sensible, well-behaved young men, and can give a very good account of themselves, having no signs of fear, and being supported by a consciousness of the justice of their cause. They are men of character, of good families in New-England, and highly respected in their different occupations; but being stripped of their all by the burning of towns and other destructive measures of the present unnatural war, were forced to take the disagreeable method of making reprisals, to maintain themselves and their children, rather than starve.

Numbers of gentlemen, and friends of Government, who were on board at the same time, will confirm the truth of this my representation, being very sensibly touched themselves at the horrid sight.

English prisoners taken by the Americans have been treated with the most remarkable tenderness and generosity, as numbers who are safely returned to England most freely confess, to the honour of our brethern in the Colonies. And it is a fact, which can be well attested in London, that this very Surgeon on board the privateer, after the battle of Lexington, April 10, 1775, for many days voluntarily and generously, without fee or reward, employed himself in dressing the King's wounded soldiers, (who but an hour before would have shot him, if they could have come at him,) and in making a collection for their refreshment, of wine; linen, money, &c., in the town where he lived. This is a real fact, of which the most ample testimony may be had.

The capture of the privateer was solely owing to the ill-judged lenity and brotherly kindness of Captain Johnson, who, not considering his English prisoners in the same light that he would Frenchmen or Spaniards, put them under no sort of confinement, but permitted them to walk the decks as freely as his own people, at all times. Taking advantage of this indulgence, the prisoners one day, watching their opportunity when most of the privateer's people were below and asleep, shut down the hatches, and making all fast, had immediate possession of the vessel without using any force.

I shall conclude with saying, that though this letter is addressed to your Lordship, I hope that all who may read it, and have any influence, will do all in their power to gain the necessary relief; and it is humbly apprehended that the well disposed, who are blessed with affluence, could not better bestow their bounty than upon these poor objects. Vegetables and ripe fruits of all kinds, with porter, &c., must be very useful, as well as the means to procure other necessaries. The privateer lies opposite to Ratcliffe-Cross, a mile and a half below the Tower, and by asking for Captain Johnson admittance may be obtained.

Humanitas.

We have been informed, since the receipt of the above letter, that the crew of the American privateer the Yankee, were yesterday morning, at half-past three o'clock, conveyed on board a vessel, and carried down the river, to be secured in Dover Castle.

We hear that a petition will be presented to the Secretary of State for the American Department, by the merchants, to cause the Captain of the Yankee privateer to be kept in custody to answer to them for the property he has illegally taken, he being the sole owner of the privateer, and the prizes of course will be sold in America for his account and emolument.

By a private Letter received in Town from Philadelphia, dated June 28, we find that two Ships had arrived from Holland, and four more were hourly expected, all laden with Dutch Effects; and that four Vessels under foreign Colours, cleared at the Isle of Wight, and laden with valuable Cargoes, were also expected.

Public Advertiser, TUESDAY, AUGUST 6, 1776

London [August 6].

Admiral Gayton's Order for the Merchantmen to rendezvous at Blue Fields, and to be convoyed from thence an hundred and fifty Leagues on their Passage to England, was certainly communicated to the Provincials, as the Ships which were taken were met with by the Privateers, not twenty four Hours after they were quitted by the Men of War.

There being so many of our Ships of War on the American Coast, some are in Hopes that on their receiving Advice of the Capture of the nine West Indiamen by the Provincial Privateers, and of their being carried into some of their Ports; a bold Stroke would be struck in order to retake them: Their Cargoes are so valuable, and so much of it falls as Prize Money to the Captors, our Tars it is thought will run any Lengths to accomplish it. It is true they have not as yet attempted any Thing of this Kind, but they never had an Object equal to a West India Ship loaded, worth 10,000 l. Sterling.

On Sunday the Officers and Seamen, brought Prisoners on board the Yankee Privateer (lying in Limehouse Hole) were shipped on board the Justitia Transport Ship, in order to their working on the Thames. A Correspondent wishes to know, "if these People are not sentenced without a Trial?" It is true that they have been declared Rebels; but it has not been customary to condemn Rebels, but by the Verdict of a Jury; at least it was not so in the Reign of George the Second: But our whole System of Politics seems to be reversed, and what was Law thirty Years ago, is not so now; or, perhaps, adds our Correspondent, the Distinction is made between Scotch and American Rebels; and if so, we shall cease to wonder when we consider the Operation of the over-ruling Influence.

"It is an ill wind that blows no one Good." When the above Seamen were removed, it was permitted for any Person to come on board, and many Hundreds gratified their Curiosity, to the great Emolument of a number of Waterman, who kept embarking and debarking their Customers for Hours. The Place was a perfect Fair. The above Yankie Privateer is a tight-built Vessel, admirably adapted for swift Sailing, and carries twelve Guns on one Deck. She lies very low in Water.

DR. BARBEU DUBOURG TO VERGENNES

[Extract]

Paris, 6 August 1776

I beg you to send suitable orders to the General Director of the Docks in Nantes so that he will not stand in the way or cause difficulties with regard to the embarkation of War ammunition by M. Penet in Nantes. This Director, by the name of M. de Guerton, is a very honest men, but he needs to be warned because the embarkation is urgent.

2. In response to this request M. de Clugny, Controller General of Finance, assured Vergennes that orders were being issued to place no obstacle "in the way of the armament which you are having prepared at Nantes for America." Stevens, ed., Facsimiles, No. 1344.

By another Letter from Glasgow we are informed, that the Oxford Transport from Clyde, with Part of the 42d Regiment, has been taken by the provincials. As she was standing in for Boston a Vessel with 16 Guns bore down upon her, took out all the Officers and Arms, and put some of their own Sailors on board to navigate her. The Highlanders were no sooner out of Sight of the Privateer than they compelled their new Masters to alter their Course, and swore they would put every one of them to Death, unless they either carried them to Lord Dunmore, or to some other Place where they might meet with some Ship or Ships of War belonging to his Majesty; but unfortunately for these brave Fellows, a small Sloop with a few Swivels took them a second Time, and they now languish in Captivity at Williamsburgh. — The same Letters add, that it was confidently reported that two other Transports, with Part of Fraser's Highlanders, were taken also.1

We hear from Bourdeaux, that a very considerable American trade is carried on there, and has continued since the beginning of the present disputes with our Colonies. About 15 days ago, a fine Bermudian sloop sailed for Philadelphia, having 20 tone of gunpowder on board.

1. This was the first news received in England of the capture of the Oxford by the Continental brig Andrew Doria, and the recapture by Captain James Barron in an armed pilot boat out of Hampton, Virginia. See Volume 5.

The Yankee Privateer, taken from the Americans, we are informed, is going to be fitted as a Tender to carry the Seamen, that enter at the Houses of Rendezvous, to the Ships of War at the different Sea Ports.

Sunday Morning at Three o'Clock twenty of the Prisoners taken in the Yankie Privateer were conveyed by Water to be lodged in Dover Castle. Among these twenty there are only three Native Americans, and those are all New England Men. It was mentioned in a former Paragraph, that the Yankie Privateer mounted twelve Guns; but the Fact is, that she is pierced for twelve, and mounts only eight, which are called Six Pounders, but are only Four. She has six Swivels, and two Cohorns, and being no bigger than a large sailing Boat, she appears to be one combined Picture of the Instruments of Death. The American Colours on board her are sent to his Majesty, in Consequence of Orders received from the Admiralty.

Admiralty Office, August 12

By a letter received this day from Vice Admiral Lord Shuldham, dated Staten Island, near New York, the 8th of July last, it appears that his Lordship arrived there on the 3d of that month with his Majesty's ships under his Command, and the whole fleet of transports, victuallers and storeships under his convoy, without any loss or separation; that his Majesty's troops under the command of General Howe were landed on that day and the next, upon Staten Island, without any opposition or interruption, the inhabitants having immediately on the troops landing surrendered, and put themselves under the protection of his Majesty's arms; . . .

The Arrival of Lord Howe, and the reinforcement under Commodore Hotham, were daily expected at Staten Island. Lord Shuldham having stationed his cruisers in the properest manner to fall in with and direct them thither.

Public Advertiser, Monday, August 12, 1776

London [August 12].

The West India Ships, lately taken by the Americans, will, it is said, occasion a pathetic Remonstrance, shortly to be presented at St. James's.

The Method by which the Yankey Privateer was taken was as follows: Capt. Johnson (of the Yankey) [James] Hodges, and [George] Ross1 were sitting together in the Cabbin, when Johnson having inadvertently laid down his Cutlass, Ross and Hodges took the Advantage of it, one coming behind Capt. Johnson, seized and threw him down, while the other got Possession of the Cutlass. The Guard stationed on the Quarter-deck at the same Time laid down his Cutlass to go forward, one of Ross's or Hodges's People (who had been let into the Conspiracy) immediately seized it and gave the Alarm; on which either Ross or Hodges ran up on the Quarter-deck, and got Possession of the Arm-Chest before the Privateer's Men and those of the Merchantmen (who were at large and unconfined, though then down in the Hold) could get upon the main Deck. One of the Americans took up a Scrubbing-brush, and advancing to the Quarter-deck, he was told by the Man possessed of the Cutlass, that if he came a Step farther, his Head should be cut off. The Privateer's Men thus finding the Quarter-deck and their Arms all in Possession of their Adversaries, and their Captain a Prisoner in the Cabbin, submitted without farther Resistance, being promised good Treatment, and to be landed as soon as possible in some Part of America, and then to be at Liberty to go where they pleased. So far from this Promise being complied with, the Men were put in Irons, and closely confined in the Hold of the Privateer, and all of them brought into the River Thames; since which they were, in the Night of Saturday last, hurried into a Man of War's Tender, and smuggled to some Place of Confinement, but where is not yet certainly known.

Capt. Johnson complained of the illiberal Behaviour and cruel Usage he suffered, by being insulted frequently while at Sea, calling him by the most opprobrious Names, and threatening him with the cruellest and most Savage Punishments, and also for suffering many People to come on board after they arrived in the River, to insult him in the basest and grossest Terms, though he was then a Prisoner; and when his Brother came to see him after a three Years Absence, they would not permit them to talk together one Minute in private.

Public Advertiser, Tuesday, August 20, 1776

Edinburgh, Aug. 14. We are desired from good Authority to contradict a Paragraph in last Night's Edinburgh Advertiser; mentioning Sir William Erskine's being taken by an American Privateer with the Money of the 71st Regiment. This is without any Foundation, as he sailed on board the Ocean, a Ship of 18 Carriage Guns, and proceeds entirely upon the Supposition of his having been on board the Venus, Capt. Wilson, which, with the Crawford Capt. M'Lean, was taken and carried into Boston: On board the first was Capt. Fraser's Company, and Captain M'Leod with his Company on board the other. Upon their Arrival off Cape Ann, they were attacked by four Privateers, whom they fought a considerable Time, and obliged them to shear off. They then went into Nantasket Road, in Expectation of finding the Men of War; but, in place thereof, were surrounded by a great Number of armed Schooners, who, with the Assistance of the Privateurs formerly beat off, carried them into Boston.¹

A Sailor who came home with the Howe transport, which arrived on Sunday at Greenock, in 25 Days from Halifax, gives the above Account. He went out with the Mayflower, of Whitehaven, Capt. Crosbie, having on board Capt. Aeneas M’Intosh's Company of the 71st. . . . On their Way to Halifax from Boston, they were attacked by a Privateer of 10 Carriage and six Swivel Guns, whom they fought for seven Glasses, and were on the Point of being taken, when a Man of War came in Sight, and relieved them.²

The Mermaid, Capt. Yoward, which sailed from Clyde with 120 of Fraser's Highlanders, fell in on the 10th of June, off Cape Ann, with an American Privateer, mounting 10 Six-pounders, and 14 Swivels. An Engagement ensued, which continued four Hours and a Half, when the Privateer sheered off. It is not known how many on board the Privateer were killed, but it was imagined the Musquetry of the Soldiers (who behaved exceedingly well) did great Execution, as the Ships were within Pistol Shot for two Hours of the Engagement. Capt. Yoward, one Seaman, and three Soldiers, were wounded on board the Mermaid; they afterwards proceeded for Boston, but found that the Provincials had erected a Battery upon an Island, and had driven all the Men of War and Ships from Boston Bay. The Mermaid arrived safe at Halifax the 23d of June.³

1. This is a woefully garbled account. The Venus was not captured; the Crawford was taken along with the Oxford, on May 29, 1776, by the Continental brig Andrew Doria; and the engagement in Boston harbor was fought by the transports George and Annabella.
2. The man of war was H. M. Sloop Hope.
3. This attack was made by one of Washington's schooners out of Salem.

WOOLDRIDGE & KELLY TO THE LORDS COMMISSIONERS, BRITISH TREASURY¹

To The Right Honorable The Lords Commissioners of His Majestys Treasury.

The Memorial of Messieurs Wooldridge & Kelly of the City of London Merchants.

Humbly Sheweth

That your Lordships Memorialists are the Owners of a Ship called the Molly, Daniel Lawrence Mastr who sailed from Baltimore in the Province of Maryland in the month of February last, with a very valuable Cargo of Wheat, Flour, & Staves for Falmouth & a market, but the Ship meeting with several delays in the river Patapsico was there Seized & detained by an Armed Vessell in the service of Government, that soon after that Seizure she was retaken by an Armed Ship in the Service of the Americans, & being by them liberated; She proceeded on her Voyage in the beginning of the Month of March last but in getting out of the River she was again Seized by a Tender belonging to the Liverpool Man of War, who carried her to Lord Dunmore in Virginia when His Lordship appointed Commissioners to try her, which Commissioners acquitted her. And that after her acquittal His Lordship thought proper to detain her for the Service of Government. Your Lordships Memorialists further beg leave to represent that the said Ship & her Cargo has cost them more than Eight Thousand pounds Sterling which sum they wuld have received some months ago had the Ship been permitted to have proceeded on her Voyage which was strictly within the Intention of the Act Passed in the last Sessions of Parliament for “Restraining the Trade &c”

They therefore most humbly Pray that your Lordships will be pleased to order immediate payment to be made to them for the said Ship & her Cargoe without [which] your Memorialists will inevitably be ruined as they and their Predecessors Messrs Kelly Lott & Co have what is to them, an Immense Sum due to them from the Colonies, besides a very considerable property in the Provinces of New York, New Jersey & Pensylvania.

Your Lordships Memorialists beg leave to annex the original Invoice, bill of Lading, Commissioners Acquital of the Ship & her Cargo, with the protest &c in order to illucidate the facts to your Lordships. And your Lordships will therefore be pleased to direct such relief to your Memorialists as to your Lordships may seem meet, and your Memorialists as in Duty bound will ever Pray, &c.

Public Advertiser, Wednesday, August 14, 1776

London [August 14].

Captain Groves, of the Tyne Packet, who is arrived at Falmouth from Jamaica, was obliged to work up as far as Cape Nichola Mole, to get what Information he could of the American Privateers; when he was informed that a great many American Vessels were cruising about the Windward Passage; in particular that two large armed Vessels were cruising near Crooked Island, viz. a Brig mounting 16 Guns and 80 Men, and a Sloop with 14 Guns and 70 Men. Captain Groves met with a Sloop off Bermuda, which he took to be an American, but out-sailed her, and afterwards met with a French Merchant Ship from Porto Prince, who had been boarded by an American Privateer of 16 Guns and 160 Men, who plundered him, and wantonly fired six Shots before he came up to him. They enquired of the Frenchman what West Indiamen he had met with, but the Captain refused to tell him.

A Gentleman who left Alicant the Beginning of last Month, informs us, that there were then two large Philadelphia Ships in that Harbour, loading with Salt and some other Articles that the Americans have now great Occasion for.

LORDS COMMISSIONERS, ADMIRALTY, TO LORD GEORGE GERMAIN

My Lord,

Admiralty Office 15th August 1776.

Your Lordship having in your letter of the 9th inst. signified to Us His Majesty's Pleasure that the Ships which have been ordered to be provided to carry the Regimental Cloathing to North America, should be sufficiently manned and armed to defend themselves against any of the Rebel Cruizers in case of Separating from their Convoy, we gave the necessary Directions thereupon to the Navy Board; & They having in return, by their Letter of the 12th instant, sent us a List of the Ships taken up for the Service above-mentioned, with their force, and acquainted Us that, if those Ships are not judged to be of sufficient Strength to defend themselves against the Rebel Cruizers, they have reason to believe that Others capable of mounting Guns sufficient to make a better defence, cannot be procured in time, We send Your Lordship herewith a Copy of the said Letter for His Majesty's Information, and beg leave to observe that if it be His Majesty's Pleasure that other Ships of greater force be taken up for this Service, the Season will be so far spent that it will be impracticable for the Ship destined to Quebec, and very precarious for those bound to New York and Halifax to make their Passage this Year, But that if it be His Majesty's Pleasure that the Ships which have been already provided, and have nearly (tho' it is to be lamented so late) taken in their Loading, should proceed on their Voyages, care will be taken to appoint sufficient Convoys for them, and to put trusty Sea Officers on board each of them, the better to guard against their separating from their Convoy, & to direct their Proceedings, and defend them if attacked in case of Separation. We are &c

My Lords Commissioners of the Admty having on the 3d of this Month directed that the Crew of an American Armed Vessel called the Yankee which had been seized & brought into the River, should be receiv'd on board the Ardent, then at Blackstakes & kept & Victualled there til farther orders. I am now commanded by their Lordships to signify their direction to you to order the Ten Men named in the Margin Part of Crew of the said Vessel, to be put on board the Vulture Sloop & then to direct her Captain to proceed with them to Spithead & dispose of them as the Commanding Officer there shall direct victualling them while on board the Sloop in like manner as her complement, & taking particular care they do not make their escape; & having so done to remain at Spithead til farther Order.

It is also their Lordships farther directions that you cause the remainder of the Crew of the said Armed Vessel to be sent on board the Mars at Blackstakes, where they are to be kept & Victualled in like manner as on board the Ardent until the Beaver Sloop arrives at the Nore, when you are to cause them to be put on board her & carried to Spithead (when she proceeds thither) in like manner as those Ordered to be sent by the Vulture, except Henry Johnson the Commander & Eliza Downour [Eliphalet Downer] the Surgeon of the said Vessel, who are to be continued ordered on board the Mars 'til farther Orders.

Lord Suffolk to the Lords Commissioners, Admiralty

My Lords,

St James's August 16th 1776.

I am directed to signify to Your Lordships The King's Commands that Henry Johnson, El. Downour, David Hall, and John Cochran, who acted as Officers aboard the Rebel Privateer call’d the Yankee of Boston, be properly secured for the present aboard such Vessel belonging to His Majesty as your Lordships may find most convenient. But with regard to the Crew, consisting of 17. Men & 2 Negro Slaves, His Majesty in his Clemency has no Objection to their being received aboard some Ship of War. It would however be most expedient to dispose of them in some Vessel employed in the East Indies, or, if not, in the Mediterranean Station, as they will be under constant Temptation to desert in the Hopes of obtaining in North America a Share of the valuable Plunder which their Vessel had collected [and] sent to New England. I am &c.

M. GARNIER TO VERGENNES

[Extract] London, 16 August 1776

It is only natural as you have observed, My lord, that the work in our Ports determined the Court of London to increase the number of Guardships. But it would not be if they resorted to the impressment, and if this measure should take place the time for negotiatons would be passed and we should begin to act.

I have the honor to send you herewith, My lord, the translation of the Act of 4 July whereby the Colonies declared their independence under the title of United States of America. Others besides myself will better appreciate the motives upon which this declaration rests. The fact itself is what seems to interest us most. It is caught between two Armies and in sight of a formidable fleet that the Colonies declared war against Great Britain; because it is the Act that was meant by the declaration of war. We must admit, My lord, that this is quite far from the idea of immediate submission which the Government always entertained and which it considered as the unavoidable result of the display of its forces.

Yesterday George Ross, Master of a Vessel in the Merchants Service, was brought before the Lord Mayor, in the Council Chamber, Guildhall, being charged with a Breach of the Peace against Mr. Alderman [William] Lee, upon the Royal Exchange, and threatening “to do for him in another Place.” His Conduct appearing to have been exceedingly outrageous, he was bound over in a Recognizance of One Thousand Pounds, and two Sureties in Five Hundred Pounds each, to appear next Sessions at the Old Bailey. It appeared on the Evidence that his Assault on Mr. Lee was entirely unprovoked on the Part of the Alderman, who had never seen him before; and there appeared sufficient Reason to suspect that a very dark Design was intended against Mr. Lee. It was proved that the Treatment of the Prisoners brought into the River in the Yankee Privateer was literally as stated in a Letter addressed to the Lord Mayor, signed “Humanitas,” and published in the Ledger on Monday the 5th of this Month. That Capt. [James] Hodges’s Humanity and Kindness to the Prisoners was uniform and laudable. Capt. Winn, who was present the whole Time that Mr. Alderman Lee was with the American Prisoners, and heard all their Conversation, declared, before the Lord Mayor, that the Conversation stated to have passed by a Writer, under the Signature of “Plain Truth,” in the Gazeteer of Wednesday last, was totally false.

Lord George Germain to the Lords Commissioners, Admiralty

Having had the honor to lay before The King the Copy of Vice Admiral Lord Shuldham’s Letter to your Lordships of the 16th of April, transmitted to me in your Letter of the 7th of June, in which he acquaints your Lordships that upon quitting the Harbour of Boston with the Fleet, he had stationed a Squadron of His Majesty’s Ships in Nantasket Road, under the command of Captain [Francis] Banks of the Renown, for the purpose as he expresses it, “of intercepting and sending to Halifax the Ships with the Supplies ordered to Boston, and which would consequently be Ignorant of the removal of the Fleet and Army;” And having also laid before His Majesty the Disposition of the Ships under Lord Shuldham’s command, dated 6th July last, transmitted in Your Lordships Letter of the 14th Instant, from which it appears that His Majesty's Ships Renown and Milford, the Hope Sloop and Halifax Brigantine were then stationed in Boston Bay.

His Majesty remarked, with much Surprize, that in the account given by General Howe in his Letter to me of the 7th of July, of the Capture of two Transports with part of the Highland Regiments onboard, those Transports are said to have been carried into Boston, without having been intercepted by any of His Majesty's Ships; That other accounts from different quarters represent that Harbour as an Asylum for the Rebel Cruizers and their Prizes, And that the late Advices from Halifax mention the arrival there of the Renown and Milford, two of the Ships stated by Lord Shuldham to be cruizing in the Bay of Boston.

His Majesty was therefore pleased to command me to signify to your Lordships His Majesty's Pleasure, that you do direct Lord Howe to inquire into the Truth of these Facts, and into the conduct of the Officers commanding such of His Majesty's Ships as have been stationed in Nantasket Road, or appointed to Cruise in the Bay of Boston since the Evacuation of that Town by the Army, and to report the same to your Lordships for His Majesty's Information.

I am further commanded to signify to your Lordships His Majesty's Pleasure that Lord Howe be also directed to inquire into, and report to your Lordships, for His Majesty's Information, the Causes which so long operated to prevent the Station of a small Squadron of His Majesty's Ships in the Delaware Bay, agreeable to what was signified to Your Lordships by the Earl of Dartmouth, by His Majesty's command, in his Lordship's Letter of the 7th July 1775; And what were the Motives which induced the removal of His Majesty's Ships Roebuck and Liverpool from that River, when at length it had been thought fit to station them there, by which an Opportunity was afforded to a large number of the Rebel Ships to sail from thence without Interruption, and for bringing in Supplies of all Sorts of Ammunition and other Necessaries of which the Rebels stood so much in need. – I am &c

I omitted, in my despatch of today, to inform you that Lord Suffolk yesterday told the Prince de Messerano that the quantity of supplies that the Americans draw from abroad is prodigious, and that he believed that it all came from the Dutch. He has not mentioned us since his little attempt with me. But if he is careful with us, he makes up for it with those poor Dutchmen, to whom they speak in a high tone here, and at the Hague, so I am told. Indeed, it must be admitted, that these Dutch browse in all pastures. Count Welderen has just left for Holland, on leave, which will protect him from the storm for a time.

Beaumarchais to the Committee of Secret Correspondence of the Continental Congress 1

Gentlemen: Paris, August 18, 1776

The respectful esteem that I bear towards that brave people who so well defend their liberty under your conduct has induced me to form a plan concurring in this great work, by establishing an extensive commercial house, solely for the purpose of serving you in Europe, there to supply you with necessaries of every sort, to furnish you expeditiously and certainly with all articles — clothes, linens, powder, ammunition, muskets, cannon, or even gold for the payment of your troops, and in general every thing that can be useful for the honorable war in which you are engaged. Your deputies, gentlemen, will find in me a sure friend, an asylum in my house, money in my coffers, and every means of facilitating their operations, whether of a public or secret nature. I will, if possible, remove all obstacles that may oppose your wishes from the politics of Europe.

At this very time, and without waiting for any answer from you, I have procured for you about two hundred pieces of brass cannon, four pounders, which will be sent to you by the nearest way, two hundred thousand pounds of cannon powder, twenty thousand excellent fusils, some brass mortars, bombs, cannon balls, bayonets, platines, clothes, linens, etc., for the clothing of your troops, and lead for musket balls. An officer of the greatest merit for artillery and genius, accompanied by lieutenants, officers, artillerists, cannoniers, &c., whom we think necessary for the service, will go for Philadelphia, even before you have received my first dispatches. This gentleman is one of the greatest presents that my attachment can offer you. Your deputy, Mr. Deane, agrees with me in the treatment which he thinks suitable to his office; and I have found the power of this deputy sufficient that I should prevail with this officer to depart under the sole engagement of the deputy respecting him, the terms of which I have not the least doubt but Congress will comply with.2 The secrecy necessary in some part of the operation which I have undertaken for your service requires also, on your part, a formal resolution that all the vessels and their demands should be constantly directed to our house alone, in order that there may be no idle chattering or time lost — two things that are the ruin of affairs. You will advise me what the vessels contain which you shall send into our ports. I shall choose so much of their loading, in return for what I have sent, as shall be suitable to me when I have not been able beforehand to inform you of the cargoes which I wish. I shall facilitate to you the loading, sale and disposal of the rest. For instance, five American vessels have just arrived in the port of Bordeaux, laden with salt fish. Though this merchandise, coming from strangers, is prohibited in our ports, yet as soon as your deputy had told me that these vessels were sent to him by you to raise money from the sale for aiding him in his purchases in Europe, I took so much care that I secretly obtained from the Farmers General an order for landing it without any notice being taken of it. I could even, if the case had so happened, have taken on my own account these cargoes of salted fish, though it is no way useful to me, and charged myself with its sale and disposal, to simplify the operation and lessen the embarrassments of the merchants and of your deputy.

I shall have a correspondent in each of our seaport towns, who, on the arrival of your vessels, shall wait on the captains, and offer every service in my power. He will receive their letters, bills of lading, and transmit the whole to me. Even things which you may wish to arrive safely in any country in Europe, after having conferred about them with your deputy, I shall cause to be kept in some secure place. Even the answers shall go with great punctuality through me, and this way will save much anxiety and many delays. I request of you, gentlemen, to send me next spring, if it is possible for you, ten or twelve thousand hogsheads, or more, if you can, of tobacco from Virginia of the best quality.

You very well understand that my commerce with you is carried on in Europe; that it is in the ports of Europe I make and take returns. However well-bottomed my house may be and however I may have appropriated many millions to your trade alone, yet it would be impossible for me to support it if all the dangers of the sea, of exports and imports, were not entirely at your risk. Whenever you choose to receive my goods in any of our windward or leeward islands you have only to inform me of it, and my correspondents shall be there according to your orders, and then you shall have no augmentation of price but of freight and insurance. But the risk of being taken by your enemies still remains with you, according to the declaration rendered incontestable by the measures I shall take by your deputy himself. This deputy should receive; as soon as possible, full power and authority to accept what I shall deliver to him, to receive my accounts, examine them, make payments thereupon, or enter into engagements which you shall be bound to ratify as the head of that brave people to whom I am devoted; in short, always to treat about your interests immediately with me.

Notwithstanding the open opposition which the King of France, his ministers, and the agents of administration show, and ought to show, to everything that carries the least appearance of violating foreign treaties and the internal ordinances of the kingdom, I dare promise to you, gentlemen, that my indefatigable zeal shall never be wanting to clear up difficulties, soften prohibitions, and, in short, facilitate all operations of a commerce which my advantage, much less than yours, has made me undertake with you. What I have just informed you of is only a general sketch, subject to all the augmentations and restrictions which events may point out to us.

One thing can never vary or diminish: it is the avowed and ardent desire I have of serving you to the utmost of my power. You will recollect my signature, that one of your friends in London, some time ago, informed you of my favorable disposition towards you and my attachment to your interests. Look upon my house, then, gentlemen, from henceforward as the chief of all useful operations to you in Europe, and my person as one of the most zealous partisans of your cause, the soul of your success, and a man most deeply impressed with respectful esteem, with which I have the honor to be,

Roderique Hortalez & Co.

P.S. — I add here, to conclude, that every American vessel, though not immediately armed or loaded by you, will be entitled to my good offices in this country; but yours, particularly addressed to my house, will receive a particular preference from me. I ought also to intimate to you, gentlemen, that from the nature of my connection it is to be wished you would use discretion even in the accounts that you give to the general Congress. Everything that passes in your great assemblies is known, I cannot tell how, at the court of Great Britain. Some indiscreet or perfidious citizen sends an exact account of your proceedings to the palace of St. James. In times of great exigency Rome had a dictator; and in a state of danger, the more the executive power is brought to a point, the more certain will be its effect, and there will be less to fear from indiscretion. It is to your wisdom, gentlemen, that I make this remark; if it seems to you just and well planned, look upon it as a new mark of my ardor for your rising Republic.

R. H. & Co.

[Extract] [Paris, August 18, 1776]

. . . If a few of our cruisers should venture on this coast they might do very well, as they would find protection in the harbors of this kingdom. Coming ostensibly for the purpose only of commerce or otherwise no questions would be asked, and they might wait until an opportunity offered (of which they might be minutely informed), and then strike something to the purpose. I give this hint to individuals rather than to the honorable Congress as a body. The bearer, Mr. [William] McCreary, has obliged me by copying my memoir, which I sent herewith. It has had a great run among the ministers of this and some other courts in a private way. M. Beau-marchais writes by this opportunity; he has shown me his letter, and I have agreed in general to the contents, not understanding any exclusive privilege for his house. Everything he says, writes, or does is in reality the action of the ministry; for that a man should but a few months since confine himself from his creditors, and now, on this occasion, be able to advance half a million, is so extraordinary, that it ceases to be a mystery. . . .

"Extract of a Letter from the Chief Mate of a West Indianman, to his Father in Newcastle, Dated London, August 19."1

I had the misfortune to be taken by the Yankee privateer, when bound to the head quarters, loaded with rum for the fleet and the army, from Antigua to New York. In lat. 36.40. long. 74.50. west, the said privateer, in the grey of the morning, gave chace, and got along side us about nine o'clock.

We had but 2 four pounders and 12 shot, and gave 11 of them; the other gun lost the fore-truck, or wheel, and we could not get it to bear; and he being close along side, his guns loaded with round crop bar and canester shot, that we were obliged to strike and hoist the boat out, and go on board with the Captain and papers; the people were all detained, as also the Captain; and their people sent on board our ship, and some more of ours were sent in the second boat, I being one of the number.

They had taken one three-decker before they took us, she was from Jamaica, with sugar and rum, for London; and three days after parted with the two ships, they having orders to make the best of their way for Boston, Marble-head, or Cape Ann. We soon ran them out of sight with the privateer. We having been eight days on board as prisoners, concerted measures to rise, and take her from them, which we accomplished, without lives lost on either side. We went in search of our own ships, but fell in with two American privateers, which made us bear up, and make all the sail we could to get from them; for if they had taken us, we should have expected nothing but death, but we were determined to fight to the last man, and would have sunk her rather than been taken.

We had a fair wind all the way to London, and fetched all the prisoners here with us, which were 25; and of us 14, officers included. After we were masters for 20 days and nights we durst not go off the deck for fear of a revolt from them. We did not put any in irons, but one, and that was for his impertinence. She is a fine sloop, mounts 9 four-pounders, 16 swivels, and two cohorns. 2

Sir, Paris, August 19th, 1776.

Since the stores and goods have been engaged and getting ready, I have made inquiry of several merchants respecting the charter of vessels for America generally, without mentioning what their cargoes should consist of, and have written in the same way to some of my correspondents, and in the whole, I find I shall not be able to provide them as early as is necessary at any rate, and I fear not without making their destination and object too public. You will recollect that I mentioned my apprehensions of this subject some days since, and now propose (if consistent with your other engagements,) that you would take the procuring of the vessels necessary on you, at least, as far as to be security for the payment of their charter. It gives me pain to put this additional trouble and expense on you, but I know that you think nothing within your power is too great to be undertaken for the service of the United Colonies of America, whose grateful acknowledgments must equal, though they can never exceed your generous exertions in their favor at this critical and important period of their affairs. These vessels will return with cargoes on your account, which, with what will probably arrive from other remittances, will enable you to proceed to the greatest extent in executing the great and liberal plan you have proposed. I shall do myself the honor of waiting on you to-morrow morning on this and other affairs; mean time I am, with the utmost respect and attachment, Sir [&c.]

Silas Deane.

MARQUIS DE GRIMALDI TO PRINCE MASSERANO

Your Excellency: After warning me that he did so of his own accord and without orders from his Court, the English Ambassador spoke to me about the frequency with which ships of his Colonies come to our Ports and carry on their usual trade. He indicated how convenient it would be to issue orders forbidding this assistance, as the Portuguese Ministry has now done with respect to that Kingdom. I replied to him saying that I believed that very few came; that they were regarded here as subjects of Great Britain, because it was not possible to tell which were of one party and which of another; that they came in pursuit of a legal, long-established trade; that it did not seem usual to hinder it, above all when they did not carry or seek in exchange goods that England objected to. I recalled to him that the British Cabinet had rejected a proposal Your Excellency made to them last year to turn away from Port Egmond again certain American vessels which, it was supposed, had come there without the sovereign’s knowledge. The rejection was based on the position that it would insult the English flag, a thing that would serve the Nation very badly. Lastly, not being able to persuade me that the ships might present themselves under an unknown flag, nor having any evidence of it, he said he would make the appropriate reports. I advise Your Excellency for your information and God grant Your Excellency [&c.]

Nantes 20 August 1776.

In answer to the favour of your last letter and to the information which you desire to have about the trade which could be engaged in with the Colonies of the North; the point is that the houses which are desirous to interest themselves in this business shall be capable of making advances, or shall have sufficient credit to supply the goods to me at terms of 6 and 8 months. I should then find means to make some shipments which might amount to a million and more per annum.
According to the plan which I have formed, we should have no risk to run. The goods will be insured and, from the manner in which I shall give the orders for their sale, I am sure that it will give us, all expenses paid, a considerable profit.

An experiment may be made in the first place with a sum of 200 or 300 thousand livres. It is a good business and one which should be followed up if it be desired to carry it through, and which no one else will be able to undertake.

If that suits you, and if I am assured of the arrangements and conditions, I shall let you know the articles which it will be necessary to supply to me either at Nantes or at Bordeaux. I feel flattered that you have anticipated my ideas: for I ought to arrange this speculation with some Dutch houses. I shall however await your reply.

As regards the private provisions which I have to make on the Continent you know that that is a matter between ourselves. I have houses all over Europe where I have credit sufficient to meet the demands which I make and for this purpose I have no need, although it is a matter of many millions, of any funds or advances. I have the honour &c.

[P.S.] According to the news which I have just received from London, I am notified that the King of England has lately proposed peace to the Americans.

I learn at the same time by a captain arriving from Cadiz who has spoken with a captain from New England that Lord Dunmore has been taken prisoner by General [Charles] Lee with 3,000 of his troops.2

From another quarter I learn that the General Congress has issued a declaration in all the Provinces of the Thirteen United Colonies of Liberty and Independence. God grant that this news be true!

I shall have the honour to send you some furs. I am informed that there are some arrived at Bordeaux, where there are nine or ten insurgent ships.

My Lord Lord [Jeffrey] Amherst having already given you his opinion whilst I was in the Country, upon the subject of your Lordship's letter of the 7th of this month, respecting Convoy & Arming the Ordnance Vessels, I have nothing to add but my perfect concurrence; that according to the experience I have had in the service, that the best method of transporting the most essential & interesting Stores to the Army & Navy upon the American Station, is by conveying them in 40 Gun-Ships. — The upper tier of which I apprehend to be superior to any Rebel Privateer, & at the same time great Stowage & room for many Recruits, for the Swivels & small Arms might be afforded.' — Probably 2 or 4 forty Gun Ships might convey all the Stores of the most interesting nature to their Destination with the utmost security. The annual Recruits of Artillery & the Officers destined for this service might be so timed, as to strengthen the Crews & lessen the number of Sailors.

Our Spades, Pickaxes, Felling-axes, Gun Carriages and many Stores known by the name of petty Emptions might be hazarded in Ships of inferior Force. But my Lord I speak this with great deference to another Department, which is the best Judge how far such Ships can, in the circumstances of Affairs be applied to this service; certainly very important in its nature, and which unless the Ordnance is positively directed to act upon a more enlarged Plan than they seem hitherto to have understood themselves as charged with, they will find great difficulty to execute.

On the other hand my Lord, if it shall not be judged expedient that these Ordnance Stores should be conveyed by Men of War, I hope His Majesty's Orders will be signified to me by your Lordship "that the Ordnance Ships carrying Ordnance and Stores be sufficiently armed & manned against the Rebel Cruizers" will be extended so as to enable the Ordnance to hire or build Ships of greater force, than seems at present to be understood to be within this Department.

As the Ordnance cannot know what is the American's Naval Force; whether skulking Privateers or Vessels cruising in company, the only security seems to be in stout Vessels, fitted for close Quarters, and with a proper number of Guns & Men, for which I hope your Lordship's instructions.

It will be necessary in this case, to take our Guns from the Naval Stores, to be replaced for the Navy as soon as possible.

I beg leave to trouble your Lordship with an Extract of His Majesty's Instructions for the Ordnance, by which you will judge of the distinction between the Land & Sea Service in that Department — and I also trouble your Lordship with the Orders I have given in consequence of the Directions I received this day — until His Majesty's pleasure be further Known. I am My Lord [&c.]

CAPTAIN ROGER WILLS, R.N., TO PHILIP STEPHENS

Sir Spithead 21st August 1776

Please to acquaint my Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty that this day I arrived with his Majesties Sloop the Ranger under my Command at Spithead, in pursuance of Commodor Sir Peter Parker’s Order, from South Carolina, in a leaky condition; having on board Captain [Charles] Hope charged with dispatches from the Commodore, and Generl Clintons Secretary charged with his dispatches. — I sail’d from the Bar of Charles Town the 15th of July, and in my track on the 20th in the Latttd of 35° 18' N. Longd from the Bar 8° 46' Et I fell in with a Trading Sloop belonging to the Rebels, from Ocrecock in North Carolina, bound to Cape Nicholas Mole, laden with Tobacco, and Lumber, to purchase in returne arms, Powder, or Saltpetre. I seiz’d her, exchanged the Prisoners and Order’d the prize to proceed to the first port in England. The Master informs me that it was reported in North Carolina, that Arm’d Vessels were Intended to be sent to cruze, to intercept the Homeward bound Trade, off the Western Islands. — On the 27th it blowing very fresh with thick rainy weather and a great Sea; at 6 o’Clock in the Morning in the Latttd of 39° 20' N Longd. from Carolina 19° Et saw a Sail to the westward standing after us, Coming up very fast, on which I immediately Clear’d for Action, at 1½ past 7 she Came near us, on which I hoisted the Colours and fir’d a shot at her, she hoisted a Rebel flag at her topmast head (being a Sloop of 12 Carriage guns) and return’d a shot, we exchanged several shot; as the Sea run very heigh our Carriage guns was mostly under water, and rendered almost useless. I keepd to the leeward of her that I might be able if possible to make use of the weather guns, which I did between whiles. She made frequent attempts to get to leeward of us, which I as often prevented at 1½ past 8 she hauled the wind and made sail from us. I chaced her, but she being very clean, out saild us considerably. I therefore thought it most prudent to proceed on my proper course, having the above dispatches on board. I am Sir [&c.]

"EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM PORTSMOUTH, AUG. 21."¹

This Morning arrived at Spithead his Majesty's Sloop Ranger, Captain Willis, from Charles-Town, with Dispatches from Sir Peter Parker, which were intrusted to the Care of the Hon. Captain [Charles] Hope, who immediately set out Express for the Secretary's Office. 'Tis reported here that the Bristol Man of War, with some other of our Fleet, met with great Damage in passing a Fort in Charles-Town River, and that red-hot Shot were fired into the Ships. The Bristol was on fire twice in one Day: that Captain [John] Morris, who commanded her, was killed, and that about 200 Men were killed and wounded. His Majesty's Ship Acteon is entirely lost on a Shoal; three of our Ships ran on Shore, which occasioned great Slaughter on board them. They were about to sail from Charles-Town when this Account came away.

LORD STORMONT TO LORD WEYMOUTH¹

[Extract]
Very Secret

The very material Intelligence communicated to me by the Kings Command in Your Lordship's most confidential Letter of the 18th Inst agrees, as You will have observed, in several Respects with the imperfect accounts I have from time to time transmitted, particularly in my Letter No 53. in which I mentioned by Name Messrs chaumont & DuBourg. I am persuaded that the Person whom I there called Pennet is the Monsieur Pinette your Lordship mentions, He was called to me by the Name I gave him in my Letter and represented as a German Merchant, but my Information came from People of a lower Class with whom such Inaccuracies are very frequent. I am likewise persuaded that Mr Deane is the Person that was mentioned to me by the name of Dana and think it very likely that He came in Company with Nathan Rumsey. . . . and may intend to return to America together in that Vessel now waiting at Bordeaux of which I gave Your Lordship a Description, and which perhaps may deserve to be watched: as it would I think be of some Importance to seize Mr Deane.

There is one Part of the Intelligence Your Lordship has received which I own, I am at a Loss to comprehend. That Beaumarchais should be recommended as an active hustling Man, and ready for this or any similar Business I can easily conceive, but I do not understand how He who has neither Money nor Credit could offer to credit the Americans, to the amount of three Millions of Livres unless this Court have secretly engaged some Merchants or adventurers here to risk that Sum.

Précis Prepared for George III of Events Leading to the Expedition Against the Southern Colonies

[London, August 21 to August 22]

On the 21st of August 1776, Lord George Germain received another Dispatch from Genl Clinton, dated July 8th in which he says that it appeared by Letters, which he had rec'd from Genl. Howe that he was not expected or called upon for any immediate assistance on the opening of the Campaign. That he [had] not named either the time or place of joining him, but rather seemed, on the contrary, to intimate his wishes that some operations might take place to the Southward, & had pointed out Charleston as an object of importance. That upon these grounds, & upon receiving Intelligence, that the Works erected by the Rebels on Sullivan's Island, were in an imperfect & unfinished state, he was induced to acquiesce in a proposal made by the Commodore to attempt the Reduction of that Fortress by a Coup de Main — That he thought it possible, at the same time that it might be followed by consequences of immediate advantage to His Majesty's Service, not intending at that season of the year, to have proceeded further than Sullivan's Island — That with this view they sailed from Cape Fear on the 31st May, and were joined on their passage by the Ranger Sloop of War, by which he rec'd Lord Geo. Germain's Dispatch of the 3d March which has been already stated; and thinking upon a consideration of that Dispatch, that the object in view came within the description of those pointed out therein, he resolved to proceed — That the passage from Cape Fear was attended with great difficulty, & delays That upon a consideration of the whole & Lord Cornwallis agreeing with him in opinion, he resolved as the best means of co-operating with the Fleet, to take possession of Long Island, which was represented to communicate with Sullivan's Island, by a Ford passable at low-water, & with the Main by Creeks navigable for boats of draught. That this object was effected, and the whole Force assembled on Long Island on the 18th June, except a few Recruits, who were left on board the Transports for deception — That his first business after landing was to examine the Ford, which, to his unspeakable mortification, he found to be 7 feet at low water, instead of 18 inches as had been reported, so that his Operations upon Long Island, were limited & confined — for altho' his situation was an object of jealousy both to Sullivan's Island & to the Main, yet as he had not boats for more than 6 or 700 Men, he was reduced to one attack without being able to favour that by any diversion on the other — That he acquainted the Commodore with this discovery, & with his apprehension that he should not be able with his Troops to take that share in the attack upon the Fort, he was once in hopes to have done; assuring him however than whenever he should think to begin his attack, he would make every possible diversion in his favor, or send him 2 Battalions to act on his side, in case he & the Genl Officers appointed to command them, should be of opinion they could be protected in their landing & employed to advantage — That in answer to this, it seemed to be understood that he should give the best support he could, & they only waited for a Wind to begin the attack — That at that time the Rebels had an Intrenchment & Battery on the point of Sullivan's Island, where he intended to have landed, from which he thought they might be dislodged by the light Ordnance he had on shore; but unfavourable Winds having prevented the Fleet from making the attack for 4 days, the Rebels removed from their station & took up some very strong ground 500 yds back, with a more extended Front — That this Post having very great advantage in point of situation & being defended by 4 or 5000 Men, he thought it could not be attempted without a manifest sacrifice of his Troops and accordingly had it in contemplation to make an attempt on Federal's Point upon the Main, by making a landing within 3 miles of it — That he made a request to the Commodore, that some Frigates might be directed to co-operate with him in that attempt, to which he assented; but as his movements depended in great measure upon those of the Fleet, it was impossible to decide positively upon any plan — That about 7 o'clock on the 28th June the Fleet was discovered going upon the attack of the Fort on Sullivan's Island; but as when they brought up they did not appear to be within such a distance as to avail themselves of their fire from their tops, grape-shot, or musketry, he was apprehensive no impression would be made upon the Battery, & he likewise saw, that the 3 Frigates supposed to have been destined to cut off the Rebel communication with Federal's Point & favour his attack upon it, were aground, immediately after the 4 leading Ships had taken their stations. That during the Attack he made every diversion by cannonade while the sands were uncovered — That small armed Vessels were ordered to proceed towards the Point of Sullivan's Island, but that they all got aground — That the Troops were disposed of in such a manner as to be a portée to attempt the landing, either on Sullivan's Island or the Main as circumstances, during the attack, should make necessary. That the Cannonade of the Fleet continued without any favourable appearances 'till night — That upon an expectation that it would be renewed in the morning he made the best dispositions he could, of the small Ordnance he could collect, to enable him if necessary whilst the tide suited to have made one effort on Sullivan's Island, an Attempt however contrary to every Military Principle, & justifiable only in a case of the success of the Fleet or of its distress, to support the one or relieve the other — That at day break finding, to his great concern, that the Fleet had retired & that there was no intention of renewing the Attack, he proposed to the Commodore to proceed as soon as possible, to the Northward and that they should sail in a few days for New York.

On the 22d of August the Lords of the Admiralty communicated to Lord Geo: Germain, a copy of a Dispatch from Sir Peter Parker to Mr. Stephens dated Bristol — in 5 fathom hole within Charles Town Bar, the 9th July 1776, in which he says, that the Sphynx & Pensacola Packet, having on the 26th May returned from reconnoitering Charles Town, the Engineers Report of the state of the Fortifications and the Works carrying on, added to an Account Genl Clinton had recd that the Troops would not be wanted so soon as he expected, having made an attempt on that place advisable, the Fleet on the 30th May, got over the Bar at Cape Fear, & on the 1st of June anchored off Bull’s Bay — That on the 2d of June the Ranger & Delegate went to sound the North end of Sullivan’s Island & Long Island, as far as the Rattle Snake, & next day from the northward of the Rattlesnake to the northward of Long Island — That on the 4th of June the whole Fleet except the Ranger, anchored off Charles Town Bar — That on the 5th the Delegate, covered by the Friendship, sounded the Bar, & laid down buoys preparatory to the intended entrance of the harbour on the next day by the Frigates — That on the 6th Capt Willis was directed to place the Ranger, St Lawrence and Friendship, where Genl Clinton thought proper — That on the 7th the Bristol’s assistance being judged necessary, & it being the opinion of the Captains, Masters & Pilots, that if she were brought to 17 Feet 6 Inches, she might be got over the Bar, orders were immediately given for her guns to be taken out, and the ship lightened for that purpose; & the same day all the Frigates, & most of the Transports got over into 5 fathom hole — That on the 10th the Bristol got over the Bar with some difficulty — That on the 15th the Captains were given the Arrangements for the Attack of the Batteries on Sullivan’s Island, & the General was informed the next day by letter, that the Ships were ready — That on the 21st signal was made to unmoor, to cause a diversion, tho’ the Wind was contrary, it being imagined that the Troops were engaging the Rebels at the northend of Sullivan’s Island — That this Day the General fixed on Sunday the 23d for the joint attack — That on the 23d June, a private signal was made to the General, that the Ships would go on the attack at one o’clock, but the Wind coming contrary the signal was hauled down at 11 o’Clock. That on the 25th the Experiment arrived & came over the Bar the next day, when a new arrangement was made for the attack. That on the 27th the Wind being flattering the private signal was made to the General & the Ships got under weigh but were obliged to Anchor, the Wind flying suddenly round to the northward. That on the 28th of June at half past 9. Genl Clinton was informed by signal, that the ships would go on the attack. At half an hour after 10 the signal was made for weighing, and about a quarter after Eleven they brought up against the Fort. That Coll James in the Thunder Bomb, covered by the Friendship threw several shells a little before and during the Engagement in a very good direction — That the Sphynx, Actaeon & Syren, which were to have gone to the Westward, to prevent the Fireships, or other Vessels from annoying the ships engaged, & to cut off the Retreat of the Rebels when driven from their Works ran aground thro’ the ignorance of the Pilots, from whence the Sphynx & Syren got off in a few hours, but the Act[ae]on remained fast ’till the next morning when she was set on fire by her own crew to prevent her falling into the Enemies hands — That during the time of their being abreast of the Fort, which was 10 hours, a brisk fire was kept up by the Ships, with intervals, & they had the satisfaction, after being engaged 2 hours, to oblige the Rebels to slacken their fire very much, & to drive large parties of them several times out of the Fort, which were replaced by others from the Main. That the Forts were totally silenced & evacuated near an hour & half but the Rebels finding that our Army could not take possession, about 6 o'clock a considerable Body of theirs re-entered the Fort, and renewed the firing from 2 or 3 guns, the rest being as supposed dismounted — That about 9 o'clock, it being very dark, great part of their Ammunition expended, the people fatigued, the tide of Ebb almost done no prospect from the Eastward, and no possibility of their being of any further service, the ships were ordered to withdraw to their former moorings — That their Lordships will see plainly by this Account that if the Troops could have co-operated on this Attack, His Majesty would have been in possession of Sullivan's Island — But he begs leave here to be clearly understood lest it should be imagined that he means to throw even the most distant reflexion on the Army — for that he should not discharge his conscience were he not to acknowledge, that such was his opinion of The King's Troops, from the General to the private Soldier that after he had been engaged some hours & perceived that The King's Troops had not got a footing on the North end of Sullivan's Island, he was perfectly satisfied, that the landing was impracticable, & that the attempt would have been the destruction of many brave men, without the least probability of success — And that this he is certain will appear to be the case when Genl Clinton represents his situation — He then, after giving an Acct of the State of The Ships, of the number of Men killed & wounded, & of the behaviour of the Officers & Men upon the occasion, concludes with acquainting, that all the Regiments will be reembarked in a few days — That the first Brigade will sail in a day or two under convoy for New York & that the Bristol & Experiment, will, he hopes, soon follow with the remainder.

WILLIAM KNOX, UNDER SECRETARY OF STATE, TO LORD DARTMOUTH

My dear Lord [London] 22 Augt 1776

I hoped to have been able to send your Lordship a more pleasing account of our Southern Expedition than is contained in the inclosed precis It is well however the Troops have not suffered by the climate which I dreaded more than the fire of the Rebels, tho' that has done no small execution on board the Ships. Not a Man on the Quarter Deck of Sir Parker's Ship at the beginning of the attack, that was not either killed or wounded before the end of it. The worst consequence of this failure will be the shewing the Rebels where their strength lies and how they may foil us again in the winter tho' our strength be greater. They were seen to hang up a man upon a Tree behind the Fort, before they could prevail on a Party to return to the Guns. We have no Account or even guess at their loss. All our hopes are now fixed on General Howe, a cheque at New York would undoe us all, God Grant he may wait for his reinforcement before he attempts any thing, and then I think they will not wait for him. I am ever Your Lordships [&c.]

Honble Sirs

Yesterday arrived at Spithead His Majestys Sloop Ranger Captn Wills from South Carolina with an Express; and in the Afternoon on the proper officers examining the Baggage of a Gentleman who came Passenger they found Eighty Letters, which in Obedience to your Order of the 24th February, we forwarded (in a Box) by the Coach last Night under the Seals of office Addressed to your Honors.

This Ship left South Carolina the 15th Ulto and brings an Account that His Majestys Ships, Bristol, Experiment, Actaeon, Siren, Solebay, Active and Sphinx under the Command of Sir Peter Parker, attempted on the 28th June last, to get over the Bar of Charles Town River with intent to land the Troops on Sullivans Island In this Attempt, some of the Ships particularly the Bristol and Actaeon grounded on the Bar by which they became exposed for a considerable time to the continual fire of a Fort erected by the Rebels to annoy any Shipping making such Attempt; whereby the Bristol was much shattered, and the Actaeon so Circumstanced, that Sir Peter ordered her to be set on Fire which was done, and She soon afterwards blew up —

Captain [John] Morris of the Bristol lost his Arm & died soon Afterward — Captain [Alexander] Scott of the Experiment likewise lost an Arm, but is in a fair way to recover Lieutenant Pike of the Active was killed — The Bristol had two Masts Shot away. The following is the best Account we can collect of the Numbers Killed and Wounded Vizt

Memoir of Silas Deane to the French Ministry

Memoire

In the Instructions given Mr Deane by the honorable Committee of Secrecy for the Congress of the United Colonies in North America he is among other Things charged to sollicit for a Credit for "Cloathing & Arms for Twenty five Thousand Men, with a suitable Quantity of Ammunition, and One hundred Field pieces" which Article closes, with saying [""]that the whole if granted or obtained, would make a Cargo that it might be well to secure by a Convoy of Two or Three Shipps of Warr.'

These Articles are now engaged but, Great Brittain depending more on preventing supplies to the Colonies of the means of Defence, than on their formible Armaments, have taken, and will pursue every measure, both of Negotiation, & Warr to deprive the United Colonies of necessary supplies of Cloathing, & Stores for Warr.

The safe Arrival of these stores, is of the last importance, & in some sense the Fate of the United Colonies depends upon it.

The Time for their Arrival, will be in November, or December, when the Campaign on the part of the Army of Great Brittain, unaccustomed to the Severities of that Climate, must be closed; And it is easy to forsee that it must be in one of the following Situations. if Victorious, and successful in every Attempt, they will be in possession of New York, Albany, and thence of the Water courses into Canada, of Long Island and some part of the Jersies, the late opening of the Campaign will not admit of more considering the Nature of the Country, should they meet with no defeats, & the season will call their Attention to such Winter Quarters, where they may be most secure from the Forces of the United Colonies, & best receive reinforcements from Europe.

On the other hand if the Army of the United Colonies are victorious that of Great Brittain must remain shut up in Staten Island under worse Circumstances than they were last Year in Boston, or return to Hallifax, or what in such Case is much the most probable winter in the West Indies.

In either case the Arrival of this Supply at this Time will be of the utmost importance to the Army of the United Colonies.

If unfortunate their Spirits will be newfired, and defying the inclemency of the Season to which they are habituated, they will rally and their Enemy having no Advantage of fortified Towns to shelter them they will with ease regain all they lost in the Summer, & pursing the Blow wholly drive the British Forces from the Continent.

If fortunate, & the British Forces situated in one of the above places one of which on such an Event must be their Situation this supply will enable them to drive them off finally & prevent their Return. several other Considerations need not be particularized, they are seen at once by a supposition of those Stores being intercepted to prevent which the most prudent & effectual Measur[es] must be taken.

The Stores if Shipped in French Bottoms will be safe on the open Sea, at least they ought to be so, & the Vessels have a right of entering the Ports of North America to refit or repair, under cover of which they might be landed, many other ways may be taken to effect the same purpose without Violation of the Laws of Commerce, But, inter Arma silent Leges, & We have no hopes in this Case to be an exception to this general Rule, But after every other precaution, must be prepared to oppose Force to Force; in the doing which, the United Colonies would by no means pursue, or wish to have such Measures pursued, as might involve France in a Warr, solely on their Account.
But as the United Colonies, have declared themselves Free, and independent States, and have declared open Warr with Great Brittain, if this Commerce with the United Colonies, considered in Connection, with other important Objects, should be deem'd deserving Support & protection, France has the same Right to support & protect it, as a Commerce with the United Colonies of holland, if at Warr with Great Brittain, and for Great Brittain to forbid such a Commerce at the risque of a Warr, is in one Word to Assume the right of prescribing Laws to France, which watever he[r] inclination prompts on this head her present Resources, & desperate Situation will never imbolden her to Attempt.

In considering this Subject, several Methods have been thought of, some of which may possibly meet with Approbation, & prove effectual, or some one different may be formed from these hints

1st It is humbly submitted, whether, at this Critical period it will not be judged the true policy of France, to have a Fleet of Observation, in the American seas, and should such a Fleet be sent out, whither these Stores might not be sent under its Convoy untill they arrived in those seas, & on that Coast.

2d Should this measure not be adopted, or should such Fleet Sail too late for this purpose whither permission might not be obtained for purchasing or hiring Three, or Four Frigates as a Convoy, to Sail as for the West Indies under French Colors, but if on entering any harbor in America they should be under the Necessity of Contending, it may be done under the Colors of the United Colonies.

3d Should this be thought unadviseable, Whither it would be permitted to hire Frigates of individuals for this purpose, observing strictly such Regulations as shall be prescribed for avoiding every Thing that might justify a rupture between the Two Nations.

The Loss of these Stores by Capture would be every way of bad Consequence though it would add but little, comparatively to the Strength of the Enemy, yet the Loss to the United Colonies must be doubly great heightned by so discouraging an Accident, at so critical a period of their Affairs.

These Thoughts are humbly Submitted only by adding, that many American Seamen may now be engaged in the Ports of Great Brittain, & Ireland, who are detained there from going direct for America, but would be permitted to ship themselves for Holland, or France, and who must otherways from Necessity, be soon reduced to enter the British Service.

1776 August 22. Note of contents of the memoire. In the instructions given by the American Congress to Mr Deane, he is, amongst other things, charged to solicit, upon credit, accoutrements and arms for 25,000 men with suitable amount of ammunition and 100 field guns. And when France shall have granted the whole, a cargo would be formed which might come under convoy of two or three men of war. The carrying out of this instruction is contingent upon the several events which may happen during the war which Congress will have to maintain against England.

M. GARNIER to VERGENNES

[Extract] London, 23 August 1776

. . . The Warship Pembroke and the Frigate Bologna, both old vessels destined to serve as hookers in Halifax, are ready to sail from the road of Portsmouth. They are loaded with masts and all kinds of rigging for the Fleet in America and they are also to convoy a few Transports for the service of the Army. They are presently loading two large merchantmen in Deptford which are also supposed to carry rigging to Halifax.

I had the honor to inform you previously that General Clinton was to have received at Cape Fear orders to rejoin General Howe without attempting anything against the Southern Provinces, and you will have read, My lord, that General Howe’s last letters indicated he was awaiting as a matter of fact the arrival of the Army Corps under the command of General Clinton. The original orders to this last General authorized him to attempt an expedition either in Virginia or in the Carolina if he could see any interesting advantage to it, otherwise to join with the main part of the army. As soon as it was learned here that Sir Parker’s Squadron with the troops destined to operate under Mr. Clinton’s command had been scattered, it was thought that the moment to make an attack against the South had slipped by, and positive orders to join with General Howe were sent to him. Unfortunately those orders did not reach him, and this small Army Corps composed of about four thousand men made an attempt against Charles Town, the Capital of South Carolina. Sir Parker’s Squadron, after passing the bar which is at the opening of the river, attacked batteries located on the Island of Sullivan. It was necessary to destroy them in order to make possible the disembarkement of the troops; but, unable to approach the batteries close enough to reduce them to silence because of the lack of depth of the water, he was subjected to such a running fire that after an obstinate engagement which lasted a few hours, he was forced to give up. This did not take place without losses on his side. His flagship the Bristol of 50 guns was badly damaged. The Captain on board was killed. There were besides 40 men killed and 71 wounded. The Experiment, also of 50 guns, suffered a great deal. There were 24 men killed and 72 wounded, among these the Captain who lost his arm and, from what is said, cannot get over it. The Frigates Active and Solebay had two men killed and three wounded. The Frigates Syrene and Sphynx ran aground and were set afloat again with the greatest difficulties. It was not the same for the Acteon a new Frigate of 28 guns and built with especially hardened wood through a preparation which I once procured for M. de Boynes. They had to blow her up for fear that she fell into the hands of the enemy, and you can, My lord, scratch her out of the table. The Captain of this Frigate came as a passenger on the Corvette Ranger which arrived with this news in Portsmouth on the 21st. The peculiar thing about all this is that the batteries that worked so well were composed of 40 guns from the Foudroyant, the beautiful ship which we lost so unfortunately during the last war. Since they use only iron guns on their Ships, they had sent these guns which were made of cast-iron to South Carolina. I have this information from Colonel Keene, one of the Lords at the Colonial Office. The whole affair must have taken place on the 26th or the 27th of June. Its lack of success determined Sir [Peter] Parker to join with Lord Howe. But the poor condition of his Ships does not promise much speed in his navigation. The Vessel that brought this news had sailed on the 6th of July. I shall not fail to send you, My lord, whatever particulars the Government will deem proper to publish about it. Lord Sandwich tried to justify Sir [Peter] Parker, but the other Ministers blame the conduct of this Admiral claiming on the one hand that even the success of the expedition was unnecessary, and on the other hand, that at least he should have been better acquainted with the depth of the river before proceeding.3

London, August 23.

The Americans have such a Number of Privateers at Sea, that scarce a Ship has arrived from the West India Islands but has been chaced by them.

The Fame, Moore, from Barbadoes, is safe arrived at Dublin, after being chaced on his Voyage by two American Privateers, both which she out-sailed.

The Neptune, from Antigua, for Corke, with the St. Peter, from St. Vincent's for Liverpool, and the Friendship, from Grenada to London, were all taken by an American Privateer in Lat. 31.1

The Albion, Hogg, from Dominica, who is arrived at Cork, was three days after she sailed chaced by an American privateer five hours, but one of his Majesty's frigates appearing in sight, obliged the privateer to give over the chace and sheer off. The frigate afterwards gave chace to the privateer, but whether she came up with her or not is unknown, as the Albion proceeded on her voyage.

There are now missing of the fleet which came under convoy of the Antelope man of war, four ships from Jamaica, and one from Barbadoes; and it is generally supposed they are taken by some American privateers.

1. These three vessels were taken between July 11 and July 15, by the Continental ship Reprisal, Captain Lambert Wickes. See Volume 5 and William Bell Clark, Lambert Wickes: Sea Raider and Diplomat (New Haven, 1932).

Amongst the Slain on board the Bristol, Man of War, are said to be one Lieutenant, three Midshipmen, and a Quarter Gunner.

It is quite possible, Sir, that contraband leaves our ports for the Colonies. On our shore, it is only merchandise; at sea, we do not meddle with it unless it is under the protection of our flag and in destination to our possessions. However, I believe that the Dutch take better advantage of this opportunity than we do; they are more skillful than our merchants.

"EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM BORDEAUX, 24 August 1776."¹

The French ship Marianne arrived yesterday in this port from St. Marc. She had disembarked there 4 captains and seven English sailors whom a Bostonian Privateer, armed with 12 guns and a crew of 90, had asked her to take on board after meeting her at sea. They relate that this Privateer had already captured 11 prizes, that most of the sailors had joined their party and that they, the captains, and all those who wished to remain loyal to the King of England were left without difficulty on each neutral vessel they met at sea.

They do not know where this privateer sent her prizes. They praise the Captain who allowed them to take their personal effects and who returned 4000# to one of them because he did not find them entered on the consignment of the ships and thought therefore they belonged to him. If we are to believe these officers, the Americans have 64 vessels mounting from 10 to 36 guns, most of which are cruising off the Eastern part of the Newfoundland bank. They form their crews there. They stop all fishermen and sink the vessels. They find men easily because they treat them well and they may rely upon them because it is not in their interest to be caught by the English, besides their fondness for looting. &ca.

LORDS COMMISSIONERS, ADMIRALTY, TO LORD GEORGE GERMAIN

My Lord,

Ammiralty Office 28th Augt 1776

Your Lordship having in your Letter of the 24th Instant acquainted us that you have signified to the Master General of the Ordnance His Majesty's Commands that no Ordnance or Stores should be sent to America onboard any Vessel that did not sail with Convoy, and was not sufficiently manned & armed to defend herself against any of the Rebel Cruizers in case of Separation from the Convoy; and Your Lordship having at the same time inclosed to us, by His Majesty's Command, a Copy of the Letter you have received from Lord Townshend, and an Extract of one which you have received from Lord [Jeffrey] Amherst, in consequence thereof, and signified to us His Majesty's Pleasure, that we should take the same into our Consideration, and acquaint Your Lordship, for His Majesty's Information, whether what is therein proposed can be complied with consistent with the other important Services under our Direction: We have in obedience to His Majesty's Commands maturely considered the Propositions contained in the Copy & Extract of the Letters abovementioned, Vizt

1st. That Ordnance Stores of the most interesting nature be conveyed to the Place of their Destination in America in Forty Gun Ships, for which Purpose two or four might probably be sufficient; or 2dly. That the Master General of the Ordnance be empowered to hire or build Ships of greater force than seems at present to be understood to be within his Départment, to be fitted with close Quarters and with a proper Number of Guns & Men, in which case it is represented to be necessary to take Guns from the Naval Stores to be replaced as soon as possible.

With respect to the first Proposition We are to acquaint Your Lordship, for His Majesty's Information, that all His Majesty's Ships of forty Guns are now employed in America, except the Launceston which is condemned & can never go to Sea.

That if His Majesty had more Forty Gun Ships, or other Frigates, than what are now employed, they would all be wanted for the Protection of the various Branches of Trade, and for carrying on the American War; which, by what now appears to us, requires as many Frigatés as the late War with France & Spain.

That if Men of War were fit to carry out Stores of any kind, they would of course be employed in our own Department for that Purpose, for Provisions & Stores; but as this Method is not practiced by us, from our Knowledge that it would be perverting them from their proper use as Ships of War; we must, in the strongest manner, represent to His Majesty against their being employed in any other Department.

With respect to the second Proposition, we are not competent Judges of the Expediency of building Ships by the Ordnance, unless it was intended that they should be built in His Majesty's Yards; which we must object to, as there is as much Business in hand in the several Yards as can possibly be executed by all the Artificers that can be procured; but we humbly conceive that the Ordnance may procure armed Ships, more suitable for the purpose of carrying Stores than Men of War; as has been done by that Branch of His Majesty's Government which has taken care of the Victualling of the Army in America.

And as to the employing the Guns, appropriated to the Service of the Navy, to other purposes, we humbly apprehend, that the Ordnance is to furnish Artillery, not only for all the Ships actually on the List of His Majesty's Navy, but for such as may hereafter be added thereto upon any Emergency, and that as we have ordered many new Ships to be built, it will be attended with very fatal Consequences if their Guns are not in readiness for them. We are &ca.

2. This agitation for greater protection of ordnance vessels probably resulted from capture of the powder ship Hope by James Mugford, in Washington's schooner Franklin. See Volume 5.

LORDS COMMISSIONERS, ADMIRALTY, TO CAPTAIN JOHN LEWIS GIDOIN, H.M.S. Richmond, Spithead

Whereas it is of great consequence to His Majestys Service that the Transports named in the Margin, the former being laden with Cloathing, the latter having on board Recruits for His Majts Regiments of Foot in Canada should be safely convoyed to Quebec, You are hereby required & directed to take the said Transports under your Convoy & proceed to Sea with the first opportunity of Wind & Weather & make the best of your way with them to Quebec accordingly taking all possible care yourself & giving the most positive Orders to their Masters respectively that they do not lose Company with you. And whereas we have directed the Navy Board to appoint Mr Horsenail a Midshipman of the Navy to go on board the Mellish with Instructions to superintend the navigating her to explain to her Master the Convoy Instructions & Signals, and in case of separation to Direct the Ships proceedings agreable to the Rendezvous & Orders you may give him & in conjunction with the Officer commanding the Troops put on board her, to assist in defending her against the Cruizers of the Rebels in case she should be attacked, You are farther required & directed to give Mr Horsenail such additional Instructions as you shall judge proper for the purposes aforementioned & to lend to the Mellish from the Ship you command a careful diligent Petty Officer to assist Mr Horsenail in executing the duty with which he is charged, which Petty Officer will be paid by the Navy Board an Allowance to make up his present Pay equal to four Shillings a Day from the time he shall be so employed.²

Having seen the said Transport Ships safe to Quebec you are to make the best of your way to join Vice Adm Lord Howe at Sandy Hook, or wherever you may learn his Lordship is, and upon joining him deliver the inclosed Packet to him & follow his orders for your further proceedings.

It is interesting to note that the Mellish was the first ship to whom the Lords of the Admiralty sent a midshipman and a petty officer for additional protection against rebel cruisers, and became the first ship, so reinforced, to be taken by one of the said “rebel cruisers,” the Continental ship Alfred, Captain John Paul Jones. Before sailing the master of the Mellish had made an affidavit “to defend her in case of being attacked.” Ibid., 106/2594.

3. Similar orders were sent this date to Captain James Feattus, H. M. Sloop Vulture at Spithead, to convoy storeships and victualers to Halifax and then report to Admiral Howe at New York. Convoy was also to include H. M. Sloop Hunter. Ibid., 2/101, 284-85.

The Count de Marbeuf, Capt. Lochee, from Martinique, who is arrived in the Garonne, spoke on her passage with an American privateer, which had a prize in company. Three gentlemen and a lady from on board her, by leave from their captors, took a passage to Europe with Capt. Lochee, and are safe arrived here. Four English sailors also, with the master of the prize, were suffered to come home in the Count de Marbeuf, the privateer having more prisoners than she could well manage, and being on that account glad of the opportunity to getting rid of them. The gentlemen and lady are sent out for Paris, as is the master of the ship, which I think they say came from Antigua, and the sailors mean to take a passage home in a sloop lading here for London.

A Letter from Capt. Morgan of the Unity Transport, arrived at Halifax, says, "... Off the Isle of Sable, early in the Morning, we saw a Schooner, which seemed inclined to speak with us; about Noon she was only Half a Mile from us, when she fired a Shot to bring us too; she had hoisted no Colours notwithstanding she fired a Shot; we were surprized at this, and could therefore hardly think she was one of our armed Schooners, as the Officer would certainly know his Duty better; we accordingly brought too, but took Care also to get all the Soldiers up, and in Arms, and had them all ready under the Quarter-deck, and out of Sight; she ran under our Stern, and bade us strike to the Congress; on which having four Guns abaft, (all we had on board) we complimented her with a Couple; she then kept on our Bow, and seemed inclined to board us, our Soldiers immediately went forward, and gave them such a Discharge of small Arms, that she found she had caught a Tartar. I believe we killed them five Men at this Fire. She then shot a-head of us, in order, I believe, to consider what to do; the Determination was to leave us, which they did by steering away South, whilst we kept on for Halifax Harbour, not having suffered the least Hurt. The Schooner had ten Guns, and I believe upwards of fifty Hands."
A Gentleman is just arrived from Bermuda, and has brought with him a Virginia Gazette, which mentions, that the Goods of the West-India Ships, lately taken being sold, the Owners of the Privateers shared 5000 l. each, and each Sailor had for his Share 500 l. It also adds, that this great Success has infused into most a Spirit for Privateering; and they are fitting out a great Number, in Hopes of picking up many of the next West-India Fleet.

Accounts were received Yesterday, that the St. James, of this Port, from Jamaica, that has been missing and was supposed to be foundered, was taken by a Provincial Privateer. I have received, Sir, your letters Nos. 119 and 122 dated 31 July and 7 August in which you reported the engagement in sight of St. Pierre Road between H.B.M. frigate Shark, Captain Chapman, and the American corvette le Reprise [Reprisal] Captain Lambert Wickes, as well as the request made to you by M. Chapman to the effect that the King's frigate be allowed to seize the Bostonian frigate in St. Pierre Road. His Majesty to whom I reported this matter approved your refusal and the reply you made to Vice admiral Young. The King is convinced that in all cases you will uphold with the same dignity the honor of his arms and that you will never tolerate any violence or insults towards a vessel which would have requested the protection of the forts of the Colony whose command was entrusted to you, or which would be anchored under the protection of the guns of the said Colony or sailing within their range.

But His Majesty, while wishing to protect the right of sanctuary in his ports and roads, does not intend to favor openly the Insurgents in such a pointed way that it would provoke objections on the part of Great Britain: consequently, His Majesty disapproves the assurance you gave to M. Bingham, deputy of the Secret Committee of Congress, that you would support as much as it was within your power the interest of the Insurgents. You believed that you were justified to do so because of the instructions which M. [Thomas] Dorves, Captain of l'aigrette, had been ordered to communicate to you. But there is nothing in these orders that could warrant stretching their meaning as you did, Sir; you did not grasp the spirit of the Instructions. I directed therein the Commanders of His Majesty's frigates to grant the protection of the Flag to the Insurgent Vessels that would come and request it: it is the law of Nations and the right of Sovereigns; but the said Commanders are enjoined by the same Instructions not to move in any way towards the Insurgent Vessels, but to wait until circumstances brought them close enough so that they could ask for the King's protection and not to facilitate through their own manoeuvres those which the said Vessels might make in order to approach His Majesty's ships. You can see, Sir, that these Instructions do not show that His Majesty wishes to support the Insurgents openly; the King is only determined not to tolerate any attempt against the respect to which his Flag is entitled. These Instructions therefore do not authorise you to promise the envoy of the Secret Committee of Congress that you will support with all your power the interest of the Insurgents; by following these Instructions to the letter, you were merely to dissimulate the trade negotiations that this person might have opened, and by grasping the spirit behind these Instructions you were to facilitate secretly as much as it was within your power, but without making any formal declarations to the envoy, the various items which the congress had requested. You must adjust your line of conduct towards the Insurgents, Sir, according to this principle and avoid provoking the objections that Great Britain would have a right to make if His Majesty granted open protection to the Insurgents and supplied them with assistance in order to strengthen their resistance.

Since you have not sent me, Sir, the copy of the reply you made to the envoy of Congress, I suppose\(^4\) that it was made by word of mouth only and that it will be easy to have him look upon the drawing which he will be able to make at Martinique of the items requested by Congress as a trade operation from Nation to Nation and not as an open assistance which France is granting to the Insurgents.

His Majesty has chosen, Sir, to impute to an excess of zeal the positive assurances which you gave to the envoy thinking it was in your power to do so. The King recommends that you use great circumspection and counts no less on our caution and firmness. I have the honor to be with sincere attachment &c.

MARYLAND GOVERNOR ROBERT EDEN'S REPORT

London, September 2. Governor Eden arrived in London from Maryland, but last from Virginia, which he left on the 6th of August. He came in a transport.

Baltimore is fortified with 60 pieces of cannon, 9 pounders. Almost every town is fortified.

The Virginia convention desired the Maryland convention to seize the person of Governor Eden. The Continental Congress requested they would send him to them. Instead of complying with either, they desired the Governor would go on board one of the King's ships; and the president of the convention, and others, attended him to the water side. He went on board the Fowey. While the ship was lying off the coast, some persons of the province went on board her also. The Convention desired the Captain to send those persons ashore. He said they had taken refuge on board his ship, and therefore he could not: upon which the convention declared the truce was broken, and detained a part of Governor Eden's baggage, which had not been put on board with him. Their delegates in the Continental Congress, who had been instructed to vote against independency, and having so voted, had withdrawn from the Congress, were desired to return to the Congress, and act as they thought best for the interest of their country. They accordingly returned to Philadelphia, and acceded, in form, to the vote of independency.

... The Naval Preparations certainly continue, and as I am informed, a Resolution is taken, to send a Fleet into the french West Indies early in the Spring M. Dennery, who was upon the point of leaving St Domingo, when he received orders to remain there another Year, has consented to stay. Your Lordship knows, that he is a Man of Ability, and of an active, enterprising Spirit, and much connected, with that Party, whose Intentions are so hostile to us.

I learnt the other Day, that there is an officer now at la Rochelle, called Chambel, or some such name, who during M de Choiseuils Ministry, was sent several times by him to North America. He is a Protestant and has L’ordre du Merite, as he has no Business at Rochelle, it is very possible, that he meditates a another Journey to America. By the account I have of him, he is a dangerous Man, and was employed as such, by the Duke of Choiseuil, who not only foretold all the Troubles in America, which he prides himself up[on], but contributed all he could, to the accomplishment of his Prediction. ...

SIR JOHN HART TO THOMAS FARR¹

Sir,

Lisbon, Sept. 5.

I think it proper to acquaint you, that a North American privateer sloop is now cruising on the coasts of this kingdom; she has already taken on the 1st instant, at a few leagues N.W. of cape St. Vincents, the brigantine Mary and James, of London, last from Falmouth, with a rich cargo, and sent away the captain with six of his men, who landed at Setuval and bring this account. They learned farther from the privateer's people, that four other American privateers were now at sea between the Western Islands and Portugal; that she had already made on these coasts five other prizes; and proposed, with a rashness that will not I trust go unpunished, to try a cruize on the Mediterranean coasts of Spain.

I send you this advice, to the end you may take the best precautions in your power for the security of the British trade within your jurisdiction; and am, Sir, [&c.]

John Hart.

P. S. It appears by express just received from Algarve, that of the masters of the vessels taken, three of them put on shore at Algarve prove to be as follows: Gregory Potbury, of the brig Sarah Anna, from Exeter for Gibraltar and Malaga; William Carter, of the snow Lively, from Chester for Genoa; Wm. Davis, of the brig Good Intent, from Newcastle for Gibraltar.
The Guinea vessel blown up was the Africa, of Bristol, Capt. [John] Baker.

LORD SANDWICH TO GEORGE III

Admiralty Sept 6. 1776.

Lord Sandwich has the honour to inform your Majesty that finding no trace of the Glasgow transport in this office, (except one of that name that could not possibly be with Sir Peter Parker) he desired Sir Hugh Palliser to write to Captain Hope for what information he could give relative to the vessel that was taken by the Rebels in Carolina.

Lord Sandwich takes the liberty to trouble your Majesty with Sir Hugh Palliser's note covering Capt: Hopes answer, by which it seems plainly to appear that the Company of Highlanders taken in the Glasgow did not belong to any Regiment in your Majesty's service.

Since writing the above Lord Sandwich has found a list of transports (which he sends herewith) in which the Glasgow Packet is named, and appears to be hired in America, & to have gone to the Southward with General Clinton; and Captain Hope is this moment come to Ld Sandwich & tells him, that the company was, he is pretty sure, raised by General Clinton, commanded by a Mr Campbell, & composed chiefly of some Americans that were taken at Sea by the Syren man of war, and some deserters, & that he is positive they belonged to no Regiment.

Captain Charles Hope, R. N., who arrived in London, August 21, with dispatches from Sir Peter Parker, was the officer who cleared up the mystery for Lord Sandwich, ibid., August 26, 1776.

M. GARNIER TO VERGENNES

[Extract] London 6 Sept 1776

... in the ports, work is proceeding with the utmost haste on the construction, repair and outfitting of the vessels whose commissioning has been ordered. The number of these last has just been increased by three ships of 74 guns, to wit, the Invincible, the Elizabeth, and the Prince of Wales. The Admiralty's order specifies that they are to stand guard duty in the ports. Since ships of this firepower can be directed only against us, the only question remaining to be answered is whether these preparations are offensive or defensive: that is, whether England is merely keeping pace with her neighboring powers. You, Monseigneur, are inclined to the latter hypothesis; and I confess that I too shall be so inclined, so long as I do not see impressment put into effect. If this measure is used, I shall be convinced that these people are no longer bluffing and that we have really become their prime target. Thereupon I shall consider war inevitable and shall turn all my thoughts in that direction, rejecting all speculation to the contrary as useless and likely only to lead me into error.

I am keenly aware, Monseigneur, how important it would be for the King's Service to be informed in advance of the British Council's decision on this matter. I very much doubt that any firm one has as yet been taken; and the trouble is that in such cases, cause is swiftly followed by effect. Since the slightest rumor of impressment causes all seamen to take flight, the Government is always extremely careful not to reveal its intention. Very little time is required to have orders signed by the principal magistrate of each locality and to prepare some lighters or other small vessels suitable for carrying them out; proclamation and execution are performed at one and the same time. At sea, even this formality is unnecessary. Under Admiralty orders, the King's ships simply stop merchant vessels and seize most of their crews. ... But neither should we think that impressment will take effect quickly enough to provide any great attack forces here. Although the secrecy of the operation may procure a large number of men at the outset, progress soon slows down when the alarm is spread. Furthermore, the fleets are never more poorly manned than by impressment, which always catches many more landsmen than mariners. The greatest source of manpower would be that of seamen from coaling vessels, who number about twelve thousand. But since the subsistence of London depends on them, they would not be taken except in dire extremity.

There is in [Portsmouth] at present a fleet of 25 transport vessels, some for Halifax and some for Quebec. This fleet will sail with the first favorable wind, escorted by the frigates Richmond and Mermaid and the sloops Vulture and Hunter. In six weeks from now there will scarcely be a frigate fit for commissioning left in the ports. The same is true of corvettes. As soon as one is built, she is put into commission. The sloop Dispatch at Deptford, and one called the Swift at Portsmouth are cases in point. They are barely launched, and their commissioning has already been ordered. Despite the considerable number of these frigates and corvettes, which may be regarded as the Navy's light troops and which are all being employed in America, American privateers continue to capture prizes rather frequently.

I have no doubt that these privateers will appear in the Channel this winter and will make themselves very troublesome to English shipping.

Public Advertiser, Friday, September 6, 1776

London [September 6].

Notice from the Admiralty is stuck up in Lloyd's Coffee-house, that the Leeward Island Fleet was to sail the 1st of August, and is to be convoyed to England by the Argo Frigate.

No Convoy is appointed for the outward-bound Ships to the West Indies, all of them having taken on board an additional Number of Hands and Guns, in order to defend themselves, should they meet with any of the Provincial Privateers.

Letter from Dublin

[Extract]

A Vessel belonging to this City arrived last Thursday from Antigua; the Master and Owner of which I am well acquainted with; the Master informed me, that, after he had left Antigua about four Days, he was chased by an American Privateer of 16 Carriage Guns, which Vessel soon came up with him; she proved to be the Surprizal of Philadelphia, Captain Weeks, Commander, who obliged Captain Cathrow (the Name of my Friend) to come on board his Ship, and bring his Bills of Lading, Register, and several other Papers, by which it appearing the Vessel and Cargo were entirely Irish Property, the Master of the Privateer immediately discharged him without the smallest Injury. I hope they may continue these Favours; it being by some thought incredible; the Master Yesterday made Oath before our Chief Magistrate of the Facts, which Affidavit I have just read.

2. The Continental ship Reprisal, Captain Lambert Wickes.
3. Almon, ed., Remembrancer, III, 288, provides another account of this incident:

The Duchess of Leinster, belonging to Dublin, arrived there from Antigua, Sept. 3, with rum, in six weeks and four days. The Captain says that in latitude 20, and longitude 60, he was chaced and boarded by the Surprizal privateer, belonging to Philadelphia, Capt. Weeks, of 16 guns; that being carried on board the privateer, on examining his papers, the vessel and cargo being found Irish property, the Captain of the privateer said, that he would not distress him, because he was sure the Irish would not distress them. After keeping him on board for about half an hour, he gave Him up the vessel and cargo, and wished him a safe passage. There were on board the privateer, Captain Robinson, of the Neptune of Irvine, from Antigua, with rum; a Captain belonging to London from Grenada; and a Captain belonging to Bristol, from St. Kitts, all prisoners, and their vessels sent to North America, because they were British property.

PHILIP STEPHENS TO VICE ADMIRAL RICHARD LORD HOWE, NEW YORK

My Lord

7th September 1776

In my Letter to your Lordship of the 23d of July by the Perseus I informed your Lordship of every occurrence necessary for your knowledge up to that time.
I have now the honor to acquaint your Lordship that my Lords thinking it might afford protection to the Homeward bound Trade from the West Indies if a Ship was stationed off the Island of Bermuda, have ordered Captain [Samuel] Clayton (who commands the Camilla in the absence of Captain [Charles] Phipps) to cruize off that Island for one Month for that purpose, and to look out for and to use his best endeavours to take or destroy any of the Rebel Cruizers that may infest those parts and at the expiration of that time to proceed to join your Lordship at New York, and she sailed from Plymouth under these Orders on the 20th of last Month.

The Pembroke and Boulogne which, as I have already informed your Lordship, have been fitted, the former as a Hulk, and the latter for Harbour Service at Halifax, sailed for that place from St Helens the 22d ultimo.

The four Ships named in the Margin have been taken up to carry out the Clothing for the Armies serving in North America; and it being of the utmost consequence to the King's Service that the said Ships should arrive in safety at the places of their respective destinations, My Lords have ordered them to be manned and armed that they may defend themselves in case they should by accident lose their Convoy and be attacked by any of the Rebel Cruizers And for their greater security an Officer and 20 Soldiers are embarked on board each of them. Their Lordships have also directed the Navy Board to appoint the undermentioned Lieutenants and Midshipmen to go on board these Ships as against their Names expressed, Vizt

Mellish
Newcastle Jane Catharine Richmond

Mr Horsenail Midshipman and another Midshipman to be lent from the Richmond

Mr William Ingram Meek Mids. and another Midshipman to be lent from the Vulture.

Lieut Henry Colins
Clothing Ship
Mr William Essington Mids.

Lieut Robert McEvoy
Clothing Ship

Mr Rouse Mate of the Experiment with Instructions to superintend the Navigating them, to explain to their Masters the Convoy Instructions and Signals and in case of separation to direct the Ships proceeding agreeable to the Rendezvous and Orders that may be given them by the Captains of the Convoys, and in conjunction with the Officers commanding the Troops put on board them, to assist in defending them in case of being attacked.

Their Lordships have ordered the Captain of the Richmond to take the Mellish one of the said Clothing Ships under his Convoy, together with the King George Transport having on board Recruits for the Army in Canada, and proceed with them to Quebec and having seen them in safety thither to proceed to join your Lordship at New York.

The Captain of the Vulture hath also orders to take the Hunter under his Command and in conjunction with her Convoy the Newcastle Jane another of the said Clothing Ships to Halifax, He is likewise to take under his Convoy the Success Increase laden with Naval Stores and the three Victuallers named in the Margin for the use of the Fleet under your Lordships Command, and having seen them in safety to Halifax, to proceed together with the Hunter, to join your Lordship at New York.

The Captain of the Mermaid by whom your Lordship will receive this hath orders to convoy the Catherine and Richmond, the two remaining Ships with Clothing on board, to New York, The Mermaid will also take under her Convoy the Fifteen Victuallers named in the Margin laden with Provisions for the use of the Fleet in America which Victuallers with the three beforementioned take the whole proportion of Provisions mentioned in my former Letters; and if the Elephant Storeship, which is now lading Naval Stores in the Thames can be got round to Spithead in time she will also accompany the Mermaid.

I am further to acquaint your Lordship that for the greater security of the Success Increase Naval Storeship Their Lordships have ordered the Navy Board to appoint Mr Fortunatus Wright a Midshipman to go on board her with similar Instructions to those given the Officers commanding the 4 Clothing Ships: They have also ordered a Subaltern Officer and 20 Marines to be put on board of her, who are upon her arrival at Halifax to be landed to serve in the Battalion a shore.

It being intended that Lieutenant McEvoy of the Isis and Mr Rouse Masters Mate of the Experiment, should repair on board the Ships to which they respectively belong, and that Lieutenant Colins and the other Petty Officers abovementioned should return to England.
after they have performed the Service aforementioned, I have it in command from my Lords to desire your Lordship will give the necessary orders for that purpose.

Their Lordships have ordered 60 Landmen to be sent to your Lordship by the Ships named in the Margin in the proportion against each Ship expressed to be distributed on board the Squadron towards compleating their Complements in such proportions as your Lordship shall judge proper.

I have only to add that their Lordships have ordered the Commissioners of the Victualling to provide 130 Tons of Sour Krout for the use of the Squadron under your Lordships command, and that it will be sent out to you as soon as possible. I have the honor to be &c.

[Extract] [London] 10 September 1776

... I beg you to recall, Monseigneur, Lord Sandwich's remark of a few months ago to the Naval Commissioner of Portsmouth concerning a commissioning during the summer: that it was to show the neighboring Powers that despite all the forces being employed in America, England still had enough left to defend herself at home.
I had the honor of informing you earlier about a large ship called the Elephant which the government has purchased for commissioning as a warship. She is now receiving her guns and will come down the Thames within a few days. The Admiralty has just purchased another ship of 300 tons called the Brilliant which it is also going to commission. All this is for lack of frigates, of which there are scarcely any left here, so many of them being used up by the war in America. However, large the number of such ships employed as escorts may be, it is far from sufficient, as you can judge, Monseigneur, from the daily losses being suffered by the West Indies trade. Insurance on the safe return of ships in this trade, which never went above six percent during the last war, stands at eighteen today. The British Isles are short of foodstuffs, timber, &c., and colonists are losing about thirty percent because of rising costs of operation.

... So there we have it: preparations for continuing the war in America, and a large fleet in Europe to restrain us. Seen in this light everything becomes clear. From any viewpoint whatsoever, the only possible conclusion seems to be that the situation calls for the greatest precautions on our part....

We have no news from Staten Island except that on the 17th of July last, Lord Howe had not yet arrived there. You will recall, Monseigneur, that he sailed from Halifax on June 23d.

With the Court's consent, I have established over the past few years the practice of reclaiming French seamen from aboard English warships; and just now I have requested and obtained from Lord Sandwich the freedom of one Tabey, a Breton sailor who was on board the Royal Oak at Portsmouth. As soon as he arrives here, I shall provide him with what he needs to return to France.

2. Garnier's information was incorrect. Lord Howe had arrived off Staten Island on July 12, 1776, Tatum, ed., Serle's Journal, 28.

Vergennes to M. Garnier

[Extract] Versailles 14 Sept 1776

We have reports to the effect that Admiral Howe has at last joined his brother at Staten Island; but the same reports assure us that the General and the Admiral have made no move as yet against New York.

You will find enclosed, Sir, a copy of the statement made to the Admiralty of Bordeaux by Capt. du Brocq, arriving from Santo Domingo. From this document you will see what acts of violence English ships cruising in American waters are continuing to commit against our vessels. It is most important that we have this stopped, for it is sowing fear and dismay among our traders. The Court of London should scarcely refuse to heed our complaints, since it has been assuring us at every turn of its fairness, its love of peace and its desire to avoid anything which might in any way endanger peace. It is the King's wish, Sir, not only that you urge the English ministers to give the sternest and most explicit orders to the officers commanding Great Britain's ships, but also that you officially request the punishment of M. Judd, commanding the frigate Antelope, and of M. Young, captain of the Fremony [Pomona]. The conduct of these two officers is too clearly contrary to the intentions of their Sovereign for the latter not [to] express his displeasure or for him to let them go unpunished.

2. Captain William Judd, commanding the Antelope, was on the Jamaica station, and Lieutenant William Young, temporary commander of the Pomona, was in the Leeward Islands squadron.

LORDS COMMISSIONERS, ADMIRALTY, TO LORD GEORGE GERMAIN 1

My Lord,

Admiralty Office 17th Sepr 1776

Dear Sir:

I shall send you in October clothing for twenty thousand men, thirty thousand fusils, one hundred tons of powder, two hundred brass cannon, twenty four brass mortars, with shells, shot, lead, etc. in proportion. I am to advise you that if in future you will give commissions to seize Portuguese ships you may depend on the friendship and alliance of Spain.² Let me urge this measure. Much may be got, nothing can be lost by it. Increase, at all events, your navy. I will procure, if commissioned, any quantity of sail cloth and cordage. A general war is undoubtedly at hand in Europe, and consequently America will be safe if you baffle the arts and arms of the two Howes through the summer. Every one here is in your favor. Adieu. I will write you again next week.

Silas Deane.

2. War against Portugal was Beaumarchais’ idea. He urged this “unexpected and bold measure” in a letter to the Committee of Secret Correspondence on September 15. Ibid., 146-47.

LORD STORMONT TO LORD WEYMOUTH¹

[Extract]
Secret No 78 Paris Sepr 18th 1776

I have already observed to Your Lordship, that there now prevails here a pretty general opinion, that the public Tranquillity will not continue long, and that this unhappy Business will bring on a War in which Great Britain and France will soon find themselves involved²

It begins to be whispered, that a large body of Troops has rece'd orders to march to the Coast of Britany, others Say that the orders are only for the Troops to hold themselves in Readiness to March. As far as I have Yet been able to Trace this Report, it seems to me My Lord to take its Rise, from the orders given to the Six Battalions which are designed for the French West India Islands. The sending this Reinforcement seems to be a fixt Measure, and the Reason given for it is, That at a time when our Colonies are in a flame, and when there is so much reason to apprehend a War in South America, Every Principle of Prudence, and self Preservation, calls upon France to put Her Colonies in a proper posture of Defence. This may be the real Truth, but as Your Lordship sees better than I do, it may likewise be a Colour for the most Insidious, and Dangerous Designs. At the same time that I throw out this general, and very obvious Reflexion, I must add, that it rests wholly upon vague suspicion, and on that Caution and mistrust that naturally lead me to think of the worst that can happen, where so much is at Stake.

LORD GRANTHAM TO LORD WEYMOUTH

No. 45  [Madrid] 19th September 1776

I am well informed that orders have been sent to the several Ports for an account of the American vessels which have put into them, and the returns will probably be soon made; in the mean time I enclose to Your Lordship the advices which I have received from Cadiz and Malaga on that subject. This intelligence will undoubtedly affect the Spanish, as well as our commerce, and ought to point out to this Court the propriety, even the necessity of cooperating with His Majesty in crushing as much as possible, the success of the American vessels.

DR. EDWARD BANCROFT TO SILAS DEANE

. . . You will see by the Papers that a Total end is put to Lord Dun-mores Piratical Depredations; many hundreds of the Whites & Negroes which he had assembled being cut off[f] by sickness; above twenty of his Vessels taken or burnt, and the rest all dispersed & removed from that part of the Continent. So may the Enemies of America always prosper. The distresses of Barbadoes have extorted a very Lamentable Petition from the people of that Island, and a Gentleman is arrived here from Bermudas with a Memorial stating the incapacity of that Island to subsist without Provisions from the United Colonies, and intimating that if the Bermudians are not permitted to Bring Provisions from thence without interruption from British Cruizers, it will be necessary for them to ask both Subsistence & Protection from the Congress. . . .

From Quebec I hear that all attempts to Transport the Vessels sent out from hence, over the Falls of Chamblee in to Lake Champlain (by the help of Machines called Cammels) have proved fruitless, and that early in August it was found necessary to build Vessels on the Lake to Convoy Burgoyne's Army to Crownpoint, and that for this purpose all the Ship Carpenters in Canada were called together; and as this business will doubtless employ them until winter, we may, I think, make ourselves easy respecting the Operations in that Province. . . .

There were no Accounts received Yesterday at Two o’Clock of any of the Ships which came Part of the Way under Convoy of the Argo Man of War, but parted the Beginning of August. The Insurance runs very high upon them.1

1. The Argo had arrived at Portsmouth on September 15. The Public Advertiser, September 21, added: “The Prince of Wales, Captain Beales, from St. Kitt’s (one of the Argo’s Convoy) is arrived at Plymouth. She is the second of the Fleet arrived. There are twelve still wanting.”
"Copy of a Letter from Capt. Braithwaite, of the Hampden Packet Boat, dated Falmouth, Sept. 20."¹

Sept. 5, I received the Mail, and sailed from Lisbon, with the wind to the northward. I received as passengers, Mr. Scot, Mr. Fisher, and Mr. Smith, and, as distressed subjects, Capt. Thomas Moor, his Mate, and five of his people, being the Master and part of the crew of the Mary and James, of Falmouth, bound from London to Salerno, Naples, and Messina, but last from Falmouth, having sailed from thence the 20th of August, with a cargo worth between 20,000 l. and 30,000 l. and was taken the 1st inst. on the coast of Portugal, 14 leagues N.W. from Cape St. Vincent, (in sight of Mount Chigo) by an American privateer of eight carriage guns, and a number of swivels, commanded by Simon Forester, an Irishman, well known at Lisbon and Falmouth. The privateer was sloop rigged, and called the Rover; it being little wind, and rowing with twelve oars, she soon came up with Capt. Moor. She had taken before six sail on the coast, whose people she landed at Faro. The 22d of August a Guineaman, from Bristol, John Baker, Master, engaged her, but blew up in the action, and only three men saved out of 28. They stripped Capt. Moor and his people of every thing, and even threatened their lives, and sent the prize directly for America; the next day, being about eight leagues from Cape Spichell, they gave Capt. Moor his boat, in which he reached Setuval that night. The Captain of the privateer would not tell what place he belonged to,² but said there were 150 sail of them fitted out of different ports of America. The people told Capt. Moor they belonged to Salem, and that several more had sailed from thence for the coast of Spain and Portugal.

José de Gálvez to the Governor of Havana¹

[Extract]

... This background² has led the King to consider the matter; and reflecting that closing his Ports to the Americans will be followed by their declaration of enmity toward Spain, and by the seizure of our ships on all the Seas indiscriminately, leaving us without the least expedient for a reparation or even to punish this attack: His Majesty has decided that these same Americans be admitted cordially into Spanish Ports, although they may be flying their own Flag instead of the British one, and that if the English Court protest against it, let it see that the King cannot abandon the Commerce of his Subjects to such risks when it is certain that [neither] His British Majesty nor his Ministry would feel compelled to indemnify the damage which the rebellious Colonials would cause us.
For myself I have already notified Our Governors in utmost confidence on how to welcome and treat the vessels of the English Colonies in Spanish Ports, advising them that if an American privateer enter with a captured ship of any Nation, it must not be prevented from doing so, supposing that the prize vessel is flying the same Flag as the capturing ship, and that on equal terms an English privateer entering with an American prize must not be molested.

... although they [orders to West Indies ports] generally prohibit access to friendly or enemy Foreigners, it should be understood that the Americans with their own Flag or with any prize must be welcomed and treated in cases of urgency and known need with the same hospitality which would be extended to the English or the French.

All of which I advise Your Lordship by Order of the King so that you dispose at once what is suitable for complying in the Ports of your Jurisdiction in specific cases and with the idea that it is the Royal wish of His Majesty to give haven to Colonial vessels out of hospitality, but not permit them to sell goods or any Trade, and only to make repairs and buy necessities, paying the amount in coin, banknotes, or Negro Slaves. . . .

"Extract of a Letter from Bristol, Sept. 22."¹

Captain Graves, of the Elinor, is arrived here from Barbadoes, which Place he left the 19th of August, and says, that before he sailed a Vessel arrived from Bermudas; the Master of which told him that the Captain of a Privateer that had put in there to heave down his Ship said, that he had taken among other Vessels a Captain Craig, from Liverpool. The Black River, Currie, sailed the 20th of July from Dominica for Bristol: On the 2d of August, in Lat. 31. Long 63. was taken by the Enterprize Privateer, Captain [James] Campbell, of Baltimore, in Maryland, who had taken the Lancashire, Jones, from Jamaica to Liverpool; a Brig from ditto to England, and a Brig from St. Croix to Guernsey; a Sloop of Dartmouth from Barbadoes to Newfoundland, and had taken the James, Higgins, from Antigua to Lancaster, on board of whom the Privateer put the Mate of the Black River, and several Men; the Mate and Part of the People rose upon the Provincials, retook her, and brought her into Bristol. They afterwards fell in with the Tender belonging to the Nautilus Sloop of War which was at Bermudas, and put on board a Prize Master, and four of the Privateers Men.² The Privateer intended going on the Coast of Portugal in the Winter. The Privateer had taken a Sloop belonging to Tortola for Newfoundland, which they gave up to the Captain, and put on board her twenty-four Seamen, and a Mr. Wilcock, a Passenger of the James. The Privateer was a Schooner of eight Guns, and had sixty Men when she came out, and rowed with Oars.

VERGENNES TO M. DE CLUGNY

[Extract] Versailles, 22nd September 1776

. . . The importations from America will place in our ports the provisions and goods which England used to carry to the other nations of Europe. Re-exportation will offer to merchants a vast and fresh field for lucrative speculation, the success of which appears assured; and will go to diminish that kind of trade which formed one of the most important branches of the advantages which England reaped from America.

. . . I do not think that it is necessary to free the American goods from all duties. The favor which they deserve to experience in the present juncture is doubtless great, and you know that I think we should grant them great facilities, but we must distinguish between those which may be advantageous and those which might serve as a precedent in the future. It is important, from the beginning of this trade, to establish a basis fit to be preserved when events shall have consolidated the independence of the Colonies, and when their trade with us shall have taken a free and regular course. If we grant them total exemption now, this kindness would become bitterness when the necessity arrived to subject them to prestations and curtail the total exemption to which she would be accustomed, and as we should then have more competitors than now, the effect of this return to our principles might be dangerous.

I do not indulge, Sir, in all the details which this discussion might require; your knowledge will supply them; what I have just said will suffice to make you feel the motive which induced me to think that it is important to impose a duty of some sort on the importations from America: but I am at the same time of opinion that such duty should be as moderate as possible, that the Americans should be ranked with the most favoured nation, or be subjected to a single and fixed duty of 3%, for example. . . .

. . . Everyone must shut his eyes to the exportation of munitions and implements of war, and the registers must not contain any item nor any indication of this connivance, entire liberty being left to the Americans to load and export as they please the articles in question.

"EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM SEVILLE, SEPT. 22, 1776."1

For these several Days past we have had Advice here of two Provincial Privateers, mounting 10 and 14 Guns each, cruizing about this Port; and we are very well informed, that they have taken two or three Vessels on this Coast. We expect to hear of the Privaters being taken by some of the English Men of War, as two are on the look-out for them, and will certainly take them, if they can but once get sight of them.

'Tis hardly possible to express the Consternation at New Lloyd's Coffee-House, on Monday, at the Arrival of the News of the taking the seven Straits-men by the Rover Privateer; many a long Face was seen, and very few inclinable to do Business, unless upon very good Policies.

Monday after the Publication of the News of the taking the Straights-men by the Rover Privateer, many Policies were offered on homeward-bound Ships from Leghorn, Genoa, &c. but nothing was done on account of the very great Premium demanded.

Captain Dunlop, of the Margaret, who is arrived at Milford from St. Croix, was taken on his Passage by an American Privateer near the Bermudas, which, after keeping him for several Days, released him, and is supposed to be gone after some of the Leeward Island Fleet, which he had some Intelligence of.

The Complaints raised against the Captain of the Argo Frigate are entirely groundless, as it appears from some Passengers arrived in Part of the Fleet, that the Separation of the Fleet from the Convoy was entirely the Will of the Masters of the Ships, who thinking themselves out of all Danger, would no longer be under any Restraint, but each would make the best of his Way.

Their Letters are not trusted to the Post but sent by Private Hands. When I learnt this I immediately suspected that Wilkes is not the only Person in England with whom Beaumarchais Corresponds. My Suspicion is right, there are several other Persons, I do not yet know their Names, but hope to get them soon. . . .

Extract of a Letter from Capt. Moore, late Commander of the Mary and James, dated from on Board the Hampden Packet Boat, arrived at Falmouth.

"You will be surprised at hearing from me in this part of the world, the reason you will see by the protest handed to you. I was taken by a privateer called the Rover, a sloop of eight carriage guns and 14 swivels; when she left America she had on board 80 men, but when they took me they had only 38. The Captain's name is Simon Thomson [sic Simon Forrester]; where she belonged to; I could not learn from them. They appeared more like pirates than any thing else. They had taken six vessels before mine, but I do not remember any of their names; she had also an engagement with a snow belonging to Bristol, Capt. Bates, which blew up after fighting six hours; only three of the crew were saved out of 26, two of whom were landed on the coast of Algarve, with three masters of vessels and their crews, and the others entered on board the privateer. There were men of different nations on board her; but the captain and major part of the crew were Irish."

Prince Masserano to Marquis de Grimaldi

London, 27 September 1776

In reply to Your Excellency's letter of the Ninth of this month in which you informed me of what transpired between the Spanish brigantine La Vierge du Carmel on her return to Cadiz from Havana, and a British frigate commanded by Captain Maximillan Jacobs, I shall inform Your Excellency that I conveyed my protests to Mylord Suffolk at the conference. He replied that he had given the clearest and most positive orders in order to avoid any similar difficulties. I replied that the officers ought to be punished most severely for the simple reason that they could not pretend to be...
Europe Theatre

ignorant of them. Mylord was surprised that the frigate had fired a round-shot. I said to him that doubtless our brigantine had resisted the search, as she had every right to, and I reminded him of the steps I had taken here as a precaution before the ships of war left their ports with orders to stop the Americans. I added that if the brigantine had been stronger, she would have answered the British frigate with a cannon shot, and that the two vessels might have engaged in an action which perhaps might have produced unfortunate consequences. They will result one day from the arrogance of the British officers, if they are not restrained, for in time of peace one does not search the vessels of a friendly Power, nor open their mail packets. He told me that the Americans were resorting to so many subterfuges in order to arrive at their ends that the officers of their Navy were at a loss as to what to do. I answered that in a packet of paper there could hardly be any powder or shot, and that several days earlier His Majesty had ordered me to tell the British Minister that he had given the most rigorous orders prohibiting the supply of munitions of war to the rebels. He replied they were very satisfied with the good faith of our King, and that they had many proofs of it, and that the assurances given to Mylord Grantham were consistent with my manner of explanation here.

I said to him that I served only to carry out the orders of the King whom I knew was very desirous of maintaining good harmony with England. He replied to me in this manner:

With you who are my friend, I can explain myself differently than with anyone else. Your Excellency sees our situation and that we do not desire war with anyone. But if our success in America were such as we would hope, with the experience that we have at present, we would find ourselves in a position to make a firmer and more solid general peace than exists today, for the good of all monarchies.

I answered that this hope for a more solid peace between Spain and England would bring pleasure to the King who thinks likewise and who wishes only to keep that which he possesses without seeing it usurped by anyone.

Reflecting on this type of overture to which I only accord as much trust as it deserves, I do not know who caused it, whether the fear of seeing ourselves armed and the desire to remove from ourselves the fear of seeing them invade our possessions in America with the troops that they have in the Colonies, or the desire to give me to understand that they are not in a position to be able to support Portugal and that they will not support her, even if they were to succeed in America. I perceive these two motives there, but I do not know the one upon which to lay stress. But I still believe that we must remain armed and await events.

I shall finish this dispatch by telling Your Excellency that Mylord Suffolk promised me to deliver my note to Mylord Weymouth, the one which I gave him containing the names of the Captains of the brigantine and the frigate in order that he might make a report to His Britannic Majesty.

London [September 27].

Yesterday in consequence of an application made by the West India merchants the day before to the Lords of the Admiralty, notice was sent from the Admiralty to Lloyd's coffee-house, acquainting the merchants that a convoy would sail from Spithead the first fair wind after the 20th of October, only waiting 48 hours for the ships from the Downs, for all the West India islands. The convoy will consist of four ships of war.

Notice was also sent that a convoy would sail from Corke in December.

"Extract of a Letter from Plymouth Dock, Dated Sept. 27, 1776."

Arrived here last Monday the Brig, Samuel, from Nantz, in thirty-two Days [sic], bound to Petersburgh, belonging to Stockton, the Master's name Watson; he says that when he left Nantz, there were no less than twelve or fourteen Ships, Brigs, Schooners, &c. in that Port, belonging to different Ports in America, loading with Military Stores, &c. They bring Wheat and Flour in exchange. The Day he sailed, a large Ship, Burthen 400 Tons, left the same Port, bound to America, called the Hancock and Adams, commanded by one Smith, who was cautious in mentioning what Part of America he was bound to, or what his Cargo consisted of. Capt. Watson was several Times in Company with him, but could learn no Intelligence that was material. The Day before he sailed, he was examined by Order of the Commandant of the Port, when a Quantity of contraband Stores was found on board of him, which he was obliged to re-land; but the same Night they were re-shipped again, with a great deal more. The Mate of the above Brig was on board of the American, when he took on board 2000 Stands of Arms, 321 Barrels of Gunpowder, and 70 Barrels of Saltpetre, besides many other Implements of War, this Vessel had but a few Swivels on board, and might have been taken by the smallest Cruizer in our Service. Not one of the Yankees seemed calculated to make any Resistance, but depended entirely on Dame Fortune.

The above Account was confirmed by the Mate of the Samuel, (who was the Master's Son) the Carpenter of her, and two of her Hands; they were all examined by the Principal Officers of this Port, and every one of them agreed exactly with the Master's Report. The Master told me, that his Mate and People knew much more of the Affair than he did, they being often among the small Vessels, and very conversant with the American Crews, the Masters of which Vessels were quite open, and no way reserved in trans-acting their Business, speaking publicly of what they were to load with, and where they were bound to. A Schooner and Sloop had almost compleated their Cargoes, and would sail in a few Days after the English Vessel's Departure. The French seemed to take little or no Notice of their Proceedings, only now and then inspecting a Vessel to keep up Appearances. In fact, the Captain, Mate, and Crew of the Samuel, declare, that the Business of the Americans was transacted with a Degree of Barefacedness, that none, but People well pleased with their Company, could overlook. They affirm likewise, that a ten Gun Sloop could take twenty such Vessels for the Resistance they could make. Undoubtedly a few Cruizers off Cape Finisterre, would pick up Numbers of those Adventurers, with very little Trouble. The Hancock and Adam's Cargo was reported to be worth 35000 Pounds Sterling.

"EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM BOURDEAUX DATED 27TH SEPTEMBER 1776"

There have been several Vessels here from America some of whom We have reason to believe found means, though contrary to the Orders of Government, to procure Military stores and we believe some of them picked up Sailors of different Nations who were allured by the prospect of making their Fortunes in the American Service. There are at present only two American Vessels in this Port, both Sloops of New York built in the Bermuda Fashion, one of them of about 110 Tons with two Decks called the *Lucretia John Saly Master. The other single decked pierced for carrying ten Guns called the Samuel John Hutchins Master. These Vessels have yet got no Loading and it is impossible to say when they may part it is said they are waiting for dry Goods. All the American Vessels that have come here have brought Flour, Lumber, Potatoes and a few furs; We are strongly of opinion that the Ships said to be taken off the Coast of Portugal by an American Privateer were taken by some of the American ships that went from hence as one or two of them had a Number of Guns in the Hold and picked up straggling Sailors, which with what the other Ships could spare them these were sufficient to take any Merchantman unprovided.

LORD GEORGE GERMAIN to LORD GEORGE TOWNSHEND¹

My Lord, Whitehall, 28th September 1776

The late advices from Virginia representing the Earl of Dunmore's Situation to be so much changed from what it was at the time his Lordship transmitted the Demand of Military Stores inclosed in my letter to your Lordship of the 18th of April, that his Lordship has it not in his power to carry on any Military Operations against the Rebels in that Province, and there is good ground to suppose he has been obliged to quit his Government, and retire to the Army under General Howe, his Lordship, consequently, can have no occasion for the supply of Military Stores contained in that Demand; I have, therefore, received his Majesty's Command to recall the orders contained in my said letter to your Lordship of the 18th April, directing the sending out the said Military Stores to Virginia and your Lordship will be pleased to give the necessary directions for preventing the Embarkation of any part thereof, or for the relanding of the same in case any part has been embarked. Saturday passed by here two ships from Philadelphia, and one armed transport from America, with an American privateer which she had taken; the wind blowing very hard, they did not stay for a pilot. Yesterday a Dutch ship put 16 sailors on shore here, being part of the crews of the following ships, viz. the Anne brig of Liverpool, Capt. Wise, from St. Vincent's, taken the 1st of September in lat. 36, long. 35, by an American privateer of ten guns and 14 swivels; a brig belonging to Corke, from Grenada, commanded by Captain Casey (the name of the privateer that took the above was the Revenge, belonging to Rhode Island) and the—, from Tobago, bound to London, taken by a schooner of 10 guns. All the crews of the above ships (except the 16 landed here) it is said entered into the service of the Congress.

Silas Deane to the Committee of Secret Correspondence of the Continental Congress

[Extract] Paris, October 1, 1776

... For Heaven’s sake, if you mean to have any connection with this kingdom [France], be more assiduous in getting your letters here. I know not where the blame lies, but it must be heavy somewhere, when vessels are suffered to sail from Philadelphia and other ports quite down to the middle of August without a single line. This circumstance was urged against my assertions, and was near proving a mortal stab to my whole proceedings.

The stores are collecting, and I hope will be embarked by the middle of this month; if later, I shall incline to send them to Martinique, on account of the season. It is consistent with a political letter to urge the remittance of the fourteen thousand hogsheads of tobacco wrote for formerly in part payment of those stores; if you make it twenty, the public will be the gainers as the article is rising fast; in Holland, seven stivers 10 lb. and must be in proportion here. You are desired by no means to forget Bermuda; if you should, Great Britain will seize it this winter, or France on the first rupture. As your navy is increasing, will you commission me to send you duck for twenty or thirty sail? I can procure it for you to the northward on very good terms, and you have on hand the produce wanted to pay for it with. Have you granted commissions against the Portuguese? All the friends to America in Europe call loudly for such a measure.

Would you have universal commerce, commission some person to visit every kingdom on the continent that can hold any commerce with America. Among them by no means forget Prussia. Grain will be in demand in this kingdom and in the south of Europe. Permit me again to urge an increase of the navy. Great Britain is calling in her Mediterranean passes, to expose us to the Algerines. I propose applying to this court on that subject.

P.S. — An agent from Barbadoes is arrived in London to represent their distress; another from Bermuda, with a declaration to the ministry of the necessity of their being supplied with provisions from the Colonies, and saying that, if not permitted, they must ask the protection of the Congress.

I have to urge your sending to me either a general power for the purpose, or a number of blank commissions for vessels of war. It is an object of the last importance, for in this time of peace between the nations of Europe I can be acquainted with the time of every vessel’s sailing either from England or Portugal, and by dispatching little vessels armed from hence, and to appearance property of the subjects of the United States of America, to seize them while unsuspicuous on this coast, and to stand directly for America with them, great reprisals may be made; and persons of the first property have already solicited me on the occasion; indeed, they have such an opinion of my power that they have offered to engage in such an adventure if I would authorize them with my name; but this might as yet be rather dangerous. It is certainly, however, a very practicable and safe plan to arm a ship here as if for the coast of Africa or the West Indies, wait until some ship of value is sailing from England or Portugal, slip out at once and carry them on to America. When arrived, the armed vessel increases your navy and the prize supplies the country.

It is of importance, as I have mentioned in my former letters, to have some one deputed and empowered to treat with the King of Prussia. I am acquainted with his agent here, and have already through him received some queries and proposals respecting American commerce, to which I am preparing a reply. I have also an acquaintance with the agent of the Grand Duke of Tuscany, who proposes fixing a commerce between the United States and Leghorn, but has not as yet given me his particular thoughts. France and Spain are naturally our allies; the Italian States want our flour and some other articles; Prussia, ever pursuing her own interests, needs but be informed of some facts relative to America's increasing commerce to favor us; Holland will pursue its system, now fixed, of never quarreling with any one on any occasion whatever. In this view is seen at once the power we ought to apply to and gain a good acquaintance with. Let me again urge you on the subject of tobacco. Receive also from me one hint further. It is this: Should you apportion a certain tract of the western land, to be divided at the close of this war among the officers and soldiers serving in it and make a generous allotment, it would, I think, have a good effect in America, as the poorest soldiers would then be fighting literally for a freehold; and in Europe it would operate beyond any pecuniary offers. I have no time to enlarge on the thought, but may take it up hereafter; if I do not, it is an obvious one, and, if capable of execution, you can manage it to the best advantage.

Lords Commissioners, Admiralty, to Captain Thomas Fitzherbert, H. M. S. Raisonable, Plymouth

Whereas the Secret Committee of the East India Company have applied to Us for Convoy to the four homeward bound East India Ships named in the Margin, which are now on their Passage from the East Indies, and in order to shew the Tract usually pursued by their Ships at this Season of the Year, have transmitted to Us, the Journals of four of their Ships, also named in the Margin, together with an Extract from the Journals of their Ships arrived this Year, shewing the Longitude they make in crossing the Line, and in the Lattitude of 15d and 39d North; And whereas we think fit that you shall proceed to Sea in His Majesty's Ship under your command to look out for, and convoy the said four homeward bound Ships to England; You are hereby required and directed to put to Sea accordingly with the first opportunity of Wind and Weather, and make the best of your way to the Island of Fayal, where you are to use the utmost dispatch in taking on board three Months Wine for the Use of the Ships Company; And having so done, You are to proceed from thence to the Westward as far as the Meridian of the Island of Coroo, and then to the Southward, until you arrive in the Lattitude of 15d No unless you shall sooner fall in with the said East India Ships which you are diligently to look out for, keeping for that purpose as nearly as may be in the Tract you shall judge, from a careful perusal of the abovemention'd Journals & Extracts (which will herewith be delivered to you) they will most probably pursue. When you arrive in the Lattitude of 15d No You are to cruize in that Lattitude for 14 days, unless you fall in with the India Ships sooner, and then return, as near as you can, in the same tract, till you come into the Lattitude of the Island of Coroo; And if you shall not then have met with any of the said Ships, you are to make Cape Finisterre, and thence proceed to Plymouth, and wait for further Orders.

If you fall in with any of the Company's Ships abovemention'd, you are to take them under your Convoy, and make the best of your way with them to Plymouth; unless from the Information you may receive from their Captains there should be a probability of your falling in with more of the said Ships, in which case, you are to cruize for such a time, and on such a Station, as in your discretion & judgement you may think most likely for meeting with them.

If you should fall in with two of the abovemention'd Ships, or with the Talbot alone, which is supposed to be the most valuable Ship of the four, You are then to return with them, or her to England, without waiting for any others, unless there is a great probability of meeting with them in a few days.

But as from private Letters lately received, there is ground to believe that the Grenville may have been loaden from Madrass, in which case, she will be equally rich in her Cargo as the Talbot, You are therefore upon falling in with only one of those Ships, to wait a few days longer for the other, notwithstanding what is directed by the foregoing Clause, unless you shall be furnish'd with Intelligence that the Grenville has not been loaden from Madrass.

While you are employed in this Service you are carefully to look out for any Ships or Vessels belonging to His Majesty's Rebellious Colonies in North America, and to use your best endeavours to take or destroy such of them as you may fall in with.

Upon your return to Plymouth, you are to acquaint Our Secretary for Our Information with your arrival & proceedings, and at the same time return the beforemention'd Journals of the East India Ships. Given &c. the 2d Octr 1776.

"Extract of an Authentic Letter from Captain Underwood, dated Lisbon, Oct. 2."¹

On the 6th of September last we sailed from Plymouth for this port with bale goods, and met with little interruption till we arrived off the Rock of Lisbon (though we saw two vessels in the Bay of Biscay, which we judged to be American privateers, and though they gave chase we soon lost sight of them) when we made a sail which bore directly down upon us, and proved, as we expected, an American sloop privateer, mounting eight guns; having a stern of her a brig which we judged to be a prize; we crowded all our sail, but she gained upon us, and was within gun shot, when a large ship appeared on our larboard quarter, upon which the privateer hauled her wind, and bore away with crowded sails. The ship that thus timely appeared in our favour was a Portuguese frigate of 40 guns, sent out to cruise against three privateers that infest the coast, one of which she had taken. We arrived after this safe in the Tagus, where there were many English ships waiting for convoy.

— Capt John Lee of a Letter of Marque Schooner of eight Carriage & 14 swivel Guunns, belonging to my Friends Jackson, Tracy & Tracy of Newbury Port² (New England) arrived here the Evening before last — On his passage he made Prize of 5 British Vessels and sent them back to America, one of them was a Transport ship mounted with 16 Carriage Guunns besides swivels & 18 Hands — Some of his Prizes are valuable: He brought in here the Masters of two of them, who have entered their Protests — A Person here who from motives of Intrest is inimical to America, has made use of those Masters Names to Petition the Commissary of the Marine Department here to stop the Vessel which he has accordingly done. In this Petition they represented Capt Lee to be a Pirate, although he is not treated as such here, but he is obliged to wait here for the determination of the Court of Madrid — I am not Knowing of any person being appointed Agent there since the Coloines have declared themselves Independant States — If there should be one there I must beg your influence with him in Capt. Lee's favour. — The matter will go forward, from hence properly represented by our good Friends Messrs Jos. Gardoqui & Sons as well as by the Commissary who Transmits in his proceedings a Copy of Capt Lee's commission & instructions. — I am Sir [&c.]

Sir 3d October 1776

I received on the 16h past by the Argo your Letter of the 24h of July last and immediately laid the same with its Inclosures before my Lords Commrs of the Admiralty

Their Lordships were greatly pleased to see, in your former Letter of the 1st of July that it was your intention to send the Argo to England with the Trade which were to sail in August and immediately communicated it to the Merchants concerned in that Trade that they might, regulate their Insurances accordingly, You will therefore readily conceive how much their Lordships were surprized and concerned to find by the Copy of the Argo's Orders in the Inclosures abovementioned that instead of sending her to England with the Trade, you had left her Captain at Liberty to part from them in the Latitude of 38° No and leave them to shift for themselves, which he accordingly did, and came to Spithead without one of them; a procedure which has given great disgust to the Merchants and very justly, as it endangered their property and affected many of them in the Re-insurances they were obliged to make upon the occasion.

Their Lordships cannot conceive what could induce you to depart from your original intention, so well founded respecting the Convoy abovementioned. But to guard against any thing of that kind hereafter, they command me to signify their direction to you not to fail for the future in sending the Convoys home with the Trade to England.

I have only to add that I received by the Conveyance abovementioned your Letter of the 31st of July relative to the Action which the Shark Sloop had with an American Armed Vessel near the Island of Martinico, and having laid the same with its Inclosures before their Lordships, Copies thereof were immediately transmitted to the Secretary of State for His Majesty's Information. M. GARNIER TO VERGENNES

[Extract]

No. 57
London, 4 October, 1776

My Lord, I have received dispatch number 38 with which you honored me, dated the 28th of the month.

You are now sure that there was no action on Long Island before the 20th of August. Our news extends no further. It is very possible and much to be hoped that later news will arrive in France sooner than here.

Starting from the time of the arrival of the Hessians on Staten Island August 12 and calculating the time necessary as much to refresh troops tired from a long crossing as to arrange all of the campaign equipment so as to be under canvas upon unloading, it is not thought that any large action can occur before the month of September. It is probable that General Howe will want to start off with all of his strength, and in this case, 20 days are not too much for him to prepare for action. You will even see later, My Lord, that this is not enough to execute the plan of attack upon which it is said that the English general has decided.

Never has such a small island had so many ships assembled around it. At the departure of the last ship, there were no fewer than 500 sail there. Many people, upon hearing this, flatter themselves that the very view of this fleet will throw the enemy army into fear and confusion.
Dutch Conception of the British Landing at New York.
However, it does not appear that General Howe himself judges the situation in this way, since his last letter no longer makes any mention of the hopes he had in the preceding one about the favorable disposition of part of the colonies and of the numerous partisans of the Government. The troops have arrived and he now concerns himself only with the means of starting the operations of the campaign without loss of time.

The Americans can form no obstacle to it. Not yet having any fleet, they are necessarily on the defensive. It is even generally expected that, unable to resist such a large army of regular troops supported by a numerous fleet, they will be chased out of New York. The object of the English general is not to buy this victory too dearly. To do this, he intends to force them to abandon their fortifications without striking a blow, and here is the plan of operations which people are giving. Lord Cornwallis with a detached corps is supposed to go around Long Island, enter the Sound, and land at New Rochelle. This operation would require time, for many different winds are required to execute it. General Clinton will land on Long Island to carry the American outposts, and General Howe with the main part of the army is supposed to go up the Hudson to land in the area called West-Chester at a point corresponding, as much as possible, with the landing point of Lord Cornwallis on the other part of the coast. The two frigates which had sailed up the Hudson river, from which they were chased, yet stayed there long enough to reconnoiter the state of the defenses of this coast and make a satisfactory inventory of them.

And so there is the American army surrounded from everywhere and obliged to leave its fortifications to fight, that is, to be completely defeated. No one is examining whether General Howe would be exposing himself to being taken between two camps, for all the enemy forces are not shut up in the dead end of New York.

Such are, My Lord, the ideas upon which those persons who have not lost the habit of underestimating the enemy are nourishing themselves.

The first event can destroy all these conjectures, and we are awaiting any event with impatience. Other people assure everyone that the fate of New York must have been decided August 22nd. But I hardly pay attention anymore to these day to day conjectures and I will only believe well and duly witnessed facts. One certain one is that the American privateers have already in the course of this campaign gotten hold of 38 merchant ships returning to the West Indies. The last three, of whom we got word today, were taken by a privateer called the Revenge. The price of insurance for ships coming from Jamaica is 20 Guineas 0/0 and 18 for those coming back from the other Islands.

The lack of provisions which is starting to be felt in Canada forced General Carleton to free his prisoners, who numbered about 800. He also sent off the Indians who had sided with him, saying that he did not want to wage a war of that kind. The Government, which looks askance at this maneuver, feels that he took too much upon himself on this occasion. Provisions and munitions are being sent to Quebec without let-up. One hundred thousand pounds sterling have just been sent off to the same destination on a ship named the Union. Although it is armed with 16 cannons and eight swivel guns, they are not only insuring it, but giving 3 p 0/0 bonus.

A merchant of Bordeaux writes to his correspondent here that there are presently in that port 6 American vessels which arrived with cargoes of flour and which are preparing to arm in order to cruise at the entrance to the Channel.

. . . I had a trustworthy person ask the Comptroller of the Navy if there was any intention of impressing sailors soon, and he answered that there was no question of this. The secretary of the Admiralty, to whom the same question was put by one of the main ship constructors answered that no use would be made of this recourse for the American war and that before considering Pressing he had to construct several more vessels of 74 guns for the Admiralty.

MARQUIS DE GRIMALDI TO PRINCE MASSERANO1

[Extract] London, 4 October 1776

. . . Even admitting that Gen Howe might take possession of New York this year, he could not drive inland, and the only difference in the situation of the Regiments which were confined to Boston by the Rebels last winter is that they now have more ships to control the sea and receive the provisions sent to them here: . . .

It is said that Gens Carleton and Burgoyne have written from Canada that the Provincials have those Lakes covered with very well armed vessels; that those being readied to ferry the Royal Troops are few and not as good as the Provincial ones; that for this reason they must turn back and retreat to Quebec to obtain provisions. . . .

This trade is suffering from the many prizes the Americans have taken lately. It is said that an Irish Pirate chased seven English ships back to the shores of Spain and Portugal. More than 30 recently loaded English ships have fallen into Rebel hands. For this reason all merchant ships are arming and taking double crews, which makes it difficult to find seamen for war vessels. . . .

The Princess Royal, from Jamaica, Captain Duthie, which was taken by one of the American Cruizers, and re-taken by his Majesty's Ship Milford, and carried into Halifax the 28th of September [sic] July, is arrived off Dover.
Exeter, (England), Oct. 5. The ship Bee, Captain Wallace, of Topsham, was, on his return from the Grenades, met, and taken by an American privateer. On Captain Wallace's being carried aboard the privateer; he told the Captain his was the last vessel an American should have taken. On being asked for what reason, he replied, that his owner had kept him at home for twelve months, because he would not let his vessel as a transport against the Americans. The American, doubting the truth of this relation, said, he thought Wallace endeavoured to impose on him, and if he found it so, would punish him severely for it; but sending an officer on board the capture to interrogate the men separately on the subject, and having the Captain's story confirmed by their united accounts he credited it, and said, although the vessel was then his, he would return ship and cargo, only supplying himself with such things as he wanted, and taking 50 bags of Cocoa, 20½ casks and a pipe of Madeira wine, discharged Wallace, wishing him a good voyage.

SUMMARY

After the retreat from Long Island, Washington could not hold New York City, and the Continental Army fell back to defensive positions at Harlem Heights. Shortly after the withdrawal a devastating fire swept through the city.

Admiral Howe’s domination of the waters surrounding Manhattan Island allowed British men-of-war to make probing missions in strength up the rivers, and to land troops at places of their choice. It soon became apparent that the enemy’s intent was to cut off Washington from the rear thus preventing retreat northward or into New Jersey.

Farther to the north the contest for control of Lake Champlain reached a climax in the bitterly fought fleet battle off Valcour Island beginning on 11 October. The American squadron, commanded by General Benedict Arnold, was shattered. Crown Point was abandoned, and the remnants of Arnold’s force reached Fort Ticonderoga. The vital lake route for the present was held by the British, but Sir Guy Carleton acknowledged that the “advanced season of the year” would cause him to retire to Canada for winter quarters. In defeat, Arnold had bought precious time which was to affect events at Saratoga the following year.

The new Continental Navy frigates were in various stages of construction, outfitting, or readying for sea. Seamen and cannon remained high on the shortage list. Privateering was on the upswing, and the lure of rich prize money contributed to the dearth of seamen for the Continental service. Great concern was felt for the two Continental frigates building at Poughkeepsie after British warships breached the obstructions in the Hudson River.

Some vessels of the original Hopkins’ fleet were cruising, and the names of John Paul Jones and Nicholas Biddle were being heard more frequently as successful prize takers. On 10 October Congress fixed the seniority list for Continental Navy captains.

A quickening of State Navy activity was also much in evidence. And, in the West Indies, friction between the British and French intensified as the islands became increasingly significant depots for American supplies.
JAMES LYON TO THE MASSACHUSETTS GENERAL COURT

[Extract]

I earnestly request you to send one of your frigates, or two or three of your ablest privateers to take the ship that infests our coasts, & clear the way for fishermen & coasters; & then perhaps some generous persons may be disposed to send us bread & take some of our lumber. I ask for a small army to subdue Nova Scotia, or at least that some person or persons, may have leave to raise men, & go against that Province, at their own risque. I believe men enough might be found in this county, who would cheerfully undertake it, without any assistance from Government. The people this way are so very anxious about this matter, that they would go in whale boats rather than not go. Provided they might call what they took their own in common with the good people of that Province. I confess, I am so avaricious, that I would go with the utmost cheerfulness. I hope, however, I should have some nobler view, for I think it our duty to relieve our distressed brethren, & bestow upon them the same glorious privileges, which we enjoy, if possible, & to deprive our enemies, especially those on this Continent, of their power to hurt us. With these views the Committee of this place were petitioned for leave to go against that Province. And had our request been granted, in all probability, that Country had now been entirely ours, & vast quantities of provision would have been cut off from our enemies.

2. The date is approximated. This letter, accompanied by one from Major Francis dated August 28, reached Watertown on September 10. It must, therefore, have been written in Machias about the first of the month.

COMMODORE ESEK HOPKINS TO THE CONTINENTAL MARINE COMMITTEE

Gentlemen Providence Septr 1st 1776

I stoppd at Newhaven on Wednesday, and found the Brig Hampden near ready for the Sea as Mr Lawrence inform'd me all but Men and Officers which she had none — Capt'n [Hoysteed] Hacker had not got there I left Orders for him when he came, to get as many men as would be sufficient and come with the Brig to New London — I came to New London thursday Morning, did not find Mr [Nathaniel] Shaw at home but learn'd that the Schooner and Bomb Brig were both Sold with all their Stores — So that at present I do not know of any Vessel that can be had that will answer — How Mr Shaw came to Sell them and their Stores, or by whose Orders I can't tell — I likewise found the Cabot was gone out on a Cruise. She had been gone out about a Week, and have no knowledge how long she is to Cruise nor by what authority Capt'n [Elisha] Hinman could undertake to go out, as he had my Orders when I left New London for Philadelphia not to go to Sea without he receiv'd Orders from the Marine Committee or from me —

I came here yesterday — have not yet seen Capt'n Saltonstall, but hear the Alfred is about five miles below with about forty Men including Officers onboard — having Spared Some to Capt'n Biddle, and a Number to Capt'n Whipple, who sail'd on a Cruise in four days after he got home, with One hundred & Seventy eight Men onboard

As soon as I get a little over the Fatigue of my Journey, shall set myself about Manning the Alfred — Should be glad to know when I get her ready whether I may Send her out under the Command of her Lieutenant Mr Jonathan Pitcher, who I believe to be a prudent Capable Man — Should be glad of your Sentiments to know whether you approve of Capt'n Hinman's Sailing with the Cabot, as I believe he has gone without Orders from any Person — Mr [George] House who you appointed Lieutt of the Brig Hampden is gone out in the Columbus — If you think proper to appoint Mr Walter Spooner a second Lieutenant, that he may act as first until House gets onboard, I believe it will be best for the Service — I am Gentleman

LIEUTENANT COLONEL ROBERT BISSET TO GOVERNOR PATRICK TONYN

Sir

I this minute received your letter to Andrew Turnbul: This Information is very alarming especially with regard to Doctor Turnbul’s people, a great many of whom woud certainly Join them [the Americans]; And the Plantations have neither arms nor ammunition, either to defend themselves or to endeavour to prevent their landing at Smyrneaa—

They can only come in with boats as our Barr has not water enough for the Draught of any Private[er] which must be built sharp for sailing: So that I think our Plantations not in great danger, as we can get our Negroes out of the Way. — If such an event shoud happen most probably those that joined them of the Smyrneaa settlements, woud endeavour to plunder our Plantations: — However I have great confidence in the badness of our bar, which I hope will deterr them from attempting anything here. I shall sett out immediately for Smyrne & I will make the best disposition I can for the defense of the Place, by arming those we can trust & disarming the suspected, — I shall acquaint all the Plantations and put them on their guard.

We are much obliged to Your Excellcy for this early information, which shows your attention to the good of the Province & the security of the Property of the settlers. I have the honour to be with Great respect &c.

ANDREW TURNBULL TO ARTHUR GORDON

(Copy) Smyrne Septr 1st 1776 —

Sir. Yours of the 29th of last Month came to hand this morning by the Govrs Express—I cannot help being a good deal alarmed at this bold stroke of the American Privateer, particularly as the Govrs letter informs me that she is come Southd and has Warner the Pilot on Board—If she should make her appearance I will and can easily secret our Negroes by sending them down the Indian River or back into the woods, but cannot say what might be the consequence regarding the white people, as there is a good number of them at present a little discontented, and I am fully persuaded would Join the Rebels immediately on their landing at Smyrne—I therefore beg you and Mr Penman would make application to the Govr and Commanding Officer at St Augustine to reinforce the party here with a few more men if it is eight or ten only, for it is absolutely necessary, if it was for no other end but keep our own people a little more in awe—If this cannot be done I see plainly they will grow very insolent and unruly from the Georgians being so successful in their excursions in this Province.

ST. GEORGE TUCKER TO THOMAS NELSON

[Extract] [Bermuda, September 1, 1776]

On the 22d of Augst a Brigantine belonging to Dr Campbell of Virga which had been detained by Lord Dunmore for several Months & was dismissed by him on his leaving Virginia (with a number of other Vessels) was taken in sight of this Island by Capt: Biddel [Nicholas Biddle] of the Continental Brigantine Andrew Doria. Lord Dunmore on dismissing the Brig having given her a Pass to avoid being taken by the British Vessels of War Capt: Biddle considered her as a prize—but not thinking the vessel worth sending to the Continent to be condemned took off a considerable Quantity of household furniture & other Effects which had been put on board by the Dr’s Clerk when Norfolk was burnt (the Dr himself then being at Wmsburg) agreeably to the enclosed Account—the Saylors with a Wantoness which those people are generally apt to exercise on such Occasions destroyed many other Pieces of furniture such as Desks, Dressing Tables, Chests of Drawers &ca which are not inserted in this Account, and then dismissed the Brig—\(^3\)

The Character which Dr Campbell supported in Virga and the Conduct which in the present disputes between Great Britain & America he has uniformly observed I flatter myself will justify me in observing that he has ever demonstrated himself to be the friend of that Country where he has resided for many Years with universal Esteem—The Convention of Virginia were sensible of this and acquitted him honourably of the charge which was brought agt him . . .

After this summary state of Facts, I presume you will be of Opinion that the Dr's Property was by no means to be considered as subject to continental Confiscation, since he cou’d be considered in no other point of view but as a friend to America. This Loss added to his former, in the Destruction of Norfolk, to the Amt of above £10,000 falls extremely heavy on a Man whose Misfortunes were unmeritted as inevitable—Permit me then, sir, to sollicit your friendly Interposition in his Behalf in Congress in order to procure such a Compensation for his Loss as that honourable Body shall think reasonable upon Consideration of the Circumstances of his Case . . .

Petition of Jona Eddy, Wm How, & Zebulon Rowe for themselves & Friends in the County of Cumberland Nova Scotia, setting forth – That the Enemy are repairing the Forts in that Province to the great detriment of the Inhabitants in sd County, which can be of no other End, but to keep the Inhabitants in Subjection to their Tyrannical Measures, &c. That the far greater part of the People at Nova Scotia are greatly concerned about it, & has been the cause of many to leave their Estates to be Confiscated, & come over to this State, and will cause many more to leave their Homes unless they Can have some supplies, and Assistance. That if they could be supplied with Necessaries, such as provisions, and Ammunition with a small number to join their Bretheren there, they Could destroy their Enemies Forts, & Relieve their Bretheren by Permission from this Hon: Court for so doing, or in any other way &c.

Whereas by a Resolve past by the General Court the 29th April last, the Officers of Vessells in the Colony Sea service, were allowed to Inlist Men out of the Companies raised for the defence of the Sea Coasts, and the Officers of the said Companies were thereby directed to permit any of their Men to Inlist into the Colony, & Continental Sea service only, and to Inlist others to supply vacancies occasion'd thereby as soon as may be.

And whereas such Liberty or allowance, which was the[re] given to the Officers of Vessells in the Colonial, & Continentall Service, has been found to be very detrimental; having weakened, & very much Exposed to the En[e]my, many of our Harbors, & Towns on the sea Coasts; And many of the Officers of the Sea Coast Companies, after much expence of Time, & Money to raise their Companies have had their Men taken from them, to their great loss & damage, & thereby been discourag'd from further recruiting; and some parts of the Sea Coasts may if this practice is allowed, be left destitute of all defence, & thereby become a Harbor for our Enemys, which would not only further distress our Trade, but involve us in many other difficulties. – Therefore –

Resolved, that the aforesaid Resolve of the 29th April, be & is hereby discontinued & made null, & Void.

In Council Resolved, that a Committee of suitable persons be appointed immediately to repair to the State of New Hampshire, & apply to the Government there, & if practicable, with the Loan of as many Cannon as can be spared from this State, to effect the fixing out the Continental Ship now under the direction of Mr [John] Langdon, and to take immediate measures that such number of Cannon, & other necessaries, as without distressing this State may be lent to the Continent, may be safely, & expeditiously transported to Portsmouth – This Ship to be fixed out for the purpose of Attacking the Milford, or other Ships of War distressing our Coasts – And in case said Ship can within any reasonable time be equipt for the Sea –

Newport Mercury, Monday, September 2, 1776

Newport, September 2.

Last Thursday arrived here, in about 18 days from St. Lucia, the brig Ludlow-Castle, Capt. Darling who informs that, a little before he sailed, there was a warm engagement in the West-Indies, between an American privateer, name unknown, and the British sloop of war, named Hawke, a well-known bird of prey; in which the Hawke was so much damaged, that she was obliged to make the best use of all her wings, to escape the American bird of justice;1 which we must confess, has not had that agility of motion necessary for the detection and ample punishment of the enemies to this country: —Otherwise many a rascal who fled hither, to prevent being hanged in his own country, and some natives among us, would have had much longer necks before this day.

1. Seems to be a truly fanciful account of the engagement between the Continental ship Reprisal and H. M. Sloop Shark.

MEMOIRS OF MAJOR GENERAL WILLIAM HEATH

[New York, September] 2d. They [the British] ran a ship past the city up the East River: she was several times struck by the shot of a 12 pounder, which was drawn to the river’s bank. Major [John] Crane of the artillery was wounded in the foot, by a cannon shot from the ship. It was now a question whether to defend the city, or evacuate it, and occupy the strong grounds above. Every exertion had been made to render the works both numerous and strong; and immense labor and expense had been bestowed on them; and it was now determined that the city should be obstinately defended.

Sir,

Providence, September 3d, 1776.

In Addition to what I wrote your Honor of yesterday, I now inform you that there is at present no armed vessel belonging to the Continent in this State besides the Alfred, who hath not more than forty men, inclusive of officers. She, with the two Row Gallies, make the whole of the naval force in this State. I have communicated your letter to Commodore Hopkins, and find him perfectly disposed to co-operate with the Assembly in every measure in his power.

A sloop is now lading here with Continental pork, for New London. She will carry about one hundred barrels, and it is expected will sail to-morrow morning. I give you this information that you may, if necessary, make use of it for the forces on Long Island. I am, with every sentiment of respect, Sir [&c.]

Number 7. Eagle off of Bedlow's Island, New York, Sir September the 3d 1776.

Enclosed I transmit a Return of the Officers in different Stations which I have had Occasion to appoint for carrying on the King's Service in the Squadron under my Command.²

The Concerns of the Victualling, and Distribution of Naval Stores under proper Restriction, with other Matters respecting the Department of a Master Attendant, are so extensive, that I have been under a Necessity of having extraordinary Assistance in both these Branches. I send Copies of the two Appointments for their Lordships more particular Information therein; Hoping they will be pleased to authorize the Continuance of them, and also that of two Officers for Duty onboard the Eagle, in Addition to the established Number of Lieutenants, which are not sufficient for the current Duties of a public Ship; As well as the Nomination of an Assistant Agent requisite for the various Duties incident to the different Debarkations of the Hessian Corps, and landing and reshipping the Baggage and Stores of those inexperienced Troops.

I should have deemed it expedient to confirm the several Appointments made by Sir Peter Parker to the Vacancies that were occasioned by the Action at South Carolina, had my Powers been of sufficient Extent: But the Vacancy occasioned by the Resignation of Captain [Alexander] Scott³ not corresponding with the Letter of my Instructions, I have left the Promotions consequent of that Resignation, as they stand in the enclosed Return from the Commodore, until their Lordships pleasure is signified concerning them. A great Firing was heard last night from the Town upon the Rose & the Boats, which were ordered to sail up the East River. One Shot passed through the Rose, and another beat off one of her anchors, without doing any other Damage. The Rebels fired two Pieces of Ordnance upon her today from a Battery opposite Bushwyck; and wounded two or three Men. The Boats got safe into Newtown Creek, and, as 'tis supposed, unperceived by the Enemy, through the favorable Darkness of the Night.

JOURNAL OF THE CONTINENTAL CONGRESS

[Philadelphia] Tuesday, September 3, 1776

General Sullivan having reduced to writing the verbal message from Lord Howe, the same was laid before Congress, and read as follows:

The following is the purport of the message from Lord Howe to Congress, by General Sullivan:

That, though he could not at present Treat with Congress as such, yet he was very Desirous of having a Conference with some of The members, whom he would Consider for the present only as private Gentlemen, and meet them himself as such, at such place as they should appoint:

That he, in Conjunction with General Howe, had full powers to Compromise the Dispute between Great Britain and America, upon Terms advantageous to both; the obtaining of which Delayed him near two months in England, and prevented his arrival at this place before the Declaration of Independency took place:

That he wished a Compact might be Settled at this time, when no Decisive Blow was struck, and neither party could say, that they were Compelled to enter into such agreement:

That, in Case Congress were Disposed to Treat, many things, which they had not as yet asked, might and ought to be granted Them; and That if, upon the Conference, They found any probable Ground of an Accommodation, The authority of Congress must be afterwards Acknowledged, otherwise The Compact would not be Complete.

The Board Considering the present Alarming Situation of the Island from a Scarcity of Provision thought advisable to Address His Excellency on the Occasion.—

The following Address being drawn up was read and approved of by the Board the same Signed by the President and by him presented to His Excellency as follows. Vizt—May it please Your Excellency.

We His Majesty's most dutiful and Loyal Subjects the Council of Bermuda beg leave to represent to Your Excellency the present Melancholy and truly calamitous Situation of this Island —

From your Excellencys long residence amongst us, you cannot but be intimately acquainted with the Nature of our Trade and our entire dependance upon the American Colonies for supplies of Provisions. That we cannot possibly exist without such supplies is a Fact well known to your Excellency, a Fact which cannot be controverted. It has however been often urged, that every necessary supply can be easily obtained from Great Britain and Ireland, but as your Excellency is no stranger to the utter Impracti-cability of such a plan we flatter ourselves it will be needless to suggest any of the numberless Arguments, which may be adduced to demonstrate, that every attempt of that sort must infallibly prove unsuccessful and abortive —
Our Trade is now totally annihilated thro’ the unhappy Contest between the Parent State and her Subjects in America. We have no Staple of any kind, by which we can procure the common Necessaries of Life, nor can we encourage the most distant Hopes of reeping any supplies from the Production of the Country (at all Times inconsiderable and trifling) but at present destroy’d by the long continued dry Weather. Under these deplorable Circumstances, where can we fly to for Refuge and Supportment. Where but to your Excellency the Representative of Our most Gracious Sovereign, whose Humanity is deservedly rank'd amongst his most distinguishing Characteristics. From what has been premis'd Should the late Act of Parliament which positively inhibits all Intercourse with the American Continent be literally and rigidly [sic rigidly] adhered to, it is obvious that we must inevitably perish. We therefore most earnestly entreat your Excellency, that you wou'd be pleased to fall upon some Expedient; which may remove the Horrors the people at present but too justly entertain of an impending Famine. We are firmly persuaded that the Exigency of the Case and the peculiar Hardships we labour under will fully justify in His Majesty's Royal Breast every lenient Measure which Your Excellency may think proper to adopt for this desirable purpose, and therefore once more take the Liberty of repeating our Wishes that your Excellency wou'd be so good as to consider seriously the Distresses of the Inhabitants of this little Country and at the same time kindly grant them every Indulgence and Relief in Your Excellency's Power.

By Order of the Board

September 3d 1776.

George Forbes, President

His Excellency was pleased to Acquaint the Board that he would do every Service to the Country that [lay] in his power Consistent with his duty to His Majesty and supremacy of the British Empire, and Agreeable to His Instructions. — His Excellency then laid before the Council an Instruction together with a Form of Lycence he lately received from the Right Honorable Lord George Germain directed to be granted for fetching of provisions.

The Board then Adjourned.

MARQUIS DE LA TORRE TO JOSÉ DE GALVEZ

No. 1207

Most Illustrious Sir:

On August 23 there sailed into this port the mail frigate Patagon, which left La Coruña at the beginning of July. Its Captain, Don Josef Teodoro Perez, told me that on the night of August 19th, about ten-thirty, he encountered a British warship near the point called Hicacos on the coast of this island, which, after inquiring if it was a Spanish mail ship, ordered it to haul sail and stay within reach of its guns until daybreak. Not wishing to obey this order, the Britisher let go a cannonade of five shots which did some damage to the sails. Ceding, therefore, to force, he shortened sail and sailed under convoy of the British warship heading for this port until daybreak. Having then unfurled the Royal standard and answered questions as to whether it had encountered any ships, he was allowed to continue on his course. This tale of the Captain is supported by the declarations I took down and the original of which were sent to the Marquis of Grimaldi, since the event verified affects a ship of the Mail Service.

The British frigate in question is undoubtedly the one called Diligence, commanded by Thomas Davees [Davey], which has been on a cruise off these coasts against shipping belonging to the Colonists of North America; the same that on the 14th and 15th of August anchored off the mouth of the harbor so as to take on water as informed in my letter of yesterday to Your Excellency. [&c.]

Sir Antelope Jamaica September 3rd 1776

I have the pleasure to inform their Lordships, that since my letter of the 5th of last Month, Martial Law has been taken off, and that Peace & Tranquility is again restor'd to the Inhabitants, and beg leave to inclose for their information a Copy of a Letter I receiv'd from the Governor on that Subject.

I likewise beg leave to acquaint them that His Majestys Ship Winchelsea Captain [Nathaniel] Bateman arriv'd the 28th of August, by whom I receiv'd their directions to Careen & refit such of Lord Howe's Squadron as his Lordship might think proper to send, their order with the Kings Instructions respecting such Captures as should be made in consequence of the late Act for prohibiting all Trade & Commerce, with the Rebellious Colonies & your several letters of the 20th 22nd & 23rd of May, with their Inclusions, all which I shall pay due attention to, and beg leave to acquaint their Lordships, that I've always been very Circumspect in the orders which I have given my Cruizers, respecting the French Islands to prevent giving any umbrage to that Nation.

A few days before the arrival of the Winchelsea I receiv'd by the Pacquet their Lordships order for augmenting the Complements of His Majestys Ships under my Command and your several Letters of the 4th 5th & 7th June, acknowledging the receipt of mine of the 31 March last and beg leave to inform them that as the Atalanta was omitt'd in the List of Ships to have their Complements encreas'd, thinking it must have been some Mistake I have order'd Captain [Thomas] Lloyd to Compleat to 125 Men, which I hope will meet with their Lordships approbation.

I am happy they approve of the reasons which I have assign'd for purchasing the Lady Keith Schooner (which I have consider'd; as one of the Four, since order'd to be purchas'd) and am extremly oblig'd to their Lordships for complying with my request in confirming the order which I gave Mr Frans L'Montais to be Lieutenant of her

Having no Money Imprest against me, on my leaving England for Contingent Charges, was the reason of my ordering the Naval Storekeeper to pay the Attorneys Bill, for defending the several Actions brought against me for the Detention of the American Vessels & their Crews but will draw on the Navy Board for Five Hundred pounds Sterling to defray those expenses in future and shall account for the same in my Contingent Account agreeable to their Lordships directions, which I hope they will approve.

I likewise beg leave to acquaint them; that by the Addition of my Squadron and those expected from North America to Careen & refit, I have found it necessary for the forwarding the Service to purchase a Watering Sloop, as it [is] attend'd with many ill conveniences and bad consequences, watering with the Ships Boats, particularly to the small Arm'd Vessels & twenty Gun Ships, the Watering Place being near Ten Miles from Port Royal which Subjects the People, to be exposed to the extreme heat of the Sun in the Day, or to the Dews in the Night, both of which I am confident are very prejudicial to the Health of the Seamen, I have therefore order'd the Naval Storekeeper to purchase one of the Prize Sloops for £130 Curry (equal to £93 Stg) for this Service which I hope their Lordships will approve.

The Inclos'd Account of Sir Peter Parkers attack on Chas Town I got from the Master of a Sloop, who was present, at the Action, which I am to much afraid may be depend'd on, as he is the Man, who escap'd with the Kings Powder from [New] Providence & has always been firmly attach'd to Government.

With regard to the Disposition of His Majestys Ships & Vessels under my Command, I beg leave to inform their Lordships that the Antelope, Winchelsea & Atalanta are at Port Royal, the Winchelsea I shall send to Cruize after the Americans, as soon as she has got a new Bowspreet, having Sprung her old one upon the Passage out, the Atalanta I shall send to Convoys the Pacquet through the Windward Passage, then to Cruize to intercept the North Americans and on her return shall Careen & send her to Pensacola; to relieve the Diligence, who is exceeding bad.

The Squirrel & Porcupine Schooner are Sail'd on a Cruize for the Windward Passage to Intercept some North American Privateers which I had receiv'd information of, and to remain on that Service til the Middle of October — The Racehorse; I expect in a few days from the North Side, where she has been Station'd for some time past, in consequence of the late intend'd Insurrection, on her arrival I shall order her to Compleat her Provisions & send her to Sea, the Badger is to remain Fourteen days longer, & if every thing then remains quiet to return to Port Royal — The Boreas has been spoke with on the Coast of America, so I hope she'll soon Join me again & the Maidstone sailed with the Convoy in July & is to return to Jamaica, with all possible dispatch on leaving them I am, with great respect Sir [&c.]

Sir Antelope Jamaica September 3rd 1776

I beg leave to lay before their Lordships the Situation, we are in for want of Stores particularly Masts and Bowspreets, those that are in Store being entirely decay'd. the Squirrel after her late Cruize; came in with her Fore Mast Sprung & before she could get another, was oblig'd to take out three Sticks, two of which in Working prov'd to be decay'd, the Winchelsea has likewise had the Misfortune to spring her Bowspreet, & her People has been Employ'd for this three days past, overhauling the Stores; for a Stick to make a new one, but as yet cannot meet with any, but what are decay'd to the very Heart —

I have the same Complaint of the Cordage from the Captains of His Majestys Ships under my Command who all assure me, tis dry Rotten, before tis Issu'd, indeed I have one instance of it myself, in regard to some New Careening Gear which I order'd to be fitt'd, and the first Ship that hove down by it (which was the Antelope) as soon as she came Keel out, Four of the Outrigger Pendants, out of the Five; gave way all together, but happily it was attend'd with no bad consequences

As their Lordships inform me I am to expect some of Lord Howes Squadron to Careen & Refit, I must beg they will be pleas'd to direct the Navy Board to send a supply of Stores, particularly Masts & Bowspreets, there not being a Sufficiency of those Stores for my own Squadron I am with great Respect Sir [&c.]

PETITION OF THOMAS CRAGG TO THE MASSACHUSETTS COUNCIL

State of the Massachusetts Bay To the Honble the General Court of the said State —

The Petition of Thomas Cragg humbly Shews—that your Petitioner being part owner of the Ship Isaac & her Cargo was on a Voyage in said Ship from the Island of Tortola bound to Liverpool in England, to visit his Family & attend to his private concerns, that in prosecuting said Voyage he was taken & brought into this State—this unexpected Event has thrown your Petitioner into the most distressed & pitiable Circumstances—a principal part of his Fortune is taken out of his hands, and what remains, must suffer inevitable ruin from his absence in a short time—he has a Wife, Children & a large Family who cannot long subsist without his support, & himself tho’ unused to want the Conveniencies of Life, must soon experience the wretchedness of extreme poverty—your Petitioner begs leave to declare that he has never taken an active part in the unhappy Controversy between Great Britain & America, & from his Age & standing in Life, it necessarily follows that he never will; he therefore humbly prays your Honors to take his unhappy case into your consideration and grant him & one Servant Liberty to take passage for some part of England in the Ship owned by Mr William Ross and by your Honors permission bound for some part of England, or grant him such other relief as your Honors well known Wisdom and Humanity may point out, and your Petitioner as in duty bound shall ever pray.

(No 5)

Ship Dunmore off New York

My Lord

September 4th 1776.

Since my Arrival here I have received your Lordships Letter of the 21st of May and am sorry to find that the Duke of Cumberland Packet Boat, with the dispatches were lost, tho' I am afraid your Lordship would have found but little information that would have been agreeable to you, one reason why I am sorry they did not get safe is, that mine contained originals of Intercepted Letters that would have gone far to have Warranted the securing the bearers of them, those were chiefly French, which it was not in my power from the shortness of the time from their being intercepted and the Sailing of the Packet to have Copied; of the others I have already sent you Duplicates, and now Triplicates.

It becomes Necessary now that I should give your Lordship my reasons for being here, they are few, but I hope your Lordship will think them conclusive; first the impracticability of Watring, our Numbers being reduced to one hundred and eight Men capable of doing duty, and those decreasing every day. The last time we were on Shore (as your Lordship will have seen by No 4) we were opposed by above three times our Number, and that we were sure to meet with wherever we went. Secondly our sickly State, yet I cannot say our Sick List increased much in Numbers, as there were as many died, almost as there were added to it, in short, there was not a Ship in the fleet that did not throw one, two, three or more dead over board every Night, the Roebuck I will venture to say is as well regulated, and as clean a Ship as any in the Navy, had Seventy five on her Sick list, and so in proportion had every other Ship; Capt'n Hamond and myself, finding it absolutely requisite to go to Sea immediately, as the only chance of recovering the sick, and saving those that were well; And being at Sea, and knowing this to be the place of rendezvous, for both Fleet and Army, We both thought it best to run in here; Where we would have an opportunity of giving the General and Admiral every information that came within our knowledge, relative to the State of the Southern Colonies, and our own Situation, and at the same time to procure some Aid; tho' both General and Admiral approve very much of our conduct, yet they seem very unwilling to part with any of their force at present, indeed it is hardly to be wished, till the fate of New York is determined, when I hope, if they are able to spare us any assistance they will; Sure I am returning to Virginia without, can Answer no good end to His Majesty's Service, but on the contrary would be giving fresh vigour, and Spirits to the Rebels, who would have it in their power to drive us from every spot whence we might endeavour to Land for Water, and if we run up any of the Rivers for Water they are thence so Narrow, that the Rebels may Annoy a Ship from either side with Cannon with impunity.

I have offered my services here in the mean time to General Howe, and shall be happy if I can be of use.

I have now only to Congratulate your Lordship on the Success of His Majesty's Arms on the 26th Ultimo: I was with the Highlanders and Hessians the whole day, and it is with the utmost pleasure I can assure your Lordship that the Ardour of both these Corps on that day must have exceeded His Majesty's most sanguine wish, and I am well convinced from every thing I have heard, that the fervour of the rest of the Army was in no ways inferior to those I have just now mentioned, but of which I was not an Eye Witness. I am My Lord [&c.]

DIARY OF FREDERICK MACKENZIE

[Long Island] 4th Sept 1776 The Rebels fired a good deal at the Rose, yesterday and this day, but as she lies under Blackwell's Island, in such a manner that her Hull is not seen by their batteries, they can do her no great damage with Cannon Shot. This day they threw several Shells over the Island at her, but without effect. She lies however in a dangerous situation.

Most of the Ships of War and Transports came up yesterday from Gravesend Bay and Staten Island, and anchored between Red-hook and Governor's Island.

The Niger and Brune Frigates and the Halifax armed Brig, are in the Sound, between Flushing and Whitestone.

While I was on Board the Snow, the People gave me some Apples which were very agreable, alth'o pretty hard; Col: [Samuel] Miles & Col: [Joel] Clark came back with us to the Lord Rochford, where he Treated us with two Bottles of Porter, the first Drink of any thing better than Water since we had been Prisoners, which is now 8 Days; Just before we came back, Mr: Dowdsowell (the Offr: of the Marines) had Recd:
Orders to Enlist such Prisoners as were Dispos'd to Engage in their Service; I was soon after. Inform'd that he had Considerable Success; ... About this Time our Prisoners on shore, were Bro't on Board of another Ship Laying in the Bay; The Night following, we again Lodg'd on the Quarter Deck, where I Rested Considerably Comfortably.

On Board the [General] Putnam, Cranberry Inlet the 4th of Sept 1776

Sir: I am sorry to inform you that there is a great disturbance in the Vessel which made its appearance During my absence, and Capt [Thomas] Cregier went away without informing me of it. They I understand had told him they were determined not to sail under his Command, and requested that they might be permitted to Petition the Congress for a Discharge from the Vessel, on acct of his bad conduct which he did not grant. On my requesting to way the anchor in order to go out, they one and all aquainted me it was their Determined Resolution never to act in the Schooner while he had the Command of her, upon which I have thought fit to grant them the liberty to Petition and send it by the bearer of this Letter, as I imagine that the Capt will not inform you of these Disturbances, have thought to acquaint you in this manner and as he is not Expected back under Eight or ten Days should be glad you would write me as soon as possible and let me know in what manner you think it most prudent for me to act. Your Compliance will much oblige your Humble Servt

CREW OF THE SCHOONER General Putnam TO THE NEW YORK CONVENTION 1

[Cranberry Inlet, September 4, 1776] 2

To the Honble the Congress of New York assembled at the White Plains in the State of New York
The humble petition of us the Subscribers sheweth that we have been four Months in the service of the American States on board the Schooner Genl Putnam, during which time we have not been to sea but 11 Days all the rest of the Time we have spent inactively at the Head of Inlets, five or six Miles from the Mouths thereof from whence at any Emergency we could not put out without great Difficulty, and often not at all. That we have sun-dry Times Laid a week sometimes longer in an Inlet, and in one we have laid at Anchor four or five Miles from the mouth a full Month without ever attempting to go out or scarcely offering to send any Person to look out. that numbers of vessels have pass'd and repass'd without our endeavouring to speak them, notwithstanding it was the opinion of the officers we had several opportunities very favourable. that with our Commander Thomas Cregier on board we have not been out of this Inlet in seven weeks.

That our sd Commander hath several Times insulted the officers when they have candidly advised him and gave them to understand that their business was only to answer a question when ask'd, and not attempt giving advice. that in correcting People for slight or no offences, he hath used unlawfull weapons, once presenting a Pistol to the breast of one Burns, for only requesting to know what his stated allowance was, and swearing by God he would blow a Ball through him, at another time with a large hickory club striking one Bell on the head and much wounding him for what in our opinion scarcely appear'd a crime. that in no one thing has he complied with the resolves of the Congress, His whole conduct being one series of Folly, Vice and Inconsistencies, setting the most scandalous Examples to the People, swearing, Lying and frequenting the company of the most contemptible of women, Presenting the Private Property of others to them, also at sun-dry Times giving the Ships and Cabben stores away. we are sorry to have occasion to Lay those charges against our Commander, but black as they are they can be Proved, by the Journals of the officers, and the Evidence of the most respectable persons in these Parts.

That by this Means he hath rendered himself Despicable to every man on board, has greatly dissatisfied every friend of the cause, and become the derision of its foes.

That we cannot with honor serve any longer under the Command of the said Thomas Cregier. that in our sincere opinion (with him as our Commander) we have not done the least service to our Country, and the season of the year being so far advanced, we humbly conceive the vessel unfit to be continued in the service, she being weakened and consequently would endanger our Lives in a gale of wind, besides she leaks so that not a man in the Hold can Lay dry in the Cabbins, and at the same time that we solemnly declare our ardent desire to Exert our utmost abilities in Defence of our Distress'd Country, in any station where there is a probability of doing it; and profess ourselves fully satisfied with the conduct of our Lieutenant, Mr. [Thomas] Quigley, and the officers in general, and though we confess it would be most agreeable to have a Discharge from this vessel, yet if your Honourable House think proper to continue us therein (as long as the season will admit) under the command of Mr. Quigley or any other Person you shall appoint, except the said Thomas Cregier, we shall cheerfully comply — for we beg leave to assure you that we glory in yealding obedience to your commands — but humbly request for the Honor & Interest of our Country and ourselves that the said Thomas Cregier may be Cashiered, and your Petitioners as in duty bound shall every pray

JOHN ADAMS TO DR. SAMUEL COOPER

[Extract] Philadelphia Sept. 4. 1776

our Generals, I fear have made a Mistake in Retreating from long Island. I fear they will retreat from the City of New York next. — These are disagreeable Events. — I dont like these Measures. — I wish there was more firmness — But let not these Things discourage, — if [illegible] get Possession of New York, long Island, and Staten Island — these are more Territory than their whole Army can defend. — this Year. — They must keep their Force together. The instant they divide it they are ruined. — They cannot march into the Country, for before they get Ten Miles into the Country they are surrounded or their Retreat cut off. — They cannot go up the North River to any purpose — because, a few Months, will make Ice in it in which their Vessells cannot live. — They must keep the most of their Ships in the Harbour of New York to defend their Army. — I sometimes think, that Providence, against our own opinions and Inclinations has provided better for Us in this Instance than our own Wisdom would have done—that the Enemies Fleet and Army were kept from long Island, they must and would have made an Effort elsewhere for Winter Quarters at Staten Island they could not have wintered. — they must therefore have wintered at Boston, Rhode Island, or have gone to the Southward to Virginia, one of the Carolinas or Georgia, and either of these Cases would, perhaps have been worse, for Us. — The Panick, which is Spread upon the occasion is weak and unmanly — it excites my Shame, and Indignation. But it is moving off. — If our whole Army had been cutt to Pieces it would have been shamefull to have been so intimidated, as some are or pretend to be. — Congress I hope will stand firm. —

. . . I am obliged to General [Benjamin] Lincoln for his Information, concerning the Fortifications, which I hope will be effectually attended to, as I am not clear, that Boston is yet Secure from Invasion.

I hope, the Disasters at Long Island, and New York will not dispirit our People. The Ways of Providence are inscrutable. I have strong suspicions that these Disasters have saved Boston from another Invasion, which I think would have been attempted by the two gratefull Brothers, with their whole Fleet and Army, if they had not obtained Long Island.

Gentleman

I had the honour of writing to you the 27 Augt pr the Brigantine Britannia which I sent in under the Care of Lt Wm Grinnell Since that I have been to the Southward near the parallel of Bermuda & bro't too four Sail of French Spanish & Danish Ships homeward Bound but without gaining any usefull Information. — on the first Currt. I fell in with a Fleet of five Sail — one of them being very large it was the Genl opinion on board here that she was either an Old Indiaman outward bound with Stores or a Jamaica three Decker bound homeward we found her to be an English Frigate mountg twenty Six Guns upon one Deck She Sailed fast & pursued us by the Wind till after four hours Chace the Sea running very Cross She got within Musquet Shot of[f] our Lee Quarter — as they had continued firing at us from the first without Shewing Colours I now Ordered ours to be hoisted & began to fire at them Upon this they also hoisted American Colours and fired Guns to Leeward — but the bait would not take for having every thing prepared I bore away before the Wind & set all our Light Sail at Once so that before her Sails could be trimmed & Steering Sails set I was almost out of reach of Grape & soon after out of reach of Cannon Shot. — Our "Hairs breadth Scape" & the Saucy manner of making it must have mortified him not a little had he forseen this motion & been prepared to Counteract it he might have fired Several Broad Sides of Double Headed & Grape Shot which would have done us very material Damage but he was a bad marksman & tho' within Pistol Shot did not touch the Providence with one of the many Shot which he fir'd.

I met with no other Adventure till last night when I took the Bermuda built Brigantine Sea-Nymph bound from Barbadoes for London with a Cargo of two hundred & twenty seven Hogshhead's & Eight barrels of Rum, Five Hogshheads two Tierces & ten barrels of Sugar Six bags Ginger fourteen Casks of oil & Twelve Pipes best particular London Market Madeira Wine—

The Brig is new & Sails very fast so that she is a pretty good prize. — By the Master of the Brig & a Passenger I hear that the A Doria was off Bermuda a few days Since also that Capt Weeks [Wickes] had an Action with an English Sloop of War off Martinico & that our Side was victorious & drove the Englishman into Martinico —
I am now convinced that I am too late in the Season. I will however try my utmost 'tis not impossible that I may yet fall in with another prize. I did not expect to have found a Frigate Convoying two Ships a Brig & a Sloop. If the Store Ships come out all under Convoy my hopes of Success from that Quarter must fall Short. — I have the honor to be with much Esteem & Respect Gentlemen [&c.]

CAPTAIN JOHN PAUL JONES TO ROBERT MORRIS

Honoured Sir

Honoured Sir

I herewith inclose for your inspection all the letters and Papers which I found in the Brigantine Sea Nymph — for the Particulars of my Cruise hitherto I must beg leave to refer You to the within Open letter to the Marine Board which please to lay before them — I purpose to Stand to the Southward in hopes of falling in with some Ships which I understand are now on their Passage from Barbados — but at this late Season my Success is very Uncertain — I will, however, Ply about in this Meridian as long as I think I have any chance and if I fail at last I can run to the Northward and try for better Success among the Fishermen which may Answer no bad Purpose by increasing the Number of our Seamen. — however my cruise may terminate I forget not the Singular Obligation I owe to Mr Morris who Promoted it for my honour and Advantage & I esteem the Honour done me by his accepting my Correspondence as the greatest favour I could have Aspired to — I conclude that Mr [Joseph] Hewes hath Acquainted you with a very great Misfortune which befel me some Years ago and which brought me into No America — I am under no concern however that this or any Past Circumstance of my life will Sink me in your Opinion Since human Wisdom cannot Secure us from Accidents it is the greatest effort of Reason to bear them Well. — I will from time to time carefully communicate to you every intelligence in my Power — and "As the regulations of the Navy," he says, "are of the Utmost Consequence You will not think it Presumption if with the Utmost diffidence I Venture to communicate to you Such hints as in my Judgement will Promote it's Honour and Good government. — I could heartily wish that every Commiss[ioned] Officer were to be Previously examined, — for, to my certain knowledge, there are Persons who have Already except into Commission without Abilities or fit Qualification: I am myself far from deserving to be excused. — from my experience in Ours as well as from my former intimacy with many Officers of Note in the British Navy, I am convinced that the Parity of Rank between Sea & land or Marine Officers, is of more consequence to the harmony of the Service, than hath generally been imagined. — in the British Establishment — an Admiral ranks with a Genl a Vice Admiral with a Lieut Genl a Rear Admiral with a Major Genl a Commodore with a Brigadier Genl — a Captain with a Colonel, a master.& Commander with a Lieut Col[onel] — a Lieut. Commanding with a Major, and a Lieutenant in the Navy Ranks with a Captain of Horse, Foot or Marines. — I propose not our Enemies as an Example for our Genl imitation — Yet as their Navy is the best regulated of any in the World, we must in Some degree imitate them and Aim at such further improvement as may one day make ours Vie with and Exceed theirs. — Were this Regulation to take Place in our Navy it would Prevent numberless disputes and deuelings with otherwise will be Unavoidable." — besides Sir, you know very well that Marine Officers being Utterly Unac- quainted with Maritime Affairs — are in those Cases unfit Persons to Preside at or Compose half the number of a Court Martial. — I beg Pardon for the liberty — I thought that Such hints might escape Your Memory in the Multiplicity of Business. — I have Always Understood that the Sentence of a Court Martial when Confirmed by a Commander in Chief was definitive and Admitted of no Appeal — to Prove this I must again recur to English authority in the Case of Lord Geo. G. Sackville who for disobeying the Orders of Prince Ferdinand at the Battle of Mindan was by a Court Martial held at the Horse Guards Rendered incapable of Serving Afterwards in any Military Capacity — Altho' his great Abilities were then well known and are Generally acknowledged at this day — I am led into this Subject by hearing with Astonishment the Application and Complaint of the late Captn [John] Hazard to the Marine Board after he had the honour to Sit as a Member. If he was then Unworthy of bearing his Commission I cannot see what new Merit he can have acquired — and even if he had merit it would not be Sound Policy to reverse the Sentence — it would make Officers Stand less in Awe and attend less Punctually to their duty — and it is not Impos- sible that it might Induce future Court Martials in some Cases to inflict Personal Punishment from whence there is no Appeal.

There was a Mistake made in the date of my Commission which Un- less you Stand my Friend will make a material difference when the Navy Rank is Settled — I took Command here the Tenth day of May as appears the Order and Appointment of the Commr in Chief on the Back of my Commission as Eldest Lieutenant of the Fleet, and my Commission as Captain is not dated 'till the Eight day of August — which you know is not fair as it would Subject me to be Superseded by Captain Robeson [Isaiah Robinson] who was at first my Junior Officer by Six — Perhaps it might Subject me to be Superseded by Others. — If I have deserved so ill as to be Superseded I am Unworthy of bearing my Commission. — I esteem it a greater disgrace and Severer Punishment than to be fairly broke and dismis'd the Service. — I have ordered Mr [William] Hopkins the Prize Master to deliver You a Turtle which Please to Accept — I have the Honour to be with Grateful Esteem and much respect [&c.]

MINUTES OF THE ROYAL COUNCIL OF WEST FLORIDA¹

[Extract]

At a Council, held at His Excellency the Governor's House in Pensacola the 4th September 1776.

His Excellency Acquainted the Board that he had called them together in Consequence of different Intelligences Communicated to him by the Superintendant of Indian Affairs respecting the designs of the Rebels to attack this Colony and at this Critical Situation of Affairs he wished to have all the assistance and advice of His Majesty's Servants. . . .

It also appearing to the Board that there is reason to apprehend the Rebels have designs against Mobile — They therefore recommend that the Engineer form an Estimate of the Expence Necessary to be incurred by temporary repairs to secure that Post in case of any Attack upon it and Report the same as soon as he can to this Board.

His Excellency also laid before the Board a Letter which [he] had received from Lieut Charles Cobb commanding His Majesty's Armed Sloop [West] Florida in this Harbour. . .²

Upon which it was recommended by the Board that His Excellency do request Lieut Cobb at this Critical Juncture of Affairs to give Orders that the West Florida armed Sloop (sent down with an intent to be of Service to the Province) may remain here until the Arrival of Capt Davey in the Diligence — who is hourly expected or some other of His Majestys Ships —

And they farther recommend that His Excellency also apply to Lieut Cobb to give the proper Orders that the West Florida afford what assistance she can to the works to be carried on for the Security and defence of this place and more particularly in bringing up a quantity of timber now laying at the Red Cliffs Rose Island and Tartar point which will be wanted for that purpose.

The Board also think it their indispensible duty to mention that as His Excellency is acquainted by a Letter from Lord George Germain — that His Majesty has thought fit to give orders to Sir Basil Keith and Admiral Gayton for the protection and Security of this Province in any Event which may happen in the present State of Rebellion in North America —

They therefore think it highly proper to recommend that His Excellency the Governor do desire Lieut Cobb to hold himself in readiness immediately to proceed to Jamaica in the Armed Sloop [West] Florida with dispatches from His Excellency to Sir Basil Keith and rear Admiral Gayton representing the alarming Situation we are at present in — and require that all the assistance which they can afford us may be immediately sent down for the Relief and protection of this Province — And then the Board were adjourned till tomorrow morning —

JOHN BRADFORD TO ROBERT MORRIS

[Extract]

Sir –

Boston 5th Sepr 1776

... You may Rely on your directions to Capt [Stephen] Cleveland being most punctually Complied with in every respect... I beg leave to hint that I last week wrote your worthy president relative to a matter wch as it concerns his private interest its probable he may be backward in mentiong to the Comee vizt the Agent for New hampshire stops all Continental prizes that occasionally goes into their harbour mouth for a nights Anchorage, and Orders them up to town there to be sold, their harbour is so Situated that as the Autumn Approaches, its not probable we may have another prize here the whole season and its a notorious fact, that vessells nor Cargoss, will sell for more than half they would sell for here —

Boston, Thursday, September 5.

Our last Accounts from Halifax say — They left there 40 Sail of Vessels, Prizes, &c. —

Sails for London, from Halifax, in the Princess Royal Jamaicaman, Robert Hollowell, Nat Mills, Printer, Margarett Draper and Family; George Deblois, Sam Rogers, Sam Hughes, John Atkinson, the Miss Cummings's; and Justice Cutler of New-Hampshire.

Captain [Daniel] Waters, in the Lee Vessel of War, has retaken a Sloop bound for Halifax, which was lately taken off this Harbour, by the Milford Frigate, and sent her safely into Port.¹

Taken up by the Company stationed at Plimouth for the Defence of the Sea Coast, the Hull of the Sloop called the Smilling Molley, with her Name wrote on her Stern, with white Paint, is almost 90 Tons burthen, appears to be about two Years old, was scuttled and drifting along Shore when found, the 24th of August current, about 5 Miles to the Northward of the Light House on the Gurnet, is painted with green Hants, and green Stern, had her Mast carried away by the Deck, and quite empty, not a Chest or Paper on board, is now at the Wharf in Plimouth. Any Person claiming Property, are desired to apply to Captains William Weston and Jesse Harlow, at Plymouth, being the Commanders of the Company above-named.

GOVERNOR JONATHAN TRUMBULL TO GOVERNOR NICHOLAS COOKE

[Extract]
Sir, Lebanon, Sept. 5th, 1776.

We have also determined to equip what naval force we have with all possible dispatch. I have certain intelligence that our forces are withdrawn from Long Island and Governor's Island, and that the two Continental companies, stationed on the east end of Long Island, are come over to the main, and that the militia on Long Island are dispersed. We are extremely desirous to co-operate with your State in every proper measure for our mutual defence, as there seems to be a threatening appearance that the enemy will endeavour to land on the eastward of New York, in order to cut off the communication and prevent supplies to our army. You will undoubtedly judge it expedient to send the regiment you have already raised, with such other force as you shall judge proper, to unite with us in this important measure, as also to augment and send your naval force for that important purpose, and to clear the Sound if possible. The matter undoubtedly demands the utmost attention and dispatch, as all seems to lie at stake. Don't doubt of your most vigorous exertions. I have advised General Washington and the Provincial Congress of the Massachusetts, of the measures we have taken. Would recommend it to you to consult Commodore Hopkins upon the expediency of attempting to dislodge the enemy's ships from the Sound, how far it is probable it might be done; also, whether the ships with you cannot be manned out of the forces you may raise, or is it not probable for the present emergency it may be done from the army. You will please to return an early answer to these matters.

MAJOR GENERAL HORATIO GATES TO BRIGADIER GENERAL BENEDICT ARNOLD

[Extract]

Tyonderoga 5th September 1776.

... I am attentive to what you mention with regard to an officer being appointed to the command of the Royal Savage, and have, accordingly, fixed my eye upon Colonel [Edward] Wigglesworth, who has, upon my recommending it to him, most readily undertaken to serve as the third officer on board the fleet, yourself first, and Genl [David] Waterbury, second. He will sail tomorrow morning in the Gondola, now here. The Colonel is a good seaman, appears to be much of a gentleman, and has, as far as I can learn, an unimpeached good character.

Lieutenant [James] Calderwood delivers you this letter, and carries down with him the seventy men you have demanded. I understand two hundred seamen are enlisted at New-York for this service. They shall be put on board the row gallies, the moment they arrive. The first row galley will be to-day, the other two, General Waterbury assures me, will be launched this week. No time shall be lost in rigging them, and dispatching them to the fleet. As soon as you get the reinforcement I now send you, you will not, perhaps, think it necessary to detain Colonel [Thomas] Hartley's detachment. He seems exceedingly anxious for them to return, as he hopes to engage his whole regiment for another year.

I send you by the bearer, Lieutenant Calderwood, the draught of the lake as you desire.

When General Waterbury and Colonel Wigglesworth join the fleet, you will be able to dispose it in three divisions; yourself in the centre, General Waterbury on the right, and Colonel Wigglesworth on the left. This disposition will teach the captains of the vessels to know their commanding officers, and prevent any confusion or dispute, about command, in case an unlucky shot, or other accident should take off the general.

As you have seen, and examined every part of the lake in your way down, I should be glad to know your opinion, what is the properest, and most defensible station for the fleet to take. Gales of wind will probably be heavy about the equinox. You are too good a seaman not to take a secure place for anchorage against that season. I am very much pleased to find the gondolas are such good sea boats.

I fancy you will think it immediately necessary you should send hither your most experienced pilot, to conduct the row-gallies with safety, to the fleet. Let him have your positive, and particular instructions, how you think proper he should proceed. It will be proper you should communicate the orders you, from time to time, receive, to General Waterbury and Colonel Wigglesworth, that they may know how to act upon any emergency.

My Lord,

In my last Letter I acquainted Your Lordship with the safe Arrival of the Hessians and Guards, and of the Troops under General Clinton from the South. By all together, on Sea and Land, we have a very respectable Force; and the Object of this Letter is to inform Your Lordship, how it has been employed. But I will take the Liberty to mention a few Circumstances, previous to the important Events, which are the main Points of Attention, and to which all the rest must be ultimately drawn.

The Hessian General and other Commanders have been treated with the greatest Deference, which (as might be expected with Germans) has made a pleasing Impression upon their Temper and Conduct, and inclined them as heartily in the Cause as the warmest among us could desire. On the other hand, the injudicious Abuse and Menaces of the Rebels, and the Hope of Plunder (for I hear all the Hessian common Soldiers have a Notion of making their Fortunes), have stimulated them to such a Degree, as by no means inclines them to shew Tenderness and Mercy. They are very expert in foraging, and have made great Use of their Time. The Company & example of the British Troops has hitherto prevented all excessive Cruelties.

On the 18th of August in the Morning, the Wind and Tide being fair, the two Ships (Phoenix and Rose) came down the River again in Defiance of the Rebel Batteries, and, though pelted all the Way, received no other Damage than by one Ball which struck the Rose and drove a Splinter into a Man's Leg. Such Artillerists were the Rebels, that all the rest of their Discharges, which were above an hundred, scarce came near either the Ships or their Tenders. A Captain of Engineers from the Town, with his Servant, attempting to get onboard the Ships, was overset in his Boat by the rapid Course of the Rose and unhappily drowned: the Servant was saved. The Rebels had attacked and sent up Fire-Ships to burn them, but to no purpose. — Our People destroyed about 200 of them in the Attempt, and towed off the Fire Ships to consume at Leisure, with the Loss only of a small Tender and of two Men.

Early in the Morning of the 22d of August, the English Troops, the Highlanders, and Preston's Light Horse, were conveyed over to Long Island without the least Opposition from the Rebels. — They immediately penetrated into the Country full 10 Miles, the Rebel Forces hastily retiring, and burning all the Ricks of Hay, Corn, &c. as they went. They were pressed upon too suddenly, however, to drive off the Cattle or to do so much Mischief, as the poor People, who are mostly well disposed, informed us they had intended. On the 25th following, the main Body of the Hessians were carried over likewise, and joined the Army, which, upon this Junction, amounted to near 20,000 Men. Some Troops were necessary to be left upon Staten Island, to prevent Incursions from the Jerseys.

On the 27th the important Scene was opened. As Your Lordship will have an Account of the Action in the public Dispatches, I will only relate what passed under my own Observation at a little Distance from the Shore. I saw much of the Battle, which from Beginning to End was almost a running Fight. The Rebels, confident in Numbers, were advanced in an open Field, but on very advantageous Ground, without their Lines. Nothing could exceed the Art of General Howe in the Disposition and Conduct of his Attack. The Army was marshalled into three Divisions. One Column marched under General [James] Grant at a set Time to a particular Spot on the Coast, near to the main Body of the Rebels: The Second under General Clinton took the middle Way over the Hills and came upon the Rebels in Flank, soon after General Grant had posted himself in Front; and, while these were engaged, or rather keeping the Rebels at Bay and amusing them, General Howe with the third Column advanced upon them by a Circuit on their Rear, and nearly hemmed them in. The Rebels, finding this, did not stand a Minute, but all-amazed run with Precipitation to their Lines for the most Part; and the rest, being prevented in their Retreat, were either cut to Pieces, taken Prisoners, or scattered into the Woods, where our People have been hunting and destroying them from Day to Day. The Eagerness and Intrepidity of the Troops is beyond Description. They could not however beat them at running; but they followed them as closely as they could, and with a Spirit which even their Officers could scarcely restrain. Our People suffered most by little Ambuscades behind the Hedges. Considering the Ground, which is rather broken, and strong, the Loss on our Part is as little as could have been expected. We had 54 killed, about 140 wounded, and about 20 missing. Lord Stirling and Genl Sullivan, late a Member of the Congress, with about 90 Officers, are among the Prisoners, with whom for their Number we scarce know what to do. Many of them, principally Irish Emigrants, have offered to enter into the King's Service. They aver, that the Rebel Army was formed in great Measure by Compulsion, and kept together by great Watchfulness and Constraint. The Victory of this Day put His Majesty's Troops in Possession of all Long Island, except the small Peninsula of Brookland.

In the Afternoon of the 28th the King's Army broke Ground and advanced to form a Battery against a high round Fort, which the Rebels have constructed near the Isthmus at Brookland. They strove to dislodge the Troops, fully aware of the Consequences of this Post, and that the Possession of this Ground, which overlooks Governor's Island and the Fort, would give our People the Command [of] both of them and the Town. Their Efforts were loose and languid, and of course in vain. Two of our Men only were slightly wounded by their Fire of Cannon and small Arms, continued for the Space of four Hours.

The next Evening, they precipitately evacuated all their numerous Works and Intrenchments upon Long Island; and so precipitately, that many of them were drowned in attempting to pass over to New York Island. Our People were much surprized at an Abandonment, which to have forced from Men tolerably brave and determined, must have cost a great deal of Time and many Lives. I have walked over these Works, and, though
I am no Judge of Fortification; I can clearly see with what infinite Labor and Expense they must have been constructed. Many of them are of great Use to the Troops both for Harbor & Defence. The Reason of so sudden an Evacuation, I am informed, was this: The next Day after their Defeat, a Party of New England Men, who were posted in Connecticut Sound near Hell Gate, came down in great Agitation to the main Body of the Rebels, with the News of some Ships of War passing through the Sound, with the view of preventing their Retreat. Not recovered from the Terror of their Defeat, this Intelligence threw them into the utmost Consternation, and occasioned the hasty Flight I have mentioned. 'Tis observed of these People in general, that they are exceedingly careful of the Security of their Retreat, and that all their Works are constructed as much with a View to an easy Abandonment, as to the Annoyance of an Enemy. The Thought of being surrounded annihilates all their Courage.

The Situation of this People is becoming desperate; and their actual Distresses, to say nothing of their Fears, increase upon them daily. By the Battle, they lost in Killed, Wounded and Prisoners above 3000 Men, which we can account for; and, besides these, the Woods are so noisome with the Stench of the dead Carcasses, which the Hessians left in them, that they are in many Places inaccessible. A contagious Disorder also prevails in their Army; and 7000 of them are said to be sick and incapable of Service. — Jealousies and Feuds prevail among themselves; and they are reported to have lost their former implicit Confidence in their Commanders. Besides all this, the New England Provinces in particular have so entirely devoted themselves to Arms during this last Summer, that their Lands for the most Part have remained untilled; and I am informed by a Man of Character, just escaped from that Country, that their Stock of Cloathing is almost exhausted, and that they have not one eighth of the Quantity requisite for their Covering during the ensuing Winter. In short, the Rebel Force is becoming a Rope of Sand, which a few more Trials will probably break in Pieces.

I mentioned to Your Lordship, that we had among our Prisoners the Rebel General Sullivan and the titular Lord Stirling, two such despicable Characters, that nothing proves more the Want of real Officers or valuable Men among the Rebels, than the Employment and Trust of Persons like these. I have been in the Company of both, The former was once a Servant, afterwards a Lawyer, then a Delegate to the Congress from New Hampshire, and at length a General of the Rebel Army. He was the principal Instigator of the Confusions in New Hampshire, and is remarkable neither for Decency nor Probity, but very much for a Species of low Chicane, in which the Lawyers in general of this Country are known to excel, and by which he himself has succeeded to his present Eminence of Situation. Modesty has not been remembered to embarrass either him or his Colleague, who is a thousand times worse than nothing in his Circumstances, and is said to have made this desperate Push to get rid of the Inconvenience of his legal Obligations. With such Characters, indeed, as the present Rulers of this Country are in general, it would be disgraceful, if not impolitic, to have any Sort of Intercourse. The Americans have an Adage, which I embrace in its full Extent. They say, "If Great Britain cannot conquer us, she cannot govern us." And I add, If Great Britain do not so govern them now, and so settle their Polity, as to render it unnecessary to conquer them in future, she will not govern them long. Pardon me, My Lord, if I add further, that her Counsels must dictate; Mere Conferences, I fear, will have no Conclusions to her future Interest, whatever they may have to a little temporary Peace. This I learn upon the Spot, and can easily foresee in the Constitution of Things and in the Spirit and Manners of the People. Another Campaign will expend the best Money Great Britain has laid out for a Century, considering American Affairs either in a political or commercial Light. I could explain this Position very fully, and I believe with some Demonstration; but I will not obtrude my own private Opinions, as I fear I shall sufficiently tire Your Lordship with the Recital only of Occurrences.
News from America, or the Patriots in the Dumps.

A Detachment of Hessians took Possession of Governor's Island on the 2d of September, which, though the Rebels had fortified it with great Labor, they abandoned without any Compulsion. We have found here and in other Places above 30 Cannon, which were spiked so injudiciously, that our Engineers have rendered almost all of them fit for Service.

I have made an Excursion upon Long Island, and own it to be one of the most pleasant and fertile Spots I have ever seen. But when I survey the Depredations and Ruin, the Bloodshed and Distraction, and all the other Miseries of this once happy Region, I cannot help deploring the Condition of its melancholy Inhabitants, and abhoring the Dishonesty and Ambition of those Men, who, under the specious Pretences of Patriotism and public Virtue, have been the Authors and Abettors of these Calamities. From what I have seen here, I look-with a double Horror upon the Persons, who would light up a similar Flame, and incite the like Enormities at Home.

I did expect to have had the Honor of congratulating Your Lordship on the entire Possession of New York City and Island by His Majesty's Troops, before I closed this Letter, and am happy to think, it will, in all human Probability, be the Case, long before You can receive it. The sudden Departure of the Packet curtails a Letter which is already of an enormous Length, and obliges me to make a rather abrupt Conclusion. I cannot however finish it, nor even my Life itself, without the sincere and heart-felt Satisfaction of being, upon the firmest Considerations, My Lord, Your Lordship's [&c.]

[Philadelphia] Thursday, September 5, 1776

Resolved, That General Sullivan be requested to inform Lord Howe, that this Congress, being the representatives of the free and independent states of America, cannot, with propriety, send any of its members to confer with his lordship in their private characters; but that, ever desirous of establishing peace on reasonable terms, they will send a committee of their body to know whether he has any authority to treat with persons authorized by Congress for that purpose, in behalf of America, and what that authority is, and to hear such propositions as he shall think fit to make respecting the same:

That the president be desired to write to General Washington, and acquaint him that it is the opinion of Congress, that no proposals for making peace between Great Britain and the United States of America ought to be received or attended to, unless the same be made in writing, and addressed to the representatives of the said states in Congress, or persons authorized by them: And, if application be made to him by any of the commanders of the British forces on that subject, that he inform them that these United States, who entered into the war only for the defence of their lives and liberties, will cheerfully agree to peace on reasonable terms, whenever such shall be proposed to them in manner aforesaid.

The intelligence received from the North parts of this Province, makes it incumbent on me, to request that you will proceed with His Majesty's Schooner under your Command, without loss of time to St John's River, and take such station in conjunction with the Sloop Captain Mowbray, as will most effectually prevent any attempts made by the Rebels to enter that River, to disturb the Settlers thereon. Sir,

The repeated intelligence from Georgia, and the North of this Province, makes it absolutely requisite, for the safety of the Planters on St John's River, to establish a Naval force there —

For this purpose I have engaged the Sloop Rebecca Captain Mowbray of ten Guns with nine men of the Captains, and [six] Seamen which I have added, but the late instance to attempt to man her proving ineffectual, I am compelled to request that a detachment of His Majesty's Troops of an Officer and 35 Private may be fixed on Board Captain Mowbray, to act as a Military force in conjunction with the detachment now established on Saint John's River.

His Majesty's Schooner St John of four Guns being also to proceed immediately to that River, Lieutenant Grant has made application for a Serjeant and twelve, to be fixed on Board the said Schooner —

I am therefore compelled from the situation of that part of His Majesty's Province, to request of you, that the above Assistance be given to the above mentioned Vessels, with all imaginable dispatch, who have received directions to proceed forthwith to St Johns River —

Mr [Andrew] Turnbull at Smyrna having represented the Mutinous disposition of the Settlers under his management and his apprehensions of their designs, obliges me to request that the detachment now there may be augmented to eighteen or twenty men. I have the honour to be with regard and esteem Sir [&c.]

JOHN ADAMS TO ABIGAIL ADAMS

[Philadelphia] Fryday Septr. 6. 1776

This day, I think, has been the most remarkable of all. [Major General John] Sullivan came here from Lord Howe, five days ago with a Message that his Lordship desired a half an Hours Conversation with some of the Members of Congress, in their private Capacities. We have spent three or four days in debating whether We should take any Notice of it. I have, to the Utmost of my Abilities during the whole Time, opposed our taking any Notice of it. But at last it was determined by a Majority "that the Congress being the Representatives of the free and independent states of America, it was improper to appoint any of their Members to confer, in their private Characters with his Lordship. But they would appoint a Committee of their Body, to wait on him, to know whether he had Power, to treat with Congress upon Terms of Peace and to hear any Propositions, that his Lordship may think proper to make."

When the Committee came to be ballotted for, Dr. Franklin and your humble servant, were unanimously chosen. Coll. R. H. Lee and Mr. [Edward] Rutledge, had an equal Number: but upon a second Vote Mr. R. was chosen. I requested to be excused, but was desired to consider of it until tomorrow. My Friends here Advise me to go. All the stanch and intrepid, are very earnest with me to go, and the timid and wavering, if any such there are, agree in the request. So I believe I shall undertake the Journey. I doubt whether his Lordship will see Us, but the same Committee will be directed to inquire into the State of the Army, at New York, so that there will be Business enough, if his Lordship makes none. — It would fill this Letter Book, to give you all the Arguments, for and against this Measure, if I had Liberty to attempt it. — His Lordship seems to have been playing off a Number of Machiavillian Maneuvres, in order to throw upon Us the Odium of continuing this War. Those who have been Advocates for the Appointment of this Committee, are for opposing Maneuvre to Maneuvre, and are confident that the Consequence will be, that the Odium will fall upon him. However this may be, my Lesson is plain, to ask a few Questions, and take his Answers.

I can think of but one Reason for their putting me upon this Embassy; and that is this. An Idea has crept into many Minds here that his Lordship is such another as Mr. [Thomas] Hutchinson, and they may possibly think that a Man who has been accustomed to penetrate into the mazy Windings of Hutchinsons Heart, and the serpentine Wiles of his Head, may be tolerably qualified to converse with his Lordship.

I on my part will give every assistance required in getting her ready for sea — and do take upon me to say (if her bottom is in proper Order) I will have her ready nearly as soon as any Dispatches your Excellency may have to send and as in the present State of Affairs it would in my Opinion be improper in me to quit the province I propose forwarding the Removal of timber &c up to this place and to give every assistance in putting it in a State of defence —

ABIGAIL ADAMS TO JOHN ADAMS

[Extract] Braintree Sepbr. 7 1776

Tis said that the Efforts of our Enemies will be to stop the communication between the colonies by taking possession of Hudsons Bay [sic River]: Can it be effected? The Milford frigate rides triumphant in our Bay, taking vessels every day, and no Colony nor Continental vessel has yet attempted to hinder her. She mounts but 28 Guns but is one of the finest sailors in the British Navy. They complain we have not weighty mettle enough and I suppose truly. The Rage for privateering is as great here as any where and I believe the success has been as great.

Providence Gazette, Saturday, September 7, 1776

Providence, September 7.

Thursday last arrived here a Prize Schooner, taken by the Joseph Privateer, Capt. John Field, in Consort with a Letter of Marque, commanded by Capt. Joseph Tillinghast, both of this Port. She was in Ballast, and bound from Grenada to Liverpool, in Nova-Scotia.

Capt. Biddle, of the Andrew Doria, in the Service of the United States, we hear has taken four valuable Prizes, one of them said to be a large Ship, which Lord Dunmore was sending to England, with 15000 Bushels of Wheat. Two of the Prizes have arrived safe in Port.

We learn that Capt. Jabez Whipple, in the Privateer Independence, of this Place, has taken three valuable Prizes, viz. a Ship, Brig and Sloop, and convoyed them into a safe Port.

1. The prizes sent into Providence were the brigantines Lawrence and Elizabeth.
2. The ship was the Aurora; the brig, Fanny.

[September 6-7]

We at this time had information of a Company of Tories that was stationed at Sauteunt [Setauket] L. Island we collected about 60 whale Boats and manned them and cros'd over the Sound in a heavy blow from N. West in the night in Company with the Armed schooner Spy of 10 Guns. Capt. [Robert] Niles and arrived at the Island about 11 P.M. and divided our force so as to take their whole force by surrounding their Guard house and Head Quarters at the same time. On our arrival at the Guard house numbers fled to Head Quarters where the whole was taken. We killed 13 of the Enemy and brought off 40 prisoners and made prizes of two Sloops — we had one man killed, none wounded, and the day following we returned to New Haven —

BRIGADIERT GENERAL BENEDICT ARNOLD TO MAJOR GENERAL HORATIO GATES

Dear General,

Wind Mill Point September 7th 1776

I wrote you the 2nd Instant from Willborough by Lieut [James] Calderwood, the same Evening Anchored at Schuyler's Island, & on the 3d Instant arrived safe at this Place, which is 4, or 5 miles from the Isle Aux Tate, and 7 miles from the Isle aux Mott, we found the Isle aux Tate occupied by the Enemy, and several hundred Men encamped, between that & us, who the Evening of our arrival made a precipitate retreat.

I have posted my Guard Boats, at a Point running into the Lake about one Mile below us, The Enemies Boats have several Times, appeared on the Lake with a View of decoying our Boats but I have never suffered them to be pursued; Lieutenant [Benjamin] Whitcomb arrived here the 5th in the Evening and went off the same Night with three Men for St. Johns on the Westside, I sent off Ensign [Thomas] McCoy early the next Morning on the Eastside, with three Men, they are to send me intelligence from time to time I expect to hear from them to Morrow early yesterday morning the Boats were ordered on Shore to Cut Fascines to fix on the Bows and Sides of the Gondolas to prevent the Enemies boarding and to keep off small Shot. One of the Boats went on Shore contrary to Orders before the others were ready, they were attacked by a Party of Savages, who pursued them into the Water. They all reached the Boat, but before they could row off, three were killed, and Six wounded the Party was headed by a Regular Officer, who called to our People to resign themselves, on our firing a few Shot among them they immediately dispersed. a party was sent on Shore who found a laced Beaver hat, the Button marke 47th Regiment. The Lee and Gondola arrived here yesterday morning, we are moor'd in a Line a Cross the Lake, insuch a manner, it will be impossible for a Batteau to pass us. — I hope the Gallies are nearly compleared, the Force of the Enemy is uncertain, however they have this advantage that they can Man all their Batteaux with Soldiers whenever they think proper to attack us, and our Vessels are solow that numbers may carry them by boarding, this must be attended with great Loss on their side, as I am Positive they will notbe able to surprize us. If I find the Enemy have a considerable Naval Force I design to retire, to Cumberland Head or Schuyler's Island untill joined by the three Row Gallies, which will be Superior to all our present Force, when the whole are joined, I believe the Isle a Mott will be the best Stand as the Enemy can bring nothing against us by Land nor will they dare to Come on the Island, as by our Guard boats we can prevent, any Boats going from Missisque Bay, as you have more Troops at Tyconderoga than you want, will it not be prudent to send up one thousand or fifteen hundred Men, who might encamp on the Isle aux Mott, and be ready at all times to assist us if attacked twenty Men to a Batteau will be sufficient, they might Load under Cover of the Vessels, push out and Fire, & retire under cover again, & If the Enemies Boats should make their principal Attack on any particular Vessel these Batteaux might Assist her; each should be fixed for a Swivel in each end, and if they are armed one should be fixed in them, if you should think it necessary to send a Detachment, it will be necessary to bring intrenching Tools, that they may cover themselves from Small Arms.

We have but very indifferent Men, in general, great part of those who shipped for Seamen know very little of the Matter three or four good Gunners are wanted enclosed is a List of our Sick, who increase fast, I have sent up in three Batteaux 23 Men, who will be of no service for some time, I wish 50 Seamen could be procured and sent down, I inclose you a Letter from Samuel Chaise Esqr you will observe he requests an explanation of your Letter to Mr Adams, He observes my Character is much injured by a Report prevailing in Philadelphia of my having sequestered the Goods seized in Montreal, as you have had an Opportunity of hearing that Matter canvassed on the Tryal of Colonel [Moses] Hazen, I beg you will be kind enought to write your Sentiments to him on the Matter. I cannot but think it extreamly cruel, when I have sacrafised my Ease, Health and great Part of my private Property in the Cause of my Country, to be Caluminated as a Robber and thief, at a Time too when I have it not in my Power to be heard in my own Defence.

The 15th of August when we left Tyconderoga the fleet were victualed for thirty Days, which Time is elapsed except 6 Days, we have on board the Fleet Six or eight Days Provision besides twenty Barrells of flour, left at Crown Point to be baked, and ten Barrells of Pork which I have ordered Lieutenant Calderwood to bring down, which will serve the Fleet to the 20th, as the Lake is often very difficult to pass for a number of days we ought to have at least one Months Provisions on hand. Major [David] Grier goes up with the Sick to whom I must refer you for particulars.

We are very anxious to hear from New York, hope soon to have that pleasure by one of the Gallies, which I think must be compleated by this Time — please to make my Compliments to the Gentlemen of your Family and believe me with much respect, esteem and Affection Dear General [&c.]

DIARY OF SAMUEL RICHARDS

Decr. [sic September 7, 1776]

In the bay below N. York the british fleet made a great display; the no. of the vessels of all sizes amounted to about 300; and as they spread their sails to dry — after a rain— they covered a large extent of the water.

The admirals ship — the Eagle of 64 guns appearing in full sight, known by her flag, Capt. [David] Bushnell — of the sappers & miners — having prepared his submarine engine — it was sent one night, with a magazine of powder attached to it — under the command of a serjeant and 12 men — the party proceeded to the ship — having a pointed rod at top designed to be stuck into the ships bottom, but this point not taking effect — the tide which was strong — wafted the engine away from under the ship & the enterprise failed. The sergeant who had the command gave me a particular narrative of the proceeding; and said that he was of opinion that the projecting point struck the head of a bolt which prevented its success; but I judged it as probable that the point was prevented from entering the ship by the copper sheathing.¹

This Morning, the Fowey, Capt. G[eorge]. Montagu, came into the Harbor from North Carolina.

Great Preparations have been making all this Day; and about 80 Flat-bottomed Boats were made ready for a further Debarkation of Troops, and for a further attack upon the Rebels.

A slight alarm happened to-night from the Enemy's Boats approaching too near; they were soon driven back by the Musketry in our Boats. Their Intention was, as we apprehended, to bring down 2 or 3 Fire-ships to set adrift in the Fleet.

THOMAS RANDALL TO THE NEW YORK PROVINCIAL CONGRESS

[Extract]

Gentlemen — Elizabethtown, Sept. 7th, 1776.

Enclosed is a letter from the Lieutenant of your schooner Gen. Putnam, who informs you that the captain went away without letting him know of his going, and of course it must be a neglect of his duty. You also have a petition from the ship's company, which complaint I fear is too true; you will be pleased to take such steps as you think fit; for my part I think it would be best to appoint a new commander for her; the lieut. I believe would be more industrious in the service. I also think it would not be amiss to order the people to be paid about one half of their wages, to supply them with clothes and stores. . . .

WILLIAM GOODRICH TO THE PENNSYLVANIA COUNCIL OF SAFETY

Philadelphia Goal, 7th Sept' r, 1776

Gentlemen of the Counsel of Safety:

I now beg leaf to inform you of my transactions while I was employed in fetching in gunpowder for the use of the Collony of Virginia, and detained a prissinner under Lord Dunmore on that Account, Which is as follows, Viz:

Sometime in July, in the year of 1775, I was imployed by Mr. Thomas Newton, of Norfolk, to fetch in a quantity of gunpowder for the use of the collony of Virginia, and was intrusted with Bills of exchange on London to the amount of five thousand pounds Sterling, to purchase the same with. I proceeded to the West indies with all possable disspatch and disposed of the said bills of exchange, agreeable to my directions from Mr. Newton. Then I went to St. Eustatia, Martinico and Sundry other french Islands, and purchased all the gunpowder I could find in those Islands, which did not exceed five thousand weight. And knowing at that time that the Collony of Virginia was laying in a defenceless state, I took the above quantity of gunpowder into a small sloop of mine, with a quantity of Oznabriges on my own Acc't, and proceeded with same to the head of paspotank river, in North Carolina, where I landed the powder and oznabriges all safe. From thence I was preceding to Norfolk, in Virginia, over land, there to see Mr. Thomas Newton, the gentleman who imployed me to go on the powder expedition.
On my way to Norfolk I was informed that the said Newton had moved from that and it would be onsafe for me to go there, as Lord Dunmore was a keeping a'lookout and wanted to take me, owing to an information lodged against me to Lord Dunmore of my being gone out after gunpowder.

When I left the west indies I left the remainder part of the Cuntrie's money in the hands of Isaac Vandam, Merchant at St. Eustatia, with orders to lay the same out in gunpowder, and have the same ready at St. Eustatia on my return, a coppy of which I took with me. My receiving information that Dunmore Wanted to take me, maid me alter my corse and go to Portsmouth, Where I expected to have seen my family; but on my arrival There, I saw no one but Mr. Robert Shedden, who informed me that my Father's and my family was moved up to a Plantation of my Father's that was about twenty-five miles back in the Cuntry, and that I must leave the town eme-diately as Lord Dunmore was keeping the strictest lookout for you, which I did. I proceeded to my family. Mr. Shedden sent word to my Father & Brother to inform them of my safe arrival, Who were then down at the Capes, the one at the North cape and the other at the south Cape, keeping a lookout for me, and a small Schooner which they expected in, loaded with corse Linens. After staying one or two days with my family, I proceeded to Williamsburg, and on my way I met with Mr. Newton, who I inform’d of my proceedings, which gave him satisfaction, & he desired that I would proceed to Williamsburg and there give an account of my proceedings to Mr. R. C. Nicholus, who it also gave Satisfaction to.

From Williamsburg I returned to my Father’s plantation, where my Family was, and mued my Wife, who was then big with Child, and looking to layin in the corse of a month or so, to Mrs. Brown’s, an old Midwifes, where I thought She might remain in Safety while I was gone for the remainder part of This gunpowder. As soon as I got her well settled there and provided her with necessaries of Life, I proceeded to my Father’s plantation, on my way to St. Eustatia, but on my arrival there my Father wasn’t returned from the cape, who I wanted to see before I went to ‘Statia, which induced me to stay there that night, and, unluckey for me, there came Eight men and an officer that night and took me a prissenner, about two o’clock in the morning, and Carried me on board of the Otter Sloop-of-War.

On my Father’s hearing of this misfortune of mine, he returned from the Cape, and took the directions I left with Mr. Vandam and went to the head of paspotank, where the small Vessel was laying that I brought in the powder and Oznabriges with, and was proceeding to St. Eustatia in order to take in hand the powder expedition, but unluckily got taiken at Ocrocock Bar, by two of the king’s Crossers that was there, and brought a prissonner on board of the Otter, with all his papers, among which was a Copy of Vandam’s orders, which I left with him. Upon Lord Dunmore Examineing of this Copy of Direction that I left with Mr. Vandam, he found that I had left a considerable sum of money belonging to the Colony of Virginia in the hands of Vandam, at St. Eustatia, to be laid out in gunpowder; upon which, his Lordship obliged me to go on board of an armed tender, and sent me to St. Eustatia, giving of me possative orders to take that gunpowder, and what money that should not be laid out, and fetch the same to him.

When arrived at St. Eustatia, I informed Mr. Vandam of My misfortune, and told him that I was sent there by Lord Dunmore with such instructions, which I shewed to him, telling of him, at the same time, that we must fall upon some plan to keep Lord Dunmore from Geting of this money, as I did not think it was Just that he should have it, which Vandam readily agreed to, and the money is now laying in the hands of Mr. Vandam’s Executors, as he has since departed this Life. Mr. Vandam had the powder ready, agreeable to my directions, which he sold afterwards to a New York Sloop that was laying in the rhoad.

On my return from St. Eustatia to Virginia, I waited on Lord Dunmore and Shode him a note from Mr. Vandam Promissing to pay the sum of money I left in his hands, On his receiveing advice that the bills of exchange was duly Honoured, and not before, as he was an indorser on the bills which he had the money for, and did not think himself safe in delivering the money before then, which note Lord Dunmore took and was satisfied with;
and in about one week his Lordship granted me my perole to go and see my family where I staid three days and returned on board remaining a prissin-nor, in which time Lord Dunmore sent for me several times desiring that I would Join government, which I refused to do, telling of his Lordship that I could not think of taking up arm against a cuntry that was Acting in devenge of there Liberties.

Now the people of the cuntry began to susspect that I had fotch in the cuntries' money to Lord Dunmore, which Occaisoned the Convention to stop the payment of a considerable sum of money due my brother & self for a quantity of corse linen sold them in October last. The people of the Cuntry grew so inragedd, they went to the house where my wife was, and when she had been but three Days delivered of a child, with a fixed reasulution to burn the house over her head, which it was as much as some of my friends could do to keep them from. My Friends was obliged to send my wife off in a fortnight after she was delivered as she run a risque of her life while on shore.

After this I staid on board of a Vessel of my own for three months on my perole not to go on shore; after which Time Lord Dunmore sent for me and desiring that I would Take charge of one of the Tenders, which I still refused to do. This Occasion'd his Lordship to grow a little mad. “What,” says he, “don't the ill treatment of those fellows on shore to Mrs. Goodrich lead you to resent it?” I replied that I did not think it was right to resent the ill treatment of a few Invious men on the whole Cuntry, and that I could not take up armes agains them with a clair Contience as long as they ware acting in defence of there Liberties. “But,” says he, “you may depend upon it that they mean to Shake of their dependence on grate brittain?” Then I told his Lordship that if he would alow me to remain nuteral untill they did declare themselves free and independent of grate brittain, that I should then look upon myself to be in duty bound to take a part in favour of grate brittain, and would do every thing in My power to appress the Americans in such a declaration. Upon which we parted, and I do declar upon my honour, Gentlemen, that I did not do nothing in favour of government but what I was obleged to do before they Declared for Independence. Upon the declaration of Independence in Virginia, I told Lord Dunmore that I was then ready and willing to take a part in favor of grate brittain Agreeable to my promiss, provided that his Lordship would furnish me with a propper Vessel well man'd and arm'd, Which his Lordship agreed to do, and sent me to Bermudas in the armed sloop, the Lady susan, to purchase a Brigg that Would carry Eighteen guns. When at Bermudas, there was no such Vessel to be had, and on my return from Bermudas, I met with the misfortune of falling in with the brig Lexington, Capt. Berry [John Barry], who took me and sent me here. This, gentlemen, I hope you will take to your Consedrations, and have me treated genteally, as a prissonner of war ought to be, and not like a thief or a Robber, as you have done by putting of me in Close confinement, and not alowing of me to speak to any person. I am, gentlemen, a constant and sinseer well-wisher to the piece and well fair of America, while under the power & authority of Grate Brittain.

William Goodrich

N.B. I would be glad to obtain Liberty of riting to my pore Distressed family who are now in Bermudas, as I understand there is an opportunity.

W. Goodrich

2. Goodrich wrote to his brothers, Bridger and Bartlett, this date describing his engagement with Barry:

On my pashage from Bermudas to — I made the Brigg lexenton Capt Berry [John Barry] of Sixteen guns wright to the windward of me about Six oClock in the morning on the 27 day of July & in the Latitude of 35° – 5' She gave Chase to me, and at 12 oClock She came So near as to throw her shot over me, notwithstanding I was make[ing] off[er] from her with all possible speed right before the wind, from 12 untill 1/2 after two oClock I kept afireing at her with a three pounder out of My Cabin windows now and then giveing the sloop a yaw and fetching some of my after guns to bare upon her at which time She kept her Bough guns aplaying upon me and ran up along side, at which time I struck knowing my Self to be no match for her haeving but 10 men onboard 6 of which was down with the Smallpox and 2 more not worth There salt to there Victuals, no one remaining true but Jones, Miller & oald hardy the rest all turn'd [torn] in ten minutes after taiken you well [torn] your boy Jeffery by Calling of him the Devil [torn]. JOURNAL OF THE COUNCIL OF WEST FLORIDA

[Pensacola] 7th September 1776.

We the Subscribing Members of His Majesty’s Council therefore recommend it to your Excellency that you will be pleased to order His Majesty’s Engineer to put the Fort of Mobile in such a temporary State of defence as may be thought Sufficient to Repell any Attack from the Rebels as the Loss of it will be Attended with the following dangerous Consequences—first That it will Cut off all our Communication with the Chactaws, Chichesaws and all the other Tribes of Indians to the westward as far as the banks of the Mississippi and alienate those tribes from His Majesty's Interest with the total loss of the Indian trade which is at present very considerabe and will put and end to all Commerce between Great Britain and the River Mississippi which will infallibly fall into their Possession Secondly That it will be Seperating us from the Western part of the Province and prevent this Colony from Supplying the West India Islands with Lumber &c. and this place with such Provisions as are Necessary for its Subsistance. . . .

A Majority of the Board then gave it as their Opinion and advice that His Excellency the Governor Should give Orders to the respective Officers of the Customs at Pensacola not to clear out any Vessels now in this Harbour bound to the River Mississippi & should also Apply to Lieut Cobb the Commanding Officer of the Armed Sloops here to prevent any such Vessels from going out of the Harbour untill farther intelligence arrives in Order that these Vessels may be prevented from giving intelligence or affording any Assistance in transporting the Rebel Troops which may come against us thro' the Channel of the Mississippi & whom they think there is reason to expect. . . .

BRIGADIER GENERAL BENEDICT ARNOLD TO MAJOR GENERAL HORATIO GATES

Dear General,

Isle aux Mott September 8th 1776 —

When I wrote the foregoing Letter I designed sending off the Batteaux last evening but was prevented by the Stormy weather lastnight the Enemy were heard by the Guard Boats and the People onboard the Vessels near in-shore onbothsides of us several Trees were felled and lights discovered. I believe the Enemy were erecting Batteries, which might have injured us as the Lake is only one and a Quarter Miles over and their Design was doubtless to have attacked us both by land and Water at the Same Time. I make no Doubt we should have been more than a Match for them, but did not think it prudent to Run any Risque, as it would answer no good Purpose. I therefore ordered the Fleet under way this Morning, and at 2 OClock P. M. anchored at this Place here the Lake is about two Miles over and safe Anchorage we effectually secure any Boats passing us — just as we came to Anchor Lieutenant [John] Brooks came on Board, sent down by Colonel [Thomas] Hartley in Consequence of hearing our Cannon fired at the Indians on Sunday Morning. I have thought it necessary to dispatch him back again that you may be out of Suspence with regard to us. Four Guard Boats are constantly out, the Rounds go every two Hours, at Night, and every precaution is taken to prevent being surprized. —

Our men are extremely bare of Cloathing and the Season is coming on-severe & more so on the Water than land. If a WatchCoat or Blanket & one Shirt could be sent for each Man it will be of great Service for them. Rum is another necessary Article When the Howitz arrive, I beg three or four of Six Inches may be sent us mounted, on Field Carriages, with Shells &c. &c. 50 Swivels are much wanted, the last Vessels have none I am [&c.]

MAJOR GENERAL PHILIP SCHUYLER TO JOHN HANCOCK

[Extract] Albany September 8th 1776

The Season advances so fast that it is Time to think of preparing the Winter Quarters for such Troops as are not to be kept in Garrison . . . perhaps it would be best not to canton the Troops too far from Tyonderoga at it may be supposed that an attempt will be made by the Enemy in the Course of the Winter on that post or at least they will try to burn our Navy in order to insure their passage over the Lake in a future Campaign — . . .

Since writing the above a Letter from General Gates of the 5th Instant is come to Hand he observes that “as the Fleet is large and mounts a Number of Cannon and the Body of Troops here very considerable, it is immediately necessary that fifteen Tons of powder, Ten of Lead with Flints and Cartridge paper in proportion should be sent to this post,” I have not any of the Articles here and must intreat that they may be sent with all Expedition.

GOVERNOR PATRICK TONYN TO LORD GEORGE GERMANY

No 24.

My Lord;

In the evening of the 28. August a Ship with some of His Majesty’s loyal Subjects and their Effects arrived at an Anchor of this Bar from Cockspur.
The next morning, the Master and the Passengers being ashore, a rebel Brig, supposed to be one Turpin Commander of 16. Guns and a hundred Men run close to the Ship put three boats of their People into her and carried her off/
We have no naval force but the Saint John of four Guns, and Lord William Campbells Schooner of six Guns in this Port for repairs. The first was ten miles up North River cleaning, the latter without Men.

A Sloop pierced for fourteen Guns, belonging to Captain Mowbray, who has been in the Kings royal navy, and a person of much credit and esteem, the same I sent to Captain Berkley's [Andrew Barkley] assistance in February last at Cockspur, had arrived a few days before from the Islands. I engaged him to go out, sent for the St John Schooner in all haste, put ten Guns into the Sloop and endeavoured, My Lord, to Man her; finding it however a difficult task, a subscription was set a foot to encourage the Men to enter on Board, after our utmost exertion, about thirty Men were collected by night, and of them not more than ten Men the Captain told me fit to go to Sea. The Saint John made great dispatch, and by eleven at night was in the road towards the Bar, although she lay Keel out of the water, when my letters reached Lieutenant Grant.

Your Lordship cannot guess at my shock and mortification, for my zeal runs high on such occasions for His Majesty's service.

After applications my Lord to Admiral Shuldham, Sir Peter Parker, and to Lord Howe, for a sufficient naval force for the protection of our Coasts and Rivers, I am, my Lord, utterly in dispair of any maritime assistance.

The Inhabitants are very uneasy my Lord, for the want of such support, and from the very strong reports from all hands, that the rebels intend to attack the Plantations on Saint John River, I have been under the necessity of taking Captain Mowbrays Sloop into His Majesty's Service, for the Protection of the Province, although it be attended, my Lord, with great expence, I have no alternative. Our Rivers are too large to be defended without Vessels upon them, by any number of Troops, less than an Army.

For these reasons, my Lord, I wrote to the Commanding Officer of His Majesty's Troops, of which the enclosed is a Copy, No 1, and to Lieutenant Grant of His Majesty's Schooner, No. 2.

I hope your Lordship will approve these measures, I beg leave to assure you my Lord, in all cases and circumstances, my greatest care and anxiety is to do right. I have the honour to be with the greatest respect, My Lord, Your Lordships [&c.]

... A French Frigate arrived the other day from France, with orders to the General to protect all American vessels: A pilot boat belonging to a merchant in Philadelphia was taken the day before yesterday, and sent to Jamaica; a French frigate of 36 guns and a guarda costaa, which last hoisted Continental Colours, were immediately sent after her, with orders to follow her into Port Royal harbour, if they could not overtake her before, and demand her; what will be the consequences time will discover. The French were very much exasperated at her being taken, which was within two leagues of the land.

... A Number of prizes have been sent into the different ports of New England since my last, 4 in at Bedford, one at Cape Ann, some at the Eastward & a number at Providence, chiefly West India men. — The Spirit for Privateering is got to the highest pitch of enthusiasm, almost every Vessell from 20 Tons to 400 is fitting out here; they are in great want of Guns, but with what they dig up on Wharfs and at the Corner's of Streets, they have made out heretofore very well; Small Vessells are gone to Hispaniola for the Cannon of 2, 24 Gun Ships, that are now fitting for the Sea; the Owners have offer'd me 20 £ p Month & 4 shares, to take the Surgeon's birth on board one of 'em. — The Salt-Petre business is still persu'd with spirit, tho' the quantity that has been brot in since June, is but small, but when the Farming.business is over we shall have it in as great plenty as ever. —

THOMAS CUSHING TO ROBERT TREAT Paine

[Extract]

Dear Sir

Boston September 9th 1776

I have received your kind favor of the 24 Ultimo — The 24 Gun Frigate might have been out to Sea a month Ago and have cleared her Cost as well as the Cost of the other Frigate, by what prizes she might have taken before this, had she have been furnished with her Guns, the want of these retards every Attempt to fix her off, besides it will be impossible to procure Men till they see she is Compleatly Armed, It is a great pity you have not been able to send the Cannon from Philadelphia; I have received no orders to purchase any here but have from the first been told I should be supplied with them from Philadelphia, however I have tryed in Vain to procure them at Providence, Their Furnace has been so engaged in supplying the two Continental Ships there as well as the Government of Rhode Island with Cannon that they have constantly wrote me I could not be supplied with any till they had fulfilled those Engagements; but I fear (being tempted with a most extravagant Price by the owners of Privateers) they have notwithstanding been Supplying other People even in preferrence to their own Government; Mr Nicholas Brown, one of the owners of the Furnace, has lately wrote me that they Can have Ninety pounds Lm p Ton for Cannon & want to Know Whether I am empowered to Contract for any, but does not Inform me how soon I can be furnished, if I was willing to Contract at that enormous price, which I dare not do without first Consulting Congress, pray let Know what I shall do upon this occasion, provided they at Providence Can furnish me Seasonably —

The Milford Frigate and, it is said, some others, are Cruising upon our Coast and taking prizes — The Continental Frigates, if they were now out, might be of eminent service, O for Cannon! The spirit of Privateering prevails so amazingly here that Cannon cannot be procured, if at all, but at a most extravagant price — pray forward them from Philadelphia if possible & send me the dimensions of the Guns by the first opportunity that I may compleat the Carriages, for the General Court apprehending the 24 Gun Frigate will not be a Match for the Milford of 28 Guns are About placing the Guns, they proposed lending to me, on board the Portsmouth Frigate, if Capt Langdon will consent she should go out And Attack the Milford . . .

Your Brethren in the Law have fine times of it, They are making Money as fast almost as they Can receive it, I suppose there never was a better chance for Gentlemen of your Profession getting money than the Present, Privateering prevails so much & such a number of prizes are taken that it makes a vast deal of Business in your Way — Messrs Dana, Lowell, Kent, Morton Hitchburn &c. &c. &c have their hands full —

While writing I received your Favor of the 31 August — The prize ship that had the Ten 9 pounders on board was retaken & Carried to Halifax — I hear Capt Langdon is appointed by the Congress Agent for the Continental Ships within the State of Newhampshire and as he has had the trouble and fatigue of building & fixing one of them out (which at this difficult day is attended with Ten times the trouble & fatigue as at another time when every thing may be obtained with Ease & barely for asking for) I think it is reasonable & just he should have the Appointment — If I, who have had the care & trouble of building two of these Ships, Should be entirely overlooked, will it not seem as if my conduct with respect to them was disapproved of? As to the Objection made to my being Agent for the prizes on account of it’s being incompatable with my other Appointments, it seems this objection was easily got over with respect to Mr Langdon for he is judge of the Common pleas in his Government as well as my self in this Government; with respect to such an Appointment’s being incompatable with the place of a Councillor, that seems not to Agree with the Ideas of the Court here, for both the Honble Mr Wm Sever & Mr Richard Derby are Councillors and Notwithstanding this they have both been appointed by the Council Agents for the Colonial Vessells of War, one for the southern Distric, the other for the Middle District; As I have had an Infinite deal of trouble in building & Collecting the Materials for these ships I should think it hard if any one else was appointed to have the Care of them & from time to time to furnish them with Supplies, It will be full enough for one man to have the Charge of the Prizes, and for Another to have the Care of these & the other Continental privateers & from time to time to supply them with Provisions, Stores of all Kinds, Mast, Yards, Cables and other riggen as they may stand in Need of them — perhaps this is the appointment Capt Langdon has got pray let me know particularly what his appointment is & what precisely is his Duty, I am oblidged to you for the tender of your serv-ices Upon this occasion & doubt Not I shall experience the benefit of them —

I remain with respect [&c.]

GOVERNOR JONATHAN TRUMBULL TO GOVERNOR NICHOLAS COOKE 1

Sir Lebanon Septemr 9th 1776

Since my last I have made Enquiry what naval Force can be had in this State to assist in an Attempt to clear the sound of the Enemies Ships — and find we can soon have a Ship mounting 20 Guns, 9 lbders, and a Brigantine of 16 Guns ready for that Service; we could also add another Brigantine of 8 Guns could we procure Cannon to put upon her, besides our Galleys, which we hope may be able to join them

I persuade myself You are advised of the present Situation of our Army and the Enemy, from which it will appear how much it imports the Success of the Army under General Washington, as well as the Safety of these States to achieve this Enterprize — Could Commodore Hopkins be prevailed upon to join the Force under his Comand with Your Gallies and such naval Force as your State can furnish to our Ship Briga and Gallies I flatter myself it would be sufficient to effect the purpose intended. if greater Force should be thought necessary, there are two privateers in the Harbour of New London that may be had to assist them.

Permit me to request your Attention to this subject, and your answer by the return of this Express and to assure You I am with the greatest Respect & Esteem [&c.]

1. Letters to the Governor, 1776, vol. 8, R. I. Arch.
Gentlemen —

Lebanon Septr 9th 1776 —

The vast Importance of preventing the Ministerial Army taking the Benefit of the Stock on Long Island & Availing themselves of the Advantage of that Post, Assisting such of the Inhabitants to remove with their Effects who are disposed for it, and prevent their Total Seduction, I Apprehend are Matters of more Consequence to the Common cause than we can easily Imagine, to dislodge that Army from Long Island and Destroy the two Ships & Tenders in the Sound which at present prevent Supplies that way by Water to Our Army, might at one blow in a great Measure Relieve Our Bleeding Country from its Impending Danger —

How far it wou'd be Practicable or what Measures are proper to take at this Alarming Crisis is Matter of Serious Concern with Us — Its Supposed here that in Case an Attempt Shou'd be made to Collect a Force at the East end of Long Island to Remove Stock &c That a Number of Whale Boats wou'd be Absolutely Necessary to Troops Stores Supplies &c as they might Avoid all the Vessels of Force the Enemy cou'd send to Obstruct us — I am Informed that a large Number of Whale Boats that belong to the Continent are at and near Boston and might be used for that Important purpose we have but very few with us. I am Also Informed that a Regt is Ordered from you to Providence to replace the Continental Battallion removed from the State of Rhode Island, & Whether your Regiment cou'd not come in the Whale Boats to Providence Carrying them A Cross the Land at Buzzards Bay, is I apprehend Worthy of your Consideration, and to be executed without Delay We are Equipping what Naval Force we have with all Possible Expedition, we are Exerting Ourselves & desirous to Unite Our Whole Strength with the Other States in Our Common Cause — I dont doubt of your Utmost Attention and Most Vigorous Exertions therein. Must Intreat your Answer to this & such other Measures as you Judge may be Beneficial —

ABRAHAM YATES, JR. TO THE NEW YORK DELEGATES IN THE CONTINENTAL CONGRESS

In Committee of Safety for the State of New York

Fishkill Septr. 9th 1776

Gentlemen. Sensible of the great Importance of the Posts in the highlands, We have lately directed an enquiry into their Situation which will appear from the inclosed Return to be far from such as we could wish. —

The Necessity General Washington has of all the Troops that compose his Army at New York, prevented his sparing to those Fortresses sufficient Hell Gate, New York, Showing American Fortifications.
Garrisons or the necessary Stores — What may be the fate of the Country below the highlands is as yet uncertain and may possibly depend on the event of a single Battle — should these Posts be properly secured we cannot but hope that the greater part of this State might nevertheless be retained; and the Communication between the Northern and Southern States be by that Means kept up — For which Reason we wish you to call the Attention of the Congress to an Object of whose Importance they have already been sensible and to ask a proper supply of Stores. We have already afforded them all in our Power to supply — Fire Ships would be of great use, yet for want of Materials we are unable to proceed in preparing them. Seamen cannot be procured here to man our armed Vessels without the greatest Delay unless drafted from the Army — perhaps they may be got at Philadelphia. —

By the inclosed Resolves you will find that we have endeavoured to reinforce the Garrisons in the highlands — As these Men are all taken from the Plough, we are very anxious to have them relieved as soon as the Circumstances of the Continent will admit. —

We have borrowed of the State of Connecticut twenty Pieces of Cannon, ten Twelve and ten Six Pounders for the Forts — We wish they were heavier, but we fear this Deficiency cannot be supplied, and therefore must endeavour to do without them — You will find by the enclosed Resolves that we have taken Measures to encrease the Number of our field Artillery. You will be mindful to transmit us every public Resolve of Congress, and at least one of the Pensylvania Gazatte's every Week — We remain Gentlemen [&c.]

DIARY OF FREDERICK MACKENZIE

[Long Island] 9th Sept Two Ships of War are expected up the East River, as soon as the Wind and tide serves for their passing the town. Many of the flat boats have come up the River during the late nights, and are assembled in Hallet's Cove near Hellgate. More are expected up this night, and the whole will be collected there.

Everything indicates that we shall soon attempt something decisive against the Rebels, but considering the nature of the Shore at Hellgate, and rapidity of the tides and variety of Eddies there, I do not suppose the landing will be made in that place. It appears probable that the erecting batteries against the Enemy's works at Hellgate, and making so much demonstration there, is intended to draw their attention from some other point, for owing to the situation and construction of their principal work, it is extremely difficult to destroy it effectually.

E. Baldwin to Solomon Porter, Danbury

Camp below Turtle Bay Sept 9. 1776

Matters continue very still, that I have little to write — We are in hourly expectation of the Enemies Landing on this Island — But they continue still as yet — Except that they have Erected a Battery opposite ours at Hell gate from whence there was yesterday a very brisk Cannonading & Bombardment upon our Fort — & from our fort upon them — I hear they killed one of our Men, wounded Another & have done some Damage to the fort — last Night they were still on both sides — but this morning we hear the Cannon playing very briskly again. The Ship (probably the Rose Capt Wallace) still lies in the East River close by the long Island Shore; at such a Distance, that tis not easy to damage her much. . . .

George Washington to Governor Jonathan Trumbull

Head-Qrs New York, Sept 9th, 1776

I highly approve of your plan and proposition for raising such a naval force as will be sufficient to clear the Sound of the enemy’s Ships of War — If Admiral Hopkins will Join you, I should suppose It not only practicable, but a matter of certainty, & If it can be effected, many valuable & salutary consequences must result from It — As to drafting Seamen from the Continental regiments It cannot be done as their Numbers have been reduced so low already by taking men from them for the Galleys, Boats, & other purposes that some of them have hardly any thing left but the Name, besides I must depend chiefly upon them for a successful opposition to the Enemy — If It can be done out of the Militia I shall not have the least objection & heartily wish the Enterprise, when ever attempted may be attended with all possible success — secrecy & despatch will be most likely to give It a happy issue — The enemy’s Ships can receive no reinforcements but such as go round Long Isld — Our Works at Hell Gate preventing their sending Ships that way — they are sensible of their Importance & yesterday opened Two, Three Gun Batteries to effect their destruction, but as yet have not materially damaged them & they must be maintained If possible.

New-York Gazette, Monday, September 9, 1776

New-York, Sept. 9.

Since the Retreat of our Army from Long-Island, the Enemy have extended themselves a considerable Length on the Shore bordering the Sound, and on Tuesday a large Number of them landed on Blackwell’s-Island, about three Miles from the City, but the Shot from our Batteries soon made them recross the River. On Wednesday a Ship from the Fleet, (supposed to be a British Hell Gate Battery Opening Fire, September 8, 1776.
Frigate) passed between Governor's Island and Red-Hook, and that Night got up the Sound abreast of the Island the Enemy had been drove from; when, under cover of her Guns, they the next Day again came over to it in large Bodies – This brought on a brisk Cannonade for near two Hours, in which the Ship sustained so great Damage in her Hull, &c. as obliged her to move close in with the Long-Island Shore, for shelter from our Shot and Bombs. At the same Time of this attack, a firing also began from the Enemies Batteries on Long-Island opposite the City, which was returned with such Spirit, by our People in their Fortresses at and about the Ship-Yards, that they gave us little or no Annoyance since from that Quarter.

Several Men of War now lie within Gun Shot of our main Battery, and the greatest Part of the Fleet behind Governor's-Island tho' they have lately had very favourable Winds to come up to the City; which gives us Reason to think they mean not to attack it by Water till they know the Success of their forces in attempting to land on this Island.

Thursday a Barge was seen in the East-River, sounding the Channel where it is obstructed by scuttled Vessels, but soon made off, as it is supposed she observed our People at the main Fort, preparing to give her a suitable Salutation.

Wednesday a Flag came from the Fleet with a Return of those Officers that were made Prisoners in the late Attack on Long-Island; who we hear are treated with Civility by the British Officers.

Saturday night our Guard Boats for observing the Motions of the Fleet, fell in with those of the Enemy, when a smart Attack began and lasted for some Time, but the latter being reinforced with several Tenders obliged our's to return to their Station.

On Sunday Morning a Cannonade again commenced, supposed to be from our People opposing some new manoeuvres of the Enemy up the Sound.

GOVERNOR PATRICK TONYN TO LORD GEORGE GERMAIN

No 25.

My Lord; On the 7. by express from the Commanding Officer on St John River the Rebels have appeared on the opposite side of some force, our Planters are greatly alarmed, but I hope the Indians I have sent along the West side of that River will soon compel them to move out of this Province.

The Sloop Captain Mowbray which I was obliged to take through necessity into His Majesty's Service will be of the greatest use in that River, I have also employed a scout Boat with swivels, and have directed that as many as are necessary to perform the service of scouts on the River be employed.

Give me leave to inform your Lordship, the expence of these services not only distress me, but shock me, the expence of employing Rangers is terrible, repairing and putting in order the Fort comes high, I hardly know which way to turn.

I have desired the Commanding Officer to apply to the General to discharge the expences of repairing the Lines by the Kings Troops, and for their allowance of Rum when on that duty, these charges will amount to a considerable Sum, but they are nevertheless absolutely necessary in our present situation.

I have done every thing with the greatest frugality and Oeconomy, yet in these times I am startled at the expence.

It is confidently reported that a rebel General of note, with a considerable body of troops arrived at Savannah about a month ago.

The distresses of our frontier Inhabitants are great, they affect me very deeply, I endeavour to lessen them, as much as I can, but, it is not possible in our Situation to remove them.

That your Lordship may know the state of His Majestys Troops, I have the honour to enclose a return.

We are now actually threatened with an invasion. By all accounts from His Majesty’s loyal Subjects preparations are making in Carolina and Georgia to besiege this Garrison. Part are to come by the inland water passage, with the Row Gallies, the Men the rebel General [Charles] Lee brought from the North, joined to what can be raised in those two Provinces. Lee has been as far South as Sunbury. I am informed the rebel Generals [John] Armstrong and How [Robert Howe] are to conduct this expedition. Lee I believe is either gone to the North, or is going there. We hear great boastings from Georgia, of what great things they are to do. If they come they may possibly ruin our Plantations. In former letters I have acquainted your Lordship of my suspicions of a part of the Inhabitants of this Province. But, my Lord, If the Plans I have set on foot, to bring the Indians to our assistance take place on this occasion, of which I have not the least doubt, your Lordship, I flatter myself will hear in the end a good account from me, of this vaunted expedition.

I have had the honour to convey to Lord Howe, and the General, an account of these matters. I have the honour to be with the greatest respect, My Lord, Your Lordships [&c.]

Sir New York Septr 10. 1776

I am directed by his Excellency to acknowledge his receipt of yr Letter of the 26th Ulto advising of the Capture made of the Ship Nelly Frigate, & of the acquittal of the Brig Elizabeth on a Trial had the 22d. also of your appealing to Congress from that decision. —

Removed at such a distance as his Excellency is, and Involved in a multiplicity of Important business, It is impossible for him to give directions about or to pay attention to the Continental Armed Vessels at the Eastward — Therefore, at the same time that he doubts not but your conduct is right respecting this Appeal, he apprehends you should correspond with the Marine Committee appointed by Congress in all matters that may occur in your department, presuming that they were appointed & intended for that purpose. — His Excellency can only repeat that he has already said, that the Laws prescribed by Congress, are the only Rules by which you can conduct yourself — It is not his wish nor in his powere to give any orders or advice authorizing a deviation from them — If in any instances hardships of a peculiar nature cast up — Congress & Congress alone have it in their power to relieve, on proper representation being made.

The Estate of Colo. Lee, late of Marblehead, having lent the Continent some Guns to fit out their Armed Vessels, which are now wanted & applied for you will deliver Nathan Tracy Esqr Eight that are at Portsmouth which were taken in some of the prizes — Mr Tracy has a claim to Ten, which his Excellency would have replaced, If we have so many — The reason of mentioning Eight, is, that he has no Account of your having more. I

Dear Grandson,

Brunswick Sept. 10, 1776

It is possible that a Line from Lord Howe may be left for me at your good Mother’s, as I have appointed to be there to morrow Morning, in order to meet a Notice from his Lordship relating to the Time & Place of a proposed Interview. If it should come there to night, or very early in the Morning I could wish you would set out with it on Horseback so as to meet us on the Road not far from hence, thus if N York should be the Place, we may not go so far out of our way as Amboy would be. Besides I should be glad to see you. My Love to your Mother Mr [John] Adams & Mr [Edward] Rutledge are with me. If Amboy or the House opposite to it on Staten Island is to be the Place of Meeting, we shall want private Lodgings there. I am as ever, Your affectionate Grandfather

The purport of this is to acquaint you that I have been at Col: Grubb’s Furnace where I proved Two of their 12 lbrs with 8 lb of powder & two Shot, boath Stood. Mr Bustead had proved one of them with 12 lb of Powder & one Shot before my arivel. last Saturday I left their when they had 27 twelve pounders cast, the Majore part of which looks Extreemly well & cast very Smooth aqualety peculiar to that Metel, — An accident happened that they Brock the Gudgin of their water wheel or else they would had Several others ready, before I left it they cast a new gudgin So they will soon be able to get [a] boreing again & I endeavored to prevail on the Cleark to get one made at some Forge which he promissed me he would, for I have but a poor oppinion of cast Iron for such kinde of work. They have excessive hard work in boreing out their coers. I have told him Bustead of Mateirals to make them with So as they can be got out with the greatest ease which I make no doubt but he will try.

They go on with the greatest Spirit & I make no doubt but will soon ac- compliche their contract, the greatest fault in their cannon is they are very large being 17½ Inches at the Touchole & 11¾ Inches at the Muzle & I suppose will weigh about 30 C, — They requested me to apply to you for a resolve of congress for Liberty to employ a number of the prisoners of war.

Boston Sept 11th 1776

Massachusetts Spy, Wednesday, September 11, 1776

[Worcester, September 11]

Captain James Tracy sailed from Newbury-Port the seventh of June in the Yankey Hero, for Boston, with twenty-six men only, including officers this number was not a quarter of his complement; he was provisioned for a six months cruise, and was to take in the remainder of his men at Boston; the afternoon he went out, going round Cape Ann he observed a sail in the offing, but in his situation did not think of looking after her. Two boats full manned with their muskets, who had put out after the sail, came on board, and informed him a number of transports had been close in with the Cape that day; fourteen men from the two boats joined him, and sent their boats on shore; he had now forty hands in the whole (only a third of his complement) with these he put away for the sail, which bore E. S. E. about five leagues distance, they perceived her to be a ship, and soon from her management to be a ship of war. As a contest with her must have been very unequal, Capt. Tracy, who intended to make a harbour that night, ordered the brig to be put about for the shore, not then suspecting the ship could come up with him; but he had not tacked ten minutes before the westerly wind died away, and the ship taking a fresh southerly breeze came fast in, endeavouring to cut the brig off from the shore. After some time, the ship thus getting in the wake of the brig, the wind again came fresh to the westward, upon which the brig hauled to the wind in the best angle for the shore, the ship gave chase and in an hour came up within half a mile, and began to fire her bow chasers, which the brig only answered with a swivel, Capt. Tracy reserving his whole fire, until the ship, keeping a constant fire, came up within Pistol shot upon his lee quarter when the brig gave her the best return they could make from their main and quarter deck guns, swivels and small arms, and after then kept up a constant fire. The ship was soon up along side, and with twelve nine pounders of a side, besides forecastle and quarterdeck guns, and with her marines overlooking the brig as high as her leading blocks, kept a continual fire; after some time the ship hauled her wind so close, which obliged the brig to do the same, that Capt. Tracy was unable to fight his lee guns; upon this he backed under her stern, but the ship, which sailed much faster, and worked as quick, had the advantage, and brought her broadside again upon him, which he could not evade; and in this manner they lay not a hundred feet from each other, yawing to and fro, for an hour and twenty minutes, and privateer's men valiantly maintaining their quarters against such a superior force. About this time, the ships foremost guns beginning to slack fire, Capt. Tracy stacked under her stern, and when clear of the smoke and fire, perceived his rigging to be most shockingly cut, yards flying about without braces, some of his principal sails shot to rags, and half of his men to appearance dying and wounded.

Mr. Main, his first Lieutenant, was among the first wounded, and Mr. Davis, one of the prize masters, fell in the last attack. In this situation they went to work to refit the rigging, and to carry the wounded below, the ship having then taken a broad sheer some way off, and none of her guns bearing; but before they could get their yards to rights, which they zealously tried for in hopes still to get clear of the ship, as they were now nearer in shore, or to part from her under the night, she again came up and renewed the attack, which obliged Capt. Tracy to have recourse to his guns again though he still kept some hands aloft to his rigging; but before the brig had again fired two broad-sides, Captain Tracy received a wound in his right thigh, and in a few minutes he could not stand; he laid himself over the arm chest and barricadoe, determined to keep up the fire, but in a short time, from pain and loss of blood, he was unable to command, growing faint, and they helped him below; as soon as he came to, he found his firing had ceased, and his people round him wounded, and not having a surgeon with them, in a most distressed situation, most of them groaning and some expiring.

Struck severely with such a spectacle, Capt. Tracy ordered his people to take him up in a chair upon the quarter deck, and resolved again to attack the ship, which was all this time keeping up her fire; but after getting into the air, he was again so faint that he was for sometime unable to speak, and finding no alternative, but they must be taken or sunk, for the sake of the brave men that remained, he ordered them to strike to the ship [Milford, of twenty-eight guns, John Burr, commander]. Thus was this action maintained upwards of two hours in a low single decked vessel, with not half the metal the ship had, against an English frigate, whose navy had been the dread of nations, and by a quarter the number of people in the one as the other, yet the victors exulted as though they had overcome a force as much superior as this was inferior to them. The brig had four men killed and thirteen wounded including officers the number in the Milford wounded is not known, though there were some. The deprivation of these brave officers and men is to be regretted by all friends to this country. With justice to Captain Bur of the Milford, it must be acknowledged he treated with humanity and politeness the officers and men that were wounded; but to the eternal disgrace of Britain, and the present King and Parliament, let it be recorded, that in this very action above related, upwards of thirty Americans (prisoners in the Milford) were forced, at the forfeit of their lives, to fight against their countrymen, and the officers and men of the Yankey Hero, that were not wounded, are now detained in several of their ships, and may meet with the same cruel fate, an exaction that even savages have not been known to require. It is to the credit of the Hero's men, that not one would enter upon the ship's books, though not only urged by every persuasion but by threats.

Capt. James Tracy, and Mr. Main his first Lieutenant, we hear are likely to do well of their wounds, though they mend but slowly; they and the other wounded men are at Halifax, twelve of the Hero's men were kept on board the Milford. Mr. Robert Tracy, his second Lieutenant, and the rest of the brig's company, are on board the Renown, Commodore [Francis] Banks.

Journal of the Massachusetts Council¹

[Watertown] Thursday Septr 12th 1776 –

On Motion Ordered That Benjn Greenleaf & John Winthrop Esqrs be a Committee to propose a Letter to the Honble Congress, acquainting them with the Situation of Our Coast being infested with Cruisers belonging to Great Britain, and to request that some of the Continental Vessels may be fitted Out for the purpose of Clearing the Coast of those Enemies to the State, and Report —

Watertown, Sept 12th 1776:

Joseph Palmer represents, That the Town of Braintree was heretofore Supported in a great measure by Supplying Lumber for Ship-building, & large quantities of Stones for Cellars, Houses & Wharfs, for Boston, Marblehead &c, which employed many men, & about 10 or 12 Lighters from 25 to 40 Tons each; which business has been wholly destroyed by the Quarrel commenced against us by Great-Britain: said Palmer had also there, a very large Manufac[y] of Spermaceti Candles, which is entirely Stopped, & the Apparatus nearly, if not quite ruined, to his damage more than £2000 L. mo within that Town

That some of the Inhabitants were obliged to quit their habitations, others removed their most valuable effects, & many Suffered great damage by having troops Stationed upon the Sea-Coasts of said Town, to prevent greater damage by the Enemy; whose vicinity occasioned frequent alarms to the Inhabitants.

PETITION OF WILLIAM JENKINS TO THE MASSACHUSETTS COUNCIL

State of the Massachusetts Bay

To the Honble the Council and the Honble the House of Representatives of said State in General Court assembled at Watertown this twelfth Day of September 1776

Humbly sheweth William Jenkins of the City of Bristol in the Kingdom of Great Britain, Mariner.

That your Petitioner being Master of the Brigantine called the Perkins, was by the Chance of War, taken by the Capt[s] Samuel Tucker and John Skimmer in the Continental arm'd Schooners called the Hancock and Franklin & brought into the Port of Boston where he now is —

Your Petitioner would represent to the Honble Court that at the time of his being taken, he was on a Merchant Voyage, bound from St Augustine to Bristol in Great Britain, that he had on Board his said Brigantine no Supplies of any kind either for the Fleet or Army, now employed against these States, neither had he Arms or Ammunition —

Your Petitioner would further represent to the Honble Court, that he left in Bristol a Wife and four small Children who are entirely dependant on him for their Support and maintenance, & he is really apprehensive that even before this time they may be suffering all the Anxiety and Distress annexed to a Want of the Necessaries & Comforts of Life, unless fortunate enough to find Friends to relieve them in their Troubles; however tedious and irksome his Continuance here might otherwise be, this cannot but necessarily render it more so. He therefore prays the Honble Court that from a Consideration of the Premisses, they would grant him Permission to take Passage for Great Britain or any other Part of Europe, the first Opportunity that offers; he also prays Liberty to take with him his Servant Boy.

He humbly presumes there will be no Objection to the Prayer of his Petition, as he is not held as a Prisoner of War, & no Information that he can give can be of any possible Service or disservice to either Party in this War, unless indeed the Humanity with which he has been treated may be an Inducement to the like Treatment of others in similar Circumstances on the other Side — And as in Duty bound shall ever pray

Willm Jenkins

[Endorsed] In Council Sept 20th 1776 Read & Ordered that the Prayer of this Petition be granted & Said Petitioner be permitted to depart with his Servant Boy to any Part of Great Brittain agreeable to his Prayer —

Boston, Thursday, September 12.

An authentic List of the Naval and Military Force, in the Province of Nova-Scotia, August 13th, 1776, collected from the best Authorities in said Province.

In the Harbour of Halifax, the Milford and Liverpool Frigates, of 28 guns; the Brig Hope, of 12 Guns; the new Sloop of War, fitting out, called the Albany (late the Rittenhouse, belonging to Philadelphia) to carry 16 Guns, Mowatt, Commander.

August 16. Since writing this List, the Milford and Liverpool Frigates sailed, and the 17th, the Brig Hope will sail for Louisburg [And since which (by an honest Fisherman) we are informed, that the Milford Frigate is cruising off this Coast again. Look out, Cruizers,&c.]¹

Captain James Tracey, and Lieut. Mains, of the Yankee Hero Brig, were sent from Halifax to Staten-Island, the last of July, on board the Mercury pirate Frigate, James Montague — [Captain Proctor, of Philadelphia, who is now a prisoner in Halifax goal, was 11 weeks in irons on board the above Frigate, during which time he was treated in the most barbarous manner by the above Montague, who several times threatened to hang him, and offered one of his sailors 40s. to swear his life against him.] Mr. Carpenter, of this Town, is closely confined in irons in Halifax goal, by order of Gen. [Eyre] Massey, who commands there

We learn from undoubted authority, that the Schooner Sally, Capt. Roach, which lately went from Piscataqua, to Halifax, as a flag of truce, with prisoners, was, on her arrival there, made a prize of, (by that petty, paltry, Jack-tarr, Commodore Arbuthnot,) and the hands put on board a man of war.
Yesterday se'nnight was sent into this Harbour, by the Lee, Capt. Waters, a Sloop from the Eastward, bound for Halifax, laden with Cord-Wood. 2

We hear that a Snow, laden with Rum, and Sugars, was carried into Cape-Ann last Week. 3

One Day last Week, was sent into Providence, seven Vessels, Prizes, with Supplies for those unrelenting, barbarous, tyrannical, blood-thirsty Butchers, the Royal Savage of Britain’s Troops, now on Staten-Island. — They were taken by the Captains Biddle and Whipple, in two Vessels of War, belonging to the United and Confederated States of America. Particulars of their Cargoes have not yet come to Hand.

Last Sunday was taken and carried into Gouldsborough, by two small Boats, a Brig from Ireland, bound for Halifax, laden with Beef, Butter, &c. She parted Company with Twelve other Provision Vessels the Day on which she was taken, all bound for the above Port.

By the Hartford Post we are informed, that the Royal pirate Frigate Rose, commanded by the infamous Wallace, in attempting to get up the Sound, at New-York, was hulled several Times, and obliged to put back to the ministerial fleet.

1. The brackets were inserted by the printer of the Chronicle. Apparently he had taken the Halifax material from a letter or the Nova-Scotia Gazette, and interpolated his own comments.

3. The snow Anna taken by the Massachusetts state sloop Tyrannicide.

Capt. [John] Gill in a small Privateer Schooner from this Port, 1 has taken and sent into Plymouth, a Brigantine from Antigua bound to Europe, laden with Rum and Sugars. She was first taken by a Connecticut Privateer, but the People rose and retook her, and had her in Possession three Days before Capt. Gill came up with her.

We hear a Privateer from Salem has taken a Brigantine from Cork, loaded with provisions for New-York, and sent her into some Port at the eastward.

MAJOR GENERAL HORATIO GATES TO BRIGADIER GENERAL BENEDICT ARNOLD

Dear General.

Tyonderoga 12th September 1776.

I had the Pleasure to receive your Letters by Lieutenant [John] Brooks of the 6th Battallion of Pensilvanians, from Isle-aux-Mottes. I am perfectly satisfied with your leaving Isle-aux-Tites, & think from Your's & every other Account, that the Post you now Occupy is much preferable. Point-aux Fers is an Object that should employ your Serious Attention. Should it be Possible for the Enemy Secretly to get Artillery, & a post Fix'd there, while you are to the Northward of that remarkable Spot, it might prove a great Annoyance to your Fleet, remember how exceedingly you ought to Guard against the possibility of -the Enemy's possessing any Narrow Pass in your Rear; a Caution, which you so-much approved, in the Orders, & Instructions you received.

The Row Gallies are all three at this Place, and Fitting with the Utmost diligence. Gl Waterbury is indefatigable, & promises to Sail without the smallest unnecessary Delay; your best Pilot should be sent by the return of The Bearer to Conduct them down. — You wrote to General Schuyler, to Apply to Governour Trumbull for Capts to Command These Gallies. The Governour has sent Four; by this, we are incumber'd with Double Officers, as you appointed Three, before you left Tyonderoga. What is best to be done in this Difficulty? I shall Endeavour to Pacify all Claimants, until I hear from You. a Good many Seamen are procured, & will be sent in the Gallies. I have Order'd Commissary [Elisha] Avery, & Mr Deacon Rood of Onion River, to Acquaint all the Inhabitants upon both sides the Lake, that what Cattle, Sheep, Garden Stuff, or Hoggs, are sent to You, shall; upon your Certificate, be paid for in ready money, upon the presentment thereof to Me.

Inclosed is a Copy of a Letter I have Just receivd from Dr Franklin. The Tobacco is not yet come, it shall be sent to you in the First Row Galley — would it not, now & then be proper for a Row Galley or Gondola to Cruize a little to the Southward, above Point Aux Fers, to protect boats &c passing to the Fleet? — The Enemy are Subtile, and quick at Expedients; they may endeavour to Impose False Friends upon you; your watch word, should never be given until Sun Sett, and all boats, at Day light, kept at a proper Distance, until their Crews are examined.

In Obedience to your request I wrote very fully Yesterday in my Publick Letter upon the Subject you so Earnestly mention'd. I fancy when my letter is received, the Congress, & your Friends will be convinced, that every report to your prejudice is Founded in Calumny, & should meet with the Contempt, & disregard it so Justly deserves.

A Fourth Row Galley will be quite plank'd up by Saturday night; your Barge is here, and most elegantly painted & Finish'd. She will be sent by Capt [James] Arnold; The provisions I now send, will last much longer than will be necessary for the Supply of the Fleet, until the First Row Galley Arrives, Even if the Inhabitants upon the Lake do not send you any Fresh Provisions &c.

I hope to be able to send all the Cloathing you demand by Capn Arnold. Rum goes by this Conveyance, and all the Hard bread baked at Crown Point. — Commissary Avery has my orders to write, & to Obey all your Orders. — the Swivels will come with the Galley; Gunners are very Scarce; but you Shall be Supplied.

I would Feign send you some Intelligence from Authority, of the Proceedings of The Armies at Long Island; but neither General Sch[uyler] or myself, have received any Letters from General Washn; that are particular upon the Subject. By private Letters, it is clear the Enemy lost upwards of 1400 Men in the three Repulses they met with, in their Attack upon our Lines, Wednesday the 28th Ult; and Commissary Trumbull writes that we are still in possession of Our Lines upon Long Island, and the City of New York. It is beyond a doubt that our people have behaved with the Greatest Spirit & that the Enemy have suffer'd Greatly & must View our Troops in a very respectable light I am [&c.]

P S When you receive an Order to send a Flag to the Enemy; or have an Opportunity by the return of one of theirs, send them the Act of Independence Inclosed —

Journal of Ambrose Serle¹

A severe Canonade was heard on board this Morning, supposed to be Horn's Hook, where our People are dislodging the Rebels, and are already in Possession of two Islands [Montresor's and Buchanan's] near the Isle of York Shore. We have lost one Sailor, who was killed as he lay sleeping on the Grass by a Cannon Ball. An Engineer lost an Arm; and two or three other slight Accidents occurred.

This Afternoon Capt. [Thomas] Wilkinson in the Pearl, a fine Frigate of 32 Guns, arrived from Quebec. He brought us very agreeable News from Genl. Carleton, viz. That General Burgoyne was almost ready to embark on Lake Champlain, and probably would be embarked by the middle of August, with an Army of about 14,000 Men, of which 10,000 were Regulars and about 1000 Indians; and that, if it were necessary, he could bring with him 15 or 20,000 Canadians. Capt. Wilkinson convoyed several Transports with upwards of 500 Rebel Prisoners on board, with whom we know not what to do. He also informed us, that he spoke with a Ship on the 27th. of July, who had seen the Second Division of the Hessians at Sea, and that they may hourly be expected to arrive.

ROBERT MORRIS TO SILAS DEANE

[Extract] Phi[la]da Septr 12th 1776

Sir You will receive herewith Copy of what I wrote you the 11th Ulto & by this Conveyance I remit the 2d bills of those setts mentioned in that letter. I have bought a considerable quantity of Tobacco but cannot get suitable Vessells to carry it, you cannot conceive the many disappointments we have met with in this Respect however I expect a Ship is now taking in about 400 hhds as I wrote two posts ago agreeing to the Owners terms and shall adv[i][s]e you more particularly in my next respecting this matter. I am sorry to tell you another Vessell bound from hence for Bourdeaux with a Cargo of flour &c has been taken and carried to N York with the Fleet. this was a fine New Brigt intended as a Packet between us. she had dispatches for You which were thrown over board & sunk by the Captain as well the Invoices &c of the Cargo, these unlucky accidents retard the remittances exceedingly, which is vexatious but cannot be helped. I hope your Credit has been sufficient to procure the Indn Goods & that they are on their way out, for they will be much wanted and we shall not give over remitting untill you are fully enabled to pay for them; I expect a Cargo of Rice & Indigo is now Shipping on this Account as orders have been given to that Effect, but still the same difficulty about Vessells occurs in that quarter also. So many of the American Ships have been taken, lost, sold & employ[ed] abroad, that they are now very Scarce in every part of the Continent which I consider as a great misfortune for Ship building does not go on as formerly and this Want can only be supply'd by the arrival of Ships from Europe and by the Captures, in which all the American Cruizers have been remarkably Successful those who have engaged in Privateering are making Large Fortunes in a most Rapid manner, I have not meddled in this business which I confess does not square with my Principles for I have long had extensive Connections & dealings with many Worthy Men in England & Coud not consent to take any part of their property because the Government have Seized mine, which is the case in several instances.

The Trading plan recommended in my last is farr more eligible and if we have but luck in getting the Goods safe to America the Profits will be sufficient to Content us all, I do therefore continue my recommendation of that plan and sincerely hope You & Tom\(^a\) will be able to do something considerable therein for you may depend it will reward you beyond any other pursuit. If you can procure Insurance at any reasonable prem[iu]m even at 50 pCt (altho I dont think the Risque is really worth 15 pCt) I think you had best to Charter two or three good Double Deck'd fast Sailing Vessells, ballast or Load them with Salt in the Holds and put onboard of each as many Dry Goods, say Woolens, Linens, Tin, Copper, Hosiery &c &c, as you can Conveniently obtain & let them proceed immediately for this place, Insuring the Value of the Cargoes on the best terms you can against the Risque of Capture by our Enemies as well as against all other Risques & dangers, I mean that you shou'd Charter French Vessells & by clearing them out for the Island of St Piers & Miquelon they may sail along this Coast without being Subject to Capture untill they come within three Leagues of the Land, you must take care that the Ships are sound, strong & staunch and that they are well fitted & Manned, two suits of Sails and good Anchors & Cables they ought to have. tell the Masters when they come on this Coast to venture in Close with the Land as our N Westers in the Winter will keep them out a long time if they keep without Or in the Gulph Stream whereas if they come within it, nothing but an Easterly Wind can hurt them & those Winds do not prevail much in Winter, when they come in sight of our Light House they must hoist an Ensign at the Foretop Gallt Mast head and stand in for the Mouth of the Bay with it flying. If there is any Enemy or danger in the way, a Signal will be made at the Light House by shewing Colours there. If no danger they will not answer the Signal and the Vessells may come boldly in to the Mouth of the Bay or into Whore Kiln Road & send a Boat onshoar at Lewis Town for a Pilot — inshort I think there is very little danger in all this matter for the Men of Warr cannot keep the Coast & we will not let them Harbour here in the Winter Season. You Shou'd Charter the Vessells out here & back again, so that You may afford them a good Freight & we will load them back with Wheat, flour, Tobacco, Rice & Indigo, Bees Wax &c, to pay for the Cost of the Cargoes You Ship by them, besides these Vessells I wou'd have you keep sending out Goods Constantly to Martinico, St Eustatia & Cape Francois but the first and last are safest for the present & I suppose will continue so, unless the French become parties in our Warr which I think very likely and then the Dutch Islands must engross our Attention, at St Eustatia Mr Cornelius Stevenson and at Curraoco Mr Isaac Governeur will receive & forward Goods for us, at Cape Francois Mr Stephen Ceronia, at St Nicholas Mole Mr John Dupuy, at Martinico Wm Bingham Esqr who has already written you some Letters & with whom I expect you will support a Constant Correspondence both Political & Commercial, he is a Young Gentleman of good Education, Family & Fortune, his Correspondence has yet a good deal of the Fanciful Young Man in it, but experience will cure him of this and upon the whole I think he had abilities of Merit both in the Political & Commercial Line, you will inform him soon as You can whether Insurance can be effected on Goods & Vessells from the French Islands to this Continent, and on what terms, indeed we expect to hear from You pretty regularly through that Channell

Since my last Genl Howe & his Army have taken possession of Long Island leaving about 4 or 5000 Men on Staten Island where they first landed. We had some Works & about 5000 Men on Long Isld when the Enemy landed with 20 m a Skirmish very soon followed the landing there about 3000 of our Men went out of the Lines to take possession of some Hills & high Lands, but the Enemy out General'd us and surrounded our People with four times their Number however they purchased the honor of the day at a very dear rate for our Folks drew up, gave them Battle & two different times broke & routed double their Number in fair Manoeuvering & Platoon firing in the open Field, but in the end Superior Numbers & Superior Generalship prevailed. We lost about 7 to 800 Men in Killed, Wounded & Prisoners, the Enemies loss was far greater as they acknowledge in Killed & Wounded, but not so in Prisoners for we only took one party a Lieutt & 30 Men. Sullivan commanded in this affair & was well seconded by Ld Stirling who behaved Nobly indeed, they are both Prisoners as are several C. Lt Cols & other officers, in short such Victories as these alarm our Enemies & will be their ruin. We have evacuated Long Island & must do the same by N York which is not tenable against their Ships, for my part I wish our Men & Stores were all removed to Kingsbridge where we must sooner or later take Post & make the great stand. We are no ways dismayed at the Force of the Enemy but have full hopes of getting the better of them in the long run altho they seem very formidable at present. Our Army on the Lakes is now very Strong and we seem perfectly Secure in that quarter for the present.

Ordered That said Treasurer pay to George Wells three hundred Pounds, on Acct of Gondolas.

Gentlemen,

Your favours of the 9th 24th and 25 of July and August 1st & 15th are before us. – It has been unlucky for this State as well as for you, that so many of our outward bound Vessells have miscarried – we have been tolerabl luckey in our importations, having only lost the Adventures by Scott and Simmerton that we as yet hear of, Captain Luce is safe arrived in Delaware and we Daily expect to hear of the arrival of the rest of the Powder you advise us, that you have and are about to Ship. — We are very solicitous to Charter or buy Vessells to Load out to your address as we want a large sum of Money in your hands for the Purchase of Salt, Arms, Course Cloathes, Blankets and Lead but we fear that we shall be disappointed in procuring as many as we want — you will therefore if possible Charter or buy Vessells with you and Load them in with Salt as far as thirty thousand Bushels and Draw Bills upon us or upon Messrs Willing Morris and Company at Philadelphia and you may depend upon their being duly honoured. Next to Salt we want a large quantity of Course Cloths, Blankets, Sail Duck light as well as heavy, Lead and Muskets. — We do not restrict you in price — but leave it to you to do the best you can for the State of Maryland — and your Bills for the whole or any part thereof will be paid.

P.S. Your Bill on T. Johnson Esqr Will be duely honoured — We are &c:

COLONEL THOMAS CRAFTS TO THE MASSACHUSETTS COUNCIL

Some time in June last a Scotch Ship & brig were seen in the bay by the troops stationed at Hull, standing in for the Light & four Privateers attacking them without any probable hopes of success. On this ordered one eighteen pounder to Point Alderton In the dusk of the evening The Vessels were between said Point & the fort on Hull — We fired from the Fort on them — The brig struck to us & sent her boat on shore. I put in a claim for the Vessels in the name of the State & in behalf of myself & regiment — But recovered no part of the Ship or brig. When the Queen of England was taken I had the same idea of the matter as before — That it was my duty to claim for the State as well as myself & Regiment, accordingly gave directions to my Council — I was afterward to my great surprize informed, that the Ship was not libelled in the name of the State & that it was too late to correct this error — But at my request the Honble Mr [Richard] Derby [Jr.] Agent for the State had leave to enter his claim, the time by Law for his doing it being relapsed notwithstanding for I had no disposition that the State should be deprived of its just right in this Vessel neither have I now any disposition to contend if the Council are clearly of the opinion that there ought to be a different disposition of said Ship & Cargo from that given by the Court & Jury I beg your Honors would excuse my troubling you with this matter & believe me to be with the greatest respect [&c.]

Acts and Resolves of the Massachusetts General Court

[Watertown] Friday Sepr 13th 1776.

The Committee of both Houses appointed to take into consideration the representation of Capt John Fisk take leave to Report. –

That the Honble Richard Derby Junr Esqr be Directed as soon as may be to alter the Spars, & Rigging of the Tyrannicide from that of a Sloop to a Brigantine and to lay his Accounts before this Court for Examination and Allowance, and in order, that this matter may be effected expeditiously – the Honble Board are Desired to Issue their warrant on the Treasurer in favour of the said Richard Derby Jr Esqr for such Sum of Money as they judge may be Necessary for the purpose aforesaid, the said, Derby, being accountable therefor. –

Read, & Accepted.

Resolved that this State will furnish the Agent for building the Continental Ships at Newbury port with a sufficient number of Guns for one of them, and afford him every other assistance in their power, in fitting out and maning said Ship; provided leave can be obtained from the Hon: Congress for said Vessel to cruize on this Coast for the protection of the Trade thereof. – The Agent engaging to reimburse all the Expences this State shall incur in fitting out, & manning said Ship, and return said Guns, whenever said Ship shall be otherwise employ'd.

Sir.

The General Assembly of this State beg leave to inform the Honble Congress, that the Milford Frigate of 28 Guns and another Ship of War, have been for sometime cruising on this Coast, and have taken several Merchantmen and valuable prizes coming into Port; We have apply'd to the Honble Thos Cushing & John Langdon Esqrs, Agents for building the Continental Ships at Newbury Port & Portsmouth, requesting that one or more of those ships might be sent out to protect our Coast, but are inform'd by those Gentlemen that they have no Guns, and if they had, they have no orders to send the Ships to Sea, upon this information the General Assembly of this State resolv'd to furnish the Agent for building the Continental Ships at Newbury Port with a sufficient number of Guns for one of them, and afford him every other assistance in their power in fitting out and manning said Ship; provided leave can be obtain'd from the Honble Congress for said Vessell to cruise on this Coast for the protection of the Trade thereof, The Agent engaging to reimburse all the Expences this State shall incur in fitting out and manning said Ship, and return said Guns whenever said Ship shall be otherwise employ'd. We would farther inform the Hon Congress that the Guns propos'd for the above purpose are 24 nine pounders, which we apprehend are suitable for the Ship under the command of Hector McNeil Esqr, and which is in the greatest forwardness for sailing. As said Ship will be inferior to the Enemy in Force, this state beg leave to suggest to the Honble Congress, the great advantage of having the Ship under the care of John Langdon Esqr fitted out immediately to act in concert with her. The readiness of the State of New Hampshire to give all possible assistance to Mr Langdon for the above purpose, will appear by a resolve of that State herewith inclos'd.

James Bowdoin to the Rhode Island Naval Committee

Gentn

Watertown Sept 13th 1776

We have your Letter of the 29th Ulto and consider the sending out the Continental Ships (as you do) of the greatest consequence to these united States, and should be glad to promote their being sent out immediately by every means in our power, for we trust they might be employ'd to very good purposes, especially as several of the Enemies Cruizers are now infesting this Coast.

We farther assure You that we shall readily embrace such occasions as may present to render a neighbouring State any reasonable Services, but considering how much this State is drained of its Men by the public Calls, and how much our Sea Coast is expos'd to the incursions of the Enemy, we have thought it needful sometime since to pass a Resolve prohibiting the inlisting our Sea Coast men into any other Service, even such as it may concern this State particularly to attend to; we cannot therefore consent to your request that Mr [John] Grannis may be permitted to enlist his Compliment of Marines out of the Troops in our pay.

If Mr Grannis chuses another Service in preference to ours, we shall endeavour to supply his place by as good a Man.²

2. John Grannis had been appointed Marine captain on board the frigate Warren, June 14, 1776, by the Rhode Island Naval Committee. RHIS.

pheus of 32 Guns, Capt. [Charles] Hudson, the Carysfort, of 28 Guns, Capt. [Robert] Fanshaw, and the Roebuck of 44 Guns, Capt. Hammond, sailed up the East River up to Bushwyck Bay. The Fort fired 4 or 5 Guns faintly upon them, as also a Battery upon a red Bank of high Land just above the Town; and were retorted upon very warmly by our Batteries on Governor's Island & Brookland. The Ships passed along under their Topsails, for the most Part; and, in supreme Contempt of the Rebels and their Works, did not fire a Gun. It was a fine Sight, if one could have divested one's Thoughts of the melancholy Reflection, that some Fellow-Creatures Lives were either taking away or in Danger, on account of the Villainy of the Rebel Leaders & Abettors. We could not perceive that the Ships recd. the least Damage; by an account afterwards, we found that the Phoenix had one man killed upon her Forecastle.

   ... The 21st, about three o'clock in the afternoon, his Lordship made the signal for us to weigh, in company with the Phoenix, Roebuck, Carrisfort and Rose, with a very light air from the westward. At half past three the enemy's batteries opened and commenced a prodigious heavy cannonade on us, from which we were never a pistol shot till seven o'clock, and without once returning the fire; and though the shot went through and through us, we experienced little loss except in our rigging, which was terribly cut fore and aft, the people being all directed to lie down. The other ships were not so fortunate, having a number killed; among which was Mr. Hitchcock of the Roebuck, belonging to Falmouth who was to have dined with me on that day had not the service prevented it. We anchored in Kippes Bay at half-past seven, where the rebels were intrenched along the shore of York Island two miles, to the number of 15,000, and amused us all night with a constant fire from an eighteen-pounder, with which, from the darkness of the night or bad conduct, they only hit us twice.

JOURNAL OF THE VIRGINIA COUNCIL OF SAFETY

[Williamsburg] September 13th 1776

The Board, now resumed the Consideration of the Report made yesterday by the Navy Board; which is as follows viz.

The Commissioners of the Navy are of Opinion, that the Scheme proposed to them by the Council for the Importation of Salt, Clothing, and Medicines, for the supply of the Army, is practicable, and may probably be the means of providing those and many other Articles Indispensably necessary for the Army and Navy on much cheaper Terms, than they can be procured in any other way. They think the following Cruizers to wit, the Sloops Congress, Scorpion, Liberty, Defiance, and Schooners Hornett; and Revenge, may with propriety be spared for the purpose; and that they may be ready to take in their Cargoes by the 15th of October next. They have no doubt the Articles desired may be got in Europe on good Terms, but conceive these Vessels to be unfit for such a voyage; more especialy, as their return, would probably happen in the winter season; they have therefore agreeable to the Request of the Council made out Invoices of the Cargoes that they Judge best suited to the Markets in the Foreign West Indies, and a Memorandum of such articles, suited to our wants, as may probably be purchased there to advantage.

Another vessel is arrived at Hampton with 1400 bushels of Salt, and a small quantity of rum. The captain informs, that he spoke a French ship, one of a fleet of 14 sail, Laden with goods, and bound for Delaware. A number of French officers were likewise on board, who intended to offer their services to the United States of America.

By letters from Cape Nichola Mole, of the 28th ult. we learn that two frigates had lately arrived at St. Domingo, from France, completely manned, in order to cruise off that island, and protect all American vessels within their limits. Two more frigates are daily expected, for the same purpose. These four frigates are to act in conjunction, with two Spanish frigates, which are stationed at Porto Rico, for the protection of all North American vessels. The Spanish captains are to pay equal attention to the general of St. Domingo's orders as to those of the commander at Porto Rico. There is every appearance of a speedy rupture between France, Spain, and Great Britain, as Spain and Portugal are absolutely now at war.

... this Opportunity will serve for me to apprize you that if you will lay your Shoulders to Business, We may have it in our Power to do a great deal with very little Risque — the Plan I propose is this to Charter every Vessell that you can come across, load them entirely with Salt and send them into me and I will load them in return with Produce, by this method You will observe the Salt Cargoes will be but little Risque and if the Vessel or Vessels arrive safe here We can afford to run the Risque of the Cargoes to the West Indies; In good Times, the very highest Freight that was given was a Dollar Pr Ton — We can afford now to give Two Dollars Pr Ton, as they will have so many Risques to run and for which a Double Freight will be a full Consideration — By your taking a Trip thro the English Islands, I take it for Granted that You may pick up any Number on those terms, as well as in the Foreign Islands — and it will be necessary to take out English Clearances, with English Bottoms, for Hallifax or St Augustine, which will protect them from the Kings Ships, at the same time it will be as necessary to take out Foreign Clearances, to protect them from Seizure by American Vessels tho' I should in Case of Seizure be able to explain this Matter on the Continent in such a Manner as to give Satisfaction ... JOURNAL OF THE COUNCIL OF WEST FLORIDA

At a Council held at Pensacola the 13th September 1776.

The Governor laid before the Board agreeable to the Minute of Yesterday the Opinion of the Attorney General & another Gentleman of the Law in Answer to the Question then proposed which was, whether he could be justified by the information then Communicated in laying an Embargo at this time on the Shipping bound to the Mississippi which he desired might be read & inserted in the minutes of this day and is as follows —

Sir

In Answer to your Excellencys Question of yesterday whether your Excellency would be Justified by the information then communicated in laying an Embargo at this time on the Shipping bound to the Mississippi, We have the honor of informing your Excellency that there is no doubt but by the known and Established Laws of the Land, the King may and Consequently your Excellency as his representative in this Province can in time of War by Proclamation lay an Embargo on all Shipping as well those of foreigners, as Others, this however is never to be done but in Cases of Great & Urgent Necessity; thus Stands the Law upon the Subject—

And with regard to the legality of the affair under Consideration having Maturely considered the Matters Contained in the Information we are with all due deference to your Excellency of Opinion that such Information does not contain such legal Matters as is Necessary to Justify such a measure at this Juncture, we are &c.

E R Wegg   E H Bay

His Excellency Governor Chester

And desired to know if the Gentlemen of the Board would still advise him to detain the Vessels bound for the Mississippi after having received the above Opinion. —

(The Chief Justice and Mr Livingston a Gentleman of the Law were also desired by His Excellency to give their Opinion who entirely agreed in Sentiment with Mr Wegg and Mr Bay)

some of the Gentlemen begged leave to decline giving an Answer and Others were Still of the same opinion that the Vessels should be detained — Upon which His Excellency read the following Paragraph (to wit) “Gentlemen I must beg leave to be excused from following your advice as the Gentlemen of the Law are of a very different Opinion (to wit) that the Information is not Sufficient to Warrant me to detain those Vessels any longer — I shall therefore give Orders that they may receive their Necessary papers and proceed on their Voyage.” —

2. The Raleigh.
Dear Sir — Portsmouth 14 Septemr 1776

My absence for sometime past will no doubt plead a sufficient Excuse for my not writeing; and I suppose you'll say that your hurry must do the same on your part, let it be so then, we are on a Ballance. —

I've just return'd from Providence, where I've been after Guns, this is the third time, I've been, (and sent) to contract for Guns, and to endeavour to perswade those Gentlemen, who are employ'd to build the Ships there to lend me the Guns, which were already cast for our Ship, as they could get another sett cast for one of theirs, long before either could go to Sea. They seem'd at first to agree to it, and Voted in their Committee to spare the Guns, but with this proviso that I should contract with the Owners of the Furnace for a sett to be replac'd, and pay them their price, which was the unheard of Sum of One hundred pounds Lawf[ul] Money Pton, all this (however unreasonable it appear'd to me) I agreed to do, rather than not have the Guns, but notwithstanding this, when I came to see the Contract of the Owners of the Furnace (who by the way are included in this Committee of Mr [Stephen] Hopkins's for building the Ships) it appear'd such a one that I could not in Honour to the States, as Agent sign it, they (some of them especially the Messrs Brown's) declined taking me as Agent, but insisted that I should give my private Engagement to pay for the Guns at that price. I told them that my power was ample and equal to Govr Hopkins who appointed them to build their Ships & contract for Cannon, they answered, that they did not doubt it, but said the Congress might think the price too high, and perhaps some dispute would arise. I even agreed to do this and in short any thing almost, that they in such an unreasonable manner asked, but what finally prevented my agreeing at last was that they insisted that I should pay one half down for those Guns, which they were to deliver me, which already had been paid for by the Continent, or should pay Intrest for the Money from the delivery of the Guns. — I told them if they would deliver the Guns, I would on my return home, send them Two or three thousand Dollars, and as soon as I could get Money from Philadelphia would pay the whole, as the Continent, would not pay Intrest, and this would be done long before the Guns would be cast for me, with which I was to replace those they lent me, which were not theirs, but the Continent's, such & many more, were the Arguments with those Gentlemen, to induce them to do no more than what I conceive was their duty, but all would not do, there seem'd to be a secret determination not to let me have the Guns at any rate whatever, unless an absolute Order from the Honbl Marine Committee, it appear'd to me, every advantage was to be taken of the Continent in their power, in the Price of Cannon. —

I've given great dispatch for Masts for both of their Ships at Providence, part of which had got round & they have just began to make them, the rest are on their way — take the Situation of their Ships, it appears to me impossible, that they should get to Sea in two or three Months, notwithstanding they tell the Committee they are almost already, and shall want their Guns — It is truly to be lamented, that there should be Guns belonging to the Continent laying at Providence near three or four Months past, and this Ship entirely waiting for them since June last, at which Time every Man might have been had for her, who are now gone either in the Army or Privateering, and the Ship might have Sail'd by the 1st of July without the least doubt, since which she might have taken more Prizes than would have paid for our whole Fleet, numbers of which have been within sight of this Harbour, and all this must be put up with, rather than the Furnace Owners (who are of the Committee and understand one another) should loose Ten or Twenty Pounds P Ton on casting the Guns for the Continent, or a Jealousy that the New Hampshire Frigate, would be ready about four Months before them at Providence — I should been very happy, if the Honourable Committee, had sent a Man, well acquainted with Ships to have seen who was forwardest, how built and the Properest place for that Business — Those Ships at Providence in all probability, could not have gone to Sea, either of them this Year, had they not got Masts from hence unless they had gone with improper ones, not by any means to be depended on.

I think it my duty as Agent, to lay this matter before the Honble Committee, as I tho't the Continent ill treated & myself insulted, by their dragging me at the Continental Expence from this place to Providence, twice or three times under pretence of contracting for Cannon, when I was first up in June, they said Seventy pounds would be the price, little after Eighty pounds, soon after Ninety Pounds, and now by their Letter before my going up, the last time, One Hundred Pounds p Ton, upon which I went up least it should be Two hundred pounds p Ton — They have cast considerable number of Cannon for private Ships, thro the Summer, some of which are Nine Pounders — with great Respect I am [&c.]

JOURNAL OF AMBROSE SERLE

Late last Night arrived Capt [Thomas] Jordan in the Galatea of 20 Guns from Plymouth, which Place she left on the 10th. of July. He brought us Advices, that the Hessians were only sailing from England, when he left it, and that, being in heavy-sailing Dutch Transports, we cannot expect their Arrival here for a great while to come, and especially if they come into the Course of the equinoctial Winds, by which they may be probably driven to the West India Islands, and not be able therefore to sail hither before the Spring. He also brought an account, that the Sea to the South-East from hence, & about Bermuda, and to the Lat. of 32°, is greatly infested by American Privateers, who have taken several of our West India merchant men, and that the Rebels are fitting out every Vessel that can sail for that Purpose. This Intelligence was very unpleasant altogether. A few such swift-sailing Ships as the Galatea would soon disperse or destroy these Free-booters; and ’tis presumed they will be employed.

Five Transports sailed up the East River this Evening to join the Man of War, who went up last Night. Many Shot were exchanged upon the Occasion. I saw a House or Part of a House in the Town tumble down, by a Ball from one of our Ships or Batteries. Three men of War were to have passed up the North River at the same time, but were prevented by an accident.

MINUTES OF THE PENNSYLVANIA COUNCIL OF SAFETY

In Council of Safety,
[Philadelphia] September 14th, 1776.

Resolved, That Capt. [Joseph] Blewer & Mr. [Francis] Gurney be Empowered to contract with some person or persons to fill up & Compleat the Peers sunk in the Chanel of the River Delaware, near fort Island, and fix the Chain for stoping the Navigation upon an Immergency.

Yesterday Morning I returned with Dr. F. [Benjamin Franklin] and Mr. R. [Edward Rutledge] from Staten Island where We met L[ord] H[owe] and had about three Hours Conversation with him. The Result of this Interview, will do no disservice to Us. It is now plain that his L[ord-ship] has no Power, but what is given him in the Act of P[arliament]. His Commission authorises him to grant Pardons upon Submission, and to converse, confer, consult and advise with such Persons as he may think proper, upon American Grievances, upon the Instructions to Governors and the Acts of Parliament, and if any Errors should be found to have crept in, his Majesty and the Ministry were willing they should be rectified.

WILLING, MORRIS & CO. TO WILLIAM BINGHAM, MARTINIQUE

Sir, Philada Septr 14th 1776

Your several favours of the 2nd, 15th & 26th August have come duely to hand, the last by the Reprisal Capt. Wickes who arrived here Yesterday without having taken any more Prizes or met with any Remarkable occurrence. We shall reply to the Contents of your letters in the order they stand or at least to such parts as require an answer —

The observations you make on the different modes of Conducting a Commerce between Europe & this Continent through the Islands of Martinico & St Lucia are very proper, they are what have frequently occurred to us, but do not remove the only difficulty we have to encounter, which is the establishing proper Funds in Europe as a foundation to Trade on. Our Produce is bulky & little Value in it requires large Ships for the Transportation, large Ships are much exposed to Capture and indeed we have not many of them left, so that, you see us encircled with difficulties in this respect, for this reason & for this reason chiefly we like the Idea of Your agreeing with some Good French House in the Island to Import certain quantities of Goods as for his own Account to be delivered over to you on arrival at a Certain advance. You do not mention what advance wou'd be expected, which we are sorry for as that is a material point, however We advise that you immediately make such a bargain on the best terms in your power, with some House of Established good Reputation for honorable & punctual dealing, you may agree with them to import in this way the Value of Two Thousand pounds Sterling to be wrote for immediately and sent out with all possible expedition. If they can be shipped from France so as to be out with you in all the Month of Decr & January we wou'd wish nearly the whole Amount to Consist of Woolen Goods fit for Winter Wear, Blankets; Cloths chiefly Coarse, Coatings, Flannells, Worsted & Yarn Stockings some Good Silk Stockings, Threads, Pins, Needles, Sewing Silk, Mohair Twist & Buttons, but if they are to arrive later you must order an assortment of Sail Cloth, Coarse & fine linens, sheetings &ca. We will keep shipping to you the Produce of this Country to enable Punctual payment, but we think you had best make it a part of your bargain that You shall have liberty to Ship from Martinico to old France any Tobacco or Indigo we send you on your own Account & they to Receive the Nt pceeds there in payment for the Goods & then if you dont like the prices offered you in Martinico you can ship your Goods to a second Market — Monsr Begorrots Sloop is not yet arrived, when she comes in you may depend on a faithfull attention to his orders & interest and that the same will be extended to every Concern put under our care and as you think it might facilitate or promote these Consignments to take a Concern with them occasionally We agree that you shou’d interest us jointly with yourself any part you may think proper & Prudent in such Vessells & Cargoes as come to our Address you holding one half we the other half of whatever share you thus adopt.

We observe you mention several Vessels at St Lucia that might be Chartered or bought upon Good Terms & we have no objection to your buying or Chartering some of them provided You can get Salt or Mollases to load them with; Cargoes of those Articles Cost but little Money & will sell for a great deal therefore You may execute of this plan as much as You think proper for our joint Accounts or take in some more partners so to reduce the risque to thirds or fourths just as you like best & use such precautions as you think most likely to bring them safe here, and as you will know from France whether Insurances can be made there or not, you can give orders for Insurance if you find it can be obtained on reasonable terms, but let it be made for the whole Voyage & not for so many Leagues clear of the Island & so many clear of this Coast as mentioned in your letter, which would Subject us to many perplexing disputes, you woud pay the premm & never know whether you were Insured or not — We (say R M the writer hereof) does not see any impropriety in your attending to Commercial matters as that will not prevent your attending carefully & assiduously to the more Important matters committed to your charge, but at the same time we dont think it will be much to your advantage to seek extensive Connections as most of the Trade from this Continent must be Carried on in Small Vessells and the Masters chiefly insist on the Consignments or they will not go the Voyages, and we shall make a point now that you are safe arrived & well established to keep you well supplyed with Goods both on Publick & Private Account, however do herein as you think proper We advise you to write to Mr John Dorsius at Charles Town, So Carolina, & to the Honble Archibald Bullock Esqr President of Georgia, informing them of your establishment at Martinico & offering them your assistance in the Sale of Rice, Indigo &c and in procuring for them Powder, Arms & such other Articles as they may want in Return. Mr Bullock is President of Georgia & not a Merchant but he may recommend You to their Merchts & I will get the Delegates to write him on the Subject. Mr Dorsius is well established at Charles Town & doing much business there. You may also write Messrs
Smith & Hughes Merchts at Edenton No Carolina & to Colo. Benjn Harrison of Berkely, Charles City County Virginia. We like your plan of a Voyage to Dantzig but its too soon for the execution of it

We shall send the Maccaliao Snuff forward to Colo Harrison who will think himself much obliged to you for it. We have letters from Mr Bealle who arrived at Bourdeaux the 6th June but finding it impracticable to transact his business there, he had gone for Holland where he expected to Succeed, but we dont yet know whether he will come out to St. Eustatia or your Island, it is most likely to the latter as we immagine he must land his Dutch Goods in France & Reship them from thence he will bring his whole value in the one single article therefore you must only Contrive to get it here in the best manner you can at present this place, Virginia & Occracock Inlet No Carolina are the safest places but theres no saying how long they may remain so, the best way will be to divide it amongst some good fast sailing small or armed Vessells but if he arrives whilst this Sloop Independence Capt [John] Young is with you, We think it so good a Conveyance that we shoud be for risquing the whole or greatest part by her. You & Mr Bealle must lay your heads together and Contrive to send it safe one way or other & Remember that you shall have other Armed Vessells sent to your address besides this Sloop.

Capt Wickes has not yet landed the Goods but we doubt not they will answer very well. We shall make the most of them & hope very soon to transmit You a pleasing account Sales – It now Remains that we enable you to pay for them as speedily as possible and we shall also attend most Carefully to this Circumstance by shipping you Goods for that purpose. We wou’d gladly have sent some by this Conveyance but the Sloop is full & the Goods belong to the Publick therefore we must wait another Opportunity, indeed we mean to seek out for a Sloop that will answer to the papers you have sent and if we can meet one will load her immediately but shou’d that not happen we shall get others and shall ship you some Tobacco as well as flour. we will also Contrive if we can to send You some Rice & Indigo from Carolina or Georgia.

You will doubtless have learned that West India property is now liable to Confiscation as well as British. Consequently your plan in that respect will not do, so long as the French remain in Peace it is probable that French Papers may prove the best Cover, especially in your Seas. You ask what Articles are most in demand here or what are likely to be most so, to which we may safely reply that every thing is wanted, it is hardly possible to go amiss. However Woolens will undoubtedly yield the greatest Profit if they can possibly be got here before the Winter is over. Linens also Continue in full demand notwithstanding a most glorious Crop of Flax was gathered the last Season, but we have not Weavers & Manufacturers to Work it up fast enough, We think Hosiery of every kind will be exceedingly wanted, Cotton & Wool Cards, Pins, Needles, Ravens Duck or other Cloth fit for Tents, Muskets & Powder must Continue in demand whilst the Warr lasts & so indeed must every kind of European Manufactures, Medicines are much called for, West India Produce is dear, Mallasses upwards of 4/ per Gallon Sugars 60/ to 90/ per Cwt Rum 6/ to 10/ per Gallon In short you may keep Shipping us Goods as you meet with good Conveyances but not too much Value at a time especially in unarmed Vessels.

The Sloop Independence by which this goes We deem an exceeding good Conveyance & shou'd have no objection to your Shipping to the Value of fifteen hundred or Two Thousand pounds by her especially as you expect Goods to be plenty & Cheap by the time she will be with you, But as we have proposed a good deal of bussiness to you & pointed out several purchases to be made you will naturally say where are the Funds & these we must try to establish for you and will do it with all possible expedition. We wish you wou'd immediately either Charter or buy a good fast sailing Sloop or Schooner and dispatch her for Edenton in North Carolina Consigned to Messrs Hewes & Smith Merchts there with some Salt, Mollases, a few Sugars, a little Rum, Dry Goods an assortment of any or all these Articles to the Value of five or Six hundred Pounds & they will immediately send her back to you with a Cargo of Fine Tobacco for we have bought a Considerable quantity which now lies there waiting for Vessells to carry it away Edenton is up Occracock Inlet. As We understand Monsr Begorrats Sloop is a fine Vessel ready Armed and that he intends she shall be sold, we may probably buy her unless she goes too high which it is very likely may be the case as such Vessells are much wanted and we shall give her a fair Chance at Public Vendue, but if we buy her our present View is to send her from hence to Carolina & thence to You with Rice & Indigo by which means we can make up a very valuable Cargo and, of Course lodge Funds for the several purposes we have pointed out to you —

We like your Idea of Importing Medicines from the Mediterranean and wish you wou'd immediately write to Mr Estevan Cathalan Mercht at Marseilles probably you know him he is a most Respectable Mercht inform him of your establishment at Martinique and tell him your Connection with us indeed we will if possible inclose you a letter for him p this Convey and request him to ship you soon as possible the Value five hundred pounds Sterling in an assortment of Medicines of which we will enclose a list if we can get it in time, Peruvian Bark is exceedingly wanted but Cadiz is the best place to get that Article from however you must Contribute in the best manner you can to procure it & always write for Medicines of the very best quality You will inform Mr Cathalan that you will be constantly receiving remittances from hence & that you will very speedily remit him the Cost of whatever you order from him — Messrs Saml & J. H. Delap of Bourdeaux have offered us Credit to the Extent of £ 4 or £ 5000 Stg or more if we engage they shall not be disappointed of remittances therefore We have requested them to Credit you to the Extent of Two Thousand Pounds Sterling. And you may immediately write to them for that Value in an assortment of such articles as you think from the Course of these & other advices will answer best to tranship from Martinico hither, press them to dispatch the Goods quick as possible and engage for the remittances being made within twelve Months probably they may go to hand in much less time, enclosed you have an open letter to them on this Subject We mean these Goods on your & our joint Account, but they will probably Send you others for us beside which you'll take proper Care off. We have lately rec'd a Cargo of Sail Cloth &c from Mr Andw Limozin of Havre deGrace who used us extreamly Well & is justly entitled to a preference of bussiness in that place write to him to Ship you the value of £ 1000 Stg in Woolens immediately he can readily get them and you will also find an open letter to him, with a Sealed one, these Goods also to be on your & our joint Account, but he may probably have others to send for us which you'll take care off.

Mr John Ross of this City is now in Europe and will ship out Goods by various ways for us, and our Thos Morris is with Mr Deane at Paris they may probably do the same. We depend on Your care in forwarding & Receiving any Goods that may come for us, and as this letter is now Spun out to a pretty good length we will close it altho we shall probably write You another by this Conveyance being Sir [&c.]

DECLARATION OF JOHN DOUGLASS

September 14th 1776 — 8 o’Clock in the Morning Comeing in the Mole of St Nicholas, I, John Douglass, Commander of the Schooner Lady Caroline, come from Philadelphia Loaded with Flour, Kegs of Biscuit, Fish, Pork, Cheese, Gammons &c &c.

I declare I was at Five o’Clock in the Morning within Five Miles of the Land & North of the Point of St Nichola Mole in the Island of St Domingo. I have been chased by one English Frigate & a Sloop, and them two pursued me firing a great many Shot at me both Nine Pounders & Swivels, til the Sloop came to the distance of one Mile from the Entry of the Port of St Nicholas Mole; where I saw a French Frigate with her Colours flying and she firing several Shot but it being Calm she could not get out of the Harbour, but I saw her send a Sloop out of Sixteen Guns, with two of her Barges, towing ahead the French Frigate, having part of her Sails unbent and was Setting up her Main Rigging, Main Top Mast and Main Top Gallant Mast was also down. And she was getting ready as fast as possible to come out, the Sloop not minding the Shot still kept her Pursuit not caring for the little distance I was from the Land, then I was oblig’d to abandon my Vessel with my People and I came into the Mole for protection And all the Inhabitants both ashore and the Shipping came running down to the Shore, they having seen the Event, I was sure I was near enough to the Land not to be Molest’d in the least, but to go in the Harbour Peaceably.

I have Declar’d the above in the Mole of St Nicholas to all the Superior Officers

[Extract] Portsmouth 15th Sepr 1776

... it seems to be Settled that our Troops have quitted Long Island, the consequence I fear will be, that they must also Evacuate [New] York I have had a hint that Congress have directed Genl Washington not to destroy that City if he shd be obliged to leave it. is this right why shd we be so careful to furnish the Enemy with convenient Winter Quarters? it appears to me that the consequence will be that the States will be put to the Expence of five if not ten times, the value of that Cursed City which ought to have been destroyed long ago

It seems that are many Complaints about the Maritime Courts the Court here has acquitted a vessel that ought to be condemn'd, & other Courts condemn vessels that ought to be acquited, Mr [Jacob] Sheaf has had a ship condemn'd at Providence as British Property, she was bound from the west Indies for London, his property was transfer'd to prevent her being seiz'd by British ships, I really think his case hard he intends to petition Congress another ship belonging to Capt [Tobias] Lear of this town under the same Circumstances is to be try'd at Salem to morrow if this ship shd be condemn'd the Owners of her will also apply to Congress so it's probable you'll have business enough of this sort on your hands

Dr Sr Boston sepr 15th 1776

Mr Austin is kind eno’ to let me know that he is just going to set out for Philadelphia I thought I would imbrace the opportunity to let you know That we & our Ta[u]nton friends are all well — Capt Manley’s appeal from a Judgment of a maritime court to The Congress is The occasion of Mr Austin’s Journey — Altho’ The capture of the Vessell with Stolen good[s] belonging to several Merchants here is a lucky affair upon the whole, yet The trouble & expence attending the tryals at Portsmouth & Phila will settle a great loss upon the owners of the goods even Tho’ They should be restored to them — It was generous in them to offer Manly £1000 Sterling after they were cleared by the Jury — I cannot see upon what principle the Jury could have condemned them. They were not the property of the enemy, nor treasure trove, but stolen goods: & it is every mans duty to detest Thieves. —

Our coast is infested with several Frigates & Cutters who frequently take our vessells & retake our prizes, Is it impossible to equip our Ships of War lately built ? If they are not soon at sea this town will be [i]n a distressed Condition, we shall not be supplyed with fuel for the approaching winter. —

Brigadier General Benedict Arnold to Major General Horatio Gates

Dear General, Isle La Motte September 15th 1776. —

Your Favour of the 12th Instant was delivered me last Night by Ensign [Clemens] Botsford, who narrowly escaped being lost in his Passage down and was obliged to throw overboard three Barrels of Provision to lighten the Batteau. I am Happy to find, you approve of my returning from the Isle aux Têtes, our Present Situation is five Miles to the Southward of Point aux Fire and two Miles to the Southward of the North End of Isle La Motte, at a Part of the Island where the Lake is one and a half to two Miles Over, to the Southward of us there is no Part of the Lake less than two Miles over and entirely out of the Reach of any Batteries that can Possibly be erected by the Enemy of whose Naval Force I have been able to procure no other Intelligence, than from a Deserter one Thomas Day whom I have sent you by Ensign Botsford with his examination; which is inclosed.2 I have heard nothing from Lieutenant [Benjamin] Whitcomb, or Ensign [Thomas] McCoy since they left the Isle aux Noix, from which a Man returned from each Party, who agree that there is about one thousand Men encamped There, they saw no Watercraft except Batteaux.

I have dispatched a Frenchman to St Johns, for Intelligence, whom I found in the Bay of Missisque, he has promised to return in four Days with Intelligence. If I hear nothing from St Johns, soon, I design making a Remove to the Island Valcouer untill joined by the Three Gallies. There is a Good Harbour and if the Enemy venture up the Lake it will be impossible for them to take advantage of our Situation, if we should succeed on our Attack onthem it will be impossible for any of them to Escape, if we are worsted our Retreat is open and Free, in Case of Wind which generally blows Fresh at this Season our Craft will make good Weather, when their Batteaux cannot keep the Lake.

I am glad to hear General Waterbury has taken Charge of the Gallies I make no Doubt they will soon be compleated my best Pilot I sent up by Major [David] Greer.

I requested General Schuyler tosendfor Four Captains for the Gallies, since which I have appointed only two, at that Time Three Gallies were nearly finished and four others ordered to be put on the Stocks, which still left a Vacancy for one Captain, Captain [Seth] Warner is one of the Four which was requested: one of the others I wish sent for the Royal-Sav- age, the third for the Gally on the Stocks and the Fourth for one of the Others ordered to be built, which ought to be put on the Stocks long ere this. The greatest part of the Timber was cut for the four la[s]t Gallies before I left Skeensborough, and as the Carpenters and Materials are procured, will it not be Prudence, and Oeconomy to have them compleated. —

In my Last I wrote you we were Victualed to the 20th Instant. For that Calculation I computed ten Barrels of Pork and twenty of Flour left at Crown Point, which I ordered to be sent down in the last Gondola, the Order was neglected and the Provision left behind so that the Supply sent now will Victual us no longer than the 26th [sic] Instant, unless supplied by th[e] Inhabitants on the Lake of which there is little Prospect. Cannot a Frenchman or two, who is acquainted in Canada and can be depended upon be sent me, with the Tobacco I keep the two small Schooners continually cruising above and below us. The Countersign is never given until four O'Clock, two Guard Boats are posted every Night two Miles below us, at a proper Distance to discover the Approach of the Enemy, another Boat goes the Rounds every two Hours all Night every Ship keeps half their Men constantly on Deck under Arms, and Matches lighted, it will be impossible for the Enemy to surprise us.

I am greatly obliged to you for the Friendly Notice you have taken of me in your Public Letter, which I make no Doubt will have the desired Effect.

I am surprized you have received no particular Accounts of the Battle on long Island, the severe Check the Enemy have met with will doubtless Dispirit them greatly and will I hope prove a happy prelude to our future Success, I hope you will soon have the Particulars of the Affair. The Act of Independence, I will send, agreeable to your Direction I am with Sentiments of Respect and Esteem [&c.]

Journal of Bartholomew James

[September 15, 1776]

The 23rd [sic], at six in the morning, we weighed in company with the former ships, and anchored a little below Blackwell's Island on the York side, about fifty yards from the enemy's intrenchments, to which place the whole body as above immediately moved, frequently making signs and calling to us to come on shore. We continued without firing at each other till eleven o'clock, when the first division of flat boats appeared, coming down Bushwick Creek, having on board four thousand five hundred men under the command of General Howe. As soon as the boats arrived within fifty yards of the ships, the signal was made from the Phoenix to begin the attack on the enemy's lines.

It is hardly possible to conceive what a tremendous fire was kept up by those five ships for fifty-nine minutes, in which time we fired away, in the Orpheus alone, five thousand three hundred and seventy-six pounds of powder. The first broadside made a considerable breach in their works, and the enemy fled on all sides, confused and calling for quarter, while the army landed, but, as usual, did not pursue the victory, though the rebels in general had left their arms in the intrenchment. The havoc was by no means so great as it would have been had we not been obliged to cease firing on the landing of the troops; however, the ground in some places was filled with the slain, and numbers got off with the loss of arms, &c.

As soon as the firing ceased from the ships I was sent in the barge to tow on shore the flat boats, when curiosity led me to follow the army through the works, where I saw a Hessian sever a rebel's head from his body and clap it on a pole in the intrenchments. While I was amusing myself with these sights, and picking up some curious trifles, several volleys of musketry was fired from a boat belonging to the Orpheus at us, who had, in rowing along shore, taken us for rebels, as I had on a white linen jacket which I wore at my quarters, and which was all colours at this time with powder and dirt. As I knew the boat, I made signs of friendship, but all in vain; and I was obliged to throw away my little affairs and take to my heels, as the enemy had done before, amidst a constant fire from the boat, who fortunately only wounded one man slightly in the leg. On my arrival on board I found the second lieutenant amusing the captain with an account of his attack on a body of rebels, which I gave him to understand was myself and the barge's crew, by which I had lost some valuable swords and little trifles, which in the precipitate retreat before his arms I had left behind me. Captain [Charles] Hudson permitted me to go again on shore with the above lieutenant, but all our little matters were taken, and we procured only nine drums and some fusees, one of which, being very handsome, I took from the hands of a rebel officer who lay dead in the field . . .

Mr. Barton leaving me by accident on shore, I rambled into the woods with one of the midshipmen of the Phoenix, who had with him the gunner and seven men. On our entrance into an orchard we took a rebel prisoner who had lain concealed there for some time. From this man we learned there had been a skirmish in the woods with the rebels and a body of the Hessians, and that the former was dispersed all round the woods. Having consulted each other on the consequences of advancing further from the ships, and pleased in some measure with the success of taking the above man, we determined to go in quest of some more, and shortly after heard several voices in an orchard at the end of the wood, on which we assembled with our muskets presented to the gate, and levelling at some men we saw in the grass, were about to fire, when up start two or three hundred Hessians, with flaming large brass caps on, and with charged bayonets advanced rapidly towards us. The sudden unexpected surprise of such a visit alarmed us prodigiously, and we made signs of being friends, which had little or no effect in our favour, as on their coming close to us they knocked us down with their muskets, frequently using the word "rebel," for which they really took us. In vain I assured them with signs that we were part of the British navy, and pointed to my white cuff, having changed my clothes on going on board, that I might not a second time be taken for an American. But I was much surprised, and in fact at a loss how to act, when they pointed at a rebel officer who lay there with a leg shot off, who had on the very exact uniform of a midshipman, which having explained to each other, they again beat us unmercifully, and would undoubtedly have put their bayonets through us had not General [Robert] Pigot, who commanded that party, and who knew me when in the Chatham, have come to our relief, when they made a thousand ridiculous apologies for their treatment, and we returned to our ships, in need of both cook and doctor, and totally weary of our expedition.

2. James, as usual, was wrong in his dates.

Journal of Ambrose Serle

This Morning about 7 o'Clock, the Renown of 50 Guns, Capt. [Francis] Banks, the Répulse of 32 Guns, Capt. [Henry] Davis, & the Pearl of 32 Guns, Capt. [Thomas] Wilkinson, with the Schooner [Tryal], Lieut. [Lancelot] Brown [Jr.], sailed up the North River. The Morning was fine, the Tide flowed, and there was a fresh Breeze. The Rebels began their Canonade as furiously as they could, but apparently with very little Effect, as their Guns were but poorly served. The Ships, as these were the grand Batteries of the Enemy, returned a heavy Fire, and struck the Walls of the Batteries and the Sods of Earth, which the Rebels had raised, very frequently. What other Damage our People did them, we as yet know not; but, 'tis observed, that, except for beating down particular Structures, or clearing the Way for other operations, Cannon have but a very small or precarious Effect. The great Business is always accomplished by the minor Implements of War.

About a Quarter before 9, the Ships came to an Anchor in the North River, in view of the Fleet, at about 4 or 5 Miles Distance above it, and beyond the principal Works of the Enemy.

A Transport, during the Affair upon the North River, went up the East River & joined the other Ships, almost without Molestation.

The whole Scene was awful & grand; I might say, beautiful, but for the melancholy Seriousness which must attend every Circumstance, where the Lives of Men, even the basest Malefactors, are at Stake. The Hills, the Woods, the River, the Town, the Ships, and Pillars of Smoke, all heightened by a most clear & delightful morning, furnished the finest Landschape that either art and nature combined could draw, or the Imagination conceive.

After this affair had subsided for a little while, a most tremendous Discharge of Cannon from the Ships began (as was concerted) in the East River, in order to cover the Landing of the Troops upon New York Island. So terrible and so incessant a Roar of Guns few even in the Army & Navy had ever heard before. Above 70 large Pieces of Cannon were in Play, together with Swivels & small arms from the Ships, while the Batteries added to the uproar upon the Land. The Rebels were apparently frightened away by the horrid Din, and deserted the Town & all their Works in the utmost Precipitation. The King's Forces took Possession of the Place, incredible as it may seem, without the Loss of a Man. Nothing could equal the Expressions of Joy shewn by the Inhabitants, upon the arrival of the King's officers among them. They even carried some of them upon their Shoulders about the Streets, and behaved in all respects, Women as well as Men, like overjoyed Bedlamites. One thing is worth remarking; a Woman pulled down the Rebel Standard upon the Fort, and a Woman hoisted up in its Stead His Majesty's Flat, after trampling the other under Foot with the most contemptuous Indignation. I first espied both Circumstances from the Ship, and could not help paying the first Congratulations to Lord H[owe]. upon the Occasion. The Spirit and Activity of the Troops & Seamen were unequalled: Every man pressed to be foremost, consistent with Order, and to court Distinction. The dastardly Behaviour of the Rebels, on the other Hand; sinks below Remark. The Ground, where our People landed, was far from being advantageous; the Tide rapid; the Current unequal; the Shore shallow; and themselves obliged to march up on Ground, where these Poltroons had been at Work to entrench themselves for several months. Providentially, the Wind coming in with a fine Breeze from the S.W., wch it had not done before since we have been here, and wch was the most favorable Circumstance our People could have desired, enabled the Boats to carry over the Forces almost in a Direct Line, and return in like manner for the second Division, notwithstanding the Rapidity of the Current. Thus this Town and its Environs, wch these blustering Gentlemen had taken such wonderful Pains to fortify, were given up in two or three Hours without any Defence, or the least appearance of a manly Resistance.

In the Evening the Admiral [Howe] ordered up the Mercury of 24, and the Fowey of 20 Guns, to lie close to the Town, to prevent the Transport Boats from going on Shore & plundering, wch many of them appeared very ready to do.

DIARY OF SAMUEL RICHARDS

[New York, September 14 and 15]

On the evening of the 14th the greatest part of the troops marched out and took post on the bank of the East river just below Kip’s Bay — about three miles from the city. Myself being one of the body — we were posted behind a slight entrenchment recently thrown up, opposite and near which lay five ships. on the 15th as the morning advanced we saw the road opposite to us — the sound not being two miles wide at that place — filled with a dense column of the enemy moving down to the waters edge and embarking on board flat boats. knowing their object we prepared to receive them.

As soon as they began their approach — the ships opened a tremendous fire upon us. the column of boats on leaving the shore proceeded directly towards us; when arriving about half way across the sound they turned their course and proceeded to Kip's bay — about three quarters of a mile above us — where they landed: their landing there being unexpected they met with no opposition: the firing from the ships being continued — our slight embankment being hastily thrown up — was fast tumbling away by the enemy's shott. Our troops left their post in disorder, and before being rallied the enemy had completely formed in the road on the adjoining hill. our regiment with some others being ordered on the Bloomingdale road and to march towards Kingsbridge

[New York, September] 15th — About noon, the British landed at Kepp's Bay. They met with but small resistance, and pushed towards the city, of which they took possession in the afternoon. They availed themselves of some cannon and stores; but their booty was not very great. Here the Americans, we are sorry to say, did not behave well; and here it was, as fame hath said, that Gen. Washington threw his hat on the ground, and exclaimed, "Are these the men with which I am to defend America?" But several things may have weight here; — the wounds received on Long-Island were yet bleeding; and the officers, if not the men, knew that the city was not to be defended. Maj. [John] Chapman was killed, and Brig. Maj. [John P.] Wyllys was taken prisoner. A few others were killed, wounded, and taken prisoners. The Americans retreated up the island; and some few, who could not get out of the city that way, escaped in boats over to Paulus Hook, across the river. The house in the fort at Horn's Hook, was set on fire by a shell, and burnt down. The fort was afterwards abandoned.

JOURNAL OF CAPTAIN HENRY DUNCAN, R.N.\(^1\)

[On board H. M. S. Eagle, off New York City]

15th September, Sunday. – Between six and seven this morning, made the signal for the Renown, Repulse, and Pearl to get under way, which signal they immediately obeyed. About seven o'clock, or a little after, the batteries in the town and all along that shore began to fire, as well as that at Paulus Hook; the ships returned the fire very smartly, and proceeded up the North River six or eight miles and anchored in our sight under the high land of Holbeck. At the time they got under way the transport that ran on shore last night got under way, and run up the East River, scarcely noticed, as the rebels' attention was so much taken up with the men-of-war. When the ships of war anchored, and for some time before, there were no guns fired at them. A little after eleven a most furious cannonade was heard up the East River. It appeared from our mastheads to be from the men-of-war. It continued about an hour. The admiral went on shore, and returned about two o'clock, and informed us of our army being on York Island. They landed in Kipp's Bay, about three miles above the town up the East River, under the cannon of the ships. Soon after dinner I went in a boat and pulled towards York. A flag of truce was hoisted in the town when I put off from the ship, but was hauled down soon after I put off. On approaching the town there appeared to be a rabble on the walls. Ordered the boat to push on shore. At the landing-place I was met by the mob, who gave me three cheers, took me on their shoulders, carried me to the Governor's Fort, put me under the English colours now hoisted, and again gave me three cheers, which they frequently repeated, men, women, and children shaking me by the hand, and giving me their blessing, and crying out “God save the King!” They carried me to my boat, and we parted with cheering and my promising to send them some troops. The Fowey and Mercury went close to the town.

British Troops Landing at Kips Bay, New York, September 15, 1776.
Early this morning the five ships of War, vizt, The Renown 44 Guns, Phoenix 44, Arpheus 28, [Carysfort] 28, and Rose of 20, took their Stations along the shore of New York Island, from Kipps's bay near Turtle bay on the right, to the point behind Mr John Watts's house on the left, and about 200 yards from it. They anchored with their broad-sides to the shore.

About 10 o’Clock the flatboats began to row from the mouth of Newtown Creek, and assembled aStern of the 6 transports at Bushwick point, in four Divisions. During this time The Guards embarked in flatboats which were prepared for their reception. The whole when assembled, amounted to about 30 flatboats with troops, besides several Launches and other Craft, with some Light Artillery, Mantelets, Intrenching tools, Ammunition, &c. &c.

A little before 11, upon a signal given, the five Ships of War opened their fire upon the Entrenchments, on the shore, and the adjoining woods. This fire was continued until the Boats began to move, and the troops to land. Very few of the Rebels showed themselves, and those only in the most secure places.

The Rebels, who judged from what they saw of the movement of the Boats and Ships, that the troops would land at Turtle bay, observing the boats row from Newtown Creek, and assemble at Bushwick point, immediately conceived they were going to land on the flat grounds near the town, and therefore marched several Battalions with their Colours flying into their line and works on that side, and made every appearance of an obstinate defence; but they were deceived, for as the wind and tide set strongly up the River, the boats were under the necessity of assembling at Bushwick point, in order to be able to fetch the intended place of landing, which was Kipps bay.

At 12 o’Clock, everything being ready, the boats put off from Bushwick point, . . . They rowed over in 4 Divisions. This was a grand, and most interesting sight. The boats started off in four Columns, and passing under Cover of the Ships, which continued their fire, reached Kipp’s bay, to the right of the Ships, in about half an hour, and immediately landed there, without firing or receiving a Shot. Parties were instantly sent forward, who took possession of the ground in front and flanks. As soon as the troops were formed, they advanced to Murray’s hill, (or Ingleberg) an advantageous piece of ground about 3½ miles on the great Road from New York to Kingsbridge.

A considerable body of the Rebels finding they were likely to be cutoff from Kingsbridge as soon as the Army landed, made the best of their way to New York, and crossed the River to Paulus hook, in great confusion. Some were drowned in attempting to pass on rafts. Had our ships been able to anchor in that part of the River they would have been prevented. Another body of them, as soon as they found the troops had landed, made di-directly across the Island to the North River shore, and marching along, made their escape before General Howe could intercept them.

[Extract] Boston 16th Sepr 1776

I am under the disagreeable necessity of representing the Base conduct of Capt Daniel Waters in the Armed schooner Lee, who has lost two months meerly from an Obstinate perverse temper, he Arrived here from a Cruise Abot the last of June. I paid the vessell off, the portledge bill Amounted to £ 445...6... he was the best Officer’d and mann’d of any vessel in the Service; his first Leuitenant’s time being up for wch he had engag’d he left him. his second chose to remain in the Service, and his Abilities are allow’d (even by Waters) to be equal to any man in the like Station in the Service and greatly esteem’d by all the men, yet Waters discharged him from the Service Contrary to my Advice, under the pretext that he refus’d to go under a first who had never been in the Service and a man who is the greatest part of his time lay’d up with the Gout; his people all told him if the 2nd Remain’d they wou’d go, But he has been from that time the first July till about ten days ago no farther from Boston than Squam, its now a week since his 2nd Lieut wch he discharged sent into plimouth a West India man, for he was immediately put in Command of a privateer on his discharge. Finally when Waters had got mann’d, he wou’d not Consort with the Warren who waited for him tho I endeavour’d to point out the utility of two going together; he told me he shou’d not look on himself under any Obligation to consult with me. he shou’d go where and when he pleas’d, unless Gen Washington Or an Officer of his Appointing shou’d give him orders. then he shou’d hold himself bound. I have Just given you a Scetch of his Conduct Sir as I thought it my indispensable duty to do for I humbly presume if Conduct like his passes with impunity the little Navy will rather be a Clog than a Service to the public. you will see by the papers from time to time that we are Successful in the privateer way. I wish our little navy was more so, the Hancock and Franklin arrived some time since with all their Sp[a]rs defective and we’ve meet some little detention in getting others but they are now ready and sail today the Lynch & Lee are on a Cruise. poor [William] Burke in the Warren taken by the Liverpool. . . .

Clarke & Nightingale to the President of the New York Provincial Congress

Sir —

Providence, Sept. 16th, 1776.

Last week we received a letter from Capt. William Rogers, commander of the sloop Montgomery in the service of your State, requesting us to undertake the agency and act in behalf of the State and himself, in libeling one brig which was returning from a whaling voyage, with about three hundred barrels of oil, and had been taken by the English, carried into New-York, and acquitted by them, and afterwards taken by Captain Rogers in company with the privateers Schuyler and Mifflin, and sent in here. The Commodore and Continental agent, in behalf of the other two privateers (which are fitted out by the Continent) gave the brig up, as there were no papers appeared by which they could condemn her, and they produced a certificate, a copy of which you have enclosed, of their permission to sail at the time they did. As matters were thus circumstanced, we imagined it would be in vain to libel her when the others who were two-thirds concerned saw no prospect of condemning her, and after consulting with the prize master, we declined prosecuting. The other is a Bermudian sloop which was taken with entrenching tools on board; the tools are taken out and were sent to General Washington, and they put a quantity of flour on board from some other of their prizes. She is libelled and will be tried the first of October next, and as there is no claimer she will of course be condemned. We shall now wait your orders in what manner to proceed, as she was taken in company with the abovementioned privateers, and shall be glad to hear from you as soon as possible. We are in the meantime with due respect, sir [&c.]

Clark & Nightingale

P.S. Enclosed with the certificate you have the affair of the brig stated by the lawyer.

[Enclosure]

[The case of the Brigantine Temple.]

It appears by her papers that she was owned by Wm. Rotch of Nantucket, and cleared out there on a whaling voyage, the 26th May, 1775, in common form, but did not sail till the last of October following.

After her clearing and before her sailing, to wit: in the month of August, the following resolve was passed in the House of Representatives of the Massachusetts Bay, and concurred with by the Council:

That from and after the fifteenth day of this instant, August, no ship or vessel shall sail out of any port of this Colony on any whaling voyage whatever, without leave first had from the great and general court of this Colony, or from some committee or committees, or persons they shall appoint to grant such leave.
The brig sailed from Nantucket under the command of Joshua Morris some time the last of October, for the coast of Brazil, on a whaling voyage. And upon her passage home, having about three hundred barrels of oil on board, she was taken by a British man of war and carried into Sandy Hook, and after being detained a few days was dismissed with a pass from Admiral Howe to proceed to Nantucket. Soon after she left the Hook, to wit, on the 20th of August, 1776, she was taken by the Continental sloops of war called the Mifflin and the Schuyler, and by the sloop Montgomery fitted out by the State of New-York, and carried into a harbour on the south side of Long island, where she lay till the British troops got possession of Long island, when the captors sent her into this port to be libelled.

At the time of capture she had on board no certificate that she had obtained leave to go on a whaling voyage. Since her arrival here her owner from Nantucket has sent the following certificate, to wit:

Treasury office, Sept. 28th, 1775.

I hereby certify that Wm. Rotch hath given bond according to the direction of the General Assembly of this Colony, in order to send on a whaling voyage the brig Temple, Joshua Morris, master.

Henry Gardner, Treas.

Quere. Whether it is advisable to libel the brig or not?

Newport Mercury, MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 16, 1776

Newport, Sept. 16.

The Continental Cruiser, Andrew Doria, Capt. Nicholas Biddle, has taken 4 Prizes since he last sailed, viz. 1 large ship with near 15,000 bushels of wheat, which the Negro-catcher, Dunmore, loaded at Virginia and ordered for Halifax; a brig from Dunmore's fleet bound to the West-Indies, with a number of tories, and their household furniture, out of which he took some of the most valuable articles, and 7 Negroes, and let go; 2 brigs from the West Indies, loaded with rum and sugar; the 2 latter are safe arrived in a neighbouring port, and the ship is hourly expected.¹

The fore part of last week, the Cerberus frigate retook a prize brig between Block Island and Norman's Land; this prize was one of Dunmore's motley squadron, bound to Bermudas, with a number of passengers, some household furniture, and dry goods from Virginia, and was taken by the Andrew Doria, Capt. Biddle, close in with the Island; the people put on board to bring her in, made their escape in the boat and landed at Block Island, from whence they came to this place.²

Captain Samson [Simeon Sampson], in a brig belonging to Plymouth, has sent a sloop into an eastern port, loaded with rum and cotton, bound for Halifax.³

Three brigs loaded with rum, sugar and molasses, arrived in some neighbouring port since our last; and it is said the ship loaded with 1[7],000 bushels of wheat taken by the Andrew Doria, is arrived a little way to the eastward.

Last Tuesday a fine large brig, loaded with about 240 hogsheads of rum, &c. went up the east passage; she was taken by the sloop Revenge, from Swansey, Capt. Samuel Dunn, who was reported to have been taken.

1. Ship Molly, brig Maria and brigantines Elizabeth and Lawrence.
2. Brig Peggy.
3. The Massachusetts state brig Independence. Her prize was the brigantine Nabby.

Brigadier General Benedict Arnold to Major General Horatio Gates ³

Dear General,

Isle La Motte September 16th 1776

The hard Gale of Wind yesterday prevented, my sending back Ensign [Clemens] Botsford. This Morning at one OClock Antoine Geroure [Girard] whom I mentioned to have sent to St Johns returned, and gave the following Account vizt. That at Isle aux Noix there are three thousand Troops encamped, and forty Pieces of Cannon Mounted on their Lines. at St Johns are three thousand Men, one hundred & fifty Batteaux, and he was told by a Frenchman two hundred Batteaux were at Chamblee and a Party of Men sent down to fetch them up that two Schooners were completed and Maned, one mounting Twelve and the other fourteen Brass twelve Pounders the small Vessels on the Stocks to carry three Guns each One Gondola taken from us and three new ones Built there to mount three Guns each, a Number of flatbottomed Boats and Batteaus to carry one Gun each and a Floating Battery, with two Masts nearly done to carry twenty four eighteen Pounders, and two Mortars, he imagines the whole will be compleated in a Fortnight. he has brought a Pass from the Isle aux Noix, from which and the Distance he had to go the bad Weather and Time he has been gone, I believe he has been no farther than the Isle aux Noix, and that he has been enjoined by the Officer there to give the foregoing Account. had not they been convinced he was in their Interest, I dont imagine they would have suffered him to return. he formerly lived with Metcalf whom he says is gone to St Johns, now remains at a French House opposite the Isle aux Motte where Serjeant [Thomas] Day, says a Number of Deserters were lately taken, betrayed to the Indians, by the Frenchman, I have every Reason to think him placed as a Spy on us I have therefore sent him to you tobe disposed of as you may think Proper. I had promised him Fifty Dollars provided he procured an exact Account of the Strength of the Enemy, agreeable to the Accounts I received from others, from the Accot of the two Men who have viewed the Isle aux Noix, one of whom I nowsend, the Accounts of this Frenchman must be False and a Story formed for him by some of the English Officers.

I have heard nothing of Lieutenant [Benjamin] Whitcomb or Ensign [Thomas] McCoy and am very apprehensive for their Safety as the Woods is full of Indians. — I am Respectfully Dear General [&c.]

EXAMINATION OF SERGEANT ELI STILES

The Examination of Serjt Stiles sent from the Fleet with Ensign McCoy to reconnoitre Sept 6th: 1776

[On board the Royal Savage]

Sept. 16th. Says that on the 9th Inst: he saw all the Tents on Isle aux Noix and counted them about one hundred and believes there is about one thousand Men there — the 12th arrived opposite St John’s where were a large Number Tents which could not well be counted, he imagines about three hundred when there he counted 34 large Birch Canoes paddle by him towards Isle au Noix supposed they contained about six hundred Indians & one regular officer — Saw a Schooner at St John’s mounting 12 Iron Guns, suppose six pounders another Schooner lay at the Wharf with a F. Sail bent which he supposes was not compleated and believes she mounted not more than 12 Guns one other vessel on the Stocks was planked to her Wales She appeared built in the common Form and something larger than the other two Two small Gondalos were at the Wharf, but saw Nothing of any Rideau or Floating Batteries and believes there was none Their Bat-teaus appear twice as large as ours and carried fifty or sixty Men one of which row'd near by him — Left St John's the 12th in Company with Ensign McCoy & parted with him on the 15th at 10 A. M. opposite Hospital Island, where are about 20 Tents

[On board H.M.S. Eagle, off Bedloe's Island]

16th [September]. — This morning about three o'clock I was called by the officer of watch, and informed that a fire-vessel was close on board of us. I immediately run on the forecastle, and perceived that the light was at some distance from us, and that it approached us but slowly. By daybreak we perceived them plainly to be four fire-vessels, that had been sent against the Renown, Repulse and Pearl. These fire-vessels came near the ships, but by slipping or veering they escaped them. The Renown slipped one cable and cut another; she made sail with the wind down the river and an ebb tide, and joined us here off Bedloe's Island. The two frigates kept their stations up the river. . . . A little after nine at night, three guns were fired as a signal. It proved to be the Chatham, in coming up here, had got on Robin's Reef. Sent the master to her.

1. Duncan's Journals, XX, 128.
This Morning between 3 & 4 o'Clock, we were alarmed with three Fire-ships, which the Rebels sent down, at a Venture, against the three Ships of War which sailed up the North River yesterday morning. One of them came very near to the Renown, but, with the other two, was towed off, and left to consume upon the Shore. The Renown came down this Morning; and, by her, we understand, that Capt. [Henry] Davis had one man killed & two wounded yesterday, and that the Renown had two Men wounded. The Renown fired among the Rebels yesterday, as they evacuated the Town, & 'tis supposed, as the Ground was open & plain cut many of them off in their Retreat.

A Party of Marines was sent by the Admiral [Howe] to take Possession of the Fort, and to hoist the Union Flag upon the Staff. A great Concourse of People assembled round the Soldiers, and raised His Majesty's Colors with loud acclamations, and every possible Demonstration of Joy. Indeed the Happiness of the Inhabitants upon the Occasion drives them about like madmen. They carried our officers, at their first Landing, in Chairs or upon their Shoulders, up and down the Streets. They have felt so much of real Tyranny, since the New England & other Rebels came among them, that they are at a Loss how to enjoy their Release. The Rebels carried off their Bells, and many things of Value some Days before their Departure.

MINUTES OF THE PENNSYLVANIA COUNCIL OF SAFETY

In Council of Safety,

[Philadelphia] September 16th, 1776.

A Letter was wrote to Commodore Sam'l Mifflin, requesting his speedy return to this City, to take the Naval Armaments under his care.

An order was drawn on The Marine Committee, for what Arms are due from Congress to this State, to deliver Mr. Towers.

Resolved, That Mr. [Thomas] Wharton & Mr. [John] Bayard be directed to engage and send off as soon as possible, three fast sailing sloops or schooners, to bring in such articles of Cloathing, Blankets & other necessaries, as are wanted for the use of the Troops belonging to this State.

Resolved, That application be made to the [Continental] Board of War to employ the Marines now in this City, as Guards over the Frigates, Prison, and Powder belonging to the Continent, &ca.

RICHARD HENRY LEE TO SAMUEL PURVIANCE, JR.

Dear Sir, Philadelphia 16th Septr 1776

Since your brother left this City, Mr [John] Nicholson has been confirmed first Lieutenant of the Washington, and his worthy brother may be assured that in settling the rank of the Captains his merit will not be forgotten. It is not probable that the Frigates will sail in fleets for some time; and therefore tis likely that no higher appointment than that of Captain will soon take place.

It will be highly proper for Captain [James] Nicholson to hasten on the Virginia (for that is most certainly the name of the Baltimore Frigate) as much as possible. Her great obstruction, I fear, will be Anchors — However, we hope that will be removed eer long, as measures have been taken to pro[cure] them

You will shortly see published the conference of our Members with Lord Howe on Staten Island, in which you will find that his Lordships much talked of powers, are no more than to confer & converse with Gentlemen of influence, and to prosecute the war! We anxiously expect here, the issue of a long Cannonade at [New] York, and another lately on Lake Champlain —
I am Sir [&c.]

CAPTAIN FRANCIS DE MONTEIL TO VICE ADMIRAL CLARK GAYTON

On Board the frigate La Renommée
Port Royal Jamaica 16th Septr. 1776

Sir/

I send to your Excellency Monsr. Desfarge de la Voltiere my Second Lieutenant who will desire you to permit me to have the Honor of seeing you he will first tell you the urgent reason why I left the Mole St Nicholas in such a hurry where I was engag'd to repair my Ship.

Monsr. de la Voltierre with respect will tell you concerning the matter that happen'd on the 14th. His Britanick Majestys Ship the Squirrel with a Sloop Cruizing a head of her, chased a Schooner with great eagerness and by means of her Oars took her at a Miles distance from the Shore in my Sight, and in short so close that three Men belonging to the Schooner had scarce time to reach the Town with their Papers & other Effects.

In vain I endeavored to tow my Frigate [La Renommée] out but it being Calm in the Bay and then the Wind coming contrary prevented me from getting out before the Night had depriv'd me of the sight of His Britanick Majestys Ships, three different Schooners told me that they were gone for Jamaica.

I look'd for the Captain of the Squirrel to observe to him (on account of the good understanding subsisting between the two Courts) that an officer who commanded a Frigate in the Mole a Month before had given protection to a Vessel belonging to Jamaica and therefore I have more reason to complain of Captain [Stair] Douglas's Lieutenant for so gross a breach of the Treaties His going away appear'd to me a matter of so much consequence for the Honor of my King that I was determined to come myself to demand the Schooner, I flatter myself your Excellency will think that 'tis very natural for the Schooner to avail himself of the Protection afforded them by our Court, which would be equally the same to any of His Britanick Majestys Vessels that might require it, and more particularly in a case of this kind where our Colours were Hoist'd and under our Cannon where all your Vessels are receiv'd.

To conclude I have the Honor to remit to you the Memoir of my Demand of which I have transmitted an exact Copy to the Marine Minister. I will express in Person every thing else necessary to Justify the Demand that my Situation obliges me to make and I desire you that if the matter requires any delay to give an answer, at the receipt of this, to Justify 'my Conduct to my Master I would return immediately with the Confidence of your Justice in a matter which so essentially Interests both our Courts and without presuming you would be displeas'd at its being Communicat'd to our respective Ministers. I have the honor to be with every Sentiment of respect Your Excellencys [&c.]

CAPTAIN WILLIAM CORNWALLIS TO PHILIP STEPHENS

Pallas at Sea 16th Septr 1776.

Sir

Latitude 32° N. Longde 73° W.

I beg you will be pleased to acquaint their Lordships that his Majesty's Ship Pallas under my Command has been Six Weeks from Portroyal, Jamaica, with a Convoy of 104 Sail a List of which I sent by the Grenville Packet who parted Company the 6th instant. We have been three Weeks since we came through the Gulf getting three degrees to the Northward owing to Calms and light Airs of Wind from the N. Et; We went to as short an Allowance of water both Officers and Men soon after we sailed, as I thought we could well be reduced to, the Weather being very hot, we have at present only Ten Butts besides the Ground Tier.

I intend keeping along the Coast of America in hopes of meeting with some Man of War upon that Station to enquire at what place we can get a supply, for unless we have a fair and fresh Wind soon I do not think it will be safe to Cross the Ocean with the small Quantity of water we have on board.

Many of the Merchant Ships parted Company as soon as we got through the Gulf, a great many of the others keep constantly so far off that we can but just see them from the Masthead, I have sent on board those that are nearest to us, and find some of them intend parting Company, others are as bad off for water as ourselves, and intend going to the Northward with us, I should hope that two or three days sail will put them pretty well out of the reach of the American Privateers, however I shall take all the care I possibly can of those that chuse to keep Company with us. Inclosed I send a weekly account of the State and Condition of the Ship. I am Sir [&c.]

ACTS AND RESOLVES OF THE MASSACHUSETTS GENERAL COURT

[Watertown] Tuesday September 17th 1776.

Petition of Shubael Cottle a member of the House of Representatives for the Town of Tisbury in Dukes County in the behalf of Nathan Smith Captain of the first Company of Sea-Coast Men station'd in said Tisbury in Dukes-County aforesaid for the defence of the said County – setting forth –

That from the Encouragement given by these States to all Persons to make Captures of Vessels belonging to the Enemy employ'd against the united States, as also by a Resolve which passed the Honorable Continental Congress on the 23d of March in 1775, respecting such matters. That the above said Captain Smith from a principle of serving his Country, and stimulated with the hopes of Reward, He with divers other persons belonging to a Sea Coast Company station'd on the Island of Martha's Vinyard, with some of the Militia of the same place, with three Pilot Boats provided by said Smith, & Company did on the 12th day of April last past at the risque of their Lives board, take, and bring into the Port of Bedford in this State a certain Schooner called the Volante of about Sixty Tons burthen laden with Provisions, and Stores for the use of the Fleet, and Army employed against the united States of America the said Schooner then being a part of said Fleet, & Tender to the Scarborough Man of War – One Edward Marsh Master – The Petitioner at the time of the Capture did humbly conceive after condemnation and deducting the Charges incident thereto, that the Vessel, Cargo, and appurtunances was to be divided amongst the Captors, but by a Resolve which pass'd the late General Assembly at their last Session on the 23d day of April 1775 [sic 1776], the State thereby taking two thirds of all such Captures, and the other third to the use of the Captors – the Petitioner, humbly suggests that should the Honorable Court take any part of said Capture by virtue of said Resolve passed the 23d of April aforesaid to the use of this State that two thirds is by far too great a part in the opinion of the Petitioner – He therefore (in the behalf of said Captain Smith, and Company) prays that the Honorable Court would take the matter into consideration and as the State were at no Expence, nor suffer’d any Risque for Vessels, Cannon in making said Capture, that the Honorable Court would order the whole, or such a part of said Schooner, Cargo and Appurtunances to the use of the Captors, as they shall think proper.

Resolved that whereas it appears to this Court that certain persons mentioned in said Petition, [were concerned in taking and bringing into this State a certain Schooner mentioned in Said petition]² and it further appears, that the Vessels, or Boats which attacked, and took said Schooner were procured by, and at the risk of the Captors –

Therefore Resolved, that after the Charges of Tryal, and Condemnation are deducted from the gross proceeds of said Vessel and Cargo, and the Share of the other Captors have been assigned, the Colony shall receive one third and the Sea Coast Men the other two thirds of said Schooner, Cargo, and Appurtunances.

The Committee of both Houses appointed to take under consideration the claim this State has to the Prize Ship Queen of England Arnot [James Arnout] master loaded with Pork, and other provisions for the use of the Enemy lately taken in the harbor of Boston have attended that service, and ask leave to Report as follows.

D Sewall p order.

That since the appointment of your Committee the Trial of the Justice of the said Capture, has been determin’d in the Superior Court, upon an Appeal made from the Maritime Court in the Middle district, by a Pilot on Board of the said Ship at the Time, of the Capture, who claimed the whole prize.

Upon which Trial your Committee are Informed, for they have not been able to obtain the Record thereof, That one fifth part of the said Prize, and her Appurtunances have been adjudged to the said Pilot as an original Captor, and the remaining 4/5 to the said Crafts, & Whitney, & their Regiments, who at the Time of the Capture where in the service, and pay of the State –

That by a Resolve of both Houses on the 23d of April last “The Sea Cost men station’d in any Port of this Colony, shall be intitled to one third part of the neat proceeds, after charges of condemnation, and other expenses are paid of all Vessels & Cargoes that have been, or shall hereafter be taken by them, and legally Condemned by the Court Establish’d to try the Justice of all such Captures, which shall be divided, amongst them in proportion to the pay of the Officers, & Soldiers employed in such port, or place, and the Remainder shall be to the use of the Colony”

That your Committee are of opinion there can be no just pretence for the said Colonels, and their Regiments retaining the whole of the 4/5 of the said Capture to their own use.
Now fitting for a

Privateer,
In the Harbour of BEVERLY,
The Brigantine

Washington,
A strong, good vessel for that purpose, and a prime failure.

Any Seamen or Landmen that have an inclination to Make their Fortunes in a few Months,

May have an Opportunity, by applying to JOHN DYSON.

Beverly, September 17th. 1776.
And unless they are to be consider'd in this matter as Sea Coast Men, they have no legal demand to any part of the said Capture, and that an adjudication of the 4/5 to them is in effect an adjudication of so much to the use of this State —

But your Committee are of Opinion that the said Colonels, and their Men, are equitably intitled to 1/3 of the 4/5, and no more, and this they conceive one of the said Colonels by his memorial laid in, before the Board is fully convinced of, and is contented with. —

Your Committee are likewise of Opinion, that the Superior Court may now legally, in Consequence of the Resolution of April last beforementioned, Order in the Precept for Sale of said 4/5 of the said Prize, a distribution thereof in manner following — viz: 1/3 to the said Colonels, and their Regiments in proportion to the pay they respectively receive from this State, and the Residue to this State, and that the agent for the middle District of this State ought to be by this Court directed to apply to the said Superior Court for a distribution accordingly. —

Read, & Accepted.

SAMUEL COOPER TO BENJAMIN FRANKLIN

[Extract] Boston N. E 17 Septr 1776

We have Nothing new here except Captures from the British Trade, which are likely to increase — Our own Navigation is almost Wholly turn'd into Privateering, so that their Cruizers can take little or Nothing from us but empty Hulls, while their Ships come fast to us richly laden'd —

It is regretted among us that the American Fleet is not in greater Forwardness. We have two fine Frigates built at Newbury & Portsmouth, but after so long a Time, not yet ready to put to Sea: Many are the more uneasy at this, as two Frigates of the Enemy have had the undisturb'd Range of our Bay for five or six Weeks past, retaken some valuable Prizes, and greatly prevented the Coasters from coming in with Supplies to this Town. Whether there be any Fault in this or where it lies, I am unable to determine — I expect Mr [Samuel] Austin, a worthy Gentleman, & Select Man of this Town will call for this Letter and deliver it to you. . . .

JOURNAL OF THE NEW YORK PROVINCIAL CONVENTION

Die Martis, 4 ho. P. M.
[Fishkill] Sepr. 17th, 1776.

The Convention on information that the soundings of Hudson's river, at and about Fort Washington, is not accurately sounded, and thereupon came to the following resolutions.
Whereas, there is reason to apprehend that the channel of Hudson's river opposite to Fort Washington is not yet sufficiently obstructed; And Whereas it is of the utmost importance to the safety of this State, and the general cause of America, that the navigation of that river should not be oc- cupied by the enemy's ships: Therefore,

Resolved, That Captain Thos. Greenhill be, and he is, hereby requested and authorized to proceed with all possible dispatch to Mount Washington, in order to take an accurate survey of the landings of that part of Hudson's river, and that he report his proceedings to the Convention of this State with all possible despatch.

Resolved, That the commanding officer of Fort Washington be applied to by Captain Greenhill for his permission to sound the river, and for his assistance in carrying the above resolution into execution.

Resolved, That General James Clinton be requested to furnish Captain Greenhill with a whale boat, and a sufficient number of hands whose attach- ment to the American cause may be relied on, in order to assist in carrying this measure into execution, that General Clinton and Captain Greenhill be earnestly requested to conduct this matter with all the secrecy possible.

A letter from Gilbert Livingston, Esquire, at Poughkeepsie, was read. He therein informs that the chain intended to obstruct the navigation of Hudson's river, has been delayed for want of iron. He requests that one of the other members of the committee may come to him to assist him, and bring with him two thousand pounds, as their treasury is nearly exhausted; and informs that he expects to go to the fort to see that the apparatus is ready to fasten and stretch the chain.

Ordered, That the secret committee for obstructing the navigation of Hudson's river, have permission to go to the fortifications in the Highlands to-morrow morning.

I suppose you have heard of the Retreat from Long Island and the Evacuation of New York. The Retreats were both Judicious and necessary our numbers being very insufficient to hold such an extent of ground. His Excellency had proposed to Evacuate the City & Suburbs of New York sometime before the Enemy made their last landing, and had the Quarter Master General been able to furnish the necessary Waggons to remove the Stores and Baggage, the Retreat would have been effected in good Order, had the Enemy delay'd their landing twenty four hours longer. Almost all the Old standing Regiment was drawn out of the City in order to oppose the Enemy at Hell Gate where they made an appearance of a very large body of Troops, and movements as if they intended a landing. We made a miserable disorderly Retreat from New York, owing to the disorderly conduct of the Militia who run at the Appearance of the Enemies Advance Guard, this was General [John] Fellows Brigade, they struck a pannick into the Troops in the Rear and Fellows, and [Samuel Holden] Parsons whole Brigade run away from about fifty men and left his Excellency on the Ground within Eighty Yards of the Enemy, So vexat at the infamous conduct of the Troops that he sought Death rather than life. The Retreat was on the fourteenth of this instant from New York, most of the Troops got off but we lost a prodigious deal of Baggage & Stores. On the 15th [sic 16th] we had a skirmish at Harlam Heiths a party of about a thousand came and Attak't our Advance post they met with a very different kind of a Reception from what they did the day before the fire continued about an hour and the Enemy Retreated our people pursued them and by the spirited conduct of General Putnam and Col [Joseph] Read the Adjutant General our people advanced upon the plain ground without cover and Attak't them and drove them back. His Excellency sent and order'd a timely retreat to our Advanced Post for he discovered or concluded the Enemy would send a large reinforcement, as their main body lay near bye. I was sick when the Army retreated from Long Island, which by the bye was the best Effected Retreat I ever read or heard off, considering the difficulty of the Retreat. The Army now remain quiet but expect an Attack every Day. Col [James Mitchell] Varnum[s] & Col [Daniel] Hitchcocks Regiments were in the last Action and behaved Nobly, but neither of the Cols was with them both being Absent one Sick the other taking care of the Sick. Time wont Permit me to say much more as I am wanted to go into the Jerseys—

I had the honor of seeing & conversing with your Committee. I think and so does his Excellency, That the Opperations of the Campaign will have no Effect upon you as it will be impossible for the Enemy to detach any part of the Army while our Army is able to make any stand. I would not Evacuate one foot of ground, as it will tend to encourage the Enemy and disperit our People. I am sure the Government is safe and will remain so unless the Enemy can ruin this Army, this is their grand Object and every nerve will be exerted to effect it, that they will not have opportunity and strength sufficient to molest you. I have not time to add one word more. I am with all due respect [&c.]

JOURNAL OF THE CONTINENTAL CONGRESS

[Philadelphia] Tuesday, September 17, 1776

A letter of the 23 August last, from V. De Coetiry Prejent, was laid before Congress, and read.

Resolved, That the same, with paper inclosed, be referred to the Marine Committee.

The committee appointed to confer with Lord Howe, agreeable to order, brought in a report in writing, which was read as follows:

In Obedience to the order of Congress, we have had a meeting with Lord Howe. It was on Wednesday last, upon Staten island, opposite to Amboy, where his lordship received and entertained us with the utmost politeness.

His lordship opened the conversation, by acquainting us, that, though he could not treat with us as a committee of Congress, yet, as his powers enabled him to confer and consult with any private gentlemen of influence in the colonies, on the means of restoring peace between the two countries, he was glad of this opportunity of conferring with us on that subject, if we thought ourselves at liberty to enter into a conference with him in that character. We observed to his Lordship, that, as our business was to hear, he might consider us in what light he pleased, and communicate to us any propositions he might be authorized to make for the purpose mentioned; but that we could consider ourselves in no other character than that in which we were placed, by order of Congress. His Lordship then entered into a discourse of considerable length, which contained no explicit proposition of peace, except one, namely, That the colonies should return to their allegiance and obedience to the government of Great Britain. The rest consisted principally of assurances, that there was an exceeding good disposition in the king and his ministers to make that government easy to us, with intimations, that, in case of our submission, they would cause the offensive acts of parliament to be revised, and the instructions to governors to be reconsidered; that so, if any just causes of complaint were found in the acts, or any errors in government were perceived to have crept into the instructions, they might be amended or withdrawn.

We gave it as our Opinion to his lordship, that a return to the domination of Great Britain was not now to be expected. We mentioned the repeated humble petitions of the colonies to the king and parliament, which had been treated with contempt, and answered only by additional injuries; the unexampled patience we had shown under their tyrannical government, and that it was not till the last act of parliament which denounced war against us, and put us out of the king's protection, that we declared our independence; that this declaration had been called for by the people of the colonies in general; that every colony had approved of it, when made, and all now considered themselves as independent states, and were settling, or had settled, their governments accordingly; so that it was not in the power of the Congress to agree for them, that they should return to their former dependent state; that there was no doubt of their inclination to peace, and their willingness to enter into a treaty with Great Britain, that it might be advantageous to both countries; that though his lordship had, at present, no power to treat with them as independent states, he might, if there was the same good disposition in Britain, much sooner obtain fresh powers from thence, for that purpose, than powers could be obtained by Congress, from the several colonies, to consent to a submission.

His lordship then saying, that he was sorry to find, that no accommodation was like to take place, put an end to the conference.

Upon the whole, it did not appear to your committee, that his Lordship's commission contained any other authority of importance than what is expressed in the act of parliament, namely, that of granting pardons, with such exceptions as the commissioners shall think proper to make, and of declaring America, or any part of it, to be in the king's peace, upon submission; For, as to the power of inquiring into the state of America, which his Lordship mentioned to us, and of conferring and consulting with any persons the commissioners might think proper, and representing the result of such conversations to the ministry, who, (provided the colonies would subject themselves,) might, after all, or might not, at their pleasure, make any alterations in the former instructions to governors, or propose in Parliament, any amendment of the Acts complained of, we apprehended any expectation from the effect of such a power would have been too uncertain and precarious to be relied on by America, had she still continued in her state of Dependence.

Ordered, That the foregoing report, and also the message from Lord Howe, as delivered by General [John] Sullivan, and the resolution of Congress in consequence thereof, be published by the committee who brought in the foregoing report.

JOURNAL OF THE VIRGINIA COUNCIL OF SAFETY

At a Council, held at the Capitol in the City of Williamsburg on Tuesday the 17th September 1776.

Pursuant to a former order, Lieutenant Samuel Towls of the Schooner Revenge in the Naval service of this State, received, and qualified to, his Commission, dated the 16th Instant.

Captain Ephraim Gilbert of the Sloop, Johns Releif, having laid before the Board his papers, which were examined, he is permitted to proceed to any part of this Commonwealth, break Bulk, and dispose of his Cargo.

Ordered that a Warrant issue to Matthew Phripp for seven hundred and Ninety pounds, for the purchase money due for the Brig Liberty by agreement with the Committee of Safety.

The Board, having heretofore Ordered that a Suit should be prosecuted against Matthew Phripp, one of the Owners of the Schooner Polly, John Middleton Master on the Bond given at her clearance for Hispaniola, the said John Middleton having violated the condition thereof, by proceeding to Bermuda; at the request of Mr Phripp, who produced attested Copies of the Instructions given Captain Middleton, whereby it appears the said Captain has disobeyed his orders. It is Ordered that to relieve Mr Phripps Character from any Stigma in consequence of the said transaction, and that his reputation may not unjustly suffer by a proceeding which publick Justice has rendered necessary, the Clerk deliver him a Copy of this Entry.

Ordered, that the Commissary of Provisions, deliver to Captain Richard Taylor of the Schooner Hornet four hundred pounds of Bacon, and one Bushel of Salt for the use of the said Schooner.

Francis Aimar de Monteil, Knight of the Royal and Military order of St Louis, Brigadier in the Navy, First Captain in Command of the Ships of War Station'd at the French Islands has the Honor of claiming from His Excellency Admiral Gayton, the Schooner Lady Caroline, taken three days ago at the entrance of St Nicholas Mole, as will appear in the annex'd declaration, within a Mile of the Shore and in Sight of the Renommée which was then getting ready for Sea.

He hoist'd the French Colours several times and Slip'd his Cable useing his best endeavours to get out of the Bay, in order to Demand the above-mention'd Schooner and Cargo.

The Chevr de Monteil not being able to speak the English Frigate, she being a little afterwards at some distance from the Coast, judging that he had a right to claim a Capture made within Gun Shot at the Point under the Colours at the Mole has not lost a Moment, & the necessity of the case was such, that he would not dispatch to His Excellency the Officer of the Sloop of War who went out with him, but thought it most proper to execute such an important Commission himself.

He hath already set forth his motives in his Letter (which are found'd from the good understanding subsisting between the two Courts) that the Sloop that went before the Squirrel pass'd the bounds of the Treaty, and violat'd the Laws of Nations & ought to have relinquish'd his pursuit the People of the Schooner were so near the Shore, that they came with great ease to make Depositions of the Act, to a Town; where all British Subjects trade unmolest'd.

The Chevr de Monteil being persuaded that the Captain of the Squirrel, or the Admiral would deliver up said Schooner, has brought down some French Sailors, who were delivered to him at the Mole, to bring her back, and altho' he knew the little Vessel, with which he came in, he prefer'd to follow her at an easy Sail to ask the Restitution with that Defference which is due between the Officers of both Monarchs.

Whether His Excellency Admiral Gayton immediately consents to this Restitution (provid'd that the Oaths of the People belonging to the Squirrel who have brought said Schooner down here, agree with the Tenor of the above) whether she is not sent back, but to the end of being Deposit'd in the care of Monsr L'Comte Dennery.

The Chevr de Monteil begs that Admiral Gayton replies in writeing to this Memorial as it is his indispensable Duty to send a Voucher to the Court of France, of his having done himself the Honor of addressing Admiral Gayton, and of sending him a Duplicate of the Declaration of the Master of said Schooner, and by his desire, and has set forth his reasons for having made the demand — He must once more repeat the necessity of an answer (which he hopes to receive) to the end that if the affair is not determin'd here in its Origin, the French Ambassador at the Court of Great Britain; shall be able to treat upon the Subject there.
And it is in this expectation that the Chevr de Monteil was satisfied to do nothing else but to follow the Schooner here confiding in the mutual proceedings of his Excellency the Admiral Gayton

(Sign'd) The Chevr de Monteil

From onboard the Renommée, at Jamaica 17th September 1776.

P S In handing the above Memorial to Admiral Gayton, I beg that he will take Notice, that the word Protection, is only meant to imply Assylum, the Sense I use it.

I am Satisfied that his Excellency leave the matter in dispute concerning the said Schooner which I have claim'd in the name of Monsr L'Comte Dennery Commander in Chief of St Domingo, to be Decided by the two Courts, and to please to acquaint the same to the said Comte Dennery

BRIGADIER GENERAL BENEDICT ARNOLD TO MAJOR GENERAL HORATIO GATES

[Extract] Isle La Motte September 18th 1776.

Dear General, My last was the 16th Inst. by Ensign [Clemens] Botsford; the next Morning, Lieut: Whitcomb and his Party returned from St John's with Two Prisoners, Ensign Saunders, and a Corporal of the 29th Regiment, who were taken between St John's, and La Prairie. The Ensign says there is a Ship on the Stocks at St John's, designed to mount Twenty Guns, Nine, and Twelve Pounders, several Schooners, and small Craft; but seems ignorant, as to their Size and Numbers. He says there was talk of crossing the Lake soon; but in general it was thought they would not cross this Fall. Both him and the Corporal seem cautious of giving any Information . . .

I am inclined to think, on comparing all Accounts, that the Enemy will soon have a considerable naval Force. The Ship, the Ensign says, will be completed in a fortnight, and is to be manned from the Navy in the River.

I make no Doubt of their soon paying us a Visit, and intend first fair Wind to come up as high as Ile Valcour, where tis a good Harbour, and where we shall have the Advantage over the Enemy; and if they are too many for us, we can retire. I believe their Army crossing the Lake, depends entirely on the Advice they may receive from New York.

I beg that at least One Hundred good Seamen maybe sent me as soon as possible. We have a wretched motley Crew, in the Fleet; the Marines, the Refuse of every Regiment, and the Seamen, few of them, ever wet with salt Water. We are upwards of One Hundred Men short of our Complement.

Ensign [John] Bush arrived here last Night, and brought four Beeves, which is all the fresh Provision we have received. By him I send up Lieutenant Whitcomb and his Prisoners. I could wish to have a Six or Eight Inch Howitz mounted in Two or three of the Gallies. If they are arrived, they will be of infinitely more Service than Guns especially to attack a large Vessel. If the Grape and Chain Shot is arrived, I beg it may be sent with some good slow Match, and three Cables and Anchors. We have not a spare one in the Fleet, and the blowing Season is now coming on.

There is a small brass Royal at Ty, which with a hundred Shells and a Gunner, may be very useful to us . . .

Mr. Hobart, from the committee to report the most proper disposition of the sloop Montgomerie, delivered in their report, which was read. That part of the report which respects the condemnation and sale of prizes was agreed to, Thereupon,

Resolved, That a letter be immediately written to Mr. Joseph Hallett, the agent for prizes, requesting him forthwith to repair to New-England, and take the most speedy and effectual measures for the condemnation and sale of such vessels and goods as Capt. [William] Rogers the commander of the said sloop may have brought into that country.

The said committee also reported a draft of such letter to Joseph Hallett as above mentioned, which was read and approved of, and is in the words following, to wit:

Sir — The Convention having received information that Capt. Rogers of the sloop Montgomerie, has left the south side of Long island, and is arrived at Norwalk, in Connecticut, with some of his prize goods, and that some vessels which he brought off with him are arrived in other parts of New-England, it is their desire that you repair forthwith to that country, and take the most speedy and effectual measures for the condemnation and sale of such vessels and goods; which I am directed to signify to you, and am, sir [&c.]

To Joseph Hallett, Esqr.

Ordered, That a copy thereof be engrossed, and signed by the President, and transmitted.

That part of the said report which relates to the sale of the sloop Montgomerie, was recommitted to Mr. Wm. Smith, General Ten Broeck, Mr. [William] Duer and Mr. Bancker, Mr. Hobart being excused on his earnest request and reasons assigned.

Vice Admiral Richard Lord Howe to Philip Stephens

Duplicate Number 8.

Sir, By the Halifax Packet, sent to make known the Progress of the Army since the Date of the General’s last Dispatches, I have Opportunity to acknowledge the Receipt of your Letter of the 25th of June by the Galatea, giving Advice of the Reinforcement ordered for the Fleet and Army, and enclosed with the Duplicates of Letters forwarded by the Captain of the Diamond, who is charged with the Conduct of that Reinforcement.

I have the Satisfaction of being able to inform their Lordships that a Disposition having been made for landing the Army on York Island on the Morning of the 15th, the Captains [Hyde] Parker [Jr.] and [James] Wallace, whose Abilities and distinguished Resolution point them out for the most important Services; with the Captains [Charles] Hudson, [Robert] Fanshawe and [Andrew Snape] Hamond, Officers of great Merit, passed the Fire of the Town of New York with their Ships on the Evening of the 13th, to wait off Bushwyck Creek, opposite to Kepp's Bay where the Landing was proposed to be forced, in the East River. The Flat Boats, Batteaux and Gallies under the Direction of Commodore Hotham, but arranged in Divisions commanded by the Captains [George] Vandeput, [Benjamin] Caldwell, [Archibald] Dickson, [Toby] Caulfield, [Charles] Phipps and [Anthony] Molloy, and the Lieutenant [John] Howorth of the Eagle; assisted by the Lieutenants [John] Henry, [Anthony] Parrey, [Henry] Chads and Bristow, Agents of Transports; were manned from the two-decked Ships and Transports as on the former Debarkation, and sent up at different times under the Shore of Long Island, undiscovered by the Enemy on the opposite Side.

Six Transports, which Messrs Robt Roughhead, Richd Fowler, John Randall, Tho: Brown, — Chambers and — Stuart, the different Masters, making a voluntary Offer of their Services engaged to conduct, were sent up the East River on the 14th, under the Direction of the Agent Lieutenant [John] Knowles, and Lieutenant Laird whose active Assistance in the most fatiguing Parts of the Debarkation-Duty, the Conveyance of the Artillery, has marked his Zeal for the King's Service in a particular Manner. They were appointed to take in a number of Troops from Bushwyck Creek for facilitating the more timely Support of the first Division embarked in the Flat Boats at New Town Creek.

The Pilots declining on Account of the Strength of the Tide, to take Charge of the particular covering Ships that were intended to be placed toward Hell Gate, for countenancing the Appearance of a Descent on that Part of the Coast, all the five were placed in Kepp's Bay on the Morning of the 15th and having by the Effect of their well-directed Fire compelled the Rebels to quit their Intrenchments upon the Shore, the Debarkation was made without further Opposition.

The General's public Acknowledgments addressed to the Commodore and the several Officers and Seamen employed, will be the best Testimony I can render of their meritorious Services on this Occasion.

In order to facilitate the Operations of the Army in the East River, another Detachment of the Ships of War was appointed, by the General's desire, to proceed up the North River; to give Jealousy to the Enemy on this Side. The Renown, Captain [Francis] Banks, with the Captains [Henry] Davis and [Thomas] Wilkinson in the Repulse and Pearl, were ordered for that Purpose. They passed the Enemy's Batteries without material Injury early on the 15th to a Station about six Miles to the Northward of the Town. On the ensuing Night the Enemy directed four Fire-Vessels in Succession against them; But with no other Effect than that of obliging the Ships to move their Stations, the Repulse excepted. The Renown returned to this Side the Town: But the two Frigates remain still in the North River, with the Tryal Armed Schooner, to strengthen the left Flank of the Army extending to the Western Shore of York Island, as Circumstances will admit.

Since my last No 6, of which a Duplicate is herewith enclosed, the Carysfort, Pearl and Tartar from the St Lawrence are arrived, and yet remain here, to be employed as the Service may require.

The Galatea being the first Frigate which the State of Things, with respect to the Operations of the Army, has allowed me to detach for a Continuance to the Southward, Captain [Thomas] Jordan is under Orders to proceed off the Island of Bermudas; in quest of several small Privateers of the Enemy ranging the Stream of that Island to intercept the West India Trade. Concluding the Nautilus will be in great Want of Naval Stores as well as provisions and probably Repairs, I have sent Orders by the Galatea for Captain [John] Collins (if still at Bermuda) to join me at this Port.

In the Duplicate of your letter of the 23d of June by the Galatea, on the Subject of the large Supplies [of] Naval Stores provided, You mention, Sir, their Lordships Reliance that the Ships will be kept in constant Employment. I conceive from thence, that they will expect to receive some Report from me touching suitable Disposition of the Ships for effecting the intended Restraint upon the Trade of the Rebellious Colonies, and for suppressing the Armed Force fitted out from the different Ports along the Coasts of this extensive Continent.

It is with great Concern that I am still unable to make a satisfactory Return to their Lordships probable Expectations therein. But I flatter myself that my Deficiency will be deemed less singular, when they are pleased to consider the full Employment which a much inferior Land Force afforded for the Fleets that attended their Operations in the last War, Tho' I conceive, it is not from the Numbers in either Profession that a true Judgment of the Proportion they should bear to each other is to be deduced, But from the Nature of the Service to be carried on; the Country, and Communication. Seeing that from the Ships must be provided practised Men to be employed in Boats, for landing with the requisite Expedition, and transporting, the Troops, Baggage and Artillery; And, where Water Carriage is so much in Question, the Means also of intercepting the Enemy's Supplies: Besides the Protection of the Transports, on which the Existence of the Army has depended, so far as the Operations of this Campaign have hitherto advanced.

I shall dispose of the Supernumerary Men their Lordships have ordered out in the Hulks and Frigates, according to their Qualifications. And as Reference is had in your said Duplicate to the Provisions in the prohibitory Act amongst the Expedients their Lordships have in Contemplation for keeping the Complements of the Ships complete; I beg leave to observe of the Men to be so procured, that the Europeans are unquestionably the most preferable; And, from all I have yet experienced, the only Men on whom any Dependence is to be placed. The Prejudices the native Americans have imbibed, disqualify them for every Trust. And the extravagant Advantages with which they tempt the European Seamen to desert, render their Continuance dangerous in the Ships. Wherefore, I presume to think no Aid can be derived from the Capture of American Ships at the present Crisis; Except in the Exchange of their Crews with the British Seamen now Prisoners in the different Colonies, upon the Plan submitted in my last Letter.

The Want of a sufficient Naval Force for the various Occasions conse-quient of the Movement of the Army, obliges me still to detain the Frigates on that Account. The State of many of them, and of the two-decked Ships is such, as will require their being sent to Europe or different Ports in the West Indies, when the Operations of the Army become more confined during the Winter Season: That they may be made ready with most Dispatch, for cruising Service in the Spring. I may then be able to keep them fitted and employed in more regular Succession. But as no Port on the Continent is yet open for supplying the Cruising Ships with Water to the Southward, I must plead for their Lordships favorable Construction of my Endeavors to use the Means with which I have the Honor of being entrusted, to the best Advantage, according to the Exigencies of this complicated Service.

Due Attention will be given to the Contents of the Abstract of Lord George Germain's Letter to the Generals Carleton and Howe, respecting the Dismission of the Transports, as they can be spared. I flatter myself his Lordship will be satisfied from his subsequent Knowledge of the actual State of the Operations here, that no Want of Regard has yet been shewn to that highly interesting Consideration.

I have only to trouble you further as of immediate Consequence, with Relation to that Paragraph in your Duplicate aforesaid, concerning the Supply of Ordnance-Stores.

The Store-Ships referred to in Mr. [John] Boddington's Letter of the 9th of June, contained Articles suited principally to the small Armed Vessels and Frigates of the lower Class; But had neither Powder, Ball, or Cartridge, in any adequate Quantity for the Ships of superior Rates. Wherefore, but for the Ball the Enemy have left in and near the Town of New York, whereof the Numbers of 12 and 18 lb have not yet been ascertained, the Service of the thirty two and forty Gun-Ships would have been greatly confined. I have added a State of the Expence of Ordnance Stores in the Ships here, as a Rule for proportioning the future Supplies, which I am to request, thro' their Lordships Interposition, to have sent out by such safe and expeditious Conveyance, as the Importance of the Concern may induce.
Proper Supplies of Medicines for the Fleet will be equally necessary; the Surgeons having no Means of providing Medicines in this Country.

I learnt on my Arrival here, from the Accounts Captain [Charles] Douglas transmitted to Vice Admiral Shuldham, the Progress of the Naval Operations under his Direction; And the Success of His Majesty's Arms in the Province of Canada. By the Carysfort and Pearl he let me know his subsequent proceedings to the 4th and 12th of last Month, as contained in the Copies of his Letters herewith enclosed. My Letter of the 13th of June, of
We the Subscribers, do each of us severally for ourselves, profess, testify and declare, before God and the world, that we very believe that the war, resistance and opposition in which the United American Colonies are now engaged, against the fleets and armies of Great-Britain, is on the part of the said Colonies, just and necessary. And we do hereby severally promise, covenant and engage, to and with every person of this Colony, who has or shall subscribe this declaration, or another of the same tenor and words, that we will not, during the said war, directly or indirectly, in any way, aid, abet or assist, any of the naval or land forces of the King of Great-Britain, or any employed by him, or supply them with any kind of provisions, military or naval stores, or hold any correspondence with, or communicate any intelligence to any of the officers, soldiers, or mariners belonging to the said army or navy, or enlist, or procure any others to enlist into the land or sea-service of Great-Britain, or take up or bear arms against this or either of the United Colonies, or undertake to pilot any of the vessels belonging to the said navy, or in any other way aid or assist them: But on the contrary, according to our best power and abilities, will defend by arms the United American Colonies, and every part thereof, against every hostile attempt of the fleets and armies in the service of Great-Britain, or any of them, according to the requirements and directions of the laws of this Colony that now are, or may hereafter be provided, for the regulation of the militia thereof.
which I likewise trouble You with a Copy, will have informed Captain Douglas of my general Ideas in respect to the Appointment of the Ships under his Order at that Time. I have not yet had an Opportunity to forward any more particular Instructions to him in consequence of his later Informations. The necessary Preparatives for the Service on the Lakes will have detained him in the St Lawrence whilst the Season ad[mits] of his Stay there. And his diligent Attention to that Service will, I make no Doubt, engage further Testim[ony] of their Lordships indulgent Approbation.

To the other Papers enclosed, I have added [a] State of the Disposition of the Ships;² And am, With great Consideration, Sir [&c.]

MINUTES OF THE PENNSYLVANIA COUNCIL OF SAFETY¹

In Council of Safety,

[Philadelphia] September 18th, 1776.

An order was drawn on Mr. Nesbitt, in favour of Arthur Donaldson, for £ 300, on acco’t of the floating Battery building by him, to be charged to his acco’t.

Mr. Nesbitt was directed to pay Wm. Perkins £ 3 18 1, for Blacksmith Work, done on board the Gallies.

Pennsylvania Gazette, WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 18, 1776

Philadelphia, Sept. 18.

On Friday last arrived here from Martinico, the Continental ship of war the Reprisal, Lambert Weeks, Esq; Commander. On board of said ship came passengers several French Officers, who we hear are strongly recom-mended to the Honourable the Congress by the Governor of Martinico. One of them it is said is an accomplished Engineer.¹

Since our last a vessel arrived in this port with 2000 bushels of salt. The whole of it was immediately bought up by a respectable merchant of this city, who is now selling it out in small quantities, at a very moderate advance, for the benefit of the public.

Yesterday the Continental brig of war Andrew Doria, Captain Biddle, returned here from a cruize. We hear she has taken four prizes, viz. a ship and a brig, from Virginia, a [brig] from North Carolina; and a brig from Barbados for Newfoundland, which were ordered for any port they could get in to the Eastward.²

1. The engineer was Jean Louis Imbert, and the other French officers were: Marquis de Malmedy, Christian de Colerus and Jean Louis de Vernejous. Ford, ed., JCC, V, 783–84.
2. For names of Biddle’s prizes see Pennsylvania Journal, Wednesday, September 18, 1776.

SAMUEL PURVIANCE, JR. TO JOHN ADAMS

Sir Baltimore 18 Septr 1776

I hope youle excuse the Liberty of this Adress from a Stanger, which I presume to take on the Strength of my Brothers acquaintance with you, And he at present is from home. —

The Bearer John Sterrit Esqr my good Freind & Neighbr is Jointly with myself & some other Freinds Interested in the Privateer Enterprize of this Port, Capt [James] Campbell[1], who has sent in a Valuable Prize to Dartmouth in N.E, but as appears from the Prize Masters Letter to One of the Owners which Mr Sterrit will shew you, Capt Campbell neglected to put a Copy of his Comn on board, & besides had taken all the Prizes Papers on board his own Vesl — The Reason of this may easily be collected from the Prize Masters Letter, as Capt Campbell intendd to follow the Prize immediately to the Eastern Shore of this State. — From the Aforementiond Circumstances theres a possibility of some difficulties arising abt the Prize, wh The Owners woud wish to take every rational Means of obviating — For this purpose we have dispatchd an Express after my Bror who yesterday set out for Chincotegue where we have heard of Captn Campbels Arrivl with several other Prizes; to procure the Prizes Papers to be sent after Mr Sterrit who is directed to take a Copy of Captn Campbels Commission from Congs where it was taken out. — Shoud there be any Necessity for your Assistance in getting this done, I hope youle be so obliging as to render it. — But what I woud principally request of you is, the favr of a Line to some of your Freinds at Boston who can serve Mr Sterrit shoud our Claim be litigated — Of several Correspondents wh My Bror & I had there, I have no Certainty where any of them are save Mr Black who is at Philada —

I have taken the Liberty of writing by Mr Sterrit to yr Freind Mr Saml Adams with whom I had the pleasure of Corresponding some times, but suppose his being there is uncertain.

I cannot introduce to yo a more firm Freind to his Country than Mr Sterrit, who woud gladly have Marchd as a Volunteer to New York, coud he have engaged the whole or the Majority of the Indepent Company of this Place whereof he is Captn to have gone with. His Brother a Youth of 19 Years who is now a Prisoner at Long Isld Commanded the Company whereof he is First Lieutt with remarkable Bravery — He is One of the most hopeful Young men I know. —

Mr Sterrit is accompanied by Capt Nathl Smith [captain of the] First Artillery Company of this State, And Comdr of Fort Whetstone on this River, an excellent Officer, and worthy Man. He told me he was formerly of yr Acquaintance. He is certainly no Dishonor to your Country from whence he came. Pardon this freedom & believe me to be with great Respect for your Person & Character [&c.]

On board His Britanick Majestys Ship the Antelope in Port Royal Harbor Jamaica

Sir:/

September 18th 1776

I have the honor of your Letter by Monsr Desfarge de la Valtiere, your Second Lieutenant concerning a Vessel belonging to His Britanick Majestys Rebellious Colonies in North America which has been Seiz'd by his Ship the Squirrel

I beg leave to acquaint you that after the repeated assurances which have been given from all the Foreign Powers to His Britanick Majesty of not Interfering or affording protection to His Rebellious Subjects, I am greatly surpriz'd at the part of your Letter wherein you say "You flatter yourself, that I shall think it very natural for the Schooner to avail herself of the protection afford'd her by your Court" which is very contrary to the assurances subsisting between the two Crowns

In respect to this Vessel when His Britanick Majestys Ship saw her, she was a considerable distance from the Island of Hispaniola and was chased so near it before she was taken

I have always given particular directions to the Captains of the Kings Ships under my Command never to approach near any French or Spanish Possessions, but in cases of the greatest urgency (and in those Cases it has been Customary for his Most Christian Majestys Ships to come into our Ports, where they have always met with every Assistance required it being my most sanguin wish for the good understanding at present Subsisting between the two Nations to be maintain'd]

As this Rebel Schooner has been Seiz'd in consequence of His Britanick Majestys directions and sent into an English Port, 'tis not in my Power to deliver her up, and as 'tis a National matter must be settl'd by our respective Ministers, which I shall take the earliest oppertunity of laying before mine for my Kings information. I have the Honor to be with the greatest respect and esteem [&c.]

Major General Horatio Gates to Brigadier General Benedict Arnold

[Extract]

Ticonderoga September 19th 1776.

... I am much pleased with the Disposition you have made with the Fleet confident it is the Best. General Waterbury is indefatigable in fitting the Gallies; and if he is not detained for want of proper Rope for Breechings, I see nothing can stop them, more than a Week at most. This will be deliver'd you by Captain [David] Hawley: General Waterbury thinks you will immediately appoint him to the Command of the Royal Savage; he takes all his Seamen with him; Mr. Avery writes you by this Conveyance and explains the Article relative to Provisions; sufficient of both Fresh and Salt, shall be sent you by the Gallies. ...

Journal of the New York Provincial Convention

Die Jovis, 9 HO. A. M.

[Fishkill] Septr. 19th, 1776.

Capt. Samuel Tudor, one of the superintendents for building the Continental ships at Poughkeepsie, attending, delivered in a letter from General Schuyler, dated Albany Sept. 17th, 1776, and directed to Messrs. Van Zandt, Tudor and the other gentlemen to whose care the building of the frigates at Poughkeepsie is committed, wherein the General informs those gentlemen that he received a line by express from General Gates informing him that he is in the greatest distress for the cordage mentioned in a list enclosed in the said letter for the use of the row gallies, which are the greatest strength of our naval force on the lake.

Capt. Tudor requested the opinion and advice of the Convention on this subject.

Resolved, That as a naval strength on Lake Champlain is an object of the utmost importance, and will greatly contribute to the security of America, that the agents for building the ships at Poughkeepsie be directed to supply such and so much cordage as General Schuyler requires, and that this Convention will justify them to the Honourable the Continental Congress.

Diary of Frederick Mackenzie

[New York] 19th Sept. A great number of flat boats were brought up to Greenwich on the North River last night.

The Rowbuck of 44 Guns came down the North River this Evening, and in passing Paulus hook, was fired at from thence — only 3 shot struck her, but she received no material damage. The other ships remain up the River in a line with our advanced post.

CAPTAIN WILLIAM ANTHONY HALSTED, R.N., TO PHILIP STEPHENS

Jersey, Hospital Ship, off Red Hook near New York.

Sir,

You will be pleased to acquaint my Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty, That I arrived with his Majesty's Ship under my command at Halifax the 7th July, in a distressed situation after a tedious and fatiguing passage of nine Weeks.

We parted Company with the Commodore the 28th of May in a heavy Gale of Wind westerly, and we by our account about 330 Leagues to the Westward of the Start. the Ship complaining much in all her Upper works fore and aft, but more particularly forward; was under the necessity of fraping her in four or five different places, two across the Forecastle the others in the Waist. The weakness of the Ship forward encreased and became very alarming so that it was absolutely necessary something should be done to relieve her. On the 29th in the Morning I consulted with my Officers and it was unanimously agreed to cut away the Bower Anchors, and to stave and throw overboard the flat bottom'd Boat. after which we experienced a most sensible alteration in the Ship for the better, for before, every lee Lurch that she took we had the disagreeable prospect, of seeing the upper Works of the Forecastle carried away with the Anchors, And had the Gale continued twenty four hours longer, I will venture to assert that we should not have had a Mast standing, for both main and fore Channel Bolts work'd out in such a manner, that I myself hauled one of the main ones out by hand. — The 31st we join'd the Commodore, at which time I was much indisposed, but communicated to him by Letter the state and Condition of the Ship, and at the same time enclosed a Copy of the visible defects taken by the Carpenter the Day before agreeable to my Order. — He ordered his Carpenter on board, with his Mate, and with the Carpenter of the Jersey to survey the Ship, A Copy of which Survey, with a Copy of that taken by the Carpenter of said Ship 30th May, I have delivered in to Lord Howe. — We parted Company again the 3d of July in a very thick Fogg and a strong Gale, and from the Guns that were fired supposed the Commodore had brought too with his Head to the Eastward, we being at Noon of that Day by our reckoning 30 Leagues to the westward of Cape Sambro, at half past 7 that evening it cleared up and only one Sail in sight. The next Morning I opened my Rendezvous and found it to be for Halifax. I accordingly made the best of my way, and arrived there as before mentioned where. I stayed twenty Days to refit If I may be allowed to give it that appellation. — We sailed from thence the 27th and Anchored without the Barr off Sandy Hook the 14th of August in the Evening, and on Saturday forenoon joined Lord Howe off Ståten Island. — This is the first opportunity I have had of transmitting to their Lordships any account of the Ship since my leaving England, but do suppose his Lordship may have made some mention of her to the Board of Admiralty by a Pacquet which sailed from Sandy Hook a-fortnight since and that so suddenly that she was under way in two Hours. after I received the intelligence and the Jersey at that time laying four Leagues distance from her, So that I flatter myself their Lordships will not think me guilty of any omission. – I am with all due respect, Sir [&c.]

Wm Anthy Halsted.

Commissioners for Restoring Peace to Lord George Germain

My Lord New York 20th Septr. 1776

We are sorry to inform your Lordship that the Infatuation and Perseverance of the People and their Leaders, have hitherto afforded no opportunity for the effectual Operation of the Civil Commission with which His Majesty hath been pleased to charge us:

The Determination of the Congress to discourage amongst the Colonists every Idea of Reconciliation with Great Britain, except upon their lately assumed Ground of Independency and their Assertions, insidiously circulated that the Objects of Our Commission were confined to the declaring of Peace and the granting of Pardons, as specified in the Prohibitory Act, have induced us to publish a Declaration of which the inclosed is a Copy.
It is calculated Your Lordship will observe, to apprise the Colonies, that the Effect of the King's most gracious Intentions towards them, is obstructed by those in whose hands they have entrusted their Government, and that therefore it now becomes them to turn Arbitrators of their own Interests and Happiness.

As this Declaration is published while the Rebel Army as well as the Province is labouring under Disappointment and many Sufferings, occasioned by the rapid and successful Progress of His Majesty's Forces, we are not without hopes of its producing some Good, although we do not yet perceive any Symptom of that Disposition to Allegiance and Submission to legal Government which would justify us in expecting to see the publick Tranquillity soon restored. We have the honor to be My Lord &c

The Renown returned back again to the fleet, and though she passed close in with New York shore, yet as there was very little wind, above 40 shot from our battery were fired at her, many of which took effect. She lay all next day upon a careen to repair.

Sir [Philadelphia] September 20th 1776

The Sloop Independence of which you are appointed Commander being now laden, compleatly fitted, armed, victualled and manned, You are to proceed with said Sloop and Cargo for the Island of Martinico putting into Fort Royal or St Piers just as the winds and other circumstances point out for the best. On your arrival at either place you must enquire for Mr William Bingham our resident in that Island, should he be at the place where you put in, deliver to him the sundry dispatches now committed to your care, should he be at any other part of the Island you will send an express to inform him of your arrival, & that you have such dispatches which you are directed to deliver into his own hands. He will then repair to you immediately, and you must comply with his Orders by landing the Cargo wherever he may direct, You must also consult with him and be advised by Mr Bingham in all things that respects the Interest or honor of the united states in the concerns of their sloop under your command. If you put into Fort Royal and Mr Bingham is not there, you must wait on the general and inform him you belong to the United States of America, ask the liberty of the Port and protection during your stay there. If you put into St Piers and dont find Mr Bingham wait on the Governor and Intendant observing the same conduct. If Mr Bingham is present he will direct what you are to do on these points. You are to consider the French and all nations but Great Britain as the Friends of these United States and conduct yourself towards them accordingly and during your stay in any French Ports be particularly attentive to the behaviour and prudent conduct of your people. You are to receive on board the Sloop any arms, ammunition or other goods Mr Bingham may order receive from him also his dispatches and then proceed back for this Port. You are to consider that we are anxious for you to make an expeditious voyage, notwithstanding which as you are well armed and manned and the Sloop sails fast, we do not forbid you chasing such Vessels either going or coming as you think may become your Prizes for this purpose you have a Commission, a book containing the Resolves of Congress respecting Prizes which you must strictly conform to, and a list of the Continental agents to some of whom you must Address any Prize you take. Should Mr Bingham find it necessary to detain you any time, and he and you should think it adviseable to make a short cruize during that Time, we do not forbid it, but take care not to fall into the enemys hands. It is an Object with us that you should pick up and bring home with you as many Seamen as possible, the more the better, and you may enter all you get on the same pay and terms as those you carry out. —

You must sling our dispatches to Mr Bingham, and on your return, his to us, with a weight sufficient to sink them and always keep them ready to be thrown over board should you unfortunately be taken for you must not let these Packets fall into the enemies hands on any Account. You are to afford reliefe or assistance to any of the subjects of the united States that want it if in your power, unless proof should Appear that they are inimical to their Country and its cause. You are authorized to take, burn, Sink or destroy the Vessels and property of all British Subjects except those residing in Bermuda and New Providence, but we recommend humanity and politeness to be inseparable companions of the officers in the Continental Service. It is necessary you should be careful of the Sloop her materials and Stores, diligent in the discharge of your own duty and careful to make your officers and men perform theirs — Strict in discipline but attentive to render the service agreeable to all concerned in it.

We expect you will be frugal in expenses and on your return furnish us with duplicates of your Logbook and Journal giving also a Satisfactory Account of your voyage, and when you approach this Coast, keep a good look out as you may expect many of the enemies Ships will be Cruizing for plunder. If you cannot get in here you may push for any of the Inlets or other place of safety the nearer to this the better. We are Sir [&c.]

CUMBERLAND DUGAN TO THE MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY

Gentlemen. Baltimore 20th September 1776.

Having a large quantity of bread belonging to the publick on hand already bak'd, and a vessel to dispose of, that we think must answer your purpose, thought it most proper to advise you thereof. She is a large schooner that will carry about eleven hundred barrels flour, completely found ready for sea, a good sailer & as tight as a bottle, the price we ask for her is £850 — that if she will any way suite you beg you'll advise me immediately for my government, as if she does not answer you, hope very shortly to dispose of her to some people of this place; dare say the quantity of bread we have baked belonging to you, together with what Mr Spear has baked for you will intirely load this vessel, and if immediately sent out must certainly come to a good market almost any where. I myself am just now returned from Boston where I have been on a visitt to my friends there, where I found both bread & flour very scarce and high, indeed scarcely any to be got, not one barrel of sweet flour was to be had in the whole town of Boston and bad as it was sold quick’ at 4 Dollars p cwt: I think this Vessel of ours loaded with a cargo of bread in bulk to go to Boston must answer well with a little flour, and for return could purchase West India goods of any Kind very low, as they are falling still lo[w]er every day from the great quantities of prizes that are constantly coming in to them. I was myself for several days at there public sales of prize cargo, where I saw great quantities of sugars, spirit rum, Coffee, cotton, &c. sell very low indeed or if them articles would not answer it appears to me there might a great deal of money be made on a cargo of salt. I see it sell in Boston at 4/ p bushel by the quantity, and it was thought by most people there it would be lower, as a great many of their vessels were gone after salt, thinking it will be scarce and dear which is thought there will not be the case, that I realy believe salt may be bought as low in Boston as any where we can safely send for it, as there is many circumstances in favour of a vessels getting there safe. from there good forts on Nantaskett and other heights near which no Kings ships will dare to come, and their coast is so much of an iron bound one (so called) that no ship will dare to lay off there this time of the year. This vessel of ours will carry about four or five thousand bushells of salt, which would be a very handsome back freight, and she is extreamly well adapted for the purpose of carrying salt being a very boyent vessel that will not load too deep. I hope Gent you wo’nt imagine I intend to dictate to you what should be done in these matters, as you undoubtedly do know much better than I Can think or imagine; but several of my friends here advised me to write to this purpose, what I knew of these matters, which I hope you wo’nt take amiss, as so great a quantity of bread being ready and much in our way, want to make more room & a get it out while they bay is clear. Your favouring me with a line on this subject immediately will very much oblige me, and if I can in any wise serve you in loading this vessel shall be extreamly glad of the favour, in which hope I act to your approbation in every respect. ABIGAIL ADAMS TO JOHN ADAMS

[Extract] [Braintree] Sepbr. 21 1774 [i.e. 1776]

... The Portsmouth Ship has been waiting for Guns these six weeks. Had an uncle of ours and several other merchants I could mention had the care of her I dare say she would have long ago had Guns. Private adventurers can get Guns even for large Briggs. — The Boston formerly the Zechary Bayly which was taken as a prize and bought by private persons has been fitted out, her Guns made and purchased long since the other ought to have said.2

So it is we dream away opportunities by misplacing Business.

MAJOR GENERAL JOSHUA BABCOCK TO GOVERNOR NICHOLAS COOKE\(^1\)

[Extract] Westerly 21st Septr 1776

Sir, We arriv'd at N York 13th current, in Concert with John Collins Esqr waited on General Washington with the other Genl Officers, just after Dinner 3 Frigates & a 40 Gun Ship (as if they meant to attack the City) sail'd up the East River under a gentle Breeze towards Hell-Gate & kept up an incessant Fire, assisted wth the Cannon at Governrs Island: The Batteries from the City return'd the Ships the like Salutation: 3 Men agape, idle Spectators had the Misfortune of being killed by one Cannon Ball, the other Mischief sufferd on our Side was inconsiderable saving the making a few Holes in some of the Buildings; one Shot struck within 6 Foot of Genl Washington, as He was on Horseback riding into the Fort.

At Parting with his Excellency [Washington] Saturday Afternoon 15th Instant [sic 14th] He promised us a Letter to yr Excellency. . . But the Trobles gathering fast from the Landing of the Enemy under the Thunder of their Cannon which was on Sunday Morning 16th [sic 15th] his Excellency from his closest Attention to his Command then found it impracticable. . .

. . . on Sunday-Morning 5 more Frigates saild up the East River, anchor'd near the 4 former (which with Wallace, who was there before, augmented their Number to 10) at the same Time 3 Capital Ships went up the North River, causing a most tremendous Firing, assisted with the Cannon on Governor's Island, discharging to no Purpose against our Batteries, tho' they made a few Holes in some of the Buildings, which Firing was return'd on our Side as well as could be from the Scantiness, in & about the City, of heavy Cannon – The Bulk having been carried to a Hill about 4½ Miles South of Kings Bridge, whereat an impregnable Fortress was begun & well nigh perfected, & which could not be annoyed by the Enemies Ships.

Brigadier General Benedict Arnold to Major General Horatio Gates

Dear General Bay St Amont Sepr 21st 1776

My last was the 18th Inst by Lieut [Benjamin] Whitcomb, the next day at Noon weighed Anchor with the whole Fleet, which Arrived here the same Evening, this is a fine bay, & good Anchorage, two Leagues to the No wd of Cumberland Head, on the West shore, the Liberty was ordered to Cruise off[...] the Isle a La Motte unill 2 oClock, & then Join the Fleet On her return, opposite to the Isle a La Motte, a Frenchman came down, & desired to be taken on board, the Capt Suspected him, & went near the shore with his Boat Stern in, Swivels pointed & match lited, the Frenchman waded near a rod from the Shore, but when he found he could decoy the Boat No further he made a Signal, to the Enemy when three, or four, hundred, Indians, Canadians & Regulars rose up & fired, on the Boat, they wounded three Men, the Boat returned the Fire with their Swivels, & Small Arms, & the Schooner fired several Broad sides of Grape, before they dispersed tho several were seen to fall — On their way down They Discovered a large Party of Savages on the Western Shore, they imagined Two, or three hundred — they have a large Number of light Burch Canoes, with which they can pass us in the night, & in the day Time Secure them in the Bushes, it will be Dangerous sending down, single Boats, I have Sent up the Liberty to Guard the Return Boats & bring down the Medicine, &c the Surgeons can be of no use to us without, Capt [David] Hawle[y] is appointed to the Royal Savage, I must renew my request For more Seamen, & Gunners, there is a plenty of the former in the Army, provided they have liberty of Inlisting, tho it is a bad prescident, this emergency will Justify the measure—

I am greatly at a loss what could have retarded the Gallies so long, I verily believe If we are Attack'd this fall by 'the Enemy, it will be in the Course of a week — or Ten days — the want of those Gallies may decide the Contest against Us —

I am surprised our Intelligence from New York is so imperfect, I hope we shall soon hear the particulars — The Tobacco Papers were delivered me I will endeavour to send them soon The Articles I wrote for in my last. I hope will be Sent if possible. — I have sent up Mr Dunn to Collect the Shot. & other Articles I want, & bring them Down — We had an exceeding hard Gale here the 20th & a prodigious sea.' the Gallies Rode it out beyond my expectation, I have sent Two Boats, to sound round the Island Valcouer, who report, that, it is an exceeding fine, Secure harbour I am determined to go there the first fair Wind, as the fleet will be secure. & we can discover the Enemy If. they Attempt to pass us up the East Bay On the Back of Grand Isle — I make no doubt you will approve of this measure, If. not I will return to any of my former Stations, We are as well prepared for the Enemy, as our Circumstances will Allow, they will never have it in their power to Surprise us — the Men are Daily trained to the Exercise of their Guns, & if Powder was plenty I would, wish to have them fire at a Mark with their Great Guns Often — at present we cannot Afford it — I wish the Workmen could all be employed, on One Gally & finish her first, that Something might be Added to the fleet I cannot help thinking that they are hindering each other, their was all the Materials sufficie[nt] for One when I came away, I hope they will Not mount Twelve pounders. if Eighteens, or Twenty fours, can be procured — I am with great respect & esteem [&c.]

JOURNAL OF THE NEW YORK PROVINCIAL CONVENTION

Die Sabbati, 9 HO. A.M.
[Fishkill] Septr. 21st, 1776.

A letter from Genl. Washington was read and follows, vizt:

Head-Quarters,
Heights of Harlem, Septr. 20th, 1776.

Gentn. — Having reason to believe the enemy will attempt to gall us with their ships of war from the North river as soon as they are ready to open their batteries against the front of our lines, which we expect them to erect with great industry, I beg leave to mention that I think it may be of immense consequence if your Honourable Body will order down some of your fire ships, which may lay just above the obstructions in the river under cover of the guns of Fort Washington, where they will be ready to act in case the ships should attempt to come up.

Hurryed and surrounded with a thousand things, I have only time to add, that I have the honor to be, with great esteem, Gentn. [&c.]

Go. Washington.

On reading the letter of His Excellency General Washington of the 20th instant, requesting this Convention to order down some of their fire ships to lay just above the obstructions in the Hudson's river.

Resolved, That the two fire ships charged by Captain [John] Hazelwood, be immediately despatched to Fort Washington, or near it, And,

Ordered, That Gilbert Livingston, Esqr. or any other member of the committee for obstructing the navigation of Hudson's river who may now be at Poughkeepsie, do immediately despatch the two fire ships prepared and charged by Captain Hazelwood, with proper persons to navigate them under cover of the guns of said fort, and there deliver them to the care of such person as His Excellency Genl. Washington has or shall appoint to take charge of them.

Ordered, That a copy of the above resolution and order be despatched to his Excellency General Washington, and another copy to Gilbert Livingston, Esqr.

A draft of a letter to His Excellency, was read and approved, and is in the words following, to wit:

Sir — The Convention have received your Excellency's letter of Sepr. 20th, and have, in consequence, entered into the enclosed resolution, which I am directed to transmit. We are sorry that it is not in our power to send down more than two fire ships, as they have no more charged in such a manner as to be dependant on.

A committee of correspondence has been established by the Convention, for the purpose of communicating to and receiving intelligence from the army. The express will receive orders to call upon your Excellency daily, and any commands or intelligence which your Excellency may think proper to transmit, will be thankfully received and punctually attended to, by

Your Excellency's [&c.]

By order.

To His Excellency Genl. Washington.

Die Sabbati, 4 ho. P.M. Septr. 21st, 1776.

A letter from Thos. Randall, Esqr. one of the marine committee, dated at Elizabeth Town, the 7th Sepr. was read and filed.

A letter from Thos. Quigley, mate of the privateer Putnam, dated at Cranberry inlet, the fourth instant, was also read and filed.
The petition of the officers and mariners of the said vessel of war, was also read and filed.

It thereby appears that there is a mutiny on board of the said vessel, and the mariners and crew demand their wages and refuse to continue in the said vessels under the command of Capt. Thos. Creiger.

Ordered, That those papers be deferred for consideration.

Resolved, That the secret committee for obstructing the navigation of Hudson's river, be empowered and directed to purchase and impress for the service of this State, any number of vessels not exceeding six, which they shall think best calculated for the purpose of completing the obstructions in Hudson's river opposite Mount Washington; that they cause an appraisement of said vessels to be made by persons under oath, in the most equitable and expeditious manner possible, in order that satisfaction may hereafter be made by this Convention to the owners of such vessels; and it is recommended to the said committee to request the services of Capt. Thomas Greenell in ballasting and navigating, and delivering those vessels to Capt. Cook at Fort Washington.

Resolved, That the said committee be directed to send all the oak plank (which they have in their possession) to Mount Washington, with the utmost despatch.

Resolved, That the superintendents for building the Continental frigates be earnestly requested to send as much of their short oak plank as they possibly can spare, to Fort Washington, with the utmost despatch, and this Convention do engage to justify their conduct in this particular to the Honourable the Continental Congress.

Diary of Frederick Mackenzie

[New York] 20th Sept – [sic 21st] A little after 12 o'Clock last night a most dreadful fire broke out in New York, in three different places in the South, and windward part of the town. The Alarm was soon given, but unfortunately there was a brisk wind at South, which spread the flames with such irresistible rapidity, that notwithstanding every assistance was given which the present circumstances admitted, it was impossible to check its Progress 'till about 11 this day, when by preventing it from crossing the Broad-way at the North part of the town, it was stopped from spreading any further that way, and about 12 it was so far got under that there was no danger of it extending beyond those houses which were then on fire. It broke out first near the Exchange, and burnt all the houses on the West side of Broad Street, almost as far as The City Hall, & from thence all those in Beaver Street, and almost every house on the West side of the town between the Broad way and the North River, as far as The College, amounting in the whole to about 600 houses, besides several Churches, particularly Trinity Church, the principal one in town.
New York Fire.
On its first appearance two Regiments of the 5th brigade went into town, and some time after, a great number of Seamen from the Fleet were sent on shore under proper officers by order of Lord Howe, to give assistance. About daybreak the Brigade of Guards came in from Camp, but from the absence of the regular Firemen, the bad state of the Engines, a want of buckets, and a Scarcity of Water, the efforts of the Troops and Seamen, tho' very great, could not prevent the fire from spreading in the manner it did. The first notice I had of it was from the Sentry at Genl [Francis] Smith's quarters at Mr. [Andrew] Elliot's house, who called me up about 10 Clock and said New York was on fire; on going to the window I observed an immense Column of fire & smoke, and went and called Genl Smith, who said he would follow me into town as soon as possible. I dressed myself immediately and ran into town, a distance of two miles, but when I got there the fire had got to such ahead there seemed to be no hopes of stopping it, and those who were present did little more than look on and lament the misfortune. As soon as buckets & Water could be got, the Seamen and the troops, assisted by some of the Inhabitants did what they could to arrest its progress, but the fresh wind, and the combustible nature of the materials of which almost all the houses were built, rendered all their efforts vain.

From a variety of circumstances which occurred it is beyond a doubt that the town was designedly set on fire, either by some of those fellows who concealed themselves in it since the 15th Instant, or by some Villains left behind for the purpose. Some of them were caught by the Soldiers in the very act of setting fire to the inside of empty houses at a distance from the fire; many were detected with matches and combustibles under their Clothes, and combustibles were found in several houses. One Villain who abused and cut a woman who was employed in bringing water to the Engines, and who was found cutting the handles of the fire buckets, was hung up by the heels on the spot by the Seamen. One or two others who were found in houses with fire brands in their hands were put to death by the enraged Soldiery and thrown into the flames. There is no doubt however that the flames were communicated to several houses by means of the burning flakes of the Shingles, which being light, were carried by the wind to some distance and falling on the roofs of houses covered with Shingles, (which is most generally the case at New York,) and whose Inhabitants were either absent or inattentive, kindled the fire anew. The Trinity Church, a very handsome, ancient building, was perceived to be on fire long before the fire reached the adjacent houses, and as it stood at some distance from any house, little doubt remained that it was set on fire wilfully.

During the time the Rebels were in possession of the town, many of them were heard to say they would burn it, sooner than it should become a nest for Tories — and several Inhabitants who were most violently attached to the Rebel cause have been heard to declare they would set fire to their own houses sooner than they should be occupied by The King's Troops.

No assistance could be sent from the Army 'till after daybreak, as the General was apprehensive the Rebels had some design of attacking the Army.
It is almost impossible to conceive a Scène of more horror and distress than the above. The Sick, The Aged, Women, and Children, half naked were seen going they knew not where, and taking refuge in houses which were at a distance from the fire, but from whence they were in several instances driven a second and even a third time by the devouring element, and at last in a state of despair laying themselves down on the Common. The terror was increased by the horrid noise of the burning and falling houses, the pulling down of such wooden buildings as served to conduct the fire, (in which the Soldiers & Seamen were particularly active and useful) the rattling of above 100 waggons, sent in from the Army, and which were constantly employed in conveying to the Common such goods and effects as could be saved; — The confused voices of so many men, the Shrieks and cries of the Women and children, the seeing the fire break out unexpectedly in places at a distance, which manifested a design of totally destroying the City, with numberless other circumstances of private misery and distress, made this one of the most tremendous and affecting Scenes I ever beheld.

The appearance of the Trinity Church, when completely in flames was a very grand sight, for the Spire being entirely framed of wood and covered with Shingles, a lofty Pyramid of fire appeared, and as soon as the Shingles were burnt away the frame appeared with every separate piece of timber burning, until the principal timbers were burnt through, when the whole fell with a great noise.

21st [September].—This morning about one o'clock the officer of the watch called me, and gave information of a house in New York being on fire. I immediately went on deck, observed the fire to spread and catch several houses, and saw the fire break out at different parts of the city. Sent several boats on shore to the assistance of the place. Made the signal for all lieutenants, and ordered boats from each ship for the same purpose. It was evident from many circumstances that the city was maliciously set on fire, by the fires breaking out at different places at the same time; from lath wood, split in small slips, tarred and brimstoned, with tow and all manner of combustibles being placed in different parts of the city. Several people were taken up, against whom the proof seemed very plain. These the sailors, soldiers, and mob immediately put to death; many others, perhaps thirty or forty, were put in jail on strong suspicion. This evening the fire is entirely out; but had the wind come to the westward and blown fresh, as it did when it first broke out, the whole city would have been consumed. The loss is not yet accurately ascertained, but I suppose there may be about one-third or one-sixth of the city burned.

JOURNAL OF BENJAMIN BOARDMAN

[Paulus Hook, September] 21st.

At 2 this morning, we were waked by the guards, who informed us that New York was on fire. As the fire began at the South East end of the city, a little East of the grand battery, it was spread by a strong South wind, first on the East River, and then Northward, across the Broad Way, opposite to the Old English Church (If I mistake not the name) from thence it con- sumed all before it, between Broad Way and the North River, near to the college, laying about one third part of the city in ashes [ (I is the opinion of those best acquainted with it) ]; and had not the wind as it veered to the West, died away, the remainder of that nest of vipers would have been destroyed.

This evening a seaman who said he belonged to Providence, that he was taken and obliged to fight against his countrymen on board the Roebuck, made his escape by swimming from New York to this place — he informed that the men on board the Roebuck were very sickly, that they had lost 100 since they left the Capes of Virginia. He also gave notice, that preparations had been made to attack this post — that a number of large ships were to come up and endeavour to silence our batteries, while a large body of troops in boats (which we discovered on the opposite shore above us []), and en- deavour to cut off our retreat — that it was to have been executed this morning, but the fire prevented.²

COMMITTEE OF SECRET CORRESPONDENCE OF THE CONTINENTAL CONGRESS TO WILLIAM BINGHAM, MARTINIQUE1

Sir

Philada. Septr. 21st. 1776

Your several letters of the 4th, 15th & 26th August to this Committee have been duly received with the several enclosures and the whole have been laid before the Congress. We can therefore communicate that satisfaction which we dare say it must afford you to know that you have so far obtained the approbation of that august Body
It is not necessary that we shou'd enter into minute reply to the Contents of your letters, therefore we shall only Notice such parts as seem to require it

Capt Wickes's behaviour meets the approbation of his Country & Fortune seems to have had an Eye to his Merit when She Conducted his three Prizes safely in. You made a very proper use of his engagement, by your Question to the General and it is extremly satisfactory that our Prizes may be carried into & Protected in the French Ports, but hitherto the Congress have not thought proper to entrust Blank Commissions beyond Seas, Neither can their Resolve for bringing Prizes into some of these States for Condemnation be dispensed with. These matters are now under Consideration of a Committee & shou'd any alteration take place you shall be informed of it. We are bound to return thanks to His Excellency the General for the information he authorized you to give us, as mentioned in your letter of the 4th. & particularly for his disposition to favour our Commerce in Port & Protect it at Sea and likewise for that Concern he expressed at not having it in his power to assist us with the Arms & Powder we requested. You will therefore, signify to His Excellency that this Committee entertain the warmest sentiments of Esteem & respect for his person & Character, and of Gratitude for His Favourable attention to the Concerns of our much Injured Country, that we request the Continuance of His Friendship and hope during your residence at martinico there will be many opportunities of benifiting by His favourable disposition — particularly in Countenancing you in the purchase & Exportation of Arms, Ammunition & Cloathing —

We are not Surprized that admiral Youngs letter should have altered the Generals Sentiments respecting Convoys, but we esteem much his spirited Answer to the admiral which may probably be productive of some altercation. We like well your proposal for a Constant intercourse by Packets and the Sloop Independence Capt Jno Young is now Sent on that Service in which we hope she will be successful and Continue. more of the like kind shall follow and probably this may be found the best Method of supporting our intercourse* with Europe and as these Vessells are properly Commissioned we cannot see any Impropriety in fitting out Tenders with Copys of their Commissions provided the Commanding officers of those Tenders are really officers belonging to the Vessell whose Commission they bear, but the Prizes must be sent to America for Condemnation (unless the Cargoes are perishable & in such Case if properly Certifyed we suppose it might be best to make Sale of them —

We thank you for Mr. [Richard] Prices Pamphlet² and wish you woud write to Mr Deane & Mr [Thomas] Morris to Contrive you a constant & ample supply of the English, Irish & French News Papers Political Publications &c. We send you by this opportunity The Journals of Congress as farr as Published & the News papers to this time.

We received the Arms & Powder by the Reprisal They came Seasonably & we wish there had been more of them. The Secret Committee will supply you with Funds for the payment for these & more. Since the arrival of Ld Howe & General Howe in the neighbourhood of New York with their Forces, they have been rather too strong for our People to Cope with and Consequently have succeeded in their Enterprizes which however have not been of that Importance that they will probably represent to the World, they have been ten to twelve Weeks with a powerfull fleet & a Numerous Army well provided & appointed with every thing necessary and what have they done,

They have got possession of three small Islands on the Coast of America, these were hardly disputed with them & yet if every Acre of American Territory is to Cost them in the same proportion, the Conquest would ruin all Europe. Our Army are now Collected to a point, and are strongly entrenched on New York Island & at Kingsbridge so that in Fact Mr Howe is Hemmed in as he was at Boston, except that he has more Elbow Room & a powerful Fleet commanding an extensive Inland Navigation. Our Northern Army are strongly Posted at Tyconderoga & expect they will be able to keep Mr Burgoyne from Crossing the Lakes this Campaigne. We are worse off for Woolen Cloathing for our Army than any other matter and you must exert your utmost Industry to buy & send us every thing of that kind you can meet with in Martinico or any of the Neighbouring Islands. We have gone into this detail of our present situation, that you may have a just Idea of it & be able to make proper Representations to the General & Inhabitants of Martinico

We Recommended the French officers that came with Capt Wickes to Congress & the Board of War have provided for them to their satisfaction, on this Subject your remarks have been very proper. officers un-acquainted with our Language cannot be useful therefore we do not wish to encourage such to come amongst us, at the same time Men of Merit & abilities will always meet with suitable encouragement. You must therefore pursue the line you set out in, give general discouragement to those that apply & recommend none but such as the General will pledge his word for and you may even intimate to him that if too many come over the Congress will not know what to do with them.

[Charleston] Saturday the 21st Day of September, 1776

Message from the President by the Clerk of the Legislative Council.

Mr Speaker and Gentlemen,

On considering Captain Lamprieres Letter herewith sent and other Representations respecting the Ship Prosper it was thought expedient at the Time of the late Invasion to apply her Guns to the use of some of the Batteries and put her out of the way of Danger.

In my Opinion it will be most for the Public Advantage to sell her or employ her in Trade, but I think my self not authorized to do so you will therefore Judge in what manner it will be best to dispose of her.

The appointing Commissioners to superintend the naval affairs of this State would I hope place them upon a better Footing than the present—I therefore recommend it as a matter worthy of your attention

John Rutledge

The Navy of England have ever been invincible from no other Cause than the great Encouragement they give their Officers and People and the wise and honourable Footing they are set on. All Prizes taken from their Enemies are divided into Eights in the following manner.

Three Eights to the Captain
One to the Lieutenants master and Officers of Marines, if a Captain
One to the warranted Officers
One to the Petty Officers
And Two to the men before the mast
One of these Two Eights George the Second gave to the Seamen in the year Forty, as an Encouragement.

All Ships of War either King’s Ships or Privateers taken from the Enemy or destroyed the King allows Ten Pounds for each man and Ten Pounds for each Gun the Enemy had on Board.

Captains of the Navy serving under an Admiral gives up one of his Three Eights to that Officer no other Deductions are made whatever.

As to Rank—all Post-Captains rank with Colonels of Horse or Foot in the Land Service Commanders who have not taken Post with Majors and the Lieutenants of the Fleet with Captains of the Army.

To conclude—I humbly offer this Plan for your Perusal and on those Terms shall be ready and proud of the Honour to serve you And am Honourable Gentlemen [&c.]

GOVERNOR CRAISTER GREATHEAD TO VICE ADMIRAL JAMES YOUNG

(Copy) St Christophers 21st September 1776.

Sir, I have received your Letter of the 19th Instant and am extremely sorry to acquaint you, that the Accounts you have had of the dreadfull Disasters which have happened in this Island are too true, for on the 5th Instant about one or two in the Morning a Fire broke out in the Town of Basseterre and from the fury and continuance of its Progress consumed all the Storehouses except one or two, and most valuable Buildings therewith the Provisions and Lumber contained in them and their adjoining yards, being nearly the whole that were for Sale in this Island, and in the Night of the next Day great Mischief was done by Inundations from excessive Rain and a Storm of Wind that blew at the same Time has injured the Canes and Ground Provisions tho' no Buildings were thrown down.

These Calamities which gave great Occasion to apprehend a Famine, induced me to grant my Licence dated the 9th Instant, for two Vessels named therein, to bring Provisions and Lumber from St Eustatius, but limited the Continuance of such Licence to fourteen Days from the Date. I heartily wish the immediate Wants of the Inhabitants may be supplied by this Means.

Your Attention to them under their great Distresses merits their gratefull Acknowledgements, and should they point out to me any Method whereby you may be serviceable I will most readily communicate the same to you.

The Apprehensions of many that an Insurrection was intended from some Fires happening in two or three Estates at the Time the Town was in Flames, occasioned me to write to you the same Day by a hired Vessel to desire, if his Majesty's Service wou'd admit it, you woul'd be so good to Order one of His Majesty's Vessels, to repair with all convenient Dispatch to our Assistance, but as we have heard Nothing of the hired Vessel since I must suppose she was lost in the Storm on her passage to Antigua. I have the honour to be Sir [&c.]

COMMODORE ESEK HOPKINS TO THE CONTINENTAL MARINE COMMITTEE

Since my last I have been to See Governor Trumbull on the business of his Letter to me, a Copy of which you have Inclosed — from there I went to New London which place I left the 19th instant – Captn Hacker is there with the Hampden, he has Graved her and she will be Ready for Sea in a few days but not full mann’d – have Order’d her round to Newport there to join the Alfred who I expect will be Clean’d and ready for the Sea in a Week – The two Frigates here will be ready for Sea in a week or 10 days, but it will be very difficult to mann any of them without you will make the Chance of Prize Money as good as they get in the Privateers, which is one half and large Sums advanc’d to the People before they go to Sea –

I expect Governor Hopkins every day, hope he will bring with him the Commissions for the Officers of the New Ships – The Alfred and Hampden Shall send as soon as possible on the Station you Order’d, and if Governor Hopkins brings no other Orders for the New Frigates I think it will be the best Use they can be put too to attempt to clear the Sound with them as Governor Trumbull advises — as that if effected will give great ease to Supplying our Army near New York —

Since I wrote you there has arrived here seven or eight valuable Prizes Sent in by the Privateers out of this place — and a Brig Captn Biddle's Prize was taken by the Cerberus, a few days ago the people got onshore in their Boat, and are Sett out for Philadelphia — There is a Report that a Prize Brig taken by the Columbus was Spoke with a few days ago –

Inclosed you have a List of the Privateers out of this Place, them that are call’d Letters of Marque expected to get mann’d in the French Islands — You likewise have a List of the Prizes brought in here – I am with great Respect Gentlemn [&c.]

[On board H.M.S. Eagle] Sunday, 22d. September. Through some unaccountable Conduct, the Renown of 50 Guns, wch was to have led the Attack upon Powley's Hook, was prevented in her Operations, for which Reason the Expedition was deferred to another Day.

DIARY OF LIEUTENANT JABEZ FITCH

[On board the Prison Snow Mentor] Sund: the 22nd [September] This is the 4th: Sund: of our Imprisonment. In the Morning the Seamen turn’d out at 4 oCock to bend the Sails, & make the other Preparation for getting under way, they were very Industrious most of the Morning, in making those preperations.

At about 8 oClock we had a Comfortable Breakfast of warm Chocolet, which was very agreeable, in our present Citution.

About Noon all the Ships, who had Prisoners on board with the Experiment and the Resolution, Men of War, got under way, in Order to go up toward the City, the Wind being unfair, the Ships were Obliged to beat up, & at 4 oClock came too of[f] between Red hook & Gibbit Island, in midst of a very great Number of Ships, among whom is the Eagle, the Admyral, or Lord Howes Ship, which lay Just ahead of us, & the Rainbow (another large Man of War) is near us on the other hand, & besides those, a number of Frigates, & other Ships of War; Here at Night we again turned in, & I Rusted on my narrow plank again as well as Usual.

3. Fitch was mistaken. Rainbow was at Halifax.

JOURNAL OF BENJAMIN BOARDMAN

[Paulus Hook, September] 22d.

As no reinforcement could be sent us, we received orders this morning to remove our artillery, stores and baggage, and hold ourselves in readiness to retreat, and before night most of them were removed.

About 9 A.M. we saw the enemy troops embarking in flat bottom’d boats, about two miles above us, who appeared in large numbers on the shore, after their boats, (about 30) were full. Four ships at the same time came to sail below, and stood up towards us, but they soon came to anchor again, and the boats which had pushed off, returned back. Had they come at this time, we must either have retired and left them large quantities of artillery stores, or fought their army and navy at the same time, with our small detachment, and that under every disadvantage; but they saw fit to retire to get more strength, as appeared afterwards, tho’ they could not be ignorant of our weakness, as our men were paraded every day in full view of them.

CAESAR RODNEY TO THOMAS RODNEY

[Extract] Philada Sepr 22d 1776

I am glad you are Sending the Sloop up to Sell, and hope you'll not delay doing it least some of the men of War now at New York Should be thought no longer necessary there, and be sent to our Capes, A Circumstance of this Sort would inevitably knock up the Sale of all kinds of Veshells, for it is the Trade they are now pushing that keeps up the demand for them, and the men of War Comeing to the Cape would put an Emd [sic end] to that Trade . . . I should have no objection to Your Sending the Schooner also — But am Doubtfull Shee is too Flat and therefore would not answer the purpose of foreign trade and of Course not sell well — If the Sloop is not Come away before you Get this Letter, would advise you to get John Bell to Come in her. He has been dealing in that way and would be of Great [use] to me in Selling her here — But if Shee is Come away and You Should Conclude to Send the Schooner pray Get him to Come in her — I had some Convention [sic conversation] with Bell while in Town, and he promised to Call on You Concerning the Sale of them . . .

CAPTAIN CHARLES DOUGLAS, R.N., TO CAPTAIN PHILEMON POWNOLL, R.N.

Dear Sir

Having receiv'd yours of the 19th I have the pleasure of assuring you that the Inflexible, the prowess of which will give us the dominion of Lake Champlain beyond a doubt; will be ready to sail with the Expedition: the dispatch which is making with her is really amazing! Some dozens of Carpenters work at her as Carpenters. The Gondolo cuts a very good appearance and is to carry Six Nines and (in the Bow) an Army 24 pounder — The Radeau would be more formidable did she carry her Six Battering 24 pounders below a little higher — I find by Mr [James Richard] Dacres that in the event of absolute necessity obliging you to winter in Canada you'd prefer one of the Three Rivers for the Blonde but from the Report of Captain [Joseph] Nunn's Survey there of which I send you I fear there will not be water sufficient for her — Tho' to prevent mistakes at all events I send you the St Peter Brig and Chabotes Sloop — I cannot procure a state of the Provisions for the Army from Sorel to this place however it must do good to send up more be that as it may. Hoping to call upon you some Eight or Ten days hence I ever remain with the most sincere esteem: and perfect confidence Dear Sir [&c.]

JAMES BOWDOIN TO JOHN HANCOCK

Sir

Boston, Sept. 23. 1776

I have the honour to transmit to Congress the enclosed Resolve of the General Court passed the 18th. Instant, relative to the fitting for the Sea, the Continental Frigate Hancock of 32 Guns, now at Newbury Port. If this Frigate with the other at the same Port could be expeditiously fitted out, it is very probable several of the Enemy's Cruizers, which have much infested our Coast, would be soon brought in, and made a valuable addition to the naval strength of the united States.

You will please to lay the said Resolve before the hon'ble Congress, whose Speedy determination, corresponding with the Resolve, may be attended with many happy Consequences. In the mean time every aid in our power will be given to the Continental Agent, for getting the said Frigates in readiness with the utmost Expedition. — In the name of the Council of the State of Massachusetts Bay I am with great Respect [&c.]

As some small repairs are wanting on the Brigantine he commands — and if the Honble Council should order him out Again, some provisions &c will be necessary I imagine it will be thought needful, that some person should be appointed for these purposes, as I do not know that any provision has been made in these respects

Dear General
Ticonderoga September 23d 1776

Inclosed, I send you General Arnold’s Letter of the 18th together with the Examination of Sergeant [Eli] Stiles The General makes no Doubt the Enemy will soon pay him a Visit: I hope not before we get the Row Gallies to his Assistance: — then succeed or fail, we have done our best. It is a lamentable Case that our Gallies must wait for Cordage and for Gun Carriages to be completed. So long ago as the Middle of July I acquainted the Congress, that we were necessitated to make all the Carriages upon the Spot. Surely, a Supply might have been sent us before this Day, to provide against the worst. It will be proper to send all the Troops that are below to Lake George and Skenesborough and direct the Militia to be every where in Readiness to march to us upon the first Alarm. The powder Lead and Flints, I wrote for so long ago is not yet, even in part arrived. Pray hurry it up. The Moments are precious, and not one of them should be lost. I have said much to Major [Henry Brockholst] Livingston, but my Hands are too full to write more. I am Dear General [&c.]

MAJOR GENERAL HORATIO GATES TO BRIGADIER GENERAL BENEDICT ARNOLD

... I also wrote to the General [Schuyler], pressing him in the most Earnest manner, to forward us every necessary Succour, both of Men & Materials. Believe me, dear Sir, no man Alive could be more Anxious for the Welfare of you & Your Fleet, than General Waterbury, & myself; we are, Early & Late, labouring to get the Gallies to your Assistance; one will Sail Thursday at farthest, & the Two Others, we hope, on Saturday. It is the Blacksmiths Work that has delay'd us somuch, notwithstanding we have got more Forges, and altho, with different Gangs of Men, they are Work'd Night & Day . . .

MEMOIRS OF MAJOR GENERAL WILLIAM HEATH

[Harlem, September] 22d. - [to September] 23d. — Two seamen, belonging to La Brune, a British ship of war, which lay near Montresor's Island, deserted, and came to our General's quarters; and informed him, upon examination, that the British had then but a few men on the island, stating the number; that the piece of cannon; which had been put on the island, was taken back again, on board La Brune; that there were a number of officers at the house, in which there was a considerable quantity of baggage deposited, &c. Our General supposed that these troops might be easily taken; and, having called the General Officers of his division together, took their opinion, who all coincided with him in sentiment. He then communicated his intention to the Commander in Chief, who gave it his approbation. Two hundred and forty men were destined for this enterprise: the command was given to Lieut. Col. Michael Jackson, of the Massachusetts line, with Majors
SEPTEMBER 1776 963

[Samuel] Logan and —, whose name cannot be recollected, of the New-York troops. They were to embark on board three flat-boats, covered by a fourth with a detachment of artillery, with a light three-pounder, in case it should be found necessary in retreating from the island. The mode of attack was settled, and every circumstance secured, to promise success. They were to fall down Haarlem Creek with the ebb. The time was so calculated, that the young flood was to be so much made, at the break of day, as to cover the flats at the island, sufficiently for the boats to float. Matters being thus settled, our General ordered the two sailors to be brought in: he then told them that in consequence of their information, an enterprise against the British troops on Montresor's Island was to take place that night; that he had ordered them to be kept in safe custody until the next morning, when, if their declarations respecting the state of the British on the island proved to be true, he would give them a passport to the back country, whither they wished to go; but, in case their information was false, he would order them hanged immediately, as spies; that he gave them the opportunity, if they had made a wrong statement to him, then to correct it. They both answered, with perfect composure, that they would cheerfully submit to the condition.

Major Thomas Henly was now one of our General's Aids-de-camp. He importuned that he might go with the detachment. He was refused, and told that he had no business there; that he could exercise no command. He grew quite impatient, returned again to the General's room, and addressed him: "Pray, Sir, consent to my going with the party — let me have the pleasure of introducing the prisoners to you tomorrow." All his friends present advised him not to go. The General finally consented. The troops, at the hour assigned, embarked. Our General informed them, that he, with others, would be spectators of the scene, from a certain point near Haarlem Creek. Notice had been given to the guards and pickets on the York Island side, not to hail the party as they went down. Unfortunately, the lower sentinel had not been so instructed. He was nearly opposite to the point where our General was to be; and just at the instant when he arrived, had challenged the boats, and ordered them to come to the shore. From the boats they answered, "Low! we are friends." The challenge was repeated. The answer was, "We tell you we are friends — hold your tongue." A bounce into the water was heard; and instantly Maj. [Thomas] Henly came wading to the shore, stepped up to our General, catched him by the hand, and said, "Sir, will it do?" Our General, holding him by the hand, replied, "I see nothing to the contrary;" to which Henly concluded by saying, "Then it shall do." He waded back to his boat, and got in. The sentinel called again: "If you don't come to the shore, I tell you I'll fire." A voice from some one in the boats, was, "Pull away!" The boats went on and the sentinel fired his piece. The boats reached the island almost at the moment intended, just as the glimmer of dawn was discoverable. The three field-officers were in the first boat. Their intention, on the moment of landing, was, for the two seconds in command to spring, the one to the right, and the other to the left, and lead on the troops from the other two boats, which were to land on each side of the first boat. The field-officers landed, and the men from their boat. The enemy's guard charged them, but were instantly driven back. The men in the other two boats, instead of landing, lay upon their oars. The British, seeing this, returned warmly to the charge. The Americans, finding themselves thus deserted, returned to their boat; but not until Lieut. Col. [Michael] Jackson received a musket-ball in his leg, and Maj. Henly, as he was getting into the boat, one through his heart, which put an instant end to his life. The boat joined the others, and they all returned, having, in the whole, about 14 killed, wounded and missing; Maj. Henly deeply regretted. Had only one of the other boats landed her men, the success would have been very probable; but the two would have insured an execution of the whole plan, in the opinion of all concerned. The delinquents in the other boats were arrested, and tried by court-martial, and one of the Captains cashiered.

On the night of the 23d, the British got possession of the works of Paulus Hook. The Americans had previously taken off all the cannon and stores.

DIARY OF FREDERICK MACKENZIE

[NY] 23d Sept. At 1 o'clock this day, the 3rd Battalion of Light Infantry, and 2nd and 6th Brigades, marched to Greenwich in order to embark for the attack of Paulus hook. Three Ships of War came up at the same time, and anchored off the principal Battery, at which they fired a few shot, but none of the Rebels appearing, the 57th Regiment only received orders to embark; which they did and soon after landed without any opposition. They immediately took possession of the Peninsula, and all the Rebel works thereon, in which they found 2 32 prs, and forty Casks of biscuit. The possession of this post secures the principal anchorage in the North River, and renders the communication with the North part of the town, by water, safe.

JOURNAL OF BENJAMIN BOARDMAN

[Paulus Hook, September] 23d.

At 1 o'clock P.M. having removed every thing of value, we were ordered to retreat from the Hook. As soon as we began our march, four ships came up and anchored near the shore around the Hook; at the same time a number of boats, and floating batteries, came down from just above New York; the latter run up into the cove, opposite the causeway, that leads to Bergen. After taking a considerable time to see that there was no body to hurt them, they began a most furious cannonade on our empty works, which continued till they had wearied themselves. In a word, they dared to come much nearer, and displayed the boasted British valor in much brighter colours; than ever they had while there remained a single man to oppose them. Mean while our little battalion retreated with drums beating, and colours flying, to Bergen; and before night the brave Britons ventured on shore, and took possession of our evacuated works, where they have taken every precaution to prevent our formidable detachment from returning and driving them from a post which with so great a display of heroism, they have got possession of.

Sir York Town Jail Septr [23] 17762

I received your letter, am sorry to find you cou’d not comply with my request. You say the Congress never tenderd a Parole to any Officer that was inconsistant with his Duty and Circumstances to sign. The Parole tendered to Mr [George] Ball and my self came from the Committee of Safety, a Copy of which I wou’d have sent you, but the officer took it back with him, but belie me Sir no officer cou’d sign it with propriety. Mr Ball and my self will esteem it a Singular favour if Mr Morris will interced and send us a Parole that we can sign as officers in His Majestys Navy. We offer’d to sign the Parole given by the officers now Prisoners at York but was refus’d it. I thought it very hard as we was to reside with them, A Copy of which I beg leave to inclose to you; likewise a letter for Lord Howe I hope you will send it to him. I apply'd to this Committee for leave to walk on the Common now and then to repair my health having had a touch of the Gout — but was refus'd that small favour. I am Sir [&c.]

JOURNAL OF THE NEW YORK COMMITTEE OF SAFETY

[Fishkill] Tuesday Afternoon, Septr. 24th, 1776.

Thomas Creiger, commander of the schooner General Putnam, a vessel of war fitted out by, and belonging to this State, waited upon the Committee, and informed them that the said schooner is very much out of repair, and as the winter is approaching, submitted to the Committee whether it would be proper to keep the said schooner longer in service.

The Committee were of opinion that this matter be referred to the consideration of the Convention.

Capt. Cregier was called in, and directed to wait the meeting of the Convention.

CAPTAIN ANDREW SNAPE HAMOND, R.N., TO HANS STANLEY

[Extract] RoeBuck, at New York, 24th Sepr 1776

As soon as I heard from Sir Peter Parker & General Clinton of their being unsuccessful in South Carolina, and that instead of joining us at Virginia as I had all along been taught to expect They had sailed for New York, and being myself most heartily tired of carrying on a sort of Piratical War, that tended in no degree to benefit his Majestys service, I consulted with Lord Dunmore, and found his Lordship equally desireous of quitting a situation that was every day growing more & more distressing; we therefore disposed of our Floating Town in the best manner we could, by sending them to places of security, and with the few Troops we had left, set sail for New York, & arrived just as the operarions against the place were beginning.

I need not tell you My Dear Sir, the pleasure I recieved in finding My Friend Lord Howe entrusted with the conduct of the American business (the most important perhaps that Great Britain ever was concerned in) because I know his abilities for carrying on a war are not to be excelled; and am perfectly convinced, that nothing but success in the war, and reducing the Americans to the utmost extremity, will ever bring about a Peace or reconciliation, in terms the least honorable for Great Britain. It has long been too late for Negotiation . . .

. . . after the Enemy abandoned Long Island they imediately saw the Town of New York was not tenable. They therefore lost no time in clearing it of all the stores valuable effects & most of the Artillery; but still kept possession of it, as well as a very considerable work, called Bunkers Hill, immediately at the back of it, and had a very large Body of Men in the Neighbourhood. Our Army took their Post opposite to Hell Gate, and Batterys were erected and feints were made to shew the Enemy that we intended landing there. However nothing was done untill the 15 Instant, when General Howe landed with about twelve thousand five hundred men at Keps's bay, a place about 3 Miles above the Town in the East River, under cover of the Fire of several of the Ships of war, without the least opposition. Notwithstanding a deep entrenchment had been made by the Enemy on every accessible part of the coast of the Island of New York, which they manned at the place, opposite to where our Troops were in Motion, The Ships no sooner began to fire than they immediately deserted their lines and took to their heels. This seemed to be a signal for those quartered in the Town & the Neighbourhood; as they all did the same, and never stoped untill they got into their works at Kingsbridge: where they at present remain, we have also taken possession of Paulus Hook, which is the point on the West Side of Hudsons River which the Enemy had very strongly fortifed, where they kept a large Garrison, and where they behaved exactly as they had done at every other place where the ships had been carried to.

From what I have said, you will concieve that we shall have no difficulty in driving the Enemy from the Sea Coast, which indeed they dont scuple to say that they will give up to you, knowing that the more possessions you have the weaker you will be in the feild: and they seem to place their entire dependance on their being able to hold out longer than we can:
their Emissarys in England having assured them that the present armament is the utmost efforts of Great Britain for one year, and cannot possibly be continued a second which gives them great confidence.

It is most certain that a war was never carryed on upon more unequal terms; whilst we are treating them with openness & generosity, they are daily practising every kind of Art treachery & cruelty to destroy us. They gave us up the Town quietly, and as soon as they imagined, the People that had been driven out of it by them had again got settled in their Houses, and that a number of our Stores were got on Shore, They took the opportunity of a windy dark night, and set the Town on fire in many different places, by people that they had concealed in certain Houses for that purpose, with all kinds of combustibles prepared.

We are at present perfectly quiet, and as we are making a Line of works from River to River a cross the Island about 6 or 7 miles beyond the Town, which can not be finished in less than 10 days or a fortnight, it is natural to conclude no attack will be made on the Rebel Army untill the Arrival of the last division of the Hessians, which we hourly expect to see. The Enemy has taught us how to deal with them; which is to get behind them, and shew them that their retreat is in danger; and they never will make any stand: I hope we shall never attack them any other way, unless we should, by accident get them into the open feild.
The Fleet & Army are in great spirits and tolerable good health, and for the present live exceedingly well: but the Ships are ill mann'd & very short. You can have no Idea of the Number of Men it takes to attend upon such an Army as this is; with the Ships we have here (which is two thirds of those employed in America) when all the Flat Boats, Galleys, Gondalas, [illegible] stages &c &c &c are mann'd, there is scarce Men enough left on board many of the Ships to move them. So that we really want Six or Eight Line of Battle Ships; not so much perhaps for the use of the Ships, as for their large Complements of Men for the purposes before mention'd. I have always been of opinion that the principal means of putting an end to the war was to put an entire stop to the trade of America, which was only to be done by having a great Number of cruisers, and a constant succession of clean ships. Unfortunately this expedition against New York has necessarily required the attention of so many ships, that all the Southern Ports are now left open, and there is no doubt but they will embrace this opportunity to send away their Tobacco and Grain. The Merchants in the French & Dutch west India Islands tell the Merchts at Philadelphia (many of which letters I have intercepted) that if they will send them very small fast sailing Pilot boats, they can supply them amply with Powder Arms & Cloathing at very little risk, but as they have no money to send in return, and these Vessels will not convey the bulky commodities of America, they can not devise any mode for remittances to be made, and unless that can be done the trade must drop of course. Therefore the necessity of shutting up the Ports is obvious, and the small inlets is not of so much consequence as one at first would imagine.

Dont be too sanguine my Dr Friend about the extent of the present campaign. If we can drive the Enemy from Kings bridge, Secure this Port as an establishment, and take possession of Rhode Island, for a winter Harbour for our Ships, it will perhaps be as much as will be done: and by taking the Field early next Spring, and joining the army in Canada we shall be strong enough to pursue vigorously any plan that may be adopted. I have taken the liberty to mention my Friends in the lower Counties of the Delaware, and eastern shore of Maryland, as people worth cultivating, but have been told all that must be a future Consideration. However I am still of opinion that Philadelphia is an object of the first consequence to us....

In January 1775 the Subscribers by Orders from London exported a Cargo of Flour, Wax, Staves &c. to Terceira one of the Western Islands. The Vessel in which they were shipp'd belonging to us, was purchas'd at the Island aforesaid & Payment made in Bills of Excha on London, One of which to the Value of about £800 Currency was return’d Protested for non payment in March last Since which have had no Opportunity to send it for Recovery therefore are under the Necessity, as the only probable Means of Saving it, to purchase a small Vessell, but lest any thing should prevent our Recovering it, the Expences of the Voyage would be Considerable And as Pipe Staves are an Article in demand there & small value here & less detri- mental to the State of the Colonies than Flour Should She be unhappily taken by our Enemy, induces us to request the Hble Continental Congress to Grant us Liberty to Export Pipe Staves any Quty not Exceeding Twenty Thousand which Indulgence will be Esteem’d as a Favour Confer’d on Your Frds

We have shipped 1000 bbls flour onboard the Ship Betsey — Capt Wm Stevens for your address on Account & Risque of the United States of America agreeable to the enclosed Invoice & bill of Loading The Capt’n has liberty either to go into St Lucia or Martinico just as winds or other Circumstances may serve. You will therefore receive this flour at either place and cause it to be sold to the best advantage, pay the freight as p bill of Loading & place the Nt pceeds to the Credit of this Committee. We hope the Brigt Cornelia & Molly Capt Lockhart arrived safe & delivered her Cargo in good order if so you will no doubt have paid for the Muskets & Powder you remitted by Capt Wickes, out of that Cargo, but if it did not ar- rive you will have to pay for them out of the present one, or from that of the Sloop Independence also sent to your address.

You must dispatch this Ship back as expeditiously as possible and if the Sloop Independence does not arrive whilst she is there you may remit us back in her the value of £1500 to £2000, in Good blankets and other Woolen Goods suitable for Soldiers, with some more Muskets, Powder, Gun Flints, Salt Petre, Sulphur &c just as you can obtain them to the best ad- vantage observing that we now want Cloathing for our Troops beyond any other Articles. Shou’d the Sloop Independence arrive safe, you may then remit the less Value, in the Ship because we deem the Sloop a safer convey- ance but still we wou’d have some Goods by each The Value proportioned to the Effects you have in hand unless you can obtain Credit & then you may encrease it one half. We have wrote you very fully by Capt. [John] Young which are hopeful may reach you soon as this in that letter you were advised the safe Arrival of the Reprisal Capt. Wickes who delivered us safely the sundry Goods you shipped by him of wh before long we shall render you a pleasing Account Sale and in order that you may be able to pay for them in due time we now ship you by this Ship Bettsy Capt. William Stephens 44 hhds of Tobacco agreeable to the enclosed Invoice & Bill of Loading for one half the Amount whereof we charge you in Account Current and hope it will get safe to Market in which case we shall make a pleasing Expedition all round, most of this Tobo is very good but it is not of equal Quality and you had best sell the worst first unless you can sell it altogether at a good price which is most likely as we don’t think much has been yet sent your way and it is got very high in France, the freight is high but we thot it better to give that and run no risque of the Ship than to have it fixed lower & become Insurers of a proportionable Value of the Ship — We Chartered the Ship from Mess. Warwick-Furnace Sept the 24th 1776 –

Since my arrivell here I have been at Mr Birds Furnace to know how they were like to Succeed in casting their contract of cannon, and find Mr Bird hath Sold one of his Teams of horses & Ordered the Manneger to cast the few Moulds they had made & no more, and put the furnace out of Blast, and then bore the remainder of the guns. They have cast in all 60 – 12 pounders 19 – 9 pounders & 17 – 4 pounders, That is

| 13–12 lbs | proved | 7–12 | proved | 38–12 lbs | 2–12 lbs | To |
| 8–9 Do | & sent | 2–9 | & not | 8–9 Do | not | 1–9 Do | cast |
| 7–4 Do | to Philada | 4–4 | yet sent down | 5–4 Do | bored | 1–4 Do | Bore |

By which you'll see he will fall vastly Short of the compt he was to cast. I do not know the Number of Nine Pdrs the Frigate is to carry but Suppose you'll not have enough by 5 or 7. If you want a few 12 & 9 cast Messrs Rutter & Potts have don with their contract with the council of Safty and are at leisure to do it if you can agree with them. Mr Samuel Potts will be in Philada in a day or two — As they intend to put their Furnace out of Blast in 10 or 15 day they will not cast them without you give them enough Shot to keep the Furnace going that is to use all the Metal She make — They have cast some prity nice 9 pdrs about two Inches longer than Birds one of which you may See on Capt Andrew Caldwells warff. If you cannot agree with them You may prevail with the council of Safty to let Mr Old cast what few 12, 9, & 4 pounders you may want 1 am almost sure he will do it, he has cast some very neat 3 & 4 Pd[r]s for Mr Nathl Tyson of virginia Some of which will be in Town this week 1 shall go to Mr Grubbs to morrow & as soon as I have used what powder they have there shall return to these Furnaces & If you have sott either of them to worke shall prepare Draufts for them &ca  In the Interim I remain [&c.]

CAPTAIN GEORGE COOK TO THE MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY ¹

[Ship Defence] Off Point Look Out September 24th 1776

Gentlemen, I Honoured myself by writing you by the Amelia Tender. At that time was in hopes of having a fine Night and good run down the Bay. – At 10 P M the wind came round to the Eastward, the night had all the appearance of a gale insueing. I thought it Prudent to have the ship brought at anchor under point look out and this morning early when hove Short the small bower cable parted near the Anchor, We got the Pilot boat to the B[uo]y rope when a strain hove on it parted the bouy rope at the Crown of the Anchor, the wind blowing a fresh Gale at N W puts it out of our power to get the Anchor at this time. We have left a watch bough at the Place and sett Several places for finding it some other time. Mr [Gilbert] Middleton will have the Marks and knows the Place where the Anchor lies —

At 10 Am I purpose going down to Gwyns Island, as I'm informed by some Gentlemen on board of Sundry Anchors being there & purpose getting one I have the honor to be Gentlemen [&c.]

George Cook

2. Ibid., Cook again wrote the Council later the same day that weather prevented him from making Gwynn Island, and that he hoped "to be at Sea by 10 oClock at Night."

CAPTAIN GEORGE COOK TO COMMODORE JOHN THOMAS BOUCHER

Sir,

Unluckily this morning our small Bower Cable parted near the Anchor. I Endeavoured to weigh it by the Bouy Rope, that also parted at the Crown of the Anchor. I have left a watch Buoy near the Place — I'm afraid it will intrude on you too far to ask your kindness, should it be calm whilst you're hear, to suffer some of your Boats to endeavour to get the Anchor for the good of the service — It will so far suffice that on seeing the Buoy, that is to shew where our Anchor lies I am Sir with Esteem [&c.]

DEPOSITION OF ELISHA COLE¹

I Elisha Cole, master of the schooner Triton, bound from Kennebec to Cape Francois, testify and declare, that on the twentieth day of July last, I was taken by the Milford man of war, John Burr commander, who took from me my bed, bedding, sea cloaths, and every thing else, except what I had in my chest; when I got on board Capt. Burr he asked me, after taking my papers, where my money was, I answered that I had not any, then he ordered his Clerk to search me, and I was searched accordingly: He then took away my watch but returned it. Next morning the Captain called for me and demanded the key of my chest, and when opened, took every thing out of it to search for money, finding none, they gave me the chest, and ordered me to carry it to my birth. — On the twenty fifth of July we discovered a ship, which he took near Newbury-Barr. — Capt. Burr then ordered me to the fourth gun, and the opposite forward, and compelled me to go, which I was obliged to do after a long dispute, and my mate and all my men were put on the ship’s books and compelled to do duty, and obliged to fight against their American brethren, as are all the prisoners they take, which I often heard the officers of the Milford declare. I left Halifax the eleventh day of August, leaving my mate and men all on board the Milford. — I told Capt. Burr our people gave the masters, mates, &c. their adventures, and it was very hard to have my all taken from me. He replied he could not do it, his people would not allow it, and swore by God he would not give me any thing. — The Yankey Hero’s men, by the information of the steward and others belonging to the Milford, had but three quarters of the common allowance of provisions to seamen for their support, and no allowance of cloathing.

Elisha Cole

Suffolk, ss. Elisha Cole made oath to the truth of the above deposition, by him subscribed before me.

² Schuyler Papers, vol. 2, Letters & Orders, 18 April, 1776 – 29 June, 1777, NYPL.
Sir: We've obtained two sloops, two brigs, and two large ships, for the purpose of obstructing the channel at Fort Washington. One of the sloops, the Clinton, heretofore purchased by the Committee, we found here; the other we've ordered from Fort Montgomery. The two brigs are here also, one of which belongs to Malcom, Kip & Lott; the other is a New-England vessel, about one hundred and twenty tons burthen, loaded with wheat, staves, and a considerable quantity of inch boards. The wheat and staves we've ordered to be stored; but sent down the boards for publick use. The ships are in Esopus Creek; owners, Messrs. Franklin. They are two very fine vessels, in the building of which much extraordinary pains have been taken, both as to timber and workmanship. On our going there, we ordered them to be hauled out, and expect they will proceed to Fort Washington this day. The two sloops, the Clinton and that from Fort Montgomery, we think are almost arrived by this time, as the Clinton sailed yesterday, with a fair wind, and the other must have proceeded from the fort shortly after the Clinton's arrival there; and as to the brigs, we shall be able to despatch them to-day also. The Cambden, Captain Castle, with near two thousand feet plank, and Captain Donaldson, with upwards of six thousand ditto, sailed yesterday also. The ships and brigs aforesaid we are to have appraised by the time they are ready to set off from here, and we imagine the ships will run very high.

Our stock of money is very low, and our contracts far exceeding the sum we were furnished with. The demands on this Committee are frequent and urgent. Upon these considerations, we hope the Convention will, by some means or other, furnish us with a further supply. We are, sir [&c.]

Ambrose Serle to Lord Dartmouth

My Lord,

I had the Honor in my last Letter of the 5th of Septr. to acquaint Your Lordship with the Success of His Majesty's Arms upon Long Island: I now beg leave to congratulate You on the entire Possession of New York City, and almost all the Island on which it stands; which, together with Long and Staten Islands, now reduced, form the principal and most important Parts of the Colony, and on which eventually all the others do and must depend.

On the 7th of September and the five or six following Days, the Fleet was busily employed in fitting, manning and carrying up their flat-bottomed Boats to the Place of Embarkation, which was at or near Bushwyck Creek upon the East River, or rather Branch of the Sound which divides New York Island from Long Island & the Continent towards the East.

The Engineers opened a Battery, on the 12th against a strong Post of the Rebels on the opposite Shore, near the intended Place of Debarkation, and a warm Cannonade was maintained on both Sides for two or three Hours. What Damage was done to the Rebels, beside beating their Battery into Ruins, we know not, but we suffered no Loss on our Part, except one Sailor, who was killed by a Cannon Ball as he lay sleeping on the Grass. — Capt. [Thomas] Wilkinson arrived on this Day from Quebec in the Pearl, and brought agreeable News from the North and about 500 Prisoners, with whom, as well as with those taken before; the Commanders of the Fleet and Army scarce know what to do. To keep them is expensive; to dismiss them dangerous.

The next Morning, after another Cannonade, the Troops took Possession of two Islands in the East River very near the Rebel Fortifications.
In the Afternoon, the Phoenix and Roebuck of 44 Guns each, the Orpheus of 32, and the Carysfort of 28 Guns, sailed up the East River to Bushwyck Creek. The Rebels fired a few Guns from the Fort and their Batteries along the Shore, as the Ships went up; but they passed on in silent Contempt without returning their Fire, and with the Loss of only one Man. Our Batteries, in the meantime, played upon the Enemy from Governor's Island and from the Heights of Brookland opposite the Eastern Shore of the Town. These Batteries were originally constructed by the Rebels with such immense Labor and Art, that they seem almost impregnable. Next to the Works themselves, nothing astonishes our People more than their sudden and uncontested Abandonment.

Many Deserters from the Rebels have daily come over. They all concur in representing the Jealousy, Discontent and Fears, which prevail among them, and the cruel and compulsive Methods they have taken to keep up their Army. Though their Leaders endeavour to conceal or exaggerate their Numbers, 'tis not found, that they make or have made at any time more than 30,000 Men, notwithstanding their vaunted Ability of bringing 80 or 100,000 into the Field. That this is an empty Bravado, calculated to amuse, it is sufficient to mention, that though they have draughted, at two several Times into their Army, every fourth Man in this Colony, capable of bearing Arms; they were obliged to impress them by Force, and to keep them by the strictest Compulsion. From almost all the Provinces they have dragged them (as it were) to the Camp; nor have they many real Volunteers but from the New England Colonies. They have fed their Troops tolerably well, but their Pay has been very irregular and is much in Arrear, and their Clothing wretched.

In the Morning of the 15th the Renown of 50 Guns, and the Repulse and Pearl of 32 each, with a Schooner, sailed up the North River to invest the Town, and to draw off the Attention of the Rebels on that Side, while the Debarkation under five other Ships of War was effecting on the other. The Morning was clear, the Tide served, and there was a fresh Breeze. The Rebels all-alarmed, began a Cannonade as furiously as they could, but with very little Effect, as their Guns were but indifferently served. As these were the grand Batteries of the Enemy, of which they had boasted that no Vessel could possibly come near them, the Ships returned a most heavy Fire of round and grape Shot, and passed to their Station with the Loss of one Man killed and three or four wounded. Removing from one's Thoughts the melancholy Seriousness of the Business, the Hills, Woods, Town, River, Ships, and Pillars of Smoke, illuminated by a brilliant Morning, formed the finest Landscape that the Imagination can conceive. Soon afterwards, a most tremendous Discharge of Cannon was made by the Men of War on the opposite Shore in the East River, under Cover of which the Troops were landed with great Ease and Dispatch, and without the least Opposition. A Feint was made, at the same Time, about 3 or 4 Miles higher up: so that the Rebels were distracted to know, which to oppose or which way to run. They retired towards the Northern Part of the Island with great Precipitation, where, as their last Resource, they had constructed the strongest of their Works upon very advantageous Ground; though, indeed, the Island itself is covered and intersected with Fortifications from one End to the other. In the Afternoon, His Majesty's Colors were hoisted upon the Fort, instead of the Rebel Standard, which some Women had previously taken down and torn in Pieces.

Nothing could exceed the extravagant Joy of the People left in New York, on their Release from the Tyranny of the Rebels. They chaired some of the King's Officers up and down the Streets, amidst Shouts and Acclamations. They could not demonstrate their Satisfaction by ringing the Bells; for these the New England Rebels, among other things, had plundered away. I believe His Majesty's Name was scarce ever so loudly or so affectionately shouted, as it was in this and the ensuing Day in the Streets of New York.

The Rebels made a Stand behind the Redoubts of their great Work towards Kingsbridge, as there was nothing behind them which threatened to cut off their Retreat. Two or three Companies of our Light Infantry, in the Height of that Ardor and Impetuosity, which sometimes forgets even Discipline itself, pressed upon the Rebels to the very Cover of their Lines, suffered a little, and would have suffered more but for the Magnanimity & Heroism of the Grenadiers and Highlanders, who ran (it is said) about two Miles in 15 Minutes to their Relief. The Rebels, seeing the Smallness of their Number, came out of their Works by Thousands in order to cut them off. The little Party, with the greatest Bravery, kept their Ground till the Relief came up; They then retreated and the Rebels advanced, till two Field-Pieces, with the Grenadiers and Highlanders, which the General concealed till they were within 30 Yards Distance took them full in Flank, when they immediately ran with the utmost Confusion to their Works, leaving many dead behind them. We had 9 Men killed and about 80 wounded in this Affair. The Officers hope, that this will be an Instruction to the Soldiers in future not to go beyond or faster than their Command; an Error, which partly from Contempt of the Rebels, and partly from the Heat of Resentment, they have been too apt to fall into. The Confidence of the Fleet and Army in their two great Commanders seems equally affectionate and unbounded. I speak the Sentiments of every Body here, when I say, that the Choice of them was the wisest and the happiest for Great Britain that could have been devised.

Great Numbers of Emigrants, particularly Irish, are in the Rebel Army, some by Choice and many for mere Subsistence. They have also many transported Felons, who have exchanged Ignominy and Servitude, for a Sort of Honor and Ease, by entering among them. This is a further Argument against the Transportation of such People from England in future. Confinement to hard Labor at Home might answer some valuable Purpose there, and would be a real Punishment to the Convicts: Here, they do Great Britain much Injury, by bringing over Numbers and Trades, and so adding Strength, already too great, to the Force of America against her.
We hope for General Burgoyne and his powerful Army in a short Time; as, by the last Advices, he was passing, and now must have passed, the Lakes above Albany. It is understood, through the Rebels themselves, that their late Affair in Canada, has not cost them, through the Sword and Disease, much fewer than 5000 Men.

I will say nothing about the Attempts to effectuate the Civil Commission, as Your Lordship will, I presume, with more Propriety and Precision, receive due Information through the official Channel.

On the 23d of September, three Frigates and a Bomb were sent against Powley's Hook, which lies opposite the Town on the North River. They covered a Debarkation of about 450 Men, who took this Post, fortified strongly as all the others have been, without a Blow; the Rebels, in two large Bodies, running away upon the first Motion to approach them.

I am happy to inform Your Lordship, that the Fleet and Army are comfortably supplied with fresh Provisions and Vegetables from the recovered Territories, and that there is no Probability at present of exhausting our Resources of that kind: This will be a great Saving to Government, as well as Benefit to the Troops. It may be hoped, that, in another Year, we shall want but little Provisions from Home.

We wish exceedingly for the second Embarkation of the Hessians; but, as we learned by Capt. [Thomas] Jordan of the Galatea, who left Plym-outh on the 10th of July, that they were not then sailed from England, there is no reason to expect them here soon enough for Service in this Campaign: The Galatea, though a very fast Sailer, was full 9 Weeks in her Passage.

Some Villains, who had concealed themselves for the purpose, set the Town on Fire in several Places in the Night of the 20th instant. The Flames spread with great Rapidity, the Wind being high, and the Houses chiefly covered with Shingles. 'Tis supposed, about a fifth Part of the Town is consumed. Every possible Precaution is taken to prevent the like in future.

The Rebels have left many Cannon, some say above 60 in all, chiefly old Pieces, behind them in their several Retreats, a Magazine of 5000 Barrels of Flour [sic powder], and great Quantities of Shot with some Ammunition. Upon the whole, the King's Forces have obtained with Ease and Advantage, and in a short Time, what, from a Review of the Works and Preparations of the Rebels, it might have been thought, would have cost them at least a whole Campaign. I have the Honor to be, with the warmest Gratitude and Respect, My Lord, [&c.]

Ambrose Serle.

Extract of a letter from Ticonderoga.

A letter from General Gates, enclosing one from Gen: Arnold, is just received, which acquaints us, that our fleet is safe, and that a party of our sailors, who had imprudently trusted themselves on shore, were attacked by a number of savages, at Wind Mill Point, about 90 miles from Crown Point — In the skirmish three of our men were killed and five wounded. — The Indians afterwards coming near the shore of the lake, several cannon were discharged at them, which dispersed them, and must have been the firing heard by Colonel [Thomas] Hartley. — Gen. Arnold imagines the enemy will double man all their batteaus and attempt to board the gundalos, and has begged an addition to the fleet. More row-gallies and gundalous are building, and will shortly be fit for action. As a further addition several double manned batteaus are to be sent him, with a swivel on each side, to fight under cover of the larger metal; by this means our fleet on Lake Champlain will soon make a very respectable appearance, and give Carleton, with his Hessians, Westphalians, Waldeckers, and other mercenaries, more trouble in crossing the Lakes to Ticonderoga than they at first expected; indeed several hundred of the enemy were advanced as far on their journey as the Isle aux Fate, but precipitately fled at the approach of our Navy.

Gent: Your favor of the 13th we only received the 23rd inst; the delay was occasioned by your letters being delivered to a member of our Board, who resides on the Eastern Shore, which through hurry of business for some time escaped his memory. —
We have ordered our Commissary of Stores at Baltimore Town to deliver one Ton of Powder to Messrs Lux, Proviance & Stewart for proving the Cannon intended for the Frigate, & the further quantity that you desire for the use of her, shall be supplied, when she is ready, — should it not in the mean Time be convenient for you to send it from Philadelphia. — It is true, that we have a considerable quantity of Powder at Baltimore Town; but as we have and are equipping 16 armed vessels of one Sort or other, we shall in all probability have use for all the Powder we have by us, and indeed more. —

Upon all occasions we have furnished the Honble Congress & our neighbours with whatever has been requested of us, and we wish the same measure had been dealt out to us; if it had, we should not have been deny'd 14 pieces of Canvass, which we were in the greatest want of, to compleat the Sails for Some armed vessels that we were fitting out, and for want of it, we have been obliged to substitute Ozns — had we christened our own Child first. — We could not have let Congress & our Friends of Virga have had 240 pieces Sail Duck, nor yet the Canon, Musqts &c, which we Supply'd for the Hornet and Wasp.

You will be pleased to excuse our reminding yr Board of these things, for we are exceedingly hurt by it's refusing us so trifling a Quantity of Canvas, at a Time, when we were informed, that not less than 2,000 Bolts were imported to Phila by Congress in one vessel. We are &c:

Last Tuesday the Washington Privateer sent into Newbury-Port a Prize Bark, one of the Enemy's Transports, bound from the British Fleet at New-York, to St. Vinents. Her Cargo consists of Provisions and some other Stores.¹

Last Sunday was sent into Providence, by Capt. Munroe, the prize ship Blaze Castle, from Barbados, bound for London, having on board 100 Pipes Madeira Wine, 120 Hogsheads Sugar, 18000 Weight Whale-Bone, 120 Barrels Oil, &c.²

Last Thursday Afternoon arrived in this Harbour the prize ship Venus, from Honduras, about 200 tons burthen, taken by Elijah Freeman Paine, in the schooner Eagle, from Providence, on the 23d August at Night, in Lat. 35, Long. 57, W. Her Cargo consists of 100 Tons of chip Logwood, 400 Logs of Mahogony, and 150 Weight of Turtle-Shell. The next Day Capt. Paine discovered a Brigantine, gave Chase, and took her: she was from Virginia, bound to Hamburgh, laden with Tobacco, belonging to one Smith of that Place; but by the Papers and Letters found on board, it appeared she was destined for London.³

Last Monday was also sent into this Harbour by the Eagle, Capt. Paine, a Ship of 160 Tons, from Grenada, bound for London, having on board 150 Puncheons of Rum, 109 Hogsheads of Sugar, some Cotton, &c.⁴

Continental Journal, Thursday, September 26, 1776

Boston, September 26.

On the 31st of August last was taken by the Schooner Hannah and Molly, and the Dolphin privateers, and carried into Frenchman's Bay, the Brigantine Royal George, commanded by Dennis Doyle, having on board the following articles, viz. 200 tierces of Pork, 231 barrels of Beef, 270 firkins of Butter, 169 barrels of Oatmeal, 11 tierces of Beef, 1 crock of Butter, 25 sacks split Peas, 25 boxes Candles, 30 boxes of Soap, 20 barrels Pork: she was bound from Waterford in Ireland to Halifax, out 10 weeks, brings no news, excepting that they had an account in Ireland, that the British troops had taken possession of the greatest part of Philadelphia, and had taken the Continental Congress prisoners.

Yesterday Capt. [Nathaniel] Odiorne, in the Washington privateer, carried into Newbury-Port, a bark from New York, bound to St. Vincent's, with provisions for 120 men for 6 months. — She sailed in company with 5 or 6 transports, under convoy of the Solebay frigate, in order to fetch troops from thence.

A French schooner which sailed from Newbury-Port, about a month ago, was taken by one of the ministerial pirates, re-taken by the Washington privateer, from thence, and is now safe arrived there.

Dear General [Ticonderoga] 26th September 1776

Yesterday I received Your Letter of the 21st Instant I hope your little Schooner had ample satisfaction for the Injury her people suffered in the Batteau –

This will be deliver'd you by Captain [Seth] Warner of the Trumbull Row Galley. She carries you a fine reinforcement of Seamen, & besides is herself a considerable Addition to your Squadron. The Schooner, & the Two Other Gallies will follow Sunday, or Monday at Farthest; but the Cordage is not yet Arrived; and General Waterbury assures me, that if your Estimate was as large as you Mention it to have been, not more than a Third of it can have been sent; as, more than Twenty Coils of Rigging are now Wanted for the Gallies already built. — The powder wrote for so long ago is not even in part received at Tyonderoga; Oconomy is the Word — You cannot be more Anxious to have all the Gallies with you, than we are to send them. Be satisfied; more cannot be done than is done to Dispatch them —

Col [Jonathan] Trumbull [Jr.] writes you an Account, or rather, rumour of an Action, that happen'd last Sunday, near Turtle Bay. When any thing to be depended upon, Arrives, I will send it you without Delay. — Enclosed is Dr [Jonathan] Potts's Letter to me, which I received last Night. CAPTAIN THOMAS CREGIER TO THE NEW YORK COMMITTEE OF SAFETY

Gentlemen —

Fishkill, September 26, 1776

I have done myself the honour of waiting upon your Honourable House, in order to lay before you the state and condition of the schooner General Putnam, under my command, and finding there can be no Convention by reason that some of the members are absent, and it being uncertain when those gentlemen will return, I, to avoid the expenses which myself and horse are at, think it prudent to return to my house at the King's Bridge, where I shall remain at my own expense until I do receive farther instructions from your Honourable House.

Gentlemen, I must in the first place acquaint you, that my provisions being expended, having not more on board than will support the company about fifteen days; in the next place, my vessel being very small and low in the water, my largest ordnance being twelve swivel guns, the shrouds very old and not trustworthy, my best bower cable but very poor, the vessel very weak and leaky, which weakness proceeded from her lying on a bar and a heavy surf breaking over her & when I was run on shore by a man of war, the people much exposed when under sail or even in hard rains, the water pouring into their cabins which prevents them from lying in their beds. Diligent search has been made in order to stop the leaks, but all to no purpose, daily complaints being made by my people in regard to the vessel's condition, and the season of the year advancing toward cold and stormy weather — this, gentlemen, is certainly the condition of the vessel. The people almost naked, having no shoes nor stockings, and the most part of them not the second shirt to their backs; no money has been advanced to them but from my own private purse; no fresh meat allowed, although I have applied for it; no rum allowed them, which has occasioned much disturbance on board; they have demanded an allowance of a half pint of rum per day, which is allowed the men in the Continental fleet, and insist upon it that the Provincial Congress gives that allowance: A riot was made just before I left the vessel in regard to their allowance of rum, in which affair I was obliged to make use of my authority amongst some of the principal ringleaders, upon which some of them have undertaken to complain of my conduct to your Honours by letters. I never heard that the conduct of a commander was to be taken notice of from a report made by a common boatswain, carpenter, or gunner, &c., men who sacrifice every thing that is dear to them for a single can of grog; men whom I have picked up and put in office on purpose to have the vessel manned, and as the vessel is but very small I was glad to pick up any trash. I am very clear you will not find any of my principal officers’ names in that complaint; they are men of good families and characters, hearty in the cause of liberty; if such men were to complain of my conduct, I confess I ought to stand corrected. Perhaps the names of my chief officers you would be glad to know; my chief lieutenant is Thomas Quig[ley], David Walker is my second lieutenant, Eliakim Little is the master, and Cornelius French is my mate; and upon the whole, I would recommend it to your Honourable House to give directions to lay the vessel up as unfit for any farther service this season, as I look upon keeping her any longer in commission will only be a great expense without the gleam of any profit or service. As for my part, I am determined not to enjoy a commission unless I can be of service to my country, for I should, on that part of the coast where the vessel is, only be picking the public’s pocket, as nothing is to be met with there but frigates, sloops of war, and large tenders, which we are not able to engage. I am determined to serve in the present cause, and will spend my last moments in serving my country, and fix myself at the seat of war, and whenever I am called on will cheerfully join heart and hand with my staunch countrymen. The accounts of the vessel should be settled and the people paid off; which matters I leave to be determined by your Honours, and shall wait your command with due respect, and am [&c.]

Thomas Cregier.

MAJOR CHARLES STUART TO HIS FATHER, THE EARL OF BUTE

[Extract].

Blomindel Heights Camp, Sept. 26, 1776

On the 16th of this month we marched from Newtown Camp, and the Corps de Reserve, consisting of three Battalions of Lt. Infantry, the German Jagers, my Battalion of Highland Grenadiers, and 42nd and 32nd Regts., embarked on board flat-bottomed boats in Newtown Creek, from whence we proceeded on our way to land upon New York Island. A 50 gun ship and two Frigates were drawn up to cover the landing.

Upon the enemy perceiving our boats, they sent several columns of men to line sunk breast-works that they had previously made to prevent a landing. We steered to the right and landed about three miles above the town under an incessant fire from the shipping.
A more glorious scene I never beheld; the thunder of the ships, the appearance of the enemy, the ardor of our troops, the whole army drawn up on Long Island ready to support us, surpassed everything of magnificence. So well did the army do their business that the enemy evacuated their lines, and we landed without opposition.

We immediately rush’d for wood [sic forward], and took possession of a Hill about a mile from the spot where we landed. In our way we had some skirmishes in which our Brigadier Gen. [John] Vaughan was wounded, and some few men of the Hessian; when the whole army was landed we proceeded on the Harlem road to these Heights. The enemy made a show of giving us battle several times as they retreated; we lay on our arms that night . . .

The day we landed, great numbers of the enemy escaped by the North River, which gave people room to conjecture that had our army crossed quite to the River we should have shut up near 6,000 of them in the town.

Some days after two Brigades took possession of New York, which they found almost entirely evacuated, but the houses in tolerable order.

I went a Volunteer upon an expedition against Paulus Hook on the 20th of this month with Lt. [Hugh] Percy, who with 3,000 men had orders to reduce it, as it annoyed our shipping as they entered the North River. It is a small peninsula on the west side of the River. We expected much opposition, but the rebels, after firing a few cannon shot, ran away. There are no fewer than five works there, and during the winter they might have made it very disagreeable in the town.

MINUTES OF THE PENNSYLVANIA COUNCIL OF SAFETY¹

In Council of Safety,

[Philadelphia] Septem'r 26th, 1776.

Resolved, That Thomas Seymour, Esq'r, be appointed Commodore & Commander-in-Chief of all the Naval Armaments in the service of this State.

Resolved, That the members of this Board, or as many as Conveniently can, go down to Fort Island to-morrow morning to accompany Commodore Seymour to the Fleet; That Instructions be drawn up to deliver the Commodore with his Commission.

The following are the Instructions deliver'd to the Commodore, vizt:

In Council of Safety, Septem'r 26th, 1776.

The Council having thought proper to appoint you Commodore & Commander-in-Chief of all the Naval Armaments of this State in the River Delaware, which you are to notify to the Officers of the Fleet by publishing to them your Commission, It becomes necessary to give you some Instructions to regulate your Conduct in some points of this Important Trust.

And First: You are, by all Possible means, to establish such a proper sense of Subordination in the Fleet, that all the Orders you think necessary to Issue be punctually and implicitly obeyed, a loose and relaxed discipline utterly enfeebling every Military Establishment, however respectable it may otherwise be in the Circumstance of number & force.

Secondly. As it is the duty and Inclination of this Council to Maintain the Fleet in a Constant preparation to receive the enemy, you must Immediately take an exact survey of its present Condition, and whatever may be wanting in its equipments to make report to Capt. Wm. Richards, who is appointed and directed to supply all its deficiencies.

Thirdly. An attack from the Enemy being highly Probable, tho' the time uncertain, it is necessary that every part of the Fleet should have its proper Station assigned, in such way as to afford Mutual Support, and that the whole may act to the best effect.

Fourthly. You must particularly attend not only to the situation of the Fleet, but take great care that the Officers and Men are not absent from their respective Vessels any length of time and at any great distance, but as it is probable that some of the Officers of the Boats may be desirous of coming up to this City, you may give leave of absence to them in such number and for so long a time as the service may admit, so that not more than one-third be absent at any one time or longer than Forty eight Hours, from their respective Vessels.

Lastly. Should any accident or Circumstance happen in the Fleet that has the least tendency to effect the service, you are to give the earliest Information of it to the Council of Safety, that they, if they have the Means of Remedy, may apply such as the nature of the Case may require.

These being the Principal Matters that have occured to the Council, they earnestly recommend to you however, that you endeavour to promote the Utmost Harmony between you and the Officers of the Fleet, and between one another, on which depends so much the success of every undertaking where men are to act in concert, and Mutual assistance required.
Resolved, That the Officers of the Fleet belonging to this State be allowed the same pay that the Officers in the Continental Service have, from the first of October next.

We have wrote fully to our Mr Thos Morris respecting Insurances & desired if he can effect Insurance on Ships & Goods from the West India Islands to this Continent & Vice Versa, to inform you of it immediately. We have wrote him & several of our Friends to send us letters News papers, Goods & Merchandize, Via Martinico under your care & we beg your particular care of them. You will know the Events of War are most uncertain, our American affairs have not at this time so pleasing an aspect as we cou'd wish & shou'd they grow much worse, it may not be a desirable thing to bring property hither, therefore we are determined to give you early information of such material Changes as may happen, at present we Continue in opinion that Mr Bealle shou’d ship all his Goods back in this Sloop Independence as the Captain has orders to Receive onboard whatever you desire, or if there are other Good Conveyances you may divide them sending part to the care of Messrs Hewes & Smith at Edenton No Carolina, part to Mr J. H Norton at Wmsburg Virginia & the rest by Capt [John] Young, the whole however to be forwarded to Mr. Norton in Virginia agreeable to Contract. We also Continue of opinion that you shou’d ship back by the Independence the Value of Two Thousand pounds in dry Goods taking care to buy in this parcell as many Woolens of every kind as possible, for Woolens are exceedingly wanted any Number of Blankets the more the better, Rugs, Cloths, &c &c next to these Sail Cloth, Coarse Linens, Warm Coarse Stockings and inshort any thing fit for Winter Wear. . . . We sold the Goods by Capt Wickes for 100 PCT advar[nce] on the Invoice & intended to send You Actt Sales by this Conveyance but cannot the purchaser complains that many things were laid in very dear at Martinico. If you think proper you may write to our T M [Thomas Morris] under Cover to Messrs Delap advising him the Value of the Goods you ship back by this or any other Vessel & desire him to procure Insurance if he can Effect it against British Cruizers at about 10 to 12½ PCT on such Vessells as the Independence, or for 20 to 25 PCT on unarmed Vessels, & if Mr Bealle & you judge it most prudent you can do the same with respect to his Goods, but we are really of opinion there is not much danger of this Sloop which is well Armed & Sails very fast We think you shou’d give her the utmost dispatch in your power & as its probable that another will soon follow you can prepare more Goods if any fit for Winter can be got. We mentioned above that it is possible our affairs may go so wrong that the property will be safer with you than with us, We hope this will not be the case nor is there any present danger of it, but its well to be guarded at all points & if such event is like to happen we will Contrive you the earliest Notice of it, to prevent your Shipping Goods either on your or our Account at any time when they might be likely to come into the Jaws of the Enemy. It may be well therefore that You make some strickt Friendship with a Man of known Integrity & honor into whose Trust You can safely Commit any property that may be in your hands shou'd such unhappy News come to you. This Friend shou'd recive & Cover it as his own untilt You order otherways, for if America proves unfortunate in this Contest, We doubt much if the French Govermt. will protect her Agents, or if they do it may not be Safe to have much property in their power, but all this is meer apprehension you' ll keep it closely to yourself & only take the previous measures for such a Cover without imparting Your Design to any person living. . . .

On Thursday last arrived here the Prize-ship Royal Exchange, Lawrence Bowden, late master, she was taken by the Continental ship Columbus, Abraham Whipple Esq; commander, on the 29th ult. on her passage from Grenada to London, having on board a valuable cargo, consisting of two hundred and eighty four hogsheads and 2 tierces of Sugar, fifty-five hogsheads of Rum, 14 hhds Coffee, 2 bales of Cotton and some Madeira Wine. The Prize Master (Mr. Onely [Joseph Olney]) informs of two other prizes being taken by the Columbus, just before this, on their passage to Europe from the West Indies, and in his passage hither spoke with the Providence Brigantine belonging to the United States, who informed him of her taking two valuable prizes, and sent in to Providence.

Isle Valcouer Sepr 28th 1776 —

Dear General My last was from the Bay St Amont the 22d Inst by Capt [Isaac Budd] Dunn, which make no doubt you have received. — the next day the Fleet arived safe at this place, (which is an excellent harbour) we are moored in a small Bay, on the West side the Island, as near together as possible. & in such a form that few Vessells can attack us at the same Time, & then will be exposed to the fire of the whole fleet. The 25th I dispatched into Canada a German who. was Mate of the Revenge. & a New England Man, who speaks French well, both are Sensible Fellows, & may be depended on, they are extremely well acquainted with the Country, go in Character of Deserters, & have proper Instructions & Credentials. (Sixteen of each sort,) sewed up between the Soals of their shoes. — As they run a great Risque, I have promised them (In Case they succeed) Five hundred Dollars, between them; As soon as they know the Success of their Embassy. they are to return — One of them was a Ranger with [Robert] Rogers all last Warr, has since lived in Canada & Knows the Woods perfectly. — Two Men are stationed on the Isle A La Motte to watch the motions of the Enemy —

Journal of the New York Convention

Saturday Morning,

[Fishkill] September 28th, 1776.

Captain Rogers being called in and examined, as to the condition of the sloop Montgomery, says, that the vessel is in good repair; that she wants nothing but provisions and a little gunpowder; that one of the prizes which he formerly took, to wit, a small Bermuda sloop, is at Rhode Island, as he hopes, by this time, condemned; that she had also on board some sails and rigging, taken from the other vessels of which he made captures; that he brought off a few things in a boat from Huntington, at the time he took Isaac Ketcham and Samuel Skidmore; that the latter was a person who had taken possession of a farm of a brother of Capt. Zeph. Platt; that he came to the Convention to request their directions how to dispose of the vessel, the Montgomery.

Resolved, That the vessel of war, the Montgomery, be continued in the service of this State.

That Mr. Harper, Mr. Bancker and Mr. Zeph Platt, be a committee to give such instruction to Capt. Rogers, as they shall think proper, to enable him to proceed on a cruise with all possible expedition; and also that the said committee give such directions to Capt. Rogers relative to any prizes or prize goods, remaining on Nassau island, as they shall think proper.

A letter from Robert Yates, Esqr. chairman of the secret committee for obstructing the navigation of Hudson's river, was received and read, and is as follows, to wit:

Poughkeepsie, Wedy. 25th Septr. 1776.

Sir — We have obtained 2 sloops, 2 brigs, and 2 large ships, for the purpose of obstructing the channel of Fort Washington; one of the sloops, the Clinton, heretofore purchased by the committee, we found here, the other we have ordered from Fort Montgomery; the two brigs are here also, one of which belongs to Malcom, Kip and Lott, the other is a New-England vessel, about 120 tons burthen, loaded with wheat, staves, and a considerable quantity of inch boards; the wheat and staves we have ordered to be stored, but send down the boards for public use. The ships are in Esopus creek, owners Messrs. Franklin; they are two very fine vessels, in the building of which much extraordinary pains have been taken, both as to timber and workmanship. On our going there, we ordered them to be hauled out, and expect they will proceed to Fort Washington this day. The two sloops, the Clinton and that from Fort Montgomery, we think are almost arrived by this time, as the Clinton sailed yesterday with a fair wind, and the other must have proceeded from the fort shortly after the Clinton's arrival there; and as to the brigs, we shall be able to despatch them to-day also. The Camden, Capt. Castle, with near 2,000 feet plank, and Capt. Donaldson with upwards of 6,000 do. sailed yesterday also. The ships and brigs aforesaid, we are to have appraised by the time they are ready to set off from here, and we imagine the ships will run very high. Our stock of money is very low, and our contracts far exceeding the sum we were furnished with; the demands on this committee are frequent and urgent. Upon these considerations we hope the Convention will, by some means or other, furnish us with a further supply. We are, sir [&c.]

By order of the committee,
Robt. Yates, Chairm.

A letter from Mr. Samuel Tudor, one of the agents superintending the building of the Continental frigates at Poughkeepsie, was read, and is as follows, vizt:

Gentlemen — Enclosed I send you General Schuyler's two letters of the 23d and 25th inst. with an order for more cordage; I am, on my own part, extremely anxious to serve, to the best of my abilities, each department, wherein the defence of our country is aimed at; but having this day received a letter from Mr. Van Zandt, (one of the commissioners for building the ships,) wherein he expresses his disapprobation of my sparing any of the materials belonging to the ships, without an express order from Congress or the commissioners. If I have hitherto erred, it is in judgment only, and with the advice of your Honourable House. This second demand from Genl. Schuyler coming to hand unexpectedly, and immediately after the receipt of Mr. Van Zandt's letter, has put me to a stand. An indemnification, or letter of approbation, from Congress, for our former proceedings, which you promised to procure for us, I believe is the reason of the commissioners disapproving our going further, (as that has not yet appeared either to them or us); if you have procured it, pray send it, as also your most candid advice to me in the premises. I am, gentlemen [&c.]

Saml. Tudor.
The Soundings between Valcour and the Western Shore taken by Captain William Chambers in May 1779.
Poughkeepsie, 27th Sept. 1776.
Convention of the State of New-York.

Two letters from General Schuyler, signed by the one bearing date on the 23d, and other on the 25th instant, directed respectively to the superintendents of the Continental ships now building at Poughkeepsie, were read.

The General thereby applies to the superintendents for rigging out of the Continental stores at Poughkeepsie, to fit out some row gallies on Lake Champlain.

A list of the stores wanted for the said row gallies, was also enclosed in the said letters, which was likewise read.

A letter from Robert Yates and Gilbert Livingston, Esqrs. two of the committee for obstructing the navigation of Hudson’s river, was received and read, and hereafter follows, vizt:

Poughkeepsie, Septr. 27th, 1776.

Sir — The bearer hereof, Capt. John Hun, is come down with three batteaux from Genl. Schuyler, for cordage; Capt. Tudor, to whom he is directed, informs us that he cannot spare the quantity the General requires.

Out of one of the new ships belonging to Franklin, we have taken all the new cordage and stored it with Capt. Schenk. We acquaint you with this circumstance, that in case the Convention should judge it necessary, they may give directions to complete the remainder of the General’s orders out of this store. We are, sir, [&c.].

Robt. Yates,
Gilbert Livingston.

Capt Schenk has the charge of the cordage, and if any orders are given they ought to be directed to him.

Ordered, That the said letters from Genl. Schuyler, and inventory of rigging wanted, the said letter of Capt. Samuel Tudor received this day, and the letter from Messrs. Yates and Livingston of the 27th instant, be committed to Mr. Gansevoort, Mr. Duane, and Mr. Cuyler,

GOVERNOR JOSIAH MARTIN TO LORD GEORGE GERMAIN

Duplicate No. 4. Long Island near New York
My Lord September 28th 1776

I have the honor to offer Your Lordship my sincerest congratulations on the successes of His Majesty’s Arms, that have already Secured at least the important point of good Winter Quarters for the troops by the possession of the City of New York, and this Island, which although very greatly exhausted by the depredations of the Rebels, will yet contribute much to the support and comfort of the Fleet and Army, if the parts of the coast, most exposed, are timely protected against the New England People, who have crossed the Sound, and made several descents on the North side of this Island, for the purpose of driving off cattle, and seizing persons well affected to Government, since the troops took possession of the Western part of it.

It being manifest My Lord that my return to North Carolina, to lie on board Ship can answer no sort of purpose, and Lord Howe having seen it expedient to call away His Majesty's Ships that are stationed at Cape Fear River rendering it impossible for me to resume that very irksome situation, I remain here in readiness to take any part that may be assign'd me, until further operations, shall open a way to my wishes, and my particular duty to promote his Majesty's Service in that Province.

Since my arrival at this place I have received My Lord, but I have not been able to find out through what Channel, the original and duplicate of The Earl of Dartmouth's letter of the 8th of November last, signifying The King's Pleasure that I should inform His Majesty's Officers within the Government of North Carolina, that they were not expected by His Majesty to remain in their present stations at the hazard of their lives and properties, and that they were therefore at liberty to withdraw themselves from the Colony whenever their personal safety should make it necessary so to do. — I should have been happy My Lord to have received this letter while it was possible for me to communicate it: for I am persuaded the assurance it gives of attention to the unfortunate circumstances of the Servants of the Crown is a grace that would mitigate the sufferings of every other individual in the proportion it does my own.

The Transport Ship on board which I left at Cape Fear the loyal refugees from the shore of North Carolina I expect My Lord will come here with The King's Ships which are ordered from that Port, when I shall discharge her, and I presume, most of the Refugees, who for their good behaviour, and encouragement, I had formed into Companies, and entitled to pay pursuant to the powers vested in me to levy Provincial troops, will be ready to serve The King in such Corps, as The Commander in Chief shall please to consign them to

I have had the happiness to find my Family in safety, which, all circumstances considered, is better Fortune than I could reasonably expect. I have the honor to be [&c.]

CARTER BRAXTON TO ISAAC GOVERNEUR, CURAÇAO, MERCHANT 1

Copy Virginia September 28th 1777 [sic 1776]

Sir Altho' an entire Stranger permit me to address you in behalf of Messrs Willing & Morris Merchants in Philadelphia & myself & to unfold a Scheme of Trade we have Entered into with Mr John Philip Merckle Merchant in Amsterdam & to inform You that through you this our Scheme is to be executed, and that we Esteem you as Umpire between Us. — Your General Character and not any Personal Acquaintance hath entitled you to this Confidence, & we rest Assured Your Utmost Endeavours will be Ex- er ted for Our Interest. While I had the Honor to Attend the Continental Congress at Philadelphia as a Member from Virginia, Mr Merckle was Inroduced from New York to that Body as a Gentleman of Family Fortune, & Integrity, & one in whom we might confide to Negotiate a Supply of Necessary's for America. This Gentlemans good Behaviour and Attention to Business while at Philadelphia induced us to conclude he merited the Character given of him. In consequence of which Mr Morris & myself Set on foot with him a Private Mercantile Adventure, which we propose to Conduct in the following manner. We made a Contract with Mr Merckle for Ten Thousand Pounds Sterling worth of Goods Six Thousand of which he is to send us to America on his Own Account and the other Four are to be sent to Curaçoa to be delivered to you & Shipt as Mr Merckle shall direct for Us — For these Four Thousand Pounds sterling Cargo, We are to lodge with you as much Tobacco as will pay for it allowing Thirty Shillings P Hundred as pr Contract. We propose to send to your Care three Hundred Thousand Weight which will command a larger Sum & which you will retain for the Use of Mr Merckle but not to be delivered to him until you have a Certainty that the Goods amounting to Four Thousand Pounds Sterling have been sent us agreeable to the Contract which I inclose you for your Guide, the Quantity of 42,283 being Part of this Three Hundred Thousand now Comes to you by Capt'n Meredith, Commander of the Sloop Content and for which you will be pleased to pay Your receipt to the Captain. The Tobacco to be retained by you for the Use of Mr Merckle, he paying all Costs and Charges attending it after delivery. The other part of the Cargo agreeable to a separate Bill of lading comes also consigned to You and which You are to dispose of for and on Account of Messrs Willing & Morris & myself and to send the return in as much salt as the Vessel can bring 40 or 50 dozn Cotten & Wool Cards, 30 or 40 Barrels of Limes of such as the Capt'n approves, some Hhds of Brown Sugar, & some single & double refined some rum of best and middling Qualities, a few Hhds of Molasses, Salt being a necessary not to be dispenced with by our People, and they being now much Pinched by the want of it, I must earnestly request You, at all events, to procure as much of it as will nearly load this Vessel, & to procure a Sufficient Quantity for the Vessels that are to follow with the remainder of Our Tobacco all of whom I cou'd wish to load back in a great Measure with salt, If it is not to be had in Your Island at present, I wish you to import a large Quantity for our Vessels that are to go to you & who I hope will be with you in 3 or 4 Weeks after this.

As much depends on our Secrecy in this Adventure you will keep the Purport of this Contract within your Own Bosom Mr Merckle sail'd from Boston about the 15th of Augst for Holland & I hope will get safe; as he is a stranger to Us in Point of General & Certain Character, will you do us the favour to say what you know of him & his Connexions —

If a Dutch Bottom cou'd be taken out for the Sloop to gain her protection to our Cape it wou'd do us a favour, & if any Dutch Seamen were to come to Colour the Design, they shou'd meet with proper Encouragement, besides the Bounty that is given of 40/ to each Man. — You will address the Vessel & Cargo to me & be so obliging as to give Us at large your Opinion of the West India Trade at present, the danger attending it, the Articles brought to you for market, & what Prices the Commodities of America will bear, & the Demand for them as well as the General appearance of things in the Political Hemisphere & the part that Holland is about to take. Is there any Insurance Office with you, and how are the Premiums. You will give this Vessel all the Dispatch in your Power. Cou'd you procure me a large Jack Ass Stallion. I wou'd give a good Price for such a One — As you will probably retail in small Parcels the Articles Shipped on our Accounts to you for sale, I shou'd be glad You will attend to Our two Hhds No 1 & 2 mark'd RWE, remarked WMB. If I am not mistaken, the scent of it will prove a nosegay, & recommend it to great Price. I shall be much obliged by your sending about 400 Bushels of White English salt, if to be had in sack Bags containing about four Bushels. If no such salt is to be had put as much of the Bay Salt in the sack Bags, you will Oblige me in forwarding the In- closed Letter to Dunkirk.

The Vessel deceived us greatly in loading and did not carry so much as we Expected by several Hhds of Tobacco, & many of flour, however Mr Merckle's Quantity of Tobacco that we intended by her is sent & we hope the Ballance will load her with salt if not, you will supply it & be paid out of the next Cargo. I am Sir &ca

JOHN PAGE TO ST. GEORGE TUCKER

Wm'sburg Sepr the 28th 1776 –

. . . I wish you would seriously consider the Scheme of Trade, Vessels loaded with Salt & Fruit, consigned to you in Virginia, to be loaded with Flour &c for Bermuda, or with Flour & Tobo for Martinique, the Mole &c &c to return to Carolina, Virginia, or Maryland as may best suit with Rum Sugar &c Arms, Powder & Medicines, would put you into a way of making a very considerable Fortune. Several People in Maryland & the Northern States have made such already — Now I have mentioned the States it will not be amiss to say something of them — I suppose you have long since been informed of the Glorious Revolution which has taken Place in the 13 united Colonies as they were at first called — Our Constitutions I suppose too you are acquainted with — I believe ours is the most perfect in the World — It hath pleased the Almighty Ruler of the Universe to produce Good out of Evil — The insulting insolent Pride & Tyranny of the british King & Parliament have been the Means of freeing Millions from Bondage, & of erecting one of the noblest Republics the World ever saw — & have given Opportunities for such Display of true Patriotism Fortitude & Valour as are unparalleled in History — America now justly claims the Attention of the whole World, & well deserves the Pen of a Livy or Polybius —
Consider the Situation of a Country destitute of Ships Guns, Powder, & even of Clothes & Salt for the Inhabitants, On their Frontiers fierce, perfidious, & Savage Nations ever ready to attack the Defenceless, in almost every Part, Multitudes of Slaves encouraged, by the Hopes of gaining that Liberty their Masters were contending for, to strike the deadly Blow whenever they could be certain of doing it with Impunity, consider A Country in this Situation, engaging in a War with a Nation which has held the World in Awe, & which is at this Time possessed of the most Powerful Fleets & the bravest Troops upon Earth, rather than wallow in Peace & Luxury, if they must be deprived of the Privileges of free Men to obtain that Happiness. But I have neither Time nor Abilities to describe the true public Spirit, & glorious Struggle of America. I could produce many Instances of the Gallantry of the Troops of every State from Boston to Georgia as are scarcely to be found in th[e An]nals of any Country . . .

This Deponent Robert Spence, Master of the Schooner Peggy, belonging to St Augustine in the Province of East Florida, Voluntarily maketh Oath that on or about the fifth day of August last past, He left St Augustine with a Cargo of Rice bound to Jamaica That on or about the Sixth or Seventh of September in his Passage to this Island, he fell in with His Majestys Ship Squirrel and her Tender, the Latter of which order'd him to Hoist his Boat out and come onboard of him, But this Deponent told him that his Boat leak'd very much, but if he would bring too, he would run alongside of him, which this Deponent did, and the Officer Commanding the Tender order'd him to Bear away for the Squirrel.

And this Deponent further saith that he saw a French Frigate Cruizing to Windward & on his Bearing away for the Squirrel Bore down upon him & sent her Boat onboard with an Officer, who Demand'd from whence he came, where bound, and what he imagin'd the English Frigate want'd with him. He told him he came from St Augustine, was bound to Jamaica, and suppos'd she wanted to see his Papers. He then told this Deponent that if he had come from any part of North America, bound to Hispaniola, the French Frigate would have protect'd him from the English one if he requir'd it. He then left this Deponent, and went onboard, when the French Frigate; bore down under the Squirrels Stern & sent a Boat onboard.

And this Deponent further saith that to the best of his Recollection & Belief Cape Nichola Mole, bore about NEbE, Ten or Eleven Leagues, when the Boat, belonging to the French Frigate Board'd this Deponents Vessel, & offer'd him Protection, further this Deponent saith not

"EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM CHARLESTOWN IN SOUTH CAROLINA DATED SEPT. 29."

The French and Spaniards are inclined to protect the American vessels; for this purpose two French frigates are actually arrived at the island of Hispaniola, to be joined by two more French and two Spanish frigates, which are to cruise off Port Rico, and round the island of Hispaniola; other vessels are to protect the trade at Martinico and Guadaloupe; we have now here a French sloop with goods from Martinico. A general amnesty to all French deserters is published at Martinico. — A vessel from Turks island brings us a copy of the French commandant's instructions respecting the protection of all American vessels, and informs us, that he requested it may be made known to all America as soon as possible.

Extract

Sir, St Pierre Martinique Sept 29th 1776

Agitated betixt Hopes & Fears, I have been waiting with the greatest Impatience & Suspence of Mind, for the Event of an Engagement at New York, which the Papers I lately had the honor of transmitting you, announced the Americans were in daily expectation of.

I have seen an Extract of a Letter dated Philadelphia 29 August, with the following Relation; that Twelve Thousand of the Kings Forces had disembarked at Long Island; that Four Thousand had marched two Leagues into the Country, but were repulsed with the Loss of 100 Men & 2 principal Officers made Prisoners. The Loss on our Side is not mentioned, nor whether they were opposed by Regular Troops or Militia.

I sincerely lament my Inability of furnishing you with the most authentic & circumstantial Intelligence, well knowing how absolutely necessary it is, that you should be thoroughly acquainted therewith; but I am fully pursuaded, that the frequent Captures of our Vessels deprive me of those Papers of Information, which are directed for me; however, if it was not for the disappointment of News, we have no Right to complain; considering the Number of more valuable Prizes that we have taken from the Enemy. Our Privateers have met with uncommon Success. they have made great Havock amongst the West India Men; so that upon casting up Accounts, the Ballance will be immensely in our Favor.

CAPTAIN JOHN PAUL JONES TO THE CONTINENTAL MARINE COMMITTEE

Providence, off the Isle of Sable

Gentlemen

30th Septr 1776 —

I had the honour of writing to you the 27th Ulto p the Brigtine Britannia a Whaler which I sent in under the Care of Lieut [William] Grinnell likewise 4th Currt pr the Brigtine Sea Nymph which I sent in under the care of Mr W. [William] Hopkins — also 7th Currt p the Brigtine Favourite which I sent in under the care of Mr J. [Joseph] Vesey — the Sea Nymph was from Barbados for London, the Favourite from Antigua for Liverpool.

From that time ’till the 14th I cruised without seeing any Vessels — I then spoke the Columbus’s Prize the Ship Royal Exchange bound for Boston. — by this time my water and Wood began to run short which induced me to Hand to the Northward for some Port of Nova Scotia or Cape Briton — I had besides a prospect of destroying the English shipping in these parts — the 16th & 17th I had a very heavy Gale from the N W which obliged me to dismount all my Guns and Strike every thing I could into the hould — the 19th I made the Isle of Sable and on the 20th being between it and the main I met with an English Frigate with a Merchant Ship under her convoy. — I had hove too to give my People an Opportunity of taking Fish when the Frigate came in Sight directly to windward and was so good natured as to save me the trouble of Chaseing him by bearing down the instant he discovered us. — When he came within Cannon shot I made Sail to try his speed Quartering and finding that I had [illegible] the advantage shortened Sail to give him a Wild Goose Chace and tempt him to throw away Powder and shot — accordingly a Curious Mock Engagement was maintained between us for Eight hours 'till Night with her Sable Curtain Put an end to this famous exploit of English Knight Errantry. he excited my contempt so much by his continual firing at more than twice the proper distance that when he rounded too to give his Broadside I ordered my marine Officer to return the Salute with only a Single Musquit. We Saw him next morning standing to the westward and it is not unlikely that he hath told his friends at Halifax what a trimming he gave to a "Rebel Privateer" that he found infesting the Coast. — that night I was off Canso harbour and sent my Boat in to gain information on the morning of the 22d I anchored in the harbour and before night got off a Sufficiency of Wood and Water. — here I recruited several men and finding three English Schooners in the harbour we that night Burnt one Sunk another and in the morning carried off the third which we had loaded with what Fish was found in the other two.

At Canso I recd information of Nine Sail of Ships, Brigs, & schooners in the harbours of Narrowschock & Peter de Great at a small distance from each other in the Island of Madame on the East Side of the Bay of Canso — these I fully determined to take or destroy — and to do it effectually having brought a shallop for the purpose from Canso I despatched her with twenty five Armed Men to Narrowschock while my Boat went well Manned and Armed to Peter de great and I kept off and on with the Sloop to keep them in Awe at both places. — the Expedition succeeded to my wish — so effectual was the Surprise and so general the Panic that numbers yielded to an handful without Opposition and never was a Bloodless Victory more compleat. — as the shipping that were loaded were all Unrigged I had recourse to an expedient for dispatch — I promised to leave the late Proprietors Vessels sufficient to carry them home to the Island of Jersey on condition that they immediately fitted out and Rigged Such of the rest as might be required— this condition was readily complied with and they assisted my People with unremitting application 'till the Business was compleated. but the evening of the 25th brought with it a Violent Gale of Wind with rain which obliged me to Anchor in the Entrance of Narrowschock where I rode it out with both Anchors and whole Cables ahead. — two of our Prizes the Ship Alexander and Schooner Sea Flower had come out before the Gale began — the Ship Anchored Under a point and rode it out but the Schooner, after Anchoring drove and run Ashore — She was a Valuable Prize being loaded with Oil — but as we could not get her off I next day ordered her to be set on Fire. — the Schooner Ebenezer, taken at Canso, was driven on a Reef of Sunken Rocks and there totally lost — the People having with difficulty Saved themselves on a Raft. Towards noon on the 26th the Gale began to Abate. — the Ship Adventure being Unrigged and Almost Empty I ordered her to be Burnt. — I put to Sea in the Afternoon with the Brigantine Kingston Packet — and being joined by the Alexander went off Peter de greate. I had sent an Officer round in a Shallop to order the Vessels in that harbour to meet me in the offing and he now joined me in the Brigantine Success and informed me that Mr [Bernard] Gallagher (the Officer who had Commanded the Party in that harbour) had left it at the beginning of the Gale in the Brigantine Defiance and taken with him my Boat and all the People. — I am unwilling to believe that this was done with an Evil intention. — I rather think he concluded the Boat and People necessary to Assist the Vessel in getting out, the navigation being difficult and the wind, at that time, Unfavourable, and when the Gale was begun I know it was impossible for them to return.

Thus weakened I could Attempt nothing more. — With one of our Brigs and the Sloop I could have Scoured the Coast and Secured the destruction of a large Coal Fleet that was loading near Lewisburg with the Savage only to protect them.

The Fishery at Canso and Madame is effectually destroyed. — out of Twelve Sail which I took there I only left two Small Schooners and one Small Brig to convey a number of Unfortunate men not short of three Hundred Across the Western Ocean. — had I gone further I should have Stood chargable with inhumanity.

In my ticklish Situation it would have been Madness to loose a moment — I therefore hastened to the Southward to convey my Prizes out of harms way — Dawson’s Brig² having been within fifteen leagues of the Scene of Action during the whole time.

On the 27th I saw two Sail which we took for Quebec Transports. — Unable to resist the Temptation, having appoint’d a three days Rendavouze on the SW part of the Isle of Sable, I gave Chace, but could not come up before they had got into Lewisburg — a place where I had reason to expect a far Superior Force and therefore returned and this day joined my prizes at the Rendavouze.

If my poor endeavours should meet with your approbation I shall be greatly rewarded in the pleasing reflection of having endeavoured to do my Duty: — I have had so much Stormy weather and been obliged, on divers Occasions, to carry so Much Sail that the sloop is in no condition to continue long out of Port. — I am besides very Weak-handed and the Men I have are scarce Able to Stand the Deck for want of Cloathing, the weather here being Very Cold. — These reasons induce me to bend my thoughts towards the Continent. — I do not expect to meet with much, if any, Success on my return — But, if Fortune should insist on sending a transport or so

Boston Gazette, Monday, September 30, 1776

Watertown, September 23 [sic 30].

On Monday last Capt. Freeman Paine, in the schooner Eagle from Providence, sent into Boston harbour a ship from Grenada bound for Europe, laden with 209 hogheads sugar, 158 puncheons rum, &c.&c.1

We also hear that Captain Paine is arrived safe into Plimouth with two prizes, one of which is the Brigantine from Virginia mention'd in our last,2 and the other a West Indiaman; and that he took a fifth, from Honduras, but she is not yet arrived.

Yesterday se'nnight was sent into Providence by Capt. Munroe [James Munro], the prize ship Blaze Castle from Barbados bound for London having on board 100 pipes of Madeira wine, 120 hogheads sugar, 18,000 weight Whalebone, 120 barrels of Oil, &c.3

Wednesday last a sloop laden with Dry Fish was carried into Salem by Capt. [Samuel] Waters in the schooner Dolphin, mounting only six swivels.4

Wednesday Capt. [Nathaniel] Odiorne, in the Washington privateer, carried into Newbury-Port, a bark from New York, bound to St. Vincents, with provisions for 120 men for 6 months. She sailed in company with 5 or 6 transports, under convoy of the Solebay frigate, in order to fetch troops from thence.5

Dear Sir

Boston 30th Sepr 1776

By last post I inclos'd to Mr [Robert] Morris the State of the Case of the Condemnation of Ship Peggy, as she is Claim'd by the former Owners who have Appeal'd to Congress and beg'd the favr of Mr Morris to give it into your hands. I have only to say there are sundry persons of Credit in town who have made their Escape from Halifax which saw the process & were in Court at the trial and know she was Condemned2

As I know it gives you pleasure to hear of the Success of your friends I wou'd inform you that Johnny Winthrop is 1/4 or 1/3 part concern'd in a Small privateer out of Cape Ann\(^2\) wch has sent in a valuable prize loaded with Sugar and a large quany (somewhere about 100 pipes) \[illegible\] Madeira [wine]. A second prize a packet of Abot, 70 tuns no Cargo on [board but] Elphant's teeth. The vessel is valuable & she has Six Brass Cannon Carrying a pound & half shot, they have taken a third prize, which is a three deck ship the privateer got in last Saturday with a Sum of money and a quany of plate taken out of her and left the prize near the land, it is probable she is in at Cape Ann, As the wind was favourable Yesterday and last night and no Enemy on the Coast, none of the Enemies ships have been seen from our shores for more than a fortnight,\(^4\) we are told the Columbus has sent in a prize to portsmo without any farther particulars,\(^8\) the Cruisers from this State dont shine in taking prizes. [Daniel] Waters in [the] Lee I heard of last week she was then in the track of the Jamaica ships, after wasting a whole month in harbours before she went abroad, [John] Ayres I have not heard from since he Sailed wch is near four weeks, [John] Skimmer and [Samuel] Tucker Sail'd last week fitted for a two months Cruise Some good might Arise from keeping them vessels in [the] Service with good Commanders but the Characters of none not now employ'd are very Exceptionable\(^6\)

2. The Peggy, captured by Washington's armed schooners Hancock and Franklin, was condemned at Boston, September 5, 1776. The appeal from the verdict was based upon whether she had been properly condemned in the Admiralty court at Halifax. If not she could be considered only as a recapture, and not a prize. The appeal was finally dismissed "neither party appearing" on May 24, 1784. Revolutionary War Prize Cases, Records of the Court of Appeals in Cases of Capture, 1776-1787, NA.
3. John Winthrop, Jr. was part owner of the Massachusetts privateer schooner Warren.
4. The three prizes were the ship Picary, brigantine Swallow and ship Sarah and Elizabeth. The latter arrived safely at Cape Ann on the same day that Bradford wrote.
5. The ship Royal Exchange.
6. The men named were captains of the small armed schooners originally commissioned by Washington in 1775.

Sir Providence Sepr 30. 1776

Inclosed you have a Copy of a letter which Mr Updike has received from his Friend in Milford — The Vessel therein mentioned is one we Charter'd on the Continental Account and on her return was taken by a tender; but before she got into port was retaken by the Schuyler Captn [Charles] Pond and carried into Long-Island, there they tooke out her Cargo, consisting of Powder, Arms, Salt Petere & dry goods &c for the Continent & a few hhd Molosses as Adventurers, on the Enemy taking possession of Long Iland She was loaded with Sea Coal & carried into Milford — we have now to request of you that you would Endeavour to have this matter accomodated — As you are Continental Agent & she was taken by a Continental Privateer & fitted out on the Continental Accot we think some method might be found that the vessel may be returned to us; that we may return her again to the owner — We should not have troubled you with this affair, but we wrote to Congress about it, and they have been so much taken up with business of more importance, that they have not had time to answer it — In answer to your favr of the 25 Inst we must inform you that the Sea Coal you mention is private property and the persons who own it will not sell as they propose making use of it, in an Air Furnace which they are about setting up, but we imagine you may [be] able to get it out of the Sloop, Nancy before mentioned & it would be rendering the Continent & yourselves a Service if you could get her into your Port & have the Matter settled, as we want to settle our accounts with Congress — your compliance with this request will greatly Oblige Sir [&c.]

The Columbus, Capt. [Abraham] Whipple went up the east passage on Saturday evening, having taken 3 prizes, one of which, a brig went in with him, as also a large schooner, said to belong to the Diamond, Capt. [Thomas] Stacey, the particulars of which we have not heard. The same evening a snow went up the bay, said to be a prize belonging to the Revenge, Capt. [Samuel] Dunn, of Swansey.

The privateer Independence, Capt. Truxen [Thomas Truxtun], of Connecticut,1 is arrived at the eastward, having taken 2 ships and 2 brigs; one of the brigs, after taking out some cotton, cocoa, &c. he gave to a number of prisoners.

1. Truxtun was commissioned in New York, not Connecticut. Referring to this cruise, he writes:

During our revolution, I myself was once a whole day in a fleet near the banks of Newfoundland, and from having possession of the signals taken in a brig I had captured the day preceding, answered every one they made, and finally cut off from its rear and carried away at night (about ten or eleven o'clock) a valuable ship.

MAJOR GENERAL HORATIO GATES TO MAJOR GENERAL PHILIP SCHUYLER

[Extract] (Copy) Ticonderoga September 30th 1776 —

... The Cordage you mention is arrived; but General Waterbury is greatly disappointed in not receiving the Cables. The Gallies must sail with such as are to be had here. Better shall be sent them, the moment they come to my Hands. We are industrious in repairing the Old Fort, the Stone Redoubt at the East Point of Ticonderoga, and constructing the out Line of a Strong Fort upon Mount Independence. Precautions are also making to place the Fleet in Security for the Winter — These are Works which keep us all employed, the Sick and Malingerers excepted, and they are more than they ought to be. —

The Powder, Lead, Flints and Musket Cartridge Paper wrote for, so long ago, are not, even in Part arrived. The large Demand supplied to the Fleet reduces our Magazine so much, that, should the Fleet, after expending their Ammunition, be Obliged to retire, we shall not have any thing like Sufficient, to make a proper Defence here. This should be seriously attended to, and not a Moment more lost, in furnishing the Quantity demanded in my Letter to you of the 5th Instant.

I am informed the fourth Row-Galley is ready to be Launched. — The whole of the different Gangs of Ship Carpenters being Consolidated into one Body to finish her.

Is it not the Intention of Congress to continue to increase our Fleet with the utmost Expedition. — If it is, more Carpenters should be forthwith engaged, and that Work carried on with all the Spirit, and Industry we are Capable of. The Ague has so worn down the Carpenters sent by Order of Congress that more cannot be expected from them this Season; therefore, to Continue this Important Work, more must be supplied.

Inclosed is a Copy of Genl Arnold’s Letter to me of the 21st Instant. His Demands are complied with as far as in my power by the Trumbull Galley, Capt. [Seth] Warner, which sailed last Thursday evening to join the Fleet.— General Waterbury Sails with the Two other Galleys to morrow morning Early, & the Schooner Liberty, will immediately after proceed to the Fleet. — The Heavy Storm last night would fill me with Great Anxiety, had not General Arnold (as you will see in his Letter) Assured me that he had a Safe Harbour within his Reach. —

NARRATIVE OF CAPTAIN ANDREW SNAPE HAMOND 1

[H. M. S. Roebuck, September 2 to September 30]

2d Sepr ... and in the Course of two days that we lay abreast of it [Governors Island], we felt the effect of their return, as they fired through the ship, and obliged us to shift our birth: but the next day two Companies of Hessians were sent to take possession of it.

3d All the Men of War, except the Vice Admiral & Centurion (that were left at Staten Island) moved up within a Mile of the Town, and the Transports Anchored from Red Hook to yellow Hook, on the Long Island Side. The Army extended themselves on the Island, and after some days erected Batterys against the Rebels Works at Waltons Point near Hell Gate, and the General fixed his head Quarters at Newtown. Flat Boats were sent to the Frigates in the Sound and others were sent up Newtown Creek, so that the Enemy could not guess where the descent of the Troops would be made next. During this time most of the Inhabitants of Long Island came in & took the Oath of Allegiance; and as it is a most delightful Country abounding with every necessary & convenience of Life, and the weather remarkably fine, both Army & Navy were well supplied with every thing they could desire. As soon as the Rebels had quitted Long Island, which they had spent so much time to fortify, General Washington, who was at the Head of their Army, (a Man tho' of dull parts, yet not without some military knowledge) conceived the Town to be no longer tenable, and immediately determined on removing out of it all the Military Stores, and every thing that could be carried away, and took the resolution of making his stand at the North End of New York Island, where the ground is by nature remarkably strong, and where already they had a very considerable Fortification by the Name of Fort Washington. That this was their intention was easy to be perceived, by what was seen to be going on: and it was imagined, that General Howe was much divided whether he should land his Army upon the Main in West Chester, and come at the back of the Rebels, and cut off their supplies from the Country; or whether he should first secure the Town; which on account of the winter, and for many very obvious reasons was an object of great consequence; He & My Lord Howe both thought so, and in a short time resolved upon the latter: But as General Sullivan had prevailed upon them to grant him his Parole of Honor to go to the Congress at Philadelphia, in order to make a true representation of matters, and to use his endeavors for a committee to be sent to treat with the Commissioners, it is to be conceived they either flattered themselves that by this means an honorable accommodation might perhaps be brought about, or were desirous of shewing, to all the world, that nothing had been neglected to settle the matter without further bloodshed; Our operations were therefore delayed until his return. He came back the 11th with the Account that the Congress had appointed a Committee of three of their Members to meet the Commissrs whenever they thought proper: The next day was appointed, and My Lord Howe & the General with the Secretary to the Commission (Mr Stratchey) [Henry Strachey] went to the Jerseys to meet them. The three Persons the Congress chose to send on this occasion were, Doctor Franklyn, J Adams & Rutlidge of So Carolina, three Men the most violent for Independance of any in their whole body; so that the Meeting was a very short one, for on their declaring themselves deputies from the free & Independent States of America, and refusing to treat on any other terms, his Lordship broke up the Assembly, and returned the same night to his Ship.

All the Fleet Boats were sent to Newtown Creek under the Commd of Commodore Hotham & several of the Captains; And the Phoenix, Carysfort, Orpheus & RoeBuck passed the Batterys of New York Town, into the East River, and Anchored off the Mouth of it, where the Rose had been for some time, and had a few days before been very roughly handled by a battery the Rebels had erected against her, as the River there is not above three Quarters of a Mile wide. The next day we passed with the General at Newtown, where it was determined, that the Phoenix & Orpheus, with the Rose, should proceed the morning of the 15th against the Rebel Battery opposite to Hell Gate, in order to make a feint and draw the attention of the Enemy that way, whilst the Army should effect a landing at Kep’s Bay, opposite to Newton covered by the RoeBuck & Carysfort: But in the Morning the Pilots conceiving the Tide would be too rapid for the Ships to Anchor off the Rebel Battery (of which Captain [Hyde] Parker [Jr.] acquainted Como Hotham), the disposition of the Ships were changed: and the whole five moved to the other side into Keps’s bay, and took their stations in the best manner to secure the landing of the Army. The Rebels had a Line of entrenchment along the Bank, which on the Ships anchoring they mann’d and made an appearance of giving a strong opposition to the Troops if they should land there. [\textit{*}] General Clinton commanded this descent; at 9 OClock the Boats appeared coming down the Creek, by 10 they were at the Mouth of it, and as the Tide of Flood run Strong, it was necessary they should row down along the shore, a certain distance, before they attempted to cross the stream, which brought the whole embarkation (consisting of five thousand Men in about 100 boats) in view at the same time. Six large Transports lay a little below taking in the remainder of the Army; The Hills were cover’d with Spectators; The ships kept up a constant fire, which soon set the Enemy running, when the Light Infantry & Granadiers landed, and climbed up a Rock, by the Rebels deemed inaccessible, making all together the finest scene one has ever beheld.

In three hours the whole Army was landed and in possession of all the heights within 2 Miles in which they met with little or no opposition: for as soon as it was known the Troops were crossed over. The Rebels immediately abandoned the Town of New York & all their Posts, and made their escape by the Side of the North River. some hundreds indeed were intercepted & taken Prisoners but in no degree equal to what might have been expected. The next day the Army moved forward (leaving behind three Regiments for the Guard of the Town & environs) and extended their Line from River to River. In the afternoon, three Companies of Light Infantry having advanced within Gunshot of the Rebels works, had a skirmish with a considerable Body of them. They were soon supported by a Hessian Brigade & other Corps, when an end was put to the matter, and they retired back to the ground the General had before given orders to occupy, with the loss of about 20 Men killed & 60, or 70 wounded. What the Rebels lost was not known, but from their situation it was imagined they must have suffered greatly. The Ground the Enemy now occupied was so exceedingly strong, and their numbers so great (being at least thirty thousand) that the General determined to wait for the last division of Hessians, consisting of five thousand Men (whose arrival was daily expected) before he made any further attack upon them; and then resolved to embark his army once more, and on land on the Main, in West Chester County; when the Rebels would be under the necessity of either meeting him in the Field, or suffer themselves to be surrounded. He therefore gave orders to throw up a Chain of Redoubts from River to River in front of his Camp, and with Ships of war on each of his Flanks remained quiet untill the. He thought it necessary however to possess himself of the Post of Paulus Hook on the west side of the North River, as it not only annoyed the Ships passing to and fro, but might do considerable damage to the Town. The Admiral therefore Ordered the Renown Tartar & a Bomb, against the Works, whilst Lord [Hugh] Percy was embarked with about 500 Men to land as soon as the Enemy should be driven from their Guns. This attack was intended to have been made on the 22d Sepr but being little wind & the Renoun not being able to get there in proper time, it was put off untill the next day, and The RoeBuck was sent in her place. This delay however gave the Enemy time to move off their Stores, Baggage & Provisions, as well as most of their Cannon, and upon the Ships Anchoring, the post was quite aban-
SEPTEMBER 1776

A few days before this, the Rebels committed an Act; which at once shewed their inveteracey against us, and their determined Resolution to sacrifice every thing to the cause they had engaged in. They secreted People in different parts of the Town, provided with proper combustibules, in order to set fire to it. They just gave time for the Houses to be filled from the Fleet & Army, and for those to return, that had been driven away, and taking the advantage of a very Stormy Night, about one OClock in the morning set fire to the So part of the Town in three or four places, and as the wind blew strong from that Quarter and most of the Houses were covered with Shingles, it soon made a considerable progress Northward. For a long time it burnt with so much fury that there were little hopes of saving any part of the City, and even a Number of the Transports that were got to the Keys were looked upon to be in great danger. Boats were immediately sent to bring them off, and a Number of Seamen from the Men of War were sent ashore to the assistance of the Inhabitants, who, giving all over for lost, at first seemed only to look on with astonishment, but at last being roused by the Activity of the Sailors & Soldiers in pulling down Houses to make breaks in The fire, They set heartily to work and being exceedingly well supplied with Engines & Buckets, a stop was put to its progress about 10 oClock next day, by mere dint of labour & ingenuity, after burning 9 hours with great fury and consuming at least a quarter of the whole Town.

General Washington, & the Heads of the Rebels, took great pains in making a publick denial of their being accessory to this disaster, but nobody believed them; as every circumstance that was discovered tended to prove that there had been people hired for the purpose. Several fellows were taken almost in the very act of setting Houses on fire: others were taken with Bundles of Matches dipped in Rozin & Brimstone, under their great Coats: some of which were thrown into the Flames, or hanged by the Heels, by the enraged Populace; but the greatest part of them, with many other suspected Persons were sent to the Jail, where by changing cloathes with each other, They were so altered that the next day their accusers did not know them, and the greatest part escaped punishment for want of Evidence.
About this time the Commissioners published a declaration importing, that although the Congress had disallowed every purpose of Reconciliation, not consonant with their extravagant & inadmissible claim of Indepen-dancy, They (the Comrs) thought fit to declare that they were equally desirous to confer with His Majtys well ef-ected subjects upon the means of restoring the publick Tranquility: but this like every thing of that kind had not the smallest effect: For so general was the Revolt, that during the whole time of the Seige of New-York, and even after you [sic we] was in possession of the Town, not a Single Man of any sort of consideration left the Rebels and came into us. There were a few Gentlemen (mostly people who had held offices under Government) that had secreted themselves in Long Island, or had taken refuge onboard the ship with Governor Tryon, that came & joined us, but their number, at the most, that ever I heard of, did not exceed twenty.

*Note The Genl & his aid dCamp Lord Maison c[a]me on bd the RoeBuck an officer of my Ship was sent to the masthead and gave notice of the motions of the Enemy in the Trenches [Hamond's note.]

New-York Gazette, Monday, September 30, 1776

On Thursday the Halifax Packet, Captain Bolderson, sailed from this Port for England.

On Wedensday last, the Eagle Man of War, Vice Admiral Lord Howe, came up from off Bedlow's Island, and moored off the Fort in the North River; and, next Morning, the Bristol, Vice Admiral Lord Shuldham, and the Preston, Commodore Hotham, came up and placed themselves likewise in the North River just above the Eagle.

Many Transports and other Ships and Vessels are anchored off the Town in the North and East Rivers.

Journal of Bartholomew James, H. M. S. Orpheus

[September 16 to September 30, 1776]

We weighed, and parting from the above ships, ran up between Blackwell's Island and the main, and came to in Turtle Cove, having on our passage struck on a rock, but got off with little or no damage. The 25th [sic] I was sent down to Lord Howe with some dispatches, having ten miles to row; and on my return, the people, having got drunk, mutinied and made an attack on me, which obliged me to use my hanger, and by cutting them over their hands disabled them, in doing which I broke my hanger in two pieces, but first had very fortunately got the better of the most insensible part of them, two having promised to row on board, where I arrived in a most fearful situation about half-past one in the morning, when I had them sufficiently punished for their infamous conduct.

Our boats, while the ship was advanced on this service, constantly rowed guard abreast of Hell Gates, which is perhaps one of the most dangerous situations that can be imagined, its consequences being fatal to a vast number of ships and boats. During our stay in this river we supplied the ship with fresh provisions and vegetables, and recruited our sick, of which we had a vast number, on Blackwell's Island. The 29th [sic September 21], about eleven o'clock, the town of New York was set on fire by some of the rebels, and one-fourth of it burnt to the ground. The chief of those concerned in this business was detected, hung up by the heels, and their brains knocked out with the soldiers' muskets, while others were thrown into the flames and consumed with the houses; such was the consequence attending those unhappy villains who so far succeeded in their wishes as to destroy the property of individuals.

The rebels made an attack on Mintizieurs Island on the night of the 30th [September 22] but were repulsed and a major and several men taken prisoners; and on October 2nd [22] I walked out to the encampment of our army at Kingsbridge, and having viewed the situation of both armies, whose advanced sentinels were within call of each other, saw, in returning, a rebel spy taken and hung immediately to a tree; he died with great heroism, lamenting only that he could not communicate his intelligence to his commander-in-chief, as he had done with success twice before.

WILLING, MORRIS & CO. TO THE MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY1

Gentn Philada Septr 30th 1776

having lately written to Mr [Thomas] Ringgold and Mr [Robert] Hooe on the Subject of our engagement to Your State, we immagined you wou’d not have been uninformed of the many disappointments we have met with in the Several adventures undertaken for the purpose of procuring Arms & Ammunition. We had lately a Schooner taken & carried into the West Indies with a fine Cargo onboard & Yesterday we had the Mortification to hear that the Brigt Charming Peggy Capt Coningham [Gustavus Conyngham] which we sent to Dunkirk2 was Chased by two Cutters coming out of that Port & she run into Ostend, where in Consequence of the Empress Queen’s prohibitory [Dec]laration, Officers went onboard to Seize the Brigt but the Capt & Crew resisted and drove them off, weighd Anchor & got under Sail to push out again when unfortunately in Working out they ran aground, the Vessell bilged, a reinforcement of Officers came down & Capt Coningham was obliged to fly – onboard of this Vessell we had Lead, Flints Arms & Powder more than sufficient to pay our Contract with your State & were Concerned in a Cargo of dry Goods onbd her that wou’d now have sold for upwards of £30,000 Curry had they got here safe; this Vessel has been gone on the Voyage ever since Septr last & is a very hard & heavy loss, as indeed several of the others we engaged in have proved.

The difficulties of procuring Arms & [amm]unition in Europe were unforeseen when we made the engagement, & the low prices agreed at, prevented our looking to the West Indias for the Supplys or it shou’d have been finished long since. We have still several other adventures depending from which we expect to fulfill our engagement and shall be happy in doing so, you may depend that the first Arms & Ammunition we have the good Fortune to receive shall be applyed to that purpose & no other. We have the honor to be Gentn [&c.]

Mr [Aaron] Loocock reported from the Committee to consider and report the Quantities and different Articles necessary to be imported from Philadelphia under the Direction of the Delegates of this State And he read the Report in his Place and afterwards delivered it in at the Clerk's Table where the same was read in the following words

That it is their Opinion application should be made to our Delegates at Philadelphia to endeavour to procure Two Frigates on the Continental Establishment to be stationed at this Port particularly during the winter when they can be of little service to the northward which with our own armed vessels may in a great measure secure our Trade by obliging the Enemy to keep so many Cruizers as will soone tire them out

That if our Delagates think proper to make this application your Committee would recommend that the said Frigates take in as Ballast One Hundred Tons of Bar Iron besides the following Articles
But if the Frigates cannot be spared to this State then your Committee recommend that a staunch Brigantine of about One Hundred and Fifty Tons be procured to mount Twelve to Sixteen Carriage Guns be properly manned and to bring as many supernumerary seamen as can possibly be procured in which the said articles may be shipped viz

Ten Tons broad thick flatt ditto for Axes

And the same being taken into Consideration accordingly
The First and Second Clauses were read to the House and severally amended and agreed to

While the House was in Debate upon the Third Clause of the Report
A Motion was made and seconded That the sense of the House should be taken whether the Members of the late Congress who had been appointed to the Places of Emolument before the Constitution was established have a Right to sit and vote in the present General Assembly without being re-elected

And the sense of the House (without a Question thereon) was That such members had an undoubted Right

The House then proceed in the Consideration of the Third Clause of the Report and the same being read after several amendments made thereto was agreed to And the Report as amended and agreed to is as followeth

That it is their Opinion application should be made to our Delegates at Philadelphia to endeavour to procure Two or more Frigates on the Continental Establishment to be stationed at this Port particularly during the Winter when they can be of little service to the northward which with our armed Vessels may in a great measure secure our Trade and protect our Coasts.
That if our Delegates succeed in this Application your Committee would recommend that the said Frigate take in as Ballast One Hundred Tons of Bar Iron besides the articles under-mentioned.

Vice Admiral James Young to Philip Stephens

Duplicate Antigua, 30th September 1776.

Sir, My last Letters for their Lordships came addressed to you, by His Majesty’s Sloop Weazle; I have not received any Dispatches from their Lordships since those by His Majesty’s Sloop Shark; nor have I since had any particular Intelligence concerning the American Rebels; except the common Report of their having sundry Armed Vessels, Cruizing for the homeward bound Trade; from the West India Islands; several of which have been taken, and sent for different Ports in America; and some of them it’s said, have been Re-taken by the Kings Ships Stationed on the Coast of America. The aforesaid Armed Vessels are said to Cruize about the Latitudes of 30° to 35° North which is at a greater distance, than I can send the Kings Ships at present under my Command to; unless their Lordships will be pleased Considerably to Reinforce the Squadron; and thereby enable me to send out a greater Number of Cruizers, which might then be spread to a greater distance from the Islands.

The inclosed paper Marked No 1, is Copy of a Letter I received the 21st Current from the Honble Craister Greatheed of St Christophers, (Com- mander in Chief of the Leeward Char[ribbe] Islands for the time being) by which their Lordships will perceive that on the 5th Instant a terrible Fire broke out in the Town of Basseterre, St Christophers, which has Consumed the greater part of that Town; and to add to their Calamity, on the 6th & 7th Septemr came on a Violent Gale of Wind, with heavy rain; which has done considerable Damage among the Islands, and to the Shipping; particularly at Guadalupe, Marygallante, Martinico, Montserrat, St Kitts and the Islands to Leeward. His Majesty’s Brigantine Tender the Sandwich, in coming over from Prince Ruperts Bay with Water, was caught in the Storm, and obliged to Cut away her Main Mast, and put into the Island of Nevis where She procured a new Mast and got refitted and arrived at Eng- lish harbour the 20th Instant.

I am apprehensive His Majesty’s Sloop Pomona, has also met with some disaster and gone away to Leeward; as her Orders directed Her re- turn back to English harbour, the 5th September, and She is not yet ar- rived; nor have I received any Intelligence of her since the Gale of Wind.

She had before then taken an Armed Brigantine with 8 Guns and 20 Men; which is put into the Island of Tortola in distress; having Cut away her Foremast and thrown her Guns overboard in the late Gale of Wind.

The Portland has been Careenened, is Refitted and Sails this day on a Cruize; — The Hind has been Eleven times hove Kell Out, to repair the Damage her Bottom received by striking the Ground coming into English harbour the 25th July; of which Accident I wrote their Lordships by the Weazle: Her Damages are now repaired, and She is refitting for Sea with all possible Expedition.

Yesterday His Majesty's Sloop Hawke came in from Barbados, and acquaints me no Packet is expected to arrive there from England for the Month of August last – The other inclosed Papers marked No 2, 3, and 4; are Account of the Appointment and removal of Officers between the 1st July 1776, and the 30th September 1776, List of Prizes taken since the 1st August last; and the State and Condition of the Squadron under my Command; which you will likewise please to Communicate to their Lordships. I am Sir [&c.]

Whitehall Evening Post, Tuesday, November 12 to Thursday, November 14, 1776

A letter from Halifax dated Oct 1 says, On Friday last [September 27] arrived here his Majesty's ship Viper, from Annapolis [Royal], having brought in with her three prizes, which she took near that place. On Sunday arrived his Majesty's ship Liverpool from a cruise, in which she has retaken several prizes (three of them, we hear, were West India ships) loaded with rum, sugar, &c. which had been taken by the American privateers.

"Extract of a Letter from Halifax, Oct. 1."1

On Sunday last [September 29] we received advice from Liverpool, in this Province, that some American privateers had taken in Port Medway, a brig belonging to Captain Hall; a sloop the property of Mr. Richard Cunningham, of this town, and several others; and also a ship (nearly loaded with lumber, spars, &c.) out of which they took the provisions, sails, anchors, cables, &c. cut away all the rigging, and after destroying part of the said ship left her.

A schooner loaded with cattle, roots, &c. was likewise taken out of the harbour of Liverpool, bound to this port; and the following persons, who were passengers, were made prisoners, viz. Capt. Forster, Mr. Hawkins, and Mr. Stevenson.

PETITION OF OWNERS OF THE MASSACHUSETTS PRIVATEER SLOOP Revenge to the Massachusetts Council

These may certifie That The Bearer Robert Gragg [Cragg], late Chief Mate on Board The Ship Anna Maria, from Barbadoes for London, Wm Pringle Commander; and taken by the Privateer sloop Revenge of Salem Joseph White Commander. That said Gragg, ever since he was set on shore here in Salem, has behaved in a very orderly and peaceable manner; is, we believe, a man of sound Morals, of sobriety and temperance; in no wise given to bad Company, a sincere friend to the Cause of America. But being now well advanced in life (upwards of sixty) of a very infirm Constitution, unable to endure the severities of This or the English Climate, He Humbly prays The favour of the Honourable the Council of This State, That of Their Goodness, They will grant him The liberty, to go to the West Indies in any Vessel that may hereafter be bound There; — a Climate, He, a number of years past has been accustomed to; That he may pass the small remainder of his life There in Peace. — He frankly and with gratitude acknowledges, and declares, That on all occasions will acknowledge, That he has been always treated with the greatest civility and kindness since his being made a Captive. May [it] please your Honours, as we are of opinion, That, he said Gragg, is truly sincere in his above declaration and a worthy honest man, Pray your Honours indulgence in this Case, and That his prayer may be granted. —

Sir
Providence Octr. 1, 1776

On my Journey homeward, at a Town called Millstone in Somerset County in the Jerseys, I found confined therein, a strange groupe of about fourteen Prisoners, four of which belong to New England, and had been taken at different times by British Cruisers, and carried to Halifax, and having no other means to get Home, ships themselves on board some small Transport Vessels bound to New Yorke, where they were to be discharged. Four more of them are French Subjects taken in the same manner on this Coast and carried also to Halifax, and while returning in like manner in order to get Home, one of them is a Boy of eleven years of age belonging to Halifax, the Remaindr British Seamen. I promised these Prisoners that I would write to the Board of War concerning them, in order to procure their Release, or at least the Liberation of the New England men and French men, and I wish you to use your Influence for that purpose. INTELLIGENCE REPORT ON THE BRITISH FORCES IN CANADA AND ON LAKE CHAMPLAIN

[October 1, 1776]

10,000 Men Landed in Canada from Europe &c, 8,000 of wch with many Canadians are to go against Ticonderoga &c all effective men and in good order & appearance — it is without doubt General Carleton intends to command in person, with Burgoine, Fraiser [Simon Fraser], Jones & Nisbit &c — their Naval force is a Ship Built in England taken to pieces & Brought out on board the fleet, she is put up at St Johns & Launced there, has 18 Guns 24 pounders, swivels, &c

2 Brigs about 10 Guns each
3 Schooners about 8 ditto

20 Gundelo's two Guns each from 9 to 12 pounders 250 Batteaus all with Swivels & many of them with Guns in their Bows a very fine Train of Artillery of six Companys & at least 100 pieces of Cannon, thought to be the finest ever sent from England, a General Officer Commands it, General [William] Philips

every Sailor & Marine that cou’d possibly be spared is sent to man their fleet —

thier determined Intention is if Possible to form a Junction of thier Army with General How — in wch case General Carleton will command the Sr John Johnson is gone round by Oswego with near [6]00 Indians, some doubt he may come in by Fort George & cut off our Communication

George Washington to Governor Jonathan Trumbull

OCTOBER 1776

Sir Head Quarters Harlem Heights Oct 1st 1776

I have the honor of your favor of the 27th ulto and note the contents. The Row Galleys belonging to your State together with those the property of the United States and all other vessels, on the approach of the Men of War, ran up the North River under cover of the Battery on Mount Washington, from whence it is now impossible to remove them. As they are now posted they are serviceable to us, by preventing a communication with the Ships, and keeping out Row Guards by night, to give us timely notice of the approach, or any movement of the Enemy. To take from them their Crew would be rendering them entirely useless, and to rob them of their weapons would dispirit the men. However, if it should be thought advisable, after weighing the above circumstances, to have the Crew ordered to Connecticut or any of the Arms or other weapons on board to be sent there, your orders shall be attended to. The situation of the Enemy's Ships is very different at this time from what it was before the evacuation of New York. We then had the command of a narrow pass communicating from the Sound to the East River, commonly called Hell-Gate, which is now in their possession — Two of their Ships came through yesterday, one I think a Transport, the other a Frigate mounting 24 Guns —

we quitted this uncomfortable station and proceeded down the [East] river; and on our way ran on board a transport, carried away our larboard forechains, cathead and small bower-anchor stock, and greatly damaged the transport.

DIARY OF LIEUTENANT JABEZ FITCH

[On board the Prison Snow Mentor]

[New York] Tuesd: Octr: 1st: 1776 I arose very Early in the Morning, & walk’d the Deck as Usual; It is a Lowery Morning, & the People geting Ready to heave up as soon as the Tide Turns. . .

At ½ after 9 the Snow & the Ships that had the Prisoners on board, got under way, & a little before 12 came to in North River Opposite to the Colledge, where we have a very Melancholy Prospect of the Affects of the late Fire, which is sopos’d to have Destroy’d a fourth part of the City, & chiefly in this part of the Town.

Soon after we came too, I borrow’d a pocket Looking Glass & Raisor, & Shav’d my myself [sic] having never look’d in a Glass before, since I was first sent on board the Fleet on the 29th of Augt:

In the Afternoon there came an Offr: on board, & took a List of our Names again, we were also again Inform’d that we were to go on shore To- morrow; The Night following was cold & very Tedious for us, in our un-comfortable Lodging.

COMMITTEE OF SECRET CORRESPONDENCE MEMORANDUM

On my leaving London, Arthur Lee esq requested me to in- form the committee of correspondence that he had had several conversations with the French ambassador, who had com- municated the same to the French court; that, in consequence thereof, the Duke de Vergennes had sent a gentleman to Arthur Lee, who informed him that the French court could not think of enter- ing into a war with England, but that they would assist America, by sending from Holland this fall £200,000 sterling worth of arms and ammunition to St. Eustatius, Martinique, or Cape Francois; that application was to be made to the governors or commandants of those places, by inquiring for Monsieur Hortalez, and that, on persons properly authorized applying, the above articles would be delivered to them —

Philada. October 1, 1776. The above intelligence was communicated to the subscribers, being the only two members of the committee of secret correspondence now in this city, and on our considering the nature and impor- tance of it, we agree in opinion that it is our indispensable duty to keep it a secret, even from Congress, for the following reasons:
(1) Should it get to the ears of our enemies at New York they would undoubtedly take measures to intercept the supplies, and thereby deprive us not only of those succors, but others expected by the same route.

(2) As the court of France have taken measures to negotiate this loan and succour in the most cautious and secret manner, should we divulge it immediately we may not only lose the present benefit, but also render that court cautious of any further connection with such unguarded people, and prevent their granting other loans and assistance that we stand in need of and have directed Mr. Deane to ask of them, for it appears from all our intelligence they are not disposed to enter into an immediate war with Britain, though disposed to support us in our contest with them; we therefore think it our duty to cultivate their favorable disposition towards us, draw from them all the support we can, and in the end their private aid must assist us to establish peace or inevitably draw them in as parties to the war.

(3) We find, by fatal experience, the Congress consists of too many members to keep secrets, as none could be more strongly enjoined than the present Embassy to France; notwithstanding which Mr. Morris was this day asked by Mr. Reese Meredith whether Dr. Franklin and others were really going ambassadors to France, which plainly proves that this committee ought to keep this secret, if secrecy is required.

(4) We are of opinion that it is unnecessary to inform Congress of this intelligence at present, because Mr. Morris belongs to all the committees that can properly be employed in receiving and importing the expected supplies from Martinico, and will influence the necessary measures for that purpose; indeed we have already authorized William Bingham, esq. to apply at Martinico and St. Eustatia for what comes there, and remit part by the armed sloop Independence, Captain [John] Young, promising to send others for the rest. Mr. Morris will apply to the marine committee to send other armed vessels after her, and also to Cape François (without communicating this advice), in consequence [of] private intelligence, lately received, that arms, ammunition and clothing can now be procured at those places. But should any unexpected misfortune befall the States of America, so as to depress the spirits of the Congress, it is our opinion that, on any event of that kind, Mr. Morris (if Dr. Franklin should be absent) should communicate this important matter to Congress, otherwise keep it until part of or the whole supplies arrive, unless other events happen to render the communication of it more proper than it appears to be at this time.

2. Thomas Story carried this intelligence from Lee.
We are now at the 1st of October & have heard from Mr. Deane after his arrival at Bourdeaux his last letter is dated 23d June when he was just setting out for Paris. We have later intelligence than his In Consequence of which we desire you to enquire of the General & Governor whether they have recd any Arms or Ammunition from Monsr. Hortalez with directions to deliver the same to any persons properly authorized by Congress to receive them. If they have, We hereby authorize you to receive the same giving your Receipts on behalf of the United States of America. If none such are arrived enquire if they have any advice of such & request they will make known to you when they do arrive. We desire you will make the like application to the Governor of St. Eustatia, but proceed cautiously in this business. We think you shou'd go there yourself in a French Vessel or if that might be unsafe or make a noise get Mr Richd Harrison or some person in whose prudence You can Confide. Let the first question be, whether His Excellency has received any advice from Monsr. Hortalez, if the answer be in the Negative, tell him that he will receive letters from such a person & that those advice have reference to you, therefore request the favour of being immediately made acquainted when they come to hand. We believe you had best proceed in the same Cautious manner at Martinico & open no more of the business than Circumstances shall make absolutely necessary.

We also enjoin you to the Stricktest secrecy and herewith enclose you two separate letters as your proper Authority for receiving any Goods or Money Mr Hortalez our agent in Europe may remit. It was intended that Capt [John] Young shou'd deliver you this letter but as we have some important dispatches to send Mr Deane, we have concluded to send Mr Wm Hodge j unr the bearer hereof with the same in order that he may deliver them with his own hands. You'll please to shew Mr Hodge proper attention and assist him to the utmost of your power in procuring him a passage immediately from Martinico to France, in a good Ship, if any Man of War or Packet should be going, make application to the General to recommend Mr. Hodge to the Commander, also to the Commander of the Port where he goes to in France to give him support & assistance from thence to Paris with the best dispatch. If Mr. Hodge should want money for his Expences supply him & transmit us his receipts for the same. You will serve Your Country by forwarding Mr Hodge without delay but you need not mention to the General how urgent we are on this point unless you find it will promote his dispatch —
We learn from many quarters that a Fleet of Twenty Sail of the Line are fitting out at Brest & Toulon. Should they come out to the West Indies & be destined to Commit Hostilities against the British Trade or Territorys, they have a fair opportunity to Strike a Capital Stroke at New York where they have upwards of 400 Sail of Ships Guarded only by 2 sixty four Gun Ships, two fiftys and six Fortys the rest are all Frigates &c. Twenty Sail of the Line would take their whole Fleet with ease & then we could as easily manage their Army. We had omitted above to desire that you should send back in the Sloop Independence Capt Young a proportion of the Arms Ammunition Money or other Stores you may receive either at Martinico or St Eustatia from Monsr Hortalez, taking bills of Loading for the same deliverable to us or our order & if the quantity you receive should be considerable, you may send by Capt Young about the Value of three or four thousand pounds Sterlg observing that we want Muskets & Woolen Cloathing most immediately. We shall send more Armed Vessels after Capt Young to bring away the remainder of what you may receive or buy and are sir [&c.]

COMMITTEE OF SECRET CORRESPONDENCE TO SILAS DEANE

[Extract] Philadelphia, October 1, 1776.

Dear Sir: Mr. [Robert] Morris has communicated to us the substance of your letters to him down to the 23d June, when you were near setting out for Paris. We hope your reception there has been equal to your expectations and our wishes; indeed we have no reason to doubt it, considering the countenance we have met with amongst the French Islands and their seaports in Europe. It would be very agreeable and useful to hear from you just now, in order to form certain opinions of the designs of the French court respecting us and our contest, especially as we learn by various ways they are fitting out a considerable squadron at Brest and Toulon. What a noble stroke they might now strike at New York! Twenty sail of the line would take the whole fleet there, consisting of between four and five hundred sail of men of war and transports, store-ships and prizes. Was that piece of business once effected by a French fleet, we would engage to give them a very good account of General Howe's army in a short time; but, alas! we fear the court of France will let slip the glorious opportunity, and go to war by halves, as we have done; we say go to war, because we are of opinion they must take part in the war sooner or later, and the longer they are about it the worse terms they will come in upon . . .

If France means to befriend us, or wishes us well, they should send us succours in good muskets, blankets, cloths, coatings, and proper stuff for tents, also in ammunition; but not like the Venetians, wait until we are beat, and then send assistance. We are willing to pay for them, and shall be able soon as we can safely export our tobacco and other valuable produce . . .
Our frigates are fine vessels, but we meet difficulty in procuring guns and anchors. Our people are but young in casting the former, and we want coals to make the latter. However, these difficulties we shall surmount, and are bent on building some line-of-battle ships immediately. The success in privateering and encouragement given by the merchants will inevitably bring seamen amongst us. This, with the measure that will be adopted to encourage the breeding of seamen amongst ourselves, will in a few years make us respectable on the ocean. Surely France cannot be so blind to her own interests as to neglect this glorious opportunity of destroying the power and humbling the pride of her natural and our declared enemy.

We make no doubt but you have been made acquainted with the negotiations of Monsieur Hortalez, and in consequence thereof we conclude you will be at no loss to obtain the supplies of goods wanted for a particular department, notwithstanding we know that the greatest part of those remittances that were intended you have been intercepted by one means or other. It is unfortunate and much to be regretted that those remittances have had such ill fate, but we hope you have obtained the goods on credit, and you may depend that remittances will be continued until all your engagements are discharged.

Clothing and tents are so much wanted for our armies that we entreat you to apply immediately to the court of France for a loan of money sufficient to dispatch immediately considerable quantities of stuff fit for tents, and of coarse cloths, coatings, stockings, and such other comfortable necessaries for an army as you can readily judge will be proper. You will get these goods either sent out direct in French vessels or to their islands, where we can send for them; but if you could prevail on the court of France to send out men-of-war with them it would be most acceptable. Whatever engagements you make for the payment of the cost of such clothing and necessaries the Congress will order sufficient remittances to fulfil the same; but in our circumstances it requires time to accomplish them. You'll observe the secret committee have given orders to Mr. Thomas Morris to procure sundry articles and dispatch them immediately; and if you succeed in the negotiations of a loan from the court for this purpose, you may employ him or act in conjunction with him to procure and dispatch those articles by them and such others as you shall judge necessary, and the remittances to be made him will serve to refund the loan. Should the court decline this matter perhaps the Farmers-General may be induced to advance the money or stake their credit for the sake of securing the tobacco the secret committee will remit to Europe. These things we throw out as hints, and shall only further observe that you can not render your injured country more essential service at this time than by procuring these supplies immediately.

We are told that our vigilant enemies have demanded of the courts of France, Spain, and Portugal to deliver up the American ships in their ports and to forbid their having any future intercourse with them. The court of Portugal has complied so far as to order our ships away on ten days' notice. That France and Spain gave evasive answers. This is private uncertain intelligence; but we think you will do well to intimate to the ministers of those nations that first impressions are lasting; that the time has been when they stood much in need of American supplies; that the time may come again; that, although we are styled rebels by Britain, yet our friendship may hereafter be of the utmost importance to those powers particularly that possess American colonies, and that injuries now done us will not be easily effaced. These hints of argument you'll offer as the suggestion of your own mind, and endeavour to influence them by interest or fear from taking any active part against us. On the contrary, as it is evidently their interest to encourage our commerce, so we hope you'll be able to influence them by one means or other to protect and license it in the utmost extent.

We shall not take up more of your time at present. But remain, sir

Gentn Publick Bodys shou'd be equaly cautious of taking offence as of giving it, because mischiefs are very apt to arise therefrom & generally before a remedy can be applied. You have taken amiss the refusal of fourteen ps Canvass wanted for your Colonial Vessels & had information that 2000 ps had been imported in one Vessell here. These are your premises & the Facts are as follow. It was not this Committee that refused you the Canvass for we had agreable to orders of Congress delivered the whole to the Marine Committee & that whole consisted of about 600 ps instead of 2000, but it was not possible the Marine Committee cou'd spare you a single Bolt, because the Congress had but a day or two before your application ordered all the light Duck & other stuff, then in the Publick Stores or that cou'd be bought in the City to be made up into Tents and sent immediately to Genl Washington, the Marine Committee remonstrated against this measure alledging that none of the Continental Vessels cou'd be sent out if this Canvass was taken from them, No Matter they were told the Soldiers should have Tents if they stripped the Yards of those Continental Frigates & Cruizers that had sails made up, & in Consequence of this measure which nothing but the extream necessity of our Army cou'd justify, We have now a parcell of five Vessells lying here useless at a time they might have been most advantageously employed. Therefore Judge you, whether that Committee or the Congress itself cou'd have justified sparing you the Canvass you wanted. You may depend Gentn that no just grounds are ever meant to be given by Congress or any of its Committees for Complaints like yours. We are all embarked in a Cause that requires our utmost united exertions to carry us through, and be assured that you can always Command our utmost Aid and assistance, when it can possibly be extended, consistent with the

LUX & BOWLY TO DANIEL OF ST. THOMAS JENIFER

Honorable Sir Baltimore 1 Octobr 1776

We are favord with yours of the 27th ulto, respecting the Cordage we were to furnish Mr Stewart [Stephen Steward] for the Gondolas &c on the public account.

We did not enter into any agreement with him to finish it at any particular day; but on his return from Philadelphia, as he could not get it there, we promised to do our endeavours to compleat it as soon as possible, and which we mean to comply with, so soon as we get rid of the Firgates Riging, which we think will be finished in a week — after that, we hope to furnish for the Gondolas nearly as fast as it is wanted, and shall agreeable to Mr Stewarts directions forward it to Annapolis as we make it. We are Honble Sir [&c.]

COMMISSIONERS APPOINTED TO FIT OUT THE BRIG Pennsylvania Farmer TO THE NORTH CAROLINA COUNCIL OF SAFETY 1

Gentlemen

Newbern October 1st 1776.

We being intrusted by your Honble Board to fit out an armed Vessel from this Port, can now inform your Honours that the Brig Pennsylvania Farmer is compleatly fitted and man’d ready for service, and hath been so some months past only for the want of shot, which we have now got, sufficient for a Cruise and as she is so well man’d and fitted, and the whole Crew as well officers as men so anxious of going out rather than be laying allmost Idle in a harbour, which does not altogether suit the disposition of a sailor, and as she has been at a considerable expence to the Country we think it ad- viseable she should goe out, as its quite probable that in a very short time she may reimburse the Country in an ample manner the whole expence and much to spare, by bringing in some valuable prizes, which we hope you’ll take into Consideration and if approved off by your Honble Board, you’ll send us directions to send her on a Cruise. We think no time is [to] be Lost from Certain Accounts we have had of a fleet of Merchantmen sailing this month from Jamaica for England without convoy —

We some weeks agoe were anxious of geting the Brig down to the Bar, but could not send her with Safety as she had not a sufficient anchor and Cable, it was thought, to ride out a Gale of Wind which might be expected at this season of the year and none to be purchased, we thought ourselves justifiable, especially as so much of the Country property was depending, in taking one from a sloop belonging to Mr Schyler of New york, that we were told was to be carried up Trent river there to be Layed up this Winter ’till the Spring, out of the way of Hurricanes, therefore we Judged it could well be spared without any detriment to Mr Schyler sole owner of said Sloop, and [as] the Country's Service required it we did not think the owner himself had he been here would have had the least objection to it nor do we believe any person else had it not been particularly wanted at the same time for the Brigantine William, belonging to Mr John Wright Stanly and others as we were informed by the master of the said Brig — thus far respecting the said anchor and cable we thought proper to mention to your Honours at this time as we are inform'd a Complaint is intended to be lodged against us respecting the same —

No Commission having as yet been made out for the Pennsylvania Farmer you'll please to send one for her by the Bearer with your directions — We are Gentlemen [&c.]

DIARY OF LIEUTENANT JABEZ FITCH

[On Board the Prison Snow Mentor]

[Off New York] Wednesd: the 2nd: Was a very cold Morning; we had our breakfast of Chocolet, earlier than common, partly on ac[coun]t: of our Expectation of Landing this Day; but about 1 oClock a Number of Marines came on board, and Inform'd us that we were not to Land this Day, & that there had between 3 & 4 hundred of the Prisoners ben Landed, who had all Engaged to Join the Kings Army.

This Day the Capt Order'd a Large Cable to be Quiled away in our Birth, which greatly Disoblig'd us in the Day Time, but yet as we expected Emediately to Land, we thought little of it, but when Night came, we found ourselves greatly Disaccommodated, & by Reason of this unnecessary & Disingenuous Order of Capt: Davis, we Rested but very little but spent the Night considerably, as we had done before, while we were on board the Passific.

BENJAMIN FRANKLIN

Né à Boston, dans la nouvelle Angleterre, le 17 Janv. 1706.
Sir

Philada October 2d 1776

We have this day received from the Honorable Congress of Delegates of the United States of America the important papers that accompany this letter being, first, a Treaty of Commerce & Alliance between the Court of France & these States —

Second, Instructions to their Commissioners relative to the said Treaty —

lastly, A Commission, whereby you will see that Doctr. Franklin, The Honorable Thos Jefferson Esqr & yourself are appointed Commissioners for Negotiating said Treaty at the Court of France.

These papers speak for themselves & need no Strictures or remarks from us, neither is it our business to make any. You will observe that in case of absence or disability of any one or two of the Commissioners the other has full Power to Act.

We therefore think it proper to inform you that Doctr Franklin & Mr Jefferson will take Passage with all Speed, but it is necessary that their appointment on this business remain a profound Secret and we do not choose even to trust this paper with their rout. suffice it therefore, that you expect them soon after this reaches your hands, but by different conveyances. And if you do not see some evident advantage will arise by Communicating this Commission to the French Ministry immediately, We give it as our opinion You had best suspend it, until the arrival of one or both these Gentlemen, because you will then benefit of each others advice & abilities, and we apprehend their arrival will give additional Importance to the Embassy

But should you be of opinion that delay will be in the least degree injurious to our Country or its Cause, you must by all means use your own discretion in this matter, wherein we are not authorised to instruct or advise; we only offer our own thoughts on the Subject. Shou'd you think proper to disclose this Commission to the Ministers of France, enjoin the Stricktest Secrecy respecting the Names, or rather insist that it be not made known to any Persons, but those whose office and employments entitle them to the communication that any others are joined with you in it because if that Circumstance reaches England before their arrival it will evidently endanger their Persons. The Congress have ordered the Secret Committee to lodge Ten thousand Pounds Sterling in France subject to the drafts or orders of the Commissioners for their support, and you may depend that remittances will be made for that purpose with all possible dilligence. We can also inform you, that you may expect instructions for forming Treaties with other Nations. Consequently you will Cultivate a good understanding with all the Foreign Ministers.

We have Committed these Important dispatches to the care of Mr Wm Hodge junr who we hope will in due time have the pleasure to deliver them in person, he knows nothing more of their Contents, than that they are Im-important and in case of Capture his orders are to sink them in the Sea. This Young Gentlemans Character, Family, & alertness in the Publick Service, all entitle him to your Notice. He is also charged with some business from the Secret Committee wherein your Countenance & assistance may be usefull you will no doubt extend it to him and also engage Mr [Thomas] Morris's exertions therein.

You will please to advance Mr Hodge the Value of One hundred & fifty pounds Sterling for his Expences & transmit us his receipt for the same. We most fervently pray for a successfull negotiation & are with the utmost attention & regard Dear Sir [&c.]

B Franklin Robt Morris

P. S Mr Hodge has some instructions from the Secret Committee which he will lay before you & if the Negotiation of Monsr Hortalez respecting Arms & Ammunition has been Conducted with success it will be needless for Mr Hodge to make Contracts for those Articles. You will know how that Matter is and direct Mr Hodge accordingly, And if you shoud think it of more Consequence to send him immediately back here with dispatches than to employ him in the business that Committee have proposed he will obey your orders & Mr Morris may do the other —

Richard Henry Lee to William Lee

[Extract] Philadelphia October the 2d 1776

... The American strength on that Lake [Champlain] is at this time so great both by land and water that they rest secure against any attempts from Gens Carleton and Burgoyn. When the whole Fleet and Army were collected before New York, the British Troops hav been for some time in possession of Staten Island, they landed the greatest part of their Army on Long Island, where they had not been long, before an engagement happened between 3000 of the American troops and (as the best accounts here agree) at least 18,000 of the regulars, which ended in the loss of about 1000 Men taken, killed, & wounded of the Americans, who made few prisoners, but who slaughtered of their enemies many more than were killed of their own people — It being very evident that Long Island and the City of N. York were not to be defended against a potent land army & sea force acting in conjunction, both these places were in their turns evacuated, and the American Army retreated to their present post on the heights of Haerlem about 8 or 10 miles above the City and on the same Tongue of land upon which the Town stands. This is a very strong post by nature and strongly fortified by Art[illery]. 30,000 men are there placed to prevent the further progress of Mr Howe and to this time he has been effectually prevented ... Thus things remain this 2d of October — The British Army have Connecticut on their right where they do not incline to go, Gen Washington with 30,000 men on the heights of Haerlem in their Front, and on their left the Jersies

in which an army of observation is posted either to prevent penetration that way or to aid Gen. Washington occasionally. The N. [North] River is so obstructed that Vessels cannot go above the heights of Haerlem, and these obstructions are covered by 50 pieces of heavy Cannon placed on the heights. This you may depend upon it is a true state of things at present, and you will readily see how poor a compensation it promises for the expense of 12 millions this Campaign, and the loss of America for ever. . . . when the Army and Fleet destined against America was made known, the eyes of all Men were opened, the blind saw, the timid became determind, and all joined in commanding the Congress to declare the Colonies Free & Independent States, which they did. . . The number of Prizes taken by the American Cruisers is wonderful — At least 6000 hhds of Sugar and a world of other Goods are already safe in these Ports, and the American force by Sea daily increasing. I do realy think, that if a great Statesman with proper powers were to arise in England, he would endeavor to save his Country by immediately acknowledging the independence of North America and forming with these States an advantageous Treaty of Commerce. Shortly it may be too late.

MINUTES OF THE PENNSYLVANIA COUNCIL OF SAFETY

In Council of Safety,

Three o’Clock, afternoon.

New Commissions were given out to the Captains of the Galleys, & they were qualified to execute their Trust faithfully, &c., which qualifications they signed.

Pennsylvania Journal, Wednesday, October 2, 1776

Philadelphia [October 2].

Since our last was sent in here, the ship William, Captain [John] Bond, from Jamaica for Liverpool, with 150 hds. of sugar, 9 hds. of rum, and 2 bales of cotton, taken by the privateer sloop Chance, and a brig from Barbados for London, with 200 hds. rum, taken by the Continental sloop Providence.1

By the ships from Jamaica, we learn, that provisions have become very scarce there, that the negroes had actually rose and cut off several plantations in that island, and that the Governor had proclaimed martial law. We also learn, that the humane Butchers of Britain had ordered the scattered remains of the 60th regiment, stationed there since the year 1772, to this continent to cut our throats, instead of letting them remain there to protect the island.
Last Saturday a number of officers and privates, belonging to the American army, and who had been taken prisoners in Canada, arrived in this city agreeable to the proclamation of Gen. Carlton. They were sent in four transports, under convoy of the Pearl frigate of thirty-two guns, from Quebec to New-York, where Gen. Howe detained them on board a fortnight. . . .

We hear that an armed vessel is now fitting out in this city, which will be called the Parry, in honour of the late gallant Colonel [Caleb] Parry, of this State, who fell on Long-Island the 27th of August last, nobly contending for the freedom and independence of his country.¹

Lieutenant Richard Boger, R. N., to Robert Morris¹

Sir,

York Town Jail, Octob' r 2d, 1776.

In Conformity to the Resolution of Congress for the allowance for Officers who are Prisoners, I directed Mr. Graybel, the Goaler of York Town, after paying him the over plus of his Bill for Mr. [George] Ball and myself to call upon the Committee of this place, who return'd for answer that they had no directions in the case. I shall therefore be oblig'd to you to regulate this matter with the Committee of York Town in such a way that payment may be made to the Landlords here, as it will be inconvenient for them to wait on the Congress. As I never before found any Difficulty in getting this matter settled, the Committee at Germantown readyly paying it, I have now to apologize to you for the trouble offered to you, which this new Circumstance has occasioned. at the Head of Lake Champlain, Oct. 3." 1

Our batteaus and vessels are all ready, and we propose in two or three days setting out on our visit to Ticonderoga and Crown Point, which we hope to give a good account of. We had an alarm that a party of 5 or 6000 of the rebels had been sent up through the woods, in order to come down and burn our vessels; we lay on our arms for four and twenty hours, but the enemy did not appear. We expect to get to the other end of the Lakes in a fortnight from this time.

Dear General Tyonderoga 3d October 1776

Last Night I received Your Letter of the First Instant by Lieut:
[James] Calderwood. Capt [David] Hawley carried with him all the Seamen that were to be had here, when he went from Hence. Those who have been procured since, Sailed Yesterday in the Two Row-Gallies, under General Waterbury’s Command, to which were Added One Hundred & Ten Men, Officers Included. Besides the Number you determined upon, for the Full Complement of each Row Galley, – not One of the Two Hundred Seamen promised from New York, have yet Arrived here. I now give up the hopes of seeing them for this Year – As to the Equipment of the Trumbull, I am not answerable for any Deficiency, General Waterbury, who had the Intire Management of Rigging and Arming The Gallies, will satisfy all your Questions upon that Head. – I know not howmuch Cordage you wrote for in July, or whether it is yet half Arrived; but this I know, that General Waterbury Assured me there was not more than half the Quantity necessary, and we shall have much to do to furnish the Galley which came last night from Skeensborough. Not a Cable yet Arrived from Albany & those here too bad for Use – Capt Dow who perfectly understands Fitting of Vessells, has my Orders to Assist Captain in getting his Galley Equip’d with the utmost possible Expedition. I am told shee will Sail in a Week, being much better Fitted when she left Skeensborough, than those who came before her from thence, Col [Jonathan] Trumbull [Jr.], & Mr Conductor Lane, assure me they have put every Article that you Demanded in your last Letter on board the Liberty Schooner Except what is not to be had here — where it is not to be had you, & the Princes of the Earth must go unfurnish’d — As to any unnecessary delays made by the Captain of The Liberty, I must refer you to Genl Waterbury. I am told the Man was dilligent, & that the Vessell wanted more Caulking than you suspected.

All the Cloathing we have, goes in the Liberty Schooner, to be delivered to your Order —

I have represented to General Schuyler & to Congress the Absolute necessity of taking immediate measures to Augment Our Fleet upon this Lake, I suppose so Important Business will not be deferred, or Delay’d: —

I take it for Granted you will Consult with General Waterbury & Colonel [Edward] Wigglesworth & with them Determine when it is proper Season to retire Up the Lake, I am confident Your, & their Zeal, for the public Service, will not suffer You to return One Moment sooner than in prudence & Good Conduct you Ought to do it. Perhaps, some Station nearer Crown Point, may, About the Time you Mention, be proper to be taken but this must be submitted to your better Judgements in Maritime Affairs —

The Commissary sent in the Gallies which Saild Yesterday Fourteen Barrells of Rum, Six more go now in the Liberty; a Quantity of Fresh Beef, and Other Victuals, went by the same conveyance, which Mr Yancey acquainted you with, particularly by Letter; if you think proper to keep the Lee Gondola, or any Other, to go between Ty— & the Fleet, we can be Able to send you Supplies in as Ample manner as Ty— will Afford —

I have read & Noticed Serjeant Stiles’s Examination, by the Enemy’s building a Battery for Heavy Cannon at River La Cole, I am inclined to suspect they are rather Acting upon the Defensive; — but until the Middle of the next month Arrives, I shall not intirely give up the probability of seeing them this Year —

Col Trumbull gave you the best Account in his Power of the Transactions in the Neighbourhood of N. York, as I have constantly done, & as I shall continue to do; therefore, be satisfied, when you do not hear all you wish; it is because all you wish is not come to my knowledge. There is not a Syllable of News, good or bad, since I wrote to you, Yesterday —. My Affectionate Compliments to General Waterbury & Col Wigglesworth. & believe me dear Genl Your Affectionate [&c.]

The Daphne, Capt. [St. John] Chinnery, with 12 Sail of Transports having on board the 16th. or [John] Burgoyne's Regiment of Light Horse, came up this Morning. They have been 10 Weeks and 3 Days on their Passage, having parted with one of their Ships, and lost about 40 Horses. No Letters from England for me, to my great Disappointment. One Ship was missing, wch (as we afterwards learned) was taken by the Rebels.

Lord Shuldham, Sir Peter Parker, Commodore Hotham, and their several Captains, dined on board the Eagle. Their Discourse ran much upon the good or ill Qualities of Wines, in which I have but little Judgement, and therefore could have but little to say.

[On board the Prison Snow Mentor]

[Off New York] Thirsd: the 3rd: [October] Being very weary of my Lodging, I turn'd out Early in the Morning, & Walk'd the Deck for a Long Time, the Weather being Cloudy cold & Chilly; Capt: [Jonathan] Brewster is much unwell this Morning; We seem this Morning also, to meet with great Difficulty in getting Breakfast nor do we yet know whether we are like to break our Fast at all.
We had some words this Forenoon with Capt: Davis, on acct of the Cable, but to no great purpose that I know of as yet.

At about 10 oClock (with much Difficulty) we procured a Dish of Choc-olet; Capt: Hawker came on board about this Time, but Informs us of nothing new, concerning our Landing, or any other Matter; I spent most of this Day on Deck, on acct: of being Discommoded below, alth'o the weather was Chilly & uncomfortable, I was also somewhat unwell.

Toward Night the Sailors came down and cover'd the Cable with Grating & other Rough Affairs for us to lodge on, pretendedly supposing we were much beholden to them for so great a piece of Lenity & Care for us. After this I procured a number of Oxslings, with which I prepared myself a Lodging on one of the Gratings, on which I Rested the most Comfortable that I had done since my Imprisonment.

SECRET COMMITTEE TO WILLIAM HODGE

[Copy] Philadelphia Octor 3d 1776

Sir We deliver you herewith Copies of the Letters & Credentials you had from us when you sailed on your late unfortunate voyage, the originals whereof we understand you destroyed on being taken by the Orpheus Man of War. We have since that time taken other measures for procuring Arms and Ammunition which probably may have succeeded, therefore we request you will lay those Copies and this Letter before Silas Deane esqr at Paris and follow such advice and directions as he may give respecting Arms and ammunition but with respect to the Cutters we approve much of that Plan and wish it to be executed and even enlarged. We therefore propose that you should consult with Mr Deane and Mr [Thomas] Morris on this subject, and if you find it will be in your power to procure Seamen and obtain liberty to Arm and fit out vessels in France, Spain, or Holland that you should if possible buy a Frigate of 20 to 40 Guns, have her compleatly fitted armed and manned putting in a gentleman of unexceptionable good character being also an able Seaman to command her for which purpose we give you herewith a blank Commission to be filled up with his and the Ships name which may be the Surprize. The Captain and you may appoint the other Officers necessary for this Ship giving to each a Certificate shewing his Station. When the Ship is compleated you must give Orders to the Captain signed by Mr Deane to cruize in the Channel against the enemies of the United States of America, making Prize of all British property as he can meet with. He may send his prizes into such Ports in France as may be most convenient and you will there demand protection for them, or rather let Mr Deane demand this and also liberty to make sale of such goods as he, Mr Morris and yourself may think best to sell there, direct the Captain to take out any drygoods he finds on board his Prizes into his Own Ship, and when by this means he has got a considerable quantity on board, let him come away for this Coast, and get into the first place of safety he can in the United States of America. The Captain must before he goes give bond duly to Observe all the Rules and Regulations of Congress and herewith we deliver you a blank bond, with a book of those Rules and a List of the Continental agents. Any Prize that he sends into France you must send forward from thence to some of these States, unless Mr Deane Mr Morris & yourself agree it is more for the Public good to sell in France and if you sell them there apply the Neat proceeds to pay the Debts you Contract in this business. Besides this Ship we approve also of the Two Cutters as mentioned in our former Letters. You may Arm fit and Man them and dispatch them hither soon as possible, either with Arms, Ammunition, or such other goods as Mr Deane and Mr Morris may recommend or provide. We deliver you Commissions &c. for these Vessels also, and recommend you to be very attentive to the choice of Captains; they should all be good Seamen Men of good character and Principles, strongly attached to this Country and its cause and prefer Americans thus deserving to any other Country. If such Americans are not to be found, seek for good men of other Countries that have been here or have connections amongst us; we know that there are many such in Europe that would be glad of the employ. This Ship must make but a Short Cruize in the Channel and a Short one will do the business for she will daily meet Prizes, but if She is long there they will have men of War in quest of her. We hope you’ll meet with some fine fast sailing ship for this purpose, and be able to purchase & fit her on reasonable Terms. We shall desire Mr Deane & Mr Morris to join you in the necessary assurances to those you deal with of being faithfully reimbursed & we again repeat that we shall make remittances in the produce of this Country for that purpose.

We will also make you a proper Compensation for your trouble and services hereafter when they can be better ascertained therefore wishing you success we remain Sir [&c.]

P.S. It is absolutely necessary that you observe the utmost Secrecy in all this business and make use of every Cloak or Cover you can think of to hide the real design

JOURNAL OF THE VIRGINIA COUNCIL OF SAFETY

[Williamsburg] Thursday October 3rd 1776

A Permit issued to Captain John Seymore, of the Sloop Dick Cole, lately arrived with Salt from Bermuda, to trade with the Inhabitants of this State.

CAPTAIN WILLIAM CORNWALLIS, R.N., TO PHILIP STEPHENS

Pallas at Sea 3d Octor 1776.

Latde 44°.30' / Longde 61°.30'W

I wrote to you by a Merchant Ship the 15th of Septr in which I desired you would be pleased to acquaint their Lordships, that we were so short of water that unless we had a fair Wind very soon I should be obliged to put into some Port, we have since been very unlucky in our Winds and not meeting with any Men of War, I propose putting into some harbour in Newfoundland to get water; Thirteen of the Convoy parted Company in a Gale of Wind, the rest have parted by request or of their own accord, as we have taken the greatest pains the whole Voyage to keep them together and never have steered out of their Course only gone a little more to the Northward than they chose. On the 30th Septr we retook a Ship that had been taken by an American Sloop Privateer the last day of August in Latitude 42° N: Longde 39° W, she was call'd the Anne bound from Dominica to London they were carrying her to New York. We Yesterday chased a Brig which we took to be an American Privateer, but she got away in the Night. I am Sir [&c.]

1. Revolutionary War Prize Cases, No. 6, Court of Appeals, 1776-1787, NA.

Connecticut Gazette, Friday, October 4, 1776

Last Lord's-Day Se'nnight Capt. Rowe, with a Party of Men, landed at a Place called The Old-Man's, near Brookhaven, on Long-Island, in order to remove his Family from Corum, to the Main, where he met one Richard Miller, a Native of East-Hampton, who had taken a Commission under Gen. Howe, and was inlisting Men for the Regular Army, and as he was riding by Capt. Rowe's Door where a centry was placed, Miller was hailed and ordered to stop, which he refused to do, and rode the faster, and after being repeatedly called upon to stop, and he not regarding, the Guard fired at him, when a Ball entered his Body, and he died the next Morning.

Last Wednesday a Prize Ship from Jamaica, bound to London, was sent into Port by the armed Brig Defence, belonging to the State of Connecticut, commanded by Capt. Seth Harding; she sailed from Montego Bay in company with 200 Sail under convoy of two Men of War, who had parted with them and returned into Port. Her Cargo consists of 306 Hogsheads of Sugar, 158 Ditto of Rum, 16 Bails of Cotton, a Quantity of Coffee and Mahogany, and has two Turtle on Board. She is about 300 Tons, called the John, McDonald, Master, was taken 12 Days ago.

An Embargo being laid on the Shipping in Jamaica, on Account of the Insurrection among the Negroes, for want of Provisions, detained the above Fleet; who, when they sailed, were on short Allowance of Provisions.

Yesterday Noon, Capt. Harding, in the Défence Privateer arrived from a Cruize; the same Morning off Narragansett-Beach, he fell in with two British Frigates, who fired 60 or 70 Shot at him, and he returned them a like Number. About 2 o'Clock Yesterday the two Frigates came to Anchor off Goshen-Reef, about 5 Miles westward of this Harbour.

Capt. Harding, two Days after taking the Prize before mentioned, fell in with and took a Guinea-man, homeward bound from the West-Indies, William Jackson, Master.

[On board the Prison Snow Mentor]

[Off New York] Fryd: the 4th: [October] Was a Rainey Morning, on acct: of which, we were oblig'd to keep more below than Common, which was very uncomfortable; About 10 oClock I went up on the Quarter Deck with Majr: [Levi] Wells, where he & I set while Noon, in which Time there was considerable movements of the Ships Laying near us; There was also several other Ships came in this Day, some of them had Troops on Board, & we were Inform'd that they had newly Arriv'd.

Toward Night we Observ'd the Landing of a considerable number of Horse, from on Board the Ships newly Arriv'd.

The Night following was Remarkably Cold & Chilly, I Dream'd more than common of Returning home, & that I was free from my Confinment &c.

AFFIDAVIT OF JOHN FINLEY AND OTHERS

Alexandria; the 4th October 1776.

On Tuesday the 23rd of July last, we, the subscribers, set off from this place with intention to see the enemy's ships, which we were informed were proceeding up Patowmac, and arrived opposite them at Sandy-Point, in Maryland, about half an hour past 6 o'clock in the evening, where we found a body of militia stationed, who informed us there were more men a little lower down the river, to whom we immediately went, and were by them told that col. [William] Harrison, with a detachment of 25 men, was gone down to prevent the enemy's taking off capt. [Robert] Conway's boats, by means of a gondola and armed schooner, which had left the ships for that purpose, as was conceived. We saw the Roebuck under way turning down, and firing now and then across the field, between the detachment and main body, and heard other great guns, which we supposed were from the gondola and armed schooner. We returned to the main body where we immediately heard a brisk firing of small arms and swivels, which was thought to be an engagement betwixt the detachment and the enemy. We think about sixteen cannon were fired in the whole. The men appeared to be all drawn up ready with their arms, and during the firing seemed in good spirits, and we heard several of them ask if they might not to go to the assistance of the detachment. We saw, nor discovered, nothing like cowardice; but on the contrary, a willing spirit seemed generally to prevail.

GOVERNOR NICHOLAS COOKE TO GOVERNOR JONATHAN TRUMBULL, LEBANON

Providence, October 5th, 1776.

Sir, –

I am to acknowledge the favour of your Honor's letter of the 1st instant, and to inform you that I laid it before the committee appointed to act in the recess of the General Assembly, who also conferred with Commodore Hopkins, and Mr. [Aaron] Burr upon your plan of an expedition to Long Island.

The committee upon the information and advice of Mr. [Stephen] Hopkins, a member of the General Congress, had countermanded their order for the marching of Col. [William] Richmond's regiment to New York, and had given permission to the men to enlist on board the Continental vessels fitting from this State. But anxious to do everything in their power to serve the general cause have, in consequence of the conference above mentioned, issued new orders to Col. Richmond to march with such of his regiment as shall not engage in the Continental vessels to proceed to New London on Friday next, and then to follow such orders as he shall receive from a general officer to be appointed by General Washington. They have also directed Mr. Bowler to send forward the whaleboats from the Massachusetts by that regiment, together with such as he can collect in this State, which will be between twenty and thirty. They have also ordered the two 'Row' Gallies of this State to New London to strengthen the naval force as much as possible.2 The Row Gallies are to be under the direction of Commodore Hopkins, who will write you by this express, and to whom I beg leave to refer you for an account of the forwardness of the Continental vessels in this State. This letter will be delivered you by Mr. Jonathan Hazard, a member of the General Assembly, whom I beg leave to recommend to your Honor's attention. I am, with great esteem and respect, Sir, [&c.]

The Alfred and Hamden are ready – the two new Frigates I expect will be ready in about a week if they can be mann'd, which none of the four are half at present –.
PORTSMOUTH Oct. 5, 1776

YESTERDAY arrived here the British frigate Mars, Capt. Radare, Capt. Thomas Palmer, in 9 weeks from Brest, with a cargo of military stores &c. He informs us the French treated him in the most hospitable manner, and seemed ready to do everything in their power to serve him; that the Customs House officers permitted the American vessels to pass without examination, while the English were all searched. Further particulars in our next.

Extract of a letter from Philadelphia, Sept. 6.

Our affairs at Ticonderoga and Oswego Point wear a favourable appearance, where by the last return, the army were about thirteen thousand strong, of which about 2,000 were unfit for duty. In addition to these, five other regiments were on their march from Connecticut and Massachusetts, and about 4 regiments at other different posts. At New-York things for the present are a little flattering, by means of the retreat, but the situation on Long Island has served to convince our army, that they are not able to meet the regiments that are determined to meet the enemy on equal terms. General Lee is ordered to reinforce them with several regiments from the back country, and those from Rhode Island, and with the conducted General may yet battle the enemy. There is reason to imagine that the enemy have suffered more than our army, including the captives.

The 17th arrived at Plymouth, Cape Bay, a schoon from H. Town, commanded by Mr. Parker, and taken off Narragansett river, by Capt. Joshua Sibley, in the Revenue Privateer, fired out from Plymouth.
I shall do all in my power to forward your Expedition, and join your Fleet when ever you give Orders so to do at New London — but expect you will. Excuse me to the Congress for not putting their Orders in Execution with respect to some of the Fleet — I am with great Respect Sir [&c.]

Providence Gazette, SATURDAY, OCTOBER 5, 1776

Providence, October 5.

On Sunday last Capt. Gideon Crawford arrived here from Nantz, in France, after a Passage of eight Weeks. He informs that great warlike Preparations continue to be made in that Kingdom, where every Kind of Indulgence is shewn to American Vessels. He also advises, that he saw an Account in a French Paper of the Marlborough, a 90 Gun Ship, being blown up at Plymouth some Time in July last, and that great Part of the Crew perished. 1

The same Day arrived here, from a successful Cruize, the Ship Columbus, Captain Abraham W[h]ipple, in the Service of the United States, having taken four Prizes, viz. a Brig from St. Croix, bound to Scotland, with 265 Hogsheads of Rum, 1 Tierce and 12 Barrels of Sugar; a Ship from St. Christophers, bound to London, with 291 Hogsheads, 59 Tierces, 23 Barrels and 12 Kilderkins of Sugar, and 15 Hogsheads and 3 Barrels of Rum; a Ship from Grenada, bound to London, with 300 Hogsheads of Sugar, 57 Hogsheads of Rum, 1 Pipe and 2 Hogsheads of Wine, and some Cotton; and a Brig from Montserrat, bound to Cork, with 218 Hogsheads of Rum. Two of the above Prizes are arrived at the Eastward.

Capt. John Field, in the Privateer Joseph, of this Place, has taken a Schooner, bound from Nevis to London, laden with Sugar and Rum: And Capt. [Thomas] Child, in the Privateer Industry, likewise of this Place, has taken a Brig from Antigua, bound to Ireland, having on board Sugar and Rum. Both the above Prizes are arrived in Port.

It is reported that five or six Sail of Provision Vessels, bound to New-York, have been taken by some Privateers, and carried in at the Eastward.

1. Brig Happy Return. Captain Crawford's account of H. M. S. Marlborough had no basis in fact.
2. The prizes Royal Exchange and Lord Lifford arrived at Boston; the other two were re-captured.
3. The schooner Sally and brigantine Minerva respectively. Providence Gazette, October 12, 1776 carried the libel notices.

October 5. Went up to our corps at Riviere-la-Cole; after remaining with my friends of the 31 regiment till I recovered sufficient strength. I sailed up in a raddoux vessel carrying six 9 pounders, commanded by captain [Edward] Longcraft, who shewed me every civility in his power. The floating Battery, Maria, and Carlton sailed with us, & our little voyage was pleasant, the day being fine, & the Lake now turning very broad. General Burgoyne was on board the Maria, who ran aground on a bank, but was towed off without any damage. The vessels were all cleared & ready for action, waiting only for the Inflexible, our largest vessel which was shortly expected up.

The Roebuck and Phenix lay off Bloomingdale waiting a Wind to proceed up the River. Three Rebel Vessels are seen lying between Forts Wash-ingt and Constitution, the first on this Island, the other on Jersey, Shore; the Vessels not above five Miles asunder.

2. This was Fort Lee; Fort Constitution being farther up the river.
3. The second attempt by Bushnell's submarine was probably made at this time. See Appendix B.

Also received from Mr Bradford, Agent for Continental Prizes, the inclosed Invoice, of articles which he has in his hands. The reason he gave for delaying it so long, was, the Plaids were infested with the small pox and he thought it necessary to cleanse and air them considerable time before they were used. LIEUTENANT THOMAS QUIGLEY TO THOMAS RANDALL

\textbf{On board the [General] Putnam, Cranberry, Oct. 6, 1776.}

I received yours of the 1st of October, in which you advise me to keep a good look out for the enemy's vessels. You may depend there shall none of them pass us through our negligence; we have seen three since my last to you, the first, a large snow, which we chased within sight of the Hook, but two of the enemy's vessels, tenders, coming out of the Hook, was obliged to give over the chase and return. The second, a brig, we took to be a transport, which we likewise chased some hours off Cranberry inlet, but being in sight of four other vessels, and one of them, a frigate, who gave us chase, we were obliged to run in again. The third, a hermaphrodite, but the wind blowing hard at northeast, could not get out to her. I have thought fit to send Mr. Little to you to be informed what we are to do for provision, it being very near out; we have, since the captain went away, broached one barrel of beef and one of bread entirely spoiled, and at this time there is not above three days' meat on board the vessel. We have not above four foremast men that is able to stand their watch upon deck for want of shoes and other clothing; therefore they beg you would endeavour to give us some speedy relief, either by sending us some money or otherwise as you shall think most expeditious. I had a letter from the captain of the same date as yours, but he has not mentioned any certain time of his being on board, which makes me conclude that it will not be very soon, as he is no great starter. I am, sir [&c.]

Days the Cap & Passengers give very pleasing accot of Matters the French Ports all open for every sort of Merchandize from America, all high in favour of the Continent. Cap Palmer was in Company with Mr Dean at Bourdeaux who spoke very highly of the Treatment he received there; the Cap. understood that Mr Dean was offered a Million Sterling on the Credit of the Continent before he left Bourdeaux for Paris to which place he was gone when Palmer came away. Capt Palmer has made verry pretty Freight for the Cargo he carried out which amounted only to about Eight Hundred Pounds Lawful Money first cost here having bro't the following Articles on Cargo (tho' he came away without compleating the Sales leaving it with the House of Messrs Delap what was on hand) — Vizt 5000 wt Powder 250 small Arms, One hundred Thousand flints, upwards of four Thousand Yards of small Canvas 400 or 500 Jackerats 100 Knapsacks 100 Legings 80 large Ruggs 2 small Bales woolings one Bale Linnen not yet opened, and Ten Tons of Lead, The Powder only will pay cost of Cargo with all charges and hire of Vessel, no doubt it will be agreeable to the Honle Secret Committee that I should reserve such things as may be wanting for the Frigate such as the Powder about fifty or a hundred of the Musquetts some Flints Lead some of the small Canvas which together with that I hope will be immediately ordered from Providence will compleat the second Suit of Sails the Ruggs & Blanketts cannot be done without on board Ship The rest of small Canvass which is very suitable for Tents, can be spared & sent as soon as I receive orders for that or any other part of her Cargo the Masts & Oak plank sold verry well, as the Cap. says some were disposed off before he came away I mentioned to the Honble Committee several Times that Masts are to be had here which together with other things would make a Good Cargo for France or Spain & pay the Greatest Freight by far of any thing I know of upon the Continent which may be seen by this Brig's Cargo which made the Freight of One Thousand pounds Sterling out & as much (nearly) home on about 800 £ Lawf[ul] money cost of Cargo should the Honle Committee see fit to send Vessel from hence with such a Cargo it may be done to advantage as one of these prize Ships might be purchased Low which would carry large Cargo of Masts & Lumber. I am with respect [&c.]

Watertown, October 7.

A Privateer belonging to Salem which arrived there last Thursday, fell in with the Fleet of twelve Sail, and was so closely pursued by the Daphne, that the Enemy fired musket balls into her; but by heaving over all her Guns, Water and Provisions, and by sawing down her upper Works they (bravely) escaped.
We also hear that three more prizes have arrived at the Eastward, 2 laden with Fish, the other with Molasses.

We hear that Capt. [Jonathan] Greely in a Privateer belonging to Boston, who sailed from thence last Monday afternoon, sent into Marblehead last Friday a Prize Brig, laden with Pork and Beef.2

Saturday last a Sloop laden with Lumber, was sent into Boston by Capt. Waters. She was bound to New York from the Eastward3 — Is it not astonishing there should still be such People among us, who would supply our Enemies to cut their own throats?

"EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM BOSTON, OCTOBER 7." ¹

The prize taken by Captain [Jonathan] Greely and sent first into Marblehead is come round here,² she has brought papers to the middle of August, which give particular accounts of the Spaniard's invading the kingdom of Portugal and taking possession of several towns. The inference is plain — war is or must be declared.

The mate of a London ship brought up this evening by Capt. Atkins,³ informs, that the ministry are so suspicious of plots and conspiracies being laid, that four persons dare not be seen conversing together in London, — they are immediately dispersed. A privateer is just arrived at Salem, after taking three prizes, one of which is loaded with dry goods to the amount of 37,000 l. sterling. This fine prize is not yet arrived. A day seldom passes without provision vessels, Jamaica-men or something being taken.

Providence October 7th 1776 —

Your Favour of the 24th ulto came to Hand when I was in the inoculatand there was a Prospect of their being soon manned none of their Guns could be spared. I however delayd returning you an Answer as it was proposed by some Gentlemen to lend Ten of the Guns belonging to the Forts in this State. But the Committee appointed to act in the Recess of the General Assembly which sat here on the 5th instant did not think proper to take such a Measure: And I am sorry to inform you that it is not in our Power to

NARRATIVE OF CAPTAIN JOHN PAUL JONES

[August 21 to October 7]

He left the Delaware the 21st of August, and arrived at Rhode Island on the 7th of October, 1776. Captain Jones had only seventy men when he sailed from the Delaware, and the Providence mounted only 12 four-pounders.
Near the latitude of Bermudas he had a very narrow escape from the enemy's frigate the Solebay, after a chase [and an engagement] for six hours within cannon-shot, and considerable part of that time within pistol-shot. Afterwards, near the Isle of Sable, Captain Jones had a running fight with the enemy's frigate the Milford; and the firing between them lasted from ten in the morning till after sunset. The day after this rencontre, Captain Jones entered the harbour of Canso, where he recruited several men, took the tories' flags, destroyed all the fishery, burned the shipping, &c. and sailed again the next morning on an expedition against the Island of Madame. He made two descents at the principal ports of that island at the same time; surprised, burned, and destroyed all their shipping, and the fishery, though the place abounded with men, and they had arms. All this, from the Delaware to Rhode Island, was performed in six weeks and five days; in which time Captain Jones made sixteen prizes, besides a great number of small vessels and fishery which he destroyed.

Newport Mercury, Monday, October 7, 1776

Newport, October 7.

Last Thursday a prize brig, loaded with rum and sugar, went up the east passage; she was bound for Antigua for the British fleet and army at New-York, and taken by the privateer Industry, Captain Thomas Child, who had taken another large brig from Jamaica, loaded with sugar, mahogany and logwood, which, we hear, is safe arrived at the eastward.

The Lady Washington privateer, Capt James Godfrey, has sent a fine ship into a port in the Massachusetts's State, loaded with 425 hogsheads of sugar, some rum, cotton, &c.

A ship loaded with dry goods, bound to Quebec, and taken by Capt. [Arthur] Crawford, went into a safe port yesterday; about the same time another ship from Jamaica, with sugar, rum, &c. taken by Capt [Abner] Coffin,¹ went into a secure harbour.

JOURNAL OF LIEUTENANT WILLIAM DIGBY

7 October. The First-Brigade moved up to our post at Riviere-la-Cole, and ours went up to Point-au Faire, seven miles higher. The order for our proceeding on the Lake, was as follows. Three small boats in front of all, as a party of observation; our schooners and armed vessels in line of battle following; Gun boats carrying 24 or 12 pounders in their bow and maned by the Artillery. The battalion of Grenadiers in flat bottom boats, & in their rear, the remainder of the army in battows. One gun fired from a gun boat was a signal to form 8 boats abreast, and two guns a signal to form a line of boats, this had a pretty effect, as our men were all expert at rowing, having been ordered to practise frequently. This was the first intention of our crossing, but afterwards found not to answer so well, as our armed vessels and gun boats engaging theirs seperately, leaving the troops on land to wait the decision, as were any accident to happen to the armed vessels, the troops must be in a most hazardous situation, & little able to defend themselves with small arms against the cannon of the enemy.

BRIGADIER GENERAL BENEDICT ARNOLD TO MAJOR GENERAL HORATIO GATES

Dear General

Valcouver Octr 7th 1776

I received your favour of the 2d Inst & Copy of yours of the 23d Ulto yesterday by General Waterbury who arrived with the Two Gallies about 2 oClock. — I fully expected by him, to have all the particulars of the Evacuating Long Island, & New York, He seems to know little of the Matter, & General Washingtons Letter seems not very explicit — the Affair of long Island, seems, still in Obscurity — I am Very Anxious for Our Army, & Friends. below Lord Hows, desiring a Conference, & Neglecting his Appointments, seems not very favourable It Appears to me our Troops, or Officers [sic], are Pannic Struck; or why does a hundred Thousand Men
Fly before, One quarter of their Numbers, is it possible my Country Men can be, callous to their wrongs. or hesitate one moment, between Slavery, or Death — what Advantage can we derive by blockading, the Enemy when, they Are in possession of a Part of the Country sufficient to support them. it appears to me Concise measures, should be Adopted — however, I will say no more, least I incur the Censure, we passed on their Council last Spring for Judging too rashly of our measures — That Being, in whose hands are all human Events will doubtless turn the Scale in favour of the Just. & opprised —

Nothing worth Notice has Occurred in this quarter since my last, the weather is very severe here, & Gales of wind freq[u]ent. If the Enemy do not make their apperance by the Middle of this Month I have thought of returning to Button Mold Bay — as I think they will not pretend to Cross the Lake after that Time, we are prepared for them at all Times & If they attempt Crossing the Lake, I make No Doubt of giveing a good Accot of them — I am Dear General Your Affectionate &c.

New-York Gazette, MONDAY, OCTOBER 7, 1776

New-York, Octo. 7.

On Thursday last arrived here from England, the Daphne, Captain [St. John] Chinnery, with several Transports under Convoy, having on board the XVIIth Regiment of Light Horse, under the Command of Lieutenant Colonel [William] Harcourt.

So vast a Fleet was never seen together in this Port, or perhaps in all America, before. The Ships are stationed up the East-River or Sound, as far as Turtle Bay; and, near the Town, the Multitude of Masts carries the Appearance of a Wood. Some are moored up the North-River; others, in the Bay between Red and Yellow-Hook; some, again, off Staten Island; and several off Powles-Hook, and toward the Kills. The Men of War are moored chiefly up New-York Sound, and make, with the other Ships, a very magnificent and formidable Appearance. Five Men of War have been detached from the Squadron into the North-River above Greenwich, probably to assist the Operations of the Army against the Rebels, who still remain on the Northern Extremity of this Island, and on the Heights about Kings-bridge.

It is said, the Flora Frigate of 32 Guns commanded by Capt. [John] Brisbane, is preparing to sail, with several Transports under Convoy.¹

[New York] Mond: the 7th: [October] Our Chocalet was Spoil’d in the Morning for want of good Water, we had therefore but a very Indifferent Breakfast; I spent most of this Forenoon on Deck; At about 11 oClock Mr: [Joshua] Loring & another Offr: came on Board & Order’d us to make Emediate preparion for Landing, there was also a Parole, or Writing prepared for us to Sign, which we all comply’d with, & the Field Officers first went ashore with Mr. Loring; After which I went up onto the Quarter Deck & Wrote some of the foregoing Lines, in Expectation soon to leave the Snow, not knowing what kind of Quarters or Treatment, will be next provided for us, yet hope that the Exchang will not be for the Worse.

About 4 oClock we were Landed with our Bagage on a Ferry Wharf near the Bair Market in N. York, where we wated for Orders, while near Sunset, when Mr. Loring Directed us to a very large House, on the West side of Broad Way, & South of Warren Street... Having this Large House Assign’d us with a small Yard to Walk in &c, we sopose we have chang’d our Cituation Rather for the better, both on acct: of Noise & Crowd.

Philadelphia Octobr 7th 1776

Dear Sir  As I have not been able for some time to attend the Marine Committe I last Saturday took the liberty to show Mr Morrice [Morr] your letters Concerning the Conduct of the Providence Committe about Guns and soon found Mr Hancock thro the multiplicity of Business had not laid the affair before the Marine Committe Mr Morrice resented their Conduct extremely and Desired liberty to lay the letter before Congress but as I was uncertain but some bad Effect might arise from laying it before the whole Congress I Declined it He then Desired liberty to lay it before the Marine Committe to which I Consented He said he would do his utmost that your ship should have them Guns at Providence and without paying that Enormous price for them I am in hopes them guns will be ordered for your Ship & one of theirs ordered to wait till guns can be sent from here where they are Contracted for at 35 & 40 pound this money pr tun

I Believe (inter nos) your letters to the President Concerning marine affairs have not been laid before the Committe nor much attention been paid them the great & important Business in which he is Constantly Employed and the almost immense number of letters which he is Constantly receiving on the most interesting Subjects makes it impossible for him to attend to them all and lesser matters must be neglectd I sincerly wish he did not belong to the Marine Committe but would Confine himself to the affairs of Congress which is Business abundantly sufficient to employ the time of any one human being

I was Disappointed of seting out last week as I Expected and as I am in hopes I am some better than I have been I Believe I shall try to tarry here till Col Whipples arrival which I think I may Expect in 12 or 14 Days from this time according to his letter of the 23d ulto

As for news we have none at this time how long we shall be without any I Cant say as by the last accounts from Ticonderoga they were Dayly looking for Burgoine up the lake and it seems Genl Hove is preparing to attack our Camp at Harleam God grant we may have better fortune than we had at the attack on Long Island the Enemy are now in Possession of Stratton Island, Long Island, Governors Island, the City of New York & Powles's hook I pray God they have now reached their Ultimatum and that from this time their power may Decline I am your very hearty friend

Journal of the Georgia Council of Safety 1

At a meeting of the Council,

[Savannah] Oct. 7th, 1776.

The President² laid the following before this Board, viz.:

In Convention.

This house having received some information which gives them great reason to apprehend an attack is intended against this Province; and having also been informed of an armed boat being upon the coast, and having committed some acts of depredation upon the inhabitants. It is the opinion of this house that the said matter, together with all evidence and proofs attending the same, be referred to the President. That he be requested by and with the advice of this Council to use the most vigorous, speedy and effectual means for putting the Province in a proper posture of defense, so as to repel the said attacks in case they shall be made, and prevent further depredations and robberies; and to assure him that this Province will most heartily concur with him in the said measures, and cheerfully defray the expenses attending the same.

Ordered, that a copy of this minute be presented to the President by Mr. Speaker after the rising of the House.

The above being considered, it was the opinion of the Board that two boats of ten men each be stationed at the inlets of Hossaba, Saint Catherine’s, Sapalö and at the dividings of Saint Simon’s Island, for observation and intelligence; and fifty men stationed at the extreme points of land Beulah, Hardwick, Sunbury, Sutherland’s Bluff and Darien.

COMMODORE MARRIOT ARBUTHNOT TO LORD GEORGE GERMAIN

My Lord

The success which his Maj: Arms have Obtained over the Rebels on the 27th of August, the particulars of which will come to your Lordships hands from better authority, than mine.

I shall therefore only say that it has enabled Lord Howe to send some ships of War for the protection of this coast from the Rebel pirates, who have entred our defenceless harbours indiscriminately from Cape Sable, to very near this port Landed to the great terror of the Well Affected People; Cut out several Vessels and done much Mischief, to prevent which for the future I have apied to General [Eyre] Massey and he has been pleased to comply with my requisition that a Capt & 50 Men be sent to Barrington, near Cape Sable, & a Subaltern & 30 to Liverpool with Arms & Ammunition under the care of the Comanding Officers to be delivered to such well Affected subjects as will joine the Kings Troops, if necessary. I hope my Lord this precaution will Effectually secure this part of the Frontier from further insult.

I must now pray your Lordship will excuse the Hurry in which this letter is written As I have not time to read it the Vessel who carries it being Under sail unexpectedly. I have therefore chosen to be deficient in allmost every thing rather than omit the smallest attention to your Lordships comands, because I am Most Unfeignedly My Lord [&c.]

JOHN LANGDON TO JOHN HANCOCK

Sir Portsmouth October 8, 1776

Your favour of 21 Ult. is now before me nothing would give me Greater pleasure than to have it in my Power, to Coopperate with the Agent of the Massachusetts in fitting out the Frigate Raleigh to cruise in Conjunc- tion with the Boston Cap. McNeale, as recommended by the Honle Assem- bly's of Massachusetts & New Hampe and now ordered by the Honle Committee, At present it's impossible, as both States have only Guns for one Ship indeed in this State we have not a Single Gun suitable, The Ship Raleigh as I've often wrote the Honbl Committee has laid since June entirely waiting for Guns a sett of which has been laying at Providence during that Time, every other material might have been obtained and the Ship manned at that Time had the Guns been ready the Privateers have stript us of our hands tho' I've no doubt she would soon be manned could the Guns be had we have about fifty Men on board and no more can be prevailed upon to enter untill the Guns are here, I conversed with Mr. [Thomas] Cushing and some of the Honle Committee on the Matter & told them I would Strain every nerve, to procure the Guns but told them at the same time of my Disappointment at Providence & that unless a sufficient number of Guns could be procured out of the Batteries in the Massachusetts she could not go out —

I shall use my best endeavours to procure Cannon but see not the least prospect unless ordered from Providence or Philadelphia in some Armed Vessel, which would not be verry great risque as there is not any Ship cruising in this Bay at present belonging to the Enemy. —

The Brig which is just arrived here from Bourdeaux on accot of the Continent, (of which I've wrote the Honle Secret Committee fully to which I beg leave to refer the Honble Marine Committee) has brou't Powder small arms &c which I shall reserve for the Ship agreeable to order of the Committee, so that nothing is wanting but Guns & Men the latter of which I believe may be had, should there be a prospect of the Ship's going out I shall take Care to keep all Matters as secret as possible relative to the Continent agreeable to Orders but as to this matter all this part of the Creation knew the Intent long ago.—

VICE ADMIRAL CLARK GAYTON TO PHILIP STEPHENS¹

Squirrel, Jamaica
October 8th 1776

Herewith you'll receive Duplicates of what I sent you by the last Packet

I beg leave to acquaint their Lordships that the 17th of last Month, a French Frigate arriv'd Command'd by The Chevr de Monteil, the occasion of His coming was to claim a Rebel Schooner which had been Seiz'd by His Majestys Ship Squirrel and sent into Port Royal; The Chevalier in his claim sets forth, that she was taken within a Mile of the Shore, within Gun Shot at the Point under the Colours'at the Mole, which he consider'd as passing beyond the bounds of the Treaties, & a violation of the Laws of Nations, and at the same time say'd he flatterd himself, I should think it very Natural for the Schooner to avail herself of the Protection afford'd her by his Court. In answer to which I inform'd him that after the repeat'd assurances which had been given from all the Foreign Powers to His Britannick Majesty of not Interfering or affording any protection to his Rebellious Subjects, I was greatly surprizd at the part of his Letter mentioning affording those people protection, which was very contrary to the Assurances; I mention'd before.

In respect to the Vessel in dispute she was a considerable distance from the Island of Hispaniola, when she was first Chased by the Squirrel, and was not within Gun Shot when taken, that I had always given particular directions to the Captains of the Kings Ships under my Command never to approach near any French or Spanish Possessions but in cases of the greatest urgency, it being my most sanguin wish, for the good understanding at present Subsisting between the two Nations to be maintain'd, as this Rebel Schooner, had been Seiz'd in consequence of the Kings directions it was not consistant with my Honor to deliver her up, but as it was a National matter must be Settled by our respective Ministers, which I should take the earliest opportunity of laying before mine, with which answer he Sail'd the next Morning very well Satisfied, and inclosed is for their Lordships information exact Copies of His Claim in French, with the English Translation & likewise of my Answer, which I hope will meet with their Lordships approbation.

On Captain [Stair] Douglas's arrival I gave Him Copies of The Chevaliers claim and desird he would be very particular in His answer, as it was to be sent for their Lordships information, which he [sic it] accordingly has been. In His Log for that Day, Sworn to by the Master of the Ship, it appears that when he made the Tenders Signal to Chace this Schooner, Cape Nichola Mole bore about SEbS 7 or 8 Leagues, and by the Affidavit of the Officer Commanding that Tender, attested by the Crew, that when he made her a Prize he was Five or Six Miles distance from the Land, all which circumstances are very contrary to those advanc'd by The Chevalier and plainly shews He was not well acquaint'd with the nature of His claim. Capt. Douglas likewise gave me his Log for the 6th & 7th days of September Sworn to by His Master, wherein it also appears that this very French Frigate offer'd protection to a Schooner from St Augustine at the Distance of Ten or Eleven Leagues from the Land, in Sight of the Squirrel, provided she had come from any part of North America, bound to Hispaniola and desired it, and inclosed me the Depositions of the Master & Super-cargo of that Schooner, who are both People of very good Character. I must beg leave to say that I think this behaviour of The Chevaliers a Gross violation of the Treaties he talks of, and contrary to the Laws of Nations. Inclosed for their Lordships information are exact Copies of Captain Douglas's orders, His Answer to the Chevaliers claim; the Papers refer'd to in it, which I hope will also meet with their Approbation.

(I likewise beg leave to inclose their Lordships the Extract of a Letter from Captain [Thomas] Lloyd, complaining of the Master of the Anna Teresa Packet not complying with His Instructions and parting Company, which I hope they will be pleas'd to Communicate to the Port Masters General, in order that the Master may be made an Example of for leaving his Convoy, after the Port Master General of this Island, had applied to me for one.)

Inclosed is likewise an Extract of a Letter from Captain Davey respecting the Illicit Trade carried on in the River Mississippi, since which I have receiv'd another from Him dated 27th August, informing me of His having been in at the Havanna, for Water, but that they would not permit any Person to go onshore, but sent onboard every thing wanted. He was told there was in the Harbour a Sixty four Gun Ship, and Six large Frigates

In my Letter of the 13th June last, I inclos’d their Lordships; Letters I had received from the Principal Inhabitants of the Mosquitto Shore, of two Spanish Guarda Costas, having Seized a Sloop belonging to the Inhabitants, I now beg leave to inclose them the Copy of a Petition from Messrs Irving & Blair Owners of the Sloop, with an Affidavit annex’d to it, of her being carried to Porto Bello, and from thence to Carthagena, praying I would send to Demand her, which His Excellency Sir Basil Keith, has likewise desir’d as Governor of the Island, so that as soon as the Important Duty of the Station will admit of it I propose sending a Ship to Carthagena to Demand the Sloop, or the value of her, & her Cargo

I likewise beg leave to inclose the Copy of an Affidavit of a James McGlashan, of an English sloop being taken by a Spanish Guarda Costa, at a place call’d Alta Vella, on the South Side of Hispaniola, in the Spanish Territories, and shall also send to Demand her, as soon as the Service will allow of it –

The Grantham Packet, arriv’d the 16th of last Month, Dismast[ed] in a Hurricane to Windward – I’ve order’d her Damages to be repair’d at the Kings Yard and supplied with Stores, and directed the Storekeeper to procure Bills of Exchange for Payment thereof – and by this opportunity have wrote to the Navy Board respecting it, which I hope their Lordships will approve

I have the pleasure to inform their Lordships that His Majts Ships & Vessels under my Command have taken Forty Six Sail of the Rebel Americans; including Eight taken by the Diligence at Pensacola

With respect to the Disposition of His Majestys Ships & Vessels under my Command I beg leave to inform their Lordships that the Antelope, Wincehelsea, Atalanta, Racehorse (Sloop) are Cruizing in the Windward Passage — The Squirrel, at Port Royal but intend’d to go with the Convoy the 28th instant — The Boreas arriv’d the 5th instant from New York having safely Land’d the 30th Regiment. The Maidstone is likewise arriv’d from the Convoy, both of which Ships I’ve order’d to be fitt’d for Sea again as fast as possible — The Badger Brig will Sail in a few days for Pensacola to releive the Diligence who is exceeding bad, and intend her to remain ‘til the Atalanta has Careen’d which shall releive her — The Porcupine Schooner is at Greenwich attending the Survey on the Masts & Bowspreet many of which are very defective after the Survey, if I find them in such Condition as I Judge Necessary for their Lordships immediate Knowledge I shall dispatch her Express – I am, Sir, with great respect [&c.]

Dear Sir

Saw Pitts 9th Octob 1776

Your Favour of the 6th Inst I recd Yesterday by the returning Post who was flying and I cou'd not acknowledge it by him. Is it Possible that Capt Mortimer has forgot his engagements. You remember how often I urged [John] Cotton to clinch that Rigging. However I am surprised at Nothing the daily disappointments I meet with, prepare me to believe any thing. The Rigers I believe will do as they please about the pric of their Labour or quit; Curse on such double dealing. I think this Country is older in fraud & Chicanery than G Britain. This day several Ships & Tenders passed Fort Washington and penetrated through all our Cheaveaux D'frieze, Sunken Vessels & the Devil knows what, and have arrived safe on Taupon Sea a wide place about 4 Leagues above the Bridge. This will obstruct our Navigation down that River & bring us to the Necessity of much Land Carriage and if the Enemy effectually stop the Navigation of the Sound their will be great difficulty in supporting our Army.

I am very greatly mortified that You are so disappointed about the Ship, and I suppose the Communication with the Jersys will be cut off or greatly obstructed but if it should be otherwise I dont see as any hemp will be had. the Devil has got footing among all orders of Men and we are going at a great rate to ruine unless a speedy alteration takes place. half the World are speculating; I fear the Person who [you] dispatched about the Hemp deserves a Neckcloth of it. I have no news from him Yet.

I have given a Commission to Captain La Force to build a vessel for lake Ontario, in the execution of which I beg you will give all the assistance he may require — We have no news of Burn who was sent down to you ten days ago. I am &c

[H. M. S. Roebuck, October 3 to October 9, 1776]

3d Octr The Daphne arrived from England with Burgoyne's Regimt of Light Horse: They had 10 weeks passage, and gave account that the Hessians had sailed about the same time, so that they were now hourly expected.

[5th] As the Rebel Army was chiefly supplyed by the North River, and placed great dependance upon it, they had taken a great deal of pains to throw a Boom a cross, by sinking Vessels & frames of Timber, to prevent our ships from passing up. They had placed these obstructions in the narrowest part, where the River is about 12 hundred Yards wide, between two High Lands, having Fort Washington on the Right, and Fort Constitution on the left, each containing several batterys of heavy cannon, placed at some distance along the shore, and six row Galleys with each a large Gun in their prow guarded the boom in front; so that, we understood, they looked upon it to be perfectly secure: and it is possible, from seeing the great preparation they had made, we might also have thought so, if a deserter had not informed the Admiral that there was a passage open between two of the sunken Vessels (which his Brother the Ferry Man had given him marks for) and offered himself as a Pilot. This intelligence was exceedingly agreeable to both the General & Admiral, conceiving, that if ships could be got up the North River, the Rebel's supplies would not only be cut off from Albany & that country, but even their Communication with the Jerseys would become very uncertain & unsafe which could not fail of distressing them, and would very much assist in the intended operation of surrounding their Army as soon as the Hessians should arrive.

9th Octr The Phoenix Tartar & Roebuck were therefore ordered upon this service, when after waiting a few days for an opportunity they passed through on the 9th Octr without the least obstruction, and with but little loss, considering they were an hour & a quarter within the Enemys fire. The Galleys made the best of their way up the River, but two of them, with sev'l other Vessels that came with supplys to the Rebel Camp were soon over taken, and fell into our hands: the former of which was a great acquisition to us, as they never after dared to shew us their Galleys again. Much praise is due to Capt Parker on this occasion (who led, in the Phoenix) for his steadyness & good conduct — when they drew near to the danger, the Pilot, in great confusion told him, that the marks which then appeared were not those that had been described to him, and he was totally at a loss. upon which C. [Captain] Parker, very prudently, immediately determined to take his chance where he knew the deepest water to be, which was Close to the eastern Shore, and which was the passage he came through when he passed down, before the obstruction of the Channel were said to be completed.

1. Hamond, No. 5, UVL.
2. In the margin of his narrative, Hamond listed the losses of the three ships as follows:
   - The Phoenix lost a Midn & 2 Men & had several wounded.
   - The Tartar had a Midn killed & 2 or 3 wound.
   - The Roebuck lost the 1st Lieutenant a Midn & 2 Men and had 4 wounded.
   - The Phoenix actually had 4 killed and 13 wounded.
3. Ibid., No. 1, a second version of the passing of the batteries is contained in a rough sheet attached to the narrative. It reads:
   an American came into our Camp & stated that he was Brother to the Ferry Man who plyed from Fort Washington on the York side to Fort Lee on the Jersey shore, who had informed him that there was an opening in the Dam by which ships might pass, and had showed him where it was, and being asked if he would undertake to Pilot a ship through the opening, to which he assented for a Reward — The General upon this Information very strongly & officially pressed the Admiral to take advantage of this Information when 3 ships were ordered on that service the Phoenix Capt Parker Roebuck Capt Hamond & Tartar Capt Ommaney and embracing the first opportunity of a strong wind & flood Tide each ship followed in a Line after the other, having previously considered what would be best to be done in the Event of the Guide proving Treacherous a favorable opportunity offered abt Noon on when Capt Parker being senior officer led the way & steer'd by the direction of the Guide towards the Middle of the Dam having Pistols laying on the Binnacle telling the guide what would be his Fate if the ships should stop in their passage. He for some time persisted in his knowledge, but on the near approach confessed his perfect ignorance — Fortunately this had been so strongly suspected, that Capt Parker immedty hauld up to the side where it was known the deepest water lay — and the ships all passed within 40 yards of the Muzzles of the Enemys Guns in the Batterys of Fort Washington — amidst the fire of 100 Cannon from both sides of the River — in little more time than about 20 minutes —

Memoirs of Major General William Heath

[Headquarters, near Harlem] 9th [October]. — Early in the morning, three ships, two of 40 guns, and one frigate, with two or three tenders, stood up the North River. They were briskly cannonaded from Fort Washington and Fort Constitution. They however passed our works and the chevaux-de-frise: the American galleys, small craft, and two large ships standing on before them. The two ships were run on shore near Phillips's mills, and two of the galleys near Dobbs' Ferry. The enemy took possession of the two galleys, and got them off. A boat landed a number of men, who plundered a store, stove the casks, and then set the store on fire, and left it. The Americans soon extinguished the fire.
Our General ordered Col. [Paul Dudley] Sargent, with 500 infantry, 40 light-horse, Capt. [Jotham] Horton of the artillery, with two 12 pounders, and Capt. [Edward] Crafts with a howitzer, to march immediately, with all possible expedition, to Dobbs' Ferry. The enemy took a schooner loaded with rum, sugar, wine, &c. and sunk a sloop, which had on board the machine, invented by, and under the direction of, a Mr. Bushnell, intended to blow up the British ships. This machine was worked under water. It conveyed a magazine of powder, which was to be fixed under the keel of a ship, then freed from the machine, and left with clock-work going, which was to produce fire when the machine had got out of the way. Mr. Bushnell had great confidence of its success, and had made several experiments which seemed to give him countenance; but its fate was truly a contrast to its design.²

[Extract] Head Qtrs, Heights of Haerlem
Octr the 9th [1776]

About 8 o'clock this morning, Two Ships of 44 Guns each, supposed to be the Roebuck & Phoenix and a Frigate of 20 guns, with Three or Four Tenders, got under way from about Blooming dale, where they had been lying some time and stood with an easy southerly breeze towards our Chevaux de Frise, which we hoped would have intercepted their passage while our Batteries played upon them, But to our surprise and mortification, they ran thro without the least difficulty and without receiving any apparent damage from our Forts, tho they kept up a heavy Fire from both sides of the River. their destination or views cannot be known with certainty, but most probably they are sent to stop the navigation and cut off the supplies of boards &c. which we should have received and of which we are in great need. They are standing up, and I have despatched an Express to the Convention of this State,² that notice may be immediately communicated to Genl [George] Clinton at the Highland Fortifications to put him on his guard in case they should have any designs against them and that precautions may be taken to prevent the Craft belonging to the River from falling into their hands.

TENCH TILGHMAN TO MAJOR GENERAL WILLIAM HEATH¹

Sir

Head Quarters 9th October 1776

I have this Moment yours of this Evening. The Party of 100 Men were ordered up to assist a Detachment of Artillery in covering the two New Ships, should the Enemy attempt to cut them out or destroy them. Soon after I got home from Fort Washington I rec'd a Report that the Enemy had passed the new Ships and were landing at Dobb's Ferry. I then directed Colo [Joseph] Read to desire you, if that should be the Case to send the Field Pieces and Howitzers forward if it should be judged necessary, and as Genl Clinton best knew the Ground to consult him upon the Necessity of sending on the Artillery, and if it was sent, that a strong covering Party should go with it. Till I rec'd yours I heard no more of the Matter. I am sorry you have been misinformed as to the Movement of the other Ships below, they have never stirred from their Moorings. You will therefore be pleased to order Capt Benson to be as expeditious as possible in getting the new Ships afloat and bringing them down to where they may be conveniently ballasted. I will take proper Care of the prisoners you are sending down —

While I was writing the above by his Excellency's Direction he went to Bed. I thought it a pity to disturb him to sign it. I therefore have the Honor to subscribe myself [&c.]

JOURNAL OF AMBROSE SERLE 1

[On board H.M.S. Eagle, New York]

Wednesday, 9th [October]

This Morning the Phoenix, the Roebuck and the Tartar sailed up the North River above the Cheveaux de Frize of the Rebels under a heavy Discharge of their Cannon, which was not perceived to do them any Damage. The Pearl & Repulse kept where they were before; so that now the North River is in full Possession of His Majesty's Fleet, and the Retreat of the Rebels entirely cut off from N. Jersey. Their Vessels and Boats made the best of their Way up the River; but it is not yet known, whether any of them are destroyed or taken. The Rebels, we find, are deserting apace, are very sickly, and much dispirited. They are also retiring backward, destroying Corn & Hay as they go, further into New Jersey from Bergen & Newark, and the adjacent Parts.

DIARY OF FREDERICK MACKENZIE 1

[New York] 9th Octr — At half past 7 in the morning The Phoenix, Roebuck, and Tartar, weighed anchor, and having the advantage of the flood tide, and a brisk Southerly wind, stood up the North River, followed by three or four small tenders. As soon as the Rebels perceived them under way, they beat to arms and manned all their batteries on each side of the River. About 8 o'Clock they began to fire very briskly at the Ships from both sides, but particularly from the batteries near Kingsbridge and immediately opposite. The Ships fired but little, and in about \( \frac{3}{4} \) of an hour had entirely passed those batteries without receiving any damage that could be observed by us. In their passage up, while we could see them, they drove about 20 sail of small craft before them, some of which they took. About 10 o’Clock they were again fired on by Some of the Batteries up the River, but as they were then out of our sight, it was not known what the consequence was.

This movement is certainly connected with the general plan for the attack of the Enemy, and points out clearly that our operations are intended against Mr Washington’s Army on this Island.

CONTINENTAL MARINE COMMITTEE TO THE RHODE ISLAND FRIGATE COMMITTEE

Gentlemen [Philadelphia] October 9th 1776 —

We have been presented with a Letter from John Langdon Esquire Continental Agent at Portsmouth in New Hampshire to Josiah Bartlett Esquire a member of Congress, giving a very extraordinary account of your proceedings in respect to the Canon cast in your State for the use of the Continental Frigates. He says that the frigates at Providence cannot be ready to go to sea for two or three months, and that the frigate at New Hampshire waits only for Cannon, which under One pretence or other you have refused to supply him with altho they are lying useless in Rhode Island, and another Set might be cast in time for your ships. He represents your refusal of his reasonable request as having its foundation partly in interested motives and partly in Jealousy of the New Hampshire ship being at Sea before yours.

We cannot pretend to judge of the propriety of his Observations having only heard One side, but if the representation he has made be a just one, we shall think the Continental Interest was much misplaced when put into the hands of those who are capable of acting from such Motives against the public good. You’ll observe we do [not] pretend to decide on your conduct, because we are willing to hear your defence of it. Mr Langdon is a Gentleman of character and puts his name to what he writes, therefore we suppose he will be ready to make good his charge, however it is not our present purpose to inquire into your conduct at this time, but to inform you that we have sent Mr Langdon Orders to call on you again for a Set of Cannon suitable for the New Hampshire Frigate, & as we understand those Cannon are paid for out of the Moneys you have received and drawn for, We now direct and insist that a compleat set of the Cannon most suitable for that Ship be immediately delivered to the said John Langdon Esquire or to his order for the use of the Continental Frigate the Raleigh now at Portsmouth, and we request that you will render him or his Agents all the assistance in your power in transporting the said Cannon to Portsmouth in the most safe and expeditious manner. Mr Langdon has said nothing about Shot or other stores, but as it is our business to consider and attend to the Continental Interest at large abstracted from Jarring Interest or Jealousey of one State against another we likewise desire you may Supply Mr Langdon with Shott or any other Stores you have provided for the Continental service provided he wants them to expedite the sailing of the Raleigh which is now under Orders for immediate service. We also inform you that we shall send an Agent to inspect the state of the Frigates built under your direction that we may include them in our intended report to Congress.— We are Gentlemen [&c.] 2

2. Ibid., the Marine Committee also wrote this date to Stephen Hopkins: "We hope Sir, that, your attachment to the general Interests of America, Your regard to the character of your State and your Friends employed therein, and your influence in that State will all combine to have those abuses rectified. . . ."

CONTINENTAL MARINE COMMITTEE TO THE RHODE ISLAND FRIGATE COMMITTEE

Gentlemen [Philadelphia] October 9th 1776

We the Subscribers Members of the Marine Committee of Congress being duly authorized to give such directions as may conduce to the Service of the United States of America in all things relative to this department, are now of opinion that a Compleat Set of the Cannon you have had Cast for the Continental Service ought to be applied to the immediate use of the Raleigh Frigate and therefore do Order and direct that you deliver a sufficient number of the most suitable Cannon for that Ship to John Langdon Esquire or to his Agent employed for the purpose of receiving and forwarding the same to Portsmouth, and for so doing this shall be your Warrant. Given under our hands at the Marine Office in Philadelphia the day and year above written. —

CONTINENTAL MARINE COMMITTEE TO CAPTAIN NATHANIEL FALCONER

Sir [Philadelphia] October 9th 1776 —

You are hereby authorized and directed to repair to Providence in Rhode Island and there view examine and inspect two frigates lately built & now lying at that place. You are to call on the respectable Committee of Gentlemen under whose direction they were built and are to be fitted; give them notice of your arrival and appointment to this service, require from them an Inventory of the Continental Stores provided for these Ships, and examine into the quality of the same comparing the said Stores with the Inventory to see that they agree, and you are to make report as soon as may be to this Committee of the State and condition of these Ships, as to the Strength, workmanship, beauty and other qualities, also as to the quality and quantity of Stores, Number of Men and Officers belonging to them and of their forwardness for the Sea; and all persons employed in the building or fitting of said Frigates are hereby required to aid and assist you if need there be in performing the service hereby enjoined you, and for so doing this shall be your Warrant.

Given under our hands at the Marine Office the day and year first above written.

CONTINENTAL MARINE COMMITTEE TO JOHN LANGDON

Sir [Philadelphia] October 9th 1776.

Your friend Mr Bartlett having laid before this board your Letter to him of the 14th Ultimo respecting the conduct of the Committee at Providence Rhode Island, on your applying to them for Cannon for the Raleigh, this conduct appears to us in the most extraordinary point of light, but as it is unbecoming of public Bodies, to condemn the conduct of any before they are heard in their own defence, We have wrote them of this date telling the points of which you complain and ordering them to deliver you a compleat set of the Continental Cannon in their possession those that are most suitable for the Raleigh, and further we have directed them to deliver you Shot or any other Continental Stores they have, if you think them necessary to expedite the sailing of that ship. we have also requested them to afford you any assistance in their power in transporting the cannon and Stores safe and soon to Portsmouth. We may not omit telling you that we have thought it only common justice to send Governor [Stephen] Hopkins a Copy of your Letter as the Commee were all of his appointment. We have said that deeming you a Gentleman of honor we doubt not but you will support the charge made against them, and under that believe we think it is justly your due and return you thanks for the information given us, as well as for your apparent solicitude for the public good. We have determined to have the Frigates inspected, and report made thereon. Before we close we must request your utmost exertions to get the Raleigh out to Sea, and the Captains and other Officers Commissions will now go forward immediatly We are sir [&c.]

CONTINENTAL MARINE COMMITTEE TO THE NEW YORK CONVENTION

Gentlemen [Philadelphia] October 9th 1776.

Having received information that some of the enemies Ships of war and Tenders have passed the obstructions laid in Hudsons River, and got above the same; we are very anxious for the fate of the Frigates now building in your State. We therefore earnestly desire to direct your close attention to some probable means of securing the said Ships; either by launching them immediately, if possible, and removing them to some place of greater Safety, or by such other Methods as your wisdom shall devise. With great respect. We are Gentn [&c.]

Philadelphia, October 9.

By a letter from Boston, dated Sept. 30, we are informed . . . Captain [William] Co[a]s, of the Warren privateer, has carried into Newburyport, or Cape Ann, a very rich prize, laden with sugar, rum, cotton, plate and money.¹

We hear a large prize ship from Jamaica, taken by the General Montgomery privateer of this port, is ashore on the Cross Ledge, in our Bay; but it is expected she will be got off, by taking out part of the cargo.²

By a vessel from Cape Francois we learn, that a French 50 gun ship was cruizing off that place to protect the trade; that two prizes had been carried in there and sold by Captain Monro [James Munro], of Rhode-Island;³ and that they will not suffer the English men of war to go in there for water.

We hear from Savannah, that the Men of War have left that River; so there is not now one of the Enemy's Vessels in South-Carolina or. Georgia.
It is said, there are some in Cape-Fear River in North-Carolina.
Yesterday two French Sloops arrived here from Hispaniola; the Cargo of one of them, consisting of Linens, Thread, Brandy, Rum, Liqueors, Claret, Sweet Oil, Paper, Soap, Nails, &c. is to be sold by publick Outcry at Mess. Lever and Greenwood's Store, on Friday next, the 11th. instant, at 9 o'Clock in the Forenoon.

Count d'Ennery, Governor of Santo Domingo, to Gabriel de Sartine
[Extract] Port au Prince, 9 October 1776

P. S. I must add that besides the English frigate cruising near the end of the mole to intercept Insurgent Vessels, there is another cruising off Cap [Haitien] and Fort Dauphin for the same purpose; M. de Monteil is watching the mole; surely he will not tolerate any insults and at the very least he will comply with Instructions. Since Cap remains unguarded, I will send
M. de Beaussier there as soon as possible because he is sighting and learning nothing during his cruise; this will not take place before the end of November however. M. de Monteil wants to leave without delay having only three months provisions left. I pointed out to him that I would keep him on my own responsibility until I receive your orders concerning him or until the arrival of other frigates which could relieve him. I shall give him the order in writing to stay here because, in the present circumstances, it is at least suitable, and necessary that two of the King's frigates remain on station here. I hope that you will approve the orders which I am issuing M. de Monteil and M. de Beaussier in this matter. As I reported upon first receipt, we have news that a lively action took place in New York between the Royalists and the Insurgents; in any case, it cannot be decisive and I believe that the campaign of the English has been a failure since they will have to begin another one next year, which will prove very costly in any case.

| Sorel October the 10th 1776 | Sir Hereby acknowledging the late receipt of your letter and weekly account; I acquaint you, that so many things have concurred to retard my progress towards Quebec; that I despair of reaching Champlain before the 12th In the meantime, lest I should be still farther retarded, I take this method of expressing my earnest desire, of your getting the Blonde down below the Rapids to take in your lumber out of the Lord Howe: to the end that she may get down to the Bason, in order to be in readiness to proceed towards England, at a very short notice — where I wish to see us all speedily re-united: that we may concert measures how to dispose of His Majestys very important naval concerns in this River; in such manner; as shall be most for the interest of Government. By what I have learnt, I think it probable that General Carleton did on Tuesday Evening or yesterday morning find our flotilla in readiness to go in quest of that of the Rebels so that we may shortly Expect important news from the farther end of Lake Champlain — As the Inflexible is of the party, I am not uneasy about the event — Her Keel was laid on the 5th of September, she was launched the 30th, and sailed the 4th instant: by no means the last of the Armament — All the Carpenters work bestow’d upon her; until launching; did not exceed 12 men's labor for 16 days — By Lieutenant [John] Schank's contrivance and close unremitting diligence, Seamen did the rest of the business — If you have no occasion for the aid of the Lord How's men to get your Ship down send them forthwith to theirs —

Boston, October 10.

Same day [October 7] Capt Forrest¹ return'd to Salem from a cruize, in which he has taken 5 prizes, one of which is of considerable value, as the bills of laden of her cargo that is come to hand amounts to £36,000 sterl. Capt. Forrest put his prisoners ashore at Cape Finister, where he was inform'd that the Spaniards had made a public Declaration of War against Portugal, and were ravaging the frontiers of that kingdom.

I am much surprised so little Attention is paid to us by the good People below, I should have imagined, Two hundred Seamen could have ben sent us, in three, or four Months, after they were so pressingly wrote for. — I make not the least doubt there has ben the greatest Industry Used at Ty, in fitting out the fleet, I am glad to hear the other Gally is so forward, I expect to see her the first fair wind —

The Cloathing which is arived is a sufficient supply of the kind, we much want One hundred pr Shoes, & Hose, One hundred Watch Coats, Fifty pair Breetches, & Twenty Blankets & hatts — or Caps — We are Victualled for abt Ten Days. —

You may depend I shall do nothing of Consequence, without Consulting Genl Waterbury, & Colonel Wigglesworth, both of whom, I esteem Judicious honest Men, & good Soldiers — We Cannot at Present Determine how long it will be requisite to remain here. It may depend on the Intelligence we may receive — we shall Not return One Minute Sooner than is prudent. & necessary.

I have received no late Intelligence From the Northward, the loss of the small Canoes, (All we had) has prevented my sending out small Parties. I have wrote Colonel [Jonathan] Trumbull [Jr.] to Send me three or four which may be procured at Ty. or at Crown Point. —

I am of Opinion with you respecting the Battery building at River a Cote, that the Enemy, are Acting on the Defensive, they are at the same time Exerting themselves, to Augment their Navy, & if they hear (in Time) that Lord How is in Possession of New York, they will doubtless Attempt a Junction with him. If they think it practicable, their Fleet. I make no Doubt in the Course of this Month will be very Formidable, if not equal, to Ours. —

I have taken Two four Pounders From the Liberty for the Trumbull, & three of her small Guns, there is others at C Point Suitable for Her, & Colonel [Thomas] Hartley may be supplied with large ones for his Castle from Ty. — The Schooner goes up for Provisions I wish she may be, emediately dispatched Back — the Guns may be ready when she returns at Present she does not want them. —

I am, extreemly glad You have represented to Congress & Genl Schuyler the Absolute Necessity of Augmentg Our Navy, on the Lake, It. appears to me an Object of the utmost Importance, I hope measures will be emediately taken for that Purpose — There is water between C Point & Point Aux Feu for Vessels of the largest Size, I am of Opinion that Row Gallies are of the best. Construction & Cheapest for this Lake, perhaps it may be well to have One Frigate of Thirty Six Guns, she may carry Eighteen pounders on the Lake & will be Superior to Any Vessel that can be built at, & Floated from St Johns — Carpenters ought to be emediately employed to Cut Timber & Plank — & three hundred set at Work at Skensborough the 1st of Feb'y — of these Matters I hope we shall have time to Confer hereafter.

[Pointe au Fer]

10th Oct'r our little squadron sail'd from Point au Fer toward the upper or great Lake; about 12 o'clock on the 11th one of our arm'd boats es-pied their Fleet at anchor in the Bay of Belcour [Valcour]. Our arm'd Boats immediately rush'd in amongst them and engag'd them without wait-ing for orders; the Carlton went to their assistance, and kept a continual firing until dark, during which time we destroyed a Schooner called the Royal Savage, and greatly damaged another; unluckily for us, the wind chang'd and hindered the other part of our Squadron from giving the Carlton any assistance; had it not thus happen'd, in all probability, the Rebels whole fleet would have been destroy'd. Our loss consist in two Arm'd Boats been sunk; about ten men kill'd and sixteen wounded. The loss of the Rebels is not positively known.

I do justice to Capt'n Dacres, he behav'd like a true British Tar; he was engaged by five of them together, and when order'd to join his squad-ron he would not, till the General's own Boat came on board with positive Orders to dissipst.

The Rebels Fleet consisted of sixteen sail of schooners, sloops and Row Galleys. The Rebels Anchor'd close under the Land, and our Indians did them considerable damage with their small arms from the shore.

[Extract] Camp Haerlam Higths Octobr 10th 1776 —

My dear Sir, Since I wrote you last nothing very Material has happened with our Army and that of our Enemies, now and then, a few shot are exchanged by the scouting parties, except that, we have been very friendly Neighbours since the 16th Ulto in this Quarter, nor do we understand any thing of Consequence has taken place in Canada, Burgoyne [Burgoyne] is on one side the lake perpairing to cross with a very large fleet, of Boats and some Arm'd Vessells, Genl Gates is ready to receive him at Ticonderago where he has a well Regulated Army in high spirits, The place well Fortifyed, and a fleet nearly equal to his. Our lines at this place are now very Formidable and I think sufficient to defend against twice our Number, The Troops Desart from each Army almost every night, four Sentinals left their posts two nights ago and went over to the Enemy, all of them Irishmen, four from the Enemy came over to us yesterday morning, are of the same Kidney. — Lord Stirling was yesterday Exchanged for Govr Brown of [New] providence, he got to Head Quarters in the Evening, and relates his treatment whilst a prisoner was very polite from those in High rank, except Dunmore, who Visitted him the Morning after the Battle on the Island, with one Epthorp. The latter treated him with Complaisance, but our Old acquaintance on whose enterlex this Climate has had no Impression, Accosted him thus, “So, how do you do, I am sorry to see you in such D—nd Black Company,” (meaning other officers who ware Prisoners in the same room) He Observed to him, it was poor Consolation to Gentlemen officers who the chance of war had put in his power, and remarked, he had not of late been so familiar with Black Company as his LdShip, This wheel'd him on his heel, and since he never would see him — his Lordship has returned to us Exceeding hearty, and brings account that Burgoyings Light Horse arived at N. York three days ago, They ware four months at sea, you may Guess the Order they landed in, besides this they lost 70 of them on the passage, The last Division of Hessians with a very large Fleet of Transports are still at sea, they are Bringing out several Hundred Waggon Horses, Waggons, Carts, flat Bottom Boats &c, &c, and is call'd the Grand Fleet. I hope the equinox has some hidden blast in store for them, ... I inclose you a rough sketch of this most horrid Country, now the seat of war, by it you may form some Idea of the Advantages the Enemy has over us in their Shiping, and dair say you'll wonder how this Army has so long escaped, when you come to see the Number of creeks, Rivers, and Guts that make into it, all of which are Navigable for almost any ship, and at this time a 28 Gun Frigate lays in Hellgate, a place not much wider then the Streets of Williamsburg. I dair say Andrews may be able to form a pritty Exact sketch from the one sent, the distances are laid down by Griffith who is well Acquainted wth every part ...

"Extract of a letter from New York, Oct. 10"

On the 8th of October 340 rebels, in five flat-bottomed boats, with two pieces of cannon, came down Harlem river a little past four in the morning, and attacked an out-post of ours on Montresor Island, where there were about 80 men. The Brune frigate being at anchor near the Island, fired at the boats in the dark, and by the first shot sunk one of them full of men; and after a short skirmish they were beat off the island. Their loss is not exactly known, but they left a major and 27 men wounded. Our loss fell upon the 71st regiment, of which four were killed and six wounded. Had it not been for the darkness of the morning, in all probability few, if any at all of them had escaped; for the frigate was obliged to cease firing, because she could not distinguish our people from the enemy.

Ordered, That the said accounts be paid.

Sir,

[Philadelphia] October. 10th 1776—

We learned some time ago with much concern that the expedition we had planed for you to execute, woud prove abortive; as the ships had gone out a Cruising under the sanction of Governor Trumbulls recommendation, with which we cannot be well satisfied, altho in this instance, we are disposed to pass it by in silence being well convinced both he and the several Captains meant to perform service at a time the Ships were idle. Supposing therefore that you will have been obliged to lay aside the expedition to Newfoundland, We now direct, that you immediately collect the Alfred, Columbus, Cabbot & Hampden, take them under your command and proceed for Cape Fear in North-Carolina where you will find the following Ships of war

The Falcon of 18 Guns

The Scorpion of 16 Guns &

the Cruizer of 8 Guns & a number of valuable prizes said to be 40 or 50 in number, and other vessels under their protection the whole of which you will make prize of with ease. We understand they have erected a kind of a fort on Baldhead at the entrance of Cape fear River but it being only manned with a few people from these Ships we expect you will easily reduce it and put the same in possession of the State of North Carolina or dismantle it as may appear best. When you have performed this service you had best deliver to the Continental Agents there such of your prizes as may sell well or be useful in North Carolina others you may convoy into Virginia or this place for we don't recommend your remaining at North Carolina for fear of being blocked up there; perhaps you will receive advice that will render it eligible to proceed farther Southward to rout the enemies ships at South Carolina and Georgia and if that is practicable you have not only our approbation but our Orders for the attempt.

We hope, Sir, you will not loose one single moment after receipt of this Letter but proceed instantly on this expedition. We are sir [&c.]

P.S: Should the Cabbot be still on a Cruise, or if returned cannot be ready to proceed upon the Above expedition as early as one of the frigates lately launched at Rhode Island, you will proceed' with the later in lieu of the Cabot as soon as she can be prepared for the Sea or you may take both the Cabot and frigate if to be done without delay. We wish your plan for manning this fleet from the State of Rhode Island may prove effectual, and we do in the warmest manner urge you to omit nothing on your part which may tend to promote so important a purpose and which we have most earnestly at heart. The Commissions for the officers of the frigates will be forwarded immediately –

Should be Forwarded Immediately, have Sealed and Dispatch it / our Ship is all Ready

CONTINENTAL MARINE COMMITTEE TO HENRY TUCKER AND THOMAS GODET, BERMDA

Gentlemen [Philadelphia] October 10th 1776

We have occasion for a quantity of Salt to cure beef & Pork the ensuing season for the use of our fleet and dont care to buy up what arrives here transiently as the people are much in want of that article, and would murmur were it to be bought off their hands. We therefore request that you will immediately on receipt of this letter Charter five or Six good fast sailing large Sloops, Schooners or Brigantines, and either load them with Salt at Bermudas or send them to Turks Island for it, just as you may find safest and best — send one of them to Edenton in North Carolina consigned to Messrs. Hewes & Smith one to Baltimore in Maryland consigned to our Order; & the others here addressed to us. Perhaps it may be most prudent to load part in Bermudas and part in Turks Island but our great Object is to get the Salt soon and safe here. —

You will Charter these Vessels on the best terms in your power by the Month or otherways, have them valued and we agree to insure them for so long as they remain in our Service, and if the terms are reasonable that may probably be a long time. You'll buy the Salt as cheap as you can and give them the utmost dispatch or it will be too late for our purpose. We must depend on you to advance the money for the cost of the Salt until we can reimburse you, which shall be done by returning some of these Vessels to you with Cargoes of Provisions and probably a Convoy with them. Should any of the Vessels be taken or lost we will either pay for them in Provisions or undoubted good bills on Europe or the West Indies as may best suit the Owners. We hope you will be able to comply with these orders immediately for which we shall allow you areasonable Commission — Interest for the advance of your Money and Commissions on the Goods we shall consign you hereafter and for your security we pledge you the faith and Credit of the United States of America being so authorized to do by the Honorable the Continental Congress of which we are members and are Gentleman [&c.]

that Number

JAMES DAVIS TO THE NORTH CAROLINA COUNCIL OF SAFETY

Mr Stanly [John Wright Stanley] having Occasion to wait on you with a memorial relative to the Conduct of the Commissioners of the Provincial armed Vessel the Pennsylvania Farmer permit me by the same Opportunity to lay before your Honours something on the same Subject To this Duty I am impelled by the strongest of Ties, a sacred and venerable Respect for constitutional Liberty and the Honour and Interest of my Country. When these are invaded it would be criminal to be silent. And here Gentlemen it would be necessary to pause a while and endeavour to investigate the secret Springs of this Patriotism If it is expected Honours, lucrative Appointments, or any sinister Expectations whatever that whets my Zeal I may be justly suspected of deviating from the modern Patriots, and little Credit paid to my Narrative. But if none of these Views appear, and that they do not I appeal to the Gentlemen of the Council themselves, to the chief of whom I have the Honour to be personally known to, then I hope you will believe the Facts I shall here endeavour to state to be true.

The Provincial armed Vessel the Pennsylvania Farmer sailed from this Town a few Days since after lying here with 110 men on board at the Expense of near Forty Pounds per Day, upwards of six months, in the most inglorious, inactive and dissolute state that perhaps was ever suffered in any Country. By the Inexperience, Inactivity and neglect of the Officers of this Vessel, who early began their Irregularities by inlisting the regular Soldiers into their Service, a continued Scene of Riot, Outrage and Robbery has been carried on by the People of her the most daring Insults on the Inhabitants of the Town suffered to pass with Impunity. One hundred and ten Pints of Rum poured out to them every morning kept them continually drunk and ready for any mischief, especially as they consist of Men of all Nations and Conditions, English, Irish, Scotch, Indians, Men of Wars Men and the most abandoned sett of Wretches ever collected together Two of the Officers broke open the Gun Room, and with a number of the men went off with the Boat with Intent to join Lord Dunmore's Fleet, and actually reached Currituck County. They were apprehended and are still at large on board. They have wasted near 100 Pounds of Powder in wantonly firing at and bringing too all Boats, Canoes and Vessels of every sort, even Passengers in the Ferry Boat have been insulted. Capt. Thos Shine of the Militia, with his Company on board coming up to the General Muster, was fired on and a Ball passed within a few Inches of his Arm. Of this Insult he complained to me I remonstrated to the Officers but met with nothing but Abuse. With Regard to myself Gentlemen, I have been exceedingly obnoxious to this Crew of Banditti, for I can call them by no other Name. As I had the Honour to be one of the Commissioners for that Vessel I very early opposed the iniquitous measures I saw pursuing and objected to the injudicious Choice, as I thought, of the Officers of the Vessel, men utter Strangers, without Abilities, without Interest, Connections, or any Tie whatever to the Country the Captain having never sailed in, much less more commanded, a square rigged Vessel in his Life, Capt. Oliver of the marines being the only officer on board known to the Country. The Chief Mate, one Barton, a Person intrusted by Mr. Durant of St Croix with a Vessel and Quantity of Powder for the use of this Province, the whole of which Vessel and Cargo he attempted to [illegible]. I say Gentlemen, by the means above I became obnoxious to these men and have suffered every Insult from them and sustained considerable Damage. They came to my Landing and destroyed a Bay Boat that cost me Thirty pounds, cut her up for Fire Wood and took out every Bolt and spike Nail they could come at. Of this I complain'd to the Officers and Commissioners but could get no Redress. As the Vessel lay opposite my Plantation at Green Spring the men came repeatedly into my Cornfield and carried off Quantities of green Corn and grew so daring that I was forced to repel them by Force and lay on my Arms for many nights. Of this I complained to the Commissioners but could get no Redress.

I have been told the Reason for lessening the number of Commissioners for this Vessel was the Impossibility of doing Business effectually with such a number. I heartily agreed with the Gentlemen who made this complaint, and am fully convinced Business could not be effectually done while I opposed Contracts for Beef for the Vessel at 5d a Pound when I was buying for my own use at 3d and while I opposed some glaring accounts that freely passed after my Expulsion from the Commission. While I was on the Commission I spent much Time and some Money and was willing to do every act in my Power to further the good Intentions of the Council in ordering this Vessel to be fitted out, but am not concerned at being left out of a Commission wherein I could do no good to my Country nor Honour to myself.

I must beg your Honours further Indulgence while I say a few Words in Justification of a most infamous Slander cast on me by Capt. Hamstead [Joshua Hempstead] and the Officers of this Vessel. They have propagated in all Companies a Story of my being disaffected to the present measures pursuing against British Tyranny, which I make no Doubt has reached your Honours Ears, giving for a Reason that I would not let my Son go in the Vessel. My Attachment to the glorious Cause of Liberty in which we are at present embarked, and the very early and active Part I have taken in it, stands, I hope, too well recorded in this Province to be shaken by the insidious and base Acts of disappointed Faction, and as to my Son as he is yet too young to be known to the World it is necessary I should set the Matter right with regard to his Conduct. He was brought up to the sea, and great Part of his Apprenticeship sailed out of Cadiz in Spain to many Parts of Europe, since his Return home he has been in the Employ of Mr Cornell and has been master of a Vessel out of this Port. He was the first Officer shipped on board the Vessel to superintend the Rigging and continued on board upwards of two months. When the Commissioners went into the Choice of Officers he was appointed Second Lieutenant in a short Time after, by the Caprice of the Commissioners he was appointed Master with this he was contented, and would have now been on board, had not I ordered him to resign an Employ he was not likely to gain any Credit by

Upon the whole Gentlemen I have the fullest Conviction within my own Mind that this Vessel in her present Dress will utterly defeat the good Intentions of the Council, and as far as my poor Opinion goes would heartily recommend a Revision of her.

I hope your Honours will pardon my Presumption in troubling you with this long Epistle, But when Arbitrary Power runs triumphant among us and the Sacred Barriers of Private Property are destroyed; the inestimable Blessings for which we are now contending and pouring out our best Blood in Streams, I could no longer be silent. I have the Honour to be Gentlemen [&c.]

2. The date is approximated. On October 1, the Pennsylvania Farmer was ordered on a cruise, and Davis's letter reports that she sailed "a few Days since." However, from Edenton on October 18, it was stated that she had returned to New Bern to heave down. OLIVER POLLOCK TO THE CONTINENTAL CONGRESS

Sirs, This will be handed you by Captain George Ord, whom I have supplied with Sundries, and to whom I beg Leave to refer you for Particulars.

As I conceive myself to be too much interested in every Thing that can serve America (notwithstanding my present Situation is remote from the Scene of Action) I eagerly embrace the Opportunity of exerting my utmost Endeavours for the glorious Cause, and had every Thing compleated soon after he came here: But just when he was ready to Sail, arrived the D[ilige-nce] s[loot]p of w[ar], and I had only Time to save the Cargo, and did every Thing in my Power to save the Vessel under his present Protection: But then your Situation and Consequence was not sufficiently understood here, and of Course I laboured in vain both for my Friends and own Interest; but of late since your last Declaration, and every Circumstance turning out so far beyond the Expectations of your warmest Friends, Times here have taken a quite different Turn, and I make no Doubt but before this you have taken such Steps as will gain the Hearts & Protection of all those you desire. Permit me therefore to make tender of my hearty Services, and to assure you that my Conduct shall be ever such as to merit Confidence and Approbation of that Country I owe every Thing but Birth. I have the Honor to be, Sirs [&c.]

JOHN B. LIVINGSTON TO ROBERT R. LIVINGSTON ¹

Dear Robt Providence Octobr 11th 1776

I am just arrived at this place, and by good information find every kind of goods immoderately dear, sugars three pounds... Rum 6/9. to 7/. Cotton 3/4 — Coffee 8½ all in Lawfull money, so that you will easily concieve that it will not answer for me to lay out any money on my own acct. dry goods they tell me are in the same proportion. but I am in hopes that they will fall something as a large Ship bound to Quebec with Clothing &ca was brought in a few days ago by Capt [Arthur] Crawford but is not yet condemned, as the Ship belongs partly to the Governor. I shall to morrow morning wait upon him and endeavor to make a purchase before hand upon the Invoice which if I can the goods will come much cheaper as the merchants of this place make a point of out bidding strangers, and indeed the owners themselves bid, which is by no means customary any where else. I shall endeavor (if we cant purchase on the Invoice) to play them a like trick —

This evening I was informed that a Vessel belonging to the C. Congress has taken 8 Vessels which she has manned and sent home, And destroyed 5 more most of which are Ships. she took them in a Harber near the banks. it is I think very great news — Capt Crawford has likewise taken two more prizes both sugar Ships the one a three Decker, the many Captures that are daily made convinces me that it is best to lay out our money in Privateers I wish you. Mr [William] Duer, and Mr [John] Jay would be concerned in one, a small Sloop now laying at Hartford, would be a very proper Vessel. Could you get Guns in our province, she would not I think cost above £2000 pounds, and she has the character of a fast sailer — Mr [James A.] Stewart tells me I have made £800 pounds by the beaver Capt [Stewart] Deane; much more than I expected. which money Blair has recd and vested it in a ship mounting 28 Guns. as I have not seen him I dont know on what terms I am interested though I am not sorry for it as it is utterly impossible buying in a privateer here, Guns and other stores being so high — Stewart was offered £3000 pounds Lawfull money for the Beaver as she lay just from a Cruize. when her Cargo. and all cost the owner but £2400 York — You may think things has rose amazingly here — I wish you and Mr Duer would endeavor to buy up all the 6 and 4 pounders you possibly can. at any thing less than £ 70 a pair — For the 6. and £ 50 pounds for the 4 — at least you may buy if it is possible 10 pair of each sort, if you can buy the Cannon endeavor to buy muskets like wise — Capt Cook no doubt will be a proper person to get these things if he will engage. I shall be at Hartford in a fortnight where I wish you would direct my Letters to be left, as the Cannon will determine my buying the Sloop. — I find that I cant exchange any of my Tea here. as the merchants are afraid of engaging in that Article expecting it will be imported soon, and I believe it will. — You see that I am baffled in all my schemes. but I have one more, which is to go to Govr Trumble [Jonathan Trumbull] and endeavor to borrow a few Tons of Salt Petre — which if he consents will stand me in good stead. as I shall repay him when the bounty is taken off. should I succeed I shall do wonders as the devil himself has not more cunning than these people — I have not heard of Harry since my last, but believe he is safe as the Enemy has not come to Huntington as yet.
I come now to the Articles you desired to get for you. shoes none to be had. Linnen of about 4/ formerly now 16/. Hatts £4. and every thing in proportion. I am afraid to buy for Mr Duer as he may get them at Phila much cheaper but if I must purchase for him he must write me by the Post. show him this Letter that he may see what prCt we shall make or break by purchasing goods in these parts. Carting Goods they pay 2/8 pr mile. strangers no doubt must pay 3/. & they are a set of Vagabonds that shall never have the honor of my company Among them again — I expect to recieve a large Packet of Letters at Boston from you in answer to my last until which unless I hear something extraordinary I shall not be able to write, in the mean time I remain

Your affectionate brother

Last Monday the Continental sloop Providence, Capt. [John Paul] Jones, arrived at a safe port, having, in a cruise of 6 weeks, captured 16 sail of vessels, 6 of which he burnt; among the others is one ship, with 3000 quintals of codfish, some smaller fishermen, and two West-Indiamen.¹

MEMORIAL FROM STONINGTON TO THE CONNECTICUT GENERAL ASSEMBLY¹

To the Honourable the General Assembly, now Setting at New Haven – The Memorial of the Committee of Correspondence & Inspection of the Town of Stonington; and Sundry of the Inhabitants of said Town. Most humbly sheweth

That where as, Your Honours thought fit in your Last Session in May to Grant for the Defence and Protection of this place: a Captain and Ninety Men; Since which one half has been Ordered to New London. Your Honours may Remember that this Town is the only one in this State, that has Received any Damage from those Sons of Tyranny and Despotism: Sent by that more than Savage Tyrant, George the Third, To deprive us of those unalienable Rights, that the Supreme Governour of Heaven and Earth has invested us with. Your Memorialists therefore pray that the Number of men Ordered and Destined as above, may Still be Continued. And that the Two Eighteen Pounders, and four Twelves, and Shot &c that were Ordered in your former Session for this place: may be Delivered as Soon as possible;
As this Harbour is perhaps more Used by Coasters, and Vessels bound to Sea, than any Harbour in this State; and is a place of great Consequence; not only to this, but other States. We therefore beg Leave to Inform your Honours: that Several Vessels have Lately been Chasd into this Harbour by the Kings Ships; and have here been protected. Your Memorialists further pray that the Three Large Cannon (now at New London) belonging to this Town be likewise ordered for this place; and the Two field pieces that was Lent by this Town to the Town of New London: be ordered back to the Town of Stonington.

We therefore Flatter our Selves that this our Most reasonable Request will be granted. And your Memorialists as in Duty bound shall ever pray.

New-London, October 11.

A Ship burthen 225 Tons, taken by Capt. Tho. Nickeson [Thomas Nicholson], in the Privateer sloop America, belonging to Plymouth, was last Week brought into a Port in this State. The Privateer had been only 7 Days out when she took this Prize, and was left in Chase of another. The Cargo of this ship is as follows, viz. 200 Hhds. sugar, 100 Puncheons Rum, 20 casks Madeira Wine, & Quantity of Logwood and M[a]hogany.

Last Tuesday two prize Snows were retaken by two British Men of War in sight of Stonington Harbour. – One of them was a Prize which had been taken by a Providence Privateer, commanded by James Munro; the other had been taken by a Privateer belonging to the State of Rhode-Island. We learn that the People got on shore in their Boats.

Wednesday a Brig bound into this Port, from the West-Indies was taken by a Man of War near Montauk Point; but the People got on shore in their Boat.

Yesterday the Prize ship (a Guinea-man) mentioned in our last to be taken by Capt. Harding, in the Brig Defence, belonging to this State, arrived safe in this Harbour.
The ship Hope, mentioned in this Paper, (No. 670.) to be taken by the schooner Spy, Capt. Niles, we hear was afterwards retaken by the Enemy and carried into New-York.

GOVERNOR JONATHAN TRUMBULL to GEORGE WASHINGTON

Sir New Haven October 11th 1776

In consequence of your favor proposing a descent on Long-Island, although I was so unhappy as not to be able to meet Generals [James] Clinton and [Benjamin] Lincoln at this place as requested, I applied to the State of Rhode Island and obtained their consent and orders, that Colo [William] Richmond and such part of his Battalion as shall not enlist on board the Continental Vessels should assist in the enterprize. Colo Richmond will accordingly begin his march this day for New London, and bring with him the Whale Boats collected in Massachusetts Bay and Rhode Island to the number of which, it is apprehended, will be of use to the Troops ordered on this service — especially to secure their retreat, should it be attempted to be cut off. When Colo Richmond arrives at New London he has orders to put himself under the command of such General Officers as Your Excellency shall appoint. I have this day conferred with Colls [William] McIntosh and [Henry Beekman] Livingston on the subject. They inform me they are supplied with provisions and ammunition for their purpose, and only want such a number of water craft as, with the Whale Boats divided into three parts that each may be sufficient to transport 12 hundred men, as he means each division to be so placed at the inletts to the Island, as, if cut off from one, he may resort to the other, to make his retreat sure, if necessary. These I have ordered for him, and dare say will be provided for him without delay. The number of men he proposes to set out with will doubtless be sufficient for his first attempt but what reinforcement will be best soon to follow after to answer every purpose Your Excellency will judge. They may be thrown over from Norwalk or Stamford very soon, if placed there. I am apprehensive lest some difficulties may arise with respect to the command. Colo McIntosh is a superior Officer to Lieut Colo Livingston, and Richmond is superior to both — Colo Livingston appears to be a young Gentleman of real spirit and abilities, and has every advantage in his knowledge of the Island and the people there. The other Gentlemen have also their merit. May not a difficulty arise as to the command. I hope there will not. As the Gentlemen are all well disposed, I hope they will all cooperate to the best advantage in the whole. What is further necessary to render their operations effectual you will please to consider and direct —

Our naval expedition against the Ships of the Enemy in the Sound is still in contemplation, and preparations are making for the same as fast as we can. Commodore Hopkins writes me the 5th instant, that the Alfred and Hampden are ready, and that the two new Frigates there would be ready in about a week if they can be manned, neither of them having more than half their complement at that time. Our Ship and Brig, will, we trust, be ready to join them; and when they are equipped it is proposed they shall first attack the two Frigates that infest the Coast about Montauk Point, if they attempts to give them any interruption; otherwise, that they proceed directly up Sound, and give the best account they can of the Ships in the East River
— I am now informed, that the two Frigates and the Alfred are manned from Colo Richmonds Regiment, which I hope will prove true, but if not, am in hopes they may be compleated by Volunteers from Rhode Island and New London. But if they should still fall short of their full compliment, I beg leave to suggest to Your Excellency, whether they could not, with out inconvenience, be filled up from some parts of your Army, unless the Row Galley Men, by the Enemy’s Ships passing up the North River, are rendered useless, in which case, they may be ordered to some proper place along Sound for Commodore Hopkins to take them in. I have given Commodore Hopkins the utmost assurance, to give him all possible intelligence, from time to time, of the Enemy’s Ships of Force this side of Hell Gate, that he may be apprized what he has to encounter. To that purpose I beg leave to suggest to your Excellency to give orders to such Commander of the Guards or Posts in sight of the Enemy’s Ships to give me intelligence from time to time of their force and whether or when any of the Enemy’s Ships may join them through Hell Gate. I understand one 24 Gun Ship of the Enemy has already passed through to them — Since my last from Commdore Hopkins am informed, that the Columbus Capt Whipple has arrived in Port at Rhode Island. Have wrote to him to take her with him, if possible, which will make a considerable addition to his force. Please to afford me your advice and fullest information. I cannot but flatter myself with strong hopes of advanttages to be desired from this adventure of our Ships as well as the expedition to Long Island. Secrecy in both is of utmost importance

Your favour of the 5th Instant came safe to hand in which you Inform me, that the Alfred & Hampden are ready & the two New Frigates you expect will be ready in about a week, I hope no attention or diligence will be wanting to have them prepared by that time, and shall Indeavour that there be no delay as to ours, tho am Necessitated to Apply to you or your State to furnish a quantity of Shot for our Ship. We have the Round, but double headed, Chain Sliding and Starr Shot we have none. hope you can Supply what will be wanting for the present. we have sent to our furnace for them but fear it will be impossible to have them ready at New London by the time they may be wanted for the present Expedition but may be ready to be replaced if Necessary very soon after; the size of the Cannon for which we shall want them are Nine pounders. I understand the Columbus is now in Port, if so, cannot she join your Squadron? for no force ought to be Omitted which human foresight can devise to render our Success as sure as may be at this Critical time with our Army As this expedition if Success full may much disconcert [illegible] the Enemy—

Since my last to you there has been two more frigates up sound as far as against Say brook, but Suppose now returnd towards Block Island how far they or either of them may be the Object of your attention shall Submitt, no doubt there ought to be a Spy upon them out from Newport or New London or both to Watch and give Intelligence of their Motions, and if they or either of them may be decoyed in, so as to fall in your way, and the force from New London to join you at an appointed time or Signal given, perhaps you may first give a good Account of them before you proceed up the Sound which by the way is the Main Object. I have Employed Capt [Nathaniel] Shaw [Jr.] the barer hereof to Conferr with you on the Subject and Acquaint you from time to time with every Occurrence, & see that every preparation is made on our part and give every necessary Intelligence & Assistance as it will be difficult for me to do by letter & at this Distance where I may be detaind with the Assembly for a fortnight or three Weeks. The Expedition on Long Island set forward by Genll Washington will be Conducted by Coll McIntosh & Livingston & Richmond if he joins them—

I have Requested Coll Livingstone as soon as he Arrives on Long Island to employe trusty spies along on the south side. to Watch the Motion of the Enemies Ships from New York & give speedy Intelligence if there is any Appearance of their Coming round the Island that you May have the earliest Notice if any such matter should happen, we hear that your ships are now Manned from Coll Richmonds Regiment, if any failure on that Account the hope Number of Volunteers may be found at Rhodisland & New London, but if still wanting there may possibly be a Complement thrown Aboard from Genll Washingtons Army upon a sudden Occasion & for so short a time as they might be wanted, if timely Notice is sent forward to Genll Washington of their being wanted. I understand there is a 24 gun Ship got thro Hell Gate & joined the two frigates tho now one lyes at Huntington a Considerable Distance I shall Indeavour to gain every Intelligence in my power & acquaint you with any alteration or reinforcement which may happen there I am, with Esteem & Regard Sir

Memoirs of Major General William Heath

[Headquarters, near Harlem] 11th [October]. — There was a considerable movement among the British boats below. This afternoon, Gen.
Washington's pleasure-boat, coming down the river with a fresh breeze, and a topsail hoisted, was supposed, by the artillerists at Mount Washington to be one of the British tenders running down. A 12 pounder was discharged at her, which was so exactly pointed as unfortunately to kill three Americans, who were much lamented.

JOURNAL OF CAPTAIN HENRY DUNCAN, R.N.

[On board H.M.S. Eagle, East River, New York]

11th [October]. – This afternoon the admiral, with most of the captains, and Commodore Hotham, with all the flat boats and batteaux, went up the East River to Kipp’s and Turtle Bay, near the west end of Blackwell’s Island, where we remained all the night, during which time the army were striking their tents and preparing to embark. About three o’clock Saturday morning, the 12th, the troops were embarked in the flat boats and batteaux, to the number of between four and five thousand men; the guards and 42nd regiment, between fourteen and fifteen hundred men, were embarked on board sloops under my direction. At daybreak in the morning the boats set off, and no sooner had they put off, with an amazing strong tide, but it came on a fog equal to pitch darkness, with now and then an interval of light for a few seconds. The boats were put off; to attempt to stop them would have been very dangerous, for the headmost boats must have anchored, and the boats that followed would in all probability run foul of them, to the imminent danger of sinking each other; the admiral, therefore, rather chose to run the risk of passing Hell Gate with all the boats in that rapid tide and dark fog. I went astern and ordered all the boats to move forward. Soon after their putting off, a galley towing one of the artillery boats, in endeavouring to cross a vessel lying in the passage, towed her athwart hawse; the boat ran directly up her cable, and overset instantly. Many of the people were picked up; there were three field-pieces lost, and I suppose five or six people. There were very few people in the flat boats had ever been through or knew anything of the passage of Hell Gate. This made the danger much the greater. To keep the starboard shore was the safest passage; straight through carried them upon the rocks, and the larboard shore would have brought them under the fire of the enemy, perhaps without being able to land or retreat; but the boats got all very luckily through, the one instance only excepted, and arrived at Frog Point, the place of their destination about nine o’clock, where they landed without opposition.

JOURNAL OF THE CONTINENTAL CONGRESS

[Philadelphia] Friday, October 11, 1776

Resolved, That General Washington be desired, if it be practicable, by every art, and whatever expence, to obstruct effectually the navigation of the North river, between Fort Washington and Mount Constitution, as well to prevent the regress of the enemies' frigates lately gone up, as to hinder them from receiving succours.

The Secret Committee informed Congress that a vessel was arrived at Rhode Island, with sundry articles imported by their order, for account of the United States.

Resolved, That the Secret Committee be directed to report in what manner the goods imported ought, in their opinion, to be disposed of.

Resolved, That the Marine Committee be directed to deliver over to the direction of the Committee of Secret Correspondence two of the continental cruisers now ready for sea, to perform such voyages as they shall think necessary for the service of these states:

That the Marine Committee give orders to the remainder of the continental cruisers, now in the port of Philadelphia, and ready for sea, to proceed on such voyages, or perform such immediate services, as the Secret Committee shall direct, in writing, addressed to the commanders thereof.

The Marine Committee to whom was referred the account of Captain Martindale, brought in their report, which was taken into consideration; Whereupon,

Richard Henry Lee to Samuel Purviance, Jr.

Dear Sir,

Philadelphia 11th October 1776

Among the inconveniencies of this busy scene, I esteem it not the least, to be so often prevented from acknowledging the favors of my friends sooner than I do. It has been owing to much business that your letter of the 27th has not received an answer before now. I have the pleasure to acquaint you that in ranking the Captains of our Continental Ships, the Congress have placed Captain [James] Nicholson at the head, he being the first Captain. I wish it were in my power to give you a satisfactory answer about the building another Frigate. Hitherto nothing has been determined on this subject, the Committee having been prevented by an infinite multiplicity of other business; and to the same cause has it been owing that no orders have been sent concerning the Frigate Virginia. I have no doubt but that another Frigate will soon be directed, and that the Builder of greatest merit will be prefer'd. It would give me the greatest pleasure to hear that the Virginia was ready for Sea, and I am happy in being satisfied that the Managers of this business in Baltimore will not loose a moment in effecting so salutary a work. I suppose a want of Anchors will be the greatest obstruction, as I take it for granted no time will be lost in getting the guns down from Mr [Samuel] Hughes's works, and having the Carriages made. I shall be glad to have an exact state of the Frigate & what She wants to complete her. I refer you to the papers for news and am Sir [&c.]

WILLIAM ELLERY TO GOVERNOR NICHOLAS COOKE

[Extract]

Philadelphia Oct 11th 1776 —

A naval Expedition is on Foot, which if carried into Execution will be very advantageous to the United States, and to the Officers and Seamen in the Navy. If the Cabot should not be in Port the Marine Commee have ordered that One of the Frigates should be employed in it. Commodore Hopkins in a Letter to that Commee hath informed them, that One of the Frigates could soon be got ready, and intimated that he could mann her with Draughts from our Troops. I hope that the Genl Assembly will countenance this Measure, and give every other Assistance in their Power to forward the sailing of the Fleet.

Ordered that the keeper of the Public Store deliver unto Capt Isaac Younghusband One thousand Pump Nails for the use of the Brig Musqueto—
Alexander Massenburg, Joseph Willson, Jno. Chick, Thomas Coleman, Thomas Bailey & John Royston Warrant officers on Board the Brig Liberty Commanded by Capt Thomas Lilly lodged a Complaint with this Board against the said Lilly in the following Words, to wit, "That your Petitioners influenced by the most laudable Motives the Love of Liberty freely & Voluntarily entered into the Marine Service of this State on the Board the Brig Liberty fully determined to risque their Lives in defence of the Rights and Liberties of their Country and are still so determined Provided they can be entitled to the Rights and Usage of Freemen themselves but that their daily Labour accomodation serving up their Provisions delay in the payment of their Wages, want of Regularity of Orders and proper Subordination among Men & Officers and the Arbitrary, Tyranical unmanly & illiberal behaviour and Treatment of their Commander Capt Thomas Lilly has made their Condition on Board the said Brig the Condition of the Slavery and of course intolerable that they are determined at the risque of their Lives not to submit longer to it without seeking redress and endavouring to be heard before this honble Board instituted as your petitioners have been taught to believe for the hearing redressing and adjusting all Grievances made to it from persons suffering in the Navy. — That your Petitioners pray they may not be prejudged seditious and Mutinus from the Freedom in which they express their Greivances, as Freemen they think it the essential Right of Free Marines to Speak openly — they protest against a Seditious & factious Spirit and beg that their Grievances now setforth may be enquired into by the Evidence of the whole Crew of Officers & Seamen of the said Brig. That your Petitioners the Warrant Officers on Board the said Brig are compelled to the Duty of Common Sailors the compliment of Seamen being reduced to four & one Boy occasioned by the Desertion of the Men who could not & would not Submit to the usage and Treatment of their Captain. — That your Petitioners who are Messmates have their Provisions cooked intolerably bad and when they complain of it and beg to Dress it themselves are refused that small privilege and the Cooks Fire Ordered to be put out. — That whilst the Brig Liberty lay at Baltimore your Petitioners the Marines and common Sailors were huddled into a Miserable Loft and obliged to Diet & Lodge together without distinction and your Petitioner John Royston Steward of the said Brig obliged to Sell his Cloaths to Raise Money to pay his Washing Woman Capt Lilly having never paid him from the Time of his entering with him one shilling, that whilst she lay at the above place thirteen Sailors and five Marines deserted. In your Petitioners Opinion for want of their Wages with other Cruel Treatment. — Your Petitioner John Chick Gunner complains alone that whilst very sick he has been called up late at night wantonly to Load & Charge the Guns which he has begged in the day he might be Permitted to do but refused. —
Your Petitioner Thomas Coleman Pilot also Complains that in the discharge of his Duty on Board the said Brig he is so Thwarted and contradicted that it is impossible to do it satisfactory or safely. — Wherefore your Petitioners pray that right & Justice be done them that their complaints be heard and if made good by proper Testimony they be redressed which redress they beg may be to be removed from the direction and Authority of Capt. Lilly who has threatened them with severer Treatment when he gets them at Sea. Lastly your Petitioner Alexander Massenburg begs leave further to shew that at the Time of his Signing Articles with Capt Lilly it was Agreed by the said Lilly that he the said Massenburg should be at Liberty to remove from the said Brig at any Time when he was dissatisfied with his Birth and could get one more agreeable to himself and no longer than last Saturday told your Petitioner he might go when and where he pleased from which he thought himself discharged." — Which being Read It is Ordered that the said Capt Lilly be summoned to appear before the Board at the Capitol in the City of Williamsburg on Tuesday next to Answer the said Complaint. —

(Copy) Camp at River La Cole 12th [October] 76

My Dear Sir I seize the first instant of my Intelligence, to inform you, that the Rebel Fleet, was found Yesterday Morning, at Anchor between the Isle Val[c]our, and the Main: They had intended to sail as this Morning: and it was a Compleat Surprize. Our Fleet got above them, And the Carleton with one Division of Artillery Boats engaged; the rest of the Ships could not get into action, the Wind being strong at N.E. with this small part of our Force, we have taken & destroyed, the Royal Savage the largest of their Vessels; two others are supposed to be disabled: We have besides Thirty or forty Prisoners: but the best part of my intelligence is, that our whole fleet, was formed in line above the Enemy, and Consequently they must have surrendered this morning or given us battle upon our Terms, the Indians and Light Troops, are abreast with the Fleet: they cannot therefore Escape by Land. You may therefore expect my dear Sir, in a day after this news, the important decision of the Lakes I will forward it to you with Equal diligence and Joy, in the mean time accept my Congratulations, upon the Glorious Spirit, with which the Naval Department has begun, I am going forward shortly in person, in hopes the leading Brigade of the Army, may be able to move on directly.

I dare say you will think it right, and I request the favor of you to Act Accordingly to lay a positive Embargo on the sailing of all Vessels, till the result of this great business properly Authenticated by the Generals dispatches, can be forwarded through you to Government. I have the honour &c:

Portsmouth. October 12.

Last Sunday arrived at Saco a small prize-Schooner sent in by the Putnam Privateer, John Harmon Commander, having on board 300 bushels of salt and some oyl. Next day arrived another schooner, taken by the same privateer, having on board 375 Quintals of green fish; and some oyl; she brings an account of another small vessel taken that is not yet arrived, and one that they took, which was afterwards drove ashore by a frigate — the Vessel lost, but the people got on board the privateer again; the frigate drove the Privateer into a harbour, and came to anchor with intention of keeping her in; but Capt. Harmon got one of his guns ashore on a point of land, & fired on the frigate, when she returned whole broadsides into the woods at them, but did no damage — Capt. Harmon after a few shots was so lucky as to cut away her fore-stay, which obliged her to come to sail, and put to sea.

Last Wednesday arrived at Falmouth, a Prize ship, of between 3 & 400 tons, from Portsmouth in England, to Quebec, laden with Powder, Nails, Beef, Butter, &c. has 16 carriage-guns, 8 of which were mounted. She was taken by a Privateer from Newbury, by stratagem.1
Since our last arrived in this Port, two prize Schooners, the Glasgow and the Neptune, laden with fish & oyl, to a considerable amount, taken off the banks of Newfoundland, by Capt. Robert Parker, of this Port.

This morning a small prize schooner with 200 quintals of fish was sent into this harbour; she was taken by Capt. Calton [William Carleton] in the General Gates Privateer from Salem.1

Effect, we therefore humbly pray that your Hons woud take it into your Wise Consideration, that we may no longer suffer by our Commanders Neglect, as we remain here upon great Expence and loosing our time, which in the present Day may be Valuable to the Country and ourselves, our fervent Zeal for which (while we lay Dormant) we have not an Opportunity of Showing, we therefore once more lay ourselves at the feet of your Hons praying we may no longer be kept in Suspence hoping that our Petition may be Complyd with and that Suffering Innocence may be rewarded & as in Duty Bound shall ever Pray. Yesterday morning at 8 oClock the Enemies fleet, Consisting of one Ship mountg Sixteen Guns, One Snow, mounting the same Number One Schooner of fourteen Guns, two of Twelve, Two Sloops, a Bomb ketch, & a large Vessell (that did Not come up) with Fifteen, or Twenty flatt Bottom Boats or Gondolas varying, One Twelve or Eighteen pounder in their Bows — Appeared of[f], of Cumberland Head. we, emediately prepared to receive them, the Gallies & Royal Savage were ordered Under way, the rest of our fleet lay at An Anchor at 11 oClock. they ran under the Lee of Valcour & began the Attack. the Schooner by some bad Management fell to Leward, & was first Attacked. One of her Masts was wounded. & her Rigging Shott away. the Capt thought prudent to run her on the Point of Valcour, where all the Men were saved the Enemy boarded her & at Night, Set fire to her — at, half past 11 the engagement, became General, & very warm. Some of the Enemies Ships & all their Gondolas, beat & rowed up within musquet Shott of us. they, Continued a Very hot fire with Round & Grape Shott untill five OClock. when they thought proper to retire to about Six or Seven hundred Yards distance & continued the fire, untill Dark — the Congress & Washington have Sufferd. greatly, the Latter Lost her first Lieut killed, & Capt & Master wounded, the New York lost all her Officers except her Captain. the Philada was hulled in so many Places that She Sank, About One hour after the engagement was over, the whole, killed & wounded, amounts to abt Sixty, the Enemy, Landed a large Number of Indians On the Island & each Shore, who. keep an Incessant Fire On us, but did little Damage — the Enemy had to Appearance Upwards of One thousand Men in Batteaus, prepared for boarding. — We suffered much for want of Seamen & Gunners, I was obliged myself to Point Most of the Guns on board the Congress which I believe did good execution — the Congress received Seven Shott between Wind & Water, was hulled a doz times, had her Main Mast Wounded in Two places & her Yard in One, The Washington was hulled a Number of times, her Main Mast Shot thro. & must have a New One. both Vessells are very leaky & want repairing.

On Consulting with Genl Waterbury & Colonel Wiggilsworth, it was thought prudent to Retire to Crown Point, every Vessells Ammunition being Nearly three fourths spent. & the Enemies greatly Superior to us in Ships, & Men. — at. 7 oClock Colonel Wiggilsworth in the Trumbull got under Way, the Gondolas & Small Vessells followed & the Congress & Washington brought up the Rear. the Enemy did not, attempt to molest us, most of the fleet is this minute came to An Anchor, the Wind is small to the So ward, the, Enemies fleet is Under way to Leward & beating up. — as soon as our Leakes are Stoped, the whole fleet will, made [sic make] the utmost Dispatch to Crown Point, where I beg you will Send Ammunition & your further Orders for us. — On the whole I think we have had a Very fortunate escape, & have great reason to return, our humble, & hearty thanks to Continental Fleet on Lake Champlain.

MAJOR GENERAL HORATIO GATES TO BRIGADIER GENERAL BENEDICT ARNOLD 1

Dear General,

Ticonderoga 12th October 1776. —

I have received your Favours of the 7th & 10th Instant, and am pleased to find You, and your Armada, ride in Valcour Bay, in defiance of the power of Our Foes in Canada; The Liberty arrived last Night, and sails this Moment with the provisions you wrote for, and some of Mr Yauncy's best Beef. — I have long ago urged the necessity for Continuing to Increase Our Naval Strength upon the Lake, and shall now send your Letter to General Schuyler, and desire him to make such Extract from it, as if further requisite to induce Congress to direct the forwarding that Useful Work. —

No News, is good News; for, except what is in the inclosed paper, I know none to send You. — I firmly believe that the beating the Enemy received from Our Troops, upon Monday the 16th Ulto, & the Fire of New York, have cooled their Ardour so much that it remains a doubt with me whether General Howe will make Another Attempt before he gets Succours from England; perhaps his Foreign and National Troops have disagreed; perhaps he waits fresh Instructions from His Master. — Whatsoever is the Cause of his Inaction, it is quite Certain, he has given Our Army Three Weeks to Form their Blockade of New York, and to Strengthen their posts in such a Manner, as not to be Forced but with Greater Loss than I think General Howe Can Afford. —

Inclosed is a Resolve of Congress, which when put into Execution will Establish their Independcy: and effectually, and forever, put a period to the Domination of Great Britain. —

My respectfull Compliments to General Waterbury & Colonel Wigglesworth. — I am Dear General Your Affectionate [&c.]

They are laying at Tarry Town from 29 to 30 miles above this, & out sailing Two of our Row Gallies in their passage up, they fell into their hands, the Crews escaped.

Schooner Maria, October 11 to October 13

... the Rebel Fleet was attacked and destroyed in the two different engagements, in the Lake Champlain, on the 11th and 13 of October 1776 — By this Victory the command of the Navigation of the Lake was regained; the Province of Quebec was secured from future invasions; and the Army whose operations had been impeded until this object was attained, had now scope to act — The Season of the year being far advanced, the expedition against Ticonderoga was postponed until the following year.

DIARY OF JOSHUA PELL, JR.¹

[Pointe au Fer]

13th October – On the appearance of our Squadron before Crown point, the Rebels destroy'd the works, and quit it with precipitation. General Carlton was on board the Maria during the whole action, and the whole behav'd with the greatest perseverance and magnanimity.

DIARY OF DR. LEWIS BEEBE¹

[Ticonderoga] Sunday 13th [October] . . . This day a boat arrived express from the fleet: which informed, that our fleet was attacked by British Butchers on fryday 11th which continued the greatest part of the day, that on Saturday 12th our fleet retreated near split rock; where they lay in sight of the enemy; their army being a little in the rear in flat bottom Boats. This morning the fleets engaged the second time; as we heard an almost incessant fire from day break till afternoon. What damage is done on either side, we have as yet not heard.

"Extract of a Letter from Harlem, October 13."¹

Yesterday morning about 4000 of the enemy landed at Fogg's or Frog's [Throg] Point, in the sound, about 6 miles above us: a detachment was immediately sent to oppose them: The enemy got possession of the point, but as I was informed last night had made no farther progress. Our people, I am told, had taken up a bridge which was there, and felled trees across the road, to obstruct them till a reinforcement could arrive. In the afternoon 42 sail passed the mouth of Harlem river, in their way to the point; they consisted of sloops, schooners, brigs and 9 ships. I expect there will be bloody work there to-day. From the number of men landed and the ships which went up, I think this can be no feint, but that the main body of Howe's army must be there, and that there he intends to make his Coup-de-Main. This week will probably finish the campaign. — Upon the arrival of the ships at Dobbs' ferry they landed some men and plundered a store-house. I suppose those men who landed yesterday are to go across that country, and form a line from Frog's point to Tarrytown, 4 miles above Dobb's ferry, where the ships lie, but in this I expect they will be mistaken.

CONTINENTAL MARINE COMMITTEE TO CAPTAIN NATHANIEL FALCONER¹

Sir [Philadelphia] October 13th 1776. —

We are in great want of Coals to make anchors and other Smiths work for the frigates here, and as you are going on public business into the States of Connecticut, Rhode Island Massachusets & New Hampshire you may probably meet with some Coals fit for Smiths use, that have been or may be taken on board some of the Prizes sent into those places. Should that happen we request you will purchase as many as will load two Schooners or Sloops and send them to us immediately. For this purpose we desire you will buy two fast Sailing Marble head Schooners or Sloops that will sail and carry well, buy them cheap as possible and if you get coals send them here
"A Plan of New York Island with Part of Long Island, etc."
If you get the Schooners but cannot get the Coals, then put some Salt, Sugars, or rum on board as much in value as you think will pay for a load of Coals for each at about 2/ per bushel and dispatch them with the same immediately for James's River Virginia consigned to the Honble Benjamin Harrison Esqr inclosing him an Invoice of the Goods you send and advising him to sell those goods and load the Vessel with coals immediately dispatching the same to us. You will take care to procure active good Masters, Mates and men, and manage the whole to the best advantage for the public and as you have this and other business to transact we deliver you herewith Four thousand Dollars for which you are to account on your return. We also give you letters of Credit & recommendation to the Continental Agents in each state and a warrant authorizing you to survey the Continental Frigates at Rhode Island, but since this was agreed to, we have heard those frigates are compleated and ready for the sea which we hope may be true. CONTINENTAL MARINE COMMITTEE TO THE RHODE ISLAND FRIGATE COMMITTEE

Gentlemen

[Philadelphia] October 13th 1776

We fear our orders of the 9th Instant for sending aSet of Cannon from your State to New Hampshire may not be so proper as we thought them at the time of Signing, because we are since informed through several Channels [that your frigates] are quite or very near fit for the Sea, which is avery different account from that which caused us to send that order, therefore to prevent inconvenience or disadvantage to the public service we dispatch this immediately after the other and desire you may not forward the said Cannon to Portsmouth if your Ships are actually ready for service, for our view is only to get such of the frigates as are ready into action, and it matters not to us whether it be yours or the New Hampshire frigate that goes first, but you will still answer what we have said to Governor Hopkins respecting Cannon. We have now wrote the Committee to keep their Cannon if their Ships are actually fit for service, for we did not mean by the former order to give a preference, it was our design only to prevent the Guns from lying useless there when you wanted them: but we desire them to tell us whether they will not cast another set and on what terms. Sir Newport October 14th. 1776

You are with the Brigantine Hamden under your Command to go out on a Cruise, and endeavour all in your power to distress the Enemies of the United States of America — You are to Take all Vessels with Goods, bound to any of the Enemies Ports, and send such of them into Port for Tryal as you shall judge worth your while; and others you may Destroy, first taking the People out —

You may Cruise as Long as you can Conveniently keep your Vessel fit for that Service — I think you will do your Country most good by Cruising in such places as will be most likely to meet with the Store Ships bound to Newyork for the Supply of General Howes Army —

My Orders was to Send you to annoy the Trade at Newfoundland but I imagine that is too late — If you should think proper to go that way it will be best to Steer down in the Lattitude of about 30 or 40. which I think will be the likelyest to meet with Vessels bound to Newyork. I am Sir Your Friend

[Extract]

Last Wednesday I had a Conference with Governour Trumbull at New Haven, I laid before him the Plan I had formed for our Expedition, which was as follows, we were immediately to engage fourteen Hundred Ton of Vessels, Seven Hundred of which, being Sufficient to carry our whole Detachment, were to be Stationed at Oyster pond Point, with Instructions to wait till farther Orders from us unless disturbed by the Enemies Shipping, when that happened, they were to make some secure Port on the Continent; and whenever Danger disappeared they were to resume their Stations. the Other Seven Hundred Tons are to be Stationed at Satauket about Twenty Miles farther westward with the Like Instructions that in case we should be baffled at one Place we may proceed to the other we will have as I am informed by Governour Trumbull Ninety Whale Boats they will Land Nine Hundred Men at a Time, they are not yet arrived at New London but are expected in to Night. To morrow I fancy they will be here, they are to take in their Detachment and proceed for Fairfield from whence we are to land as many Men as we Conveniently Can on the west side of Huntington in order to cut off the Communication of Three Companies of Troops Stationed at that Place, as soon as this can be effected, the Whale-Boats are to Proceed to Mill Creek and Carry across into Southold Harbour where they are to wait for us unless Circumstances permit us with Safety and Secrecy to get them into South Bay, if that should be the Case they are to follow us as far as Huntington and take in our Baggage in Case Necessity should Oblige us to Make a Retreat, Head Quarters on Long Island are now made at Flushing about Twenty Eight Miles from Huntington where a Guard is kept; the Inhabitants are much Oppressed being Prohibited threshing their Grain or Selling their Hay, which Transports are now Loading with at Huntington all the Vessels they Could lay their hands on have been Taken up and ordered to Flushing where their Guard is kept no other part of the Island except that Place and Huntington being Guarded except a few Men in the Forts Opposite the N York Major [Robert] Rogers is at Huntington tho I cannot hear that he has the Command. The Accounts I have now given You may be depended on, they are given by a Brother to one of our Lieutenants who has been Concealed among them for some time, but has at length made his escape with three others and got Safe to this side, the Enemy were in pursuit of him when he came away. . . I expect it will be the latter end of the Week before our Desent will be made. I shall with all my Powers forward it — tho' Govr Trumbull is of Oppinion the force allowed is not adequate to the Undertaking tho' I cant help Differing from his Honour in this Particular. . .

GOVERNOR SIR GUY CARLETON TO CAPTAIN CHARLES DOUGLAS, R. N. 1

[No.] 197 Off Crown Point 14th October 1776

Sir It will no doubt give you pleasure to learn, that the armament, to the fitting out of which you so much contributed, has answered so well the end for which it was intended by having already given the rebel fleet a total defeat. The 11th instant we found fifteen sail of them behind the island of Valcour, not expecting our visit so soon, our attack, that day, was only with a part of our force, the Carleton and the gun boats, and tho we had as we thought cut the enemy's retreat off, they nevertheless gave us the slip in the night; but on the 13th we got up with them again, and from the effects of both days, for the particulars of which I refer you to Lieutenant [James Richard] Dacres, only three of their vessels, have escaped, the rest being destroyed or taken.

The gallant behaviour of Lieutenant Dacres induces me to beg you will permit him to go home with my dispatches both to Lord Sandwich and Lord George Germaine. I am &c

GOVERNOR SIR GUY CARLETON TO LORD GEORGE GERMAINE

On Board the Maria off Crown Point, October 14, 1776.

The rebel fleet upon lake Champlain has been entirely defeated in two actions; the first on the 11th instant, between the island of Valcour and the main; and the second on the 13th, within a few leagues of Crown Point.

We have taken Mr. Waterbury, the second in command, one of their brigadier generals, with two of their vessels, and ten others have been burnt and destroyed; only three of fifteen sail, a list of which I transmit, having escaped. For farther particulars I refer your lordship to lieutenant Dacres, who will be the bearer of this letter, and had a share in both Actions, particularly the first, where his gallant Behaviour in the Carleton Schooner, which he commanded, distinguished him so much as to merit great Commendation; and I beg to recommend him to your Lordship's Notice and Favour; at the same Time I cannot omit taking Notice to your Lordship of the good Service done, in the first Action, by the spirited Conduct of a Number of Officers and Men of the Corps of Artillery, who served the Gun Boats, which, together with the Carleton, sustained for many Hours the whole Fire of the Enemy's Fleet, the rest of our Vessels not being able to work up near enough to join effectually in the Engagement.

The Rebels, upon the News reaching them of the Defeat of their Naval Force, set Fire to all the Buildings and Houses in and near Crown Point, and retired to Ticonderoga.

The Season is so far advanced, that I cannot yet pretend to inform your Lordship whether any Thing farther can be done this Year. I am, &c.

Guy Carleton.

1. London Gazette, November 19 to November 23, 1776.
11th [October] We raised our anchor, and, with a favorable wind, got very early under sail. At 5 o'clock in the morning, we received orders to get in readiness for an engagement. About half after ten, we heard the sound of artillery; and soon after, under a splendid and auspicious wind, all the batteaux met the enemy's ships in a bay behind an island. The first sight, encountered by our advance guard, was a frigate of the enemy stuck fast on a stone cliff or island and abandoned; and soon after we saw two other frigates sending forth a lively fire. Besides this they had several armed gondolas, which, one after another, emerged from a small bay of the island firing rapidly and effectively. Every once in a while they would vanish in order to get breath, and again suddenly reappear.

Our attack with about 27 batteaux armed with 24, 12, and 6 pound cannon and a few howitzers became very fierce; and, after getting to close quarters, very animated. But now our frigates approached. One of them, the "Maria," having His Excellency; von Carleton on board, advanced and opened a lively cannonade. This one was replaced by the frigate "Carleton;" and as she in turn retreated, the "Inflexible" took her place only to retreat as the others had done. One of the enemy's frigates two of which were at echelons, or rather at echelon, one behind the other, began to careen over on one side, but in spite of this continued her fire. The cannon of the Rebels were well served; for, as I saw afterwards, our ships were pretty well mended and patched up with boards and stoppers.

Close to one o'clock in the afternoon, this naval battle began to get very serious. Lieut. Dufais came very near perishing with all his men; for a cannon ball from the enemy's guns going through his powder magazine, it blew up. He kept at a long distance to the right. The sergeant, who served the cannon on my batteau, was the first one who saw the explosion, and called my attention to it as I was taking aim with my cannon. At first, I could not tell what men were on board; but directly, a chest went up into the air, and after the smoke had cleared away, I recognized the men by the cords around their hats. Dufais's batteau came back burning; and I hurried toward it to save, if possible, the Lieutenant and his men, for, as an additional misfortune, the batteau was full of water. All who could, jumped on board my batteau, which being thus overloaded, came near sinking. At this moment, a Lieutenant of artillery by the name of Smith, came with his batteau to the rescue, and took on board the Lieutenant, Bombadier Engell, and one cannonier. The remainder of Dufais's men, viz: nine cannoniers and nine sailors remained with me; and these, added to my own force of 10 cannoniers, 1 drummer, 1 Sergeant, 1 boy and 10 sailors — in all 48 persons — came near upsetting my little boat, which was so over-loaded that it could hardly move. In what a predicament was I? Every moment I was in danger of drowning with all on board, and in the company, too, of those I had just rescued and who had been already half lost! It being, by this time, nearly evening, the batteaux retired. The Radeau arrived at dusk because, although we had a favorable wind, it was light, and it made, in consequence, but little headway. Any way, the two 4 pounders did their best, in firing at the frigates of the enemy. The distance, however, was too great, so that no ball was effective, and the approach of night prevented our advancing nearer. This night a chain was formed of all the batteaux; and every one had to be wide awake and on the alert. The Captain's frigate, which had run aground, was set on fire at dusk by the orders of his Excellency; and her ammunition, blowing up, caused a fine fire lasting all night. Up to this time, nothing more occurred; for the enemy's frigates remained in the same place where they had acted on the defensive.

[12] Toward morning, however, it was clear that they had escaped. A pursuit was begun and some vessels were captured. Five large and small vessels, which had entered a bay on the left shore were set on fire and abandoned by the enemy.

[13] The following night, my batteau, together with some other armed English batteaux, lost sight of the fleet on the Lake; and we were thus forced to continue rowing by guess-work the entire night that we might not be left behind. The next morning at day-break, we were lucky enough to meet a few English vessels which had met with the same experience as I had. Others followed in my rear, so that I arrived in time (ahead of some and behind others) at 9 o'clock A.M. at Crown-Point.

During our last engagement, Lieut. Dufais lost one cannonier named Rosemer, who was shot dead, and the drummer Pillant, and the pilot, who were burned up. A sailor, also, lost his leg by the same ball that killed the cannonier, and which dug a hole under the gun-carriage three inches above water mark. During this time all ate and drank rum and water together—officers as well as men; and for a change, water and rum! Salt meat and Zweibach, continued to be our food.

DIARY OF DR. LEWIS BEEBE

[Ticonderoga] Monday 14th [October] Last evening about sunset two Schooners, one shallop, 1 Gundalo and one Row galley; being the whole of our fleet which remained out of 16 sail that were not destroyed or taken by the enemy, arrived at the Garrison. Several of our vessels were obliged to strike to them, some being disabled by their shot made for the shore, ran aground, set fire to their vessels and made their escape, and this evening upwards of 160 have arrived safe in Camp. A flag, from the enemy is now here, of 150 men, with whom came Genl Waterbury, the contents are not yet known.

Autobiography of Colonel John Trumbull

[Ticonderoga, October 14, 1776]

Early in October our naval preparations were completed, and our little fleet, composed of a brig, several galleys and gun-boats, mounting altogether more than one hundred guns, commanded by Generals Arnold and Waterbury, proceeded down the lake to look for the enemy. His preparations were completed about the same time, and on the 11th of October the two fleets met, engaged, and we were defeated with total loss. Gen. Arnold ran the galley which he commanded on shore, and escaped with the crew; the other vessels were either taken or destroyed, and their crews, (with the exception of some who got on shore and straggled up to the army,) with Gen. Waterbury, remained prisoners of war.

On this occasion Sir Guy Carleton, who commanded the hostile fleet and army, behaved with a degree of humanity, as well as policy, which, if it had been generally employed by other royal commanders, might have exposed to great hazard the success of America. As soon as the action was over, Sir Guy gave orders to the surgeons of his own troops, to treat the wounded prisoners with the same care as they did his own men. He then ordered that all the other prisoners should be immediately brought on board his own ship, the Royal Charlotte, where he first treated them to a drink of grog, and then spoke kindly to them, praised the bravery of their conduct, regretted that it had not been displayed in the service of their lawful sovereign, and offered to send them home to their friends, on their giving their parole that they would not again bear arms against Great Britain until they should be exchanged. He then invited Gen. Waterbury to go below with him to his cabin, and requested to see his commission,—the moment he saw that it was signed by the governor of Connecticut, (my father,) he held out his hand, and said, "General Waterbury, I am happy to take you by the hand, now that I see that you are not serving under a commission and orders of the rebel Congress, but of Governor Trumbull. You are acting under a legitimate and acknowledged authority. He is responsible for the abuse he has made of that authority. That which is a high crime in him, is but an error in you; it was your duty to obey him, your legitimate superior."

A few days after this defeat, a number of row-boats approached our advanced post, and there lay upon their oars with a flag of truce. I was ordered to go down and learn their object. I found Capt. [James Henry] Craig, with Gen. Waterbury and the other prisoners who had been taken in the recent action; dismissed, as Sir Guy had promised, upon parole. The usual civilities passed between Sir James and me, and I received the prisoners; all were warm in their acknowledgment of the kindness with which they had been treated, and which appeared to me to have made a very dangerous impression. I therefore placed the boats containing the prisoners under the guns of a battery, and gave orders that no one should be permitted to land, and no intercourse take place with the troops on shore until orders should be received from Gen. Gates. I hurried to make my report to him, and suggested the danger of permitting these men to have any intercourse with our troops; — accordingly they were ordered to proceed immediately to Skeensborough, on their way home, and they went forward that night, without being permitted to land.

[Manor of Livingston] 14th Oct

I dined at the Mansion House. A large Quantity of Ball Chain Shott and Grapeshot lay on the Wharg [sic] for the Forts at Ticonderoge and several Tons of Iron Bars ordered for the intended Chain across the River in the High Lands, long since reported to have been constructed. My Brother [Peter R.] L[ivingston] writes to his Wife, 12 Inst. that the Ships are before Haverstraw and Money demanded by Colo. [A. Hawkes] Hay for the Support of the River Guards, which the Convention not having a Demand is made upon the Cont: Congress for One hundred Thousand Dollars. How astonishing the Confidence of the Public in the Obstruction of the River below! — Boards & Provisions must now pass by Land from Fishkill to King’s Bridge — but how can Bricks be transported for the Chimneys and Hearths of the Hutts? — They ought to have been made near the Bridge instead of Albany. The Ships have taken 2 American Row Galleys in ascending the River, and I did not perceive but one, Fireship in the Highlands — Colo. [Robert] Livingston assures me, that a Ship can find 5 Fathoms of Water up [to] this Place. There must be great Consternation below — shire, owner of the said brigantine, and William Jackson and others, of Boston, in the state of Massachusetts bay, owners of sundry goods and merchandise on board of her, having put in their several claims thereto, and the said judge of the court aforesaid, having, on the 21 day of August, in the year of our Lord 1776, decreed and ordered the said brigantine, and so much of her cargo as was claimed to be restored to the respective claimants, and that the claimants recover their legal costs of court, from which decree and sentence the said Joshua Wentworth appealed to Congress.

The committee of Congress, to whom it was referred to hear and determine the said appeal, have diligently inspected the proceedings, and heard the parties by their counsel, and it appearing that on the 1st day of October, in the year of our Lord 1775, General Gage, commander in chief of the British forces, then in Boston, in the state of Massachusetts bay, by his commission to Crean Brush, Esq. directed him to receive into his care, all such goods, chattels, and effects of the inhabitants of that town, some of whom had departed from it, as might be voluntarily delivered into his charge by the owners, or by other persons with whom they were left, giving his receipts for them and to deliver them to the owners, when he should be required; that, on the 10th day of March then following, General Howe, who had succeeded General Gage in the command of the British forces, by his commission to the said Crean Brush, reciting, that as he was informed there were large quantities of goods in Boston, which, if in the possession of the rebels (as he termed the Americans) might enable them to carry on war, and that he had given notice to all loyal inhabitants to remove such goods from thence, and that those who should not remove them, or deliver them to the care of the said Crean Brush, would be considered as abettors of rebels, required him to take into his possession all such goods as answered that description, and give certificates to the owners that he had received them for their use, and would deliver them to the owners, unavoidable accidents excepted, and to seize any such goods, as, upon enquiry, should be found secreted, or left in stores, and to put them on board of the Minerva ship, or brigantine Elizabeth. That, thereupon, the said Crean Brush, assisted by other persons, took into his possession the goods of the claimants, amongst others, and put them into the said brigantine Elizabeth, and other vessels in the harbour of Boston, without the knowledge of some of the owners, and without the consent of all the others, unless it be William Jackson and James Jackson, of whose consent, however, there are no other proofs, than that one of them went with his goods, and watched there on the wharf from whence they were shipped, and that the other was a passenger in the said brigantine Elizabeth, in her voyage towards Halifax. That the said Crean Brush, by certificates under his hand, acknowledged several parcels of the said goods to be in his custody, and engaged to preserve them safely, to make up exact invoices thereof, and, with the approbation of the commander in chief, to return them to the owners. That, on the 29th day of March afterwards the said Peter Ramsay, by orders from Admiral Shuldham, of the British fleet, given about eight days before, went on board the said brigantine Elizabeth, into which some of the claimants' goods had been shifted from the other vessels; and the same day, between the hours of three and four o'clock in the afternoon, sailed with her, under convoy of the British ship of war Niger, for Halifax, in Nova Scotia, and that, on the Tuesday following, the said John Manly, in the Hancock, coming up with the said brigantine Elizabeth, which had, in the mean time, parted from her convoy, fired a broadside at her, which was returned by a volley of small arms; when the said Daniel Waters, in the Lee, and the said John Ayres, in the Lynch, joining the said John Manly, the said Peter Ramsay struck, it being about four or five of the clock in the afternoon, and the said brigantine was seized and carried into Piscataqua river in New Hampshire; whereupon, the committee, after mature deliberation, are of opinion, that the said brigantine Elizabeth is not comprehended in the description of vessels, which, with their cargoes, by the resolutions of Congress of the 25th day of November last, may be forfeited, not being an armed or a transport vessel employed in the present war against the United States, nor carrying provisions, or other necessaries, to the British army or navy, within any of the United Colonies: and that the cases of re-captures, mentioned in the resolution of Congress of the 5th day of December last, adjusting the proportions of salvage, those cases only were intended, in which the vessels and their cargoes remaining in possession of the enemy, might, by the law of nations, be condemned as prize, which is conceived not to be the case of the said brigantine Elizabeth and her cargo; but, that notwithstanding it was the duty of the re-captors to recover the said brigantine and her cargo, and that the owners, who otherwise might, and probably would, have lost their whole property, ought to make a reasonable satisfaction; and that, therefore, the said sentence is erroneous, and ought to be reversed and annulled: That the said brigantine Elizabeth, and such parts of her cargo as were claimed in the said court maritime, be restored to the respective claimants, upon their paying, to the United States, and the recaptors, \( \frac{1}{2} \) part of the value thereof, to be determined by the appraisement of appraisers on oath, appointed by the judge of the said court: That the residue of the cargo be sold, and the proceeds, after deducting the like proportion and for the same uses, retained for the persons who shall hereafter prove their right to the same; that William Burk, commander, and the marines and mariners of the Warren, an armed vessel in the service of the United States, who claimed a part of the said brigantine Elizabeth and her cargo, as being joint captors, are not entitled to a share of the salvage, it not appearing that they were present, or in sight, at the time of the recapture: And that the appellants recover against the claimants their costs as well in the said court maritime, as in the prosecution of their appeal here; and that the cause be sent back to the said court maritime, for that court to proceed in carrying this sentence into execution.

Resolved, That Congress agree to the said report.

Resolved, That such part of the twelfth, adjudged in the foregoing report to be paid in lieu of salvage, as belongs to the United States, be released, and given up to the owners of the goods.

Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed, to consider what is to be done with negroes taken by vessels of war, in the service of the United States:

The members chosen, Mr. [James] Wilson, Mr. R[ichard] H[enry] Lee, and Mr. [Samuel] Huntington.

Sir Newport October 15th 1776 —

I receiv'd yours of the 11th Instant, and can assure you that there is no sort of Shot to be had in this State, as they Sent to Boston and could get but a bare Sufficiency for the New Ships — have Order'd the Hamden out to gain Intelligence — the Columbus is now a Graving — the new Ships and Alfred are ready, all but Men, which we must have three hundred at least for them — and one hundred for the Columbus, before we are able to Engage Ships of equal Force — and it will be with difficulty the Officers can be got willing to go out, without being full Mann'd and I see but little Encouragement of getting them Mann'd in this State.

If you will use your Influence that we may get some Men out of the Army soon, as we wait for nothing else, it will be of great Service. — I have been down here ten days in Order to Enlist Men out of the Forces here, and have not been able to get more than about One hundred and twenty — nor don't see any possibility of getting many more. — Mr [Nathaniel] Shaw [Jr.] will be able to give you any further Information as to the Circumstances of the here — and when the present appearance alters, shall acquaint you. — I am with great Regard Sir [&c.] in Answer to yours of the 21st Ultmo with Respect to the Cannon Foundery att Salisbury in this state; — have to Inform you that this furnace has been in Use for the Casting of pig Iron &c for many Years past, when first set up it was surrounded with large quantitys of wood, Yet by the Land round about being of good soil and much Cleard up for Use and the great Consumption by the furnace it is much Exhausted and now become Very scarce & dear; and we shall soon be Oblidged to goe 8 or 10 miles for Coal —

This Furnace was last the property of one Mr Smith now Absconded & gone to England leaving the Furnace in good Order. This State took it up last spring for the purpose of Casting Cannon. The Ore is extremely good perhaps no better in America and in great plenty, We have had great Success is Our Oppearations.& have Cast to the Number of about 120 Cannon from six to 18 pounders about 50 Swivel border a large quantity of Shot the 12 pounders Wt 23 or 24 hundred they are short & fit only for Ship Cannon. they will bear the highest proof, have all been tried by double quantity of powder & Shot we mean to persue the Casting of Cannon to the Utmost of our power and are in hopes of ariving to 24 pounders, tho it will be expensive & the Cannon turn out dear by reason of the Scarcity of Wood, tho we Imagine they are of the best quality & proof, we find it will by no means answer to build another Stack at that place as the Water will now but just Answer and must be Content to make the best of the Works we now have there, which we shall persue with the greatest Attention there may possibly be some other place not far Distent and where wood is much more plenty which may Answer to Erect works for the largest Cannon And shall make further enquiry and let you know as soon as I am properly Informed –

GOVERNOR SIR GUY CARLETON TO LIEUTENANT GENERAL JOHN BURGOYNE ¹

[No.] 198 On Board the Maria off Isle Valcour October Sir [October 12 to October 15]³

We found the Rebel fleet Yesterday morning behind the Island of Valcour apparently, and as we hear since from Prisoners, unaprazed either of our force or motions. One of their Vessells perceived us only a little before we came abreast of the Island, and our van got to the Southward of it time enough to stop them just as they were making off. They then worked back into the narrow part of the passage between the Island and main, where they anchored in a line. Their principal vessell, the Royal Savage, one of the first endeavouring to get out, in her confusion, upon finding our ships before her, ran upon the south end of the Island, and our Gun boats got possession of her. Upon finding she could not get off she was afterwards set fire to, and she blew up. Her crew except Twenty who were made prisoners, got on shore.

After we had, in this manner, got beyond the enemy and cut them off, the wind which had been favourable to bring us there, — however entirely prevented our being able to bring our whole force to engage them, as we had a narrow passage to work up, Ship by Ship, exposed to the fire of their whole line. The Gun boats and Carleton only got up, and they sustained a very unequal cannonade of several hours, and were obliged to be ordered to fall back, upon our finding that the rest of the fleet could not be brought up to support them. We then Anchored in a line opposite the Rebels within the distance of Cannon shot, expecting in the morning to be able to engage them with our whole fleet, but, to our great mortification we perceived at day break, that they had found means to escape us unobserved by any of our guard boats or cruisers, thus an opportunity of destroying the whole rebel naval force, at one stroke, was lost, first by an impossibility of bringing all our vessels to action, and afterwards by the great diligence used by the enemy in getting away from us.

We have been attempting to get up with part of them, which is still in our sight, this morning, but the wind blowing very strong from the southward we have been obliged to give over the chace for the present: The Enemy however is retarded as well as us.

We have had one Gun boat which was served by the Hessian Artillery, sunk; and about thirty men sailors and Artillery have been killed and wounded.

14th Octor just as I had finished the above, and I could not but be very dissatisfied, the wind sprung up fair and enabled us, after a long chase, Yesterday to get up to the Rebels, and, in our second action, we have been much more successfull; only three of their Vessels, as you will see by the list enclosed having escaped. Their second in command Mr [David] Waterbury struck to us in the Washington Galley, But Arnold run that he was on board of on shore, and set fire to her and several others of his Vessels.

This succes cannot be deemed less than a compleat victory; but considering it was obtained over the kings subjects, that, which in other circumstances ought to be a proper cause of publick rejoicing, is, in these, matter only of great concern; and therefore tho' it may be right to communicate it to the Troops, yet I dare say they think with me, that we should suppress all signs of triumph on the occation.

The Rebels upon the approach of the shattered little remains of their fleet, set fire to all the buildings in and about Crown point, abandoning the place and retired precipitately to Ticonderoga.

The sooner Frasers Brigade with all the matter I wrote about yesterday arrive the better; I shall then be able to see what is to be done. I am &c

CAPTAIN THOMAS PRINGLE, R. N., TO PHILIP STEPHENS

Copy of a Letter from Captain Thomas Pringle, on Board the Maria, off Crown Point, the 15th of October, 1776.

It is with the greatest Pleasure that I embrace this opportunity of congratulating their Lordships upon the Victory compleated the 13th of this Month, by His Majesty's Fleet under my Command, upon Lake Champlain.
Upon the 11th I came up with the Rebel Fleet commanded by Benedict Arnold: They were at Anchor under the Island Valicour, and formed a strong Line, extending from the Island to the West Side of the Continent: The Wind was so unfavourable, that for a considerable Time nothing could be brought into Action with them; but the Gun Boats, the Carleton Schooner, commanded by Mr. [James Richard] Dacres, (who brings their Lordships this) by much Perseverance at last got up to their Assistance; but as none of the other Vessels of the Fleet could then get up, I did not think it by any Means advisable to continue so partial and unequal a Combat; consequently, with the Approbation of his Excellency General Carleton, who did me the Honor of being on Board the Maria, I called off the Carleton and Gun Boats, and brought the whole Fleet to anchor in a Line as near as possible to the Rebels, that their Retreat might be cut off; which Purpose was however frustrated by the extreme Obscurity of the Night; and in the Morning the Rebels had got a considerable Distance from us up the Lake.

Upon the 13th I again saw Eleven Sail of their Fleet making off to Crown Point, who, after a Chace of seven Hours, I came up with in the Maria, having the Carleton and Inflexible a small Distance a-stern; the rest of the Fleet almost out of Sight. The Action began at Twelve o’Clock and lasted two Hours; at which Time Arnold, in the Congress Galley, and five Gondolas, ran on Shore, and were directly abandoned and blown up by the Enemy, a Circumstance they were greatly favoured in, by the Wind being off Shore, and the Narrowness of the Lake. The Washington Galley struck during the Action, and the rest made their Escape to Ticonderoga.

The Killed and Wounded in His Majesty’s Fleet, including the Artillery in the Gun Boats, do not amount to Forty; but from every Information I have yet got, the Loss of the Enemy must indeed be very considerable.

Many Particulars which their Lordships may wish to know I must at present take the Liberty of referring you to Mr. Dacres for; but I am well convinced his Modesty will not permit him to say how great a Share he had in this Victory, give me Leave to assure you, that during both Actions, nothing could be more pointedly good than his Conduct. I must also do the Justice the Officers and Seamen of this Fleet merit; by saying that every Person under my Command exerted themselves to act up to the Character of British Seamen.

Brigadier General Benedict Arnold to Major General Philip Schuyler

Dear General

Ticonderoga 15th October 1776

I made no Doubt before this you have recd a Copy of my Letter to Genl Gates of the 12th Inst dated at Schuylers Island advising of an Action between our Fleet and the Enemy the preceding day in which we lost a Schooner and a Gondola. We remained no longer at Schuyler's Island than to stop our Leaks and mend the Sails of the Washington. At 2 O'Clock P. M. the 12th weighed Anchor with a fresh Breeze to the Southward. The Enemy's Fleet at the same time got under Way, our Gondolas made very little way a Head. In the Evening the Wind moderated and we made such Progress that at 6 O'Clock next Morning we were about off Willsborough 28 Miles from Crown Point. The Enemy's Fleet were very little way above Schuyler's Island, the Wind breezeed up to the Southward so that we gained very little by beating or rowing, at the same time the Enemy took a fresh Breeze from the N.E. and by the time we had reached split Rock were along Side of us. The Washington and Congress were in a Rear, the rest of our Fleet were a Head except two Gondolas sunk at Schuyler's Island. The Washington Galley was in such a shattered Condition and had so many Men killed and wounded she struck to the Enemy after receiving a few Broad-sides. we were then attacked in the Congress Galley by a Ship mounting twelve Eighteen Pounders, a Schooner of fourteen Sixes and one of twelve Sixes, two under our Stern and one on our Broadside within Musquet Shot. They kept up an incessant Fire on us for about five Glasses with Round and Grape Shot, which we returned as briskly — The Sails Rigging and Hull of the Congress was shattered and torn in Peices, the first Lieutenant and 3 Men killed, when to prevent her falling into the Enemy's hands, who had seven Sail around me, I ran her ashore in a small Creek ten Miles from Crown Point on the East Side when after saving our small Arms, I set her on Fire with four Gondolas, with whose Crews I reached Crowne point thro' the Woods that Evening, and very luckily escaped the Savages who way laid the Road in two Hours after we passed. At 4 O'Clock Yesterday Morning I reached this place exceedingly fatigued and unwell having been without Sleep or Refreshment for near three days.

Of our whole Fleet we have saved only two Gallies, two small schooners, one Gondola and one Sloop. General Waterbury with one hundred and ten prisoners were returned by Carleton last Night. On Board of the Congress we had twenty odd Men killed and wounded. Our whole loss amounted to Eighty odd. The Enemy's Fleet were last Night three Miles below Crown Point, their Army is doubtless at their Heels, we are busily employed in compleating our Lines [&] Redoubts which I am sorry to say are not so forward as I could wish. We have very few heavy Cannon, but are mounting every piece we have. It is the Opinion of Genl Gates and Sinclair [Arthur St. Clair], that Eight or ten thousand Militia should be immediately sent to our Assistance if they can be spared from below. I am of Opinion the Enemy will attack us with their Fleet and Army at the same time; the former is very formidable, a List of which I am favoured with by Genl Waterbury and have inclosed. The Season is so far advanced, our people are daily growing more healthy. We have about Nine thousand Effectives and if properly supported make no doubt of stopping the Carrier of the Enemy. All your Letters to me of late have miscarried. I am extremely sorry to hear by Genl Gates you are unwell.

I have sent you by Genl Waterbury a small Box containing all my public and private papers and Accounts with a considerable Sum of hard and paper Money, Which beg the favr of your taking Care of. I am Dear Genl [&c.]

MAJOR GENERAL HORATIO GATES TO MAJOR GENERAL PHILIP SCHUYLER ¹

Dear Genl

Ticonderoga 15th October 1776 —

You will herewith receive Genl Arnolds Account of the Defeat and almost total Ruin of our Fleet Yesterday Morning. It has pleased providence to preserve Genl Arnold. Few Men ever met with so many hair Breadth Scapes in so short a space of time. Except the Capture of Genl Waterbury and those with him I do not think we shall lose a great many Men. Upwards of 200 with their Officers escaped with Genl Arnold. The Ammunition &ca I so long [illegible] for is much wanted here. I am distressed to the last Degree till it arrives. This Moment your favr from Saratoga of Yesterday Afternoon is put in my Hands. Part of the Lead about three Tons is arrived, and you make me happy in acquainting me the other tons are so near at hand. The Guard you mention and the wise Caution you give shall be carefully attended to. I am in haste [&c.]

P.S. I beg you will send me all the Spades you can collect as fast as possible

DIARY OF DR. LEWIS BEEBE

[Ticonderoga] Tuesday 15th: [October] The flag, mentioned yesterday, came only to transport the prisoners, which they took, in the late engagement, to this place; who were permitted to return to their several places of abode on parole, that they would not take arms against them during the present contest; and would return to them whenever called for; the number taken was 104, one of which was Genl Waterbury. Carl[el]ton was with the fleet, which we expect to visit us every hour; for which reason our works go on day and night without any intermission.

JOURNAL OF THE CONTINENTAL CONGRESS

[Philadelphia] Tuesday, October 15, 1776

The Secret Committee having, agreeable to the order of Congress, taken into consideration how to make the best distribution of the cargo lately arrived at Providence, Rhode Island, in the brig Happy Return; brought in their report; Whereupon,

Resolved, That a copy of the invoice of the cloths and blankets be sent to General [Thomas] Mifflin, quarter master general, with an order to Messrs. Browns, of Rhode Island, to deliver the whole to his order, and that it be recommended to the said quarter master general, to have the cloths immediately made up for the soldiers, either in Rhode Island, Connecticut, or by the tailors in the army, as may be thought best by General Washington and himself;

That Messrs. Browns be directed to deliver to the continental agent, at Rhode Island, the remaining part of the cargo, with orders to apply the lead, bullets, flints, muskets and powder, to the use of the continental frigates and cruisers, or such part thereof as may be wanted for that service, and the rest to remain for future orders:

That the said agent be directed to buy as much good fat beef and pork, as can be cured by the salt in his possession, for the use of the navy:

Penet & Pliarne to the "Commitees of Rhode Island" 1

Gentlemen Philadelphia 15th 8re [October] 1776

We have Established in France a house destined only for the Correspondance with the united States. the honorable Continental Congress have been Supplied there already & they will take for the future all the Articles they Shall want for the army & other purposes. we believe Necessary to inform you that it is upon the Encouragement & the assurances we have Receiv'd from the Congress we have Got in Magazines in France a Very Large quantity of Goods & other Articles of Every Kind Suitable to the present Circumstances the States are in.

In Consequence of that, Gentlemen, we flater ourselves you will adress your Vessels to that house & you may depend upon this you will find immediately there Every thing you will want.

but there is an other advantage you Must be acquainted with. the Commitees & the Merchants Meeting with Great Difficulties to send Money to Europe, our house has taken that in Consideration, & you may have bills upon our house & we will take here the Continental Money.

Our house is at Nantz in Britainy, & we have Chosen that port, because it is the best situated for the Business of this Continent. if you send your Cargoes from here to the other ports, Nantz is in the Center & out of the Channel; & after your Capt's will have Sold the Cargoes in the other ports, they May Go immediately to Nantz to be Loaded. So Beleave the honorable Congress, & that speculation you will find advantageous because from bordeaux, Rochelle, L'orient & other Ports in one, 2, 3 Days you Get to Nantz and your Capt's will not stay there as in other Ports one month to Expect their Loading.

you will find too the Articles Cheaper there, because our Great Consumption with the Continent will Determine our house to Give the Greatest satisfaction to the honorable Congress, the Commitees & the Merchants. Add to these Reasons, the Market of Nantz is Extremely Good, because there is a very Large River passing through different Cities.

this is the Direction of our house in france

MAJOR THOMAS PROCTOR TO THOMAS WHARTON, JR.

Mr President,

Fort Island, Octr 15th, 1776.

I would beg leave to offer my oppinion on a few particulars which Occur, to be necessary for our present safety.

First, That the floating Chevaux du freese’s be brought and moored at their proper place, fit for sinking.

Secondly, The boom which at present is in a useless state, to be fix’d to the Piers as intended for service.

Thirdly, As the distance between the Eastmost piere and the west part of the Sunk Chevaux du freeze, admitt large Ships to pass with ease, whether it ought not to be properly secured, as the Chevaux du freese’s for that purpose are floating along side the Fort Wharfe.

Fourthly, Having observed a Large Brigg under the care of Mich. Dorsey, to pass through the East Channell with safety, whether it might not be proper to move the Chevaux du freese’s prepared at Gloster, to prevent the passing of any vessels at so great a distance from the Fort, which vessels are seldom, if ever, examined by the fleet, and might, through the means of subtile persons, pass Troops to the City undiscover’d, till too late.

Fifthly, As the 18 P’rs on board the Province Ship are too long to be work’d to any degree of advantage for action, if it would not be Expedient immediately to change them for Cannon, more suitable, and the present Cannon on Board to be mounted at Billingsport, to form a defence for, and with the Chevaux du freese’s, and to send the six Gunns w’ch lays useless [on]
Mr. Morriss's Wharfe, to suitable places here I have to mount them on, un-till they are wanted for other Service. I remain, Sir, [&c.]

Thos. Proctor.

"Extract of a Letter from Kingston, Jamaica, Dated Oct. 15."

We are all very quiet at present, and have been so for some time past. Martial law has been suspended about a month; but parochial guards were kept throughout the island, till within this fortnight. The militia is now restored to its former state, and I hope there will be no further occasion for martial law being established here.

A few weeks ago the French frigate L'Hermione, commanded by Mons. Demonteil, Brigadier-General and knight of the order of St. Louis, came in here from St. Nichola Mole in Hispaniola, to demand a small American schooner which had been taken by the Squirrel a few days before. He alleged that the schooner was taken nearer the land than was permitted by treaty between the two courts. The Admiral answered, that Capt. [Stair] Douglas knew his duty, and if he had acted wrong, must answer for it; that he deemed the schooner a lawful prize, and would not deliver her up; but that if there were any differences to be adjusted, they must be settled by the two courts. The French frigate did not remain here 48 hours. It is reported that the admiral further told the captain, that he need not salute his ship when he went away, as he had omitted it when he came in; for that consequently the compliment should not be returned. There have been five or six prizes brought in here within these three weeks.

MAJOR GENERAL PHILIP SCHUYLER TO JOHN HANCOCK

[Saratoga Octr 16th 1776]

Since the Letter from General Arnold of the 12th Inst which General Washington has doubtless transmitted to you, I have not heard a Word from the Fleet or Tyonderoga.

I am preparing to build Barracks for three Thousand Men at this Place and Stillwater.

If we do not quite lose the Lake this Campaign, it will be necessary to employ Four Hundred Carpenters all Winter in constructing a strong Naval Force; Cordage, Sails, Oakham, and Anchors must be provided somewhere below, and the whole brought up in Winter. Fifty whip Saws will be wanted, and should be sent immediately, they are not to be had in this Quarter.

I wish a Quantity of Crocus, or any coarse Linnen, to be sent up for Sacks for the Soldiers' Bedding & Bolsters, it will be best to have them made up at Philadelphia, large enough for two Men.

A great Quantity of intrenching Tools must be provided, and such a Quantity of Ammunition sent next Winter to Tyonderoga, as will suffice for the Campaign, some should be sent immediately.

Cannon of the largest Size should be Cast in every Quarter, and sent up in Winter.

The Paymaster advises me, that his Chest is reduced to less than One Hundred Thousand Dollars, a Supply should be sent in Time. I am Sir [&c.]

MAJOR GENERAL PHILIP SCHUYLER TO THE COMMITTEE OF BERKSHIRE COUNTY

Gentlemen

Our Fleet which suffered severely in an engagement on the 12th instant with the Enemy has been still more severely handled in a subsequent [one] — insomuch that the Enemy are left masters of the Lake and are now coming on to attack our Army at Ticonderoga —

In this situation of affairs it is of the utmost importance that the Militia of your State should immediately march to sustain the Army — Such as can most expeditiously come by the way of Albany should do so, and the others take the Route to Skeensborough — Each man should come provided with as much provision and ammunition as possible — The commanding Officer must send me information of his number and the progress in his march from time to time — I shall be either at Fort George or at Skeenesborough, but as I cannot determine which, it will be proper to send expresses to both places — Please to forward Copies of this to Governor Trumbull and to every Committee in your State in a situation of affording assistance, as also to the neighbouring Counties in the State of Connecticut. I must repeat Gentlemen, that it is of great importance that I should be duly furnished with an account of the movement and number of the Militia — I am Gentlemen [&c.]

BRIGADIER GENERAL HUGH MERCER TO GEORGE WASHINGTON

Sir Amboy October 16. 1776 –

General Green [Nathanael Greene] has informed your Excellency that a party pass’d over last night to Staten Island with a view to attack the Enemy, at the east end near the Watering Place — as we advanced towards Richmond Town information was given, that some Companies of British & Hessian Troops were stationed there — surprising them was therefore the first object, which was effected this morning at break of day — Well disciplined Troops would have taken the whole without the loss of a man — but we only took about twenty prisoners, partly Hessians & English — eight Hessians & nine British, one of those wounded, & besides these two mortally wounded left at Richmond Town — We lost two men in the Action — What we have collected of intelligence from the Prisoners, is enclosed —

Your Instructions of October the 15th I shall immediately set about, observing with the utmost diligence and Punctuallity — Col Griffin received a Wound in the Heel in the Action of this Morning & Lt Col Smith of the flying Camp slightly wounded in the Arm — I shall send the Prisoners on to Philadelphia. Head Quarters 16 October 1776 So Amboy

The Examination of two Regular Soldiers & one Hessian taken Prisoners on Staten Island this Morning at the Church —

Robt Holbrook — says he belongs to the 14th Regiment — Commanded by Colnl Dalrimple — 20 Regulars & 45 Hessians were at the Church, — & there were about 1500 on the Island at first — about 10 days ago the greatest part of the Hessians embarked — Capt Stanton Commanded this Morning & fled — Genl How has 22000 including Hessians & all other Troops — Some new Troops landed last Monday — the Army in good Health & plenty of Provisions — all Salt on the Island — they expect 15000 Hessians every day — but no English Troops — the only reinforcement is the 6th Regiment about 150 — Hessians in the Army supposed to be 15000 —

Peter Gee of the 6th Rt Colr Boothby says — 150 of them landed on Staten Island last Monday from the Chambury, Transport — left England the 3d July — 20 Sail Came out with them 2 Men of War & 18 Provision Vessels
— they were making great preparations at England — recruited very fast — but expected the Press to breakout — about 700 Hanoverians came out, as many more expected — some of them lay at Plymouth — the greatest part of the Hessians left the Island — a great many Sick in the Island — the number in the Fort not known — supposd about 600 — only two pieces of cannon in the Fort — expected a reinforcement of the regulars —

Christian Guiler a Hessian Private — says tis 8 Years since he left his own Country — almost all their Troops is with Genl How — 12000 of them have come, expect more — expected if taken Prisoner to have Mercy shewn him if we were a Christian People — that he was brought from his Country by force, that detachments were sent through thier Country & if thier Parents interfered were put into Jail — were told they were to be Garrisoned in England — but after 3 days arrival in England were orderd to embark for America to their great disappointment, & against thier Will were guarded to thier Ships — they saw no papers of any kind among them from us — if they knew that they would be well treated by us, would if all lay down thier Arms — have no desire to Return to thier Ridgment again — are much pleasd & happy with the treatment they have receivd — and are very thankful for the same —

[Philadelphia] Wednesday, October 16, 1776

Resolved, That it be recommended to the general court of Massachusetts bay, to give the continental agent the full weight of their influence to make the frigate Hancock ready for sea immediately; that whatever expense shall accrue to the state of Massachusetts bay, either for procuring guns or other stores for fitting the said frigate, shall be reimbursed on demand; and that, in directing the cruise of the said frigate, the Congress will pay all the regard to the protection of the commerce of Massachusetts bay, that the zeal of that state, in the common cause, justly entitles it to.

Whereas sundry prizes have been heretofore taken by the cruisers fitted out by General Washington, at the continental expence, and on continental accounts, and no accounts thereof have yet been rendered by the agents who received and sold the said prizes; and, whereas, a just distribution of such shares of the said prizes as are due to the officers and men, agreeable to the rules and regulations of Congress, ought to be made;

Resolved, That the Marine Committee be empowered to order such distribution of the said prize money amongst the parties interested therein; and that they recover from the said agents the continental share of all the said prizes:
That the present continental agents do account with the Marine Committee, from time to time, for the continental share of all prizes received and sold by them, and that they pay the amount of such prizes to the order of the said committee:

That the said agents make just distribution of the shares in all prizes that appertain to the officers and crews of the continental ships of war, agreeable to the rules and regulations of Congress, as soon after the sales of each prize as possible:

That the Marine Committee apply all the prize money they receive from the agents, to the service of the marine department, and hereafter render accounts thereof to Congress:

That the Marine Committee report, from time to time, all sums of money they received for prizes to the treasury, in order that the same may be charged to their account in the treasury books.

The Board of Treasury reported, that there is due,

To Captain Sion Martindale and Lieutenant Moses Turner, for their pay and rations from the 1st of January to the 14 October, 1776, the sum of 572 76/90 dollars.

Ordered, That the said account be paid.

Philadelphia [October 16].

Saturday last arrived here the ship mentioned in our last, taken by the brig General Montgomery, she proves to be the ship Thetis, Capt. [Hezekiah] May, with 310 hogsheads of sugar, 90 puncheons of rum, &c. from Montego Bay for London, and belonged to a fleet of near 200 sail, who left Jamaica in August last, under convoy of two men of war.¹ The above ship, in coming up, touched on the Cheveaux de Frize, where she would have, in all probability sunk, had it not been for the timely assistance she received from the Row-Galley-Men.

Yesterday arrived from a cruise the continental schooner Wasp, Capt. [John] Baldwin, and brought in a large Guinea ship, bound from Jamaica for Liverpool, with 305 hogsheads of sugar, 55 puncheons of rum, &c. part of the Jamaica August fleet. — ² This is the third of that fleet sent in here.

Your Petitioner prays the Honorable Court would extend the favor that has been granted unto others under similar circumstances, & order that his private adventure be restored to him, & would also pray for the same indulgence to the Sea-men belonging to said Schooner — And Your Petitioner as in duty bound shall ever pray.

Application from the Committees of South Hadley representing. That Whereas Lieut John Knight a Prisoner on Parole is destin'd to reside at South Hadley, and the Committee found in his possession a Box containing sundry Surveys of the Coast of Newfoundland, Nova Scotia, New England, including the Harbour of Boston, & Isles &c wch Box of Surveys they took from him, least they might in future prove prejudicial to the Interest of America. And he the said Knight urges that said Surveys may be returned to him again alleging that they are certainly no other than Copies taken from Capt Cook, Mr De Barras, Capt Holland &c published in London — That Genl Washington inspected them at Cambridge, and suffer'd him to retain them, That it cost him much time to copy them, and supposes them to be his own private property —

The Committee upon Consideration judged proper to refer the matter to the consideration of the General Assembly — praying that the Hon: Court would signify their pleasure touching the premises by some early opp[ortunit]y as there is a prospect that said Knight may soon be Exchanged, &c

In Council, Resolved that the Committee of Correspondance Inspection & Safety of the Town of South Hadley be, & hereby are directed to transmit to the Secretary of this State the Box mention'd in said Committee's Letter containing the sundry Surveys therein referred — also any Minutes of surveys that Lieut Knight may be possessed of the said Surveys, & Minutes to be deposited in the Secretary's Office until the further Order of this Court.

Sir Providence Octob: 17. 1776

Your Favour requesting us to procure You an Iron Hearth or Cabose for the Ship of War under Your Care² also requesting us to inform You whether You could be supplied with 12 lb Shot and what Price we gave the Riggers for Rigging the Warren & Providence we received and it has not been in our Power to reply thereto until now by Reason of Mr Mumford (who is the only Person who undertakes Iron Caboses) being at Warwick and his Workmen at Warren & the great Difficulty in obtaining Bar Iron & Iron Plates; the latter must be plated at Pawtucket — Mr Mumford has agreed to make this Caboose at the same Rate he has ever done only being allowed the Difference in the extraordinary Rise of the Material which was the Way the Naval Committee agreed with him for the two for the Warren & Providence: The Warren's was done first & weigh'd 10½ Cwt for which we paid him 12d per Pound; that for the Providence was done next and weighed 19 Cwt and odd for which we paid him 13½d per lb. The Reason of the latter's weighing so much more than the former was because she had Iron Pots & the Warren a Copper Cook Kettle; but before Mr Mumford can begin upon Your Caboose You must send Answers to the following Questions Do You propose having a Copper Boiler or Iron Pots? If a Copper then the Blacksmith must have the exact Dimensions of its Length, Breadth & Depth from outside to outside; if Iron Pots it will then be best that they be sent to the Smith at Warren if it can be done as the Caboose may be more certainly made to fit them without Loss of Weight; But if they cannot be sent conveniently, the Diameter over the biggest Part of the Pots & also the Height of them as they stand on a Floor: If the Caboose is to stand under the Forecastle it will then be necessary to know the Height from the Deck to the Carlines of the Forecastle that Room may be left for cleaning the Pots &c.

As soon as Your Answer to the foregoing is received we will immediately forward it to Mr Mumford who has promised that no Time shall be lost: But You must expect the Price will be much more than our last cost us owing to the very great Scarcity and Demand for Iron. Any Quantity would sell for Forty eight Pounds per Ton: It is with great Difficulty any can be got —

The Price we gave our Riggers for working on the Continental Ships was from 5/ to 6/ pr Day; but all Labour of every Kind has greatly advanced here since and we think You had better agree with Your Riggers on the best Terms You can. In Regard to the 12 lb Shot we have advised with our Naval Committee & they think they shall be able to supply You with what You may want — You mention having sent Part of the Spars by Capt who is arrived & has lost in the Sound two of the largest of them, he says his Cable broke; we know not how it was but think he was not so careful as he ought to have been or that his Cable was rotten & good for Nothing. This is a very unlucky Affair; we hope better Luck will attend those You have to forward — We are [&c.]

Manned & sent in

Burnt or otherwise Destroyed.

I have written from time to time to the Marine Board and furnished them with Particular Accounts of all my Poceeedings [sic] and I now send Copies of my former letters. — I arrived here 7th Currt — I would not have lost a day without writing to you and to the Board — had not the Commodore Proposed to me to Take Command of an Expedition — with the Alfred, Providence and Hamden to Destroy the Fishery of Newfoundland — but Principally to relieve an Hundred of our fellow Citizens who are detained as Prisoners and Slaves in the Coal Pits of Cape Briton — All my humanity was Awakened and called up to Action by this Laudable Proposal and I have been successfully Employed in refitting and getting the Providence in readiness — but am Under the greatest Apprehension that the Expedition will fall to nothing as the Alfred is greatly Short of Men. — I found her with only about thirty men and we have with much Adoe enlisted Thirty more — but it seems Privateers entice them Away as fast as they receive their Months Pay.

— It is to the last degree distressing to Contemplate the State and Establishment of our Navy. — The common Class of mankind are Actuated by no, nobler principle than that of Self Intrest — this and this Only determines all Adventurers in Privateers; the Owners as well as those whom they Employ. And While this is the Case Unless the Private Emolument of individuals in our Navy is made Superiour to that in Privateers it never can become respectable — it never will become formidable. — And without a Respectable Navy — Alas America! — In the Present Critical situation of Affairs human Wisdom can Suggest no more than one infallable expedient. — Enlist the Seamen during Pleasure and give them all the Prizes — What is the Paltry emolument of two thirds of Prizes to the Finances of this Vast Continent! — If so poor a Resource is essential to its Independency, in sober sadness we are involved in a Woeful Predicament, and our ruin is fast Approaching —

— the Situation of America is new in the Annals of Mankind — her Affairs Cry haste — and Speed must Answer them —Trifles therefore ought to be wholly disregarded as being in the Old Vulgar Proverb “Penny Wise and Pound Foolish” — Your Enemies, with the best established and most formidable Navy in the Universe, have found it expedient to Assign all Prizes to the Captors — how much more is such Policy essential to our infant Fleet, but I need Use no Arguments to convince you of the necessity of making the Emoluments of our Navy equal if not Superiour to theirs. — we have had Proof that a Navy may be Officered almost on Any terms — but we are not so sure that those Officers are equal to their Commissions — nor will The Congress ever Obtain such certainty Untill they in their Wisdom See Proper to Appoint a Board of Admiralty competent to determin impartially the respective Merits and Abilities of their Officers and to Superintend regulate & Pointout all the Motions & Operations of the Navy. —

Govr [Stephen] Hopkins tells me that he Apprehends I am Appointed to the Andrew Doria — She is a good Cruizer and would in my Judgement Answer much better were She mounted with 12 six-pounders than as she is at Present with 14 fours. — An expedition of Importance may be effected this Winter — on the Coast of Africa. — with part of the Original Fleet — either the Alfred or Columbus, with the A. Doria and Providence would I am persuaded carry all before them and give a Blow to the English African Trade which would not soon be recovered by not leaving them a Mast Standing on that Coast. — this Expidition would be Attended with no great Expence besides the Ship and Vessels mentioned are Unfit for Service on a Winter Coast — which is not the Case with the New Frigates — the Small Squadron for this Service ought to Sail early that the Prizes may reach our Ports in march or April. — If I do not succeed in manning the Alfred so as to proceed to the Eastward in course of this week the season will be lost — the Coal Fleet will be gone to Hallifax and the Fishermen to Europe. — I will not however remain inactive but Proceed to Cruise in the Sloop near Sandy-Hook. — Three of my Prizes have Arrived here and one or two more to the Eastward. I am &c.

MAJOR GENERAL PHILIP SCHUYLER TO COLONEL ELIAS DAYTON 1

Dear Colonel

Saratoga Octr 17th 1776

Our Fleet has been engaged with the Enemy and they have obliged us to quit the Lake with the Loss of the greater part of our Vessels — The Militia is ordered up to support the Communication: but the Tardiness of their Motions gives me great and just Cause to apprehend that the Enemy will interrupt our Supplies — It is therefore of the greatest Moment that you march with all Dispatch to Fort George and only to bring on your Tents. 2 I am Dear Sir [&c.]

"EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM A GENTLEMAN AT ALBANY, DATED OCTOBER 17, 1776." 1

You doubtless have heard of the engagement between our fleet on the Lake, and the enemy, on the 11th instant. Our advice left them the 12th, our fleet then at anchor near Schuyler's Island, in a Battered and leaky condition; the enemy just appearing in sight, beating up with a light southerly breeze. Events since have been very unfavourable: Our fleet made but little tarry at anchor, only to stop their leaks &c. and proceeded with all the dispatch their condition would admit of, towards Crown Point. A favourable northerly gale assisted the enemy to run up with the fleet when a second engagement commenced, which lasted five glasses, most of the time in musket shot, very warm and sharp, in which our men conducted with inimitable spirit and bravery, but were obliged to submit to superior strength. In this affair our fleet is almost totally ruined; only one galley escaped, with sloop Enterprise, and two small schooners, and one gondola. — the rest all taken, burnt and destroyed. General Arnold fought as long as possible in the galley Congress, when he was obliged to run her ashore, burn her, and escape by land to Tyconderoga, having lost 20 of his men. General Waterbury in the Washington Galley, fought till he was so shattered that the galley was sinking under him, and was obliged to strike; this is the only vessel that the enemy possessed themselves of. Col. Wigglesworth, in the Trumbull galley is arrived at Ticonderoga. — In both engagements we have lost a large schooner — three galleys burnt and taken, 8 gondola's burnt also; — have remaining a sloop 12 guns, 6 schooners, 8 guns each, 2 galleys 1 gondola.
The enemy's fleet is amazing — one ship 18 twelve pounders, 1 schooner, 14 six pounders, 1 ditto, 12 ditto, 3 large radeaux 6 twenty-four pounders — 12 twelve pounders — 4 eight inch howitzers, all brass; 28 gondola's, 1 gun each, twelve, eighteen and twenty-four pounders, 1 eight inch howitzer; our people are all [returned] to Ticonderoga, where they may very soon expect an attack.

[New York] 17th Octr — The Recruits lately arrived for those Regiments which are with the Army under General Howe, went through Hellgate this morning in Flatboats.

The ships with the Hessians cannot go through for want of a proper wind. Several ships with Horses and Waggons are detained for the same reason.
The Senegal Sloop of War got through this Morning with much difficulty; she touched the Shore several times, but at last effected the passage with much labor and danger.

The Montgomery Privateer, belonging to Providence, has taken and sent into this Port, a Schooner from Cape Nichola Mole, bound to Halifax, having on board 9000 Gallons of Molasses and 6000 Wt. of Sugar. The Privateer had been out but 24 Hours when she took this Vessel.

We hear that the Continental Brig Cabot, Capt. Elisha Hinman, has taken seven Prizes, one of which, a Ship, is arrived at Rhode-Island.

Colonel Joseph Reed to Governor Jonathan Trumbull \(^1\)

Sir

The very critical state of our Army and frequent movements of the Enemy render it almost impossible for the General to write himself without neglecting more important duties. He therefore directs me to answer your letter of the 14th and to say that the Captains of the Galleys from your State have misbehaved invariably from the first moment they came to the time of their departure from hence about a week ago — That the accumulation of business and a hope that they would retrieve their reputation prevented your having an earlier information of their behaviour. They are now under the sentence of a Court Martial for misbehaviour in the first attack made on the Ships in the North River, and on every other occasion since have manifested such want of Spirit and Judgment as to be despised by the whole Army. In the late affair Capt [John] McCleave must be excepted from the general censure, as he managed with prudence and propriety — But Capt [Jehiel] Tinker, \(^2\) with the wind at South and on the Tide of Flood when the Ships could move, left his vessel, though stationed as a guard, to go up to Kingbridge after some cloaths as he pretended. The consequence was, that in the hurry and confusion & long before they were in danger they left the Galley aground, tho' they might have burnt or bilged her — The Enemy took possession of her in half an hour; and, she with the other left under the like circumstances will probably prove the most formidable Force they can have to oppose us on the River — There was a place of safety provided for the other Galleys which they might have got into as well as McCleave, but they passed it in their hurry — I am Sir by his Excellency's Command

Joseph Reed Adjt Genl

Head Quarters Octor 18th 1776

Agreeable to your request the Genl has dismissed Capt McCleave and his Crew. The other is up the River —

My Lord, I beg Leave to acquaint You that in Consequence of your Lordship's Directions signified to me of the 1st of September last; and finding His Majesty's Sloop Cruizer to be in a worse Condition than represented by the several Surveys held on her; (as will appear by Captain [Francis] Parry's Report of the 27th September here inclosed) I gave the necessary Directions for her Stores, Ammunition and Furniture remaining on board, to be taken out and put on board the Active, Falcon and Scorpion; the Officers Company to be accomodated on board the said Ships, and the Sloop to be hauled on Shore & burnt, which was accordingly done on the 2d instant. Captain Parry will lay before Your Lordship, an Account of the distribution of her Stores, Ammunition, &c. and the Accomodation of her Officers and Company for a Passage to this Port. JOURNAL OF AMBROSE SERLE

[On board H. M. S. Eagle, New York]

Friday 18th. October.

Early this Morning the great Fleet, with the second Division of the Hessians, Waldeckers, & British Recruits on board, appeared in the offing: about Noon, five or six Transports came up to the Town, the rest not being able to pass by the Hook through the contrary Wind. The Active Frigate of 28 Guns, Capt. [Anthony] Hunt, and the Cruizer Sloop of 8, also came into Harbor from the Southward. 2 The Intelligence of this Fleet arriving was good news indeed, and especially as a North West Wind has been expected almost every Day, which might have blown them so far off the Coast, as to have prevented their reaching it again all the Winter. It began to blow very fresh to-day. The Fleet had no sooner come under Land, but the Wind changed from S.E. wch was favorable to the N.W. and came on very strong.

2. This statement is in error regarding the Cruiser which, being no longer seaworthy, was dismantled and destroyed.

DIARY OF FREDERICK MACKENZIE

[New York] 18th Octr — The Rose of 20 Guns went through Hellgate this Morning without any difficulty, having a fine wind, & favorable tide.
The transports with the Hessian brigade, from Staten Island, which have waited so long for a favorable opportunity, went through without any accident, and proceeded to join the Army.

A Signal this morning at Staten Island for a fleet, supposed to be that with the Hessians. In the Evening 7 ships came up to New York, in one of which arrived Major Donkin of The Welch Fusileers, who confirms the ac-tount of its being the fleet so long looked for, with about 7000 troops; out 14 weeks, & all arrived safe, under Convoy of The Diamond, Ambuscade, and another Frigate.

Sir [Philadelphia] October 18th 1776

Herein you will find two Resolves of the Continental Congress of which we have the honor to be members, whereby you’ll observe you are ordered to account with us from time to time for the Continental Share of all Prizes received and sold by you as Agent and to pay the amount thereof to our order. In obedience to this Resolve we think proper to lay it down as a Rule, that you State your accounts every three Months crediting therein the Continental Share of every Prize whose accounts can be settled and included within that quarter of a year, and that you add thereto a Schedule containing an exact account of all the prizes that then remain in your care whose accounts are unsettled, and we desire that you will constantly remit us undoubted good bills on this place as you can meet with them which will save the trouble and risque of sending money, in taking drafts prefer those of the Continental Agents, Paymasters & Commissarys to any other provided they are drawn on the President of Congress, this Committee or any other public Board for public Service — Next to these undoubted good private Bills but none others. When neither One or the Other can be met with, inform us and of the sums you have, that we may give particular Orders respecting the Remittance or application thereof.

By the other Resolve you will find yourself under orders of Congress to make a just distribution amongst the officers and men concerned in taking each Prize as soon after the sales as possible agreeable to the Rules and Regulations made by Congress in this respect, and it is our duty to see this punctually complied with as the Service has already suffered by delay — therefore you will always make the said distributions as soon as can be after the Sale and transmit us duplicates of the accounts and your proceedings therein. We shall allow all your just expenditures on account of the Continent to be charged against their share of Prize Money but those charges must be supported by vouchers. We are Sir [&c.]

Continental Marine Committee to the Prize Agents Appointed by George Washington

[Philadelphia] October 18th 1776.

Sir We have the honor to inclose herein a Resolve of the Continental Congress of which we are members whereby you will see we are empowered to order a proper and just distribution of all Prizes taken by the Cruizers Genl Washington caused to be fitted out on Continental Account, and also that we are authorized or rather Ordered to receive from the Agents who received and sold the said Prizes, the Continental share thereof, and as we find you have been employed as an Agent in this business, we desire that you will immediately send us an Account of the Prizes that have been put under your care, with Coppies of the decrees of the Court of Admiralty, Inventories of Ships and Cargoes, with Copys of the Accounts Sales properly Authenticated, an Account Current for each Prize wherein you Credit the Neat Proceeds, and charge the share appertaining to the Officers and Crews who were interested in the Capture and also the Continental share agreeable to the Rules and Regulations laid down by Congress and a General Account Current wherein you will credit the Continent for their share in every Prize and charge for all such Remittances as you make to us in consequence of these Orders as well as for any other just charge you have to make against them. We desire that you will remit to this Board whatever moneys you have in hand arising from the Continental share of the Prizes put under your management, and as there are many persons gone from hence to purchase prize goods, you may procure drafts on this place from undoubted safe good men which will save the trouble and risque of sending the money, or you may pay it in to the Continental paymaster at Boston Ebenezer Hancock Esqr and transmit us his draft on the President of Congress, or the Honorable Thomas Cushing Esqr, John Bradford esqr of Boston or John Langdon Esqr of New Hampshire have occasion for money on our account — their drafts on ourselves will be good and the sooner you make these Remittances and render the Accounts the better. We must also enjoin you to make an immediate division and distribution of that share of Prizes that appertains to the Officers and Crews that took them, agreeable to and in strict conformity with the Rules and Regulations of Congress, and that you transmit as soon as can be duplicates of those Accounts as it is our duty to see this business perfected, otherways the maritime service of America will suffer greatly, by the discouragements arising from delays in the payment of Prize money &c. Where any part of the Prizes have been applied to Continental use, that part must be valued and included at the valuation in the new account of Sales — if applied to the use of yours or any other State, they must pay the valuation and that be included in the Acct Sales. Expecting your compliance with an answer to this Letter We remain Sir [&c.]

1. Executive Papers, Box 2, Folder 80, Md. Arch.
We, the subscribers, joined three companies of the 26th battalion of militia, under the command of col. [William] Harrison, at Sandy-Point, on Tuesday the 23d July last, early in the morning, in the character of volunteers. About 9 o'clock the ships began to man their tenders and small boats, when col. Harrison ordered the three companies to stand to their arms, and after watching the motions of the enemy a few minutes, gave orders for capt. [Francis] Martin's company, consisting of about 45 men, including officers, to repair to the head of a valley which led down to the river nearly opposite the Roebuck. — We fell in with this company at the head of the valley. — A little while after that came three or four strangers, who were questioned by col. Harrison, and informed him that they had come up the river, were going to Alexandria, and had landed a little below in two small boats: — those we understood to be capt. [Robert] Conway, his lieutenant, and two men: — By this time ten rowboats, two tenders and a gondola were [illegible]ed with men along side of the Roebuck, which lay near 400 yards from the Maryland shore. It was every moment expected the enemy would land and attack us. — col. Harrison told capt. Martin's company that, in case the enemy attempted to land there, he should instantly march down at their head and post them behind the beach, and after admonishing them, begged that if any one felt confused or under any panic, to candidly inform him and turn out of the ranks, on which one of the privates turned out and told him that he did not like to march down the hill. — He was then ordered to give up his gun and ammunition to some other, that would, and col. Harrison delivered his gun to capt. Conway's lieutenant, who said he would march down with us. About ten oclock the enemy's boats, tenders and gondola left the Roebuck, giving three cheers, and contrary to our expectation, went over to Virginia, where they landed and set fire to Mr. Brent's house. — col. Harrison ordered the company down to the beach in order to show them where he intended to post them, had the enemy attempted, or in case they should attempt a landing at that place — Before the enemy returned from Virginia, we were reinforced with about 120 men under col. [Samuel] Hanson — About 5 or 6 o'clock afternoon, the enemy's small tender, and the gondola, were observed to be manning, and in a few minutes left the Roebuck and directed their course towards the bay where capt. Conway's boats were landed. — Col. Harrison immediately ordered the men to arms, and conceiving the enemy's design was to take off capt. Conway's boats, gave capt. Martin orders to take about 20 of his best armed men, and follow him down to watch the motions of the tender and gondola. — This detachment we joined with two other volunteers — in the whole we think it consisted of 25 persons — We proceeded towards the bay with all haste, and near the head of a valley met with capt. Conway and some of his men. — Capt Conway went down the valley with col. Harrison to shew where his boats lay, and we followed close after in [illegible] and were halted at the mouth of the valley – He told the colonel that one of his boats was drawn over the beach into a marsh, the other, was on the shore staved, which was about 50 yards from us, though we could not see her from the mouth of the valley on account of some bushes, which grew on the beach. — The tender had got in the bay before we reached our post, and lay about 150 yards off. — As soon as we were halted, the tender fired one of her carriage guns, which was presently succeeded by a discharge of grape shot from the gondola; this load grounded within a few paces of us, and many of the shot, with several cannon balls, were picked up the next day — sundry great guns were discharged at us whilst we remained at this post. — The gondola, after she came against the boat, rowed off and on, and, after a short time seemed to be gradually getting more into the bay, as it designed to open the valley and rake it. — We heard capt. Conway say to col. Harrison, that he thought she was endeavouring to rake the valley, and advised him to order a retreat, or words to the same purpose. — The colonel, after taking a view of the gondola, turned about, and in a low tone gave orders for a retreat to the head of the valley, the gondola being within 70 or 80 yards of us at the time. — Five or six of the men who were in the rear retreated some distance beyond the place intended, which we firmly believe proceeded from their not having heard the orders distinctly, as most of them returned immediately to the head of the valley, on being called to by some of the others. — From this place we observed the Roebuck had got under way and fallen down, and began to fire on us; also the tender, our situation being open to them both. The colonel returned to the mouth of the valley, and we and others went different ways to take another view of the gondola, which we found lying quite still, nearly opposite the boat, with her hatches close shut, and nothing visible but her oars and guns, though capt. Conway’s lieutenant had just before informed, that her hatches were up and men exposed, which raised our hopes of getting a shoot. — We recollect that, previous to our leaving the mouth of the valley, capt. Conway asked col. Harrison to let the gondola be fired at, to scare her off from the shore, which was refused, as there was no living object to shoot at. — A retreat was then ordered to the main body by col. Harrison, and the detachment directed to scatter as they retreated through the old fields, to observe the flash of the enemy’s cannon, and to fall down whenever they saw it. — The fire from the Roebuck, armed schooner, and gondola, grew very warm, and the frequent falling down of the men occasioned a general laughter. — We retreated to a fence at the edge of a wood, and lay behind it until the enemy’s fire ceased — then returned to the main body, with which we remained until the ships went down the river, and the troops were discharged.

John Matthews,
William Stoddert,

(Charles county, October 18, 1776.)

Then came Messrs. John Matthews and William Stoddert, gentlemen, and made oath on the holy Evangelists of Almighty God, that the above is a true state of the transactions at Sandy-Point, under col. William Harrison, on the 23d of July last.

COMMISSIONERS FOR FITTING OUT THE BRIG KING TAMMANY TO THE NORTH CAROLINA COUNCIL OF SAFETY

Sir, Edenton 18th Octr 1776

Since the Resolve of your Honorable Board came to hand for the King Tammany to Cruize we have been indefaticable in Our Endeavours to get her Mann'd and rendered fit for Sea, and we have the pleasure to inform you that She is now nearly, or quite complete.
We have lately been informed the Pennsylvania Farmer is gone up to New Bern, to heave down, and will not be ready for some considerable time to proceed on her intended Cruize.

We beg leave to Submit it to your Honl Board whether it might not be best to Alter the Cruizes of the Two Vessells and Order the King Tamminy to take the first Cruize. Also to Allow her to Cruize from Lat: 35 to Lat: 30, to leave the distance from the Coast to the discretion of the Captain, and allow Six weeks for the Cruize in place of four.

What induced us to trouble you on this Occasion was this Consideration that by the last of the month of November, in all probability the Jamaica Fleet homeward bound will have crossed these Latitudes, and render the Cruize fruitless to all intents and purposes.

We have no doubt but it will Occur to you, it will be necessary to give the Bearer as much dispatch as possible as the King Tamminy will be ready to go down next Wednesday. We have the Honor to be Most respectfully sir [&c.]

GOVERNOR PATRICK TONYN TO LORD GEORGE GERMAIN

[Extract]

No. 26.

My Lord; I am sorry to inform your Lordship that the Cumberland Packet Boat, which was dispatched the 9. of September, after out living a. severe Storm at Sea, returned in about three weeks, in distress, and sunk in the Harbour. The amer[i]can male [sic] was sent by Captain [Thomas] Bishop of the Lively to New York. The Captain and Crew with the Guns that were on Board the Packet, are on Board the Betsey Ship Captain Lofthouse, who carries home our annual produce.

I have the honour to acquaint your Lordship that, at the Critical time, when an expedition was planned and commenced against this province, and when depredations were made by the Rebels as far as Saint John River, to secure that Barrier, and the Plantations and Provisions on that River, as there was not at that time any of the Kings Vessels of force in the province, I was, my Lord, under the absolutely [sic] necessity, of commissioning and employing the Sloop Rebeca Captain Mowbray for three Months certain to secure the inland water passage to Saint John River from Georgia.

There are numbers of fugitives from the Neighbouring Provinces, many of whom, without a little assistance have not where withal to support themselves; there are a number of Run away Negros from Georgia, whom I releived the Captains of the Navy of, to whom they fled for protection, and twenty eight Prisoners taken by Lord Dunmore, and sent here to be kept in custody; I have committed them to the Fort untill these unhappy differences terminate.

MINUTES OF THE NEW YORK COMMITTEE OF SAFETY

GOVERNOR SIR GUY CARLETON TO MAJOR GENERAL WILLIAM HOWE ¹

[Crown Point 20th October 1776]

Sir We have defeated the Rebel Fleet upon lake Champlain, three sail only out of 15 having escaped, the rest we have taken or destroyed, upon the news of this event reaching crown point the Rebels posted there, set fire to all the buildings and retired to Ticonderoga. His Majesty’s Forces therefore are now in possession of the former place, but I fear the want of time (the severe season approaching very fast) to put it in a proper state of defence, and of materials to put it in a condition to lodge the Troops, provisions and stores, which would be necessary to leave there, will force us back to Canada. I am in hopes however that our appearance on this side the lake will occation a diversion which may be favourable to your oparations.

I have not heard from you since you left Hallifax.

Some Officers of the Regiments serving under your command, not finding opportunity of joining your army at the beginning, I gave them leave to serve with the Troops here; I have now directed them to repair to their respective corps, and think it just to acquaint you, I have been very much satisfied with their conduct during this campaign. I am &c

WILLING, MORRIS & CO. TO WILLIAM BINGHAM

Extract

Philadelphia Octr 20th 1776

... Your favor of the 24th Septr or rather the Copy of it was handed us yesterday by Capt Lockhart of the Brigt Cornelia & Molly which arrived here safe and we have this day sold the Molasses at Publick Vendue for upwards of 6 P Gal & Mr Harrison & your Limes for 40/ to 50 P bbl they are rather plenty You see it is hard to form just opinions concerning adventures in our present situation, when we wrote You in July there seemed little Chance of getting any thing safe and almost ever since the Coast has been quite clear so that the spirit of enterprize has seized most People & they are making or trying to make Fortunes, their Attempts will probably have the happy effect of procuring us many suplys that we stand much in need of

... We are fearful the Farmers General of France will have so many offers for supplying them with Tobacco that instead of expecting to pay prices suited to the risque of Exporting it, they will begin to think it is in their power to engross our whole Crops on their own terms for you cannot conceive how many proposals made to them have come to our knowledge, however when they answer your letter transmit us a Copy and if they leave room for doing any thing you may depend we will back you properly — You desire us to point out the Articles wanted and were to send you patterns but we answer as we did in our former letter that this is not necessary We are in great want of all kinds of European Manufactures especially for Winter. Wear nothing can come amiss, Silks are perhaps the least demanded of any thing especially in Winter. French Wines do not sell well unless they are of the very best quality and its best not to meddle with them unless you imported them from France on purpose and could depend on having the best.
Nails, Glass (Window Glass) as well as Glass Ware is wanted. Some Coarse Hats, Coarse Stockings & Soldier's Shoes wou'd sell well, all kind of West India produce is and will be dear, notwithstanding the great Number of Prizes taken with those Commodities, all sorts of woolen Goods must answer well this whole Winter & every kind Goods fit for warm weather will sell well all the year round; therefore we think you cannot be at a loss. . . . We think our Publick affairs wear a better aspect than when we wrote you last, therefore no need to stop any thing from coming this way. If many Goods are arrived for us from Europe send them forward by the best Conveyances, and advise our T. Morris the Vessells, Masters & value by each. We have now fixed him in the Mercantile line in France during the present troubles and you may keep up a Constant Correspondence with him, perhaps he may soon have it in his power to supply both you & us with all the Goods that will be wanted from thence. We have given orders for a little Vessell to be sent you from Maryland, another from Carolina with Rice & Indigo and shall keep sending and ordering as many as we can. You dont seem to write as if you approved much of Mr Harrison being joined with you in Consignments and Capt. Lockhart says the business of his Vessell was not well attended to or he might have been here some weeks ago, this shoud not happen Vessells now sail at a monstrous Expense and the dispatch ought to be quick. If you cannot attend closely you had better get Mr Harrison or some other to do the business or hire an excellent Clerk to assist you. When any Vessells of our Concern or recommendation arrive we know you will exert yourself to serve them & Comply with the Orders but pray dispatch them for Vessells being scarce delay hinders your own reimbursement.

The Cornelia & Molly shall go back to you but not on Publick account as we want to throw Funds into your hands indeed we shall make you many Consignments as possible.

We think if you cou'd hire a small fast sailing French Vessell and dispatch her immediately for Carolina Consd to Mr John Dorsius Mercht there with a Cargo of Powder, some linens Checks &c. you will make a Golden Voyage. You may Interest us half or two thirds, there is some British Cruizers on that Coast but if the Vessell is small she may easily escape by lying Hull too every Morning at Day break untill she can see all round her, she will see the Enemy when they cannot see her and by setting their course avoid em. She shoud not cross the Gulph Stream untill in the Latitd of Charles Town & then run right in, dont lose a Moment in executing this Scheme if you do execute it & we hope you will, pray take care to have a trusty faithfull Master, you can order back Rice & Indigo & ship the latter Ordr Mr Thos Morris or his order at any Port you please in France, he will have agents at every Port, therefore you cannot go amiss, but we believe he will fix with Messrs Pliarne Penet & Co at Nantes instead of Mr Schweighauser all the rest as mentioned to you before. Capt. James Robinson the Bearer of this has orders to take in any Goods you have to ship & if you shou'd not have enough to fill him on the Publick Account, you had best put some onboard on your & our account, but if you fill him on Publick Account, then hire if you can some Vessells to sail under his Convoy which you can ballast with Limes & Molasses & put onbd such other Goods as you think proper, indeed We think you cannot do better than to keep Chartering French Vessells to come this way, they can navigate cheaper than our Vessells & consequently can afford to take lower freights & they shall all go back to you with Flour Lumber Tobacco &c. In short when Cargoes arrive either one way or t'other, the Profits are now so great it is well worth risquing largely for one Arrival will pay for two three or four losses therefore its best to keep doing something constantly. We are Sir [&c.]

DIARY OF CHRISTOPHER MARSHALL 1

[Philadelphia] Octr 20th 1776

. . . in the Evening Post Numb. 273 is this remarkable Extract of a Letter dated Dominica Sept. — viz, Capt Stout of Antigua told us that he had heard, from Taylor & Bell of that Island, that a house, that does the government business there, had poisned ten Cags of Rum, which they shipped in the Creighton, Capt Ross, and directed for General Howe, in hopes that if the Ship Should be taken, the Americans would Send those to the Camp, on Supposing them of an Uncommon good Quality, what a diabolical Project! — He had it from their own mouths! O dreadful! 3

VAN BEBBER & HARRISON TO THE MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY 1

Gent St Pierre Mart[ini]que Octo 20. 1776

Our last respects to you were by Capt [John] Martin, who sailed from this port the 11th Currt with a valuable Cargoe — since then your favours of the 12th Sept have come safe to hand p the Molly Capt [Thomas] Conway — His Cargoe, tho’ a very proper one, we are sorry to acquaint, has come to a most wretched Market — 57/. p barrl for his Flour & 36/ for his Bread is the most we have been able to obtain, & his Tobacco is yet unsold. — Since disposing of this Flour, a Cargoe of Philadelphia Superfine has been sold for 53/. This fall has been occasioned by the immense Quantities that have arrived & continue to arrive from France on a Supposition that it would be a scarce article here. — We fear there will be no change for the better till towards the middle of Winter & Spring when we imagine it will begin to advance again as in all probability the Exportations from France will cease when it is known how badly their Speculations must turn out. — And plenty as Flour is, we know of nothing that can be sent from Maryland that will turn to a better Acot so surprizingly are we glutted with Tobacco & all kinds of provisions—

We almost despair of supplying you with the large Quantities of Woolens & Salt that you want — they are scarce & command ready Cash — but we shall do our best —

As Vessells with you are difficult to procure & Markets here very low, we fear you cannot easily remit us money sufficient for the extensive Engagements we have & are to enter into — We would therefore beg leave to propose a Method which we think may be employ'd with more Success & facility than any other at present — It is, if possible, to get a Boat or two out from S. Carolina with Indigo — One Pilot Boat ballasted with that Article would yield more Money here than three or four Brigts with Flour & Tobo It is constantly worth from 6/a 12/. p lb according to Quality, & is the only Article of our Exports that can be shippd from hence to France, and the risk of getting it here will be trifling as it may be sent in such small fast sailing Vessells.—

A part of Capt Martin's Tobacco has been sold in Statia a 42/. p C[w]t & yesterday we shipped the remainder for that place.

We hope to dispatch Conway in 8 or 10 days with some Woolens, Muskets, Duck &ca & are &ca

JOURNAL OF H. M. S. Blonde, CAPTAIN PHILEMON POWNOLL1

Octor 1776 Moored off Quebec

Monday 21 Fresh Gales and Squally, AM rec'd our Stores from the Lord Howe P M arrived from the Command of the Carleton Armed Schooner on Lake Champlain Lieutt [James Richard] Dacres, with the news of Taking and Destroying 11 Sail of Rebel Armed Vessels on the said Lake

1. PRO, Admiralty 51/118.

CAPTAIN CHARLES DOUGLAS, R. N., TO PHILIP STEPHENS1

(Copy) Isis Quebec 21st October 1776

Sir Having for the space of Six Weeks, attended the Naval Equipment for the important Expedition on Lake Champlain, I (on the 4th instant) saw with unspeakable joy the reconstructed Ship alluded to in former Letters now called the Inflexible and commanded by Lieutenant [John] Schank her rebuilder; sail from St Johns twenty Eight Days after her keel was laid, towards the place of rendezvous — taking in her eighteen twelve pounders, beyond the Shoal which is on this side the Isle aux Noix, in her way up.

The prodigies of labor which have been effected, since the Rebels were driven out of Canada in creating, recreating, and equiping a fleet of above thirty fighting Vessels of different Sorts and Sizes, and all carrying Cannon, since the beginning of July, together with the transporting over Land & afterwards drigging up the two rapids of St Terese and St Johns, thirty Long boats, the flat bottom boats, a Gondola weighing about thirty Tons, and above four hundred Battoes, almost exceeds belief. His Excellency the Commander in Chief of the Army and all the other Generals, are of the opinion that the Sailors of His Majesty's Ships and Transports, have (far beyond the usual limits of their duty) Exerted themselves to the utmost, on this great and toilsome Occasion. Nor has a Man of that profession, uttered a single Words expressive of discontent amidst all the hardships they have undergone so truly patriotic are the motives, by which they are actuated. To Crown the whole above two hundred prime Seamen of the Transports, impelled by a due sense of their Country's wrongs did most generously engage themselves, to serve in our armed Vessels, during the Expedition; and Embarked accordingly. such having then been our unremitting toils, I am happy beyond Expression in hereby acquainting my Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty, that the destruction of almost the whole of the Rebel Fleet, in two several Battles on the 11th and 13th instant is our reward as may appear by a Letter of General Burgoyne's of the 12th Instant, and by the Accounts I am this day honoured with, from General Carleton, of which I send you Copies; as also by a Letter from Captain [Thomas] Pringle of the Lord Howe armed Ship who commands the Officers and Seamen on the Lake, and, who bestows the highest Encomiums on their behaviour in both Engagements. The Rebels did by no means believe it possible, for us to get upon Lake Champlain this Year; were much surprized at the first sight of the Van of our force but ran into immediate and utter confusion, the moment a three masted Ship made her appearance being a phenomenon, they never so much as dreamt of. Thus have His Majesty's faithful Subjects here (contrary to a Crude but prevailing idea) by straining every nerve in their Country's cause outdone them in working, as much as in fighting.

The Ship Inflexible with the Maria and Carleton Schooners, all reconstructions did the whole of the second days business, the flat bottomed Radeau, called the Thunderer, and the Gondola called the Loyal Convert; with the Gun boats, not having been able to keep up with them: the said Gondola was taken from the Rebels, the day the seige of Quebec was raised. The loss we have sustained, considering the great superiority of the Insurgents, is very small consisting of between thirty and forty Men, killed and wounded Seamen, Soldiers, artillery men and all eight whereof were slain outright, and Six wounded on board of the Carleton; as to further particulars, I must refer you to Lieutenant Dacres, who (in justice due to his merit for the part he bore in destroying the Rebel Fleet) I am happy in sending upon this occasion to their Lordships in the Stag Transport as also in thereby complying with the General's desire, who for the same reason, is pleased to honor him with the Conveyance of his Dispatches.

If any further occurrences happen, which may be worthy of their Lordships cognizance, they shall be the subject of some future Letter. In the mean time, being about to prepare an Express for Lord Howe, and recommending all the Gentlemen, according to the herewith inclosed List, who have had the honor of serving His Majesty in this brilliant Expedition, to that of the present notice, or future protection of my Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty, remain &c

Charles Douglas.

P:S: Presuming that the early knowledge of this great Event, in the Southern parts of Europe, may be of advantage to His Majesty's Service I have written an account thereof to his ambassador at Madrid, by a Ship which is sailed for Barcelona with a fair wind. I hope their Lordships will approve thereof.

Newport, October 21.

Since our last have arrived at safe ports; a transport snow of 250 tons, loaded with provisions for New York, taken by Capt. [Joseph] Jauncey; a bark of about 200 tons, from Jamaica, loaded with sugar, &c. taken by the Cabot, Capt. [Elisha] Hinman; a ship of 370 tons, loaded with fish and lumber from Nova-Scotia for Jamaica, taken by Capt. Job Pearce; a ship of about 300 tons, from Quebec for London, ballast with coal, &c. taken by Capt. [Thomas] Stacey; a schooner from the West Indies for Newfoundland, loaded with rum, &c. taken by Capt. [Abner] Coffin; and several others, but by whom taken we have not learned.¹

There is much talk, in the French islands, of a speedy rupture between France and England, and it was said that Jamaica was actually besieged.

Capt. Vickary, in [illegible] days from Hispaniola, informs that about a fortnight before he sailed, an English frigate took an American vessel, near that island, and carried her off for Jamaica; and that a French frigate, whose topmasts were then down, got ready and sailed in two hours for Jamaica to demand the American vessel, but had not returned when Capt. Vickary came away; and that no vessel is suffered to wear English colours in any French port; but Continental colours are displayed every Sunday, and much admired.²

[Extract] New Haven October 21st 1776

Colo [William] Richmond with his Regiment consisting of 400 men, with 54 Whale Boats arrived some days since at New London. I have ordered him and Lieut Colo [Henry Beekman] Livingston with their men, the Whale Boats and 1200 Tons of small craft to come to me at this place without delay. They are designed for the Long Island expedition with Colo [William] McIntosh at Fairfield. They may be hourly expected — I could wish General Clinton Brigadier General of the Militia in the State of New York might be sent, to take upon him the conduct of this expedition, if he can be spared, and also to be informed whether Your Excellency would think proper to give any different orders respecting it —

1. Trumbull Papers, XXIX, Letter Book IV, 375, ConnSL.
Sir, I have received your letters of the 8th and 13th Inst relating to the seamen whom you desire to be sent down. orders for which have already been given by me, as Captain [Thomas] Pringle will more particularly inform you of.

I am very sorry to hear you think the Blonde cannot winter here. I was in hopes that if she could not remain in the Cul de sac some other place might be found, such as Chaudiere or St. Patrick's Hole as the service very much requires her stay; for altho we have defeated the Rebels upon the Lake, and for the present made ourselves masters of it, yet as the advanced season of the year may make our establishing of this post impracticable, and therefore oblige us to fall back into Canada for our winter quarters, the Rebels may probably exert themselves to equip another fleet, and dispute the lake again with us, it is therefore of the utmost importance to His Majesty's Service that the Blonde as well as the other ship and as many seamen as they can bear, remain in the river St. Lawrence if it be practicable, in order that we may be prepared to be before the Rebels upon the lake in the Spring.

It has always been intended by me that the victualling ships should be dispatched as fast as possible, having received an order to that effect from the Treasury, which I communicated to you some time past, and gave directions about to the Lieutenant Governor at the same time, if I remember right.

Least I should not have the pleasure of writing to you again before your departure I must again thank you for the many good offices you have done, and the ready assistance you have given to His Majesty's service here, and I wish you a good Voyage and safe arrival in England. I am &c

[Manor of Livingston] 21 Octr

Collo. [Robert] Livingston made us a Morning Visit and shewed me a Copy of Genl. Arnold's Letter of 12t to General Gates. It was dated at Schuyler Island and informs him of an Engagement on the 11t. off Cumberland Bay at the North End of Lake Champlaine — He lost a Schooner with 60 Men (which was the most considerable of his Vessels) ran on Shore & burnt by the British Forces & had another Vessel sunk. He begs for Boats to meet him and two [sic tow] of his Fleet to Ticonderoge in Case the Wind should be southerly & says he has expended 3/4th. of his Ammunition This Letter also represents that Naval Strength of Burgoyne to be a Ship of 16 Guns — about 10 or 12 more less considerable besides 15 Gondolas with large Cannon in their Prows. Arnold says the Engagemt. was from half after 12 o'Clock till 5 PM. and that his Opponents first attacked & first withdrew. By a Letter from PRL [Peter R. Livingston] of the 19t. I find that the Convention at Fish kill consider the Fleet of the Provincials as totally destroyed & that the whole Militia are ordered up on the Apprehension that the British Army will be across the Lake in a few Days. He informs me also that [Charles] Lee has repelled an advanced Party of 1500 near West Chester and that a Ship is carried into Providence bound to Quebec laden with 15000 Blankets, Linnen &c. If these Blankets are wanted there this Loss cannot be provided for this Year. Nothing could be more opportune to the Provincials. At this very Juncture private Families were in Expectation of being called upon for a Contribution to cover the naked Soldiers and the Philad: Papers sound an Alarm of the Necessity.

JOURNAL OF AMBROSE SERLE 1

[On board H. M. S. Eagle, New York]
Monday, 21st. [October]

This Afternoon the Harriot Packet came in from England, after a Passage of 6 Weeks & 5 Days, and brought me long-expected Letters from my dearest Wife & other Friends. The Packet was attacked by a Rebel Privateer so near England as Long. 20°. and lost her Captain and 5 men who were killed in the Engagement. About 9 or 10 were wounded. The Privateer, meeting with a stout Resistance, at last sheered off; and the Packet arrived without further molestation.

New-York Gazette, Monday, October 21, 1776

New-York, October 21.

On Monday last, the Perseus, Captain Elphinstone, with eleven Sail of Transports, having on board Troops and Provisions, arrived in Port, after a passage of eleven Weeks from Portsmouth. The Perseus took two Rebel Privateers and a trading Vessel with a valuable Cargo, off the Coast, and brought them safe into Port.

On Friday 65 Sail of Vessels, under Convoy of the Diamond and Ambuscade, with the second Division of the Hessians, and 1000 Waldeckers, under the command of the Generals Kniphausen and Schmidt, and a Number of Recruits for the British Troops, in all about 8000 effective Men, arrived off Sandy-Hook. They sailed from Plymouth Sound the 27th of last July. In the Fleet were several Victualers, and Vessels laden with Draught Horses for the Train, and Baggage of the Army.

The Unicorn Frigate, one of the swiftest sailing Ships in the Fleet parted Company off Nantucket Shoals, in chase of an American Vessel.
The Falcon and Active Frigates, and other Ships, came in from the Southward, in the Course of last week.

ALEXANDER BROWN TO VICE ADMIRAL RICHARD LORD HOWE

May it please Your Lordship,

Upon the thirtieth of July last, the Dinah Brig a Victualler whereof I was Master sailed from St Helens under the Convoy of His Majesty's Ship Perseus; the Brig sailed very heavy upon a Wind in so much She would scarcely steer keeping the Helm for the post part a Lee. I kept Company with the Fleet, until the sixteenth of August, when being far to Leeward, tho' could see the Man of War back & fill his Main-Top sail, & told twenty Sail of Ships to Windward; the Burstwick Brig, a Victualler being to Leeward tack'd and joined me. We made the proper Signal as Leewardmost Ships: Vizt the Main-top Sail clued up with a Jack at the Main-top-mast-Shrouds; the Signal continued out from three until four O'Clock P. M. of the same Day. We kept sight of some of the Fleet 'till dark, having our Starboard Tacks on board, the Wind NWBW, lying SWBW that same Night We lost Sight of the Fleet entirely. I kept Company with the Burstwick & steered to Westward inclining a little Southward as the Winds permitted, and endeavoured to keep to the Westward as much as possible to shorten the distance. Upon the 24th of August I parted from the Burstwick & joined Company again September the first, steering as before as the Winds favoured. Upon the 18th instant at 6 A M saw a strange Ship W N W from me, it being calm & great Sea from the Westward – upon 19th at 1 P M a Breese sprung up from the Southward, the Burstwick being some distance from me to the N W, I steered down to join Company, this Ship did the same. The Wind coming to the Westward, I fell to Leeward of the Burstwick & could not join her, this Ship steered for the Burstwick, I stood to the Northward from them, it was dark, cloudy & variable Weather. at 6 A.M. the Ship gave Chace to me, She appeared to be a Transport, I kept on as before, having the Wind at SWBW, at 9 Do they hailed me & run up along Side, having all Hands at Quarters with lighted Matches & Tompkins out, order'd me on board with my Papers. She mounted 14 Guns formerly 16 with eight Swivels about twenty hands or Men – She proved to be the Nancy of London fitted out by Messrs Muir; Son & Atkinson, sailed from Cork about Six Weeks, was taken Eight Days before, the Master of the Privateer not being able to man both Vessels, sent me and Company on board the Burstwick & set Us at liberty. Upon the 22d instant We joined His Majesty's Ship Diamond & fleet & kept Company 'till our Arrival at this Port.

The above account is as exact and real as I am able to give. I am, with profound respect, Your Lordship's [&c.]

CONTINENTAL MARINE COMMITTEE TO AUGUSTIN LAWRENCE AND SAMUEL TUDOR

Gentlemen — Philadelphia, 21st October, 1776.

Your letter of the 7th inst. advising that the ships Congress and Montgomery were nearly ready for launching, was received. You will observe the above names are now to be given to those ships. We are, at this distance, at a loss to direct their destination. The marine committee have therefore wrote to the Convention for the State of New-York, now at the Fishkills, requesting that they would give you proper directions relative to the launching and otherwise disposing of those ships with their stores, so as to preserve them in the best manner you can from being destroyed. You are therefore to correspond with the said Convention for that purpose.

Fra. Lewis, Phil. Livingston.

FRANCIS LEWIS TO CAPTAIN JOHN HODGE

Sir — I have received your letter of the 18th instant. In answer thereto relative to the ship Montgomery, we have lately wrote the Convention of the State of New-York leaving it to them to give direction in what manner to dispose of the ships at Poughkeepsie; they are now convened at the Fishkills. If they should find it practicable to get these ships out this year, Congress are disposed to have them fitted and manned with all expedition, but in this you must consult the Convention and superintendents. If there should be a probability of getting the ships out, you should furnish us with a list of such officers as yourself with the gentlemen of the Convention shall recommend.

You may apply to the Treasurer, Mr. Denning, to draw upon me here for what money you may be in want of for your present supplies on account of your sloop freight. I am sir, [&c.]

Next day arrived another schooner, taken by the same privateer, having on board 375 quintals of green fish, and some oyl; she brings an account of another small vessel taken that is not yet arrived, and one that they took, which was afterwards drove ashore by a frigate. — The vessel lost, but the people got on board the privateer again; the frigate drove the privateer into a harbour, and came to anchor, with intention of keeping her in; but Capt. Harmon got one of his guns ashore on a point of land, and fired on the frigate, when she returned whole broadsides into the woods at them, but did no damage. Capt. Harmon after a few shot was so lucky as to cut away her fore-stay, which obliged her to come to sail, and put to sea.

JOHN BRADFORD TO ROBERT MORRIS

Sir
Boston 22d Octr 1776

I am happy in receiving the dispatches from the secret Committe by this days post with directions how to conduct relative to the unfortunate Capt [William] Tokely & his New Master Capt [Elijah Freeman] Paine, with pleasure I acquaint you that after an interview with Mr [Samuel] Adams & Colll [William] Whipple concerning this affair, the same evening they left this Town — I saw Capt Tokely & Paine together, & heard what each had to offer — the latter is a man of great volubility, & realy offer'd such Arguments that I my self was not fully satisfied that the Fanny was not bound to London, he charg'd the Capt with the Crime of belonging to England, and that he was only mate of this same Brig some time ago imployst in being a victuall to the fleet and Army, that the Brig sail'd very heavy, and that the Congress wou'd not have imployst a stranger to Command a heavy sailing vessell to go on such an Errand, the honest Capt never let me into the secret that he was not Master when this voyage was plann'd, which your letter inform'd me of — however Sir I was so well satisfied of the integrity of Capt. Tokely that I dispatch'd him to plimouth the 15th Inst after obtaining the mighty boon from Paine to suffer him to re-pair his vessell and furnish'd him with letters of credit for what he might need, I set out this afternoon for plimouth where Capt Paine happens to be fitting his privateer — I shall most strictly conform to your directions and hope my conduct may meet your approbation2 — I am Sir with the greatest respects Yours & the Committees [&c.]

SAMUEL LYON TO CAPTAIN JOHN PAUL JONES

Sir

Newport October 22nd 1776

You are desired to attend at a Court Martial to be held onboard the Ship Alfred at two OClock this afternoon for the Tryal of Samuel Halm or Einom James Robinson and John Robinson for Mutiny and Thomas Donohoe

By Order of the honble Esek Hopkins Esqr

Commander in Chief —

Sam. Lyon Secy

To John P. Jones Esqr Commander of the Providence

1. Papers of John Paul Jones, LC.
Sir

Newport October 22nd 1776

You are directed to go onboard the Alfred and take the Command of her and go to Sea with her and the Hamden [Hampden] Captn [Hoysteed] Hacker, who will be directed to keep Company with you, and follow your directions—You will form such Signals, and appoint such Rendezvous, as you think will best answer the end of keeping Company—

You are to take all British vessels, and all vessels bound to any port under the jurisdiction of the King of Great Britain, except Bermudas and New Providence—You are with the Force under your Command, to endeavour all in your power to destroy all the Coal vessels you may find at, or near the Coal Mines at the Island of Cape Breton, and do all in your power to relieve a number of our unfortunate brethren who are prisoners, and employed in that cruel and hard service—When that is effected and the weather will permit, you are to cruise for transports, and other vessels bound to Canada, or go to Newfoundland and destroy as much of the fishery as you possibly can; if you think the season not too far advanced. And when you think the season too cold for that station, you may cruise as long as you well can for transports bound from Great Britain to New York—You may send any vessels into port for tryal, that you may think are acting detrimental to the Interest of the American States. Such vessels as you may take, which you think are not worth your while, or may not be convenient to send into port, you may destroy (first taking the hands out)—

My advice is when your cruise is over, that you return in to some port in New England in order for a winters expedition.

You will send your prizes in to such ports in the United States of America as you judge you can get them in with most safety—You may if you please send a proper person in a prize, if you should take any one fit for that purpose to some port in France; and there to sell her and cargo, and purchase some small armed vessel, and with the overplus money lade onboard her such goods as may answer best, for the supply of the Navy or Army; first ballasting her with sulphur—You giving him orders for that purpose—I am with respect [&c.]

do all in your power to join her — but should you not be able to join You are to cruise as long as you can in such Station, as you think will be most likely to intercept the Provision Vessels from Great Britain bound either to Canada or New York —

You may destroy any Ship or Ships which you cannot easily mann and send in to Port (first taking out the hands) — You will send your Prizes in to such Ports as you judge you can with most Safety get them in to any of the United States of America

COMMODORE ESEK HOPKINS TO JOHN BRADFORD

Sir

Newport October 22d. 1776 —

The above and annex'd is a list of what Goods belonged to the Captain and Passengers onboard the Ship Ester sent in to Deptford by the Cabot — and as it has been Customary in this State for the Captains to have their private Adventures, and the Agent here has always delivered it by my Consent — and as the above Lists does not to me seem unreasonable — I think you will do well do [sic] deliver the same to the Persons they belong too and you may depend that in so doing you will do but right —

Lieutt [Thomas] Weaver acquaints me that the Men onboard the Prize Ship Ester wants some Supplys, these are therefore to desire you to Supply him with Sufficient Money for that purpose and take his receipt and Charge it to the Continent — I am &c

To John Bradford Esqr Agent for the Continent in the State of Massachusetts Bay at Deptford or in his absence to his Deputy there —

GOVERNOR SIR GUY CARLETON TO MAJOR GENERAL JOHN BURGOYNE

[No.] 203 Crown Point 22nd October 1776

Sir In addition to the memorandums with which I have troubled you, to be communicated to His Majesty's Ministers; I must beg you will represent the necessity of sending out for this service, as early as possible, a Battalion consisting, at least, of three hundred seamen, it being to be wished that the expensive expedient, to which we have been obliged to have recourse this year, of detaining transports on account of their seamen, might be avoided in future, even if it should be in our power to use it; but as there may not be a number sufficient of those ships in the river to furnish us as before, we should in that case be at a loss to man our Vessels again, and it seems most probable that we shall have the same, if not a greater, occasion for them next spring, At last it must be necessary to be provided against all which may happen. I find it impossible to remain here.

I wish you a very good Voyage and safe arrival in England, and hope nothing may prevent my having the pleasure of seeing you here again next Campaign. I am &c

GOVERNOR SIR GUY CARLETON TO CAPTAIN CHARLES DOUGLAS, R. N.

[Extract] [No.] 205 Crown Point 22nd October 1776

Sir I have already said so much to you upon the necessity of having a considerable number of seamen in readiness for the Lake Service, that I can now only repeat, for the reasons before alleged, my request that you will leave as many as possible in Canada; and that particularly the Frigates of which I wrote lately may remain, as they can furnish in the greatest proportion, and our wants will be as great the next campaign as they have been this, it being my intention, in order that our possession of the lake may be put to no hazard, to build another Vessel of equal force to the Inflexible.

Lieutenants Longcroft and Stone being now the only Gentlemen of the Navy, who have not received some mark of His Majesty's favour, for their services in Quebec during last winter and as they are both Officers, with whose merits you are, yourself, well acquainted, I must beg you will remind Lord Sandwich of them on your arrival in England.

Captain [Thomas] Pringle has chosen to remain in Canada.

JOURNAL OF THE NEW YORK COMMITTEE OF SAFETY

Tuesday Morning,

[Fishkill] Octor. 22nd, 1776.

Capt. Samuel Tudor one of the superintendents of the Continental frigates building at Poughkeepsie, attending, informed the Committee that the said frigates were by the Honourable the Continental Congress, ordered to be launched as soon as possible, that one if not both of them will be ready to be launched in a few days, but that they are at present destitute of anchors and cables. Capt. Tudor therefore requests that he may be furnished with an order on the person at the landing at Fishkill, for the loan of such anchors, cables and other stores belonging to and taken out of the vessels sunk at Fort Washington, as may be necessarily required in the launching of the said frigates. Thereupon,

Ordered, That the person who hath the charge of the anchors, cables and other stores at Fishkill landing, and which were taken from on board the vessels now sunk at Mount Washington, deliver to Capt. Samuel Tudor, or his order, such of the said anchors, cables or other stores as he may require for the use of the Continental frigates building at Poughkeepsie.

Resolved, That Mr. Gilbert Livingston be one of the secret committee directed to be sent down with the utmost despatch to Fort Montgomery, with such parts of the chain as is fixed in the logs, and that Mr. Henry Wisner, Junr. cooperate with him in carrying this measure into execution in the most safe and expeditious manner possible.

Capt. Saml Tudor, one of the superintendents of the building the Continental frigates at Poughkeepsie, informed the Committee of Safety that the said superintendents have lately received a raft of timber for which they are indebted, and daily expect some other rafts of timber for which they are to pay ready money. That the said superintendents have also some other accounts to discharge, are at present destitute of money, and cannot obtain a supply from the Treasurer of the marine committee

Mr. Tudor therefore on behalf of the said superintendents, requested an advance or a loan of £600.
Ordered, That the Treasurer of this State advance to Capt. Samuel Tudor as one of the superintendents, on his receipt, the sum of £600, and charge the same to Continental account.

JOURNAL OF THE MARYLAND CONVENTION 1

[Annapolis] Tuesday, October 22, 1776.

A petition from William Richardson, 2 setting forth, that he, at the time of the alarming appearance of a hostile fleet under the direction of lord Dunmore, on the thirteenth of July last, observed a sloop drifting towards the shore within about a mile and a half of his dwelling house, and a barge from the fleet rowing towards her, which soon scuttled the said sloop; that he went off with his own negroes, intending to board her and save every thing on board the said sloop he possibly could; that he accordingly saved and brought away a mainsail, topsail, and gib, a quantity of old iron, thirty-six pair of iron hinges, and fifty-three cow hides; and that all the said articles were sent for and taken away by captain Uriah Forrest; and praying to be authorized to receive a moiety of the said articles procured by him as aforesaid, was read and ordered to lie on the table.

CAPTAIN CHARLES DOUGLAS, R. N., TO PHILIP STEPHENS

(Copy)  Isis off Quebec 23d Octr 1776

Sir    In addition to my Letter of the 21st I acquaint you, that I am exerting myself to the utmost in order to get the remaining Transports out of the River, the moment their Men (without whose generous Services, the expedition could not have been carried on) are returned to them, from the Lake; Pilots both here and at Sorel, being kept in readiness for that purpose. Had not the destruction of the Rebel fleet, been so nearly effected, the Triton and Garland must at General Carleton's desire have wintered here, but as matters now happily stand, I hope the former may get away; and the endeavours shall be made to hasten most of her Men down, from Lake Champlain for that purpose — The latter must winter at Quebec at all events with a view to the Service of next Spring, and moreover to take care of the people the other Ships must unavoidably leave behind, on the Lake for the completion of the little, that yet remains to be done. This His Majesty's Ship under my Command being 14 Guns short of her number Vizt Ten 12 and four 6 pounders, short of Stores, having spared of every kind to promote the expedition in question; having her Bottom injured by her passage thro' the Ice, possibly more than we are aware of; but above all the best of her Seamen on the Lake, whose return to her in due time to leave this River where it is impossible for her to Winter is doubtful and moreover having no directions how to act in that respect from our Commander in Chief, I find myself impelled to run her home — which I the less regret, as it affords me the means of providing General Burgoyne with a good conveyance — so soon as it appeared that the important undertaking of destroying the Rebel Fleet on Lake Champlain could not be carried into Execution without the Seamen from the Transports — I, at General Carleton's desire ordered Lieutenant [John] Schank, commanding the Canceaux, to enter as Supernumeraries for Wages and Victuals, on the books of that armed Ship, to the number of 300 Seamen to be discharged by or before the 30th of next Month excepting such of them, as from wounds or disease, should be disabled, in thus Willingly & generously thus exposing themselves in their Country's cause, who are to be treated according to the usage of the Royal Navy in all respects.  I am &c

GOVERNOR JONATHAN TRUMBULL TO GOVERNOR NICHOLAS COOKE1

Sir New Haven October 23d 1776 —

You will find inclosed Copy of Letter from General —— Gates, from Genl Arnold respecting the Transactions at the Northward, I am further advised that after the Action of the 12th, which General Arnold describes, the Fleet under his Command began to fall down the Lake but had not got far from Schuylers Island when a Northerly Gale favourable to the Enemy pushed them up with our Shattered Fleet, and obliged them to commence a second Engagement which was continued with great Disadvantage on our Side — tho' with great Spirit and Bravery for 5 Glasses, when the Superior Strength of the Enemy prevailed to the almost total Ruin of our Fleet; — General Arnold in the Congress Galley fought till he could stand no longer, run her on shore, burnt her & escaped — General Waterbury fought the Washington till she was Sinking under him, he was obliged to strike and was made a Prisoner, tho it seems he is returned to Ticonderoga, probably on his Parole, and is expected here soon, Colo Wigglesworth in the Trumbull is got to Ty — and is the only Galley saved, one Galley, not compleated, is safe, our strenght on the Water now Remaining is one Sloop, 12 Guns, Two Schooners, 8 Guns each, Two Galleys & one Gundola — what it was before these Rencounters the inclosed Copy of a Return will shew. — The Enemies Strenght appears larger than at first, it is as follows —

1 Ship 18 12 pounders
1 Schooner 14 6 Ditto
1 Do 12 Do Do

1 Redeaux 6 24
12 12
4 — 8 Inch Howitzes

all Brass
28 Gondolas — 1 Gun each — 12 — 18 — & 24 Pounders, 1, 8 Inch Howitzer. Our People are all Retired to Ticonderoga, where it is their Design, it is said, to force the Enemy to make an Attack on our Works at the French Lines by the Crown Point Road by obliging them to Land below our Army, that they will lay our two remaining Galleys in the Channel, where their Fire will cooperate with the Jersey Redoubt, and the Battery on Mount Independance by this means they hope to prevent their passing higher up than our advanced posts. — I hope for a more full and particular Account from General Waterbury who is soon expected here. —

Colo [William] Richmond came to this Town by Land yesterday, and Waits here for his Regiment to come in the Whale boats, which are hourly expected —

Mr Hazzard will communicate his knowledge from General Washington's Head Quarters — which is the fullest that I have — I am with Esteem and Regard Sir [&c.]

New Haven, October 23.

We hear, that near 200 sail of the enemy's fleet, are this side of Hell-Gate, the chief of them lying near Hart-Island.

The Post who arrived from the Northward yesterday informs, That General Waterbury, with one hundred of our people who were taken prisoners, in our unsuccessful engagements on the Lake, the 11th and 12th instant, are released, on giving their paroles, and are now on their way to their homes.

Capt. Ephraim Goldsmith; of this town, is said to be slain in the above engagement.

*Vice Admiral Richard Lord Howe to Philip Stephens*¹

Number 10.

Sir,

I take the Opportunity of writing by a Victualling Transport returning to Cork in the Service of the Army, to give their Lordships the earliest Intelligence of the Arrival of the second Division of the Hessian Troops with the Diamond, Ambuscade, and Unicorn, the 18th Instant: Captain [Charles] Fielding having conducted the Transports under his Convoy with so much Prudence and Success as not to have lost a single Ship on the Passage.

The Commanders of the Daphne and Perseus have not been equally happy in their Endeavors. The first arrived on the 3d and the latter on the 16th of this Month. Of the Transports which sailed with the Daphne, the Henry and Ann is still missing; As are also the four Victuallers, the Hayfield, St George, Friendship and George, that came out under the care of the Perseus.² The Dinah Victualler, another of the same Convoy, hath been taken as represented in the Relation of the Master enclosed. But no Account has yet been received of the other Victuallers since their Separation.³ A Copy of the Report has been sent to Captain Elphinstone for his Observations thereon. These I shall have to transmit for their Lordships Information, when he returns from the Cruising Service on which he is now employed.

The different Corps of Troops from the Transports before-mentioned, have been landed; The last of the Hessian Reinforcement to-day; at Myers Neck, a Peninsula near New Rochelle, that is deemed the best situated Post for preserving an open Communication with the Fleet, since the last Landing and Movement of the Army to the Eastward of the Rebel Forces assembled on the Side of Kingsbridge, on the 18th Instant.

As from the Nature of the Conveyance it is uncertain when this Letter may be received, I have confined my present Report to the Arrival of the Convoys. I am Sir [&c.]

DIARY OF FREDERICK MACKENZIE

[New York] 23rd Octr — Some of the Captains of The Navy who attended for the Regulating of the boats and vessels when they went through Hellgate with the Army the Morning of the 12th Instant, have since declared that it was a most hazardous enterprize to go through a Channel of that dangerous nature with such a fleet, and before it was daylight. What made it still more dangerous was, that an unexpected fog came on early in the morning, which prevented them in a great degree, from seeing the boat and buoys which had been previously fixed to mark the proper channel. It was too late when the fog came on to postpone the movement; the troops and everything necessary were embarked and the wind and tide answered exactly; therefore notwithstanding the hazard it could not be delayed. I dare say at the moment the Army began to move the General and Admiral would have compounded for the loss of one or two hundred men. Fortune however favored the bold: — only one boat, having on board an officer and 25 Artillery men and 3 6 prs was sunk. All but 4 men and the guns were saved, which was more than could have been expected. Everything else got safe through that dangerous passage, where at all times, except at high & low water, the tide runs with the utmost rapidity, forming dreadful whirlpools, and at half tide roaring over the masses of Rocks which project into, or rear up their broken heads in the middle of the Channel. In one place if the Stream catches a boat or vessel, it is drawn into a kind of whirlpool or Eddy, where it is carried round several times with great violence, and then if not sucked in, is thrown on the adjacent rocks, and dashed to pieces. One boat with a Detachment of Grenadiers was caught into this place, and after some turns round was thrown upon the shore, but fortunately the men got out safe, and soon after got into another boat and followed the Army. This passage is thought extremely dangerous by those who are best acquainted with it, and who take every advantage of winds, tides, and other circumstances. When I was formerly quartered at New York, I frequently went out as far as Hellgate to see vessels go through, especially when there were any which carried topsails, and the Pilots were generally under much apprehension when they had such vessels under their charge. Those men were in the utmost astonishment to see Ships of War of 44 Guns, Frigates, Transports full of troops, Horses & Waggons, and flat boats with troops and artillery, attempting and accomplishing so difficult an undertaking, with such a trifling loss. To any other nation the obstacles would have seemed insurmountable.

Since the Army went through, I have frequently seen large transports go through Stern foremost, with all sails set and filled, the strength of the tide overcoming the power of the wind upon the sails. Some officers of the Navy say this is the safest way, as the ship has better and more certain Steerage.

CONTINENTAL MARINE COMMITTEE TO COMMODORE ESEK HOPKINS

Sir

Philadelphia October 23d 1776

Since our last to you we are informed that the Galatea a New 20 Gun Ship with the Nautilus of 16 Guns are gone to Cruize off the Capes of Virginia. These ships you will endeavour to fall in with and take or destroy in your way to Cape Fear. We are also informed that the Raven of 20 Guns & the Sphynx of 16 – have quitted Georgia and South Carolina but where gone we know not. You may take with you to the Southward both the Rhode Island Frigates as well as the Cabbot if they are ready, and we write to North Carolina to have two fine Brigantines belonging to that State in readiness to join you, they have 16 Guns each and near 100 men. You had best send one of your Fleet into Occracock Inlet for them as they are in there – We understand the sloop Providence Capt Jones has put into Rhode Island, you may add him to your Fleet and then you'll be very Strong, As this Service to the Southward is of much publick importance, we expect from Your Zeal and Attachment to the Interest of the United States, that you proceed on and execute this Service with all possible vigor and despatch. Wishing you health and success we are Sir [&c.]

P. S. We are informed that two British ships of War passed the other day along the Jersey Shore, Steering Southward. We know not whether to Cruize off the mouth of Delaware or to join the Southern Ships. But we deem it highly proper that you provide yourself with a very quick Sailing tender commanded by a Spirited sensible and Skilful man to precede your Fleet and bring you intelligence of the number force and situation of the Enemy's Ships. It might not be amiss for you to remain a short time within the Capes of Virginia until the Tender should reconnoitre & inform you of the State of things at Cape Fear.

1. Harbeck Collection, HUL.
2. The postscript is not with the letter, but is in the Hopkins Papers, RIHS.
Gentlemen [Philadelphia] October 23d 1776

We expect the Continental frigates Hancock, Boston and Raleigh under your respective commands, are either now ready for the Sea, or shortly will be so. You are hereby directed to act in concert and Cruise together, for the following purposes, and on the following Stations. Your first object must be to inform yourselves in the best manner possible, if any of the British men of war are Cruizing in the bay of Boston or off the Coast of Massachusetts, and all such you are to endeavour with your utmost force to take, sink, or destroy. Having effected this service you are to proceed together towards Rhode Island, and there make prize of or destroy any of the enemies Ships of war that may be found Cruizing off the Harbour or Coast of Rhode Island.

The Prizes you make are to be sent into the nearest Port. When you arrive at Rhode Island if Commodore Hopkins should not be already sailed on his Southern expedition, and the two frigates built in that State should not be ready for the Sea, in that case you are to join Commodore Hopkins, and proceed with him on the said expedition producing those orders to him to justify the measure — But if the Rhode Island frigates should be ready for the sea there will be no occasion for you or either of you to go Southward, and you will then proceed taking with you any Continental Vessel that may be at Rhode Island and ready if Commodore Hopkins should be sailed before you come there, and proceed to Cruise against the enemies Ships & Vessels that may be found off[f] the Coast between the Harbour of Newport and the Banks of Newfoundland.

We have no doubt from your zeal and attachment to the cause of America, that you will execute this service with all possible dispatch and vigor, and so bid you heartily farewell.

mentiond can be made ready in season. The Object of this expedition is to take or destroy the British men of War in the River of Cape fear, or any others cruizing upon the southern coasts with a view to distress the trade of your’s and the neighbouring states. Strong as the Commodore may be with the force which accompanies him from Rhode Island, yet as we wish to put as little as possible to the hazard but to pursue this measure with the fullest confidence of success we request that you would upon the earliest intimation of Commodore Hopkins being off your coast dispatch the two provincial Armed Vessels and any others which may be under your control to join him and cooperate in this important expedition in the event of which your state is particularly and essentially interested. You will therefore hold your Vessels in perfect readiness to comply with this requisition.

We beg leave to hint to you the necessity of providing skilful pilots for conducting the Commodore that he may suffer no delay or run any risque from his Ignorance of the Coast of No Carolina.

Pennsylvania Gazette, Wednesday, October 23, 1776

Philadelphia, October 23.

Intelligence received in Congress, October 21st, from the Middle and Northern Departments.

That on the 11th instant, at 8 o'clock in the morning, the enemy's fleet on Lake Champlain, consisting of one ship mounting 16 guns, one snow mounting the same number, one schooner of 14 guns, two of twelve, two sloops, a bomb ketch, and a large vessel, (her force unknown) with fifteen or twenty flat bottomed boats or gondolas, carrying one 12 or 18 pounder in their bows, appeared off Cumberland Head: General Arnold with his forces immediately prepared to receive them — At 11 o'clock the attack began, at half past 12 the engagement became general and very warm; some of the enemy's ships and all their gondolas beat up and rowed within musket shot of our fleet. They continued a very hot fire with round and grape shot till 5 o'clock when they thought proper to retire about six or seven hundred yards distance, and continued there until dark. Gen. Arnold and his troops conducted themselves during this action with great firmness and intrepidity, and made a better resistance than could have been expected against a force so greatly superior — the whole of our killed and wounded amounted to about 60. The Philadelphia gondola and a schooner were lost in the engagement, but all the men were saved. The enemy landed a large number of Indians on Schuyler's Island and on each shore, who kept up an incessant fire, but did little damage. The enemy had to appearance upwards of 1000 men in batteaus prepared for boarding.
OCTOBER 1776

The enemy's force being so greatly superior, it was determined in Council to remove to Crown Point, in order to refit and collect our force. At 2 o'clock, P.M. the 12th, our fleet weighed anchor, with a fresh breeze to the southward: the enemy's fleet at the same time got under way: Our gondolas [made] very little way ahead. — In the evening the wind moderated, and we made such progress, that at six o'clock next morning we were about 28 miles from Crown Point. The enemy's fleet was very little above Schuyler's Island, the wind breezed up to the southward, so that we gained very little by beating or rowing; at the same time the enemy took a fresh breeze from the N.E. and, by the time we had reached Split Rock, were along side of us.
The Washington and the Congress were in the rear, the rest of our fleet were ahead, except two gondolas sunk at Schuyler's Island. — The Washington galley was in such a shattered condition, and had so many men killed and wounded, that she struck to the enemy after receiving a few broadsides.
The Congress was then attacked by a ship mounting 12 eighteen pounders, a schooner of 14 sixes, and one of 12 sixes; two under her stern and one on her broadside, within musket shot: The enemy kept up an incessant fire about five glasses with round and grape shot, which was returned as briskly. The sails, rigging and hull of the Congress were shattered and torn in pieces; when, to prevent her falling into the enemy's hands, Gen. Arnold, who was on board, ran her ashore in a small creek ten miles from Crown Point, where after taking out her small arms she was set on fire, with 4 other gondolas; with whose crews the General reached Crown Point that evening, luckily escaping the savages, who way-laid the road in two hours after he had passed it. — Of our whole fleet we have saved two gallies, two schooners, one gondola, and one sloop.

Gen. Arnold behaved with such intrepidity, that he covered the retreat of the few vessels we saved at the expence of one third of his crew — Our commanders and men behaved most gallantly; some vessels having lost all their officers, fought notwithstanding, and refused to yield but with their lives. The enemy acknowledge our bravery, and confess their loss of men equal to ours.

Our troops are now busily employed in compleating the lines, redoubts, &c. at Crown Point, expecting the enemy to attack them, with their fleet and army. But as the season is now far advanced, and our men are daily growing in health, they have the most flattering expectations of maintaining their post against any force the enemy can bring.

N.B. Two of the enemy's gondolas were sunk the first day by our fleet, and one blown up with 60 men.

A schooner, Captain [Alexander] Wilson, bound from Boston for Bourdeaux, was taken about five days after she sailed, by the Perseus man of war, of 20 guns, lately arrived from England; after taking out the master and mate, they put two midshipmen and four sailors on board, to navigate her to New-York, but she ran ashore last week near Sandy-Hook, and was taken possession of by our troops, who saved the cargo, and it is thought the vessel may be got off. The midshipmen and sailors were made prisoners, and arrived here last Monday night.¹

SIR GEORGE COLLIER TO CAPTAIN HENRY MOWAT, R. N.¹

In consequence of Information that several vessels are expected to arrive in the different Ports of New England with Supplies for His Majesty's Rebellious Subjects; You are therefore hereby required and directed to proceed immediately to Sea with His Majesty's Ship under your Command, and Cruise between Cape Cod and Monhagen in New England, using your utmost Endeavors to prevent their receiving those Supplies by Seizing the Ships or Vessels charged with them; You are to use every Attention to Protect the Trade of His Majesty's faithful Subjects, and to give them all the Assistance in your Power; to promote which the destruction of the Piratical Privateers of the Rebels is to be one of your principal Objects.

And As by the Capture of several of these Armed Pirates, your Number of Prisoners may become so large, as to be very inconvenient, you are at liberty in that case to send in a Flag of Truce to Marble Head, with a Letter addressed to Mr Nathl Tracey of Newberry Port (who is the Agent for the Exchange of Prisoners on the part of the Rebellious Inhabitants of Massachusetts Bay,) by a discreet Officer, and to demand an equal Exchange in Rank and Number of the Kings faithful Subjects who may at that time be Prisoners with the Rebels; but if there should not be so many then ready to Exchange, the Officer is to procure a written Promise from Mr Nathl Tracey to release an equal Number, if so many should ever fall into their Hands.

And as Lord Viscount Howe has signified a disinclination to distress the unarmed little Fishing Boats on the American Coast, as the doing so, has been the means of driving the Fishermen either, to enter for Privateers, or into the Rebel Army for a Subsistance; I would recommend to you to further his Lordships benevolent Intentions in respect of those People, when you find them, neither from Numbers or Arms, capable of molesting the Property of the faithful Subjects of the Crown.

You are to continue upon this Station so long as your Provisions may last, or 'till further Order, and then return to this Port.

Gentlemen Newport October 24th. 1776 —

Since I wrote you last, Captn Jones in the Providence has arrived here with three Prizes, and one Ship is arrived at Bedford — Inclosed is a Copy of the account of his Cruise that he gave me — The Cabot has sent one Ship in to Providence and yesterday Lieutt [Thomas] Weaver of the Cabot came here from Bedford, where he arrived two days ago in another Prize Ship — he informs me that when he left the Cabot she had taken five Ships and a Brig all from Jamaica — one of them a three decker with upwards of Six-hundd hogsheads onboard —
The Alfred is now mann’d, and under Sailing Orders with the Hamden – Captn Jones of the Providence has the Command of her – Inclosed you have a Copy of the Orders I have given him, and hope they are such as will meet with your approbation – The Reason of my giving Orders to Captn Jones to attempt to destroy the Ships and their Works at the Coal Mines was, that I receiv’d certain Intelligence by a Master of a Vessel directly from there, that there was near twenty Vessels, and one hundred Prisoners employed in that Service; guarded by twenty six Soldiers, the Savage Sloop of War and [George] Dawsons Brig— and one of them generally at Louisburgh – One of the new Ships came down from Providence yesterday, the other got aground, but I expect her down here the first fair Wind. They are nearly fitted every way for the Sea, all but Men, which they have about one hundd and fifty each – Shall now give my whole attention to their Manning –

If you have any particular Service for them, should be glad to receive it. I think they will be ready to Sail as soon as your Orders can reach here; and I hope near mann’d

The Columbus is Clean’d, taking her ballast onboard, Rigging and fitting as fast as possible – The Sloop Providence will haul in to the Wharf to morrow in order to clean Shall get them out as soon as possible, but expect to meet with great difficulty in getting Men – The Privateers being so plenty, and having great Success that the Men look on their Shears better than what they have in the Navy – I am with great Respect Gentlemen &c.

24 [October]. Lieut. Gen. Burgoyne sailed in the Washington prize for St Johns, from when he was to go by land for Quebec, where a frigate was ready to sail with him to England, as it was then determined the army was to return to winter in Canada, & make their appearance early the following season before Ticonderago, when every thing necessary for the reduction of that fort would be in greater readiness, & the season more favourable for our operations than so late in the year; during which time our fleet would be masters of the Lake, & the severity of the winter too great for them to build any vessels that could obstruct our movements early in the spring; even at that time the cold was very severe, & our tents but a small covering against it.

We hold you in Much esteem and flatter ourselves your Conduct in the Service will always be such as to merit the Continuance of it from Sir [&c.]

COMMITTEE OF SECRET CORRESPONDENCE TO CAPTAIN LAMBERT WICKES

Philada October 24th 1776

Sir:

The Honourable Congress having thought proper to Submit the Ship Reprisal under your command to our direction for the present voyage or Cruize. You are to be governed by the following orders.

The Honble Docter Franklin being appointed by Congress one of their Commissioners for negotiating some publick business at the Court of France. You are to receive him and his Suite on board the Reprisal as passengers whom it is your duty and we dare say it will be your inclination to treat with the greatest respect and Attention and your best endeavours will not be wanting to make their time onboard the Ship perfectly agreeable.

When they are on board you are to proceed with the utmost dilligence for the port of Nantes in France where they will land and there you will deliver their baggage &c. It is of more importance that you get Safe and Soon to France than any prizes are that you cou'd take, therefore you are not to delay time on this outward passage for the Sake of Cruizing, but if you are beset with Contrary Winds or during the passage be So circumstanced that Doctor Franklin may approve of your Speaking any Vessels you see, do therein as he Shall direct.

We understand the Secret Committee have put on board the Reprisal A quantity of Indigo this you must land at Nantes immediately on your arrival and deliver it to their order and they have directed their Agents to Supply you immediately with whatever refreshments or necessaries you may Stand in need of. We deem it Essential to the Success & Safety of your Ship that you Make a very Short Stay in the River of Nantes, it is equally so that you Keep totally Secret where you are bound from thence or what your business, these things premised we take it for granted your Stay will not exceed more than two or three days, and that you will rather dispose people to think you are returning back here again but you are directly to proceed on a Cruize against our Enemies, you have the Resolves of Congress by which you well know who they are, by them you will know what Ships you are authorized to make prize of and the Resolves of Congress must be the Rule of your Conduct. We think you had best proceed directly on the Coast of England up the Channel before they can have any Notice of you, and we judge every day if not every hour you are there will give you opportunity of making prizes; you will Always have some of the French ports at hand either to Send in your prizes or to run into yourself if chased by Superior force Doctor Franklin will make application at the Court of France for the protection of Their ports to the Reprisal and her prizes and we hope he will be Successfull therein. However we propose as follows— Should you take one or two valuable prizes with woolen or Linen goods on board, or Such Cargoes as you know us to be in immediate want of, that you take as many of them on board your own Ship as you conveniently can, and that you Send all the other prizes you take, immediately into Some of the ports of France with orders to apply at Dunkirk to Messrs. P. Stival & Son Merchants—at Havre-de-Grace to Mr. Andrew Limozin Mercht—at Bourdeaux to Messrs. Samuel & J Hans Delap Merchts—at Nantes to Messrs. Pliarne Penet & Co., at any other port to apply to the Commander thereof for protection untill he receives orders from his Court on the Subject, and with these orders will also come instructions from Dr. Franklin, Silas Deane, Esqr. and Dr. [Arthur] Lee or Some of them which he must obey, you may direct all the prize Masters to wait in port for your further orders provided the above Gentlemen write that they will be protected, but if that protection is not granted They must then apply to our Agents for Such Supplies as are Necessary, and push away immediately for this Continent making the first Safe port the[y] Can. We are Convinced you will treat all prisoners with humanity but we think you had best land them in France whenever they are too numerous on board your Ship to pre-vant giving alarms in England, for you may depend they will have Cruizers out after you Soon as the[y] hear of your being there – we expect therefore you will make but a Short Cruize, especially as every day Must inevitaably throw plenty of English vessels in your Way, perhaps off Falmouth you might meet with a Lisbon Packet, and whatever Specie you collect take it onboard and carry it into France, where you may deliver or pay the Same to the order of Doctor Franklin Mr Deane &c. or to Mr. Thos Morris or his order as agent for the Secret Committee of Congress and the Congress will pay here yours and the peoples Shares of Such money, as well as their Shares of any prizes or parts of Prizes that may be Sold there and the Money applyed to publick use. when you are about to quit your Cruize it may be well to Send any prisoners you then have on Shore and make them believe you are coming direct for America, or going round into St. George's channell to Cruize for Bristol Ships just as you think may be most likely to gain Credit, clear your Ship of them and then Run into Bourdeaux, Brest or Nantes, just as may be most convenient. you will find letters from our Commissioners at Paris with Messrs. Delap at Bourdeaux – Messrs. Plierne Penet & Co at Nantes or Some proper person at Brest, advising you [of] the success of their application and if they tell you the Prizes are to be protected, you can then write to the Prize Masters and either collect and bring them home under your Convoy or order them to proceed separately as you shall then judge best. If protection was not to be given, they will come away of Course, and in that case we think you Should put your Ship in good order, advise the Commissioners and Mr. Thomas Morris that you only wait for their despatches. If you have Room on board the Ship receive any goods Mr. Morris or they may order and when you have received their despatches make the best of your way back to this place or any other port of Safety in these States, bringing with you any prizes you can take by the way. Should the Court of France grant free protection for our Cruizers and prizes in their ports, we think you may do better in Europe than here, respecting which consult with and be governed by the advice of our Said Commissioners at the Court of Paris and if prizes are allowed to be sold there consign all you take to the order of Mr. Thomas Morris, who has correspondants in every port of France and will take care that Justice is done in the Management of them. Your Stay in Europe must depend on the advice of the Commissioners and your Cruizes Should always be quick as you can be soon in and out Keep your ship well Manned fitted and provided, and let Old England See how they like to have an active Enemy at their own Door, they have Sent Fire and Sword to ours. You Know we want Seamen here therefore encourage all you Meet with both at Sea and on Shore to enter our Service and Send or bring as many of them to these States as possible. You must by all opportunitys inform us of your proceedings, and communicate all the usefull or important intelligence that comes to your Knowledge. A Spirited active conduct in this enterprize will recommend you to all America, and you have our best wishes for your Success and honor, being very Sincerely, Sir, [&c.]

COMMITTEE OF SECRET CORRESPONDENCE TO SILAS DEANE¹

Dear Sir

Philada October 24th 1776

We embrace this opportunity of Your Worthy Colleague & our mutual good Friend Doctr Franklin to transmit you Copies of our letters of the [illegible] Octr by the Sloop Independence Capt [John] Young to Martinico from whence they wou’d be carried to you by Mr Wm Hodge junr sent in said Sloop for that purpose, those letters Contained a Commission from the Congress appointing Doctr Franklin, Thos Jefferson Esqr & yourself, Commissioners on behalf of the United States of America to Negotiate a Treaty of Alliance Amity & Peace with the Court of France. — A plan of that Treaty, Instructions from Congress relative thereto, Form of Passport for the Ships of each Nation &c we consider these papers as of the utmost consequence & hope they will arrive safe. Yesterday we wrote you a few lines enclosing additional Instructions from Congress to their Commissioners authorizing them to Treat with other Nations, also Two Resolves of Congress by one of which you wou’d see that Thos Jefferson Esqr declined his appointment & that Arthur Lee Esqr was appointed in his stead, to whom we enclosed a letter, Copy whereof goes herewith. By the other the Commissioners are directed to hire or buy Eight Line of Battle Ships for the American Service. these papers were sent under Cover to Wm Bingham Esqr our Resident at Martinico with orders to forward them immediately. We wrote you another letter yesterday Covering duplicates of all the papers & letters mentioned herein, and sent it by the armed Brigt Lexington Wm Hallock Esqr Commander to Mr Stephen Ceronio our Resident at Cape Francois with directions to forward the same to Messrs Saml & J. Hans Delap Merchts at Bourdeaux who are requested to send the Packet from thence by Express to you and Doctor Franklin carries with him Triplicates of all these publick papers, we have been thus particular in mentioning them & the Conveyances by which they are Sent that you may know when the whole are received & we desire you to be equally pointed in advising us thereof, for we shall be anxious to hear of their getting safe & shall be very uneasy if we dont hear this in due time, for they ought not on any Account to fall into the hands of our Enemies.

Since Mr [John] Dickinson & Colo [Benjamin] Harrison were out of Congress & Doctr Franklin appointed one of the Commissioners at the Court of France, The Congress have filled up the Vacancys in this Commit-
OCTOBER 1776

The Congress having Committed to our charge and Management their Ship-of-War Called the Reprisal commanded by Lambert Wickes Esq. carrying 16 Six Pounders and about one hundred and twenty men — we have allotted her to carry Doctor Franklin to France and directed Captain Wickes to proceed to the Port of Nantes where the Doctor will land and from thence proceed to Paris, and he will either Carry with him or Send forward this letter by express as to him may then appear best. The Reprisal is a fast Sailing Ship and Capt Wickes has already done honor in Action to the American Flagg, we have therefore ordered him to land at Nantes some Indigo he has onboard, take in refreshments, Stores, provisions, or other Necessaries he May want and immediately to proceed on a Cruize against our Enemies, and we think he will not be long before he Meets with a Sufficient Number of Prizes — we have directed him to Send them into such of the French ports as are most convenient addressing them at Dunkirk to Messrs P Stival & Son, at Havre De Grace to Mr. Andrew Lomozin, at Bourdeaux to Messrs. Samuel & J H[ans] Delap, at Nantes to Messrs. Pliarne Penet & Co. and at any other ports in France to Such persons as you may appoint to receive them, when he finishes his Cruize he will call in at Nantes, Bourdeaux or Brest for your orders and advices which we beg you will have ready for him lodged at those places. In consequence of this plan for the Reprisals Cruize we desire you to make immediate application to the Court of France to grant the protection of their ports to American Men of War and their prizes, Shew them that British Men of War under Sanction of an Act of Parliament are daily capturing American Ships and Cargoes, Show them the Resolves of Congress for Making Reprisals on British and West India property, and that our Continental Men of War and Numerous private Ships of War are most successfully employed in executing those resolutions of the Congress, Shew them the Justice and equity of this proceeding and Surely they cannot, they will not refuse the protection of their ports to American Ships of war, Privateers and their Prizes. If your application on this head is crowned with Success, try an other which it is their Interest to grant, that is to obtain leave to make Sale of those prizes and their Cargoes or any part thereof that may be Suitable for that Country. If you Succeed in this also you must appoint some person to act as judge of the Admiralty, who Should give the Bond prescribed for those Judges to determine in all Casses agreeable to the Rules and Regulations of Congress, and for this purpose we will report to Congress some Resolves vesting you with Authority to make Such appointment and authorizing Such judge to condemn without a Jury as required here. If these Resolves are agreed to by Congress they Shall be immediately transmitted to you. if they are not that plan must drop and the prizes must all proceed for America for condemnation You Can in the mean time consult the Ministry whether they will permit such Courts in France and in the French West-India Islands. If protection is granted to our Cruizers and their prizes you will immediately procure proper orders to be sent to the officers of All their ports on this Subject, and write yourselves to those Houses we have named at the Several ports that the prizes are to remain for Capt Wickes further Orders, also lodge Such orders with proper persons at the other ports in France. On the Contrary if the Prizes are not to be protected in their ports then give immediate notice to all these Houses and proper persons at the other ports, to furnish the Prizes that Captain Wickes of the Reprisal may send into their port with any necessaries the prize Master may judge the[y] Stand in Need of, and to order him to make the best of his way with the Prize to the first Safe port he can make in the United States of America, lodge advice also for Capt Wickes at Bourdeaux, Brest & Nantes, whether his prizes are to be protected in port or not, and whether or not any Sales will be permitted. If they are protected he can take his own time to Collect and bring them home under his own Convoy. If any Sale is permitted he can Sell all perishable Commodities and Vessels unfit for So long a Voyage as to this Coast. If no protection for prizes they will come away by your Orders and Need not Stay for his, and If they deny protection to our Cruizers themselves, he will only remain inport for your advices, and to obtain Such Supplies as may be Necessary. We have recommended Captain Wickes to take on board his own Ship as many valuable Commodities as he can if he is Successful, but Should he be unsuccessful in Cruizing then Messrs Pliarne Penet & Co. may put Some goods on board when he is coming away. You will readily see the tendency these measures have, and as their consequences may be very important, So we hope your attention to them will be immediate and constant whilst necessary. Captain Wickes is a worthy Man and as such we recommend him Should he have the Misfortune to be taken or meet with any other misfortune we hope you will adopt measures for his relief. He will treat prisoners with humanity, and we are convinced his conduct will do honour to his appointment. We have the honour to be Gentlemen [&c.]

I will repeat to you what I wrote — The Sum of which was that I had anticipated the Scheme of Trade which you mentioned and had actually embarked in an Adventure by purchasing a large Sloop before I reced your Letter. If ever I am in favor with fortune it will be thro' the Interposition of Friends — I have been happy enough to find those who were disposed to serve me in many Instances — In the present, I have been so fortunate as to find that Disposition to befriend me not baulked by the want of Ability — By the first Week in December I hope to have the pleasure of offering you the Refusal of 3000 Bushells of Salt besides some other trifling Articles. I shall then have some proposals to make with Respect to that Article, Rum, Sugar & dry Goods, that I hope will not be deemed disadvantageous to you.

JOURNAL OF THE CONTINENTAL CONGRESS

[Philadelphia] Friday, October 25, 1776

The Committee of Treasury reported, that there is due,

To Robert Chase, late commander of the Gaspé ship of war, for his allowance from 1 March to 24 October, 1776, inclusive, 34 weeks, at 2 dollars per week, 68 dollars.

CONTINENTAL MARINE COMMITTEE TO GOVERNOR JONATHAN TRUMBULL

Sir Philadelphia 25th Octor 1776

The Marine Committee being desirous to get the Continental Frigates to Sea, quickly as possible, request the favor of you, to provide Sixty four Cannon for the use of the Frigate building in New Hampshire, and one of those in the Massachusetts Bay — Fifty two of these Cannon to carry 12 pounds Shot, and 12 of them to carry four pounds Shot — The proof that Congress has already contracted for the Public Cannon to undergo, is, for the first proof, a weight of powder equal to the weight of one shot; on which charge, two shot and three wads — The second proof is, powder equal to two thirds of the weight of one shot, with the same shot and wads as in the first — We wish Sir, that the above mentioned Cannon may undergo similar proof —

Should the Ship building in Connecticut, not be in equal forwardness with the New Hampshire Frigate, we should be well pleased, if the latter were immediately furnished with the Guns that are already provided for the former; adding thereto as many as will make the number of twenty six 12, and six 4 pounders — The Connecticut Frigate may be furnished, we hope, in due time; from the Guns above desired to be provided for the New Hampshire Frigate —

Your well known zeal in the Common Cause gives us perfect confidence that you will do herein what will most contribute to promote and expedite the public service — We are with great esteem Sir [&c.]

"EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM THE SECRET COMMITTEE TO THOMAS MORRIS, dated OCTOBER 25, 1776."

Sir: [Philadelphia, October 25, 1776]

You will receive herewith a copy of our letter of the 16th instant, whereby you are appointed our agent to superintend all our business in Europe. This goes by the Continental ship-of-war called the Reprisal, Lambert Weeks [Wickes], commander.

The value of this indigo is particularly intended to be lodged with your banker in Paris, for the use and subject to the order of Dr. Franklin, Silas Deane, and Arthur Lee, &c.

The Reprisal, Captain Weeks, will make but a short stay at Nantes, as she will immediately proceed on a cruise, and if fortunate, some of the prizes may probably be sent into some of the ports of France. The Commissioners will apply at Court for the liberty and protection of their ports. If this should be granted, it's probable that they may also permit the sale of prizes there, and in such case, the prizes, or such parts of their cargoes as are to be sold in France, will be put under your direction. You must take care that every thing is disposed of to the best advantage, apply the proceeds to the payments we have ordered you to make on account of the publick, and render us very exact accounts of what you credit us in this way, and a particular account of sales of each prize. Should Captain Weeks take any specie, he will pay it to you or the Commissioner, or to their or your order for the same purpose, and you must grant him receipts for the same, expressing that you receive it for the use of the United States of America, and that he is to be repaid by Congress.

Colonel George Weedon to John Page

[Extract] Camp at White plains Octobr 26th 1776 —

... should have wrote you before this had the Enemy continued in our Front at Hearlam, but a sudden manoeuver of theirs, has Occasion'd us a deal of Trouble, Fateigue, & expence, — The 12th several ships, sloops &c, pass'd Hellsgate and proceeded up the sound to Frogs point where they landed, we had Armies at that time a bove Kings Bridge sufficient to repell the Force then sent, but on the 14th a second Devision follow'd still larger when a reinforcement from our lines at Hearlam became Necessary. Genl Lee arrived just in time to have his hands full, after staying about half an hour at Head Quarters he went up to take the Commd of the Troops on that Quarter, — A few days after a Third Devision passed, and from that time, more or less every day, for several days together till it plainly appeared their intentions was to establish posts in our rear, and cut off a retreat, They previous to this had sent ships up north river, which I at first thought was only intended to cut off our Supplies by water from the back Country, but am now Convinced it was to Facilitate a junction a cross the Neck which at this place is a bout 16 Miles from North River to the sound, we have for these ten days been Constantly in Motion in order to keep the Flank and have now got so situated that they must come to our own ground to do any thing Desicive. ...

[Endorsement by Page] There are some sentences in this Letter which I think are so much to the credit of G. Lee, Majr Green & Captn Thor[nton] that I think they ought to be published J: P — To M. Page Junr Esqr of Mannsfield

1. Weedon Papers, ChHS.
Three Days after he supplied me with Three Weeks Provisions at whole Allowance, and ordered me back to my Station, and if I could not get into the Port again I was to cruise & make Tybee Lighthouse once in Twenty four Hours, until I was joined by him; and if any Accident prevented that, in the Course of about Fourteen Days, I was immediately to proceed to the Northward to join your Lordship, for You wanted every Ship on the Coast, and intended taking me to the Northward on his Return from St: Augustine: I got off Georgia Bar, the 11th instant at Six in the Evening, and came to an Anchor, it being too dark to see the Marks to go in; We heard two Guns at Tybee Lighthouse as an Alarm to the Town, a Place where We never saw a Rebel; At Day-Break I intended going in, but at two in the Morning a heavy Gale of Wind came on at NNE, and obliged me to put to Sea, it lasted violently for four Days; on the 15th I fell in with the Lively that had slipt from St. Augustine in the same Gale of Wind, and left Captain Bishop and his Boat's Crew behind; the Lieutenant informed me the Sphynx, Raven & Cherokee were to join your Lordship, and the Otter, Hinchinbrook and St. John Schooner were to remain at St: Augustine and St. Marys; Having but little Provisions & Water on board, that should I attempt to go into St. Augustine and drove to Leeward of the Port, I might be a great While beating up, as the Ship goes so ill, and perhaps obliged to bear up for the West Indies, which would be taking a Ship off the Coast; therefore I thought it best for His Majesty's Service [to] join your Lordship as soon as possible; I herewith inclose the State and Condition of the said Ship. THOMAS SAVAGE TO A COMMITTEE OF THE PENNSYLVANIA COUNCIL OF SAFETY

Extract  Pennsylvania Salt Works, Tom's River, Oct'r 26th, 1776.

P. S. On Sunday last, the 20 Inst., at day Break, appeared at the mouth of our inlet, four large Frigates, endeavouring to get as close in as possible, which is not more than four miles from me, the[y] drew up in a line right abreast of me, hauled up their courses & laid their Topsails back, in which position the[y] continued till near twelve o'clock; I expected a viset from them, and believe nothing prevented it but its being a very low tide, the flats being very bare, and seeing upwards of thirty of us on the shore, made them afraid to send their boats in, otherwise I think they fully intended it, which had they done, we must have left it to their mercy for want of arms &c., to defend it.

Directed, To Messrs. George Clymer, Samuell Howell, & Owen Biddle, Esqr's, in Philadelphia.

WILLIAM WHITTLE TO JOHN LANGDON

My Dear Sir, Philadelphia 26th Oct 1776

I arrived here the 24th: the [Marine] Committee have not met since my arrival but have mentioned your demand to some of the members, there is no doubt but I shall be in cash to honor your drafts whenever they appear. there is no prospect of cannon from this place, however, I have some hopes from another quarter viz: Connecticut — the circumstances are these — the cannon are made for the Trumbell [Trumbull] in that State and there is no prospect of her being provided with other necessaries — the Committee have wrote to Govr Trumbell [Jonathan Trumbull] to procure cannon for two ships and in the mean time to send those made for the Trumbell to you from the known disposition of that gentlemen to promote the public good I have great hopes you will be supplied from that quarter, orders are gone to Providence to supply you with canvass for a second suit of sails. I don't know but you'll have a wrangle on your hands with the Providence gentry however my boy I'll stand by you as long as I can — the ships here are not so forward as I expected to find them only three of them are launched. The rank of the Captains in the naval service was established before I arrived; I find [Thomas] Thompson is the 6th on the list — had I been here, I certainly would have had him higher — however considering the train after him, I think it pretty well — for want of time must refer you to Col [Josiah] Bartlett for news &c In haste as you see Your affectionate friend [&c.]

GOVERNOR PETER CHESTER TO LORD GEORGE GERMAIN

[Extract]

Pensacola 26th October 1776

We also hear from the same authority that the Rebels have fitted out two Vessels at Charles Town of 18 Guns each which are both put to Sea the one commanded by Clement Lampriere and the other by [Simon] Tufts. They are also fitting out a Vessel at Beaufort in South Carolina & one at Savannah in Georgia of the like force, & it is given out that they are ordered to cruize off Cape St Antonio to intercept any Vessels bound into the Gulph of Mexico and particularly those intended for this place or the River Mississippi laden with Goods & Provisions. I should not be surprized if the Rebels who must be in great distress for Blankets & Clothing should make an effort of this kind especially as their trading Vessels among the French Islands may learn the disposition of Admiral Gayton's Squadron at Jamaica & probably discover that there will be little danger to apprehend from them at Cape Antonio as those ships all cruize to Windward of Jamaica & they will have little to fear from the Ships on the Pensacola Station as We have only the Diligence Sloop of 14 Guns and an Armed Vessel in Lake Port Chartrain [Pontchartrain] for the protection of this Province. The Diligence has been chiefly out cruizing for some time past & is shortly to be relieved by an Armed Brig of ten Guns called the Badger which will be the only Vessel to protect the trade in the Gulph of Mexico.

Should the Rebels succeed in taking any of the Ships bound here, We shall be in a very disagreeable situation on account of Salt provisions for the Troops and will not be able to furnish the Indians with those supplies of Goods and Ammunition that We have promised them, and I am very apprehensive that a Misfortune of this kind might greatly tend to endanger the loss of their Affections.

We have an Account here written by a British Merchant residing at New Orleans to a Gentleman of this place acquainting him that there has a Boat arrived at Orleans which came down the River Mississippi with about 20 Men, that a Pennsylvanian of the Name of Gibson appears to have the Command of them & that they have been very civilly treated by the Governor of Louisiana I since hear from the Mississippi that in passing the Natchez they hoisted the Rebel Colours & that the Boat is returned up the River with a load of Ammunition bound it is imagined up the Ohio but the supposed Leader remains at New Orleans. I hourly expect a Vessel from thence with some People belonging to this Province and if the Report be true and the Spanish Governor has given them any Countenance I shall endeavor to gain the fullest information in my power relating thereto and shall forward the same to your Lordship by the first opportunity.

I have already mentioned to your Lordship that I think it my duty in this critical state of Affairs to communicate every Account relating to the proceedings of the Rebels that has the least Colour of truth, and I frequently lament that it is not in my power to forward more full and authentic Information; however whether this Account be true or not there is great Reason to apprehend if the Rebellion should continue another year that the River Mississippi will be the Channel through which the Rebels will receive very considerable supplies of Ammunition, unless We obtain strict Orders from the Court of Spain to prevent their Subjects from furnishing these Supplies and also keep a sufficient Military force upon the Mississippi to search all Boats whatever carrying Ammunition up the River.

"Extract of a letter from Fort-Lee, October 27, 1776." 1

This morning about 7 o'clock two frigates moved up the North River, and came to an anchor near Burdett's Ferry, apparently with an intention to stop the ferry-way, and cut off the communication between this place and Fort Washington. The enemy at the same time appeared on Harlem Plain, and Col. [Robert] Magaw, who commands on York Island, ordered the lines to be manned. The ships endeavoured to dislodge them by firing on their flanks, but they fired to very little purpose. The Barbette Battery on the high hill on the left of the Ferry opened on the frigates and fired a con-considerable time, without doing them any or but very little damage. Upon our ceasing to fire, a gun from Fort No. 1 on York Island began to play on them with great advantage and hulled the one highest up about 20 times. At this time two 18 pounders, which were ordered down this side the river opposite the ships, gave them so warm a salute that they hoisted all sail; the foremost cut her cables and appeared to be in the greatest confusion; she could make no way altho' towed by two boats, till the lower one perceiving her distress, sent two more barges to her assistance, who at length dragged her out of the reach of our fire. It is very probable that many of her men were killed, and she herself extremely damaged; but the weather was so hazy that it was impossible to see any thing distinctly at a distance. The enemy by this time had begun a smart fire on the island with field pieces and mortars; our men returned the compliment. They were out of their lines great part of the day. There were but few discharges of small arms. Our men killed about a dozen Hessians and brought them off. We had one man killed with a shell. This was the account at five o'clock, it. is now seven, and firing has just ceased; but nothing extraordinary I believe has happened. We take this day's movement to be only a feint, or at any rate it is little honorable to the red-coats.

[On board H.M.S. Eagle, off New York]

27th [October]. – Early in the morning heard a cannonade up the North River. I went up to see what it was; found the Repulse and Pearl advanced, the former above and the latter in a line with the rebel lines. The rebels brought down one 18-pounder on the York, and three other guns on the Jersey shore. The ships could not fire with any execution at these guns; and as they had answered the intent of their moving up, that of flanking the enemy's lines and scouring the woods, and it now being high water, Captain [Henry] Davis thought it proper to drop the ships down to their former station. Many shots were thrown into the Repulse, and some into the Pearl; no men killed in either, and only one man's leg broke on board the Repulse.

DIARY OF FREDERICK MACKENZIE

[NewYork] 27th Octr — The Repulse and Pearl Frigates went up the North River with the tide when the troops advanced, in order to flank the Enemy, but the fire from Forts Washington and Constitution obliged them to return to their former stations. Indeed as the Rebels did not abandon their works on their right, their going higher up would have answered no good purpose. The Rebels struck the Ships several times, but they did them no other damage than wounding one man on board the Repulse.

INTELLIGENCE RECEIVED BY VICE ADMIRAL JAMES YOUNG

(Copy) St Croix, Oct. 27. 1776

Sir, (Private)

Tho I have not the honor of being known to you I trust that this letter will not be considered either officious or intrusive To give an account of oneself is certainly awkward; nor would I attempt it on any except the present occasion, I must therefore beg leave to inform you that I left London the place of my residence last June & there had the honour of being known to several high in Office — Before I left England I took leave to mention to Lord George Germaine, that I was confident the Americans carried on Trade with the Danish Islands, & that I should endeavour to find out when here what Vessells had & were trading to those Islands, & that I would transmit any intelligence I might collect to such a quarter as I thought might produce good effects His Lordship did me the favor to approve of what I mentioned — I have brought an introduction (thro Lord Suffolk) to the Governor of the Danish Islands, and shall reside some Months in them to dispose of, or to put two Plantations I have at St Thomas on a better footing — These Circumstances I could wish to avoid mentioning, but I think every person is bound when he gives any intelligence to convey some Acct of himself — I must confess however that whatever intelligence I may give arises in some degree from interested motives, for I have property both real & personal on the continent, which I am persuaded cannot be beneficial to me unless Great Britain reduces the American insurgents to a proper obedience to its Legislative Authority — I hope that this will be presented to you by my Brother who belongs to the Regiment at Antigua; if not there he must be on duty in America —

It has given me pleasure to hear of the number of Captures made by His Majesty's Ships under your Command, but notwithstanding their vigilance several Vessells (generally small) have got in here. I have been but 16 days here, & six Schooners have arrived from the Provinces of North Carolina, Maryland, & Pennsylvania — As to what they bring it is of no consequence, but they all return with a few Articles (& those much wanted by the deluded people on the continent []) such as Oznabrigs a little powder, Sugar & Rum — As to Powder it is fortunately very scarce, or they would not have met with so scanty a supply — Two days since one of the above Schooners (Packer Master) sailed for America, & amongst other Articles, did with some difficulty procure ten small Casks of Powder; but my astonishment was great to find such a Commerce countenanced by Government here — The Vessell went out under American Colours, saluted the Fort, & had the Complement returned the same as if She had been an English or a Danish Ship — I take it for granted that a similar conduct is observed in the Islands of St Thomas & St John belonging to the Crown of Denmark — This Island is now unquestionably well supplied with Provisions, so that the favourable reception of American Vessells cannot arise from necessity — Two of the six Vessells I have mentioned, are at West-end harbour, the other three at [East]-end, & will all sail in the course of a fortnight. — It is most probable that you have already received similar Accounts; if so, I have troubled you unnecessarily; I think however that I have discharged part of the duty a subject owes to Government: I shall therefore take leave to subscribe myself [ () without making any farther apology] with Respect, Sir [&c.]

[Unsigned]
I go over to St Thomas tomorrow where if I learn any thing shall take leave to trouble you again.

LIEUTENANT COLONEL HENRY BEEKMAN LIVINGSTON TO GEORGE WASHINGTON

[Extract]

Sr/ New Haven. Octr 28th 1776.

After having with the greatest Impatience waited the Arrival of the Whale Boats and Vessels that were to have been employed in the Long Island Expedition I find myself at Length disappointed, Colonel [William] Mc: Intosh having Marched two of the Regiments that were allotted for the Purpose to Head Quarters so that the Original Plan must of Necessity fall through as the Force we have left is Inadequate to the under[ta]keing. Colonel [William] Richmond's Regiment has only Three Hundred Men, and my Detachment together with Part of Colonel Smith's Regiment that have joined me amount to about two Hundred - The Term of Inlistment for Colonel Richmond's Regiment will be elapsed in ten Days. However we will not be Quite Disappointed but will make an attempt to Disperse the Recruits inlisting for General How on Long Island If our Orders extended to burning the Hay Grain and whatsoever we conceived might be of advantage to the Enemy, I immagine we might Distress them a little But this Governour Trumbull will not Authorise Colonel Richmond (to whome he has given the Command) to Execute. . . . If the weather permits I fancy we shall be to morrow Night on Long Island tho I don't think under the Restrictions laid on us anything of Great Consequence Can be Atchieved. I should have waited Your Excellencies Orders at this Place had I not received Express ones from Governour Trumbull to repair to Long Island . . .

AUGUSTIN LAWRENCE AND SAMUEL TUDER TO THE NEW YORK PROVINCIAL CONVENTION 1

Poughkeepsie, October 31 [sic 28], 1776 2

Gentlemen —

Enclosed we send you an extract from a letter we have just received from the marine committee at Philadelphia. You will see by it we are referred to your Honourable House for directions and advice respecting the launching and securing of the frigates and their stores, which we desire to have as soon as possible. As unless you direct to the contrary, we shall launch the ship Montgomery on Monday [November 4], and the other as soon as possible afterwards. The custom of giving the carpenters a treat at launching, we suppose you would not mean to break through. The master carpenters judge 100 dollars for each ship on that occasion will be reasonable to allow. As we are directed to advise with you, beg your opinion in that matter. We are, gentlemen [&c.]

Augustin Lawrence, Samuel Tuder.

To the Hon. Pierre Van Cortlandt,
President of the Convention at Fishkill.

2. The Convention was not in session, and this letter was received by the Committee of Safety. The Committee minutes note: “A Letter from Messrs. Tudor & Lawrence, at Poughkeepsie, dated October 28th, informing when the Ships will be launched.” Force, comp.,
The Journal of the Committee of Safety, October 29, as printed in New York Provincial Congress, I, 692, dates the Tudor-Lawrence letter "Octor. 24th." This is believed to be a typographical error because of the short distance between Poughkeepsie and Fishkill. October 28, the date given by Force, would seem more realistic, and has been used.

Memoirs of William Smith

[Manor of Livingston] Monday 28 Octr 1776

I returned Yesterday from a Visit to Mrs [Margaret] Livingston... In this Journey I learnt that the British Fleet on the Lake consisted of

1 Ship of 18 - 12 lb
1 Schooner 14- 6 lb
1 Do. - 12 -6 lb Double fortified 6 lb 4 - 8 Inch Hawitzers
2 Gondolas 3-12 lb Several double fortified 6 lb 4 - 8 Inch Hawitzers
1 Rideaux 6 - 24 lb Brass 28 Row Boats from 18 to 12 lb
1 Do. - 12 -12 lb Brass Several 8 Inch Hawitzers

The American Fleet consisted of

1 Schooner of 12 - 6 lb 8 Gondolas 3 - 12 - to 4 lb
1 Do — 6 - 4 lb 1 Small Hospital Schooner
3 Row Galleys — 10 18 to 4 lb 1 Sloop — 10 to 4 lb

This List was given to me the 24t. on the Road by a Doctor Thompson of our Neighbourhood just come from Albany who had it from Mr. Walter Livingston, to whom it was furnished by General Waterbury a Prisoner in one of the Vessels lately vanquished and discharged by Govr. Carleton, who after very kind Usages dismissed all the Prisoners upon their Parole not to serve in the American Army till others were restored in their Places — The Prisoners report it as a Speech by Mr. Carlton's that he pitied them as deluded Subjects, but that if he took General Washington, Hancock, Adams and such Characters, he would send them to England to be executed as Traitors. — Whether the Tenderness is to wipe off the Odium of the Affair of the Cedars or in Consequence of Advice or Orders from General Howe is uncertain — Perhaps the Design is to win a Party in the Colonies to desert the Congress upon a Confidence that no others will be Sufferers on the Restoration of the old Governmt; and yet the last Accounts from below are that the Regulars have ravaged the Sea Coast from Frogs Neck to New Rochelle burn't many Houses & plundered the Effects of the Inhabitants —

The Harriot lost her Master and five Men, and had several others wounded. The Mate brought in the Packet without any further Molestation. The Mail on Board left London on the 27th of August.¹

Friday being the Anniversary of his Majesty's Accession to the Throne, the Day was celebrated here with every Demonstration of Joy. The two Admirals gave Entertainments, and many loyal Toasts were drank upon the Occasion.

Vice Admiral Richard Lord Howe to Commodore William Hotham ¹

Dr Sir

The tenor of your letter of yesterday concerning the restraint upon the Landing of more provision & necessaries for the Army, is what I daily expected; And, in that apprehension, was obliged to postpone my request for your return to us, until it was determined by the movements of the Army, what further need there might be for your direction of the arrangements that would be requisite in consequence.

It is to be suitably provided in the Naval Department that I must treat your continuance in the troublesome Service you have hitherto directed, Hoping that your Release will now very soon take place. And I reckon you may daily Expect the Generals request for moving with your suite of Transports nearer to us, preparatory to their Return to this Anchorage.

The Fire in the North River was a[s] our Frigates moved up to co-operate in an advance of the Trops under Lord Percy towards the Enemy's Lines on York Island; But no material Injury was done by it.

When any of the Batteaux can be spared from the Army Services, the attendance of the Transports Men will be useful at their ships.
The ships of War you will of Course direct to attend you Westward as you approach near us, providing only for a stationed Convoy for the Coasting Traders supplying New York with Fuel &c; As far as to the ships off Huntingdon Bay. I am Dr Sir [&c.]

CAPTAIN CHARLES FIELDING, R.N., TO PHILIP STEPHENS 1

Sir /

Diamond off New York Oct. 28th 1776

You will be pleas'd to inform their Lordships of my arrival at this place with the Convoy under my orders on the 19th instt and that on the 23d of Sepr the Unicorn chaced & brought to the Fleet the Bost-wick Brig, Alexr Anderson master, loaded with provisions! she had parted company from her Convoy the Perseus, had been taken by a Rebel Privateer, & releas'd they not having men sufficient to Navigate her, & another Vessel they had likewise taken. Also that the Unicorn chaced & took on the 30th of Sepr the Wolfe Sloop Jams Freeman master, a Privateer belonging to Boston, with 10 Carriage, & 10 Swivel Guns, and ninety men; 2 both of whom I also brought in. Further you will represent to their Lordships the very bad conduct of John Coghlan Master of the Ship Lovely Mary belonging to Bristol, loaded with ordnance stores; he attempted to leave the Convoy on the night of the 20th of Augst but was fortunately cross'd upon, & brought back by the Unicorn in the morning, who had chaced ahead the day before, & was rejoining the Fleet; he had also broke the seal of his rendezvous; I put a careful midshipman with five men directly onboard him, and took two of his men out. I cannot well express the trouble I had from the dullness & obstinacy of the Masters of the Dutch Transports, & the great delay from that, & the very heavy sailing of most of their ships; & I must conclude from the bad management of them in general, that the superintendants either had not power to exercise their Authority, or that they were extremely neglectful and inattentive; I must except Mr Blackstone in the Eiken Boom, who for the latter part of the Voyage particularly, kept his Ship in a very good station. I am Sir [&c.]

We had the Pleasure to hear this Morning, through the Channel of the Rebels themselves, that Genl Carleton had defeated their armed Vessels upon the Lakes, and taken many of them Prisoners; that he was landed at Crown Point, and was advancing towards Ticonderago. It appears likewise that many Indians were with him. There is no doubt, considering the Channel, but this is the Truth, though perhaps not the whole Truth.

In the Evening, Advice was received from Capt. [James] Ferguson of the Brune, that a large armed Flat Boat of the Rebels, full of men, had attempted to make an Incursion within our Lines last Night, that the Brune had fired upon them with great Guns & small Arms, and that this Morning the Brune's People took the Boat, which was greatly shattered, and its Bottom covered 2 full Inches with Blood. Above 60 Shot had passed through its Sides, and 'tis supposed they killed above 50 men. The Cries, Shrieks & Groans of the Rebels, some dying in the Boat, others drowning in the Water, were very shocking and dismal.

WILLIAM HOOPER TO THE PRESIDENT OF THE NORTH CAROLINA CONVENTION

Honoured Sir

Philadelphia Oct 29 1776

By my worthy Colleague Mr [John] Penn, I do myself the honour to transmit a resolution of the continental Congress which bears immediate relation to the State of North Carolina. The Congress having been informed that the Armed vessels belonging to the Enemy have lately quitted the River of Cape fear, and have proceeded to the Northward, have bestowed their thoughts upon the practicability of fortifying that entrance into your state, and excluding the British Men of War. The importance of such a measure must weigh as powerfully with you as with them, & I am well assured that nothing will be wanting on your part to carry it into Execution with all possible dispatch. As this is the only Port in the State of North Carolina, into which the Enemies can introduce ships of any considerable force, should they be prevented here, we shall have nothing to fear from any forces which they may send against us in the ensuing Winter. The Harbour of Cape fear will furnish a secure receptacle for our own trading Vessels, and those of foreigners who from this Advantage may be induced to prefer ours to the ports of other states. The Privateers of the several states, as well as the Continental armed Vessels will carry any prizes which they make to the Southward into No Carolina when they are apprized of the protection which they and their Captures will receive, and by these means we shall be supplied with the many articles of which we now feel the most pressing necessity.

We are aware of the scarcity of heavy Cannon in your state & have therefore procured a recommendation to you to apply to South Carolina to aid you in that respect. We flatter ourselves that it may produce the effect we wish, as it will be nothing but a reciprocal Civility and what North Carolina is well entitled to for the ready and ample succour afforded to South Carolina when in imminent danger from its Enemies. Our own Guns small as they are may be made useful and I know not how more essentially. The Continental Troops will be employed in this service, & the Expence arising from the hire of negroes to perform the most laborious part of the operation will be considerable, but must appear contemptible when weighed against the publick emolument which will result from it.

You will observe that this is to be executed at the Expence of your own particular state, a recommendation of a similar kind went to South Carolina, in consequence of which they have erected great & very expensive fortifications at their own cost. It becomes Oeconomy in you to bear this Expence yourself, rather than by making it Continental, expose yourself to pay your proportion of the large fortifications which have been or may hereafter be erected in the Eastern States. Your proportion only of the Connecticut forts would amount to as much as the whole of these proposed for your colonial security — In this case therefore It will be political (at least for us) to suffer each state to bear its own burdens.

Should the Convention think it proper to apply to the Continental Congress for the Assistance of an Engineer to execute this proposal, I shall upon being informed thereof immediately take the proper steps to procure one and send him on I am Sir With great Respect to yourself & the Convention [&c.]

Vice Admiral James Young to Philip Stephens

Sir,
Antigua 29th October 1776.

Please to acquaint my Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty; that pursuant to their Directions of the 20th February last: I have this day Ordered Captain John Chapman, to proceed to the Island of St Christophers, with His Majesty’s Sloop Shark, under his Command, to Convoy the Homeward bound Trade from these Islands; from whence he is to Sail the 4th November, with such Merchant Ships and Vessels as are then ready; And as it is said the American Armed Vessels Cruize between the Latitudes of 30° and 35° North, I have thought fit to Direct Captain Chapman to Convoy the Trade as far as the Latitude 38° North, lest they should be intercepted by the Rebels, which I flatter myself will meet with their Lordship’s approbation.

The 30th September last, I informed their Lordships, by a Letter addressed to you, (Duplicate of which accompanies this;) that on the 6th and 7th of that month, a Violent Gale of Wind did considerable Damage among the Islands, particularly to the Shipping; and that I was apprehensive His Majesty’s Sloop Pomona had met with some Disaster, as She was to have returned to English-harbour the 5th September. Since which, have not had any certain Intelligence concerning her; [2] I am therefore to desire you will be pleased to move their Lordships to send me some other Ship in her stead, as I am much afraid, if She is not gone away to Jamaica some sad Catastrophe has happened to her. — And the Governors and Inhabitants of some of the Islands, having Signified to me They were apprehensive, that from their Defenceless State they may be Visited and Insulted by the American Rebel's Armed Vessels, which these Seas are now much pestered with: I must again Request their Lordships will be pleased to Order a Considerable Re-inforcement to the Squadron on this Station, and thereby better enable me to protect His Majesty's Islands from any such Insult; for which purpose I am of opinion it is extremly necessary that one Ship, at least, should be Stationed to Cruize off each of the British Islands, besides those employed to prevent the Rebels being Supplyed with Warlike Stores from the Foreign Islands: — A Service in which I greatly miss the Pomona, being the only fast Sailing Vessel of the Squadron.

The 19th Instant the Packet from England, that sailed in the month of August arrived at this Island; but contrary to my expectations, brought me no Public Dispatches; which I presume proceeds from some mistake.

Inclosed is the State and Condition of the Squadron under my Command, which you will be pleased to communicate to their Lordships. — I am sir [&c.]

NARRATIVE OF COLONEL ETHAN ALLEN¹

[On board H.M.S. Lark, October 12 to October 30, 1776]²

In a few days after this, the prisoners were ordered to go on board of a man of war, which was bound for New-York; but two of them were not able to go on board, and were left at Halifax; one died, and the other recovered. This was about the 12th of October, and soon after we had got on board, the captain sent for me in particular to come on the quarter deck. I went, not knowing that it was capt. [Richard] Smith, or his ship at that time, and expected to meet the same rigorous usage I had commonly met with, and prepared my mind accordingly; but when I came on deck, the captain met me with his hand, welcomed me to his ship, invited me to dine with him that day, and assured me that I should be treated as a gentleman, and that he had given orders, that I should be treated with respect by the ship's crew. This was so unexpected and sudden a transition, that it drew tears from my eyes, which all the ill usages I had before met with, was not able to produce, nor could I at first hardly speak, but soon recovered myself and expressed my gratitude for so unexpected a favor; and let him know that I felt anxiety of mind in reflecting that his situation and mine was such, that it was not probable that it would ever be in my power to return the favor. Capt Smith replied that he had no reward in view, but only treated me as a gentleman ought to be treated; he said this is a mutable world, and one gentleman never knows but it may be in his power to help another. Soon after I found this to be the same capt. Smith who took my part against gen. [Eyre] Massey; but he never mentioned any thing of it to me, and I thought it impolite in me to interrogate him, as to any disputes which might have arisen between him and the gen. on my account, as I was a prisoner, and that it was at his option to make free with me on that subject, if he pleased; and, if he did not, I might take it for granted that it would be unpleasing for me to query about it, though I had a strong propensity to converse with him on that subject.

I dined with the captain agreeable to his invitation, and oftentimes with the lieutenant, in the gun room, but in general ate and drank with my friend Lovel [James Lovell] and the other gentlemen, who were prisoners with me, where I also slept.

We had a little birth enclosed with canvas, between decks, where we enjoyed ourselves very well, in hopes of an exchange; besides, our friends at Halifax had a little notice of our departure, and supplied us with spirituous liquor, and many articles of provision for the coast. Capt. Burk [William Burke] having been taken prisoner, was added to our company, (he had commanded an American armed vessel) and was generously treated by the captain and all the officers of the ship, as well as myself. We now had in all near thirty prisoners on board, and as we were sailing along the coast, if I recollect right, off Rhode-Island, capt. Burk, with an under officer of the ship, whose name I do not recollect, came to our little birth, proposed to kill capt. Smith and the principal officers of the frigate and take it; adding that there were thirty five thousand pounds sterling in the same, capt. Burk likewise averred that a strong party out of the ship's crew was in conspiracy, and urged me, and the gentleman that was with me, to use our influence with the private prisoners, to execute the design, and take the ship with the cash into one of our own ports.

Upon which I replied, that we had been too well used on board to murder the officers; that I could by no means reconcile it to my conscience, and that in fact it should not be done; and, while I was yet speaking, my friend Lovel confirmed what I had said, and farther pointed out the ungratefulness of such an act; that it did not fall short of murder, and in fine all the gentlemen in the birth opposed capt. Smith and the principal officers of the frigate and take it; adding that they might depend upon it, upon my honor, that I would faithfully guard capt. Smith's life: If they should attempt the assault, I would assist him, for they desired me to remain neuter, and that the same honor that guarded capt. Smith's life, would also guard theirs; and it was agreed by those present not to reveal the conspiracy, to the intent that no man should be put to death, in consequence of what had been projected; and capt. Burk and his colleague went to stifle the matter among their associates. I could not help calling to mind what capt. Smith said to me, when I first came on board; “This is a mutable world, and one gentleman never knows but that it may be in his power to help another.” Captain Smith and his officers still behaved with their usual courtesy; and I never heard any more of the conspiracy.

We arrived before New York, and cast anchor the latter part of October where we remained several days, and where capt. Smith informed me, that he had recommended me to adm. Howe and gen. sir Wm. Howe, as a gentleman of honor and veracity, and desired that I might be treated as such. Capt. Burk was then ordered on board a prison-ship in the harbor.

Salem Committee to the Massachusetts Council

The Committee of Correspondence, Inspection & Safety of the town of Salem, humbly shew —

That divers of the subjects of the king of Great Britain taken in vessels in his immediate service, & on board merchant vessels, are now resident in this town & in other maritime towns, that their numbers are daily increasing, as prizes are brought in, that the resolves of Congress respecting prisoners of war were passed before the declaration of independence, & determined such only to be prisoners as are taken in arms; that the crews of merchant vessels do now frequently oppose in arms their captors; — that hence arise doubts on the question — Who are prisoners of war? — that this town has not been assigned for the residence of such prisoners, & so this comtee have no authority to controul them; that in the maritime towns they have the earliest intelligence of the transactions of the Americans, — have opportunities of mixing in all companies and in some such towns of daily communicating with many persons, who tho' observant of the laws and the resolves of Congress, are yet justly liable to suspicion as being not well-wishers to America. For these reasons we pray your Honours that some steps may be immediately taken relative to the captives afore mentioned, that shall insure the public safety, & the safety & property of the maritime towns; for we beg leave to add, that we do not think it expedient that captives not disposed to enter on board our vessels of war or merchant vessels should be permitted to reside in such towns, since being compact they are exposed to destruction by fire, and their vessels & boats may easily be cut out of their harbours & run away with; some such instances have already happened; we wonder no more have occurred.

We find by an order of the honble Board, that capt. Leche of the light dragoons, & the chaplain, Mr Lewes, were to have been sent to Boxford, after the Sheriff had taken their parole; and the common dragoons were to have been delivered to the comtees in this county to be set to work: but that order remains unexecuted in every part, and for that reason many people here are uneasy. They are also uneasy because John Consett Peers, lieut of the tender taken by capt. [John] Fisk, still remains in this town, altho' it is some time since he recovered of his wounds. There is the greater reason for this uneasiness with regard to Leche, Lewes and Peers, because neither of them has given the parole ordered by Congress. We therefore pray your honours to give immediate orders relative to these prisoners as well as the former.

CAPTAIN JOHN PAUL JONES TO THE CONTINENTAL MARINE COMMITTEE

Rhode Island

Alfred, 30th Octr 1776 –

Gentlemen

Since my Arrival here in the Providence the 7th Current I have from a Variety of events been altogether Unable to give you any Satisfactory account and for that reason have defered Writing. I now inclose you copies of my letters down till the 30th Ulto & You have also inclosed a Short account of my whole Cruise and I have now to Inform you that on the 22d Currt I was directed by the Commr in Chief to take Command of an expidition with the Alfred and Hamden against the Cape Briton Coal-Fleet & Newfoundland Fishery. — had this expidition been begun a Month Sooner great things might have been done — my greatest hope now is that of relieving a number of our fellow Citizens who, being prisoners are compelled to Work in the Coal pits of Cape Briton — If I can Succeed in this I Shall think my pains well bestowed. — You may however rest assured that I will leave no part of any duty Unattempted that may at this Advanced Season and with my small Force appear practicable.

I have left with the Commr in Chief a Complete Muster Roll Comprehending every thing from the day I took Command of the Providence till the Day I left her. — I was ready to sail the 27th but Unfortunately the Hamden ran aground on a Sunken Ledge in the Harbour which knock’d off her False keel and She hath been so Leaky Since that we have concluded her unfit for Sea and have got the Providence ready to proceed in her room. — I hope to Sail to Morrow morning and am with great Esteem [&c.]

The American Sloop of War the Providence of Twelve Guns and Seventy Men Sailed from the Delaware the 21st of August 1776. She Cruized between the Latd of 39° and 33° No and went to the Eastward as far as the Longd of 50° West. – having taken three prizes, a whaler and two West Indiamen – and having had a Very narrow Escape from an English Frigate after a Chase of Six hours, part of the time within pistol Shot – on the 14th Septr she bent her Course for Nova-Scotia – and on the 20th had Another Affair with an English Frigate, and, in the course of an Eight hours Chace, Rediculed the Enemy and Answered his Broadside with only a Single Musquit. – altho’ the Savage and Dawson’s Brig² were within a few Leagues Distance, She, next day, went into Canso and took three English Schooners with a Scotch Tories Flag – and, the day following she took Five Sail of Jerseymen in Narrowshock and Four more in Peter de great – And it is remarkable, that tho’ they were Ten in number to one of the Providence’s Men, they were so Panic-struck that they not only gave up their Ships but even Assisted to Rig and carry them out of their Harbours. – the Providence then proceeded to the Westward – took another Whaler on St George’s Bank, and on the 7th of October arrived safe at Rhode Island – having Manned and Sent in Eight Prizes Vizt Six Brigantines, one Ship, and one Sloop, – And Sunk, burnt and destroyed Eight more Vizt Six Schooners, one Ship, and one Brigantine – and finished her Cruize in Six Weeks and five Days.³

CAPTAIN JOHN PAUL JONES TO ROBERT MORRIS¹

Alfred [Newport] 30th Octr 1776 —

I Did not conclude my letter ’till I was enabled to give you a Satisfactory Account of the Present Expedition. — I took command here the 22d and finding that we could not Man the Ship and two Vessels without Wasting too much time — I concluded to leave the Providence and Proceed with the Alfred and Hamden — I took the men out of the Providence and her Prizes which Made up my Muster Roll here to 140 or upwards but When I was ready to proceed on the 27th the Hamden was run upon a Sunken ledge which Knocked off her false Keel and she hath Since continued to make so much Water that we concluded her unfit for Sea and therefore have Shifted the men into the Providence. — I am once more in readiness and hope to take my leave of Rhode Island to Morrow Morning. — I am however duely sensible that the Expedition cannot but fall greatly Short of what I might have effected had I been enabled to Proceed a fortnight Sooner. — I hope the A. Doria will be included in the next expidition wherein I am concerned. — If Mr [Joseph] Hewes is in Philadelphia — I must beg you to make my apology for not writing and, if you Please, Shew him this and my former letter — I have the Honor to be with great Esteem and Respect Sir [&c.]

DR. EZRA GREEN TO NATHANIEL COOPER, DOVER, NEW HAMPSHIRE

Dear Sir: Ticonderoga, Oct. 30, 1776.

I must beg your pardon for troubling you with so many of my letters, but I am a good deal at leisure, and so lucky an opportunity of conveyance offers, that I can't let it pass without sending you one line or two. Since my last, our Fleet is destroyed, of which I suppose you have heard, but 5 vessels remaining to us out of 16 sail. The engagement began on Friday morning, October 11th. and held out all day. They surrounded our Fleet, but in the night succeeding the engagement they very narrowly and fortunately made their escape and came up towards Crown Point, but were overtaken and attacked again Sunday morning, within about 25 miles of this place. Our men fought bravely, but the enemy were of so much greater force than we had any suspicion of that our little fleet stood no chance; most of the vessels lost were blown up, sunk, or burnt by our own people, they escaping by land. We lost, killed, about 50; taken prisoners, about 100, which are dismissed on parole. The Indians have done us no damage till very lately they waylaid three men, kill'd one, took the other two prisoners, who are sent back on parole. They were treated very kindly by the Indians as well as by the King's troops who were at the time at Crown Point within 15 miles of this place, where they have been ever since the destruction of our Fleet. We have lately been alarm'd several times. On Monday morning last, there was a proper alarm, occasioned by a number of the enemies boats which hove in sight, and a report from a scouting party that the Enemy were moving on; where the Fleet is now, I can't learn, or what is the reason they don't come on I can't conceive. 'Tis thought they are 10 or 12 thousand strong, including Canadians and Indians. We are in a much better situation now then we were fourteen days ago, and the militia are continually coming in. Our sick are recovering, and it is thought we are as ready for them now as ever we shall be. There has been a vast deal of work done since the fight, and we think ourselves in so good a position that we shall be disappointed if they don't attack us. However, I believe they wait for nothing but a fair wind. In my

P. S. I have some thought of leaving the army and joining the navy, provided I can get a berth as surgeon of a good continental ship or a privateer. Should be glad if you would enquire, if you don't know, and send me word what encouragement is given; and let me know if any ships are fitting out from Portsmouth, and you'll oblige your friend.

MEMOIRS OF WILLIAM SMITH

[Manor of Livingston] Wednesday 30t [October]

A Visit Yesterday from Mr. Walter Livingston, late Commissary for the Northern Army, & succeeded on his Resignation by one [Elisha] Avery the Son of a New England Innkeeper.

He represents Arnold as having Courage without Conduct, says the American Fleet was destroyed but 36 Miles to the Northward of Crown Point where Carleton now lays with the British Vessels. - That 3 Weeks ago the Provincial Army at Ticonderoga according to his Supplies consisted of 13,000 Men, of whom 2,000 may be Non Effectives. That Arnold's Fleet lay behind an Island, & were passed by Carlton's, & by this Negligence might have been cut off & starved. The British Army are momentarily expected and the Militia halt at Fort Edward till they are called up. They count 1200 Tents now at Crown point and conjecture that the Land Force there may be about 6,000 Men.

That the commanders, officers, seamen and marines, in the continental navy, be entitled to the whole value of all ships and vessels of war belonging to the crown of Great Britain, by them made prize of, and all privateers authorized by his Britannic Majesty to war against these states, to be divided as aforesaid.

Resolved, That the part of the report relative to the rank and pay of naval officers, be referred to a special committee of three.

The members, Mr. [Robert] Morris, Mr. [William] Whipple, and Mr. [Richard] H[enry] Lee.

Resolved, That the remainder of the report be re-committed.

CONTINENTAL MARINE COMMITTEE TO DANIEL TILLINGHAST

As heavy duck is wanted for the New Hampshire frigate which cannot be procured in that State, we desire you will without delay send forward to John Langdon Esq. You will also supply Mr Langdon and Messrs Silas & Barnabus Deane with any Continental Stores that they may apply to you for the use of the Frigates Raleigh and Trumbull.

Lieutenant [John] McDougall of the Brig Andrea Doria has accounted for the expenditure of £45 you advanced him to defray his travelling expenses together with seven of the people belonging to said Brigt from your State to this place, therefore we think proper to direct that you deduct that Sum from the Sales of the prize which they brought in and put under your care. CONTINENTAL MARINE COMMITTEE TO COMMODORE ESEK HOPKINS

We have received such intelligence as satisfies us that the enemies Ships and Vessels have all quitted Georgia and the Carolinas, which renders it unnecessary for you to pursue the expeditions formerly directed to these States. But as we have still reason to suppose that the Galatea and Nautilus are Cruizing off[f] the Capes of Virginia, we desire you will proceed thither with all possible dispatch and endeavour to fall in with these Ships and take sink or destroy them. If when you are on that station you shall be informed that any of the enemies ships of war have returned to the Carolinas or Georgia, you are in that case to go in search of them and effectually remove them. Having finished this business you are to return and Cruize for and endeavour to intercept the store and provision Vessels coming from Europe to the enemies army at New York. We expect you will give this committee information by every opportunity of your proceedings, and what success you may meet with in the above enterprizes. We wish you success and are Sir [&c.].

GOVERNOR PATRICK TONYN TO LORD GEORGE GERMAIN

[Extract]

No 27.

By means of the Sloop Rebecca whom I commissioned and stationed on St John River, the inland water passage from Georgia is secured: the Plantations on that River who were greatly alarmed, do now unmolested and free from the apprehensions of danger employ their Negros in providing lumber and naval stores for the West Indies, having raised sufficient provisions for the ensuing Year, a proof of which is, their purchasing new Negros. The state of provisions to the southward is not less favourable: and this town my Lord has it's coast at last well defended, Lord Howe having sent the Lively twenty Gun Ship to order a disposition of Ships so as to protect this Province; and by their means my Lord and by employing transports to be got in this Province, I expect to be able under the orders of General Howe, to make an advantageous diversion of Indians, and Regular Troops into Georgia, should an attack upon the Southern Colonies, in the Course of the Winter be projected.

There has been, my Lord a considerable emigration from the rebel Provinces to this Place.

Several have left their Negros, and part of their Property behind, many more would have fled, had it not been for the inconveniences, and danger of losing their Property, not only by the rebels, but by the Officer[s] of the Navy, who have seized and libeled Vessels in the Court of Admiralty employed in bringing the friends of Government and provisions to this Province, when they had my licence according to the form transmitted me by your Lordship, and it has been with difficulty, that I have been able to secure rice, through that Channel, with which we have been hitherto well supplied, notwithstanding the numbers of Indians and Emigrants black and white to be fed.

In my letter No 16 of 20 June, I had the honour of enclosing to your Lordship a memorial presented by the Emigrant Inhabitants of Georgia respecting relief on that head.² I had applied for a naval force for this Province to all the naval Commanders: Lord Howe alone gave it a serious thought, and at a time when his Lordship was deeply engaged in the most important business, he did not overlook business of lesser concern, we are the more obliged to his Lordship for the mark of his attention.

CAPTAIN JOHN PAUL JONES TO JOSEPH HEWES

Honored Sir Alfred — Rhode Island 31st Octr 1776 —

I should have sailed from hence this Morning had I not been prevented by a Gale of Wind at S. E. with thick Weather — this is the first leisure time I have had Since my Arrival here in the Providence the 7th Current — And I with pleasure embrace it to acknowledge the Singular Obligations which I lay under to Mr Hewes. — Inclosed you have a short Account of my late Cruise. — When I put in here with the Providence as She had been four Months off the Ground my intention was to Scrub her bottom, repair her Sails and Rigging and proceed to Cruise off Sandy Hook and from thence return to Philada. I was prevented from this by the Commodore’s proposing to me to take Command of the present Expedition against the Coal Fleet of Cape Briton and Fishery of Newfoundland with the Alfred Hamden and Providence — I was at first induced to belive that this Small Squadron would be got ready in a Week — I got the Providence and Hamden ready within that time — but as I found the Alfred with only thirty Men after Much Application and loss of time to Enlist her Compliment I was Obliged to take all the Men out of the Providence and her prizes which made up my number to about an hundred and Forty — with this Small Force and the Hamden I was ready to proceed the 27th when the Hamden ran upon a Sunken Rock, and was so much damaged as to render her unfit for Immediate Service — this Misfortune obliged me to Shift Captn Hacker and all his Men into the Providence — and is, by a Second loss of time, a material drawback on my prospect of Success. — our Infant Navy is by no means well established nor under proper regulations every thing is to look for and provide when it is Immediately Wanted — So that the most advantagious Expedition may be lost thro’ detention — besides while Self Intrest prevails unless the private Emolument of individuals in our Navy is made equal if not Superiour to that of our Enemies, in these Iron times, we cannot hope to repel their Force —
I am informed, and have reason to believe it to be too true, that even some of the Gentlemen Appointed to fit out the New Frigates are concerned in Privateers and not only wink at, but encourage, and employ deserters from the Navy — What punishment is equal to such baseness? — and yet these men pretend to love their Country! — When I address my Sentiments to you with this freedom I consider you not as a Member of the grand state Counsel of a rising Empire — but as a private Gentleman of disinterested Candour and Penetration a Free Citizen of the World governed by the noblest of principles the good of mankind. — and since liberty hath chosen America as her last asylum every Effort to protect and cherish her is Noble and will be rewarded with the thanks of future ages — I am encouraged therefore to proceed as I know that you will not misconstrue my meaning —

I have long waited and that impatiently for the production of some abler pen — but my expectation is as wide of the goal now as at the beginning. — I return to my subject, the Navy requires to be newmodeled. — but this cannot be properly done by Gentlemen who are unconversant in marine affairs — their is no genius universal — and as the Congress hath such a complication of business to attend, they will at a period not far distant find it necessary to appoint Commissioners for each department. — the soul of a Navy depends on such an appointment. — an impartial Board of Admiralty compitant to determine the merits and abilities of every Officer and to Superintend regulate and direct every outfit and operation of the Marine Force would soon give firmness and stability to our Fleet and make it formidable even to Great Britain. — in the English Fleet tho' they impress the Seamen — the Crown gives up to the captors all they take and even allows them a bounty for several things with many other advantages over and above, and can America expect to raise from nothing a Navy able to repel this powerful enemy while she holds out scarce a third of the encouragement? — the supposition is absurd. —

The term of enlistment is now almost expired — and as a new one must follow — the entry ought in my opinion to be made “during pleasure” — give them all they take and they will agree to the condition. — thus the Navy will be brought under proper Subordination and will always be well manned with volunteers under good discipline — but this is not likely to be the case if the ensuing enlistment is made for a limited time. — both the Army and Fleet have experienced the evil effects of such enlistments already — and will experience worse consequences if the mode is not altered. — inclosed I send you a copy of a comparative state of wages in our navy and in English fifth rates — it was made out in New Hamshire and sent here by Captn [Joseph] Olney — it is a matter how'ever that doth not in any wise concern me. — as I have no family or dependents and probably never will have any — I am easily provided for and am not in the least uneasy on my own account, tho' to be sure as a Captn in the Navy ranks with a colonel his appointment ought to enable him to support that Rank. — As you will see my letters to Mr Morris I will add nothing more at present.

the Southern expedition Spoke of in my last to Mr Morris I mentioned to Govr [Stephen] Hopkins and he hath promised me his Intrest for that Command — it was unsolicited and therefore the greater favor — If I am thought worthy of that Honor I wish the A. Doria could be made one of the Squadron. — I was so far to the Eastward dureing the whole of my late Cruise that I hope an Apology is Unnessary for not Sending Prizes to Your State — I will not neglect it If I am fortunate hereafter — I hope to reach the Continent ajen before the Middle of Decr — I have the Honor to be with Perfect Esteem — Sir [&c.]

Windham, October 31, 1776.

Lieutenant William B. Alger to New York Provincial Convention

Gentlemen –

Fort Montgomery, October [31], 1776

Captain [Patrick] Dennis was speaking to me concerning raising a company of marines to enter on board the ship Montgomery, for her safety this winter. I make no doubt but he has acquainted the Convention of the same. I had some encouragement that I should have the birth, as our regiment will soon be disbanded, and our men will be idle. But what small encouragement I have had from Captain Dennis, I have engaged a company of very fine young men, a great part of them sailors and artillery men, who will go through all hardships with me. If you see cause to appoint me in that station, and send me the rate that they must engage under, I shall engage them instantly, as they wait for nothing else. Gentlemen, your compliance to this petition will very much oblige Your humble servant,

William B. Alger, Lieut.

NAVAL AND MARITIME MEDICINE DURING THE REVOLUTION

Maurice Bear Gordon, M.D.

_The Chirurgion is exempted from all duty but to attend the sicke, and cure the wounded, and good care Would be had, he have a certificate from the Barbersurgions Hall of his sufficiency, and also that his Chest bee well furnished both for Physicke and Chyrurgery, and so neer as may bee proper for that clime you goe for, which neglect hath beene the losse of many a mans life._

John Smith. An Accidence or The Path-way to Experience. _London, 1626._

The naval surgeon practiced in an entirely different environment from his colleagues ashore. For months on end he lived and worked with his patients as an integral member of a confining and self-contained community—the ship's company. Deep below the waterline of a wind and storm tossed vessel of war he performed his duties with the limited means at hand, and fought the grim battle of life and death. Besides the skills of his art and science, the naval surgeon had to possess an extra measure of zeal and courage.

At the outset of the Revolution and the beginnings of the war at sea, physicians to care for sick and wounded sailors, as well as surgical instruments and medicines, were in acutely short supply.

Readying for combat on Lake Champlain in August 1776; General Benedict Arnold in a letter to General Gates, expressed his concern about the scarcity of medical services:

> I arriv'd here [Crown Point] at 10 oClock last night much as I left Tyconderoga a little feverish but no ague Yet, a dose Phisick this afternoon I hope will set matters in order. I have applied to Doctr Sparham who (I believe) Cannot be persuaded to go with the Fleet—I don't think it prudent to go without a Surgeon, Lieut [Isaac Budd] Dunn acquaints me, that the Surgeons Mate of Coln. St Clair's Regt has a good Box Medicines & will Incline to go with the Fleet, I wish he could be sent here. . . I Can procure a Case of Capital Instruments for him here,—nothing but the Surgeon & some few articles I have sent a Boat for, prevents our proceeding . . .

Gates responded on 23 August:

> This will be deliver'd to you by Doctor [Stephen] McCrea, whom at the Recommendation of Doctor [Jonathan] Potts, I have appointed First Surgeon to the Fleet under your Command. he has Instruments & Medicines, two things much in request with you. Mr Francis Hagan accompany's Mr M'Crea as his Assistant Surgeon. I cannot procure any Instruments for him here, but wish you could hire Doctor Speram's for the Voyage. You are I am told acquainted with Doctor M'Crea. I am assured his Abilities are their Own Recommendation. . . .

Physicians in America in 1775 did not exceed thirty five hundred and of that number not more than four hundred actually had Doctor of Medicine degrees, primarily from European universities. Approximately fifty of the degree holding physicians were graduates of either of two American medical schools—the College of Philadelphia founded in 1765 (now the University of Pennsylvania Medical School) or King's College established two years later (now Columbia University Medical School). The course of military events compelled both institutions to stop instruction during the Revolution.

Most American physicians acquired the art of healing through an apprenticeship or preceptorial training. Many were well educated in areas other than medicine, and some were self-styled doctors who lacked formal training.

A Continental Congress resolve, 30 September 1776, showed official concern about the professional qualifications of military surgeons:

That it be recommended to the legislatures of the United States, to appoint gentlemen in their respective states, skilful in physic and surgery, to examine those who offer to serve as surgeons or surgeons’ mates in the army and navy; and that no surgeon or mate shall hereafter receive a commission or warrant to act as such, in the army or navy, who shall not produce a certificate from some or one of the examiners so to be appointed, to prove that he is qualified to execute the office:

American surgeons were influenced by European medical scholarship particularly from Scotland and England. Professional books and journals were received from abroad. Diagnosis and treatment must have been profoundly affected by the system of Hermann Boerhaave (1668–1738) and William Cullen’s (1710–1790) studies in pathology and nosology. The work of William Cheselden (1688–1752), Albrecht von Haller (1708–1777), Richard Mead (1673–1754), Percivall Pott (1714–1788), William Smellie (1697–1763), Gerhard van Swieten (1700–1772) and Thomas Sydenham (1624–1689) was not unknown to the patriot physicians of the Revolutionary generation.

The naval medical officer ministered to his shipmates whether in the heat of battle or in days of smooth sailing. Routinely, for example, he extracted abscessed teeth or removed growths from the surface of the body. A few hardy surgeons might operate for stones or cataracts, or attempt to patch a damaged skull.

1. See pages 205 and 283.
Theoretically and technically, surgery was not greatly advanced over the sixteenth century. The only major operations performed were amputations. Opening the abdominal cavity or thoracic cage was unknown. The discovery of effective anesthesia remained far in the distance, and the hemostatic forceps was not yet invented. Laudable pus, a whitish inodorous excretion thought to be essential to healing, was expected from every wound, and the physician was scarcely ever disappointed.

Seamen were not required to undergo a physical examination prior to enlistment. However, some attempt was made to sign on the physically fit as illustrated by this instruction promulgated in Maryland:

The Men enlisted must be able bodied and perfect in all thir Limbs and Sight of Sound Health without Ruptures or other visible Infirmities, above five Feet four Inches and above sixteen and under fifty years of age: and if above forty they must be of robust Constitution.

The reference to "Ruptures" [hernias] is quite understandable when the extreme physical labors demanded of the crew by a ship under sail is envisioned.

"Rules for the Regulation of the Navy of the United Colonies," prepared by John Adams and adopted by Congress on 28 November 1775, provided that in each ship:

A convenient place shall be set apart for sick or hurt men, to be removed with their hammocks and bedding when the surgeon shall advise the same to be necessary: and some of the crew shall be appointed to attend and serve them and to keep the place clean. The cooper shall make buckets with covers and cradles if necessary for their use. All ships furnished with fishing tackle, being in such places where fish is to be had, the Captain is to employ some of the company in fishing, the fish to be distributed daily to such persons as are sick, or upon recovery, if the surgeons recommend it . . .

The same regulations ranked the surgeon's assistant, that is, the Surgeon's Mate, with other "inferior Officers"—second master, cook, armourer, gunsmith, master at arms, and sail maker. A surgeon's pay was set at 21\% dollars per month; and Surgeon's Mate 13\% dollars.

Space provided on board ship as an operating room and battle dressing station was called the cockpit. Falconer's 1771 Marine Dictionary described the cockpit as "the apartments of the surgeon and his mates, being the place where the wounded men are dressed in time of battle, or otherwise. It is situated under the lower-deck." Dark, dismal and a malodorous area below the waterline for protection against battle damage, the cockpit, when not otherwise needed, served as quarters for the surgeon's mates, other mates, some midshipmen and civilian clerks. Their mess table became the operating table during battle.
Most shipboard diseases were caused by confined, often unsanitary, living conditions, and decayed or nonexistent basic foods. These combined made illness and death all too common. A prolonged voyage without a surgeon on board could well have ended in disaster.

British physician James Lind reported on 5,743 seamen received at Haslar Hospital between 1758 and 1760. Of this number, 2,174 were suffering from fevers, 1,146 with scurvy, 360 with consumption, 350 with rheumatism, and 245 with fluxes. These were, according to Lind, the most frequent and fatal diseases in the Royal Navy.

It was James Lind who in his work A Treatise of the Scurvy (1753) gave a lucid description of the disease and established scientifically the value of lemon juice. He undertook a crusade for the general use of lemon or lime juice on board all British men-of-war. However, almost another half century was to pass before his goal was realized.

Sir Gilbert Blane, a surgeon with the British fleet in the West Indies and on the North American station during the Revolution, compiled some illuminating statistics on illness and morbidity.

His study on health in the Royal Navy, and that of other English physicians, likely mirrored the conditions which existed in the Continental Navy.

Blane found the principal causes of shipboard illness and death, in all climates, were scurvy and fevers. To these he added dysentery which prevailed primarily, but not exclusively, in tropical latitudes. Likewise, he pointed out that although a very high incidence of scurvy existed among sailors, the disease was not confined to the sea. A victim of scurvy suffered from soft and bleeding gums, his teeth loosened, his breath was foul, and he developed swelling of the arms and legs.

Today we know that typhus fever is an acute specific infectious disease, occurring usually in epidemics, which is transmitted through the bite of an infected body louse or other insect. Blane wrote from on board H.M.S. Sandwich off Antigua in August 1780: "The means of preventing this sort of infection in a ship are chiefly fresh air and cleanliness, shelter from cold and wet, and keeping the ship from being too much crowded." Typhus is characterized by a sudden onset, a high fever of about two weeks duration and a termination by crisis; sudden improvement or decline.

The most adequate coverage of "ship fever" (typhus on shipboard) during the Revolution is presented by Doctor Robert Robertson of the Royal Hospital, Greenwich, England, in his book, *Observations on Jail, Hospital or Ship Fever, From the 4th April, 1776, until the 30th April 1789, made in various parts of Europe and America and on the Intermediate Seas."
Robertson concluded that ship fever is “an evil confined to no particular country or climate, but extending its fatal effects as far as we have either society or commerce.” He was fully convinced that the jail, the hospital and the ship fever “are essentially one and the same fever; and that they are to be cured by one and the same remedy, bark.” The “bark” to which Robertson made reference was Peruvian or Cinchona bark and was excised from a genus of rubiaceous trees, the species of which are native to South America. This bark has the same tonic, antiseptic and fever-reducing properties as the alkaloid quinine which it contains.

Serving in H.M.S. Juno, mostly in American waters, Doctor Robertson employed the following therapy:

It was not a general rule with me to let blood;—that depending solely on circumstances. A vomit was most commonly given at first; and if the patient was bled, the vomit was given a few hours after, and from xxv. to xi. drops of Essent. Antimon. with refrigerating and diluting drink at night. Next morning an ounce of salts was given, and the essence of antimony repeated in the evening. After those moderate evacuations (which were seldom repeated) I prescribed Cort. Peruv. 5i. or 5iss. every hour, until the patient was out of danger; and afterwards it was given less frequent, and at this time Elix. Vitr. was often joined with it. After I began to give the bark, I did not omit it for any exacerbation of the symptoms.

As he gained experience, Robertson came to rely more on the bark in larger frequent doses, and less on other forms of treatment. His general antipathy to routine bleeding as a therapeutic measure was years in advance of his time.

Bleeding was a standard therapy on land and at sea. James Lind in his Essay on the most effectual means of preserving the health of seamen in the Royal Navy . . . (1779) recommended dilating the external opening of wounds and bleeding the patient profusely and frequently. Then one was to employ “emollient clysters, cooling nitrous drinks, anodynes, most rigid diet consisting solely of thin, diluting drinks, perfect quiet and a proper posture.” Lind, however, suggested that bleeding was not suitable in tropical climates and warned against it.

Of the few medical writings produced in America, the most important to the naval surgeon was John Jones’ Plain, Concise, Practical Remarks on the Treatment of Wounds and Fractures (New York, 1775). Some of his salient principles may be summarized as follows:

Slight puncture wounds require no therapy; deep and tortuous ones should be incised and enlarged; inflammation is best counteracted by gentle laxatives, soft cataplasms, sudorific anodynes, bleeding and warm baths; opium is an essential adjunct of treatment; gangrene signifies the need of a more nourishing diet, spiritous fomentations and a more intensive use of the bark; abscesses need immediate incision and drainage; all transverse wounds are in need of interrupted suturing with a needle dipped in oil and following this a plaster is applied over the area for two or three days; in gunshot wounds, one should first remove the bullet and secondly control hemorrhage, and a light dressing should then be applied with a retention dressing on top; and all major compound fractures require immediate amputation.

Jones considered cardiac, aortic, cerebellar, medullary and receptaculum chyli wounds as fatal. Chest, abdominal, hepatic, pulmonary, intestinal and renal wounds were categorized as very serious.

The naval surgeon had a practical knowledge of current drug therapy which, as noted previously, favored cathartics, emetics, bark, opium blisters and blood letting. If fortunate, he owned a European pharmacopoeia or a copy of William Brown’s Pharmacopoeia Simpliciorum et Efficaciorum [Formulary of Simple and yet Efficacious Remedies]—the first American pharmacopoeia—published in Philadelphia in 1778. Sometimes referred to as the “Lititz Pharmacopoeia,” this work was compiled by Doctor Brown, Physician General of the Middle Department of the Continental Army, when stationed at the Army hospital, Lititz, Pennsylvania. Only readily available drugs were included, for the immediate military need would not permit seeking out rare medications.

An inventory taken on board the Continental frigate Raleigh in January 1778 lists the following surgeon’s instruments and supplies:

1. Case of Amputating Instruments
2. 2 Spare Silk Tourniquet Ligatures
3. 1 Green Nourse Skin Case containing 4 Lancets
4. 1 other Case containing 6 new Lancets
5. 5 Teeth Instruments
6. 1 Case Pocket Instruments
7. 2 Iron Spatulas
8. 1 Bolus Knife
9. 1 marble mortar & pestle
10. 1 Iron Ditto
11. 1 pair small Scales & weights
12. 1 Iron Plaister Ladle
13. 2 Pewter Porringers
14. 2 Copper Sauce pans
15. 1 Tin Kittle
16. 12 Pannakins

17. 4 Tin Sauce Pans
18. 2 Tin Funnels
19. 1 Pair Scissors
20. 1 Rheam wrapping paper
21. 6 n Pins
22. 6 Ells White Flannel
23. 12 yards red Baize
24. 30# [lbs.] Lint
25. 80# [lbs.] Old Linnen
26. 1 Box Combed Tow
27. 6 Fracture Boxes
28. 1 Large Chest containing Medicines, 1 large pewter Sirenge, pins tape thread,
29. 1 Set bandages, 3 small Sirenges, 12 Wooden Tournaqeuts, Cork &c
30. 1 Smaller Chest Medicines

The same inventory accounts for these “Refreshments for the Sick:”

1. 200 Barrels 400 pounds Oatmeal
2. 2 Casks 200 pounds Raisins
3. 1 Jarr 12 Gallons sweet Oyl
4. 1 Barrell 250 pounds sugar
5. 1 half Barrel 15 Gallons Claret Wine
6. 1 Keg 30 pounds Tamarinds
Rum was another therapeutic “refreshment.” Cinchona bark—with quinine as its active ingredient—was in such demand that this medication quadrupled in price between June 1776 and September 1777.

Cathartics and purgatives were the drugs most often prescribed. These included botanical preparations such as ipecac, rhubarb, and jalap as well as chemical preparations. Antimony and potassium tartrate were combined to form “tartar emetic” which was favored for effecting a rapid vomiting. When the naval surgeon felt that a narcotic pain reliever was indicated, he favored gum opium. When he desired the counter-irritation effect of blistering plasters, he favored those prepared from cantharides [Spanish flies]. For a variety of medicinal purposes surgeons prescribed mercury in metallic form as well as in certain salt compounds and nitre [saltpeter or potassium nitrate]. Gum camphor was also widely used. A favorite dressing consisted of lint which was absorbent material obtained by picking apart old woven fabrics, but this was in critically scarce supply.

The ledger of the Greenleaf Apothecary in Boston, an interesting document in the holdings of the American Antiquarian Society, reveals the shop was a major supplier of medicines to the Continental Navy, Washington’s Fleet, and privateers. This ledger also documents how severe shortages were eased by medicines captured in the cargoes of British prize ships.

“The forming of a seaman,” wrote Sir Gilbert Blane, “depends upon a long habit of life, so that if our stock of mariners were exhausted, or diminished, neither treasure nor any other means would repair the loss. In this view, as well as from the peculiar dependence of Britain upon her navy, this order of men is truly inestimable.” And, still other words of Sir Gilbert could have reflected the dedication of American and British sea-going surgeons of the Revolution: “I should not repent my labour, could I enjoy the conscious certainty of its having saved the life of one brave and good man.”

GOOD NEWS FOR AMERICA.

SALEM, TUESDAY, APRIL 16, 1776.

I have just received the following interesting Account of the Sudden of the Continental Fleet, under the Command of the Honourable and victorious Admiral Hopkins, in reducing to the Subjection of the Continent, the Fortresses of New-Jersey and New-England, the Capital of the Banana Islands. — Also of the signal Victory lately gained by the Same Commander, in an Engagement with the Minoritary Fleet, commanded by Capt. Wallace 5, in which the former, though not being more than half the Number of Plyflfl of the latter, and being very deep laden, took and destroyed Four out of Eight belonging to the Enemy's Squadron, and put the rest to Flight.

DAVID BUSHNELL AND THE SUBMARINE Turtle

[New York harbor in September 1776 was the scene of an unsuccessful but historic attempt to sink a large British warship (Eagle or Asia) by submarine attack. The ingenious submarine was the invention of David Bushnell, and the operator was Sergeant Ezra Lee; both of Connecticut.

Thomas Jefferson, displaying keen interest in Bushnell's submarine, wrote to Washington from Paris on 17 July 1785 asking the General's recollections on the subject. Washington replied on 26 September of the same year.

In October 1787 Bushnell sent Jefferson a detailed description of the Turtle and his underwater experiments. At the same time, Bushnell sent Ezra Stiles a copy of all material he had prepared for Jefferson.

Sergeant Lee recounted his experience on the night of the submerged attack in a letter to David Humphreys dated 20 February 1815.

These letters have been brought together to form this appendix.]

THOMAS JEFFERSON TO GEORGE WASHINGTON ¹

Sir

Paris July 17, 1785.

Permit me to add, what I forgot in my former letter, a request to you to be so kind as to communicate to me what you can recollect of Bushnell's experiments in submarine navigation during the late war, and whether you think his method capable of being used successfully for the destruction of vessels of war; it's not having been actually used for this purpose by us, who were so peculiarly in want of such an agent seems to prove it did not promise success. GEORGE WASHINGTON TO THOMAS JEFFERSON ¹

[Extract]

Mount Vernon 26th Sepr. 1785

I am sorry I cannot give you full information respecting Captn. Bushnell's projects for the destruction of shipping.—No interesting experiment having been made, and my memory being treacherous, I may, in some measure, be mistaken in what I am about to relate.

1499 Bushnel is a man of great Mechanical powers—fertile of invention—and a master in execution—He came to me in 1776 recommended by Governor Trumbull (now dead) and other respectable characters who were proselites to his plan.—Although I wanted faith myself, I furnished him with money, and other aids to carry it into execution.—He laboured for sometime ineffectually, & though the advocates for his scheme continued sanguine he never did succeed—One accident or another was always intervening.—I then thought, and still think, that it was an effort of genius; but that a combination of too many things were requisite, to expect much success from the enterprise against an enemy, who are always upon guard.—That he had a machine which was so contrived as to carry a man under water at any depth he chose, and for a considerable time & distance, with an apparatus charged with Powder which he could fasten to a ships bottom or side & give fire to in any given time (sufft. for him to retire) by means whereof a ship could be blown up, or sunk, are facts which I believe admit of little doubt—but then, where it was to operate against an enemy, it is no easy matter to get a person hardy enough to encounter the variety of dangers to which he must be exposed. I from the novelty 2 from the difficulty of conducting the machine, and governing it under water on acct. of the Currents &ca. 3 the consequent uncertainty of hitting the object of destination, without rising frequently above water for fresh observation, wch., when near the Vessel, would expose the adventurer to a discovery, & almost to certain death—To these causes I always ascribed the non-performance of his plan, as he wanted nothing that I could furnish to secure the success of it.—This to the best of my recollection is a true state of the case—But Humphreys, if I mistake not, being one of the proselites, will be able to give you a more perfect acct. of it than I have done....

DAVID BUSHENN to EZRA STILES

Stamford October 16th 1787.

Sir

Induced by the desire you intimated in your Letter to me, of seeing what I should write to his Excellency Governor Jefferson our Ambassador at Paris, I have together with this, inclosed a Copy of what I have sent to his Excellency. The Original is forwarded by Colonel Humphrys, a Gentleman to whom I am much indebted, who wrote more than once upon the affair, and to whose friendship, I have no doubt, I owe the attention of the Governor to the Subject, and his desire of information, agreeably to what you and Colonel Humphrys wrote long since.

I beg leave to thank you for your advice, and your kind offer to take the charge of forwarding my Letter to his Excellency. I could wish that what I have written should not come to the knowledge of the public, for the same reason, as I have written to the Governor, that I have ever wished to be silent upon the subject. Should what I have written to the Governor miscarry, I wish these might be ready to be forwarded to him, if I should be obliged to make use of them.

If you are desirous of any information which is not contained in this packet, I shall esteem it a favour, if you will give me the opportunity of satisfying you. Should you think proper to write to me or receive anything from His Excellency Governor Jefferson which respects me, I could wish they might be directed to the care of Major John Davenport in Stamford.
I am Sir &c.

David Bushnell

[Enclosures]

Stamford, In Connecticut Octr. 13th. 1787.

Sir

In the latter part of the year 1785, I received a Letter from Colonel David Humphrys, and soon after, another from Doctor Ezra Stiles, President of Yale College in Connecticut, informing me, that your Excellency desired an account of my Submarine Vessel, and the Experiments which I had made.

At the time I received those Letters, I was seized with a severe illness, which disabled me from writing, & though I attempted it several times, oblige de me to desist. Ever since I recovered my health, my situation has been such, that until this time, it has not been in my power to write to your Excellency, upon the Subject.

I shall think myself happy if this, arriving thus late, meet with your Excellency's acceptance, and give you the information you desired; and shall only regret, that I had it not in my power to write, as soon as I received the communications of those Gentlemen.

Doctor Stiles, in his Letter to me, transcribed from yours the following,
"If he thought proper to communicate it, I would engage never to disclose it, unless I could find an opportunity of doing it for his Benefit." In answer to this declaration, I shall submit the disclosure of it entirely to your Excellency, to do as you shall think proper; & beg leave to return you my sincere thanks for your generous intentions.

I have ever carefully concealed my Principles & Experiments, as much as the nature of the subject allowed, from all but my chosen Friends, being persuaded that it was the most prudent course, whether the event should prove fortunate or otherwise, although by the concealment I never fostered any great expectations of profit, or even of a compensation for my time & expences; the loss of which has been exceedingly detrimental to me.

With this your Excellency will receive a sketch of the general principles and construction of the Submarine Vessel blended together, as they occur at this time, with many of the Minutiae. I should gladly exhibit everything with the utmost minuteness, but apprehend I have not been sufficiently clear in what I have written, and have a doubt whether I could explain the whole intelligibly, without drawings, which I cannot easily execute or obtain. But should this not be sufficient, & you should wish to have a more minute description of the whole, or of any particular part not sufficiently explained here, I shall be happy to receive your Excellency's commands, and shall obey them, as soon as they come to hand, without any reserve.

As I am desirous this should not fall into improper hands, I could wish, if it were not too great a favour, to hear that this finds a safe conveyance to your Excellency.

In the mean time, with the most respectful sentiments, I am &c.
David Bushnell.

P.S. Should your Excellency think proper to inform me of the safe arrival of this packet, I could wish such information might be directed to the care of Doctor Stiles.
His Excellency Thomas Jefferson Esquire.

No. 2.
The external shape of the Submarine Vessel bore some resemblance to two upper tortoise shells of equal size, joined together: the place of entrance into the Vessel being represented by the opening, made by the swell of the shells, at the head of the animal. The inside was capable of containing the Operator, and air, sufficient to supply him, thirty minutes, without receiving fresh air. At the bottom, opposite to the entrance, was fixed a quantity of lead for ballast. At one edge, which was directly before the operator, who sat upright, was an oar, for rowing forward or backward. At the other edge, was a rudder for steering. An aperture, at the bottom, with its valve, was designed to admit water for the purpose of descending; & two brass forcing pumps served to eject the water within, when necessary for ascending. At the top, there was likewise an oar, for ascending or descending, or continuing at any particular depth. A Watergage or Barometer, determined the depth of descent, a compass directed the course, & a ventilator within, supplied the Vessel with fresh air, when on the surface.

The entrance into the Vessel was elliptical, and so small, as barely to admit a person. This entrance was surrounded with a broad elliptical iron band, the lower edge of which was let into the wood of which the body of the Vessel was made, in such a manner, as to give its utmost support to the body of the Vessel against the pressure of the water. Above the upper edge of this iron band, there was a brass Crown or cover, resembling a hat with its crown and brim, which shut watertight upon the iron band: the Crown was hung to the iron band with hinges so as to turn over sidewise, when opened: to make it perfectly secure when shut, it might be screwed down upon the band by the operator, or by a person without.

There were in the brass Crown, three round doors, one directly in front, and one on each side, large enough to put the hand through, when open they admitted the fresh air; their shutters were ground perfectly tight into their places, with emery, hung with hinges, & secured in their places when shut. There were likewise several small glass windows in the Crown, for looking through, and for admitting light in the daytime, with covers to secure them. There were two airpipes in the Crown. A ventilator within drew fresh air through one of the airpipes, and discharged it into the lower part of the Vessel: the fresh air introduced by the ventilator, expelled the impure light air through the other airpipe. Both airpipes were so constructed, that they shut themselves whenever the water rose near their tops, so that no water could enter through them, and opened themselves immediately after they rose above the water.

The Vessel was chiefly ballasted with lead, fixed to its bottom: when this was not sufficient, a quantity was placed within, more or less, according to the weight of the operator: its ballast made it so stiff, that there was no danger of oversetting. The Vessel with all its appendages, and the operator, was of sufficient weight to settle it very low in the water. About two hundred pounds of the lead at the bottom for ballast, could be let down forty or fifty feet below the Vessel: this enabled the operator to rise instantly to the surface of the water in case of accident.

When the operator would descend he placed his foot upon the top of a brass valve, depressing it, by which he opened a large aperture in the bottom of the Vessel, through which the water entered at his pleasure. When he had admitted a sufficient quantity, he descended very gradually; if he admitted too much, he ejected as much as was necessary to obtain an equilibrium, by the two brass forcing pumps, which were placed at each hand. Whenever the Vessel leaked or he would ascend to the surface, he also made use of these forcing pumps. When the skilful operator had obtained an equilibrium, he could row upward, or downward, or continue at any particular depth, with an oar, placed near the top of the Vessel, formed upon the principle of the screw, the axis of the oar entering the Vessel: by turning the oar one way he raised the Vessel, by turning it the other way he depressed it.

A glass tube eighteen inches long, and one inch in diameter, standing upright, its upper end closed, and its lower end, which was open, screwed into a brass pipe, through which the external water had a passage into the glass tube, served as a Watergage or Barometer. There was a piece of cork, with phosphorus on it, put into the Watergage: When the Vessel descended, the water rose in the watergage, condensing the air within, and bearing the cork, with its phosphorus, on its surface. By the light of the phosphorus, the ascent of the water in the gage was rendered visible, and the depth of the Vessel under water ascertained by a graduated line.

An oar, formed upon the principle of the screw, was fixed in the foremost part of the Vessel, whose axis entered the Vessel, which being turned one way, rowed the Vessel forward, and being turned the other way, rowed it backward: it was made to be turned by hand or foot.

A rudder, hung to the hinder part of the Vessel, commanded it with the greatest ease. The rudder was made very elastick, and might be used for rowing forward. Its tiller was within the Vessel, at the operator's right hand, fixed, at a right angle, on an iron rod, which passed through the side of the Vessel; the rod had a crank on its outside end, which commanded the rudder, by means of a rod extending from the end of the crank to a kind of tiller, fixed upon the left hand of the rudder. Raising & depressing the first mentioned tiller turned the rudder, as the case required.

A compass marked with phosphorus directed the course, both above and under the water; & a line and lead founded the depth when necessary.

The internal shape of the Vessel, in every possible section of it, verged towards an ellipsis, as near as the design would allow, but every horizontal section, although elliptical, as near a circle, as could be admitted. The body of the Vessel was made exceedingly strong; and to strengthen it as much as possible, a firm piece of wood was framed, parallel to the conjugate diameter, to prevent the sides from yielding to the great pressure of the incumbent water in a deep immersion. This piece of wood was also a seat for the operator.

Every opening was well secured. The pumps had two sets of valves. The aperture at the bottom, for admitting water was covered with a plate perforated full of holes to receive the water, and prevent anything from choking the passage, or stopping the valve from shutting. The brass valve might likewise be forced into its place with a screw, if necessary. The airpipes had a kind of hollow sphere, fixed round the top of each, to secure the airpipe-valves from injury; these hollow spheres were perforated full of holes for the passage of the air through the pipes: within the airpipes were shutters to secure them, should any accident happen to the pipes, or the valves on their tops.

Whenever the external apparatus passed through the body of the Vessel, the joints were round and formed by brass pipes, which were driven into the wood of the Vessel; the holes through the pipes were very exactly made, and the iron rods which passed through them were turned in a lathe to fit them; The joints were also kept full of oil to prevent rust and leaking. Particular attention was given to bring every part, necessary for performing the operations, both within and without the Vessel, before the operator, and as convenient as could be devised: so that every thing could be found in the dark, except the watergage, and the compass, which were visible by the light of the phosphorus, and nothing required the operator to turn to the right hand, or the left, to perform anything necessary.

Description of a Magazine & its appendages, designed to be conveyed by the submarine Vessel to the bottom of a Ship.

In the forepart of the brim of the Crown of the Submarine Vessel, was a socket, and an iron tube passing through the socket; the tube stood upright, and could slide up and down in the socket, six inches: at the top of the tube, was a Woodscrew (A) fixed by means of a rod, which passed through the tube, and screwed the Woodscrew fast upon the top of the tube: by pushing the Woodscrew up against the bottom of a Ship, and turning it at the same time, it would enter the planks; driving would answer the same purpose; when the Woodscrew was firmly fixed, it could be cast off by unscrewing the rod, which fastened it upon the top of the tube.

Behind the Submarine Vessel, was a place, above the rudder, for carrying a large Powder Magazine; this was made of two pieces of oak timber, large enough, when hollowed out, to contain one hundred and fifty pounds of Powder, with the apparatus used in firing it, and was secured in its place by a screw, turned by the operator. A strong piece of rope extended from the magazine to the Woodscrew (A) abovementioned, and was fastened to both. When the Woodscrew was fixed, and to be cast off from its tube, the Magazine was to be cast off likewise by unscrewing it, leaving it hanging to the Woodscrew: it was lighter than the water that it might rise up against the object, to which the Woodscrew and itself were fastened.

Within the Magazine, was an apparatus, constructed to run any proposed length of time under twelve hours; when it had run out its time, it unpinioned a strong lock resembling a gun lock, which gave fire to the powder. This apparatus was so pinioned, that it could not possibly move till, by casting off the Magazine from the Vessel, it was set in motion.

The skilful operator could swim so low on the surface of the water, as to approach very near a Ship, in the Night, without fear of being discovered, and might if he chose, approach the stem or stern, above water, with very little danger. He could sink very quick, keep at any depth he pleased, and row a great distance, in any direction he desired, without coming to the surface; & when he rose to the surface, he would soon obtain a fresh supply of air, when, if necessary, he might descend again and pursue his course.

The above Vessel, Magazine &c. were projected in the year 1771, but not completed until the year 1775.

"Experiments made to prove the nature and use of a Submarine Vessel."
No. 3.
The first experiment I made, was with about two ounces of gunpowder, which I exploded four feet under water, to prove to some of the first Personages in Connecticut, that powder would take fire under water.

The second experiment was made with two pounds of powder, inclosed in a wooden bottle, and fixed under a hogshead, with a two inch oak plank between the hogshead and the powder; the hogshead was loaded with stones as deep as it could swim; a wooden pipe descending through the lower head of the hogshead, & through the plank into the powder contained in the bottle, was primed with powder. A match put to the priming exploded the powder, which produced a very great effect, rending the plank into pieces, demolishing the hogshead, and casting the stones and ruins of the hogshead, with a body of water many feet into the air, to the astonishment of the spectators. This experiment was likewise made for the satisfaction of the Gentlemen abovementioned.

I afterwards made many experiments of a similar nature; some of them with large quantities of powder; they all produced very violent explosions, much more than sufficient for any purpose I had in view.

In the first essays with the submarine Vessel, I took care to prove its strength to sustain the great pressures of the incumbent water when sunk deep, before I trusted any person to descend much below the surface: and I never suffered any person to go under water without having a strong piece of rigging made fast to it, until I found him well acquainted with the operations necessary for his safety. After that I made him descend and continue at particular depths, without rising or sinking, row by the compass, approach a Vessel, go under her, and fix the Woodscree, mentioned in No 2, and marked A, into her Bottom, &c. until I thought him sufficiently expert to put my design into execution.

I found agreeably to my expectation, that it required many trials to make a person of common ingenuity, a skilful operator. The first I employed was very ingenious and made himself master of the business, but was taken sick in the campaign of 1776 at N. York, before he had an opportunity to make use of his skill, and never recovered his health sufficiently afterwards.

Experiments made with a submarine Vessel.

After various attempts to find an operator to my wish, I sent one, who appeared more expert than the rest, from N. York to a fifty gun Ship lying not far from Governour's Island. He went under the Ship and attempted to fix the Woodscree into her bottom, but struck as he supposes, a bar of iron, which passes from the rudder hinge and is spiked under the Ship's quarter. Had he moved a few inches, which he might have done without rowing, I have no doubt, but he would have found wood, where he might have fixed the screw; or if the Ship were sheathed with copper, he might easily have pierced it: but, not being well skilled in the management of the Vessel, in attempting to move to another place, he lost the Ship. After seeking her in vain, for sometime, he rowed some distance, and rose to the surface of the water, but found daylight had advanced so far, that he durst not renew the attempt.

He says that he could easily have fastened the Magazine under the Stern of the Ship, above water, as he rowed up to the stern, and touched it, before he descended. Had he fastened it there, the explosion of one hundred and fifty pounds of powder, the quantity contained in the Magazine, must have been fatal to the Ship. In his return from the Ship to N. York, he passed near Governor's Island, and thought he was discovered by the Enemy, on the Island; being in hast to avoid the danger he feared, he cast off the magazine, as he imagined it retarded him, in the swell, which was very considerable. After the Magazine had been cast off, one hour, the time the internal apparatus was set to run, it blew up with great violence.

Afterwards there were two attempts made in Hudson's River above the City, but they effected nothing. One of them was by the aforementioned person. In going toward the Ship, he lost sight of her, and went a great distance beyond her, before he found her; when he arrived, the tide ran so strong, that as he descended under water, for the Ship's bottom, it swept him away. Soon after this, the Enemy went up the river, and pursued the boat, which had the submarine Vessel on board, and sunk it, with their shot. After I recovered the Vessel, I found it impossible, at that time to prosecute the design any farther. I had been in a bad state of health from the beginning of my undertaking, and was now very unwell; the situation of public affairs was such, that I despaired of obtaining the public attention, and the assistance necessary. I was unable to support myself, and the persons I must have employed, had I proceeded. Beside I found it absolutely necessary, that the operators should acquire more skill in the management of the Vessel, before I could expect success; which would have taken up sometime, and made no small additional expence. I therefore gave over the pursuit, for that time, and waited for a more favourable opportunity, which never arrived.

Other Experiments made with a design to fire Shipping.

In the year 1777, I made an attempt, from a Whaleboat, against the Cerberus Frigate, then lying at anchor, between Connecticut River & New London, by drawing a Machine against her side, by means of a line. The Machine was loaded with powder, to be exploded by a gunlock, which was to be unpinioned by an apparatus, to be turned by being brought along the side of the Frigate. This Machine fell in with a schooner, at anchor astern of the Frigate, & concealed from my sight. By some means or other it was fired, and demolished the schooner, and three men, and blew the only one left alive, overboard, who was taken up very much hurt.

After this, I fixed several Keggs under water, charged with powder, to explode upon touching anything, as they floated along with the tide: I set them afloat in the Delaware, above the English shipping at Philadelphia, in December 1777. I was unacquainted with the River, and obliged to depend upon a Gentleman, very imperfectly acquainted with that part of it, as I afterwards found. We went as near the shipping as he durst venture; I believe the darkness of the night greatly deceived him, as it did me. We set them adrift, to fall with the ebb upon the Shipping. Had we been within sixty rods, I believe they must have fallen in with them immediately as I designed; but, as I afterwards found, they were set adrift much too far distant, and did not arrive, until after being detained some time by frost, they advanced in the day time, in a dispersed situation, and under great disadvantage. One of them blew up a boat, with several persons in it, who imprudently handled it too freely, and thus gave the British that alarm, which brought on the battle of the Keggs.

David Bushnell

Ezra Lee to David Humphreys

Lyme 20th Feby 1815.

Dr. Sir,

Judge Griswold, & Charles Griswold Esq. both informed me that you wished to have an account of a machine invented by David Bushnell of Say. Brook, at the commencement of our Revolutionary war. In the summer of 1776, he went to New York with it to try the Asia man of war:—his brother being acquainted with the working of the machine, was to try the first experiment with it, but having spent until the middle of August, he gave out, in consequence of indisposition.—Mr. Bushnell then came to General Parsons (of Lyme) to get some one to go, and learn the ways & mystery of this new machine, and to make a trial of it.

General Parsons, sent for me, & two others, who had given in our names to go in a fire ship if wanted, to see if we would undertake the enterprise:—we agreed to it, but first returned with the machine down Sound, and on our way practised with it in several harbours.—we returned as far back as Say-Brook with Mr Bushnell, where some little alterations were made in it— in the course of which time, (it being 8 or 10 days) the British had got possession of Long Island & Governor's Island—We went back as far as New Rochelle and had it carted over by land to the North River.—

Before I proceed further, I will endeavour to give you some idea of the construction of this machine, turtle or torpedo, as it has since been called.—

(1) Its shape was most like a round clam, but longer, and set up on its square side—it was high enough to stand in or sit as you had occasion, with a (2) composition head hanging on hinges.—it had six glasses, inserted in the head, and made water tight, each the size of a half Dollar piece, to admit light—in a clear day, a person might see to read in three fathoms of water—

The machine was steered by a rudder having a crooked tiller, which led in by your side, through a water joint.—(3) then sitting on the seat, the navigator rows with one hand, & steers with the other—it had two oars, of about 12 inches in length, & 4 or 5 in width, shaped like the arms of a wind-mill, which led also inside through water joints, in front of the person steering, and were worked by means of a wench (or crank) and with hard labour, the machine might be impelled at the rate of 3 nots an hour for a short time—Seven hundred pounds of lead were fixed on the bottom for ballast, and two hundred weight of it was so contrived, as to let it go in case the pumps choked, so that you could rise at the surface of the water.—It was sunk by letting in water by a spring near the bottom, by placing your foot against which, the water would rush in and when sinking take off your foot & it would cease to come in & you would sink no further, but if you had sunk too far, pump out water untill you got the necessary depth—these pumps forced the water out at the bottom, one being on each side of you as you rowed—A pocket compass was fixed in the side, with a piece of light (4) wood on the north side, thus +, and another on the east side thus —, to steer by while under water—Three round doors were cut in the head, (each 3 inches diameter) to let in fresh air, untill you wished to sink, and then they were shut down & fastened—There was also a glass tube (5) 12 inches long and 1 inch diamater, with a cork in it, with a peice of light wood, fixed to it, and another peice at the bottom of the tube, to tell the depth of descent,—one inch rise of the cork in the tube gave about one fathom water.—It had a screw, that peirced through the top of the machine, with a water joint, which was so very sharp that it would enter wood, with very little force, and this was turned with a wench, or crank, and when entered fast in the bottom of the ship, the screw is then left, and the machine is disengaged, by unscrewing another one inside that held the other. From the screw now fixed on the bottom of the ship, a line—led to & fastened to the magazine, to prevent its escape either side of the ship—the magazine was directly behind you on the outside, and that was faced from you by unscrewing a screw inside—Inside the magazine was a clock machinery, which immediately sets a going after it is disengaged & a gun lock is fixed to strike fire to the powder, at the set time after the Clock should rundown—The clock might be set to go longer or shorter—20 or 30 minutes was the usual time, to let the navigator escape—This magazine was shaped like an egg, & made of oak dug out in two pieces, bound together with bands of iron, corked & paid over with tar so as to be perfectly tight, and the clock was bound so as not to run untill this magazine was unscrewed—

I will now endeavour to give you a short account of my voyage in this machine.—The first night after we got down to NewYork with it, that was favourable, (for the time for a trial, must be, when it is slack water, & calm, as it is unmanagable in a swell or a strong tide) the British Fleet lay a little above Staten Island We set off from the City—the Whale boats towed me as nigh the ships, as they dared to go, and then cast me off—I soon found that it was too early in the tide, as it carried me down by the ships—I however rove about, and rowed for 5 glasses, by the ships’ bells, before the tide slacked so that I, could get along side of the man of war, which lay above the transports—The Moon was about 2 hours high, and the daylight about one—when I rowed under the stern of the ship, could see the men on deck, & hear them talk—I then shut down all the doors, sunk down, and came under the bottom of the ship, up with the screw against the bottom but found that it would not enter— (6) I pulled along to try another place, but deviated a little one side, and immediately rode with great velocity, and come above the surface 2 or 3 feet between the ship and the daylight—then sunk again like a porpoise I have partly about to try again, but on further thought I gave out, knowing, that as soon as it was light the ships boats would be rowing in all directions, and I thought the best generalship, was to retreat, as fast as I could as I had 4 miles to go, before passing Governor’s Island.—So I jogg’d on as fast as I could, and my compass being then of no use to me, I was obliged to rise up every few minutes to see that I sailed in the right direction, and for this purpose keeping the machine on the surface of the water, and the doors open—I was much afraid of getting aground on the island as the Tide of the flood set on the north point While on my passage up to the City, my course owing to the above circumstances, was very crooked & zig zag, and the enemy’s attention was drawn towards me, from Governors Island—When I was abreast of the fort on the island 3 or 400 men got upon the parapet to observe me,—at leangth a number came down to the shore, shoved off a 12 oar’d barge, with 5 or 6 sitters, and pull’d for me—I eyed them, and when they had got within 50 or 60 yards of me, I let loose the magazine, in hopes, that if they should take me, they would likewise pick up the magazine, and then we should all be blown up together, but as kind Providence would have it, they took fright, and returned to the island, to my infinite joy.—I then weathered the Island, and our people seeing me, came off with a whaleboat, and towed me in—The Magazine after getting a little past the Island, went off with a tremendous explosion, throwing up large bodies of water to an immense height. (7)

Before we had another opportunity to try an experiment our army evacuated Newyork, and we retreated up the North River as far as fort Lee—A Frigate came up and anchored off Bloomingdale. I now made another attempt upon a new plan—my intention was to have gone under the ship's stern, and screwed on the magazine close to the water's edge, but I was discovered by the Watch and was obliged to abandon this scheme, then shutting my doors, I dove under her, but my cork in the tube, (by which I ascertained my depth) got obstructed, and deceived me, and I descended too deep & did not track the ship, and I then left her—Soon after the Frigate came up the river, drove our Crane galley on shore, and sunk our Sloop, from which we escaped to the shore—

I am &c. E. Lee.

For General David Humphreys—

(1) This machine was built of oak, in the strongest manner possible, corked and tarred, and though its sides were at least six inches thick, the writer of the forgoing, told me that the pressure of the water, against it, at the depth of two fathoms was so great, that it oozed quite through, as mercury will by means of the air pump. Mr. Bushnell's machine was no larger than just to admit one person to navigate:—its extreme length was not more than 7 feet.—When lying in the water, in its ordinary state without ballasts, its upper works did not rise more than 6 or 7 inches out of water—

(2) This composition head, means of composition of Metals—something like bell metal, and was fixed on the top of the machine, and which afforded the only admission to the inside—

(3) The steering of this machine was done on the same principles, with ordinary vessels, but the rowing her through the water, was on a very different plan—These oars, were fixed on the end of a shaft like windmill arms, projected out, forward, and turned at right angles with the course of the machine, and upon the same principles that windmill arms are turned, by the wind these oars, when put in motion as the writer describes, draws the machine slowly after it—this moving power is small, and every attendant circumstance, must cooperate with it, to answer the purpose, calm waters & no current—

(4) This light wood is what we sometimes call fox fire, and is the dry wood that shines in the dark:—this was necessary as the points of the compass could not readily be seen without—

(5) The glass tube here mentioned, which was a sort of thermometer, to ascertain the depth of water the machine descended, is the only part that is without explanation—the writer of the forgoing, could not recollect the principles on which such an effect, was produced, nor the mechanical contrivance of it—He only knows that it was so contrived that the cork & light wood rose or fell in the tubes, by the ascent or descent of the machine—

(6) The reason why the screw would not enter, was that the ship's bottom being coppered it would have been difficult under any circumstances to have peirced through it—but on attempting to bore with the auger, the force necessary to be used in pressing against the ships bottom, caused the machine to rebound off. this difficulty defeated the whole.—the screw could not enter the bottom, and of course the magazine could not be kept there in the mode desired—

(7) When the explosion took place, General Putnam was vastly pleased, and cried out in his picurial way—"God's curse 'em, that'll do it for 'em." 2

APPENDIX C

"THE WAR IN AMERICA 1776 ORIGINAL MANUSCRIPT JOURNAL BY ADMIRAL SIR GEORGE COLLIER." 1

[Extract]

Rather than a journal, Sir George Collier's experiences in H.M.S. Rainbow on the American station seem to be a series of letters, but to whom addressed is not apparent. The opening pages are missing, and then follow three pages describing cod fishing on the Newfoundland Banks.

The missing pages of the Journal may be paraphrased from a volume published in New York in 1835 entitled: A Detail of Some Particular Services Performed in America During the years 1776, 1777, 1778, and 1779. Compiled from Journals and original Papers, Supposed to be Chiefly taken from the Journal kept on board the Ship Rainbow, Commanded by Sir George Collier. The title page further states: "Printed for Ithiel Town From a manuscript obtained by him, while in London, in the summer of 1830." As Town, in his introduction, or "Advertisement," claims that he was presenting "a true copy," it is evident that he had purchased "at a public sale of autographs and manuscripts," some unknown author's monograph prepared from the original Journal.

[From the Town volume]

The rebellion in America was come to so alarming a height, as threatened the entire loss of that continent to Great Britain, unless the most vigorous and effectual means were used to suppress it. Government, therefore, determined upon sending out a force so considerable, as should at once put an end to the machinations and evil designs of the king's enemies, and restore peace to that distracted country.

To carry this measure into execution, and to avoid sending away so great a number of the national troops, as would be necessary to effect it, a treaty with the Landgrave of Hesse was entered into, for his supplying Great Britain with a stipulated number of men, at a certain rate, whose deficiency by deaths, desertion, or any other cause, was to be supplied occasionally from Hesse; paying the prince for every soldier who should be killed in battle, or die by sickness, from the time of their leaving Germany till their return to it.

In consequence of this agreement, a number of transports, necessary to receive the first division of the Hessian troops, was sent to Stadt, where they accordingly embarked, and arrived at Spithead the beginning of May, 1776.

This first division consisted of 7,800 Hessians, and were commanded by Lieutenant-General De Heister, with some other General officers under him; together with a numerous and well-appointed train of artillery, wagons, field equipage, and every other necessary preparation for taking the field. To these were added 1,000 of the English guards, under Colonel [Edward] Matthews, who, on the arrival of the Hessian troops at Spithead, immediately embarked in transports prepared for them.

Sir George Collier, in the Rainbow of 44 guns, Commodore Hotham, in the Preston of 50 guns, and four other men-of-war were appointed to escort this formidable force to America. The fleet having completed their water and provisions, and the wind admitting of their sailing, they left Spithead about the 20th of May, amounting in all to ninety-two sail, eighty-six of which were transports, and the rest men-of-war.

It was to be lamented that these troops were not ready to sail for America by the beginning of March, as it was the difference to Great Britain of almost a campaign. The easterly winds which prevail from February to the middle of May, would probably have made the passage out a very short one; and besides arriving in health from that cause, they would have been ready to take the field almost as soon as they sailed from Spithead. But by the injudicious protraction of their departure so late, they were subjected to contrary winds and calms, which made the voyage more than double what, in the other case, it would probably have been, and occasioned so powerful a reinforcement to be of very little use that year, by their arriving so late in the campaign.

The incidents of the voyage are little worth mentioning, except that some of the transports, by thick weather and other causes, separated from their convoy; the fogs on the banks of Newfoundland making it very difficult for the fleet to keep together. This disagreeable impediment continued till they arrived off the coast of Nova Scotia, and it was then found, upon coming into clear day light, that about seventeen sail of the convoy were missing.

[Collier's Journal begins]

Before the last War the French Newfoundland Fishery was pretty nearly equal to ours, but since we have taken away so much Country, & pent em up in such Narrow bounds, we have encreasd in the same proportion they have lost; at present from the best Informaiton I can get I apprehend our Fishery is double to that of the French, & that when this unhappy War with America broke out we catchd about 650,000 Quintals, three fourths of which we exported to Spain, Italy, & other Catholic Countries, the produce of which was not less than 300,000 Pounds, clear Profit every Year to England —how it may stand at present I know not but I think, the War must have advantaged rather than have hurt the Fishery of G.B. as the Americans are utterly excluded for the present, from participating in the Advantages arising from it.

We have again struck Soundings, & from the depth of Water & the Nature of the Ground, must have been within 5 or 6 Miles of that very dangerous Island, Sable whereon so many Mercht Ships are lost—the fogs have been for some Days so extremely thick, that it has made a continual Night, & what is more extraordinary have deadend Sounds So much, that the Sound of a Cannon cou’d not be heard 2 Miles off—it is not only unpleasant & uncomfortable but really unsafe to grope out the Road in the Dark in the manner we are forced to do, especially as we are drawing near Dangers, & a Coast I am totally unacquainted with

Tho' I have taken every Precaution to preserve the Health of my People, I am concerned to find many Cases have answered so indifferently—I have now Threescore on the Sick List occasioned by these penetrating Fogs, & there are some of em in great Danger, I hope a few Days more will bring us to Halifax that we may once more see Day light & clear Weather—

I have been seized with the Fever that has prevailed & was confin'd a fortnight with a most severe illness; this is the first Time I have ventured out of my Cabin, & am reduc'd very low; we are at this Moment off the Harbour of Halifax, but from the Intelligence I rece'd from a Schooner an Hour ago, & which I have sent to the Commodore, I imagine He will not go into Port, but proceed in Search of Lord Howe & the General who are gone with the Troops to New York. This will be a grievous Disappointment to Many, but I am most sorry on Account of the Sick, who will suffer greatly by being forced to continue at Sea perhaps a Month longer; but there is no repining when the Kings Service makes the Measure necessary; here it is apparently so, as the going into the Harbor would occasion a Delay of a Week or 10 Days at least.

The Commodore (as I supposed) has sent me word He means immediately to proceed for New York, & He has made the Signal for the Masters of Merchantmen, to give em directions accordingly—We are just joined by the [Carcass] Bomb & 15 Sail of Transports who parted Company at different Times, [during] the Fog—the Hospital Ship is still missing, & we are apprehensive She is lost upon the Isle of Sable, as she was last seen very near it, & the wind blowing fresh—She will be a considerable Loss to the Fleet, & Government perhaps will wish they had not ordered a considerable Sum of Money on board her, which to the universal Surprise of everybody was sent down at Portsmouth, as she has not Men sufficient to work her, & must be ill navigated, & if attacked by a couple of Privateers not calculated to make any Defence—

It is now 5 Weeks since we sail'd from Halifax, for New York, & have not yet achiv'd our Passage nor know I when we shall; Storms Calms & Currents have been our Foes, & drove us I know not where for by the Reckonings we ought to have gained our Port a Fortnight ago—The Troops begin to be Sickly, & the Hessian General peevish & discontented, yet how vain is Mankind against the Elements, & how little will it avail; for my Part without pretending to more Philosophy than my Neighbours, I am certainly tranquil at the unexpected length of the Passage, & my Impatience I feel to get into Port arises from my Concern for the Sick People, & for the Welfare of my Country who must suffer extremely from this unfortunate Delay.

Indeed I have another very material Reason for wishing to get into some Harbor, & that is to recruit our Water of which we have but a very small Quantity remaining, tho' every body has been at a Quart a Man, from the Day we left Halifax

You will wonder to hear that all the Water I have us'd at my Table since leaving England has been as limpid & as pure as what Moses procurd
the Child[re]n of Israel from the Rock; we have without a Miracle as excellent a Rill of Water every Day, as the Earth can furnish; not to keep You longer in suspense I have a Still on board by which I procure a certain Quantity of Fresh Water from Salt Water, every Day, from 10 Galls to 30 it is considerable lighter than any other Water in the World & consequently more wholesome, it washes, & Shaves, & has every superior Property to other Water, & I absolutely esteem it the greatest Discovery of the present Age

We are at length arrivd at our Place of Destination & have join’d our Friends; a bad Pilot run my Ship aground at the entrance of the River leading to New York, but fortunately the Water was smooth & little Wind, so that we got off without any Damage—I had soon afterwards a Message from Lord Howe to take the Charge of the Men of War & Transports that were left below the Narrows, as Commodore Hotham was gone up to join the Vice Admiral off Staten Island Every Thing breathes the Appearance of War the Number of Transports are incredible I believe there are more than 500 of different kinds, besides the Kings Ships—a Force so formidable would make the first Power in Europe tremble; Genl Howes army with the Reinforcement we have brot Him, consists of 23 Thousand effective Men, besides an Artillery more considerable than were ever brought before into the Field—we have various Accounts of the Force of the Rebels, some make em 60 Thousand others not more than half that Number; but let their Force be what it will, it never can stand against veteran Troops commanded by the best Officers in Europe & supported by a respectable Fleet of Thirty Men of War of different Sizes.

I have just been viewing some of the Batterys of the Enemy erected towards the Sea, & which tis imagind the Men of War are to attack; We are too far off to form much Judgmt. about ’em, they are said to be no less than 13 with [sentence unfinished]

Poor old Genl (de Heister) the Com[mande]r of the Hessian Troops is quite Tird & dispiritied with the length of his Voyage; He has wrote a letter to the Commodore in wh He says ["]I have been deceivd by false Representations, for I was assurd that the Voyage woud not be longer than 5 or perhaps 6 Weeks; I have been embarkd already no less than 13 Weeks, & yet See no end to it, or a Probability of our landing—I am a poor old Man covered with Wounds & Infirmities, & shall die if I remain out much longer &c &c["] the Commodore begd of me to visit the old Veteran to comfort Him, which I did, having orderd a side of Mutton & some poultry to be put in the Boat, as I understood his fresh Provisions were exhausted—the old General receivd me in the Civilest manner He was capable of & obliged me to swallow repeated Potations of very good Hock to the Healths of our Sovereigns our Friends in Europe &c &c, this joind to the Musick of his Band which He called for exhilerated the old Gentlemans Spirits so much that He entirely forgot his Distresses, & Inconveniences & seemd perfectly Happy; I concluded my Visit rather sooner than I perhaps might have done fearing the Strength of his Hock which He pushed about without intermis-sion.
New York 12 Augt [1776]

We are at length arrivd at this Place with most of the Convoy, but in coming in an unskilful Pilot run my Ship aground upon one of the Sands; there was luckily a very light Breeze of Wind & no Swell so we got off without Damage, & anchord with all the Convoy below the narrows & about 15 or 16 Miles from New York; we are in Sight of Lord Howes Flag, & Admiral Shuldhams, but the Numbers of Transports, Victuallers, &c are not to be counted appearing as thick as Trees in a Forest—the Hyde Packet Boat is just getting under Sail for England, so that I shall close this Letter to forward by Her; the incidents of a Sea Voyage are seldom replete with amusing Matter, & I fear that mine will afford no great Entertainment to You; it will however be a proof of my Remembrance, as I woud also have it of the warm Friendship & Respect with which I shall ever remain &c &c

Letter 7th

By the Hyde Packet I gave You an Acct of my arrival at New York which I hope will reach you I now go on with the narrative of our Proceedings.

Lord Howe having sent me Orders to join Him with the Convoy, I made the Signal for weighing, & in a short Time anchd off Staten Island near the Eagle, on which Ship his Lordships Flag is Flying. Every Thing breathes the Appearance of War, the Transports & Victuallers &c are extremely numerous I suppose (exclusive of the Kings Ships) there are 400 Sail, wh are protected by 33 Sail of Men of War. Genl Howes Army with the Reinforcements He has just receivd are not less than 24,000 Men besides an Artillery more considerable than was ever brought before into the Field. The Force of the Rebels is variously reported some making them 35 Thousand, & others averring they dont exceed 16 Thousand; I presume we shall know more exactly eer long, as the Genl will doubtless immediately, attack Washington, & as our Troops are veterans, & the finest in the World, Victory must declare for us, & if proper measures are pursued the Rebellion will very soon terminate.

The Troops I escorted here remaind the whole Voyage surprisingly Healthy; this was the more extraordinary considering we were 14 Weeks on our Passage—that few of em had ever seen the Sea before, & being Foreigners were naturally dirty, & unusd to the ways of a Ship; the Guards also arrivd with scarce a Man sick.

The Hessians were immediately landed, & formed a small separate Camp upon Staten Island; their Sick at that Time were not more than Thirty but wh was very extraor[dnary]ly they had not been a Week on Shore before there was between 7 & 800 Men very ill, with Fevers, Diarrhea, & Scurvvy, wh latter did not shew itself during our long Voyage tho' it did immediately on coming ashore.

I see with Indignation & Concern, the Rebel Colors insolently waving on the Batterys of New York, (which is about 6 Miles distant) they seem to have been attentive to their Security from the Number of Works they have constructed; I have just been up the River to reconnoitre them, & I reckon 13 Batterys & redoubts to obstruct our Approach; our People however are in high Spirits, the Ships are entirely cleared for Action, & we wait with Impatience for the Admiral's Orders to proceed on the Attack.

I must own that the present Situation of this numerous Fleet is extremely critical as the Rebels have Six Fire Ships now in Sight lying close under the Cannon of the Town; the first dark night when the Wind blows strong down the River, they probably will send them in Flames to burn us, & I foresee if they attempt it the loss of half our Transports & Mercht Ships—who from Terror will cut their Cables, fall aboard of one another, & if not burnt will be wrecked on the Shore.

The Admiral has favored me with the Post of Honor, of lying advanced above all the Shipping & nearest to the Enemy; I therefore never go to Bed during the Night, nor do my Officers or Men; as our Safety (as well as the Fleets) depends on our Vigilance—Lord Howe has also taken the precaution to direct Ten armed Boats belonging to the Men of War to row guard about a Mile above us; this is certainly all that can be done, but it will prove very ineffectual (I am convinced) should the Rebels send down their Fire Ships favored by a strong Wind & Tide.

19th

The Bristol of 50 Guns is arrived this Morning with Sir P. Parker who has his broad Pendant hoisted on board Her; She is return'd from South Carolina where She & some Frigates engaged a Battery belonging to the Rebels, which in my Opinion they had better have let alone—having been very roughly handled, & reced something as like a Defeat as possible—the Main Mast of the Bristol was so much wounded they were oblig'd to take it out, & she arrived here, with Jury Main Mast.—a Rebuff at this Time is unlucky, as it raises the Spirits of the Rebels, renders them more insolent, recruits their Forces, & will cause em [to] defend their Batteries with greater obstinacy from finding Ships are not always victorious against them.

21st

I have this Morning rejoind the Comr in Chief, & the Phoenix of 44 Guns has taken my advanced Post; his L[ordshi]p communicated to me the intention of embarking the Army to morrow in Flat Boats & landing them in Gravesend Bay on Long Isld.—abreast of the Narrows, (which they are to pass,) there is a Stone House, which the Adml believes the Rebels [have] taken Post in & that they have Cannon mounted there, his Lp therefore has ordered the Rainbow to place herself before it at dawn of Day, in order to silence those Guns before the Army lands; & the same Position will also enfilade the Road along which the Rebel Troops must march if they mean to oppose the landing.

23d Augt

The Granicus is pass'd, & 15000 Men are landed on Long Island without a Drop of Blood spilt in opposition; I plac'd the Rainbow where Lord Howe directed, & the principal Engineer came on board to assist in directing our Fire, & to shew us such Americans as were Friends of Governmt whom we might otherwise possibly mistake for Rebels, & fire upon—

At Ten yesterday Morning the Grenadiers & light Infantry consisting of 4000 Men led by Genl Clinton landed, without a Shot being fired at them;
the Rebels drew in their out posts, & went off, setting Fire to every Stack of Hay & Corn they could meet with in their retreat; Genl Howe embarked with the second Division march'd to Utrecht a small Village near the place of Landing & establishd his Head Quarters there; Genl Lord Cornwallis commanded an advanced Post about 3 Miles further on.

The Detail of what passes on Shore is out of my Line, & I must refer You to the Gazette for the Movements of the Royal Army, except in those places where the Rainbow acted with them—Six Regiments of Hessians were embarkd at Staten Island, & joined Genl Howe—Skirmishes happen'd as the Troops advanced, who proceeded in 3 Columns along different Roads led by Genls Clinton Lord Cornwallis & Grant—the latter surpriz'd a Rebel advanced Post in the Night, by having learnt their Parole & Counter sign; they were all put to Death by the Bayonet, as I observ'd the next Morning when I went to view the Place.

I must mention a very narrow Escape I had of being taken Prisoner by the Enemy, that very Evening, which being extremely pleasant, tempted me to walk in a pleasant Road which lay by the River side, imagining that Genl Grants Division had gone before; I had only one of my Lieutenants with me, & we saunter'd on insensibly a considerable way in Conversation till we came to a large Sloop which being close to the Shore we luckily stop'd to look at; I suppose this might detain us a quarter of an Hour; when looking towards the Sun I observ'd that it was near setting & Time for us to return, which we did in safety; I learned our Danger afterwards for the Sloop we were looking at was within 50 Yards of an advanced Rebel Post, that was hid from us by a turn of the Road; this escape was not useless for I was afterwards more on my Guard, when I went on Shore.

The Rainbow moved upwards towards the Town as the Army advanced.

The Rebels constantly retreat before the Kings Troops, their Numbers upon Long Island are from 8000 to 10000 Men, all which from our great Superiority must be kill'd or taken Prisoners—many Skirmishes have happen'd, & the Enemy appear much frightend & disheartend; they abandon all their works as the Royal army advances—if we become Masters of this Body of Rebels (which I think is inevitable) the War is at an End; we have made Prisoners 2 of their Genls one calling himself Ld Stirling & the other Sullivan, besides many inferior Officers & about 1800 privates.

To my inexpressible astonishment & Concern the Rebel army have all escap'd across the River to New York! how this has happen'd is surprizing, for had our Troops follow'd them close up, they must have thrown down their arms & surrender'd; or had our Ships attack'd the Batteries, which we have been in constant Expectation of being order'd to do, not a Man could have escap'd from Long Island,—now, I foresee they will give us Trouble enough, & protract the War, Heaven knows how long—

A perfect Panick seiz'd them from our Landing & they never dared make a stand any where to look our Troops in the Face, even their Batteries & different works on Long Island were all abandon'd with the least Defence—we, & some other of the Men of War are now lying just within Random Shot of the Guns of New York—the Army are preparing to cross the East River & when they do so, I suppose we shall make an Attack with the Ships upon the Town—

I know not what Mr Washington & his army are doing, but ours have been totally inactive Since the retreat of the Rebels, which has occasioned universal Dissatisfaction in the Fleet & army—The Enemy have now Time to breathe & to throw up fresh Works to make our approach to the City more difficult—I understand the Ships will not be able to go close to their Batteries from their having placed sharp Stakes pointed with Iron (call'd Chevaux de frise) by way of sinking our Ships if they should strike against them

6th Sept 1776

Lord Howe having receiv'd some Accounts that the Rebels meditate an Attack upon our very important Settlement of Halifax, has order'd me to Sail for that place directly, & given me the Command of the Squadron now there; I am therefore preparing to go the first Moment the Winds will permit, for tho we are Lords of the Ocean, we are not so of the Air, & we must patiently wait till Mr Boreas gives us a Passport to proceed.

adieu

Halifax Sept 1776

I found Halifax in perfect Quietness at my Arrival, & nothing worth mentioning occur'd in the Passage, except our being very near wreck'd on some sunken Rocks called Breakers in a Thick Fog which prevails constantly, in these Seas between April & November.

Mr Arbuthnot who [is] Lieut Govr here, is also Commissioner of the Navy, besides wh' He has a Commission from the Admiralty as Commodore to command the Kings Ships who might arrive in this Harbor—my arrival was therefore disagreeable both to Him & myself as I (tho a junior Officer) came to dispossess Him of the Command of the Ships which of all His three Employments he was best pleas'd with—Lord Howe had undoubtedly strong Reasons for superseding Mr Arbuthnot, but it was no very agreeable Service for me to execute, & the more as it seem'd rather doubtful whether the Commodore woud resign his Command, as I had no particular Commission from his Lordship my Powers being only express'd in my general Orders.

I arriv'd before the Town during the Night, & next Morning sent one of my Officers to the Lt Govr & to the Genl with their publick Dispatches
I added a private Letter to Mr Arbuthnot letting Him know the disagreeable errand I was come upon of superseding Him—that it was neither sought for, nor desir'd by me; that as matters then stood, I cou'd only consider Him as a Captain in the Navy on half pay & as such not eligible to give Orders to those in Commiss[io]n—& as Commissr of the Navy, He cou'd have no pretensions to it—I added that on future occasions I shoud rejoice to serve under so old & good an Officer as Himself, but to do so in this Case, was impracticable.

I visited the old Gentn soon after who receiv'd me with Civility but wth apparent Concern; I repeated to Him the purport of my Letter, & added that all the difference He shoud find was having the troublesome part of the Duty taken off his Hands, for that his Wishes woud ever be executed by me if I knew them whilst I had the Honor of commanding at this port. after appearing a short Time like a sulky froward Child, He laid down the Truncheon with as good a Grace as He coud, but seemed much exasperated agt Lord Howe, paying me at the same Time the Compl[ien]t of saying as his Lordship had thot proper to supercede Him no one was more agreeable to Him to commd here than myself.*

Tho' Ld H. did not assign publickly his Reasons for displacing Commodore A. tho they may be guessd at from his not declaring them It was not difficult to judge of—when the Army evacuated Boston, they proceeded under the protection of Vice Adml Shuldham & the Men of War to Halifax where they remaind from March till June & then saild to the Southward—Lord Howe arrivd there the latter end of July, & finding the Fleet & Army gone from thence did not enter the Harbor; Comr Arbuthnot went down to wait on the Admiral, & upon his being askd where the Ships & Troops were gone to, averrd He was ignorant of their destination, neither coud He guess which amazd Ld Howe inconceivably, as no doubt it ought—He askd if Adml S. had left no Orders where the Ships were to join Him, which Mr A. assurd his Lordship He did not—Ld Howe lifted up his Hands & Eyes at this Account.

Some Time afterwards I arrivd there with Com Hotham, & 90 Sail of Transports & Men of War; we forbore to enter the Harbor for the same Reason Ld H did not, but sending up to Com. A for the Place of Rendezvous, He wrote us word He coud neither tell or even form a judg[m]en[t where they were—Mr H[otham] as well as my self were astonishd at such uncommon proceedings of Adml Shuldham, & upon Consultation judgd it most eligible to proceed with the Fleet to New York, wh[ich] we did, tho still in the Dark whether we shoud meet Friends, or Enemies there

The unriddling this mystery is, that on Ld Howes joining Adml S. at N.Y. He reproachd Him with the very uno officer like Conduct of leaving no place of Rendezvous when He came away from Halifax; Mr Shuldham expressd amazement at the charge, telling his L[ordship], He had left a large Sheet of Paper close written, with Directions to Mr A[rbuthnot] for such Ships of War as might arrive & particularly ordering they shd follow the Fleet to N.Y. that the Words N.Y. & Sandy Hook were expressd in 5 or 6 difft places in that Paper, which He sent to Com. A. by his Secretary the Day before he saild from H[alifax] & that at Breakfast He askd Him if He had receivd them, which the other acknowledgd—it came out in the End that Mr A[rbuthnot] had put this Letter unopend into his Pocket, & never rememberd it, till a considerable Time afterwards that He accidentally pulled it out, & for the first Time read those Orders the ignorance of which might have producd the most pernicious Consequences to the Kings Service

As it will probably be my Destination to remain a considerable Time on this Station, I will give you a slight Description of Halifax, & its Environs—

This place is to the Southward of England being situated in the Latd [blank] Longd [blank] W, & about 2500 Miles from London;—at the entrance of the Harbor is a Light House to warn the approaching Mariner of the Rocks & Dangers which are near it; in proceeding up towards the Town the Harbor narrows to a kind of a River about the breadth of the Thames at Wes[illegible] which terminates about 12 Leags up in a round Bason remarkable for its amazing depth of Water having 80 or 90 F[atho]m in many parts of it, tho that of the Harbor is in general between 6 & 13. about 7 Leags from the Light House stands the Town of Halifax laid out in straight Streets which are intersected by others; the Ground is very irregular, & rises gradually to a ridge of high Hills, on the Summit of wh. is a Wooden block House surrounded by a Battery of 8 Cannon—this Place is calld the Citadel.

The Houses are all built of Wood except one, belonging to the Secretary of the Province, & tho they cut a very indiff appearance from without, there are few of them but have at least one good Room to entertain their Company in the Inhabitants are chiefly composd of People who hold Offices under the Crown; The Officers of the Army composing the Garrison, some of desperate Fortunes who call themselves Merchts (sevl of whom by buying & selling Prize Goods have amassd handsome Sums) & Shopkeepers who likewise assume the Name of Merchts—& Fleece those who deal with them pretty handsomely, to their great Emolument—

The Governors House tho built likewise of Wood is a handsome & very convenient Structure tis in the Centre of the Town, & has a pleasant view of the Harbor, Shipping, & opposite Shores—the lower kind of People were chiefly born in America, & from their Connexions with New England are not very well inclind to his Majs Govt however the number of Troops stationd here keep them in awe & they dare not publickly declare their rebellious Sentiments—many of em carry on a private Correspondence with Boston, & by that means supply the Rebels with Things they most stand in need of: I cant say that I took any great Pains to obstruct their Exportation of Goods from the Opinion that tho they were—sent to the Rebels, it was ultimately an Advantage to G. Britain; because if they were not supplyd by us, the Americans would get the Commodities they wanted from the French, in any Quantities, & when a Channel of Trade is once regularly establishd it is not very easily turnd into another Course; this consideration joined to knowing the return for those goods must be in Specie, made me as I observd before take no precaution to prevent their Exporting what they pleasd—

The Kings careening Yard is placd about half a Mile above the Town; there are large convenient arsenals & Store houses built of Stone, which contain the various Articles wanted for the Navy; a good House for the Commis[sione]r Stands in the Center of it.

Provisions are dear tho they are not scarce, meat in the Spring is from a Shillg to 10 Pence a Pound, at the cheapest Time it is Sixpence; Fish is very plentiful from May till October, but after that month they retire into deeper Water. The price of Labor is incredible; Six Shills a Day I have known frequently given for Laborers & for Artificers such as Carpenters or Bricklayers &c they may make what Demand they please & look upon their Employer besides under an obligation to them for working for Him—

Fuel is another Article extremely dear, which considering the uncleared State of the Country seems at first, surprizing; but the Price of Labor to cut the Trees down & afterwards reduce em to proper sizes for burning, tog[ether] with the expense of Carriage makes it come to a great deal of Money especially when the length of the Winters is considderd for the cold Weather begins in October & lasts till the end of May; I have myself seen in that Month a heavy & very severe snow Storm attended with piercing cold—

There is only one Road out of Town which leads to the interior Parts of the Province it is fit for a Carriage as far as the head of the Lake (or Bason before mentiond) which is about 12 Miles the rest of the Way is almost in its rude State & fit only to Travel on Horseback

They have cut down the Wood for 2 or 3 Miles round the Town, but all the rest of the Country is one rude Desert thick crowded as possible with Trees which principally consist of what they call Hemlock, good for few uses & not fit to burn.

The Winters are dreary, long, & severely cold but it is not the settld wholesome Cold of Canada & Russia, where when the Frost once sets in the Weather remains settld & clear, & the Sun shines cheerfully; on the contrary, at Halifax you seldom have the same Weather for 3 Days together but deep Snows are succeeded by Rains, & those by Frosts so that those who walk out both Men & Women are obligd to have Galoshes over their Shoes, & at the bottom Spikes fix'd on (which they call Creepers) to prevent them from falling on the slippery Ground—

The Quantity of wild Strawberrys Rasberries & Gooseberrys in those Spaces in the woods where there are no Trees is astonishing You cant walk without treading upon the Strawberrys; the Gooseberries are thin rind like our Grapes, & like em in Size; they are better than the Garden ones for Tarts, & for preserving.

There is no venomous Creatures nor Beasts of Prey in the Province but of wild ones there are the Moose, besides the Martin & many sorts of Squirrels & Beaver; Epicures praise highly the Moose's Nose, & the Tail of the Beaver, I have eaten of both, but admire neither—the Moose is a very large Creature of the Ox kind; but infinitely bigger.—

You will conclude me now as settled in the command & that I gave such Orders to the Men of War as appeard necessary; I will therefore spare You the Trouble of reading dull particulars of Ships sailing & Prizes bringing in, wh happend continually tho I reapd no Benefit from it.

But I must relate in as few Words as I can a disagreeable Difference wh happend between Major Genl [Eyre] Massey who commanded the Kings Troops in the Province, & myself, as it made a good deal of Noise, & ended at last in his Recal to England—

This Man was violent in his Temper brutal in his Manners, ignorant, & consequently overbearing, & insolent; He was generally dislikd by the Army, & when Genl Howe went away from hence He was glad to find a pretence to leave Massey behind at Halifax.

For about 2 Months after my Arrival He behaved with that fawning Civility which the low Irish frequently practice & wh is so fulsome & disagreeable, but it was not the Nature of the Animal to be upon good Terms with any body long, & He did not seem inclind to except me out of his general Rule.

To relate every particular of the rise, continuance & termination of our Dispute would take up more of yr Time to read than I woud employ on so disagreeable a Subject; I will touch upon the Heads, & if hereafter you shd be inclinable to know more I shall present the Sheets to You which contain the full account of that Business—

The outposts of this Garrison are some of them more than 200 Miles distant, & not possible in the Winter to Supply them wth Provisions by Land, it was therefore allways usual to compleat them in July or at latest in August; Genl Masseys Neglect & forgetfulness had made Him omit this most necessary Supply & the Posts found themselves almost without Provisions in the beginning of Novr; Massey alarmed at the Consequences made Application to me for a Man of War to go up the Bay of Fundy upon this ocasion—it was a bad & dangerous Service at that advanced Time of Year from the intense Cold Weather, continual Storms, & Tides so rapid that they rose & fell upwards of 70 Feet—I mentiond these difficultys to the Genl but I notwithstanding sent the Man of War—She was blown back & Massey was raving at the distress his Neglect had reducd the out posts to He sware, He cursd & behavd like a frantick Mad Man, blaming the Capt of the Man of War for not arriving at the Port He was bound to, tho Massey knew no more of Sea Matters than a Savage of the Woods—He behavd too with personal rudeness to the Capt When He went to wait upon Him, which the other came to complain of to me, & I mentiond it afterwards in a gentle manner to Massey reminding Him that Sea Officers were only accountable to me for their Conduct—

I took care however his neglect shoud be remedied & his Garrisons supplyd, & we rubbd on a little longer with the appearance of being upon tolerable Terms, however He took occasion to be offended at something or other (I really have forgot what it was) but He sent his Aid de Camp Capt Wade to desire me to meet Him the next Morning with Pistols behind the Citadel Hill—I must with Shame acknowledge his Folly made me so angry that I consented to meet Him, & went at the app[ointe]d Time accom-panyd by Capt [Andrew] Barkley—the Genl & Capt Wade joind us as we were going to the Ground the 2 Seconds lamented that so slight a misderstanding shoud have brot us into the Field, & wishd Matters might proceed no further—I own I saw the Impropriety of it, & the fatal Consequencies which must follow from the 2 chief Officers of Navy & Army going out to fight at a Time, when we were surrounded by the Enemies of our Country—I made this Observation to Genl Massey & told Him I flatterd myself from wh[at] He saw That He woud not ascribe the Motive of what I was going to say since I was still ready to give him Satisfaction if He desird it, but that I thought certain Ruin must attend whoever survivd, as his Majy woud certainly never pass over so great an Injury offerd to his Service & must naturally conclude both Parties undeserving to command who coud behave so very improperly I added that I was not in the least Conscious of having given Him Offence, or at least not intended it, & advisd Him to reflect for a few Minutes before He took his Resolution—in saying which I left Him by himself & walkd 20 Yards backward & forward with the 2 Seconds. When I rejoind Him he appeard irresolute & undetermine; I repeated what I had said, & He replyd that He woud not make any Ans still the Lt Governor had given his Opinion upon it—

We all four accordingly walkd to the Lt Govrs & I let Massey tell [th]e Story his own way, the Govr blamd Him & was rejoicd to have the Termination left to his decision, He instantly obligd us to shake Hands, & promise to remain Friends for the future; this Reconciliation on my part was truly sincere, on Masseys I fear it never was, as the sequel shewd—

It was in about 2 Months after that He took the strange Resolution of turning all the sick Seamen from off Georges Island (abreast of the Town) where the Naval Hospital was under Pretence of fortifying it; had I been as mad as himself I coud by Force have prevented this inhuman Measure from being executed, but a Civil War of this kind woud have been as blameable as new; the poor sick Seamen were accordingly turnd off the Island & carried ashore below the Town in a heavy Rain—some of these unhappy Men were at the point of Death, others with Fevers & various other Disorders; there were amongst them Some whose Wounds were still open & dangerous; Wounds they had receivd in the Service of their Country, fighting like brave Men; their Treatment however from this frantic Madman was the same with the rest, all were indiscriminately forcd into the Boats, & landed in heavy Rain in wh they remaind 24 Hours before any Shelter coud be found by the Surgeons for them.

I was not the only Person who was filld with Indignation upon this occasion the Pity of the whole Town was calld up for the unhappy sufferers, & had I blowd the Coals or seemd to encourage it, I am persuaded Massey woud have been torn Limb from Limb—whatever I felt on this Account I kept it to myself, & endeavord to assuage the Storm that was on the point of bursting from the People. I was not however so tranquil as to take no Steps to prevent a Repetition of these Outrages; I orderd a Man of War to get ready to Sail for New York, in order to lay the Affair before Lord Howe & the General, & request that either this absurd Bedlamite or myself might be recalld—Whilst this Ship was getting ready, an armed Sloop beinging to Massey anchd near the Rainbow, & hoisted a large Pendant, which as She had no right to wear a Mark of Distinction designd only for Men of War, She was sent to, by the Officer who commanded on bd the Rainbow for I was on Shore, to have it down, wh was peremptorily refusd by the Sloop, who pleaded Masseys Orders for not striking it—

Upon my return on bd & being made acquainted with this Insult, I sent one of the Lieuts with Orders positively to strike it, & directed Him also to take with Him the King's Orders in Council to shew the Officer who commanded in the Sloop that what I did was by His Majs Authority; & that He had not the smallest right to wear a Pendant.

The Land Officer who was in the Sloop was of the Race of Wrongheads also, He refusd to read the Kings Order, & declar'd He woud put to Death any who should attempt to strike the Sloops Pendant—My Orders were peremptory, & they were executed without this Mans Threats being carried into Execution the Pendant was struck, & brot on Bd the Rainbow.

*I must at the Distance of 8 Years add a Note to mention, that notwithstanding these Civil professions, my superceding Him ever rankld in this Mans Heart, & He never forgave me for it; I was long a stranger to this, but Experience at length convinced me of it I must add that the substantial part He has still retained, tho I commanded I mean the Salary of 500 a Year for being Commodore; the labor ostensibleness & expence of that Office was sustained by me, without being allowd a Shilling from Government for it, tho it insuitably cost me treble Appointments from the Rainbow
